Presidential Campaigners Focus Appeals On Texans This Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
State politics takes a back seat to the national presidential election campaign in Texas this weekend, starting with today's visit to Dallas by Vice President Spiro Agnew followed by Sen. George McGovern's fifth campaign trip to Texas Saturday.

Agnew was to appear in Dallas for a "Wild West" reception, joined by retired singer Frank Sinatra and movie stars

John Wayne and Zsa Zsa Gabor. President Richard Nixon is expected to talk to the group by telephone.

McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee, will fly to Waco and Corpus Christi Saturday. He has scheduled rallies in Waco at 1 p.m. and Corpus Christi at 3:30 p.m.

13 Wealthy Donors Contribute $3.5 Million To Nixon Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thirteen wealthy donors headed by million-dollar contributor W. Clement Stone gave President Nixon's re-election campaign $3.5 million in hitherto secret contributions.

Their names were on a list of 283 donors who poured a total of $5 million into the Nixon campaign between Jan. 1, 1971, and March 9, 1972—before a new federal law required the naming of campaign contributors.

The list of persons who gave $1,000 or more during the period is to be disclosed Sunday.

Eagleton Rejects Request He Tape Ad For McGovern

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas Eagleton has been unable to meet a request that he record a 60-second radio spot for the presidential candidacy of George McGovern.

Staff members for both senators deny the incident is a sign of any feuding among them since Eagleton, under urging from McGovern, resigned as the Democratic vice-presidential candidate.

But there are differing versions on why Eagleton hasn't recorded the promotions originally requested by McGovern campaign officials in Eagleton's home state of Missouri.

Eagleton press aide Michael Kelley said Thursday that about two weeks ago a McGovern aide called Eagleton's office to request that Eagleton tape the ad.

Kelley quoted Eagleton's administrative assistant, Douglas Bennett, as replying there were technical objections and questions on the effectiveness of the proposed format.

Bennett, according to Kelley, is still waiting for a member of McGovern's staff to call back with suggestions on improving the broadcast.

Vietnam Settlement Key Campaign Issue

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
In a re-election appeal, President Nixon says North Vietnam will watch Tuesday's presidential election to find out whether Americans want "peace with honor or peace with surrender."

Democratic challenger George McGovern, who has based his White House bid on opposition to the Vietnam war, said Nixon's comments on television made him "highly skeptical about whether the Nixon administration will ever bring peace."

The vice president said McGovern has "meddled around with foreign policy" the way no other presidential candidate has in the history of the United States.

"I think that's reprehensible," Agnew said at a Cheyenne, Wyo., high school. McGovern had said last week that, if elected, he would respect the terms of any agreement made during the Nixon administration. But he added he would reserve the right to try to change any provision for continued military aid to the present South Vietnamese government.

Both Nixon's prime-time TV address Thursday evening and the Democratic response indicate the Vietnam war is still a major campaign issue, one week after the White House reported progress in peace negotiations and said "peace is at hand."

In his first prime-time TV address of the campaign, Nixon said the United States will agree on a Vietnam settlement "when the agreement is right—not one day before."

The President added: "We are not going to allow an election deadline or any other kind of deadline to force us into an agreement which would be only a temporary truce and not a lasting peace."

McGovern told television viewers in Michigan that Nixon's claim that certain details need to be worked out means that the Vietnam negotiations "are not going well at all."

U.N. To Take Step To Better Environment

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. membership voted 115-0 Thursday to set up machinery for international action to improve the environment.

Warplanes Stepping Up Raids Across North And South Viet

SAIGON (AP) — More than 100 U.S. B52 bombers ranged across North and South Vietnam and Laos today attacking Communist war stockpiles.

The vote came in the economic committee of the General Assembly over the protests and abstentions of the Soviet bloc. The 132-nation assembly still must vote on the environmental plan in plenary session, but the big vote in the committee assures assembly approval.

The resolution approved would create a 58-nation environmental governing council, a fund to finance programs and a professional secretariat to direct the effort.

President Nixon Defends Medical Insurance Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon plugged today for his proposed national health insurance program and charged that his opponent seeks a federalized medical system that would be too costly and would bring lower quality health care.

300 Militant Indians End Takeover Of BIA

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 300-member group of militant Indians today voluntarily ended their 18-hour takeover of the federal government's Bureau of Indian Affairs building.

The demonstrators seized the building at dusk Thursday. Later, the White House apparently ruled out plans to evict the protesters forcibly and negotiated an agreement for them to vacate today.

Before vacating the building, the Indians had said they would move to the government's nearby "Departmental auditorium."

'I Am Woman' 'Steel Monster' Under Construction

First Song For Libbers

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It may be the first marching song for women's lib — a tune called "I Am Woman" which sounds a catchy call to revolution and has been selling about 25,000 records per day.

"I've been getting lots of mail about the song from housewives," says composer-singer Helen Reddy. "They say that if they feel depressed they put the record on and it bucks them up."

The lyrics written by Ms. Reddy declare:
"I am strong
I am invincible
I am woman."

The Australian-born performer, who shuns makeup and favors a simple pixie haircut, employs a male housekeeper, and when he's not there she and her husband-manager Jeff Wald share household chores.

STAVANGER, Norway (AP) — Out in the stormy North Sea they're building a $1-billion steel monster known as Ekofisk City. It will be the permanent production plant for the Ekofisk oil field.

The field is 200 miles southwest of this Norwegian city, in the Norwegian end of the triangle which links the continental shelves of Britain, Denmark and Norway.

Some 500 men are working around the clock so that the plant can go into operation next year. Ekofisk City will handle an estimated 300,000 barrels of oil daily from 30 wells.

The Phillips group—American, Belgian, French, Italian and Norwegian companies with Phillips Petroleum of Bartlesville as operator—is now producing 40,000 barrels daily on a test basis from four wells in the field.

Norway's treasury collected "A GALLON OF COKE" (Adv.)

more than $2.2 million in royalties from Phillips for the year ended June 30.

Phillips wants to lay a pipeline to land oil in Britain at the steel shipbuilding and chemicals complex known as Teesside, on the estuary of the Tees River. Opinion in Stavanger is that the Norwegian parliament will agree when the question of the terminal comes up next February.

A government-appointed committee earlier this year argued for piping the Ekofisk oil to Teesside, where Phillips operates an oil refinery. Phillips already has ordered equipment for the pipeline project with Teesside in mind, and the work could start next summer.

Experts say this is one of the toughest areas in the world to search for oil—and to produce it. The hazards include week-long storms, strong sea currents, big tidal differences and long periods of rain and fog.

"We live with the hazards out there and we are extremely conscious of them," said one American oilman.

The whole Ekofisk operation is adjusted to these hazards.

"The construction work is progressing very well and we expect the plant to be completed next fall," said P. W. Reynolds, the American manager of Phillips' land base at nearby Dusavika.

Ekofisk City will be a cornerstone in the North Sea oil saga. Other off-shore "cities" of this kind will follow. The French-Norwegian Petronord group has found a gusher in the Frigg field further north. British Petroleum hit the jackpot in the Forties field on the British side.

In the old West, gold miners wore wide-legged dungarees to give them freedom of motion. Cowboys wore close-fitting jeans to protect their legs from sagebrush and cactus.

MORTAR FIRE SMOKE rises in the background as people of Bu Chi flee their South Vietnamese town after occupation by the North Vietnamese.

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures
Many persons quite adept at installing do-it-yourself projects steer clear of concrete and masonry work.

It's a rather foolish fear, especially since modern ready-mixed materials, requiring only the addition of water, make it fairly simple to obtain the proper mixture for whatever the purpose.

One way to get acquainted with masonry work is by installing a brick path or walkway that requires the use of a minimum amount of a wet mixture. The wet cement is used only for the curbing along the walkway. The bricks inside the curbing — that is, the path bricks — are laid in a dry mix.

The curbing is laid first after the walkway is dug to a depth of about 5 inches. Using what is called a "sand mix," place it in the excavation along the sides of the path to a depth of 2 inches. Bricks are then set on edge into this bed of wet cement.

The brick path is then placed inside the curbing, except that this time the base is 2 inches of a dry mix — one part of cement to five parts of sand. The bricks are installed in any design you wish or just simply one next to the other in simple order. See that each brick fits securely into the base and that the top of one brick is level with the top of the next.

When the walkway is completed, take some more of the dry mix and shovel it on rather generously over the tops of the bricks. Next, use a pushbroom to sweep the mix around until it settles between the bricks; that is, into the joints.

Take a garden hose and water the entire area. Use the spray setting on the nozzle. Sweep again, then spray again. Shovel on some more dry mix, then sweep. Two applications usually will fill the joints, but if they don't add more dry mix, sweep and spray.

About the only time this type of walkway should not be attempted is when the soil is tightly packed and does not drain readily.

Laying bricks in a dry mix, with only the curbing set in a wet mix, will give you the confidence to tackle more ambitious projects in which the application of a completely wet mix is necessary.

(How to tackle 35 home repair projects is the theme of Andy Lang's helpful handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," available by sending $1 to this newspaper in care of Box 5, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.)

'Liberals' Score High ACA Rating, State House Voting Records Show

AUSTIN (AP) — The staunchly conservative Americans for Constitutional Action has found the voting records of "liberal" members of the 1971 Texas House more to its liking than those of conservative Democrats.

All 10 Republican members of the House were among the 30 representatives who scored 50 per cent or higher on the ACA rating, along with 14 liberal Democrats and only six moderate or conservative Democrats.

The conservative Democrats had the overwhelming majority in the House last year.

In the Senate, however, nine of the 11 senators who scored 50 per cent or more were conservative Democrats. The other two were Republicans.

Of the 30 representatives who voted at least half the time in a way that satisfied the ACA, 25 were members of the "Dirty 30" coalition of liberals and Republicans that battled ex-Speaker Gus Mutscher and his team on numerous issues.

Senators with scores of 50 per cent or more were A. M. Aikin, Paris; H. J. Blanchard, Lubbock; Wayne Connolly, Floresville; Tom Creighton, Mineral Wells; Ralph Hall, Rockwall; Jack Hightower, Vernon; David Ratliff, Stamford; Max Sherman, Amarillo; and Pete Snelson, Midland, all conservative Democrats. Republican Sen. Henry Grover of Houston, GOP candidate for governor, had the highest score, 88.8 per cent. Sen. O. H. "Ike" Harris of Dallas, the other Republican, had 66.5 per cent.

Ex-Sen. David Ratliff of Stamford, who was convicted here Tuesday of stealing a state paycheck, tied with Sen. H. J. "Doc" Blanchard of Lubbock with the highest Senate scores for Democrats, 77.7 per cent.

Republican House members with 50 per cent or higher scores were Fred Agnich, Dallas; Maurice Angly, Austin; Bill Blythe, Sid Powers, Jim Earthman, Edmund Jones, Will Lee and Walter Mengden, all of Houston; Tom Christian, Claude; and Tom Craddick, Midland.

Moderate-to-conservative Democratic representatives with high ACA scores were Bill Finck, San Antonio; Dave Finney, Fort Worth; Ed Howard, Texarkana; Charles Patterson, Taylor; Vernon Stewart, Wichita Falls; and Ralph Wayne, Plainview.

Constitutional Revision By Legislature Opposed

DALLAS (AP) — Robert G. Storey, former dean of the Southern Methodist University Law School and head of two efforts in recent years to revise the Texas Constitution, announced his opposition Wednesday to an amendment that would allow the Legislature to do that job.

"The Texas Constitution needs revising, but not by the Legislature alone," Storey said in a statement. "Revision should be by a convention of qualified, specially elected delegates from all walks of life."

The formation of a People for a Citizens' Convention was announced by Fort Worth lawyer Harold Hammett, who said local coordinators are working in Abilene, Amarillo, Corpus Christi, Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Lubbock, San Antonio and Tyler.

Storey was chairman of the Citizens Advisory Committee on Constitutional Revision in 1957-61, and he was chairman of the 1967-68 Constitutional Revision Commission created by the Texas House of Representatives.

Storey urged the defeat of Amendment No. 4 on the Nov. 7 ballot.

"Constitutional convention delegates should be as free as possible from political threats," Storey said. "They should have to answer to only one group—the people as a whole when they vote on whether to accept the proposed new constitution."

"One of the bad things about the Amendment No. 4 plan is that the legislators would have to try being a constitutional convention in the winter and spring of 1974—the time when they will be preoccupied with campaigning for re-election."

A revised constitution should be for present and future generations of Texas, not just the next political election.

Storey said the "quickest and best" way to revise the constitution was to defeat Amendment No. 4 and for the next Legislature to set up a study commission and provide for a convention of specially elected delegates.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian Flip Wilson is named as the father of Mabel Robinson's son in a suit in which she seeks child support and medical expenses.

Miss Robinson's attorney filed the suit in Superior Court here Wednesday. It said the child, Joseph, was born in New York City last May 26.

Sanders Gets Campaign Fund From D.C. To Unseat Tower

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee in Washington, D.C., has pumped $45,155 into Barefoot Sanders' campaign to unseat Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., Sanders has reported.

The Dallas Democrat filed a report with Secretary of State Bob Bullock, showing contributions totaling $308,788, expenses of $276,024, loans of $17,882 and unpaid bills of $12,377.

Sanders' report covered the period since June 1, shortly after he defeated former Sen. Ralph Yarborough in the Democratic primary.

Tower's report, covering the period since Jan. 1, showed contributions of $2,192,101, expenditures of $2,169,074 and debts of $103,084. Tower was unopposed in the GOP primary.

Besides his donations from the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, Sanders reported these donations of $2,000 or more:

Anik-1 To Be Launched To Bring Radio, TV Service To Canadians

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Anik-1, a 600-pound satellite named for the Eskimo word "brother," will be launched from sun-splashed Florida Thursday to bring radio, telephone and television service to the people in Canada's ice-bound northlands.

Officials at America's moonport say Anik-1, the first satellite built for commercial communications within a single country, should start operating Jan. 1. It will provide vastly expanded contact with the outside world for hundreds of small communities now dependent on short-wave radios.

Many of the people who will benefit from Anik's communications link live in the vast, treeless wilderness north of the Arctic Circle.

SMALL APPLE TREES HAVE BIG APPLES

LONG ASHTON, England (AP) — Scientists are developing apple trees little more than three feet high at the agricultural research station here.

The trees are single stems carrying clusters of fruit, like tomato plants and can be machine-cropped. They are fed growth inhibitors to keep them small so that all their nourishment goes into the fruit. The apples are larger than normal and uniform in size, so there is no waste.

Nearly 30,000 single-stem trees can be grown on one acre.

Baldness Hereditary Inheritance is the most common cause of baldness and it affects males more than females. The exact causes of baldness are not known.

Canadian Communications Minister Robert Stanbury said Anik-1 "heralds a significant improvement in the communications system of the Northwest Territories and Yukon. Until now, the problem of a widely scattered population existing in a harsh environment has been a formidable handicap to the growth of northern communications."

"Telesat Canada's communications satellite, Anik, offers the only economic and technical means of bringing our national telephone and broadcasting networks into the north," Stanbury said. "It represents a dramatic improvement in basic life support communications to the north."

A three-stage, American-made Delta rocket is scheduled for launching at 5:50 p.m. EST Thursday to hurl the payload toward a stationary orbit 22,300 miles above the equator-west of Ecuador. Its directional antenna will be aimed at Canada, and after a seven-week checkout it is to be ready for commercial operation.

Telesat Canada Corp. is paying the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration more than $6 million to launch the satellite, which was built by America's Hughes Aircraft Co. and several Canadian subcontractors.

Anik-2 will be launched next April for use as a backup for Anik-1, which will be capable of playing 10 color television channels or 9,600 telephone circuits, or a combination as desired.

Canada will rent three of Anik's 12 channels to CBC for $9 million a year. CBC will provide live broadcasts instead of taped programs transmitted on a delayed-basis to the northwest.

Initially the satellite will broadcast three color TV channels, one in the French language for Canada's several million French-speaking people. It will beam communications to five different types of ground stations, depending on the needs of the locality each serves.

The United States has launched several communications satellites for itself, for the International Telecommunications Satellite Consortium and for other nations, but all have been for use between nations. Several U.S. corporations have proposed satellites for strictly domestic use as Anik will be.

More Blacks, Republicans, Women Seen To Be Elected To Legislature

Associated Press Writer
Texans elect a new legislature Nov. 7 that probably will have more blacks, Republicans, women, freshmen and "reformers" at one time than ever before.

It could be one of the most important groups of 150 representatives and 31 senators in Texas history.

Lawmakers elected this year will serve as a convention to draft a new Texas Constitution in 1974 if the voters approve a proposition on the November ballot. They also will have a greater than usual assortment of hot issues, including possible restructuring of the entire public school finance system, abortion, marijuana, possible legislative and congressional redistricting, lobby control, ethics and reform of the legislature's own operations.

Black and Republican strength was boosted when a federal court ordered single-member neighborhood House districts for Dallas and San Antonio and left intact similar districts drawn for Houston by the Legislative Redistricting Board.

Five black Democratic primary winners have no Republican opponents and are certain to be seated in the House. Another four have a good chance of victory in the general election.

There are 11 women candidates, including one for the Senate. Two are unopposed.

Republicans say they have a "good shot" at four Senate seats, twice as many as they have now.

Mrs. Malcolm Milburn, GOP state vice-chairman, says the party feels its chances are strong of doubling its strength in the House to 20 representatives.

"And possibly if Mr. Nixon has a lot of coattails, we will get a few more," she said.

Worry Clinic

By GEORGE W. CRANE, PH. D., M. D.

Celia is irate about sex! But it's her own kind that infuriates her! So analyze the symptoms of females who join the "Women's Lib." They need psychiatric counseling to relieve the scars from earlier emotional trauma! Torrid romances would also help!

CASE V-535: Celia J., aged 28, is very irate on the sex problem.

"But, Dr. Crane," she burst out, "it is against my own sex that I am most angry."

"For what do those Women's Lib advocates expect by trying to give away our feminine privileges?"

"It has taken civilization at least 10,000 years, hasn't it, to evolve the present dignity and respect, plus the legal protection and medical care, which modern women enjoy?"

"So what can we gain by further 'liberation' via rioting mobs and street parades?"

"Where do those Women's Libbers think women are enslaved, at least in America?"

"And if they try to get us drafted as cannon fodder or permitted to bathe in a nude at mixed beach parties, what is to be gained thereby?"

"Personally, I don't care to share men's clubrooms or enter their washrooms!"

"I may thus be 'unliberated' but I prefer my present luxurious status quo!"

"Dr. Crane, what's wrong with those Women's Libbers, anyway? Are they freaks or in need of psychiatric help?"

WOMEN'S LIBBERS

Celia is correct in her diagnosis that many of the Women's Libbers need psychiatric analysis.

But a good romance with a dominant male would quickly make them prefer their "unliberated" role!

For women prefer to be in chains if the latter are forged by Cupid!

The normal female, if she is both physically and emotionally healthy, prefers a 2-sex world, with distinctive differences in the privileges of each.

True enough, many belligerent advocates of Women's Lib, have suffered some type of psychiatric trauma in the past.

It may even go back into their early childhood.

Thus, a drunken father who routinely would beat his wife and children, may have

"We figure a minimum of six each in Harris and Dallas counties and a good chance of at least eight in each one," she said, adding that the party expects to gain another seat or two in San Antonio.

At least a 50 per cent turnover already is guaranteed in the House as a result of the Democratic primary, which also produced several upsets that put 15 of the 31 Senate seats in the hands of newcomers.

A number of the new House members apparently will be there as the result of the 1971 stock scandal, climaxed by the conviction of former Speaker Gus Mutscher in March on charges that he conspired to accept a bribe from Houston promoter Frank Sharp. Most of the 24 incumbents defeated in the Democratic primary were conservatives who supported Mutscher.

Rep. Price Daniel Jr. of Liberty apparently has all the votes he needs to be elected speaker when the new session convenes. He has proposed four laws diminishing the speaker's influence, including one limiting a speaker to one term in office.

The Mutscher issue did not die with the primaries, and has been a big part of at least two Senate races.

Mrs. Betty Andujar, Republican, is running a hard race against Rep. Mike Moncrief in a new Senate district in Tarrant (Fort Worth) County.

Republicans have mounted contests for 74 House seats. Five of the GOP candidates are incumbents. Forty-five incumbent House members have no Republican opposition.

One contested House race involves incumbents who were paired by redistricting—Rep. Phil Cates of Pampa, Democrat, and Rep. Tom Christian of Claude, Republican.

News Briefs

LONDON (AP) — Prince Philip says the modern industrial society is producing unhealthy communities in which mugging, drug-taking and child-bashing are rampant.

"Somehow or other we must find the causes and the cures for these diseases," the prince said Wednesday in an address to the Royal College of Medical Practitioners after being installed as president.

Prince Philip, the husband of Queen Elizabeth II, said the industrial society is creating a new type of community, "completely different from anything in previous human experience. Its body, in the shape of dense housing, vertically and horizontally, is different.

"Symptoms of unhealthy communities are becoming increasingly obvious.

He cited petty crime, mug-ging, drug abuse, gang warfare, vandalism, child abuse and a growing disregard for the law.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adm. John S. McCain Jr., former commander-in-chief of all U.S. forces in the Pacific and former commander-in-chief of U.S. naval forces in Europe, has retired after 41 years of service.

And lesbians, who prefer homosexual union with their own female kind, likewise strike back at the hated opposite sex via Women's Lib.

Some others, however, jump on the Women's Lib bandwagon just to gain notoriety and get their pictures in newspapers or on TV.

A sizeable number, too, contracted venereal disease via their high school promiscuous parties, and now blame the entire male sex for their sterility or divorces, so they strike back at all males by championing their "liberation" cause.

And in many families where papa showed his abnormal desire for a male heir, but got a girl baby instead, the little girl felt this "rejection" atmosphere and now tries to compensate by demanding masculine status.

When women have an abnormal yen to ape men and smoke, drink hard liquor or wear jeans, they all need psychiatric counseling!

Disaffection Goes Deeper than Meany

'Millions of laboring men have now climbed into the middle class. But they do not often feel secure there. They feel they are hanging on by their fingernails... neglected by a Democratic party which today strikes them as heavily focused on blacks and other minorities but not them.'

campaign

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
WASHINGTON — (NEA)— For labor in politics, 1972 is truly a crossroads year. The leadership is torn apart, the rank and file are scattered all over the place and the impact of these divisions upon the presidential election could be crucial.

AFL-CIO President George Meany gave the signal for the new chaos when under his pressure the top federation council refused this summer to endorse the Democratic nominee, Sen. George McGovern. Not for 20 years had the federation assumed a neutral stance.

Much was made of the fact that thereafter, union after union did endorse McGovern. In Colorado, even a state federation, council affiliated with the national body defied Meany and rallied to McGovern.

By contrast, President Nixon gained support of just a handful of unions, including the non-AFL-CIO teamsters, but picked up endorsements from more than a score of union presidents.

What does all this mean? Veteran labor spokesmen, supported in their judgment by experienced observers of labor affairs, believe the net of it is an advantage in this campaign to President Nixon.

For labor's political clout has not been simply its money or its millions of members. It has come from the sophisticated use of money and trained political manpower operating under the widely respected management of COPE, the AFL-CIO political arm.

The able political veteran, Democrat James Rowe, said in 1969 that Sen. Hubert Humphrey was brought within close range of Nixon in the 1968 election almost wholly through COPE's skilled and dedicated efforts. They were directed, of course, at pulling Democratic union men back from third party nominee George Wallace and into the old party fold. Said Rowe: "Let's face it. In 1968 the Democratic party was a labor party. Without labor's efforts we wouldn't have come close."

The differences today are massive. Disaffections among rank and file union workers are greater than ever. Polls show Nixon holding 55 per cent or more of the workingman's vote. Much of it that went for George Wallace before he was disabled last spring has settled into the Nixon camp.

The alienation is so severe that close observers in such big union states as Michigan say neither Democratic nor seasoned labor leaders even try to approach these people. They tell you flatly they can't talk to them.

For all the publicity about unions defying Meany and swinging behind McGovern, the unions' effort in his behalf is chaotic and largely without direction. The missing element, as indicated, is COPE. One source says some unions are so helpless on their own that they are using old anti-Nixon literature prepared by COPE last spring and earlier.

AFL-CIO spokesmen here say they are getting the heaviest load of negative mail in their memory. Much of it is anti-McGovern. But, significantly, that sizable part which is anti-Nixon is not in any way pro-McGovern.

Realistic union leaders will tell you their endorsements and other guidance never have been seen as "controlling" the labor vote. In the 1950's, they were well aware that the national hero Dwight Eisenhower was taking from 35 to 40 per cent of their membership. They have never been able to cut off altogether the flow of dissidents to the earthy George Wallace.

Nevertheless, most leaders acknowledge they have never witnessed anything quite as stunning as the evident 1972 defections. One official said that even if Meany had endorsed McGovern, it would likely prove an empty gesture. For there is less consensus among rank and file union members today than at any time since the practice of presidential endorsements began in 1952.

The reasons for the alienation are, naturally, a well-told story. Workers, though unsold on Nixon as a friend of labor, see McGovern as a fuzzy alternative. They distrust his tax and welfare proposals, and his modifications of these only add to their confusion.

Millions of laboring men have now climbed into the middle class. But they do not often feel secure there. They feel they are hanging on by their fingernails, overburdened with taxes, victimized by poor city services (or suburban), unserved by widely proclaimed social programs, neglected by a Democratic party which today strikes them as heavily focused on blacks and other minorities but not them.

Hardheaded Republicans feel they have a chance to win these disenchanted union folk, not just this time but on an enduring basis. They don't fool themselves, they have even made a good start. Memos fly back and forth in top Nixon circles on the question how to do this, but the answers are still elusive. Republicans still can't get comfortably placed in the workers' beer halls, and they know it.

Labor officials think that means that McGovern still may get some of the disaffected back by Nov. 7. It will not be because of labor's unified effort (which doesn't exist). If it happens at all, it will be from old party voting habit and built-in animosity toward Nixon. Still, the general labor judgment is that this time it will fall far short of doing for McGovern what labor did for Humphrey in 1968. The split-off this time seems much too deep for that.

Vet Assistance Mobile Vans To Visit City

Two mobile vans manned by veteran services and benefits specialists touring Texas as part of President Nixon's National Assistance for Veterans program will be in Pampa Nov. 8-9 at the Lovett Memorial Library 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. according to Jack Coker, Waco Veterans Administration Regional Office Director.

Coker said the National Assistance for Veterans program is a multi-federal agency concept joining the services of the VA, Health, Education and Welfare, Housing and Urban Development, Office of Economic Opportunity, and Texas Employment Commission.

Donald E. Johnson, Administrator of Veterans Affairs, is national coordinator of the program.

During November the vans will visit Wichita Falls, Vernon, Pampa, Borger, Hereford, Plainview and Lamesa.

Use of mobile vans will bring assistance to veterans who have not made full use of their benefits and other federal government services.

VA Chief Johnson said the Texas vans—a first in the nation as an innovative program—will establish a "track record" to base planning for the expanded program to deliver veterans services.

Traveling with the vans will be a team of four VA benefits specialists, a clerk, and a Texas Employment Commission representative, who will be from the local office of the TEC. Information and counseling in various veterans benefits areas will be offered. These include education, home loans, medical benefits, disability compensation and pensions, employment, job training, housing assistance, and individual and family counseling.

Coker said a key feature of the van's effectiveness will be the complete telephone communications available for counselors. Contact may be made from the van to any government office needed to give the veteran complete, one-stop service.

These are percentages of support for the President on key votes in 1972. They were reported in the October 28th issue of Congressional Quarterly, a non-profit and completely independent Washington-based research organization. Nineteen members of the Texas Congressional Delegation supported the President more than Price. Yet Price continues to tell people to vote for him because he supports the President 100%. It just doesn't figure — not when he supported the President only 43% of the time.

Crossroads Report

Dear Editor:
This current Presidential brouharrage has benefitted us common voters already with two free psychiatric diagnoses.
Mr. McG. says anybody aiming to vote for Mr. N. is so confused he doesn't know which end is up, and a high Demo vote-tamer says the opinion polls "reflect neurotic behavior" on the part of the voter class.
It is likely that Mr. Nixon believes anybody is nuts who plans to vote for Mr. McGovern. But, lawyer-like, he isn't passing out any professional opinions for free.

I see where many new words are getting into our language and some old ones are being loaded down with new and different meanings.
Like "welfare," which once referred to a state of happiness, health and prosperity, but now is generally used in place of "dole," "handout," "charity," "alms," etc.
Now some high Senators are calling new welfare proposals "loaffare," "slavafare," etc., and discussing same in long-winded speeches that usually result in higher taxfare and sound like bullfare.

I see where a House Committee voted the other day to give a small tax credit to folks who send their children to private schools.
My realist neighbor says this idea won't ever get on the law books because it would give parents too much say-so about how their children are educated.
But he reckons the politicians and professional educationers had ought to know whether the generations of kids they have been educating are smart enough to be trusted to supervise the education of their own children.

I see where Congress has been working on various proposals to pass a law requiring Mr. Nixon to close out the Vietnam War by some certain date.
If they get this done and it works, the lawmakers should get busy and set some other "dates certain" at which time various goals must be reached.
Like, say, deadlines for when taxes must go down, the budget must be balanced, crime must be eliminated, employees must be hired by brains and skill instead of by color, sex, and religion, and when Congress must be purged of idiots.

I see where it is proposed by some high-minded people-protectors that everybody is entitled to a "decent" job if they want to work.
This implies an egalitarian state, with everybody equal to everybody else, and nobody having to work at any such menial or nasty jobs as mopping floors, washing dishes and the like for somebody else.
Which would curtail the pro-people group's noble thinking. They would be too busy digging their own potatoes, fixing their own flats, taking out their own appendixes, etc.

A voting booth is the one place where you don't have to exercise the influence of the other fellow's convictions.
Of course you don't have to vote—that's one privilege of a society in which the vote determines its freedom.

RAY CROMLEY
U.S. Backs Away, Asia Rule Hardens

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In the past number of months four governments in Eastern and Southeast Asia have sharply curtailed Democratic processes—Thailand, South Korea, the Philippines and South Vietnam.
The question now being discussed with great seriousness and urgency within the administration is how much in fact did President Nixon's visit to Mao Tse-tung in Peking and the new Nixon Doctrine, which calls for a lowered U.S. "profile" in the Far East and elsewhere, unintentionally contribute to these four shifts away from democratic government and how can this trend from democracy be reversed.
Thus far, the experts have no solution.
In each of the countries mentioned above, the head of state has limited the operation of the constitution. All said or implied the suspension of rights was temporary, but in three out of the four cases the rulers said or implied that important permanent changes would have to be made in the constitutions themselves.
The changes being prepared seem almost certain to make it legal for incumbent governments to hold office for a longer period. The exception could be the government of President Thieu in Vietnam, but that is not at all certain.
In each case, the ruling group said that the steps suspending parts of the constitution were necessary to meet the threat of a restless Communist neighbor and/or growing underground guerrilla strength aided from abroad.
Several of the ruling groups have told their contacts privately that because of the new U.S. relations with China, the gradual withdrawal of the U.S. military forces from Asia and the lessening of U.S. political influence in the Far East, a greater concentration of domestic power and greater control over internal dissent was necessary to maintain independence.
In each of the four countries, the counter-accusation has been made that the suspending of some constitutional rights was intended above all to enable the ruling groups to maintain themselves in power. The political opposition, of course, has a vested interest in making such accusations. But it should be noted that the major opposition comes from anti-Communist groups within these countries.
The American and Asian counter-guerrilla specialists this reporter has contacted agree unanimously that democratic institutions are more resistant to underground totalitarian subversion—whether that subversion is Communist or right wing. The consensus is that the presidents of several of these lands have made strong efforts in the past year or so to push those economic changes which make for stability, economic progress and hope.
But they do believe, nevertheless, that these recent spend-and-change-the-constitution steps may stir dissent rather than unify the people, and thus facilitate Communist inroads.
It should be noted that the counter-guerrilla experts mentioned above are all strongly anti-Communist. Each has recognized the need, at one time or another, for dominant men such as Rhee in Korea and Diem in Vietnam in the old days.
But the feeling among these men today is that the Asian countries concerned and their people have passed out of the stage when they will rally around a "strong man" unless at the same time he convinces a sizable percentage of the populace and its local leaders that an important measure of self-government will come to them in the foreseeable future.
Beloved, if God so loved us, we also ought to love one another. No man has ever seen God; if we love one another, God abides in us and His love is perfected in us.—1 John 4:11, 12.

Goes Back To 50s
Peace Plan Is Really Not New In Concept

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Kissinger-Le Duc Tho draft peace plan is not new in concept. It takes something from the Laos agreements, the Korean cease-fire and the North Vietnam Communist-Nationalist cease-fire following World War II.
All these were successful in reducing U.S. involvement or potential involvement at the time. Each was violated seriously by the Communists within 30 days.
In two cases, China and North Vietnam, the result was a Communist takeover. In Laos, the Hanoi Communists, though agreeing to go home, continued in effective military control of much of the country, gradually expanding that control over the years. In Korea, where sizable U.S. armed forces remained along a firm battle line, the South remained free.
The question, therefore, is not whether the Communists will break the cease-fire. They will. The point at issue is whether the draft agreement as written gives the South Vietnamese a chance to survive and make their own choices.
From our experience in Vietnam in 1954; Laos and Korea, we must assume international inspection and control teams will not be effective. We can assume the Communist forces will receive major additional arms and military supplies over what they have now.
We can assume there will be widespread terrorism and assassinations as the Hanoi men attempt to take over additional hamlets, villages and districts. We can assume a North Vietnamese presence will continue in Laos and Cambodia. We can be certain the North Vietnamese representatives on the elections commissions will subvert free elections wherever possible.
All this does not necessarily mean the South will fall under Hanoi's control.
Assuming the treaty does effectively prevent open conventional warfare, the question is, which side is superior at underground guerrilla tactics today?
There is no doubt the old Viet Cong in its heyday, was better at this business than the old South Vietnamese government men. But most of the old Viet Cong cadre are dead or disillusioned. Thus the question now is, can the North Vietnamese conventional soldier-turned-guerrilla, a "foreigner" in any village he enters, added to the remnants of the old Viet Cong and the less-experienced new breed of VC, get the better of the local Vietnamese non-Communists in the South's hamlets?
This is a question no one can answer at this time. It is a new, quiet war that is in prospect, which may not make many headlines: A hamlet chief dead here, a young man or woman there, a businessman, official or farmer black-mailed, bullied, bought off or threatened.
For the past eight months, while the conventional and

Peace Four Years Ago? Not in Cards

Sen. George McGovern has posed the rhetorical challenge to President Nixon to "tell us why he waited four years to end a war that could just as easily have been ended four years ago."
Any war in history, of course, could have been over in short order if one side had decided not to fight.
Since the Democratic presidential contender's solution to the Vietnam conflict involves just that — the unilateral withdrawal of all U.S. forces and cessation of military aid to the South Vietnamese government of President Thieu — Republicans could throw the challenge back at him and ask why President Johnson did not end the conflict during his term of office, or why he allowed it to grow to such horrific proportions in the first place.
But to believe that the President could have ended the war at any time during the past four years by any means short of the abandonment of South Vietnam (and the American electorate never mandated that course), one would now have to be torn between dismay at his callousness for continuing the death and destruction for so long and awe at his ability to manipulate events in order to make a dramatic score on the eve of his bid for re-election.
Neither the most vehement detractors of Richard Nixon nor his staunchest admirers can in all logic credit him with such capabilities.
Even without assuming that Mr. Nixon meant it when he pledged to seek "peace with honor," it is not necessary to look very far for the reason why the war has dragged on for year after year.
The subjugation of North Vietnam was never the aim of U.S. involvement in Indochina. The overthrow of its form of government was never a precondition for peace.
Our goal has always been the achievement of a peace which would leave at least one of the Vietnams with a reasonable chance to choose freely its form of government, and which might eventually lead to a reunification of both halves of the country under international auspices.
That goal has unfortunately been clouded, if not thwarted, by the existence of a veritable dictatorship in South Vietnam under Nguyen Van Thieu (but thwarted far more by Communist-inspired guerrilla warfare and outright invasion).
Thieu is currently being portrayed as the last, major stumbling block to peace. It is not necessary to express unqualified devotion to this ally,

Dear Abby

Should son visit dad in prison?

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 40-year-old woman, but there are times when I feel like 16, and then again I feel like 100. My ex-husband has been in prison for four years. We have a son, 12 years old, and they love one another even tho they have been separated since the boy was eight. My family [parents, sisters, and brothers] think I am wrong to take our son to visit his father in prison. They say when the boy sees how easy the law is on criminals, he might decide it's not such a bad life after all. All I know is, prison life doesn't look easy to me. Besides, it does so much for my ex-husband's morale when he sees the boy. I hate to discontinue those visits. My son looks forward to seeing his father, too. I'll leave it up to you, Abby. Should I listen to my family or not? My present husband says I should take the boy to visit his dad and to tell my family to mind their own business. UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: I like your husband's attitude. That's exactly what I would have advised you to do.

DEAR ABBY: My poor, sweet, young daughter in law is half out of her mind because our son has left her. Why did he leave her? Because she continually checked up on him and nagged him. Well, why wouldn't she check up on him? He is never where he says he will be, and she has caught him with other women several times. And she nags him because she loves him and doesn't want him running around with other women. This lovely, intelligent daughter in law is crazy about our son, and he loved her, too, before she started nagging him. Now she wants to call him up and apologize for having nagged him and checked up on him. I told her she was nuts and she should have thrown him out a long time ago. He tried to tell her that 95 per cent of the married men cheat on their wives—it's natural because men like a change. My husband who works in an all male business took a survey and found out that only 20 per cent of the married men cheated on their wives! Abby, what do you think she should do? Even if he is our son, I think she should kick him out for good.

MISSOURI MOTHER IN LAW

DEAR MOTHER: I think your daughter in law should quit discussing her marital problems with you. She needs some professional objective advice from an impartial party. Since she hasn't asked for my advice, I'll not offer any. But I think you should bow out.

DEAR ABBY: I am not writing this just for myself. I am writing it for all the fat girls in the world, because I am sure they all feel the same way. When I start liking a guy, I am told I don't stand a chance because I am fat. Okay, I'm fat, and I know it, but why should that make such a big difference to a guy? I think personality, character, and what a person is really like on the inside is what is important. Maybe guys are embarrassed to be seen with a fat girl, but if he really loves her, her looks shouldn't make that much difference. Beauty is only skin deep, you know. FAT AND LONELY

DEAR FAT: It's true, "looks" are not as important as personality and character, but most people are attracted to those whose appearance they find pleasing. It's unfortunate that so many worthwhile people are not approached and drawn out because of their "looks." But since it's a fact, why not accept it and do something about it?

ART EXHIBITION AT GALLERY—An exhibition of paintings by Richard Thompson, above, of Pampa and Don Ray of Channing, will be shown in the Pampa Fine Arts Gallery, 512 W. Kingsmill, Nov. 4 to 11. A reception for the artists will be held from 7 to 10 p.m., Saturday and a coffee, Sunday, from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Gallery. Both artists portray western subjects in their paintings and bronzes and both were prize winners in the recent "Best of the Southwest" show in Amarillo. They plan to be present to answer questions concerning their works of art. The exhibit is being sponsored by the Pampa Fine Arts Association.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Yellowed Chinaware May Be Bleached

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY:—I am answering Mrs. R. C. H. whose white ironstone china has turned yellow. Soak the dish in undiluted laundry bleach for several hours or even days. (Polly's note—Mine had to soak for 24 hours. It was all white—no decorations.) I bought a piece that was crazed from grease and heat and the dealer told me to try the bleach which worked beautifully. Wash with soap and water. Rinse thoroughly before using. I do advise wearing rubber gloves when using bleach.—CAROL

DEAR POLLY:—My ironstone china had been stored for almost 30 years and had yellowed so, just on the chance that it might work, I soaked the dishes in rather hot water and a laundry pre-soak product for a few hours. I did not measure the detergent but just poured a quantity into the hot water. I was amazed at how bright and shiny they looked after this soaking. Good luck and I do hope this works as well for MRS. R. C. H.—MRS. J. P. O.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY:—While transferring my large organ from one room to another a piece of a leg was chipped. The place is very noticeable even after spray painting it. I wonder if there are any types of colored cement available to fill this in. I would appreciate hearing from some readers.—MRS. C. W.

DEAR POLLY:—My pet Peeve is with the large "OPEN" signs left in the windows of stores or businesses which are actually closed for the day or part of it. Usually this is discovered after cruising around the block three times trying to find a parking place and then squeezing into a tight space, putting a dime in the parking meter and walking 2 1/2 blocks with a baby on one arm and a toddler trippingly attached to the other hand. This is no exaggeration. Thanks for letting me get this off my mind.—MRS. D. M.

DEAR POLLY:—When two people have to sleep in the same bed and particularly if one is a child who tosses and kicks during the night, try putting one large or two small pillows down the center of the bed so the pillow gets the kicks and the child stays on his side.—DOT D.

DEAR POLLY:—When going on a vacation I have found it is wise to get two highway maps instead of just one and trace the route being followed on each of them with a bright magic marker. Leave one of these maps on which you have also written the description of your car (color, make, year, etc.) and license plate with a neighbor or close friend so they know about where you might be in case of an emergency.—JUDY (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

"Shopping in a health-food store should be like shopping in a delicatessen. They may have something that strikes your taste or your ethnic background or your pocketbook."

Mike was an active bidder and famous for making close business doubles. His theory was that if you didn't double them they could get away with a lot of over-bidding. A second part of Mike's theory was that if there was a defense to beat a contract he would find it. Mike had a lot of cards, but his double of four spades had to be a distinct gamble. He opened the king of hearts and looked over dummy for a full two seconds. Mike was always a fast player and a two-second study was a real huddle for him. Then he shifted to the king of trumps. South took his ace and led the ace and king of clubs. Mike ruffed and cashed the queen of trumps for the third defensive trick. South was able to ruff one small club in dummy but had to lose the other one to East's jack. Looks elementary when

Harvesters Play Borger In Must Game For Each

The Pampa Harvesters host Borger tonight in a must game for each team. Because of the fact that there is a tie for the league lead with all six members having 1-1 records, every squad must win all the rest of its games to remain in the contention for the championship.

After tonight only three of the teams in the district will be left in the running, and with only three games left on each team's schedule, that puts plenty of pressure on everyone.

Pampa is coming off a 15-14 defeat at the hands of Tascosa, while Borger should have plenty of momentum after its stunning 10-7 upset over Palo Duro last week.

The Harvesters are going to have to have it all together for the game tonight since Borger always plays Pampa like it was for the state championship.

Perhaps the primary thing that the Harvesters will need to do is control the ball and avoid the turnovers that have plagued them all year.

Pampa gave the ball to Tascosa six times last week—five lost fumbles and a pass interception.

Even if Pampa does not have those kind of mistakes, they will be hard-put to beat the charged up Bulldogs.

The pressure is on both squads tonight, as it is on all the teams in the district. Both Pampa and Borger fans can expect to see a knock-down, drag-out game.

Richard McCampbell goes into the game leading the district in three categories: rushing, total offense and scoring.

McCampbell has gained 338 yards in the first two games and has scored 18 points.

Glen Gray leads Borger's rushers with 109 yards through the first two district contests and Terry Dillingham, who accounted for all 10 of the Bulldog's points in the Palo Duro game, is their scoring leader.

Coach Buddy Williams announced four line-up changes this week. Sophomore Rick Leverich is slated to start at quarterback, Rick McGuire will be the split end, Mike Robbins will start at right linebacker and Bill Cox will be the right offensive tackle.

Elsewhere in the district, Tascosa and Caprock will go at it tonight and Amarillo High and Palo Duro will play tomorrow afternoon.

Offensively, Pampa will have McGuire and Jesse Hummick at the ends, Cox and Harmon Staus at the tackles, Gary Jennings and Ed Townsend at the guard posts and David Lanehart at center.

In the backfield Leverich will be the quarterback, McCampbell and Joe Curtis will be the halves and Steve Mathis will run from the fullback slot.

Defensively, Jody Johnson and Jack King will be the ends, Staus and Billy Lemons the tackles and Townsend will be at noseguard. The linebackers are Hunnicutt and Robbins.

In the secondary, Mathis and Rick Smith will be the cornerbacks and McCampbell and Carson Watt will be at the safety positions.

Borger's offensive alignment finds Jay Burrus and Randy Hubbard at the ends, Leslie Krysl and Mike Green at the tackles, David Denton and Bobby Ingham at the guards and Brad Foster at center.

In the backfield, Gary Bouldin is the quarterback, Gray and Witt are the halfbacks and Dillingham is the fullback.

Defensively, Denton and Green are the ends, Marshall Pennington and Kevin Holmes are the tackles while Mark Haney, Ingham and Jay Lewter are the backers.

The secondary is made up of Burrus and Jerry Phares at the corners and Dillingham and Frank Harris at the safeties.

Kickoff time for the game is at 7:30 p.m. in Harvesters Stadium.

Longhorns Solid Pick Over SMU Mustangs

By Associated Press
Ninth-ranked Texas, its ground-grinding offense now on par with its strong defense, hopes to stay on course for a fifth consecutive Southwest Conference football title Saturday against always pesky Southern Methodist.

The afternoon battle before some 71,000 fans in Memorial Stadium highlights a full Saturday of family feuds in the SWC as SMU, Texas Tech, Arkansas, Baylor and TCU strive to stay within striking distance of the Longhorns.

Tech is in Houston against injury-weakened Rice, Arkansas travels to College Station tooust lueless-Texas A&M and Baylor and TCU tangle in Fort Worth.

Houston is at Florida State in a non-conference game.

"Texas is in the driver's seat," says SMU Coach Hayden Fry.

"The only way anyone is going to beat the Longhorns is for them to make a lot of mistakes and for their opponent to have an exceptional day," Fry says. "I think we have a fine football team. I consider it a compliment just to be 16-point underdogs to Texas."

Texas leads the SWC pack with a 3-0 record while the aforementioned Mustangs, Raiders, Razorbacks, Bears and Horned Frogs each own one conference loss.

SMU has always played Texas tough and that's what bothers Longhorn Coach Darrell Royal.

"They've always been troublesome to move the ball against. Last year we threw the ball pretty well against them... it was the only way we could move," Royal says.

Asked what he thought of Texas' passing game this year, Fry remarked "I don't think we'll ever find out the way they've been moving it on the ground."

Texas quarterback Alan Lowry has cautioned Longhorn supporters about making any premature Cotton Bowl reservations. "We have too many good teams left to play," Lowry said. "SMU looks as good on film as any team we've seen this year. Baylor is playing just great football. TCU is capable of beating any team it plays and A&M is a lot better than its record."

Although Rice has suffered through a siege of injuries, Tech Coach Jim Carlen said the Owls "look tough. They throw the ball awfully well. Bruce Gadd is having a great year passing and he has fine receivers in Gary Butler at tight end and Edwin Collins at split end. We've going to have to be ready for a tough game."

At College Station, pre-season favorite Arkansas will try for revenge against the Aggies who upset them last year. Ten freshmen are expected to see action for the Aggies, who have sagged to a 1-6 record under new Coach Emory Bellard.

Jets Picked To Beat Jurgensen-Less 'Skins

NEW YORK (AP) — "Seems kinda funny," said Weeb Ewbank, coach of the New York Jets, "that we're the ones with the healthy quarterback."

New York, a three-point "line" underdog, is a 27-24 upset choice against those high rollers from Washington now that Sonny Jurgensen is gone with a ruptured Achilles tendon.

Joe Namath, as healthy as he is wealthy these days, must have a careful Sunday against Washington's defensive elders or interceptions could ruin his afternoon at Shea Stadium.

Ewbank can sympathize with Redskins Coach George Allen in the loss of Jurgensen. Old Weeb can't recall how many times Namath has been carted lame from the field.

The Jet-Redskin matchup is vital to two National Football League divisions. Washington, 6-1, needs it to stay a jump ahead of Dallas, 5-2. The Jets, 5-2, can't afford to fall farther behind unbeaten Miami, 7-0.

Every NFL offering isn't so handsomely cast. Somewhat of a klunker between the Patriots, 2-5, and Baltimore, 1-6, will keep some of the nation semi-awake Monday night.

Thus far, the Friday afternoon predictions have been 28-of-38 for a 73.6 percentage. Here's a complete look at what might happen in the eighth week of the NFL season:

Jets 27, Redskins 24: Washington barely escaped in New York last week against the crosstown Giants. This time, Namath won't let them get away with the help of the productive legs of Emerson Boozer and John Riggins.

Raiders 30, Chiefs 24: An American Conference West dandy. Taking a chance that Kansas City's jinx at Arrowhead Stadium will continue as long as the Chiefs are playing inconsistent football.

Steelers 20, Bengals 14: Wide receiver Charley Joiner has pumped up Cincinnati passing game, but this will be a battle of fine defenses.

Falcons 17, Rams 10: Another upset shot. Los Angeles is a three-point choice with the oddsmakers. It's a toughie since these NFC West front-runners were both bombed last week, the Rams getting it 45-17 from Oakland and the Falcons being smashed 49-14 by San Francisco. LA is cuddling a 1/2-game division lead with the 49ers now a game behind.

Lions 17, Bears 7: Detroit's defense was puny against Dallas, but should rebound to contain the Bears' good-run, poor-pass attack. It's a "new era" matchup between the NFL's quarterback rushing kings, Bobby Douglass of the Bears and Greg Landry of Detroit.

49ers 14, Packers 13: Somehow, the Packers just don't seem to fit in a wild-scoring game. Steve Spurrier waited six years to have a threethroughday like the one last Sunday in Atlanta. He should win again as John Brodie's fill-in, but not by so much this time.

Dolphins 24, Bills 17: Miami isn't unbeatable. At least that's what we keep telling ourselves. But, even with O.J. Simpson at his pro peak and Bob Griese grounded with an injury, it stacks up as a ride to 8-0 for Coach Don Shula.

Cowboys 21, Chargers 10: Cowboys seemed to put it together in Monday night's dandy. They're after Washington in the NFC East and San Diego—like most teams trying to get in the way—will be run over whether it's Craig Morton or Roger Staubach at the wheel.

Giants 28, Broncos 17: New York came within a couple of officials' whistles of beating Washington last week. An improving young defense and the continuing passing wizardry of Norm Snead should outdo Denver's Floyd Little-Charley Johnson offense.

Vikings 27, Saints 14: Alar Page and the Purple Gang are back and will chase New Orleans quarterback around Metropolitan Stadium. The guess is they'll catch him more than the Saints harness Fran Tarkenton.

Browns 17, Oilers 10: Mike Papps showed the finest passing of his career in the victory over Denver and Cleveland—like most anybody—has too much for the struggling Houston bunch.

Cardinals 24, Eagles 20: This one's a real beauty. St. Louis has become one of the NFL's weak brothers during October and Philadelphia couldn't stand prosper, following its upset of Kansas City by losing to New Orleans.

Colts 28, Patriots 14: ABC Television was dealt its share of duds for the Monday nights this season and this one, with the demise of the Colts, ranks in there with the worst. The Lucy Show should have a great Monday night ranking and few guys will be late for work Tuesday morning after such a good night for sleeping.

Woodlake Golf Club course were Ryder Cup star J.C. Snead, veteran Charles Sifford, George Johnson, Australian Bob Shaw, Dale Douglas, Ron Weber, Labron Harris and Gary Groh.

Casper was in another large group at 69. Trevino, the British Open titleholder and the pretourney favorite here, had to rally to salvage a 71. Littler, attempting a comeback after a cancer operation, had a 75.

Parnelli Jones Wins Second Mexican 1,000

LA PAZ, Mexico (AP) — Why does a man jump on a souped-up vehicle and bounce and bounce over the bumps of the grind of the Mexican 1,000-mile off-road race?

To be in the same race as the great Parnelli Jones, said one competitor today as drivers, riders and the unseated relaxed after another gruelling journey down the Baja California peninsula to this sleepy seaside resort.

If the competitors like being in a race with Parnelli, why does Jones, the 38-year-old Indianapolis 500 winner from Rolling Hills, Calif., like being in it?

"Because it's a heck of a lot of fun," said Jones after taking his second Mexican 1,000 in succession, becoming the first man to win two such tests in a row. In fact, Jones also won last June's Mexican 500 offroad race in much the same kind of terrain.

Jones had a tougher road to bounce on this year, according to most of the entrants.

"It was a lot tougher this year," said Steve Hurd of Montebello, Calif., a motorcycle rider who won his class for the second year in a row.

"There was no powder on the course. It was so hard-packed, it was like driving on rocky cement," said Hurd, who teamed with Erick Jensen of Eagle

Rock, Calif.

Jones was the favorite to win his second race in a row when things got under way Wednesday. He was driving the same Bronco in which he won last year and the same vehicle which carried him to triumph in June.

But even being the favorite wasn't enough for the veteran racer. He still managed to get his hands on a lucky rabbit's foot.

America's triple gold medal winning girl, number 50, Sandy Nelson of Los Angeles, Calif., lent her famous rabbit's foot to Parnelli. Miss Nelson credited the foot with aiding her three victories at Munich, Germany.

Bobby Loy Leading Texas Open After One

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — He tried, unsuccessfully, seven years ago to make a go of it in the tough world of professional golf. He's so obscure he isn't listed in the PGA's tour book, a compilation of biographies of some 250 pros.

He's won only $115 in 20 starts on the $7 million tour this year.

But Bobby Loy emerged—at least briefly—from out of obscurity with a blazing putter that helped him shoot a seven-under-par 65 for the first round lead Thursday in the $125,000 Texas Open Golf Tournament.

"I just seemed to have it all together," the stocky, 32-year-old long-time club pro said. "It seemed that when I needed a good shot I could pull it off, and that's what you've got to do in this game of golf."

His brilliant effort, built on a putter that he used only 25 times, left such world class players as Lee Trevino, Billy Casper and Gene Littler floundering in his wake.

Dan Sikes, a 41-year-old veteran trying to fight out of a lengthy slump, was one stroke back with a 66, while a group at 67 included former U.S. Open champion Orville Moody, Mike Hill and rookies Tom Watson and Larry White.

Tascosa JV Rambles Over Shockers, 28-12

Pampa's Shockers went down to a 28-12 defeat yesterday at the hands of the Tascosa junior varsity on Shocker Field.

Lost fumbles and missed opportunities on the part of the Shockers, combined with the great running of Tascosa's James Mayberry accounted for the loss.

Both of Pampa's scores were made by Chuck Quarles, the diminutive Shocker quarterback. The first came in the third quarter of the game and brought the Shockers within eight points of the visitors, 14-6.

Tascosa came out in the first half and, capitalizing on Shocker miscues, ran up a 14-0 lead at intermission.

Quarles first score, a two-yard plunge, capped a 74-yard Pampa drive. He scored again in the final period on a twisting 30-yard run on the option. As Tascosa had made another touchdown in the meantime, that made the score 22-12.

The Rebels scored once more in the game to make the final score 28-12.

Mayberry scored three of the Tascosa touchdowns, two on long runs. One came on a 60-yard run from scrimmage and the other was a 70-yard kickoff return after the Shockers' final score.

The loss gives the Shockers a 6-2 season record. They close out their season next week against Caprock in Amarillo.

Conroe Penalized

CONROE (AP) — The leading rusher for the Conroe Tigers, ranked seventh in the state, has been declared ineligible for football because he is eight hours too ood.

Conroe Principal J.T. Montgomery confirmed Thursday that senior fullback Robert Lewis had been declared ineligible by the Dist. 16-4A executive committee after a mixup in Lewis' birthday was discovered.

Montgomery said Lewis' junior high records showed his birthdate as Aug. 31, 1954 but his high school record was corrected to Aug. 31, 1953.

"Lewis, who was the leading rusher in the district with 659 yards on 98 carries, became ineligible under a University Interscholastic League ruling which forbids any student who passes his 18th birthday before Sept. 1 of any school year to participate in UIL-sanctioned events.

If Lewis had been born Sept. 1 he would have been eligible. Montgomery said Lewis missed it eight hours.

The announcement meant Conroe must forfeit last Friday's 21-6 Dist. 16-4A victory over Houston Westchester. It gives Westchester and Spring Woods, the only team to beat Conroe this year, a tie for the district lead with 2-0 records. Conroe is now 6-2 for the season and 0-2 in the district.

Conroe has been in the Class 4A top 10 of The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll all season, being ranked as high as third prior to its only loss to Spring Woods.

'Soylent Green' Set Gloomy

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — The same team that made "Skyjacked" a fine entertainment and money-maker is at it again. Producer Walter Seltzer and his favorite star, Charlton Heston, are making "Soylent Green," their sixth film together.

They're shooting at MGM and the set — and the basic premise of the movie — is frightening. I've been depressed ever since I visited "Soylent Green" and the actors who are making it seem to be pretty down, too.

"Soylent Green" is a story of the future, the actual date being the year 2022, which won't be a very good year. This is not the chrome-and-electronics future you see in the ordinary run-of-the-lab science-fiction film. This gives a different view of tomorrow.

The world of 2022, as "Soylent Green" envisions it, is one of such horrible overpopulation and overpollution that you wouldn't want to live there. Try it—you won't like it.

The set is a New York City street. People live everywhere — on fire escapes, in alleys, in the gutters. No body can afford anything, so they all dress in drab uniforms. Many wear face masks to avoid inhaling the foul air (foul air courtesy of the special effects department which burns a form of incense-like gum to give the air a smokiness).

And the food they eat is called Soylent Green, hence the title.

The actors sit around in their uniforms and all they can talk about is the issues the film raises.

"The picture is depressing me," says Chuck Connors. "The overpopulation and overpollution is real enough today. The trees are dying up at Big Bear. It's all happening now. This picture is projected truth not science fiction."

"SOYLENT GREEN" is one of overpopulation and overpollution. Charlton Heston (at top) surveys people living on fire escape in the New York City of 2022.

Charlton Heston took a slightly more positive approach and talked about a project his son, Fraser, 17, is into. Fraser is a senior at Los Angeles' top prep school, Harvard, and one of his courses is American history.

"His teacher told him his assignment for the entire semester," Heston said, "was to go to work for a candidate or a proposition of his choice. Really work for that. Fraser elected to work for Proposition 20, the one about ecology and saving our coastline.

"He's working for the committee and is really enthusiastic about it. He's even gone to see Kim Novak, who lives on the coast up at Big Sur, to enlist her support."

Heston plays a policeman

Between shots, Kevin dashes back to his dressing room. He's teaching himself Spanish, with one of those new-fangled tape cassette courses. He says it's working very well and he rattled off a few sentences (probably saying something about "tell everybody to go see 'Soylent Green'") and it sounded very Iberian.

Seltzer and Heston are naturally pleased with the great cash reception "Skyjacked" has received. Although the subject matter was ticklish they've had surprisingly few problems with it. One American radio chain wouldn't permit the radio spots to be used. And the Australian government still won't let the picture in.

There was only one change requested by our government. "In the script," Seltzer says, "we showed the means by which security people were brought into the airplane. The Department of Defense asked us to change that. So in the picture we show them getting on board an impossible way — through the cargo hatch, which can't be done."

If you think "Skyjacked" was scary wait until you see "Soylent Green." That one will make you feel sorry for your great-grandchildren.

FUNNY BUSINESS

Mercury travels faster through space than any other planet in our solar system — more than 100,000 miles an hour.

Seventy-five per cent of the world's nickel supply is produced by mines at Sudbury, Ontario.

GOLD GOES INTO SPACE
 TARRYTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Gold can help turn engines on and effect stage separations in space vehicles.

More than 1,500 pieces of gold and other precious metals reportedly have been used for this purpose in the Saturn and Apollo programs.

As a safety precaution, many electro-explosive devices aboard missiles and rockets now incorporate small sections of gold to fire engines and initiate controlled burn of other metals for stage separation, in a technique pioneered by Simmonds Precision Products Inc. Ignition or burn is accomplished by transmitting a high-voltage electrical current very rapidly through the wire, causing it to explode and thereby setting off a secondary explosive that cannot be detonated by conventional means or heat or concussion.
