Truman Says U.S. Changing Spanish Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman said today that this country has changed its policy toward Franco Spain to some extent.

Mr. Truman was asked at his news conference about reports from Madrid that Spain and the United States have reached a basic agreement on American use of Spanish air and naval bases.

Acheson had said the government is seeking to enlist Franco Spain in "the common defense against possible aggression."

Mr. Truman declined to comment on the progress of the Korean peace talks and also on how W. Averell Harriman, his personal representative, is faring in his attempt to make peace between the British and the Texas Rangers Raid Galveston Coffee Shop; Arrest Gamblers AUSTIN (AP)—Texas Rangers raided the Kemah Coffee Shop at Kemah, Galveston County last night.

Rep. Fred Meredith of Terrell, chairman of the House crime investigating committee, recently said at Dallas that it would be "interesting" to see what would happen if rangers were to attempt to close a gambling club in Galveston now.

Michigan Man Wants Wood Nickel

The local Chamber of Commerce has unusual requests, but today a man in Detroit, Mich., requested their help in finding a 1936 wooden nickel for which he has been searching 15 years.

The Michigan man's request, he explained, he had over 1000 pieces of wooden souvenir money in his collection.

Chamber of Commerce secretaries found the wooden nickel in five minutes.

Potential absentee voters have until midnight Tuesday to vote on the airport, road and bridge bond issues, and the 16 cent tax assumption question.

At the same hearing, the Rev. Will R. Johnson of Galveston's First Presbyterian Church said he believed the citizens there now would overwhelmingly demand enforcement of gambling and vice laws.

The minister attributed Galveston's record on vice prosecutions to "public apathy."

Reds Stab UN Lines In Rain

U.S. 8TH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea (AP)—Communist troops stabbed through drizzling rain in four light, early morning probing attacks today.

Bitter House Members Near End To Long Control Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—House members, tempered frayed by partisan bitterness, today reached the end of their long battle over wage, price, rent and other economic controls.

One of these came yesterday when the House voted to ban all price controls which would not allow a "reasonable profit."

WASHINGTON (AP)—Many servicemen living with their families near big Army posts are being gouged for sky-high rents to live "amidst appalling filth and indescribable squalor," Senate investigators said last night.

The report by the armed services subcommittee on preparedness was based on inspections made by its investigators on rented quarters near three large defense training centers.

A blistering 97 degrees was registered in Pampa yesterday—no record for them here meaning that record and maybe passing it were promising.

Rita Hayworth's Lawyer Hints Voters Hear Of A Possible Reconciliation Election Talks

NEW YORK — (AP) — Rita Hayworth's lawyer hinted yesterday that a reconciliation between the actress and her Moslem prince husband, Aly Khan, was possible.

But it was just a hint. There's an if to any possible patch-up of the broken marriage, said Rita's lawyer, Bartley Crum.

The if hinges around whether Aly meets an undefined "primary condition," however, which the condition, Crum said at a news conference, is "not financial."

Neither does it involve Rita's place of residence.

And it does not affect Yasmin, the estranged couple's child.

Crum said Miss Hayworth saw no possibility of a resumption of the marriage "at this time," but he added:

"We have laid down one primary condition, however, which if met will bring about a prolonged delay in the filing of any (divorce) action by Miss Hayworth."

Crum parried all efforts by newsmen to learn the nature of the "condition," however, which he said the prince "responded favorably" to it "there would be the possibility of a reconciliation," he said.

Rita left the prince during an African safari and returned to New York April 2. Before the month was over she announced she would seek a separation.

Subsequently she established the necessary six-week residence in Reno to obtain a divorce.

Also at yesterday's news conference was the prince's attorney, Charles Torem.

The door would not appear to be closed to a reconciliation. Torem said he would telephone Rita's condition to the prince and would go to Paris, if necessary, to talk it over with Aly. Then he added:

"I personally have very mixed feelings on the whole issue."

Miss Hayworth now is in California and has signed a contract with Columbia pictures, her lawyer said, but "there is no possibility of a California divorce. If such action were to take place it would take place in Nevada."

The Douglas County News that is published there in Castle Rock, Farris, his wife, Keith, and another man pool their talents to print an 8- to 12-page weekly paper. They can print only two pages at a time and after they are printed they have to be folded and the pages put together. And in between times of printing of the paper, they find time to do job printing.

Farris extended to all Pampans an invitation to attend the Douglas County Fair to be held in Castle Rock on Sept. 8-9.

A little way from Castle Rock we came to a sign that said "Junction Colorado 87," so we decided to see what was down that road. We found out. There were mountains. All this afternoon all Izzy has done is go up and go down, and ladies and gentlemen, you don't know what a thrill it is until you have gone down a bumpy winding mountain road in Isabel. We leave her in second gear going down those roads but Izzy can still get up a pretty good little rate of speed. When she gets to those hairpin curves, Herman and I just close our eyes and hope we make it. Dangerous occupation, this riding in Isabel.

Well, we sure are camped in a nice place. There are mountains all around us and the South Platte River is just about 10 feet from where I am now typing. Trees! Never seen so many trees! And that smell from the pines is just like perfume.

We are seriously contemplating missing Denver and staying on these state highways to gain the full advantage of the mountains in these here parts. Don't know, the tentative unrecorded actions thus far taken.

Still to be decided — probably today — were proposed changes in rent and credit controls. These were the principal remaining controversies in the House consideration of a new controls bill to succeed the Defense Production Act. It expires July 31.

Yesterday's setback for the administration came when 14 armistice House members led a fight to push through two amendments which would tie price ceilings to profits on both agricultural and manufactured goods.

But administration supporters with the aid of pro-labor Republicans, succeeded in turning back a drive to shear the wage stabilization board of its dispute-settlement powers and limit it to advisory policy-making functions.

main flood and permit operation to a stage of 38 feet. The Missouri River was expected to reach a 35-foot state at Jefferson City this morning.

The Mississippi has been high for two weeks. Three boys drowned in backwaters of that river south of east St. Louis, Ill., yesterday — bringing to 26 the number of dead from floods in the Midwest.

The worst is yet to come here. The weather bureau expects a stage of 40.5 Sunday — highest since the unofficial reading of 41.39 on Jun 27, 1844. The expected crest would top the 40.3 reading set here in 1947 when flooding caused $9,000,000 damage.

At Kansas City and in Kansas, rescue workers and others continued their task of cleaning up the damage left by the floods last week. Water still was standing in many areas.

of a new cease-fire agenda submitted by the Communists Wednesday.

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy replied, the UN communique said, by reiterating "the United Nations stand that only matters of a military nature would be discussed."

The allies consider the question of withdrawing troops from Korea a political one, to be taken up later at a higher level after an armistice has been signed.

Friston said the UN was willing to accept agenda items already agreed upon as a complete agenda, and start actual cease-fire talks immediately.

The UN Wednesday announced it accepted two items. It didn't say what they were. No official mention has been made of agreement on any other subjects.

Friday's meeting is scheduled for 10 a.m. (6 p.m. Thursday CET).

Friston would not confirm the general belief that the basic issue is the Red demand for withdrawal of foreign troops, which Joy's reiteration of his opening statement seemed to emphasize.

Friston said it was possible for the two delegations to disagree over either a military or political subject.

He commented, "we will have an agenda if the basic item" now in dispute "is left off." Once the agenda is completed, he said, subsequent items will be limited to subjects listed on it.

Friston said Chinese delegates were "more or less ignored" during Thursday's discussion. The Communist delegation consists of two Chinese and three North Korean generals, with Nam doing virtually all the talking.

THE GOAL — 3,500,000 MEN — Since the Korean War started, we've made a good start on building up the number of men in uniform.

This Little Fox Came To Dinner

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—A sleek gray fox from the nearby Verdugo Hills has made his regular dinner guest at a social club from their to regular dinner guest at the home of John P. Hattenberg. Mr. Fox and Mr. Hattenberg first met over a plate of table scraps. It has been Hattenberg's nightly habit to set some scraps out for his cat. When he noticed that the food was disappearing before the cat got to it, he set a watch.

He surprised the fox and scared it away. But next night the animal was back again. Hattenberg, who likes foxes, figured the polite thing to do was make a thief welcome. Now he sets a special plate out nightly. And promptly at 9.30 — apparently the fashionable hour for foxes to dine — the beast trots up and polishes off his evening meal.

Two triple plays were made recently in one day by home teams in Sally League competition.

Defense Leaders Fear Demand For Arms Cut

EDITOR'S NOTE: Here's the second of two dispatches that round up the battle on the home front America faces after the cease-fire negotiations in Korea.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—American now enters the most crucial stage of the build-up of its armed strength as a defense against Communist aggression.

Will Americans have the patience and foresight to support a large Army, Navy and Air Force without the stimulus of war casualties?

That is the question which has been haunting Secretary of Defense George Marshall and all other military and civilian leaders in Washington ever since the Korean War inspired a major expansion of the services.

If history repeats, Marshall's worst fears will come true. With peace will come increasing demands for cuts in a high military budget, until the whittling process reduces America's strength to the pitifully weak force it was at the start of the Korean fighting.

Marshall's only hope is that the Korean lesson has been dramatic and shocking enough to convince Americans that the only thing that stands between eventual aggressive domination of the world by Communism is an armed and strong America. Military leaders believe that there will have been a lot of white crosses planted in Korea in vain if the Korean lesson is dismissed.

U. S. taxpayers face a heavy load in keeping America strong however. This year's military budget is $60,000,000,000. This, it is hoped, will pay for the Korean expenses and the good start that has been made towards the goal of putting 3,500,000 men in uniform.

At this point the Pentagon spokesmen speak wistfully of maybe cutting that figure down next year and then lowering it further at a level-off period. But secret plans now in the preliminary stage might make the $60,000,000,000 just a starting point for more increases.

The minimum job includes fully arming and equipping the 3,500,000 man force first, and then building up sufficient reserves of arms and equipment. The job after that, if the 3,500,000 man goal is kept in fact, is merely replacing obsolete equipment.

Terrible as the price has been for America's part in the fighting in Korea, it has bought a tremendously improved strategic position in the Cold War, compared to the one the U. S. had before.

Probably most important of all it has erased any doubts about the willingness of America to fight for freedom and liberty. This has stiffened the will of other democratic allies in the fight against communism.

It has shown the friends of America that Americans can be fighters as well as spenders. It has brought the democratic allies closer together for mutual defense than at any time since the end of the last war. It has certainly speeded the terribly slow job of strengthening Western Europe.

Americans forces are very close to the announced goal of 3,500,000 men, with 3,250,000 men already in uniform. The Army has 24 good divisions, compared to 10 weak ones at the start of the fighting. The Air Force has expanded from 48 to 87 groups, is well on its way to the immediate 95-group goal and is in the planning stage for double that. The Navy has been doubled in size and is just about at its fixed goal.

The combat experience that each service now has under its belt as a result of the Korean War is a tremendous advantage in the world situation. It proved the value of the unification of the services. Korea was also a wonderful proving ground for the weapons and arms the U. S. has been developing since the end of World War II.

Efficiency Experts Show How Women Waste Footsteps

By DOROTHY ROE

Some women use as much energy just making a bed as a male efficiency expert would use in getting out a full day's factory production.

Others can make an all-day project out of washing the breakfast dishes.

Cleaning up the living room after last night's bridge session can be more difficult than digging a ditch all day, if a woman puts her mind to being really efficient about it.

Just doing the regular housework, even with the aid of all modern push-button appliances, can leave an average puffer in a state of real and honest exhaustion.

All this is pointed out regularly by the home appliance experts, usually male, who contend that the average U.S. woman wears herself to a state of collapse daily simply by inefficiency.

The efficiency experts claim that most women walk useless miles around the house and up when they did things sensibly and down the stairs every day, they could have the household chores out of the way in jig time, and be ready to devote their energies to other useful terraces, such as politics, club work or mowing the lawn.

Take making a bed, for instance. Here's where the girls really go to town in wasting steps and energy. The usual procedure is for them to pull all the sheets and blankets off the bed and walk across the room, where she piles them in a chair. Then she takes the bottom sheet, walks back, tucks it in on one side, walks around the bed to tuck it in on the other side, and repeats this process with top sheet, blanket, quilt and spread.

An efficiency expert, however, would stand on one side of the bed to straighten and tuck in sheets, blankets and spread before walking around the bed to repeat the process on the other side. The saving in energy: about 200 steps.

Then there's dishwashing. Many women, say the efficiency boys, start washing without assembling the dishes. Then they make endless trips between table, sink and cupboard—washing and putting away one or two dishes at a time.

The way to do it, they point out, is stack and assemble everything in classified order at a table or counter next to the sink glasses, silver, crockery, pots and pans. Next wash, rinse and place in the drainer in order. Modern detergents leave dishes sparkling clean without drying, so the time the last pot is washed, most of the dishes already are dry, and can be stacked and put away at one fell swoop. Only silver usually needs drying by this system, and the entire operation should be completed in less time than it takes to say: "I'm simply worn out from slaving over the housework all day."

The same thing goes for cleaning up the living room, putting all the ash trays on a tray and taking them out to be washed at one time does seem more sensible than emptying and washing each one separately. Vacuuming one entire corner of the room—floor, walls, draperies and upholstery—before moving to a new location takes about half as much time and one-tenth the steps as doing each job separately.

Having cleaning tools handy at the spots where they are used in Western Europe but is gaining is another trick that many women overlook.

The only hitch is that if women finally do become household efficiency experts, they may have so much time on their hands that they will invade pop's office and try to show him how to clean off his desk which undoubtedly would increase the divorce rate.

Long GI Night For Roast Pig

TOKYO—(AP)—Company 1 of the 24th Division went on the alert in Korea the other night when flares began flashing in the mine field in front of its position.

One flare after another tripped off, the Army said today. But there was no sign of Red attack. Then a mine exploded. But still no shots or attackers.

Finally Cpl. Wayne E. Talafuse of Cameron, Tex., investigated. He reported: "One very dead roast pig kept us up all night."

REVENUE FUND

Austin (AP)—A $6,206,401 increase in the state's general revenue fund during June was reported yesterday by state comptroller Robert S. Calvert.

HANOVER'S HANGOVER HOUSE—This unique "Roasting" house is one of the exhibits at a construction fair in Hanover, Germany. Designed for a lot of limited size, it can be set up on a plot as small as 10 square yards. It can be used as an auditorium, an exhibition hall, a restaurant or a home. Its creator claims it can hold more than 1200 persons.

It has shown the friends of America that Americans can be fighters as well as spenders. It has brought the democratic allies closer together for mutual defense than at any time since the end of the last war. It has certainly speeded the terribly slow job of strengthening Western Europe.

Americans forces are very close to the announced goal of 3,500,000 men, with 3,250,000 men already in uniform. The Army has 24 good divisions, compared to 10 weak ones at the start of the fighting. The Air Force has expanded from 48 to 87 groups, is well on its way to the immediate 95-group goal and is in the planning stage for double that. The Navy has been doubled in size and is just about at its fixed goal.

The combat experience that each service now has under its belt as a result of the Korean War is a tremendous advantage in the world situation. It proved the value of the unification of the services. Korea was also a wonderful proving ground for the weapons and arms the U. S. has been developing since the end of World War II.

The Korean action quickly jerked the military planners from national role, with the Army the tempting theory that air power alone was an adequate defense for the U. S. in its interest and Navy as secondary, supporting units. Planning is now based on the proven fact that the three services are still just about equal partners in the defense of the U. S.

The Korean War put on the books the first semblance of a universal military training law which the country has ever had. It creates a board to make U.S. Army recommendations which Congress will later have to act on. A complete cease-fire will bring a speed-up of release reservists, since it will take the pressure of the need to keep men involuntarily in service. The number and size of future draft calls will depend on the number of volunteers.

proof that justice plays no part in Communist governmental administration, and that the lie, the big lie, is being used by the Reds as a propaganda weapon," he said.

O'Connor said the quickest way to bring pressure on Czechoslovakia would be "an order barring all representatives of the Communist press from the country, with the provision that no more will be admitted until Mr. Oatis is freed, and assurances are received there will be no more such jailings."

O'Connor prepared for the Senate a resolution which also would bar all U.S. trade with Czechoslovakia as long as Oatis is held in prison.

The Maryland senator told the Senate that Oatis' conviction on charges that he was a spy "has shocked our people beyond words."

Asserting that "if there ever was a newspaperman who is truly a credit to his profession, it is Bill Oatis," O'Connor declared:

"It is high time that drastic retaliatory measures be taken against any and all of the Communist governments, which, as a part of their propaganda, impose harsh or unjust treatment upon any American citizen."

He said Oatis' "penchant for finding out what was going on" undoubtedly led to the Communist action against him.

The Oatis case "is convincing some adverse effects."

"We are studying the question not only from the possible relation to cancer, but also other physiological effects," Dr. Alfred Taylor said.

He added that he and his fellow researchers do not pretend to have definite evidence of possible ill-effects, but that they do have leads strong enough to call for further research.

The Health Department has been advocating injection of small quantities of fluoride into city water supplies as a deterrent to tooth decay among young children.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator O'Connor (D-Md.), has proposed that all Communist newsmen be excluded from the U.S. until AP correspondent William N. Oatis is released from jail in Czechoslovakia.

Health Men Disagree On Fluoride Use

AUSTIN — (AP) — State health officials and a University of Texas researcher disagreed over possible danger in use of fluoride to halt tooth decay.

Some Texas cities are injecting the chemical into their water supplies and others are planning to.

Austin abandoned its plan to use the chemical after questions that it might be harmful were raised by University of Texas biochemists.

Dr. Alfred Taylor of the University of Texas Biochemical Institute warned cities to hold up use of the chemical until research on possible adverse effects is completed.

Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer and Dr. Edward Taylor, head of the Health Department dental division, saw no grounds for fear.

Dr. Cox called use of the chemical "the greatest measure in dental health history."

Dr. Taylor of the university said preliminary results of research have shown there may be

McLemore 'Sounds Off' On Newspaper Society Writings

By HENRY McLEMORE

When I die, and my few friends gather to think of an epitaph for my headstone, I hope they will think of this one: He Died From Reading the Society Pages.

As a newspaperman I read the newspapers straight through, including the classified ads where outboard motors are for sale. So, naturally, in turning the pages, I have to run across the society pages. I can stand the romances between Blessington Edwards III and Harriet Featherstone, and Burley Tobacco II and Mimi Mimi Van Goren, even though I have never heard of them and stand little chance to hear of them again. In my heart I give them my blessings as young lovers, as Miss Lawrence does in "The King and I."

It does not bother me to read that the worthless heir to a Hampshire fortune is sailing on a $8 - foot cruiser with a party of completely worthless people. If any people deserve a free trip on a yacht, it's the worthless people. It's the only way they'd ever have one.

My blood pressure doesn't even rise at the latest rumor from Newport that Fifi Upstart, formerly Fifi Downstart, is getting daily collect phone calls from Prince Twitichy from his one room, hot and cold swimming water, castle in Paris.

But I do break out in a rash, redder than a tropical sun, larger than an Iowa pie, when I read on the society page about the backgrounds of the bride and groom.

Society editors do not think it sufficient simply to give the names and addresses of the man and woman who have walked down the path that leads to children, saving accounts, friends in for clubby evenings, memberships at local country clubs, and constant worry whether Harry's work is appreciated.

They think it their bounden duty to list all of the forebears of both parties concerned. They write it something like this: Mrs. Glamorous is descended on the maternal side from the late Judge Pickuptruck, whose father was high sheriff in Bull Run at the Custer Massacre. He, in turn, was the great, great grandson of Minnowflower Tucker, the first well known safe cracker of the National Biscuit Co. The groom is the son of his father and mother. On his paternal side he refuses to talk, but legend has

Oil Supplies Speech Topic For Rotary

Oil Field Supplies and How Used was the subject of a "classification" talk yesterday at noon by D. E. Shelhamer before the Pampa Rotary club.

The speaker noted that oil field supply stores carry between 6,000 and 7,000 items in stock; all of them used in either drilling or production operations. He pointed out that competition is keen and must be met from the service and "making friends" standpoint more than a price scale since the prices of items are set by the manufacturers.

Shelhamer said, in closing, oil field supplying has led him to "fall in love with oil field people; they are one of the finest groups of people you can find to work with."

Prior to the speaker, Farris Oden gave a brief sketch of the oil and tax issues to be voted on July 28.

Robert W. Clark, resident engineer for Celanese Corp. of America, was introduced as a new member by Mickey Ledrick and then inducted into membership by club president, George Scott.

REVENUER — John R. Dunlap, 47, of Dallas, Tex., was nominated by President Truman as Collector of Internal Revenue. He has been a top investigator of racketeers' tax returns.

Peace Talks Spark War of Words in Congress

If, as and when any settlement comes out of the Kaesong truce meetings, look for another round of congressional controversy. Below are pictured senators of both parties and the opening guns they have fired in the forthcoming war of words.

SEN. PAUL DOUGLAS, D. ILL.

... Declared that a 38th parallel settlement would be a "cease-fire" for both military and psychological reasons — urged UN forces to fight if necessary to establish a line 100 miles north of the 38th.

SEN. HARRY CAIN, R. WASH.

... Commented that any settlement not providing for complete unification of Korea as a sovereign nation is foredoomed to failure.

SEN. LESTER HUNT, D. WYO.

... Said a settlement on the 38th parallel would be "satisfactory" if accompanied by proper safeguards but admitted the possibility that an inspection system might fall through and spark more fighting.

SEN. HENRY LODGE, R. MASS.

... Asserted that "... we should never have gone north of (the 38th parallel) and now ... we shouldn't settle at any point south of it."

KAESONG TRUCE CONFERENCE

SEN. TOM CONNALLY, D. TEX.

... Made no comment but snorted angrily when he learned that Senator Douglas (upper left) thinks the U. S. was dragged into peace talks.

SEN. STYLES BRIDGES, R. N. H.

... Insisted an armistice on the 38th would provide a "festering Communist sore requiring American troops on the line indefinitely."

Airmen Warned On Identification Card Deadline

WASHINGTON, D.C. — (AP) — Many personal fliers are likely to be grounded September 1 for failure to obtain identification cards, Charles F. Horne, Administrator of Civil Aeronautics, warned today.

The administrator reported a recent check by the airman division of the CAA Office of Aviation Safety shows every CAA safety agent will have a long line of applicants formed at his desk on September 1 if the present slow rate of issuance continues.

Military pilots who desire to exercise their privileges in civilian flying must also have cards, the administrator reminded.

Identification cards are part of the CAA program to make possible the maximum amount of civil flying under national emergency conditions, Mr. Horne said. They supplement, but do not replace, the airman certificate which the airman must continue to carry as evidence of the type of aeronautical activity he is qualified to perform.

Any CAA aviation safety agent in a district office or at regional headquarters can assist in issuing the cards, and applicants must apply in person.

An airman applying for a card should provide the following items:

1. Two identical photographs, approximately one by one-inch in size, full face, head only, taken within twelve months preceding date of application.

2. Proof of identification, such as licenses, or combinations of identification cards and documents which will identify the applicant.

3. Proof of citizenship, place and date of birth, such as birth certificate, baptismal certificate, passport or an airman identification card issued by CAA during World War II.

4. His airman certificate. The applicant's fingerprint will be placed by the agent on both the application form and the identification card.

Applicants who have lost their World War II CAA identification card may write the Chief, Airman Records Branch, CAA, Washington 25, D. C., and request a letter verifying that such a card was issued to them. This letter will meet the citizenship, and place and date of birth requirements for obtaining one of the new identification cards.

WILD WEST CHARITY STANDISH BY CHARLES JUDAH

IX.
KEN MONTIJO took his knife away from Duke Rogers' throat. "Must I leave him unharmed?" he asked Charity Standish.

Charity looked at the unhappy Duke. His eyes were swollen, his lips cut, his mouth bleeding. "He's damaged some," she pointed out mildly.

Kenneth Montijo raised the knife's point, but he still held Duke.

"I might scalp him," he said hopefully. "I've always wanted to try it. You can have his hair as a souvenir."

Rogers groaned. Angel shrieked. Charity said, "Let him go."

Ken obeyed. "Better tie 'em, or lock 'em up."

Charity looked down at her fallen Angel. "Mine won't cause any trouble," she decided complacently.

"All right. Let's get out of here."

As she passed the bar, Charity saw herself in a mirror. Her face was streaked with dirt and smeared with blood. One eye was swollen and would soon be purple. Her hair hung in rank-brown strands. Her suit, which she had chosen for traveling, was soiled and torn beyond mending.

Observing her dismay Kenneth Montijo chuckled.

"You can be repaired, ma'am," he assured her.

She indicated the new reflection, his own, that had appeared beside hers in the mirror. He was more battered than she; his clothes were in even greater disarray than hers.

"I'm not so sure about you," she said sweetly.

"We're not pretty," he admitted. "Maybe we better get outside where it's dark."

The Plaza had been abandoned to San Lorenzo's epic of the century—a gun fight between Duke

Rogers and Ken Montijo. And it been eyes watched the victor emerge with Charity (undoubtedly the conqueror's prize, the spoils for which the battle had been waged) they remained discreet—in dark corners or behind heavy shutters.

Ken, not at all satisfied that it had been wise to leave Duke at large, hurried Charity away from the Four Aces. But when they reached the shadows their steps lagged until, as if by mutual consent they stopped. He fumbled in his pocket where he had stuffed the money swept off the dice table, until he found a slip of paper, Charity's I.O.U. He gave it to her.

"Tear it up."

She obeyed. The white scraps of paper floated to the ground.

"Where are you staying?"

IT was the end of adventure. Only the hotel room remained with its packed trunk and Doug lying drunk on the floor.

"Do I have to go home?" she asked.

The blood of Kenneth Montijo's cautious Scotch mother warred momentarily with that of his reckless Spanish father who, reversing the Yankee procedure had made a fortune trading between New Mexico and the East. Yet Kenneth's mother had not been too cautious to give her heart to Louis Montijo, nor to follow him to New Mexico Territory, a thousand miles in distance and 200 years in time, from St. Louis where she was born.

Now he looked at Charity and Spain won an easy victory.

"Like to go up to the Artee? The casino will still be open."

At the thought of more gaudy tables, more whiskey, more stale smoke laden air, Charity shrilled.

"No," she said.

"What would you like?"

Suddenly she knew.

"Let me take you someplace." In half an hour they were at the hill's crest overlooking the valley. She had never before seen it at night. Bathed in moonlight it was even lovelier than by day.

"The moon's been misbehaving, too," Charity said. "It got drunk and splashed its light all over the valley; and look at the stars, someone's dug a million new ones out of the black pit of night since I last saw the sky in Ohio."

Kenneth did not know that Charity was talking thus to escape the memories of hours spent here with Doug. He was uneasy. Accustomed as he was to poetry in nature, in words it embarrassed him.

"You see more stars here than in Ohio on account of the altitude," he volunteered.

Charity did not like to be winged in mid-flight. She came fluttering back to earth.

"Damn the altitude," she said succinctly. "If the sun is not it's the altitude; if the nights are cold, it's the altitude; if a man gets drunk, it's the altitude. Everything that happens in New Mexico Territory is the fault of the altitude. I wouldn't be surprised if I fell in love all on account of the altitude."

"Might have been that," Kenneth agreed amiably. "Who is the guy? Does he live around here?"

CHARITY realized with a shock that he was, after all, a stranger. An impertinent stranger who listened uninvited to her conversation and gave her officious advice. She burst into laughter. He grinned sympathetically.

"What is it?"

"It's me—on a hill top in New Mexico in the middle of the night with a man whose name I don't even know."

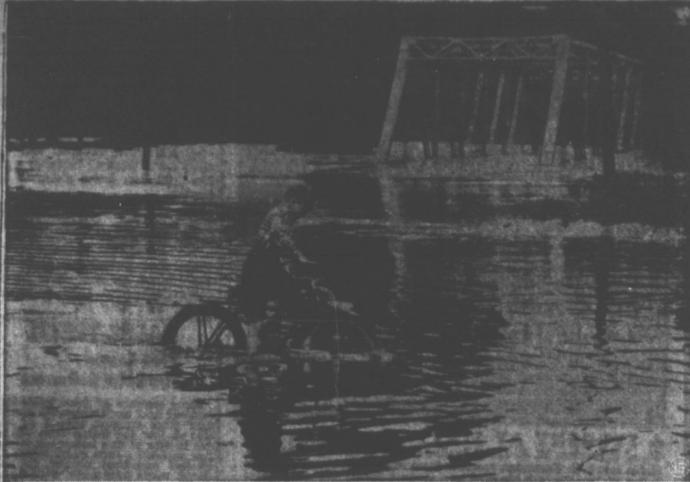

"I'm Ken Montijo."

"Charmed, Mr. Montijo, may I present Miss Charity Standish, though I'm afraid no one in Ohio would believe it." She came closer laughing her lips brushed his cheek. "Now I know they wouldn't."

"I thought you said you were in love," he said slowly.

"I did. I am, I mean I was—" screwdriver as a can opener — frequent crimes.

The selection of tools and their proper usage are basically important in house maintenance. Choose your claw hammer, for instance, with usage in mind. You'll find two major types at the hardware store. One will have a flat striking surface at the end of a straight neck. This is a plain-face hammer. With this type the novice is able to drive nails straighter, but it is more liable to dent the surface of the wood. Another has a head that bulges slightly at the end of a tapered neck and usually has a slightly curved-convex striking surface. This is the bell-face hammer.

It's a good idea to learn to use a bell-face hammer. With a little practice you can drive a nail-head flush, or even a bit below the surface without denting the wood.

You'll find hammer heads weighing from 5 to 28 ounces. If you plan to use the tool only for building birdhouses, or driving small brads, don't pick out a heavy hammer. For general household use, hammers range from 10 to 16 ounces. Heft them for feel. You'll want a heavier hammer for driving ordinary nails into hardwood and larger nails into soft woods.

Examine the handle. It should be a straight grain hardwood. Hickory or ash make fine handles. The end that shows through the hammer head should show wedges for a tight fit.

Don't think the manufacturer is hiding something if the handle is painted. The old trade prejudice for "whitewood" handles has been largely overcome by handle makers protecting such stock from powder-post (Lyctus) beetles. So handles now are often painted red.

Then learn to use your hammer correctly. You won't see a carpenter holding his hammer by the middle of the handle or with his hand near the hammer head. Grip the handle well back at its end for full leverage and swing with a free arm movement, using wrist, elbow and shoulder. The amount of force will depend on the blow required.

You won't smash your thumb or finger if you use a hammer correctly. It's necessary to hold the nail until you get it started, but start it with several light taps, aiming the hammer meanwhile for full blows in the center of its striking face.

And if a nail starts to bend, don't try to hold it straight with your other hand. Remove it and start another nail. If the nails persist in bending, it may mean that you are driving into a knot. Drill a small hole through the obstruction and then drive the nail.

Like Father Like Son!

ONE of life's proudest experiences is for a father to see his teen-age son getting a head start in the business world, with the aid of a prosperous newspaper route. Especially when he knows from his own boyhood that this is something no youth should miss!

Fathers in all walks of life agree a newspaper route is the finest hobby their sons can have. That it ideally satisfies a boy's desire to earn his own money, buy his own things and develop his own particular talents! Also, that route work adds valuable business training to a boy's regular schooling — teaches him modern sales, service and collection methods... enables him to meet people, make friends and form many habits... and offers him many special incentives to excel as a young businessman!

No wonder the youth who has a growing newspaper route is the pride of his parents and friends — and the envy of lads who lack his initiative. He's definitely doing things and going places!

See About a Route for YOUR Son, Now

Encourage him to apply for the next route open in your part of the city, so that he, too, may enjoy the many extra benefits and rewards which come to successful newspaper boys. Ask our Circulation Department about it.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

Settling A Melding Dispute

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
"I wished to make an initial meld of 90 points," writes a Canasta fan of Meriden, Conn., "and I took a joker and one ace from my hand to pick up an ace from the top of the pack. The other players said that this was against the rules of the game."
"I pointed out that my meld totaled 90 points, but they said that my count didn't matter. They said that I still needed a natural pair of aces to pick up that ace. Is this true? If so, what is the reason for having such a rule?"
The other players were quite right. When you are trying to take the discard pile for your initial meld you must put down a natural pair that matches the previous player's discard. You are allowed to take the discard pile with one matching card and one wild card only if the initial meld has already been made by your side at a previous turn to play.
This question is sometimes asked in a different form. For example, a player puts down a joker and four kings to make her count of 90 points. Then she tries to take the discarded ace with a single ace and a deuce — on the same turn. This play is just as illegal as the one described above. No matter what you meld, you always need a natural pair to take the discard pile for your initial meld.
This rule protects all the play-

Association And Union Seek To Revive Hollywood Culture

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — They're searching for some method of stimulating public support of culture, following the financial flop of two world-known attractions, the Pilgrimage Play and the Hollywood Bowl symphonies under the stars.

The Pilgrimage Play, after only two weeks of its scheduled all-summer run, will close next Sunday. The Hollywood Bowl closed Saturday, cancelling the remainder of its summer concerts after only one week of the new season.

Officials of the parent sponsoring organization, Hollywood Bowl Assn., and of the affiliated Hollywood Bowl Theater Assn., which has operated the Pilgrimage Play, said lack of patronage and resultant financial loss was the cause.

Now the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors and the AFL musicians union are seeking to get at least the bowl concerts started again.

Last year the supervisors appropriated $65,000 for the bowl association and have earmarked $60,000 in the 1951-52 budget. The 21,000-seat outdoor bowl is on property leased from the county. The Pilgrimage Play, a dramatization of the life of Christ, is staged in a natural amphitheater, seating 1300, near the bowl.

Sixty-three union musicians were under contract for the summer bowl season.

The union plan apparently will propose "cut-rate" concerts, with admission perhaps 50 cents. The minimum for the now-cancelled bowl programs was 90 cents. The prices went up to $3.80 for box seats.

Actor Jean Hersholt, president of the Bowl association, said that after one week of "Die Fledermaus" the deficit was $23,000. Phil Hall, chairman of the Pilgrimage Play organization, said attendance averaged only 600 a night last week.

By the 1910's, there'd been a few changes. Arms were being shown that season, clear up to the shoulders, as you can see at left. It was probably the first time some men ever knew that young girls had shoulders. Get that hat! Passing on, we note that from the side, the 1910 miss was a mighty attractive number. She had all the allure of a—well, of a 1910 bathing beauty. This girl is very daring for her day—no hat, no sleeves, no stockings—wow! Don't get the idea that they were all daring, however. The next picture shows a prim miss who kept her bonnet tied and her pantaloons on and her stockings pulled up and her sneakers laced. She was a very good little girl. And so was this exotic lass, at right, of the same era. She shows a little knee—but it's a well-stocked knee. The sandals were the latest thing in 1914, and so was the rakish beret-type hat. All very chic.

Defense Is Needed In Tournament Play

By OSWALD JACOBY, Written for NEA Services

When the first official world's championship was held in Bermuda last November, the American team won. An important reason for the victory was the tight brand of defense that our team displayed.

In the hand shown today, for example, both the Americans and the British got to a flimsy contract of four hearts. The American defenders defeated the con-

Cattle Disease Attacks Herds

A baffling disease of cattle which often creeps into a herd without noticeable symptoms is now causing losses to farmers in all states, the American Foundation for Animal Health reported here today.

The Foundation's report said the condition, known as Johne's disease, is regarded as one of the most difficult of all infections to eradicate from cattle herds.

How to develop, it is very hard to detect in its early stages.

"The disease is caused by a germ which attacks the intestinal tract. Affected animals develop scours and gradually lose weight for several months. The meat may become rough. Milk production slows up and even usually may stop. The infected animal may continue to lose weight until it becomes so thin and weak it dies," the bulletin said.

Symptoms are most likely to show up in animals from two to six years old. Such animals may have harbored the germ since calfhood and this long incubation period makes the disease difficult to stamp out once it shows up in a herd.

"Control depends on an accurate diagnosis, as there is danger of confusing the disease with tuberculosis," say Foundation authorities. "Clinical tests enable the veterinarian to spot the reactors which should then be removed from the herd and sold for slaughter. The premises should also be disinfected and young calves kept away from contaminated quarters if this dangerous infection is to be prevented from spreading."

as well as some mechanical changes.

Until the full impact of the arms planning hit the car industry's re-tooling set-up it had been understood the 1952 models would show the most dramatic changes since before World War II. In some instances the tooling isn't going to be ready and modifications have had to be made in the 1952 model planning.

It should be noted, however, that this applies to only a few of the car makes. Some of them didn't wait for 1952 models to bring out their most far-reaching changes in more than a decade.

Notable among these are Chrysler and Studebaker. Chrysler's 180-horsepower V-8 engine and power-assisted steering are among the greatest engineering advances of the last decade. Studebaker introduced a V-8 engine in its current line that has won a great deal of favorable comment. It also brought out its own automatic transmission.

Chrysler already has disclosed it plans to put the big engine and steering-aid in its 1952 Saratoga model. Whether either or both of these engineering developments eventually will go in to the Dodge and DeSoto lines hasn't been indicated.

Certainly more V-8 engines are planned by other car makers. They may not be ready for 1952 but they are coming. So, too, is power-assisted steering for several companies other than Chrysler.

At least one, and perhaps two, of the car makers will offer the steering device in 1952. The unit is an optional, extra cost item; its cost approximates that of an automatic transmission.

Some industry experts say that within the next five years it will be available on all cars above the low price bracket.

There are no completely new automatic transmissions in sight for 1952 model cars but further improvements will be introduced in those already in production.

General Motors has resided another major engineering advance in its hydraulic transmission. Besides the driving range, low and reverse speeds, the newer version of the device has a third "speed" selection. Faster acceleration is provided by this refinement.

tract at one table, while the English defenders let the contract be made at the other table.

When George Rapee played the South hand at four hearts for America, he let West hold the first trick with the king of diamonds. West shifted to the eight of clubs, and East won with the club ace.

Now East had a terrible problem. He needed two more tricks to defeat the contract. Did his partner have the ace of spades, or had he shifted to a singleton club?

After much anxious thought East returned a club. This was duck soup for Rapee, of course. He won the club, drew trumps, and ran the clubs to discard both of his losing spades. Thus he made his contract with an over-trick.

In the other room the English declarer also let West hold the first trick with the king of diamonds. The American defender, Sidney Sidor, of Philadelphia, gave his partner no problems.

Sidor knew that his side needed three more defensive tricks. They would be available if his partner had the ace of clubs and one of the black kings. In either case it could do no harm to lay down the ace of spades to eliminate all further guesswork.

This card got an enthusiastic signal from his partner, so Sidor led another spade. Then East took the ace of clubs to set the contract.

I don't want anybody to get the idea that the British team put up weak defenses as a general thing. On the contrary, they play magnificently. Fortunately for us, our team played even better.

British Sell Bonds To Halt Inflation

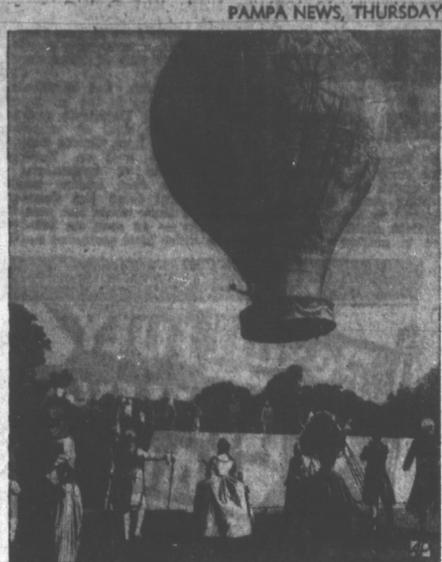

SINGAPORE (AP) — The government of this British crown colony is planning to issue $80,000,000 worth of premium bonds in an effort to halt inflation.

The setting financial secretary said the bonds would be free of income tax with repayment to be completed in 10 years. The government of the Federation of Malaya already has announced plans to issue $10,000,000 in premium bonds to stop inflation there.

Where desired, the third speed setting may be used for normal driving but greater fuel economy is obtained in the driving range.

There will be improvements in braking systems and changes in the exterior styling. Thus the merchandising division will have plenty of sales promotion material.

No revolutionary styling changes have been indicated so far.

Hardy Traveler Best Vacation Suit

By GAILE DUGAS NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Putting travel on a personal basis means not only planning what you will wear when you reach the ultimate spot, but how you will look en route.

A suit that's a hardy traveler, therefore, is the suit that most women want. It should have simple, uncluttered lines and be cut from a fabric that can take it and still come out looking fresh.

Such a suit (left) is in pale blue rayon given a soil-and-crease resistant finish. Designed by Seatonaire, it's useful both on the way and at the point of arrival. The single-breasted jacket with its double-cuffed pockets can be worn with other skirts, slacks and with knee-length shorts.

Daily Salad Bowl from Home Garden Vitamin-rich

Earliest Loose Heading Lettuce Matures in 60 Days.

There is no better way to make sure your family has a daily dose of Vitamin A, calcium and other nutritious ingredients which are "green, leafy" vegetables supply than by serving a daily bowl salad.

Leaf lettuce is preferred by most chefs over head lettuce for salads. It is also far richer in vitamins. It comes in two types—the butter leaves, and the crisp leaf type.

For summer leaves, chicory, also known as endive, is more available than lettuce, which usually runs its seed in midsummer. Endive may be had with curly leaves, or broad leaves. Many like the curly leaves best for summer, and broad leaves (escarole) for fall.

WE, THE WOMEN By RUTH BILLET NEA Staff Writer 'MISERY MAMIE' — It's never any pleasure to see Mamie. In half an hour's conversation's Mamie can get even the most light-hearted acquaintance to wearing a gloomy look. You can't look anything but long-faced when you are talking to her. It wouldn't be appropriate. For Mamie wants to tell you all her troubles. The children are little demons. Her husband gets her started on how inconsiderate or extravagant, or whatever, men are. Mamie, herself, is usually dead-tired. Everything has been so hectic. And she almost always has a few sad stories about mutual acquaintances. You'd think from listening to her that she really had things tough. NOT SO BADLY OFF But the strange thing is—she doesn't actually. She has a husband who gives her, if not everything she wants, at least everything her own way in most things. She has two healthy, normal children. She has a nice home, equipped with a good many luxuries. She has health and a fair share of good looks. She could have a lot of friends, for she makes friends easily enough. But she doesn't hold them for long. Because it is never any pleasure to see Mamie. She can always be counted on to give you a let-down instead of a lift. And few people are willing to make an effort to see a person they know is going to make them feel worse instead of better. Remember Mamie if your own troubles are your pet topic of conversation.

Democratic Party Policy Makers
Peter Molyneux, columnist for the Dallas Morning News and editor of The Southern Weekly, says if you are having doubts about the direction the national Democratic party is moving, take a look at the list of speakers at the Democratic convocation held a short time ago in Denver.

Here's Molyneux's list of the "leaders" of discussion who outlined Democratic party policies: Leon H. Keyserling, chairman of the President's council of economic advisors and architect of numerous bills to establish a politically-managed socialistic economy.

Oscar L. Chapman, secretary of the Interior, and an advocate of numerous national power projects like TVA and of federal ownership of submerged coastal oil lands.

Charles F. Brannan, secretary of agriculture, author of the notorious "Brannan plan" of socialized farming.

Maurice J. Tobin, secretary of labor, enemy of the Taft-Hartley law and partisan of the labor union bosses generally.

Oscar R. Ewing, federal security administrator, chief advocate of the welfare state, including socialized medicine.

James G. Patton, president of the National Education Association, author of plans for a politically-managed socialistic economy and an advocate of farmer-labor union solidarity.

Thomas Duncan, assistant director of the AFL labor's League for Political Education.

Roy Neuberger, co-director of the CIO Auto Workers Political Action committee.

Ben Cook, secretary of the Farmers Co-operative council of Colorado.

Nicholas Dragon, Arizona, CIO national director.

C. M. Werkau, secretary-treasurer of the CIO Communications Workers of America.

Tom McCormick of the CIO Oil Workers union.

O. A. Knight, vice-president of the CIO and president of the Oil Workers union.

And last, out by no means least, James Loeb, executive secretary of Americans for Democratic Action.

This group speaks for itself. To add commentary would be adding superfluous matter.

British Socialists Fall Back A Step
The bung has started to slip in Britain's Socialist camp, with the result that some of the Marxian stuff is about to seep out and go down the drain.

Neither Churchill oratory nor the fumbling fingers of a perplexed nation could loosen the plug that had been pounded in by the so-called Labor government. But, could economic facts be doing the trick?

It is to face with their inability to cope with the mess they've brought about in Britain, bigwigs of the Socialist government are being forced by facts to admit that a lot of their ideas on price-fixing and elimination of competition just simply won't work. So they recently took steps to clear the way for a return of competitive conditions in some trade channels.

The Socialists in Britain insisted on fixing prices in practically all fields of production and distribution. This included control of minimum as well as maximum prices. Now they propose to junk the price floors but to keep most of the ceilings.

In short, they are forced to give ground, but only a step at a time.

The reason given for wanting to get rid of price floors is "to see that the progressive elements are not held back by the least efficient." A government spokesman said, "we want to make it clear that there is no offense, civil or criminal to sell cheap."

The young woman climbed into a field to gather some flowers for his girl friend and, sighting a bull of the same pasture, called to a nearby farmer.

Young Man—Hey, mister, is this bull ever here safe?

Farmer—Well, sonny, I don't know for sure, but I can tell you he's a dern sight safer'n you are.

Better Jobs

There is More Than One Way To Skin A Citizen

The above heading was in a bulletin issued by the Gold Standard League. The heading attracted my attention and I read the article. I want to reproduce it, but before I do that, I want to explain how citizens are being skinned.

The primary reason citizens are being skinned by the government, by the politicians and by the bureaucrats is that most people believe men who will not answer questions about what they are advocating; they blindly follow men who advocate things that they do not know enough about so that they can answer questions about them. A man who understands why there are better jobs and what causes prosperity can and will answer any and all questions about what he advocates.

When people blindly follow and vote for men who will not answer questions they are bound to be skinned.

The way the politicians are skinning the public now is by taxing by way of inflation. This is the way the Gold Standard League explains it. I quote:

"No! Our money isn't going worthwile the same way the German Marks went after World War I. The five dollar gold was later overvalued to one trillion marks. These trillion marks had been redeemable in gold represented more gold than there is in all the world's mines."

"We're too modern—two sophisticated for such old-fashioned tampering with our money. True, we had three billion of currency in circulation before we were off the gold standard and now we have twenty-seven billion. But that doesn't account for the 50 percent increase in purchasing value that has taken place in the last ten years."

"One would assume that since taxes had gone up 1174 percent since 1933 and physical production 150 percent that the government would not have to resort to tampering with the currency to meet its obligations in bond money. However, it ever resisted the temptation to dilute the currency when they had the power."

"The modern method of tampering is to increase the bank deposits in the check in bond money. When we went off the gold standard all bank deposits totalled thirty-seven billion. Our bank deposits today total one hundred and fifty-seven billion."

"Deficit financing by government accounts for most of the one hundred and twenty billion increase in deposits. Our banks have been practically forced to take I.O.U.'s or bonds from the government and pay for them by crediting deposits to the government account. The government issued checks against those deposits in payment for goods and services. Those checks were then redeposited in banks by those who received them. As the quantity of money and bank deposits increased the price of goods rose."

"This is the modern version of inflation. But the same story—a government spending more than it collects in taxes—has happened over and over in history. Also there is no record in history of a government being able to tamper with the money for very long when it was redeemable in gold."

"The citizens are being skinned locally by believing that the majority can educate the individual, and that is one of the reasons people are so badly mixed up because they have been going to unprincipled teachers who do not seem to understand the meaning of the Golden Rule, the Commandments and the Declaration of Independence. And when people do not believe in fundamental principles as a guide to human conduct, they are bound to disobey these eternal laws they are bound to be skinned."

"Yes, there is more than one way to skin a citizen—and the citizens are certainly being skinned."

It may be a coincidence, but it seems relatively sure that our grandparents never heard of, say, smallpox vaccine. They never heard of polio, either. But when one came in so did the other. Our grandparents had more smallpox than we have, but they also had a great deal less sanitation. I have already quoted certain authorities who are convinced that the answer to the effect that when sanitation increased smallpox and other disease decreased. I'm no expert, but I can read the experts, and common sense indicates very strongly that the answer to most health problems is sanitation and not vaccination. On the contrary, vaccination and loading the human system with toxics bears every evidence of causing other diseases. It certainly seems contrary to nature to graft the cells of an animal into the body of a human.

It may be argued that I know nothing of medicine—which is pretty nearly true. But the writings and utterances of people who claim to be experts along that line and since, by their disagreements on such matters as vaccination, they don't seem to know any more about it than I do, one man's opinion is as good as another. No reputable physician has ever answered my request to make a flat statement that vaccination would prevent smallpox or other diseases. On health matters that have been scientifically demonstrated to be true and which have voluntarily been embraced by the public, I have only the most congratulatory comments. But public health—meaning individuals—is to be important to be trifled with or to have unknown quantities enforced by law.

Senator Byrd raised before the minds of loyal citizens across the South the spectre of a new scourge of unprincipled northern radicals depending on them with pious platitudes and plotting to repeat the horrors of reconstruction in the name of "democracy."

It was apposite that he did this in Atlanta for here, again, the self-important, hypocritical native scallawag had been looting the political treasures of the South in collaboration with the New Deal and Fair Deal and exploiting the Negro exactly as the carpet-baggers did before. Some of these may be honest fools, but those who used them were neither.

What did Byrd say? His speech was too long for prompt appreciation in the papers which contained scetchy versions on the wires. Many papers lack the enterprise and ability to boil down such a document. Some, of course, being scallawag in their devotion to the Truman party, would minimize it anyway. The Shreveport Times waits almost two weeks and, on Sunday, July 8, gave more than a whole page to the speech, itself, and a quarter of its editorial page to a commentary by Don Ewing, the editor and publisher, which said: "No finer thing could come to the nation—let alone the world—than for the South to rise and lead the United States of America in a revolt against the moral degradation and socialistic philosophies into which the past and current

The Doctor Says

By T. WARD P. JORDAN, M. D.

"Will you discuss," writes Mrs. M. B., "the growth of hair, and some causes of non-growth? Our daughter is 3 years old and scarcely has any hair. I am really worried."

In case like this one would like to know what is meant by the little girl having no hair. It is not as if any hair since some people expect little girls to have long, beautiful curly hair and anything short of this is a disappointment.

All this is in the question of loss of hair in general, a matter that bothers thousands of people men in particular—and causes the expenditure of millions of dollars given to those who promise to grow hair where none appeared before. When discussing the latter I am always reminded of a highly educated friend of mine who some years ago first noticed thinning of his wavy hair.

He came home one day with the hair singed under the impression that this would keep the vital juices from running out; the only trouble is the hair is not hollow and no juices can run out.

To come back to the main point, loss of hair, whether on the scalp or elsewhere, may come from many different causes. Far and away the most common variety is baldness in men which may come at almost any age but is most common in the middle and late years. To a great extent this runs in families—apparently inherited through the mother—though other constitutional factors in such things as dandruff may speed the process.

The hair quite often falls out after some of the infectious diseases such as scarlet fever, influenza, or pneumonia. This is usually rather sudden and the hair almost invariably grows back, though sometimes with a different texture but is most common in the middle and late years. To a great extent this runs in families—apparently inherited through the mother—though other constitutional factors in such things as dandruff may speed the process.

To a great extent this runs in families—apparently inherited through the mother—though other constitutional factors in such things as dandruff may speed the process.

There is also a fairly common condition of unknown cause called alopecia areata in which the hair falls out in spots. One might say that there are three kinds of loss of hair: that in which an infection or toxin has brought it about and in which the hair will regrow; that in which which some other cause exists which should be treated (like thyroid deficiency or alopecia areata); and ordinary baldness. For the latter there is no known way except by medicine of growing good hair where there was none before although the speed of loss sometimes is delayed.

Thoughts

Some day a great wave of truth will break through (the Iron Curtain). When that day comes the raucous clamor from the Kremlin will change to a craven whimper. This has (always) been the fate of tyrants.

John R. Steelman, presidential assistant.

We can afford to have differences of opinion. I hope we shall always be able to do so. Your American democracy asserts the right of every man to speak out. So does ours.

It was Russia who instigated the Korean war and it was Russia who made the loss for the ceasefire. We may conclude that Moscow accomplished the immediate purpose of "hot" conflict. What did the Red leaders learn? They learned that as a government we were too naive to see through their propaganda. And, at least, we lacked the moral courage to block those plans with a swift and powerful attack on the Soviet Union itself while we still held the advantage of speaking to the people of the United States.

The Soviet learned that Mao Tse-Tung's second-term could not defeat American fire-power even with vastly superior numbers. They learned that the Red Chinese first-term would need better equipment and more training before they could tackle full-fledged, modern warfare. They learned that we would fire generals who sought real victory independent of politics, and not those who sought to correct the blunders of monetary debauchery and fiscal folly. FAIR ENOUGH--PEGLER

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — The southern states, patronized, ridiculed and exploited as political vassals by the party of Hiss, Frankfurter, Truman and Eleanor Roosevelt, find themselves awakening to a glorious patriotic political opportunity. The south is incomparably more "American" than the north and the contrast with the North is the most frightful.

The cause represented by Senator Harry Byrd, of Virginia, has aroused rebellion in the hearts of southern people who, for years fumbled in a confused state, unaware that they were being led and bribed into bondage under Northern Communist and pre-Communist Socialists who had transformed their traditional Democratic party into a hideous anti-American force.

Senator Byrd's declaration of secession from the Truman party, delivered at the Jefferson-Jackson dinner in Atlanta, has echoed across the southern tier. The import of the speech has traveled slowly for this was too big a lesson to be learned at once. It is, in fact, a summation of the particulars of thousands of warnings uttered in this and other columns and political speeches since 1936 and of John T. Flynn's classical political paper "The Road Ahead" which proved that, excepting petty differences, the British political disaster was the blueprint of the pre-Communist force called Americans for Democratic Action. This A.D.A. is no more American than any other version of Karl Marx and Lenin.

It is the last step on this side of Communism and it caught Harry Truman at the 1948 convention in Philadelphia where he agreed to be the candidate on a "peace" ticket. Hatred, hopeless and endowed with the political cynicisms of the old carpet-baggers, Truman was an ideal man for this small group of adventurers. The first act of his campaign was a summons to Congress to meet in special session to be insulted in a snarling speech by a President who walked before a silent hostile rows of a joint session.

Senator Byrd raised before the minds of loyal citizens across the South the spectre of a new scourge of unprincipled northern radicals depending on them with pious platitudes and plotting to repeat the horrors of reconstruction in the name of "democracy."

It was apposite that he did this in Atlanta for here, again, the self-important, hypocritical native scallawag had been looting the political treasures of the South in collaboration with the New Deal and Fair Deal and exploiting the Negro exactly as the carpet-baggers did before. Some of these may be honest fools, but those who used them were neither.

What did Byrd say? His speech was too long for prompt appreciation in the papers which contained scetchy versions on the wires. Many papers lack the enterprise and ability to boil down such a document. Some, of course, being scallawag in their devotion to the Truman party, would minimize it anyway. The Shreveport Times waits almost two weeks and, on Sunday, July 8, gave more than a whole page to the speech, itself, and a quarter of its editorial page to a commentary by Don Ewing, the editor and publisher, which said: "No finer thing could come to the nation—let alone the world—than for the South to rise and lead the United States of America in a revolt against the moral degradation and socialistic philosophies into which the past and current

The Soviet learned that Mao Tse-Tung's second-term could not defeat American fire-power even with vastly superior numbers. They learned that the Red Chinese first-term would need better equipment and more training before they could tackle full-fledged, modern warfare. They learned that we would fire generals who sought real victory independent of politics, and not those who sought to correct the blunders of monetary debauchery and fiscal folly. WAR AND INFLATION
We must not be deceived by surface trends. War and, consequently, inflation are still with us. The "cease-fire" in Korea is but a temporary end for that particular hot spot.

We stop right here and where we start—at the 38th parallel. Nothing really has been gained for our side, and much has been lost.

The Red menace is as great as ever, or greater.

It was Russia who instigated the Korean war and it was Russia who made the loss for the ceasefire. We may conclude that Moscow accomplished the immediate purpose of "hot" conflict. Phillips Again Blast Home Run To Bring Last All-Stars To Borger Tonight Minute Victory;

South Made Early Favorite To Win

BORGER — (AP) — From all indications, the 1951 West Texas-New Mexico League All-Star Game will be unexciting before another capacity crowd.

Gasser President D. M. Spector said advance ticket sales have been moving rapidly, and all box seats were taken up before the end of last week.

Additional spectators have been moved in along both the right and left field lines to bolster Huber Park's 2,500 seat capacity to close to 4,000.

At least four radio stations from member club cities will offer live broadcasts of the 11th annual classic. KPDN will be on the air at 7:55 with the broadcast direct from Huber Park.

Milton Price, league president, arrived in Borger last night.

Hershel Martin, popular Albuquerque manager will lead the North All-Stars for the fourth time in as many years tonight. The North will try to avenge last year's 6-0 drubbing at the hands of the South squad.

On paper, once again, the South is regarded as a pre-game favorite on the basis of the fact that three of the four southern division clubs occupy first division berths, and the fourth, Pampa, is in fifth place.

Despite this fact, the North will field a team that is capable of upsetting the best the South has to offer. It will feature an extra base assault crew led by Crawford Howard of Amarillo, Bill Manning and Bob Leonard of Borger, Les Mulcahy of Amarillo and player-manager Martin. Their batting averages come close to the .300 mark.

Their pitching is strong this year too. Borger's 16-4 Rene Vega and the Duke's Jesse Priest, who won 17 straight before dropping a game, backed by Don Cantrell and Bob Spence of Albuquerque and Mel Kramer of Clovis can lead the South plenty of trouble.

The southerners also have an ace in Abilene's Jim Melton and Fred Schmidt, Ed Arthur of Lamesa, and Lubbock's Ray Faust, along with Red Dial of Pampa to work mound chores.

The southerners also have an extra base crew led by Ralph Bahamas of Abilene, League slugger leader, Virgil Richardson of Pampa, Al Kubaki of Lubbock and Lamesa's Pedro Santiago and Glenn Burns of Lamesa.

The Oiler will have three stars in the game, and if they play enough, they won't all be playing together. Virgil Richardson and Red Dial were selected as members of the South team while Frank Calvo was chosen as receiver for the North squad while still a member of the Pioneers. He will perform as a member of the North team according to a ruling of league President Milton E. Price.

The other Oiler not in the game left early this morning for Albuquerque.

Ideal weather was forecast for the annual battle.

When the Chicago Cubs swamped the Philadelphia Phillies 19-3 on May 18, that was the worst beating ever suffered under Eddie Sawyer's management.

Vollmer Continues To Lead Red Sox Assault On League

(By The Associated Press) Clouting Clyde Vollmer, booted off his home town Cincinnati team, is the new Boston glamor boy, outdazzling such Red Sox stalwarts as Ted Williams, Vern Stephens, Bobby Doerr and Don Demaggio.

A much shuttled and shunted part-time flycatcher and pinch hitter through seven discouraging big league seasons, the 29-year-old Oholan has finally established himself as one of the best clutch hitters in baseball.

Vollmer, more than any other Red Soxer, is responsible for Boston's spectacular climb to the top of the American League. Climaxing a brilliant two-week batting spurge, the strapping outfielder last night led the Red Sox to a 4-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Schmidt Hurls Easy Victory

ABILENE — (AP) — Fred Schmidt's Blue Sox mates gave him a ten-run lead in the first four innings and he coasted from there to his 15th victory of the season, a 11-7 triumph for Abilene over Borger's Gassers here last night.

The big Dutchman few-wheeled with almost too much abandon, probably saving his "stuff" for the All Star game in Borger Thursday night. The Gassers mashed his down-the-middle offerings for a total of 37 base hits, and it required some fancy fielding to snuff off determined Borger threats on several occasions.

Faust Wins Own Game With Hit

LUBBOCK — (AP) — Ray Faust singled his way leftfield with very little in the bottom of the 12th inning to score Don Moore with the run that gave Lubbock a 7-6 victory over the Albuquerque Dukes here last night.

Faust, who was tagged for five unearned runs in the first inning, three of which came off Jerry Madala's homer, throttled the Dukes from that point on. And the Hubbers scored their fourth game in their last five games to win in the overtime.

Face Dukes In Albuquerque Friday

One look at the score at last night's ball game between the Oiler and the Gold Sox played at Oiler Park would be enough to convince almost anyone that the Harvesters had beaten the Sages, 14-13. But instead, the fighting Pampa Oiler came from behind twice to finally emerge victors in the final game of a home stand that saw unimpressive thrilling games.

The big hero again last night was outfielder Jake Phillips, who smashed Jim Reynolds' fast ball far over the light poles as leadoff man in the ninth to break the 13-13 deadlock.

But also coming in for a share of the glory was second baseman Jimmie Banks who had three hits in four triples all very important blows, and centerfielder Francis Rice, who also chipped in with two important hits.

The pitching on both sides was as tight as the Oiler's bats. The game was played before Milton Price, league president, and working the game as one of the umpires was the league supervisor, Lefty Craig.

The Oiler got 18 bingles off starter Monk Webb, and his replacements, Doc Fletcher, Larry Mann and Reynolds. Frank Calvo continued his sensational hitting with another night of three hits.

The Oiler left early this morning for Albuquerque, where they will open up against the Dukes tomorrow night. It will start a four-day road trip before they return to Oiler Park to face the Lubbock Hubbers in a doubleheader on July 24, followed by a single game the next night.

The Oiler has announced the acquisition of a couple of pitchers. Lenny Ruyle, husky right-hander with the Borger Gassers the past year and a half, was signed as a free agent, as was right-hander Bill Coffey, who performed with the Pampans earlier this year.

Last night's game was a seesaw affair. The Oiler took 3-2 lead in the first but relinquished it during a four run fourth by the Oiler. In the seventh, a three-run home run by Dub Allen put Amarillo back in front and the Sox added four more in the eighth to apparently seal the battle. Lefty Larry Mann appeared to have things well under control.

But Pampa slammed him around in the eighth for five runs and the game and bring on Jim Reynolds.

Mack Hyde, the fourth Oiler hurler and eventual winner, got the Sox out in order in the ninth.

Jake Phillips then came up to strike the bottom of the ninth and hit the first ball Reynolds pitched back over the left centerfield fence, clearing lightpoles and all.

Pioneers Clip Lamesans, 4-2

LAMESA — (AP) — The surprising Clovis Pioneers clipped Lamesa 4-2 here last night in a fore a sparse crowd of 616 fans and handed the Lobos their fourth straight defeat.

Left-hander Dick Myers took the decision over Ted Wyberanc in a tight pitching duel. Myers held the Lobos to eight hits while notching his fourth win and Wyberanc gave up nine strikeouts in suffering his fifth loss.

Neither hurler received the best support as the Pioneers scored two unearned runs and the Lobos got one gift tally: Lamesa 000 000 210-4 9 1

Owls Transfer Games On Road
CORPUS CHRISTI — (AP) — The Gainesville Owls, scheduled to play two games in Longview Saturday and Sunday, may transfer other games before the season ends "but it will not become a floating ball club."

This statement was made by president Howard Green, of the Big State League last night. Green also said that the action in moving the two games Saturday and Sunday had been approved by the league directors.

The games to be played at Longview were scheduled at Gainesville with Tyler but have been moved because of poor attendance at the home park. Gainesville has been leading the league since from the start of the season but is at the bottom in attendance.

Dick Burnett, owner of the Dallas Eagles and operator of the Gainesville club as a farm of the Class AA team, was given authority earlier in the season to transfer games if attendance did not improve, according to Green. He would not say how many games might be transferred nor how many have been authorized by the league.

Top Golfers Fire In Blue Ribbon Open

MILWAUKEE — (AP) — Spectacular scoring, with a new course record likely, was expected at North Hills Country Club as the nation's top golfers opened play today in the $70,000 Blue Ribbon open tournament.

The 72-hole medal play meets ends Sunday, with the winning pro pocketing $2,750.

Sam Snead, the big name player, agreed, won't meet much on the 6,577-yard layout. The scorecard shows 35-38-71, but the course is noted more for its picturesque setting than for its golfing ability.

Another amateur, Phillip Scrutton of London, Eng., gave Snead a stir, too, yesterday, but in a different way. Scrutton arrived with only two clubs, a driver and putter.

"Is that your standard equipment?" he was asked.

"Oh, no," the young Britisher replied, "but you can't take much on an airplane, you know, and I couldn't bear to think of lugging the bloody bagful along."

"Besides," he added, "I like American clubs better. I'll buy a set over here."

Only Gene Sarazen and Bobby Jones ever won the U. S. and British Open championship the same year. Jones did it twice.

West Wins Star Tilt In Gulf
(By The Associated Press) The Gulf Coast League takes a day of rest today to recover and replay the All-Star Game staged last night at Corpus Christi. The west half of the league were celebrating while the eastern clubs were trying to figure out what happened.

The western clubs, Corpus Christi, Eastland, Brownsville and Laredo, whammed the East All-Stars 9-2 with big Bol Moyer, Corpus Christi first base man, sparking the attack with a grand slam home run in the third inning.

A record crowd of 4,828 fans largest crowd ever to see a game at Schepps Palms, home of the Aces, packed the stands to see the action. They were rewarded as the East All-Stars started off with a rush to build up a 2-0 lead before the West broke home. But after the big third it was all West the rest of the way.

Shorty Schroeder, Texas City outfielder, honored in the first to get the easterners off to a fast start. Consecutive doubles by Wallace Frank and Will Calvino, both of Galveston, made it 2-4 in the second.

Five West hurlers gave up only five hits and shut off the scoring through the last seven innings. A like number of eastern rounds men were louted for 12 hits by the victors.

Joe Walcott Becomes Oldest To Win Crown

Walcott Story Turns Out To Be Truly American One

By TED MEIER
NEW YORK — (AP) — From poverty to riches. That is the story behind the rise of Jersey Joe Walcott to the heavyweight championship of the world. It is one of the most amazing sagas in pugilistic annals, a rags to riches story in the truest sense of the word. Joe's fortunes changed when he became identified with his manager, Felix Bocchicchio, early in 1948. Bocchicchio, then promoter, was looking for hometown talent to boost his boxing shows. He remembered Walcott's fight with Roxie Allen 10 years earlier in 1938. It was that fight Walcott had been knocked down, but got up to knock Allen with a terrific punch. The sock made an indelible impression on Bocchicchio and when he became a promoter he sought out Jersey Joe. "I never forgot that fight with Allen," Felix explained. "You know Allen told me later that he didn't know what he was doing until the next day. Anyone who can punch like that always is dangerous." The words of a prophet, as it were. Joe, who had retired from boxing thoroughly disgusted with working as a caulker in the yards of the New York shipbuilding corporation, when Bocchicchio hunted him up. "His confidence was gone," Bocchicchio recalled. "I told him he wouldn't have to worry anymore about food for his family and he finally agreed to try it just once more. "We put Joe on a weekly payroll, fixed up his home and arranged with the neighborhood grocer to send him anything he needed. We restored his confidence. It made him a changed man." Life was rosy, thereafter, for Jersey Joe, the father of six children and a devout churchgoer, who usually imbibes nothing stronger than water, coffee, milk, or pop. Only once, Walcott recalled on one occasion, did he relax his no-drinking rule. That was in Cleveland in Feb. 1946, after he had won a surprise decision over Jimmy Bivins, then regarded as the duration heavyweight champion. The Bivins bout, following on the heels of Walcott's equally surprising victory over Joe Baksi, the nation's No. 2 heavyweight, paved the way for Jersey Joe's invasion of New York and his Dec. 1947, bout with Louie. That bout with Louie made Walcott an international figure. He knocked Louie down twice, but lost a 15-round split decision that caused a storm of controversy. Although he was knocked out in the 11th round by Louie in a return in June, 1948, he still was called by many the "uncrowned champion." All his life Walcott, who is listed as 37 years old, has kept in condition. Even during his various retirements before 1945 he did daily road work when most of his friends thought it was wasted effort. His clean living has paid off. Dr. J. M. Houston, chief physician of the Illinois Athletic Commission, declared two years ago before the first Charles - Walcott bout in Chicago: "I don't know for certain how old Walcott may be, but whatever his age, he is in perfect condition. He is an amazing specimen." Jersey Joe is not the bragging kind, either. He always has been thankful for his good fortune. As he said from the ring in Pittsburgh last night: "I want to thank God for helping me to win. I always said that if God's on your side you're bound to win sooner or later." In Joe's case it was later, but he is thankful and humble. "I want to be a worthy champion and try to help the youth of this country," he said last night. "I want to visit every church and Sunday school, where they want me to, and tell the young folks what it means to have God on your side."

Winner Was 5-1 Underdog At Start

By MURRAY ROSE
PITTSBURGH — (AP) — Jersey Joe Walcott, an amazing old man of the ring who wouldn't be licked, today held the world's heavyweight championship in an astounding climax to an almost unbelievable saga of the ring. Today plans were in motion for a September return meeting between the Brown Cinderella man and the beaten champion, Ezzard Charles, either in Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Atlantic City, or New York. Pittsburgh, with a record turnout of 28,272 for its first heavyweight title show at Forbes Field, looked the likely winner of the fistic plum. At 37, Jersey Joe last night became the oldest man ever to win boxing's most prized bauble when he flattened the superbly conditioned Charles in 85 seconds of the seventh round of their 15-round bout. A left hook to the jaw sent Charles to the canvas. It was the ancient Camden brawler's fifth crack at the championship since he was 25. He had won any other challenger ever got at the heavyweight crown — and the devout father of six said, "I thank God for the chance, and for helping me to win. "I'm thankful to everyone," said Walcott who had twice as many rings on his left hand as the younger man. "I'm going to be a fighting champion — and Charles will get his chance. "I got him with a left hook to the jaw," said Joe with a big grin on his face. "Only moments before tears coursed down his cheeks as he realized his glorious moment of triumph. "I just got hit," said the crest-fallen Charles in the stillness of a loser's dressing room. "Did I hear the count? I heard five — I guess," said Charles, who had a lump under his right eye and a cut on his lower lip that required two stitches. "I don't know what it was to me, but he seemed more aggressive than ever. He was taking chances with haymaker punches and leaving himself wide open but I couldn't seem to do anything about it. I guess I was waiting for later when he would tire out." "I could have gone on and on," said Walcott. "I kept banging him to the body early in the fight to bring his guard down. We had planned that all along. Then I was to throw my right to make him throw his right in return, and then he would open for a left counter. I got in some good left hooks earlier in the fight. After our Detroit fight I knew he was a target for a left hook. The moment came in the seventh when I got him with that hook. Few besides Walcott and his manager, slim, dapper Felix Bocchicchio, gave the slope-shouldered, shuffling old-timer a chance in his third bout with Charles, a very able but cautious champion who was defending his crown for the ninth time. Charles, who had whipped Walcott decisively twice before, was a nominal 5-1 favorite but there was hardly any betting. A perfect left hook dropped Charles on his face. The cramped tried to pull himself up at the count of nine. He partially raised himself and then toppled on his back. Walcott was ahead at the time of the knockdown. Referee Buck McTiernan had him in front, 5-1; Judge Charley Daggert — 5-1; subject of a violent Mintz protest that held up the fight 10 minutes and brought in a quart of ice cream — had Walcott ahead 4-1, while Judge Stewart (Red) Robinson had it even, 3-3. The AP scorecard had Walcott in the lead, 4-2. Up until the end, it had been a fight with each contestant waiting for the other to lead. Walcott's victory was a triumph for the years of poverty when he couldn't get any fights and was forced to go on relief. Old Joe will collect a check of about $50,000. Charles will receive about $100,000. The fight grossed $246,004, at the gate. Air rights brought in another $100,000. Mintz, meanwhile, found himself under suspension, pending an Aug. 7 hearing in Philadelphia, for his vociferous objections to Daggert, "an eastern official."

Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK — (AP) — When the National Collegiate A. A. meeting broke up in Dallas last January, Villanova's Bill Connolly, one of the leaders in the successful fight against the "sanity code," remarked: "One pleasant thing about this whole mess was getting to know Norton Pritchett. He's the nearest thing to Patrick Henry I ever met." "Cap" Pritchett, the University of Virginia athletic director, died Tuesday of a heart ailment. It might be said he was the real victim of the sanity code as well as the instrument of its destruction. It was Cap's sincere oratory that dealt the code its first blow and prevented the ouster of Virginia and other schools with athletes — a task that required more work, travel and conferences than most observers realized. In victory he was tired and downhearted, afraid that his defense of what he believed right might lead to the destruction of an organization in which he believed.

Texas Nags Win At Raton

RATON, N.M. — (Special) — Six Texas owned thoroughbreds galloped their way into the winner's circle at La Mesa park last week-end as the 1951 summer meet at Raton continued, and ten other Texas horses finished in the place and show spots. As a result, Texas and Oklahoma horses continue to wage a brisk duel for state honors on the La Mesa oval. Although he didn't have a winner last week, Les McMurry of Amarillo picked up two more purse checks as his sprinter, Cricket J., finished second in a 300-yard quarter horse race, and his distance runner, Big Mama, took third in a one-mile event. Texas horsemen whose entries were winners included S. D. Hays, Jr., of Dickens with Westy Rambler; O. Huston of Throckmorton with Smokey Smith; A. B. Hightower of Sonora with Patriotic L.; T. Sanders of Hereford with Cecelia; Pete Finley of Eldorado with Snuffy Ann, and the Circle H Stable of Tenaha with Little Music. Of the group Cecelia and Snuffy Ann were long shot winners, paying $23.90 and $27, respectively. Other Texans whose horses were in the money last week were W. E. Brown of Spearman; G. E. Murphy of Perryton; A. J. Eastman of Wichita Falls; W. Epps Brown of Spearman; J. T. Hunt of Sonora; L. Speer of Dickens; Ben Crowder of Memphis. Racing continues at La Mesa park each Saturday and Sunday through September 9 with 12 races each day and first post at 1:15 p.m.

Eagles Finally Overcome Buffs

DALLAS — (AP) — Dallas finally clipped Houston, 5-2, and that clipped the Buffs' Texas League lead to just nine full games. But by winning Dallas stayed tied with Beaumont, 3-1 winner over Tulsa, for second place as San Antonio dropped into fourth on a 5-0 licking at the hands of Fort Worth last night. Oklahoma City took Shreveport, 5-1, and that pulled the Indians into a sixth place tie with Tulsa. The teams switch sites tonight and the confusion over every spot in the first division except first place could be straightened out during the next three days. Dallas moves over to Shreveport, Fort Worth is at Beaumont, Oklahoma City at Houston and Tulsa at San Antonio. Hal Erickson set Houston down with four hits and his Dallas mates exploded for three runs in the ninth inning after two were out to win. Erickson started the rally with a single. Doubles by Herb Conyers and Bob Collins kept it going. Johnny MacKinson tossed a five-hitter at Tulsa as the Roughnecks swept the series. Pete Mondorf won his tenth game and fifth shutout in blanking San Antonio. Rudy Faynich stopped Shreveport on five hits.

Baugh Leads Skins To Camp

LOS ANGELES, Calif. — (Special) — Led by the ageless and incomparable Sammy Baugh, forty-nine candidates for the 1951 Redskins football team today assembled at Occidental College where tomorrow they will begin training for the National Football League campaign. Two members were absent — Leon Heath, Oklahoma's great backfield star, and Walt Yowarsky, Kentucky's sensational line-man who stole the honors in an FCOV camp and Yowarsky is completing summer school work. Redskins right after the Chicago at Kentucky. They will join the All-Star game which will be played August 17. Three other Redskins rookies who have been named to the All-Star game — Jim Steton, Wake Forest tackle; Dick Campbell, Wyoming back; and Johnny Papit, Virginia's record-breaking ball-carrier — will be in camp only four days before flying back to Chicago to join the collegians in their drills for the Cleveland Browns. Included in the group who were outfitted with Burgundy and Gold uniforms this afternoon and will begin drilling at 9:30 a.m. (PDT) tomorrow were 23 rookies and 23 veterans from last year's club, plus one player making a comeback and two who played with other NFL teams last fall. Head Coach Herman Ball plans to hold two workouts daily for at least the first weeks of training, then reduce the daily activities to one workout. The Redskins will train at Occidental until August 29, playing two games in California against the Los Angeles Rams (August 15) and the San Francisco Forty-Niners (August 19). Then the Redskins will head home, playing in AMARILLO against the Lions (August 31), in Birmingham against the Giants (September 8), in Shreveport (September 14), against the Yanks (September 14), in Kansas City against the Bears (September 19).

All-Star Tilt Here On Sunday

Sunday afternoon there will be a playoff game at Oiler Park between the West Texas All Stars, formerly the Pampa Black Oilers, and the Oklahoma All Stars. Last week the two clubs played a tie game at Memphis, with the game being stopped by darkness in the fourth inning. The score was 8-8. Game time Sunday will be 3:30 p.m. Sammy Baugh, the great football player with the Washington Redskins, was hurt on the first play of the first game he played as a professional. The USGA sponsors two biennial international matches with the British Isles the Walker Cup for men and the Curtis Cup for women.

GOOD MAN AT THE PLATE

The Chanute Field (Ill.) baseball team claims the title of "biggest, easter in baseball" for its catcher, Pvt. First Class Robert Flynn of Boston. On Wednesday, July 11, at Wright Patterson Air Field in Dayton, O., Bob set a new Air Force record. He ate seven hamburgers, five baked potatoes, the usual salad and two vegetables, a half loaf of bread and butter and 22 pear halves for dessert. Then, since Flynn still was hungry, he topped it off with two milk shakes and a quart of ice cream. "Wonder if it could have been Bob's girl friend we overheard in a bus the other day explaining: 'Yeah, he eats three breakfasts, two lunches, and three dinners — always gets in three chow lines.'"

Fight Sets "No Policy" On TV

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — Television brought boxing back into millions of American homes with the Ezzard Charles-Jersey Joe Walcott heavyweight championship fight — but Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, said emphatically today that "no policy has been set." Furthermore, on the one and possibly two big September fights being planned, Norris declared "we will not consider anything below $200,000 for television and radio rights. If we can't get at least that we will go back to theatre television." Television manufacturers paid $100,000 for the Charles-Walcott rights after home sets were blacked out on two big summer fights — the Joe Louis - Lee Savold and Bob Murphy - Jake LaMotta matches. Both of these were sold to theatres in big cities outside New York with the television image blown up to screen size. "The Charles - Walcott fight does not set a pattern for television," said Norris. "The TV manufacturers came up with a good proposition and we were happy to accept it." Television network officials enthusiastically claimed a potential audience of 60,000,000 for the Charles-Walcott fight. The fight covered the TV network area with 49 stations tied together. Pittsburgh and nearby Johnstown, Pa., were blacked out.

FUNNY BUSINESS by HERSCHBERGER

IT'S DREADFUL! I— I THINK I'M GOING TO FAINT!
HOLD EVERYBODY! MRS. RAMBLE! SOME SQUARE WAS PEERING IN THAT WINDOW!
QUICK, MORTON! GET HER TO OFFER A REWARD BEFORE I CATCH THIS CROOK!
SHE DID DRIVE HIM NUTS!
I'VE GOT HIM!
I'D SAY IT WAS MORE THE REVERSE!
I SORTA WONDERED WHY THE FUR COAT ON SUCH A BALMY NIGHT!

Britons Wary Of Move By Soviet Union LONDON (AP) - Responsible British government officials are viewing new Communist talk of "traditional Russian - British friendship" as a coolly calculated move to wean Britain from the North Atlantic pact and split the Anglo - American alliance.

This was the opinion they expressed concerning Moscow's new English language publication, "News," and the article in its first issue claiming a historical tradition on friendly relations between Russia and Britain.

The article, by Soviet historian Eugene Tarle, said "there is no European power with whom Russia has fought more often than with Britain and none with whom Britain has fought less often than with Russia." Tarle dismissed the Crimean War between Britain and Russia as "entirely unnecessary."

Observers here also viewed Tarle's article as a bid for support of the Labor Party's left-wing minority, led by former cabinet member Aneurin Bevan, which protests that Britain's rearmament program is needlessly expensive and expansive.

In this connection, British officials have been reported to believe that there is no "spot on the globe where the interests of the Soviet Union and Britain clash to such an extent" as to cause a war.

"The last thing we are thinking of is an attack upon Britain or America or any of our neighbors," Tarle declared.

The contention by Bevan's faction that Washington has far too much to say about British government policies also was echoed by Tarle, who wrote:

"The British government of today demonstratively proclaims its readiness to take an active part in any attack the transatlantic power (the United States) may decide to launch against the Soviet Union, whenever it considers it opportune and convenient."

"Why doesn't it make sense? Charity asked warily. 'He's a gambler isn't he?'"

"How well do you know Doug?" Charity asked abruptly at the dice on the ground. "Not very well, I guess."

"I didn't think so. It's this way, Doug. He's not a gambler. Think he is, but he's not. He's a farmer, who got out West. He ought to settle down and grow things."

"CHARITY laughed mischievously. 'Are you trying to tell me that Douglas Kent would be happier on a ranch than gambling?'"

"Sure he would. He likes animals, has a way with them, too; and you ought to see him as I've seen him, when he comes unexpectedly to a field that's

Camera News

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures
Several thousand photographers from every section of the country gathered at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York recently and hardly a camera was in sight. These were professional photographers and they left their view cameras back in their studios. The convention of the Photographers' Association of America was under way. Many of the most famous credit lines in photography were present to explain their methods, show their pictures and present their picture-taking philosophy in an effort to help their fellow photographers.

An outstanding feature was a complimentary print exhibit of personal favorites by famous photographers. "This is the greatest collection of artistic pictures I have ever seen at any photographer's convention," was the comment of Jack Sullivan, Art Director for Anaco. "I think it should be kept as a permanent collection and sent around the country as a traveling exhibition. There isn't a serious photographer in the country who couldn't benefit from a look at them."

Well represented in this collection was Yousuf Karsh, eminent Canadian portraitist, who was also the guest speaker at the banquet.

William Mortensen, prolific photographic author now teaching at Laguna Beach, Cal., presented a section of photos displaying unusual craftsmanship. His personally perfected metal-chrome process for color reproduction is taught only to students since it cannot satisfactorily be explained by written explanation, according to Mortensen.

There were also pictures by such well-known photographers as Philippe Halsman, A. Audrey Bodine, Adolph Fassbender, Paul Lindwood Gittings, Walter Scott Shinn and Alan Fontaine. An international flavor was added with selections by Francis C. K. Wu of Hong Kong and Maurice Tabard, the Parisian modernist, who also gave a final night talk on "Dynamic Symmetry in Eight-Ten Proportions."

The opening talk by Walter Scott Shinn, a name in child photography for more than 30 years, gave a few pointers on "Child Psychology in Portraiture." One of his most appealing pictures showed a little girl hugging her pet dog, almost as big as she was. Shinn revealed that she was a shy little lass and very conscious of the camera, so at one point he turned to her and said in disbelief, "Aw, come now, you don't mean to tell me that you love this big mutt!" Her answer was the action he was waiting for.

Shinn said that overcoming some children's fears was the first problem. After one experience he never wore a white sunmer suit. "The youngster thought I was a doctor," he explained. "And I never move the child myself in changing poses when they are in that state of mind. Let the parent do it, and the children feel secure. Gain their confidence, play games with them, have an unusual toy to hand them and you'll have no trouble with them."

One down-to-earth, small-town studio photographer had a question. "What do you do when all your games, all your wiles and all your patience has no effect on a child?" "That does happen," conceded Shinn, "but my first photographic job was on a newspaper and I was taught, 'You've got to come back with a picture!'"

Well, with a child like that, I wear 'em out. Sometimes I have to wear out parents, too, but somewhere between the points where a child is too exuberant and active to photograph, and too tired when they fall asleep, there's one normal period where I can photograph them. I know that point is coming and I am ready to shoot when it comes. It can happen. It does happen. I've done it."
