Pasteur's cru studies frightening even now. In one of them he and two ssistants dragged a mad bull dog, foaming at the mouth, from collected some of this animal's saliva by drawing it into a glass tube, the other end of which was held between Pasteur's lips.

But this saliva contained virus which causes rabies and Pasteur worked on it until he had something which he thought would do as a vaccine.

After several years the time of trial came and one can only imagine the agony which Pasteur must have suffered in trying to decide whether he should use this vaccine for the first time. The patient was a nine-year-old Alsatian boy who had been bitten two days before by rabid dog.

The poor child had received fourteen bites and was in great pain. He was surely deomed to horrible death if nothing could be done. The boy, Joseph Meister, was

"The Way To Security"

I am continuing to quote and comment on Henry Link's "The Way to Security". Under the chapter "The Mature Character" he asks "What are the principles that make character?". Then he quotes the Ten Command ments:

"I am the Lord thy God . . . Thou shalt have no other gods before me.
"Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image . . . Thou shalt not bow down thyself to them, nor serve them. Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain. "Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy. Six days shalt thou bor, and do all thy work.

"Honour thy father and thy labor, and do all thy

"Thou shalt not kill.

"Thou shalt not commit adult-Thou shalt not steal.

"Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor.
"Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's house, thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife, nor his manservant, nor his maidservant, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor anything that is thy neighbor's.'

Then he quotes Jesus' summary of the Commandments-namely: "And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might.

Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. On these two commandments hang all the law and the propets."

Then he says:
"The failure to teach and to reiterate them on every level of education results in crime, race riots. strike violence, mob coercion, and attacks on individuals and their belongings."

But how can tax supported schools that are based on initiating force teach these commandments? They cannot teach them because they are violating them. They are covering the energy of those people who do not believe in majority rule education. They are legalized theft. They cannot teach any moral principles. That is the reason we are so badly confused because the youth are being trained by men who do not seem to have any concept of the meaning of the Command-ments and the Golden Rule.

Dr. Link says:
"Unfortunately these principles, along with principles of living gen-erally, have fallen into disrepute in the field of education."

Worshiping the Doctrine of Change "Our "progressive education" is always trying something new just because it is new. Dr. Link explains in this manner: "Among the reasons for the decline in the emphasis on principles is the doctrine of change. This doctrine, heavily emphasized in recent

HE trust of a little child is one of life's high goods. Each of us has been the better for the unquestioning faith of one of these little ones. To betray such confidence is to maim and twist the human spirit, perhaps beyond recovery. Shall we be worthy of childhood's trust, worthy in word and in deed, worthy in the example and the instruction we offer, worthy in the direction we give to young feet? We must be trustworthy, for their sakes. . . We must walk hand in hand.

EQUALLY as important is our trust, our confidence in the possibilities wrapped up in every new life. The little girl, the tiny boy, each merits our meditation and our imagination to look into the future and dream of what this life may be and do. God has made them worthy of our highest hope; they will go beyond what most of us can believe, surely beyond where we have come.

I HIS eager mind, with its eternal questing to know, will learn all that we can share with him and more; he will solve problems that were too difficult for his parents. Give him a chance; help him to believe and to dream; fill his teeming brain with everything we have to offer; then trust his own thinking. He will be the master of the new age which he will help to build.

THE immortal spirit or soul will grow into a rich person with capacity for loving and for creating. Encourage him to read great biographies, teach him to sing our noblest songs, share with him our reverent prayers, acquaint him with high souls that pass his way, lead him into the church. Who can tell the grace and the nobility that lie hidden within the soul? It doesn't matter so much where he may be today; it matters much that we shall show him where he may go tomorrow. Trust the aspiring soul. And trust the great God who is creator of body, mind and soul. Who knows what you and the child and God may accomplish through this life? Walk hand in hand with him.

On Christ, the Solid Rock, I Stand

A cavinet maker takes up writing

"On Christ, the solid rock, I stand; all other ground is sinking sand." That line ran over and over in the mind of a 34-year-old London cabinet maker as he walked toward his woodworking shop.

Edward Mote was happy. He had learned his trade; had worked at it for wages and now he ran a woodworking business of his own. Always busy, Mote spent his spare hours writing articles for London periodicals. And, now and then, when a key line would hit him, he tried his hand at writing verse. But most of all Edward Mote was happy because his once confused mind was settled on his belief in God. He had been brought up in a home where the Bible was not permitted and his playground had been the streets of London. But after he became a man he attended Trottenham Court Road Chapel where sermons of the renowned John Hyatt set his mind at ease.

Edward Mote's cabinet shop ran itself that day

Hyatt set his mind at ease.

Edward Mote's cabinet shop ran itself that day in 1834. He had a theme for a poem and he wanted to get it on paper. Closeted in his little office he wrote the caption "Gracious Experience of a Christian" and, as he put it, "In the day I had four verses complete and wrote them off." The Sunday following Mote went to the home of a minister friend whose wife was near death. Groping for words, the cabinet maker thought of his verses. He sang them for the dying woman and, at the conclusion of each verse, added the line "On Christ, the solid rock, I stand; all other ground is sinking sand." It was only then that Mote realized he had written a hymn. He had a thousand copies printed for friends; a hymnal picked it up and "The Solid Rock" has been sung ever since.

Mote gave up his cabinst business, entered the Baptist ministry and at 35 built a church at his own expense. When his congregation offered to deed the property to him he said, "I only want the pulpit." At 77, in 1874, he looked up at friends at his bedside and said, "The truths I have preached will do to die upon." And so passed a man who had been reared in a Godless home, learned an honorable trade and gave it up for the ministry but whose memory will live for generations because he took time off from his work one day to write.

My hope is built on nothing loss. Then Janu' blood and righteenesse I dare not trust the sweetest frame, But wholly loss on Jesus' name.

When darkness tooms to hide His face I rest on His unchanging grace; In every high and stormy gale, May auchor holds within the value

His cath, His covenant, His blood, Support me to the whelming flood; When all around my roul gloor way, He then is all my hope and stay.

When He shall come with trumpet some Oh, may I then in Him he found; Dressed in His righteousness alone, Faultless to stand before the throne.

On Christ, the solid rock, I stand; All other ground to sinking sand.
