Nixon, Gromyko Confer On Trade, Other Issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon conferred today at the White House with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, then arranged to fly the Soviet official to his Camp David retreat for an evening working dinner.

Their subjects were expected to range from treatment of Russian Jews to trade matters to East-West relations in Europe and possibly Vietnam.

Sitting in on Nixon's morning session with the foreign minister were Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Henry A. Kissinger, the President's assistant for national security affairs, as well as Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin.

Camp David, in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains some 65 miles north of Washington, was the site of a 1959 summit conference between the then President Dwight D. Eisenhower and the then Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. Out of their talks emerged a brief era of good feeling that was labeled "The Spirit of Camp David."

Administration officials said the Soviet foreign minister and the President would deal largely with two matters—commercial relations and the European question.

Tied to the commercial negotiations is the question of Soviet treatment of its Jewish population, an issue assuming increasing importance in the current American presidential election campaign.

There is strong sentiment in Congress to link any new U.S.-Soviet trade agreement to a Soviet concession on the large exit taxes levied on emigrating Jews.

The possible agreements are under negotiation in Washington. They involve settlement of the Russian World War II lend-lease debt, a maritime accord and an over-all commercial treaty.

The maritime talks, conducted on the U.S. side by Secretary of Commerce Peter Peterson, center on the percentage of trade between the two nations that would be carried in American ships.

The lend-lease talks deal with the $11 billion owed the United States since World War II. The price settlement is said by sources to be about $500 million with the outstanding questions the terms and length of the repayment.

The Soviets, however, have demanded most-favored-nation status by the United States in exchange for the lend-lease settlement.

It is in these negotiations that some members of Congress are trying to force the Soviet Union to ease its exit tax, which can reach up to $30,000 for some Jews attempting to leave.

Nixon and Kissinger have made it a point to keep Moscow informed on the Vietnam situation, and the two are expected to discuss with Gromyko the national-security adviser's recent secret talks in Paris with North Vietnamese peace negotiators.

The Russian foreign minister also was expected to go over the situation concerning the second round of strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) and there was a possibility that the and Rogers would exchange the instruments of ratification of the earlier SALT accords.

County Solons Vote To Continue Negotiations On Project In Area

Members of the Gray County Commissioners Court took a two-way look at the future of the area at today's meeting and voted to continue negotiations that could lead to an $800,000 annual payroll for the county.

Commissioner Don Hinton revealed that he had been involved in negotiations with Western Beef Packing Co. for a facility to be located at Perry-Lefors field.

A representative of the Amarillo-owned firm explained that the new facility would actually be two: cooler-freezer storage for processed beef representing 800 head of cattle and a rendering and boning plant to make pet food from dead animals coming in from area feed lots.

The two units would comprise 20,000 square feet located in the northeast corner of the airport complex facing Price Rd. Total cost is estimated at $400,000.

Western Beef operates packing plants at Pampa and Amarillo employing a total of 500 persons (76 at Pampa); eight feed lots in Texas, New Mexico and California, a 250,000 head cattle-buying station plus other diversified interests.

Members of the panel voted to continue negotiations rather than a tentative approval of the project.

In approving negotiations, commissioners recognized that the economic future of the county lies in the agri-business potential and that Perry-Lefors field offered a possible industrial development potential.

In other business relative to the airport, the commissioners voted approval of a lease renewal for the Cabot Corp. facilities at the field.

Members of the court canvassed the McLean-Alanreed school merger election as required by law.

Other business was the routine payment of salaries and bills and transfer of funds relative to this part of the operation of county business.

Senators Consider Move Shelving Welfare Reform

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today considers a move to shelve welfare reform for two years while tests are run on three plans for aiding families with dependent children.

Adoption of that amendment probably would set the stage for Senate passage of the Social Security-welfare bill this week.

That would leave next week expected to be the last for the 92nd Congress, for a Senate-House conference to come up with a final version of the bill.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Finance Committee and author of the two-year-test amendment, said he doubts the Senate is ready to vote for either of three major welfare-reform bills at this time.

Disagreement over aid to families with dependent children has been the principal cause of a 15-month delay in Senate consideration of the Social Security-welfare bill.

Long is a chief sponsor of a tough "workfare" plan, adopted by the Finance Committee, to require many parents in welfare families to accept jobs or lose all benefits.

The delaying amendment up for consideration today, introduced by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., calls for tests of Workfare, the family-assistance plan espoused by President Nixon and adopted by the House, and a liberalized version of the assistance plan, pushed by Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn.

Ribicoff has said he wants a separate vote on his proposal and has introduced an amendment embodying it.

But he, too, said he expected that in the end the Senate would turn to a test of all the plans.

The Nixon plan calls for a guaranteed annual income for welfare families and aid for the first time for the working poor.

The Senate Finance Committee conservatives, a majority on the panel, have never been willing to accept these provisions.

US-Russ Space Venture Will Last Three Days

MOSCOW (AP) — A veteran Russian cosmonaut discloses that the first Soviet-American manned space venture will last three days and include a 48-hour linkup of the spaceships and an exchange of crews.

If it is successful it could be the forerunner of a joint U.S.-Soviet expedition to the planet Mars by the end of the century, Vladimir Shatalov, commander of two Soviet manned flights said.

Shatalov, 45, disclosed in a report released Sunday by Tass, the Soviet news agency, that plans for the first joint manned space effort call for an American Apollo-spacecraft with three astronauts and a Russian Soyuz capsule with two crew members to be linked as a "single spacecraft" for two days while the spacemen perform joint scientific experiments.

two years to map out the historic adventure.

Members of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, NASA, and the Soviet Academy of Sciences were believed to have given the green light on the joint flight earlier this year. Shatalov's disclosures apparently meant both teams were well advanced on the subsequent planning stage.

"A Soyuz spaceship manned by two cosmonauts will first be launched," he said. "In seven and a half hours, an Apollo spacecraft, manned by three astronauts, will be launched from Cape Kennedy.

"Twenty-four hours later, the Apollo will approach the Soyuz ship and a linkup will be performed. The system formed by the linkup will then be operated as a single spacecraft.

"For two days, spacemen will transfer from one ship to the other," Shatalov continued. "Scientific and technical experiments will be made and there will be television transmissions to earth.

"At the end of the third day, the spaceships will be undocked and will proceed to land on their respective territories."

The two spaceships will be fitted with compatible lighting and communications systems for the rendezvous and docking.

The tricky docking procedure has been the principal obstacle in planning the joint flight.

U.S. Planes And Red Troops Step Up Air, Ground Strikes

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese officials reported today heavy blows by U.S. warplanes against North Vietnam's Hanoi-Haiphong corridor and 100 enemy attacks across South Vietnam, the biggest upsurge in more than two months.

U.S. Navy pilots said they left a shipyard in flames on the southwestern edge of Haiphong.

Navy and Air Force jets flew more than 250 strikes across North Vietnam Sunday, hitting supply lines, depots, barracks and other military facilities, the U.S. Command said.

North Vietnam claimed it shot down six American planes. The U.S. Command did not list any losses for Sunday's raids, but said in a delayed report that an Air Force F105 was downed by a surface-to-air missile last Friday 43 miles west of Hanoi. The two crewmen were listed as missing.

In Thailand, terrorists fired 36 mortars into the U.S. air base at Ubon, 300 miles northeast of Bangkok, one of eight bases in Thailand from which air strikes are launched against North Vietnam. U.S. spokesmen in Bangkok said there was light damage to a radio tower. They said there was no damage to planes and no Americans were hurt. Security guards drove a terrorist sabotage team from the base area.

The U.S. cruiser Newport News left the Vietnam war zone and steamed to the Philippines with the bodies of 19 sailors killed in the worst U.S. naval disaster this year.

Ten other men in the crew of 1,300 were injured by the explosion in an eight-inch gun turret that rocked the 21,000-ton warship early Sunday as it shelled the northern coast of South Vietnam.

The Navy was investigating the blast, described as an accident.

Maj. Gen. Alexander M. Haig, a special representative of President Nixon, conferred with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu for 2½ hours today in a wide review of the political and military situation in Indochina.

A spokesman for the U.S. embassy said he did not know the substance of the talks, but sources said Haig planned to give Thieu a full report on the secret negotiations in Paris between Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger and North Vietnamese diplomats.

Haig is due to return to Washington Wednesday to report to Kissinger, and Nixon on his conference with Thieu, sources said. North Vietnamese insistence on ousting Thieu from a future coalition government in South Vietnam is one of the stumbling blocks at the Paris talks.

The enemy attacks occurred during a 24-hour period ending Monday evening. South Vietnamese military headquarters said. A spokesman, Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, said it was the highest number since last July 25 when 103 were reported.

Hien said he was unable to explain the sudden upsurge of attacks after a week in which Communist-led action fell to its lowest level since the start of the offensive last March 30.

Striking in an arc ranging from 60 miles north of Saigon to 20 miles east and 40 miles southeast, Communist-led forces heavily shelled a government ranger unit, attacked a convoy moving on a secondary highway and blew up a fuel tank and pipeline. Moving south into the Mekong Delta, the Communists cut Highway 4, the rice supply line to Saigon, by blowing up a small bridge 15 miles southeast of Can Tho, 80 miles below Saigon.

U.S. B52 bombers kept up their raids in the Saigon region, hitting within 17 to 30 miles of the capital against troop positions and staging areas.

In Cambodia, government troops Sunday cleared Highway 2 all the way down to Takeo, 40 miles south of Phnom Penh, but Communist troops again cut Route 5, Cambodia's vital "Rice Road," the high command reported Monday.

House Showdown Vote On Tax Move Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House today contended the Democratic-controlled Congress will, in effect, be voting this week "on whether there will be higher taxes next year."

John D. Ehrlichman, President Nixon's assistant for domestic policy, told newsmen the showdown will come on a House vote on an administration proposal to impose a $250-billion ceiling on federal spending during the current fiscal year that ends next June 30.

Declaring that Nixon "sees this vote as critically important," Ehrlichman said congressional approval of the ceiling would give Congress members "assurance against a tax increase."

Under questioning, Ehrlichman acknowledged that such an assurance would expire with any ceiling come June 30, the end of the fiscal year.

But Caspar Weinberger, director of the Office of Management and Budget, chimed in to suggest that the impact of the ceiling on tax policy would extend beyond June 30 because the administration could "get a good start on doing something" about the budget for the following bookkeeping year.

In the absence of a ceiling, Weinberger foresaw a continuing momentum toward ever-higher outlays that would be difficult to control.

Ehrlichman and Weinberger emerged from a meeting of Nixon and Republican congressional leaders to make their pitch for the controversial spending ceiling.

State Department Wins Fight On Foreign Economic Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Department officials say they are winning their fight to keep the Commerce and Treasury departments from taking over the major role in U.S. foreign economic policy.

Already faced with the loss of much decision-making power in international political matters, the State Department has been hard-pressed by the Senate as well as Commerce and Treasury to hang on to its control over overseas-trade policy.

But officials at State now say they are much more relaxed and indicate confidence a study nearing completion by the Office of Management and Budget will recommend a major decision-making role for the department in economic affairs.

The OMB review began six months ago after Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., introduced a bill to establish an "International Commerce Service" within the Commerce Department that would effectively take all trade matters out of State's hands.

In addition, the Treasury Department, particularly when run by John Connally, indicated it wanted control over foreign economic policy.

And there was a sign the White House was interested in possibly setting up an independent agency to operate in the trade area much as Henry Kissinger's National Security Council now runs foreign policy generally.

Public Hearing On Inspection Of Meat Set

Representative Tom Christian of Claude announced today that the Interim Study Committee on Meat Inspection will hold public hearings at the M.K. Brown Memorial and Civic Center in the Heritage Room at 10 a.m. Friday, Oct. 6.

All interested citizens are invited to attend. Those wishing to testify before the committee should contact Rep. Tom Christian, Route 2, Figure 3 Ranch in Claude, Texas or phone (512) 475-3867 in Austin.

The committee members are: Representatives Don Adams of Jasper, chairman; Gib Lewis of Fort Worth; Raul Lomoria of Edinburg; Tim Von Dohlen of Goliad; and Tom Christian.

Dr. A.B. Rich, director of the Division of Veterinary Public Health, will testify along with other interested citizens.

Under provisions of H.S.R. 50, passed by the 62nd Regular Session, the committee will report its findings and recommendations with drafts of any proposed legislation to the next regular session which will convene in January.

Seven men, including two former White House aides, have been indicted in connection with the break-in.

—Mrs. McGovern declared that the rights of privacy, of free speech, and "to speak out privately in our own homes" are at stake.

—Mrs. McGovern's appearance Sunday was the first time the wife of a presidential candidate had ever been interviewed on NBC's "Meet the Press."

—Despite the wide gap in the pre-election polls, she predicted McGovern will win the election, noting that he has "overcome almost insurmountable odds" in his political career.

—Mrs. McGovern said that within a few days her husband will spell out a specific plan for ending the Vietnam war. "It will not be a secret plan, but a very public one," she added.

Mrs. McGovern Assails Nixon Administration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eleanor McGovern has called the Nixon administration "the most corrupt regime that we have had in recent American history," citing the break-in at Democratic national headquarters as an example.

"I think this is a regime where we have lost freedoms and we're not aware of it," said the wife of George McGovern, the Democratic presidential candidate.

She said "that's the lesson of the Watergate," referring to the break-in and alleged attempt to bug Democratic offices in the Watergate Hotel in Washington.

If the administration can bug the private office of another major party, she said, then it may well bug other offices or even homes.

San Francisco Officers Nab Scores On Narcotics Charges

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Some 40 persons on a chartered motor yacht were booked on narcotics charges after attempting to dump the drugs over the side before arresting officers came aboard, authorities say.

Inspector Don Daniels said there were more than 300 passengers and six undercover narcotics inspectors aboard the Harbor Emperor, a three-decker bay cruiser, when it tied up at Fisherman's Wharf following a three-hour party late Sunday.

More than two dozen uniformed officers streamed aboard the vessel to make the arrests amid cries of "It's a bust!" and a pell-mell scramble as passengers tried to get rid of the drugs, Daniels said.

Cocaine and a variety of other drugs later were found aboard the vessel, he said. Daniels said those arrested were booked for investigation of a "myriad" of narcotics charges, most involving possession of marijuana.

He said San Francisco and San Mateo authorities had been alerted that a San Mateo County narcotics dealer had chartered the Harbor Emperor, after selling tickets for the party cruise in several nearby communities.

Undercover narcotics inspectors, some of them dressed as deckhands, mingled with the crowd, which enjoyed rock music and alcoholic beverages in addition to drugs, Daniels said. The officers were furnished with narcotics but it was decided to delay the arrests until police reinforcements could be summoned when the vessel docked, he said.

All aboard were briefly detailed until police could sort out the persons eventually charged, he said.

State Legislators Begin Third Week Of Session

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas legislators begin their third week in special session today with a full hearing schedule and growing confusion over the competitive insurance rate issue.

Hearings were planned this afternoon on a new subject which Gov. Preston Smith added to the session's agenda: a state commission to finance, build and operate a deep-water, off-shore "superport" to handle giant tankers.

More hearings also were scheduled on the session's initial reason for being—competitive house and auto insurance rates to replace the present uniform rating system. Sen. Oscar Mauzy of Dallas sent Smith a preliminary draft over the weekend of a substitute for the governor's competitive rate bill and offered to discuss it with the governor's staff.

An afternoon hearing was set today in the House on a competitive rate bill by Rep. Jim Clark of Houston which would prohibit rates based on losses incurred in various parts of the state. Instead, Clark wants statewide rates for each category of car insurance and each class of driver.

Also set for a House committee hearing today was a bill repealing a 1971 law requiring farm trailers to have brakes.

Mauzy criticized the House Insurance Committee Sunday on the radio-television panel show, "Capital Eye." He said the "insurance lobby absolutely owns the House Insurance Committee... I'm not at all optimistic about what the House committee is going to do. I am optimistic about what we are going to do in the Senate." But Mauzy said he doubted any competitive rating bill will pass. Sen. Mike McKool of Dallas, Senate sponsor of competitive rate legislation, also said he was doubtful such a bill could get through the House.

Poll Shows McGovern Gains Points

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The latest Gallup Poll shows Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern inching up on President Nixon, but still 28 percentage points behind. The survey released Sunday showed an improvement of six points for McGovern over the previous survey.

Taken Sept. 22-25, the new survey said 61 per cent of the respondents favored Nixon and 33 per cent McGovern. One per cent preferred other candidates and 5 per cent were undecided. The narrowest spread between the two candidates was in the industrial North, where Nixon's lead was 59 to 36 per cent.

LA Woman Booked For Her Attempt To Throw Infant

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 19-year-old woman who police said threw her infant daughter from a second story floor has been booked for attempted murder.

The baby, 2-month-old Nannie Little, was caught unhurt by a neighbor who stood below. She is being cared for at a Department of Public Social Services home.

Police said the woman, Joyce Denise Flood, told the manager of her apartment house that neither the baby's father nor she wanted the child.

Phone Rate Hike Okayed In Clarendon

Clarendon approved a 10 per cent hike in telephone rates last week but did not act on a request to increase natural gas rates.

The City Council approved the request after General Telephone requested a 28 per cent rate increase. The company agreed to the 10 per cent rate after contacting Mayor H. M. Breedlove. Lone Star Natural Gas Co. officials informed the council they are forced to seek an increase in the gas rate because of a scarcity of the natural gas and increased costs. The council has delayed action on the increased gas rate. Telephone officials in Amarillo, Borger, Plainview and other area cities have also requested rate increases, with reports that Pampa may also soon have a similar request.

Fisher Offered $10,000 For 10-Minute Air Time

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bobby Fischer, comedian? It happened in beautiful downtown Burbank Sunday night as the world's chess champion, matched one-liners with Bob Hope for the comedian's Oct. 5 NBC special.

Fischer, who won the title from Russian Boris Spassky in Iceland last month, earned $10,000 for about 10 minutes of air time and proved himself an able comic.

Among the gags: Hope: "Bobby, I heard that all through your match, you were given advice from Henry Kissinger! Is that true?" Fischer: "That's right."

Hope: "Did it help?" "It will if I ever meet Jill St. John," said Fischer in reference to the actress who has been one of the presidential adviser's frequent dates.

The 29-year-old Fischer showed few of the concerns for arrangements that he displayed during his championship match with Spassky.

Rehearsing a comedy match with Hope, he turned the chess table around and adjusted the time clock, but expressed no concern over the lighting and television cameras, two problem areas that highlighted his match with Spassky.

"We didn't know until Friday whether Bobby was really coming," Hope remarked. "American Airlines called me to say that he had missed two planes and then finally they reported that the door had closed on a plane and he was inside it."

Fischer arrived late for rehearsal because he had overslept. But he seemed to have his lines well rehearsed and delivered them in a firm, Brooklyn-accented voice.

"Bob, you don't believe all that publicity about my being temperamental, do you?" said Fischer in another exchange with Hope.

Hope: "No... and when can I get my dressing room back?"

Hope: "How did you and Boris Spassky get along?"

Fischer: "He's a nice guy, Bob, but we spoke very little to each other. In the morning he'd say, 'You're late,' — and in the evening, I'd say, 'checkmate!'"

Pair Nabbed On Charge Of Quadruple Killings

BRANDON, Fla. (AP) — A young divorcee and her two children watched helplessly as a gunman killed four persons including her parents and brother in a Brandon farmhouse, police say.

Police said the assailant fired one shot through a screen window early Sunday, killing one person, and then burst into the farmhouse and shot three others.

Evelyn Sanders Johnson and her two children were spared. The victims were identified as John T. Sanders, 50; his wife, Catherine, 37; their 15-year-old son, Earl, and a friend of the family, James Richmond Bridges, 28, who was shot as he lay in bed, police said.

Police said they arrested Thomas Turner Chambers, 32, of Gadsden, Ala., and 21-year-old Robert Harris of Largo, after a high speed car chase. Both men were charged with first degree murder.

A neighbor, Mrs. Mary Davis, said Mrs. Johnson came running from the house, crying hysterically and yelling, "They're all dead. They're all dead."

Police said she told the Davis family the gunman spared her, saying "I'm not going to kill you, just the ones you love most."

Hillsborough County sheriff's officials said the young divorcee had been seeing Chambers for three years but left him about three weeks ago in Texas.

Two Ex-Power Council Heads Blamed For 'Energy Crisis'

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Texas Railroad Commission member Jim Langdon today pinned much of the blame for the current "energy crisis" on two former chairmen of the Federal Power Commission.

In the process, he also took on newscaster Water Cronkite, presidential candidate George McGovern and U.S. Sens. Philip Hart, D-Mich., Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, and Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.

For more than 15 years, the gas industry has had to withstand the assault of some outstanding but misguided consumer advocates—folks like Joe Swindler and Lee White, both former chairmen of the FPC, who in my opinion have led this nation down the primrose path to the energy crisis," Langdon said.

He said congressional testimony by Swindler and White, among others, "continue... to bolster the unchanging and unchangeable views of folks like Sens. Philip Hart, Muskie, McGovern and others."

Langdon addressed the annual meeting of the New Mexico Oil and Gas Association. Swindler now is chairman of the New York Public Service Commission. He and White served as FPC chairmen during the period in which the commission took steps that lowered the price natural gas producers can receive for their product in interstate commerce.

Ultimately, Langdon predicted, the oil and gas industry will be blamed for today's "severe shortages of natural gas and crude oil."

The Proxmires, the Kennedys, the McGoverns and many other well known petroleum industry antagonists will scream that the industry never even hinted or otherwise warned them that such a calamity could come to pass—that the nation can ill afford to leave the serious business of providing the nation's petroleum needs in such irresponsible hands. It will then be argued that complete government control of the petroleum industry is the answer," Langdon said.

He said Cronkite often asks on his newscast, "in a domineering-like voice," the question "Can the world be saved?"

Youngest signer of the U.S. Constitution was Jonathan Dayton, 26, who served in the New Jersey Assembly.

Fire broke out after another crash Saturday night 10 miles north of Monahans in West Texas killed three motorists. This collision, occurring as one car tried to pass another and collided with a pickup truck, claimed the lives of Lee Swany of Wickett, driving the pickup, and Charles Manders of Fort Stockton and his son Darrell.

Multiple deaths in two flaming highway crashes helped to swell the violent death toll in Texas during the weekend.

There were at least 20 fatalities between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday, including 15 traffic accidents.

One of the worst occurred about 20 miles south of Texarkana, Tex., early Saturday, when a car and a loaded trailer-truck collided on U.S. 59 near Queen City, Tex. Two men perished in the blazing truck and later were identified as Robert G. Irby of Memphis, Tenn., and Milton R. Leonard of Bridgeport, N.Y. Two others who died in the car were Glen Jones of Queen City and Glenn Rich of Atlanta, Tex.

A fifth man—Jesse Howeth, 25, of Henderson—died at the scene of the crash outside Queen City when he was struck and killed by a second truck while watching the burned vehicle being pulled from a wooded area, where it set trees afire.

Texas Gulf Coast Area Residents Battling 'Siege Of Salt Water'

Editor's Note: Without some people realizing it, parts of the Texas Gulf Coast are sinking, causing all sorts of problems. Actually, some see what they call "a siege of salt water." This is the second of four stories detailing the situation.

By PAUL RECER
 Associated Press Writer
 BAYTOWN, Tex. (AP) — Four years ago, Al Chapel moved his family from the dry West Texas plains to a home on the shores of Galveston Bay.

"We were really excited about living on the water," he recalls now. "I got a big boat and we were really looking forward to boating and water skiing."

But for Al Chapel and scores of others on the Galveston Bay edge of this city, the excitement of having the bay at their back doors has turned into a nightmare.

Instead of living pleasantly beside a water playground, about one per cent of the families in Baytown, which has 46,000 population, find themselves under a relentless siege from the sea.

Most of Baytown has been unaffected by the sinking ground, but for those at the edge of the bay it has been crippling.

Subsidence—of sinking ground—has put at least 140 homes beside the bay in day-to-day danger of flooding. In the last 20 years, the homes of some 400 families in two neighborhoods, Brownwood and Lakewood, have sunk about five feet. Pleasant lots once high dry next to Galveston Bay are now at the mercy of wind and tide.

This sort of thing is happening many places around gigantic Galveston Bay. Experts blame it on removal of underground water, pumped out for municipal uses, and the sinking of the land where the water has been taken out.

Property values have plummeted. Some homes have been abandoned. Residents often find themselves surrounded by water.

C. M. "Bill" Floyd has lived next to the bay since 1940. He recalls the bay waters when they were clean and clear. And he also remembers when his yard had grass growing down to the water's edge. Over several seasons, he recalls noticing that the grass was receding. He attributed this to erosion.

The process continued, he recalls, "and finally it became apparent we were doing more than eroding—we were actually sinking."

He began to fight back against the invading sea. Floyd built a seawall. When it sank too low to be effective, he built another and then another and finally a fourth.

"I can't keep ahead of it," he said. "I built four seawalls and finally just gave up. I must have spent $4,000 on seawalls plus some hard labor."

The first wall, he said, is now more than five feet underwater. In 1941, a hurricane pushed water into Floyd's back yard.

Now, says Floyd, the water from an ordinary high tide reaches about where the 1941 hurricane tide reached.

In 1961, Hurricane Carla put 36 inches of water in Floyd's house.

"Another Carla," he says, "would put water up to the ceiling."

Another Baytown resident, W. Travis Porter, also remembers the days when the Brownwood subdivision was the showplace of the city.

"This was such a beautiful area," he says, "but since the tides it's changed."

Porter, too, has built a seawall and has to add to it as the land sinks and the water rises.

Chapel said there was a seawall at his house when he bought it ("I didn't think much about it then," he says), but he has spent about $400 adding to it.

Despite the line of private levees, the waters of Galveston Bay are winning.

"We've been isolated a couple of times, cut off completely," says Chapel. "When we have high tides, the water gets up to the top of my seawall. Sometimes it comes over a neighbor's wall and then it covers my front yard."

Occasionally, many families in the area have had to move out for a few days as the water advances.

"We've had from one to three instances a year (of flooding) for the last several years," says Porter.

Real estate prices have now dropped in the affected area so that many of the families cannot hope to find a comparable home elsewhere for the price they could get for their house.

The houses here once ranged in price from $20,000 to $50,000," says Chapel. "But there's none of them now that's worth $25,000 at best."

He said a family friend, tired of battling the water, recently sold a handsome three-bedroom home on two large lots for $5,000.

"They just wanted to get out," he said. "Some have tried to give their property away, to get somebody to take up the payments just to save their credit."

The fear of a hurricane, even a small one, hangs over the Baytown bayfront neighborhoods like a chilling fog.

"There were many homes that had to be rebuilt after Carla," says Chapel. "Since Carla, the area has sunk about 5.5 feet. A hurricane now would wipe out the whole area. And there probably wouldn't be many who would rebuild."

The bayside areas of this city still bear the signs of former elegance. The curving roads are lined with fine, sturdy homes and trees ranging from stately, ancient oaks to stubby palms.

Scars of the battle against the sea, however, mark it like the bluish of age on a fading beauty.

Lawns bear brown wounds from the recent advance and retreat of salt water. Ancient and dead trees, victims of the tide, sway nakedly at water's edge.

And everywhere, water fills ditches and low places like the advance scout for a coming flood.

One large two-story home, complete with detached garage and servant's quarters, stands abandoned, surrounded by water and now part of the sea, not the land. The garage resembles a boathouse more than a parking place for land vehicles. Fish swim over what was once a lush, sweeping lawn. Tall trees which once shaded the home stand dead and stripped, victims of the salt water attack.

Home after home—houses any community would be proud to claim—are up for sale. Brightly-colored realty signs, the neighborhood's billboards of surrender, line the roadway. But few sales are made.

And just beyond the roadway, the water laps hungrily, waiting for the land to sink even more.

The land, say the experts, sinks because industries and cities in the area are pumping too much "fresh, pure water from deep beneath the ground. The cause of Baytown's tragedy is known, but the pumping continues, people suffer, and the worst may still be ahead.

"They're digging our graves," says Porter, "by taking the water out of the ground."

Porter, Chapel, Floyd and scores of others like them can do little but worry and hope that someone, somehow, will help.

Dear Abby

Should teetotaler tattle on an 'imbibing' friend?

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: All our friends know that Willie and I neither drink nor serve any drinks in our home. We aren't "holier than thou" about it. We do go where liquor is served, but we quietly sip a soft drink.

Last week we had a backyard barbecue for 40. We had a lovely fruit punch bowl and everyone had a fine time. The guests drained the punch bowl quickly as it was quite warm. Some of the folks seemed noisier than usual, and I myself felt warm waves, but I thought I was just having hot flashes, which is not unusual for my time of life.

After the party, the hired lady said she had heard one guest tell another that "Mr. X" had emptied a quart of vodka into our punch bowl! [We found the empty bottle in our trash!]

"Mr. X" is a good friend of ours and we knew he imbibed, but what do you think of a friend who would betray his host and hostess in this manner?

I say we should let him know he didn't get away with anything. My husband says to skip it. What do you say?

BETRAYED

DEAR BETRAYED: I'm with your husband. But if you invite "Mr. X" to another party, frisk him before you let him in the house.

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl just starting high school and I just had my eyes examined and found out I have to wear glasses. Abby, I feel terrible about it because I am a pretty girl with a nice figure, and I'm afraid glasses will spoil my looks.

I asked if I couldn't have contact lenses but my parents said, "No, they are too expensive." I am getting my glasses tomorrow. Someone wrote me a note saying: "GUYS DON'T MAKE PASSES AT GALS WHO WEAR GLASSES." This made me feel even worse. Please cheer me up.

FOUR EYES

DEAR FOUR EYES: That little verse is passe. Try this one: "Guys will make passes at girls who wear glasses providing the dames have good looking frames."

DEAR ABBY: I liked your answer to the person from North Carolina. You told [him or her] not to blame the inhibited woman for bating zero in the boudoir. You stated that psychiatrists tell us that a surprising number of men can perform anywhere except at home because of their inhibitions. To them every decent woman is "mother" so they find their pleasure where "mother" isn't.

The big question? What's "mother" supposed to do, if she's not ready for the rocking chair yet?

Find her pleasure where "father" isn't? Sign me, "FORCED TO ROCK"

DEAR ABBY: I read in your column about a woman who was offered elegant clothes in exchange for work, but she wanted a salary. My problem is just the opposite. I love clothes, but I can't afford them. Unfortunately I wear a size 16, and no woman I've worked for in my brief housekeeper-cook career wore that size; I was never so lucky.

If I could find a job for Saturday and Sunday with pay in clothes and accessories instead of money I'd be thrilled. I am a good secretary, can supply excellent references, some of which are cook-housekeeper.

If you have any contacts, let me know. The employment agencies would probably scoff at the idea.

LIKES NICE THINGS

DEAR LIKES: So why not put an ad in this newspaper? There may be some "16s" you can make a deal with.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L. A., CALIF. 90089 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90089.

LEGISLATION SEMINAR—Hermine Tobolowsky of Dallas, right, a lawyer and state B&PWC legislation chairman, discusses the proposed Texas equal legal rights amendment with Virginia McDonald of Pampa, center, district B&PWC director, and Alma Ash, president of the Pampa club, at the B&PWC legislation seminar at the Coronado Inn. A capacity crowd, including five men, attended the dinner event.

Equality Amendments Explained At Seminar

By JANE KADINGO

"Women haven't a thing to lose except some problems," stated Mrs. Hermine Tobolowsky of Dallas, featured speaker at the Legislation Seminar, sponsored by the Pampa chapter of Business and Professional Women, in reference to the equal legal rights amendment to the Texas constitution.

November 7th is our opportunity to bring Texas to the forefront of states who really believe in equality for all," she told the group.

She explained the Texas amendment is separate from the national amendment to the United States Constitution. The national amendment is aimed at abolishing discrimination because of sex, while the Texas amendment states "Equality under the law shall not be denied or abridged because of sex, race, color, creed or national origin," which, Mrs. Tobolowsky pointed out, is more inclusive.

Mrs. Tobolowsky explained Texas was one of the first states to ratify the national amendment, which, however, may not become law for nine more years. The Texas amendment, covering all phases of discrimination, will become law Nov. 8, if approved Nov. 7, by Texas voters, giving Texas a "nine-year jump on the country."

"What happens to people who suffer hardship because laws do not apply the same to every person," she asked, going on to tell of specific cases of discrimination.

She told of one case, appealed to a higher court, where the judge of the appellate court stated, in giving his decision, that women are not considered people under the 14th Amendment, a view traditionally upheld by the Supreme Court.

In an interview prior to the seminar, Mrs. Tobolowsky explained the Texas amendment is needed, over and above the national amendment, because it is more inclusive and to insure state hearings on suits charging discrimination. Without a state amendment, such suits would have to go into federal court, which is more expensive, she pointed out. A state amendment would insure against future discriminatory laws, should the "climate change."

She told of visiting the state legislative sessions in recent years when "eight to ten discriminatory laws were introduced in one session."

She pointed out the equal pay law is "easy to get around," with broader coverage needed to insure against discrimination. The amendments, she explained, insure equality for men as well as women.

In speaking of the fear of women that the national amendment will "weaken" marriages and the family, she stated statistics show that the happiest men are those who have "full-partnership" marriages, with family responsibilities being handled by the partner who can do it best. The first five years of marriage are considered "risk years," with the "after 20 years" of marriage rating second. This, she said, is due to the fact that women who devote their lives completely to home and children fail to "grow" along with their husbands, leaving them nothing to share after the children are grown.

"The equal legal rights amendment should cement marriages," she said.

On the matter of drafting women, she stated there is nothing in any state law to prevent the state or national government from drafting women, adding that a number of bills to draft women were introduced to Congress during World War II, which might have passed had the war lasted longer.

"No legislation will destroy common sense," she said.

Virginia McDonald of Pampa, District 9 director of B.P.W.C. presided for the seminar, with Elsie Cunningham giving the invocation. Mable Ford led the pledge of allegiance, with Alma Ash, Pampa president, welcoming and introducing guests. Fay Eaton led the club collect.

Mrs. McDonald, who introduced the speaker, explained Mrs. Tobolowsky is legislative chairman of the Texas Federation of B&PWC Clubs, a Dallas lawyer, and is listed in a number of national and international "Who's Who" publications.

TUESDAY, OCT. 3

Your birthday today: The year's events are quiet but meaningful steps in spiritual and material growth. The last few weeks of the year are an experiment in seeing life in less grandiose terms. Today's natives often lend their resources to public causes, the care of children, and the like.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Not a day for explaining plans. For the single, a lively spurt of romantic excitement, for the married, a moment of tension.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: It may be time for your answers as publishers, lawyers, distant correspondents come to closer attention. Express your gentler side.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: You are well advised not to act hastily. Taking care of family needs while you think things over is helpful in getting insight.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Whatever attention you now pay to your appearance and public image pays off. New clothing helps, and it needn't be expensive.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: The morning's fights run their course into reconciliation by nightfall—if you let them do so, and get in a sound day's work.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Less pressure should inspire you to more thoro, quieter effort to advance career. Confidential arrangements should be concluded early.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Being somewhat less busy gives you a chance to notice some fine shade of meaning in the stories you are hearing.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Participation in your community's welfare brings recognition, cooperation, worthwhile new contacts. Invite friends to your home.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Early hours are fruitful if you exert yourself. Taper off as the day progresses, make evening hours a holiday.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: You may think you have full agreement about jointly held or managed records. Keep exact records and give matters time to settle.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Febr. 18]: You may stir rumors with unexpected behavior. Friends have financial ideas with little hard information to back them.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Gather all who are willing to help early in the day, get something done, but quit early as communications go awry in early evening.

Companies Recruit Women For Management Positions

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 200 women applied for jobs at the same time Thursday and not one was asked if she could type.

It was recruiting feminist style at a conference that brought together 22 major American corporations and 247 women, all college graduates with at least one year of work experience. It was believed to be the single largest effort by professional recruiters to put women into management jobs.

The conference, called a career encounter, is the product of the Lockwood Group, an executive recruiting firm; its president, Curtis Lockwood; and two feminists who are vice presidents of the organization, Janice LaRouche and Linda Kline.

Lockwood said he created the women's division after he began to receive calls from clients asking for women managers.

Part of the impetus, he said, came from the passage of legislation prohibiting discrimination against women and the U.S. Labor Department's Revised Order 4, which requires all businesses having contracts of $50,000 or more with the government and employing more than 50 persons to adopt a plan aimed at increasing women at all job levels where they are underemployed.

"Yes, I went into this because I saw a lot of money in it," Lockwood said. "But when you work with feminists, and I have been working with them for three months, you become a different person. I sit in the workshops and hear what has happened to these women. If I can do something about it, great."

Each company paid $100 to participate in the conference and must pay 10 per cent of the first-year salary for every applicant it hires. The applicants pay no fee.

Preconference counseling was provided for both the women, who were given personality tests and screened from some 2,000 original applicants, and for the recruiters.

The recruiters were warned not to refer to the women as girls, ladies or gals and to avoid such clichés as, "Vive la difference." They were also advised not to be prejudiced to women who had been school teachers or social workers and wanted to get into marketing or sales.

"Remember, when they got out of school what else was open to them?" Lockwood counseled. The women were advised to dress conservatively and to avoid militance. They were given advice on revising resumes and brief job descriptions of lucrative jobs about which they might have had misconceptions.

Many of the recruiters said they had as many as 20 jobs they expected to fill only two or three from the conference. Salaries ranged from a $8,700, plus bonus and expenses, sales job at Marion Laboratories to a $30,000 plant manager's job at Pfizer, Inc. Other jobs were in production supervision, engineering, data processing, accounting, finance and administration.

Layer Interest

Low-plunging U-neck sweaters with long sleeves are ideal for the layered look with a blouse, dickey or sweater underneath. A contrast of prints and colors lends even more interest to the layers.

Knowing Terms Can Help You

(Second in a Series.)
By Mabel S. Obenchain

To help you chart your way in your sewing project, it is necessary to be familiar with certain sewing terms. We are listing some of the most basic with their definitions.

Nap—Short fibers on fabrics that lie smoothly in one direction, such as velvet. This fabric must be cut with all pattern pieces in one direction. It includes fabrics with one-way design produced by light reflection, such as sateen and satin, or printed or woven with an up-and-down direction.

Without Nap—Pattern pieces can be reversed—do fabric shaped the same as the garment and sewn between garment and lining for shaping and/or added warmth.

Interfacing—A suitable fabric used between the garment and the facing to give added strength, shaping and support, usually on garment edges, waistbands, collars and cuffs.

Grain or Grain Line—Direction of threads in a woven fabric. Threads that run parallel to the selvage edge make up the lengthwise grain. Those running across the grain from selvage comprise the crosswise grain.

Straight of Goods—Refers to the lengthwise or crosswise grain of fabric.

Bias—A diagonal line at right angles to grain line of fabric—has more "give."

Set-in Sleeve—Cut separately and sewed into armhole. May have a smooth cap or a full, gathered cap.

Raglan Sleeve—Cut separately from garment body but continuing to neckline over shoulder.

Kimono Sleeve—Bodice and sleeve cut in one piece. Sometimes has an underarm gusset.

Armseye—Also armhole—opening in garment for arm. It can be faced or bound or a sleeve can be set into this opening.

Basting—Temporary large stitches made by hand or machine.

Stay Stitching—Machine stitches placed in the seam allowance 1/8-inch inside the seam line to prevent stretching of bias or curved edges.

Ease—To fit together unequal seam lengths so excess fabric does not pucker or gather.

Edge-stitching—Row of machine stitching placed close to turned edge to prevent raveling.

Clip—A short cut in the seam allowance to within about 1/8-inch of stitching line so that a curved seam will lie flat.

Trim—Cutting away excess fabric to prevent bulk.

Grade or layering—Trimming seam allowance to different widths to give a flat seam when several layers or

Pack Stops Dallas' Win Streak At 12

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The one-liner heard in Green Bay all last week had the Packers being carried onto the field on stretchers for Sunday's pregame introductions.

The Dallas Cowboys didn't think it was funny, either.

Five Packers, including three regulars, didn't even suit up. Three others played with injuries. But Green Bay's Chester Marcol's three field goals, John Brockington's power running and an opportunism seldom seen since its own title years to stun Dallas' defending National Football League champions 16-13.

"We knew we had a hell of a load to pick up and we did," chimed MacArthur Lane, the Packers' usually impassive running back.

"We're such a young team, but Dallas made a lot more mistakes than we did," Lane said. "If we get healthy again, there's no telling how far we can go."

The victory moved Green Bay into a first-place tie with Detroit in the NFL's Central Division after Detroit won 38-24 over Chicago, the Packers' next opponent.

The Packers' chief liabilities in their 4-2 season a year ago were inconsistent kicking, a sorry pass rush and a penchant for mistakes.

But Marcol's toe has long since rectified the first problem, and the defense took care of the other two by sacking Craig Morton four times for 38 yards in losses and forcing five Cowboy turnovers.

Safety Al Matthews intercepted two of Morton's passes and the Packers converted both breaks into Marcol field goals, including a 22-yarder that broke a 13-13 tie four minutes into the fourth quarter.

"That one belongs to the front four because of the pressure they put on," Matthews said of his second theft. "I happened to be standing there and Morton threw it right to me." Cornerback Willie Buchanon, who erased Dallas' last threat with an interception, recovered a Calvin Hill fumble at the Cowboy 25 early in the second quarter. Brockington, who totaled 91 yards in 26 carries, plowed 22 yards to the three and then swept right end from two yards out to score two plays later.

Dallas marched 80 yards in eight plays, with Walt Garrison carrying the final 10 yards, to its lone touchdown and a 13-0 lead early in the third period. But rookie Bob Hudson returned the kickoff 55 yards, setting up a 26-yard field goal by Marcol.

Taking over on their 29 with 6:12 left and three points down, the Cowboys marched to the Packer 40 as Hill ran for nine, seven and four yards and gained nine more on a pass from Morton.

"That made it fourth and one with 3:25 left. Dallas coach Tom Landry first sent his field goal unit onto the field, then called it back and directed a run by Walt Garrison.

But the Packers held, gained possession and put Dallas in a deep hole on a 52-yard punt by ex-Cowboy Ron Widby.

Morton's long pass with 59 seconds left was picked off by Buchanon, who raced 26 yards to the Cowboy two. Time ran out before the Packers could score again, but Dallas' 12-game winning streak was history.

"It was a choice of going for a win or a tie, and we decided to go for the win," Landry said of dismounting a field goal on the fourth-and-one play. Dallas kicker Toni Fritsch had booted field goals of 46 and nine yards earlier.

The Cowboys said they were guilty of a fumble for which they weren't officially charged on the same play.

Walt Garrison made the first down but fumbled. Landry said Craig recovered behind Garrison, but they ruled he didn't have the first down at that point.

"I saw the ball pop out and bounce to a lineman," Morton said. "I picked it up and tried to advance it a little bit. I felt I had the first down, too, but they put the ball back of the line."

Morton said Green Bay's long injury list hadn't lulled the Cowboys to sleep.

"We knew they were a good football team and that they shouldn't have lost to Oakland last week," he said. "Their front four played very well, with great reaction and anticipation."

The Packer rush was led by Vernon Vanoy, the New York Giant discard who started in place of injured Gale Gillingham at tackle, with help from the much improved Clarence Williams and 32-year-old Bob Brown.

"Vernon is just a young kid, but he's big, tall, rangy and has all the tools," Brown said of Vanoy, a 6-foot-8, 275-pound former basketball player at the University of Kansas.

"With Vanoy 6-8, me 6-5 and Alden Ralston 6-4, it makes it awfully difficult for the quarterback to look over us if we put on any kind of a rush," Brown said.

"And we read the papers. We know we've been criticized for getting only 19 sacks last year. A better rush is something we've strived for since the first day of training camp," he said.

The Cowboys' turnovers nullified a 269-168 bulge in total yardage. The greatest disparity was in passing, where Morton completed 16 of 27 for 169 yards to Scott Hunter's four of 17 for 53. Morton, however, had three passes intercepted and Hunter none.

Herve Filion last year led harness race drivers at the Freehold, N.J., Raceway for the fourth straight year. He drove 130 winners.

handed him the ball and scored on Ted Ford's single.

Oakland's West Division champions whipped Kansas City with Gene Tenace patting the late-inning offense. Tenace singled and came around to score the tie-breaking run in the eighth inning. Then he singled home two more runs for the A's in the ninth.

Gaylord Perry limited New York to four hits and struck out 11 as Cleveland won the first game of its doubleheader with the Yankees.

Chris Chambliss' 11th-inning sacrifice fly scored the deciding run in the opener for the Indians. Then, two errors by Yankee catcher John Ellis helped the Indians to two runs that proved decisive in the sixth inning of the nightcap.

Jim Holt drilled three straight hits and drove in two runs as Minnesota edged California.

Chicago Bears 38-24, the Kansas City Chiefs overwhelmed the Denver Broncos 45-24, the Atlanta Falcons slammed the Los Angeles Rams 31-3, the Pittsburgh Steelers defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 25-19, the San Francisco 49ers walloped the New Orleans Saints 37-2, the Cleveland Browns bounced the Cincinnati Bengals 27-6 and the Oakland Raiders and San Diego Chargers struggled to a 17-17 tie.

In tonight's nationally televised game (ABC, 9 p.m., EDT), the New York Giants tackle the Eagles in Philadelphia.

With Washington leading 21-17 midway in the fourth quarter, Plunkett drove the Patriots to the Redskins' 24. Then he faked back to pass—only to fiddle the Redskins swarming in on him.

He took off to the right, with several would-be tacklers in hot pursuit, then fired to rookie Josh Ashton on the goal line to put the Patriots on top 24-21.

But the Redskins were far from finished. They moved to the New England 25 and, with less than two minutes to go, Curt Knight kicked a game-tying 33-yard field goal.

But hold on. The Patriots, it seems, were guilty of roughing the kicker. That gave Washington Coach George Allen several options. He could refuse the penalty and keep the field goal or forget the three points and take a first down.

"What the heck," he said later. "Any time you have a chance to win a game..." So the Redskins took the first down.

But three downs netted only one yard and Knight returned to boot a 27-yarder—which sailed wide to the right. The Patriots still led. All they had to do was run out the clock. With Washington calling time out after every play, though, they couldn't and were forced to punt.

Bill Malinchak, however, blew in and blocked the kick, then pounced on it in the end zone. Touchdown? Wrong. Safety—just two points instead of six. So the Patriots still led, 24-23.

After a free kick, the Skins got the ball once more and moved to New England's 42. But with 12 seconds to go, Knight's last-gasp 50-yarder also sailed wide—and the Patriots finally had the victory.

Dan Pastorini directed Houston to a pair of touchdowns—one a Willie Rodgers one-yard plunge, the other a 52-yard Ken Burroughs pass reception—for a 14-13 halftime lead.

Then the Jets gave up two fumbles and an intercepted Joe Namath pass to help set up three of Skip Butler's four field goals.

"I'd like to get the reputation that we are a come-from-behind team," Coach Don Shula said after his Dolphins did just that to remain the NFL's only undefeated team.

Trailing the Vikings 14-6, Miami got three points on Garo Yepremian's booming 51-yard field goal with 4:15 to play, then mounted a 59-yard drive, climaxing by Bob Griese's three-yard touchdown toss to a wide open Jim Mandich with just 88 seconds left.

"We're just trying to hang together and do the best we can," Colts Coach Don McCafferty said after Baltimore, blanking Buffalo for the third straight time, won its first game of the season.

Beman Wins Iowa Golf

BETTENDORF, Iowa (AP) — Deane Beman, has a love affair going with the state of Iowa.

"If they have a golf tournament in this state, you can count on me being there," the fairway strategist said Sunday after winning his second consecutive Quad Cities Open championship.

The victory, the fourth of his pro career, kept intact Beman's record of never losing in the state.

In addition to the Quad Cities titles, he also won the National Amateur championship in Des Moines in 1963.

Beman, a 34-year-old former insurance executive from Bethesda, Md., came from four strokes off the pace with a last round 67 for a 72-hole 279, five under par.

"When I started out, I figured it would take seven under to win it," he said, "then everybody started backing off, so I just played it conservatively over the last four holes."

He parred them all, just good enough to beat fast-closing rookie Tom Watson by one stroke. Watson closed with a 66, five under par on the 6,501-yard Crow Valley Golf Club course and took second alone with 280.

Patriots, Houston Score Upsets In Sunday's Play

"I don't like these endings," young Jim Plunkett said. "Between this week and last week, I'm getting gray hairs."

Last week, it was a missed 10-yard field goal in the final minute that gave New England a 21-20 victory over Atlanta.

That, however, was nothing compared to what happened Sunday in Foxboro, Mass.

The 24-year old quarterback put New England ahead with a remarkable scrambling bulge-eye touchdown pass, then had to wait out four of the most frantic minutes in National Football League history before his Patriots pulled out a 24-23 squeaker over the Washington Redskins.

In Sunday's other games, the Houston Oilers stunned the New York Jets 26-20, the Miami Dolphins nosed out the Minnesota Vikings 16-14, the Green Bay Packers edged the Dallas Cowboys 16-13, the Baltimore Colts blanked the Buffalo Bills 17-0, the Detroit Lions beat the American League East Having Dandy Wrap-up

By Associated Press

Here is a tip of the hat to the little old American League schedule maker. He didn't know it last winter when he drew up the AL calendar, but he has created one dandy wrap-up to the 1972 regular season.

The East division race—5½ months and some 150 games after it started—has come down to the final three games of the baseball season. The contenders are Boston and Detroit and the battle will be settled as it should be—head to head.

The Red Sox are in Detroit for the start of a three-game series tonight. The team that wins two of those games will advance to the AL playoffs to face the Oakland A's.

Boston's first-place edge was trimmed to one-half game Sunday when the Red Sox dropped a 2-1 decision to Baltimore while Detroit was whipping Milwaukee 5-1.

In other American League action Sunday, Oakland trimmed Kansas City 4-2. Texas shut out Chicago 1-0. Cleveland swept a doubleheader with New York, winning the first game 2-1 and taking the second 4-3, and Minnesota edged California 3-2.

In the National League, New York rapped Pittsburgh 7-3. Chicago shut out St. Louis 3-0. Montreal routed Philadelphia 10-6. Cincinnati blanked Los Angeles 1-0. San Diego trimmed Houston 3-1 and San Francisco whipped Atlanta 6-2.

Boston nominated left-hander John Curtis for tonight's opener with Detroit ace Mickey Lolich opposing him. After that, it will be Luis Tiant Tuesday and Marty Pattin Wednesday for the Red Sox with the Tigers using Woody Fryman against Tiant and Joe Coleman on the last day.

The Sox had hoped to take the 1½ game lead they held most of last week into the final series. That would have meant that one victory at Detroit would clinch the flag for them. But Baltimore's crafty Mike Cuellar was having none of that. He scattered eight hits and Bobby Grich's sixth-inning homer gave the Orioles the victory.

On the scoreboard, the Sox watched Detroit's John Hiller mow down Milwaukee on five hits for his first victory in exactly two years. Hiller, out of baseball because of a heart attack last year, had last won a game on Oct. 1, 1970.

Aurelio Rodriguez cracked a three-run homer and Dick McAuliffe and Al Kaline added solo shots to account for the Tiger runs.

Now the time for scoreboard watching is over.

Texas ended its 15-game losing streak with Dick Bosman throttling Chicago on three hits and blanking the White Sox. Bosman struck out 13 batters and the Rangers scored the game's only run in the first inning when Dave Nelson walked, stole second, moved to third on a fly ball and scored on Ted Ford's single.

Oakland's West Division champions whipped Kansas City with Gene Tenace patting the late-inning offense. Tenace singled and came around to score the tie-breaking run in the eighth inning. Then he singled home two more runs for the A's in the ninth.

Gaylord Perry limited New York to four hits and struck out 11 as Cleveland won the first game of its doubleheader with the Yankees.

Chris Chambliss' 11th-inning sacrifice fly scored the deciding run in the opener for the Indians. Then, two errors by Yankee catcher John Ellis helped the Indians to two runs that proved decisive in the sixth inning of the nightcap.

Jim Holt drilled three straight hits and drove in two runs as Minnesota edged California.

Larry Hinson Has Withered Arm But He Doesn't Have a Handicap

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK (NEA)—It's too easy to make a "tear-jerker" out of a story on Larry Hinson. The thing is, he has not—not yet, anyway—become the Golfer of the '70s, as some had predicted after his sensational 1970 season when he finished eighth on the money-winning list with $120,897.

He dropped to 52nd last year and has been doing only somewhat better in 1972. His best finish this year was a third in the Cleveland Open. He has won only one tournament, and—that was the New Orleans Open in 1969, his second year on the tour.

Of course, he is still not walking around with holes in his purple flared pants. He has won over a quarter of million dollars in his five-year pro career. And at age 28 may still look forward to several years in which he can afford heels for his white wing-tipped golf shoes.

There are some who believe that Larry Hinson's mere presence in the shrubbery, competing with the best in a physical industry, is terrific enough.

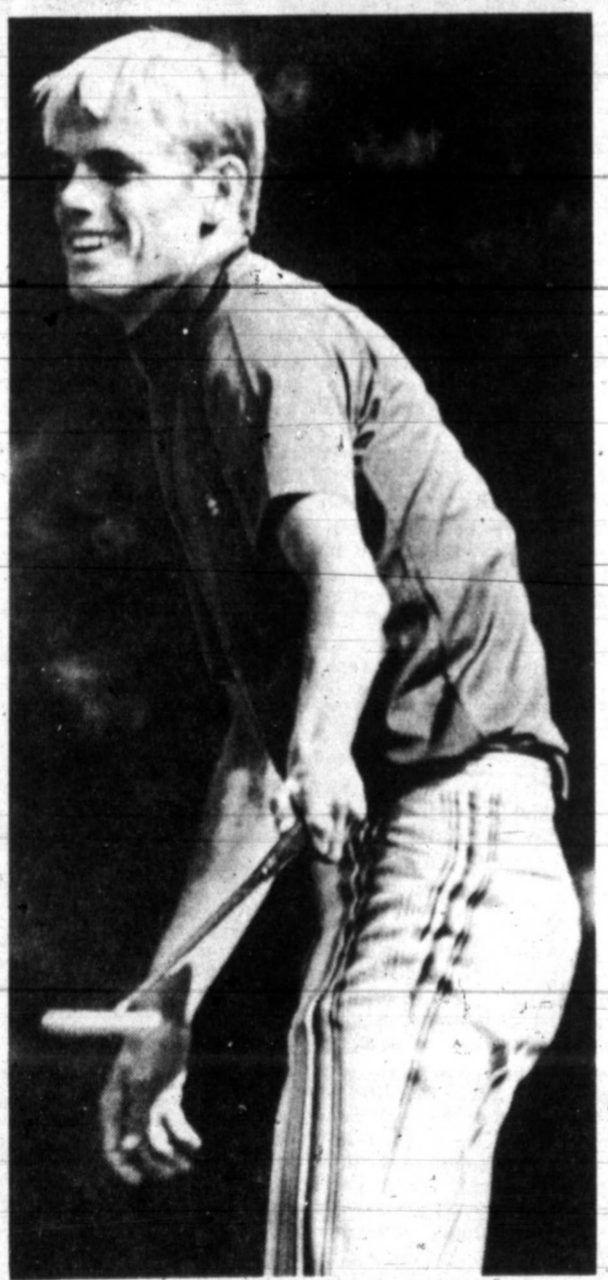

Because of the polio that he contracted when he was five years old, Hinson's left arm is thinner and an inch shorter than his right arm. He has no use of his left thumb since there is no muscle at its base.

As a golfer, there are advantages and disadvantages to the lameness. Hinson says that he probably tries harder because of a compulsion to prove he is equal and it also means he must keep his left arm classically straight. No choice.

However, some observers like fellow golfer Dave Bill wonder if Hinson's inability to grip the club with a properly tight left hand grip does not force him to hook.

He was asked when it was that he became resigned to his left arm not being as strong as the right.

"Never," he said, in a clubhouse recently, his hazel eyes opening up below his yellow bangs.

"Once I could put my right hand around my left bicep and my thumb and fingers would touch," he said, in the excited, low drawl that is his manner. "Now look. Index finger and thumb were about an inch apart."

During breaks on the tour, he returns home to Douglas, Ga., and works with an 18-pound weight to strengthen his left arm. "It's getting so strong now," he said, "that the muscles in my left arm jump and twitch and keep me awake some nights, from the extra work."

He says he learned "hard work and hope" from his mother, who massaged his arm for nearly two years when it seemed absolutely dead. "When I'd go to school in the morning," said Hinson, "she'd pull my left pants pocket and stick my hand into it. That's where it'd stay all day. At night, she massaged it to keep the circulation going. If she hadn't done that I might never have been able to use it."

Hinson says in those days he remembers crying and praying and wondering why his arm was different from the other kids. One day when he was nearly 7, he was chasing a girl and fell and broke his arm. "But it was the first movement I had had in it in two years."

Soon he was beginning to swim, and play baseball and basketball (he became a high school star in the latter). He went to East Tennessee State University where he became a college golf champion. His other triumph was that he taught himself to snap the fingers of his left hand—without using his thumb. "I'd go to dances and I was embarrassed I couldn't snap to the rhythm. So I spent hours in my room teaching myself to do it."

There is this romanticism about him that would seem ingenuous except for his accomplishments. It was highlighted in a practice round before a recent tournament.

Hinson was coincidentally paired with Ed Furgol, the former U.S. Open champ who also has a withered left arm.

"Wouldn't that be something," Hinson said, "if we tied for the lead on the last day?"

"Nah," said Furgol. "My time is passed."

"Hell," said Hinson, "you're only 52. Don't talk that way. Remember, in this game all you gotta do is put the ball in the hole."

Every adventure in communal living, past and present, inevitably and eventually reverts to monogamy. And six out of seven divorced people try again.

Some years ago, to counterbalance the frequent mentions of fractured marriages I began to mention certain durable marriages which have thrived for a half-century and more.

Worsening divorce statistics make marriage, American-style, sound like a game of musical beds. Though one in three marriages ends in divorce (in Miami it's one in two), that does not mean that the odds for everybody are that ominous.

H.L. Hunt Writes LET'S ATTACK CRIME

Crime continues to show an upsurge in the United States. The annual report of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, recently released and reported in all the news media, showed that lawlessness in the nation still has not been curtailed.

Many police officers we know say that too much emphasis is being placed on the social aspect of crime. Huge grants from federal and private sources emphasize the correction of background conditions that socialists say create criminal conditions.

Adherence to the laws of the land should come first with the citizens. In days gone by, violations were strictly the work of the professional thief but, that simply is not true any more.

Narrow Search for Origin of Letter Bombs

WASHINGTON — Scotland Yard authorities have reached several firm conclusions regarding those deadly letter-bombs spewed out by Black September Palestinian terrorists.

(1) Contrary to initial widely circulated reports, the lethal Arab letters do not contain the miniscule "teabag" or "gravel mine" explosives in the anti-personnel devices the U.S. Air Force uses to boobytrap supply trails and routes of the Vietnamese Communists.

(2) Three countries are suspected as the most likely places where the killer-missives are made—Syria, North Korea and North Vietnam.

All have close ties with the Palestinian extremists, and all gloatingly hailed the murder of the 11-Israeli athletes during the Olympic games in Munich. This acclaim was in striking contrast to the official condemnation voiced by Moscow and Peking.

Syria, still at war with Israel, never having agreed to the 1967 truce, is a principal operating base of the Al-Fatah guerrillas and is known to be a main headquarters of the Black September desperadoes.

North Korea, while it is not generally known, has been on close terms with the Palestinian guerrillas for several years. Yasser Arafat, Fatah leader, and other top officials have visited there and claim to have received money and weapons.

In this astounding pronouncement, North Vietnam laid blame for the Munich massacre at the doorstep of the U.S. and Israel, charging them with "cruelty and perfidity" and the dark design to wreck peace under the extremely hypocritical label of humanity and peace.

International Intelligence authorities have substantial evidence that Black September members have been in North Vietnam in the past year; that they received training in the handling of Russian arms, particularly the type used in the Munich and other murders; and that there are Black Septemberites in North Vietnam right now.

JAZZ PROFITS DIVIDED
NEW YORK (AP) — The Newport Jazz Festival in New York presented a check for $5,924.28 to the New York and National Urban League. This was half the profits of the festival, held July 1-9 this year.

George Wein, festival producer, said that more than 100,000 persons paid approximately $16,000 in ticket sales. He said about $100,000 came from sponsors, the biggest being Schlitz and American Airlines. He said costs were more than $600,000.

At one time a spokesman for the two Urban League groups hoped to realize from $100,000 to $200,000 from the festival. But when the two concerts at Yankee Stadium did not draw the crowds he expected, Wein feared that he might not make a profit at all.
