Commie Negotiator Says Talks Stalled Until UN Gives Way

MUNSAN, Korea.—(P)—The chief Communist armistice negotiator said tonight Korean truce talks "will not make any progress" unless the United Nations changes its demands on where to create a buffer zone.

The statement from North Korean Lt. Gen. Nam Il was broadcast ten hours after he had again refused to change his own demands.

The Red position is so firmly fixed that in Monday's broadcast ten hours after he had again refused to change statement as "not satisfactory" as soon as it was delivered.

And, a UN communique said, Nam Il made the rejection while "speaking from a previous prepared and translated paper."

In the broadcast Nam Il called on the UN delegation "to change its attitude" and "to take into consideration our demands" for a buffer zone along the 38th Parallel.

He said if the Kaesong truce negotiations are to "make any progress at all" UN delegates must "change their distorted demands they have made up to now."

The UN has made it clear that the allies will not consider a demarcation line on the 38th Parallel. They say the Reds must change their stand if negotiations are to progress.

No progress was made in today's one hour and 20 minute session—the 13th devoted to the same question.

Communist delegates again rejected every United Nations attempt to break the deadlock.

Opposing representatives could not even agree on where their armies are.

Their next session, scheduled for 11 a. m., Tuesday (7 p. m. Monday (CST)) will find them right back where they started.

The Red generals refused again Monday to side step the deadlock and talk about something else. They ignored a UN invitation to express their views on a demilitarized zone based on the present battle line. And they again insisted on a buffer zone along the 38th Parallel.

The difference in view of present battle positions became apparent when Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief UN delegate, introduced a map comparing the allies and Red concepts of the fighting front.

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckolls, UN briefing officer, said they were in general agreement but there were some differences—"particularly in the center and on the flanks." Joy noted the maps were practically the same on parts of the line.

Nam Il, head of the Red delegation, had introduced a map the preceding day showing the (See PROBLEMS, Page 2)

UN Hammers Red Trains

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea.—(P)—Bombers and jet planes hammered at Communist rail and road communications in Korea Sunday to retard the Communist build-up along the front.

U. S. Eighth Army headquarters today reported only small patrol actions along the muddy front. But high allied officers agreed that the Reds have built up their forces to the point where they can launch another major offensive if Kaesong armistice talks fail.

One of the few ground actions was reported south of Kaesong. UN troops engaged Communists there yesterday for the fifth successive day.

Two British Commonwealth naval frigates moved up the Han Estuary to shell Red positions in this area. The ships—New Zealand's Hawea and Australia's Murchison—did not report results.

Allied warplanes in 755 sorties struck some blows in support of ground troops. But most of their action was directed against traffic to the front.

Both B-29 bombers and jets concentrated on rail centers as Red highway traffic dropped sharply.

F-84 Thunderjets hit rail lines south of Pyongyang, Red Korean capital. F-80 Shooting Star jets worked over the rails to the north.

Superforts from Okinawa rained 130 tons of bombs on rail yards at Sariwon, southern tip of the bombing and rocketing sweeps by the Thunderjets.

Agent Is Killed By Wife's Ex-Husband

FREDERICKSBURG, Texas.—(P)—A manufacturer's agent was shot to death yesterday on the lawn of the Gillespie County courthouse.

Slain was Seth A. Good, 28, of Dallas. Murder charges have been filed against his wife's former husband, Lenar O. Birk, 41, owner of a variety store here. He is free on a $5,000 bond.

The shooting followed five court battles over custody of Mrs. Good's daughter by her former marriage.

Mrs. Good and her daughter, Cynthia Ann Birk, 4, were in a car nearby.

Army Firm On Dishonorable Discharges

WEST POINT, N.Y.—(P)—The Army was holding firm today to its stand that there will be no honorable discharges for cadets found guilty of violating the military academy's honor code.

There has been a strong movement, launched last week by head football coach Earl (Red) Blaik, to allow the accused cadets to leave the academy without the stigma contained or implied in other forms of dismissal.

A restatement of the Army's position came yesterday with an official announcement that final hearings should be completed early this week on the 90 cadets facing dismissal for cribbing on examinations.

"The action we are to take has been approved by the Department of the Army and the President himself," said Col. James B. Leer, the academy's public information officer. He added:

"There can be no deviation from the statement made last week by the superintendent, Maj. Gen. Frederick Irving."

Irving had said that cadets admitting guilt under oath would be given a chance to resign or to be discharged by administrative action.

An Army spokesman says that in either case, the cadets' departures would imply "neither honorable nor dishonorable conditions."

Coch Blaik, who lost practically all of his stellar football team in the scandal, appealed that the Army lighten the cadets' punishment by granting honorable discharges.

GUARDSMEN ARRIVE FORT BLISS.—(P)—Louisiana National Guardsmen, some 1500 strong, have arrived for two weeks' duty at the anti-aircraft and guided missile training center.

German Reds Hail Stalin As 'Fuehrer'

BERLIN.—(P)—German Communist youth bosses publicly hailed Stalin today as their "Fuehrer." They did this in a message to the Soviet leader following up yesterday's screaming parade of Communist youth, a demonstration which far outdid anything the Nazis ever whipped up for Hitler.

The West used the Communist world youth festival to get in some propaganda blows of its own.

Hundreds of thousands of youngsters who slipped by the Red guards on the sector border saw things in "imperialist" West Berlin they never dreamed existed there.

The leaders of the Communist "Free German Youth Movement" (FDJ) used the word "Fuehrer" (leader) once applied exclusively to Hitler when they sent the Soviet prime minister a pledge promising undying loyalty to him and unflinching opposition to "western imperialists." Time after time the message, purportedly signed by 4,145,829 young Germans, addressed the Soviet leader as "Dear Joseph Stalin." It concluded with the words: "long live our wise teacher and Fuehrer, our best friend, the great Stalin."

Ernst Reuter, mayor of West Berlin, said the Red youth festival was "a great success for the free world." Some said the festival had given the Communists such a jolt that East Berlin would not be chosen for such a role again. It was too easy for the kids to get a look at the other side of the curtain.

Missionaries Reveal Chinese Communists Bent On Eliminating All Christian Churches

HONG KONG.—(P)—Missionaries being ejected from Red China said today the Communists appear bent on eliminating all Christian churches except their own "Reform Church."

The Catholic church is bearing the brunt of Red activities now. Travelers from Peiping said every foreign missionary in the Red capital is either in jail or under house arrest.

The Reds have taken over 12 of Peiping's 17 Catholic parishes. Catholics are the only large body of foreign Christians left in China.

About 3,000 foreign Catholic missionaries are still in Red China. The all-time high was 5,000 in 1949.

A similar drive against other Christians throughout Red China was predicted.

Catholics arriving here from the Chinese Communist capital reported that among those arrested July 25 was Father Harold Rigney, former rector of Catholic Fujen University and the only American missionary remaining in China.

He went to Peiping after World War II in which he served as an Air Force chaplain. He is from Chicago.

The Chinese Reds have been campaigning for an "independent"

Catholic church which would have no connection with the Vatican. Propaganda broadcasts from Peiping have mentioned the campaign frequently, but have said nothing about police action.

The official Red press previously had demanded suppression of the Legion of Mary in Tientsin and elsewhere throughout Red China.

The arrest of Father Rigney by sources who requested anonymity. They said police went to Fujen University at night, bound his hands and forced him and other priests into a car.

The priests were then taken to prison.

At the same time, police surrounded other church centers in Peiping and arrested other priests. Those not taken away were placed under house arrest.

City Expected To Chalk Up Heavy Valuation Increase

An increase of $1,454,730 city valuation over last year's total of $17,458,000 appeared this morning as City Manager Dick Pepin and Tax Assessor-Collector Aubrey Jones reworked the tabulations before presenting them to the city commission tomorrow.

Apparently the tax rate of $1.75 has a good chance of remaining the same this year, Pepin hinted. As the figures stood this morning the total personal property valuation reached $5,424,050 and the real estate $13,488,680 for a total of $18,912,730.

The city manager attributed the increase to higher costs of material and wages in the city's overall operating expense.

"The commissioners will get the budget in 'rough draft' tomorrow, Pepin said today. He added that he had some items in mind not included in the budget which he would lay before the commission in case "they want to eliminate some items included in the budget and replace them with others—or leave all of them out."

The final draft of the budget will not be accepted until late September, after the public hearing on it is closed, according to previous procedure.

Experts Predict Rising Prices, More Inflation And Greater Deficit

WASHINGTON.—(P)—The congressional economic committee has been warned by its staff experts to expect rising prices, more inflation and three years of federal deficits.

The staff report was made public today by Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), chairman of the Senate House group. He called the committee into closed-door session (9 a. m., EST) "to look over the situation as it now exists and see the things that must be done by Congress."

Main theme of the report appeared to be arguments in support of: 1. A considerable higher increase in federal taxes than the $7,200,000,000 a year boost voted by the House. Senators have been talking of holding the increase to five or six billion.

2. Stiffer government controls over prices, wages and credit with emphasis upon savings by individuals.

O'Mahoney, in advance of the committee discussion, told reporters:

"My personal opinion is that the American economy can meet the problems providing the problem is clearly understood by the Congress and the country."

He noted that the Senate House committee had unanimously approved a "pay-as-we-go basis" for meeting the long-range multi-billion dollar defense and foreign aid program.

This was done, the senator said, "to avoid piling another deficit on top of the national debt now remaining from World Wars I and II."

O'Mahoney noted that for the fiscal year which ended last June 30, the government showed a surplus of $3,500,000,000 despite defense outlays of about $20,000,000,000.

But he said there would have been no book surplus if all defense goods orders had been delivered on time and paid for.

He said the surplus actually had been disappearing since last April.

Both O'Mahoney and his staff experts stressed the fact that a cease-fire agreement or even peace in Korea would not bring relief from the multi-billion dollar defense program for the next five to ten years.

Both also agreed that a recent leveling off in prices—after sharp increases since June 1950—probably would end later this fall and winter.

"The problem of Congress is to determine how this danger may be contracted," O'Mahoney said.

The staff report said "prices will rise" as more of the national production is diverted later this year into defense goods.

It suggested a $10,000,000 tax increase immediately and said the "additional revenue, for maximum anti-inflationary effect, should be derived largely from (See EXPERTS, Page 2)

Order Sanity Test In French Shooting

ORLEANS, France.—(P)—French authorities today ordered a sanity test for pretty young Yvonne Chevallier who shot and killed her war hero husband barely 24 hours after he took his first cabinet post.

Police said the black-haired beauty, who is being held in Orleans prison, confessed firing five shots into 42-year-old Pierre Chevallier yesterday when he told her he wanted a divorce.

Chevallier, World War II resistance leader, had just been named secretary of state for technical education, youth and sports. He was close to the new premier, Rene Pleven, and seemed to have a bright political future. Pleven was reported deeply shocked by the news of his death.

Chevallier returned to Orleans yesterday after a week in Paris during the final stages of the cabinet crisis. Mrs. Chevallier told investigators that after a furious quarrel about his absence her husband said he wanted a divorce.

Police said she drew a revolver she had bought a few days earlier and shot him five times. He died instantly, physicians said.

She then called police headquarters and asked the officer in charge to come to the couple's modest apartment. When Commissioner Antoine Gazano went there, he said she let him in with the tearful announcement "I have just shot my husband."

Chevallier, who served as mayor of war-devastated Orleans, was a physician in private life. Yvonne, who, friends said, was in her late thirties, was a former midwife.

Reporters and photographers were barred during police questioning of Mrs. Chevallier. During the afternoon Interior Minister Charles Brune arrived at the scene and a short while later Yvonne was hurried off to Orleans prison.

The examining magistrate named to investigate the case (See SHOOTING, Page 2)

Hundreds Of Passengers Have Miraculous Escape From Death

FOUR OAKS, N.C.—(P)—Hundreds of passengers escaped death or serious injury here yesterday in the wreck of the Atlantic Coast Line's streamliner passenger train, the East Coast Champion.

According to C. G. Sibley, ACL assistant vice president for operations, more than 500 persons were aboard the Miami-New York train which crashed two miles north of here at 1:20 a. m. (EST). The railroad announced no one was killed and no one was seriously injured when the nine middle cars of the 18-car train were derailed and three cars plunged down a 20-foot embankment.

The fact that none were killed in the wreck was termed "the most miraculous thing I've ever seen" by Dr. Watson Wharton of nearby Smithfield where nine persons were hospitalized following the wreck.

Six derailed cars held to the right of way, although one turned over. One of the three cars (See PASSENGERS, Page 2)

Fair And Warmer In Pampa Tuesday

Fair and warmer weather may be expected today and tomorrow. Sunday temperature registered a high of 89 and the early morning reading of 62 was shown.

A cool 69 was registered early this morning, but a high temperature was expected by the middle of the afternoon.

The heat wave over the rest of Texas is subsiding, but will probably last two or three more days, according to the Weather Bureau, reports the Associated Press.

Rains fell in widely scattered areas Sunday, some registering as much as four inches near San Angelo.

Some widely scattered afternoon and evening thundershowers were seen for West Texas today.

Navy Patrol Plane Is Lost In Alaska

KODIAK, Alaska.—(P)—A four-engine Navy patrol bomber with 12 crewmen aboard was reported missing today in Alaska.

It was the fourth plane lost during the Alaska and British Columbia coasts since July 21. They carried 60 persons.

The Navy PB4-Y-2 Privateer disappeared yesterday after taking off from its Kodiak base on a routine mission.

Nothing was heard from the big plane after it gave a position report at 10:14 a. m. Its fuel supply would have been exhausted at 9:35 p. m. Alaska time last night.

Names of the three officers and nine enlisted men in the crew were withheld.

An air and sea search was started yesterday after the bomber was presumed lost. Fog and rain curtailed rescue efforts.

Group Seeking Increase In Federal Taxes

Funeral For Girl Killed In Accident To Be Held Today

Funeral for Oda DeAun Denny, 11, killed in an auto accident Saturday morning, will be held at 4 p. m. today in the Nazarene Church with Rev. Herbert Lamb, pastor, officiating.

Survivors include her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Denny, 502 N. Dwight; a brother, Paul Leon; a sister, Delores Juanita, a half-sister, Myrtle Cheaden; her grandmother, Mrs. M. O. Doake, Houston; two aunts and an uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin H. Parks, Eunice, N. M.; and Phyllis Wall, Houston, and four cousins of Eunice, N. M.

The accident occurred near Roswell, N. M., Saturday when Denny, her two daughters and son were enroute to Carlsbad, N. M. Denny said he lost control of the truck and hit a soft shoulder about 40 miles northeast of Roswell.

The girl and nine-year-old Paul were thrown from the back of the truck where they were riding. The truck rolled over and crushed the girl. No one else was injured.

Palbearers will be Garland Bradshaw, Cecil Trullinger, Arthur Love, Oscar Drieringer, Clinton Taylor and Ah Conway.

Congress Aims For Oct. 1 Adjournment

WASHINGTON.—(P)—Senate Democratic Leader McFarland (Ariz.) set Oct. 1 today as a target date for adjournment of Congress.

House Speaker Rayburn said he could "no idea" when Congress would end its work. Rayburn said he hopes the House will be able to recess for two weeks beginning about the latter part of next week.

McFarland and Rayburn said they were satisfied with the progress being made on the legislative program.

The leaders reported they and the President went over "the box score" on his legislative program today.

Rayburn said he advised Mr. Truman that the House likely will complete action this week on the bulk of its legislation except for conference reports.

Expect Report This Week On Boyle And RFC

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Hoye (D-N.C.) said today a Senate investigating subcommittee may get a preliminary report this week on an inquiry into charges against William M. Boyle, Jr., the Democratic national chairman.

Hoye told a reporter that agents for a Senate expenditures subcommittee he heads are in St. Louis looking into accusations that Boyle attempted to influence government loans and contracts.

Boyle has denied that he had any connection with a $565,000 Reconstruction Finance Corp. (RFC) loan to the American Lufkin Co., a St. Louis printing firm from which he said he received legal retainers for a period in 1949 before he became national chairman.

President Truman last week upheld Boyle, saying that he had complete confidence in the national chairman and that his confidence was sustained by a White House inquiry.

Hoye said committee investigators were assigned to get the facts "about charges made by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch that Boyle received $8,000 in fees from the printing firm. Boyle said he got $1,250 for general legal services before he quit his law practice when he became executive vice chairman of the committee. He received $30,000 a year as chairman.

"This is merely a preliminary investigation to determine whether the committee should make a full investigation," Hoye said. "The investigators probably will have finished the preliminary survey this week and may be ready to report."

Hoye said Boyle had furnished the committee with a copy of a statement he made last week denying the "influence" charges but had neither asked for nor opposed an inquiry.

If the committee decides to make a formal investigation, Hoye said it will have to be sandwiched in between other matters on which his staff now is working.

He said the "loose ends" remaining from an inquiry made of RFC affairs by a Senate banking subcommittee headed by Senator Fulbright (D-Ark.) now are being checked by his staff.

He said committee representatives also are checking into reports that some ships of Panama registry have been carrying military supplies to the Chinese Communists.

COOLER IN DALLAS — Mrs. L. Magee of Dallas, Tex., finds one way to keep her children, Greg, age 11, and Susan, 3, cool during a record heat wave. A cool front brought substantial relief to the state after a month-long heat wave — with temperatures ranging to 116 degrees — claimed 26 lives and millions of dollars worth of scorched crops. No French Styles For California

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A top California fashion authority today said thumbs down to Paris' decree of hems down.

The word from Paris is longer skirts especially since Christian Dior came out recently endorsing the trend. That makes it official in the fashion-conscious French capital.

But G. Peter Rosenfeld, president of the California Fashion Creators, said his association will resist the trend.

"American women have the most beautiful legs in the world. Why hide them?" asks Rosenfeld. The industry association he heads does a $500,000,000 annual business.

"Besides," he added, "Paris creates clothes only for those people who have nothing to do but dress up all the time. California clothes are functional."

In an interview, a Rosenfeld associate told how his wife bought a dress from a famed Paris designer but later found she couldn't sit down in it. Returning it to the salon, she was told that the dress was not made to sit down with.

"That tells the whole story," commented Rosenfeld.

The Paris decree would have the high water mark in skirts about 14 inches from the floor, Rosenfeld said such a length would look "ridiculous" on many women.

"American women have now found the becoming length in skirts — about mid-calf. They will not change."

MOTHER FREED FROM JAIL — Mrs. Mary Ellen Kopo, 37, above, returned home to Shamokin, Pa., after spending one day of a five-day jail sentence for speeding in Youngstown, O. Mrs. Kopo is seen with her three children, William, 4; David, 17 months, and Timothy, 4, shortly before leaving the jail. Mrs. Kopo was freed for the sake of her children through the effort of Juvenile Court Judge Henry Beckhbach, after a municipal court judge, who was "cracking down on speeders," ordered her to serve the sentence. OPS Grants Extension On Filing Deadline

Extension of mandatory effective date of six basic manufacturing regulations has been granted by Office of Price Stabilization.

Purpose of the action is to preserve the status quo until OPS can issue regulations to carry out the Copeland amendment to the recently amended Defense Production Act.

OPS had previously set Aug. 13 deadline for five of the manufacturers' regulations and Aug. 15 for the apparel regulations. OPS had expected to issue adjustment provisions to carry out the Copeland amendment prior to Aug. 13.

The Copeland amendment provides that upon application and a proper showing of need, cost and cost of the OPS shall adjust ceilings to reflect cost changes including overhead, up to July 26.

will appoint a psychiatrist to examine Mrs. Chevallier. Associates said the couple had been on the outs for some time and that she rarely accompanied him on his frequent trips to Paris made necessary because he was a deputy in the National Assembly (lower house of Parliament).

They said that a few days ago Mrs. Chevallier bought a small revolver and asked permission to carry it on the grounds her husband had dangerous enemies.

The Chevalliers were married while he was an intern at the Orleans hospital. They have two sons, eight and four.

Chevallier was a member of two constitutions of the French Republic. He was fourth French Republic. He was parliamentary leader of Plevien's own small political party in the Democratic and Socialist Union of the Resistance (U.S.R.). It was he who introduced the motion to confirm Plevien as premier.

Body Of Drowning Victim Recovered

Body of Paul Lance, 22, was recovered from Buffalo Lake near Hereford Saturday morning, being taken to his family for the second time in less than a month.

Lance, who lived with his parents in Summerfield near Hereford, was partially blind from a childhood accident. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lance, 208.

His younger brother, Jerry D. Lance, is in a Dallas hospital suffering from injuries received when he fell from a tree July 17 at the family farm home. He has never regained consciousness.

Lance and a cousin had been pleasure riding when the boat motor stalled. When he heard a splash, the boy, Eugene R. Clark, 15, turned around to find Lance had fallen from the boat.

Other survivors were another brother, C. J. of Hereford, and three sisters, Mrs. Rosene Dawson and Mrs. Ann Lance, both of Summerfield and Mrs. Billie Webb of Lubbock.

GERMAN

East German Communist boss Walter Ulbricht to sabotage western defenses by "all manner of strikes" in West Germany. He told them there would be ultimate ruin for West Germany if it remained.

Organizers of the Communist "World Peace Festival" immediately began moving hordes of replacements for the departing boys and girls into the city as the second week of the "Hate America" Jamboree got under way.

They will have a hard time, however, matching the pitch of mass hysteria reached in yesterday's demonstration.

From early in the morning until late in afternoon seemingly endless waves of blue-shirted kids shouting "Long Live Stalin" and "Aim! (Americans) Go Home" marched past the reviewing stand in Marx-Engle Platz.

There were at least a million boys and girls in the parade and the Peace demonstrators cheered from the sidelines. Western authorities thought this latter figure exaggerated.

Once past the reviewing stand, where East Germany's Communist President Wilhelm Pieck, Premier Otto Grotewohl, Ulbricht and their Russian guests took the "friendship salute," observers noted that the kids' enthusiasm collapsed.

Breaking ranks, they literally dropped out of line and fell asleep on the ground. Some of the marchers were only six years old.

Sleeper Uncovers Jewel Robbery In Parked Automobile

NEW YORK (AP) — "Of all the cars he had to fall asleep in it had to be mine."

With these words, police said Frederick Lebesch, 40, yesterday admitted stealing $4,500 in jewels from the Brooklyn home of Adolph Weber last week.

Lebesch referred to Cornelius Hinson, 32, Negro, who awoke only yesterday, a bit under the weather, in a strange car and found his clothing but his underwear gone.

Hinson garbed himself in a rain coat he found in the auto, police said, and started home to dress. But in the pocket of the raincoat, authorities added, Hinson found six pieces of jewelry.

He turned the jewelry over to police, who checked the car and found its owner Lebesch. Weber later walked in and identified the gems, including a diamond ring on his left hand.

Lebesch was charged with burglary. Hinson on with receiving stolen property.

One mystery remained what happened to Hinson's clothing?

that toppled over the embankment landed on its side, one on its wheel and one on its top. The derailment left the diner (crosswise of the double-track line), with one end in the air and the other buried in mud at the bottom of the fill.

A cloudburst hit the area Friday and Sibley said. "Indications are that the cause of the derailment was the fill sloughing into the double-track line, over due to recent heavy rains."

Sibley reported that the wrecked train was traveling 45 to 50 miles an hour at the time of the accident and that the engineer saw nothing wrong with the fill as he approached it.

Another passenger train passed safely over the fill an hour ahead of the streamliner, the railroad official added.

The call for help brought twenty-five ambulances and all available doctors to the scene, located about 30 miles west of Raleigh, the state capital. But after rescue workers had inspected the damaged cars, many of the ambulances returned empty.

Workers loaded injured passengers and those with slight injuries into the five cars that remained on the track behind the diesel locomotive. Others boarded the last four cars of the train and were hauled by another locomotive back to Four Oaks where doctors treated minor injuries.

Fun Night Planned Tuesday As Youth Program Closes

City officials and parents will attend "fun night" at E. M. Baker school Tuesday night to see the results of the summer youth program, sponsored jointly by the city and local civic clubs.

Children in the youth program will have summer projects on display including finished works in leathercraft, suede craft, painting, woodburning and carving and figurines.

In addition to the display of projects, an archery exhibition will be given and a washer pitching contest. These sports are only two of a program of athletic events in the youth program.

Other sports included fishing, softball, volleyball, basketball, tennis and swimming.

About 70 boys and girls have passed their beginning swimming test in the program. Marvin Bowman, director of the program, said today. Special instructors in the program include "Slim" Davis, game warden, who taught boys the fundamentals of fishing, and J. W. Bruton, Kellerville, who instructed archery.

The youth program, which began June 18, will end activities Wednesday. Supervisors in the program were Bowman, Harry Kelly, Mrs. Beth Bowman, Mrs. Betty Tipp and Charles Meech.

A similar program has been in operation at the Carver school with Rev. W. B. Moore in charge. The Carver "fun night" was held last week with games and a picnic for children and their parents.

Leaders in the youth program, conducted at Sam Houston and Baker schools from 1 to 5 p.m.

Friendly Challenge

Drive at least two new cars, this time, before you buy—and be sure one of them is a new 1951 Packard!

And why do we issue this challenge? The two best reasons in the world:

- 1 Until you drive a new 1951 Packard, you just don't know what's been happening in the automotive world.
- 2 The best advertising is "word-of-mouth" advertising. It's to our advantage to start you talking about the advancements that make Packard the newest new car of the year.

P.S. Today's most thoughtful buyers will gladly accept this challenge.

Some "eye-openers" that await you on your Packard "Challenge Drive":

- Top-compression power: New Packard Thunderbolt Engines give you the efficiency of America's highest-compression engines. Plus: service-free simplicity — up to 25% fewer working parts than in engines of comparable power.
- Ultra-smooth drive: A Packard exclusive combining the smoothness of no gear-changing during acceleration with the efficiency of no slippage when cruising.
- New steering magic: New ideas in steering design and weight distribution let you maneuver a Packard with as little effort as it takes to turn a door knob!
- New everything! All backed by motordom's greatest durability record. Fact: Of all the Packards built in the last 52 years, over 50% are still in service!

It's more than a car... it's a PACKARD

Industry No Drop Demand

The auto industry built about 25,000 cars since World War II. It forecasts little change in demand for its products. Manufacturers' view problems ahead are of production and effort. Some cars are in for a sharp drop in sales next year because of scarcity. They say will bounce back as quickly as materials become available. The company has its analysts constantly at work on potential demand. Recent long-range studies have indicated an increase in demand for 1955 the biggest into industry history. They are said to have defense work holding up production in 1952 with a concurrent decline in demand. The "combinations" program which the industry hopes both military and civilians would begin to use in 1954, is still in the analysis.

How To Score With Swing Hand

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
"If you like big swings," writes my old friend Jules Tilles, "you'll enjoy this hand. It was played in the Paradise Bridge Club, here in the Bronx, in a team match. We've been holding team matches several times a week for many years now, so we've had swing hands before — but this one set a new record. Incidentally, seven of the eight players were masters, and one was a Life Master."

"At the first table the hand was bid as you may see from the diagram. West thought he could knock the stuffing out of six hearts even though he didn't count on his partner to win a defensive trick. He didn't feel so happy when the dummy went down, disclosing the ace of hearts behind him; he had expected to find both top hearts in declarer's hand. But he felt even worse when South ruffed the first club. "As you might expect, South led a low heart and finessed dummy's ten as a safety play. That was the end of the course. West could get one trump trick, and South made his doubled slam for a score of 1660 points. "There was some talk about the double. If West had passed instead of doubling, South might fall to finesse dummy's ten of hearts. He might fear a spade return if that trump finesse happened to lose. In short, West might wind up 100 points less instead of 1660 minus if he just passed instead of doubling. "The actual result at the other table was far more spectacular. Each started by bidding only one diamond, South was equally modest, with an overall of only one spade. West bid two clubs, and North raised to two spades. Then the boys came out from behind the bushes. East jumped to five clubs, and South went on to five spades. "West pushed on to six clubs, and South stayed right in the fight by bidding six spades. This rode around to East, who went right on to seven clubs. South passed this to his partner, who thought his ace of hearts was well worth a penalty double. East redoubled, hoping to scare North away from a spade lead. (East didn't know that his partner had no spades.) "The grand slam was ice-cold, of course, so East-West scored 1910 points. Since their teammates had already won 1660 points, the total swing on this hand was 3370 points. Not bad for just one hand, is it?"

Mexican Youth Paying Back Hospitality Given In U.S.

By MAC ROY RASOR
MEXICO CITY — (AP) — A 19-year-old Mexican youth has taken the "good neighbor" problem in to his own hands.

Texas tourists who happen to cross paths with him are learning about a brand of super hospitality that even the Texas Good Neighbor Commission would hardly dare dream about. He is Carlos Huesca, citizen of Mexico but football player-graduate of Huntington, Ind., high school. His studies in the United States for the past four years have been by special arrangement of the governments of the two countries. This fall he plans to return to enter college to study international trade. "I first met Carlos at breakfast in the dining room of a small hotel off the beaten tourist path. He was visiting. I learned later with his brothers and sisters who lived in a nearby apartment. His parents are dead. "With the politeness of an old-time southern colonel, he approached our table and inquired if my wife and I were planning to go to Xochimilco. It was Sunday and all tourists go to Xochimilco on Sunday to ride flower-decked canoes through garden-like lagoons. "Suspicious, like most Americans, we assumed he had an "angle." "We told him we thought we would go later in the morning, but thought we knew the way and wouldn't need any help. "You do not understand," he broke in. "I am a guide. Mexico City is my home but I have been going to school in the United States for the past four years. The people there have been so wonderful to me, I made up my mind that I would help

29 Youths Pass Course

Twenty-nine additional youths are awaiting presentation of their American Red Cross beginner's swimming certificate, after completing the course under Harry Kelley, assistant in the summer youth program. Marvin Bowman, director, served as instructor for Kelley. The beginner's test, considered by instructors one of the most difficult to pass, includes the combined stroke, kick glide, rhythmic breathing and front dives. There are 20 tests to pass before the course is completed. The following boys in the youth program have earned certificates: George Roberts, Larry Cox, Donny McDonald, Bobby Conley, Tommy Turpin, Don and Jim Pendergrass, Keith Lawrence, Larry McWilliams, John David Meech, Donald Young, Coyle Winborn, Jack White, Tommy Hill, Kent Camp, Leo Mathus, Frank Haynes, Billy Gene and Jimmy Rexroat, Jack White, Ronald Stafford, James Byars, James Brock, Jimmy Goff, Corky Godfrey, Scott Hahn, Larry Bolder, Darrel and Dick Hopper. Fifty other boys passed the beginner's test earlier in the summer program, Kelley said.

Horsemeat Sold For Filet Mignon

NEW YORK — (AP) — The sale of about six tons of horsemeat in Bronx and Harlem restaurants and butcher shops as filet mignon and round steak was discovered with the arrest of two men. One prisoner, described as a member of a ring operating in New York, Buffalo, Jersey City and Baltimore, was caught with two hindquarters of horsemeat in a trunk of his sedan. He was trying to sell the 300 pounds to a butcher who called the police. The horsemeat was bought out of the state for 25 cents a pound and sold as filet mignon for 50 cents a pound wholesale. The wholesale price for genuine filet mignon and round steak has been around 90 cents a pound.

Natural Tones Used On Wood

NEW YORK — For interior trim, natural wood and pale-stain finishes are enjoying a constantly increasing popularity. The grain, wheat maple, bleached walnut, pale mahogany and weathered oak stains — to mention a few of the new finishes — create effects that are distinctive when applied to hearth paneling in living rooms, wood cabinets in kitchens, built-in dressing tables in bedrooms, and doors that are paneled as well as the modern style smooth-surfaced ones.

The fashion, say interior decorators, is due to the fact that people like finishes which reveal the natural beauty of the grain and color of the wood. The trend is encouraged also by the popularity of light treatments on modern furniture.

Never before have such interesting and easy-to-apply stains and natural finishes been available through local paint stores and contracting painters. For refurbishing the woodwork of an old house, there are quick and easy-to-use finish removers to take off old coatings. There are also bleaches available to help prepare a surface for new treatment.

The pace is being set for this fashion for light-hued finishes by many of the new homes in suburban developments. Here, for example, are "studios" which double extra bedrooms with built-in dressing tables, recessed between sets of drawers and wall cupboards and book shelves — all given a smart air by the pale, natural finish on the woodwork. The other three walls may be painted in medium dark color.

Or, for those who like plenty of light, the walls are painted in a pastel tint in a color that contrasts with the wood finish. In such rooms, window draperies and upholstery fabrics have similar light grounds which reveal the terms in stronger accent hues. The floor covering repeats the chief color of the walls in a slightly darker shade.

Because of the variety offered by the new pale finishes, home owners find them adaptable for home-made built-in furniture projects — a set of shelves to fit the jog of a wall, a dinette counter or bar, a shallow closet at the end of a hallway. Furniture pieces bought in the unfinished state also present prime opportunities for obtaining a silver gray, driftwood or a limed wood effect.

Also available are stains giving the rich, natural color of rewood and cedar and the delicate hues of butternut, ash and pecan, as well as the new tints for the always favored maple.

These and other finishes which were formerly custom made may now be bought ready-mixed at your paint store. For very light natural finishes, transparent lacquers, varnishes and shellac are available. These protective coatings bring out the latent charm of wood and facilitate its cleaning.

In buying unfinished wood furniture, be sure that the joints are tight and neatly made, experienced wood finishers advise. In general, look for a uniform grain pattern if the finish of the finish is to be very light. If not already prepared, the surface should be carefully sandedpapered and then dusted off thoroughly. A final treatment of paste wax, rubbed down, is always a good idea. Or, color-in-oil may be added to work already in the room. If a

Home Cost Can Be Lowered By Payment, Short Loan

The total cost of a home can be reduced considerably by paying down as much as possible and paying off the mortgage principal as fast as possible, it is pointed out by mortgage officers of lending institutions.

A total of $142 more interest is paid on each $1,000 borrowed at 4.2 percent if a loan runs for 20 years instead of 15 years, for example. In the case of a $10,000 loan with a term of 20 years, total interest would amount to $5,190, whereas if the loan ran for 15 years, total interest would be $2,770.

A concrete example of savings effected can be seen in this hypothetical case of the purchase of a house costing $12,500 by two different families, each of whom pays $59 a month to meet the 4.2 percent interest and retire the mortgage.

Family no. 1 pays down the minimum of $3,300 allowed by government credit restrictions. The $9,200 mortgage runs for 20 years and in that period, a total of $4,773 will be paid in interest. Family no. 2 makes a down payment of $4,800, ($1,500 more than paid by family no. 1) and the $7,700 mortgage is written for a 15-year term. At the end of that time, the $39 monthly color card of stains at the paint store does not show the hue that is wanted, your dealer can advise you on mixing two stains together to get the required shade. Or, color-in-oil may be added to clear finish.

Finishing Items Is Fun

By MR. FIX Distributed by NEA Service

Lots of people are buying unpainted furniture these days for kitchens, game rooms, dining rooms, dens, and even for living rooms when they feel they can do a finishing job that will look as if it belonged.

For simple utilitarian purposes, a couple of coats of good enamel, applied after a careful job of sanding, will do the trick. Paint will serve for living room or den if you take a nicely-designed end table and finish it in solid, glossy black.

There's no reason why you can't make good unpainted furniture look as good as other furniture around the house that has been already finished. It takes some work — careful work, too — but it's worth it.

First, pick the color stain you want to use. Water stains are easiest for the amateur to handle and dry faster than oil stains. Before you begin staining, you'll have the wood smooth by rubbing it with No. 60 steel wool and then No. 00 sandpaper. Dust the wood carefully, then apply the stain quickly with a wide, well-loaded brush to avoid streaking. If it's too light, try a second coat.

The simplest finish, after the stain is dry, is to put on two or three coats of varnish or white shellac, rubbing down with No. 60 steel wool or sandpaper lightly between each coat.

Then handrub with paste wax for the final polish. Varnishes come in a gloss or dull finish; rubbing carefully with steel wool (for semi-dull) or powdered pumice and oil (for flat) will take the high sheen off shellac.

French polishing will give you the finest job of all — long lasting, with the surface of fine period furniture. After staining with white shellac, thin it with turpentine-like consistency — and applied with a soft lintless cloth in rapid, straight strokes.

When the first coat is dry, sand and put on additional coats until a light glow appears. Now add several drops of oil to the shellac — boiled linseed oil or pure olive oil — and shift to a rotary motion. Add a little more oil with each coat until you have a deeply glowing finish.

A simpler version of French polishing is called dip-and-rub. Apply one thin coat of shellac to get the stain and sand it down. Then get a couple of drops of turpentine in one, white shellac (4-6 cut) in the other. Roll a cloth into a pad, dip it first into the turps, then into the shellac, and rub it into the wood with a rotary motion. About four or five coats will give you a rich soft gloss. If you want a higher polish, wait 18 hours and rub some with the cloth dipped in nothing but linseed oil.

None of these is a simple affair — none chore like slapping on a coat of enamel. But you'll have something to be proud of long after your arm stops aching.

Concrete Walk Easy To Build

A concrete sidewalk can be laid directly on the earth if it is well drained, otherwise it should have a well-packed six inches base of clean gravel or cinders.

The concrete itself should be one part cement, 2-parts sand and 3-parts small crushed stone. Since four inches is the right thickness for a walk, 2x4s will serve as side forms, being held in position by stakes driven in ground on the outside. Top edges of the 2x4s should mark the surface of the finished walk and the boards on one side should be one-fourth inches to one-half inches higher than the other so water will drain off the walk.

The walk is laid in six feet sections with 1/2" expansion spaces between each section to allow for expansion. This is provided by setting boards on edge crosswise between the side 2x4s and tacking on one face of each cross-board.

When the side forms and cross-boards are in position, concrete is poured in alternate sections. The cross-boards are removed, leaving the strips of felt in place, and concrete is poured in the remaining sections. As concrete is poured it should be spaded and tamped to settle the stones and pebbles and bring cement paste to the top to provide a smooth surface. After a section is poured, a straight board is set on edge across the walk from one side form to the other and worked with a sawing, zig-zag motion to remove surplus concrete and to level the surface.

Whether you're interested in furniture for office, reception room, lounge, recreation room or any other interior where furniture must withstand a lot of wear, you can take a tip from cost-conscious beauty salon operators who must invest in furniture that will keep its good looks for many years.

Most of the metal furniture used in the beauty field is chrome plated, for quality chrome plating resists almost any attack made upon it. But with the present shortage of chrome finishing, many shops are turning to heat treated enamel finishes on their furniture, in both square and round tubing.

The unusual durability of these plastic enamel finishes makes them ideal for much-used interiors, and the wide range of colors promises to open up new vistas for the decorators, who now can choose metal furniture which will blend with the existing color scheme.

Paint Used For Finishing Needs

Of the millions of gallons of paint manufactured yearly, a great proportion is used for finishing products made in factories. A quick glance about you will reveal any number of manufacturing articles that depend on some type of paint, varnish, lacquer or enamel for their protection. Preparing the surfaces of these products so that the finish will adhere firmly and present an attractive appearance is a specialized field in itself.

Intriguing Enamel Finishes Decorate Metal Furniture

An intriguing variety of colorful enamel finishes for metal furniture promises to make modern commercial and professional interiors of all types more cheerful and interesting.

Almost as durable as the steel tubing they adorn, these new enamel finishes are baked at high temperatures to give them a toughness which will resist chipping or fading. Available in practically every color of the rainbow, they soon will be seen in offices, restaurants, hospitals, reception rooms and other commercial interiors on a scale undreamed of a few years ago.

For most people this will mean working in and visiting much more pleasant and cheerful interiors. For the amateur or professional decorator it also will mean new horizons in which the color of the metal furniture can be blended smoothly with floor coverings, drapes or wall and ceiling treatments.

Mudguards Should Be Safeguarded

Both the upper and under surfaces of automobile mudguards should be inspected frequently for the presence of rust. These portions of the car are subjected to strenuous wear. The tires are constantly splashing water and hurling dust and small stones at them. Keeping the mudguards painted prevents rust from gaining a foothold there, keeps the appearance up and maintains the resale value.

Seating Should Be Chosen With Care

The fact that you sit in a chair at your work much longer than you do at home should point up the care which must be given to the selection of seating in offices, factories and stores. These chairs must take more abuse than any pieces in the home, which explains why metal furniture is so often found in these commercial settings, reports the Metal Furniture Institute.

Another reason for its popularity, according to the Institute, is that good steel furniture, in round or square tubing, never chips or splinters. The result is that fewer stockings and clothes are snagged, and employee morale is better. Less production time is lost, too, when such mishaps are decreased. Chrome or baked enamel finishes help to make a smooth, attractive coating for this practical metal furniture.

Ott's AGENCY

ATLANTA — (AP) — Texas manufacturing plants are hiring more workers and paying them more money.

The number employed in manufacturing in Texas in June reached 390,700, the Labor Department's southern bureau of statistics reported today.

This was an increase of 8,800 over the 385,000 employed in May. Average weekly earnings rose from $56.18 in June, 1950, to $61.42 in June, 1951. Average hourly earnings rose from $1.33 to $1.48.

'Build Dream Home Says NPA If You Have Materials

WASHINGTON — (AP) — It's O.K. with the government to go right ahead and start building your dream house. Whether it's a tin bungalow or a big mansion doesn't matter.

What is important is that you have on hand or in sight all but small amounts of steel, copper or aluminum that will be needed after Sept. 30 to finish it.

If you don't, you had better get an authorization before you start. Otherwise the house-warming might be delayed.

Still busy explaining the new government construction order (M-4 issued Aug. 3), National Production Authority (NPA) officials emphasized anew what it does and doesn't do.

The main thing that it doesn't do insofar as home building is concerned is to put any barrier in the way of starting construction.

And the main thing that it does do is to fix rigid limits on the quantities of metals that may be used without specific authorization after Sept. 30.

If more metals will be needed than the allowable limits, an authorization and allotment of the materials must be obtained now. But for the home builder who has the materials or has them promised — all but small quantities, that is — nothing has to be done.

Just go ahead and start building.

The M-4 order set off all kinds of confusion as to what it meant to home building. Part of it, at least, resulted from the lack of a clear-cut explanation when it was issued.

This has resulted in a barrage of questions which now are being cleared up as rapidly as possible.

The order places all construction under the NPA's Controlled Materials Plan (CMP), beginning Oct. 1. But it allows builders "self-authorization" for small amounts of critical materials. This means the builder can buy within the allowable limits against available supplies without the formality of applying for a specific authorization.

Government authority must be obtained for any house, whether started before or after Sept. 30, which cannot be built within the "self-authorization" limits.

What kind of a house can be built within the allowable limits is a matter of debate. Some contend a pretty good house can be built. Others insist not much of a house.

Here are the quantities of controlled materials for various types of dwelling construction for which the "self-authorization" procedure may be used starting Oct. 1:

One dwelling unit (using a steel pipe water distribution system) — carbon steel, 1,800 pounds; structural steel, none; alloy steel and stainless steel, none; copper and copper base alloys, 35 pounds; aluminum, none.

One dwelling unit (using copper pipe water distribution systems) — carbon steel, 1,450 pounds; structural steel, none; alloy and stainless steel, none; copper, 160 pounds; aluminum, none.

Two-dwelling units (using copper pipe water distribution systems) — carbon steel, 2,700 pounds; structural steel, none; alloy and stainless steel, none; copper, 300 pounds; aluminum, none.

Three-dwelling units (using steel pipe water distribution systems) — carbon steel, 5,100 pounds; structural steel, none; alloy steel and stainless steel, none; copper, 100 pounds; aluminum, none.

Three-dwelling units (using copper pipe water distribution systems) — carbon steel, 4,100 pounds; structural steel, none; alloy steel and stainless steel, none; copper, 450 pounds; aluminum, none.

Four-dwelling units (using steel pipe water distribution systems) — carbon steel, 6,500 pounds; structural steel, none; alloy and stainless steel, none; copper, 125 pounds; aluminum, none.

Four dwelling units using copper pipe water distribution systems) — carbon steel, 6,200 pounds; structural steel, none; alloy steel and stainless steel, none; copper, 575 pounds; aluminum, none.

Building Permits Show Increase

Seven building permits were issued last week totaling $36,648. Permits were issued to:

R. C. McKee, 701 Deane Drive, new garage, $800; J. E. Flint, 122 Williston, new garage, $1,000; James O. Gray, 1701 Duncan, new residence, $9,000; Vernon Langley, 622 N. Sloane, new residence, $7,000; Ed Cleveland, 812 Christine, new residence, $17,548; Elva Duree, 534 Finley, moving in, $300; and Mrs. Josephine Eshom, 221 W. Brown, trailer court, $500.

Officials said the limitations do not include so-called B products. These include furnaces, bath tubs and similar fixtures — and may be obtained in addition to the allowable "self-authorization" limits for the controlled materials.

William & Mary Grid Coach Quits

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. — (AP) — R. N. (Rube) McCray resigned abruptly Saturday as head football coach and athletic director at the College of William and Mary.

McCray's resignation followed disclosures that college officials are probing alleged "malpractices" by members of the athletic department in the academic grading of student athletes. Simultaneously, Barney Wilson, head coach of William and Mary's basketball team, handed in his resignation to President John Pomfret.

News of the school's investigation into the grading of athletes came in a statement from Al Vandewegh, a former member of McCray's football staff, who made public a letter from William and Mary Dean Nelson Marshall "absolving" Vandewegh of any complicity in the "malpractices."

Vandewegh's statement revealed that Dr. Marshall and other administrative officials here had evidence that the record of high school athletes have been altered

Omission Corrected By British Group

LONDON — (AP) — At long last London is to have its own version of Christopher Morley's "Baker Street Irregulars."

A collection of Sherlock Holmes fans, red-faced at the thought of their hero going virtually unrecognized in his own city, have formed what they prosaically call the "Sherlock Holmes Society of London," with the equally prosaic aim of bringing together "people who have a common interest as readers and students of the literature of Sherlock Holmes."

"For a considerable number of years," the new society says, "there has been in Britain no society devoted to the study of the life and work of Sherlock Holmes. This is the more remarkable in view of the many such societies which exist in other parts of the world. The omission has now been rectified."

The new society has as its president the vice chancellor of Cambridge University, S. C. Roberts.

BUSINESS REVIEW AND FORECAST

Every Day Is Baby Day At Cretney's Drug

SHAMROCK SERVICE STATION, owned and operated by Charley Ford, is located at the intersection of Foster and Somerville, and is the friendly stopping place for Pampa motorists. Charley Ford and his crew service anything from a car like "Izzy" to a limousine with a complete line of those fine Shamrock products and a full line of service station offerings for your convenience.

Local Firm Parents' Ally Keeping Baby Well, Happy

At Cretney Drug Company every day is Baby Day. There you will find many of the items needed to keep your little one healthy and happy, for Cretney's has everything above the counters to cuddly little stuffed animals.

Another word about thermometers; every nursery should have one! It is much wiser to get one when there is no need for it so that when the cause does arise you have the thermometer ready and on hand to use. Owning one gives you a certain feeling of security and enables you to advise your doctor of baby's EXACT TEMPERATURE when phoning him.

Baby scales are another item which enables you to keep close tab on baby's progress. Weight is a very important indication of your little fellow's development during his first months, so you want to be SURE that he is making gains. Guesswork isn't wise here.

Eating to your Junior Miss (or Mr.) is the all important thing in life. Realizing this Cretney's stocks a complete line of nursing units, nipples, bottle warmers, bottle holders, and warming dishes. For proper cleaning you will find both bottle brushes and nipple brushes. A real time saver is the sterilizer which sterilizes an entire day's supply of bottles and nipples at one time; these are well worth the cost. Of course Cretney's also has the various powdered milks, sugars, and cereals for baby. There are vitamins, too, to assure a strong body.

Nothing is dearer than a clean sweet smelling baby and Cretney's has everything that you need to keep your baby just that way always. You will find a wide assortment of choice things for baby's bath tray. Included are various leading brands of soap, powder, lotion, cream, and oil. There is absorbent cotton, cotton tipped applicators, and bath thermometers. And little comb and brush sets with the softest bristles ever to protect baby's tender scalp. You will even find little rubber toys to make bath time fun time for the tiny tots.

Disposable diapers are a real boon to the busy (and often overworked) mother. These cost only a few pennies each. They are especially grand to use when traveling or visiting. It is also nice to have some on hand to use when mother isn't feeling well or when it is raining. Diaper liners are a real help, too, and cost only about one-half cent each. Plastic and rubber pants give baby real "social security."

Other things that you will want to have in your home for baby are these: boric acid powder, camphorated oil, milk of magnesia, prickly heat powder, baby hot water bottle, infant syringe, and medicine dropper.

For mother and yet in reality for baby is the BETTER HOMES AND GARDENS BABY BOOK. This book has been highly praised by mothers, doctors, medical journals, and others. Any mother is bound to be hounded by the question of what to do in many instances and this baby book contains detailed instructions on many useful matters. Included in the book is complete information, arranged in chronological form, on care of the baby and small child from the prenatal period thru to the sixth year; formulas, feeding schedules, menus, and recipes from leading medical and nutrition authorities; complete record section carried thru age of 18, covering physical and mental development, child's hobbies, interests, and special abilities; first aid for ordinary home accidents and emergencies with up-to-the-minute advice from medical authorities on handling of wounds and other injuries; more than 200 "how to" photographs and illustrations showing approved equipment and steps to take; full instructions for handling problems of discipline, eating, sleeping, and many others that worry parents; complete list of books and phonograph records for children under 6 years.

If you are awaiting your heir do get your book NOW because it can be a real help to you even before your sweet baby's arrival. There are chapters on Before Baby Arrives, Complications of Pregnancy, Things to Have Ready for Your Baby, A Name for Your Baby, and The Birth of Your Baby.

Do make Cretney's your ally in keeping your baby comfortable and happy.

Noblitt-Coffey Is Modern Without Being Highfalutin

We were showing a visitor through our plant the other day like we always like to do, especially the shop where our top-flight factory-trained mechanics fix up cars like new, any make or size, that is.

Our visitor was shown various electrical gadgets that can record a murmur on a butterfly's back; he saw a wheel alignment machine that yells murder when a wheel is as much as a thousandth of an inch out of line; he saw one of our men working on the insides of a motor while it was running, amazing to our visitor, but nothing unusual to our crew of auto doctors.

In addition to some of the things he saw, we told the visitor that we rebuild worn out motors and install factory built ones, we do any number and all manner of minor and major repairs, from motor overhauling to fender and top fixing. We aim to please, be hospitable and give full value for every repair dollar.

Proper tools and genuine factory parts add up to saving money for Gray County car owners.

When a car leaves our shop it has not only received instrument tests but it must be marked OK from top management.

Our visitor remarked that we were modern but not highfalutin. We aim to be. We want folks to come over to our place on Gray Street and even if they just want a bit of grease for a dry spot, we'll do it just as tho the car was our personal property.

We're right handy to any part of Pampa Town, but if you've no time to come over, just call 3320 and we'll pick up your car, work on it while you work, and deliver it back to you at day's end.

Those are a few of the reasons why we here at Noblitt-Coffey Pontiac, Incorporated are modern but not highfalutin. We aim to please you at all times. Remember, we are at 120 North Gray in Pampa.

LOVE THAT WATERMELON — Stinkie Pete, pet skunk of the Ed Walters family, scatters watermelon seeds in all directions as he goes after his favorite dessert. He doesn't mind that he is receiving the rapt attention of Mrs. Walters, son, Roger, and even the bird, with an "I don't believe it" expression.

It's Life Of Riley For Stinkie Pete, The Destunk Skunk

Ordinary pets are all right, but Mrs. Ed Walters, 613 N. Wells, sort of likes the "out of the ordinary" ones too. Her latest acquisition in the latter category is Stinkie Pete, who really smells very nice since he has been deodorized.

Pete is a very friendly little animal who likes to eat and play in his own fashion. His favorite foods are raw meat and water-melon, although he will eat dog food when he is really hungry.

Mrs. Walters trains the skunk just as she would a young dog, with excellent results. She takes him downtown and he follows along after her in a well behaved manner, although he isn't always too popular with passers-by.

Pete is really quite harmless, for modern science has removed his natural weapon, his odor, and he has also had rabies shots.

The Walters family bought the pet from a boy who found him but wasn't permitted to keep him. Mrs. Walters said they have had the skunk about two months and estimated his age at about four months.

Another pet in the Walters household is a cockatoo, or Australian parrot, which gets along very well with Pete and with the Walters' dog, Baby.

Revival In Progress At Harrah Methodist; J. B. Baker Preacher

REV. J. B. BAKER

A revival is now in progress at the Harrah Methodist Church. Meetings began Sunday and will be held until Aug. 22.

The Rev. J. B. Baker of Quitaque is the preacher and is assisted by his wife, who sings special numbers and also works with the children.

The Rev. E. C. Armstrong, Harrah Methodist pastor, said "We consider ourselves very fortunate in securing Rev. Baker to hold our revival. He is recognized one of the leading evangelistic preachers in the Northwest Texas Conference. We would like for everyone to hear this man, for he brings the old time gospel messages."

Women Voters Plan Busy Fall Season

The Pampa Provisional League of Women Voters will meet in the City Club Rooms at 8:15 tonight to hear County Attorney Bill Waters discuss the revised Texas election laws.

On Sept. 10 the league will present an outstanding speaker on world affairs at a luncheon meeting. The speaker and place will be announced at a later date.

Plans are under way for a "Know Your Town" survey to be made this fall, and the unit meetings are also being planned.

Mrs. L. M. Hicks, resource chairman, has announced that these meetings will start early in September, and will be on the study of inflation. Mrs. Hicks has requested all members interested in unit study to read and save current material on this subject for the first meeting.

Mrs. Frank Culbertson, league president, and the board have named the following membership chairmen: public relations, Mrs. Clifton High; bulletin chairman, Mrs. Howard Vineyard; unit chairman, Mrs. J. W. Garman; resource chairman, Mrs. L. M. Hicks; local survey chairman, Mrs. Bert Arney; voters' service, Mrs. J. W. Garman.

Mrs. Mary Anne Duke Resigns As County Home Demonstration Agent

Mrs. Mary Anne Duke, who has been Gray County Home Demonstration agent for the past three years, has resigned that post effective August 21. She has obtained a year's leave of absence from the Texas Extension Service and will spend the time doing special work in family relationship at Iowa State College, Ames, Ia.

MRS. MARY ANNE DUKE

Succeeding Mrs. Duke as county HD agent here will be Miss Helen Dunlap, who has been the agent at Brownfield. She will be on duty here August 22.

Mrs. Duke and her daughter, Martha Anne, 10, are in Ames this week making arrangement for living quarters.

Friendship-- Family Style

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE AP Newsfeatures Writer

Having brothers and sisters, or even one of either, is an experience that enriches not just childhood but all of life. Children growing up in the same family do not necessarily live in perfect harmony (and that's an understatement). There is no reason why we should expect them to. Yet in spite of the never-ending race to be "first," to have the last word, to come off best or to outwit the others, the assets far outweigh the liabilities in this brother-sister (or sister-sister, or brother-brother) business. The game is more than worth the candle!

Just how worthwhile this game can be is illustrated graphically in Edith G. Neisser's pamphlet, "Children in the Family: Rivals and Friends," the latest in the series edited by Professor Ruth Cunningham for the Bureau of Publications, Teachers College, Columbia University.

Miss Neisser, who is staff member of the Association for Family Living points out that spontaneous give-and-take, sometimes good humored and sometimes not, is the manner in which children learn and grow.

Those who have studied human behavior, she says, tell us that whether people are friendly or suspicious, generous or selfish, all through life is largely determined by the experiences they have in their earliest years with parents and brothers and sisters.

"So our concern with early relationships is not just in having things go smoothly at the dinner table or in the backyard, in the classroom or at recess. There is far more involved than adults' convenience or children's manners. We are interested in helping our youngsters grow up—in feeling, in thinking, and in the way they get along with others.

"We know that feelings of resentment about his brothers and sisters that have built up inside an individual in early years may

Good Recipe For Chicken - Dumplings

By GAYNOR MADDOX NEA Staff Writer

Now call the neighbors in because you've got a delicious recipe. Sour cream makes a tender chicken even more so and also does wonders with the flavor.

Sour Cream Chicken and Dumplings (Serves 4-6)

One 3-1/2 pound frying chicken, flour, salt and pepper, 1-2 teaspoon powdered ginger, 1 pint sour cream, 1-2 cup milk, 1 egg, 1 cup prepared biscuit mix.

Cut chicken into parts, as for frying. Dredge with flour, salt, pepper and ginger. Sauté in fat until brown all over. Place chicken in deep, buttered casserole.

Pour sour cream over it and cover tightly. Bake 2-1/2 hours in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) before adding dumplings.

To make dumplings: Add milk and beaten egg to prepared biscuit mix. Drop batter by spoonfuls into casserole. Replace cover and bake an additional 1-2 hour.

Melba Custard (Serves 6)

Two cups milk, 1-3 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon cornstarch, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 3 eggs, separated, 1 teaspoon vanilla extract, 1-3 cup raspberry jam, 1 No. 2-1/2 can peach halves, 6 tablespoons confectioners' sugar, 1-8 teaspoon almond extract.

Scald milk in double boiler. Mix sugar, cornstarch, salt and beaten egg yolks. Add to milk and cook, stirring constantly until mixture coats spoon. Remove from heat, cool, and add vanilla.

Four custard into sherbet glasses and place 1 tablespoon of jam on each serving. Add peach halves on top with whipped cream flavored with confectioners' sugar and almond extract.

WE, THE WOMEN
By RUTH MILLET
NEA Staff Writer

Often the self-styled "overworked housewife" is more a victim of poor management than of necessary overwork.

When that is the case, it is usually because the housewife makes at least one of the following mistakes:

She doesn't have her work well enough organized so that it is pretty much equally divided among all the days of the week. She has never figured out just what household tasks are really necessities and what ones are the result of being overly-meticulous.

She isn't making use of all the short cuts and easy methods of doing routine jobs that many housewives have found to be time savers.

She gets no cooperation or help from her family because she isn't an executive but a one-woman drudge.

She is the kind of perfectionist who can't rest easy until she gets her house in shining order and then has a fit if any member of the family disturbs the order.

SHE'S ALWAYS FUSSING
She is never content with her house "as is," but is always dissatisfied with something and scheming and planning to change this or that.

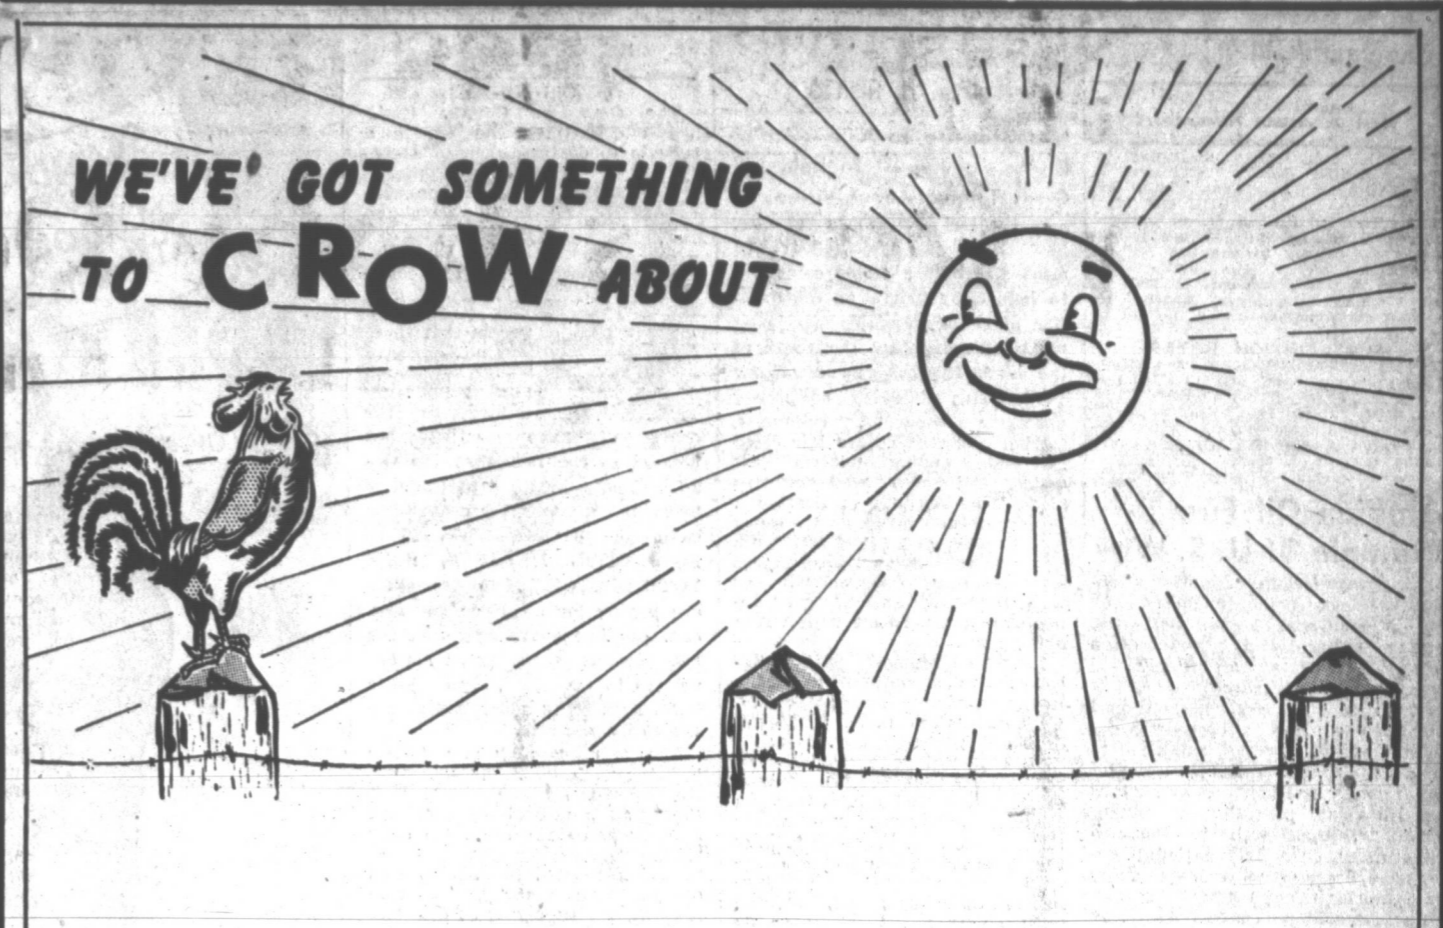

She is a putter-offer, letting the work pile up so that just contemplating all there is to be done tires her out.

She would rather complain of being overworked than set aside a couple of hours a day to get a little rest.

She is a victim of the view that housework is the dull test form of drudgery — and therefore hates the job so much she does it without spirit and without getting any real satisfaction out of what she does accomplish.

Of course, there are many women with large families who are just plain "overworked." But there are even more women who think they are "overworked" but who could, with better management and a different attitude toward their jobs, get their work organized well enough to get out of the "overworked" group.

Miss Neisser, we need a goal that will point the way for us in our handling of the innumerable day-to-day stresses and strains that children in the same family meet.

Arabian Oil Firm Example Of U. S. Way

In many fields, American industrial enterprise operates on an international scale. Left-wing elements here and abroad often use this fact as an ideological weapon - according to their version of the story, international business always ruthlessly exploits nations and peoples to feed its own insatiable appetite for money and power, and gives as little as possible in return. However, the truth is that in case after case international enterprise backed with huge sums of American capital and staffed with American executives and technicians has done just the opposite. It has built up backward lands, and brought new and higher standards of living and of health to their populations.

The Arabian American Oil Co. is a particularly interesting example of this standard. It contains one of the world's great underground reservoirs of crude oil. It had not been developed. Seventeen years ago the Aramco venture was started with this end in view by a group of American oil companies working in partnership. Agreements and treaties were arranged with the Saudi Arab government. Aramco put up the money and went to work in a far-off land, which is primarily desert, which has one of the hottest climates on earth, and which had changed but little over the centuries. Very difficult technical problems had to be met and solved. Practically everything needed for the vast job of exploration and development had to be shipped into the Saudi Arabia from the sea from the United States. In the first year of production, 1944, about 1,000,000 tons of crude oil came out of the desert. Since then the figure has steadily climbed, reaching almost 26,200,000 tons in 1950. The company produced, saved and sold 49,323,000 cubic feet of gas in 1950.

At present, something like 62 percent of all the company's employees are Saudi Arab. Americans make up 13 percent of the total, while the balance consists of Palestinian, Adense, Indian, Pakistani and other nationalities. The company has carried on an extensive accident prevention program. It devoted special effort to industrial training of company time. So that native employees can qualify for better and more responsible jobs as soon as possible. At the government's request, it has developed township layouts of a model character in various areas. It has aided in the development of local industries, such as ice plants, machine shops, and so on. And it has been a very important factor in helping to improve Saudi Arab agriculture through modern farming methods. The company has also carried on an extensive public health program. Clinics and hospitals of the most up-to-date type have been built and staffed, and last year more than 6800 patients were hospitalized while 310,000 outpatient treatments were given. Preventive medicine has been stressed, particularly in anti-malaria work.

The Saudi Arab government receives large royalties and substantial taxes from Aramco. A short time ago the company issued a handsome report of operations, containing both English and Arab texts. In the foreword, this was said: "The union of American capital and development skills with the crude petroleum resources of Saudi Arabia is bringing a fair division of profits to the government and the company, and makes possible the building of a better life for the people of Saudi Arabia." The record of this remarkable venture certainly seems to bear that statement out.

The Doctor Says

By EDWARD P. JODRAN, M. D.

I am always somewhat astonished by how many people seem to be troubled with worms of various kinds - pin-worms, thread-worms, round-worms, tapeworms and others. And they certainly seem to have a hard time getting rid of them, even if they have had several treatments. All these "worms" are really small animal parasites and many of them can live only part of their lives in the human body. The rest of the time the parasites may spend in the ground, in the bodies of lower animals or elsewhere. One variety is called the tapeworm or intestinal flat worm, but of this, too, there are several different kinds. At any rate, parasites of this family are widespread throughout the world and are one of the things one has to think about if a child is not doing well and the reason is not obvious. Adults can get them too and infestation is particularly common in places where the sanitation is below modern standards. Tapeworms enter the body with the food. In some cases, like that of the beef tapeworm, both the fully grown form of the parasite and the larva or young stage can become established in the human intestinal passageway. The tapeworm has a head which hooks onto the wall of the intestines and then grows "sections" which form a sort of tail. The particular kind of parasite can be identified by finding these sections - or the eggs - in the human waste. They have characteristic and different appearances when viewed under the microscope. So far as treatment is concerned the problem is to loosen the head and get rid of it. This involves poisoning the parasite without poisoning the person. It is a delicate job, but there are several drugs which do this fairly well though they may have to be given more than once and sometimes one drug substituted for another. KEEP SANITARY Part of the trouble which people have in ridding themselves of tapeworms undoubtedly comes from the fact that they reinfect

"Disobedience To A Divine Command" To Hold One's Tongue About Virtue

In the last issue I was quoting how Socrates explained it was disobedience to a divine command to hold one's tongue on the question of virtue. Socrates was being tried for corrupting the youth of the land. It would be a mighty good thing if every newspaper publisher, preacher, columnist, teacher and all who are interested in understanding natural law would read and re-read every often "The Apology of Socrates." We are in the trouble we are today because men whose pose as leaders have led by holding their tongues - by refusing to discuss whether they are right or wrong, or doing what is in agreement with virtue and justice.

It will be remembered that Socrates called himself a gadfly. Every pretender hated Socrates. He criticized them. Plato put in his mouth this statement: "But I shall be asked, Why do people delight in continually conversing with you? I have told you already, Athenians, the whole truth about this; they like to hear the cross examination of the pretenders to wisdom; there is amusement in this. This is true, O Athenians; or, if not true, would be soon refuted. For if I am really corrupting the youth, and have corrupted some of them already, those of them who have grown up and have become sensible that I gave them bad advice in the days of their youth, should come forward as accusers and take their revenge; and if they do not like to come themselves, some of their relatives, fathers, brothers, or other kinsmen, should say what evil their families suffered at my hands. Now is their time."

Private Teacher

Here is how Plato explained why Socrates worked in private rather than public. I quote: "Some may wonder why I go about in private, giving advice to individuals, and not in public, as do the others, but do not venture to come forward in public and advise the State. I will tell you the reason of this. You have heard me speak of an oracle or sign which I believe to be something divine which Miletus ridicules in the indictment. This sign I have had ever since I was a child. The sign is a voice which comes to me and tells me to do something which I am going to do, but never commands me to do anything, and this is what stands in the way of my being a politician. And rightly, as I think, for I am certain, O men of Athens, that if I engaged in politics, I should have perished long ago and done no good either to you or to myself. And don't be offended at my telling you the truth: for the truth is that no man who goes to war with you or with any other nation, honestly struggling against the commission of unrighteousness and wrong in the State, will save his life; he who will really fight for the right, if he would be a private station and not a public one."

Then Plato Goes On

"Someone will say: And are you not ashamed, Socrates, of a course of life which is likely to bring you to an untimely end? To him I may fairly answer: There you are mistaken: a man who is good for anything ought not to calculate the chance of living or dying; he ought only to consider whether in doing any thing he is doing right or wrong - or acting the part of a good man or of a bad man."

"Hitherto the familiar oracle within me has constantly been in the habit of opposing me even about trifles, if I was going to make a slip or error about anything, and now as you see there has come upon me that which may be thought, and is generally believed to be, the last and worst evil. But the oracle made no sign that a slip or error about anything, or when I was going up into this court, or while I was speaking, at anything which I was going to say; and yet I have not been stopped in the middle of a speech; but now in nothing I either said or did touching this matter has the oracle opposed me. What do I take to be the explanation of this? I will tell you. I regard this as a proof that what has happened to me is good, and that those of us who think that death is an evil are in error. This is a great proof to me, and what I am saying for the customary sign would surely have opposed me had I been going to evil and not to good."

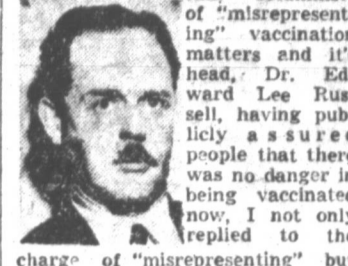

Socrates was governed by his conscience, which he called an oracle. He had no money, and realized as few people do that eternal principles that govern virtue and justice are the only real things that produce peace of mind and real happiness.

At any rate, parasites of this family are widespread throughout the world and are one of the things one has to think about if a child is not doing well and the reason is not obvious. Adults can get them too and infestation is particularly common in places where the sanitation is below modern standards. Tapeworms enter the body with the food. Baxter's Views

BY DAVID BAXTER

WHO'S RIGHT? The Orange County (Cal.) health department having, in a bulletin to doctors, accused a certain "communist" of "misrepresenting" vaccination matters and it's head, Dr. Edward Lee Russell, having publicly, as a sure sign, replied to the charge of "misrepresenting" but pointed to the fact that the Orange County health department is inspiring a terrific advertising campaign to "IMMUNIZE NOW FOR CIVIL DEFENSE, SEE YOUR DOCTOR." If the taxpayers are paying for all those signs on cars and like advertising that the tax collector is placing on his envelopes to taxpayers, then private business is being advertised at the taxpayers' expense.

Besides disclaiming any danger in being "immunized" at this time, Dr. Russell likewise stated that the "pharmaceutical houses" (just another name for the huge drug trust) were supplying vaccines at "cost." I've tried in vain to find out just what "cost" is, who was doing the supplying, and just why such a heavy drive is being staged to round up the citizens of Orange County and shoot them full of calf pus, horse filth and other germs. In fact, I have been engaged to do a little checking by a few doctors themselves who wrote to me.

I don't claim to know much. I'm not a doctor, but I am interested in public health, in freedom from "health" monopolies and in truth, wherever it crops up. Besides, I am - fortunately - able to read and write.

Being able to read, I notice that the New York State Health Department has advised all doctors to let up on "any type of immunization shots" during the polo season. The department said "studies had indicated that persons seemed to be more susceptible to polo after having been inoculated against other disease."

NEW YORK - (AP) - It is one thing to plead that the crooked cadets of West Point, who were caught cheating in examinations, should be put on probation with the distinct understanding that they were crooks who knowingly violated a code of honor which they thoroughly understood. That would be an act of mercy. There would be no compromise with dishonesty. But this far no such proposal has been made.

Thus far the dishonest young men and their defenders, who share their moral error, assume that wrong is right and had it good because they were incapable of any honorable conduct under temptation. Murderers and dope peddlers will join them in that. They come before the country demanding that misconduct be not forgiven but approved and they are so far misled as to believe that honor is an unnecessary nuisance and a handicap which were better abandoned because they were weak.

The impudence of this contention reflects a cynicism and a moral ignorance more appropriate to the White House than to the corps of cadets. If they were content to follow the code by failing to report it as a practical thing, how could almost 100 cadets, or even 200, out of 2000 be involved in any conduct so disgraceful for several years without the knowledge of the administration? When abolition or a long suspension of intercollegiate sports is suggested the sports side and other opportunistic and materialistic agents carry on as though that would mean the end of our world. I think it is imperative for the moral welfare of the country, to violate the code by failing to report it. As a practical thing, how could almost 100 cadets, or even 200, out of 2000 be involved in any conduct so disgraceful for several years without the knowledge of the administration?

I've met only a few who were supposed to keep you out of the papers and not in them. Both Sinatra and Miss Gardner probably have a press book that shows how often their respective press agents get them in the papers. If I belonged to the group of newsmen who are paid to write about Sinatra and Gardner I would see to it that they didn't get their names in the papers for the next fifty years.

Suppose most Americans were like Sinatra and Miss Gardner. There are thousands of weddings going on every day in the United States, but you don't read where the bridegroom in Jacksonville horsewhipped a photographer, or how a photographer in Birmingham was knocked down by the head of a bride who didn't want her picture taken.

In my book Hollywood is as phony as a three dollar bill. The people in Hollywood don't behave like human beings to start with, and if the soundness of our country rested on people who make pictures, we wouldn't have much of a country. I maintain that for every solid citizen there are one hundred feather-minded little fellows and little women who think that an option taken up is more important than a great nation.

There is only one comforting thought about it all. For every swimming pool there are one hundred thousand solid Americans. For every handsome profile there are dozens of American men who will go down the long road to see that that handsome profile is protected. I still would like to go to Acapulco and punch Sinatra in the nose. If he represents American manhood then I'm the Venus de Milo with a wristwatch on.

National Whirligig

By ROGER WARREN (Ray Tucker is on vacation)

WASHINGTON - A new battle royal will be fought over lack of current machinery to curb waste and rearmament losses through neglect and decay when the Military and Naval Construction Bill comes before Congress soon.

In its present House committee stage it calls for $5,780,000,000 - "the biggest single military public works program ever requested in peace or war. This huge sum is for rehabilitation of bases.

It is in addition to the approximately $6 billion dollars involved in ships, weapons, planes etc., for defense, and eight or more billion dollars requested for foreign military and economic aid and the cost of the Korean fighting.

The distressing fact is that this enormous sum need not have been nearly so gigantic if we had not lowered our guard after the war. At the period when everyone was demanding "bring home the boys," a companion demobilization policy was to junk everything left behind by way of buildings and ground facilities.

Now we must start reconstructing the things that were torn down, sold or allowed to tumble into ruin.

EARMARKED - The figure for the armed forces is set at three and half million men. As about 12 million were in uniform at the peak of the war, one naturally asks what happened to the barracks, mess halls, airfields and naval depots this big force had. Why can't they be used for less than a third of the wartime number?

The answer of the military is that the old physical structure has either become obsolete, inadequate or has vanished in one way or another.

Except for a few new air bases practically all the money is earmarked to restore what we once had. We must relay water and sewer pipes which were dug up and disposed of. We even have to buy back about 300,000 acres of land that we sold.

LEFTOVERS - The Army got rid of stockpiles of clothing. The Navy, because of different requirements, kept most of its excess uniforms. But immediately after the war when building materials were scarce about every community near a base developed some of the leftovers such as schools, gymnasiums, chapels, hospitals. Other facilities were channeled out through the Surplus Property Act.

During the war speed was of major importance. Hence most buildings were either of the mobilization-type, consisting of framed structures with unfinished interiors, or theater-of-operations type: wooden frames with tarpaper sides. These flimsy structures just faded away.

Personnel was cut so that neither caretakers nor watchmen were available. In some places where the local National Guard took over a portion of a base, the buildings are in excellent shape. But when a subcommittee of Armed Services Committee a few weeks ago inspected bases in the South they found vines growing through broken windows and the interiors as badly deteriorated as though in a wet jungle.

DIFFERENT - There are several other factors in the new building program of the Defense Department that are different from that of war days. We are not mobilizing in the footing. Therefore we need more warehouses to store goods for the day that war comes, if it must. Previously our full supply of goods did not arrive until 1942. As we were engaged in global war, these materials were moved ville disagree to the whole nation with coaches either too dumb or dishonest to blast it publicly and thus incur the contempt of a gangster public for "blowing the whistle." The shock would be good for us.

directly to the fighting fronts and consumed. We are grinding up large quantities of materials and weapons in Korea. But even this drain is much less than full-scale war. Approximately 35 billion dollars in war procurement contracts have been let. The goods pouring from factories will increase in volume in the next few months. Hence both open and closed storage must be provided.

JET - Another new feature is the jet plane. We must realize that neither the Navy nor the Air Force had a single jet plane in operation throughout World War II. Now about everything is heading in the jet direction. This means the installations of entirely new fuel systems and enlargement of existing runways. Previously a 6000-foot runway could handle any plane. But to accommodate jets, all runways must be widened to 200 feet and extended to at least 8000 feet.

Several extra inches of concrete must be added to the curbs of the extra pressure caused by the weight of the planes and their performance characteristics. In some cases fields have to be rearranged in order to give planes the proper altitude and to protect heavily congested districts from loud noise.

WASTEFUL - Chairman Carl Vinson of Georgia of the House Armed Services Committee says that never before in his experience has a committee gone over a budget with a shiner-toothed comb. The initial request from Deputy Secretary of Defense Lovett was for 12 billion dollars on the basis of total mobilization. This was cut more than half on a partial mobilization basis. It was then screened eight different times. The committee itself made 203 amendments to the bill.

But Republican congressmen, like Clarence J. Brown of Ohio, member of the Rules Committee, are worried because the Armed Services Committee has not the personnel to act as a watchdog on this expenditure along with the nearly 70 billion dollar total in the whole defense financing.

He thinks that Vinson's committee members and their 25 staff assistants will not be able to watch the money and that, as always before, there will be a wasteful spending by the defense branch.

DETROIT - (AP) - It apparently will be many months before passenger automobile production again moves into high ground. The trend is downward; it has been declining steadily since governmental restrictions on materials for civilian use became effective. The restrictions are going to become tighter.

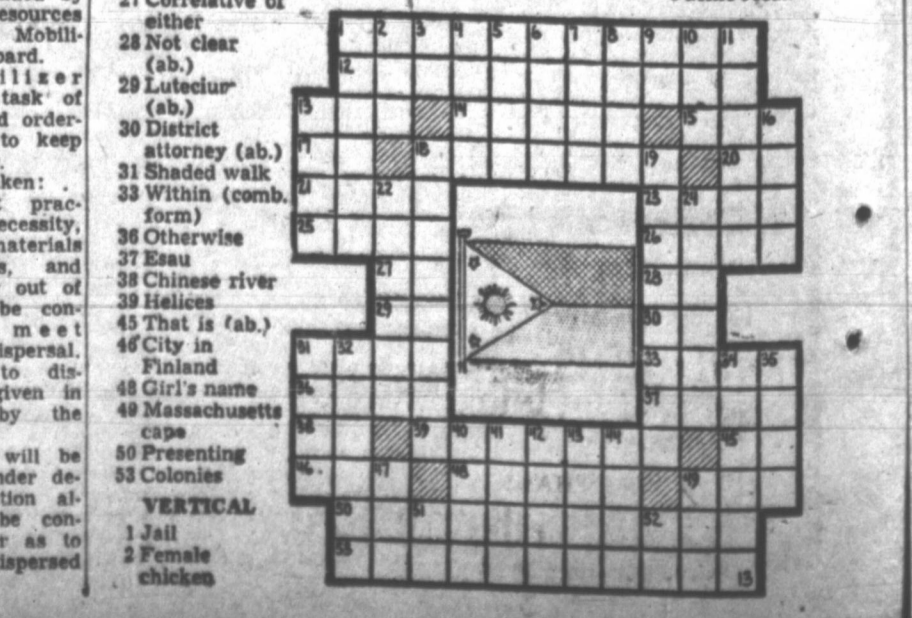

Although the industry expected to build a minimum of 400,000 cars in July actual output came to only about 383,000. It is authorized to build 1,200,000 cars in the July - August - September quarter. That will have difficulty reaching that volume.

The same is true of chances for building the 1,100,000 cars authorized for the final quarter this year. What lies ahead in 1952 - especially the first quarter output, - is the subject of widely varying speculation. Some persons say 1952 will be a "poor" production year.

Auto makers are convinced a cease-fire in Korea will not release more material for civilian vehicle production. They are making their plans on that assumption.

Liant Ben Hogan Rallies Win In Tam World Meet

Near Decade Before Will Be Recuperated

CHICAGO — (AP) — Ben Hogan, the man who dodged a nervous with death in Texas two years ago, celebrated his 39th birthday today with a $12,500 present as "world" tourney champion and recognition as the game's greatest stretch-drive player.

Hogan virtually duplicated his heroic victory finish in the U. S. Open last mid-June as he erased a five-stroke deficit on the final round to win by three taps at 15-under-par 273 in the $50,000 "World" at Tam O'Shanter's gaily bedecked course.

Ben's roaring, six-under-par 68 demoralized his good fairways friend, Jimmy Demaret — the stout 54-hole leader — who floundered to a closing 74 for second-place 276 and a $7,500 prize.

Much has been said about the ability of Hogan to come back after the 1949 highway smash-up near Van Horn that nearly claimed his life.

But even more amazing is his killer form on a selective basis, a contradiction to experts who claim golfers must play week-after-week to stay at top form. He plans no further tourney activity until the Masters next April.

Hogan has played in only six major tourneys this year, winning the Masters, the U. S. Open and the "World" triumph raised his year's earnings to $20,400, second only to Lloyd Mangrum, who leads with $21,078 in 19 tourneys.

The steel-nerved Hogan closed only 25 puts on his 33-33 closing round.

Deadlocked for third at 277 were Pete Cooper and South Africa's Bobby Locke, who each pocketed $2,750.

A stroke behind at 278 and netting $2,100 each were Lawson Little and Clayton Heafner.

Sammy Snead, who has done little since winning the national PGA tourney this year, was deadlocked with Lloyd Mangrum at 280, worth $1,650 to each.

Top amateur was Toledo's Frank Stranahan with 283.

In the women's "World," Babe Zaharias exercised her usual title monopoly by winning with a 298, six strokes ahead of Patty Berg. The Babe won $2,100.

Sports Round-Up

By TED SMITS

NEW YORK — (AP) — Harry Markson, the philosophical and music-loving managing director of the International Boxing Club, thinks boxing is in a state of transition.

The reason, of course, is television. Harry won't even try to peer into the future. He is sure there are hundreds of thousands, perhaps millions of boxing fans today who weren't fans five years ago. Television brought boxing into their parlors, and because boxing is a simple, primitive sport they liked it.

Whether there are any more $1,000,000 gates is a matter of conjecture, but Markson thinks the new found fans are good ones.

"Outsiders can become experts in boxing," he says. "You can't learn how to follow baseball by seeing six games. They change the rules in football. But there are no rules to change in boxing. It's the oldest of all sports."

The only test of a fight is whether it is interesting.

"Some people are worried because television has knocked the smaller fight clubs out, and they're the ones that supplied the fighters for the big shows, such as in Madison Square Garden."

"But I think if there is interest in boxing, and talk about it, kids will want to be boxers. They are attracted by quick money and fame. It doesn't mean they are bullies."

Markson follows in the line of boxing promoters in which the name of Tex Rickard and Mike Jacobs are outstanding. So he must have an ambition.

"It is to see boxing run cleanly, and in the main it is. There are some bad apples in this business as there are in any other. But it is a very, small percentage of fights that are not on the up-and-up. We won't countenance any fight not on the level. Mike Jacobs always worked on the theory that honest boxing pays dividends."

The finances of boxing? "Take an ordinary fight at the Garden. The net gate is $15,000. Each main event fighter gets 25 percent. That accounts for $7,500. (under New York commission rules a fighter gets two thirds of the purse, the manager one third).

The preliminary fighters get $5,000 in all. That's the minimum under the Boxing Managers' Guild. This leaves less than $2,000 to pay for the tickets and running the show.

"Now is where television comes in. Out of the TV revenue $6,000 is added to the purse for the main go. Without television we couldn't open our doors."

My long range prediction is that television will produce a big boom for sports. It makes many more people sports-conscious. But right now it makes tough problems, too."

JACOBY ON CANASTA

Rules Should Be Followed

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"Please settle a dispute," requests a Portland, Ore., correspondent. "I was the dealer the other night, and happened to have a red three in my hand. When my first turn came, the player at my right had discarded a black three. Even if I replaced my red three at that time I couldn't possibly get the discard pile. Therefore I decided to let the red three stay in my hand.

"At my next turn, the top discard was a king. I had one king in my hand. In my opinion, this was the time to put down my red three and draw a new card. I might not get the other king that I needed, but at least I had something to shoot for.

"As it happened, I did draw another king. Since I also had the count, I wanted to pick up the discard pile. I put my two kings down, together with the count, and tried to take the pile. You should have heard the fuss my opponents raised.

"To be brief, they wouldn't let me take the pile. They said I had to draw from the stock pile. Is this really the rule, or did I get jobbed?"

The opponents were right. My Portland friend had no right to take the discard pile. His only right was to draw the top card of the stock pile in this situation.

To begin with, he had no right to let the red three stay in his hand. It didn't matter that he couldn't pick up the discard pile that time. He had absolutely no choice. He had a red three in his hand and it was up to him to put it on the table and replace it then and there, not at any later turn.

When he let the three stay in his hand, he was deliberately breaking the rules. Of course he didn't mean any harm, but it's considered very bad form in any card game to break a rule deliberately.

Heat Wave Causes Worry in Texas

(By The Associated Press)
The heat wave is causing consternation in Texas. It may bring more grief as dry weather holds and temperatures continue to press the mercury upward.

At least 15 persons were dead by Thursday from the heat. Several cities declared water emergencies. Crops throughout the state are withering and dying.

McLennan County has asked the government to declare it a disaster area. The situation exists all over the state, from Dalhart to Brownsville and from El Paso to Orange.

No real relief is in sight. Cooler weather is expected over the week-end, but experts say the only real solution now is heavy, soaking rains to replenish crusty soils.

Visitors Need Warm Clothing in Norway

OSLO (AP) — When taking a summer cruise to Norway, better bring along some nice warm clothes and your skis.

That at least is the impression of some 100 tourists from many nations, currently on a mid-summer cruise to the Norwegian fjords with the "Stella Polaris."

Driving from Hjoerungford, 25 miles south of Alesund across the mountains to Geirangerford, their touring cars were forced to return at the half way mark by a howling snowstorm. A scheduled skiing exhibition by crack Norwegian skiers on what was left of last year's snow was called off — because of too much fresh snow.

SENATE APPROVED
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee was expected to approve appointment of Admiral William M. Fechteler as Chief of Naval Operations.

THE FORM DIVINE

by HILDEGARDE DOLSON

Copyright 1951 by Hildegarde Dolson
By arrangement with the publisher
New York: Random House, Inc.

LUCILLA WEBB, age 37, started out that April morning to have lunch with an ex-schoolmate she hadn't seen in 17 years. However, for a woman who knew where she was going and had exactly enough time to get there, she managed to stall quite a lot.

At the northwest corner of Tenth Street, a block from the Fifth Avenue bus stop, she paused before the Church of the Ascension to read the Thought for Today: Happiness Must Be Watered Like a Plant.

Today she was too restless, or too wary, to ask herself, "Do I Water Happiness Like a Plant?" Instead she read the other notices. Just below this, on the grass, was a brand-new sign: No Dogs. They might as well add "And No Children," she thought, measuring by eye the space between the iron bars of the fence surrounding the church. Sniffles, the spaniel, could easily wriggle through, and for that matter, so could Hope.

Hope—Hoopy—was 8, but children's bodies were as pliable as rubber, squeezing eagerly into any shape that seemed expedient. "I'll be late meeting Charlotte," she told herself, and sauntered across to the bus stop. She kept glancing at her wrist watch till a bus appeared. When she got on, the driver shut the doors so fast they almost spanked her behind, and goaded the bus into a bucking-bronco technique that tossed Lucilla into the first vacant seat.

She glanced in the little paneled mirror to reassure herself that her hat was still on straight. Arthur had always liked this hat. She reflected bitterly that when her husband once liked something, he never outgrew it.

Lucilla thought of Arthur as he had looked that morning half-dressed, when he called to her, "Mommy, where are my slippers?" Originally it had pleased and touched her, to have Arthur imitating Hoopy, calling her Mommy, but now she saw it as a depressing, callous indication of Arthur's feelings toward her: simply a motherly woman who knew where his slippers were. Who was he to call her Mommy? He was three years older, and his stomach was sagging like a kangaroo pouch.

A BLOCK beyond Best's she laid aside the case against Arthur, like unfinished knitting which she could pick up later without losing a stitch, and gave herself a last-minute dusting and straightening before getting off the bus. She was pleased to remember that Charlotte had never been smart-looking. As a girl she had been plump and shiny. By now she must be huge.

There may have been the barest connection between this idea and the next: It will be nice to see Charlotte again (and let her see me). It resulted from being optimistic, inclined to think pleasant thoughts, especially about herself. She was a small-boned woman, five inches over five feet, but what had been stenderness would now be more fairly called scrawny.

She now halted before the Woman's Exchange. Lucilla entered the hallway, bounded by dark old bannistered stairs on the left, and on the right an archway opening into the restaurant. She went upstairs and searched vainly for Charlotte.

She passed a sad-mouthed woman dressed firmly in black, even to her stockings, and the woman became, in Lucilla's mind, a brave widow who supported three children by selling cakes through the Woman's Exchange. Then Lucilla herself became a brave, but much more attractive, who was either the publisher or a distinguished author, was smiling at her whimsically from between high cheekbones, saying, "I know it's too soon for you to decide, but you're so gallant and so little, and I want so much to take care of you and Hoopy forever."

Lucilla came to just in time to avoid falling downstairs. She grabbed the bannister, looked down at a solid female backside, and knew immediately it was Charlotte. At the same time, she remembered what they had called that posterior formation in school: rump-sprung.

The recollection made her voice soar gaily, calling her friend's name. Charlotte turned, and Lucilla thought, "She is much heavier."

LUCILLA went on making pleased noises as they sat down at the table. Charlotte drank half a glass of water in one healthy slurp, and opened a menu. She put on bifocals. "I notice you've come to wearing your specs all the time," she said. "Well, we're all in the same boat."

Lucilla had a furious impulse to snatch off her glasses and stand up. "The sweet potato and chicken with walnuts sounds good," Charlotte went on, unaware of the rocking resentment. The waitress, starched and neat as a parlormaid, stood beside their table. "Two chicken and nut casserole?"

Lucilla's normally small, rather childlike voice was fogged with rebellion as she said, "No, I'll take the avocado salad."

"Mercy, no wonder you're so skinny," Charlotte said. The waitress brought their plates and Charlotte's fork went with a derrick's regular ups and downs from her plate to her mouth, telling about what Ed had achieved. "He's in Light and Gas," Charlotte said, conjuring up a picture of Ed's head rising out of a meter. "But you haven't even told me what your husband does."

"He's in the ethical drug business," Lucilla had long ago decided that to most outsiders this sounded as if one were saying, "My husband isn't in a dope-jug."

He doesn't smuggle drugs—he's ETHICAL."
"Barrett Drugs is really owned by the Rub-dub Chest-Rub Corporation," she added, waiting for Charlotte to exclaim, as people did, "Oh, Rub-dub! Of course!"

"I almost forgot to tell you the weirdest thing of all. You remember Dorothea's cousin Clarice, the one we didn't want to rush, and Dorothea was so relieved when she went Alpha?"

The name, to Lucilla, carried only a sense of homeliness, but she nodded.
"Well, when Ed and I were back at Jasper for a reunion last year, who should we see but Dorothea with this absolutely glamorous brunette. And you'd never guess who the girl was, Clarice!"

Man Mountain Ryan's Lying Getting Better All The Time

By HAL BOYLE
CUSTER, S. D. — (AP) — A small droopy-eared burro stood at anchor by a roadside souvenir store here, near where gold was first discovered in the Black Hills in 1874.

Seated in the doorway to the store was a short, white-haired bushy-bearded man who looked like a grizzled old prospector. And that is exactly the way the Ed (Man Mountain) Ryan, who says he is 95, wants to look.

"Ole Ed" used to be known simply as the biggest liar in South Dakota. Now he is known as the biggest liar in South Dakota and Wyoming, and his reputation is still growing.

"I feel bad today," he began, his blue eyes crinkling like a cunning Santa Claus. "A terrible thing happened to me this morning.

"I took my pet fish out for a walk. On the way back I took a short cut across the bridge, and she slipped off and drowned in the creek. Forgot how to swim, I guess.

"I'd had her for years. She was ready to go to high school. Had her new dress all bought and everything. She was a fine fish. I expected for a bad habit she had of telling big fish stories."

His burro, Suzie, turned and looked at him reproachfully as old Ed finished, then she began nipping at some grass.

Some tourists entered the store and "Man Mountain" went on with his act.
"Once Suzie and I was up in the hills and bumped into a bear cub," he said. "The cub was small for his age. He was only 40 feet long and lacked two ounces of weighing five tons. But he had a mean look to his eyes, and I thought we'd better get out of there.

"So I jumped Suzie off a 500-foot cliff. When we got about three feet from the ground, I hollered 'whoa' and Suzie stopped.

Starts Drills On Permian Bowl
ODESSA (AP) — Sixty-five football players, representing the cream of last year's West Texas schoolboy crop, are due Sunday to start workouts for the Permian Bowl game Aug. 17.

The contest is sponsored by the Odessa Kiwanis Club for its under-privileged children's fund. The two squads, East and West, were chosen on more or less geographical lines, although this rule was broken in some cases. For instance there will be players from San Antonio and Wichita Falls on both sides. And Marfa, the western-most team represented, will have two players on the East team.

DAMAGE ESTIMATED
WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department estimates it will cost $250,000,000 for reconstruction in war-battered Korea, when the fighting is over.

There's Something About a Newspaper Route—

That Makes a Carrier-Boy Stand Out!

SUREST sign that an enterprising teen-ager is off to a flying start on a business career, is to see him serving his newspaper route quickly and dependably day after day.

For, by so doing, he is turning spare hours into welcome dollars, gaining practical sales and service experience, saving money regularly, and enjoying teamwork and good times with other live-wire lads. Besides, he's developing sound habits and qualities of character that mean faster advancement in any life work.

Further proof that he is on the way to above-average success is the fact that his newspaper route is the same "first business venture" that started so many leaders on the road to fame and fortune—men who still rate it as one of the most helpful and stimulating experiences of their lives!
