RAINFALL

 low No. 24 by thirty minutes.
 Another train, westbound, due last night was expected to arrive from the east around 1:30 p. m.
 Santa Fe Railroad officials here said their latest reports this morning said the washed out bridge at Shattou was rapidly being repaired and trains were expected to cross it this afternoon.
 Although air travel in and out of Pampa was inconvenienced it was not halted.
 Central Airlines here reported planes flying slightly behind schedule, but were landing and taking off at Pampa Municipal Airport.
 A number of telephones are still out of order in Pampa, and the circuits to Lefors are completely out. Repairs on those lines and had one line operating last night, but it was dead again this morning. Operators were still rushed, but were not quite as busy as they were Wednesday.
 Southwestern Public Service crews were up all night, officials said. They believe a structure to be out near Lake McClellan, but had not patrolled that area late this morning. Service was satisfactory in Pampa and Lefors.
 One local farmer reported feed he had just planted was completely covered with water, but he still hoped to get the grain up.
 At least one death was blamed on the three-day rain at Wheeler. Glen Gowen of Wheeler died early today following an automobile accident late last night on the highway. Inquests were being held today.
 School buses in Wheeler were running late and making detours. The road north of Wheeler was reported "very bad" and Sweetwater creek was still rising.
 Complete property damage is not known, but the car of one Wheeler man may be a total loss after it was stalled in high water yesterday.
 Amarillo recorded 7.73 inches of rain up to 6 a. m. and light rain was still falling. Wheeler reported 3.2 inches in a 24 hour period ending at 10:30 a. m. today.
 Creeks in Oklahoma were on a rampage and a flash flood trapped a school bus near Clinton with 11 children trapped inside. They were rescued late last night.

ASSAULT

 Korean troops. The Americans withdrew some time ago. It is the South Koreans who have been hit hardest thus far.
 The Republican forces have been forced into general withdrawals southwest of Inje, four miles north of the 38th Parallel.
 If the assaults are continued as successfully as they have started, the Republican troops probably will be forced to go south of 38, the prewar boundary.
 Proponents of this last point argue that while the 38th Parallel means little or nothing militarily to allied leaders it is of great importance, propaganda-wise at least, to the Communists.

Rotary Hears Rep. Rogers

Rotarians yesterday got a direct report on Washington; heard a plea for support of the airport; and listened to a short history on what Rotary has meant to the Dallas Rotary club.
 The Washington report was given by Rep. Walter Rogers, an honorary member of Pampa Rotary. Rogers gave Rotarians a boiled down version of what he told Pampans and Borgerites Tuesday night at the Borger Hotel.
 G. S. "Pinkie" Vineyard, spoke on the cost to property owning taxpayers if the bond issue is passed. Using a chart with pictures of actual homes in Pampa, he showed an annual cost range of from 1.4 cents to $1.07 per year in additional taxes.
 Because the rains prevented the scheduled club program from getting over from Amarillo, Fred Neslage served as a last minute substitute. Neslage recounted the history of the Dallas Rotary Club as he heard it while visiting there several weeks ago.
 The annual installation of officers will be held June 26 at the Country Club with Rex Rose in charge of the program.

 obliquely to the controversy over Gen. Douglas MacArthur's dismissal, and subsequent Senate committee hearings on Far Eastern policy.
 "There is a lot of discussion nowadays about military strategy," the President said. "Military strategy is important and everybody ought to be concerned about it."
 "But there are a lot of other problems that are equally important. We have the hard problems of defense production, taxes and stabilization for example. Unless we face those problems, we won't be able to have any military strategy at all," he added.
 "Our country faces the danger of war from an aggressive and imperialistic foreign power. Meeting this danger is all-important. We should all stand together."
 "I think that some people fail to realize that this threat is still real. They think there is still time to play politics."
 "That is a terribly dangerous attitude. We must all get together behind a program adequate to meet the perils we face. We must get together now without waiting—without playing politics."

Grew Warns Of Blockade

WASHINGTON (AP)—Joseph C. Grew, former undersecretary of state and ex-ambassador to Japan, said today an American blockade of Red China could lead to a shooting war against British shipping and imperil the North Atlantic pact.
 "An American blockade of the China coastline could result in American ships firing on the Union Jack and thus running the serious risk of destroying the North Atlantic alliance."
 "Suppose some free-wheeling captain of a British merchant vessel decided to run the blockade. Our navy would be under orders to stop such vessels."
 Such an incident, he said, could lead to destruction of Anglo-American relations, ardently desired by the Soviet Union.
 Gen. MacArthur, ousted Far East commander, has advocated blockade of China. The administration has not favored such a move.
 Grew said the British control "the majority of air bases needed not only for the defense of western Europe but for the defense of the United States."
 The question of whether these bases should be "sacrificed" to blockade Red China, the former ambassador said, is "typical of the kind of decision which architects of the American foreign policy must daily face."

Man Steals Hearse To See How It Rides

BALTIMORE (AP)—Harry B. Jones, 35, explained to the judge he swiped a hearse "to see how the thing rode before I died."
 He almost got both answers to, allied leaders it is of great importance, propaganda-wise at least, to the Communists.

 yang radio in North Korea. It said Reds "are successfully pushing savage American and British aggressors all along the front."
 The attack began on the east coast Wednesday and exploded westward. AP correspondent Nate Polowetzky compared it to a string of firecrackers exploding as the flame crept along the cord for 65 miles.
 From east to west front line dispatches gave this picture Thursday night:
 South Koreans on the east coast fell back before the attack of Communists streaming off mountain ridges.
 Six hundred Communists penetrated South Korean lines north of Hangey. Allied troops rushed up to plug the hole.
 Reds streamed southwest down the Inje-Jongchon highway. Allied artillery pounded the road heavily.
 Between this road and Chunchon, highway hub of the no-man's-land on the central front, Chinese plunged into American units before dawn and forced a slight penetration.
 The Reds used some 150 mm. artillery, antitank guns and recoilless rifles. But mostly they used automatic weapons and mortars.
 South of Chunchon Americans astride the Chunchon-Hongchun highway repulsed two regimental attacks. They reported

Cripps' Condition Causes Concern

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP)—The condition of Sir Stafford Cripps, former British chancellor of the exchequer, is causing "great and continuing anxiety."
 A statement issued here yesterday by his wife said the pioneer laborite not only is suffering from a tubercular infection of the spine—as previously announced—but is being treated for an abdominal complication which Lady Cripps described as a "rare and dangerous disease."
 The abdominal complication was not otherwise identified.

 Meanwhile, Mossadegh, who has remained barricaded in the parliament building since Sunday, ordered all the windows of his locked rooms boarded up on the off chance that a sniper might pick him off from the street.

ONE MAN'S MEAT—May be another man's rolling pin. Cpl. Edward Souey, left, of Flint, Mich., a company baker, uses a bologna as a rolling pin in making bread for his buddies in Korea. Somewhat puzzled is Sgt. William Powell, of Augusta, Ga., who never saw a thing before. However, he agrees that the smart trick keeps Corporal Souey rolling in dough.

Main Points Shown In Guessing Game

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON —(AP)— Enough has now been said in the most publicized guessing game of years — the Truman - MacArthur dispute — to see what the main points are and to examine them.

This is certain: both sides are guessing on what would happen if this country followed General MacArthur's ideas for widening the Korean fighting.

For three days MacArthur gave his views to Senate committees. And for parts of seven days Secretary of Defense Marshall explained to the same committees the opposing views of the Truman administration.

Many issues have been injected into the dispute, such as these: was the President right in firing MacArthur? (Not even MacArthur questions the President's right to do so) was MacArthur wrong in going to the public with his views, over the President's head?

But all the issues are secondary to these three questions which have emerged as the main points in the whole dispute:

1. Would widening the war — which MacArthur suggests as a means of finishing it faster — bring in Russia on the side of China and explode it into World War III?
2. Would the Truman administration have a better position to know what to do?
3. Is MacArthur, who says the Truman administration has no plan, in a better position to know what to do?

He says the world-wide problems of stopping communism was not in his province. At the same time, he urges following in Asia a course of action which Marshall says might plunge us into world-wide war before we're ready.

MacArthur certainly has a plan for fighting the war in Korea. But whether it would end the war, or lead to worse, and whether it is really a complete plan is what is up for debate.

The President and Marshall and others have outlined a plan for fighting the Korean war, the one they've been following. MacArthur says it isn't really a plan.

Nevertheless, the two sides agree on this: both want to force the Chinese Communists to give up fighting in Korea; and neither wants such a wide war that we'd have to invade China to crush the Communists altogether.

So, while much has been said about the "limited" war now being fought in Korea, neither side wants an unlimited war. MacArthur simply wants a less limited war than the Truman administration wants to take on now.

From the beginning the Korean fighting has been limited to Korea itself, first against the North Koreans who started the war and now against the Chinese who pitched in to help them.

No attack has been made on China itself but only on the

Says ABC Is Not To Be Transferred

NEW YORK —(AP)— The American Broadcasting Co. will remain under its present ownership, says ABC Board Chairman Edward J. Noble.

He issued a statement last night to disclose officially for the first time that ABC had turned down offers for mergers made by the Columbia Broadcasting System and United Paramount Theaters, Inc.

During CBS negotiations, Noble said, he rejected an offer from an "interested party other than CBS" to buy his own personal ABC stock. Noble owns about 85 percent of ABC stock.

Chiang Feels Body Punch To Reds Would Halt Korea War

(Editor's Note: Frank H. King, general executive of the Associated Press, on special assignment in the western Pacific, is on a tour of the troubled Orient. He has been getting a first-hand look at those trouble spots and today he is visiting the Chinese Nationalist island of Formosa. On this visit he obtained the following interview from Chiang Kai-shek, leader of the Nationalists.)

By FRANK H. KING
TAIPEH, Formosa — (AP) — Chiang Kai-shek told the Associated Press that his Nationalist forces on Formosa, by a body punch to the mainland, can halt Chinese Communist aggression in Korea.

"Once a counter offensive from Formosa starts," said the president of the Chinese Nationalists, "then Chinese Communist aggression in Korea will end; at least the Chinese Communists will not be able to start any new offensive in Korea."

The 64-year-old generalissimo has an estimated 500,000 men in training on this island bastion. These soldiers have figured in the great debate on U.S. policy in the Orient now raging in Washington.

During one of his rare, personal interviews, lasting nearly an hour, Chiang carefully guarded against discussion of specific issues involved in that debate. The interview took place in Chiang's office in the huge administration building whose cavernous corridors are like those of many American state capitols.

In adjoining conference rooms military and civilian delegations waited to see the "Gimo," Maj. Gen. William C. Chase, head of the new American military assistance advisory group, had just completed a visit.

Chiang was calm, relaxed and laughed quietly as he talked. He smoothed the rich covering of the conference table with long fingers from time to time. Friends said he looked healthier in appearance than for several years.

Behind Chiang's chair were the crossed flags of Nationalist China and his Kuomintang Party. Both have been driven from the mainland to this island 100 miles of the southeast coast.

A large picture of Sun Yat-sen, founder of the Chinese Republic, was on one wall. Chiang was working a normal day, an aide said. He was up at daybreak, like the old soldier he is. He took a few minutes of exercise. Then he read the Bible and indulged in the first of two daily periods of meditation and prayer.

The generalissimo works a long day. It is interrupted in the afternoon by 30 minutes of sleep.

In the interview, a question brought from Chiang a reminder that he had been fighting Communists since 1927. He answered many questions ranging from charges of corruption in his Nationalist government to Soviet Russia's long-term program.

The first question I asked the Generalissimo was whether in his opinion Europe or Asia were under the greater immediate threat from Russia.

"At this stage," he replied, "the objective of Russia is expansion in Asia, not Europe." He next was asked if Russia was prepared to wage aggressive war east of the Lake Balkal region, which lies almost in the center of Siberia.

Chiang's answer was not so ready, but it was made in the same easy, low-toned voice. "I do not think Russia will use her own strength in fighting an aggressive war in Asia," he said. "It is not necessary for Russia to use her own troops."

In the past, the international Communists took the propaganda line that the Chinese Communists were agrarian reformers and that the Chinese Nationalist government was dishonest, corrupt and inefficient.

"Now the Chinese Communists have occupied the mainland of China. What they are afraid of is a nationalist counteroffensive." "So their propaganda line now is: 1. The Chinese on the mainland will not welcome the return of the Nationalists. 2. If the United States aids the Nationalists, the Chinese people on the mainland will hate the Americans."

"The new Communist line is to play on fear psychology. If you (Americans) aid the Chinese Nationalists you will incur the hatred of the Chinese people. This is their propaganda."

Asked for comment on United States desires to obtain a speedy, decisive termination of the Korean fighting, the Generalissimo said:

"I cannot entertain an optimistic view of the Korean war. I cannot predict when it will end if continued on the present basis."

The old warrior against communism then made his declaration that his nationalists by a diversionary counter offensive against the mainland would halt aggression in Korea.

"It would take six months for us to start the large-scale counteroffensive after necessary and adequate equipment and supplies are available in Formosa, he said. Asked Chiang if the 33,000 troops he offered for service in Korea last year still were available.

"There has been no new approach by the United Nations," he replied. If there should be, consultations would be necessary to meet the new and changed situation. But in case of urgent need I certainly will not shirk my responsibilities."

I then said there was a widespread belief in the United States that the Nationalist government was corrupt in its administration of affairs on the mainland and that individual leaders of that regime took or exported to the United States much wealth. I asked if any such wealth had been recovered and used for the benefit of all China.

Chiang's reply, sources here said, was the first comment he ever has made on this subject.

"For many years," Chiang said, "the Chinese government has made inquiries of the United States government seeking cooperation and information as to Chinese who had taken wealth to the United States."

"We requested the United States government to inform us of this so that we could then take all measures to return this wealth or treasure to its rightful owners, the government of China."

"So far, our talks have produced no results. We are ready to proceed to reclaim any money taken from China to use it for the general good of the people."

Asked whether the Chinese people would accept militant communism and become resigned to the present rule in Peiping, Chiang declared: "Absolutely not. The cultural traditions, the philosophy of the Chinese people, is diametrically opposed to communism."

Here the generalissimo ventured a bit of humor. "Even after the death of a Chinese," he said, "I don't think his ghost would become Communist."

The present red purge of the anti-Communist Chinese "prevents local leaders from emerging on the Chinese mainland," Chiang said.

"Only when a counteroffensive is launched from Formosa will it be possible to start the liberation of the Chinese people from communistic 'oppression,'" he added. In conclusion I told the Generalissimo that some one had suggested he visit the United States and speak to a joint session of Congress.

"When we succeed in recovering the mainland of China," he said, "I would certainly deem it a pleasure to visit America to thank our friends who have helped us in our struggle."

Smart Sheriff Gets Deputies

AUBURN, Ind. — (AP) — Sheriff Frank Carpenter asked the DeKalb County commissioners for money to hire a second deputy. The sheriff, who has authority to swear in deputies as they are needed, later went to the home of each of the commissioners and deputized them. They're serving without pay, of course.

Brazilian Bombshell To Try Commercial Venture In Fads

HOLLYWOOD — If Roy Rogers and Gene Autry can do it, so can Carmen Miranda.

This doesn't mean that the Brazilian bombshell is going to hop on a pinto and head thataway. But she may copy the commercial cowpokes in their business ventures.

Already there is a Carmen Miranda coloring book for kids. Plans were underway for a Carmen Miranda doll, but got sidetracked. Other ventures may be reaching the sales counters. At any rate, Carmen says she is ready for them.

"People have made enough money from things I have dreamed up," she remarked in her radio-off English. "So why shouldn't Carmen make something, too?"

Among the Miranda inventions which others have capitalized on are platform shoes, fancy turbans and heavy costume jewelry.

"These things made a tremendous hit when I first came to this country," she recalled. "All over New York they were copying my styles. They had big windows in the stores with my picture in them."

"I couldn't even speak English then, so I didn't know what the score was. But I went to Mr. Shubert (her manager at the time) and asked if I should do anything about it. He said no; he told me it was just good publicity to have other people wearing my styles."

The height of irony occurred when she was shopping in a San Francisco store. Hiding behind dark glasses, she asked to see some platform shoes in the window. "Oh, you mean the Carmen Miranda shoes?" asked the clerk. What's more, she bought them — at $65 a pair!

When I asked her how she conceived her famed trade marks, she said:

"The platform shoes came about because I liked tall men," she replied. "In Brazil, I always liked the big boys from the beaches. But whenever I danced with them, I couldn't see over their shoulders. I couldn't tell if they were flirting with another girl while they were dancing with me."

"One day I saw a woman walking in the street. She had a shortened leg, so one shoe was built up to make her walk correctly. That gave me the idea. I went to my shoemaker and told him to make me two built-up shoes."

The fruit-salad headdress and turbans came from the Negro women of Bahia. Carmen admired the handsome natives who paraded through the streets with baskets of fruit tied on their heads with scarves. These women also inspired the abundance of heavy jewelry.

"The more trinkets they wore, the more admirers they had," she said. "Naturally, I wore bracelets up to my elbow then."

Irish Teachers Are Re-Elected

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Shamrock school teachers have been re-elected for the coming year, reports Supt. Elmer J. Moore.

Moore, re-elected in February, submitted his record to the newly-chosen school board shortly after the April 7 election, when all seven members were chosen, and the new board unanimously sustained the action of the previous board in re-electing Moore.

Moore, who has held a three-year contract each year since 1948, has had his contract extended one year.

Mrs. Helen Laycock, commercial teacher for the past five years, has resigned, as have Mrs. Stella Fleming, North Ward teacher, and Miss Marjorie More, private music teacher under the school supervision.

Supt. Moore has a faculty of 40. He is completing his sixth year as head of the Irish system, his nineteenth as an educator. He is a graduate of Texas Tech, Lubbock, with bachelor's and master's degrees.

STRONG MAN — Police Chief A. Remon, above, Panama's "strong man," whose 1949 coup d'etat installed Arnulfo Arias as president of the republic, was instrumental in forcing Arias to restore Panama's constitution. The president had revoked it in an attempt to assume dictatorial powers. The civil conflict resulted in rioting in which at least three persons were killed and hundreds more injured.

Doctor Raises Painful Topic

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK — If you stub your toe, does it hurt you less than it does a Russian if he stubs his toe?

Does a Gink in Minsk suffer less from an appendectomy in Pinsk than a Chicago Irishman does in New York; can he bear up under it better?

These and other questions concerning the phenomena in the world of hurt have been raised by a London specialist in squirming nerves.

He raised them inadvertently in an address to the California Medical Assn. Dr. McD on a critically told of seeing major operations performed in Russia without the use of an anesthetic including hypnosis. A Russian surgeon told him this was a common practice and added:

"We Russians are better able to stand pain than other races."

"It's possible their part-oriental blood had something to do with the phenomenon."

Now pinch your arms and legs and see if either of those statements make sense to you. Do they? They don't to me. I am just a poor man's philosopher who gathers what he knows about life as he goes through it.

But I have seen nothing in this world that would convince me that Russians can stand pain better than Bavarians or Armenians or Shetland ponies. Nor has travel in 54 countries given me any evidence, possibly that any race with "part-oriental blood" was any more basic fortitude, under stress than a race with part-occidental blood, meaning you and me.

The whole theory smacks of propaganda, a little bit about science.

But I know a big big about pain. It's an old sight in many climates and at many levels — spiritual pain, mental pain, physical pain.

My experience has been that pain of any kind hurts all human flesh so far as race, color or creed are concerned. Is a pimple on a Chinese nose less tender than a pimple on a Brazilian nose?

Is a Siberian mother hurt less by the death of her baby than a Nebraska mother is hurt by the loss of her child?

Pain doesn't vary with the color of a race or the completion of a face. But it does vary in degree with the individual and the depth of his feeling.

A more pertinent thing about pain: the smarter you are — if you are normal — the more you try to avoid it. You don't seek it.

Lignite is much newer, geologically speaking, than better grades of coal.

Needle In Haystack Bows To Small Pin

BRISTOL, R. I. — (AP) — The fellow who sought the needle in the haystack was a piker alongside of Manuel Cardoza of this town.

Cardoza loaned his truck to Boy Scouts collecting paper.

Paul Bullock, assistant scoutmaster, lost his wrist watch during the collection.

Cardoza combed through an estimated six tons of paper and came up with not only the watch and watch band but the small pin which had fallen out when they parted.

Growing Shortage Of Sulphur Pinching U.S. Manufacturers

NEW YORK — (AP) — The growing shortage of low-cost sulphur is pinching the farmer and the maker of newsprint, clothing, tires, explosives, soaps and construction materials. A world-wide search is under way for new sources, some beneath the ocean floor. Rationing plans are in the works.

High-cost sulphur reserves are to be brought into production, and both here and in Italy. And a drive is starting to save the sulphur now wasted in many industrial plants, because methods of recovery for re-use have been more expensive than buying a new supply of sulphur.

Factory smoke is being eyed for its sulphur content. England figures about 375,000 tons a year go up her chimneys. Canada is taking the lead with a new recovery plant to be built to use by-product gases at the International Nickel Co.'s smelter. Sulphuric acid is being allocated in the 11 far western states here, and this country and nine other nations are working out plans to allocate scarce sulphur among the democracies — the first strategic material to be allocated. The United States has put a curb this year on the amount of sulphur that can be exported.

The world sulphur shortage is expected to top one million tons this year, and sulphur is vitally needed by the fertilizer, chemical, petroleum, metal refining, paper, and textile industries.

The rich brimstone comes along the Louisiana and Texas coasts, now producing at a record rate, turn out half of the world's supply of sulphur. The methods of production is to pump hot water down in pipes to melt the sulphur and force it to the surface. The output can't be stepped up much more, producers say, without wasting deposits by dissipating them underground.

New brimstone deposits are being sought. Freeport Sulphur Co. is going under water to tap a new dome. It is building a new mining plant at Grande Ecaille, La., will float it 75 miles to the site at Bay Ste. Blaine, and sink it into place and start drilling. Freeport hopes to be getting sulphur from its underwater mine by the end of the year.

It turned out record production from its Grande Ecaille mine since the first of the year. Officials insist they have extensive reserves there sufficient for many years at current production rates. Brimstone deposits are the cheapest but not the most extensive source of sulphur. Pyrites form the largest potential source, but the sulphur in the pyrites now being mined in connection with other mineral operations is largely dumped in the mine tailings because of the expense of processing it. Mining men say perhaps a million tons or more of sulphur is lost this way each year — enough to make up this year's expected world shortage.

The price of brimstone is now around one cent a pound at the mine, up 25 percent from the pre-war level. Sulphur producers say that if the price should rise sufficiently, brimstone deposits would be mined. Also, if the price goes still higher, more sulphur will be recovered from pyrites. A higher price would cause more users of sulphuric acid to install methods of recovering and re-using the acid. Without price controls, the forces of supply and demand would work into balance.

The United States, meantime, is letting Europe have a little more of our cheap sulphur. The first of the year exports were cut back 28 percent because of the scarcity here. Europeans squawked so loud that Uncle Sam has just relaxed the ban, and the cut now is only 14 percent below what they got last year.

Iran Oil Dispute Nearing Showdown

By DEWITT MACKENZIE, AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The dangerous dispute over Iran's nationalization of the tremendously rich British oil concessions in that country appears to be approaching a showdown.

It's a tense moment, for there's enough dynamite in this crisis to set off another world war unless the situation is handled with utmost caution.

Oil-rich Iran (Persia) is a key position in the Middle East, and three great powers—Britain, Russia and America—have for many years been vitally interested in its status. The appearance of any storm cloud over Iran immediately brings all three of these powers to the alert.

The crisis concerns the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co., in which the British government owns more than half the common stock. This concern supplies some 30 percent of Britain's oil and much of the fuel for her navy. Loss of the oil would be a catastrophe for John Bull.

London is said to contemplate sending a high-level mission to Tehran to try to negotiate a settlement. Meantime all indications are that Britain is looking hopefully to Washington for close cooperation in handling this impasse. The right-wing Daily Mail of London sums up the position like this:

"If the United States allowed British concessions to be torn up without protest, she would help by her very silence to create an ugly precedent for her own foreign oil interests. Neither country can forget that Russia broods over the Persian border and that this dispute exactly suits her book, if she wants to make a little trouble in the Middle East."

Some informed British circles put it even stronger and say that this is the time for London and Washington jointly to tell Iran where to get off.

Approas of this the British war office has got in readiness a 4,000-man parachute brigade which is used for emergencies. Officials declined to discuss the reason for this dramatic move but naturally speculation turns on whether the brigade might be sent to Iran to protect British lives and property.

Well, this crisis certainly puts Britain in a tight spot. If she loses the oil it will hurt in terms of the cold war in the Orient, and likely would put the British Isles on a tight gas ration.

However, there seems to be no indication at this writing that Uncle Sam would agree to joint use of the big stick.

There is a strong feeling in some Washington circles that Britain's handling of the oil developments has been injudicious and that a more liberal attitude should have been adopted. Some critics claim that the British have given in only where they were compelled to, with the result that the Iranians finally have revolted. As a matter of fact, the United States has advised Britain in previous developments to make terms.

The above appraisal can be qualified by the statement that if the British would abandon the "big stick" attitude, the United States might follow her. But any idea of an ultimatum would be out, as being dangerous.

And certainly the presence of British troops on Iranian soil might be catastrophic. It very likely would result in Russia sending troops into Iran. Such a Red move could be made under the terms of the 1921 Russo-Iranian agreement under which Russia could intervene for self protection.

While the United States isn't likely to join Britain in a "big stick" program, I believe it can be said with certainty that there is no possibility of any break with our great ally over this issue.

That would be bad — so bad as to be unthinkable.

Germans Improving Worst For America

FRANKFURT, Germany — (AP) — German meat dealers are putting everything they've got into their worst these days. They want to get back on the American market with old-time specialties like German-made bratwurst, blutwurst, bockwurst and frankfurters.

Time was when hungry Americans could sit down to a big plate of sauerkraut decked over with fat, juicy sausages direct from Germany. But now the U.S. Department of Agriculture is closely studying Germany's food and meat laws for sanitation, health and quality. When they finish a committee of Allied High Commission men and West German government representatives will inspect about 10 percent of Germany's food processing plants.

If the report is favorable, America's sausage lovers can start tucking their napkins under their chins.

Doctor Claims Russians Can Operate Without Anesthesia

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Major surgery without anesthesia is a common practice in Russia, a British neurologist asserts. Dr. McDonald Critchley, director of the Neurological Institute, London, told the annual convention of the California medical association.

"I personally have witnessed major operations which were performed in Russia without the slightest use of any form of anesthesia. The patients betrayed not the slightest evidence that they felt any pain. There was no indication that these people had been hypnotized. It is possible their part-oriental blood had something to do with the phenomenon."

He said he witnessed a major operation on a woman in Russia who was not even given a sedative.

"The woman bore the pain stoically. The surgeon, in reply to my questions, said it was a common practice. He said: 'We Russians are better able to stand pain than other races.'"

Other interesting findings about pain were reported by Dr. Critchley, an international authority.

Women stand pain better than men.

The more cultured and educated a person, the more sensitive to pain he becomes.

Severe pain may be overbalanced by exquisite pleasure — such as that the martyrs may have felt.

Floor Show To Set Record Run

CHICAGO — (NEA) — "The Roarin' Twenties," a vest-pocket musical comedy, has had the longest run of any floor show in Chicago history. More important to its producer, it's accompanied by a merrily-tinkling cash register.

When the show celebrated its first birthday, it had clocked in 226 performances, witnessed by more than 300,000 people. It's the brainchild of Don Roth, who inherited the Blackhawk Restaurant from his father in 1938. He also inherited a tradition, dating from 1928, of featuring name bands.

By 1950, a name band had become a mighty expensive package. And the big-name orchestras chiefly lure the younger set, who were finding it harder and harder to afford Roth's tabs.

When Roth arrived in New York to snare another name band early in 1950, he found that somebody else had already signed it up. So he hired Mervyn Nelson to write and direct a trimmed-down musical comedy.

Nelson weaved some old songs, some new ones and some parodies into a typical '20's story of a get-rich-quick boy, a play boy, a couple of good girls and a bad girl. He and Roth then cast the show with nine youngsters who had been doing bit parts or understudy jobs in Broadway musicals. In a month or so, they whipped up a brisk, 55-minute show.

Roth had all his fingers crossed on opening night. His young cast (average age: 23) had never played night clubs, where there's no opening curtain to silence the linking of ice cubes and raucous chatter. Roth also feared that his patrons, who came primarily to eat and drink, might be too busy doing both to follow the show's thin story line.

But everybody seemed to like it. The young crowd, plus a sprinkling of nostalgic oldsters, flocked in by the thousands — 25,000 a month. Roth found that each patron spent an average of $6 during his stay.

He is already planning another condensed musical comedy to take the place of "The Roarin' Twenties," when he puts that show on the road. But he plans to delay the road trip until after summer. That way "The Roarin' Twenties" is certain to break the all-time record for the longest floor show run, 14 months, set by a Billy Rose revue.

Congress On Record For Red China Ban

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Congress went on record yesterday to advocate a ban by the free world on shipment of war materials to Communist China.

Both the Senate and the House, by unanimous vote, within a few hours, approved a resolution calling on the United Nations general assembly to vote such a ban.

Such action by the UN, of course, would have only moral force since the organization has no enforcement powers.

The House also passed a resolution saying the Chinese Communist government should not be admitted to UN membership.

Defense Department Picks Alternate Operation Sites

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Defense Department has selected alternate operation sites outside Washington where its most essential functions could be carried on in the event of an enemy attack on the capital. Secretary of Defense Marshall said the planning is similar to that being carried out in many places in the United States.

It represents, he said, "pre-emptive measures desirable in view of the continued tension in the world situation."

Marshall said all employees of the Defense Department have received, or will shortly, notice of the role they are to perform in the event of an attack.

There are about 140,000 department employees in the Washington area — nearly 30,000 of them working in the Pentagon, the huge nerve center of the defense establishment just across the Potomac River in Virginia.

The department said locations of the "alternate headquarters" which have been selected will remain secret. Last summer the department announced that a communications center would be set up at Camp Ritchie, Md., near the Maryland - Pennsylvania boundary north of Washington.

Speculation has been that it would be a "second Pentagon," but Marshall's memorandum to department employees indicated other sites have been picked too.

"In the event of an attack which might destroy our facilities for operating at our present headquarters," he said, "we must be prepared to operate at locations removed from Washington."

"Such alternate locations have been selected.

"For a short period following an attack, only the most vital functions would be performed at such alternate locations. It is, however, essential that our total functions be reconstituted as soon as possible."

A set of instructions accompanying Marshall's memo told all defense personnel they should:

1. "Help save lives by rendering aid to others in every way possible."
2. "As soon as possible, try to report to your regular post of duty."
3. "If the post of duty is destroyed, report within 48 hours to one of 20 assembly points in Washington and nearby Maryland and Virginia areas."

Sweet Recipe for Beauty

To cut down on sugar and sweets and thus keep her weight under control, this young woman substitutes saccharin, which has no food value, for sugar in her daily diet. She learns how to use saccharin (above) for making tempting desserts. At lunch in restaurant (upper right) she drops saccharin tablets into coffee as sweetener. Proudly, she serves non-fattening lemon snowdrift (lower right) which she made herself with saccharin in recipe.

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

When you think about taking off a pound or two in order to slip into a sheath bathing suit, chances are you decide to omit desserts and sweets from your daily diet. It's a noble resolution, but few women ever stay with it.

It's so tempting, when you have lunch with a friend, to do as she does — order a double hot fudge sundae. Or rich chocolate cake. Or anything that will make it harder to slip into that suit.

There's a nappy compromise in the use of saccharin when you want either to trim a few pounds or to keep your weight at an exact figure. For saccharin, like salt and pepper, is a condiment used only for taste.

It's sweet but it has no food value and won't add a single calorie to your diet. Thus, when you want to cut down on the sugar in your diet but don't want

Helene Madeira To Present Show

The Helene Madeira School of Dance and the Peter Pan Kindergarten will give a show, "Rhythm in Rhyme," at 8 p. m. Monday, May 21. The show is being sponsored by the VFW Auxiliary.

This will be a varied program of song and dance numbers and will include a Charleston number by a group of teen-agers.

Nancy Thomas, 11, of Amarillo will perform, as will Kay Hammond, also 11, of Lefors, who was the winner in the Bob Wills talent search recently held here.

A kindergarten number, "Peter Cottontail," will be given in "bunny" costume by 14 pre-school children. There will be a brother and sister act, danced on ballet slippers.

The program will include ballet, tap, toe and novelty dances.

to give up its taste in desserts, tea or coffee, saccharin provides the sweet solution.

Saccharin comes in two forms: powder and tablet. All saccharin tablets look very much alike but some are one-fourth grain, some are one-half grain and others are one-grain tablets. A one-fourth grain tablet is equal, in sweetening power, to one level teaspoon of sugar. The one-fourth grain tablet equals two level teaspoons of sugar and the one-grain tablet is the equivalent of four teaspoons of sugar. The one-grain grain tablets are easiest for getting just the right amount of sweetening for your tea or coffee.

Saccharin can go into your kitchen and there become a beauty aid just as much as the creams and liquids on your dressing table. Cookies, dessert whips, custards, sherbets and other desserts can be made with saccharin.

There's just one rule to follow: in preparing the recipes, always add the saccharin tablets or solution to the liquid ingredients preferably at lukewarm or room temperatures. Saccharin dissolves almost instantly and is stable at all cooking temperatures. It can, in addition to sweetening desserts, be used on cooked cereals, stewed fruits and in home canning.

For a dessert that's pretty as a picture, healthful and non-fattening, try making lemon snowdrift with saccharin. This is what you'll need for a serving for six:

1 envelope unflavored gelatin, 1-2 cup cold water, 3-4 cup boiling water, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 8 1-4 grain saccharin tablets, 1-4 cup lemon juice, 1-4 teaspoon grated lemon rind, and 2 egg whites stiffly beaten.

Soak gelatin in cold water 5 minutes. Add boiling water and stir until dissolved. Add salt and saccharin tablets and stir until dissolved. Add lemon juice and rind. Chill until mixture is about as thick as unbeaten egg white.

Beat until foamy and fold mixture into stiffly beaten egg whites. Set bowl in ice water and continue beating until mixture begins to hold its shape. Turn into one-quart mold. Chill until set. Unmold and serve with chilled custard.

Danes Favor The Open Sandwich

by GAYNOR MALLOX
NEA Staff Writer
COPENHAGEN — (NEA) —

One of the major pastimes of the pleasure-loving Danes is the eating of open sandwiches. Here in Copenhagen there is a restaurant, Oskar Davidsen's, with 172 different kinds on the menu.

The Danes call them smorrebrod and they are the national luncheon at homes, in offices, at the factory and in schools.

One sandwich is named for Hans Christian Andersen, Denmark's popular hero. It is said to have been the favorite of the author of "The Ugly Duckling" and "The Little Match Girl." It's a slice of evenly buttered bread, spread with crisp slices of grilled bacon. Over these are laid slices of tomato, liver paste with truffle and then meat jelly and grated horseradish.

Beside it, on a white platter with delicate blue pattern, lies a shrimp sandwich, called "In a Crowd." It consists of a slice of buttered bread resting on a crisp lettuce leaf, supporting an amazing pyramid of tiny pink shrimp.

I often wonder as I eat these infinitesimal Danish shrimp where their cooks get the skill and patience required to shell them. These little shrimp caught along the Danish shores are as dear to the Danes as hot dogs are to us.

Pork liver paste rates high for smorrebrod, also. It is smooth and delicate and along with their mild cured ham and smoke key salami is now being exported to the United States in 4-oz. cans.

One evening after attending the ballet at the Royal Theatre, we went home with Danish friends. They served an amazing snack—"Roget Sild med Aeggebomme." It consists of slices of buttered dark rye topped with long fillets of smoked herring. In the center is a raw onion ring and in the ring lies the raw yolk of an egg. Chopped onion and chopped radish garnish the golden yolk and Danish beer or strong coffee complete the picture.

Real Mister Golf Is Duffer, Expert At Heart, Who Pays To Follow The Stars

Photos from Professional Golfer
 "Offhand," says Mister Golf, "I'd say that boy's got too much club for this 145-yard hole."
 "Wow! Plenty high. May be a little short. Here's my chance to see him get out of a trap!"
 "Well, what d'yuh know about that! It's right up by the pin. Maybe the wind helped it over."
 "I'll stick back here and get in on the second shot. That way, I'll keep ahead of the mob, too."
 "With all that fairway, why play toward that rough? Boy, oh boy, now this fellow is in it."
 "I know a good spot to watch 'em come up and tee off on the next hole. Let's get there first."

 WITH all due respect to the top tournament favorites, and to the sponsors of the big events, Mister Golf is none of them.
 He's the man with a ticket dangling from his lapel, the man who pays for America's exhibition and tournament golf. He is responsible for the big galleries.
 Professional Golfer's staff photographer picked a typical Mister Golf at a tournament and followed him around. He's usually a duffer in his own game, but an expert at heart.
 He knows the etiquette of the game and of watching the game.
 He has learned how to see golf with the least exertion. Mister Golf pays the bill for America's game, and loves doing it.

Sugar Ray On Tour For Cancer

PARIS — (AP) — France's first lady, Mme. Vincent Auriol, got four kisses on the cheeks from Negro middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson yesterday, all in the interests of cancer research.
 The bussing of the wife of France's president was part of a presentation by the Detroit fighter of a $10,000 check for the French cancer campaign from the American Damon Runyon Cancer Fund.
 Robinson is delivering a series of such donations from the Runyon fund in Europe. He also will donate to the French campaign his share of the purse of his fight next Monday, a night with Kid Marcel, French welterweight champion.
 As half a hundred French notables gathered in a gilded salon near the Arch of Triumph applauded, Robinson made a brief speech in French and handed over the check.
 After the president of the French fund, Justin Godart, replied with more French and a lot of praise for Sugar Ray, the fighter told the crowd:
 "Hey, now I get to kiss missus president!"
 Tommy Sherrill, Sudan, are in the thick of the fight. Action of these four in the spring game should give Kimbrough something more definite to plan on during the summer.
 Prior to the game the athletic department will be host to members of the West Texas Activities Association, past holders of season tickets, coaches, and fans at a "Kick-off Supper" in Buffalo Courts at 6 o'clock.

Racing World Celebrates Preakness Diamond Jubilee

BALTIMORE — This year's Preakness will have a diamond setting as the centerpiece of horse racing's triple crown.
 The classic will be run May 19 at old Pimlico for the 75th time. The Kentucky Derby and Belmont Stakes, the fore and aft pieces of the crown, already have observed their 75th anniversaries.
 The Preakness started two years before the Derby, in 1873. But there's no record of it having been held between 1889 and 1894. The Derby has been run annually since 1875.
 Until three years ago, the years 1894-1908 were Preak-blanks also. The Maryland Jockey Club then discovered the old Gravesend track in Brooklyn had held Preakness stakes in those years and they were added to the records.
 This is cricket in horse racing. The Belmont Stakes started in 1867 at Jerome Park and then moved to Morris Park before settling down in its present location in 1905.
 The Preakness has been run at seven different distances ranging from one mile to its present mile and three-sixteenths. Its value to the winners has skyrocketed from $1,250 to a high of $98,005 in 1947. Starters have been as few as two and as many as 18.
 The 75th running will have an endowment of $75,000. Nominating and starting fees will raise the total swag to more than $100,000.
 The Jockey Club always has featured its past — tradition is its key word. But in a special brochure for the diamond jubilee, it's noted "we are suddenly faced with the imminent possibility that there are only a few more chances to record the past as an integral part of the present."
 "On the drawing boards of our architects there are now plans for the new Pimlico."
 Modernization of old Pimlico will start as soon as building restrictions imposed by the national emergency are lifted. The only familiar touch will be the ornate clubhouse built in 1870.
 That was the first year of racing at Pimlico. The first race was the Dinner Party Stakes. It was won by a horse named Preakness for which the track's most famous race is named.
 Pimlico undeniably has tradition. In 1877, Congress adjourned and came over from Washington to watch a race among three stars of the time, Parole, Ten Broeck and Tom Ochiltree.
 The old grandstand carries the names of every winner of the Dixie Handicap, Preakness, Pimlico Futurity and Pimlico Special, the track's major races.
 Another individual touch is the practice of painting a horse and rider weather vane atop the clubhouse in the colors of the Preakness winner.

Sports Round-Up

NEW YORK — (AP) — Johnny Bratton and Kid Gavilan, who fight for the welterweight title tomorrow, have at least one thing in common — they both started young . . . The Cuban kid claims he was only 12 years old when he had his first amateur fight. Bratton waited a little longer until he was 15 before appearing in formal competition, though he did a good bit of impromptu fighting on vacant lots in Chicago . . . Having seen a Gavlin when he tried to lift the title from Ray Robinson two years ago, we'd say there's one thing in common between them: at his best, Sugar Ray probably could whip both in one night . . . The Rangers may drop their St. Paul hockey farm next winter. When fans argued that old players were responsible for a drop in attendance in the 1949-50 season, they put in a whole team of youngsters, finished second and did even worse at the gate.
AS SIMPLE AS THAT
 John Cronley, the Daily Oklahoman sports editor, asked Oklahoma's veteran track coach the secret of successful track coaching . . . Coach John Jacobs didn't even have to stop and think before he replied: "Find you a good high school boy who can beat the heck out of everybody and latch onto him. He'll take you around the world."
ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE
 Ever hear of a college football player who walked out in the middle of a game to attend choir practice? Canfield Brown, Princeton guard, did just that after the first half of the recent spring game . . . Joe Petritz, former "voice" of the All-American Conference and the New York Yanks, had switched his talents to publicizing the Lincoln Fields at Washington Park race meeting . . . The Giants' Al Dark is a new resident of "The Home of Champions," Englewood, N. J. Other champs there include figure skater Dick Button, Lee Savold, world heavyweight boxing champion according to the British board; Yank quarterback George Ratterman, and IBC-tub-thumper Murray Goodman, who awarded the title . . . The Fort Wayne, Ind., Pistons have scheduled a two-sport doubleheader for May 26, when Paul Birch's basketballers will stage a squad game and the champion fastball team (softball to you; will open its home season . . . Pittsburgh fans are steamed up over the success of shifting Wally Westlake from the outfield to third base for the Pirates. That's one Rickey trade that didn't cost anyone money.
END OF THE LINE
 Scholarship days at the Florida horse and dog tracks produced a net of $165,830 in the 1949-50 season, of which $110,556 went to the U. of Florida. Reported so far this winter is a total of $126,281.41 . . . What's this story that De Paul U. is having trouble filling the dates for its basketball doubleheaders in Chicago Stadium . . . Word from the Pacific Coast is that California fullback Johnny Olszewski really looked rugged during spring practice and that three straight Rose Bowl kickings won't keep Pappy Walden's boys from trying for another title . . . Ray Arcel tells Chicago fight fans that Jimmy Braddock had more equipment to beat Joe Louis than any other Louis opponent. And he thinks Ezzard Charles could have beaten Jimmy easier than Joe did.
Carnett Back To Mound?
BORGER — (AP) — Manager Eddie Carnett is about to give up his first-base job to take his regular turn on the mound.
 Carnett said that unless he is able to obtain a couple of pitchers from Oklahoma City or other sources he would be forced to do this.
 Bob Leonhard, Gasser right-fielder, will probably be tapped for the first base assignment.
 Frankie Frisch, the Fordham Flash, was a great all-around star at second base in the National League for 19 years.

Bufs May Play Tonight

CANYON — (WTNS) — Football fans of West Texas State may have the opportunity to see what promise lies in store for the 1951 gridder. Coach Frank Kimbrough will put his young defending Border Conference champions onto the turf at Buffalo Stadium in the big intra-squad game winding up spring drill. The public is invited with kickoff time 8 o'clock. The rains may force a cancellation.
 Many questions will be waiting for answers when the squads collide. Who will replace the potent running attack of graduating Bill Cross and Charlie Wright? Which quarterback will move into the slot vacated by Gene Mayfield, now a fulltime tutor for the Bufs? Who will assume the punting chores so ably handled last season by lanky Frank Wise? What is the strength of the line?

 Coach Kimbrough lost 14 seniors from his championship team of last fall and 2 more have joined the services. Also, 12 of last fall's promising freshmen joined the services in the "mad-rash" last January leaving only 16 fresh moving into varsity ranks.
 A total of 26 varsity lettermen are available but three of those, Kenneth Echols, Sam Raburn and Walker Bateman, are not out this spring.
 Toughest of all problems in the Buff rebuilding program is the selection of a quarterback for the 1951 eleven. Four candidates have been pushing the race during spring workouts with a leading selection not apparent yet. Lonnie Rice, junior from Dimmitt, and Joe Means, senior from Phillips, have the nod as far as seniority goes. However, sophomores Bob Lane, Turkey, and

Kid Gavilan Makes Supreme Sacrifice

SUMMIT, N.J. — (AP) — No rumba for Kid Gavilan until he wins the welterweight title Friday night in his fight with Johnny Bratton. The keed is making the supreme sacrifice.
 Word leaked back to his training camp that Bratton dismisses him as "just another rumba dancer." Gavilan was a little indignant.
 "Look fran," he said. "I have fight. No rumba. My legs have balance because I dance mucho. But no rumba until after fight."
 Did the sleek Cuban expect to whip Bratton? (silly question).
 "I think so."

California Open Underway Today

DEL MAR, Calif. — (AP) — A field of more than 250 golfers set out today in the first round of the $4,000 California Open championship, with Lloyd Mangrum favored to wind up on top.
 Mangrum, of Chicago, won the U.S. Open in 1946.
 Play is over the Rancho Santa Fe Country Club course, which measures 6,800 yards and has a par of 36-36-72.
 Tournament director Frank Chester pointed out that the field includes winners of every major title with the exception of the British Open. Mangrum and big Ralph Guidahl have won the National Open, Guidahl the Masters, Paul Runyan the National PGA in 1934, 8 miley Quick the National Public Links, and back in 1921 a young Scotsman named Willie Hunter won the British Amateur.
 This is the same Hunter, who is on the firing line here again today.

LUBBOCK — (Special) — A sweater is the most popular costume for a college coed, according to a recent survey at Texas Technological College.

Of the girls questioned, 97.5 percent stated they wore sweaters. Some 54 percent wore them nearly every day, and another 31.96 percent at least twice a week.

Here's One Way To Fool Declarer

By OSWALD JACOBY Written for NEA Service Today's hand was played in a recent team match, and the slam spades was bid at both tables.

Table with 4 columns: NORTH (D), WEST, SOUTH, EAST. It lists card holdings for a bridge hand.

In the second room West dropped the king of diamonds when dummy led the ace. This persuaded the declarer at that table that the two remaining diamonds were held by East.

In the average bridge game, West should drop the king in this situation when he wants declarer to abandon the suit.
