How To Keep A Home Cool

By DAVID G. BAREUTHERS AP Real Estate Editor The best way to keep a house cool at this time of the year is to build it north of the Arctic Circle. If you've had to locate nearer to business, you can have a hot time with the rest of us—trying out all the artful dodges designed for what the glomour people jokingly call climate control.

Turpentine Used To Lighten Stain

When an oil stain of the type that is used on interior wood surfaces is too dark, it can be lightened by thinning it with turpentine. A paler tone can also be produced by wiping off excess stain before it has set. A stain that comes out too light, however, can be darkened by another coat.

Paint Made To Give Service

Floor floors are subjected to excessive wear and all kinds of weather. Special exterior floor paints are manufactured to give the greatest amount of service possible. Cement porch floors, if they haven't been painted before, should first be primed with a special cement primer, then finished with rapid-drying cement floor paints.

Plastic Cement Is Used For Repairs

Plastic cement is similar to asphalt-asbestos roof-coating, except that it is of troweling consistency. Used to repair holes in roofs, walls, foundations, etc., it is sometimes known as "asphalt putty."

Brightens Windows

Window boxes should be painted attractively so they will be bright and eye-pleasing whether the flowers they contain are blooming or not. The color chosen should be one that goes well with the exterior color scheme of the house. Soft yellow, hydrangea blue and a grayed vermilion are effective colors for window boxes.

Dye Used To Locate Spots On Furniture

Before modern furniture is given its fine finish, every precaution is taken to make sure that all cracks and nail holes are filled and that all "vagrant" glue spots or smears are removed. To aid the eyes in the glue search, fluorescent dye is sometimes mixed with the glue. The use of this dye in the glue does not cause any harmful effects and, when the furniture is exposed to a near-violet ray lamp, it fluoresces like a neon sign.

Blue Symbolic

Color symbolism has some of its roots mythology. For instance, divine beings were supposed to inhabit heaven which was in the blue-sky region. As a result, blue became symbolic of much that was associated with divine beings.

Lacquer Process

In the hot-lacquer process, heat is used instead of volatile lacquer ingredients to make the lacquer thin enough to spray. The process is now being used in the automobile and furniture industries as well as many others.

Old Problem Now Solved

Even manufacturers of miniature motor cars have their problems with finishes. One such problem developed when the maker of toy plastic cars was puzzled over the way to equip his miniature motors with authentic-looking chrome bumpers without upsetting production. The answer was found to be a specially formulated finish that will not attack the plastic and that dries in one minute, permitting continuous production. By means of it, costs were kept down and saleability was improved.

India Shellac Has 4 Harvests

In India there are four harvesting seasons for lac — the substance from which surface-protecting shellac is made. The April and May lac crop is called "baisakhi" for the month "Baisakh." Next in importance is the October-November crop, called "Kattik" from the month of "Kattik." Less important harvests are the "Jethwi" crop of late May and June, named for the month of "Jeth," and the November-December "Aghani" harvest, christened for the month of "Aghan."

Washing Machines Get New Coatings

When industrial finish engineers were assigned the task of developing coatings for washing machines that would not be affected by soaps, washing powders or hot water, they came up with quick-drying and baked finishes which speed production and cut costs.

Hastens Finishing Smooths Furniture

Graden furniture of the sort with the bark still on it should be smoothed before it is made to make it just as smooth as possible. In this way you can minimize the danger of snagging sheer hose and filmy fabrics.

2-Color Shutters

The exterior color scheme for a Georgian house, prescribed by a noted decorator, specifies deep green shutters for the windows on the first floor and putty-colored shutters for the second story windows.

Coating Protects

Bituminous coatings, with or without mineral or fibrous matter, are used to make surfaces moisture-resistant and to safeguard them against corrosion. Fibrous materials, such as felt, cotton fabric, burlap and asbestos, are used for roofing when they are impregnated with bituminous materials.

Dear Chief: Boyle Will Make Good Addition To Sioux Tribe

By RELMAN MORIN The Six Nations of the Sioux Black Hills, S.D. Dear Chief: They tell me Hal Boyle is out in the Dakotas somewhere and that you have taken him into the tribe. You've got the right man, chief. Hal has all the makings of a mighty fine Indian. Mind you, he won't be much good on the trail, right at first. He has policeman's feet and the expanding chassis of a Chinese idiol. Incidentally, this worries him, and every once in a while — the last time was October 1946 — he attempts some violent exercise. On that occasion, he played three innings of softball, and for all I know, he may still have the original charley horses. You can't tell because he always walks like a cigar store Ind — er, with a short of waddle. Moreover, until your braves get used to seeing him around the council fires at night, it would be better to keep him in his teepee away from the tribe. But these are small things. Let me tell you the important reasons why I am sure he will be a credit to the tribe. Hal is a city dweller, of course, and wholly at ease in this plate glass apartment house, works in an air-conditioned office, and knows all the curleques of the subway. Technically, he is a New Yorker, and has been for years.

It is the custom of the Electric Supply to make careful plans for each project and to offer any planning you may desire at no charge. Southard explained that they take the individual problems of each project into consideration to insure a safer, more thorough wiring job. They do an adequate job whereby, insuring the use of small appliances at a greater savings to you. If you have any remodeling problems, and if you are now remodeling or planning to do so soon, you probably have many, the Electric Supply is more than happy to help you with them. If you think your present wiring is inadequate just ring 1106 and someone from the Electric Supply will be right out to check over your wiring. Electricity is the cheapest, the most convenient and the most modern way to pump oil wells today. In many cases oil can be pumped for as little as one and one-quarter cent per barrel by using electric power. If several electric motors are used they usually can be maintained for one dollar per horsepower per year. A ten horsepower motor, if used with several other electric motors, can be maintained for only ten dollars for one year. In the field of electricity, there are several requirements that must be fulfilled. The first of these is the use of top quality materials. The second is the knowledge gained through experience, engineering and study. Third is having men who are properly trained to do their job and willing to do a good job. The fourth and one of the most important is to have the proper equipment to perform the particular job you are doing. There are many advantages to electric pumping other than those already mentioned. One is the labor saving automatic starting and stopping of periodic pumping which in many cases increases production. It is also better for the well since the electric clock can be set to shut the well down at a predetermined time. There are no two jobs alike, therefore each job must be taken into consideration and must be planned in order to gain the maximum in efficient and satisfactory operation. The crew from the Electric Supply tries to do the best possible job in the field at all times. They take a great pride in their work. All of the men of the Electric Supply are old hands in the electrification field. They have gained their knowledge not from books alone but from a round fifteen years experience in the field. All of their work is guaranteed and they stand behind their work. They have been in business long enough that they are able to put out a pretty economical system. You can be sure that The Electric Supply, under the ownership of "Suds" Southard, has the qualified men, the equipment and the material to do a first class job. During the time when things were hard to get, The Electric Supply has been able to hold on to enough material to take care of those that do want to electrify. All of the men of the Electric Supply are licensed electricians, including "Suds." Remember, electricity is the cheapest, the most convenient and the most modern way to pump oil wells today. The next time you have any electrical problems of any kind, call 1106. The Electric Supply . . . They can do the job for you.

THE GILA MURDER

BY JULIUS LONG

COPYRIGHT 1951 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

Adams almost screamed. "I merely left a document there as I was supposed to. I can't tell you what it was, for it was of a strictly confidential nature. That's why Laura's car was parked in back so I could leave it there without any member of her family seeing me."

"So some member of her family was interested?" Baker demanded.

"Who? Lawrence?"

McAdams glared at him. "I refuse to answer."

"Then," said Mitchell, "I'll have to hold you. If you had nothing to do with that Gila Monster, it's time you came clean."

McAdams writhed miserably. Then, "All right, I'll tell you. Laura had me draw a new will yesterday afternoon. She set up another trust fund, this time for Lawrence. Pat was named trustee. She was to have complete control of Lawrence's share of the inheritance. Laura was convinced that the boy was going insane. I suppose she was right. Dr. Creighton here thinks so, anyway." He glanced at the doctor.

"Lawrence found out what she was up to and had a fit. He stormed into my office and made vague threats as to what he'd do if I wrote such a will. Of course I had no alternative but to draw it. But the kid kept a check on Laura's whereabouts, and to save trouble I was to deliver the will by putting it in her glove box. She was to sign it in the presence of two clerks, put it in her glove box, and I was to pick it up when she parked her car downtown today. I'll swear that's all I know about what happened. The will turned up missing, of course. I think you can understand why I kept my mouth shut."

"I think so," said the chief, staring at McAdams. "You've just about slipped a noose over Lawrence Colton's neck."

"They electrocute in this state," said Baker coldly.

Dr. Creighton said: "Lawrence won't hang, and he won't go to the electric chair. He'll go to the hospital for the cr. family insane."

Chief Mitchell started as he heard a sound in the outer office. He listened, heard nothing more and turned back to Johnnie McAdams.

"I suppose you'll represent the kid. You'd better turn him in. I'm going to arrest him for the murder of his mother if you don't."

McAdams shrugged. "Sam and Pat may be mad because I talked. But I had to. Besides, it's wrong to let that kid go loose. I'll have to go out now and face Pat."

He left, and Chief Mitchell said: "Well, there you are, Paul. There's your case. Do you think the doc here can prove insanity?"

Baker eyed the police chief silently, shrugged and got up. He went outside to find McAdams standing puzzled by his car.

"Pat's walked out on me," he said. "I didn't think I was in there that long."

"Maybe she just went to the drug store across the street to make a phone call or something."

McAdams shook his head. "No. Her handbag is gone—one of those big satchel-sized things built square with hard walls. She took it with her."

HE got under the wheel of his car and drove away.

Baker went around back to the city hall parking lot to his own car. He started to climb inside, then he heard a woman's voice.

"Hello," said Pat Colton. "You have a passenger. I want you to drive me to Seneca Lake."

Baker got under the wheel. Seneca Lake was 10 miles from Coltonville.

"Is the trip urgent?"

"Very. I suppose you're wondering why I didn't ask Johnnie to take me."

She was seated beside him. Although he could not see her in the dark, he sensed that she was not smiling.

Baker turned on his dash lights and regarded the girl. She held the big square handbag in her lap.

"Yes, I am wondering why," said Baker coldly.

Senate Probably Will Cut House Measure:

Little Chance Seen For OK Of HST's Tax Boost This Year

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman's bid for a $10,000,000 tax increase appears to have little or no chance if realization this year.

A check of key members on the tax-writing Senate Finance Committee indicated Saturday that the Senate is likely to reduce rather than increase the $7,200,000,000 bill.

One veteran member said the committee probably would come out with a total somewhere between $5,000,000,000 and the House figure.

The finance group finished six weeks of open hearings on the bill Friday.

Tentative plans are for the 13 senators to begin writing their version of the bill a week from Monday. This week is to be used by the committee's staff of experts to analyze proposals made by witnesses who testified.

Final plans are to be made after Chairman George (D-Nea) returns to the capital Monday from a three-week rest at home.

But acting Chairman Byrd (D-Va.) and Senator Millikin (R-Colo.), ranking minority member of the committee, told newsmen they were sure the group would need two or three weeks of closed sessions to work on the bill.

That would mean it could not pass the Senate before September.

Byrd said he expected an extensive rewriting job on the House measure. "There are a lot of hardships and inequities we have to try to do something about," he explained.

Byrd was one Senator who thought the tax hike could be made somewhat less than ap-

Tough General Guarding Troubled Iran Oil Fields

By JAMES M. LONG

AP Newswire

ABADAN, Iran — The husky six-foot Iranian general whose troops recaptured Azerbaijan from the Russians in 1945 is in command of dangerously explosive Khuzestan in the British-Iranian oil dispute.

He has three British warships at his port, an aroused Iranian populace determined that two thousand British must go — and he says:

"We'll have no trouble here. I have at my disposal more than enough forces to assure complete security."

He's 46-year-old Gen. Aziziella Kamal (accent on the last syllable) military governor of Khuzestan where the British are slowly evacuating one of the richest oil fields under pressure of Iranian oil nationalization.

Take him out of his sun-bleached khaki and the square-jawed professional soldier in the army of the shah would look like an American football coach — greying a bit at the temples but in strapping fine physical condition.

He didn't get that way from athletics. "Never had time for sport," he says. "The Army has kept me busy."

He's busy now. His Tenth Iranian Division (Iranian divisions are only a fraction the size of American and European Army divisions) has been ordered from Teheran to make sure there is no trouble here.

For if it started it might lead to World War III, with Britain determined to see that her subjects are safe and with Uncle Ivan watching from the north to see that no western armies land here.

General Kamal refuses to say how many men he has for the job, or how they are deployed in this land that comes down from the snow-capped Negro mountains to the desertland at the head of the Persian gulf.

"If you were playing poker," he says, "you'd hardly let the other players see your cards."

His Tenth Division is part of the Southern Iranian Military Command with headquarters at Ahwaz, 100 miles northeast of here.

That's where his tanks are in reserve — Sherman and T-34 Stuarts that Iran got from American Army surplus stores. And that's his air force base, too. If he needs to call on Gen. Shah Bakhtiari, Iran's "tiger of the south" for air support.

'Reign Of Terror' Reported By China Native Eye Witness

By LEON DENNEN

NEA Staff Correspondent

MILAN, Italy (NEA) — A Chinese worker who fled the Red terror of his native land says the Communist regime kills or imprisons everyone it distrusts and exploits to the limit the people it trusts.

The worker is Wang Chung, who was a delegate to the Milan convention of the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions. His eyewitness account, one of the first ever to emerge from today's Red China, was given to the delegates.

Only a little more than a month ago, Wang was in China. He made his way out by disguising himself as a small-town peddler, contacting hide-outs of the resistance movement and eventually crawling over the Hong Kong border under bristling machine guns and Communist gunfire. In pre-Communist China, he declares, the working hours were eight to nine a day. The Reds boosted them to 10 and 12. China's entry into the Korean War pushed them even higher, to a maximum of 16 a day. A skilled technician, Wang describes his life:

"I remember that for months on end last winter I did not even have a chance to speak with my wife and kids. I was off for work at six in the morning when they were still in bed. I finished work at nine at night, and immediately there was a two or three hour session in a group of comrades' meeting. When I returned at midnight the family was already sound asleep."

Wages were not increased proportionately with hours, he adds. One day in 1947 Wang saw 600 pounds of rice a month for nine hours' work a day. This was an amazing 10 cents, he got 200 pounds for 16 hours. But even this was only the nominal pay. After deducting taxes, duties, and various "voluntary" contributions he took home from 100 to 150 pounds of rice a month.

One hundred pounds of rice, says Wang, is barely enough for two bowls of very thin rice porridge per meal for each of the five in his family for a month.

Poor pay and long hours have increased widespread malnutrition and industrial fatigue which have vastly increased the frequency of industrial accidents. In Wang's machine shop, accidents were almost a daily occurrence.

Wang reports that Communist agents long ago wormed their way into every labor union and converted them all into "agencies of the secret police, which has brought to my country a frightful reign of terror."

The chief union aims now are to compile a black list of all anti-Communist elements in a particular factory, and to hold frequent mass meetings in which union leaders strike out names (marking men for death) when the list grows too long.

Aids Wang:

"I remember some of the meetings in which some of the resistance fellows were condemned to death with a gun. Later on, when there were 'too many suspicious' elements, the Communist agents sent in the names to the secret police, who arrested them and shot them at will."

"I used to tremble at nights when police vans drove up to my doorstep, or when my neighbors' doors were knocked on in the small hours before dawn."

Wang recalls the Red regulation of Feb. 21, 1951, which gave legal sanction to the widespread purges and massacres that have caught the attention of the outside world. He says they were the Communist response to great popular discontent over China's participation in the Korean War.

He cites instances he knows of, personally:

"A next door neighbor in Shanghai came from a village, and possessed about five acres of land. He was branded a landlord, an exploiter of the peasants, a man-eater in the countryside. He was taken back to his village and buried alive before his family."

"A fellow worker in my factory was arrested on April 27. He was skinned alive for failing to admit his own guilt."

Wang says the Reds acknowledge having liquidated 1,500,000 anti-Communists, but that the number murdered is actually much greater and includes thousands of innocents.

"Anyone found uncooperative in the slightest manner can be arrested and shot at any moment in any locality," he asserts.

After two years of these horrors, Wang reports his countrymen bitterly disillusioned.

"I'm sure I am voicing the unanimous opinion of my terror-stricken people when I say we prefer war to Soviet tyranny."

Businessmen Worried On U.S. Spending

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — You never can tell how people are going to spend their money.

The yen to spend ran strong through the nation the first part of the year. Now saving is in fashion. Department of Commerce officials estimate that in the last three months total savings were more than double what people put away in the first three months of the year.

What will consumers do this fall? A lot of businessmen would sleep better if they knew.

Will people invest their money? Will they use their savings to whittle down the huge totals of home mortgages and consumer credit debt? Or will they use these sums they've been squirreling away to start buying up "big ticket" consumer goods again.

The switch from spending to saving was sudden and sharp. It caused most of the troubles that business men have been having in recent months. They went on producing and stocking up even after the public stopped buying hand over fist and began counting pennies.

During the first part of the year — when the second scare-buying wave was on — consumer spending topped pre-Korea 1950 by 20 percent. Savings dropped 25 percent below the rate of the previous year. Holdings of U. S. savings bonds dropped $300 million, as people sold them to buy goods. Home mortgages debt climbed $1.5 billion. Cash and bank deposits dropped $2.2 billion.

Then in March people stopped buying so much, started saving more. They are now putting away a larger part of their current incomes than they usually do.

All the time total personal income kept rising. In May it reached an annual rate of nearly $350 billion, up about 15 percent from the year before. Taxes rose, too, but still not as fast as income.

Disposable income — what is left for spending after taxes — has been rising at an annual rate of $17 billion and is now around $222 billion a year. But consumer spending has dropped since March by about 2.8 percent and is now around $208 billion a year. That leaves at least $14 billion to be reckoned as savings, Commerce Department officials say.

Swelling savings accounts, insurance sales and bank deposits attest to the new savings trend. As an example, the U. S. Savings and Loan League says that savings associations' assets are now past the $17 billion mark, compared with $5.8 billion in 1939.

These savings look mighty tempting to businessmen. But you never can tell how people are going to spend their money — or if they'll spend it.

In war there is hope for peace and freedom. In tyranny there can only be tremor, agony, despair and perpetual slavery.

"And so it transpires that millions of Chinese have again taken up arms and joined ranks with guerrilla units in the hills, around the lakes, along the coasts and in village hide-outs. . . . Hundreds of thousands of workers in factories and mines are in the resistance movement. . . . The day will not be far distant when the Chinese Iron Curtain will be smashed to pieces."

China's only valuable oil field is near Yumen, Kansu province.

U.S. Is Said Ready To Turn Down Red Five-Power Treaty

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The United States rejected today Russia's proposal for a five-power peace pact as "a propaganda trap."

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The United States is reported ready to turn down quickly Russia's newest bid for a Moscow-styled Big Five peace pact to end the cold war. Russian President Nikolai Shvernik revived the two-year-old Soviet offer last night in a surprise letter to President Truman.

"It's the same old chestnut tied with a new ribbon," said a high American official who studied the letter's contents.

Two Shot To Death Today In Gainesville

GAINESVILLE — (AP) — A young Gainesville oil field worker and a young wife were shot to death here early today.

The husband of the latter surrendered and told police where to find the bodies. Billy Ray Hickman, 24, and Mrs. Gloria Mauldin, 22, were found dead on airport road about a mile north of Gainesville. Her husband, Pitman Mauldin, 22, was arrested.

Night police radio dispatcher Deloyse Coker said Mauldin telephoned him about 2:30 a.m.

"I killed two people and want you to send the police after me," he directed them to the home here of his mother, Mrs. Loubiana Hickman. Mrs. Hickman was related, by marriage, to the slain man.

Coker said three patrolmen who went to the address were met at the door by Mauldin and that Mauldin told them "the gun is in my car." Coker said a 22 caliber rifle was found in the car, which was parked in the front yard.

County Attorney Carroll Sullivan said Mauldin directed officers to airport road. Hickman, dressed in straw hat, sports shirt and khaki trousers, was lying face down in weeds along the road. A cigarette in his left hand had burned down to his fingers. Mrs. Mauldin's body lay 18 feet away on the road, face down. She was dressed in blue jeans and a yellow T shirt. Both had been shot about four times.

Survivors include his wife, Lillie Gooch; his mother, Mrs. Nellie Gooch, Paragould, Ark.; three sisters, Mrs. Minnie Russell, Mrs. Ollie Kinsinger, also of Paragould; Mrs. Clara Snodgrass, Amarillo.

Mr. and Mrs. Gooch moved from Amarillo 21 years ago to Pampa. He was a World War I veteran and a member of the First Methodist Church. He was in the real estate business here. Solon Will Seek Showdown On McCarthy Investigation

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator Benton (D-Cann) said today he will press for a showdown on his demands for a Senate investigation to determine whether Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) should be expelled.

Benton suggested in a Senate speech yesterday that McCarthy should resign. As an alternative, he introduced a resolution proposing an investigation of Wisconsin lawmaker's activities to determine whether the Senate should oust him.

McCarthy fired back by calling Benton a "mental midget" who, he said, "worked hand in glove with the crimson clique" as an assistant secretary of state. He did not elaborate on this point. Benton said he had no reply to McCarthy's statement "because I'm not going to engage in that kind of argument."

But he told a reporter "I absolutely am going to press" for action on the proposed resolution to investigate McCarthy.

He will have a chance to do this tomorrow, when the Senate rules committee, of which he is a member, is scheduled to meet behind closed doors. The resolution was referred to this committee at Benton's request.

The resolution quoted excerpts from an elections subcommittee report which denounced as "despicable" some aspects of the 1950 Maryland election campaign which unseated the then Democratic senator, Millard Tydings. The report, made public last week, named McCarthy as an active figure in the Maryland campaign.

Dam Backers To Begin Work Immediately

On the telephoned advice of Rep. Walter Rogers this morning backers of the Canadian River Dam will get to work immediately in order to get the dam's $85,000,000 appropriation through Congress next year.

Rogers told Mayor C. A. Huff today that he would go into a huddle with Rep. George Mahon, Lubbock, as soon as possible, to work out the bill that would call for the appropriation.

The telephone call was the result of a session yesterday in Amarillo of the Executive Committee of the Canadian River Water Users Assn. when Mayor Huff and Mayor Clarence White-side of Lubbock agreed to call the two representatives, seeking their advice.

The disastrous Missouri Valley flood has accelerated action of the $5-million-dollar Canadian River Dam backers who believe now is the time to seek appropriation legislation — now, while flood control and river development is before Congress.

In previous meetings, the Texas delegation has not pushed for appropriations while the nation faced the Korean crisis, but it was pointed out in yesterday's meeting that the Korean situation was "about to fold up."

It was agreed that to push the dam now would be to get progressive action while the Corps of Engineers and the Bureau of Reclamation are free to begin construction.

Consensus was that once the government's dam building agencies start on the tremendous undertakings in the Missouri Valley, and possibly the St. Lawrence Water Ways, smaller projects will take a back seat.

If Rep. Rogers and Mahon agree with the thinking of the executive committee, delegates from Amarillo, Borger, Lubbock and Pampa will make more trips to Washington in the weeks ahead.

Harry Bureleigh, area planning engineer representing the Bureau of Reclamation, said at the meeting that an economic survey of the dam is nearing completion.

The Texas Bureau of Business Research, earlier this year, began a survey to cover the industrial water needs and potential business and population growth of cities which would be on the aqueduct system.

Following the completion of the survey, the bureau will confer with city officials informally and talk about individual water needs of each city.

Housewives Seek Refund

MARSHALL — (AP) — Marshall housewives who had their bank accounts attached for social security taxes they refused to pay for domestic servants say they'll ask the Internal Revenue Bureau at Dallas to give the money back.

If it won't, Kenneth Abney, husband of one of the women, said they would ask Rep. Patman (D-Texas) to introduce a bill in Congress permitting the women to sue the government.

Internal revenue agents yesterday attached the bank accounts of some of the rebelling women and got $38.03.

But nine of the 18 women involved apparently had withdrawn all their money in anticipation of the federal action. Tax agents didn't say what they planned to do in these cases.

Almost 80 Admit Cheating:

Army Gives Cadets Chance To Resign

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Army said today any West Point cadet who refuses to resign after admitting he breached the academy honor code will be discharged regardless of his refusal.

Each will first be given the opportunity to resign, however.

An Army spokesman said "appropriate action" will be taken against any cadet already graduated if evidence is found that he was involved in classroom cheating.

The Army's stand was set forth in a statement which also was to be released at West Point by Maj. Gen. Frederick K. Irving, academy superintendent.

The statement said nearly 80 cadets have admitted cribbing on examinations. A total of about 90 have been accused.

The Army issued its new statement today after unanimously vigorous reactions to the original announcement last week on the cribbing scandal.

Some Army men contend that the heavy wording of the original announcement contributed both to the public outcry and to a need for an explanation.

These facts have emerged to date from the formal announcements and explanations by spokesmen here and at West Point:

1. The Army chain of command, right up to the chief of staff and the civilian secretary, have approved the discharge of approximately 90 cadets.

2. The announcement by Secretary Pace did not say so, but some of the original 90 cadets also appear to have been involved and subjected to discipline.

3. A screening board has been set up by the military academy superintendent to give each cited cadet a last chance to speak up "by way of explanation, mitigation or extenuation."

The screening board's recommendations will go to the academy superintendent. If he is convinced of any cadet's guilt, the superintendent will recommend to the chief of staff and army secretary that the individual be discharged.

Parents Issue Plea

WEST POINT, N. Y. — (AP) —irate parents pleaded today that President Truman restore to duty their accused cadet sons whose pending discharges from the military academy have started a congressional inquiry.

Presidential intervention for the 90 cadets, who face expulsion for cheating at examinations, was sought by a number of their parents now on the West Point campus.

The parents sent a telegram appeal to Mr. Truman last night shortly after a Senate expenditure investigating subcommittee announced in Washington it would begin today checking complaints that the cadets got what some of them called a "raw deal."

Both Maj. Gen. Frederick A. Irving, academy superintendent, and head football coach Earl "Red" Blaik, whose vaunted team was hit by the dismissal order Friday, have stated they would like to see such an inquiry.

In their telegram to President Truman, the parents said they were "disheartened and disgraced" without trial of our 90 sons at the military academy is a travesty on the American idea of justice and a needless waste of the lives of these young men. We petition you to make their punishment fit their crime.

80 Drown In India Squall

CALCUTTA, India — (AP) — Dispatches from Dacca, in the Bengal area of east Pakistan, said today more than 80 persons were drowned when a crowded excursion boat sank during a squall last Sunday.

The report said only 12 survivors were picked up by a passing boat, and 40 bodies had been recovered thus far. A baby elephant which was on the boat also drowned, the report said.

Congress Votes To Restore Citizenship

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Senate has passed a bill to give back citizenship to Americans who forfeited it by voting in Italian elections of 1946 and 1948.

The Senate acted yesterday by voice-vote. The measure has also been passed by the House, but goes there again because the Senate added an amendment.

Sponsors of the bill estimated some three to four thousand persons would be affected.

The amendment added by the Senate requires the ex-citizen to swear he never did anything to promote Communism before getting back his passport.

Temperature Here Reaches 103 Degrees

Pampa fumed at 103 degrees at about 4 p.m. yesterday and the rest of Texas was just as hot or hotter.

The low last night was 68, nearly ten degrees lower than the coolest temperature yesterday.

A "cool" 91 was registered this morning, but it was expected that mercury would go up high later today.

Associated Press said this morning that the weather bureau promises no relief from the blistering heat. At least 10 persons have died from the heat in Texas.

At least two strikes protesting humid offices resulted from the weather. Telephone operators at Waxahachie walked off about 6 p.m. yesterday and 35 Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. girls left a Houston office, protesting their office was too hot.

Yesterday's hot belt extended from Texas northward to the Dakotas and northeastward into the middle and lower Mississippi valley.

Other readings yesterday were 110 degrees in Gainesville, hottest since 1939, 109 in Wichita Falls, 107 in Dallas, 105 in Childress and 103 in Lubbock, El Paso and Houston.

He spoke at the luncheon meeting Monday in the Palm Room, reviewing a number of the projects of the state organization and the good they have brought about.

Introduction of the speaker was made by regional vice-president Gene McDonald, who also emphasized the bi-regional convention to be held in Borger this weekend.

Miss Betty Jane Boynton sang three solos.

No Talks Until Commies Give A Guarantee

TOKYO — (AP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway told the Reds today Korean cease-fire talks will not be resumed until they assure him they will keep their Kaesong neutrality agreement.

The allied supreme commander acknowledged the Red apology for last Saturday's violation of the neutral zone. Then he told them that wasn't enough.

In a strongly-worded message to the two Red commanders in Korea, Ridgway said he needed new assurances that Communists will keep their word.

Only then, he said, will he send his five negotiators back to Kaesong to resume negotiations.

Ridgway, who has twice broken off talks because armed Red troops violated the neutral area, said he didn't think the appearance of a company of heavily armed Communists last Saturday was an "accident," as the Reds stated.

He told Korean Gen. Kim Il Sung and Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-huai that he considered the incident neither minor nor trivial. And he said:

"It must be clearly understood that my acceptance of a resumption of the armistice talks is conditional on complete compliance with your guarantees of neutrality for the Kaesong area. Any further failure in this regard will be interpreted as a deliberate move on your part to terminate the armistice negotiations."

"I await your acceptance of this condition."

A company of armed Red soldiers had marched through the Kaesong neutral zone while the armistice conference was underway Saturday. Because of this, Ridgway abruptly broke off the conference Sunday.

Generals Kim and Peng replied Monday that the presence of the troops was "a mistake and an accident."

Their joint statement, as broadcast by the Chinese People's radio, referred to it as "a small incident" and accepted General Ridgway's conditions for resumption of the talks.

Ridgway's conditions were a "satisfactory explanation of this violation and assurance of non-recurrence."

After receiving the Red reply, Ridgway summoned four of his negotiators to Tokyo, instead of sending them back to Kaesong.

Ridgway conferred last night and again this morning with his chief delegate, Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, before issuing his latest ultimatum.

X-Ray Plans Are Final

Final plans for the mass chest x-ray survey were set Monday in a meeting of the planning committee with Dr. Raymond Laycock, chairman, in charge.

Dr. Joe Donaldson was appointed to have charge of all publicity for the annual survey to be made in Pampa Sept. 1, 5, 6, 7, 8, 10, 11 and 12 at the American Legion Hall. Tentative hours for the x-rays are from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. daily.

The survey will be made in McLean Aug. 28 at the Dysart Motor Co. with Dr. J. H. Kritzer in charge. Leora citizens will be x-rayed Aug. 30 in the Southwestern Public Service building with Larry Fuller in charge.

Members of the Council of Women's Clubs will act as hostesses and clerks for the examinations; Boy Scouts will assist in the publicity services, setting up posters and delivering hand bills.

Jack Edmondson, principal of Pampa High School and president of the Gray County Tuberculosis Assn., said plans are being made for students to be able to have the examinations.

The League of Women Voters has volunteered to call persons reminding them of the survey and the Cabot Carbon Co. will operate loud speakers on the streets announcing the examinations.

Members of the planning committee are Mrs. Mildred Hill, Dr. Donaldson, B. R. Nuckols, Jack Edmondson and the chairman.

Wants U.S. To Cut Commie Relations

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator McCarran (D-Nev.) wants the United States to break off diplomatic and commercial relations with Soviet Russia and other Communist nations.

McCarran also recommended in a speech to the Senate yesterday that Russia and her allies be expelled from the United Nations, and that maximum support be given to anti-Communist underground groups in Soviet-controlled territories.

Film Planned For 'Ole Diz'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Latest
sports figure to be immortalized on film is "Ole Diz" himself —
Jacobs "Dizzy" Dean.

Twentieth Century-Fox is filming the life story of the legendary pitcher of St. Louis and current baseball commentator and word mangle of the air waves. The picture is called "The Pride of St. Louis," not to be confused with "Pride of the Yankees" or "Pride of the Marines" or "Pride and Prej-dice."

The film is the inspiration of producer Julius Schermer.
"I spent a week or so with Diz in New York, where he broadcasts the Yankee games," he said. "He told me some fabulous stories and I came away with enough material for three pictures."

"For instance, he was telling about how he got married. He had only known his future wife six days before she agreed to marry him. The press agent of the ball club sold him on an idea and one day he took her to the stadium without telling her the reason. It turned out they were supposed to get married at some place."

"Mrs. Dean told him, you can eign your way through baseball, but you're not going to start our marriage with a joke." The incident will be used in the picture.

Schermer said Dean's impersonator, Dan Dailey, will adhere to the ball player's character, even down to his murder of an English. "But Diz is no dope," the producer added. "Even when he twists the language to suit his purpose you always know what he means."

Nothing Coy About Mac; He Will Run For Presidency

Appreciative of my political sagacity, I picked Maine to go Republican in 1948 — no fewer than six Americans have postcard-ed me asking my opinion on the presidential candidates for 1952.

Frankly, I am at a loss for an answer. When asked what he intends to do, President Truman puts on an act of coyness that would do justice to a milkmaid at the first waltz dance. He titters and giggles and says nothing. He blushes behind an apron of evasiveness, or else makes what White House reporters call a "wisecrack." I have noticed that most about as funny as an outbreak of measles in a kindergarten.

Let me remind you, in case you have not noticed it, that most legislators are rather dull fellows. Senator Puffie says that America must be strong economically and in military might, and he makes the front pages. The President says we are in great danger and editorials are written about his grasp of things. The man in charge of the roller coaster at Coney Island could say the same things, which he knows, and his remarks would go unnoticed as a sparrow in the streets.

But let us wander back to my original premise, namely that nobody knows who is going to run. Let us consider Senator Taft of Ohio. Everyone knows that he is as eager for the Republican nomination as any kid ever was for bread spread with butter and sugar when he comes home from school. I don't think it far-fetched to say that Senator Taft would risk being sawed in two by an amateur magician if he could be the GOP standard bearer in 1952.

Hundreds of reporters have asked Senator Taft if he intends to seek the nomination and I'll be a good ool with dark glasses if he just can't wait to achieve that awful state.

These are just a few planks in my platform. When I swing around the country, talking from the back of a boxcar, I'll really warm up.

a deer, but his presidential aspirations you'll have to guess at. General Eisenhower is just as bad. Ask the General how he feels about running for president and he makes the Sphinx sound like a radio announcer.

What goes for Truman, Taft and Eisenhower goes for a whole lot more politicians in this country. It seems to be time for some American to declare himself as a candidate, so without any more ado I hereby announce that I will accept the nomination, without regard to party. My platform is as simple as a recipe for boiled frankfurters, and if you're interested I'll give you a few planks in my platform.

1. No more restaurants with the menus written in French. Half the people in this country are afraid to eat in a fancy restaurant because they don't know what they are ordering. I'll eliminate that in my first proclamation. Eggs will be eggs, not ouefs.

2. No more free automobiles for high political office holders. Most of them were lucky to have street-car fare in their early days, and they can continue riding the trolleys.

3. The complete elimination of the prints that hotels have on the walls of their rooms. Most of them look as if they were done by the assistant manager on his time off.

4. A national subsidy for the St. Louis Browns.

5. No more birthday parties for Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics calling him "the grand old man."

6. No more bank vice presidents who act as if they owned the joint.

7. No more members of Presidents' families making fortunes because the old man is President.

8. These are just a few planks in my platform. When I swing around the country, talking from the back of a boxcar, I'll really warm up.

SAN ANGELO (AP) — The prevailing doctor shortage is being felt at McKnight state sanatorium, one of Texas' major tuberculosis outposts.

Four full-time and two part-time specialists in chest diseases are caring for the institution's 64 patients. Dr. R. G. Smyth, acting superintendent, said. The sanatorium is about 20 miles northwest of San Angelo.

Each physician is treating about 150 patients, far above the standard of 50 to 75 recommended by the National Tuberculosis Assn.

The shortage is a reflection of generally prevalent conditions. Dr. Smyth said, noting that chest specialists are not abundant, and that private practice bureaus many from institutional posts.

Sanatorium's staff includes Dr. Hildebrando Hurtiz, Dr. Majed Lussini, Dr. Harry Clove and Dr. Robert Wilkins, all full-time resident physicians, and Dr. Smyth and Dr. H. M. Anderson of San Angelo, who practice on a part-time basis. Dr. Wilkins is the institution's resident surgeon.

Although sanatorium's waiting list is at an "all-time low" of 60, Smyth expects an early influx of new patients following the recent addition of several counties to the territory served by the institution.

Further complicating the situation, policy 18 months ago. Patients now stay as long as their condition warrants, on an average, a year. Formerly, they were allowed to remain only nine months.

"We try to keep them until matry him. The press agent of the ball club sold him on an idea and one day he took her to the stadium without telling her the reason. It turned out they were supposed to get married at some place."

"Mrs. Dean told him, you can eign your way through base- ball, but you're not going to start our marriage with a joke." The incident will be used in the picture.

Schermer said Dean's imper- sonator, Dan Dailey, will adhere to the ball player's character, even down to his murder of an English. "But Diz is no dope," the producer added. "Even when he twists the language to suit his purpose you always know what he means."

Men Frank Over Dislikes In Women

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

What do men most dislike about women?

I have conducted an informal survey among an average group of men, both married and unmarried. Here are the unedited comments of 10 U.S. males:

- 1 — "Women won't say what's wrong. They get mad and when you ask them what's the matter they just say, 'oh, nothing.' But weeks later they're still nursing a grudge."
- 2 — "They complain about the drudgery of being a housewife and mother after marriage. But before they're married they just can't wait to achieve that awful state."
- 3 — "They're never on time. Their watches are never right. And the whole thing is a deliberate plot, because they believe it's a good psychology to keep a guy waiting."
- 4 — "When they can't win an argument any other way, they resort to tears."

Four Men Are Fined $62 In Justice Court

Fines totaling $62 were paid in justice court Monday by three out-of-town men and one local man.

The Pampa man paid $19 for parking on the wrong side of the road. Two other men paid $14 and $19 for driving without a license and driving without brakes.

A Clarendon resident was also fined for driving without brakes.

All were arrested by Highway Patrolmen from the Pampa sub-station.

5 — "They don't think the way men do. They'll ask their husband if they can have a new coat and then admit they've already bought it."

6 — "They're not sporting. In any situation they take unfair advantage because of their sex."

7 — "They're insincere. When they are being their sweetest and most lovable, it's almost always because they want something."

8 — "They're catty. They never have a good word to say about another woman."

9 — "In any argument, they always win. And the worst thing is that they make the man like it."

10 — "They never have change on a bus."

These may or may not be just criticisms, but there they are. Men's real complaint probably is my survey group, a confirmed bachelor, who thundered: "Women are always guilty of wanting to marry men."

New Methods Of Making Cortisone Promise Enough To Supply Everyone Who Needs It

NEW YORK (AP) — Enough cortisone, the wonder hormone, to treat almost everyone needing it is promised in new methods today of making the drug from plentiful raw materials.

The producers get it from coal tar, yeast, yams, soy beans and cholesterol, a fat-like material in animal bodies.

Three new methods, all brilliant chemical achievements, were announced in the journal of the American Chemical Society by scientists of Harvard University and of Merck and Co., of Rahway, N. J.

Cortisone is made naturally by your adrenal glands. As a medicine, it relieves rheumatoid arthritis and helps against rheumatic fever, some allergies and eye diseases and many other ailments.

The medical supply so far has depended upon making it from cattle bile. That source of supply is limited and cortisone has been one of the world's most sought-after drugs.

The new methods can tap inexhaustible sources of supply. It still will take time, however, to build plants or even to make sure that the processes are commercially feasible. They may in time result in lower prices of cortisone.

The new processes can get cortisone from chemicals called steroids obtained from yeast, yams or soy beans, or from cholesterol which also is a steroid.

One was announced by a Merck team, Drs. John M. Chemsarda, E. M. Chamberlain, E. H. Wilson and Max Tishler. The other was developed by Dr. Louis F. Fieser, John C. Babcock, Josef E. Herz, Wei-Yuan Huang and William P. Schneider of Harvard.

Earlier these scientists had told of solving the difficult problem of putting an atom of oxygen into a certain spot in the steroid molecule, an essential step toward cortisone. Now they report carrying the work forward to make cortisone. Both methods could boost tremendously the supply of cortisone. A month ago, chemists of Syntex, Inc., announced a method of making cortisone from Mexican yams and said they expected to be able to double the present output of cortisone within a year.

The third brand new method makes cortisone from coal tar, an outstanding chemical achievement.

Drs. Robert B. Woodward, Franz Sondheimer and David Taub of Harvard developed a steroid from a coal tar product and then made this chemical exactly like a natural bile acid.

In other work, Dr. Hans Heymann and Dr. Fieser showed that the natural bile acid could be given criticisms, but there they are. Men's real complaint probably is my survey group, a confirmed bachelor, who thundered: "Women are always guilty of wanting to marry men."

Free Epileptic Clinic Founded

PLAINVIEW (AP) — West Texas' first free epileptic clinic will be established here soon.

Anyone who cannot afford proper medical treatment for the disease can get care at the clinic, the Plainview Hospital and Clinic Foundation announced.

Ross O. Urban, foundation administrator, said. Epilepsy unfortunately is often hidden or minimized because it is considered "a blot on one's family record."

Public education, he said, can change this.

For that reason, public education as well as medical care will be a part of the clinic's program. The clinic also will pursue research into the diagnosis and treatment of epilepsy.

Patients need not be Plainview residents. If surgery is necessary, neurosurgeons will be brought here from Fort Worth.

JACOBY ON CANASTA Only Way To Play Is By Rules

By OSWALD JACOBY Written for NEA Service

"We have many discussions," writes a Washington, D. C., fan, "about the legality of using an eighth card in a canasta. I know that when the canasta has been made at a previous turn you can add one or more cards to it. But what happens when you must use eight cards to create the canasta?"

"For example, I had melded three kings and two pokers and the pack became frozen. The player to my right discarded a king, and I had a pair of kings in my hand. If I take the pile and add these three kings to my meld I create an eight-card canasta. Is this a legal play?"

According to the official laws it is perfectly legal to use more than seven cards in a canasta at any time — provided that no more than three wild cards are used. It doesn't matter whether the eighth (or ninth, etc.) card appears at the time the canasta is made or whether it is added at a later turn. The play is legal either way.

In the example given by my correspondent, it is quite all right to pick up the discard pile and add all three kings to the meld. It would be equally correct to do so even if the meld on the table contained six cards instead of only five.

On this point, as on so many others, there are some players who prefer to follow a home-made "rule." These players allow only seven cards in a canasta at any time and under any conditions. In the opinion of all the good players of my acquaintance, this is a very poor rule and almost unplayable.

If you play the seven-card limit rule, it is harder to meld out. You can't add cards to your canastas, so you must discard any extra cards that you happen to draw. Moreover, it is dangerous to get a meld up to the five-card mark, since that gives the opponents a chance to freeze and discard that rank safely.

Like practically all home-made rules this one makes matters difficult for the player who is trying to run up a big score. Most unskillful canasta players want to play for out on every hand and don't want either side to have a chance for a big score on any single hand.

Mind you, nobody can object to home-made rules. They're fine for weak players and for family games. Just remember that they're not really the official rules, and don't let anybody tell you that they are.

Maggie Rates Her Honors

By RELMAN MORIN NEW YORK — (AP) — My wife, who is a career woman and admires to strong feelings on the subject, has a favorite cliché. It is: "A woman, in any kind of business, has to work twice as hard as a man to get half as far."

I used to be stuck for an answer to that, but the war in Korea provided one. "How about Marguerite Higgins?" I ask, "by way of a crusader."

Maggie Higgins was the only woman reporter over there on a daily stint. Some others came and went on quickies. (One, in fact, made such a quickie that she had to consult a map when she got back to find out where she had been.) But Maggie made a job of it.

She came back with a Pulitzer prize, an excellent book, and a clear track for the lecture circuit. A Hollywood studio wanted the life-story on the basis for a picture, but the agents made the mistake of showing her the story-outline they had in mind, and she said nix to that. There were many other emoluments that came to her.

All were richly deserved, twice as hard as the men on the same best would be hard to determine. Let's just say that she worked as hard as most, and harder than others. In any case, the point is that when the rewards were being passed out Maggie was handsomely remembered. And so she should have been.

She underwent all the usual hardships of war correspondents — plus. As a group, women reporters are mighty good. Maggie is one of the best.

Blindness No Bar To Vet Who Operates Cabinet Shop

CORSICANA — (AP) — A blind

man usually steers clear of his arduous, sight-demanding work. But not Paul Hevere Grant. This 41-year-old blind and legless veteran has found happiness with the powerful shishing saws in the Corsicana cabinet-making shop.

He can't afford to make a wrong guess—a slip of the wrist. "If I get hurt, it'll be just pure carelessness," said the ex-platoon sergeant. "I don't take as many chances as sighted persons do."

Grant can be found in his work shop most any hour of the day, building everything from tables to beds. His chunky, 210-pound figure darts about the shop with the greatest of ease. His hands are his eyes, and they manipulate saws, drills, lathes and other electrical gadgets with top skill.

And his products are amazingly smooth, sturdy and attractive. Grant saw 11 years of army service, mostly with the combat engineers. He first enlisted back in 1934 at the age of 24. "I liked the engineers," he recalled. "They're a hard working outfit, and there's no monotony about it."

Grant hates monotony. "I almost went crazy before setting up my shop," he said. "There's a saying that an ill-wind is the devil's workshop, and I've found more truth than poetry in that."

Grant went overseas in World War II with the 270th Combat Engineers, landing in France soon afterwards his outfit was clearing mine fields near the Saar River.

"I was platoon sergeant at the time," he related, "and we were sent out to locate any live mines. Troops were to move across the area."

Asked what happened, the veteran replied: "I don't know. I woke up 42 days later in a French hospital—asking a nurse where I was." Grant explained that a mine obviously exploded, perhaps through a booby-trap set off by him or one of his men. That was on St. Valentine's Day, Feb. 14, 1945. The legless, blind sergeant was returned to the U.S., and while at Temple, Texas, he became interested in cabinet making. He took two years training at a hospital in Temple. The Veterans Administration provided the training and furnished the necessary tools.

Corsicana's VA representative, R. C. Roeder, terms Grant "the most rehabilitated man I ever saw."

Nearly a year ago, Grant was presented an achievement award by the Blinded Veterans Assn. in ceremonies at Indianapolis, Ind.

Grant's cabinet making shop, only recently set up, was built labor-free by the Corsicana Carpenters Union. A loan on his GI insurance helped finance the project.

Grant walks on "pylons" designed by himself. "Pylons" is the medical name for what laymen usually call "stumps" for legless persons.

Grant likes his hobby — he doesn't consider it work — because he's creating something, passing the time, getting good exercise, and because it's interesting.

Vacation Nothing But Hard Work For Wife, Says Henry

By HENRY McLEMORE
I'm not a wife, but if I were my dearly beloved husband couldn't make me take a vacation even if he put one of the Missouri's sixteen-inch guns against my head and threatened to fire.

Normally I don't have a great deal of sympathy for wives. There are so many things about them I can't understand. They'll tell you nothing could make them so happy as to have a few handmade slippers, at thirty bucks per slip, when they know that nobody will see the slippers but their husbands who, rather than shun out the thirty bucks, would rather see them in slippers of unbleached muslin or flour sacks.

"ALL MONIES received and which have been received and which have not been used for repurchase of land as provided in the Veterans' Land Board from the sale of lands and for interest on deferred payments, or so much thereof as may be necessary, shall be set aside for the retirement of said bonds and to pay interest thereon and any of such moneys not so needed shall be the later the maturity date of the last maturing bond or bonds be deposited to the credit of the General Revenue Fund to be appropriated to such purposes as may be prescribed by law. THOSE OPPOSING said proposed Amendment shall write on their ballots the following words:

IF IT APPEARS from the returns of said election that a majority of the voters cast their vote in favor of said Amendment, the same shall become a part of the State Constitution and be effective from the date of the determination of such result and the Governor's proclamation thereof.

Condition Serious For Polio Victim

The condition of 22-month-old Michael Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Miller, remained serious this weekend, but Oklahoma City doctors give some hope for recovery. The child was stricken by polio at the home of his grandparents in Shamrock three weeks ago.

Miller said today that it will be a matter of time to really learn the extent of the paralysis, but it appears now that his left leg is completely disabled. Doctors also believe his back is involved.

The child seemed somewhat better this weekend, Miller said, and he has moved his right leg a few times.

The child is confined to the Crippled Children's Hospital in Oklahoma City, and Mrs. Miller is staying there at the home of an aunt at 437 N. W. 29th.

C-C Head's Mother Is Critically Ill

E. O. Wedgeworth, manager of the local chamber of commerce, was back in his office today after spending several days in Nacogdoches, where his mother is critically ill.

Reports at noon today indicated Mrs. Wedgeworth "was about the same," and thus far, no improvement is seen in her condition.

Hope Pitches A Mean Curve In Out-Of-This-World Series

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Bob-horts and snood like cap, Hope pitched a mean curve ball — it sailed down on a tiny parachute.

Tony Curtis got the loudest screams from the fans, and Shelby Winters smashed a hit off the shapely delivery of Jane Russell.

So it went last night at the fifth annual "Out-Of-This-World Series" baseball game sponsored by the Hollywood Junior Chamber of Commerce.

A spokesman estimated a capacity-plus crowd of 11,000 paid $23,500 to see a star team called "The Bob Hopefuls" play (Gary) Cooper's "Cutthroats." Proceeds go to youth welfare activities. The score? "O, crimony, I don't know," croaked Andy Davis, the game's ponderous umpire, when the thing was over. He and co-umpire "Cuddles" Sakall were pushed onto the field in wheelchairs.

Danny Thomas was master of ceremonies. Cooper arrived on the Gilmore Field diamond in a fringed-topped surrey with Marilyn Maxwell, Dorothy Lamour and Miss Russell.

These were among the "bat girls" arrestingly clad in shorts, who later got into the game. Others included Dorothy Malone, Gale Robbins, and Mona Freeman.

Hope stepped out of an imitation money truck onto a red carpet spread by an aide. Three bat girls saluted. The aide, announcer Hy Averbach in white tie and tails, caught the balls thrown by catcher Frank Faylen and handed them to pitcher Hope.

At Least Eight Injured As Train Rams Stalled Auto

MALVERN, Ark. — (AP) — At least eight persons were hurt early today when a Missouri Pacific streamliner hit a stalled automobile at a Malvern crossing.

The two-unit diesel engine overturned after tearing up about a quarter mile of track. At least five cars were derailed, but none overturned. The last ten cars, most of them Pullmans, remained on the tracks.

The railroad's district surgeon, Dr. Peter Thomas, said nobody was injured critically.

Two trainmen, Engineer T. C. Fox of North Little Rock and Fireman G. D. Fisher of Little Rock, suffered lacerations and bruises. Four women passengers were taken to Little Rock for further observation.

Two other passengers were hurt.

Malvern is 45 miles south of Little Rock.

The train, the first section of the "Texas Eagle," was bound for San Antonio from St. Louis. It carried several Pullman's brought in from the East over other lines. The second section of the "Texas Eagle," bound for West Texas, was running close behind, but wasn't involved in the wreck.

The operator of the automobile — who wasn't identified by authorities — was taken into custody.

He told them he tried to stop the train. No charges have been filed.

On the last trip, The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad said it was the first time in a decade the 57-mile run had made a profit.

Seek Pioneer Service Here

E. O. Wedgeworth, local chamber of commerce manager, and Leo Plesner, Borger manager, were in Dallas Monday to confer with General Robert W. Smith, president of Pioneer Airlines, on the possibilities of getting Pioneer airline service here.

Pioneer officials approved routing of air traffic from Borger and Pampa to southern cities of Vernon, Wichita Falls, Dallas and Fort Worth, and will offer service here if granted permission by the Civil Aeronautics Board.

The airline is petitioning the board for such a permit, and Borger and Pampa officials are preparing data that will support the application.

A hearing before the board will be held in the fall, Wedgeworth said upon his return to Pampa today.

"It will be several months before we know whether we will get such a service here, but we feel the interests between Pampa and Borger and downstate towns will be of such importance to provide a great deal of air travel," Wedgeworth said.

Baked Pork Butt Saves Time

BAKED PORK BUTT and vegetables make delicious hot-weather meals.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor.

These are Roman holidays for vegetable lovers. Garden truck is plentiful and cheap and full of flavor. Try to think up new ways to prepare them. For example, heat tiny boiled new potatoes in seasoned sour cream... dress up green beans with a can of sliced broiled mushrooms and a pungent touch of vinegar.

Green Beans With Mushrooms
(4 servings)

Three-quarters pound green beans, 2 tablespoons fat, 1 clove garlic, minced, 3-ounce can sliced broiled mushrooms, 1 teaspoon cornstarch, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon vinegar.

Cut beans diagonally in one-inch lengths. Melt fat over moderate heat in saucepan. Add garlic and cook 1 minute. Add contents of can of mushrooms and the beans. Bring to boil. Cook, covered, over low heat until beans are barely tender, about 15 minutes. Blend together cornstarch, salt and vinegar. Add to beans and let heat thoroughly. Serve immediately.

A large, smoked mild cured pork butt fits perfectly into hot-weather menu planning. It can be served hot the first time, in chef's salad the next time and finally browned to go with breakfast eggs.

Baked Pork Butt
(4 servings, twice, plus a little more)

Three-pound smoked pork butt, 1-2 teaspoons kitchen bouquet, 1-2 teaspoon dry mustard, 2 tablespoons catsup, 1 tablespoon brown sugar, 1 clove garlic, minced.

Remove wrapping from pork butt and wipe thoroughly with a damp cloth. Place on rack in shallow baking pan. Blend together the remaining ingredients and brush over the outside of the pork butt. Place pork in moderate oven, 350 degrees F., and bake until thoroughly hot, about one and a quarter hours. Cut in slices and serve.

— James Russell Lowell

The Bell Home Demonstration Club held an all-day meeting at the home of Mrs. Nolan Cole where they worked on aluminum trays.

Mrs. Emmett Osborne gave a talk on designs. She said many beautiful designs can be worked out of "doodling." Mrs. Osborne said "Doodling is a work of art — a masterpiece of one's own imagination which may later be worked up into a design with originality, suitable to home, clothes and furnishings. We see flowers, birds and trees on things every day and pay little attention to them. But to see a design that has been worked up out of no particular thing is very pleasing and one will look at it again and again without tiring of it."

Each member took a sack lunch to the meeting.

The Blue Bell 4-H girls also met with the HD Club. They worked on trays and later served cinnamon rolls to the members. The rolls were their demonstration for the day.

A basket picnic will be held by the Bell Club Aug. 18 at 1:30 p. m. in the City Park.

HD members present were Mrs. Lloyd Collis, Mrs. Connor O'Neal, Mrs. Nolan Cole, Mrs. Grace Morris, Mrs. D. W. Swain, Mrs. Hirschel Kelley, Mrs. Emmett Osborne, Mrs. T. D. Underwald, Mrs. Charles Warminski, Mrs. Walter Noel, Mrs. J. B. Jones, Mrs. Carl Smith and Mrs. Harvey Bates.

4-H members were Olivia Ann Swain, Linda Woodall, Carolyn Underwald and Johnnie Mae Dauler.

4-H And HD Club Members Meet In Joint Session

The Grandview 4-H Club met in joint session with the Home Demonstration Club Wednesday at the Grandview schoolhouse.

Carolyn Wallin gave a report on the 4-H camp which she attended at Lake McCallan July 22 to 24. Cherie Babcock, Mrs. J. R. Carney and Mrs. Fred Haiduk gave a demonstration on aluminum trays and equipment needed for the process. Patterns for the trays are being stippled and others etched.

Those present were Mrs. J. R. Carney, Mrs. Jim Babcock, Mrs. Fred Haiduk, Mrs. Harley Wallin and Mrs. R. F. Fields, a guest.

4-H Club girls present were Cherie and Aimee Babcock, Carolyn Wallin, Mary Fields, Janice Weinheimer, Elaine Ludwig and six guests.

Happy Medium Is Best For Child's Play Supervision

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKS
AP Newfeatures Writer

Do children need supervision in their play? With several weeks of vacation still ahead, and with one or more active children around the household, many a over-sighted mother is trying to think through a few of the time-consuming questions she knows will come up sooner or later as youngsters begin to get ideas of what to do with their spare time.

The answer given by one expert is on the affirmative side. The answer given by one expert is on the affirmative side. The answer given by one expert is on the affirmative side.

Some parents rob their children of needed guidance by paying too little attention to their play. Others, she adds, run into the opposite danger by setting up rigid and frustrating controls over the child and his play interests.

Staying out of things when not needed, Mrs. Mossler emphasizes, is the most skillful part of supervision. She explains:

"The more opportunities play gives a child to use his energies, his creative ability and resourcefulness, the more it helps him to develop. Play is far more than an activity. It is an opportunity to experience and to learn."

"Supervision should differ with the age of the child, where he plays, and the kind of activity he engages in at different times. We need to keep an eye on young children a good deal of the time so they do not seriously injure themselves or take unwelcome risks. What we have to keep in mind is that supervision is more than protection and more than day-by-day discipline. It is a constructive force for helping children develop through the use of activities, play equipment, so easily. Either the one who starts it or the one who lets it get under her skin.

So many advice to the wife is to ignore the situation. Let her husband go to his mother's without her, if he wants to, making some plans of her own for the evening.

It takes two to get a family fight started. No mother-in-law or no daughter-in-law can get a fight going alone.

If the wife who is all set for trouble will remember that, there won't be any trouble. Her mother-in-law can't make her angry unless she is willing to let her. She can't hurt her unless she is waiting to be hurt.

New Suits Have Double Function

Wiener Roast Honors Grandview 4-H Clubs

The Grandview 4-H boys and girls and their families were honored with a wiener roast and party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Haiduk, sponsors.

The party was held on the lawn, which was lighted, and games were played throughout the evening.

There were 32 guests present.

play materials and association with other children."

Someone should show a child how to use new play apparatus safely. Then, when a number of children play in a sandbox, for example, a watchful grownup should prevent throwing of sand. Grownups need to encourage children to take turns and when ready to, do so — to play together.

In the usual backyard most of children's play can go unsupervised except for Mom's occasional glance out the window. But when eight and nine year-olds want to go off to the woods, for example, Mom should ask where, when and for how long and work out some agreement about the jaunt before the little gang goes off on this kind of excursion.

Mrs. Mossler suggests that a group of parents who are particularly concerned about good summer play for their children, might band together to start a play school or some variation which might provide for the children the right kind of play experiences under a good leader.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The suit that functions as something more than a suit is a worthy addition to the wardrobe of any woman who owns a practical side to her nature. Since this description happens to fit a great many women, designers have readied such costumes for autumn.

They look like suits, they behave like suits, they match suits for performance. But they do even more. They may double as suit and dress. Or they may, with slight manipulation, move from an office desk to the galaxy of an after-five party. It depends on the costume and the woman.

A dress-and-jacket ensemble in red-and-green flecked wool (left) by Eisenberg has the look of a suit. But under that jacket there's a collarless dress with green crepe top, flecked buttons and long, tight sleeves. Jacket has stand-up wing collar, tailored green leather buttons and narrow belt. Wool skirt is straight.

Black-and-white tweed by this same designer (right) can convert to two complete costumes. First, here's the collarless long jacket with square neckline and three-quarter push-up sleeves. There are jet buttons and a red taffeta lining. This red taffeta is seen again in a brilliant blouse that has a wide collar and jester ties. Once more, it appears in a full, pleated skirt that's not shown here. Suit skirt is straight, with peglike top and double slit back. Jacket, blouse and skirt make daytime trio; blouse and red taffeta skirt make after-five costume.

The Indian states of Travancore and Cochin were merged in 1949.

WE, THE WOMEN

By RUTH MILLER
NEA Staff Writer

TWO NEEDED FOR FEUD
A wife asks: "What do you think of a mother-in-law who would invite her son to a meal in her home and not include his wife and children? And what would you think of the man if he went without his wife?"

What I think is that it is a crime for two women — one a man's mother and one his wife — to hunt for trouble by either initiating such situations or being deeply angered over them.

Here is real trouble brewing. But when you boil it down what does it actually amount to? A man's eating a meal with his mother rather than with his wife?

Is it worth creating a bitter situation for the mother to try to get her son alone? Is she going to enjoy his undivided attention enough to risk making his wife her enemy?

Is it worth it to the wife to make a fuss over the situation? MOUNTAINS FROM MOLEHILLS

No, it isn't worth it either way. Yet it is amazing — judging from the letters that come to me — how many wives and mothers-in-law make big issues out of such situations.

One deliberately creates the situation; the other rises to the bait, and the family feud is on. Either one could avoid trouble

THE GILA MURDER BY JULIUS LONG

Sam Colton dropped his automobile. The silhouette moved nearer and Johnnie McAdams stood close behind him. "Turn over the will, Sam." Sam laughed. "There's no will, Johnnie. I knew you'd followed me here, so I talked for your benefit just to get you to show your hand to Paul Baker here—the county prosecutor." McAdams swore, then lifted his hand and brought the gun it contained down on Sam's head. The man dropped in his tracks and lay there. As her father fell, Pat Colton clutched Baker's arm. "McAdams came close to Baker's coupe now, the gun in his hand leveled steadily. "Sam didn't accomplish much," he said. "But I'm glad I came along to see what he was up to. I never dreamed you'd come here with Pat. I thought you'd have had occasion to reach into the glove compartment by now. Do you know what's in there, Paul? I'll give you one guess. Sure. The mate to the Gila Monster that got poor Laura by the hand. I put it there this evening. I also loosened a valve in one of your tires. I thought it would go flat tonight and you'd need the flashlight in your glove box. I figured the odds were the monster would hang on till you were dead, especially if you had the flat in a deserted place." "You figured optimistically, Johnnie. Why did you think it necessary to eliminate me?" "Because you'd guess my motive for killing Laura as soon as you found out about the new will she meant to sign. I visited your office today to convince you that the old will represented Laura's last wishes. You'd never have learned different if you hadn't tricked me with that story about two kids seeing me at Laura's car. I had to tell about the new will then—it was

Tidelands Controversy Will Give Connally Chance To Prove He Still Has Fight In Him

By TEX EASLEY
WASHINGTON — (AP) — When the fight for control of offshore submerged oil lands gets on the Senate floor you can look for Texas Senator Tom Connally to burst forth oratorically as he hasn't done for years.

In fact, he couldn't wait for tidelands legislation to reach the floor to sound forth on the subject.

With the measure still tied up in committee on his side of the Capitol, and just before the House went into action, he gave a fine preview of what to expect when that issue comes before the Senate.

It was reminiscent of old times, when the silver-haired Texan led filibusters against anti-lynch law bills. There were only a half dozen colleagues on the floor when he obtained recognition to speak, but that didn't dampen his enthusiasm.

He soon digressed from a prepared text to get into the stride that has earned him acclaim as one of the most eloquent members of the Senate. Although he will be 74 Aug. 19, and his movements aren't quite so fast as they used to be, his tongue is as sharp as ever.

Looking about the chamber as if daring someone to dispute his contention that the federal government is trying to steal Texas' coastal domain, he voiced regret that Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) wasn't there to hear him. The Wyoming senator is author of legislation to give the federal government control of the submerged lands.

Dwelling on Texas' distinctive claim to the area, Connally's voice rang with pride as he recounted the history of his state as an independent republic.

"It won its independence from Mexico with arms, with swords in the hands of its men," he cried, "and with long rifles which the men knew how to shoot."

"Finally Texas joined the Union, and at that time it was specifically provided that it should retain all its public lands. So those lands were still the property of the State of Texas and its people."

Looking up toward the galleries, where he had an attentive audience even if that on the floor was sparse, the senator asked the rhetorical question as to when those lands went to the federal government.

Then, raising both his arms in an outstretched, grasping motion, he answered himself: "They never went to the federal government until the Supreme Court, with its long, bony fingers, reached out and said there his voice assumed the role of a villain: 'We will take that land. We will make it federal property by decision of four judges to three.'"

It is, seems to be that if anything is achieved it will be enactment of a measure which would give the states interim, or tentative, control of the lands beneath the marginal seas pending the reaching of a final and permanent solution to the problem either by the courts or Congress.

That principle was endorsed by a majority vote of the Senate Interior Committee, which approved amendments offered by Senator Long (D-La) to radically alter a resolution introduced by O'Mahoney. This Wyoming senator, as chairman of the committee, proposed that the federal government be given tentative control.

Although the committee, by a divided vote, approved Long's position the measure was not immediately reported to the Senate floor. Many legislators wanted to wait and see what action the house took.

from getting wholly out of hand, if it is properly administered. Now if prices go up the Democrats and Republicans may be able to draw up their battle lines on the statements made by Mr. Truman and Rep. Wolcott.

The President has served notice this law, unless Congress improves it, will mean higher prices.

By saying the law is all right and then attaching the little phrase "if it's properly administered" — Mr. Truman's opponents can argue — if prices rise — that is the Truman administration's fault, that the law wasn't properly administered.

The last time anything like this happened was in 1948 when wartime controls were being dropped but Congress faced the problem of price controls or dropping them or weakening them.

The President vetoed that bill, denouncing it as worse than no law at all, charging it would wreck controls while pretending to keep them.

The President made a pretty severe attack on Senator Taft, Ohio Republican, for his part in putting that bill together.

And Taft cracked back at the President, both men carrying their case to the country on the radio.

Because both were arguing on technical points that were probably over the heads of most people, the general public was left a little goggle-eyed.

THE GILA MURDER

PROTESTING that they should at least try the door, Pat Colton nevertheless followed Paul Baker back to his car. He held the door and closed it after her as she seated herself in his coupe. He went around and got under the wheel. He started the motor and pulled forward only a few feet before he stopped.

"Darn! I've got a flat tire," he said. "Will you get my flashlight out of the glove box?"

She sat immobile, then he repeated: "Just push the button, and the door will fly open. The flashlight's inside."

The girl sat rigidly, clutching the huge handbag in her hands. "Well, what's the trouble?"

"Nothing, only..."

"Only what?"

"Well, you know what happened to mother last night. It just makes me scared to reach into a glove box, that's all."

"Especially when there's no light inside."

"Doesn't your glove box have a light?"

"You know that it has no light."

"Mr. Baker, what are you talking about? How would I know whether your glove box has a light or not?"

"When you found that I kept a flashlight there, and when you dumped the Gila Monster out of your big handbag and into the glove box."

"Gila Monster?"

"Yes. There's one inside there now. It almost got me, but not quite. You led me on a wild-goose chase to this cottage, unoccupied and secluded enough to be out of the range of human eyes even in daylight. You counted on the Gila Monster getting me. It wouldn't frighten me to death as its mate frightened our mother, but it would render me helpless. You'd leave me here to die of horrible poisoning, that you believed would be fatal. Nobody saw you get into my car—nobody knew you were with me—"

"Mr. Baker, you're mad!" I tell you that this cottage does belong to my father, myself and Lawrence Lawrence was to meet me here. Besides, why should I try to kill you? For that matter, why would I kill my own mother?"

"You hated her. She was a tyrant. You wanted freedom and a free hand on your inheritance. I don't know how you got a pair of Gila Monsters, but you got them. As to why you tried to kill me, you must have credited me with some knowledge I didn't have. It was foolish, for you were the last person in the world I suspected."

"You're so wrong! I don't know who killed mother. Lawrence didn't. He had the Gila Monsters, but—"

"He what?"

"I said that he had the Gila Monsters. He caught them himself last summer in Arizona and kept them in a box all winter at this cottage. Dad and I tried to get him to give them to a zoo, they smelled so awful, but Lawrence was stubborn. This summer he kept them outside in a box."

"When you found that I kept a flashlight there, and when you dumped the Gila Monster out of your big handbag and into the glove box."

"Gila Monster?"

"Yes. There's one inside there now. It almost got me, but not quite. You led me on a wild-goose chase to this cottage, unoccupied and secluded enough to be out of the range of human eyes even in daylight. You counted on the Gila Monster getting me. It wouldn't frighten me to death as its mate frightened our mother, but it would render me helpless. You'd leave me here to die of horrible poisoning, that you believed me all about it tonight!" Baker's tone was bitterly sarcastic.

"I meant to persuade him to, I couldn't tell about them without his consent. We knew if the story of the will came out, it would look bad for Lawrence. But he didn't kill mother, even though the new will made me his trustee and dad the executor."

"Executor! Are you telling me that the new will would have substituted your father for Johnnie McAdams as executor?"

"Why, yes. Mother decided at the last minute to have her will changed. Dad wouldn't have let Johnnie settle the estate. He never liked Johnnie and—"

"Good heavens! Don't you realize that if your mother had signed the new will it would have cost McAdams $180,000 in executor and attorney fees?"

"Why, no. Would it really?"

"It really would," said a voice out of the darkness. Baker turned to see Sam Colton standing within a few feet of his car window

COLTON held his right hand up and Baker saw, despite the darkness, that the hand carried an automatic pistol. Pat let out a little gasp.

Baker sighed. "You had me fooled, Sam. I just picked Johnnie McAdams as Laura's murderer. I thought his motive was an attempt to save $180,000 in fees. But I overlooked the fact that his loss would be your gain. You stand to gain about $90,000, if the new will turns up properly signed. I imagine it will."

He could sense rather than see the smile on Sam Colton's face. "It will, all right. Not the one McAdams wrote—I got Laura to sign a longhand will, just in case something happened to her before she got to sign the one McAdams was to put in the glove compartment. I've got the longhand will in my pocket now. It makes me executor and trustee for Lawrence."

"All right, that's enough" another voice came out of the darkness. Paul Baker saw a silhouette loom behind Sam Colton. "Drop the gun, Sam!"

"But Lawrence was going to tell

British Couples Have Divorce Woes, Charges Sought

LONDON — (AP) — Many thousands of mismatched British couples, wives and husbands who can't make marriage work, live separately but can't get divorces. Officials estimate 300,000 couples have split up, the great majority without hope of reconciliations. But they are married for keeps under present laws, unless they resort to dishonest subterfuges.

A commission is being set up to study many proposals to liberalize the laws. There have been no significant changes for years. The commission will hear arguments that two great wars and modern life have changed viewpoints and behavior, and that divorce practices should be adjusted to suit the times.

It will have many unusual laws to dig into. In Britain a divorced man may not marry his former wife's sister. A woman in a divorce action may not agree in advance on what might be a suitable provision for her children. That would be collusion, which is abhorrent to British judges.

A woman may get custody of her child and money to support it, but no court can give her the family home or even the child's bed, unless the wife has bought such property herself.

Separation for any length of time isn't recognized as a grounds for divorce.

The sessions will be held in connection with the 23rd season of the community circus the third week in April.

It will be the first time the convention has NOT been held in connection with the appearance of a professional circus. The first convention was held in Washington, D. C., in 1926.

Scientist Says Many Dreams Will Come True—Eventually

NEW YORK — (AP) — Did you ever keep a diary of your dreams? The real ones, that is, not day-dreams.

Sometimes they come true, or seem to.

An English scientist, struck by his own experiences in that field, ran a check on his dreams some years ago. He simply kept a notebook on the night-table, and whenever he remembered a dream he set it down on paper and put a date to the entry. The fact of recording the dream helped, of course, to fix it in his memory. He discovered it was important to record every detail, however small, meaningless, or outlandish it appeared to be.

He claimed that the account showed, in due course, some of the dreams were later duplicated in actual experience. They came true.

To amplify the evidence, he enlisted some friends in the experiment. They logged their dreams over a period of a year or more. Their experiences, he said, were the same as his. Finally he wrote a book and called it "An Experiment With Time."

"I hadn't thought about the book in many years until the other night in a theatre. Suddenly, the scene seemed intensely familiar, the players, the setting and the atmosphere. And I knew, before they were spoken, what the next four or five lines of dialogue would contain. They did, word for word."
