U.S. Envoy Justifies Buildup In South Viet

PARIS (AP) — The United States told North Vietnam today the current buildup of American aircraft and other military equipment in South Vietnam is matched by a similar buildup on the Communist side and will continue until a peace agreement is signed.

U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter told newsmen at the start of the 166th weekly session of the Vietnam peace talks that every day a settlement "comes perceptibly nearer."

But he urged North Vietnam not to be impatient over the delay in reaching final agreement.

"We believe that the soundness and equity of an agreement are vital considerations which, if that agreement is to endure, must not be sacrificed to haste," Porter said in a brief prepared statement to the meeting.

He referred to recent protests from Hanoi and the Viet Cong against the massive shipment of American arms to South Vietnam to beat the cease-fire.

This buildup, Porter told the Communist delegations, "is, of course, similar to what you are seeking to do for your own forces."

"We see in these supply efforts a state of affairs which would be halted by both sides as soon as final agreement is reached. Thereafter, of course, the provisions of the agreement would apply."

The draft agreement would ban shipment of arms to South Vietnam by either side except for replacement of worn-out or destroyed equipment on a one-for-one basis.

In marked contrast to his usual tough tone when addressing the Communists, Porter paid tribute to the "good will and seriousness of purpose" with which he said the North Vietnamese negotiated the largely secret draft agreement.

"Recently, however, a note of impatience has crept into your many public statements," he continued.

"I understand this to be the result of the fact that your hopes and ours for a settlement have not yet been realized...."

"For our part, we do not believe in making public statements which might affect the atmosphere adversely at a time when we hope to achieve so much jointly with you. We can and do, however, affirm our good faith as we approach what we believe can be the final stage of our negotiations."

U.S., Poland May Triple Trade Volume

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Poland signed trade agreements Wednesday that American officials said would triple trade between the two nations in the next several years.

It was the second major trade agreement signed between the U.S. and the Communist nations, an agreement between the Soviet Union having been signed recently.

U.S. Commerce Secretary Peter G. Peterson told newsmen that the agreement would lead to "a new era of broadened and expanded commercial relationships" between the two countries.

He estimated that the current $200-million trade with Poland would probably grow to $600 million over the next several years, with the U.S. possibly gaining a trade surplus with the Communist nation in 1973.

Under the agreement, each government agreed to make reciprocal credits available to each other to finance exports. Peterson said President Nixon has determined that Export-Import Bank credit will be available to Poland, and conversely, Poland would offer borrowing facilities for American exporters.

Nixon Planning Major Shakeup Of Federal Executive Agencies

Laird And Romney Likely To Resign

KEY BISCAIYNE, Fla. (AP)

— Two or more Cabinet posts and dozens of White House and other key federal jobs are involved in President Nixon's tentative plans for a major second-term shakeup of the government's executive branch.

The scope of the President's plan, which he will develop in conferences with top aides at his Florida home here during the next four days, became clear within hours after he swept to landslide re-election.

Nixon summoned White House aides, the Cabinet and agency heads to a series of meetings Wednesday to deliver this message:

The second Nixon administration will stress economy and efficiency as well as responsiveness to the President's wishes. As a first step in revitalizing and reorganizing offices under his control, he wants stand-by resignations from all his appointees.

The White House said the President has made no decisions on what resignations to accept. But even before Tuesday's election, two early departures from his Cabinet were signaled.

Housing Secretary George Romney said in August, during a flap over federal aid to Pennsylvania flood victims, he would resign from the Cabinet. "The President urged me to stay on until after the election, and I agreed to do so," Romney said.

Melvin R. Laird has said repeatedly he would quit as secretary of Defense at the end of Nixon's first term, adding that nobody should head the Pentagon for more than four years.

Sources have said that two other Cabinet members, Labor Secretary J. D. Hodgson and Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst, have indicated some interest in leaving their high-pressure posts.

Administration officials stressed, however, that none of the Cabinet members is being forced out by Nixon.

Some lower-level officials, however, might find themselves suddenly looking for new jobs. White House officials have expressed some displeasure with the lack of support Nixon's proposals have received from the middle levels of some agencies.

Sources indicated there's still another, unspoken reason behind Nixon's shakeup move—the President's desire to reward selected officials of his campaign organization.

High on this list would be campaign Director Clark MacGregor, reported to be in line for a Cabinet or other high-level government post if he wants it.

Likewise, Nixon has deep respect for the ability of former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, who headed the Democrats-for-Nixon organization. Connally probably could have virtually any Cabinet post, but says he wants none.

For a while, Connally and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller were rumored as possible successors to Secretary of State William P. Rogers. But Rogers, a long-time

Nixon associate, has shown no inclination to leave his post early in a second term.

Neither has Henry A. Kissinger, star of a galaxy of White House officials, said publicly what he plans to do in second term. But there is little question that the job of chief foreign-policy adviser is his for as long as he wants it.

One of Kissinger's colleagues, presidential consultant John Scali, is reported planning to take a nongovernment job. So is Nixon's director of communications, Herbert G. Klein. But no plans have been disclosed.

And some middle-level White House aides are known to be eyeing private jobs because of the hectic 12-hour days and seven-day weeks.

The President's reorganization steps come against a backdrop of published reports linking such key White House aides as chief of staff H. R. Halde-man and appointments secretary Dwight Chapin to the controversy over the Watergate bugging incident and alleged Republican efforts to sabotage the Democratic presidential campaign.

But other White House officials say Chapin and Halde-man retain Nixon's full confidence and are expected to remain during the second term.

Nixon's top domestic aide, John D. Ehrlichman, has indicated interest in becoming attorney general if Kleindienst decides to return to private law practice, sources say.

Connally Happy About Defeat Of McGovern

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats-for-Nixon head John Connally, his political aura brighter after the defeat of what he calls an arrogant element of the party, says he has no interest in serving in a second Nixon administration.

Connally says he bolted Sen. George McGovern's brand of Democratic politics because it wasn't rooted in the center of the party, not because he was thinking of future political office—possibly as a Republican presidential hopeful in 1976.

Connally said he will remain a Democrat "as long as I can." But he won't stay in the party if "the McGovern forces continue to be as arrogant as they have been," he said in a post election interview Wednesday.

Republican sources said, meanwhile, that Connally will have to "fall off the tight rope pretty soon and start organizing in the next four years if he expects to compete for the GOP nomination."

"It's very hard to bridge parties like he's trying to," said a high GOP official. "He's got formidable opposition within the party from Agnew, Percy and Brock. He's got to turn Republican right away if he's going to."

Vice President Spiro Agnew, Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois and Sen. William Brock of Tennessee have been mentioned as possible GOP candidates in 1976.

First Letter To Santa Claus

It's later than you think. Christmas is just around the corner.

This became apparent when Santa Claus received his first letter of the year in care of The Pampa News.

Coming from four-year-old Darwynn Nail, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bryant Nail, 1937 N. Dwight, the letter reads:

Dear Santa, I am a little boy four years old. I can't write yet so my Mother is writing this for me.

I have tried to be a good boy this year, because you were good to me last year.

I would like for you to bring me a real microphone, an electric football game and some construction toys with a "hard hat."

Please don't forget all the other boys and girls, and my cousin Melonie that lives in Germany.

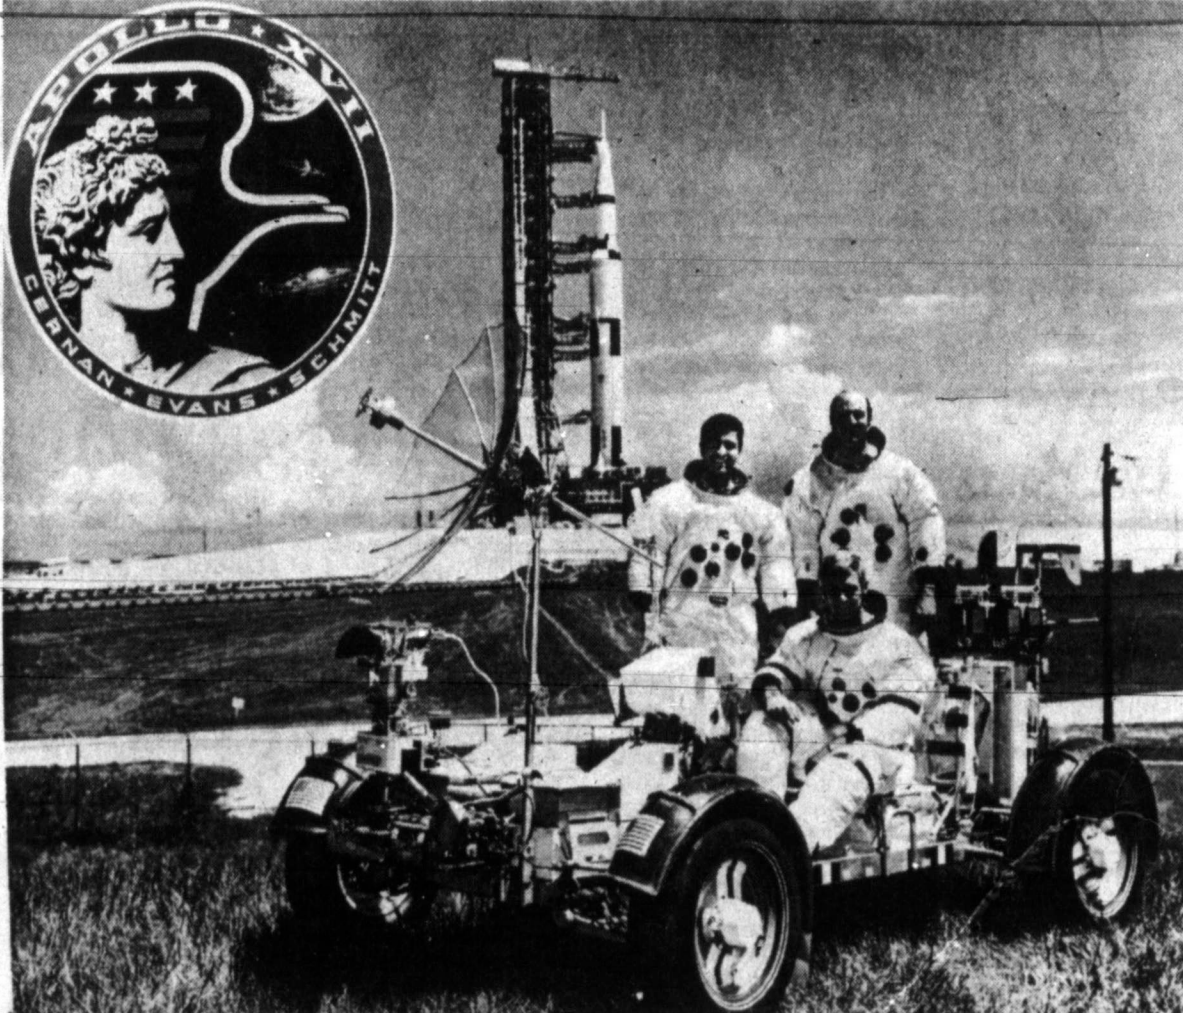

I will leave you some milk and cookies on the table.

Hope you have a Merry Christmas.

Thank you, Darwynn Nail

Santa wants to remind all the youngsters that they can write him in care of the News. All letters should be signed and will be published if space permits.

Santa would like to receive all his mail before Dec. 20 to allow him time to read all the letters and gather his presents together.

Briscoe Expected To Announce His Election Victory Tomorrow

By Associated Press

Dolph Briscoe is acting about as normal as a man can who has the Texas governorship in his hip pocket without coming out and saying it.

"We have been most encouraged as our lead increased," Briscoe said at his Uvalde ranch Wednesday afternoon. "I feel good about it but I'm going to wait until tomorrow for the final results. I'm extremely optimistic as we have a 100,000-vote lead now."

The latest Texas Election Bureau vote totals gave him a margin of more than 100,000 votes over Republican Hank Grover of Houston. Briscoe's total continued to rise as the rural vote trickled in.

Grover, meanwhile, said he had reports of "fantastic numbers" of voting irregularities and felt there were too many votes out for him to concede.

"We are a force to be reckoned with," he said.

Sanders blamed his defeat on two things—"the McGovern thing" and the fact that Tower ran "the best-financed campaign in the nation outside of the Presidential race."

He refused to speculate on how he would have fared with Hubert Humphrey or George Wallace on the Democratic ticket but did add "the narrower the margin in the Presidential election, the better we would have done."

One of the major surprises of the election, if there were any, was in the 5th District congressional race in Dallas.

Alan Steelman, a 30-year-old Republican, defeated Democrat Earle Cabell, a veteran congressman and former mayor of Dallas.

Steelman waged an intense door-knocking campaign in an effort to shake off his underdog role.

State Sen. Barbara Jordan won an overwhelming victory in the newly created, predominantly Negro 18th District in Houston, becoming the first black since Reconstruction days to be elected to the U.S. House.

"I am real excited about going to Congress next year," she said Wednesday. Commenting on the Democratic party after President Nixon's landslide victory, she said, "I think we can rise again. We've been in shambles before and we've come back, I've got faith."

The tightest congressional race was in the 13th District, where two incumbents fought it out. Republican Rep. Bob Price of Pampa defeated Democrat Rep. Graham Purcell of Wichita Falls after their districts were merged.

Price said he will maintain three fixed office locations as well as a mobile office which will travel "in order to serve people in the district."

George Hughes, who lost to incumbent Republican James Collins in Dallas' 3rd District, said McGovern was the "millstone that was too much for Democrats to carry. He pulled us down."

School Board Again Avoids Action on Married Students

By RAY BAXTER

The Pampa school board voted to retain its current policy on the activities of married students without change at the regular meeting last night at Carver Center.

The move came on a motion by George McCarroll following presentation of a proposed new policy by Don Walker, principal of Pampa High School.

The action item on the agenda was disguised as a "Due Process Clause Consideration" and the first inkling of the true nature of the item came when Board Member Ben Sturgeon asked why the married student question had not been placed on the agenda as requested.

That report-action item had been termed by a member of the board prior to the meeting as a necessary quasi-legal move before sterner disciplinary measures were taken. At no time was this the nature of the discussion and discipline as a subject was carried over to an executive session following the regular meeting.

A Pampa High School band student, barred from most of the activities of the band because he is married, appealed to the board at the first of the school year and was promised prompt consideration once the new policy manual for the system had been completed.

This was completed and released to board members at the last regular meeting. According to files at the News, this is the first time in seven years a copy of the official policy was not supplied to the newspaper.

Hard on the heels of issuance of this manual, Principal Walker presented a new policy for adoption last night.

He prefaced it with a summation of court actions dealing with the subject of married students that offered the board a "lady or the tiger" assurance for taking the stand he proposed.

Sturgeon, an attorney, requested permission to "speak to the report" and pointed out the loopholes contained in it.

The board did vote 3-2 to make application for NYC help if and when it becomes available.

As predicted, the action on utilization of buildings and campuses was postponed until further talk sessions could be conducted.

The rest of the session was concerned with routine actions and reports in the conduct of the business of the system.

and finally, in a fit of forthrightness, it was admitted that the real objection was to the moments of affection and closeness a married couple might display before other students.

At this point Sturgeon noted that all that was needed then was a directive regarding such behavior on school trips and at other competitive meets.

The case of the band student is still pending.

In other business, a representative of the Neighborhood Youth Corps appeared before the board selling something he did not have in stock and the panel spent 47 minutes discussing whether to become involved in something not now available to them.

The board did vote 3-2 to make application for NYC help if and when it becomes available.

As predicted, the action on utilization of buildings and campuses was postponed until further talk sessions could be conducted.

Researchers Claims Discovery Of Oldest Skull Of Early Man

WASHINGTON (AP) — The discovery of a fragmented skull, believed the oldest complete skull of early man, could upset the current theory of modern man's evolution, a Kenyan scientist said today.

Researcher Richard Leakey said the skull is 2.5 million years old and is "almost certainly the oldest complete skull of early man." He estimated it is 1.5 million years older than bones previously accepted as the earliest evidence of man.

Leakey said the skull fragments, along with human leg bones from two other individuals of similar antiquity, were found protruding from a stony hillside on a wind-swept, scrub-covered desert east of Lake Rudolf in Kenya.

The largely unexplored region is 500 miles north of Olduvai Gorge, Tanzania, where the finds of Leakey's parents, Dr. Mary Leakey and the late Dr. Louis S. B. Peakey, revolutionized the study of prehistoric man," according to the National Geographic Society.

Leakey, administrative director of the National Museums of Kenya, announced the discovery of the skull and legbones in reports prepared for the society and for presentation to a scientific meeting in London today.

"While detailed studies on the new discoveries will take some time to conclude," he said, "preliminary comparisons with other evidence indicate that the new material will take a central place in the rethinking and re-evaluation of the evidence for the origin of Homo sapiens (modern man) species."

ToT Knife & Fork Club Begins Season Tonight

The Top O' Texas Knife and Fork Club begins its 1972-73 season tonight with the appearance of Nila Magidoff, a Russian-born naturalized citizen of the United States.

Blending humorous and dramatic human interest stories, she reflects upon what America means to her.

Considered one of America's most dynamic feminine platform personalities, Mrs. Magidoff suffered various hardships in her native country before she married Robert Magidoff, then an NBC correspondent in the Soviet Union.

He explained that current theory holds that Homo sapiens evolved, within the past 2 million years, from "Australopithecus," a primitive creature having the physical characteristics of both ape and man.

He said today the original aerial wire between the two towns was so heavily damaged in the storm, the company decided to replace the facility underground.

Lefors is being served by a temporary microwave unit until became a Merchant Marine Sailor Third Class.

Then she discovered America.

Called "a combination of Bob Hope and Billy Graham" by the Michigan Educational Association, she talks about manners, customs, food, clothes, romance, elections, the duties of citizenship and other aspects of life in two strikingly different worlds.

The Knife and Fork Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Starlight Room at Coronado Inn. The dinner is open only to members, with the deadline for tickets already past.

Dr. James F. Malone will introduce the speaker, with Sheriff Rufe Jordan delivering the invocation.

'Music Man' To Be Staged Monday Night

The Pampa High School Concert Choir is readying its production of Meredith Wilson's popular "Music Man."

Performances will be at 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday at the M. K. Brown Auditorium.

Set in the early 1900's, the story revolves around the antics of a traveling salesman, Professor Harold Hill, in a small Iowa town.

Played by Phil Gage, junior, the salesman tries to interest the townspeople in buying musical instruments for a boy's band, without any intention of actually forming a band.

While attempting to implement his plan of selling instruments, uniforms and instruction books and then leaving town with the money, he runs into Marion Paroo, the town librarian, played by Lisa Laycock. Miss Paroo is skeptical of Professor Hill—at first.

The cast and chorus are from the Concert and Mixed Choirs.

Tickets, all general admission, are $2 each and may be purchased at the PHS Music Building and school office or bought from choir members. Tickets will be sold at the door.

Texas Demos, GOPers Facing Job Of Reorganizing Party Machinery

By Associated Press

After all the dust settles from the general election both the Texas Democratic and Republican parties will be back where they started before the campaign—in the throes of reorganization.

Despite claims by Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., and others that the unexpected strength shown by state Sen. Henry Grover, GOP candidate for governor, makes Texas a genuine two-party state, other GOP leaders disagree.

"The race will enhance Grover's personal reputation," said one big time political advisor, "but I don't think it will do much for the party."

The state party machinery is still in the hands of Tower and the other state leaders who early in Grover's campaign tried to discourage his efforts and even supported other candidates in the GOP primaries.

The state Democratic party machinery is in much the same shape.

The McGovern-Shriver campaign was handled in Texas largely by persons not directly connected with the Texas Democratic party, many of them from out-of-state. Only Gov. Preston Smith, State Agriculture Commissioner John White and State Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong saw fit to actually work for and appear with the presidential ticket candidates. After the election, party affairs will be in the hands of Gov.-elect Dolph Briscoe, who never appeared with McGovern in the five trips to Texas.

"The Democratic party has got to go through a period of reassessment of its posture," said White, who quickly admitted that McGovern was his second choice, after Sen. Hubert Humphrey lost at Miami Beach.

"I hope there will be a moderating force in the party itself. It seems to me we have gotten off in fringe areas and moved away from the everyday American—that's the guy the Democratic Party has got to move back to."

White thinks Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., and Humphrey are the type of moderate leaders needed for the national party.

"The Democratic party has always been a loose coalition of philosophies," White said election night. "We've got to realize that the era of personalities is over—we have to set up a strong party structure to elect candidates."

Restoration Of Phone Service In Pampa Almost Complete

Restoration of telephone facilities damaged in the recent ice storm is almost complete, according to Gary Stevens, manager of Southwestern Bell.

Stevens said the last major restoration activity is placement of a buried cable between Pampa and Lefors and the cable should be operational sometime this weekend.

He said today the original aerial wire between the two towns was so heavily damaged in the storm, the company decided to replace the facility underground.

Lefors is being served by a temporary microwave unit until the cable job is completed. Two pre-cast concrete repeater huts also will be placed along the 12 1/2-mile route.

Meanwhile, repairs to telephone wire between Amarillo and Claude also continue. Although only 11 poles were broken in the Amarillo-Claude stretch, Southwestern Bell repairmen estimate there were up to 10,000 breaks in the wire.

Repairs to aerial wire between Panhandle and Amarillo were completed last Sunday. Approximately 300 breaks occurred in wire along that route. Seventeen poles were replaced.

Service between Pampa and White Deer, Pampa and Miami and Canadian and Allison was restored last week. Approximately 250 wire breaks occurred in the Pampa-Canadian-Miami area.

More than 100 telephone men from all over West Texas worked in the restoration efforts. Southwestern Bell is continuing installation of a new buried long distance cable between Pampa and Canadian. Work on that project started several weeks ago.

The new underground cable should go into service shortly after Jan. 1, said Stevens. Currently, cable has been placed from Pampa to a point about 15 miles out of Canadian.

Blind Person Casts Ballot

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — A young Stanford University scientist says he may be the first blind person to cast a regular ballot without human help in a voting booth.

His only aid was a sensing device called the "Optacon."

"The possibilities of the machine are limitless for the blind," Loren Schoof, 24, of Stanford's Applied Electronics Laboratory, said in an interview Wednesday.

With the book-sized Optacon, Schoof informed officials at his polling place near here Tuesday that he would cast his ballot like anybody else — alone and without help.

"The election officials reacted with a great deal of surprise and confusion," Schoof said.

Finally, Schoof entered the booth and, he said, cast a completely secret ballot, despite his blindness.

County Grand Jury To Consider Cases

The Gray County Grand Jury reconvenes today to consider a number of cases in which indictments are sought.

The jury adjourned shortly after it was empaneled to allow attorneys to better prepare their cases.

The jury was the center of rumors a few days ago when it was sworn in regarding the reason there was a new grand jury. These were dispelled when District Judge Grainger McIlhenny pointed out that Gray County has an unusual situation of one six-month term and two three-month terms for the Panel.

Pickup Batteries Reported Stolen

Batteries with a total value of $150 were taken from four pickups parked on the lot at Harold Barrett Ford last night.

According to police investigation, the cables were cut with one section left attached to the vehicles.

The units, made by Ford Motor Co., bear the trade name "Motorcraft."

PROFILE OF BARBARA JORDAN

1st Texas Black Woman Elected To U.S. House

HOUSTON (AP) — Barbara Jordan, who is accustomed to being first, won an overwhelming victory to the U.S. House Tuesday night, the first Negro elected to that body from Texas since Reconstruction.

Miss Jordan, 36, a state senator, grabbed 79 per cent of the vote to defeat her white Republican opponent, Paul M. Merritt, and Manual Barrera of the Socialist Workers party in the newly-created 18th Congressional District, an inner-city area with a 42 per cent Negro population and 12 to 15 per cent Mexican-American.

The daughter of a Baptist minister, the tall, plump Miss Jordan had a heavy hand in creating the new district while serving on the redistricting committee in the Texas Senate. She won 80 per cent of the vote over two black men in the Democratic primary, where she also had support from the city's business establishment.

A graduate of the predominantly-black Texas Southern University in Houston, Miss Jordan's deep, strong speaking voice bears the trace of the New England accent acquired while she got a law degree at Boston University.

A self-styled liberal and reformer, she first won election to the state Senate in 1966 after two unsuccessful state House races and rapidly gained influence in the male, white-dominated institution.

This year her colleagues named her speaker pro-tem. While the governor and lieutenant governor were out of the state she served as governor for a day.

Sen. A. M. Aikin Jr., conservative dean of the Senate, said last year Miss Jordan came to the Senate "with three strikes against her. She was a woman, a black and even worse, both a woman and a black. She settled down and became one of the most effective members of the Senate."

In a recent interview, Miss Jordan said she had confidence in her role in political life, despite her sex and color. "I basically feel comfortable about what I do and what I say and the positions I take. I feel comfortable about my own sense of direction."

One of her primary opponents, State Rep. Curtis Graves, charged Miss Jordan was too comfortable with the white establishment.

"Downtown and the whole conservative Democratic party are cranked up for her and black people ought to know what's coming down," he charged at one rally.

"It's a white, racist conservative system. When you join them you've compromised."

your voice." Graves said of his woman opponent.

Asked about her support from conservative businessmen and her campaign contributions—she outspent her primary opponents more than 4 to 1—Miss Jordan said, "It is a liberal district. Each candidate running expounded a liberal philosophy so any choice made could not be based on ideology. I would like to think that they looked over the field of candidates and decided I would be the best one to represent the 18th Congressional District and Texas."

While Miss Jordan supported the McGovern candidacy, that support came only after the primary. "I had no preference among the contenders for the nomination. I was more comfortable with Muskie than the other candidates but it appeared to me that I kept looking for something else which I couldn't see. Some person you could look at and become excited about as a leader of this country, like John Kennedy."

Looking forward now to moving to Washington, Miss Jordan said she plans to join the Black Caucus of Negro congressmen, and work for congressional reforms.

"Something needs to be done about the seniority system. I don't have any concrete proposals, but I think much of the talent which gets to the United States Congress is stifled by the seniority system."

As for her own political future, she said, "I just don't know what the political scene in Texas will look like four, six or 10 years from now. If it appears that Congress is all there is available to me as a resident of Texas, then I suppose that's all there will be."

"But I don't know what could develop with the passage of time."

Worry Clinic

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.

Harmon's paralyzing pain afflicts millions who cool off too long before taking a hot bath after strenuous exercise. Even sitting in front of TV after heavy exertion can also give you similar paroxysms of pain.

CASE V-538—Harmon T., aged 38, had a painful attack last night.

"Dr. Crane," he grimaced, "I felt that death would be welcome if I could get free from the burning cramps on the inner sides of both my thighs."

"For I had been raking leaves and carting them away in a wheelbarrow."

"It was almost dusk when I finished the job."

"So I stopped to talk with a neighbor and we stood there at the fence for maybe half an hour."

"Then I came in and took a quick shower, after which I decided to go to bed early."

"But soon after I fell asleep, I was awakened with terrific cramps in both thighs."

"I tried to get out of bed, but the pain was so great I couldn't even move!"

"As a result, I lay there suffering and beating on my cramped thighs with my fists, hoping to stop the torture."

"This sort of thing has happened several times previously, so what causes such cramps?"

MUSCLE CRAMPS
Did you ever see a tiny electrical spark applied to the muscle of a frog?

If so, you'll recall that the muscle contracted strongly.

Well, tiny droplets of acid can produce the same reaction as an electrical spark.

And whenever we exercise our muscles, lactic acid is produced therein.

Lactic acid is the same as the acid you taste in sour milk.

But the millions of tiny muscle fibers exude minute droplets of lactic acid throughout the muscles that have been active.

The two longest muscles in the body are the sartorius (tailor) which run from the hips across the inside of each thigh and clear down to the shin bone.

They are the ones that caused Harmon to wake up in such pain he couldn't get out of bed.

I have had the same excruciating experience and doubtless so have most of you readers.

For when we perform unusual muscular exertion and then cool off too soon afterwards, our blood vessels contract.

So they don't flush out those millions of tiny acid droplets in our larger muscles.

Instead of standing for 30 minutes chatting with his neighbor while his body grew chilled, Harmon should have headed immediately for the bathtub and taken a prolonged shower.

For if you submerge in the tub or stand under a hot shower for an extra 5 to 10 minutes, the heat will send more blood surging through those muscles and thus dissolve far more of those acid droplets!

If, however, you fail to do so and still wish to ward off a severe bout of cramps after you go to bed, fill a hot water bottle and hold it between your thighs.

For its prolonged heat will likewise dilate the blood vessels and thus wash out the lactic acid droplets.

Sometimes pregnant women complain of cramps, too, due to calcium deficiency.

But any type of cramp will fade out under heat!

Borger Art Club To Hold Gourmet Dinner

The annual Country Kitchen and Bazaar, sponsored by the Borger Creative Arts Club, will be held Sunday, Nov. 12 at the "little red clubhouse," 931 Illinois, Borger.

The menu is traditional, made so by patrons who attended the affairs in the early years of the club. Artist members who prepared the food were most creative cooks, and requested yearly repetition of the speciality dishes.

Exciting new items are added each year, to the bazaar room, including sculptures and woodcraft.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Double-Parked Vehicles Draw Reader's Peeve

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve is with armored cars, limo vans, taxis, and so on, that park in the traffic lane nearest the curb in downtown areas. They are hard to get by in extra heavy traffic and this can make a desired turn illegal when one does get around the vehicle.—MRS. D. W.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I need to know how to treat an old wooden kitchen bowl so as to keep juices, grease, etc., from soaking into the wood and leaving a flavor, odor or stain.—MARJORIE

DEAR POLLY—M. H. wanted to know how an arthritic could wash and wax a floor. I use a wire-handled dish mop to get in the corners. A long-handled scrub brush with a cloth under it will serve the same as an arm to scrub the floor. The brush helps keep the cloth in perfect control and the cloth is easy to pick up for rinsing when necessary. I prefer using a regular washcloth as it leaves no lint and is easy for arthritic fingers to rinse and wring out. A wax job can be done in the same manner.—ESTHER

DEAR POLLY—Place calomine lotion or other such lotion you may use often in a clean empty roll-on deodorant bottle and the little ones can treat their own poison ivy, etc. No spills or drips. I never put ground meat in the freezer in a fat lump as it comes from the market but dump it into a plastic bag, roll and press into a thin sheet so it will thaw quickly and evenly.—MRS. R. H. V.

PUT LOTION IN ROLL-ON BOTTLE

DEAR POLLY—I have some money savers for new mothers. Cut old mattress pads into lap pads and top with heavy duty clear plastic. Stitch across in several places and edge with cotton binding. If you have trouble with stain removal, use a few precautions. Always use a bib or a diaper under baby's chin when feeding him. Find a pre-soak that you like and FOLLOW DIRECTIONS. Do not be afraid of buying white clothing as it will not get any dirtier than colored things and bleach can be used on them to remove any stains. Tear soft white rags into washcloth size pieces and use for washing baby when his soiled diaper is changed. Old diapers, sheets, towels, etc., can be used for this and they are dropped right into the diaper pail and washed with the diapers.—CAROLYN

DEAR POLLY—To keep my pie crust edges from getting too brown I take another foil pie tin, cut the inside out and then put the rim over the pie edge until the crust is half-cooked. I then remove the rim and, when the crust is baked, the edges are a perfect brown.—MRS. O. M. L.

RECEIVING GUESTS—Guests attending the annual Charity Ball held Saturday night at the Pampa Country Club were welcomed by members of the Junior Service League, sponsoring the event. Receiving guests were left Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Bond, Skellytown, and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Dunn, 2200 Beech. Mrs. Bond is presently serving as president of the League and Mrs. Dunn is vice-president.

Charity Ball Proceeds For Community Endeavors

The Pampa Country Club was the scene of the Junior Service League's 10th annual Charity Ball Saturday evening. Over 200 Pampans and out-of-town guests enjoyed the music of two groups, Buddy Billen and his orchestra and The Classics, amid a Gay Nineties western theme. Dried arrangements in denim-covered containers on red and white bandana runners, graced each table. Denim pockets with western hankies were the table favors for the men, while each woman received a frilly red and white garter.

As the guests entered, dressed in semi-formal attire, they were greeted by League members in the foyer where a large wagon wheel displayed the names of the contributors, donating the nine door prizes. The guests entered the ballroom through gaily painted swinging bar-room doors.

Serving as general chairman for the 1972 ball was Mrs. Edward M. Dunigan. Ticket chairman was Mrs. Charles Roberts. Proceeds from the Ball will be used for the League's annual Speech, Hearing, and Vision Clinic, the Genesis House, the Career Clinic, and other charitable community endeavors.

A—Pass. You don't like clubs, but any call other than pass is a bad overbid.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Instead of bidding two clubs your partner has bid one heart. What do you do now?

Answer tomorrow

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Generous George overbids all no-trump hands and most suit hands. Hence his three no-trump call.

North put George right in six and West opened the king of hearts. George saw that six clubs would have been a cinch but that six no-trump might well not come in.

Nothing showed on his smiling face as he remarked to West, "I am generous enough to let you hold this first trick."

George won the continuation and ran off his five clubs. Somewhere along the line East let go a diamond and the slam wheeled in. "You talk like you are generous," remarked West. "My partner is the generous one. He gave you your slam."

"Not at all," said George. "You were both squeezed. He had to come down to six cards including four diamonds. The other two would be either two spades or a spade and the 10 of hearts. If he came down to two spades, you would be squeezed in spades and hearts when I cashed my diamonds. If he came down to one of each, you would not be squeezed but my ace of spades play would drop his queen and I would make the slam by finessing against your jack. There was no way

Computer date firm dupes lonely widow

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Forgive me if I make many mistakes, but I was not brought up in English. I am a widow, 45 years old, and lonely for male companionship, as are many others. I read an advertisement promising dating by computers. I foolishly answered this ad which supposedly had offices in West Hartford, Conn.; Manchester, N. H.; Boston, Mass.; Portland, Me.; and Providence, R. I. I paid $295 and was promised two "computer matched" dates per month over a period of 36 months. The contract was full of phrases like "if possible" and "if necessary" and "do not guarantee." But is there no recourse against these people who disappeared in thin air? I should have been smart enough to see this trap, but they talk so fast while they are with you, that like an idiot you sign the contract without realizing that you are being taken.

Anyway, after I paid my money and no dates were arranged, I went to the police with my contract and all the correspondence. They looked it over and said that it had been so cleverly worded, I was hooked. But they told me to write to the Department of Consumer Protection and to the Better Business Bureau, and if I [and others who had been taken in as I was] would do the same, these people would be in hot water one way or the other.

I hope you will print this, Abby, so others who have been robbed as I was will write to the above mentioned places and complain.

ROBBED AND ANGRY

DEAR ROBBED: Another suggestion; never sign any kind of contract or agreement without having a lawyer look at it first.

DEAR ABBY: Do you see anything wrong with smiling and waving at truck drivers? I have always enjoyed it, but my sister says I should cut it out because the neighbors might get the wrong idea. My brother and brother in law also say it's wrong for me to smile and wave at these truck drivers. They think I should act my age [which is 20] and be a lady, and ladies do not wave at truck drivers.

Abby, it makes me feel so good when I bring a smile to a stranger. I often say "Good day" to old people when I see them on the street. They seem to be cheered by it. Is this also not ladylike?

I'll take your advice, and I hope you say it's okay.

LIKES PEOPLE

DEAR LIKES: Smiling and waving at truck drivers is okay. Also a cheery greeting to oldsters you pass on the street. But don't go overboard. Some strangers might mistake your friendliness for an invitation to something more. In other words, if you don't want a stray dog in your lap, don't pat him on the head.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and my brother are on the outs. It's been going on for a long time in a rather silent way, but my family is not aware of it. My brother's daughter is being married soon and we are invited to the wedding. My husband flatly refuses to attend even tho I have tried to get him to go just for my sake. My parents are elderly and ailing and they would take it very hard if my husband didn't accompany me.

I am a nervous wreck thinking about going to this wedding without my husband and wondering how to explain his absence to my relatives.

I will go alone if I have to, but I wish there were some way I could get my husband to go with me.

NERVOUS WRECK

DEAR WRECK: A family wedding is one occasion where all "grudges" should be put aside, and anyone who isn't willing to do it is childish and stubborn. If your husband refuses to accompany you, tell your parents why, but you aren't obligated to explain it to the rest of the family.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69706, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69706, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

FOOD FOR AMERICANS

A Nabors' Family Favorite

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

When not out-of-town appearing in concerts, TV's Jim Nabors likes to entertain friends in his Bel-Air, Calif., home. Often he and his mother, Mrs. Mavis Nabors, share cooking honors. However, Mrs. Nabors presides over the regular kitchen in the sprawling mansion while Jim prefers to whip up specialties in a new Hot-point-equipped kitchen adjacent to the rumpus room. The Nabors rarely go in for fancy dishes and a favorite of the household is an asparagus casserole, made from a family recipe.

ASPARAGUS CASSEROLE
1 bunch (or 1 can) young asparagus
2 boiled eggs
2 cups grated cheese
1 10½-ounce can cream of mushroom soup undiluted
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ stick butter
2 tablespoons flour
Cook asparagus until tender, being careful not to overcook. Drain and hold the liquid. In a separate saucepan, melt the butter, add flour and then add the mushroom soup and grated cheese and simmer until cheese is melted. When the sauce is ready, in a skillet arrange alternate layers of asparagus and sauce. Sprinkle the top with bread crumbs and heat at 325 degrees until the crumbs are brown.

Mrs. Mavis Nabors gives son Jim some pointers on her Asparagus Casserole.

Cook tiny meat balls in butter in a skillet. Heat equal parts of chili sauce and grape jelly until the jelly melts; use as a sauce for the meat balls and serve at cocktail time.

Arrange drained canned peach halves in a chafing dish. Warm brandy, pour over the peaches and ignite. Serve the flaming peaches with vanilla ice cream.

Macaroni and cheese, baked in a loaf pan, is delicious turned out, sliced and served with a mushroom sauce. Makes a pleasant company lunch when offered with a salad.

Mayor Proud of Sicilian Descent It's Chic to Be Italian, Joe Alioto Says

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

SAN FRANCISCO—(NEA)—It is very chic now, says Joe Alioto, to be Italian.

"It's very chic to be Sicilian, too."

Joe Alioto's face has the gleam of a fresh, natural olive.

"It implies flattery," he says, "that the movies' all-time gross second only to the 'Sound of Music' involves the fascination the American public has with things Italian."

Joe Alioto beams. Put a little cotton stuffing in his mouth; put vowels on the end of his words. He could almost play The Godfather, too, although the idea would be anathema to him.

"If you took the Italian chapters out of that great big book of culture called Western Civilization," he proclaims, "you'd have a damn thin volume."

Joseph Lawrence Alioto is proud. And emotional. And sensitive. He's Italian, of course, by descent, and Sicilian. His father came over on the boat in 1897. His maternal grandparents were native Sicilians. One of his sons is married to a Sicilian.

It still shocked him when he was linked by inference to the Mafia, in an article by the defunct Look Magazine in 1969. He sued for libel. (The $12.5 million suit has gone through two mistrials, the second of which ended just recently.)

He also came under civil and criminal prosecution in the state of Washington for fee-splitting, although this had nothing to do with his being Italian.

Joe Alioto could have been ruined.

Don't forget, here was a man who had placed Hubert Humphrey in nomination for president at the 1968 Democratic convention. Joe Alioto himself was prominently mentioned as a vice-presidential possibility, governor of California or U.S. senator—either seemed an eventual certainty.

Alioto still doesn't rule out the possibility. After all, while still under indictment, with the Washington state case being tried in the middle of his campaign, he was re-elected mayor of San Francisco last year—by twice the margin he won in 1967.

He's type cast, with his crisp white shirts, his natty gold cuff links, his tailored dark blue suit, his well-fed look, his after-shave glister.

The set fits him, too. City Hall is trimmed in gold leaf and Room 200, the Mayor's Office, leads down a carpeted hall to a wood-paneled sanctum with a traditional big mahogany desk.

Just five years ago, Alioto never thought this was what his life would be about. At the age of 51, he became a politician. He claims it was a freak occurrence. His friend, Gene McAteer, who had declared he was running for mayor, dropped dead on a handball court. The incumbent mayor was forbidden by his doctor to run again.

"A man named Harold Dobbs," says Alioto, "was left. In my law practice I found out something about Harold Dobbs and made a determination he was not going to be the mayor of San Francisco. I wouldn't mind Harold Dobbs being the mayor of Whittier."

Fifty-six days later, Joseph Alioto was the mayor of San Francisco.

"It's a very dangerous business to be the mayor of a large city," he says, "if you're interested in going on in politics. The mortality rates are pretty high. But I don't regard myself as a political animal. There's nothing in my background to even suggest it."

He was a nationally prominent trust-busting lawyer, a businessman and a banker most of his adult life. Also a do-gooder in the community who played the violin for relaxation.

"The bad thing in politics," he muses, "is you have to take incredible abuse by people who are... well, I can't comment on the Look thing."

"And the dirty work. John Mitchell had an obsession with bugging peoples' phones. Maybe he's so henpecked at home that he had to work out his aggressions with whatever he was doing at the office, which happened to be control of the most awesome power, the criminal justice process."

"Nobody had a right to make the kind of attacks that have been made on me, that I'm a member of the Mafia. And to contrive such a criminal charge that a federal judge looks at two prosecutors and asks, 'Why did you even bring this case?' And throws it out."

"I don't mention this very much because to the average person, who doesn't follow things closely, if you say,

"They're trying to get me, you sound paranoid."

"Then you have those episodes of FBI people throwing bombs at the homes of private citizens. I don't give a damn if the man's name is Bonanno. An FBI man throws the bomb and you have two witnesses and he takes the 5th Amendment when you ask him about it. They ought to indict the bum, not just dismiss him."

"So this is a peculiar Department of Justice we have these days. I was talking this way two years ago and they said I was crazy."

Does the mayor feel the Mafia accusation against him and the fee-splitting trials killed any aspirations he may have had for higher office?

"No. I have been beating these bums at their own game, right in the courtroom, so people are incensed at the persecution aspect. I make no bones about the fact that we're taking a very close look at the 1974 gubernatorial race."

Meanwhile, there's the continuing job of being the mayor or one of the nation's glamorous cities. "The challenge of the city," he notes, "is exciting in places like New York, Chicago, New Orleans, Boston, at one time Philadelphia." And, of course, San Francisco.

He proudly claims to have built 27 miniparks, promoted the spending of $25 million to "beautify one boulevard," Market Street.

"We have the same problems of urban crisis everybody has," he concedes, "but our crime rate is reduced and real estate taxes have come down two years in a row. What we lack in this town is the $25,000 home for young people."

Put a cocktail reception together, or a luncheon, or a parade, and Mayor Joseph Alioto is there. In full, lone flourish.

"Other mayors travel around with bodyguards," he says. "One of them has nine. We have a distinguished governor—when he comes to San Francisco, he has 14 bodyguards with him. I don't know where the hell he thinks he's going."

He emphasizes his conclusion: "There isn't any Mafia in this town, and every knowledgeable person knows that."

McGovern Hurt By Two Things-- $1,000 Proposal, Eagleton Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern's quest for the White House was doomed by the blunders of its infancy, errors that all his campaigning could never undo.

To the end they plagued his candidacy. And in the end they helped President Nixon attain one of history's great land-slides.

In part, the fatal flaws stemmed from what McGovern had to do—or thought he had to do—to catch up and win the Democratic nomination in the first place.

But two problems stand out above all the rest. —The admittedly ill-conceived McGovern proposal that every American be given $1,000 by the government. He dropped it, but was never able to forget it. And the Republicans used it to help implant the notion that, if elected, McGovern would give away the money of the workman to people who refuse to work.

—The case of Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, the vice-presidential nominee McGovern deposed—after promising him 1,000 per cent support despite his tardy disclosure of past mental treatments.

Those, and an assortment of other incidents, statements and slips, enabled Nixon's forces to make McGovern himself the central campaign issue.

That effectively denied him the traditional offensive role of the challenger, and shielded Nixon from the necessity of any intensive personal campaigning to defend his conduct in office.

It was particularly valuable to a president whose own campaign organization had been implicated in the June 17 wire-tapping of Democratic national headquarters, and whose top White House aides had been accused of political sabotage and espionage.

And it was particularly frustrating to McGovern, struggling to take the attack, but always forced to defend. Nothing netted him more than the fact that his own credibility, once rated his greatest asset, was put in question.

It was the image of radicalism on one hand and indecision on the other that appeared the central McGovern problem.

In that situation, McGovern steadily escalated the tone and wording of his attacks on Nixon and, in the process, aggravated the problem. He overstated his case, then had to defend the overstatements.

It was a campaign McGovern began on Jan. 18, 1971, in desperate need of exposure and attention to propel him out of single figures in the public opinion polls. At that point, no one could foresee that Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, then the towering favorite for the Democratic nomination, would be toppled in the 1972 primaries.

For a year, McGovern campaigned almost unnoticed. He went through three press secretaries in search of someone who could help him command national attention.

That quest, and the effort to shape an identifiably different position among Democratic contenders, helps account for the error that haunted McGovern to election day: the $1,000 grant proposal.

McGovern unveiled it on Dec. 23, 1971, saying he would drop the welfare program and instead give about $1,000 a year to everyone from "the poorest migrant workers to the Rockefellerers." The money was to be taxed back from the relatively affluent.

He offered no estimate of the cost.

As with his other proposals of those early days, it went almost unnoticed—to emerge months later as a major issue and a major problem.

That came during the California presidential-primary campaign, when McGovern defeated Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota in the contest that clinched his spot atop the Democratic ticket.

Humphrey hammered at the issue, called McGovern "the handout candidate," accused him of playing "the politics of deception."

Nixon's Republicans were carefully taking notes.

On Aug. 29, in a Wall Street speech, McGovern dropped the income-grant plan in favor of a federally financed welfare system to provide about $4,000 a year to a needy family of four. Again and again, he said it would give nothing to anybody able to work.

But the old proposal, and the impression it left, never stopped haunting his campaign.

The Eagleton case really began with a question put by the Missouri senator's account, by Frank Mankiewicz, a top McGovern aide: "Tom, do you have any skeletons rattling around in your closet?"

Eagleton said no, and hours later, on July 13, he was duly nominated to run for vice president with McGovern.

Then, on July 25, the running-mates appeared together in Custer, S.D. Eagleton to announce that he had three times been hospitalized for nervous exhaustion and fatigue, and twice had undergone electroshock treatments.

"I am 1,000 per cent for Tom Eagleton and I have no intention of dropping him from the ticket," McGovern said.

But six days later, he did just that, saying that Eagleton's medical history would otherwise come to dominate the campaign.

Long afterwards, McGovern said he believed "the Eagleton thing" was at the root of what had then become his credibility problem. "I've tried to explain to people that a political leader who won't change his mind is really a menace rather than a leader."

"But I think that was the reason," he said.

McGovern acknowledged, too, that he was hurt by the bitterness of the primaries, particularly the Humphrey attacks in California.

With Eagleton off the ticket, McGovern embarked on what could only be damaging, semi-public quest for a replacement. Only when he came to a candidate with no constituency of his own, Sargent Shriver, did McGovern find a new partner.

The Democratic National Committee nominated Shriver on Aug. 8.

But what was designed to be a six-week Democratic head-start on the campaign became, instead, a time of disarray. Amid the Eagleton case and its aftermath, the flow of campaign donations—never enough—diminished to a trickle. The polls showed McGovern losing ground to Nixon.

There were organizational problems. Starting from nowhere in his drive for the nomination, McGovern had of necessity put together his own organization in the primaries, usually running head-on into the opposition of the party establishment.

That, too, left its scars, notably in Chicago, whose Mayor Richard J. Daley was denied a seat in the convention that nominated McGovern. While Daley came around, some in his organization never appeared to be wholeheartedly behind McGovern.

There were the highly publicized defections of Democrats for Nixon, notably that of John B. Connally, Nixon's former secretary of the Treasury.

"Good riddance," said McGovern. "We didn't kick Connally out, he left."

But there was evidence that a good many other Democrats were leaving, too, concerned, Connally said, about McGovern's proposed defense posture: the nominee advocated cuts of some $30 billion in defense spending over a three-year period.

Nixon Also Re-elected By Children

Editor's Note: The Hoot Owl, a national Children's newspaper, held its own presidential election Tuesday. Here is a report on the vote written by the newspaper's political analyst.

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Last night, children, as well as their parents, chose the man, and in a few cases the Beagle, who will serve in the nation's highest office for the next four years. At Six Flags Over Texas amusement park last night the first national election for children ended with President Nixon re-elected and with The Hoot Owl, America's first newspaper for children, showing that kids care as much about who is in the White House as registered voters do.

More than a quarter of a million kids voted, from all 50 states and the way they cast their ballots made The Hoot Owl's election a whole lot more exciting than the adult one, as national television viewers may have seen.

From 6 p.m., when 120 kids began the tabulating, it was a close race. After losing his lead to Sen. McGovern for a few minutes during the evening, Mr. Nixon won the White House with 34 states and 138,020 votes, behind him, Sen. McGovern had 121,679 votes and the American party received 2,614. The man who helped raise most of the voters, Dr. Spock, was given a mere five votes while Snoopy, the distinguished dog from Peanuts—who was not a candidate, got 21.

But this election was not just about personalities, it was about issues which concern children. In fact, the busing issue was probably the largest factor contributing to President Nixon's reelection. Nixon's Vietnam policy was not as well-liked as his stand against busing was his approach to ending the war was voted the best way by only 300 votes.

Northern Ethiopia has at least 1,500 medieval churches. Hundreds are still unknown to the outside world.

Oregon Wildlife Park Opens

WINSTON, Ore. (AP) — Developers of World Wildlife Safari, a new 300-acre animal park here, plan a full recreational complex designed to attract 400,000 tourists annually to Southern Oregon.

Walker and Lee Real Estate, Anaheim, Calif., and South Umpqua Properties, a local company, say they eventually will add another 150 acres to the park, near Interstate 5 — the major north-south highway on the West Coast.

After that, they plan motels, restaurants, gift shops, campgrounds, a golf course, condominiums, apartments and single family homes.

Completed, the development would cover 2,300 acres of wooded hills. Its permanent population would include some 225 Asian, African and North American animals and about 1,000 families.

Frank Hart, president of Walker and Lee, whose company is expected to supply 80 per cent of the financing, said development of the wildlife park will cost $1 million, including funds for roads, a visitors' center and fences to confine the animals to their park sections.

Local Library Qualifies For AMRS Membership

Pampa's Lovett Memorial Library is one of 12 libraries in the 25-county area that surrounds Amarillo that have qualified for membership in the Amarillo Major Resource System organized under provisions of the Texas Library Systems Act. Administered by the Texas State Library, the Systems Act gives public libraries that meet certain standards of local support the right to join a system for carrying out cooperative programs of various kinds.

Amarillo Public Library serves as the Major Resource Center for the system. Serving as area libraries are Hutchinson County Library, and Lovett Memorial Library. Community libraries are Canadian Public Library, Castro County Library, Kilgore Memorial Library, Friona Public Library, Deaf Smith County Library, Carson County Public Library, Perry Memorial Library, Sherman County Public Library, and Hansford County Library.

Under the Statewide Plan for Library Development, Texas has been divided into ten areas. The largest library in each serves as the Major Resource Center. Other libraries serving more than 25,000 persons and meeting other qualifications are area libraries. Smaller libraries are designated community libraries.

A total of 195 libraries throughout the state qualified for system membership. "We are particularly gratified that 29 libraries that did not qualify for membership last year joined the system this year," said Dr. Dorman H. Winfrey, director of the Texas State Library. "This not only means that local support for libraries is improving but also that libraries are recognizing the benefits of system membership to their patrons."

During the spring all systems members will select delegates who will meet to elect two members of the six-member Advisory Council to replace the members who terms are expiring.

In recent years, library systems have been organized in many states. The Texas legislation differs from that enacted in some states in that Texas systems draw upon existing strength in libraries.

Although provision is made for limited kinds of grants for new libraries or for areas with a tax base so low that funds are not available for library service, emphasis is upon the development of programs that are best carried out by a group of libraries. For example, one system might employ a children's specialist who would work to improve service in all system libraries, another might decide that inter-library referral of reference questions is vital, and still another might develop a special collection of books that would be available to all members.

Six PPS Personnel Attend Seminar

CANYON — Six persons from the Pampa public schools attended the first in a series of seminars on the multi-cultural classroom last weekend at West Texas State University.

They were Mr. and Mrs. James C. Randall, Mrs. Doris Thoms, James Steele, Mrs. Zita Prater and Nancy Kastor.

The first of the six seminars dealt with the black curriculum. The seminars are sponsored by the WTSU College of Education and the University of Texas Center for Public School Ethnic Studies.

"Three cultures are predominant in Texas — Mexican-American, black and Anglo," said Dr. Jack Nance, WTSU associate professor of education and a director of the seminars.

"The multi-cultural classroom poses a number of problems for teachers, counselors and others who work directly with students," he added.

Shocks, Jr. Highs Close Out Seasons

Pampa High School's Shockers and the teams from each of the local junior high schools close out their seasons in action today.

The Shockers go to Amarillo for a 4 p.m. game with the Caprock junior varsity while Pampa Junior High and Robert E. Lee play each other in both eighth and ninth grade contests.

The Shockers are coming off a 28-12 defeat last Thursday at the hands of the Tascosa junior varsity. The loss was the second of the year for the Pampa team against six wins.

Following that loss the Shockers then beat Palo Duro and Amárrillo before falling to Tascosa last week here on Shocker field.

Pampa Junior High's ninth grade Reapers and the Lee Rebels square off with each other at 7:30 p.m. tonight on Harvester field in a game which will determine both the junior high district championship and the city champions.

Lee carries a 6-1 season record and 4-0 district mark into the game. The Reapers are 7-1 for the year and 3-1 in district.

The Rebels have won six straight games since tying their first game of the year and losing the second.

Hereford La Plata tied Lee and the next week Stanton, also of Hereford, beat them. Since that loss the Rebels have defeated Canyon, Perryton (non-district), Borger Red, Dumas, Borger White and Perryton last week.

Pampa Junior High won its first four games of the year. Stanton, Borger White, Perryton and La Plata before losing to Dumas. They have also beaten Borger White and Perryton again and Borger Red last Thursday.

Robert E. Lee can win the district title out-right by beating PJH today. If the Reapers win, a three-way tie in the district between PJH, Lee and Dumas will result.

The game, then, is extremely important for each team. Not only is the district crown at stake, but the winner of the game will be the city champion, an honor greatly sought after by each school since the rivalry began in 1958.

At 4 p.m. today, also on Harvester field, the Lee eighth grade Razorbacks and Pampa Junior High's eighth grade Reapers meet to determine second place in their district race. The Dumas eighth grade has already won the title.

The Wolverines are 5-2-1 on the year and 4-2 in district. If they win the game today they will be in second place in the district, having lost only to Dumas.

Pampa Junior High goes into the game with a 3-3-1 season record and hope to play the spoiler's role in the game today.

If they beat the Wolverines then both Lee eighth grades will have 4-2 district marks and share second place in the district.

Basketball Roundup

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Philadelphia is losing in big numbers now. The 76ers have dropped 14 straight and the latest loss came at the hands of a team whose top shooter was hurt.

Nate Archibald of the Kansas City-Omaha Kings sprained his thumb in the first quarter of Wednesday night's game. It didn't stop him from scoring 34 points and dropping the 76ers 124-112 in the National Basketball Association Atlantic Division after just three weeks of the season.

"It's tough. It's very tough," said Philadelphia guard Fred Carter. "All we can do is just keep plugging."

Archibald, who leads the league in both scoring and assists, did some plugging of his own after he was injured.

"I found that I couldn't hit my jumpers so I had to pass off," the 6-foot-11 guard said. "I shot terrible (14-of-16). I couldn't hit anything but layups."

The little star must have healed quickly as he hit 16 points in the final period. He also handed out 18 assists during the game.

The Kings, who trailed for most of the first half, got 23 points from rookie Ken Riley and took the lead for good in the third period. John Block led the 76ers with 35 points.

In other NBA games, Boston beat Golden State 128-111. Milwaukee topped Seattle 116-103. Baltimore beat Buffalo 126-94 and Phoenix whipped Cleveland 107-99.

Boston scored 40 points in the third quarter. Don Chaney had 11 in the third and 23 for the game. John Havlicek led the Celtics with 25 and JoJo White had 18. Rick Barry led Golden State with 34 points. Boston now leads the NBA Atlantic by one-half game over New York. The loss dropped the Warriors one game behind Los Angeles in the Pacific Division.

Milwaukee, led by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's 29 points and Bob Dandridge's 25, had little trouble with struggling Seattle. The Sonics were held to just three field goals in 8 1/2 minutes of the third period. Spencer Haywood hit 29 points and John Brissett 27 for Seattle.

Elvin Hayes scored 25 points and grabbed 20 rebounds for Baltimore. The Bullets led 69-40 at halftime and won easily.

Mike Riordan scored 20 for the Bullets while rookie Kevin Porter turned in 19 points and 12 assists. Buffalo's high scorers were Bob McAdoo with 18 points and John Hummer with 16.

Billy Cunningham and Mack Calvin are survivors. The team Cunningham left is starting the season with 14 losses and Calvin's old club has disappeared completely.

Cunningham played for Philadelphia in the National Basketball Association last year. He departed to join the Carolina Cougars of the American Basketball Association this season and the 76ers are now threatening to never win a game.

Calvin was a star for the ABA's Floridians but when the league pared itself he was tossed into the common draft and grabbed by Carolina.

It was a lucky break for both of them, but it has been luckier for the Cougars, who now are first in the ABA East. The new boys in town are doing everything Carolina thought they would and Wednesday night they led the Cougars to a 126-111 victory over the Kentucky Colonels.

Calvin scored 33 points and Cunningham 28 and each hit 12 points in the second quarter when the Cougars tallied 39 points to grab a 64-50 halftime lead after holding just a 25-23 margin after the first period.

Carolina went on to get a 93-77 lead after the third period.

Joe Caldwell added 22 points for Carolina while Dan Issel hit 28 points to lead the Colonels.

In other ABA games, Indiana beat Utah 135-124. Virginia whipped Denver 116-111 and Dallas downed Memphis 126-118.

Indiana grabbed the lead in the ABA West by beating Utah as George McGinnis scored 35 points. It was the Pacers' seventh straight victory. Mel Daniels had 24 points and Roger Brown 22 for Indiana. James Jones led the Stars with 32. Ron Boone had 29 and Willie Wise 27.

Julius Erving had 38 points, 21 in the second half, for Virginia. The Squires had trailed Denver 65-64 at halftime but their defense, led by Roland Taylor, stiffened and they took the lead. Taylor hit 14 points for Virginia and Warren Jabath and Ralph Simpson each had 22 points for Denver.

Dallas, down by 14 points, came back to score 35 second-quarter points and went on to beat Memphis. Bob Netolicky led the Chaps with 28 points while Rich Jones had 27. Game scoring honors went to George Thompson with 29 for the Tams. Teammate Johnny Neumann had 22 points and Randy Denton 19.

Cowboys Undergoing Criticism From Press

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys are suffering the slings and arrows of the Super Bowl champions who don't win big.

"It's kind of tragic but we're going to get criticized anytime we don't win big because we've put ourselves in the position of super stars," said cornerback Mel Renfro. "If you don't perform like a super star, well something is wrong in the eyes of the fans."

The Cowboys were roasted in the local media in the wake of Sunday's 34-28 victory over San Diego in which the National Football League champions almost blew a 31 point lead.

Coach Tom Landry underwent such stern criticism about the performance of his defense at Wednesday's press conference that he said "I thought we won."

Television stations in the area showed "lowlight films of Cowboy defensive boo-boos."

"The years of one team being dominated are past," said Renfro. "There are so many great individual performers spread through the league that you can have a good defense and still look bad. That's what has happened to us from time to time. We have a great defense but that's not going to keep us from getting stung."

Renfro harkened back to the dynasty talk that floated from the Cowboy dressing room after Super Bowl VI.

"The dynasty talk was a little premature because the teams in the NFL are too equal," Renfro said. "New England beats Washington then gets wiped out by a weaker team. How do you explain that?"

Landry admitted Wednesday on me. "Conover said 'There's no guarantee that they're going to do that again. They'll probably want to take it out on us.'"

Conover is certain Arkansas will have no love for his Owls in view of the 24-24 tie the two teams played last year at Houston. The tie, coming on the heels of a 17-9 loss to Texas A&M, knocked the Razorbacks out of the Cotton Bowl.

Offensively, the Owls rely heavily on Gadd and tight end Gary Butler. Gadd is the passing leader and total offense leader in the SWC, ranking one notch above Joe Ferguson in both categories.

Gadd has completed 116 of 213 for 1,395 yards and Ferguson has hit on 109 of 227 for 1,368 yards. Gadd has suffered 15 interceptions and Ferguson 13.

Conover is extremely high on Butler, who stand 6-3 1/2, weighs 237 pounds and runs the 40 in 4.7. Butler is the leading receiver in the conference with 32 catches for 473 yards.

Although the Owls do not have a running back in the SWC's top 10, Conover says sophomore Gary Ferguson is "starting to come on." Ferguson carried 20 times for 111 yards against Tech last week.

Freshman John Coleman will be starter at fullback.

"Although Arkansas' Dickey Norton ranks second in the conference in rushing, the Razorbacks have had problems moving the ball consistently on the ground.

Marsh White, a highly regarded sophomore, has been impressive in a backup role the past two weeks and is expected to be the Razorbacks' fullback.

Broyles said after the loss to the Aggies that the Razorbacks would have to "take stock" of their attack. This may mean a more ground-oriented attack against the Owls.

The kickoff is scheduled for 1 p.m. CDT.

"I don't care what we do as long as we move the football," Conover said.

Rice started the season in surprising fashion, beating Houston and Clemson and then tying George Tech 36-36. Since then, the Owls have lost four straight.

Conover said returned injured players had served to action and team were in the beginning of the season.

"We've gotten all those injured people back and the players are up right now," Conover said. "We still have a chance for a winning season and these kids haven't been associated with a winning season."

In fact, Rice has not finished a season above .500 since 1963 when the Owls were 6-4.

In a 10-6 loss to Texas Tech last week, Rice was forced to play without his three starting linemen — Rodrigo, Barnes, one of the best in the conference, and John Kelly are expected to play against the Razorbacks.

How much does Barnes mean to the team?

"We haven't won since he's been out," Conover said.

Arkansas built a 4-1 record, but has lost two of its last three games. Three weeks ago, Texas whipped the Razorbacks 35-15 and last week A & M intercepted six Joe Ferguson passes enroute to a 10-7 decision.

"What they did last week really doesn't have much effect

Arkansas, Rice Attempt To Save Their Seasons

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Rice's trick plays are far more sophisticated than those diagrammed in the dirt of every sandlot football game.

"We do draw them up on paper," says Rice Coach Al Conover. "But if we had some sand out there on the artificial turf it would be all right."

Rice plays Arkansas Saturday at Little Rock and both are trying to salvage seasons that have been going downhill lately. Arkansas, 2-2 in the South-west Conference, and Rice, 0-3, are both out of the conference title chase.

Arkansas coach Frank Broyles says Rice "gives you play-action passes, reverses, screens, reverse passes, just about everything."

"We don't have the greatest personnel in the world, so we've got to try to trick them," Conover said. "We've got to have a trick or two to move the ball. We might have one or two this week."

Against SMU, Rice attempted a width of the field lateral on the kickoff. In another game, the Owls used an end around pass.

In a 10-6 loss to LSU, the Owls lined up in a makeshift formation away from the football. Quarterback Bruce Gadd strolled over to the ball, picked it up and pitched it to a halfback who had nine players blocking for him. The officials overruled the play, saying the ball had not been marked ready for action.

Conover is like the golfer who sinks an approach shot for a par—he doesn't care how, only how many.

Move Up To Wells

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oilers Coach Bill Peterson says the next move is up to Warren Wells if the controversial wide receiver intends to play for the Oilers.

Wells was fined, suspended and placed on the Oilers' move list Tuesday for being absent from Oiler functions and Peterson said Wednesday the next move belongs to Wells.

"All I know is he was out on the field running today (Wednesday)," Peterson said. "We gave him a chance to play and we'll give him another chance but this time it's up to him to show us he wants to play."

Wells must remain on the move list a total of two games and could be there until the end of the season.

But Peterson was more worried about the Philadelphia Eagles, Sunday's opponent in the Astrodome.

"They're a lot like we are," he said. "They've been struggling but they've moved the ball real well and they've changed up their defense. They use the zone pretty well. They've made it tough to read."

Peterson said he would stick with Dan Pastorini at quarterback again this week although the second-year Santa Clara fli-nger is having a touch season.

"He's tightened up some and he's waiting a little too long to throw the football," Peterson said. "I think he's just not anticipating his receivers well."

Peterson started No. 1 draft choice Greg Samspon at defensive end last week and Council Rudolph at end but said he would return to Leo Brooks at tackle and Pat Holmes this week.

"I think a little competition is good," Peterson said. "We gave Samspon a chance to play and now we're going to see if Leo can come back."

How 'Keep Off My Turf' Proves You Can't Write a Book by Butting Typewriter Keys with your Football Helmet.

By IRA BERKOW
 NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — In Baltimore Colt linebacker Mike Curtis' new autobiography, "Keep Off My Turf" ($5.95 Lippincott), there are touching moments that will wrench tears. Here is one: When 16-year-old Mike sees his name in the newspaper sports section for the first time he hurries with it to his father's knee and exults, "Durn, Dad, that's pretty neat."

Deep sensitivity toward his fellow human beings runs rampant. When taping a television show in Hollywood he is disillusioned because "the dancers showed up looking like a bunch of dogs."

There are lessons in sportsmanship for the youth of America. "Some guys, unfortunately, would deliberately go for (Joe Namath's) knees. You find creatures like that in any sport, those who try to hurt you intentionally. I don't agree with that. If you want to get (someone) out of the game, hit him in the head when you're coming straight for him. That's a fair shot."

The book is filled with wide-splitting humor, such as his rollicking quips with teammate Bubba Smith: "... He calls me honky and I call him nigger and we both laugh like hell about it."

All this is just the hors d'oeuvres; the meat of the book is Curtis' soaring logic.

"Football's critics," he philosophizes, "emphasize revolution in their books. We saw some examples of revolution last year in the attempts to stop the government and in the bombing of the U.S. Capitol building." One has as much to do with the other as long passes and literal bombs.

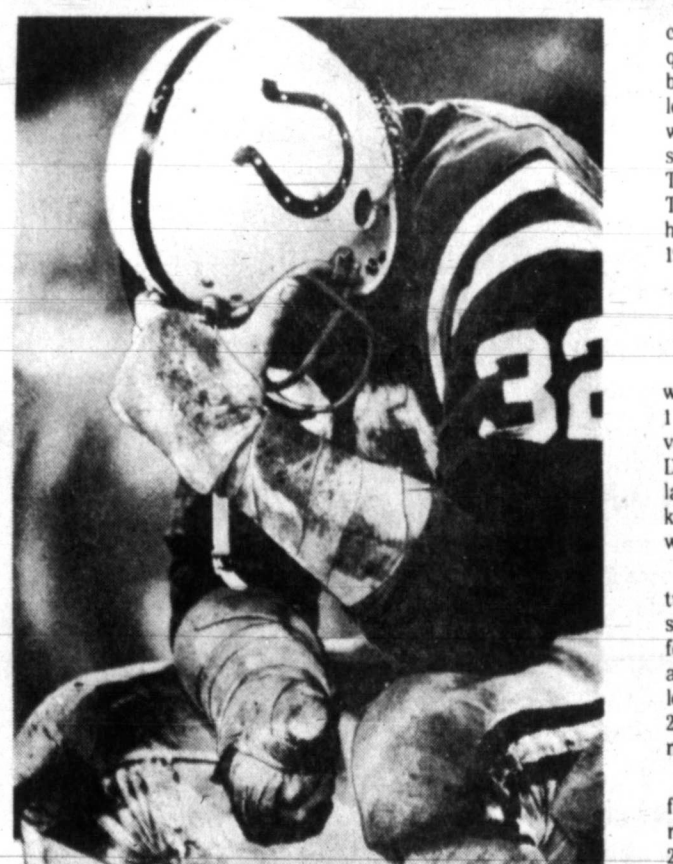

Curtis says he has written this book because there is too much "antifootball sentiment in the air these days." And he thinks "it's time somebody stood up in defense of the sport."

His targets primarily are Dave Meggsey, Bernie Parish and Johnny Sample, all of whom have written what have been called antiestablishment football books. He also lands with heavy knees and heavy theory on Jim Bouton's breastbone, even though Bouton wrote his controversial book about baseball. But if we are to be troubled by inconsistencies then we would have little sympathy for the author.

First, he says that these "malcontents" are "fringe players." Then he says they made a lot of money from the game. But when fringe players made a lot of money from the game other than when they knew the combination to the club owner's safe?

Then he says that they wrote their books to make money. Apparently Curtis wants the reader to believe that his literary pursuits are strictly to enrich humanity.

Meggsey said pro football players took pep pills. "Football players are not a bunch of hopped-up dope addicts," refutes Curtis. "I don't take any of that stuff. It tires you out and makes you weak." How does he know?

MIKE CURTIS looks as if he is unable to believe he wrote the whole thing. (Photo by Malcolm Emmons of Delaware, Ohio, from the Pro Football Hall of Fame 1971 Professional Photographers Contest.)

"You may think you're playing better but you're not." How does he know? He doesn't say.

Meggsey also had said that there is a "dehumanizing" sadism to players intentionally hurting opponents. Curtis, who proudly sports the nicknames "Animal" and "Mad Dog," said he would never intentionally hurt an opponent — unless provoked: "I vaulted over the circle of players, landed in the middle and swatted (Donnie) Green (of Buffalo) across the forehead with my arm. I got kicked out of the game for it, but what the hell."

At other points, Curtis tells how he whacked his opponent, and "beat the living hell" out of another. But he is critical of Sample who is "boastful" about "foul play" — and that's supposed to make you think he was tough."

Curtis wants the world to know that football is a "decent game" played by "decent people."

He looks with amazement at all the criticism he received when, as the paragon of decency, he "decked" a fan and sent him to the hospital. The fan had run onto the field during a game to swipe a ball. Curtis decided to punish the man, even though there were hundreds of policemen and ushers placed on the scene to handle such "fans."

In one breath Curtis says he saw a wrong-doer and punished him. In the next breath he says that "you don't strengthen any society by defying laws." He forgets the law about taking the law into your own hands.

Curtis takes satisfaction over a former teammate saying that "Mike eats the panes right out of the bus windows on the way to practice."

Glass, it may be assumed, is more digestible than this book.

WHA Gets Go-Ahead

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The new plutocrats of the sporting set — Bobby Hull, Derek Sanderson, John McKenzie and others who jumped from the National Hockey League to the World Hockey Association — have received an official court-room go-ahead to begin earning their riches.

A preliminary injunction issued Wednesday by U.S. District Court Judge A. Leon Higginbotham prohibits the NHL from enforcing its controversial reserve clause, which had given it a monopoly on the professional hockey player pool.

He stopped short at this time, however, from ruling the clause illegal.

The decision was a godsend for the WHA, which based its survival strategy on luring established stars for sky-high salaries. The order was set to become effective upon payment by the WHA of a $2.5 million bond.

So far, the new league has pretty much had to do without Hull, Sanderson and McKenzie.

The NHL Chicago Black Hawks, who lost Hull to the 10-year, $2.75 million pact offered by the Winnipeg Jets, got a court order keeping him off the ice.

Higginbotham's decision re-

Hens No. 1

NEW YORK (AP) — Delaware retained its hold on the No. 1 position in the college division football poll, and South Dakota, by virtue of its victory last Saturday over North Dakota State, jumped from nowhere to the fifth position.

The Blue Hens, first all but two weeks in the balloting by sports writers and broadcasters for The Associated Press, have an 8-0 season record and collected 10 first-place votes and 278 points in the results announced today.

Louisiana Tech, which held first for two weeks, is 9-0. It received four votes for first and 240 points.

South Dakota, 8-1, was not listed in the Top Ten teams last week but then beat No. 6 North Dakota State 35-21 last Saturday. It received one first-place vote and 166 points.

California Poly-San Luis Obispo is third with 191 points and Tennessee State is fourth with 167. These are the same positions they held last week.

Ashland was fifth last week and beat Waynesburg 41-0 but still dropped to sixth in the current poll. North Dakota is seventh and Grambling eighth, each a jump of one place for the two teams.

Idaho State entered the poll as No. 9 while McNeese State, last week's No. 7, now is 10th.

Dropping from the poll were North Dakota State, and Massachusetts, last week's No. 10, which lost over the weekend.

Talbot Named

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Jean Guy Talbot, the 39-year-old former coach of the Denver Spurs in the Western Hockey League, arrived here today to take over the helm of the sinking St. Louis Blues.

Talbot, who once played for the Blues as well as Montreal, Detroit and Minnesota in his 17-year National Hockey League career, was named Wednesday to replace Blues' Coach Al Arbour.

"Hopefully, a coaching change might get some of them (the players) moving," said Sid Abel, general manager of the team which has a 2-6-5 record.

MAJOR HOOPLE'S FOOTBALL FORECAST

SOMETHING'S GOT TO GIVE---

Unbeaten Alabama and LSU Battle For Southeastern Conference Lead

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Wizard of Odds

Egad, friends, with four weeks to go in the regular season there are only five major elevens with unsullied records—Southern California (9-0), Alabama (8-0), Michigan (8-0), LSU (7-0) and Ohio State (7-0). And something, dear readers, has got to give this week when two of the elite—Alabama and LSU—do battle for the Southeastern Conference lead—un-

The Old Boy Himself

Of the other three, Southern Cal has the week off to get ready for its Pacific 8 title match with UCLA on Nov. 18, while Michigan and Ohio State take on Big Ten

In the big one at Birmingham, your favorite correspondent gives the edge to Bear Bryant's Alabama stalwarts over the come-from-behind miracle workers of old friend Charlie McClendon. We—hak-kaff—foresee the Tide rolling past LSU's Fighting Tigers, 27-22—har-

While the Trojans are resting, UCLA's Bruins will be sharpening their claws—heh-heh—with a 34-10 triumph over the outmanned Washington Huskies. And in the big Midwest matches, Ohio State's Buckeyes will make it eight straight by a narrow 21-20 count over Duffy Daugherty's rejuvenated Michigan State gladiators, and Michigan will record its ninth in a row by routing Iowa, 33-12!

In the Big Eight, Nebraska (7-1) and Oklahoma (6-1) will have little trouble with Iowa State and Missouri respectively. The Hoople System—kaff-kaff—picks 'em, Nebraska 47, Iowa State 10, and Oklahoma 34, Missouri 17.

In a contest that's sure to be a crowd pleaser, arch rivals Utah and Utah State will get together at Logan for their 71st gridiron meeting. Watch for a high-scoring fray as Utah repels the Aggies, 42-20!

The Hoople Three Star special of the week is the University of Tampa to shock intrastate rival Miami, 13-8, in the Orange Bowl. Earle Bruce's boys will be high for this one—har-rumph!

West Texas Buffaloes Play UT At Arlington

CANYON—West Texas State University's Buffaloes will attempt to push their football season record above the 500 mark Saturday afternoon in Arlington against an improving University of Texas at Arlington Maverick team.

The Buffaloes, who will enter the game with an offense slowed by injuries, will be facing a team which has won its last two games after dropping its first six.

West Texas State will be playing without starting fullback Billy Pritchett for the third straight week and without starting corner back Scott Hindman. A sophomore, Hindman suffered an injured knee in Saturday's 37-6 loss to San Diego State.

Three other offensive starters received injuries in the San Diego State loss, and Coach Gene Mayfield listed all three as doubtful starters as practice started for the UTA game Monday. They are halfback Jimmy Lisle (muscle injury)

Duane Thomas Out

SAN DIEGO (AP)—The football season has ended almost as soon as it began for Duane Thomas, the enigmatic running back of the San Diego Chargers.

Coach Harland Svare, who activated Thomas for the first time Sunday and then left him on the bench while the Chargers were losing to Thomas' former Dallas teammates, said Wednesday he was placing him on the reserve list. That means Thomas will be ineligible to play for the rest of the National Football League season.

The announcement was a surprise, since Thomas had attended every team practice since Friday and was reported to be at ease Tuesday, talking with some of his teammates and running later than most of them to lay back kicks. But he was absent Wednesday.

There were other indications of trouble at the stadium Sunday. During most of the pre-game workouts, Thomas stood to one side, his hands on his knees. Near the end of the National Anthem he walked slowly beside the Chargers' bench. During the game he sat on the bench, staring straight ahead, outwardly responding neither to and guards Allen Mullins and Mike Delaney (ankle injuries).

Should Lisle's hamstring injury keep him from playing, he will probably be replaced by freshman Rick Schleider. If Schleider should start, the Buffs would be operating with two freshmen in the backfield. Amarillo Caprock's Clois Burgess has started the past two games at fullback in place of Pritchett.

If Mullins and Delaney are not able to play, they will be replaced with senior Billy Taylor and sophomore David Freeman. Of the injured players, only Pritchett and Hindman are out of action for certain. Delaney, entering Monday's practice, has a chance to play, but Lisle and Mullins are doubtful.

The UT-Arlington Mavericks lost their opening six games—falling to Southern Mississippi, Oklahoma State, Toledo, TCU, Louisiana Tech and New Mexico State. They rebounded to stop Southwestern the game nor to several teammates' attempts at conversation.

"Obviously he's got some problems that won't permit him to play now," Svare said Wednesday. "I hope he will be able to play for my next season. His actions Sunday were not deliberate and were not intended to be disrespectful."

"He was relaxed yesterday (Tuesday) but I don't think that would have kept up. He did not show up today. I did not expect him."

Thomas has been living in a hotel here with his wife and two children. He is under probation for a marijuana possession conviction in Texas, and one of the conditions of probation is employment, but Svare said, "it doesn't necessarily have to be football." It was not learned whether he will stay in San Diego.

Thomas, 25, one of the best running backs in the NFL for the past two seasons, was traded from the Cowboys to the Chargers July 31 for running back Mike Montgomery and receiver Billy Parks. His relations with his employers, which had reached a state of noncommunication in Dallas, did not improve in San Diego.

Louisiana, 7-0, and Abilene Christian, 36-22.

In fullback Dexter Bussey, the Mavericks had a game breaking runner. He leads the nation in kickoff returns, taking 12 back 387 yards for an average of 32.3 per carry. He rushed for 225 yards against AAC and has 446 yards in his last three games. The Maverick fullback has 95 carries for 513 yards during the season.

Sid Sims follows Bussey in rushing with 317 yards and quarterback Vic Morriss has rushed for 123 yards. Morriss, who has lately earned a starting berth, has completed eight of 25 passes.

The Mavericks also have a fine field goal kicker in R. A. Coppedge. He hit on five of six against ACC from yards of 22, 24, 43, 45 and 45. His only miss was from 60 yards.

Like the Mavericks, the Buffaloes are a strong running team. They are led by halfback Cole Fraley, who has 681 yards in 123 carries. Pritchett has rushed for 436 yards and Lisle 405. Schleider has 198 yards and Burgess 188.

The Buffaloes have completed only 27 of 100 passes for 541 yards. Mike Wartes leads with 16 completions in 61 attempts. Robert Sweat has hit on eight of 31.

For their efforts against San Diego State, safety Daryl Carr and tackle Gary Fennell were named Players of the Week for the Buffs. Carr picked off one pass and Fennell was consistent with his blocking before his hometown crowd.

The Buffaloes, who saw their season record fall to 4-4 in the loss, trailed only 7-0 at halftime. San Diego scored 13 third quarter points and added 17 in the fourth quarter. The Buffaloes, who were hit with 152 yards in penalties, were paced by Fraley, who had 139 yards rushing in 23 carries. Lisle scored the lone Buff touchdown on a 10-yard scamper.

Following Saturday's game in Arlington's Turnpike Stadium, the Buffaloes will close their 1972 season Sept. 18 in Irving in a Missouri Valley Conference game against North Texas State. The Buffaloes are 3-1 in MVC play.

Eight managers who finished the National League season formerly played the outfield.

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Press Censorship

The more than 300 editors and publishers from throughout the hemisphere who attended the annual meeting of the Inter-American Press Association in Santiago, Chile, in October hardly needed to be told, as they were by the owner of a Dominican Republic newspaper, that freedom of the press "has undergone an alarming deterioration" in the past year.

The meeting convened amid warnings that the Chilean government would not tolerate any attacks on itself or other "progressive" nations of Latin America. In Chile, there is no official press censorship, but newsmen have been under increasing pressure. The government of Marxist President Salvador Allende Gossens has filed some 120 lawsuits against newsmen. Some have been jailed pending trial.

$100-Billion Week

The 92nd Congress was not the last of the big-time spenders. It only seems that way because the 93rd Congress will not get its turn until next January. But the 92nd may have set some kind of record in the last days of its existence. In a single week at the end of its session, it authorized expenditures of well over $100 billion, reports Commerce Clearing House.

Philatelists, Lick This!

Say what you will about the Postal Service, the boys are in there with new ideas. Last month, for the first time in history, an entire U.S. post office was airmailed to its permanent location. With scaled up airmail postage affixed to one side, a rural post office module was placed aboard a Lockheed Hercules operated by Alaska

Crossroad Report

Dear Editor: The news is that colleges and universities, long slopping over—literally and figuratively—with students, this year find themselves with 300,000 vacant seats in their classrooms.

Some of this slump is due to the successful efforts of many richly-paid college professionals, among other high-minded characters, to get the military draft threat eliminated.

And some who benefitted richly from the draft-incited urge for higher learning and who now won't be needed in colleges any longer, may go into the filling station business and start demanding that cars be outlawed.

A good deal of weeping goes on because the up and down of aerospace work, military aircraft production, etc., when tapered off or changed in direction often throws many people out of their jobs.

This type of social crisis has come up all through history. Like some hoop skirt makers may have starved before they learned how to make hobble skirts.

And there is no telling how many career skirt makers are on welfare now because they couldn't learn to make hot pants.

Some small scale agitation by a certain type of citizen is going on about amnesty for young men who went to court, Canada or Sweden to keep from being drafted.

It is said they chickened out because their consciences told them to, but my Veteranized neighbor says they probably were listening to their backbones instead of their consciences.

Says he's glad he isn't living with a conscience that feels pious about forcing some other man to go and fight and maybe die in your place. He says a conscience like that could tell you it's OK to kill a neighbor some other way.

I see where the U.S. Postal Slowpoker is spending $800,000 to brainwash people into putting 11-cent air mail stamps on their letters instead of the measly 8-center.

Total success of this campaign could increase letter postage income 37.5 percent (less the $800,000 advertising bill). Which should enable the USPS to hire numerous more experts to think up more ways to stretch out the traveling time of postal matter and completely break us peony of the mail habit.

Wit & Whimsy

By PHIL PASTORET One of the nicest things about the approach of winter is the aroma of sauerkraut and spareribs as you open the door when you come home.

The office wolf says that his predatory girl friend is already showing her Santa claws.

Students View Teacher Union Power Struggle

When public school teachers bring their union activities into the classroom, it's the students who suffer, says 18-year old Kristin Dahn, a 1972 graduate of Roosevelt High School, Honolulu, Hawaii.

Since 1971, when the Hawaii State Teachers Association, an NEA affiliate, beat out the Hawaii Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, for the right to be exclusive bargaining agent for Hawaii's teachers, the public school system there has been in a constant state of turmoil or near turmoil.

HSTA has several times threatened to strike the schools. HFT has made a relentless try to unseat the rival union. And behind all of it is the vicious 1970 Hawaii public-employee bargaining law under which the government, automatically and without the employees' permission, turns over a part of each paycheck to the union treasury.

In other words, HSTA and the HFT have been fighting it out for the handsome kitty that comes with exclusive representation, and the compulsory dues check-off arrangement

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The U.S. Constitution's 25th Amendment ratified in 1967 provides that whenever the office of the vice-president is vacant the president shall nominate one who shall take office upon confirmation by a majority vote of both houses of Congress. The office of vice-president has been vacant 16 times due to succession to the presidency (8), death (7) or resignation. The World Almanac notes.

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Substernal Thyroid Not Usually Cancer Dear Dr. Lamb—Would you explain a radio thyroid isotope scan study? Is a substernal thyroid cancerous? What would cause a substernal thyroid? If it is not creating any symptoms wouldn't it be better to leave well enough alone?

Dear Reader—The thyroid scan uses radioactive iodine and takes advantage of the thyroid gland's function in using iodine. The radioactive iodine will be concentrated in the thyroid gland area and by using a counter technique, which identifies where the radioactive iodine is, a map of the size of the thyroid gland can be made. It is a miniaturized version of using a counter to find a uranium mine. If a portion of the thyroid gland is trapped under the sternum (breast bone) its location there can be identified.

If there are nodules of active tissue in the thyroid gland which may be cancerous, these will pick up additional amounts of the radio active materials and represent hot spots or high density areas on the thyroid scan.

A substernal thyroid is merely one which is enlarged and a portion of it is trapped underneath the sternum. In other cases of thyroid enlargement all of the thyroid gland is in the neck, and its size can all be determined by physical examination usually without the necessity of using a thyroid scan. A substernal thyroid is not necessarily cancerous. In fact, it usually is not. It just defines where the enlargement of the thyroid gland is located.

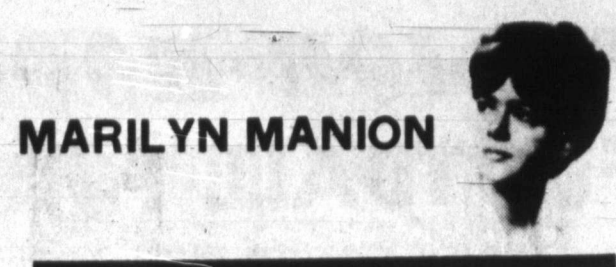

Sometimes substernal thyroid glands, if they are large enough, will cause pressure against adjacent structures and will therefore need to be removed. Otherwise, ordinary enlargement of the thyroid gland in the neck region merely increases the size of the neck without creating pressure on underlying structures.

Dear Dr. Lamb—The doctor says I have spasms of the stomach but he doesn't know what causes it. I have great pains in my stomach like cramps. I also have a bad heart. I have a pacemaker—this year makes my fourth year with it. It was exchanged in February of this year. It is doing okay but my stomach is not. I am 76. I would like you to give me some advice if you can.

Dear Reader—To have some idea of what is causing your problem, one would need to have X rays of your stomach and possibly even your gallbladder and lower digestive tract. If these are all normal there is a possibility that the pains you are experiencing in the area of your stomach are from your heart.

Some people have heart pain referred to the upper abdomen. If this should be the case your doctor could try nitroglycerine tablets under the tongue and see if it relieves your abdominal pain.

THE BATTLE IS DONE: THE WAR GOES ON

The election is over (though not as these words are written). Ho Hum. Four more years. It is not irrelevant, I think, to continue discussion of election issues, post-mortem though the debate might seem. For the 1972 contest was not so much a battle between candidates as it was of ideas. The two contenders were not all that far apart: "the choice between the two evaporates," observed Dr. Charles Rice on the October 1 Manion Forum radio broadcast, "when you compare Senator McGovern's rhetoric, not with President Nixon's rhetoric, which is still conservative, but when you compare Senator McGovern's rhetoric with President Nixon's actual policies."

The real difference between Nixon and McGovern is the kind of people who supported them. On the one hand you have "Middle America"—those who believe that our system, while not perfect, is worth saving; that free enterprise is the best economic system; that working for a living is a responsibility to be borne by all but the blind, the aged and the halt.

On the other hand are those who believe the system stinks; that the "rich" should be soaked to maintain the poor; that crime is "society's" fault; that "business" is evil and taxing it to death is virtuous.

The contest is over but these two warring elements within the American public live on (Indeed, if one resides, as I do, in the metropolitan New York area, one wonders where all of the "Middle Americans" are hiding.)

Those who are against "the system" have one fanatical goal: to redistribute income so that the poor—and unemployed—can live in comfort. It is apparently assumed that, if you take money away from those who earn it, (1) the money will end poverty and (2) the earners will continue to produce funds to support the poor. The first assumption is not valid until the second is proved. So let us address ourselves to the second.

Plugging the "loopholes" in our present tax laws would damage the incentives to earn and invest. (Why work to earn $5000 more when it will be taken away? Why risk your capital in uncertain investment when your possible profits will be raked in by the government?) Incentives being thus damaged, the result would be a decrease in employment and production—not to mention tax yield, otherwise known as the bottomless pot of gold to which the poor have a "right."

Next to plugging loopholes, the radicals rate higher taxing of business as their high priority. It seems not to have occurred to them that higher taxes on business would curtail new investments, expansion and employment. Or that it is the consumer, in the end, who pays the piper when the costs of business—and tax—is a cost—go up.

"A loophole," writes Henry Hazlitt, "is any provision of the tax laws that falls short of confiscating the entire income of the rich." And, I might add, the entire income of everybody. For once the government has the "right"—to some people's income, it has the power to take everything from us all.

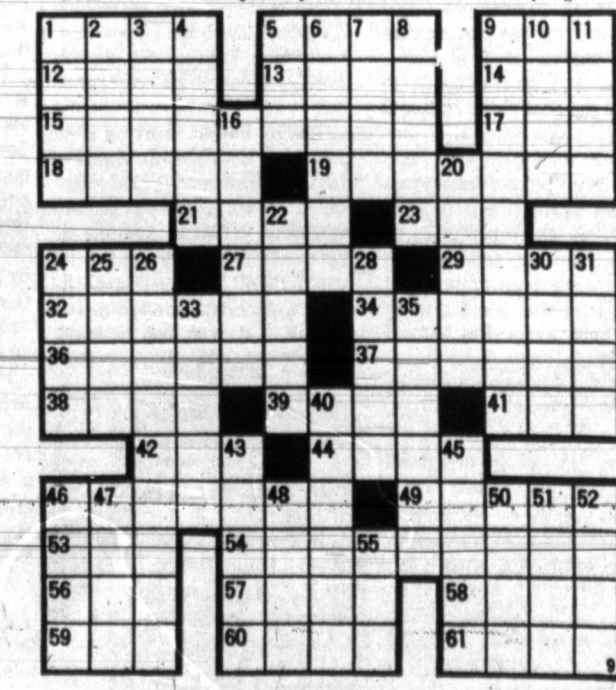

"The United States, if it now has an inch of backbone left, should withdraw from the United Nations, lift its economic boycott of Rhodesia and do what it should have done long ago—assist only those few countries around the world that have demonstrated evidence of fair play and friendship." —Rep. H.R. Gross (R-Iowa)
