Energy, Consumer Agency Blasted

The mid-East crisis could cause the United States to be finding what energy sources could be produced at home, warned Senator John G. Tower Wednesday. At the same time, he said too much government intervention was causing a greater energy crisis than ever.

Sen. Tower spoke Wednesday during a luncheon, to some 90 members and guests of the four local civic clubs, Jaycees, Rot-

Local Church Bible School Starts Monday

Spanish Assembly of God Church, 415 E. Avenue F, will have Vacation Bible School, beginning Monday, June 6, for ages four through 11, according to Rev. Hipolito Pecina, pastor.

He said the school will be 4-6 p.m. each day through Friday, June 10, and the theme for this year is "The King is Coming."

Rev. Pecina said there will be games, puppets, singing, Bible Classes and prizes.

All children will be welcome said the minister, and register your child by calling 272-3890 or come by the church.

You may bring your child or the church bus will pick them up and take them home.

ary, Lions and Kiwanis, at the Catholic Center in Muleshoe. Tower said he is in favor of de-regulation commenting, "The general economy for the state would be better through de-regulation of oil and gas prices. As a result, in Texas, there would be an eventual reduction of the price of gas."

"If gas is taken away from Texas for use in other states, we would see an immediate reduction in gas prices, but we would face an eventual shortage of supplies. Such a proposal would reflect on the economy, tax revenues, and our life-styles in every way."

The Senator spoke briefly to the group, then opened the session for questions. In response to a question by Gil Lamb on the reduction in the size of government, Tower said he could see no significant move to cut the size of government agencies now.

In fact, he added, "We can't shrink the size of government until we shrink what government does. All I see is a proposal that the government does more, including the new Consumer Protection Act, and the Energy Program which will add more government agencies."

He said, "Reducing the size of government is much like the weather. Everybody talks about it, but nobody does anything about it."

Senator Tower fielded several questions from a local farmer, Bill Millen, including questions about his availability to visitors at his Washington office and gas for farmers.

J.W. Coppedge of Bailey County Electric Cooperative asked if there was some time limit on when the energy programs could take effect, to which the Senator replied, "Prices will eventually come down, if price controls are removed, it will lower prices, but everything will take time to work out details."

He said, he also opposed price controls ceilings for beef and for much the same reason and suggested energy legislation will be on a piecemeal basis, predicting failure of an attempt to penalize persons with 'gas guzzler' cars.

On Social Security, the Senator said several solutions are being sought to the problem of dwindling Social Security funds, no cont. on page 3 col. 3

John Blackwell New Rotary President

"I had a special reason for wanting to come back to Muleshoe," said District Governor John Tyler, of Midland, Thursday night. He was speaker at the annual Rotary Installation banquet at the Corral Restaurant.

"I issued you several challenges last October when I was here," he continued. "You have done so very well meeting the challenges, I wanted to come back to say thank you."

He mentioned the Four Way Test, which has been placed in the second grade classrooms at Mary De Shazo School, with plans to add the plaque with the test to other grades. He also said that through the challenge, more participation has been noted in the Rotary Foundation and increase in membership.

Tyler boosted RotarAct to the group, telling of some of the advantages of establishing the clubs in the 18-28 year old group of young men and women.

He also spoke emphatically on RYLA (Rotary Youth Leadership Award) and told the group of a summer camp to sponsor deserving young leaders and the noted and prominent athletes and businessmen who would be

First '77 Fatality Thursday Morning

Bailey County recorded its first 1977 fatality in a traffic accident Thursday morning three miles west of Enochs. Apparently killed instantly was Gordon J. Flatt, 69, of Enochs, who was pinned under his overturned pickup.

Flatt was pronounced dead at the accident by K.B. Martin, Justice of the Peace, from Muleshoe, following the accident which happened shortly after 11 a.m.

Investigating officer THP Larry Northcutt of Littlefield, said his investigation showed that the

Vaccines Are Required For All Students

Muleshoe School Superintendent Neal B. Dillman said this week that "Texas law requires that all students must be immunized against the following diseases:

"Diphtheria/tetanus/pertussis (whooping cough), polio, measles and rubella. The law specifies for oral polio at least three doses of vaccine, provided one or more doses have been received since the fourth birthday - and for diphtheria/tetanus, minimum of three doses, with at least one dose having been received since the fourth birthday."

"The law requires that at least one dose of each of these vaccines must have been received since the fourth birthday," he re-emphasized.

Measles vaccine must have been administered in at least one dose or a doctor's diagnosis of having had the disease must be presented; while one dose of rubella vaccine must have been given before age 12.

Immunization clinics are conducted at the Health Resource Center at 306 West Second on the first Tuesday of each month.

Dillman concluded, "We urge you to check your child's health records and if any vaccines are not complete, take your child and his health record to your family physician or Health Center and complete them."

"For, the law states that in order for a student to enter school, and/or remain in school, these requirements must be met."

left rear tire was blown out on the pickup, putting it into a skid. The pickup struck a light pole at the intersection of Highway 54 and a private dirt road then overturned, pinning Flatt beneath the vehicle.

Four men who were driving down the road lifted the small pickup and removed Flatt's body from the spilling gasoline and oil. The men told the investigating officer that Flatt was alone in the vehicle at the time of the accident.

A former resident of Portales, N.M., Enochs area residents said Flatt had lived in their community for approximately five months. He reportedly had bought the pickup only a short time before the accident occurred.

Also responding to the accident were members of the Bula-Enochs Volunteer Fire Department who washed down the gasoline spilling from the up-ended vehicle to reduce the possibility of a fire or explosion.

Flatt's body was brought to Singleton-Ellis Funeral Home in Muleshoe by ambulance before being transferred late Thursday to a funeral home at Portales.

School Board To Meet Monday On Three Items

A special meeting is scheduled at 8 p.m. Monday for the Muleshoe Independent School District Board of Trustees.

The three items on the agenda include opening and considering bids for property insurance for the schools; considering the appointment of Superintendent Neal B. Dillman as coordinator to carry our regulations and assurance of compliance with Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and accepting resignations of school personnel.

Youth Seeking Employment For The Summer

Lonnie Merriott of the Texas Employment Commission office in Muleshoe said the TEC office needs jobs for the young people of Muleshoe who have registered for summer work.

He encourages businessmen, farmers, homeowners and organizations to fill their summer employment by calling the TEC office at 272-3260.

TEC has a large number of young people signed up who want to work during the summer school holidays.

Thursday night, around 7 p.m., a wind and rainstorm formed in the northeast portion of Bailey County, along a portion of Lamb and Castro Counties, dumping approximately two inches of rain in the Pleasant Valley area.

Around the Harold Allison farm east of Muleshoe on Highway 70, a total of slightly more than two inches of rain fell, creating deep water along the highway and the Pleasant Valley Road for some time. It was reported that one and one-half inches fell during a first rain, followed by another rain which deposited up to three fourths more in the same area.

The cloud had by-passed Muleshoe, with brilliant lightning discharges reaching the ground and setting fires in at least two locations. Earlier, lightning struck a building and high line pole near Coyote Lake Feed Yard, knocking electricity out in that area. The Feed Yard reported .4 inch of rain with one-half inch a little farther north on the ranch.

Clouds formed to the northeast of Muleshoe, leaving .3 inch of rain which fell intermittently in the area of Foster Fertilizer. Some high wind accompanied the storm, although no wind damage was reported.

At the county line, Don Gartin reported three fourths inch of rain in approximately 10 minutes, some high wind, but no hail accompanied the storm.

Joe Harbin said workmen from Bailey County Electric Cooperative were called out shortly before 9:30 p.m. when power outages were reported on their lines.

He said two large transmission poles were blown down east of the Earth sub-station, resulting in a widespread power loss. Both Pleasant Valley and Lazbuddie lost their electricity for a short time.

Near Sunnyside, eight power poles were blown down east of what was termed "a straight, hard wind." A mile east of the Earth-Sprinklake School, another power pole was downed by the storm.

Harbin said that almost everyone was back in service Friday morning, except possibly for a few isolated farm homes.

"Quite a bit of damage was sustained at the Estacado Feed-yard, a large sheep operation three miles south of Sunnyside," reported Harbin. He said that several of the sheep sheds were blown apart by the hard cont. on page 3 col. 4

Travel Club Meets Again This Tuesday

R.A. Bradley, acting as pro-tem coordinator for the organization of a Good Sam Travel Club in Muleshoe, said another meeting is scheduled Tuesday.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. in the Tri-County Savings and Loan meeting room. Discussed will be more organization plans, election of officers, and more plans made for the local chapter of the Good Sam Travel Club.

Bradley said he would encourage anyone interested in traveling and/or camping to attend the meeting Tuesday night.

Modification Group Get Partial Victory

From the Lubbock Avalanche Journal

Water Development Board members Thursday took the easy way out of making a controversial decision on bitterly opposed license renewal applications for two South Plains weather modification companies.

At the urging of Lubbock board member George McCleskey, the six-man panel unanimously approved a motion by Glen Roney of McAllen to grant permits to the companies, a concession to them, but only through October 31 and only for the target areas and operational areas within eight miles of the target area - a concession to more than 4,000 protesting farmers.

The board's decision, called "a liveable compromise" by attorneys for the companies, and the farmers who've fought their operations since 1970, also encourages calling elections across the South Plains to determine voter preferences for modification activities, but did not commit the board to changing the permit area or term after those elections.

Under legislation passed by the just-concluded 65th Legislature, such elections would be possible upon petition by area residents. Gov. Dolph Briscoe is expected to sign the legislation, which was carried in the Senate by Sen. Kent Hance and in the House by Rep. Jim Rudd.

The board's action received applause from modification supporters in the crowd of about 100 persons who had packed into the old Supreme Court Room of the Capitol.

After the meeting though, both supporters of the two companies and representatives of the farm-

Flatt was killed, apparently instantly in the accident. His death was the first traffic fatality recorded in Bailey County in 1977.

ROTARY DIGNITARIES...John Tyler, Rotary District Governor, left, was guest speaker and installing officer for the new Rotary Club officers Thursday night. Accidents Spoil Texas Summer

Summertime and recreation go naturally together, especially under the warm Texas sun. But the Texas Department of Health Resources warns that this year, as in past years, too many Texans will have their fun spoiled by unnecessary accidents.

Whatever type of recreation you choose, there are a few simple precautions you can take to ensure that you enjoy all of your vacation and leisure time.

According to safety experts, water sports offer the most frequent summertime hazards. Last year, nearly 500 people drowned in water-related accidents in Texas. Typically, swimming accidents take the largest toll each year, followed closely by fishing accidents. Boating, sailing, water-skiing, and canoeing also take their toll.

But not all drownings involve swimmers and boaters. In too many cases, people fall from a place of presumed safety, such as a dock, bridge, or the edge of a swimming pool. When this happens, in many cases the person isn't prepared to swim and can't get himself to safety. Children are most susceptible to this type of accident, especially very small children playing near a swimming pool or a pond. Two simple safety rules could prevent almost all such tragedies: first, never leave children without adult supervision; second, make sure everyone in the family knows how to swim. Free or very inexpensive swimming lessons are available in almost every community through American Red Cross programs and local recreation agencies.

Not only children but adults as well should wear an approved life jacket while on a boat or near deep water—just in case of an unplanned dip. Even an expert swimmer won't be able to avoid drowning if he's knocked unconscious by a fall from a boat or by striking a rock underwater.

Always swim in areas you know are safe, either because they're marked for swimming or because you're accompanied by someone who knows the area thoroughly. And that's another good safety rule: don't swim alone. If you get into trouble, your companion can toss you a life jacket or a rope to help you reach safety. Never swim when you're chilled, overly tired, overheated, or you've just finished eating.

Anyone familiar with Texas weather knows that it can change rapidly. If you see thunderclouds building up or lightning in the distance, stay away from the water. Boats make an inviting target for a bolt of lightning, and choppy, wind-blown water can turn a pleasant swim into a potentially deadly nightmare.

Make sure your boat is in excellent condition and meets all safety regulation, which includes having a Coast Guard-approved flotation device on board for each person. When pulling skiers, boat drivers must be on the watch for swimmers and other watercraft. It's a good idea to have two people in a tow boat—one to drive and the other to watch the skier. It's also a good idea to learn the hand signals developed especially for skiers; it's too hard to hear above the noise of a motor, but a hand signal can get the message across.

Health authorities warn that there are dangers in other kinds of recreational activities, too. Whether it's hang-gliding or golf, jogging or tennis, mountain-climbing or sunbathing, a few simple precautions can save you and your family a lot of grief.

First and foremost, don't get into anything over your head. Know what you're doing; plan and think ahead to avoid possible danger.

Second, don't overdo it. Over-extending yourself on a hot day under the bright sun is a sure way to put yourself in trouble. Exhaustion, sunburn, dehydration, sunstroke—those are the penalties for people who don't know when to take it easy, and they can turn today's play-time into tomorrow's misery.

Third, share your fun with a friend. Whatever your favorite leisure activity might be, it's almost always more enjoyable in another person's company—preferably someone who can help if things go wrong.

Fourth, keep an eye on the children. Don't let their inexperience and immature judgement lead to a spoiled weekend, or a tragically shortened life.

Summertime—it's the favorite time of year for many people. That's why Texas Department of Health Resources safety experts say, "A little bit of caution never spoiled anybody's fun."

ers, many dryland farmers of the South Plains, declined comment on the decision until the formal order is drawn up later this week by board General Counsel Bruce Bigelow.

Apparent confusion over whether the board was actually ordering the elections or merely suggesting them with a promise they would be considered spanned the reluctance to speak.

Board members heard nearly two hours of discussion on the applications, mainly by attorneys for the companies, Jerome Kirby of Littlefield, and for the farmers, Harrell Feldt of Midland.

Kirby argued that testimony contained in more than 640 pages of transcript from hearings in Lubbock confirmed that "we (the companies) have not hurt anybody" through weather modification operations.

Kirby claimed the two hail suppression companies have "eliminated at least 50 percent of the hailfall" in the area and denied charges the companies had also reduced rainfall over the same period.

Feldt claimed it was Kirby's job to prove the applicants had not injured anyone or their lands, and that he had not done so. He contended that the testimony made it "absolutely and completely clear" that seeded clouds produce more precipitation than unseeded clouds, but that it is less intense and thus less beneficial than natural rainfall.

Following their arguments, board members tried to unravel legal complications posed by approving a permit with the stipulations that elections be called in the affected areas could change the outcome.

Final approval came on Roney's motions to approve the permits for shorter periods and for a less expansive region than the companies had requested.

Both firms had sought four-year permits to fly cloud-seeding operations.

solution has been found. He said that Social Security dollars being paid now are being used for persons who have already retired. He also commented that he is in favor of persons having the right to "opt out" of the Social Security program to enter a retirement program of some other type.

Bill Loyd of Muleshoe State Bank, asked the Senator about inquiries from overseas on crops, especially corn. The Senator suggested that more emphasis be placed on overseas shipments of crops.

Tower spoke emphatically against the proposed Consumer Protection Act, suggesting that the new agency, termed the CPA Agency, "potentially even worse than OSHA." He asked support in fighting the proposed new agency which he said would "add even more power to Nader and his group."

As Senator Tower was speaking in Muleshoe, President Carter was hosting about 200 persons in Washington, D.C. in an attempt to spur interest for his Agency for Consumer Protection.

The President announced that the Office of Management and Budget has identified 13 government offices, employing 180 persons, whose functions could be absorbed into the agency. This move, according to Pres. Carter, would result in a savings of $10.4 million, a figure he indicated would be greater than the annual budget of the proposed agency.

Senator Tower also sought support from area farmers for the Senate version of the omnibus farm bill, saying the President and House versions are too liberal and asked for backing to modify power of OSHA.

The Senator was introduced by Herb Griffiths. His host at the meeting was the Muleshoe Lions Club, with president Bill Loyd. Before and after the luncheon, the senator toured points of interest in Muleshoe, including the new hospital.

Accompanying him on the trip were his secretary, Martha Jensen of Washington, Alan Balch, press assistant from Washington and Phil Charles, special assistant from Dallas.

wind, and that the sheets of tin had cut through power lines in that area.

However, Harbin said no rain was recorded in the area where the poles were blown down, and the windstorm was apparently unaccompanied by any moisture.

He expressed his appreciation to the Bailey County Electric Cooperative linemen who went out Thursday night to repair the poles and restore service, as well as to the users who reported the location of downed poles.

Moving to the southeast, the storm apparently dissipated without further damage.

Don Bryant of the Pleasant Valley community said he received .9 in rain at his house, but this his brother, who lives south of his home, received an inch and a quarter.

Dodd Fertilizer said they received no rain, except for a light shower in that community. At the same time, Muleshoe received only light sprinkles, accompanied by sand.

No hail was reported and no crop damage.

Pesticide Applicator Workshop Planned For Commercial Use

A training workshop for commercial and non-commercial agricultural applicators of pesticides has been scheduled for June 15-16 at Plains Co-op Oil Mill in Lubbock, according to County Extension Agent Spencer Tanksley.

The educational workshop, though not a part of the official certification process, is being conducted by the Extension Service to train commercial and non-commercial applicators in three categories of agricultural pest control. These are field crop pest control, fruit and vegetable pest control, and weed and brush control. The workshop is being limited to an audience of 150 persons on a first come, first serve basis, added the county agent.

The first session of the workshop will include subject matter applicable to all categories of commercial and non-commercial applicators. Sessions that follow will deal with category specific subject matter.

A certification examination is to be conducted on June 17 by the Texas Department of Agriculture at the same location, says Tanksley.

Persons planning to attend the workshop must pre-register by writing to Dr. Pat Morrison, TAEX, Route Three, Box 213AA, Lubbock, Texas 79401, indicating their intent to participate in the workshop. Details will be provided by return mail along with study materials.

For members of their organization, the Texas Plant Food Institute will sponsor a similar workshop June 28-29 at the Lubbock Civic Center, Tanksley adds.

The Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA), as amended, enforced by the Environmental Protection Agency, includes among other requirements "(1) classification of all uses of pesticides as either restricted use or general use and (2) certification of applicators (private and commercial) as a requisite to the legal use or supervision of use of restricted-use pesticides.

The Texas Pesticide Control Act (TPCA) establishes an additional category of pesticide applicator, the non-commercial applicator, and requires certification and licensing of the commercial and non-commercial applicator has a requisite to the use or supervision of use of restricted-use pesticides.

The commercial applicator as defined by the TPCA means "a person who owns or manages a pesticide application business engaged in the application of restricted-use or state-limited-use pesticides to the land of another." The non-commercial applicator as defined by the TPCA means "a person or government agency or department which wants to use restricted-use or state-limited-use pesticides and does not qualify as a private applicator and is not required to have a commercial Certification is granted by the state regulatory agencies on the basis of examination.

The full implementation of the amended Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act is scheduled for October 21, 1977. On this date, barring any changes in the law, certification will be a requisite to using or supervising use of restricted-use pesticides.

He also urged more assistance with senior citizens, commented "These are the people who looked after us, and now it's time for us to look after them."

"Rotary has helped me with high ideals and high principles, through Rotary we can have a better community and a better personal life."

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,

I have been very busy this past year and haven't read many stories in the magazines that I have subscribed to for many years. Just recently, to get rid of a salesman, I paid for the coming two years of a certain magazine. I then read some stories in a copy I already had and was shocked at the content. Each story was a continual description of sex with husbands and other men. Each woman in these stories either had affairs before marriage or affairs with other men afterward and the idea was given that all women were like that and that was the way it should be.

Could I get my money back? I don't care to read garbage by people who consider all women alley cats.

Do the people who write stories really believe what they write or do they do so because the people who buy the stories think they sell magazines?
Disgusted-Ga.

Answer:

I doubt if you can get your money back but you can write to the editor and tell them what you think of their stories.

If all of us who dislike material and stories which encourage our young people to be immoral and which confuse them about loyalty and honor, would discontinue subscribing to such publications it might serve as an eye opener to some publishers.

Louisa,

Bill Loyd, President

The question is often asked: How much should a family set aside for housing. Most experts agree that the average family should allocate about 25 per cent of their monthly income.

That means that a family with a gross monthly income of $800 should not be paying out more than $200 a month for mortgage payments, or rent, including all utility bills in the amount.

Oftentimes a young couple starting out in life let their emotions, rather than sound financial considerations, determine where and how they are going to live. The best way to plan is to make out a monthly budget: so much for shelter, clothing, food, car payments, savings and, of course, entertainment.

Virtually every working person in the country faces the possibility of being out of work at one time or another. That's why it is a good idea to build up at least three months living costs in a savings account to help smooth out any dislocations that might take place. It's really better to have a six month backlog in savings, because it is easier to place the money where it will draw the best interest rates.

Ford Right

Former President Ford recently warned it would be highly dangerous to start withdrawing money out of general revenue funds to make social security ends meet, as President Carter proposes to do. Mr. Ford said this would mean the next generation of elderly might end up with no security.

The former President's warning is appropriate and Mr. Carter and Congress would do well to listen. There could scarcely be a poorer time than now, with another huge deficit certain, to propose new burdens on the Treasury for social security.

The obvious and proper remedy for the social security system's deficit is higher taxes for employers and employees. The system must be self-sustaining or it will make impossible the balancing of the budget, insure inflation and very likely rob future generations of their old age security.

Reagan's Time

Reports indicate Ronald Reagan, who probably could have produced a G.O.P. presidential victory in 1976 had he enthusiastically joined the Ford ticket (or had Ford enthusiastically sought him), is actively working to control the 1980 Republican convention.

Reagan is effective in party work and speech-making and he and his supporters largely controlled the 1976 Kansas City convention. The former California Governor will be 69 in 1980 and appears to be making another bid for his party's top nomination.

Only former President Gerald Ford has much chance of a heading off Reagan. Time alone will tell whether Ford works actively enough, and wants to run again. (Former Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld, who tried to boost himself as a candidate last time, is very ambitious but has no constituency.)

Reagan is said to be insisting every G.O.P. candidate who asks his help endorse the 1976 platform. That would bar some moderates and liberals from aid, and it would restrict the base of Reagan's faithful.

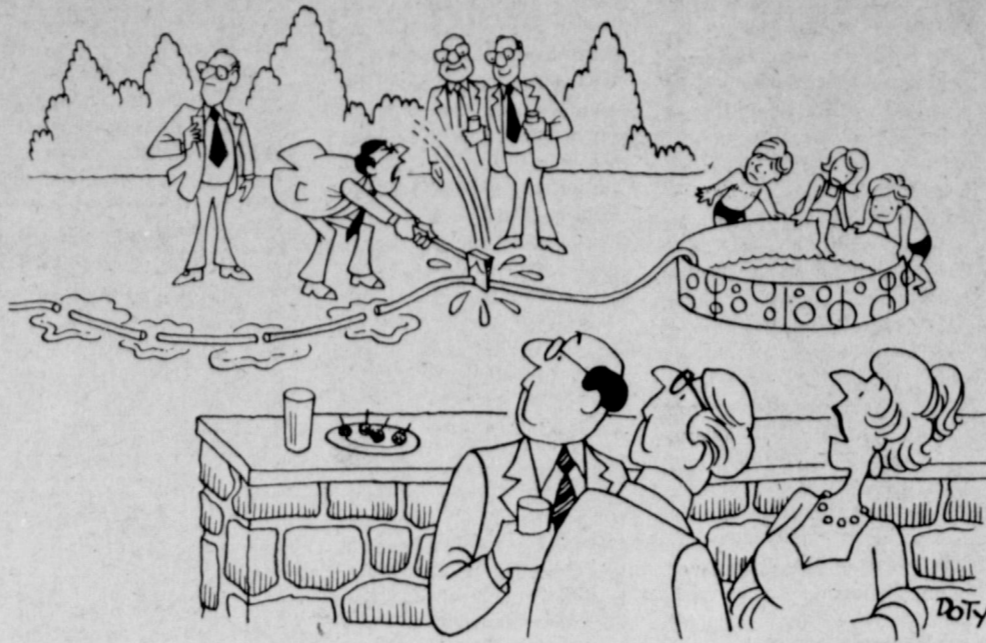

That was something of the approach used in 1976. Admittedly, Reagan conservatives were and are active, hard workers. The question is, as it was last year, whether such a platform and conservatives can draw enough broad support from the electorate to win a presidential election. It seems doubtful. But they may be strong enough to have a try in 1980.

WASHINGTON NEWS REPORT

The Nuclear Dilemma-Carter's First Hope-The Realities-The Outlook

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- President Jimmy Carter has quickly and actively sought to check the spread of nuclear weapons, a goal Americans solidly support. But it now appears his first approach, which might have been practical ten years ago, is, tragically, too late.

Carter's hope was that he could stop the spread of the technology required to make nuclear bombs. But many see that as a hopeless task. Aside from today's major nuclear powers, there are already about fifteen nations with nuclear reactors. Most of them have the technical and industrial capacity to build a bomb.

These nations include insecure Israel (which reportedly already has bombs), South Africa, South Korea, Taiwan and Yugoslavia--which a recent Ford Foundation study terms "threshold" nations. Four others, Brazil, India (which may already have a few bombs), Iran and Spain, are said to want nuclear weapons more for prestige purposes.

Then there are the rivals of some of these countries--Argentina, Pakistan, North Korea and Egypt. Finally, Chile and Indonesia are considered by some to be candidates. And this list doesn't include highly industrialized nations such as Japan and Germany, which already have the capacity to produce bombs.

With Russia, China, France, England all in possession of nuclear weapons, plus several others suspected of having them, it may be unrealistic to assume that Washington can control the spread of technology. The try by President Carter, however admirable and desirable, might indeed have been naive.

How else, then, can the United States work to stop the spread of these weapons? Some in the State Department believe the only chance is in convincing all countries likely to acquire them there is no need for such weapons. Also, it may be that defense treaties could obviate the need in some instances.

But should this country give new solid defense guarantees to such countries as South Korea, Israel, Taiwan, etc.? This would further commit the U.S. to fighting in all these volatile areas--and probably the American people oppose such action.

How, then, can this world of passions avoid a nuclear conflict, eventually? The only practical hope may lie in the direction of a new and forceful world agreement among all nuclear and prospective nuclear powers, to use nuclear energy for peaceful purposes only.

If President Carter sets his sights in this direction, and employs all the economic, public relations and diplomatic power of the United States to achieve such an agreement, and that agreement binds all to act against a violator, such an achievement would constitute a milestone in world affairs. It might be the only practical approach remaining to prevent the spread and use of nuclear weapons.

APPROVES WEAPONS

The Senate has approved a $36 billion military weapons bill giving President Carter the options of putting the B1 bomber into production and refloating the Nimitz-class nuclear-powered aircraft carrier.

On Wall Street

By Bob Hill

The law of diminishing returns applies tremendously to home security. With a little expense, you can discourage a high percentage of housebreakers. A fancier, more expensive home security rig will only give you a little more protection.

According to FBI figures, few house robbers are skilled professionals. More than half of them are under the age of 18 and 85 percent are under 25. In most cases these housebreakers are looking for easy pickings, not a nasty face-to-face meeting with a scared homeowner.

Your best protection when you go on vacation is a "house sitter." Your house should have an occupied-at-the-moment look. Next best is having a neighbor check in often and most people will do that for nothing.

A neighbor should stop by daily to collect newspapers and mail. Window shades should be repositioned, lawn furniture should be moved and evidence of signs of life should be obvious. The "scheduled" and locations of timers attached to lights, radios or air conditioners should be changed.

If you can't have someone change the appearance of the house, your attempts to get the "occupied-at-the-moment look" won't be very convincing. In fact, even the dumbest of burglars can quickly spot all the unoccupied houses on a given street. Stop mail deliveries, and a would-be thief can get an idea who's on vacation in the area merely by shadowing the mailman for a few blocks. If you put a timed light in the window, your local housebreakers will guess you're out of town simply by watching it go on and off at the same time two nights running.

Any sign of good security can slow down housebreakers. An alarm bell on the outside of the house can help, and so can outside lights, good locks, fences--even stickers that say a house is protected. Police often recommend makeshift alarms before going on vacation. One favorite is slipping a thin piece of plywood between the top of the back door and the frame and piling it high with empty cans. If anyone opens the door, the racket could very well rouse the neighbors.

TOWER TALKS

by U.S. Senator for Texas JOHN TOWER

Hospital Cost Containment

WASHINGTON--The Administration's recently announced plan to cap soaring health care costs by limiting the amounts hospitals can charge for their services represents little more than a hope and a prayer. By all other objective measures, it won't accomplish its goals.

What the President has promised with his hospital cost containment program is an end to the 15 per cent yearly rise in costs to patients. What the plan ignores are factors more directly responsible for the soaring increases, and more importantly, the serious economic repercussions to hospitals if his plan becomes law. Health care in this country will begin a sharp decline.

Like many other industries in the American economy, the health care field has grown by leaps and bounds. Its growth pangs have been expensive. A hospital room that in 1950 was $15.62 a day now ranges upward of $175 a day--an alarming 1000 per cent increase. Health care now accounts for nine per cent of the Gross National Product.

While correctly recognizing the seriousness of the current dollar squeeze in health care, the President's plan has failed to grasp its complexity. His plan would clamp a lid only on the amounts hospitals charge for patient care and treatment.

At the same time, no mention is made of how hospitals will recoup the inevitable shortfall to meet their rising expenses, not subject to the same stringent controls.

Past experience with selectively controlling wages and prices casts serious doubt that the President's plan can match the promises with performance. Moreover, it's nothing short of foolhardy to resurrect carrot and stick economic schemes and apply them to an area as important to the Nation as health care. Too much is at stake.

Singling out hospitals disregards the most blatant contributors to spiraling costs. Inflation in the economy as a whole plays the largest part. Exorbitant premiums for malpractice insurance paid by doctors nationwide eventually show up in increased fees to hospitals and patients. Advanced technology and more sophisticated equipment also carry larger price tags than ever before. Employee wages and fringe benefits are more.

But when all is said and done, government itself is most culpable for the present state of affairs in health care. Overlapping state and Federal programs require ever larger staffs to administer increasingly bureaucratic procedures. Government's inadequate reimbursement system rewards inefficiency in hospital treatment. Hardly an eyebrow is raised when costs escalate because they are automatically absorbed. Few questions are asked about whether or not government gets its moneysworth.

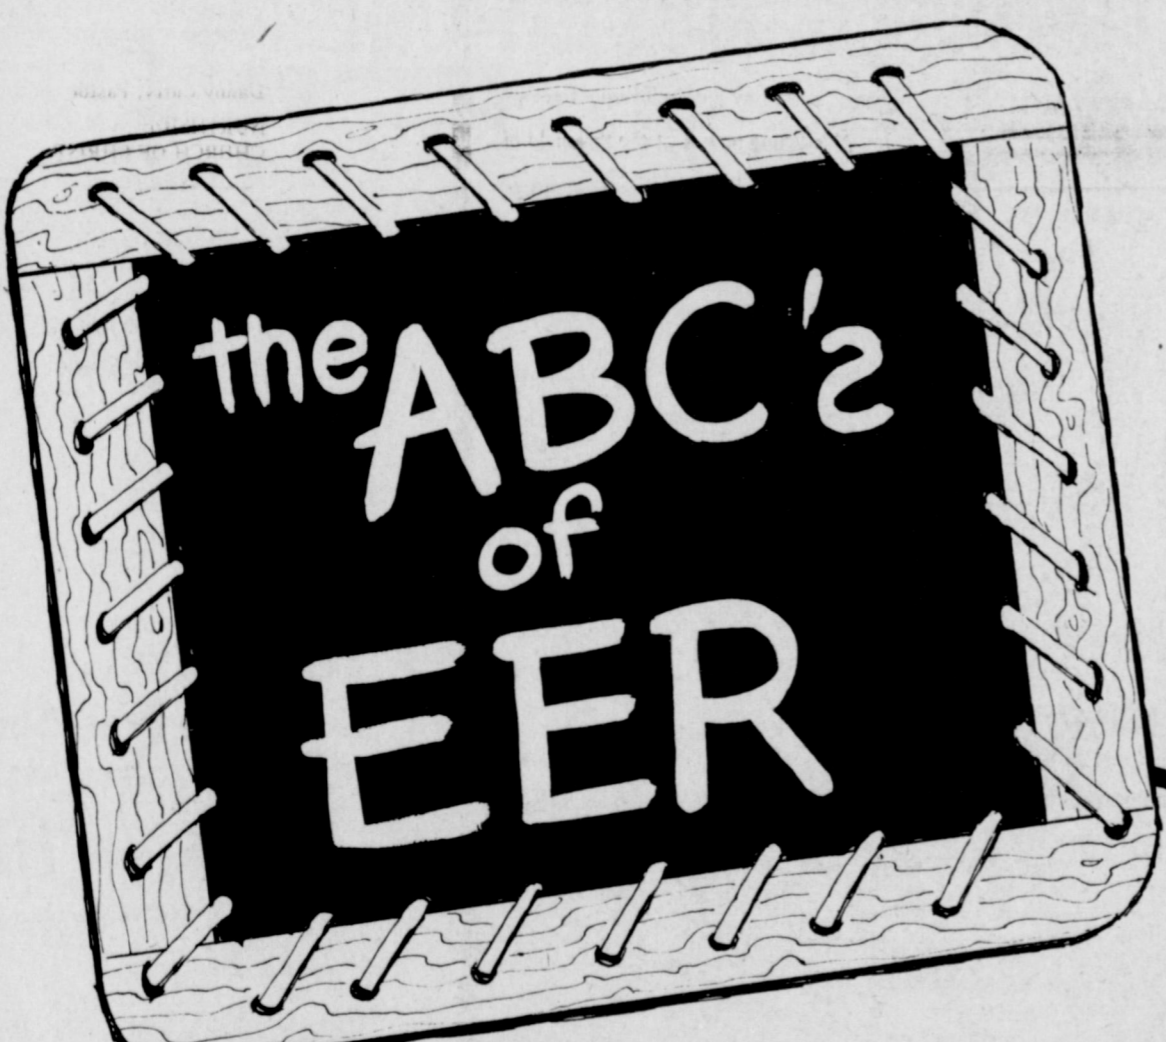

The President's plan won't spell an end to such systemic problems. If hospitals are not allowed to meet their expenses, cutbacks in service automatically will follow. The larger problems would remain.

Government would be better advised to rethink the nature of health care goals in this country, recognizing first the current problem in its totality. Programs which provide incentives for efficiency should replace shopworn notions we've labored under. Only then can we begin to make some economic sense out of the troubled health industry.

Texas and all Americans deserve the best health care for their dollar. They will be shortchanged if the President's hospital cost containment legislation is enacted.

ERDA Approves Geologic Studies

The U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration will soon award a $265,000 contract to the Bureau of Economic Geology at the University of Texas to conduct geologic studies in the Texas Panhandle.

ERDA said studies by the Texas Bureau of Economic Geology will determine whether there are areas in the Palo Duro and Dalhart salt basins that may have potential for development of deep geologic facilities where nuclear waste could be permanently stored. If any areas proved to be promising, additional studies would be conducted to confirm suitability.

The scientific studies to be performed by the Texas Bureau include such tasks as basin analysis, rock analysis, geohydrology, and identification of field confirmation study locations. The contract will cover an initial period of five months ending September 30, 1977, and can be extended to cover studies for up to five years.

ERDA initiated the National Waste Terminal Storage Program in 1976. The program calls for deep geologic disposal of solid nuclear waste generated from commercial nuclear power reactors which supply electricity.

Scientific studies are moving forward this year in other sections of the United States to determine the suitability of various geologic formations for potential development as repositories. The studies are being conducted for ERDA by the Office of Waste Isolation of the Union Carbide Corporation, Nuclear Division, at Oak Ridge, Tennessee. Selection of the first two sites is expected in 1978 with the facilities operational in the mid-1980's.

Geologic project managers are expected to be named soon to conduct similar studies of salt domes, shales, and a wide variety of granite and other crystalline rocks and volcanic formations in other sections of the U.S. The purpose of the activities in Texas, like those in other states, is merely to gain information. The activities should not be construed as indicating that any area has been determined to be suitable for a waste repository.

Selection of locations must be preceded by intensive field studies to gain greater understanding of those formations in which there is a potential for safe, deep geologic disposal of nuclear waste.

A public meeting is expected to be held in early June in Amarillo to brief area officials and residents on the program and the specific studies that are to be conducted. Details of the meeting will be announced soon.

Crisis Near For Storage Of '77 Wheat

With wheat harvest just getting under way, the president of the Texas Farm Bureau said a crisis may be developing over storing this year's crop.

"Our problem is we've already got almost a year's crop in storage and we're expecting good to bumper crops in the winter wheat area from Texas to Nebraska," said Carrol Chaloupka, Dalhart grain and cattle producer.

"What we fear," he said, "is that a shortage of storage will depress our prices even more." He said that wheat prices have been falling steadily since last year, and that wheat is now selling for about 40 percent below what it was last June.

"If the situation reaches crisis proportions, we will ask that the U.S. Department of Agriculture approve loans on wheat stored in temporary facilities, even on the ground," Chaloupka said. "We believe this may be necessary to keep the bottom from falling completely out of the wheat market."

Chaloupka said he has conferred with Deputy Secretary of Agriculture John C. White about the storage situation. He said White assured him the USDA is aware of the problem and is working to solve it. White is former Texas Commissioner of Agriculture.

I need the Answers to some SERIOUS QUESTIONS

Why am I here? What shall I do with my life? Where am I going? This young man is at the threshold of his adult life and needs the answer to some serious questions. Perhaps you find yourself pausing to take stock of your life and groping for direction. The Church of the Living God tells the truth about man's life, death, and destiny. The truths learned there will set you free to live a more abundant, meaningful, and creative life. "And ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." John 8:32.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Hospitals Pleased With Malpractice Solutions

Richard L. Epperson, Chairman, Texas Hospital Association (THA) indicated immediately after the vote was taken last night (Monday) in the Texas House and Senate that "We are delighted that the Texas Legislature has seen fit to pass legislation, which we are sure, will go a long way in solving the problems related to malpractice insurance. It was great to see the way members of the legislature tackled this problem and no doubt their solutions will be beneficial in solving the cost and availability of malpractice insurance. This will materially assist the hospitals, throughout the state, as well as the thousands of physicians who have been caught up in this problem. No doubt, these solutions will work to benefit the patients that are served by Texas hospitals and physicians." O. Ray Hurst, CAE, President of THA in Austin said, "in my 20 years of working with the Texas Legislature, I have never seen such dedication and determination as was shown by the members of the legislature and the leadership in seeking meaningful solutions to a problem. Those that showed an unusual degree of understanding and put in many long hours of hard work on this matter were Governor Hobby and House Speaker Bill Clayton. On the House side, Representative Tom Uher of Bay City and Representative Don Henderson of Houston fought for the patients of Texas through constructive legislation. Over in the Senate, Senator A.R. "Babe" Schwartz of Galveston and Senator Don Adams of Jasper assumed a leadership role of strong advocacy for worthwhile change to help patients, hospitals and physicians." Hurst went on to point out that "the malpractice bill that was finally passed by the legislature gives continuation to the Joint Underwriting Association, continues a limitation on liability with a new limit of $500,000, continues control by the State Board of Insurance of rates, rules and forms for malpractice insurance and continues with a two-year statute of limitations. All of these matters were accomplished in spite of strong opponents that apparently were determined to drastically modify or even defeat this meaningful legislation."

Hurst went on to point out that "last-minute" passage of H.B. 1048 by the 65th legislature came about after two years of dedicated work by the legislature, the Malpractice Insurance Study Commission which was created by a previous legislature and representatives of the health care industry. Hurst stated also, "this legislation will assure the continued success of the Texas Hospital Insurance Exchange, a reciprocal insurance company sponsored by THA. This insurance company now insures 101 hospitals across the state. This came about because other insurance carriers refused to write Hospital Professional Liability Insurance." Epperson is the Administrator of King's Daughters Hospital in Temple. Hurst is the head of the staff of the Austin-based, 690 member, association for hospitals and health care institutions located throughout the state.

LCC Offers New Summer Class Agenda

Three classes for those wishing to improve their art skills or learn new art techniques are starting this month in the Continuing Education Division at Lubbock Christian College. A course in drawing for beginners but open to persons at all levels starts June 9. It will be held from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Thursdays through July 7. Both homemakers and bakery workers may enroll in a cake decorating class that will be held from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Mondays, June 13-July 25. Students will get practice in basic decorating skills and develop their own creative touches during in-class sessions. The third art-oriented course is textile art, being offered for the first time. It will include projects in tie-dyeing, batik and fabric painting. The textile art class meets from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Tuesdays, June 14-August 2. Also being offered from 6 to 10 p.m. on June 14 and 16 is a defensive driving class, which entitles class members to a 10 percent reduction in auto insurance rates. Persons wishing to register may call Frankie Faver, director of LCC's Continuing Education Division, at 792-3221.

Attendance Breaks Record

Six Flags Over Texas has begun daily operation after the most successful spring season in the theme park's 17-year history. Some 406,500 persons visited Texas' number one tourist attraction on weekends from March 12 through May 16, breaking last year's record of 399,000. Also, the record for the largest attendance on a single day was set on Saturday, May 14, when a total of 41,047 came to the park, beating the previous high of 40,842 set on May 19, 1973. General Manager Dan Howells attributed the record attendance, in large part, to a $2 million capital construction program carried out during the winter months. He said, "The new Spinnaker ride and our Pirate Puppet Show have proven to be two of the most successful attractions added to the park in the last few years." The theme park will be open daily through Labor Day and resumes weekend operation through the end of November. During the summer season, Six Flags will extend its operating hours and provide special entertainment in the evening. Six Flags officials expect to pass at least one more attendance milestone in the coming month. The 30 millionth guest is expected to arrive in June. You can get into lots of trouble sometime by repeating what you heard someone say.

Snyder Rodeo Queen Contest

Queen candidate applications for the 1977 American Junior Rodeo Association National Finals are now being accepted through the Snyder Chamber of Commerce, according to general chairman Ralph Miller. "We would like to invite every surrounding community to sponsor a queen's contestant," Miller said. "The candidate may be any female age 19 or under and have access to western attire. She need not be a member of AJRA to participate." The 1977 National Finals Queen will be chosen on the basis of the number of National Finals tickets sold for the August 9-13 rodeo to be held at the Scurry County coliseum. Candidates will be able to sell the general admission tickets at $2 for adults and $1 for children, a 50-cent savings from the door price. On August 12, the 1976 National Finals Queen Tracy Hodge will present to the winning contestant a beautiful $200 trophy buckle specially designed by Gary Gist of California. Tickets and other information are available through the Snyder Chamber of Commerce or by calling Mrs. Sidney Johnson at 915-573-3236. All candidates must account for sales and return all unsold tickets to the chamber office August 9. Winemakers oppose U.S. wine seal to assure quality.
