nearly 100 pounds of refined uranium found in two chunks at Dalhart is that very little is known for sure.

The FBI and the Atomic En know something about it. But they're not talking.

One piece was found buried early this summer by three boys playing in a tree. The FBI found the second later on a scrap heap. The finds were announced Saturday night by University of New Mexico scientists who established that the metal was uranium.

This much is known: one piece weighs 33 pounds, the other 65 pounds. The metal has 18.6 times the density of water. It's black Theories range from theft by an atom spy to the falling of a flaming green "fireball" of uranium. Some think a sovenir hunter may have ditched it in Dalhart.

Was the uranium stolen? The AEC prefers the word "taken." If stolen, who took it? The FBI is investigating. The AEC places the age of the pieces at seven or eight years. That would make them current about the time when the Army's Manhattan project was developing the first atomic bomb at Los Alamos.

Unofficial smiles from the FBI and the AEC are given to the souvenir hunter theory.

Observers point out that David

After a series of homemade tests, it was turned over to Albert Law, editor of the Dalhart Texan. Law shipped it to the Unversity of New Mexico thinking it might be a meteorite.

Dr. Lincoln LaPaz called in Dr. Carl Beck, a minerologist, and Dr. Milton Kahn, a radio chemist with three years experience at Los Alamos. They found it was uranium and called the FBI and AEC.

Agents visited Dalhart turned up the second piece. Both were flown to Los Alamos. A check revealed that no one had suffered any ill effectes from handling the metal. The announcement caused stir in Dalhart. An extra edition of Law's paper — normal cir-culation 2500 — sold 2000 copies in an hour. Dalhart's 6000 were amazed that they had been handling the stuff of which the

You're paying for a Packard....why not own one?

Packard is holding the line on prices!

We can't tell, of course, what may happen in later months. But in the face of industry-wide price boosts, Packard has made today's decision: No price increases now!

And why is it possible for Packard to continue holding the line on prices? why not own one?

Answer: Because Packard "got in under the wire" on its latest (and greatest) new-model changeover.

That was a wise move for Packard to make - and it points to a wise move for you to make . . .

You're paying for a Packard

Each year some group of companies expound the fact that they are the biggest writers of certain classes of insurance. But when the records are compiled each year the stock companies write over 80% of the total insurance written in the United States.

WHY?

Because they are financially sound and have a reputation for fair and honest dealings and have local agency representatives who know your problems and can give you quick, personal serivce with a minimum of delay.

Unsung Heroes And Some Labor Bums

It's a funny thing about fame. Sometimes the heroes got lost; in the shuffle; and the bums get most of the notoriety.

Now, the late Mr. Wagner's gift to America was the creation of the labor "goonion," as distinguished from the workingman's edipses and confuses. It reduces guild. Was a time when a "un-ion" or "guild" was an associa-herd of timid and industrious sheep tion of workingmen devoted to increasing production and skill of their trade or craft. In the last issue I was discussing the liberal ideas of Benjamin Constant. Then the magazine points out another contemporary liberal of Constant in this manner:
"Alexis de Tocqueville, who was even better known to his contemporaries than Benjamin Constant, and whose works today adorn the dusty top shelf of most libraries, summed up the character of the new despotism produced by the Revolution and called it the 'omni-potence of the majority.' The picture he drew of the State-managed society towards which he asserted France was turning, has since become famous."

It seems that we in the United States in each community are adopting this theory of the omnipotence of the majority. We do it in each school district, supervised by the omnipotence of the majority of the state department of education. It tells us what education is. At least it tells us what the majority thinks is education, whether it has any semblance of being education according to the concepts of the Golden Rule and the Commandments and the Declaration of Inde-

Some of its membership, including Orthodox groups recently added, are not Protestant The Federal (National) Council itself says it is not a Protestant union, but "ecumenical." Thus far it hasn't defined this term.

Yet, while denying Protestantism, the Federal Council has been willing for its spokesmen to use the term when some political advantage may result, as in the case of ts secretary, Samuel McCrea Cavert, who, when testifying in favor of the controversial FEPC bill, told Congress that he was speaking for some 27 million Protestants making up the Federal Council. That sounded big and undoubtedly carried weight with many politicians in Congress. They, of course, had no way of knowing that manyperhaps a majority-of Protestant churchmen do not even know their church belongs to the National Council and that their money is being used to finance it. It is extremely doubtful whether the National Council could deliver any sizeable Protestant vote but it undoubtedly can influence many churchmen through its speakers and literature along social and economic lines. By being able to show many big denominations among its members it can wield considerable

Dr. Van Deusen clearly regards lishment having been rather stand-offish and entertaining its own ideas of what a world church should be like. To head off this dualintense rivalry instead of compromise and union, Dr. Van Deusen says that the Episcopal churchsort of half-way house between Protestantism and Roman Catholicism—has purposely refrained from unionizing with the World Council so that it can later be used as a "bridge" to bring the World Council and the Catholics into one Pointing out that doctrinal differences among the churches are a purely secondary consideration, r. Van Deusen believes this situaion can be played down for the sake of union. The idea seems to be that these differences are so unimportant that even the non-Christian religions, such as Mohammedans and Jews and Buddhists, can eventually be included in the world church, its supreme authority, once established, holding them There seems to be no onsideration whatsoever of possiole dissenters and groups that may wish to remain apart, probably on the premise that there won't be any dissenters. In this connection, am reminded that Dr. E. Stanley Jones of the National Council, one of the leaders for a world religion, has said that if groups or individuals in the "new order" elect to separate themselves and perish because of their refusal to cooperate, World church planners almost invariably conclude that the union's weight will be felt more in political and economic channels than doctrinal and that it will go hand-inhand with one big world government.

He talked about the credit side of the ledger, the rising incomes which offset the higher prices, and he dwelt upon the tremendous growth of the over-all (inflated) conomy. Without apparent knowledge of the actual state of things, Snyder said: "Individuals . . . (now) have in their hands large sums to spend or to save. The wise course is to confine ourselves to non-inflationary spending and to save regularly out of incomes. That, of course, was his big bid for your money and mine.

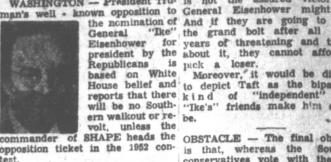

No mention was made of the huge growth in debt (public, private, and corporate) which more than accounts for any economic growth we have had, if any theree. No mention was made of the terrific loss to private wealth (savthat was brought about ings) largely by the policy of funding the public obligations, The gross debt of this nation

(public, private, and corporate) now stands at about $525 billions! If that debt continues to grow, we will be unable ever to meet it from income, all savings will vanish in the smoke of inflation, and any talk of prudence will become purely academic. Let Snyder know: We will pay our way to victory no matter what it costs, but the day of domestic reckoning must finally come. On that day we shall seek honest government, and honest money to keep our government honest. That must be our goal. No tears for national clearing house for building information.

Homeowners still carrying 11-year-old protection are courting trouble, warns the Construction Research bureau,

Similar figures apply to house hold furnishings and other personal property. Statistics show that the amount spent for home furnishings has tripled over years ago. From 1940 to 1950, the value of home electrical appliances multiplied by six.

Fire protection has lagged far behind. Insurance firms report they can normally pay only about 40 percent of fire inflicted furniture losses each year due to non-coverage.

The home-owner should survey his protection and increase coverage if his present policies will not replace structure and furnishings at current costs.

At best, adequate coverave can only minimize loss. Housing and materials shortages, plus loss of irreplaceable heirlooms, sakes and documents, are bound to inflict some non-insurable loss. For this reason, maximum firesafety in homes is urged through proper use of electricity; acreful moking habits; perfectly

Fingers Suffer In Wheeler Accidents WHEELER (Special)

Fingers have been getting the worst of the battle with machines in Wheeler county this year. The last two of several accidents happened last week. Doug Baird of Mobeetie was plowing at night for Grady Harris when he caught his finger in the cultivator about 1 a.m. He couldn't free it by himself and remained caught in the machine until Harris came to the field about a. m. He was taken to Highland General hospital in Pampa where a portion of his finger was am-
