Success Secrets By ELMER WHEELER

Don't knock the other fellow. Whenever someone praises the product or service of one of your competitors, you probably, are tempted to reply by saying thing not too complimentary.

But don't do it. There are thousands of success stories to prove that a good word said for a competitor actually helps you more than it does him. One of the best of such stories comes from John Huyler, the candy manufacturer.

One day a man entered Huyler's manship is often sacrificed for poli- bought three pounds of chocolates and inquired about a competitor down the street, asking whether he made good candy, too.

"He makes fine candy," Huyler said. "I often buy it and taste it. respecting free individuals and not I try to make candy as good as his." After that business began to improve. Several months later the same man came into Huyler's store again and Huyler hurried to serve him. Huyler told his customer that he had brought the store luck and the customer then told him this petitor and has asked him about candy. This so incensed the customer that he not only took all of his business to Huyler from that time forward but also spoke to his friends and had them take their business there, too,

As a result Huyler, who had been almost ready to go out of business because he was not getting enough customers, enjoyed a rapid increase

THE HEART OF THE MATTER

(Chicago Daily Tribune) Mr. Taft put his emphasis on foreign policy in the speeches he delivered last week in Minnesota and North Dakota.

The ordinary politician, going into that corner of the country, would spend most of his time woo ing the farm vote. He would tell the farmers all he was going to give them for free. He wouldn't concentrate on foreign policy because he would assume that this was something they didn't care much about. He would remember that the Cowles newspapers up that way were with the administhem offense.

In any talks he made in industrial centers, like Minneapolis or guarantees of the Constitution of St. Paul, he would seek to soften the labor bosses; and if he talked to an audience of business men, he would make it clear that they could count upon him to minimize the annoyances of price regulation.

Eisenhower can't carry the ball its staff knows that.

That isn't the way Mr. Taft does siness. He gave one talk on farm policy in which he said that in the farmer's own interests, the sub-sidies should be reduced. He devoted three major addresses to foreign policy and he concentrated on this subject for the best of reasons-namely: that every major problem of government before the American people today is at bottom a problem of foreign rela-

If the present foreign policy is continued, taxes must go up, not lown, and the man of small means is going to bear most of the in-crease. At the same time, prices will soar because, even with the higher taxes, the government will be operating at a deficit. The controls will become more and more tyrannical and less and less ef-fective in checking the rise of prices. The draft will become a rmanent national institution, taking more young men every year and holding them for longer erms of service.

There is no escaping these conclusions. The administration's foreign policy has already given us higher taxes, rising prices, elab-orate controls, and the draft. It is an expanding policy because its central idea is the the extension of American protection to every corner of the world, chiefly at American expense and with Amercan soldiers. Therefore, persistence in this policy must cost the American people more and more, and offer them in return only the growing prospect of wars for causes more and more remote from American interests. This is the central fact in American political life today. Whoever is nominated by the Democrats, whether Mr. Truman or someone else, must defend the Trumanever is nominated by the Republicans ought to put forward the ra-

On the average about one per son is ten is left-handed. Leithandedness is twice as common in men as it is in women. Why some people are born left-handed rather than right-handed is not clear.

Hand preference may be re-lated to eye preference. Mos lated to eye preference. Most of those preferring the right eye were also right-handed, but nine of the ten of those who preferred the left eye were also right-handed. Just what all this means, however, is not quite clear.

Though it is believed that the structure of the genes which are inherited from one's parents is at least partly responsible, heredity probably is not the only factor involved.

Occasionally children who are left-handed but who have been forced to use their right hands have developed stuttering or some other type of speech defect. Some authorities believe that a young stutterer is one who has shifted from normal left-handedness to using the right hand and that he or she should be encouraged to use the left rather than the right hand. This does not mean that most left-handed children will develop

SEVENTH DAY, ADVENTIST CHURCH Corner Purviance and Browning. Edward K. Koenig, pastor. 715 Ho-bart. Sabbath School, 9:30 a. m. Morn-

Here is the hope of America... young life with all its promise of usefulness and of idealism. Typical of millions of young Americans is this young fisherman. He matches the country with its marvelous resources scarcely discovered. He is healthy, energetic and creative. His tattered hat, rugged body and keen sense of humor declares him capable of his share of tomorrow's responsibility. God planted rich values in the land and in human persons. He will sustain this young fisherman as he makes himself useful to humanity.

This young American has a keen sense of morality, the goodness and the omnipotence of God ... he goes to church. His virtues are many and he lives by the Golden Rule. He observes the habits of all of us every day. He is a dreamer. May we help him to dream dreams of worth and usefulness and to plan worthy ends he is to seek. He is your boy and mine. May we as good people assist in planning his program, his life. He is ours to mold and inspire. Let us take him to church regularly and stamp him or bend him for all the tomorrows.

YOU IN THE CHURCH

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you" form a combination for good. Se a regular CHURCH.

Rescue the Perishing

A blind woman takes a back ride spent the first half of her 95 years teaching the blind and writing popular ballads that, for the most part, were soon forgotten. But after five years of hymn writing her fame circled the globe.

Settled in her new career, "Aunt Fanny" made a practice of visiting revivals and missions to study the effect of her hymns . . . and to gather material for new ones. And, having contracted to do three hymns a week for one publisher alone, she needed ideas.

It was a hot night in the Summer of 1869 that the little blind woman colled a hack and rode from her home in Brooklyn to a mission in the Bowery. Word got around that the author of "Pass Me Not, O Gentle Saviour" was in the audience,

Care for the dying,
Snatch them in pity from sin and the grave
Weep O'er the erring one;
Lift up the fallen,
Tell them of Jesus the Mighty to save.

Tha' they are slighting Him, Still He is waiting, waiting the penitent child to receive;

She was led to the speakers' platform. After making a talk she stepped down to work among New York's lowest derelicts. From that experience came the inspiration for one of our greatest hymns.

Riding home, Fanny Crosby was oblivious to the clattering traffic. Before retiring she put on paper the words she had written in her mind. The next morning she sent the verses to Composer William Howard Doane in Cincinnati. Doane was a business man who had taken up music as a hobby . . and the hobby had evolved into a profession. He earned the degree of doctor of music and get scores to many of Fanny Crosby's nearly 9,000 hymns.

Here are the words the blind poetess wrote in her mind on that memorable hack ride through the streets of New York in 1869

Plead with them cornestly, Plead with them gently; He will forgive if they only believe.

Duty demands it;
Strength for thy labor the Lord will provide;
Back to the narrow way
Patiently win them,
Tell the poor wanderer a Saviour has died.

Surely there is something in the unruffled calm of nature that overawes our little anxieties and doubts; the sight of the deep-blue sky, and the clustering stars above, seem to impart a quiet to the mind. Jonathan Edwards

To the material sense, everything is matter; but spiritualize human thought, and our convic-tions change: for spiritual sense takes in new views, in which nature becomes Spirit; and Spirit is God, and God is good.

Mary Baker Eddy
