Snow With Sleet Rakes Panhandle, Other Areas

Warmer Temperature Forecast For Pampa

Snowfall amounts to three inches and over cloaked the Panhandle area Friday and Saturday in the first snow storm of the season, with hazardous driving warnings issued for motorists.

Drifting as far south as Plainview and Paducah, the snow covered most of the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandle region as the winter storm moved down into the state.

Accumulations had reached as much as five inches late Saturday, according to Associated Press reports. With snow still falling Saturday night in the eastern section of the Texas Panhandle, Shamrock had received five inches.

Pampa had measured three inches with more still falling after the sun, which remained behind clouds all day, went down.

The snow was mixed with sleet and light rain, which fell intermittently since late Friday afternoon.

With amounts of over two inches reported at Borger, Perryton and Guyton, the snow left many roads too slick for safe traveling Friday night. The light rain and traffic melted some of the snow on the roads Saturday, but the below-freezing temperatures over the night were expected to make most of the roads hazardous for driving.

Early forecasts Saturday had called for an end to the snow during the afternoon, but the Weather Service later said a low cloud cover would still keep the temperatures near the freezing mark.

And despite the forecast, snow still fell in several sections of the area after dark.

The storm, which also reached over into New Mexico, brought hail and widespread rains as it advanced south and caused a tornado watch to be issued in parts of North and East Texas.

General rains fell over the state, heaviest around Houston, with more than two inches in places, the Associated Press reported. Hail, an inch thick, hit the Houston area Friday night.

Fog covered a wide area around Abilene Saturday morning, dropping visibility to zero at times.

Some fatal accidents occurred on highways and streets made slick by the rain in the eastern and coastal sections.

In Oklahoma the storm caused numerous traffic collisions and tieups. An American Airlines jet from Dallas slid off a runway at Will Rogers World Airport in Oklahoma City before 8 a.m. Saturday. There was no apparent damage and no one was injured.

Accumulations of over six inches were recorded in the central section of the state, with snow still falling last night as the storm moved into Oklahoma from the Panhandle area.

Reaching down into Arkansas, the widespread storm brought heavy snow flurries to the Southern Methodist-Arkansas football game at Fayetteville.

Numerous minor accidents were reported throughout the storm's area as motorists had trouble with the slick and sometimes icy roads.

Most of the area football games were still played Friday night despite the snowfall. But the storm caused the cancellation of the Pampa High School Harvester basketball team's game with Western Hills of Fort Worth, which was to have been played last night at Pampa.

Forecast for today called for slightly warmer temperatures, reaching up into the middle 40s after an overnight low in the upper 20s.

Skies are expected to become partly cloudy for the Pampa area as the storm heads out of the region. Winds should be northwesterly about 6 to 12 miles an hour.

High Saturday remained near the freezing mark, quickly falling down into the upper 20s with darkness.

Fair skies were expected for other parts of the state, with scattered showers forecast for much of the state Monday.

Thunderstorms Cut Air Raids Over N. Viet

SAIGON (AP) — Thunderstorms and low clouds cut U.S. air attacks on North Vietnam, but failed to prevent the rescue of two downed American flyers hunted for 40 hours by enemy troops and tracker dogs, the U.S. Command announced Saturday.

A FAMILY AFFAIR—With the first snow of the season covering the city, young people flocked out of doors Saturday to partake of the various winter activities afforded them by the white blanket. Enjoying the opportunity of family togetherness, Wayne Bruce, 17, pushes his brother Tommy, 11, on a snow disc while his sister Dodie, 7, awaits her turn. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace L. Bruce, 1200 Williston. Others built snowmen and snow forts, slid along on sleds and discs and whatever else was handy, or just had a day of ordinary snowball fights. (Photo by John Ebling)

Kissinger Leaving For Paris To Resume Parley With Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Henry A. Kissinger, after conferring again with President Nixon, heads for Paris Sunday amid administration hopes that a Vietnam peace agreement will be reached by around mid-December.

This was described by U.S. sources as a reasonable expectation—provided Hanoi's Le Duc Tho shows the same negotiating interest the North Vietnamese envoy demonstrated in the secret October parleys which produced the proposed nine-point peace plan.

The White House was making no public predictions beyond press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler's forecast Friday that Kissinger's next meeting with Tho, starting Monday, is expected to last at least several days and that further diplomatic consultations can be anticipated beyond that.

Nixon returned unexpectedly to the executive mansion from his Camp David, Md., retreat Saturday for an overnight stay. Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the President broke his week-long residence at his mountaintop hideaway to work on a number of matters including final instructions to the U.S. delegation to the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks—SALT.

Round 2 of the U.S.-Soviet talks on curbing the superpower nuclear race opens in Geneva Tuesday. U.S. negotiator Gerard C. Smith flew there Friday. Ziegler said Nixon talked also with Kissinger about the Vietnam negotiations, which are entering a climactic stage with this week's sessions in Paris.

The presidential adviser is slated to leave Andrews Air Force Base at 10 a.m. EST Sunday for Paris to begin on Monday an intensive negotiation with Tho on the issues remaining unsettled in the nine-point draft peace plan disclosed Oct. 26.

Administration sources indicated they expect the Kissinger-Tho talks will last most of this week. They anticipate more time will be needed after that for a further check in Saigon with South Vietnam's President Nguyen-Van Thieu, probably by Kissinger himself, and for final exchanges with the North Vietnamese.

There also are arrangements that must be worked out with other countries, including the four-nation group being asked to police the proposed ceasefire.

The newspaper Tin Song, believed to reflect Thieu's views, said a settlement should include:

Withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops from South Vietnam, a condition not specified in the nine-point plan; restoration of the demilitarized zone as a neutral buffer strip between North and South Vietnam; and assurance that the agreement does not impose a coalition government on Saigon.

PUF Decides To Launch Extra Week Fund Drive

Officials of the Pampa United Fund and a group of concerned civic leaders have decided to initiate an extra week of intensive fund-raising in order to reach the 1972 goal of $94,250 of the goal.

"With $91,500 in contributions turned in to date," said David Fatheree, drive chairman, "the PUF is only $2,750 short of its goal."

"Our volunteers have worked 99 per cent of their cards," Fatheree continued, "so this means that every citizen of Pampa will now be asked to dig a little deeper in order to help put us over the top."

Those who wish to mail their contribution may do so by sending it direct to Box 2076, Pampa.

"The continued operation and maximum efficiency of our health and welfare organizations is essential to the future of our city," Verli Hagan, executive director of the Fund, emphasized.

"We cannot hope to attract the industry that pumps vital new blood into a community unless we prove that we are willing to provide for the most basic needs of our own citizens."

A check-up meeting for volunteer workers will be held at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday in the City Commission room of the City Hall, Fatheree said.

"On that day, we hope to be able to announce that the goal has been reached," he said. "We are confident that the people of Pampa will respond as they have in the past by making an extra contribution to a united community effort."

10 Football Fans Killed As Their Plane Crashes

MADISONVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A twin-engine chartered plane believed to be carrying 10 passengers returning from a high school football game crashed on a farm near here early Saturday, gouging a fiery crater in the ground.

No survivors were found in the widely scattered wreckage, state police said.

Federal Aviation Administration officials and local authorities worked at the crash scene through the morning, but by shortly before noon had been unable to confirm the identities of bodies at the scene or make an accurate count.

The Beech aircraft, chartered from Metro Air Systems Inc. of Bardonia, was reportedly returning to Lexington from the Richmond-Madison-Trigg County High School football game at Hopkinsville.

The occupants of the plane were all believed to have been from Richmond, and the Richmond Daily Register said two of its staff members were believed to have been aboard.

State police said the plane ruffled at Hopkinsville's Memorial Airfield before departing. The plane crashed at about midnight on the farm of Mr. Richard Simons between Allegre and Britmart, about nine miles north of Elkton.

Cash prizes of $100, $50 and $25 will be awarded winners in the Non-Commercial Division, with plaques going to the three top winners in the Commercial Division.

Cash prizes of $15, $10 and $5 will go to winners of the Pet Section and Bike Section (bicycles, unicycles, motor bikes, etc.).

The parade will form at Coronado Shopping Center and will move south on Hobart to Ward St., south on Ward to Francis, east on Francis to Cuyler, and south on Cuyler to Craven where the parade will end.

Out of town judges will select the winners and prizes will be awarded at 5 p.m. on Friday, Dec. 1, at the chamber of Commerce office.

Santa Claus will visit with the children before the parade at Santa's House in Coronado Center and at Santa's House downtown after the parade.

Christmas street decorations will be in place in time for the parade on the 30th.

The Nativity scenes in Central Park will be lighted on the evening of Tuesday, Dec. 19.

The Nativity display consisting of eight scenes has been a part of Pampa's Christmas season for many years.

Texans On Democratic Committee Reach No Final Decision About Jean Westwood

By Associated Press

Most of the seven Texans on the Democratic National Committee say they have not yet decided whether they will vote to oust Jean Westwood as party chairman, despite the fact that Texas's Democratic senator is spearheading a move against Mrs. Westwood and another Texan is the most frequently mentioned candidate to succeed her.

Four of the Texas committee members said late in the week that they hadn't made up their minds on the Westwood controversy, two said they would vote to remove her and the seventh said she would vote to keep her on.

U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen was the first and most persistent elected official to ask for Mrs. Westwood's resignation. On Nov. 8, the day following President Nixon's landslide defeat of Democratic challenger George McGovern, Bentsen said the party should pick a new chairman "who can speak effectively for all elements of our party."

Bentsen's first choice for the chairmanship is Dallas attorney Robert Strauss, who was national treasurer of the party until the July national convention. Strauss has said he would like the job, saying "There is no question that Jean will eventually have to step down. I had hoped it would be done gracefully, but if necessary she could be voted out."

If she is voted out, it could happen when the national committee meets in Washington on Dec. 9. Mrs. Westwood, a native of Utah and McGovern's personal choice for chairman, has said publicly she will not resign, but an aide in Washington said last week she might decide to step down if the election of someone she considered "more moderate" than Strauss could be assured. "But if it comes to it, we have the votes, the aide said.

The two national committee members who say they will vote against Mrs. Westwood are Dallas attorney Jess Hay and Jane Blumberg of Seguin. They were governor-elect Dolph Briscoe's choices for the two national committee positions to which Texas was entitled before the committee structure was revised during the national convention in Miami Beach.

Both were elected at the state convention in San Antonio on June 13 of this year. Hay said Mrs. Westwood "is not to be blamed for McGovern's loss at the polls on Nov. 7, but I do think the party should drift back to the center, a position it has not held since the Democratic convention."

Mrs. Blumberg said Mrs. Westwood should resign "not because of any fault in her performance, but because...it should be a general practice for a party chairman to tender a resignation after an election just as cabinet members tender theirs at the beginning of a new administration." She said she would vote to remove Mrs. Westwood if she did not offer to resign.

Briscoe himself has not taken a position on the Westwood controversy. He said Nov. 10, when he claimed victory in his close race against Republican state Sen. Henry Grover of Houston, "It is obvious that what has happened on a national level indicates a need for reorganization and indicates a need to bring the party back where the party and platform represent the thinking of a majority of Texans and a majority of Americans."

World Poker Champ Sets Out For River Adventure

CHALLIS, Idaho (AP) — The world champion poker player donned a bright orange diver's wet suit Saturday and took off in a rubber raft on the biggest game of his life.

T.A. Preston, Jr., better known as Amarillo Slim, is trying to win a $31,000 bet—and save his own hide—on a 65-mile boat trip down the ice-filled, rocky Middle Fork of the Salmon River in Central Idaho.

This is Slim's first attempt at river-running and when he first spotted the tumbling river he mumbled, "The foothings a man will do just to win himself a little old money bet."

Overcast skies with flurries of snow, sleet and rain were in prospect as Slim and his river-running guide, Jere Chapman, 36, boarded the 10-foot rubber raft at the Flying B Ranch in the heart of Idaho wilderness.

They estimated it will take five to nine days before they reach the confluence of the Middle Fork and the main stream of the Salmon River, about 50 miles west of the city of Salmon.

Chapman said the length of the trip will depend upon how much elk and deer hunting they do along the way, whether they have to stop and repair rock-caused rips in their boat and whether they have to portage around low water, rocks and ice floes.

During a poker party in Las Vegas, Nev., recently, Slim wagered with his companions he could float down the Middle Fork of the Salmon, a treacherous rock-filled river during low water, without any assistance other than one river guide.

A boatload of companions—trained river-runners and one photographer—will accompany Slim's party but will not offer any assistance except in case of emergency.

Slim and most other members of the party flew to the remote ranch Friday despite bad weather over the mountains and set up preparations for the trip. Chapman wasn't able to fly into the area until Saturday morning.

The party had planned to launch their trip Saturday morning, but it was delayed until afternoon.

Chapman has gone down the Middle Fork dozens of times, but this is the latest in the fall he's ever attempted a run. Chapman said a lot of icy slush could be expected through the river this late.

Slim's boat was loaded with rations, two rifles and a repair kit for the boat.

Chapman said the low water has exposed most of the rocks in the river bed, adding it'll be extremely difficult to get through the 65-mile-long trip without damaging the boat.

Chapman said he expected to encounter at least 15 rapids which will be difficult to traverse this late in the season.

30 Girls Picked To Serve On Navy's Hospital Ship

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — In a swift death blow to a Navy tradition, the hospital ship Sanctuary was recommissioned Saturday at with at least 30 women serving as regular deck hands.

The women crew members, who officials say are the first to serve on a U.S. Navy vessel, have been scraping paint and swabbing decks with some 400 male sailors preparing for today's recommissioning ceremonies at Hunter's Point Naval Shipyards here.

While romance may be on the minds of some crewmen, Capt. Thomas A. Rodgers said, "The girls are doing a hell of a job."

"Everyone seems cheerful, and the male sailors are acting differently," he added. "You don't hear that really bad language you usually hear around a ship."

In addition to the women sailors, there will be about 30 women nurses and medical personnel aboard the 520-foot ship when it sails next year for the Mediterranean.

While readying the ship, the women have demonstrated their equality although one cried when asked to swab the deck and another got seasick while still in port.

Most women adjusted easily to duties of painting and hauling ropes, and a few already have mastered the daring task of climbing down the ship's ladders to aid berthing operations.

Steven Tanner, 25, a boatswain's mate second class from Los Angeles, is in command of 31 sailors, seven of them women, and says "The majority of my doubts canceled out."

"Some of the women are producing more than my male seaman," he said. Because of the historic nature of the coeducational crew, "all eyes are turned on the Sanctuary, and almost everyone's on their best behavior."

In fact, one woman, Betty Wallace of Indianapolis already has put in for promotion to boatswain's mate third class. And as for the Navy and her ship assignment, she said, "I love it."

Altrusa Club Raising Fund For Research

The Altrusa Club of Pampa is cooperating with the Gray County unit of the Arthritis Foundation in placing 36 coin canisters throughout the city.

Funds collected in these canisters will be used to assist the 30,000 arthritis sufferers in the Panhandle area.

The money will be used to conduct research on the cause and cure of the disease, to distribute informative literature, to provide self-help equipment and to conduct more public forums similar to the one held earlier in Pampa and in Amarillo on Nov. 3 and 4.

Club members are planning a survey of the county in early December to further determine the number of arthritics in Gray County in addition to the 100 now on file.

The canisters will be placed in restaurants, beauty and barber shops, grocery stores and package stores.

World Chess Tourney Held In San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Play begins Sunday among 16 chess players of international stature in a tournament called by one of the participants "the strongest ever held" in the United States.

A locally-based fried chicken takedown chain, Church's, sponsors the event, which holds a $4,000 top prize for the players with the most points at the end of 15 rounds of competition.

George W. Church, whose stands are in the U.S. and abroad, admits candidly that the tournament is to foster his company's image.

His chain has a store promotion with a puzzle and a drawing which will determine which customer will win a trip to the country of the tournament champion.

While world champion Bobby Fischer and former world champion Boris Spassky are not in the field, Brazilian Henrique Mecking says anyone else who is important is included.

Mecking possibly is the strongest challenger from Latin America, say tournament observers. He acquired grand master status two years ago at age 18.

"I think this is the strongest tournament ever held in America," says the university teacher from Rio de Janeiro.

In the field are Russian champion Anatoly Karnov, former world champion Tigran Petrosian and a victim of Fisher prior to his match with

World Chess Tourney Held In San Antonio

Spassky, Bent Larsen of Denmark.

Players were to draw for opponents late Saturday.

Tournament director George Koltanowski said the drawing was "a very important ceremony. To many that is what makes or breaks them."

Koltanowski's estimation of the tournament's importance is a degree or two less enthusiastic than that of Mecking. Koltanowski, a chess columnist, says the tournament is to be "the greatest event in the United States since the 1924, the New York International."

Man Charged With Killing Own Mother

LONDON (AP) — A 26-year-old American was charged Saturday with stabbing his wealthy blonde mother to death in the luxury penthouse she shared in London's Chelsea district.

Scotland Yard said Anthony Baefekland, 26, will appear in court Monday on a charge of murder.

The body of his mother, Barbara Baefekland, 50, was found late Friday night in the blood-stained kitchen of the $250-a-week apartment in fashionable Cadogan Square, near Buckingham Palace.

She had been repeatedly stabbed. A blood-covered knife lay next to the body.

"It looks as though she fled from her frenzied attacker but could not escape," one detective said.

Findings Show More Women Die Of Heart Attack; Smoking Blamed

DALLAS (AP) — More women are smoking and as a result more are dying of heart disease, a Brooklyn researcher said Saturday.

This is the finding of Dr. David M. Spain of Brookdale Hospital Medical Center, who reported at scientific sessions of the American Heart Association that women are catching up to men in the incidence of unexpected death from heart attack.

The increase seems to be related primarily to the increase in cigarette smoking among women, he said.

"Women are becoming liberated now and have all the advantages and disadvantages of men," he told newsmen.

Spain made a study of such unexpected deaths in collaboration with Drs. Henry Siegel and Victoria A. Bradess of the Westchester, N.Y. County medical examiner's office.

An earlier study from the same office found that in the 1949-50 decade the ratio of men to women dying unexpectedly of coronary heart disease was 12 to 1, but in the later study, 1967-71, it had dropped to 4 to 1.

Autopsies were performed on the women and they were seen to have more atherosclerosis—the thickening of the arteries—than nonsmokers who died of other causes.

Spain noted that it has been shown that "in the past decade the number of cigarettes smoked by women has increased considerably."

Until recent years, Spain noted, it was rare for women before age 50 who had no other precipitating factors for heart disease to die of heart attacks.

Spearman Man Gets Charges

WASHINGTON — Johnny P. Vernon, a livestock buying agency and dealer, of Spearman, Tex., has been charged with violating bonding requirements of the Packers and Stockyards Act, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said Friday.

USDA's Packers and Stockyards Administration charged in an administrative complaint that Johnny P. Vernon's bond was terminated, that he was informed of P&S regulations, but has engaged in business as a market agency buying on commission without filing an acceptable bond.

Filing of a complaint does not prove Vernon has violated the P&S Act; he has a right to a hearing to determine if the evidence supports the charge. If the charge is proven, Mr. Vernon could be placed under a cease and desist order, and his registration temporarily suspended.

Vernon operates in the Texas Panhandle and parts of northeastern Oklahoma and northeastern New Mexico.

Livestock dealers and market agencies are required under P&S regulations to provide bonds as a measure of financial protection for sellers.

The P&S Act is a fair trade practices law. It promotes and maintains fair and open competition in the marketing of livestock, poultry and meat. The Act is administered on a nondiscriminatory basis.

The record in this case is open to the public.

The researchers obtained smoking and medical histories of the dead women from their relatives. Women with other conditions which might contribute to heart attacks were not included.

The study found also that women who smoked heavily died younger. Among nonsmokers who died unexpectedly of heart disease the average was 67, while it was 48 for heavy smokers—those who smoked more than 20 cigarettes a day.

Previous studies have shown a similar span among men dying of coronary heart disease.

The new study included 29 women who died unexpectedly of heart disease and 153, from other causes. More than half of those autopsied were nonsmokers, but only three of the heart cases had not smoked.

Spain pointed out that because the numbers in the study were small, the interpretation of the findings should be cautious.

But he added that in such a small study it is easier to identify causes of death when there is any major shift in the rate of death.

API Chapter In Panhandle Sets Banquet

The officers and directors of the Panhandle Chapter, American Petroleum Institute (API) set Dec. 2 as the date for the banquet marking the election of officers for the coming year.

The annual affair, where oil people of the Panhandle area gather for business and pleasure, will be staged at the Pampa Shrine Club south of the city on the Lefors Highway.

C. C. Michel, veteran of the well service business and long-time West Texas resident, will be the featured speaker of the evening.

Tickets for the event are available from Martin Ludeman, West Pampa Repressuring Association; S. R. Rudisell, Phillips Petroleum Co.; Berger and J. W. Burrage or Tommy Clopton, Diamond Shamrock, Amarillo.

Two Local Youths Held On Charges

Two Pampa youths were arrested Friday night for possession of alcoholic beverage as minors and one of them also booked for intoxication.

Their arrest came after police followed their car on a circuitous route ending in an alley near Worley Hospital.

After finding belligerence in one prisoner and beer in the vehicle, police booked them for their violations.

Texas Produced Minerals Worth $6.8 Billion In '71

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas produced minerals worth $6.8 billion during 1971, the U.S. Bureau of Mines has reported. Texas led the nation in mineral production for the 37th consecutive year, according to a report prepared by the mines bureau and the Bureau of Economic Geology of the University of Texas at Austin. Although petroleum production dropped from its 1970 level, natural gas output increased and overall mineral fuel production increased 6.6 per cent.

Retired Army Captain Enlists In Marines As Staff Sergeant

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A former Army captain who said he became dissatisfied with civilian life returned to the military Thursday—but in a different branch of the service as a non-commissioned officer. Thomas R. Taylor, 30, of Pekin, Ill., enlisted in the Marine Corps Thursday as a staff sergeant and was ordered to report to the Marine Corps Recruit Depot at Parris Island, S.C., as a supply chief. The Marine Corps here said the enlistment was unusual because it normally takes several years to attain the rank of staff sergeant, beginning with 11 weeks of basic training. Taylor was permitted to skip basic training upon his entry into the Marines. Taylor was discharged from the army in 1969 after four years of service and he taught in the Brigham City, Utah, public schools. "I found myself increasingly dissatisfied with civilian life, values and attitudes," he said.

Worry Clinic

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph. D., M.D.

Rev. Thomas and his wife played the game described below. It cost him 90 cents the first time. But within six weeks, both of them became such memory experts that they astounded their parishioners. He was asked back for a third year, with a 25 per cent salary increase, too!

CASE V-548: Rev. Thomas, aged 34, is a studious pastor who didn't "take well" with his parishioners.

"Dr. Crane," he confessed, "my wife and I are what you'd call introverts."

"So maybe that's one reason why we keep moving from one parish to another every year or two."

"In fact, my longest pastorate was only two years!"

"And last week one of my deacons told me I better take a course on memory improvement."

"For he said I don't greet parishioners by name when I meet them on the street."

"Dr. Crane, can you give me some quick shortcuts for a better memory?"

SOCIAL DETECTIVES Everybody of normal intelligence can become a memory expert!

Once a clearcut impression has been made in our brain, all of us have about the very same ability to recall it.

For the chief differences between the average person and the phenomenal memory experts who perform on the state, is "ATTENTION" and "INTENTION."

Unless we consciously train ourselves to be social detectives, watching people and deliberately trying to remember their names or faces, we may forget within 2 minutes!

So here are some of the basic rules used by stage memory experts:

(1) Be sure you have the INTENTION to remember! Some memory experts motivate themselves in this regard by an offer to pay $5 to everybody at a banquet whose name they forget!

If you had to ante up $5 in that manner, you'd be surprised at how your memory would grow sharper!

(2) Then pay ATTENTION to the new name or face. Be sure you get a clearcut impression of it on both your ears as well as your eyes.

Visualize it and even ask the stranger how he spells it!

(3) Repeat it quickly at least 3 times, as by turning to your companions and introducing the newcomer to 3 of them.

At first encounter don't just mumble. "I'm glad to meet you."

Instead, say "I'm glad to meet you, Rev. Thomas."

For the more sensory impressions you can link with the new name, the easier it can be recalled.

Thus, by quickly repeating it, you add the muscle sensations from your vocal cords, to make more indelible the ear and eye impressions.

(4) Develop quick (and even bizarre) connections of the new name with people you already know.

If you are a Bible student, recall that Thomas was the Apostle who wouldn't believe Christ had risen till he saw him.

So associate the word "Doubling" with "Thomas."

Sometimes you can think of a clever rhyme to go with the new name.

Or, if it is of foreign origin, translate it into English, as "Schwartzkopf" into "Blackhead."

(5) Rev. Thomas and his wife might compete after a social evening by seeing who could write the longer list of names of those whom they had met.

To add zest, agree to let the loser pay a dime or quarter to the winner for every additional name he or she recalls.

Furnace May Quit If Voltage Dips

By VIVIAN BROWN AP Newsfeatures Writer

If your circulating hot water heater or warm air furnace bombs out this winter for no apparent reason, you might call the local office of your electric power company before calling the furnace man. Inquire whether they have reduced the voltage.

Some furnaces and boilers with sensitive controls might be affected by a reduction of voltage, and more and more power companies are finding it necessary to curtail power from time to time.

"A 5 per cent reduction of voltage can affect computers and other sensitive machines," one power company spokesman comments, "so it is possible that heating units might be affected, although a slight reduction in voltage shouldn't really do it."

Furnace men disagree. Last winter some furnace men blamed voltage reduction for some of the furnace blackouts they were called to repair. One heating engineer suggested that an electric eye on one boiler was extremely sensitive to changes in voltage and the slightest power reduction could throw it out of kilter. Not all furnaces are sensitive and some heating units can even be adjusted "for greater tolerance" if one must leave home for days at a time, the power company spokesman explained. It may be worth checking out the leeway that a furnace offers one in that respect.

Unaware that heating units may be sensitive, homeowners in one community incurred bills for emergency service last winter, only to see the heating man jiggle the thermostat and perform a bit of magic over the boiler to bring it back to proper function. For a $12 service charge.

Electric companies rarely reduce power to a point that would cause residents real concern, in the opinion of one power spokesman. In Connecticut he would be permitted by state law to reduce the voltage up to 8 per cent, although his company would first suggest voluntary curtailment, he says. Laws on voltage requirements vary from state to state.

A reduction of more than 5 per cent might cause shrinkage of a television picture, dim the lights and lower the efficiency of some other appliances, but problems can be caused too, he suggests, by the transformer in the neighborhood.

"We don't keep track of the new appliances acquired by people in a neighborhood. It might be that homes feeding off the same transformer are adding to the load with all sorts of heavy-duty appliances. An exceptionally heavy demand on a transformer can cause many problems. And it may be that the transformer is too small for the number of homes feeding from it."

Furnace men agree that transformers can cause some of the problems that might be attributed to the voltage reduction.

A Tribute To Our Merchants!

By BILL DOWNS

Storekeepers, we think, are entirely too modest. They serve you and your family faithfully every day. Yet how often do you remember their importance in your life? The merchant is a businessman. He must carry a heavy investment. He must own his building or pay rent for it. There are clerks and salespeople to pay. And a constantly-changing display of food or merchandise of some kind. The merchant must always make you think that "the customer is always right." Which isn't always true. So remember the trails and tribulations of your grocer, cleaner, department-store merchant, et cetera. And give them the fairness they deserve!

Unusual Silver Dollar Sale

The U.S. General Services Administration has put on public sale more than two million valuable 19th-century Carson City silver dollars. According to A. F. Sampson, head of the GSA, this initial sale consists of coins minted in 1862, 1863 and 1864 at the Carson City mint which closed in 1863. The silver dollars will have a minimum bid price of $30 each and public bidding will end on Jan. 31, 1973.

For the most part uncirculated, the 90 per cent silver dollars are of the type illustrated above and each bears the mint mark "CC" under the reverse wreath. And the higher the bid, of course, the better chances a bidder has of acquiring a coin.

All bids mailed in will be placed in a computer in San Francisco to ensure a fair sale and to list bids in a descending order so that top tween April 1 and June 1, 1973.

If there are more orders than coins, the silver dollars will be sold first to the highest bidder, then to succeeding lower bidders until the $30 base price is reached. Remaining orders will be filled on a random basis, again by computer, until the supply is exhausted. On the other hand, if there are more coins than orders, all bidders will receive coins at the minimum price and the excess bid will be refunded.

Incidentally, there is a second-chance feature to this sale. It is for the individual with no real preference as to the year date of the coin. He may specify on his order form that he will accept a substitute of the year on which his bid happens to be sold out.

Bidders must use their own judgment on bids. The GSA offers no help in that area. But as a service to our readers, we have attempted to establish an estimated value profile for the three dates being offered.

starting with 1952 through to 1972 and showing the retail market performance of an 1862-CC, and 1863-CC and an 1864-CC silver dollar in uncirculated condition. These values are averaged from actual prices received. The first dollar figure represents the average low-selling price, while the second figure reflects the highest retail-selling price.

TWENTY YEAR ESTIMATED VALUE PROFILE:

Doctor Says Pulmonary Embolism Kills 50,000 Americans Annually

DALLAS (AP) — Physicians are missing too many cases of pulmonary embolism, a blood clot in lung arteries, an Atlanta scientist asserted Friday.

The incidence of diagnosis of this life-threatening condition is strikingly low when compared with the incidence shown in examinations after death. Dr. Nazzette K. Wenger of Emory University said.

massive pulmonary embolism—obstruction of at least two major lung arteries. The presence of large clots was confirmed by X-ray.

Only 43 per cent of the 90 patients reported all three of the symptoms doctors most commonly look for—shortness of breath, chest discomfort and apprehension.

The most frequent and consistent symptom was shortness of breath, seen in 80 per cent of the patients. A combination of shortness of breath and chest discomfort was seen in 61 per cent, and 54 per cent had shortness of breath and apprehension.

Three per cent had none of the expected symptoms.

She pointed out in a report at the scientific sessions of the American Heart Association that "acute pulmonary embolism is the most common pulmonary problem in most general hospitals."

It kills an estimated 50,000 Americans annually.

The reason physicians are missing the diagnosis, Dr. Wenger said, is that they require too many symptoms. Many patients have few of the signs and symptoms traditionally described for the disease, she reported.

She advised physicians to suspect pulmonary embolism in all unexplained cases of sudden shortness of breath in patients who might be susceptible.

"It is unrealistic for physicians to require too many manifestations of this disorder before making a diagnosis," she commented.

The heart specialist reported on a cooperative study sponsored by the National Heart and Lung Institute involving 160 patients with acute pulmonary embolism, 90 of whom had WHO'S A .007?

LONDON (AP) — Doffing Missresses, Fancy Twisters and Gondola Girls are to get a new deal in Britain.

And so are Dandy Rovers, Knocker Offers and Cracker Offers, who have also had a rough time at the local employment exchange in the past.

After seven years' work, Britain's Employment Department has coded every job in the land, from a Minister of the Crown on down.

The gondola girl, who replenishes the shelves in self-service stores, becomes 369.99 when looking for a job. The doffing mistress, who supervises workers removing full packages from spinning frames, is a 540.99, and the fancy twister, who twists strands of yarn to increase their strength, becomes a 542.70.

The dandy rover, also in textiles, takes the code 541.20. The knocker off and the cracker off, who, of course, work in the glass industry, take the codes 619.99 and 614.80 respectively.

Chancellor Brandt Fighting To Stay In Power In Today's Election

By ANTHONY COLLINGS
Associated Press Writer
BONN, Germany (AP) —

WILLY BRANDT

"Will Willy Brandt make it?" That is the question on nearly everyone's lips as West Germany elects its chancellor Sunday. Chancellor Brandt's Social Democrats, fighting to stay in power, have spent millions of dollars wooing voters with everything from "peace chancellor" posters to orange buttons with the catchy slogan: "Willy Waehlen"—"Elect Willy."

Opposition challenger Rainer Barzel, a less popular man running for the first time, hopes to ride the inflation issue to victory and restore his conservative Christian Democratic Union—CDU—to power. He has waged an exhaustive, expensive campaign.

The outcome could be close. Brandt and Barzel have drawn big crowds as they toured up and down the land these chilly, overcast November days. Barzel has switched from sports to politics.

For some 40 million voters, the immediate issue behind all the hoopla is whether Brandt deserves to stay on after his brief three years of turning West Germany away from the cold war and winning the Nobel Peace Prize.

A broader issue is whether this economically powerful and strategic nation in the heart of Europe will keep to the quick pace of Brandt's Ostpolitik—his tension-easing Eastern policy—or at least temporarily slow it down under a more Western-oriented administration.

For Brandt himself, the election is a plebiscite on his Ostpolitik climaxed by last week's initialing of a good-neighbors treaty with Communist East Germany. It is also a plebiscite on his ability to change a basically conservative nation's way of thinking. He is its first Socialist chancellor since the war.

For Barzel, 10 years younger at 48, it is a test of his ability to overcome an underdog image in popularity polls and restore to power a conservative opposition that could well consider discarding him if he fails.

Rarely has a West German election stirred so much interest, from picturesque Bavaria in the south to industrial Hamburg in the north, and from Moscow to Washington.

The intense battle for crucial independent voters, with Sunday's outcome deemed a tossup even in the closing days, has centered on personalities, issues and parties.

Like a contender in a political boxing match, 58-year-old Brandt is the current title holder who made it the hard way. He was a two-time loser in previous matches in the 1960s against Barzel's predecessors Konrad Adenauer and Ludwig Erhard.

The big, gravel-voiced politician was finally the winner in 1969 against Kurt-Georg Kiesinger, a former Nazi Foreign Ministry official who had been chosen interim chancellor in 1966 after Erhard's regime collapsed. Brandt had been foreign minister in this three-year interim government which unasily wed the two major parties in a "grand coalition."

On the way up, Brandt withstood the social stigma of illegitimate birth, Nazi persecution as a Socialist, 12 years of Scandinavian exile including the war years, and Communist jabs during his cold-war tenure as West Berlin's mayor.

Brandt dealt Barzel a jarring blow by producing the treaty with East Germany only 11 days before the election.

The treaty fails to solve Germany's postwar division or remove the Berlin wall and the death-strip border, but it eases tensions, normalizes relations between the two Germans and provides for more contact.

It has led the Communist regime to take humanitarian steps such as a massive amnesty for prisoners, including West Germans who tried to help East Germans flee, and permitting the reuniting of East German children with parents who fled west.

Brandt won prestige with his 1971 Nobel Prize, but his Achilles' heel is inflation. Barzel has pounded at this sore spot.

Inflation has worried Germans, particularly because they remember how the value of their money evaporated after World War I. The cost of living is now rising at an alarming 6 per cent yearly rate. Barzel charges Brandt was too busy patching up relations with the Russians to curb inflation at home.

Brandt stumbled into a quarrel with Karl Schiller, a popular Cabinet "star" who quit earlier this year as economics and finance minister in a row over how to fight rising prices. Schiller then campaigned indirectly for Brandt's opponent.

The balding Barzel, untested in a national election, is generally considered a tough, ambitious and shrewd fighter. He has refused to be drawn into an exchange of blows over Brandt's popular Ostpolitik. He sought to parry Brandt's treaty move by demanding more time to study it.

Meanwhile, Barzel hit heavily at Brandt's record on inflation, law and order after the Olympics massacre, radical leftist youths in Brandt's party, unfulfilled social reform promises and Brandt's inability to stem a tide of defections in parliament that collapsed his parliamentary control and forced him to call elections a year ahead of time.

Barzel made a bold bid last spring to replace Brandt by a nonconfidence motion in parliament. It lost by two votes. His prestige slid further when he hesitated over ratification of Brandt's good-will treaties with Moscow and Warsaw.

Unable to swing a right-wing faction within his party into support of the popular treaties, Barzel finally settled on a massive opposition abstention that permitted ratification.

Barzel, a lawyer known as a militant anti-Communist at the height of the cold war, has long been active in parliament and party but emerged only last year as winner of a power struggle for leadership of the Christian Democrats. His most controversial and powerful backer is Franz-Josef Strauss, head of the opposition's right-wing Bavarian branch, the Christian Social Union.

Brandt claims that Strauss, a quick-talking, earthy political warhorse, would be "the secret chancellor" if Barzel won.

Strauss is a heavy-set, bull-necked man with an engaging grin. He has a George Wallace sort of appeal to the common man in the Bavarian "deep south."

Liberal intellectuals call him reactionary for claiming Brandt is a naive idealist being used by Moscow. Hecklers give Strauss Nazi salutes.

Mrs. Jerry Carter also completed an intermediate class with the following receiving certificates: Tracy Robertson, Carole White, Chuck Ekleberry, Joe Adcock, Laura Adcock, Michael Dubose.

At the Red Cross Board meeting, Tuesday Mrs. Oran Carter recognized the 50-mile swim group by giving them cards, pins and emblems. The group were the guests of the Red Cross and saw the board in action. Mrs. Carter said, these boys and girls are also on the swim team and they warm up by swimming one-fourth of a mile a day. They are then ready to swim on the team and work for speed and ready to win.

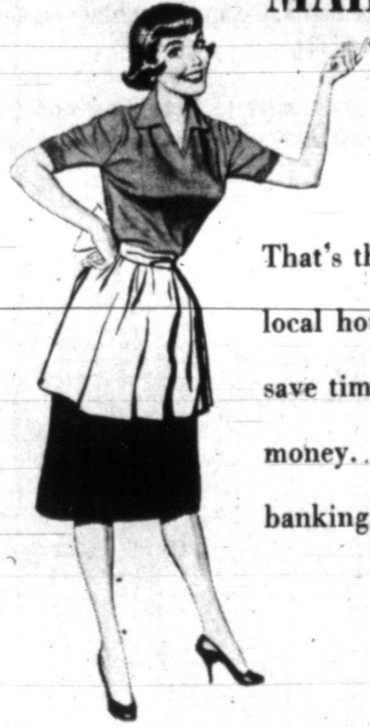

Mrs. Carter said that the team swam in Amarillo and each one did beautifully in the match. They needed about six points to win the large trophy. Of course this will give the boys and girls some thing to work for.

GOTTSCALK REVIVAL
NEW YORK (AP) — A resurgence of interest in the works of American composer-pianist Louis Gottschalk has resulted in a collection of some important works of the 19th century composer, "Compositions for Pianoforte," being published.
Gottschalk was a major force in the development of the Romantic movement in American music. His music marks the first time an American composer incorporated Creole, Negro and American folk melodies into his compositions.
Gottschalk also was the first American to present solo recitals in the United States.

API Official Says Nation Faces Real Refining Capacity Shortage

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — No new major oil refinery construction is under way anywhere in the United States.

Rawleigh Warner Jr., board chairman of the American Petroleum Institute, says this means the nation is approaching a real refining capacity shortage.

He says there are two simple reasons why oil companies are not pouring millions of dollars into new plants.

First, the industry is having difficulty obtaining plant sites in areas of heavy demand, particularly in New England and East Coast areas.

Second, refiners will not know what types of units to design and install until the Environmental Protection Agency spells out a timetable for phasing lead out of gasoline after 1975.

"In resolving a problem, a businessman must consider all alternatives," says the chief executive officer of Mobil Oil Corp.

"One alternate is to do nothing and that is what is being done. Even with a site, who wants to put $200 million or more in a new refinery only to find out later it has the wrong equipment to meet federal standards?"

Lagging refinery construction is just one of the reasons Warner says supports a need for a centralized federal office with authority to coordinate projects of all government agencies concerned with energy.

"It is my hope such a central agency will override regional and parochial agencies and tell the people in the East to make plant sites available," he says.

Except possibly for the Southwest, Warner adds, no parochial interest wants a refinery any more.

"The federal government is going to have to clear the way for decision-making in such spheres as the siting of refineries, nuclear and other power plants, and superports—because the government has to represent all of the people," he says.

Warner says that unless oil companies are able to obtain sites for construction of domestic refineries an increasing portion of oil imports will have to be in the form of refined products.

"Our country will need to refine four to five million barrels a day more crude oil in 1980 than now," he says.

"This means that in each of the intervening years, oil companies should construct in the United States the equivalent of four new refineries of about 150,000 barrels a day each."

Ideally, he adds, such additional refining capacity should be in the areas to be served, most notably, the East Coast.

Warner says Mobil has had some success with Atlantic offshore explorations around Nova Scotia and Newfoundland "and I like to think there is no reason similar operations are not justified up and down the East Coast."

Southwest's Jobless Rate Reaches 5.1

DALLAS (AP) — Although the economy has been recovering for more than a year and a half, the Southwest's jobless rate has been slow to respond and remains about one percentage point higher than at the beginning of the recession, it was disclosed recently.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas business review for November notes that the unemployment rate in the five Southwestern states reached a recession peak of 5.1 per cent by the end of 1970. By last August, however, it had fallen to about one percentage point less than the national average at 4.5 per cent and that margin has remained fairly constant since the end of 1970.

The review notes that since 1969 unemployment rates in Texas and Arizona averaged less than four per cent—well below the five per cent national average. The rate in Oklahoma averaged 4.3 per cent, while Louisiana and New Mexico both averaged six per cent.

Unemployment also varied widely inside Texas, the Federal Reserve Bank said, with local pockets of high unemployment persisting.

Only eight out of 22 cities for which the Texas Employment Commission regular publishes figures had rates less than the average in August. Two of them were Dallas and Houston.

Since these two largest cities account for more than a third of the state's labor force, their low jobless rate held down the state average. By contrast, Laredo, with an unemployment rate in August of more than nine per cent, accounts for less than one per cent of the state's potential workers.

The review commented on "the remarkably low rate of unemployment in Austin, due mainly to the virtual independence of this local economy from cyclical movements."

"With very little non-service industry, employment in Austin has long been based on government operations, including operation of the state-supported university," the article added.

Outside Dallas, Houston and Austin, unemployment rates in Texas have been generally lowest in West Texas and highest in South Texas, especially along the Mexico border.

The Days Shorten, Fall Is In The Air

ABANDONED DURING THE DAY, bicycles are parked in the rack at Robert E. Lee Junior High as students attend another day of school, summer memories already several months behind them. And with colder weather nearing, the bikes will be used less and less during the weeks ahead as the days grow shorter and colder.

A FRIENDLY GAME of football occupies many an hour for youngsters during the fall, whether during recess, as for the two above, or during out-of-school hours. Tobi Ritthaler, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ritthaler, 1101 E. Frederic, races toward the goal as he attempts to dodge his would-be tackler, Gary Sullivan, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Ivey, 1420 Hamilton. While the youngsters spend time outside playing the game, their fathers spend hours inside watching the games on television—another sign of autumn.

WHEN AUTUMN CHILLS THE AIR, Nature turns on a barren appearance in contrast to the abundance of summer. In a field east of Duncan Street north of town, a group of horses lean against the wind as they chew on the already brown grass and weeds. Tall weeds, waiting for winter's snow to cover them, tower in front of the camera.

WITH A PILE OF LEAVES and twigs to play in, a young lad can find many hours of enjoyment awaiting him during the autumn season. Tory Peet, one-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Peet, 2230 Duncan, found a spell of cheer in the simple actions of just picking up the leaves and twigs and throwing them into the air. With the morning and afternoon becoming cooler, young Tory will find less time to spend in the freedom of the sun.

LENDING A HELPING HAND, Melissa Evelin Harris, 4, pushes her little brother, Christopher Scott, 2, in a swing. Bundled up for the cool weather, the two still enjoy the pleasure of playing outside despite the chilly bite in the air. The two are children of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Harris, 100 S. Gulf, Lefors.

SUNDAY, NOV. 19
Your birthday today: Opens a mild year of a great deal of learning. Much of what you've long worked for achieved. Today's natives select arbitrary goals, share them with few or none, harm nobody in pursuing them.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Make your appearance bright and early for your share in communal expressions of faith. Then do all that's reasonable for family life.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Reflection in the calm of this Sunday will set you onto a productive track to follow off long-range plans, legal matters.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: There's more than you can do conveniently; people to see, correspondence to catch up, all sorts of objects to stow away.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Seek rest and relaxation for a leisurely, pleasant Sunday. Social movement should not be pressured—let people find their own paths.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Not so much to do should mean a chance to think, organize schedules and budgets, receive news in perspective.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: The quality of your daily living rises—leave old habits behind, find better custom; and practice them well.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Relax and let others be themselves—much that you've planned now comes to its conclusion with little more influence from you.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Close teamwork is the normal order of things to your way of thinking. If people disagree, you may be pushing too hard.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Almost any project turns out to be easily. Giving yourself a holiday at home means deliberately viewing everything in a fresh light.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Make as few demands on others as they upon you. Above all, be cheerful and enjoy a moderate Sunday of serious thought.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Stay near home, sort your local affairs out slowly, once and for all. You have plenty to do before advising others.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Arise and plan the day's arrangements in good humor, leaving bygones by bygones. Explore the subtle nuances of your world.

DEAR ABBY: Four years ago I had a hysterectomy and from that time on I have been completely dead sexually. I am 45. I was a passionate, well-adjusted woman until then, but the person I feel sorry for is my husband, who is 46, and was still going strong in that department. We love each other very much, and have always been very compatible.

Abby, I think surgery like that is like castrating an animal, and it would take GOD to convince me otherwise. I still love my husband, but I am sexually dead. [P. S. I take hormones regularly, so don't give me that bit.]

DEAD BUT NOT BURIED

DEAR DEAD: Medical authorities disagree with you. As a rule, women who have had hysterectomies have far more relaxed and enjoyable sex since they need not fear pregnancy.

Your problem lies in your firm [but mistaken] belief that "such surgery is like castrating an animal." It is simply not true! And not until you accept that fact intellectually, will you come "alive" emotionally. Had you discussed this with your doctor, he could have set you straight.

DEAR ABBY: I have a wonderful husband and two young sons, who have started some kind of "game" or "contest" which I think is disgusting.

After dinner they all sit around the table and see who can "burp" the loudest. They think this is hilarious and practically fall off their chairs laughing.

Is this funny, or is there something wrong with my sense of humor? I was brought up to think this is rude.

MOTHER IN MARINE

DEAR MOTHER: That which is ridiculously out of place is sometimes considered comical. I'd say the game is disgustingly ridiculous. The boys are young, but what's their father's excuse?

DEAR ABBY: I had a weird dream the other night, and you were in it. We were standing near some huge Australian ant mounds, which the ants had quit using. The mounds were flat on top. Some people were sleeping on top of them, others were sleeping in hollowed out places, underneath.

I asked you if it was better to sleep on top or underneath and you said you preferred to sleep on top. I took your advice and lay down on top of the nearest ant mound.

Just then someone gave me a salami sandwich. [I don't even like salami.] Then I noticed about a dozen people, standing around eating salami sandwiches. Some of them were jumping around, doing Indian war whoops.

I would like to know if you have any explanation or interpretation of this dream. Was it a psychic experience? Do you crave salami sandwiches, sleeping on top of Australian ant mounds?

If this letter sounds odd or strange, I assure you that I am sincere. I really had this dream and would appreciate your reply.

STRANGE DREAM

DEAR STRANGE: I don't crave salami sandwiches, neither have I ever seen an Australian ant mound. [What did you eat before you went to sleep that night? Salami?]

DEAR ABBY: I am 28, but look about 19 or 20. I recently married a man who is 34. We've both been married before and have children by our previous marriages. Mine are 3, 5, 7 and 9. My husband's are 5, 6, 8, 10 and 12.

His children frequently stay with us and we get along very well. When I take all the children out together I attract a lot of attention, and someone is sure to ask me, "Are all those children yours?"

Not wishing to stand there and explain, "These are mine and those are my husband's by a previous marriage," I simply say, "Yes."

Frequently someone will come back with, "You look so young. How old are you anyway?" And from then on it gets worse.

How can I handle it without hurting or confusing the children?

LOOKS YOUNG

DEAR LOOKS: When asked if all the children are yours, say, "No," and keep moving. That will discourage further questions.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 09700, L. A., CALIF. 90009 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

City Council PTA Given Program On Curriculum

Dr. Jerry Cronister, elementary curriculum coordinator of Pampa schools, presented the program, "Curriculum Innovations in Pampa," at the recent meeting of the PTA City Council. Dr. Cronister defined innovations as something new yet, there is basically nothing new. He referred to social studies as being a new subject, yet it is combination of history, geography, sociology, economics and anthropology, which we know aren't new subjects.

He also defined individualized instruction, which is a new method of teaching to some extent, his definition is, "bringing a child to a point where he can learn."

Mrs. C. L. Farmer, president, presided at the meeting and the devotion was given by Glen Walter, minister of the Mary Ellen Church of Christ.

A legislation report was given by Dr. Cronister, stating the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers Proposed Legislation Program of 1972-73.

Each school was reminded that City Council dues, are now due.

Refreshments were served by Sam Houston PTA.

The next meeting will be held in December at Stephen F. Austin school with members of Austin choir presenting the program.

Opening lead—♠ Q

By Oswald & James Jacoby
 We will end our discussion of "nothing" plays by showing one made by Oswald Jacoby in the final round of the 1935 open pairs.

Jacoby had acquired a toothache that afternoon and was playing with a swollen face and a high fever. A sensible player would have quit, but bridge experts aren't always sensible.

Jacoby and his partner, Edward Hymes Jr., were not playing any ace-asking conventions so South's four no-trump call was just a no-trump bid. The game was match points and Hymes decided to try for a top score in no-trump.

Jacoby looked over the opening lead and counted only 11 top tricks. There were 12, but he wasn't counting well.

Then he ducked the spade lead in order to set up what he thought would be the best play for his contract. It appeared to him that no one would be in no-trump and that six no-trump making six or seven would be the same match point score.

Jacoby played the hand out slowly and carefully, counting all suits. As he ran the diamonds it looked as if he were squeezing himself. He couldn't understand it until eventually he saw that he had every trick in top cards.

The "nothing" play had cost him an overtrick. Had he counted to 12 he would have won the first trick and made all 13 since there would be no reason to risk his contract with a club finesse and the queen would have dropped.

The story had a happy ending. No one had bid no-trump and only one pair had bid and made seven diamonds. The near top score helped Hymes and Jacoby win the event.

Scouting Scoops

By G.S.J. BOYD

An investiture and rededication ceremony was held recently in the Skellytown School for Brownie Troop 215, Junior Troop 159 and Cadette Troop 1. New scouts being invested were Danita Pryor and Becky Moser into Troop 215 by their leader, Miss Evelyn Chamberlain; Shelly Wells and Karen Thomas into Troop 159 by their leader, Mrs. T.L. Girton; Paulette Boisenett and Jane Easley into Cadette Troop 1 by their leader, Miss Evelyn Chamberlain.

Other members of the three troops rededicated themselves to girl scouting. Members present were: Troyce May, Brownie; Juniors: Terry Owens, Ronda Moreland, Dona Duckworth, Carla McCann, April Adams, Robin Snodgrass, Rita Smith, Terri Simpson, Waneil Garrison, Tamra Barbour, Ann Girton, Patty Girton, Rita Kramer and J Hon Marlair; and Susie Fox, Cadette.

Following the program, the girls served cookies, punch and coffee to parents and friends.

Leaders are reminded to attend the Leader's Conference, Furr's Cafeteria, Nov. 28, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The meeting was postponed because of the recent ice storm but has been rescheduled. Mrs. Peter Marsh, conference chairman, requests all troops to be represented by one or more adults. Leaders, assistant leaders and troop committee members will find a very interesting program planned. So mark this date on your calendar (preferably a Girl Scout calendar) and plan to be there.

Girl Scout calendars are now being sold by Girl Scouts throughout the Quivira Girl Scout Council. Why not buy yours plus an extra to give to a friend. They make thoughtful gifts for teachers, Sunday school teachers, any busy person. The extra space provided for appointments, etc., make them a valued item for an entire year.

The Girl Scouts now have a uniform exchange. This service is being provided by Mrs. Carroll Jones and she may be contacted at the S&J Mart, 600 E. Frederic. If your daughter has outgrown her uniform or is bridging to another level in Scouting, you may be able to exchange uniforms or perhaps you might wish to sell or donate her present uniform. The exchange will only operate if it has the cooperation of scouting families. Won't you please check and see if you have a uniform which is not in use and take it to the exchange. Mrs. Jones will help you with further information.

Mrs. Floyd Baxter and Mrs. Davie Turner of Troop 57, report that their troop took a Halloween treat of a decorated bag filled with cookies, fruit and candy to Ronnie Ledford, aged 9, the only child in either of the local hospitals during Halloween. This troop also toured the rock and gem show in the M.K. Brown Auditorium held in October.

Brownie Troop 163, Memphis, marched in the Hall County Parade and won the first-place trophy in the "Most Spirited Division." Members of the troop are: Sandra Scott, Cheryl Phelps, Mary Beasley, Kim Johnson, Karen Davis, Kelli Fisher, Kelli Liner, Kathy Boone, Stady Lemons, Karen Callahan, Debra Davis, Rhonda Gable and Kari Posey. Leader, Mrs. Connie Davis and assistant leader, Mrs. Eddie Gable. Congratulations to this active Girl Scout Troop.

Mrs. Grayson Presents Dolley Madison Program

The Preceptor Chi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met in the home of Mrs. Dona Cornutt on Monday Nov. 6. The meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Jack Vaughn.

Plans were discussed for the City Council sponsored project for the high school scholarship fund. The Bridge Benefit will be held in the M. K. Brown Auditorium on Saturday afternoon from 1:30 p.m. till 4:30 p.m. and tickets may be purchased from Beta Sigma Phi members.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. Gerry Grayson presented the program on "Dolley Madison." She related that though Dolley Madison, reared a Quaker, wore the plainest of gray drab, she was never, at heart, plain and prim. She enjoyed the company of young men and they enjoyed hers. Dolley had dark hair and blue eyes, tall, almost large and distinctively proportioned.

At the age of 26, Dolley, a young widow and the mother of a small boy, married James Madison, a 43 year old member of Congress, meeting at that time in Philadelphia. Dolley was expelled from the Quaker meetings after she married the non-Quaker Madison, and she at least had the opportunity to develop her true personality. She dressed as she had always wanted, in colorful, elegant clothes and she wore jewelry. She also became an adept hostess for she was fond of giving dinner parties.

During Jefferson's term as president, she often assisted him in the protocol of the time and soon became the undisputed hostess of Washington.

Mrs. Grayson pointed out that when Madison was inaugurated as the fourth President of the United States, the first Inaugural Ball was held at Long's Hotel. All biographers agreed that Dolley was a magnificent sight that evening in a gown of pale, buff-colored velvet, with a train, topped by a string of pearls and her turban and bird-of-paradise feathers. A turban with feathers had become her fashion trademark.

Dolley was the leader of fashion and she set the tone for the entire country. Whatever Dolley wore became the fad of the moment. Her dinners and receptions, conducted on a grand scale, were the envy of hostesses everywhere.

During the War of 1812, when the White House was burned and the British took over the city of Washington, Dolley made sure the portrait of George Washington was in safe keeping before she fled the city.

Madison and Dolley retired to "Montpelier," their home in Virginia, and Dolley was still the hostess without equal. After Madison died Dolley returned to Washington where she was described as the "Grande Dame" of the city. Her life was not easy and money was a constant problem, but she was still the "party-giver" of Washington, and she graced the functions of four more Presidents; Martin Van Buren, William Henry Harrison, John Tyler and James Polk.

In conclusion, Mrs. Grayson said that on July 12, 1849, at the age of 81, the end came for the magnificent, the unbelievable Dolley Madison. She was one of the most fascinating women of the time... of all the women in the lives of our Founding Fathers, Dolley Madison served her country, if not her husband, the longest.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Cornutt, to Mmes. Jack Vaughn, James Trusty, Joe Fischer, Gerry Grayson, George Massie, R. R. Jordan, Ralph Esson, John Plaster, Dot Francis and Henry Gruben.

The Sadness Of It All

The untold millions of dollars wasted every election year in efforts to replace the ins with the outs, or to keep the ins in and the outs out, is sad enough in itself.

speeches, in dreaming up political cliches and promises destined to be broken; in writing politically-oriented "letters to the editor" urging others to vote this way or that; in stirring up the "masses" and "getting out the vote."

What politician, what bureaucrat, what political hack, couldn't succeed, perhaps beyond his wildest imagination, if he used his energy in the market place, providing a good or service people want and are willing to pay for.

But these costs in wasted money and human energy, a horrible and monumental as they are, are small potatoes compared to the greatest and saddest cost of all: the cost in humane values, in ill-will, in human strife generated, in the pitting of individual against individual and group against group.

Then, too, just how wasteful the whole process really is becomes more evident when we realize that nothing really changes. Oh, the occupants of the seats in the game of political musical chairs rotate, all right, but fundamentally all remains the same.

What politician, what bureaucrat, what political hack, couldn't succeed, perhaps beyond his wildest imagination, if he used his energy in the market place, providing a good or service people want and are willing to pay for.

But these costs in wasted money and human energy, a horrible and monumental as they are, are small potatoes compared to the greatest and saddest cost of all: the cost in humane values, in ill-will, in human strife generated, in the pitting of individual against individual and group against group.

Why You Are Hurting

In 1961, thirty two of every 1,000 persons—men, women and children—drew their pay from state and local tax revenues.

In this period the average increase in wages and salaries amounted to $922. Deducting the per capita increase in living costs, the average person would still be almost $400 ahead of the game.

How does this affect you? Industry Week magazine provides at least partial answer. From 1965 through 1971, cost increases in products and services represented in the Consumer Price Index cost $525 per person.

Obviously there are gaps in the above calculations, but those gaps are of such a character that the net result actually understates the damage government inflicts upon productive workmen.

Federal, state, and local tax increases cost an additional $577 per capita.

But the workman himself cannot escape blame, as the recent election shows. Put a measure on the ballot that costs, and the majority of workmen will vote for it.

Laws must be justified by something more than the will of the majority. They must rest on the eternal foundation of righteousness.

It is clear Mr. Nixon has less interest in domestic matters. The issues are more confusing, more debatable. Agnew can here more easily do what he needs badly to do, establish some independence for himself without violating basic loyalty to the President.

Here's What Agnew Must Overcome

By BRUCE BOSSAT WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Nixon will not be the one to decide whether or not Vice President Agnew becomes the Republican nominee for the presidency in 1976.

Second term presidents, even landslide winners, do not have that kind of political leverage. In 1960, President Eisenhower did not "pick" Mr. Nixon as his successor nominee.

Mr. Nixon in 1960 was overwhelmingly his party's choice, and that was the determinant.

In 1968, Humphrey did indeed inherit some of Johnson's potential delegate strength in many states, but he gained most from the distracting rivalry between the late Robert Kennedy and Eugene McCarthy, and then, sadly, from Kennedy's death.

The fact is that, just as the two-term limit constricts the power of a lame-duck president, so today other circumstances tend to heighten the status of a sitting vice-president.

That is a big advantage for Agnew, as it was for Mr. Nixon and Humphrey. The second man these days moves around a lot, and develops an air of authority, even though he has none.

Still, there is nothing automatic about this process. It simply means opportunity is enhanced.

In Agnew's case, he has much to do, and fairly quickly, if he is to get a big leg up on the 1976 spot. Probably the first two years of this next term will tell the story.

His toughest task will be to establish credibility within his own party as a man who has the stuff to win in 1976, whether the Democratic nominee be Sen. Edward Kennedy or some other.

That means, for starters, being taken seriously and not being seen as a phrase-making hatcher man, a head-bopping golfer, a fellow who makes a speech a day and then relaxes with the biggies.

He has much ordinary fence-building to do with party people. He got into this somewhat more in 1972 than before, but the surface is barely scratched. He's got to know them and consort with them.

Agnew obviously needs strong foreign affairs credentials. Once again, his first-term swings around the globe left a nonserious flavor, a tone of "let's see the head of state and where's the golf course."

He'll get help in this field from Mr. Nixon whether the President intends it or not.

Police officers rightfully have contested the creation of the civilian review boards through individual and collective action.

Most police departments have an internal affairs bureau which is open to hear the complaints of citizens who feel that they have been mistreated.

The order Agnew must fill is large. Every eye will be upon him, looking for error and for switches too quick to be plausible. But if he brings it off, he'll be hard to stop for the next nomination.

RAY CROMLEY Why Hanoi Seeks Viet Truce: Food

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Several Vietnamese contacts—all originally from the North—believe fear of a major food shortage is what drove Hanoi to seek a truce.

They see no signs North Vietnam is running short of arms or military supplies necessary for continuing the war, or that severe weapons shortage are likely in the foreseeable future.

These men hold the blockade responsible for Hanoi's food problems. By contrast, despite the mining of Hanoi's rivers and harbors and the persistent bombing of the North's transportation systems, arms, petroleum and other war supplies can (it has been demonstrated, they say) be brought in by pipeline, plane, train and truck in amounts adequate to sustain the invasion of the South.

Food supply is a different matter. These Vietnamese analysts contend North Vietnam must bring in one million tons of grain foods in the next 12 months to survive at reasonable levels and keep discontent below manageable limits.

What Can 86-Year-Old Eat?

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I have enjoyed reading your column and thought you might solve my problem. I have dieted for many years for chronic colitis—recently quite a generous diet. Being anemic for a long time I ate liver until it made me sick and I changed to lean beef, besides peas, green beans and so forth.

I never eat fat meat or very little meat except beef. How about butter, cheddar cheese—medium aged, margarine, corn oil, 2 per cent milk and sherbet.

Dear Reader—Almost everyone who is 86 years of age has some hardening of the arteries (atherosclerosis). There is no reason you can't eat lean meat.

The only difficulties with meat such as beef is that it is relatively low in polyunsaturated fat and a little higher in the saturated fats than many heart specialists would like.

The softer margarines are fine in terms of decreasing the amount of saturated fat in your diet, but they are still all 100 per cent fat, so you don't want to use too much of them.

All reasonable men want a quick end to the war. But an even more important factor is that the pact be one which ensures, so far as possible, that this is a real end to the fighting, and not merely a fig leaf to disguise a truce which is not a truce and a peace that is a cover for renewed war.

Police officers rightfully have contested the creation of the civilian review boards through individual and collective action.

By TEX DeWEESE Editor Of The News

EVERY ONCE in awhile some exponent of doom comes up with a remark that things are terrible and we're going down the drain.

We try to get out of the presence of people of that caliber as quickly as possible.

That's why it's refreshing to hear someone come up with cheerful news like the kind that came the other day from John Conlin, Top O' Texas Builders manager, and Bob Mack, local Coca-Cola plant manager.

Both were optimistic about Pampa and its future as Conlin announced his company was starting a $300,000 apartment complex project and Mack came up with word of an $80,000 expansion program at the bottling plant out on N. Hobart.

You just don't jump off blindly into expansion and new construction plans unless you have studied the situation from A to Z and back again and have become convinced it will pay off.

Both businessmen and their companies believe in Pampa and the surrounding area. They see nothing but a bright future for our city and its vast trading territory.

The same thing holds true for feedlot companies as they go ahead with expansion plans and look into a rosy future for that industry.

Faith in its economic potential is one of the greatest assets any community can have.

THE PAMPA Community Concert Association is lining up another top artists program for the 1973-74 concert season.

Due to success and membership acceptance of the Big Band Cavalcade which appeared here recently starring Bob Crosby, Freddy Martin and Frankie Carle, the association already has booked another biggie for the coming season.

It's none other than Guy Lombardo and his "sweetest music this side of Heaven," heard nightly at the dinner hour on Radio KPDM.

Lombardo and his full orchestra will open the 1973-74 season in the M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium next October.

You will have an opportunity to catch him in action on television New Year's Eve when he again plays the Old Year out and the New Year in at the Waldorf Astoria ballroom in New York City.

In addition to Lombardo, the concert association is dickering for three or four other top attractions for the coming year.

HEY, HOW about this! "Dear Mr. DeWese: You have been chosen to appear in the 1973 edition of 'Who's Who in Politics in the South and Southwest'."

That's the opening sentence in a letter to the editor of Rearview Mirror from a publishing firm in Oklahoma City.

It should be proof enough to let city, county, district and state politicians know what a powerful political stick we swing high, wide and handsome all over the place.

While the 1972 election campaign is just out of the way,

The Philippines

this information from the Oklahoma publishing house should let prospective candidates know where the gravy train is parked at off-year election time.

The letter goes on to say: "This honor is accorded to a select group of individuals who have distinguished themselves in the field of politics and government in the Southern and Southwestern United States."

Confidentially, this was news to us. We have always been so far removed from politics and government that it was impossible to tell whether our party leaning was toward Republicans, Democrats, Rhode Island Reds or the Boston Tea Party.

IN FACT, in our entire lifetime we never have held but two public offices. One was as a member of a city boxing commission in Ohio and the other a Gray County errand boy for the Texas Parole Board.

Now, if that makes one eligible for "Who's Who in Politics in the South and Southwest"—it also makes us eligible for a post-graduate course in "How to Make Enemies and Fool People."

But, maybe those two public offices were not the reason for our selection. Maybe it was those two write-in votes we got for mayor of Pampa a number of years ago. On second thought, that's probably what it was.

The publishers sent along a biographical-information sheet to be filled out for publication in the "Who's Who, etc." They said it would not be necessary to buy a copy, but if we did happen to want one for our personal library, it could be purchased for $24.95 cash or $29.95 C.O.D.

There's an office wall certificate that goes along with the deal and that's for free.

ON TOP of all that, friends and neighbors in Pampa may be made aware of the honor and recognition through press releases to designated newspapers and news media in the area notifying them of our selection to appear in the book.

If there is something we've always wanted, it's to have our name appear in a newspaper. Sounds like a real big deal.

SOTTO VOICE: The biographical sheet has not been sent. If they had only selected, the City Hall Cat—he would have gone for it, line and catnip. Too bad they didn't know the Cat is about as distinguished in politics and government as one can get.

BY THE way, if you happen to be the Carolyn "somebody" who ordered 100 pounds of pecans from the Jim Blakemans in Skiatook, (Skiatook?) Okla., you won't get them unless you write again and give your address.

It seems the Blakemans had an accident and part of your name and address on the letter was burned away. All that was left was the first name and a P.O. box number beginning with "2."

Farmcast

A Weekly Report Of Agri-Business News

Compiled From Sources Of The Texas Department of Agriculture
John C. White, Commissioner

Calf Prices Above Parity... Stalk Destruction Deadline Nears... SAD Help Is On The Way... Turkey Time Nears.

Calf prices, the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service notes, are above parity by almost $3 per hundredweight. Effective parity for calves is $44.90; average market price in Texas is $47.70. But only calves are above effective parity levels. All other farm prices remain below parity.

The all-products index of prices received by farmers and ranchers is 15 percent above a year ago; the livestock index is 20 percent above last year while the all crops index is four percent above last year.

Cotton showed the biggest decline in price of all other crops. The average cotton price in the state is 21.6 cents per pound. This compared with 26 cents one year ago. Effective parity for cotton is 56.06 cents per pound.

In other crops, wheat showed a gain of 21 cents compared to a month ago with an average price now at $1.96 per bushel. Corn was up five cents at $1.42 per bushel compared to a month ago. Grain sorghum also showed a nickel increase at $2.16 average per hundredweight.

Hog prices were down slightly in Texas compared to a month ago. Average now is $26.80 per hundred pounds compared to $27.70 a month ago. Effective parity for hogs is $31.10 per hundred pounds. Beef cattle averaged $33.40 per hundredweight, still well below the effective parity of $37.40 per hundred pounds.

Egg producers continue to have pricing problems with a 36 cent per dozen average to 38 cents a month ago. Effective parity for eggs is 56.8 cents per dozen.

COTTON stalk destruction deadline is not far off for 44 north central and east counties. Stalk destruction deadline is Nov. 30. Officials urge farmers in those counties to destroy stalks as soon as possible. Recent rains throughout most of the area will keep farmers from getting into fields in the immediate future.

But when a break in the weather does occur and fields are dry enough to work in, farmers can through early stalk destruction reduce carryover of pink bollworms and other cotton insects. In other areas of the state, regrowth of cotton stalks is a problem, and such regrowth should be destroyed.

SAD but true, help is on the way. SAD is St. Augustine Decline and it has been found in lawns throughout the state. It is a virus disease of the grass, and there is no cure for it.

A new variety of St. Augustine Grass—FLORI-TAM—should be available to the public soon, perhaps next year. The Texas Department of Agriculture is in charge of seed certification in Texas and has certified 17 producers who are now growing out 42 acres of the new variety. The grass is also resistant to chinch bugs and brown patch.

FULL impact of the new pesticide legislation signed into law recently won't be felt for a few years yet, but it will affect every Texan. Rules and regulations as they will apply to states will have to be studied and implemented. States will have a great deal of power in controlling the use of pesticides.

THANKSGIVING time is getting closer, and Texans can be assured of plentiful supplies of the traditional turkey. Special programs promoting and featuring turkeys produced in Texas will be aimed at consumers.

The turkey industry in Texas is cooperating with the Texas Agricultural Products-TAP—program to acquaint Texans with the quality of Texas turkeys.

STOCKS of grains in Texas as of October 1 is estimated at 198,000,000 bushels, almost 50 percent above the levels of 1971.

Increased stocks of wheat contributed to most of the increase. Sorghum, corn and oats also showed increased stock from previous years.

Wheat stocks in all positions are set at 105,000,000 bushels, 56 percent above a year ago.

Old crop grain sorghum stocks in all positions are estimated at 74,000,000 bushels; 44 percent above a year ago.

AN ASSESSMENT of 25 cents per 100 pounds of pecans has been set by the Texas Pecan Producers Board to initiate a program of research, education, promotion and disease and insect control for the Texas pecan industry.

Over 80 percent of the Texas pecan producers voted such a program recently; the assessment was not to exceed 50 cents per 100 pounds.

Texas this year will produce about one-third of the total pecan crop in the nation.

Program Committee Drafts Union Policy

WACO—An eleven-member Program Committee has completed its work on a draft of the 1973 Policy Statement for Texas Farmers Union. The Committee, meeting here last week, wrote into the program some of the key issues which will be debated at the state convention in Arlington December 7-9.

Some of the principal resolutions which are expected to spark debate on the floor of the convention include the farm organization's position on state taxation, Farmers Union's stand on commodity checkoff programs to support research and promotion, limitations on federal farm payments, state regulation of utilities, and the development of a new federal farm program.

Area Wheat Producers Set Conclave

Wheat producers, agri-businessmen and other Gray County residents interested in wheat production are invited to a two-day wheat symposium beginning Nov. 29 at the Holiday Inn West in Amarillo.

According to Gray County Agent Foster Whaley, topics ranging from wheat production and grazing to ecology will highlight the first day.

The following day a number of out-of-state speakers will discuss key topics related to wheat, farm programs and transportation during this twenty-second annual meeting of the Texas Wheat Producers Association.

4-H Adult leaders from the 22 counties in Extension district 1 will receive training during two sub-district workshops scheduled for November 20 and 21 according to Mrs. Peggy Anthony at Borger, District 1 4-H adult leaders association chairman.

The Nov. 20 meeting will be First Christian Church, Pampa, while the Commercial Exhibits Building at the Tri-State Fairgrounds in Amarillo will be the site for the Nov. 21 workshop.

Each workshop will consist of an afternoon and an evening session with each session independent of the other. This will allow leaders to attend any part or all of the sessions and still receive full benefit from them.

Featured during the afternoon sessions will be Dr. Donald Stormer, State 4-H Leader from Texas A&M University, discussing "Guidelines for Conducting 4-H in Texas."

A panel of leaders will then discuss "How We Use the Guidelines at the Club, County, and District Level." I will discuss "Records Reflect Progress."

The afternoon session will begin at 2:30 p.m. and adjourn for dinner at 5:30 p.m. The evening sessions will begin at 6:30 p.m. with a discussion on "Leader Motivation" by Don Morrison of Pampa, vice-chairman of the adult leaders' association.

Panhandle Water

By FELIX W. RYALS
Last week we discussed "An Interindustry Analysis of the Texas High Plains Part I."

Several other volumes of the Texas Interindustry Project are being prepared by Dr. James E. Osborne and William C. McCray. Part I of the Project was published in April of 1972 by the Division of Planning Coordination of the Governor's Office.

Dr. Osborne is regional project director. He is an associate professor, Department of Agricultural Economics, Texas Tech University. McCray, assistant to Dr. Osborne, is a former research assistant at Texas Tech. Since the inception of the project, he has been stationed in Austin working along with Dr. Herb Grubb, director of the Texas Input-Output Project.

Nine Texas universities have been participating in the over-all Input-Output Project. Texas, for purposes of study, was divided into nine regions with each university doing a portion of the work. The project director's office has coordinated the data which has been computer processed.

Part I of the study deals with the High Plains. Governments and industries are already using the information provided by the Input-Output models. This computerized data is being used in planning future activities. It is also being used to assess the economic impact of selected investments and policies.

According to the authors of the study industries such as Western Electric, Celanese Corp., and United States Steel Corp. have used Input-Output analysis to assist in the planning of procurement of input materials; intraindustry management of diverse, but interrelated departments and the estimation of expected direct and indirect consumption of products produced both by direct consumers as well as the customers of their respective customers.

It is only natural that the question would be asked as to its value for the High Plains, an area with a growing economy and a dwindling water supply. Water, Inc. is involved with the backing of the Texas Water Plan. A portion of the plan concerns the importation of water to West Texas, Eastern New Mexico and Western Oklahoma.

Should the plan be implemented, it will be the largest water project ever attempted by man.

According to the authors: "Notable uses of the Input-Output Models by Governmental Agencies are the evaluations of economic impacts of public construction, defense spending, and water project construction."

Employment by major industries of the High Plains in 1950 and 1960 revealed in the study are very informative. Agriculture in 1950 employed 51,623 people. In 1960, agriculture only employed 50,305.

This was a decline of 2.6 per cent. Mining in 1950 employed 22,230. In 1960, it had increased to 28,591. This was an increase of 28.6 per cent. In 1950, the construction industry employed 24,715. By 1960, it had risen 17.5 per cent to 29,051.

Manufacturing employed 19,393 in 1950. By 1960, it had risen 61.6 per cent to 31,332. From 1950 to 1960, the number employed in transportation, communications, and utilities rose from 20,526 to 26,389.

Finance showed a 90.1 per cent increase from 1950 to 1960 with an increase from 6,594 to 12,534. The trades jumped from 56,498 to 80,253, a 42 per cent increase. Services increased from 53,083 to 92,792 during the same 10-year period. Other employment had a rise of 12.7 per cent from 6,560 to 7,391. The overall employment increased from 261,222 to 358,638, an average of 37.3 per cent.

Agriculture showed the smallest increase and Finance, the largest.

The white man's name for the Eskimo may have been coined in 1611 by a Jesuit who heard Indians call them "eskimansik" or "eaters of raw meat."

insurance and real estate showed the largest. In actual numbers, manufacturing, trades and services ranked at the top.

According to the study the value of all agricultural products sold in 1967 on the High Plains of West Texas was over a billion dollars.

Crop sales represented 67 per cent of this figure. Livestock represented 33 per cent of the value of agricultural sales. Livestock ranches are located throughout the study area. Since 1967, a new trend in livestock production has developed with the coming of cattle feedlot operations. In 1969, the number of cattle marketed from feedlots was 1,792,000. The study does not include 1970, 1971 and 1972. Texas now leads the nation with over 2 million head. Most of these are on the High Plains.

New Grain Economist Is Named

COLLEGE STATION—The Texas Agricultural Extension Service has named Dr. Roland D. Smith as an economist in grain marketing.

Smith assumed the position on the headquarters staff at Texas A&M University Nov. 1. He replaces John J. Seibert who resigned last spring.

As a grain marketing specialist, Smith will be working in the vital area of expanding markets, both foreign and domestic, for all grains produced in Texas, according to Extension Director John E. Hutchison.

The new specialist will be further developing educational programs and materials to be used by county extension agents in their work with grain producers, noted Hutchison. He will also work with commodity groups, farm organizations and other groups interested in grain marketing.

Smith was reared on a farm in Taylor County where he was active in 4-H and the Future Farmers of America. In FFA, he served as Area IV president and state vice-president and was awarded the State and American Farmer degrees. He was valedictorian at Jim Ned High School at Tuscola.

He holds a B.S. degree from Texas A&M University, a M.S. from Oklahoma State University, and a Ph.D. from Purdue University.

4-H PROJECTS—From the left, Kathleen Wable, For Hill, Pa.; Lillian Dooley, Chicago, Ill. and Linda Nishida, Rio Vista, Calif. received $700 scholarships from a major pattern company as national winners in the 4-H dress review program. This year, for the first time, boys were eligible to compete but there were no national winners.

Texas Clinches SWC Title

3 Horned Frog Fumbles Give Longhorns Victory

Texas Tech Beats Baylor Bears, 13-7

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Texas Tech, with Lady Luck wielding the scalpel, cut down Southwest Conference rival Baylor 13-7 Saturday and appeared headed for a Sun Bowl berth opposite North Carolina.

The Red Raiders, 8-2, rode Don Grimes' two field goals against Cliff Hoskins' running to the triumph on a cold, cloudy, windy afternoon.

Sun Bowl officials called a news conference for 6:05 p.m. CST at a Waco hotel and press sources said they would formally announce the selection and acceptance of Tech and North Carolina.

The Tar Heels, champions of the Atlantic Coast Conference, blanked Duke 14-0 Saturday and were poised for their first trip to the El Paso bowl classic on Dec. 30.

The Raiders, themselves plagued by miscues, pounced on five Baylor fumbles and stole two passes as they recorded their fourth SWC victory against losses to champion Texas and Texas Christian.

They close out the regular campaign next week against Arkansas, once the pride of the Ozarks but suddenly the patsy for four Southwest Conference foes.

Grimes lofted field goals of 21 and 34 yards in the first period, and Hoskins, who reeled off 204 yards, belted in from the three for the lone Tech TD in the third quarter.

Baylor, despite retrieving four Tech fumbles, crossed the goal but once, a fourth-period caper eliminated by Neal Jeffrey's 15-yard pitch to Brian Kilgore.

TCU safety, Lyle Blackwood fumbled a Texas punt and the Longhorn's Lonnie Bennet fumbled on the ball in the go with the game less three minutes old and the rout was on.

Texas drove 39 yards with halfback Tommy Landry contributing runs of 9 and 9 yards to set up Lowry's first score.

Three plays later Horned Frog halfback Terry Drennan bobbled the ball and linebacker Bruce Cannon recovered. Texas only had to go 27 yards with Lowry again sneaking over for the final 12 inches.

In the second period, TCU's generosity continued with Mike Luttrell dropping the ball and Sherman Lee corraling it. The Longhorns drove 56 yards with the big play being a 22-yard pass from Lowry to Jim Moore. Lowry again sneaked across for the score.

TCU is now 5-4 for the season and 2-3 in SWC play.

The stout Texas defense did not allow the Horned Frogs a first down in the third quarter and made a magnificent goal line stand near the end of the game to preserve their shutout.

TCU halfback Larry Harris was stopped by horde of Longhorn defenders at the one-yard line on the Horned Frogs deepest penetration of the day.

After the Longhorn first half point production, the game settled down into a punting duel in the second half.

Jim Moore returned a TCU punt 42 yards to set up Texas' fourth touchdown scored by Akins, who was a star at Gregory Portland High school last year.

Texas again got excellent play from its sledge hammer fullback Roosevelt Leaks. The sophomore from Brenham, Tex., gouged out 96 yards in 20 carries in the heavy going.

The Longhorn defense, led by linebackers Randy Brand and Glen Gaspard and defensive end Bill Rutherford, barely allowed TCU in Texas territory in the first half. The deepest Horned Frog penetration was to the Horn's 41-yard line.

It will be Texas' 14th appearance in the Cotton Bowl where it holds a 7-5-1 record. It is the 20th bowl game for the Longhorns in their football history.

Harvesters Beaten 10-3 To Finish Out Season

By CLAY LIVERY

The Amarillo Sandies used the running of junior fullback Mark Redus and stellar line play on both offense and defense to beat the Pampa Harvesters 10-3 Friday night on snow-covered Harvester Field.

Redus and halfback Garland Jones led the Sandie attack behind strong blocking. Redus gained 138 yards on 31 carries in the game and Jones added 49 more yards on eight attempts.

The Amarillo defense held the Harvester offense to only 100 yards in the game, 84 on the ground and 16 through the air.

Amarillo moved for 184 yards total offense in the contest, all of it coming on the ground.

Eighty yards of that total came on one drive—the one that accounted for the game's only touchdown.

With the game tied 3-3, on field goals by Sandie Travis Tadlock and Pampa's Mike Robbins, Amarillo scored the winning touchdown in the fourth quarter of play.

The Harvesters tied the game at 3-3 on their first possession of the second half. A 51-yard drive that was halted at Amarillo's two-yard line resulted in Pampa's field goal. Faced with fourth and goal at the 2, Robbins came in and kicked the three-pointer.

Following Robbins' kickoff, the Sandies fumbled and Pampa recovered but the Harvesters were forced to punt after running only three plays.

Rich Leverich kicked into the Sandie end zone and with the ball at its own 20, Amarillo moved for the winning score in 15 plays.

Redus made gains of 8, 6, 7, 15, 2, 5, 5 and 2 on the scoring drive. Jones carried five times on the series with long gainers of 8, 8 and 5 yards.

Redus took the ball over for the touchdown with 6:49 left in the game. Although Pampa got the ball twice more in the contest, it was unable to move the ball.

On the Harvesters' last possession of the game, quarterback Rick Leverich was thrown for successive losses of 4 and 16 yards and the gun sounded with Richard McCampbell carrying the ball on a third down and 30 situation.

Tadlock kicked a 21-yard field goal with 16 seconds left in the second quarter to give the Sandies a 3-0 lead at half-time.

A Harvester fumble, that was recovered by Amarillo's David Thomas at the Pampa nine gave the Sandies the opportunity to score.

After three plunges by Redus gained only five yards to the Pampa 4, Tadlock came in to boot the three-pointer.

Neither team was able to generate much offense in the first two quarters with Amarillo outgaining the Harvesters 80 yards to 51. The Sandies also led in first downs at intermission, 4-3.

Redus was the big gun for Amarillo in the first half, as he was the entire game, gaining 69 yards on 20 carries. Steve Mathis led the Pampa attack with 41 yards in seven tries. He ended the game with 42 total yards in eight carries.

Richard McCampbell, who led District 3-AAAA in rushing, total offense and scoring going into the tilt, was held to seven yards in as many rushes in the first half and to only 36 yards the entire game.

Pampa lost two fumbles in the first two periods, the second of which led to the Sandie field goal. Amarillo lost a fumble and had a pass intercepted in the first half. Carson Watt stole the aerial to stop a Sandie drive at the Harvester 14 yard line.

The loss dropped Pampa to 5-5 for the year and 2-3 in district play. The Sandies 5-5 for the season and 3-2 in the league.

Associated Press Poll Says UCLA Number 1

By The Associated Press

UCLA's powerful Bruins, winners of an unprecedented six consecutive NCAA titles and eight of the last nine, and led by Player of the Year Bill Walton, were unanimous choices Saturday to repeat as college basketball champions for the 1972-73 season, in The Associated Press poll.

The Bruins, unbeaten in 45 straight games since their last loss, an 89-82 decision to Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind. Jan. 23, 1971, received all 36 first-place votes for a total of 720 points in the pre-season poll of sports-writers and broadcasters.

Florida State, 81-76 losers in last season's NCAA final, was second in the poll with 520 points, edging Maryland, which finished third with 509 points. Both teams received 13 second-place votes and eight thirds, but Florida State was given seven fourths to only three for Maryland. Florida State had a 27-6 record last season and wound up 10th in the final AP poll. Maryland was 27-5 and 14th.

Minnesota was a distant fourth in the pre-season balloting, with 349 points, and was followed by Marquette, Long Beach State, Southwestern Louisiana, North Carolina State, Penn and Ohio State.

Memphis State headed the second 10. Then came Brigham Young, Kentucky, Tennessee, Houston, South Carolina, Kansas State, Oral Roberts, Michigan, and Louisville and Southern California, tied for 20th.

The 6-foot-11 Walton heads a group of four returning starters, two reserves and three highly touted freshmen on Coach John Wooden's perennially strong team. "They've got to be stronger than they were last year," said Louisville Coach Denny Crum, a former assistant to Wooden at UCLA and loser to the Bruins in last season's semifinals.

UCLA also finished first in last year's pre-season poll, but was far from a unanimous choice, receiving only 11 of the 36 first-place votes. North Carolina was runner-up, followed by Southern Cal, Marquette, Ohio State, Maryland, Houston, Long Beach State, Louisville and Kentucky in the Top Ten.

USC Wins

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Southern California tailback Anthony Davis romped through UCLA for 178 yards and the top-ranked Trojans won the Pacific-8 Conference spot in the Rose Bowl with a 24-7 triumph over the Bruins on Saturday night.

The 5-foot-9 sophomore charged out of USC's power-1 formation 25 times, scoring one touchdown on a 23-yard run, and setting up other scores as the Trojans boosted their record to 10-0.

A national television audience and a Memorial Coliseum crowd of 82,929 watched on a clear evening as USC's defense contained UCLA's Wishbone-T running attack except for one first-quarter scoring drive.

The 14th-ranked Bruins ended the season 8-3 and USC, besides capturing the Pac-8 title for the fifth time in seven years, increased its edge in the cross-town series to 23-13-6.

HOUSTON (AP) — Thirteenth-ranked Tennessee accepted a bid to play Dec. 30 in the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl officials announced Saturday.

Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl selection committee chairman Lou Hassell said he extended the invitation to the twice-beaten Vols at 6 p.m. EST, the earliest time invitations can be offered under NCAA rules and it was accepted.

Mark Williams Leads Rice Past A&M, 20-14

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Mark Williams booted two fourth quarter field goals Saturday as Rice defeated Texas A&M, 20-14, in a Southwest Conference game in which the Aggies were the victims of their own enthusiasm.

Williams, the second all-time SWC field goal kicker, knocked through a 44-yard three pointer with 8 minutes 36 seconds left in the game and later kicked one from 35 yards.

Safety Bruce Henley clinched and A&M had to punt.

Rice quarterback Bruce Gadd then guided the Owls 86 yards to a touchdown, hitting split receiver Edwin Collins on a 12 yard scoring pass.

The Aggies led 14-0 and the pass interception by linebacker Grady Hoermann at the Rice 28 set up what looked like a third A&M touchdown.

But Hoermann slammed the ball onto the artificial turf and A&M was penalized 15 yards back to the Rice 43. Rice held

Bowls Shaping Up

By The Associated Press

College football's post-season bowl lineup began to fall into shape Saturday as a hatful of teams accepted their expected bids.

Following Saturday's games, Oklahoma and Penn State agreed to meet in the Sugar Bowl; the Cotton Bowl lined up Texas and Alabama; North Carolina and Texas Tech accepted a Sun Bowl date; the Gator Bowl corralled Colorado and Auburn; Tennessee and Louisiana State agreed on a date in the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl; Nebraska and Notre Dame accepted an Orange Bowl bid; and Kent State moved into the Tangerine Bowl against an opponent to be named.

That leaves only the prestigious Rose Bowl match to be determined and that will be set next week when Michigan meets Ohio State for the Big Ten title.

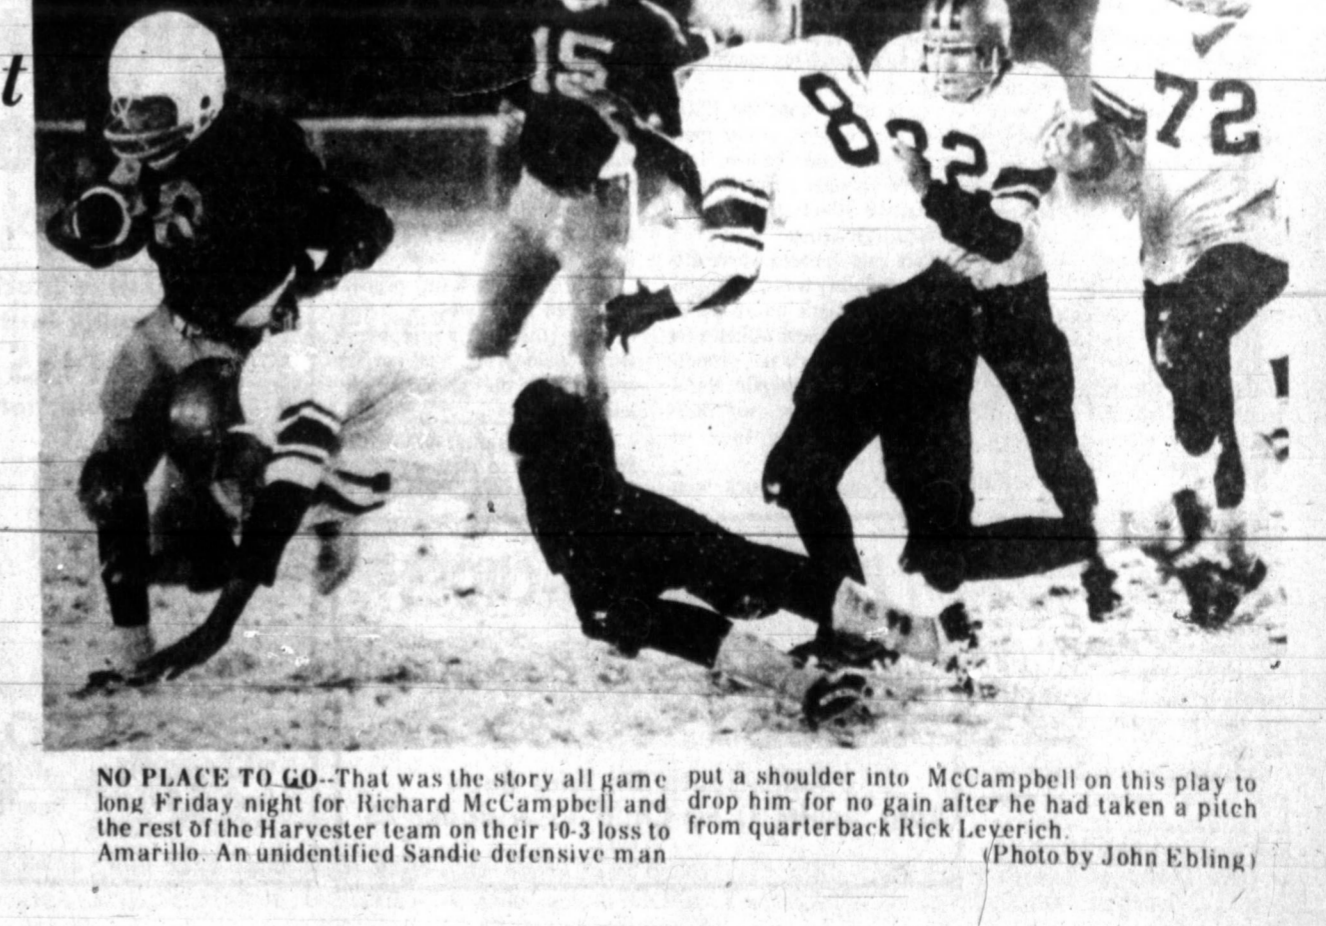

Basketball Opener Cancelled

Last night's scheduled games between Pampa and Fort Worth Western Hills were called off when the downstate team decided not to make the trip to Pampa because of hazardous driving conditions.

The Harvesters will now open their season Tuesday night against Clovis, N.M. in Clovis, Friday night the New Mexico team will come to Pampa.

Dallas And Philadelphia Have Different Troubles

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — There are quarterback problems and then there are quarterback problems. Take the Dallas Cowboys—and who wouldn't Craig Morton is playing so well at quarterback that last year's National Football League player of the year, Roger Staubach, can't break into the lineup.

Then take the Philadelphia Eagles—and who would they can't find a quarterback who can lead the team into the end zone. It has been 14 quarters and four games ago since the Eagles scored a touchdown.

This Sunday the Cowboys 7-2 meet the Eagles 2-6 at Veterans Stadium. Dallas is a 14-point favorite. The Cowboys must win to at least keep with one game of the Washington Redskins 8-1 in the National Conference East. Washington meets Atlanta in the weekly Monday night television game.

Dallas coach Tom Landry explains almost apologetically HE AIMED AT ORIOLES. BALTIMORE (AP) — Catcher Thurman Munson of the New York Yankees really took advantage of Baltimore Orioles pitchers. With 13 hits in 36 trips to the plate Munson hit 361 against the Birds.

that he has been trying to get Staubach into a game, so the former Navy star can regain the form that led the Cowboys to the Super Bowl championship last season. Staubach fractured a shoulder during the exhibition season, and hasn't played a minute in the regular season.

What has happened since Staubach became ready for action is that the Dallas Dooomsday Defense has been making games too close for Landry's comfort. The Cowboys led Washington 20-7 at halftime and lost 24-20. They led Detroit 14-0 and 21-7 and had to hold on for a 28-24 triumph. They led San Diego 31-0 in the third period and were life and death to win 34-28. Last week they had a 30-10 lead over St. Louis and won 33-24.

What puzzles Landry is what has happened to a defense that allowed on 49 points in the first five games of the season and has given up 100 in the last four.

"It's not a panic situation," says the Dallas coach, "but it is a concern. We're making a few little mistakes and I feel it's a matter of concentration. We work every day and I feel it will come around."

Landry observes that one of the problems has been a lack of a consistent pass rush. Another is the pass defense giving up the big play. San Diego's John Hadl completed four bombs on the Cowboys. Last week Gary Guozzo hit one for St. Louis. During this defensive slump, Landry has benched the veteran Herb Adderley in favor of Charley Waters.

So far, Morton has managed to put more points on the board than the defense has been giving up. He has completed 133 of 236 passes for 1,721 yards and 11 TDs. Calvin Hill with 650 yards on 160 carries and Walt Garrison with 509 on 116 dominate the running game. Hill, Ron Sellers and Garrison are the leading receivers.

The Eagles apparently are going to take another chance Sunday with rookie John Reaves, their 1972 No. 1 draft choice. Coach Ed Khayat has indicated he'll bench veteran Pete Liske in favor of the first year quarterback. Reaves has completed 58 of 112 for 819 yards and 2 TDs. He moved the ball well in relief of Liske in the first game of the season at Dallas against the Cowboys.

Reaves is confident. It's been four weeks since he last started, the longest time he has spent on a bench through high school and college football.

"I see where I can help this ball club in many situations," Reaves said this week. "It tears me up to sit on the bench. It's like being chained down."

Reaves feels he can help a team that has scored only six touchdowns in nine games. After four games on the bench, the former University of Florida passer says he's tired of the polite "Yes sir, No sir, I'll wait for my chance, sir" answers. "I'm sure this will get me in trouble, but I'm tired of keeping my mouth shut. I think I should have started every exhibition and every regular season game since I've been here. To tell you the truth that's how I feel. I don't think I deserve to be on the bench."

The Eagles have been moving the ball in between the 20 yard lines, but the offense dies inside the 20. Tom Dempsey kicked two field goals to earn a 6-6 tie two weeks ago against St. Louis, and last Sunday he kicked six to beat Houston 18-17. Rookie Po James has been coming on strong as a running back and has over 400 yards, while wide receiver Harold Jackson still leads the league in pass receiving.

They will be honored at the annual Hall of Fame luncheon in Dallas Dec. 30 as a part of Cotton Bowl Week.

Martin, now athletic director at TCU, commented, "When people around you are the ones who vote for you, you appreciate it that much more. It's indeed a great honor."

When Billy Martin hit his first of three home runs in the 1953 World Series it came on the first pitch thrown to him by Brooklyn's Billy Loes.

Sports Four Men Honored

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Four more persons were named Saturday to the Texas Sports Hall of Fame.

The four are Abe Martin, Texas Christian University football coach; E.O. "Doc" Hayes, Southern Methodist basketball coach; Bill Lillard, a bowling great; and Joe Pate who pitched for Fort Worth in the Texas Baseball League.

The four, selected by a 13-man committee of the Texas sports writers' group, increases the list of honorees to 77 since the late great baseball player Tris Speaker was inducted in 1951.

They will be honored at the annual Hall of Fame luncheon in Dallas Dec. 30 as a part of Cotton Bowl Week.

Martin, now athletic director at TCU, commented, "When people around you are the ones who vote for you, you appreciate it that much more. It's indeed a great honor."

When Billy Martin hit his first of three home runs in the 1953 World Series it came on the first pitch thrown to him by Brooklyn's Billy Loes.

Dolphins, Jet Match NFL Game Of Week

Associated Press Sports Writer The New England Patriots are getting tough. Not against the rest of the National Football League. Just with their own players.

Phil Bengtson, who makes his debut Sunday against Buffalo as head coach of the once promising, now-disintegrating Patriots, will be doing it without the Pats' No. 1 running back, Carl Garrett, suspended by the club for the remainder of the season because he missed a workout.

The Miami Dolphins may get one of their toughest workouts of the season Sunday when they face the New York Jets.

The Dolphins are aiming for their 10th straight victory of the season and, if they pick it up, they'll not only clinch the American Conference East championship—the first playoff berth to be locked up—but will take a giant step toward the first perfect record attained by an NFL team in 30 years.

But the Jets in general and quarterback Joe Namath in particular have a few scores to settle. They lost 27-17 to Miami last month when Bob Griese was quarterbacking the Dolphins. Now that he's injured, Earl Morrall is calling the signals. And earlier this week, Morrall made a few calls which could have Namath aching for more than mere victory.

Sunday's other games have Pittsburgh at Cleveland in an AFC Central showdown, Minnesota at Los Angeles, Oakland at Denver, San Diego at Kansas City, Dallas at Philadelphia, Green Bay at Houston, New Orleans at Detroit, San Francisco at Chicago, the New York Giants at St. Louis and Baltimore at Cincinnati. On Monday night, Washington hosts Atlanta.

Morrall is apparently so confident he'll guide the Dolphins to victory that he's offered a few opinions about Namath, ignoring the unwritten rule that it's not smart to say things which could arouse the opposition.

Morrall acknowledges Namath's talent but, speaking of his lifestyle, says: "I don't want to be like him. And I hope my kids, and the younger generation, don't grow up to be like him."

The Steelers have been waiting 40 years for a championship of any kind. Now they think they've finally got one. But they have to get past the Browns first—not on Sunday but again in two weeks. Cleveland, which came from behind in the closing minutes to beat San Diego last Monday night, trails Pittsburgh by a game.

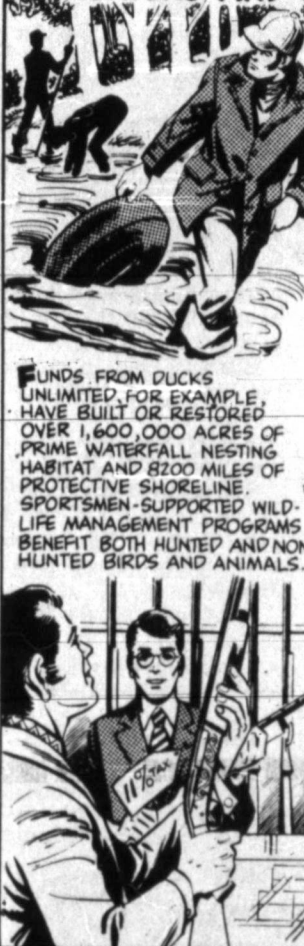

It's a collision of defenses in Los Angeles. The Vikings have the best one in the National Conference, the Rams' second-best. The Vikings are tied with Detroit for second place in the NFC Central race, the Rams lead in the West by half a game.

The Raiders, back atop the AFC West by half a game, will be out to avenge the 30-23 upset the Broncos handed them earlier this season. And the Chiefs, having already beaten San Diego once this year, must do it again to at least keep pace with Oakland.

The Oakland Athletics failed to score a run in seven innings when their leadoff man reached first base.

Top Rodeo Cowboy Gets His Bucks in More Ways Than One

By MURRAY OLDERMAN SAN FRANCISCO (NEA) — Phil Lyne doesn't get back to George West, Tex., too often. George West — that's the name of the town. Population 1,878.

"This ol' boy ran cattle round there, 'bout 1900 or so I reckon."

Phil was raised there on his daddy's ranch, and his grand-daddy and great grand-daddy were there before him. The Lynes go back almost to the Alamo, in San Antonio 100 miles to the north. And the old boys even ran cattle on Matagorda Island over in the Gulf of Mexico, just offshore.

Reason Phil doesn't spend much time at home is that 320 days of the year he's out rodeoing.

He's the best, too, the leading, gristliest performer on the Rodeo Cowboy's Association circuit which has sanctioned 567 rodeos this year, with pay-offs of more than $4 million.

In other words, he's the top cowboy in the world. That means something at the lunch counter back in George West.

"I started roping calves at the age of 4. Got a picture showing me doing it at 6. I was thrown off a steer at 10."

started bulldogging at 13. I got to riding saddle brocs at 19."

Phil Lyne is 25 years old. No mustache, no shaggy hair — he's clean-cut western. No mistake about him being a cowboy. He walks wide-spraddled in his pointed boots, black Stetson squarely on his head.

But he's no ordinary, drifting cowboy. He went to Sam Houston State till his sinuses started acting up on him, then transferred to junior college in Uvalde, winding up at Southwest Texas State, where he lacks seven hours for graduation.

He doesn't take home cowboy pay either. He's $20,000 ahead of his nearest competitor in all around championship standings. If he makes a good showing in the National Finals at Oklahoma City, Dec. 2-10, Phil has a chance to break the all-time record of $57,000 in prize money for a single year.

practice. Phil would rope 25 calves an afternoon. On the circuit, he has used 47 different horses. He's just a natural rider.

"I've rode a horse a million miles."

His versatility amazes the other cowboys because Phil's not very big for his line of work. He's 5-8 and 155 pounds, not much for wrestling a frisky calf to earth and looping a rope around his legs. He's done it in 8.5 seconds at the National Finals.

Biggest rodeo he ever had was in Houston when he won the bull riding and the calf roping for prize money of $7,158. "That's like winning the Masters and Forest Hills in one week," notes Lofting.

He has hated some of the bulls but he doesn't think it's a cruel sport.

"Bucking bull knows what he's there for. They crave the action. Fifty to 60 bulls they have for a rodeo would be hamburger meat if they weren't bucking bulls. Last year I had one bull, I disliked him, something horrible. He kicked and jumped on his front feet and gave you a double snap. Couldn't win nothing on him."

He's only been a fulltime rodeo performer since 1969, when he was rookie of the year. His social life isn't much. The rodeos have their own groupies. Bachelor Phil says a guy wouldn't want to eat coconut pie every night. He's been to New York once. Left after one day. He had three bad rides and couldn't see the sky.

He travels light. No suits, four changes of cowboy clothes in a small bag. And a bronc saddle.

"Sometimes when I carry a saddle through an airport in Los Angeles or Chicago, they do look at me sorta funny."

Back home in George West, they wouldn't even notice it. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Evans Says Sports Groups Try To Disqualify Athletes

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Lee Evans, the world record holder in the 400 meters, charged Friday that the Amateur Athletic Union and the Olympic Committee look for ways to disqualify athletes from the Olympic Games and that things happen in the Olympics that "totally blow your mind — cheaters who eventually won gold medals."

Clifford H. Buck, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, denied Evans' allegations that the organization tries to get athletes disqualified and said the statement was "unfair."

Both Evans and Buck were speakers at a sports session during the Associated Press Managing Editors convention.

Evans, who also charged discrimination against Negro athletes and that the Olympics had a political flavor, said, "It's time for the AAU and the Olympic Committee to get on our side."

"They put the pressure on the black Americans. This is my country but I know where my people are from. Being a black man, I found out the doors weren't open to me as they should have been to a man who won two gold medals."

Evans, a college teacher at San Jose, Calif., won his medals in the 1968 Olympics at Mexico City.

Evans said he "came home to a lot of problems" because of things he had said at the Olympics: "but they came from my heart. I didn't think I should be persecuted. I know some black athletes who feel like I did, and I know some white athletes who feel like I did."

Buck, in a long rebuttal in which he praised the Olympics and the USOC, turned to Evans midway through his speech and said,

"It is unfair that the USOC looks for reasons to eliminate an athlete. I can't believe, Lee, you are serious. Our position is that the athlete is right until he is proven wrong."

Buck said in cases where athletes' eligibility was questioned, the USOC "made an all-out effort to qualify these athletes for the Games. We do not propose to lower our idealistic standards just because we don't grasp them every time we reach."

Evans said he thinks the Games should be open to all athletes, both amateur and professional, whether they come from Africa or Southern Rhodesia or from anywhere.

"I want the Olympic Games where anyone on this earth can compete," Evans told the APME, "whether he's a professional or not. It's no fun to win a medal if you know there's somebody sitting at home or in the stands who could have won it."

"Those who want professionals in the Olympics do not realize that their purpose," Buck countered, "is not to search out the greatest athlete."

The seven-game 1972 World Series found no pitcher tossing a complete game.

Shocks, Jr. Highs Had Good Seasons

Pampa's Shockers and the teams from both of the junior high schools in the city enjoyed a great measure of success in their football campaigns this season.

The Shockers compiled a 7-2-1 record for the year. That is especially noteworthy when one considers the fact that most of the teams they played were junior varsity squads using upperclassmen.

Only in the game in which they were tied, a 6-6 contest with the Lefors varsity, did the Shockers use any appreciable number of upperclassmen.

Pampa Junior High's ninth grade Reapers and the Lee Rebels shared district champion honors with Dumas. The Reapers had an 8-1 record and the Rebels went 6-2-1.

Lee's Wolverines, PJH's eighth grade Reapers and the Lee Razorbacks finished second, third and fourth, respectively, in their district behind Dumas.

The Wolverines had a 5-2-1 mark, PJH had a 4-3-1 record and the Razorbacks had a .500 season with four wins and four losses.

Athletic Director Ed Lehnick commented on the fact that out of the 42 games played by the five Pampa junior high teams, they lost only 7 against outside competition.

Pampa's Dolphins Swim Well In Meet

The Pampa Dolphin Swim Club captured third place in a West Texas AAU "B" swim meet held at the Amarillo Aquatic Club last weekend.

The local swimmers entered 102 events and earned 259 points. The Amarillo Aquatic Club finished first and the Amarillo Maverick Club, second.

Other teams entering the competition were from Wichita Falls, Canyon, Lubbock, Perryton and Lakin, Kan.

Two outstanding performances were turned in by Pampa swimmers: Tamera Glascock swam the 50-yard backstroke in 39.3 seconds for an "A" time. David Holland swam the 50-yard free style in 28.6 seconds for another "A" time.

John Carter gained Pampa's only individual first place in the meet in the 50-yard breaststroke.

Twenty-seven Pampa swimmers entered the meet, the largest number for the Pampa club this year.

The next meet will be held Nov. 24 at Lubbock.

Results for Pampa swimmers at the meet are:

Arkansas Student Newspaper Demands Broyles' Resignation

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)

The student newspaper at the University of Arkansas here has called for the dismissal of Razorback head coach Frank Broyles.

The Arkansas Traveler, in an editorial titled "Farewell Frank," said, "The time has come. Frank Broyles should be fired."

The editorial went on to say that this season Broyles had taken "a group of really fine, inherently talented athletes and failed miserably."

"We have only praise for the players," the newspaper said. "Arkansas has a group of dedicated and skillful individuals whose talent was never fully realized. What we need is a new coach. We believe the players think so too."

The Razorbacks' season record was 5-4 going into Saturday's game with Southern Methodist University. Many fans who felt Arkansas had a chance at winning the national championship at the beginning of the season have been disappointed by the team's performance and Broyles has been the target of criticism in recent weeks.

Red Schoendienst of the St. Louis Cardinals is the last National League manager to get his team to two straight World Series — 1967 and 1968.

SMU Beats Razorbacks

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Southern Methodist turned four Arkansas mistakes into points and knocked the Razorbacks out of the Liberty Bowl with a 22-7 decision here Saturday.

The Mustangs traveled 28, 23 and 25 yards for the touchdowns—two by Alvin Maxson—following two fumble recoveries and a pass interception. The Razorbacks fumbled nine times and lost six.

Liberty Bowl officials attended the game and were prepared to invite the Razorbacks if they had won. One official indicated that the Liberty Bowl might turn to SMU as a possible choice.

The loss was the Razorbacks' fourth in their last five games and left them with a 5-5 record. SMU, which broke a three-game losing streak, is 3-4 for the season.

The Mustangs managed only 74 yards in the first half, but led 16-7. SMU scored after recovering fumbles at the Arkansas 22, 28 and 23—the last two by Jon Richardson on kicks.

Walter Nelson, a fifth-year senior, made his first varsity start at Arkansas and guided the Razorbacks to their only touchdown. He was replaced late in the first half by Joe Ferguson when the Razorbacks were forced to throw the football.

SMU's first touchdown came when Keith Bobo, facing fourth and one at the Arkansas 8, faked inside and then tossed a short pass to tight end Rory Best, who banged into the end zone. Richardson fumbled the kickoff and the Mustangs were on the score board 87 seconds later when Maxson broke off left tackle and eluded two tacklers to complete a 13-yard scoring run. Maxson, who gained 123 yards on 22 carries, scored from one yard out in the fourth period after Jim Ryan had returned a Ferguson interception 34 yards to the Razorbacks' 25. Arkansas tailback Dickey

Morton carried 18 times for 92 yards, giving him 1,053 yards for the season. He is the first Razorback to top the 1,000-yard rushing mark.

300-Year-Old Market To Be Closed; Rat Explosion Feared

LONDON (AP) — Where will all the rats go when Covent Garden, London's central fruit and vegetable market, closes after 300 years in business?

Local residents fear a break out of thousands of rodents suddenly robbed of squashed tomatoes, rotten apples, stray nuts and potatoes.

But Westminster City Council, which is responsible for the area, believes it can cope with any rat explosion.

Covent Garden, 6½ fragrant acres tucked away in a maze of narrow old streets behind the busy traffic of The Strand and within hailing distance of plush tourist hotels, is to be closed by 1974.

A new 64-acre site, linked with the railroad and equipped with modern facilities, is being built a mile away across the river.

The old market, once the location of a convent garden, is rich in old London flavor. It won fame as the place where Prof. Henry Higgins first heard Eliza

Doolittle murder the King's English in "Pygmalion" and then "My Fair Lady."

There has never been a reliable census of the rats living in Covent Garden, but they are estimated to number in the thousands, maybe tens of thousands.

The old market still is operating, and there is plenty for the rats to feed on. Anything which is not in cold storage is attacked.

Jim Monahan, an executive member of the Covent Garden Community Association, fears that demolition of the market and its surrounding 58 acres will disrupt one of central London's biggest sewers and send the rats scattering outward.

One fear is that the rats will use the maze of sewers as a subway system to penetrate other parts of the city in their search for food.

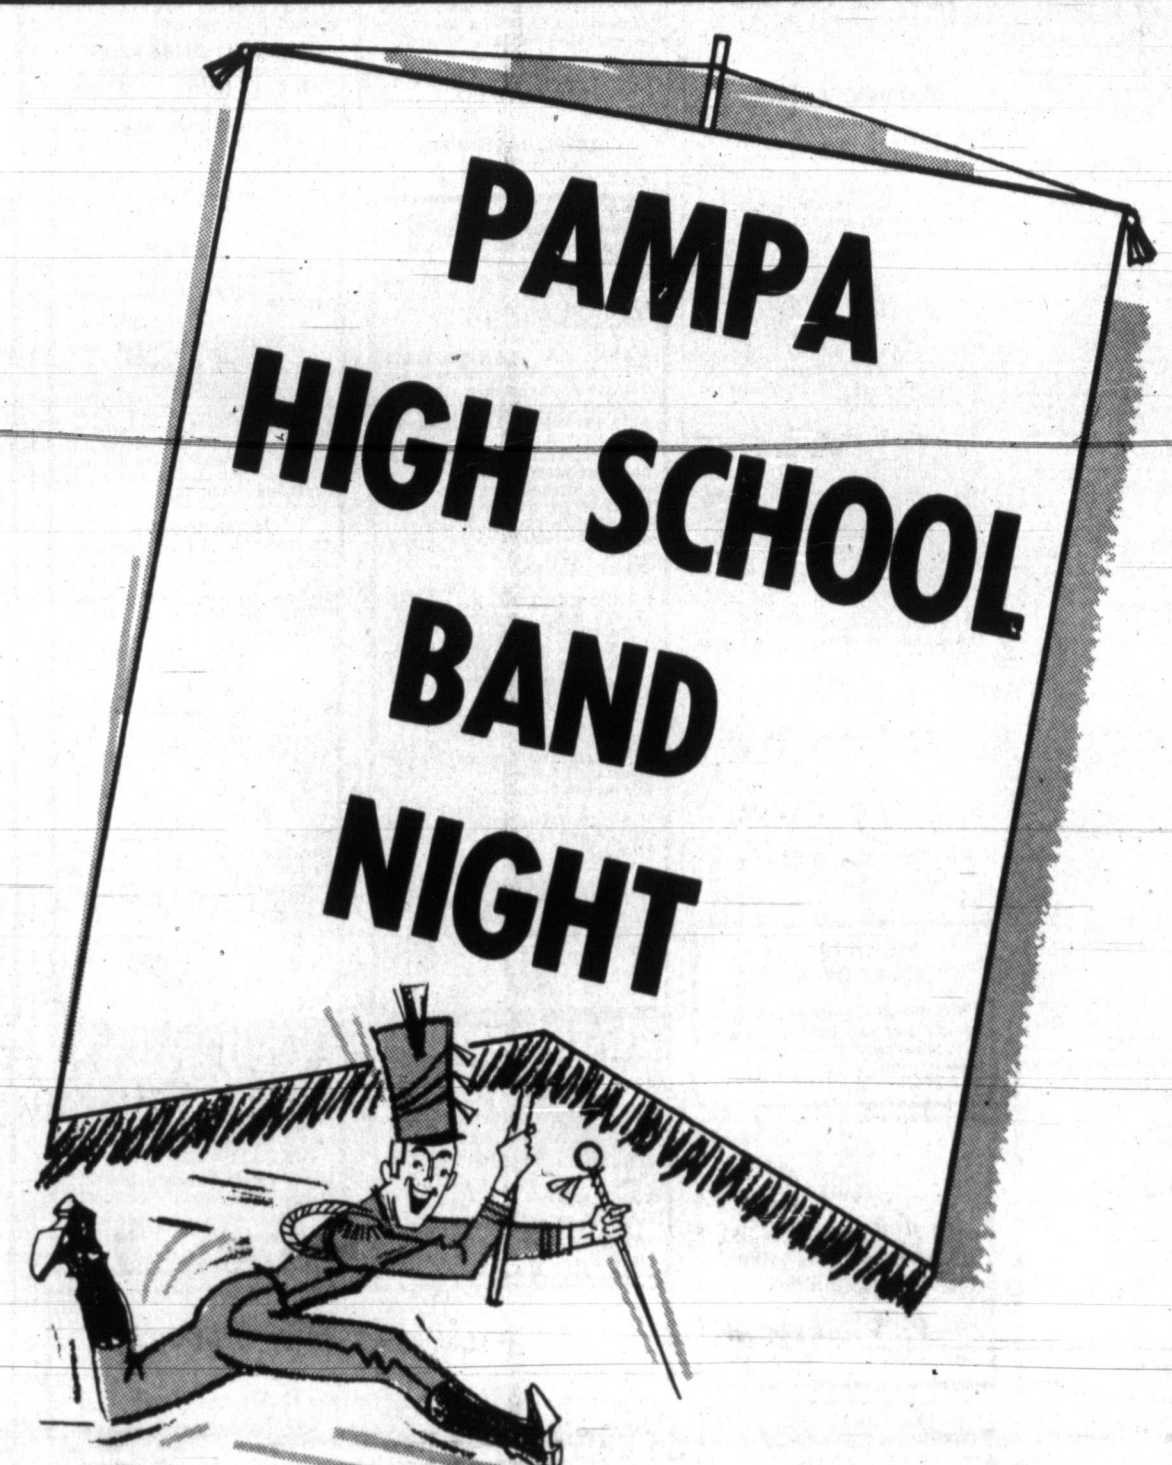

Westminster City Council officials regard these fears as alarmist.

An official in its Public Health Department said:

"When a building comes down and it is not going to be used again, we'll see that its sewer connections are sealed off immediately."

The official said rat poison also would be dropped down sewers.

All the goldfish of today are descendants of the wild goldfish that live in the streams of China and Japan.
