Supreme Court Rejects Computer Patent Claims WASHINGTON (AP) - The

Supreme Court today ruled out patents for programming digital computers.

"If these programs are to be patentable, considerable problems are raised which only committees of Congress can manage," Justice William O. Douglas said in the 6-0 decision.

In other action, the court refused to hear a plea from New Orleans Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison that he be allowed to prosecute Clay L. Shaw for perjury in connection with Garrison's claim that Shaw lied when he said he did not know Lee Harvey Oswald. Oswald is identified as the accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

The computer ruling, which will have a broad impact on the still-developing computer "softwear" field, supports the government and rejects the claims of two Bell Telephone Laboratories' employes who wanted a patent for programming a general-purpose digital computer.

The patent seekers, Gary R. Benson and Arthur C. Tabbott. have developed a method of programming a general-purpose digital computer to convert signals from binary-coded decimal forms into pure-binary form. The U.S. Patent Office said this was not more than a set of mental steps for carrying out mathematical procedures.

But the Court of Customs and Patent Appeals ruled the process could be patented since it would be a carried out by machines and was "technological."

The Supreme Court disagreed. Douglas said: "Phenomena of nature, though just discovered, mental processes and abstract intelectual concepts are not patentable as they are the basic tools of scientific and technological work."

Estimates are that with the use of general-purpose digital computers increasing rapidly, the estimated annual cost of programming by the mid-1970s may amount to $15 billion.

Douglas stressed that the ruling involved strictly digital computers which operate on data expressed in digits, solving a problem by doing arithmetic as a person would do its only much faster

"It is conceded that one may not patent an idea," he wrote. but in practical effect, that would be the result if the for-

Hanoi spokesmen have repeatedly said North Vietnam will not even discuss the withdrawal of its troops, asserting that this would "put the American aggressor on the same level as the

Willy Brandt Planning Journey To East Berlin To Sign Pact

bolstered by his greatest personal election triumph, had an overwhelming mandate today to pursue the tension-easing policies that won him the Nobel Peace Prize. A record number of West German voters gave his Socialist-Liberal coalition 54.3 per cent of the 37.4 million ballots cast Sunday against 44.8 per cent for the conservative Christian Democrats. This meant 272 seats for Brandt in the 496member Bundestag, the lower house of Parliament, a solid majority of 48.

Brandt immediately served notice he plans an unprecedented journey to East Berlin before Christmas to sign his government's friendship treaty with the Communist East German regime.

"I recognize the results of the vote as a mandate to carry forth . the work we started with success in the last three years," Brandt said in a restrained victory statement. "The majority confirmed we are on

The magnitude of Brandt's personal victory, which rivaled that achieved by Konrad Adenauer in 1957, exceeded the 'coalition's expectations. Some stunned politicians spoke of a "landslide" that would change West Germany's political landscape for years to come.

Running with a slogan of Willy Brandt Must Remain Chancellor," his Social Democratic party alone received 45.9 per cent of the vote and replaced the Christian Democrats party as the largest party in the Bundestag for the first time since the West German republic was formed in 1949. The Social Democrats wound up with 230 Bundestag seats, a gain of six over the 1969 election. Foreign Minister Walter Scheel's small but pivotal Free Democratic Party gained in stature from its alliance with Brandt's Socialists, receiving a surprising 8.4 per cent of the vote and 42 seats. Three years ago, the liberals barely cleared the 5 per cent hurdle needed to remain in the Bundestag.

For the Christian Democrats. who had ruled West Germany for 20 years from 1949 to 1969, it was their worst election setback. They won 224 seats in the new Bundestag, compared with 242 three years ago. Defectors from Brandt's forces had swelled the opposition's ranks to 248 by last September, forcing Brandt to dissolve the deadlocked Parliament and call new elections a year ahead of schedule.

Most of the defectors quit the coalition in protest against Brandt's Communist neighbors to the East. The cornerstones of this policy, which won Brandt the 1971 Nobel Peace Prize, have been nonaggression treaties with the Soviet Union and Poland. Brandt's Christian Democratic opponents, who still revere Adenauer as their grand old man, had powerful domestic issues going for them. But observers said their party leader, Rainer Barzel, couldn't match either Brandt or Adenauer in projecting the kind of statesmanlike appeal that leaderconscious West Germans respond to

of galloping inflation and economic misery in the wake of the two world wars. But his personalized campaign style under the slogan Willy Brandt must remain Chancellor" focused attention on his Nobel Prize-winning roleas a mediator between East and West. fore the voting By contrast, the Christian Democrats were saddled with a far less popular, younger and less authoritative-seeming candidate whom they were forced to portray as member of a leadership team rather than an unquestioned leader in his own right. "We build progress on stability," Christian Democratic campaign posters proclaimed, showing Barzel together with three top party figures.

Barzel at times also seemed overshadowed by powerful Franz-Josef Strauss, the bullnecked firebrand who leads the opposition's Christian Social Union sister party in Bavaria.

One big factor in Brandt's victory was believed to have been the 2 million voters added to the rolls by lowering the voting age from 21 to 18.

Oscar, who just turned seven, "can calculate very well. He needs experience," said Terrazas during the open tournament in which Oscar with an invitational tournament held for 16 international chess masters.

Grandmaster Bent Larsen of Denmark, a player in the invitational, called Oscar 'brilliant" and predicted a great future for him, Terrazas said. Little Oscar and Larsen, both blindfolded, sparred for several moves after a lunch the two had together Sunday.

In one game during what was Oscar's first formal tournament he played a man in his 60s. fighting off the opponent for almost 40 moves before being checkmated. "I lost the attack," explained Oscar.

Oscar says he learned chess at 5 after watching one of his older brothers play.

BLANDFORD, Nova Scotia -(NEA)-In the water, the open sea, the finback whale is one of nature's esthetic delights. Built like a fat torpedo, averaging 50 feet from snout to rudder, floating free at about 50 tons, it moves with a speed (up to 30 m.p.h.) and a grace few other living creatures can ever achieve

But on land, dead, shot with the modern equivalent of a harpoon, a high-velocity rifle, the finback is an ugly disgrace. Its toothless mouth gaping, its six-foot fins wilted, its scarred carcass spreading over the ground like warm Jello-it is relegated to the status of potential chicken feed, oil for automobile transmissions and other indelicate reminders of the savage improvidence of mankind

There are only three places on the North American continent where finback and other whales can still be observed in the process of slaughter. All of them Canadian. All of them in the North Atlantic. Here in Blandford, at the round-theclock plant of whaler Karl Karlsen, more than 350 of the magnificent animals are ground up for export each year. Finback. Sei. Sperm. Of the big animals, only the blue whale is avoided here -because there just aren't enough to catch any more.

Actually, there aren't many of any money whales left any more. The beasts. which once swam the oceans in prolific numbers, have been unable to cope with the efficiency of modern whaling techniques. Experts believe there may be no more than 1,000 blue whales left on the planet. Other species have been killed off almost as carelessly. Because of the potential for extinction, a few nations such as the United States have outlawed whaling and refused to accept any whale-product im-

But not Canada. Here whaling remains a $1.5million-a-year industry. Nearly 800 animals were taken last year. For whale meat. For oil. For dog food additive. The Canadians themselves do not purchase the processed products (the whaling sanitation conditions do not meet national standards), but other nations are eager buyers. "The Japs," says one fisherman, Japs love 'em.'

So the slaughter goes on.

During a recent week at Karl Karlsen's, a dozen animals were, as they say it, "harvested." Spotted, hounded, badgered, shot dead and towed in. One finback, about 50 feet, was delivered before the first light. It was dragged ashore, up a macadam ramp to a "cleansing dock." The animal was still warm. In 45 minutes, the flesh was carved away. Inside a few hours, the crimson skeleton was cut in chunks by five-foot chain saws. Before the day was out, almost every part of the animal was either packaged, frozen, brayed, cooked liquid or washed into the bay in endless streams of blood and guts and bits of meat too small to sell.

"The Japs," says the fish-erman, "the Japs love 'em."

Indeed, the Japanese are voracious users of whale byproducts. Even the footballsized testicles of the mammals are served as a delicacy in Tokyo. Because of this appetite, Japan has become the world's leading whaling nation—slightly in front of Russia. Together the two nations have updated whaling to a high, if controversial, art. They search the world's waters in huge, seagoing factories. They take their game with such implements as missiles that explode upon impact. They hunt so energetically that often, when they are after several whales at once, they inflate carcasses with air and leave them to float until later pickups.

In comparison, Canada is small potatoes. Japan and Russia take about 85 per cent of the 42,000 whales killed annually, Canada only per cent. Still, Canadian critics argue that any amount of killing unnecessarily endangers the animals and should be stopped. Says Farley Mowat, a New Brunswick writer: "Whales are the most highly developed form of life we know. They have a communications system (based somewhat on a kind of sonar) that surpasses the human variety (speech). Why should we kill them? We are only beginning to understand their greatness.'

Mowat, perhaps, understands the greatness of whales more than most. Not long ago he owned one. Or almost. During an unusually high tide, a 70-foot whale swam into a lagoon in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and could not back out. Mowat discovered it. Studied it. But the relationship was shortlived. The animal was soon killed by gleeful area residents who sat in nearby cliffs and shot away with

Idiots, says Mowat. Insen-

Mowat is now one of many people in Canada crusading to save the whales. And the crusading influence is beginning to smoke. The Karl Karlsen plant here has closed its gates to tourists. Whalers refuse to discuss their activity. And, more recently, Karlsen was brought to court for allegedly killing undersized whales, a charge never before tried in Nova Scotia. Decision is due in December. Still, the killing continues. Because "the Japs love 'em.' And almost every day here in Blandford, even as the season closes out, another whale, or two, or three, or four is hauled up to the processing plant, there to be reduced to the bone, to be pulverized to feed and, finally, to disappear forever from the earth.

Apollo 17 is to raise the number to 12 and then it may be a decade, perhaps a quarter century or more, before man again visits the moon

Scheduled to blast off Dec. 6, it will be the most ambitious Apollo mission yet, building on the experience gained in the earlier flights.

Here is a review of each of the Apollo missions

APOLLO 1

The project began in tragedy when astronauts Virgil I. Grissom, Edward H. White II and Roger B. Chaffee died in a flash fire that swept through their spacecraft during a launch pad test Jan. 27, 1967. Flights were halted for 18 months while experts sought the cause-faulty, electrical wiring-and redesigned the spacespacecraft during an 11-day Apollo 8 (Dec. 21-27, 1968)

Man at last reached across space to another celestial body as astronauts Frank Borman, James A. Lovell Jr. and William A. Anders covered the quarter million miles to the moon and flew into an orbit just 50 miles above its surface. In a dramatic Christmas Eve telecast to earth, they showed the rugged, crater-pocked terrain, and each read in turn the story of the creation from

APOLLO 9 (March 3-13, 1969) In the first complete test of all the Apollo hardware, including the lunar module, astronauts James A. McDivitt, David R. Scott and Russell L Schweickart flew for 10 days in earth orbit. McDivitt and Schweickart separated the lunar ship, flew it more than 100 miles away and then rendezvoused and docked again, proving the technique would work in moon orbit.

ford, Eugene A. Cernan and John W. Young flew this mission into moon orbit as a final dress rehearsal for a landing attempt. Stafford and Cernan steered the lunar module to within 10 miles of the surface, then rejoined Young in the command ship

Apollo 11 (July 16-24, 1969) On July 20, Neil A. Armstrong became the first man to step onto the moon and recited these memorable words: "That's one small step for a man, one giant leap for mankind." He was followed within minutes by Edwin E. Aldrin, and the two spent 21/2 hours outside, collecting rock and soil samples, taking pictures and, erecting an American flag. After a stay time of 211/2 hours, they launched their lunar lander Eagle and hooked up with Michael Collins in the command ship Columbia. Apollo 12 (Nov. 14-24, 1969)

Now that man had landed on the moon and learned something about operating in lunar orbit, it was time to see if he could choose a precise landing spot. The target was near the unmanned Surveyor 3 spacecraft which had landed 31 months before. Charles Conrad and Alan L. Bean set down just 600 feet from the Surveyor. During 311/2 hours on the surface, they made two outside excursions totaling eight hours. They gathered rocks and pieces of the Surveyor and erected a nuclear-powered science station, later rejoining command module pilot Richard F. Gordon for the trip home.

APOLLO 13 (April 11-17, 1970) Astronauts James A. Lovell, Fred W. Haise Jr. and John L. Swigert Jr., the latter a lastday replacement when Thomas K. Mattingly III became exposed to German measles, set forth to explore the mountainous Fra Mauro region. But nearing the moon, 205,000 miles from home, Swigert advised Mission Control Center: 'Okay. Houston, we got a problem here." An oxygen tank had exploded, seriously damaging several of the command ship's systems and draining it of oxygen and its main power supply. The moon landing was cancelled and the astronauts battled for life for four days as they streaked for home. surviving mainly on the lunar module supplies. The journey ended safely, with spashdown in the Pacific just three miles from the recovery ship.

It was over in moments and the terrified Mrs. Boswell of Public School 161 in Harlem had become one of 15 teachers robbed during a two-week period in New York City schools last month. Most of the incidents happened in full view of school children; the takes ranged from $1 cash to $3,000 in jewelry.

The sudden upsurge of robberies against teachers - two were reported in September has provoked cries of outrage parents alike and demands for intensified security in the schools.

School authorities also are seriously considering the use of color-coded photo identification cards to help weed out intruders, as well as the issuing to teachers of pocket-size silent alarm devices initially developed for an experimental electronic security system at a Sacramento, Calif., high school.

IRS Publishes List Of Undeliverable Tax Refund Checks

(IRS) made public Saturday a list of individuals whose tax refund check has been returned as undeliverable. W.T. Coppinger, District Director of the IRS for North Texas, in announcing availability of the list, made it clear that it is not necessary for anyone whose name appears on the list to consult or engage the services of a locating or searching service, or anyone else, to obtain information with respect to the refund check.

Coppinger continued. "Individuals whose name appears on the list should contact the IRS office in the area where they resided at the time the return was filed and

The Internal Revenue Service establish their identity and right to receive the check.

'There are a number of unclaimed refunds for prior tax years not included in the current listing. If you have reason to believe that you are due refunds for prior years, you should contact the IRS where the return was filed giving full information necessary to establish your claim.

"Such information should include the name and address exactly as shown on the tax return; the present name and address if different from that shown on the return; the tax year for which the refund is believed due; the type of tax return filed; the Social Security number; the amount of refund claimed, and any other pertinent information needed to

No one will close the baby factory

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Do you know a doctor who will perform a hysterectomy on me? I live in Chicago, but I'll go anywhere. I've been to three doctors and they all refused me. I am 33 years old, married, and have three children, which is all I want. My husband is 44, and he doesn't want any more either.

Birth control pills are out. They gave me all the symptoms of pregnancy and I felt rotten all the time I took them. And the other methods are too much trouble. The only safe way I know of closing down the baby factory is to have a hysterectomy and get it over with.

Rush me the name of a doctor I can go to and say, "Abby sent me." Thank you. NO MORE BABIES

DEAR NO MORE: Sorry, but I don't know a doctor who will remove healthy organs. Since both you and your husband agree that your family is complete, why doesn't he consider a vasectomy? It's a relatively simple, inexpensive operation which changes a working model into a sports

DEAR ABBY: I have a 35-year-old daughter who has been married for 14 years to a man who is the most overbearing, foul-mouthed bully who ever lived.

He yells at her in front of people and he orders her around like she was his servant. Agnes has worked to help support the family [they have four children] and between her job and her home she has her hands full. Her husband has never lifted a hand to help her at home. Every weekend this bum is either playing golf or at some kind of Agnes is a gentle person who never stands up for herself. She just lets him push her around.

I contend that as her father, I have the right to demand that he treat her with the respect she deserves. I would like your opinion. SON IN LAW PROBLEMS

DEAR PROBLEMS: I realize it hurts you to see your daughter abused, but you have no "right" to demand anything. Agnes is an adult, and if she allows herself to be pushed round and treated like a servant, it's her problem, not yours. And until she makes a few demands and stands up to him, she can expect more of the same.

DEAR ABBY: I baby-sit five days a week for eight preschool children in my own home. I love children and need the money. I am a widow and am helping to get my own children thru college.

All the children I baby-sit with are given excellent care and attention, and I charge a nominal fee for the service I Recently, a woman with two children asked me if I would give her a reduced rate. Abby, it's no easier to take care of two children from the same family than from different families. If anything, it's more difficult, because sisters and brothers are more likely to quarrel or gang up together against the other children.

Doctors, dentists, amusement parks don't give discounts for children from the same family. Why should baby sitters? How can I explain it to this mother?

CONSCIENTIOUS SITTER

DEAR SITTER: Simple. The same way you explained

By Oswald & James Jacoby Oswald: "Four spades is a mighty good contract. In the actual play North managed to make 12 tricks after the deuce of spades lead; a spade return to West's ace and the play of a third spade by West. After that start, South had time to ruff one of dummy's clubs and eventually discard all his three hearts on the last two clubs

North's two-diamond bid is what is known as a 'reverse.' He has bid a second suit in such manner that if partner, wants to return to his first suit he must go to the three

Oswald: "Way back in 1935 I first wrote about reverse bids and said that such bids should be strong. A reverse by responder was a one-round force; a reverse by opener was a very strong invitation to partner to bid Jim: "Modern expert bidding has gone one step further. Any reverse is now treated as a one-round Oswald: "Thus, when North bid two diamonds he wasn't worried about his partner dropping the bidding there. South was forced to rebid. Not that South wanted to. He had a very minimum response. Then, as mentioned earlier, once he rebid, North had a clear-cut four-spade call. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Prepare for Winter

Follow a daily facial routine to keep your face in good condition during the long winter months. First wash with a medicated cleanser, then splash on an astringent. Finally, use a moisturizer to keep the skin from drying. Stronger astringents and cleansers should be used for oily skin and a thicker moisturizer for dry

NEW YORK - (NEA) -Nebraska has the unusual honor of placing four men on the 1972 NEA College All-American football team first squad, as selected by coaches, professional football scouts and sportswriters from around the country for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Wide receiver Johnny Rodgers, offensive guard Daryl White, defensive end Willie Harper and middle guard Rich Glover are the Nebraska first team players. A fifth Nebraska player, center Doug Dumler, was American team.

Greg Pruitt of Oklahoma is the other wide receiver. Jerry Sisemore of Texas is one offensive tackle. These two, along with Rodgers, Harper and Glover, are repeaters from last season's NEA All-American team.

Penn State and the University of Southern California placed two players each on the first team. Named for Penn State are Bruce Bannon, defensive end, and John Skorupan, linebacker. USC's contributions are Sam Cunningham, a 6-3, 212pound running back, and Charles Young, a 6-4, 228pound tight end.

Bert Jones of Louisiana State University beat out Gary Huff of Florida, State University for the first-team quarterback spot.

Running back Woody Green of Arizona State rounds out the All-American backfield. Tom Brahaney of Oklahoma was a runaway choice for center. Tackle Paul Seymour of Michigan and guard John Hannah of Alabama complete the All-American team's offensive line.

Although Oregon State had trouble winning more than one game this season, it

He was named a linebacker on the All-American team. The third linebacker, along with Skorupan and Brown, is Jimmy Youngblood of Tennessee Tech.

The largest man on the team is Dave Butz of Purdue, a 6-7, 279-pound defensive tackle. Greg Marx of Notre Dame, the other tackle, is almost as big, at 6-5,

By Associated Press After intercepting a swarm of Jets, the Miami Dolphins are taking off into the National Football League's wild, blue yonder.

It's Super Bowl or bust, says Coach Don Shula.

'We've got to get this football team ready to start the playoffs," said Shula after his tough guys won the American Football Conference's Eastern Division title with a 28-24 decision over the New York Jets Sunday.

Shula made it plain that he wouldn't take anything less than a return-trip ticket to the NFL's championship game, The Dolphins were humiliated in the Big One last year by the Dallas

"Sure, winning a division championship is important," said Shula, "But now we've got the second season to think about. In winning the division title over their closest pursuers, the Dolphins grabbed their 10th straight decision this year. With four more games to go, they threaten to become only the third team in NFL history to finish a regular season undefeated.

While Miami ran away and hid from its opponents in the AFC East, the NFL's remaining division titles were still up for grabs after Sunday's action.

The Cleveland Browns bounced the Pittsburgh Steelers 26-24 and threw their AFC Central race into a tie; Oakland crushed Denver 37-20 and moved 11/2 games up on the Kansas City Chiefs in the AFC West. The Chiefs were beaten 27-17 by the San Diego Charg-

Basketball Roundup

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The Los Angeles Lakers have won 10 straight in the National Basketball Association. Could it be that the NBA champions will go on and shatter their record winning streak of 33 in a row?

The Lakers started on the longest winning streak in the history of major league professional team sports just a year

Cleveland whipped Atlanta 109-98 and Seattle downed Buffalo 107-84 in Sunday's other NBA games. In the American Basketball Association, the New York Nets edged Kentucky 118-115. Memphis downed Virginia 130-118 and San Diego took Denver in overtime 122116.

Led by Gail Goodrich and Jim McMillian, who hit for 24 and 19 points, respectively, the Lakers rolled up a 68-43 halftime lead and let the reserves take over after that. Leroy Ellis topped the 76ers with 20 points.

Austin Carr, with 26, and Dwight Davis, with 25, combined for 51 points to lead Cleveland over the Hawks. The Cavaliers opened an 18-point lead in the last quarter. Lou Hudson of the Hawks was high for the game with 28 while Pete Maravich added 22.

Seattle made it three in a row by drubbing Buffalo, paced by 26 points from Spencer Haywood and 24 from John Brisker. Randy Smith was high for the slumping Braves with 19. Two quick baskets by Stew

Dallas Cowboys' Coach Tom Landry isn't an easy man to please. He liked the result of Sunday's game against the Philadelphia Eagles, but he wasn't too happy about the way it was accomplished. Dallas beat the hapless Eagles 28-7 in their National League Football game and moved to within a half game of the Washington Redskins, who lead the NFL's National Conference East by half a game and play Atlanta tonight in the

Monday night television game. "We just weren't real sharp to start with," said Landry, "and it showed up in a number of ways. We dropped passes, had two poor punts and missed several defensive plays." Landry was upset because the Cowboys' defense allowed the Eagles to score their first touchdown in 15 quarters and first by a running back this season when Larry Watkins powered 15 yards in the first period to give Philadelphia a short lived 7-2 lead. "The defense giving up that touchdown encouraged Philadelphia, since they hadn't scored a touchdown in a long time," Landry noted. "We will have to play better than we did

Landry's comment about the defense appeared a little harsh, since it held the Eagles to 120yard running and a net of 6vards through the air. The Philadelphia passers, Pete Liske and John Reaves, completed only 10 passes for a total of 85 yards. Dallas, however, sacked the two quarterbacks for a total of nine times and 79

"Our defense played better than it had in the past couple of weeks, but it still had breakdowns early," said Landry. The Cowboys' defense had allowed 100 points in its previous four Dallas recovered at the Eagles' 25. Calvin Hill smashed 6-yards into the end zone and fumbled, but guard John Niland fell on the ball for a Cowboys' touchdown that boosted the score to Landry indicated that the slow start by the Dallas offense-the Cowboys trailed 7-2 after one period-was because came at the start of the second

It Isn't Filling Bill

U.S. Postal Service in a well-publicized "race" from Philadelphia to Washington with an improvised pony express the other day really didn*t prove very much.

After all, the necessity of employing six horses and eight riders must have entailed costs somewhat higher than the price of the stamps used on the matching letters entrusted to the care of the Postal Service.

But the stunt did underscore something many people have long suspected: Mail service in the United States is not above criticism. That criticism. in fact, has been expressed on the highest levels of the government

For instance, Maryland Sen. Mathias complained a few months ago that he missed a luncheon because the invitation took 13 days to reach Washington from Baltimore. Texas Sen. Bentson grumbles that service in some rural areas is slower than in stagecoach days.

Not that there haven't been improvements. The Wall Street Journal reports that parcel post damage claims have been cut by 25 per cent and quotes a postal official as saying. We've stopped throwing packages.

And last March, inspectors found a railroad car full of parcel post packages on a siding in Perryville, Md., that had been missing for more than two

Nevertheless, the reorganization of the old Post Office into the quasipublic Postal Service in 1970 has yet to produce the kind of service the public demands. Not getting that service, the public is turning increasingly to private carriers. Some indications:

-The well-known United Parcel Service has captured half or more of parcel post volume in some areas. It delivered 608 million packages in 1971 and its employes have_ risen to more than 53,000.

-An organization called the Independent Postal System of America started in Oklahoma City in 1968 and now operates in 80 cities. It has been opening new offices at the rate of two a week

Incidentally, in August the IPSA recently won a federal court case brought against it by the American Postal Workers Union challenging its right to use the terms "post," "postal" and "postmaster" and seeking to prohibit it from delivering mails.

-The city of Kent, Ohio, was the scene of a different kind of protest in June when the local of the National Association of Letter Carriers cited the

BERRY'S WORLD

That fellow who beat out the ... "health and safety" hazards of plastic bags being used by independent carriers to hang advertising matter on the doorknobs of homes.

The bags could suffocate kids, they said, and be a signal to burglars that nobody was home. -When first-class mail jumped from six to eight cents last summer, an electric company in Virginia began delivering its own utility bills, at a projected savings of $200,000 a year. -Facing stiff rate increases, magazine publishers and bulk mailers are looking for ways to deliver without using the mails. All of which is to the good if it puts the Postal Service on its toes. Certainly, it ought to stimulate it to meet the legislative requirement of the reorganization act that created it-that it eventually become self-paying. The service, says Postmaster General Elmer T. Klassen, is passing through a period of necessary, if sometimes uncomfortable, adjustment." But if private firms can deliver the mail efficiently and at a profit, maybe the Postal Service someday will, too. It seems to be what the public wants and is willing to pay for.

Question Box

QUESTION: A parent of a child in a public school complained that a new program was installed in the school in that state without consulting the parents. The program provided for shorter classroom hours one day a week so teachers can attend an afternoon-long meeting. Isn't this characteristic of schools these days, with teachers doing asthey please and disregarding the wishes of parents?

ANSWER: We would say the case cited was not unusual. Parents seem to have forgotten that they have lost control of the schooling of their youngsters when they have brought an agency of the state into the operation of the schools. The schools are not run for the benefit of the children; they are run for the benefit of the teachers, the administrators and the local, state and national bureaucracies which have been created as part of the monster running the "educational" institutions. Parents occasionally are permitted to voice their objections to dictatorial rulings. Seldom are they successful in changing the practices of the school bureaucracy.

If schools were operated on a voluntary basis, and there were a wide variety of institutions available, parents would be paying directly for the schools and would have more say about how they are operated. If one school shortened the hours of class for teachers' conferences, and the parent objected, the teacher would be more likely to have her objections heard. If she got no satisfactory response, she would be free to seek a school operated as she desired.

Actually, the local schools have virtually no control over most of their activities, with national, state, county and district officials mandating the courses, books, hours and days. We have commented that about the only control a local school board has now is to decide the color of paint to be used on the schools. Anything else is either mandated by the higher state agencies or is dictated by the professionals. The case cited by the questioner is one of the items controlled by the professional staff of schools in most states

It is difficult not to compare the actions in tax-supported schools with those in some of the private and church-sponsored schools. One teacher we know in a church school frequently goes to school an hour early in order to attend teacher meetings or otherwise to prepare for upcoming classes. Sometimes she also stays late. But teachers in that school are interested in seeing that the children learn; only secondarily are they interested in financial advancement Non-tax-supported schools usually do a better job because they need to in order to attract Tax-supported schools have no such incentive.

H.L. Hunt Writes

SOCIALISM IS NO SOLUTION

The misguided doom-criers who claim we must adopt some form of socialism to save us from our own pollution are barking up the wrong tree. Just as Marx's theories cannot be converted into food production sufficient to feed the peoples of communist nations, socialism is a bust in the field of ecology and pollution. Theories about "production for use, not for profit" sound nice to those in ivory towers of universities and bureaucracies around the world, but when put into practice, they fail to produce enough of anything about warships, rockets and tanks. Likewise, they cause incalculably more waste and misuse of resources than does capitalism. The first line of defense against both waste and pollution in any country is the fear of private loss, just as the best incentive for economical production of more and better goods is the hope for private

As we have seen everywhere that property belongs to "everyone," it is cared for by no one. Public schools, state universities and government buildings belong to "everyone" so demonstrators, hoodlums and revolutionaries get away with burning and vandalizing which soon would be stopped by private owners whose lives depended on protecting their property. Expenditures to curb air pollution is only one-tenth in the Soviet Union what it is in the U.S. while they are outspending us in heavy industry, war munitions and space. The Reds are ruining Lake Baikal and the Caspian Sea. They can hide the facts for a while, but it should be clear by now that socialsim is no solution to pollution.

Time is not measured by the passing of years, but by what one does, what one feels, and what one achieves. -Jawaharlal Nehru, Indian Nationalist leader.

Dear Reader - No. You don't need to worry about it any more. The reason the doctors were concerned was because of your pneumotho-rax treatment. This procedure as you know injects air into the chest in the space between the lung and rib cage. This is done to cause the lung to collapse. This treatment was used in tuberculosis with the thought that would rest the infected lung by collapsing it. Gradually the air would be absorbed and the lung would reexpand. Now, during the pneumothorax treatment with the air trapped in the space between the collapsed lung and the rib cage, if you went to altitude, the air would expand, because of the decreased barometric pressure at altitude.

THE MIND TWISTERS

The average American-though you wouldn't know it by reading the big city newspapers-is a patriotic and traditionminded individual. Despite what they talk about on the TV talk shows, most people do not shed marriage partners with gay and frequent abandon, or throng to the latest, chic nude play. In the midst of what is indeed a counterculture, millions of young people study, graduate, go to work, and settle down, just as their elders did generations before.

But the minority who look with disdain upon such mundane life styles are not to be ignored simply because there are more of us than there are of them. "They," whether we like it or not, are the elite: the opinion-molders. style-setters, heroes. And so they are dangerous if we value our way of life; they are dangerous especially as far as young people are concerned. Not too long ago I had the pleasure of interviewing an American artist on the general subject of "Them" and on the particular topic of art and how it can be used to twist minds. Mr. Frank Wright is a New Yorker and a talented painter. He is the President of the American Artists Professional League and the American Artist Societies. Moreover, he is a lifelong student of psychological warfare. What he told me was fascinating and a bit frightening-here are a few samples: "The best weapon in psychological warfare is organized confusion of the mind. If people get confused rbout what's worthwhile and what is not worthwhile, what's wrong and what's right, what's good and what's bad, their whole set of values is destroyed. As Lenin says, 'If we can destroy the values of youth, the rest will take care of itself.

"There is an ideological purpose behind the distortion of art is some cases, and there's a purely commercial purpose in other cases. For many years now it has been fashionable to support the so-called avant-garde, both for the entree it provides to a kind of a pseudo-intellectual elite and for commercial reasons. It would be absurd to claim that there's no merit in what is now on view, because it demonstrates with appalling clarity the dead end into which abstract art has led. "If you invert the meaning of words and destroy the integrity of communication, you destroy the effectiveness of honest use of the various media. Audio-visual mediums are very, very powerful, particularly to uninitiated kids who sit there glued to the boob tube, as they call it, for hours on end. If there is no way to present them with standards by which they can judge and evaluate and make decisions on what's good and bad programming, we're in deep trouble. The most important things that parents teach their children are these decisions on what's worthwhile and what

GROSSE POINTE SHORES, Mich. (AP) -Sheila Firestone Ford, great-granddaughter of auto pioneer Henry Ford, is engaged and plans be married in

Miss Ford, daughter of Mr and Mrs. William Clay Ford of Grosse Pointe Shores, is engaged to William Justus Brock, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Earl' Brock, also of Grosse Pointe Shores, the family disclosed Sunday. Brock is a creditanalyst trainee with the Chase Manhattan Bank in New York.

Miss Ford's father is owner of the Detroit Lions of the National Football League. She is a senior at Yale University. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Harvey S. Firestone Jr. of Akron, Ohio, and Mrs. Edsel B. Ford of Grosse Pointe Shores and the late Mr. Ford, only son of Henry Ford.

The halibut, a member of the flounder family, is one of the largest and most important of the flatfishes. Its name comes from the word holy, and refers to the fact that it was once widely used as food on Christian holy days.

An estimated 90 of every 100 Haitians are Negroes, and most of the other 10 are mulattoes, or people with Negro and white ancestry. Haitians are chiefly descendants of the Negro slaves who were brought to Haiti in the 1600s and 1700s by the
