Letter To The Editor:

McLean Boy Hopes Rivalry 'All In Fun'

Two years ago a McLean boy was stricken with polio. Today, thanks to his courage and the March of Dimes, 16-year-old Roy Norvell is back in school and making up lost time.

Roy, who is participating in the Gray county drive for the March of Dimes, has been reading about the friendly rivalry among the Pampa civic clubs here in connection with the Mile of Dimes drive Saturday and just didn't want to get out of hand. So, Roy asked the Pampa Daily News to deliver the following message to members of the clubs:

Dear Mr. Editor: I have been reading a lot in your paper the last few days on your local clubs having a contest all day Saturday, called the Mile of Dimes. I have been worried some times about some of the things they said. I hope they didn't really mean all those things. You see, the March of Dimes has helped me a lot and I don't want anyone unhappy because of the Mile of Dimes. They helped me so much that I can use my own wheelchair now and I go to high school. Of course, the fellows have to carry my chair up and down the steps. I kind of got behind in school during all the time I was in hospitals and places, but I'm getting an awful lot of help from everyone. I never did forget about my school work because I knew all the time I would be all right and need to go back to studying.

Anyway, that's why I don't want anyone unhappy over the Mile of Dimes. My teacher figured out where almost six miles of dimes have been spent on me.

Yours truly, Roy Norvell, McLean, Texas P. S. Anyway, if it is all in fun, I'd like to offer my wheelchair to the old men of the Rotary club.

Killer's Ghost Stalks Courtroom

TENARKANA, Tex. (AP) - The ghost of Texarkana's phantom killer, murderer of five persons, stalked a courtroom here yesterday.

An appeals court with held opinion in favor of the Kansas City Life Insurance Co. in a suit involving one of the phantom's victims. Mrs. Bernice Griffin, mother of Richard L. Griffin, brought suit against the insurance company contending that as her sons beneficiary she was due double indemnity on his policy. Her suit claimed the unknown killer that murdered her son in March, 1946, was insane.

The sixth court of appeals upheld trial court opinion which returned a verdict in favor of the insurance company. Griffin and Polly Ann Moore were taken from their car and shot to death. Their murders were the first of a series attributed to the phantom. Three other persons were killed.

Dimes Drive Gives $1000 To Polio Fight

A check for $1000 was presented yesterday to Rev. Edgar Henshaw, chairman of the local chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

The money represented all which has been contributed during January to the Pampa March of Dimes. Presentation was made by Mack Hiatt, drive treasurer.

During yesterday's meeting of the foundation, Clinton Evans, Gray county chairman of the March of Dimes drive, issued a challenge to Amarillo concerning money to be raised during the month. He stated that goal for Amarillo is $25,000 and only $12,000 has been raised.

"I believe we can not only beat the total amount raised but also on a per capita basis," Rev. Henshaw will be principal speaker during a mother's march rally in the Junior High school auditorium. The Amarillo, Ariz. force band will provide music. The annual March of Dimes drive will reach its climax Jan. 26 at the Southern club. Music will be furnished by the Mellotones.

Jan. 27, a combined auction and command performance will take place over KPDM, and Jan. 29 Rev. Henshaw will be principal speaker during a mother's march rally in the Junior High school auditorium. The Amarillo, Ariz. force band will provide music. The annual March of Dimes drive will reach its climax Jan. 26 at the Southern club. Music will be furnished by the Mellotones.

Following the march a basketball game will be held in the field house between the Amarillo All Force Jets and Nobilit Coffey Chiefs. After the game a square dance sponsored by Paw-Taw Square Dance club will be held in Parish hall.

Evans stated that during a recent drive among the First Marine division in Korea to collect funds to fight polio, an average dime, pennies or nickels also must be put in.

Thursday, a March of Dimes dance will be held at the Belvedere club featuring combined orchestras of Jay Wiley and Emmett Allen. The following day Beautiful new colors in Fiesta Ware at Lewis Hdwe.

WOODBRIDGE, N.J. (AP) - Capt. Hymek Kurt Carlsen and his family relaxed today in their modest home, protected from admirers by a police guard. The Danish-born captain, Lis wife, Agnes, and children, Sonja, 11, and Karen, 7, said they thought to resume living a normal life in this community of some 20,000 inhabitants. This has been their home for the past eight years.

But that's not the only welcome-home celebration for the valiant sea captain who spent two weeks aboard his broken freighter braving the fury of the storm-tossed Atlantic. His home town prepared for its own ceremonies tomorrow to honor the principal address honoring it will be "one of the greatest in New Jersey history."

Meanwhile, "stay-put" Carlsen, as he has come to be known, and his wife and two daughters enjoyed a belated Christmas. LATE CHRISTMAS - When he arrived at his home yesterday, he found a Christmas tree, still decorated, standing in one of the rooms. And there were presents marked "for Dad" which will wind its way through the town's streets. Some 80 marching units and 17 bands will participate.

New Storms Plague California Towns

LOS ANGELES - (AP) - A fresh torrent of rain brought death and destruction to waterlogged Los Angeles and Southern California today.

The entire state has been plagued by the worst storms since the turn of the century this week, and Northern California braced itself for another one bearing down from the Gulf of Alaska.

Virtually all main railroad and highway routes across the Sierra have been closed and there is general transportation chaos.

The Southern California area shift, The Red Cross and American Legion opened numerous shelters for care for hundreds forced to leave their homes in high water, particularly in the San Francisco and San Gabriel valleys.

At 2 a. m. the rain measured an unofficial 2.23 inches in Los Angeles for this storm, making 15.46 inches this season, compared with 3.13 inches at this time last year.

The police and sheriff's departments ordered night watch officers to remain on duty for the next foundations.

Agriculture Dept. On Guard Against Livestock Sabotage

WASHINGTON - (AP) - The Agriculture Dept. reported today it is on guard against possible enemy sabotage of the nation's livestock and meat industry.

Meat is such an important part of the American diet one of the first things an enemy might do, the department said would be try to get animal diseases and plagues started on farms.

"If foot-and-mouth disease, rinderpest, fowl pest of foreign types of Newcastle disease should be allowed to develop undetected, they could menace our livestock industry from coast to coast and from border to border within weeks," the department said in an annual report of its bureau of animal industry.

"We must be prepared to detect and eradicate these and any other foreign diseases that might appear anywhere in the country," the bureau said in its annual report. "In view of the possibility that diseases could be introduced intentionally at any time, the members of our civilian defense have asked that the bureau also be prepared to meet that emergency if it should arise."

In carrying out this assignment, the bureau said it has started at the "front lines" the borders and ports of entry. It said inspection and quarantine efforts have been intensified in regard to animal imports.

However, even as the department announced its new campaign there were reports from widely scattered parts of the country that meat inspectors were fired by the scores.

There was no immediate explanation by the department. L. H. Trosel, South St. Paul, Minn., president of the midwest council of the AFL American Federation of Government employees, said the dismissals were due to lack of funds. Inspectors in Chicago said the same thing happened in 1950 and 1951, but Congress voted funds in time to avoid actual firing.

A. F. Graff, president of the union's eastern council, said in Philadelphia the layoff may affect every spot where government meat inspectors are working. A union meeting has been called at Jersey City, N. J. to study the problem.

Posse Hunts Accused Man

MALAKOFF, Tex. - (AP) - A heavily-armed posse, bloodhounds and officers from four counties searched the Trinity River bottom near Trinidad last night for a 56-year-old man accused of assaulting a five-year-old Malakoff girl.

The attack occurred Tuesday night in Malakoff after the suspect took the little girl to a ball game, officers reported.

A search for the man began when the child came home bleeding and suffering from scratches about the body. She named her assailant, officers said, and sheriff Jess Sweeten organized a searching party.

Bloodhounds from the Texas prison system and officers from Tyler, Athens, Corsicana, and Kaufman joined Sweeten's forces. Highway patrol units also were in the area.

Grainger Death Is Ruled Suicide After Lie Detector Test

The shotgun death of Mrs. Billie Jean Grainger, 22, on the morning of Jan. 9, was officially termed a suicide yesterday by Justice of the Peace John V. Andrews.

The verdict was handed in following a report from Austin where the dead woman's husband, Bill Grainger, voluntarily went to undergo Polygraph tests this week.

A signed statement by state officials, who made the Polygraph (lie - detector) tests on Grainger, was returned to the Sheriff's Dept. yesterday by Chief Deputy Shely Nickols. The statement, verified all Grainger's statements to investigating officers at the time of Mrs. Grainger's death.

Mrs. Grainger shot herself in the bedroom of her home with a 12-gauge shotgun while her husband lay sleeping nearby, officials say.

Say Amount Would Help Place Troops In Field With Army

BONN, Germany - (AP) - The West German government plans to ask the United States for a big loan—probably several hundred million dollars—to help put German troops into the field with the proposed European army, Allied officials said today.

A formal request for the loan will be submitted to Washington when a "peace contract" now under negotiation, is signed with the three western occupation powers—France, Britain and the U. S.—next spring, the officials said.

This "peace contract" will start Germans rearming inside the proposed unified European defense force and will return to them almost full control of their own affairs.

The Germans will contend they alone cannot finance formation of a new armed force from scratch after seven years of Allied demilitarization programs.

In addition, the Germans expect the United States to provide the bulk of military equipment—including tanks, artillery and planes—needed by 12 divisions plus the tactical air force they plan to organize.

In "peace contract" talks, the Germans already have agreed to continue to pay part of the cost of keeping Allied occupation troops in Germany as a defense force after the contract is signed. The exact sum has not been agreed on but the Germans want a substantial reduction in present occupation payments.

They presently pay 1 1/2 billion dollars a year—450 million to Britain, 250 million to France, and 658 million to the United States.

Canada has a brigade here, but as a North Atlantic Treaty force, not as occupation troops. She has agreed to pay all her own bills. In Ottawa, officials say they may accept a share in whatever bills are sent Germany to pay for Allied NATO forces there after occupation ends.

Unless people spend time to vote and tell state and federal governments how to run their business, the government will run the people's business and in the worst possible way," said State Rep. Mauris G. Cobb, Amarillo, here last night.

Cobb spoke to members of the local Knights of Pythias in the lodge hall. He stressed the importance of the forthcoming "Citizenship week."

The speaker said people today are neglecting an important citizenship right by failing to attend precinct and caucus conventions where party platforms are drafted. He said citizens should take an active part in making up the platform and choosing a candidate to fit that platform.

"Poll tax is one of the cheapest forms of insurance against encroachment of the government on individual rights if citizens get out of their easy chairs and exercise its power," Cobb said.

"If you don't spend the time to vote and take the interest to demand good government, we will have about as bad government as we can tolerate. And we've been tolerating a lot lately," he asserted.

Cobb told the group that less than seven hours a year is all the time a citizen need expend in exercising his privilege of having a voice in his government.

Hazelwood Asks Study On Drainage

A proposal to drain Lake McComell west of Pampa was placed before the State Highway Commission by State Senator Grady Hazelwood with a request that the commission take it under consideration.

The request was made because the commission will be asked to assume maintenance responsibility for the drainage pipeline after it is constructed by four companies.

The Texas Co., Phillips Petroleum Co., Magnolia Petroleum Co. and J. W. Gayden Oil Co.

The drainage proposal is an alternative to raising the road grade of submerged State Hwy. 152 between Pampa and Borger.

The drainage system would carry the lake waters to White Deer creek and bring back 23 submerged oil wells into production.

Before taking a definite stand the commission asked for further engineering details and legal advice on the project.

Polio In State Shows Signs Of Setting Record

AUSTIN - (AP) - Polio was back up to record ending Jan. 17 this week.

For the week ending Jan. 17 there were 37 new cases counted statewide, the State Health Dept. reported today. In the preceding week, 21 cases were reported, bringing the total for the first two weeks of the year to 58.

It seems inevitable that the state is headed for one of the worst polio years in history, state health officer George W. Cox said.

Last week's polio was scattered among 15 counties, including Andrews, Bexar, Brazoria, Dallas, Ector, Galveston, Harris, Hays, Hookley, Jefferson, McCulloch, Nueces, Smith, Tom Green and Travis.

THE SUDAN, object of an old tug-of-war between Egypt and Britain, became a rich jewel in the British Empire when cotton and irrigation were introduced to a 50-mile triangle of rich land at the junction of the White Nile and Blue Nile near Khartoum. The Sudan has long been the cross-roads of Africa for traders. On a continent still primitive in many aspects, the Sudan is crossed by ship, rail and bus routes to Cairo and Red Sea outlets to the world. Khartoum itself is the aerial cross-road of Africa. Nearly 8,000,000 people, most of them Arabs, mixed Arab-Negroes and black-skinned tribesmen, live in the Sudan. The country is supposed to be controlled equally by Britain and Egypt under a treaty dating back to 1899, when Lord Kitchener (with a young officer named Winston Churchill in his ranks) defeated the Mahdist fanatics and claimed the land jointly for the two nations. Since then, Britain has managed to keep the upper hand in the Sudan government, and Egypt's present rantings to "throw the British out" will probably never be backed by military force. Britain plans for the Sudanese eventually to choose their own form of government, but the people are widely divided on what kind of rule they want.

Meeting Tonight May Show Political Trend In Texas

By The Associated Press. United States, Lane said. A state Republican chairman, Democratic National Committee, said today that the Texas Republican party, which is expected to meet Friday night in Houston, was expected to attend tonight's meeting in Houston. Among the first pre-convention caucuses in the state, cards called for the Texas Republican party, said Thursday he was switching to Gen. Eisenhower's ranks from the camp of Sen. Taft.

In Houston, Ralph B. Lee, state Democratic executive committee member, called a meeting of Democrats to organize so the Harris county convention could send an anti-Truman delegation to the state convention.

Lee said he expected a group of conservative Democrats to send a delegation to the San Antonio meeting instructed only against President Truman.

Gov. Shivers, who supports an unopposed delegation to the Houston meeting, was invited to the party by instructions to their delegates.

GOP leader Lane said in Dallas he regarded Taft and Eisenhower only as splendid presidential material. But he added that no man nicknamed "Mr. Republican" could carry a single Southern state.

Combined assets are about $30,000 above that of a year ago, now standing at $1,784,829.23 compared to $1,372,837.72. Of the deposit figure, $1,484,485.67 is in demand deposits of individuals, partnerships and corporations, while the remainder is in deposits of United States government, states and political subdivisions.

Undivided profits also showed an increase, now standing at $47,199.49, as compared with $43,082.13 a year ago. Only loans and discounts showed a decrease from last year, now standing at $366,337.16, as compared with $467,532.04 one year ago.

Directors of the bank are R. J. Bean, R. B. Mathers, Clark Mathers, C. C. Shield, Dan Graham and Ellis Locke.

Business Men Brace Selves For Jolts In Weeks Ahead

Q — How fast is the condor disappearing?

A — Once one of the most numerous birds in the western plain states, the condor has been reduced to an estimated 60 to 100 birds in the Los Paredes forest in California. These birds have only one offspring every two or three years.

Q — At what rank was General John J. Pershing retired?

A — Congress by Public Law 45, approved September 3, 1919, the grade of General of the Armies of the United States and appointed General John J. Pershing to this grade, in which he was retired on September 13, 1924. No other officer has held this title.

The hard of hearing are not so unfortunate as it might seem. They miss a lot of small talk.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Business men are bracing themselves for some fairly unpleasant jolts in the weeks ahead.

Some of the jolts that may lie just ahead: 1. Annual profit statements of many corporations will show sharp drops from 1950, due to rising operating costs bumping price ceilings and heavier taxes.

2. Retail sales figures probably will fall behind last year's abnormal scare buying for a few more weeks.

3. Industrial production may slip further before it starts to rise again in response to defense output.

4. Wholesale prices in general have been weak for some time and are beginning to fall below the year ago level.

But against these jolts is the expected boost from increasing defense spending.

Some of the jobs will be real production slowdowns and layoffs until defense production takes up the slack of lagging civilian output. Also there may be weakening wholesale prices, and the jolt of the new federal budget next week with its threat of a growing deficit, and its details as to just who President Truman thinks should pay $5 billion more in taxes.

Mental Condition Of Delaney To Be Part Of Defense

BOSTON — (AP) — The mental condition of Denis W. Delaney will be part of his defense, counsel for the ousted collector of internal revenue disclosed at his trial on bribery charges.

The defense introduced Dr. Louis Glazier, medical director of the soldiers' home in Chelsea. Dr. Glazier testified that in 1949, Delaney was suffering from a severe virus infection, that a "very close friend" died of a similar ailment and that as a result Delaney suffered a "terrific mental depression."

Some of the charges against Delaney are based on his conduct in office in 1949.

The doctor said in February of 1950 he admitted Delaney to hospitalization.

Albert C. Hughes, head of the federal income tax division in Boston, testified to substantial payments through 1947 by the Merker Counter Co., of Haverhill. Delaney is accused of falsely certifying as paid $180,497 in tax liens against the company.

Delaney was indicted by a federal grand jury on three counts of falsely certifying settlement of $180,000 in tax liens and on six counts of accepting bribes totaling $12,500.

These later were reduced to a total of $7,500 after Judge Charles E. Wyzanski dismissed three counts of the bribery accusation.

Just before court adjourned Hughes testified Delaney ordered immediate application of a lien against a Worcester firm he was accused of favoring in its $108,568 tax indebtedness.

Delaney is charged with receiving $2,500 in connection with this case.

Judge Wyzanski's action in quashing three charges against Delaney followed a motion by Defense Counsel C. Keeffe Hurley immediately after the prosecution rested its case.

The judge ruled the government had not proved its allegation Delaney took $2,500 to influence a decision in favor of Louis and Sarah Hellman and the Acorn Clothing Co. of Boston.

He explained the evidence showed there was nothing pending in the collector's office against the Hellmans or their company at the time of the alleged bribe payment.

The judge also ruled the prosecution failed to prove any of the money purportedly obtained in

"We did it Again!"

That's the jubilant news that comes from Flint to every Buick dealer—and here we pass the thrilling story on to you. It sure is true for '52 that better automobiles are being built—and Buick is building them. Read the good word and you'll agree.

Let's pare this down to plain statements of fact and let them speak for themselves:

- The dynamic darling pictured here is the 1952 ROADMASTER.
- It has the mightiest engine in Buick history.
- It has the biggest brakes of any postwar Buick.
- It is the quietest car that Buick ever built.
- It has the richest fabrics and smartest tailoring that ever graced a Buick's interior.
- It has the greatest trunk space since spare tires moved off the front fenders.
- It has the most superb ride in Buick history.
- It has the finest carburetor that Buick research has ever devised.

And with all its new power, it delivers more miles per gallon.

But that is not all.

For those who wish it, there is a brand-new version of power-steering that works like a helping hand—gives you the same sure feel of control you have always known in straight-away driving—yet takes less than one-fifth the effort needed to turn the ordinary wheel standing at curbside.

Sure, we're putting our best foot forward when we talk about ROADMASTER.

But you'll find a host of notable features in SUPERS and SPECIALS too—plenty to make them, as always, the standout buys in their fields—for ride, for comfort, for style, for room, and for power.

Come in—look this triumphant trio over—and you'll know why every Buick dealer from coast to coast is going around with a smile on his face.

Political Delegates Are 'Practical'

The hardly amazing announcement by General Eisenhower this week that he is a Republican by inclination and is willing to be drafted as the GOP presidential candidate rounds out, as far as the Republican party is concerned, the field of candidates.

At the same time despite some reports that his chances might be improved by a convention deadlock, the Eisenhower announcement killed the presidential campaign of Earl Warren as cold as a mackerel.

The possibility of Harold Stassen as GOP candidate is laughable. The contest for the Republican nomination of Wendell Wilkie in Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio and the general.

And if Eisenhower means what he said, he will not personally participate in pre-convention campaigning; he has placed an almost impossible chore in the hands of his supporters — the chore of creating a draft movement.

The history of genuine draft movement in presidential politics cannot be cheering one to Ike's men. The nomination of Charles Evans Hughes in 1916 is the last recorded one to deserve the name, and there was no strong candidate already in the field.

The nomination of Wendell Wilkie in 1940 in general is conceded to have been not a draft but a well staged political maneuver. The Eisenhower position, we suspect, is no pose. He probably means that he doesn't intend to participate in convention politics.

From his personal point of view, it is an excellent position. It keeps him out of the frequently squalid atmosphere of party politics and his prestige will not suffer if he doesn't get the nomination.

But it creates a heavy handicap for his campaign managers. The question here is not of electing a candidate nor even of picking one to run in a nip and tuck fight.

With the ammunition they have available the Republican party should disband if it doesn't defeat the Democratic party in this year's balloting.

The question is the branding of enough of the 1200 GOP convention delegates to win the nomination. The Taft camp has been at the job for a long time and they have their boy in their swinging right with them.

They can lay the patronage lures right on the line for the local leaders who will make up the delegations or control them. Taft men are criss-crossing the country outlining their blue-prints of how they can win the election with a man whose Republican politics and politics are known to one and all party members.

The Eisenhower men can promise their candidate has a fine chance to win the election against all comers but they can't promise what he will do when he gets to the White House. Since he insists upon being drafted, he can't be tied to any political commitments.

Now if you consider the mentality of a political boss you can see the problem. He wants a Republican victory but he figures that in the bag no matter who the candidate is.

After a Republican victory he wants to have some federal influence. He knows where he stands with Taft. With Eisenhower he can't be sure. He won't even sure until this week that Ike is a Republican.

With the convention only seven months distant, and with primaries just around the corner in many states, the time approaches when any candidate's managers must talk plain, practical politics instead of issuing lofty and idealistic statements.

The 1952 convention at which Taft, Eisenhower, Warren and Stassen will be the candidates was a convention of delegates whose party was in power, there wouldn't be a doubt that Taft would romp home the winner.

The elements of the donee exist because this year's Republican presidential convention like the last four is a gathering of "politicians from the outside." So long have the Republicans been away from the federal political fountain head that a fair number of "non-political" thinkers have crept into the fold. There are enough delegates not to elect a president who is not a politician.

But the situation is not one that will lead to a deadlock. If the Eisenhower movement doesn't become strong enough to win the general election nomination on the first or second ballot of the delegates, then the 1952 GOP candidate will be Taft.

Baxter's Views

By DAVID BAXTER

BURNED Mrs. Elmer Fisher of Fullerton, Calif. is "burned" and I don't blame her. She wrote me about a case which clearly poses the question of legality versus morality. Here is what happened, according to Mrs. Fisher:

The Fishers are not surveyors, so they hired one to survey their house. They built their house in 1946. "We paid his fee, which was considerable, took his word for it and built our house."

Well, come 1951, their neighbor decided to build and had his lot surveyed. He discovered that the Fishers' house was ten feet on his property. The Fishers couldn't move their house because of its situation and therefore they had to buy the extra ten feet from the neighbors for $1500 so that he could buy ten feet from HIS neighbor—which he had to do in order to keep within city regulations.

So what? Make the surveyor who made the original mistake pay off! Ah, that's what YOU think. That's what the Fishers thought too. Being state-licensed, you know, he's supposed to be quite responsible.

The Fishers thought the mess was the surveyor's fault and, since he seemed to be a little reluctant about squaring matters, they slapped a lawsuit on him to get their money back. No good. The judge threw it out because there's a law that says any wrong of that kind (usually applied to accidents or surgery) must be reported within two years. The Fishers didn't know their property was out of bounds until their neighbor decided to build—and that was more than two years since the surveyor had made his mistake. The judge didn't make the law. All he could legally do was throw the case out because of the statute of limitations.

According to Mrs. Fisher, "The surveyor, the lawyer, contended that the survey was off. Does the law state that when you put your faith and money into a state licensed surveyor you must hire a second to check on the first or he qualifies to do so yourself?"

Looks like it. "Because of that technically we foot the bill when the responsibility is most certainly his. I'm BURNED."

Blessed be, control yourself, Mrs. Fisher. Let your enthusiasm spread and let the rest of us off, too. After all, any good ward-healing politician and all good bureaucrats and planners who fatten like bloated maggots in a barrel of rotten pork will tell you that you are living in a land where INDEPENDENCE is cherished (only they fail to mention any DECLARATION of it).

Mr. Fisher thinks that if our venerable courts are supposed to uphold "justice" it's about time to divert a few tax dollars to build devices to help in such "upholding." The major device here is how she "works" of "unburn" while my thoughts run more to "hold-upping." My personal experience with even such a formidable institution as the Department of Justice has caused me ever since to read that inscription, "When Justice is dispensed and add the word—'with.' From what is now happening to Messrs Caudle and Co. I'm more than ever convinced that I was right."

Mr. Fisher does mention that LILLI SIL Cyr was recently upheld in exposing her semi-nude charms for art's sake, which was sensational—but to the Fishers "tossing close to $2000 down the drain for someone's mistake is even more sensational!"

Well, there you are, folks. It seems to me a blame shame that the state can limit the time in which you can discover that someone has rooked you or made some mistake which may have repercussions lasting for years. Whenever the state attempts to set itself up as a moral guardian and legislate in such a way as to even prevent a crime, it is not only a violation of MORAL LAW, the pity is that even otherwise honest judges are compelled to administer LEGALITY in thousands of cases where justice can only be reached by MORALITY.

And state licenses! The state makes a crime of anyone who does a thing in business and professions—and if he DOES have one the state PROTECTS him in immorality by setting a statute of limitations. The state licenses a man (thus "officially" guaranteeing his worth) but you don't find the state backing up its guaranteed licenses by paying off when one of them gets in a jam.

And, as a final jab, the good old CITY planners, who always know better than you do how your property should be used, just couldn't stand the horrible thought of the Fishers' neighbor building his own house on his own lot without having to buy an extra ten feet from HIS neighbor.

If a planner ever recognized any God more all-wise and omnipotent than himself, he hasn't let on.

Better Jobs

By R. C. HOILLES

"The Freedom To Move" I am continuing to quote from the article "The Freedom To Move" which is published by the Foundation for Economic Education.

In today's issue the authors, Oscar W. Cooley and Paul Polrot, are continuing to list the fears that caused the American people to erect strict immigration barriers. I quote:

Fear No. 4 "Immigrants might cause overpopulation and depletion of our natural resources. Undoubtedly the American Indians feared that foreigners would come to America in such great numbers as to overtax their natural resources. And we certainly did. The only 'natural resources' available to them were the few they were able to recognize and use—such as wild buffalo and fish skins and furs, birch bark, and flint for arrowheads."

"Today we recognize far greater natural resources in America than were known a few centuries ago, yet many of us also seem to be afraid that still others will come to hasten depletion of those resources. It is a defeatist attitude, an admission that our generation has lost the key to progress—the capacity for discovering new uses for things which are plentiful and new items to satisfy our most urgent needs. This dog-in-the-manger attitude is that if I can't recognize a new opportunity, I won't let a foreigner come here and try it, even at his own expense! If I translate my own lack of vision into a supposed permanent shortage of natural resources, whom should I challenge a mere mortal from foreign shores, or the Maker of such things?"

"One further question for the consideration of those who fear we are nearing the bottom of natural resources in America: Why should we pull down a sound and useful immigration curtain which by every rule of reason and justice ought to and does bar us from looking elsewhere in the world for satisfaction of our wants? We thus bar ourselves from the use of capital and discover new resources to provide additional jobs, which leads the advocates of socialism to fear overpopulation and depletion of resources. And under the socialist slogan of production such fear, of course, would be fully justified. For the system which discourages initiative and encourages laziness is in itself the cause of overpopulation."

"It is the failure to understand the almost magical formula, whereby more workers create more capital and discover new resources to provide additional jobs, which leads the advocates of socialism to fear overpopulation and depletion of resources. And under the socialist slogan of production such fear, of course, would be fully justified. For the system which discourages initiative and encourages laziness is in itself the cause of overpopulation."

"Among the immigrants, there might be Bolsheviks and Anarchists who want to destroy our form of government. Now, on the surface, it doesn't seem as if immigrants could arrive here in such numbers as to overpopulate 150 million persons who believe in, and want to retain, a non-socialistic form of representative government."

"Perhaps what is feared is the importation of a new idea of the function of government—the individual relationship between the individual and his government. If this new idea could be made to sound attractive enough to a majority of American citizens, the economic system of America might be changed even under a representative form of government."

"If that has been our fear, it very well might have been justified. For America has been rapidly substituting a socialistic state control for the traditional system of private enterprise. We have come to embrace the concept that freedom is for only the politician who administers our affairs of government, rather than for the individual citizen."

"There is no question that some of those who migrated to America held radical ideas about government. And it might seem soothing to our American-born selves to blame immigrants entirely for our progress toward socialism. But let us not mistake persons for ideas. The ideas are the root of the problem. Migration of persons is not a reliable measure of the flow of ideas. Karl Marx never migrated to America, yet his ideas were propagated here—not alone by word of mouth, but also through books, pamphlets, letters, and other means of communication."

"No person can isolate himself from all the ideas in the world without shutting out simultaneously all the good ideas, too. The person who is able to distinguish between truth and falsehood welcomes a preview of all new ideas. He is then free to reject the socialistic ideas, for he recognizes the harm in them. And he will recognize the suggestion of an international barrier to the flow of ideas as forming one of the more vicious forms of collective thought control. The man who trusts his government to tell him what to think isn't worthy of freedom."

Success Secrets

By ELMER WHEELER

Sometimes a person can turn troubles into triumphs by just having an open mind. There's a large factory producing microphones and other electronic equipment in Buchanan, Mich., which wouldn't be there today if Albert R. Kahn, president, hadn't been an open-minded listener.

The business faced a crisis at the beginning of World War II when civilian microphone production was about to be stopped. It was necessary to find a new line which would be of military value. At this time Mr. Kahn lunched with a friend who was advertising manager of a radio magazine. The advertising man had an idea for a new type of microphone. He had tried to explain it to other technically trained acquaintances but they had brushed it off. What would a layman think of it?

Mr. Kahn didn't brush it off. He followed carefully while his friend sketched his idea on the tablecloth. The manufacturer saw a military use—the design would make it possible to transmit voice from a clattering tank, picking up voice but not noise.

A great deal of work went into the project before the differential or lip microphone was adopted by the Armed Forces. When it was finally approved the factory had to add an annex and then another.

At the war's end, Mr. Kahn was ready with new ideas for civilian production and the business continued to grow. He still listens to new ideas.

Major Mulkey's reasoning was this: "After all, I wear a conventional Army officer's blouse. General Lanham wears that stylish Eisenhower battle-jacket. If anything happens, with my kind of blouse who is the wiser? But no, these Joees like to strut their skinny waistlines and if a zipper snafu without any front on the jacket that is their problem. Bismark would have thought of the last boot-latch. For lack of a nail a shoe was lost, for the loss of a shoe a horse was lost, and so forth until a war was lost. Let that be a lesson."

Mulkey kept his trousers on in this crisis. A Scottish officer saw General Lanham ogling his kilt in a glistery way and took evasive action.

The hero of the crisis was Colonel Jock Lawrence, of New York and Hollywood, a press relations officer who seems to have taken domestic science in high school. Colonel Lawrence was charged into the breach, as it were, with an old copy of that sewing kit which was issued to GI's in the late war, known as binky.

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

It must be pleasant to be 24 years old and have the world land in your lap... Look at Marie Savena, who works by day on the production staff of a TV show called "It's in the Bag" and studies singing at night... On January 26, at 8:30 p.m., she will make her opera debut singing Mercedes in "Carmen"...

But will she keep her ditty job, just in case... Also there is Hilda Gueden, who made her opera debut this season at the Met singing Glia in "Rigoletto"... Out of that—an invitation: would she fly to Vienna and make ten appearances in five roles during a 30 day engagement with the Vienna State Opera?... With the blessings of the Met, she has departed via airplane.

Are you harassed, does a busy life keep your tension high and your nerves frazzled?... Read your way back to tranquility and the conquering spirit... Herewith seven books that can help you, that may alter your high pressure life: "Man Against Himself," Karl Menninger; "How Character Develops," Dr. Fritz Kunkel; "Peace of Mind," Joshua Liebman; "Mind and Body," Dr. Flanders Dunbar; "The Doctor, Alone Can't Cure You," Dr. Rolf Alexander; "The Forgotten Language," Eric Fromm and "How to Be Happy Though Human," Wolfe... After reading these you will feel better and conceivably do better.

The Quiet Man: Sidney Kingsley, playwright... There's a story about him in the February Esquire, but there are other facets to him... He is described as losing himself in a background when writing a play... Thus, for "Men in White" he lived almost as an intern and for "Detective Story" was so vigorously studying his scene he was mistaken for a detective... Where the theory fails: "The Patriots"... I'm certain Sidney never was mistaken for Thomas Jefferson.

Television is not my department night or day, but if I were a TV executive looking for something extra special I'd go out to California and collar Clark Sellers, whose profession is that of an examiner of questioned documents... There was a murderer no authority could arrest for murder, but Sellers unearthed evidence that got the accused 126 years of accumulative sentence for forgery... The British Museum once asked him to certify a signature of Shakespeare that every authority had pronounced genuine... Sellers called it a fake—and proved it... He knows of a forged tombstone, and once worked for a poison pen writer who hired Sellers to find the writer of them... Sellers did, and quickly pointed his finger at his employer... Sellers stopped the exhausting, long strike at Allis-Chalmers by proving that literally thousands of union votes were forged substitutes... For more than 30 years he has been pinning down fakes and forgeries and was an important witness in the trial of Bruno Hauptmann, convicted kidnapper of the Lindbergh baby.

Every time I hear someone talk about a "mastermind" in crime, all I can think of is that in all these years criminals have never learned a basic law: don't cheat on income taxes... It's always the weak spot in their set-up, the door through which authority can enter and convict them.

Let us avert our eyes while Colonel Lawrence with magnificent initiative and quick, sure stitches, closed the gap and saved the day.

General Lanham then called the press conference and with that sang froid, that je ne sais quoi, that, if one may say so, dolce far niente for which he is noted, delivered the election which—who knows the contrary, announced the next President of the United States.

"It was nothing," Colonel Lawrence said. "A simple little stitch I learned from Dave Dugli's in the late war, known as binky."

National Whirligig... Eisenhower's Candidacy May Get Army Brass in Politics

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Members of the high command in the American Army in Europe during World War II may be dragged into presidential politics as a result of General Eisenhower's decision to become a candidate for the Republican nomination.

His testimony may be needed to defend "Ike" against rivals' charges that he was partially responsible for the partitioning of Germany that left the Western powers — the United States, Britain and France — in a vulnerable position vis-a-vis the Russians.

Besides the "iron curtain" control of Eastern Germany, Poland, Austria and other areas, the arrangement did not give the Western powers direct land access to Berlin. It is this omission which has left us at the mercy of Moscow.

The other issue raised frequently is that General Eisenhower should have pushed his force faster and farther eastward so that the Russians could not have achieved their historic aim of gaining a foothold in the heart of industrial Europe.

Although it seems obvious that such important problems could not be decided by military officers, the question has been brought up again and again in attempts to weaken and embarrass Eisenhower. It has appeared in books, magazine articles and speeches. It will be heard more frequently in the pre-convention struggle, and possibly in the campaign, if "Ike" should be the GOP entry.

President Truman has already warned his European commander that he must expect to face a barrage of dead cats and rotten tomatoes.

DISAGREED — In any event, the Eisenhower candidacy will have the effect of solving a mystery which still puzzles high-ranking statesmen in Europe and abroad. Even Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Minister Eden, in reminiscing over war days with military men on their recent visit to Washington, disagreed on details.

The contention, it is known, was made in London by the European Advisory Commission. The American member was John G. Winant, former governor of New Hampshire and former ambassador to London, who committed suicide several years ago.

In discussing the question, Churchill said he doubted if the agreement had ever been ratified by the British Cabinet. When Eden assured him that it had been, the Prime Minister replied that he had tried to find documentary evidence of the approval since his return to office, but without success.

CONCERNED — General Eisenhower's companion in arms and close friend, General Omar N. Bradley, has told part of the story in a way that should exonerate "Ike" on this issue. Writing in his biography, "A Soldier's Story," he indicates that he at least was extremely unhappy and concerned over the advantage given to the Reds. He says:

"These occupation boundaries had already been drawn by the European Advisory Commission in London. They were haggled over at Quebec, approved at Yalta, and finally forwarded for compliance to us in the field. Meanwhile, as a result of the agreement, Berlin was to be established as a Four Power island in the center of the Russian zone. Thus the capital of Germany was to be divided equally into four sectors and governed under quadripartite control."

"SYMBOL" — Bradley then indicates that neither he nor Eisenhower had any faith in a program which depended for successful operation on Russia's postwar cooperation and friendliness. He continues:

"When I asked SHAEF (presumably Eisenhower — Ed. Note) how we were to supply U.S. forces in Berlin, I was told that we would be PERMITTED (the caps are Bradley's — Ed. Note) to run 'trains' through the Russian zone, 110 miles from the Western boundary. He insisted that the environs of Berlin.

"But we were to have no corridor, no assurance, no specific guarantee of passage through the Russian zone. Instead, Berlin was to be constituted in trust as a symbol of unity among the allies.

"DEPENDENT" — "Although I did not dispute the Great Illusion — for I was no less beguiled than the others on the Soviet's friendly postwar intentions — the isolation of Berlin offered me primarily, because it violated one of the fundamental tenets of logistics.

"In fighting a battle, I would never have assumed responsibility for a sector unless I was certain I could have supplied it. In the supply of Berlin we were to be totally dependent upon the good will of the Soviets. And dependence, I learned as a boy in Missouri, does not make for the very best neighbors."

The term "nervous breakdown" is used for many different conditions and this is no single disease, having therefore no single group of symptoms or single cause.

In some people who are labeled as having a nervous breakdown, the cause seems to be a serious, acute or distress and strain of modern living. The symptoms can be quite mild and recovery reasonably prompt.

In others a nervous breakdown is used to describe some serious mental disease with a big alteration in personality and a slow recovery.

Just as in other human ailments the problem is to find out what is causing the mental difficulty. This is not always easy. The causes of the mental conditions are not thoroughly understood.

Some of them may come from the heavy stresses of modern life and the great mental tensions produced by the world of today. A few, but by no means all, are perhaps inherited.

Mental treatment (psychotherapy) administered by brain specialists and the great mental therapy including hot or cold baths, handwork and shock treatments are often helpful and have brought thousands back to normal.

Although much still has to be learned about causes, prevention, and treatment of the various kinds of mental diseases, progress is already far advanced and even better results will surely come.

When the fortunate thing is that many will recover and find themselves quite normal again. Many people who have gone away for a while with a nervous breakdown come back to their family and friends entirely restored to health.

When they do they should be treated perfectly normal and not as though they were in disgrace.

It really happened: Two 10-year-old boys made a "swap" of prized possessions. Both were satisfied with the trade, though to an adult's eyes one boy got the best of the bargain.

By adult standards, the mother of the boy who made the poor trade thought the mothers should make the boys trade back. She didn't think that a trade which to her seemed unequal should be allowed to stand.

How foolish parents are when they won't let their children make their own choices in even such small matters.

In this case, both boys were satisfied. And if the boy who got the small end of the bargain, according to adult values, was happier with his traded possession than with his original one, who can say he made a poor bargain?

Even if he was sorry ten minutes after the trade, there was a lesson to be learned if the grown-ups had let the trade stand.

Next time he would have weighed the values more carefully before letting go of one thing to get another.

He would have learned the important lesson that if you give up one thing to get another you had better be sure you want the second thing most, and that you'll continue to want it most.

It is easier for a child to learn to take the consequences for his own decisions when he is young, than for him to have to learn that hard fact after he is grown and the decisions are really important ones.

And it is a mistake for parents to deny their children the right to profit from their own mistakes.

That is just one phase of "over-protection." And "over-protection" is something all loving parents have to guard against.

Mrs. A. H. McPeak was hostess to the Annie Sallee circle this week. Mrs. John Brown presided the meeting with a prayer and Mrs. J. W. Holt presented two chapters from the mission book, "Crusade in Home Missions."

Attending were Meses. H. G. Lawrence, Fred Williams, E. R. Tower, Holt, A. H. McPeak, and the hostess.

The Mary Martha circle met with Mrs. Jack Crites. Pineapple cookies and coffee were served to Meses. Hal Opchurch, R. E. Warren, Kenneth Browning, Hubert Moore, W. Love, W. F. Webb, Bill Lam, Gene Gates and the hostess.

Mrs. Warren closed the meeting with prayer.

It Says Right Here

We are travellers on the way. We want to arrive. We want good directions; we have not been this way before; we shall go on the path but once. How important, then, that we follow the right directions! Serious men have been crying through the centuries, "Which way shall I take?" Here is a man who has found it. Listen, look, read, with Him.

It's an old guide book and a good one. Its commands come with the authority of Heaven to earth, of God to man, of eternity to time. Centuries of human experience have declared them right. Your own soul recognizes their right to control. Be quiet and know the good and the true and the right. Hear the challenge!

Thou shalt worship! Our neighbors and family command, "Thou shalt work"; more important still is the ancient and imperious word, "Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God." Thou shalt keep the Sabbath! Be sure that you hold something sacred; some place, some time, some Person. Else all life becomes common, that is, secular or vulgar. Thou shalt honor! Whom shall we honor? Answer: the people nearest and dearest to you, the everyday folks with whom you live, and to whom you owe so much. Thou shalt not murder! But also, "Thou shalt not hate thy brother." Thou shalt not commit adultery! But also, "Thou shalt not lust," since the evil desire comes first. Thou shalt not steal! But also, thou shalt not covet or desire what belongs to another.

Aren't you glad for these clear clarion calls to conscience? Have you come to the place where you change the wording and say, "I must?" I must worship; I must keep holy days; I must honor my parents; I must be clean of thought and purpose. Change the second person to the first; "thou" to "I". God's commandments become my commandments, God's way becomes my way... "it says right here."

YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you" form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCHGOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

Browning Statue Back At Baylor

WACO — (AP) — Baylor's errant "clashed hands" of Robert and Elizabeth Browning were back home Thursday.

Dr. A. Joseph Armstrong, Baylor's world famous authority on the 19th century English poets, was asleep when the bronze cast was taken to his home at 8:45 Wednesday night.

The discovery was made by Vice President W. T. Gooch of Baylor who found the bronze cast on the front seat of his auto. The car had been in the Gooch driveway about five hours.

The relic was returned after Dr. W. R. White, Baylor president, made a public promise of "no questions asked" if the hands were returned.

The art object, the work of American sculptress Harriett Hosmer was taken from its glass case in the foyer of mediation in the $3 million Armstrong-Browning library sometime Monday night.

The white-haired, gaunt Armstrong, much perturbed at the loss of one of his library's treasures, had prayed that the hands of his idols would be returned unharmed.

Except as pieces in his Browning collection, perhaps the world's largest, they had no real value, he said. The person who had given them to Baylor, however, had refused a $5000 offer for them.

When Dr. Gooch found the hands Wednesday night, they were covered with mud as if the famed relic had been hidden in a creek bed or other wet place.

Armstrong, who arises at 1 a.m. to work, had a crowd of friends and well-wishers gathering in his home soon after news of the relic's discovery was released.

Lefors — (Special) — Honoring eight graduating seniors, as well as the rest of the football team, the annual football banquet will be held at the school cafeteria Saturday night in the school cafeteria.

Sponsored by the football mothers, the event will be emceed by newly elected Lefors coach, Bob Callan, the personable young fellow who has coached several Lefors boxers to regional honors and produced the potent Pirate forward wall on the football team last fall.

Speaker at the banquet will be Jack McElrath of Pampa. Entertainment will be provided by Jeanne Williamson's group of dancers of Pampa, with musical background by Desmond Brewer's Lefors High school band.

It was announced that the football lettermen and reserve lettermen will be introduced at the affair. Several former Pirates have signified their intention of being present.

Business Office To Remain Open

The school business office will be open from 2:30 p. m. Saturday in order that fans desiring to purchase season basketball tickets or tickets for the Berger game tomorrow night may do so. Roy McMillen, school business manager, announced this morning.

McMillen said that there were still several good season tickets left, but general admission tickets for the Berger contest were rapidly moving.

Pampa Glovers To Enter Berger Meet

Pampa Golden Glovers who want to participate in the Berger District tournament which opens tonight, are asked to meet at the old Pampa News building at 4 o'clock this afternoon. A bus will leave there at that time for Berger.

All boys who didn't win berths on the Pampa District team can enter the Berger tournament. Oran James, president of the Pampa Boys Club, Inc., who co-sponsored the Pampa tournament with The Pampa News, said that he expects to enter about 20 boys in the Berger meet.

The tournament is scheduled for two days, although it may be extended through Monday in the event that enough contestants enter.

High school division winners of the Oklahoma City regional tournament next week at Amarillo, starting Tuesday.

Griffin To Attend Baseball Meeting

Ivy Griffin, business manager of the Pampa Oilers, left this morning for Oklahoma City where he will attend a National Association of Minor League Baseball clinic. The various meetings are being conducted all over the country, one being held at Abilene today.

Griffin said that while there he would confer with various other baseball officials in an attempt to obtain players and strengthen the Oilers.

"I have a couple of iron in the fire right now," Griffin said, "and may have an announcement or two shortly."

Manager Jake Phillips, who was in town earlier this week working out training plans and other problems, returned to his home in Fort Worth Wednesday.

Football Secondary Neely Tells Boys

A stunned, startled and speechless Oscar Sargent, junior backfield man who will be ineligible because of the semester ruling next year, became the third Pampa Harvester griddle to receive the "Fighting Heart Award" for football "guts." In the estimation of the three Harvester coaches, Sargent showed the most spirit and fight during the entire 1951 season, thus gaining the honor. Sargent's name will be placed on the trophy alongside the other winners, Pete Cooper and Buzzy Tarpley.

The announcement was made at the annual Harvester football banquet, held in the senior high school cafeteria last night before an excellent crowd of approximately 375 guests, parents, and friends. The banquet was one of the finest in the string of annual affairs.

GRANDEST IN-WORLD Coach Jess Neely, head coach of the Rice Owls and guest speaker for the night, told the boys that "we have the grandest game in the world. It has meant a lot to the youngsters taking part. But remember one thing — athletics has a part in schools, but it is secondary to getting an education." He urged the boys to complete their schooling and enjoy their playing football.

Neely, who just finished his twelfth season at Rice and is trustee of the American Football Coaches Association, just returning from that convention in Cincinnati, said that "there are very few things wrong with our football now. They can be corrected by (1) every boy being required to have the necessary credits to enter school and to keep up his schoolwork, and (2) making outsiders refrain from promising the boy more than he should get."

Neely supported a boy's participation in football by saying that "a boy who plays football not only gets the physical training, but he gets a mental training due to the many spur-of-the-moment decisions which he must make."

Following his talk, Neely showed movies of the SMU-Rice game of this season.

Miss Lajuana Garner was crowned queen of the 1951 Harvester football team by co-captain Bill McPherson and Jerry Walker. She was given a bouquet of yellow roses while her attendants, Sue Stewart and Elwyn Young, escorted by John Young and Roy Pool, looked on.

Special music was furnished by the popular Harmonizers of Frank Phillips Junior College of Berger. Randall Clay, ex-Harvester footballer, served as toastmaster. Rev. Lyle Albright gave the invocation. O. M. Prigmore introduced the special guests and J. W. Graham, Jr., introduced the speaker of the night.

GIFT AWARDS Among the special guests present were Guy Gardner, Berger head coach, C. A. Cryer of the Berger schools, Cliff Gibbs of the Berger News-Herald, Mr. and Mrs. Chasty Walker of Phillips, and Bert Isbell and Howard Moore of Skellytown.

The cafeteria was beautifully decorated for the event by the football mothers, with sea foam floral posts at every table, a bouquet of every Harvester footballer, and miniature footballs at each table.

In addition, a football cake, laid out like a gridiron with a football in the middle, was on the Harvester table. Frosting on the cake said "First in our hearts and second in our district."

Special gifts were awarded all of the football coaching staff, Coach and Mrs. Tom Tipps received a 10-foot deep freeze refrigerator; Mrs. Tipps received a bouquet of roses; the two Harvester assistant coaches, Aubra Nockstater and Desam Lyon, received gift certificates for suits of clothes; and coaches Marvin Bowman, Wayne Tripp, Eustace Frizzell and Weldon Trice received gift certificates for hats. All gifts were from the Pampa Quarterback Club.

(By The Associated Press) Today a year ago — the Baltimore Colts withdrew from the National Football League.

Five years ago — the Detroit Tigers sold veteran Hank Greenberg to the Pittsburgh Pirates for an unannounced price.

Ten years ago — Joe DiMaggio of the New York Yankees was voted the "player of the year" by the New York Baseball Writers' Association.

Racial Issue Forgotten As Kroll Assumes Record Lead

By BOB MYERS SAN DIEGO — (AP) — The racial issue took a back seat, at least temporarily, today and most of the nation's leading golfers renewed their challenge to a sub par golf and a crack at the money in the $10,000 San Diego Open.

The field of 130 or more contestants was ready to swing into the second round of the 72-hole event, first major tournament in San Diego's history.

Leading the field, with a seven-under-par, competitive course record — breaking 65, was 32-year-old Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N. Y.

Kroll's score, achieved in the last few holes in a driving rain, broke a 25-year-old mark for the par 72 San Diego Country club set by the present PGA president and stern center of the racial question, Horton Smith.

Smith himself shot an incredible 73 yesterday — remarkable in that for days he has been embroiled in the Negro vs PGA controversy.

His partners were Joe Louis, who had essayed the role of Spearhead in the controversy, and Leland Gibson, a member of the PGA tournament committee.

Louis, a two-handicap amateur, turned in a 35-38-76 and Gibson 37-36-72.

Their scores were good, considering, but they hardly compared to the 23 others which were under par.

Three strokes back of Kroll were Tommy Bolt, Dr. Cary Middlecott and Felice Torza.

Four strokes back at 69, were six men, including the dangerous Lloyd Mangrum.

PGA RULING CHANGE Louis, meanwhile, as the first Negro to compete in an event co-sponsored by the PGA, took the distinction lightly but personally pressed for an enlargement of scope in the PGA rule against non-Caucasians.

Smith, with the approval of such fellow pros as Gibson, Jimmy Demaret, Paul Runyan and others, told Louis and his secretary, Leonard Reed, that he would attempt a plan that would short-cut the PGA's rigid constitution and permit players now ineligible to compete in PGA-sanctioned events.

Abilene Host To Baseball Meeting ABILENE — (AP) — Representatives of five minor league baseball leagues convene a two-day baseball promotion clinic here today.

Robert Finch, public relations director of the National Association of Minor Leagues, was in charge.

The Longhorn League, in a special directors meeting before the clinic, gave Sweetwater until Feb. 1 to decide whether it will continue in the circuit.

Other leagues represented at the promotion clinic are the Big State League, Gulf Coast League, West Texas-New Mexico League, and the Sooner State League.

Clarence (Chief) Boston, grid coach at the University of New Hampshire, is a member of the rules committee of the American Football Coaches Association.

Fort Worth GG Regional Going FORT WORTH — (AP) — The 16th annual regional Golden Gloves tournament continues tonight, Saturday and Monday here with a bulging field of leather slingers.

Bulldogs Know They Need Win

By GLEN ELKINS BORGER News-Herald (Special) — The Borger Bulldogs know better than anyone else that their title chase rests with their Saturday night duel with the Pampa Harvesters.

The Bulldogs breezed through 15 straight opponents before district contention started and then confused experts by dropping a 55-58 decision to the Abilene Eagles, a team fated no better than fourth by pre-season doers.

SCARE OF LIVES The following night they proved the Abilene loss was no accident, getting the scare of their young lives in edging the San Angelo Bobcats 59-58 in the last seven seconds of play — in both games they looked like anything but first place contenders.

Tuesday night, however, the high scoring Pack staggered Amarillo's Golden Sandstorm, 67-43 and looked like champions in the process.

Riding a 15-1 victory train at the present time the Hanna-men should answer several questions in Pampa Saturday. Before the district race started Poly of Fort Worth was rated as the toughest test for the Dogs. With no pressure, on they disposed of the big-city school 60-56.

However, when the chips were down they almost lost to a team that was beaten by the Pampa. Amarillo put the pressure on again in the first half of Tuesday night's game and battled Borger on even terms until they got ice-box cold under the basket and removed the pressure themselves.

LINEUP Key man in the Bulldog camp is big Mack (Snake) Carter, a 6'4" letterman who has better than a 19 point average. In three district games the black-haired senior collected 65 points despite the fact that he missed the entire last half of the Abilene game.

James Morgan, 5'10" provides Borger with a scoring punch from any position on the floor. Carter has a 13 point mark with his one handed push shots.

Six-foot six-inch Jimmy Bishard provides much needed height and contributes his share of points as a rebound artist.

Twins Oth and Dee Miller hold guard positions and combine their superior ball handling and floormanship with better than average shooting eyes.

A junior Tommy Newland has threatened to steal the show lately however. Newland's best night was at San Angelo last week when he connected for six straight field goals in less than five minutes of the last half. Newland is 5'9".

Comiskey Troubles Due Airing Today CHICAGO — (AP) — The Comiskey family carries its troubles from the parlor to the board of directors table today to see what can be done about young Charles A. Comiskey, II.

The clan's only male, 26-year-old "Chuck" has been kicking up a fuss about his status in the family baseball business — the Chicago White Sox.

The Comiskies, friendly enough on a personal and social basis, don't always harmonize when it comes to business matters.

Chuck resigned Monday in an official statement that protested an "inadequate" salary and a "day-to-day" term of office as vice-president and secretary of the White Sox.

SELL STOCK In subsequent public remarks he said that if his position wasn't improved he'd sell his stock (worth perhaps a million dollars) and go with some other baseball organization.

Though young Comiskey and his two sisters, Gracie Lou and Mrs. John Riney, own among them two-thirds of White Sox stock, the real boss of the one-family enterprise is their mother, Mrs. Grace R. Comiskey. She is club president and owns the other third of the stock.

Chuck Comiskey's salary for 1951 was reported to be $10,000, plus possibly $15,000 to $20,000 in dividends. The Sox had a good year financially as well as on the field.

Comiskey complained that repeated confidential requests for a bigger salary and a fixed contract availed him nothing. He then decided to put the matter on a black-and-white basis, got himself a lawyer, prepared his demands in official form, and submitted them that way.

The matter rested there until the official board of directors' meeting at 1:30 p. m. today.

In addition to the captain, each National Hockey League team has three alternate captains.

Play Sandies Tonight; Open Fieldhouse Tomorrow Night

Pampa's hustling Harvesters will have an opportunity to hustle themselves into the favorites role in the District 1-AAAA basketball campaign this weekend, starting tonight.

Tonight at 8 o'clock they try the Amarillo Sandies in the Amarillo Sports Arena, and then tomorrow night host the Borger Bulldogs. Twin victories this weekend could put the Green and Gold, already holding two conference wins — over San Angelo and Abilene — into a leading position to grab title honors.

The game with the Bulldogs will be the dedication contest for the new fieldhouse. The doors will be open at 7 o'clock, and a capacity crowd of 2400 fans is anticipated.

SANDIES FIRST But back to first things first. That is the contest tonight. The Harvesters will be putting their 33-0 record on the line against a team that has been red-hot from the field all year. The Sandies have played 14 games so far, and have a record of 10 wins against four losses.

The losses were 40-39 to Claassen of Oklahoma City, 35-33 to Tucumcari, 44-42 to Odessa and 37-43 to Borger last Tuesday at Amarillo.

The ten victories were 58-26 over Price College, 66-41 over Plainview, 60-43 over Phillips, 55-40 over Portales, 63-31 over Dumas, 51-39 over Las Vegas, 42-29 over Santa Fe, 64-49 over Lamar, Col., 65-30 over Plainview and 67-41 over Lubbock.

The starting lineup for Coach T. G. Hull's Sandstorm will be Manning (5-10) and Hudson (6-9) at forwards, Boyd (6-7) at center, and Jenkins (5-11) and Wright (6-11) at guards.

The contest with the Bulldogs tomorrow night is also scheduled for an 8 o'clock tipoff, and promises to be a whining, dinger all the way. The Harvesters couldn't match the fine Bulldog ballclub of last season, but hope to drop the Borgans from the top contender's role tomorrow night.

IS-1 RECORD The Pack's record thus far is 15-1, the lone loss a 58-55 upset just a week ago at Abilene. The victories were 64-46 and 65-32 over Gruver, 48-30 and 43-37 over Clovis, 48-37 over Tucumcari, 59-45 over Capitol Hill of Oklahoma City, 60-39 over Lubbock, 60-36 over Fort Worth Polytechnic, 64-23 over Childress, 51-35 over Portales, 68-28 over Raton, 74-35 and 51-31 over Clayton, 59-58 over San Angelo and 67-43 over Amarillo.

Coach Tex Hanna has a pair of tall boys in center Mack Carter and forward Jimmy Bishard, with a couple of twin guards, Oth and Dee Miller. Sharpshooting forward James Morgan finishes out the line-up. These five will be the potential starters, although junior Tommy Newland looked so good in the defeat at Abilene that he may earn himself a starting role.

Carter has been the scoring pace setter all season, taking over where big Keith Lane left off in 1951. Carter has averaged 33 points per game, dumping in 30 against San Angelo last Saturday.

Both games will be broadcast direct from the scene of the action by radio station KPDM.

Pro Grid Draft Takes Many Southwest Stars

Billy Wade Just Good Insurance
NEW YORK — (AP) — Coach Joe Stydahar of the Los Angeles Rams hopes to get a year's service out of his prize draft choice, Billy Wade, before the Vanderbilt quarterback goes into service.
"It's possible, you know," the trapping one-time Chicago Bears tackle said today. "Bill is in the V-5 naval program. When he graduates he gets a commission and then it becomes a matter of when he's called up. Sometimes it's a year."
Once summoned for active duty, however, the potential enigma must spend two years in Navy duty. Asked why he chose Wade as his bonus player in the National Football League draft when he had two of the pro game's outstanding T-quarterbacks in Bob Waterfield and Norm Van Brocklin, Stydahar said:
"I have found you can't have a winning ball club in this league unless you have a good T-quarterback. Besides, Waterfield hasn't signed his contract for 1952 and it's not certain he will play."
Bill Jurney, Arkansas end, and the Cleveland Browns took Herschel Forester, Southern Methodist guard.
In the tenth round the Detroit Lions selected Steve Dowden, Baylor tackle; the New York Giants chose Pat Knight, Southern Methodist end, and Los Angeles picked Luke Welch, Baylor tackle.
In the eleventh round Green Bay chose Bill Burkhalter, Rice back, and Detroit took Keith Flowers, all-America linebacker from Texas Christian.
Other southwestern collegians drafted include:

Perryton Rangers Clip Irishmen
SHAMROCK — (Special) — Coach Scott McCall's Irish boys dropped a 45-30 contest to the tough Perryton Ranger quintet here Tuesday night.
Led by Laurel Lovett and Pattison, the Rangers raced to an 18-3 lead in the first stanza. They were well ahead at 25-11 at intermission. In the third canto they lengthened their lead to 26-18 and then coasted in, as the Irish at last began to find the range.
Pattison connected for 16 points to pace the Ranger crew, while Mack Terry flashed better form than at any time this season, as he rang up 11. Van Pennington, Irish scoring star, had a bad night and was limited to four counters.
Shamrock had a preview of what the District I-AA championship tourney will be like at Perryton, Feb. 22-24, when the Rangers host Shamrock, Dumas, Dalhart and the potent Phillips Blackhawks, losers to the titans of Pampa by only 20 points.
McCall's Lassies made a better showing, dropping their 'tilt 45-40.
Led by a tall, potent forward, Betty Schnell, the Rangerettes took a narrow, 10-8 lead at the quarter, spurring on to a 24-14 halftime margin. In the third canto they raced forward to hold a 37-26 lead, and then their second string came in to hold the

Follow Through Completes Bowler's Grooves Delivery
By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
NEW YORK — (AP) — When the New York Highlanders came into the American League, they got their franchise from Baltimore for $18,000. . . With Baltimore seeking a pro football franchise, it seems the least Ted Collins could do would be to sell his Yanks to that city for the same price. . . He's probably save money in the long run, too. . . The departure of Willie Mays for the Cardinals, Gail Hentley, former U. of Southern California player, and Floppy Hartung are the only available outfielders on the roster unless Leo Durocher decides to re-convert some of his outfielders. . . Hockey fans in Watertown, Mass., are up in arms because two of their boys, Joe Folino and Dick Bradley, were brushed off the Olympic squad.

Follow Through Completes Bowler's Grooves Delivery

SEVENTH of a series written and illustrated for NEA Service
By BUDDY BOMAR
Your work is not done when you have released the ball with the right hand.
You must continue the upward motion of the arm and slide to a complete stop while maintaining your balance.
If you don't keep your balance, and fall or step across the foul line, you might just as well have thrown the ball into the gutter.
Good bowlers, like superior golfers, groove their swings through long practice in doing the right things.
Part of this grooved swing is the proper follow through. If you do not make the follow through a part of your move, you do not have a complete, grooved delivery. You will not be able to develop consistency.
Top bowlers score high because they have mastered their deliveries.
They release the ball at almost the same point every time.
Without the correct follow through, which the delivery will be a short, choppy motion which will not apply the same amount of hook to the ball each time.
In the follow through, as in other phases of the approach and delivery, the primary thought should be to maintain your right foot on the floor to act as a brake and to help their balance.
I lift mine into the air, where it provides balance for me.
Some bring the arm up higher on the follow through than others. Try several methods.
Find the one that suits you best.

STOP—Buddy Bomar slides to a complete stop while maintaining his balance. (NEA)

Canadian Splits Doubleheader

CANADIAN — (Special) — The Wildcats split a doubleheader with Phillips' team in Canadian Monday evening. In the opener the Canadian "B" team defeated Phillips "B" 29-17. The game was close all the way, never more than two to four points difference at any time, only one point separating the teams at the ends of the first, second, and third quarters. The lead had changed hands several times in the final quarter, before the Canadian B team emerged victorious.
In the second game, the Phillips Blackhawks defeated the Canadian Wildcats 52-22. The Blackhawks lead all the way, and were never pressed. The Wildcats played hard but never could get started to clicking. The hottest thing South Carolina Wildcats had trouble finding the basket, and hit only about 10 percent of their free shots, for a total of two. Buddy Gray of Phillips tossed in nine field goals for a total of 28 points and high marks down the "pneu" practice trade-un- score of the evening. Coggin of the U. of Oklahoma stadium, Phillips made 14 points. Buddy track coach John Jacobs tried to soak up the water with sawdust, with 7 points, and Jimmy Ju- . . . It worked only on one lane and Jacobs moaned: "I had my single file. Just like they were dished men hit the sawdust trail at a revival."

Inquirer Track Meet Tonight

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — The Rev. Bob Richards tries to vault to a new winning streak tonight at a field of past, present and future track and field champions converge on convention hall for the eighth annual Philadelphia Inquirer track meet.
The national decathlon and U. S. and Pan-American pole vault champion is still hurting from his first defeat in 51 meets Saturday in Washington. He's glad Door Laz, former Illinois athlete who licked him with a 15 foot, three inch leap, will be on hand.
Sharing the spotlight with the vaulters is the usually colorful mile event. Don Gehrman, the Wisconsin whippet, will attempt to maintain his mastery over Fred Wilt, FBI agent. Finn champ Dennis Johanson and two servicemen, Gene Haynes of the Navy and Bob Jones of the Marines, are in the field.
Llan made 6. No one else made more than one basket.

Ike's Name Entered In New Hampshire As GOP Candidate

CONCORD, N. H. — (AP) — Gen. Eisenhower's name was entered in New Hampshire's preference primary as a Republican candidate for President.

A large group of "I Like Ike" supporters headed by Gov. Sherman Adams presented petitions to Secretary of State Enoch D. Fuller entering the general's name on the ballot of the primary, March 11, first in the nation.

Gov. Adams is chairman of the New Hampshire Eisenhower-for-President committee.

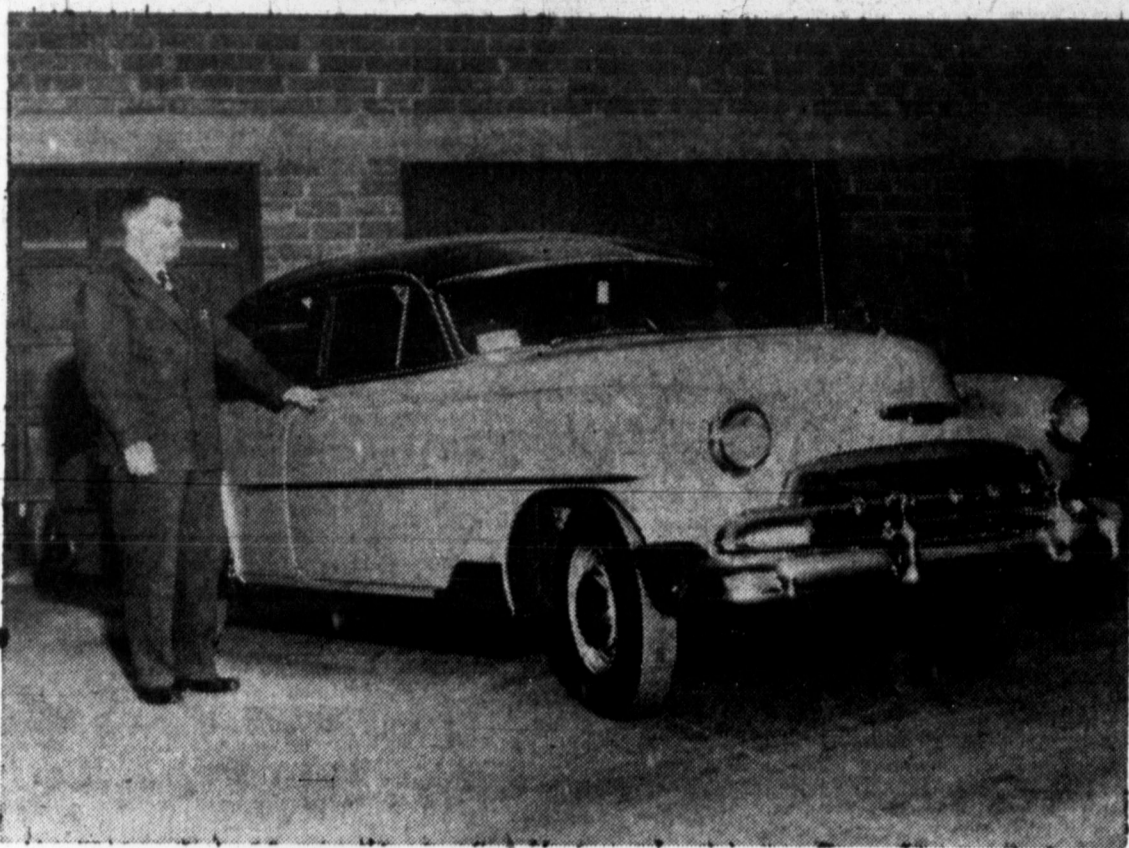

His consent, however, not yet given, still will be necessary before his name appears on the March 11 ballot — the first in the nation.

Secretary of State Enoch D. Fuller cabled Gen. Eisenhower in Paris informing him he is a candidate. The general has 10 days to withdraw his name.

If he does not reply to the cable within the time specified by New Hampshire law, state officials will interpret his silence as consent and he will be officially a candidate for President.

Eisenhower forces in New Hampshire have stated publicly they are confident the general will permit his name to remain on the ballot.

In a statement from his Paris headquarters about 10 days ago, Gen. Eisenhower said he would respond to a "clear-cut call to political duty," but would not personally campaign for the GOP nomination.

Chorines Blow Fuse Over Electronics

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Hugo Gernsback, go to the rear of the class, and take your electronic mating machine with you. An exhaustive survey of American womanhood (well, we talked to four girls, and that can be exhausting) proves unquestionably that they want no truck with machine-made marriage.

Gernsback is editor and publisher of Radio-Electronics Magazine. In his annual forecast of things to come, he predicts the world of the future will see a contraction which will "tell prospective couples if it is safe for them to mate, or not."

Four chorines — two married and two single — from "Guys and Dolls" didn't think much of the idea. In fact, cute and single Barbara Ferguson wrinkled up her cute and single nose and said, "Humph, I never did believe in electricity."

Onna White, tall, striking and married, was even briefer in her comments. She didn't even bother wrinkling her nose as she remarked, "It stinks."

Gernsback's electronic marriage counselor would be based on two tests — first, an elaborate questionnaire to see if the couple meets proper standards for successful marriage, and, second, a "linked" test (taken while kissing, holding hands or otherwise in close contact) to see if they have what Gernsback calls the proper "electric relationship."

The four young ladies thought highly of the "linked" test idea. Little Miss Ferguson, who is still single, felt that something nice that would be important. "How," she asked, "can you live with somebody who does nothing to you?" She added that she's felt such electric responses with men of the opposite sex at times.

Corroborating evidence, in the form of a faint smile and the word "Yes" came from the other single girl, glamorous, red-haired — Alicia Krug.

Marcia Maier, a curly-haired brunette who is married, wasn't quite sure if she'd felt an electric response or not.

"A chemical response, yes," she said. "If electrical response and chemical response are the same thing, I've noticed it."

About those standards of marriage, however, there was no agreement. In fact there was an interesting hen-session about what standards are important.

"You must have adequate finances," said Miss Ferguson, single.

"Not necessarily," said Miss Maier, married. "You can be happy even if you're a pauper, if you're in love."

"Ridiculous," said Miss Ferguson, single. "If you're starving, the guy doesn't look so good any more."

Miss White, the other married girl, went along with Miss Ferguson on the financial idea, which probably proves nothing. She also added "love" and "understanding" as prerequisites for a happy marriage.

Besides money, Miss Ferguson mentioned some other things. She said she thought sense of humor and mutual interests — such as children and pets — were vital.

Miss Maier just said, "Chemistry," bringing that up again.

Gernsback's own list of standards includes such things as heredity, individual taste, education, IQ, health, texture of hair, color, artistic sense, color perception and physical contour.

The single girls, surprisingly, were much fussier than the married girls. Miss Krug felt seven of those 11 items were important, Miss Ferguson eight, Miss Maier thought only five mattered, and Miss White said "no to all but four."

All of them agreed that similar backgrounds of education and IQ were helpful, and none of them felt that similar texture of hair or color perception meant anything to the chances of a happy marriage.

The big problem, of course, and one which may face romantic young things in years to come, is whether they would go ahead and marry if the machine predicted an unhappy union. The girls said they would.

"I'd marry the guy," Miss Maier muttered.

"I'd get married, anyway," said Miss White.

"I'd throw the machine out the window and get married," said Miss Krug.

"I'd go right ahead and get married," said Miss Ferguson.

Gernsback's machine would give the result in percentages — such as a 75 percent chance that the marriage will succeed — and the girls felt that a 50 percent average would be enough to give them a fighting chance.

Which proves there'll always be a woman and no machine can change that.

Lost Stradivarius Recovered On Beach

SANTA MONICA, Calif. — (AP) — A Stradivarius violin valued at $50,000 was found on the beach Wednesday less than 24 hours after it was swept from its owner's grasp and carried out to sea by flood waters.

A beach stroller found the case. The instrument inside was water soaked.

Violinist Sesscha Jacobsen, who lost the instrument when he was knocked off his feet by a flash flood Tuesday night, said he hoped the "Strad" could be repaired.

Work On Causeway May Begin Soon

BROWNSVILLE — (AP) — County Commissioner Andy Bowte believes work may be able to start soon on Cameron county's Port Isabel-to-Padre Island causeway.

Bowte said Wednesday the bureau of public roads in Washington had assured him steel will be made available for the causeway in the last half of 1952 and early 1953.

The commissioner added that sale of revenue bonds, he believed, would be approved now that steel will be available.

Exciting news in the repair department is a new electrical seal that will mend rubbers seal a bottle of perfume, and perform numerous other duties.

Bureau Denies Gambling Loophole
WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Internal Revenue Bureau denies there is a major loophole in the federal gambling tax law.

The bureau agreed with the Providence, R. I., Journal Thursday that a bookie might escape prosecution by buying a gambling stamp before the end of the month during which he was arrested for accepting bets.

But regardless of what action a gambler takes or when he accepted bets, the bureau said, the government has no case unless it can prove the gambler was engaged in "willful evasion" of the law.
