Freighter Enterprise Sinks; Gallant 2-Man Crew Safe

Carlson's Valiant Struggle Is Ended

ABOARD AP TUG ENGLISHMAN — (P) — The freighter Flying Enterprise sank in the Atlantic today after rescue of her gallant two-man crew. Thus Capt. Carlson's valiant fight against the elements to save his ship and cargo—valued at about 4 million dollars—came to a tragic end.

The Enterprise went down stern first just before 4 p.m. (11 a.m. EST). The Enterprise was hit by a wild Atlantic hurricane on Christmas day when she was four days out of Hamburg. A new storm rolled her over on her side this afternoon and she slowly went to the bottom.

Capt. Carlson, who fought alone on the ship from Dec. 29 until last Saturday when he was joined by Mate Kenneth Dancy of the British rescue tug Turmoil, was pulled out of the wintry sea by the Turmoil in a lifebelt, as was Dancy.

The Turmoil threw a rope ladder over the side to get them and they appeared nimble and able to move about freely. The sea about them was littered with cargo as the Enterprise slipped beneath the waves.

U. S. Navy headquarters in London said Carlson and Dancy got into dry clothes on the Turmoil and began resting from their long vigil. The Navy said they were in the water only four minutes.

A little after 3 p.m. it became evident that the Enterprise was sinking. There follows the running account of the sinking which the reporter dictated to the London bureau of the Associated Press by radio-telephone, for relay to the United States.

At 3:30 p.m., the Flying Enterprise keeled over on its side. The vessel made a terrific heave to port and a great mass of debris which apparently was material from the deck, floated away.

These objects, which seemed to be barrels and other objects, appeared in great profusion. Some of the accompanying tugs began to sound their sirens.

All ships were close in. The sea was running heavy. At 3:33 p.m. something else seemed to have broken on the Enterprise. Additional objects were tumbling out and began to dip around the ship.

The gallant freighter was going down stern first. At 3:34 she was still lying on her side.

The men who had been in the water seemed to be wearing life jackets. Both seemed nimble and able to move freely.

Then the bow began a distinct dip into the sea and the rescue craft moved slowly away from the Enterprise. It seemed only a matter of minutes. That was 3:58.

From this tug we could hear the wind howling outside. At 3:40, the last moments of the Enterprise had come. She was lying on her side. The bow was completely under water.

With each wave, it ducked deeper. The water around the ship seemed fairly to boil up with bits of cargo coming from the open hatches.

The sea was washing completely over the vessel. Both men would have to view again so that between swells perhaps half of its bulk could be seen.

Debris already had been scattered to a distance of half a mile around the ship.

March Of Dimes Heads List Plans For Drive

To date, $648.35 has been contributed to the local March of Dimes, Mack Hiatt, local drive treasurer said this morning.

Pampa chairman for the drive, Ken Meaders, said today the response through mailing of contributions is gratifying. "Because of the pressing needs caused by infantile paralysis, dollars instead of dimes are needed," he said.

Meaders added that during the remainder of the month many activities are planned through which Pampans can help in the drive against polio. Included in the events will be the mile-of-dimes drive the 18th.

Plans are being made to ask restaurants to serve coffee for 10 cents and motorists to put a dime instead of a nickel in parking meters on that day.

Howard Home, McLean drive chairman, said American Legion and Lions club will conduct a mile-of-dimes drive on Jan. 12 and 18. On both days a table large enough to hold 10,000 dimes will be placed in the middle of a prominent intersection. Traffic from four directions will be stopped and asked to place dimes on the table.

Rev. Edgar W. Henshaw, chairman of the local National Polio Foundation, who spoke to the Lions club in McLean recently, told the group that an immunization for polio may be discovered soon. He warned, however, that although the discovery is now a reality, it is necessary to continue contributions for research.

Invitations to vocational agriculture teachers in Area I have been sent by the H.E.A. to participate in the junior livestock judging contest Feb. 4. At 5:30 p.m. a dinner for vocational agriculture teachers and judging teams will be held in the Palm Rowin, City Hall.

Pamphlets giving information on the Hereford show have been sent to members and consignors by the association. These include names of consignors and the program for the show.

No contestant who previously has participated in the State area or Top of Texas livestock judging contest will be allowed to enter.

The program will include sitting of junior livestock Feb. 3, judging of junior livestock and breeding cattle Feb. 4 and junior livestock and breeding cattle sale Feb. 5.

City Wins Two-Year Fight On Barnes-Frederic Stop Light

Beginning today, the blinker light at E. Frederic and S. Barnes will go on full time traffic control. Permission for red-green light operation on a full-time basis was granted by the State Highway Dept. in a letter received yesterday by the city engineering department.

Until today the light at the Frederic-Barnes intersection was on blinker all day except the morning, noon and afternoon school hours when it was switched to complete traffic control.

For two years city officials attempted to have the light placed into full operation but were balked by the State Highway Dept. on grounds there was insufficient traffic to warrant it.

The state, however, accepted the traffic count made last November by the city and agreed to the change.

The count showed a total of 6275 cars entering the intersection during the busiest eight hours of the day. The state minimum is 6000 for the same period. The same count showed 261 cars traveling into the intersection from Barnes while the state minimum is 175.

Because E. Frederic is a state highway-street the city must first have permission of the State Highway Dept. before a full traffic signal may be installed.

CALVIN JONES, a member of the international board of the Society for Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, Inc., will leave Jan. 16 for the international mid-winter board meeting in Toronto, Canada, Jan. 18-19. Dr. Jones is immediate past president of the Southwest district and also past president of the local chapter of S.P.E.Q.S.A.

Extension On Auto Check Law Is Asked

(By The Associated Press) A new Texas automobile safety inspection law remained tangled in the hair of Texas officials, motorists and testing stations Thursday.

Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., State Department of Public Safety director, asked Atty. Gen. Price Daniel to rule if it would be legal to extend the safety-check deadline.

Garrison had decided Wednesday that completion of the testing job by the April 1 deadline was impossible.

Meanwhile, an injunction suit aimed at testing the inspection law was being retained in Fort Worth by State Rep. H. A. Hull. It was expected to be filed Thursday.

Under the measure, all cars must pass a safety inspection test on such things as lights, brakes, windshield wipers, wheel alignment, etc., before the owner can re-license his vehicle.

Rep. Hull told newsmen he would not file his proposed injunction suit if he didn't think he had a case. He and Attorney Guy Buell were retained by the Fort Worth Used Car Dealers Assn. to prepare a case which would enjoin Garrison's safety department from administering the law.

In Austin, Governor Allan Myers was expected to make a decision Thursday on whether to call a special session of the legislature to deal with the problem. Sources close to the governor expressed doubt that he would take such action.

Several state legislators had asked the special session early in the week and were joined Wednesday by the board of directors of the Tax Assessors and Collectors Assn. of Texas. The group approved a resolution on enforcement of the law of a special session to provide relief.

Daniel said he would give Garrison's request for an opinion on the deadline extension immediate study. He said he considered the present turmoil an emergency matter.

At least one late car owner threatened Garrison from sleep by telephoning at 2 a. m. to protest the law.

Already, the Highway department said it had notified county tax collectors not to require inspection certificates for transfer of titles on issuance of 1951 registration plates because the state thus far, has been unable to provide enough inspection stations.

Verdict Is Still Pending

A verdict in the shotgun death of Mrs. Billie Jean Granger, 22, was still to be turned in by Justice of the Peace John V. Andrews by 11 a.m. today.

Mrs. Granger was shot to death early yesterday morning with a 12-gauge shotgun in the bedroom of her home 15 miles south of Pampa. A farewell note, written to her mother, Mrs. Bonnie Miller, indicated suicide.

Funeral will be held at 10 a.m. Friday in Duibel-Carmichael Funeral Home chapel with J. P. Crenshaw officiating. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery.

Palbearers will be: J. L. Evington, E. E. Edwards, W. J. Dewey, C. J. Hollingsworth, R. E. Stephens, and George Funderburg.

Funeral Slated For McLean Resident

Funeral for W. M. Smith, 84, who died Wednesday in a Pampa hospital, will be conducted Friday at 2 p.m. in the McLean First Methodist church, Rev. C. W. Parmeter, church pastor, officiating, assisted by Rev. Buel Wells, pastor of the McLean First Baptist church.

Mr. Smith began farming near McLean in 1922 after moving from Jackson county, near Fort Worth. He was a native of Alabama.

He had been retired from business for several years due to ill health. Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. F. J. Dyer, McLean; two sons, Fred of Fort Worth and Ruel of McLean; 39 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

Burial will be in Hillier cemetery with Cleburne Funeral home in charge. Mr. Smith's grandsons will be pallbearers.

GETS INSPECTION ANYWAY — The new law requiring motorists to pass an auto inspection is causing a turmoil over the state today with an extension asked and court action threatened. Pioneer Files Final Application

Final application for two air routes through Pampa by Pioneer Airlines, Inc., has been filed with the Civil Aeronautics Administration, Robert J. Smith, Jr., president of the airlines, has informed local chamber of commerce officials.

One of the proposed routes would originate in Dallas with intermediate stops at Fort Worth, Wichita Falls, Vernon, Pampa, Borger and Amarillo. The return flight, starting at Amarillo, will include Pampa, Duncan, Okla., Fort Worth and Dallas.

Hearing on the docket tentatively has been set for February. If the Civil Aeronautics board grants the request, Pampa will have connecting service to all points south and east since Pioneer airlines makes connections with all their lines in Dallas and Fort Worth.

Pampa Chamber of Commerce officials now are in the process of gathering information showing convenience and necessity in support of the application.

In a letter to local officials, Smith said he would be in Pampa soon for discussion concerning action on the application.

SWEETHEART — Charlotte Allison, Lions club sweetheart for January, is welcomed to today's club meeting by President Sherman White. HST Says Ike Can Stay At European Post

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman said today he will keep General Eisenhower on the job as supreme commander of Allied forces in Europe as long as Eisenhower will stay there.

The President described Eisenhower as a grand man, and repeated at a news conference his past praise for him.

Mr. Truman said he had the utmost confidence in the general and had showed it by naming him to one of the most important posts it was within his power to give.

There has been speculation that Eisenhower might soon return to this country, now that he has made it plain he would accept a nomination from the Republican party for the presidency, if it should be offered to him.

In response to questions, Mr. Truman conceded that the general would have to resign if he were nominated for president.

But he said he will never relieve General Eisenhower of his post except at the general's request.

Eisenhower has said he would not ask to be relieved.

County Tax Office Is Back At Home

The county tax office is back home. Moving days for the office staff from the cramped, temporary quarters in the district engineer's office to the newly remodeled office ended last night. The first day run of tax collecting in the new office started at 8 a. m. today.

The newly remodeled quarters are highly recognizable to the old county tax offices. Instead of several little rooms there is one large room. The dingy, brown flooring has been changed to a bright red and buff-colored rubber floor. Daylight is brought from the present lights has taken the place of the weak glow from incandescent lamps.

The $4000 plus contract for remodeling the office was awarded last year by the county commissioners court to the T. J. Owens Construction Co., Pampa, and the Brooks Electric Co., Pampa. Two other contractors also entered bids on the job last November.

President To Bare Secret Details On Arms Expansion

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senators expected to learn today some new and secret details about President Truman's plan for expanding the armed forces "with particular emphasis on air power."

Secretary of Defense Lovett was called before a closed-door session of the Senate Armed Services committee for a general survey of the defense program.

Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) of the Senate group said Lovett probably would provide details on the broad requests outlined yesterday in the President's state of the union message.

Most lawmakers, both Republicans and Democrats, indicated they would go along with the President's proposal "to move a full steam ahead on our defense program."

Some of them said Mr. Truman indicated our intelligence agencies have a definite check on Soviet Russia's military strength when he said: "The grim fact remains that the Soviet Union is increasing its armed might. It is still producing more war planes than the free nations. It has set off two major atomic explosions."

"I hope that our officials will recognize the grim implications of this fact and proceed in the coming year to take the overdue steps necessary to strengthen the defense of our country."

Johnson's subcommittee has been criticizing what it called serious lags in defense production. It urged sharper cutbacks in civilian production to step up defense output.

President Truman appeared to confirm this in part, saying: "In the field of defense production, we have run into difficulties and delays in designing and producing the latest types of airplanes and tanks. Some machine tools and metals are still in extreme short supply."

Mobeetie Lions Plan Minstrel

MOREETTE — (Special) — First meeting of the Lions club for the new year was held in the Scout Hut Jan. 8. L. D. McCauley is president of the organization and Robert Dunaway secretary. Plans were made for a minstrel for the near future, with practice to begin at the next regular meeting. This time members were present.

Roberts County Library Board Officers Chosen

MIAMI (Special) — Roberts county library board officers were chosen this week at a meeting held in the courthouse.

Chosen to serve for the coming year: Mrs. Fred Gordon, vice-chairman, and Mrs. Mary O'Loughlin, secretary. Mrs. J. Clyde Loper has one more year to serve as chairman of the board to complete her three-year term.

Mrs. Gordon was named to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Woody Pond who recently moved to Pampa.

Committees chosen at the meeting included: finance, Mmes. Loran Gordon and Mary O'Loughlin; building and politics, Mmes. Loran Gordon, Dan Graham and Mary O'Loughlin; children's book selection, Mmes. Clark Mathews, Oskal Christopher and W. E. O'Loughlin; adult book selection, Mmes. W. F. Locke, Fred Gordon and A. H. Gordon.

Lorene Carlisle was elected assistant librarian to Mrs. Charles Lyons, librarian.

It was voted to ask county commissioners to provide additional shelf space for books.

The yearly report showed the library has more than 1000 readers in the files and 250 new books were added to the shelves.

Miami Men's Club Names Officers At Dinner Meet

MIAMI (Special) — Theo Jensen was elected president of the Miami Men's Service club at a dinner held this week in the Methodist church basement.

Others named to office were J. W. Thompson, secretary, and Cecil Shield, treasurer.

The new president appointed M. M. Craig, Ellis Locke and W. H. Carr to serve as a program committee for the February meeting.

January 26 was set as the date for the Roberts County 4-H Club fair show, annually sponsored by the service club. These prizes will be given in each of the senior and junior classes in the calf show, and one prize in the swine show has been added this year.

County Agent Vic Joiner and Earl Breeding were appointed to work up the prizes for the show. Locke was appointed chairman of a committee to help support the Pampa show, at which the local livestock will be exhibited and sold.

Rev. Roy Manning, new pastor of the First Baptist church, was a guest at the meeting.

Disappearance Of Agent Is Solved

ALVIN — The 1919 disappearance of insurance agent Roland Sparks of Alvin has been solved.

A Miami, Fla., mortician, with evidence brought here, has identified a body found hanging from a Miami tree Dec. 31 as that of Sparks.

A Miami coroner returned a verdict of suicide.

Papers found on the body indicated Sparks had wandered over much of the country since leaving Alvin.

Services Set For Magic City Man

SHAMROCK (Special) — Services for John Hogan Williams, Magic City, who died Tuesday in his home, will be held at Magic City Church of Christ Thursday at 2 p. m.

Born at Dingerfield, Texas, March 16, 1870, Mr. Williams came to Collinsworth county in 1926 and had lived in Wheeler county the past four years. He was a member of the Magic City Church of Christ.

He is survived by his wife, three daughters, Mrs. J. C. Wheeler of Oregon City, Ore., Mrs. Clyde Myers of Milburn, Okla., Mrs. Eob Deshavo, Van Horn, Texas, and a son, Andy, Houston.

Richerson Funeral home is in charge. Burial will be in Shamrock cemetery.

Acheson Facing Aid Questioning

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Foreign Affairs committee will call on Secretary of State Acheson next week for a full review of the world situation before setting out on a stormy session over foreign aid.

Chairman Richards (D-SC) said the committee wants to question Acheson, among other points, on what Prime Minister Churchill expects in further American assistance.

Richards said he approved President Truman's request for continued foreign assistance at high levels. But the chairman said there is a strong sentiment in Congress for keeping this help "in the bounds" that the country can afford.

Other lawmakers echoed this view.

Funeral Today For James A. Gardner

SHAMROCK (Special) — Services for James A. Gardner, Dozier, who died at his home Tuesday, will be held Thursday in the Dozier Methodist church, with burial and graveside rites slated at Wynwood, Okla., Friday at 2 p. m.

Mr. Gardner was born Nov. 19, 1883, at Wynwood. He has been a resident of the Dozier community for the past 24 years.

PER CAPITA INCOME

Latest Commerce Department statistics reveal that each person in the U. S. should have more "dough" in his pocket this year than at any time since 1939. This, however, is theoretical, as it assumes that total annual income for the year would be divided equally among the total population. Above Newschart shows how per capita income has skyrocketed since 1939.

WHUZZO FUNNY?—The snowfall on this auto parked on a Cleveland, O., street turned it into a grinning monster. Motorists weren't so amused as the one-foot-plus snow blanketed the city and high winds caused traffic-snarling drifts.

Auto And Household Goods Production Faces Reduction

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Production of most household goods — such as television sets, radios, refrigerators, electric irons and other appliances — is due to be cut 45 percent below the pre-Korea levels in the quarter beginning April 1. This would be 10 percent below present permitted production rates.

This word came from Manly Fleischmann, defense production administrator who said also that in this quarter: Construction of new houses is to be curtailed from the present annual rate of 850,000 to a rate of 660,000 a year.

Automobile production is to be reduced at least seven percent below the present rate. The DPA allowed the manufacturers only enough copper and aluminum to produce 800,000 cars and only enough steel to produce 90,000 in the quarter. The makers were authorized to stretch these materials, if possible, to make 900,000 in the second quarter. For the first quarter of the year they were allotted enough materials for 800,000, with permission to stretch them to make 1,000,000.

Fleischmann testified before the Senate - House "watchdog" committee studying the defense mobilization programs. It is headed by Sen. Maybank (D-SC), who said the group wants to make sure that the mobilization agencies are earmarking for civilian production as much steel and other scarce materials as possible.

The second quarter auto allotments were somewhat more than first announced figures, at which auto officials protested strongly, but less than they asked.

Fleischmann said "should the industry be able to attain the permitted unit level or both the first and second quarters, then the reduction between quarters will amount to seven percent."

He said a government "task force" is attempting "to increase the placement of defense production contracts in Detroit" to relieve unemployment now estimated around 125,000. The decision to further reduce auto production and risk added joblessness "has not been reached lightly," Fleischmann said.

Steel Bit May Clear Up Texas-Louisiana Squabble

ORANGE — (AP) — A steel drill pany will sink a well directionally, biting into the earth at an angle far beneath the Sabine river, by between producing wells soon may accomplish something more than a century of arguing and legislating has failed to do.

Thus bring about a settlement of the dispute over the location of the Texas-Louisiana boundary line along the Sabine river.

Louisiana claims the west bank of the river is the dividing line and it, therefore, owns the entire riverbed.

Nonsense, says Texas, which insists the boundary is at mid-river and it, therefore, owns the west half.

Both states cite yellowed documents.

When the Phoenix Lake oil field was discovered on the riverbank at Orange, Texas leased what it considers its half of the river to the Ohio Oil Co. Louisiana countered by leasing the entire stream bed to the same company.

Producing wells have been brought in on both sides of the river. Now, the Ohio Oil Co. has announced it will make the first test of the riverbed itself.

The spokesman was asked: which state will get the landowner's royalties?

The reply: "The well is located in Texas and one can assume that Texas will have legal control of production."

Charles Laughton Cited As Seeking Morals Boost

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Many people complain about the lack of morality in American life, but few do anything about it.

One of the exceptions is Charles Laughton. It seems strange casting for the portrayer of Henry VIII and Captain Bligh to appear as a moralist in real life. But it is true, even though Laughton himself would deny it publicly.

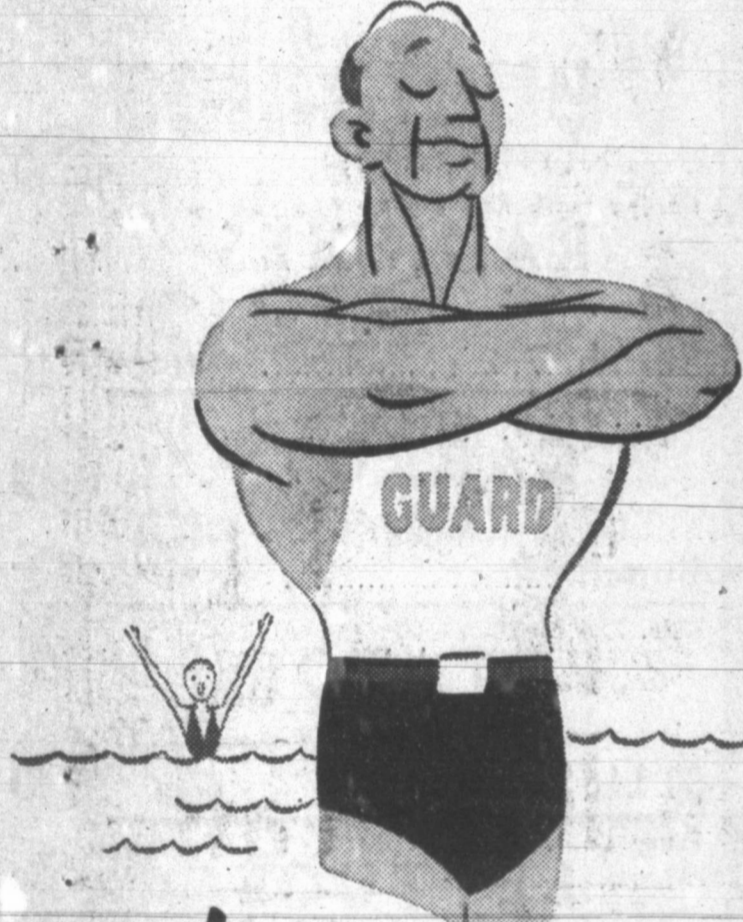

In fact, he won't allow a reporter to quote him about current reports of immorality in the nation's social makeup. A cautious fellow, Laughton dislikes controversy and does not want to offend anyone. About the only

Parley May Fix Prices

By SAM DAWSON
 NEW YORK (AP) — The price you pay for things made of tin, rubber, wool and copper — as well as what share your company gets of steel and aluminum — these things may be tied closely to the talks between President Truman and Prime Minister Churchill.

There easily could be some old-fashioned horse trading going on over price and supplies of these commodities — essential to the economies of the two nations, and just as important to the mutual defense effort as those other topics of conversation: what to do about atomic energy and Middle Eastern oil and Indochina.

England needs — and apparently is going to get — more American steel. Some say one million tons more, and this could mean more shortages here, more cut-backs in production, more layoffs. But some steel men say our steel expansion program may be able to take care of the needs of both countries by the end of this year.

Britain's output of tin is piling up while the United States haggles over price. And England needs the dollars tin would bring in. Her reserves of gold and dollars are dwindling dangerously.

England's natural rubber interests suffer while the United States holds off buying and builds up its synthetic plants. The United States is in position to call the price time in rubber, but the British hope we'll promise to buy a large quantity of natural rubber for our stockpile, and at a price attractive to Britain.

Australia frets because the United States has stopped stockpiling wool, tumbling the price from its dizzy peak. But Uncle Sam has the whip hand here, too, since his synthetic fiber plants are growing, and his nephews aren't buying as many suits as the wool trade would like.

"Last time he was here he learned to read and write checks!"

Reds Showing Friendliness

VIENNA, Austria — (AP) — In an unprecedented display of international friendship, the Russians in Vienna agreed to send a soldier band and folk dancing team to an American-sponsored sports event.

It was believed the first time in the six-year history of four-power occupation in Vienna that the Russians agreed to send their troops to a GI affair.

But it appeared on the part of a noticeable effort to reflect a friendly attitude toward the West. This effort has grown during the past three months to a point where Russian soldiers inspecting the papers of Americans en route to Vienna are almost excessively polite.

Hand in hand with a change in the Soviet high command in Austria, the friendliness has been noticed at meetings of the four-power Allied Control Council. Soviet newsmen have been usually friendly in Vienna's International Press Club.

Brig. Gen. William T. Fitts, U. S. military commander in Vienna, conceived the idea of periodic international sports events between soldiers of each power.

The program calls for a volleyball contest between French and American troops, a basketball game between the U. S. and Britain, an exhibition of tumbling and judo by the French and a British-American table tennis contest.

One American officer said he thought the Russians agreed to send a band and folk dancing team "because they want first to size up the athletic strength of the western teams before sending their own."

Truck Driver Students Fail Tests; Can't Learn To Back

By NEA Service
 RALEIGH, N. C. — (NEA) — Did you hear the one about the college boy who flunked out because he couldn't back up? It's no joke — 18 percent of the students at North Carolina State College's school for truck drivers are dropped, many for inability to maneuver the big trucks.

But those who finish the rugged six-week course find a job with a trucking firm waiting. The school gives its students, most of whom have never been inside a truck before, such a thorough training that trucking firms send representatives to Raleigh to snap up the graduates.

It takes a serious-minded man to pass, because the school won't tolerate bad driving practices. The faculty, all ex-truck jockeys, looks askance at new students who roll up on motorcycles. Their experience has proven that a motorcycle driver has a tendency to become a reckless truck driver, and recklessness automatically brings expulsion.

The school, the joint brainchild of the College and the North Carolina Motor Carriers Association, opened in 1949. It takes 40 students for each six-week session, which combines classroom work with behind-the-wheel practice.

In class, the curriculum includes such things as driver qualifications, accident prevention, reporting, laws of evidence, insurance, maintenance, freight handling and customer relations. There's even an hour devoted to "History of the Traffic Problem."

But the bulk of the 266 hours of carefully scheduled training is turned over to field work. On a large concrete plaza that has been marked off with white lines denoting roads and loading platforms, the men take turns in maneuvering the giant rigs. They practice turns, signals, backing straight, backing zig-zag, parallel and angle parking, backing into an alley block, starting and stopping and backing on hills.

Much time is spent on estimating overhead clearances. The students drive up to an overhead bar, set atop one of the driving lanes. They must estimate if they can get under it easily. If they figure wrong, it comes clattering down and another lesson is learned the easy way. On the road, a bad guess at overhead clearance can be an expensive mistake.

After graduation, the college-trained truck drivers often return to the school as unscheduled visiting professors. It's a common occurrence for a tractor-trailer rig to pull up to the campus and an alumnus hop out. He'll tell the current crop of students just what life on the road is like.

The school teaches other things besides pure mechanical operation and theory. Personal habits play a big part; many long-haul trucks require two-man teams and one man with a tendency toward dirtiness can make the other very uncomfortable. The students are also required to be clean-shaven, which is a novelty among long-distance truckers.

Safety is the most important item stressed at the school. Fast driving or "tail-gating" — following too close to the vehicle in front — are two of the best ways of getting expelled.

It's paid off. The school has found that its graduates have a safety record far better than that for the industry as a whole.

like. If the United States agrees to buy more wool, it could be in return for concessions on other commodities from the British.

England recently sent the United States some aluminum we needed badly for military aircraft production, while our aluminum industry is in its big expansion program, and in return England got some steel from us. It is this same pattern that may be followed in the bargaining at Washington.

Rain always sounds better on the roof than on the raincoat.

Investigations Are Placed On Priority List

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Senate investigations subcommittee has set up many inquiries into alleged government misdeeds on its hands it is going to establish a priority listing.

Chairman Hoey (D-N.C.) told a reporter he will call his group into session this week to decide the order in which to conduct these public hearings:

1. A study of a quick $2.5 million profit realized by former Congressman Robert E. Casey and associates on a $100,000 investment in war surplus oil tankers.
2. The part played by Rep. Boykin (D-Ala.) in interceding with the RFC in behalf of government loan seekers.
3. RFC loans in which Mrs. Flo Bratten, secretary to Vice President Barkley, and Charlie E. Shaver, a former Senate employee, have acknowledged they interceded.
4. The handling of war surplus sales under supervision of Jess Larson & career government official. Larson himself demanded the investigation.

Iranian Oil Trouble May Unlock New Canadian Fields

By JAMES MONTAGNES
NEA Special Correspondent
TORONTO — (NEA) — Great Britain's oil difficulties in Iran may unlock new oil fields in western Canada.

But little of that oil has gone into making fuel, because it is mixed in with sand. How to get the sand and the oil separated at a reasonable cost has been the problem that has stumped the leading oil engineers of North America.

There's a railway that runs north from Edmonton to Fort McMurray on the Athabaska River, down which Indians and trappers have come for hundreds of years with furs. Along the sandy bluffs of the river and its tributaries are no settlements. Prairie grass and shrubs cover the area. And underneath that overburden lie sands many feet deep impregnated with oil.

For more than 30 years there have been commercial attempts made to get the sand and the oil separated. One company has a small pilot plant in operation on several thousand acres, and has been extracting some oil for over 10 years. Some of the material has been used to pave roads in Canada's famed scenic Jasper National Park. During World War II the Canadian government spent many millions trying to find a quick way of getting the sand and the oil separated.

Mining engineers, including experts from the U. S. Bureau of Mines, estimate that the Athabaska tar sands contain anywhere from 100 to 250 billion barrels of oil, enough oil to supply the English-speaking world for several generations.

Unlike other oil reservoirs, such as those of Iran, the oil does not collect in pools to be pumped out. There are small pools, but for the most part the oil has to be extracted from the soil.

Toronto oil engineer Dr. S. M. Blair sees two possible methods of getting the oil and sand separated at a cost to compete with oil from other Alberta oil fields.

The oil can be worked out by open pit mining, taking the sand by truck to the oil extracting plant, as is now being done by one company. The problem that remains is how to get rid of the mountains of sand after the oil has been extracted. There is about one company. The problem that a yard of tar sands. To operate commercially the extraction process would have to produce at least 20,000 barrels of oil a day.

Besides the open pit method, which means stripping the land bare, Blair suggests a method of underground mining. This requires tunnels in the rock formation under the tar sands, hundreds of feet deep, placing conveyor belts in the tunnels, and shooting steam into the tunnels. Openings drilled into the tunnel roof would allow the steam-treated sand to drop onto the conveyor belts and be taken to the extraction plant.

In addition to oil, the sand also contains sulphur and rare strategic metals such as vanadium. These could also be extracted after the oil has been removed. Samples taken from the tar sands show that there is enough sulphur con-

Speaker Declares UMT Facing Ruin

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Dr. Guy E. Snively, executive director, has told the Assn. of American Colleges that the universal military training plan can "damn" itself by two of its features.

He described these features as: (1) requirement of one officer for each two trainees and (2) cost of over $3,000 for each trainee for the six months required training.

Dr. Snively said also the UMT plan "would seem impossible to operate simultaneously with the present successful on-going selective service system."

A special commission on UMT estimated last year it would cost $1 billion to train 800,000 men in the first year.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) announced the House Armed Services committee would begin study of the UMT plan.

He said increased monthly cost by selective service because the Korean war would "wreak havoc" with college enrollment next fall.

Harvesters Off For South

Pampa's Hustling Harvesters left this morning for the southern part of District I-A's confines and a weekend of games against the San Angelo Bobcats and the Abilene Eagles.

Coach Clifton McNeely took an eleven man squad on the first road trip of conference play. Boys making the journey are Marvin and Jimmy Bond, Tommy Smith, Jimmy Dulaney, Duane Jeter, Buddy Cockrell, Fred Woods, Jon Odien, Billy Webb, Roy Pool and Charles McCreary.

BIG SPRING WORKOUT

The Harvesters were scheduled to stop over in Big Spring to get a workout and then proceed on into San Angelo tomorrow morning. At 8 o'clock tomorrow night they will engage Hill Hinton's Bobcats in what will be an important game for both teams. Both are tabbed as likely to grab the district crown should the favored Berger Bulldogs trip along in the way. Both games will be broadcast over radio station KPND, direct from the scene of the action.

Coach Clifton McNeely's plans called for sending his regular starting lineup of the Bond brothers, Jeter, Smith and Dulaney into the lineup in search of the twelfth straight win of the year for the Green and Gold. A fairly easy workout was held yesterday after a hard drill on Tuesday.

At San Angelo the Harvesters will run into a team that won the state tournament last year, only to be beaten in the first round by the Borgans. Thus far this year the Bobcats have a record of 13 wins against 10 losses. They captured three state honors in the way of a "synthetic" tournament, which was won by the Harvesters.

STARTERS

Leading scorer has been Bill Varrick, who has hooped 184 points. He is followed closely by Melvin Posa with 144 and three place honors go to Jimmy Reed with 102. The other two regular starters, Bobby Harris and Delviness, have scored 89 and 79 respectively. Warrick, a lefthanded shooting artist built like a fireplug, is the leader of the team. He and Posa are co-captains.

Harris is the towering giant of the club, standing 6-5. Reed, 6-1. Guess, 6-0, and Warrick and Posa both 5-11.

Over at Abilene, Coach Jake Kentley's Eagles, have had a fine 2-4 record thus far. The club is experienced and lacks steady play. In sophomore Julian Ard, Kentley has 6-5 of basketball player, but he is making the jump from junior high and figures to be a year away.

The likely starting team will be Tommy Estes, 5-8, and the team's leading scorer, Joe Youngblood, 5-9. Jerry Turner, 6-2, Bobby, 6-2, and Bill Pope, 6-1. The Eagles meet the Berger Bulldogs on Friday night in their first game.

Billy Wells, Michigan State's sophomore halfback, averaged 8.42 yards per try on 53 carries during a football season.

BOWL BETTER WITH BOMAR, No. 1 Bomar Urges Bowlers To Have Their Own Ball, Bag and Shoes

First of an instructive series written and illustrated for NEA Service.

By BUDDY BOMAR

Former Match-Game Champion

It's possible to bowl without using any equipment. Your bowling proprietor has a ball you can use and shoes you can rent.

If you are serious about improving your score, however, you want to enjoy the sport to the best, buy your own ball, bag and shoes.

Only by constantly using the same equipment can you make finite progress.

Your alley proprietor will help select the proper equipment to your needs and wallet.

He will see that a ball is custom-fitted to your hand with a proper size thumb and finger holes and finger span.

Using a ball which has not been custom-fitted, you are almost certain to run into difficulties. Finger or thumb holes of the wrong size put additional strain on your fingers, wrist or arm, prevent you from scoring well and enjoying bowling as you should.

Selecting street shoes, you certainly insist on a comfortable fit, don't you? There's no difference in choosing bowling shoes.

While the bag is not necessary to improve your game, it is a convenience in carrying your ball and shoes.

Just as every golfer knows he can't develop his game to any extent without his own clubs, you cannot expect to improve your bowling very greatly without proper equipment.

NEXT: The stance.

HIGH POINT

Coach Clifton McNeely, high point collegiate eager for the 1946-47 basketball season, tried for the high point honors again today — with the assistance of his wife, Peggy.

Twin boys were born to the popular couple at Highland General hospital this morning.

The oldest of the future basketball stars let out his first cheer at 7:55 a. m., and his brother ambled along at 8:08.

The boys weighed five pounds, two ounces, and five pounds, one ounce, respectively.

Tomorrow night Coach McNeely's Harvester eaglers swing into action in the District I-A basketball race. And he is now assured of two more solid fans.

"I'm No Different . . ." Williams Says He's Ready If Uncle Sam Wants Him Back

By BILL KING

BOSTON — (AP) — Ted Williams, baseball's top salaried slugger, has been recalled by the U. S. Marines and, if physically fit, probably will be lost to the Boston Red Sox until he reaches the comparative old age of 35.

The $100,000-plus performer is one of the several hundred former Marine flyers being called back as replacements for Korean veterans due active service releases.

Reports from Marine headquarters in Washington were that Williams, now 33, will report at Quantico for a physical examination on April 2. If found fit, he will go on active duty on May 2 for at least 17 months. That would take him through most of the coming American League season and for all of 1953.

"If Uncle Sam wants me, I'm ready. I'm not any different than the next fellow," Williams phoned general manager Joe Cronin from his Florida everglades fishing retreat last night.

"But I'll go through all of the spring training and I'll stay with the club and await further orders," Williams added.

But Williams' chances of passing the Marines' strict physical tests for its flyers are considered, dubious in that city's local circles.

Hereabouts, many recalled reservists, especially flyers, have been rejected for similar handicaps.

Williams missed three seasons, from 1943 through 1945, because of World War II service. He qualified as a Marine flyer at Chapel Hill, N. C., and Pensacola, Fla., and served as an instructor at Pearl Harbor.

RECALLED A CAPTAIN

Washington reported that Williams was being recalled as a captain, a rank that would entitle him to about $600 a month compensation, including allowances for dependents and previous service. He is married and the father of a small daughter. He recently purchased a new home in Miami.

Since he joined the Red Sox in

TED WILLIAMS

1939, Williams, the majors' last 400-hitter — 406 in 1941 — is reputed to have received more than $600,000 from owner Tom Yawkey in 10 seasons. His top salary was $125,000 in 1950, when, due to his accident, he dropped 28 points to his .317 batting low. He was only a point higher last season.

Williams is unsigned for 1953 and, most likely, has not done any dickering over next season's terms. Cronin, following the club's policy, declined to discuss any prospective financial negotiations with Williams. But it can be taken for granted that Williams will be under another six-figure contract, flexible undoubtedly, when he reports at Sarasota for training on March 1.

Lefors Mittmen Fight Saturday

The Lefors mittmen begin warfare between themselves Saturday night in preparation for the coming boxing season.

These intra-mural bouts will be staged for the benefit of the Pirate football team.

There will be a program of 12 bouts featuring boys from 75 lbs. to 160 lbs. The first bout will go on at 7:30 p. m.

Cecil Sanders, "Cub" Coberly, James Warner, Eddy Clemmons, Darwin Keeters, J. D. Redus, Jerry Herring, Donnie Lee Maple and others will put on the show for the benefit of the Pirate team.

All are expected to participate in later boxing tournaments and most will be represented at the Pampa Golden Gloves.

Head coach, Bob Callan, who has been named by the Lefors school board to replace Frank Sonntag, is in charge of the mittmen. The popular Callan has been in charge of Lefors boxers for two years.

A graduate of Midwestern University, Wichita Falls, Callan has produced a number of outstanding boxers in the Top 'o' Texas region. His brother, H. W. Callan, is also an outstanding boxing coach and will vie his boys against the Lefors youngsters at Shamrock next week.

Mobeetie Cagers Turn In Win

MOBEETIE — (Special) — Mobeetie cagers, both boys and girls, won victories over the Follett teams at Follett Tuesday night. The boys game was an exciting one, the Mobeetie team coming out with a one-point lead, 35-34, in the last few minutes of play. The girls won their game more easily with a score of 68-20. High point scorer was Waylan Newman with 15 to his credit, and Francis Totty came out ahead with 27 points.

Boys making up the team this year are Harold Hooker, Clyde Patton, Bobby Galmar, Jerry Taylor and Waylan Newman. Those on the girls team are Patricia Trimble, Ruth Morris, Francis Totty, Shirley McCauley, Barbara Trimble and LaVada Hogan.

Brian In Win

ST. LOUIS — (AP) — Veteran Cesar Brian of Argentina shattered young Wesley Bascom's victory string last night with a unanimous 10-round decision in a heavyweight feature bout at the Arena.

Except for the first two rounds, it was the South American's fight all the way. Since turning professional, Bascom had won 13 consecutive fights.

Referee Benny Kessler gave the bout to Brian 65-45. Judge Fred Connel had it 63-47 and judge Howard Hess scored it 62-48.

Prexy Meets With NCAA

By WILL GRIMSLEY

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Michigan State's Dr. John Hannah drops in for a call today. The television committee makes its report and things start popping at the National Collegiate Athletic Association convention.

Dr. Hannah and Pennsylvania are girded for a fight against controlled television of college football games but admits it's a hopeless cause.

"I am convinced the committee and convention will vote for a restricted program," said Ed (Moose) Krause, Notre Dame athletic director, "but we stand against controls."

WANTS TRIAL YEAR

"Our counsel tells us the NCAA plan is in violation of anti-trust laws. We can't vote for something against the law."

"We have an open mind. We are not sure the year's survey proves TV is damaging to attendance. We'd like to see a year of uncontrolled television just to see whether it hurts."

Notre Dame, teamed with Pennsylvania, fought for unrestricted television a year ago and lost to an overwhelming vote for a year's moratorium. The controls reportedly cost the South Bend institution $600,000 in TV receipts.

The issue will be discussed openly at an afternoon round table meeting.

Of equal interest — as the giant convention nears a showdown stage — is the visit of Dr. Hannah, president of Michigan State college, and Dr. Arthur Adams, president of the American Council of Education.

BOMBHELL

Those two gentlemen, as spearheads of a special committee of college presidents, threw a bombshell into college athletics last week — end in Washington by proposing a drastic de-emphasis program.

They called for abolishment of bowl games, athletic scholarships and out-of-season practices; end of freshmen use in varsity contests and stabilization of coaches' salaries to conform with those of other faculty members.

At the same time they warned they might enforce these measures with a threat of loss of accreditation — the most potent weapon yet unsheathed for the control of sports.

Hannah and Adams had a morning conference scheduled with the NCAA's executive council at which time it was hoped the two agencies might agree on a single plan.

Not an official, but a guest, guided against open comment, complained privately that the presidents' proposals are entirely too drastic and could not be pushed through the convention.

Chiefs Romp To Win Over Lefors

The Noblitt-Coffey Pontiac Chiefs showed more of the class that made them the top AAU club in the Panhandle last year as they ripped the Lefors Independents, 78-36, last night. The game was played at the Junior High school gymnasium.

The Chiefs led all the way, scoring at will against the invaders.

Leon Crump, an ex-harvester, led the Lefors scoring with 12 points.

Don Lloyd paced the Chiefs with 22, while J. W. Malone and Garland Head each contributed 14. One of Head's shots brought the small crowd to its feet when he misread the clock and fired from 15 feet behind the center line, ripping the net for two points.

The Chiefs played without Coach Clifton McNeely of the Harvesters.

The Chiefs have scheduled the Whiskered Wizards again this year, and currently are seeking game with the Harlem Globetrotters and the Phillips 66ers.

Wheeler Invitational Cage Tournament Opens Tonight

WHEELER — (Special) — The sixth annual invitational basketball tournament will begin in the Wheeler gym at 7 o'clock tonight. The Kelton boys will meet the Pampa "B" boys in the opening game. A girls game between teams from Allison and Mobeetie will follow at 8:15 and the third and last game of the first session will match the Raydon, Okla. five and the Allison crew.

Games on Friday will begin at 9 a. m. when Miami and Raydon, Okla. girls teams will clash. Wheeler boys will make their first appearance in the tourney when they meet Miami at 10:15. Another girls game will finish the morning session.

Mobeetie boys and Briscoe boys will play at 2 p. m. Friday.

The Kelton and Briscoe girls meet at 3:15. Shamrock boys team drew the only bye in the tournament to advance them to the second round. Their first game will come at 4:30 on Friday afternoon when they meet the winner of the Raydon-Allison game. The first of the games to be given miniature gold and decide trophy winners will be silver basketballs.

Irishmen Enter Wheeler Tourney

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Coach Scott McCall's Irish basketballers, riding a six-game winning streak, enter the Wheeler invitational tournament Friday. McCall's sharpshooters drew a bye in the first round and play the winner of the Reyon - Allison in the second round Friday at 4:30.

Should the Irish win, a strong probability, they would then meet the winner of Mobeette-Briscoe, probably Briscoe, from whom the Irish won their tourney here, 23-19, in December. Briscoe is one of the tougher area quintets and extended the Irish in a tight, defensive championship battle.

Should the Irish win both the second and third rounds, regarded as quite possible, they would be in the Saturday night final with Pampa B. Miami, Wheeler or Kelton. Little is known of the Miami crew but the Greeks have been favorites otherwise on the basis of excellent play in the Irish tourney.

Coach McCall's warriors slapped down Wheeler, only crew to defeat them, 33-28, last Friday night — and they did it without the services of Mack Terry, regular forward. Terry would be a strong addition to the Van Pennington-Gorge Hendrick-Norrell Perkins "Bill Harris combine" that has swept six of seven combats. The five are good bets to open the tourney play.

McCall's Lassies, winners of one of six games, are feeling up because of edging Wheeler here Friday night, 28-27, and will enter the tourney stronger than expected only a short time ago. Both defense and offense have improved for the Lassies, who find in Mary Stetler a welcome addition to the scoring power of the other forwards, Carolyn Dodgen and Madeline Griffin.

GIRLS PLAY

Shamrock collides with the Wheeler girls again Friday morning to open their try in the Wheeler tourney. It will, of course, be a top-up, but should the Irish Lassies again get by the Wheelers — they must stop Jennice Jaco, Glenda Porter and Margie Bass, all tough forwards who would play the winner of Kelton-Briscoe, probably Kelton, at 2 p.m. Saturday.

McCall probably will send Carolyn Dodgen, Madeline Griffin and Mary Catherine Stetler at forwards; Molly Mayfield, Glenda Thompson and Jennie Ford at guard.

If the Irish girls lose, they would catch the loser of Kelton-Briscoe, probably Briscoe, at 9:30 p.m. Friday. Incidentally, they have a game with awesome McLean Friday night — not in the tourney, but a regular game — and will have no hope of upsetting the titans of the region.

Of the eight teams in the Wheeler tourney in the girls' division, Mobeette probably will be the favorite. The Mobeettes are said to have back the high-scoring forwards of 1951, and last year were about McLean's only rival in power.

New York Giants Picked As Comeback Club Of 1951

SANTA MONICA, Calif. — (AP) — The selection of the New York Giants as the comeback champions of 1951 was hailed by Manager Leo Durocher today as "another wonderful honor for a bye in the first round and play the winner of the Reyon - Allison in the second round Friday at 4:30."

"I never saw a team with more determination or will to win," which explains the New Yorkers' surge to the National League pennant against odds so staggering that 165 out of 214 sports writers and sportscasters picked it as the No. 1 comeback in the Associated Press annual poll.

"The Giants weren't the greatest team I've managed or played with," said Durocher, "but I've never had or seen one with more hustle. They were really great, and never quit."

The Giants' feat of winning the flag after dropping 13 1-2 games behind the Dodgers in August earned them a total of 549 points in the AP poll for the greatest comeback by a team or individual in 1951.

Jersey Joe Walcott's knockout of Ezzard Charles for the heavy weight boxing title was rated second, with 127 points. Other leading comebacks (on a 3-2-1 point vote for the first three places): 3 — Bobby Feller, baseball, 52 points; 4 — Stan Lee, football, 47; 5 — Ben Hooper, golf, 40; 6 — Chicago White Sox, baseball, 33; 7 — Ray Robinson, boxing, 32; 8 — Auburn, football, 17; 9 — Joe DiMaggio, baseball (in world series), 12; 10 — Detroit Lions, football, 11.

Reapers Play At Canyon Today

Coach Pernal Scoggins' Junior High School Reapers return to court action this afternoon when they travel to Canyon to meet the Eagle Junior high team. It is a Panhandle Junior high school athletic league contest.

The Reapers were 37-30 losers to Phillips Monday night while the Canyon crew dropped a 42-30 game to Elizabeth Nixson.

Spring Play Blamed

CINCINNATI — (AP) — College baseball loses more players because of spring football practice than through talent being signed by professional baseball clubs, vice president and general manager Gabe Paul of the Cincinnati Reds believes.

The young executive, outlined his views last night to the American Association of College Baseball Coaches.

Paul admitted there were different points of view on whether college players should be signed by organized ball before graduation, but insisted "there are no real amateurs in America today."

"Spring football practice takes more baseball players from the college squads than professional baseball does. Many potentially great baseball players are lost because of that fact," he said.

Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR., CINCINNATI — (AP) — Tom Gallery, baseball man who is in the television business now, has some rather heated arguments to give the college folks who want to keep football off the TV channels — says Tom: "When I started with the Yankees we did about 900,000 (spectators) a week. The next year we had television and went over two million. You can sell anything — beer, cars and sports."

Gallery claims TV makes new fans and maybe he's right... and as for sports, Tom says: "You never heard of them throwing out a Yale-Harvard game because it took spectators away from Trinity and Wesleyan, did you? On the other hand, we heard two small college guys discussing the same subject. Said one: 'If they all allow unlimited television, in three years the networks will be dictating everything we do.' Replied two: 'In three years there won't be any football. That stuff hurts us, but it will kill high school football.'"

REALLY TRAVELING — Waite Hoyt, the pitcher turned broadcaster, came up with this one when he and the college baseball coaches banquet last night. "When Charley Devens came to the Yankees fresh from Harvard, his luggage was covered with hotel stickers as evidence of his world-wide travels during summer vacations. Devens got put in to room with Lefty Gomez, whose homespun humor provided a perfect contrast to Charley's hasty pudding club style. Noting the stickers, Lefty solemnly asked the learned rookie: 'Charley, have you ever been in Newark?' Devens, thinking it over, replied: 'Newark, New Jersey; no, I don't believe I have.' 'Well then, a g a g g e d Gomez, 'it will be all new to you, won't it?'"

SPORTS-BEFORE YOUR EYES — Looks like Ward Cuff, the old Giant footballer, is in line for the coaching job at Lafayette, which has been a good stepping stone to bigger positions. After all these years of talk about the lively ball in baseball, one manufacturer now comes up with a lively bat. Experimental production of a laminated bat which the college coaches hope will reduce breakage, he tried one that was mostly bamboo. The thing had so much "spring" that it was hard to hit anything but homers with it. "Duce, fellows! Phil Wrigley, the Cub's boss, is looking into the Chick Evans golf scholarships to see if baseball can't set up some sort of similar plan. Chances are he'll forget it when he finds the Evans scholarships don't give any consideration to whether a caddy also can play golf."

LAST WORDS — After interviewing about a dozen candidates for the vacant Arizona coaching job, athletic director J. F. (Pop) McKale commented pithily: "Half of them don't want their names mentioned. The other half don't want the job but want to get their names in the papers because they think it will help them get more where they are... And I'm not going to give them the satisfaction."

Wildcats Capture Doubleheader

CANADIAN — (Special) — The Canadian Wildcat basketball team won a double header from Darrouzett on Friday night on the local court. The Canadian girls led all the way by a slight margin, the final score being 27-24 in favor of the Wildcats. Sue Perkins of Darrouzett was high point girl in the contest, racking up a total of 16 points, 10 of which were charity tosses. Twelve of Darrouzett's 24 points were free tosses. Jane Coyle was high point girl for Canadian with 10 points. The work of the Canadian guards was outstanding. The boys game got off to a very slow start, Canadian making one field goal and one charity toss in the first quarter. Darrouzett making one field goal in the first quarter, one field goal in the second quarter, two field goals in the third quarter, and three free shots in the final quarter for their total score of 11 points. The final score was 25-11 in favor of Canadian. Wildcat reserves played the entire fourth quarter, tossing in three field goals as compared to the three free shots by the Darrouzett team. Miller and Clarence Helfenbein were high for Darrouzett with 5 points each. Buddy Gross scored 8 points for the Wildcats for high, and Orla Boyd Cornutt was close behind with 7 points.

Skellytown Plays

The Skellytown Panthers, always one of the most potent cage crews in the District 1 basketball chase, battle the Panhandle Panthers' Junior high five tonight at Skellytown. The game will start at 7 o'clock, with a B team game preceding the main event.

Coach Bert Lohr's cagers have played but one game so far, that before the Christmas holidays.

McLean-Irish Battle Tomorrow

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Shamrock Irish collide with the McLean Tigers at McLean Friday night, with the probability that they will defeat the Tigers. They have the edge in comparative scores, as the McLeans lost to Briscoe, 29-30, and the Irish trimmed Briscoe by four points.

But the Irish Lassies are expected to become another on the relentless and endless list of victims of the McLean girls. The Tigerettes, runners-up in the state last year, are again stronger than the opposition in the area. McCall will probably start his Pennington - Harris - Terry - Hendrick - Perkins combine for the boys, who will have to hound ace Eddie Reeves of the Tigers to win.

Attempting to stop the fabulous Bonita Bailey, 30-odd point scoring star of the Tiger girls, lie Mayfield and Glenda Thompson. Last time they held Miss Bailey to a mere 24, a bad night for her, as McLean won, 45-15. McLean is listed to return the engagement at Shamrock January 22.

DOUBLE TROUBLE—The Duda twins, Johnny and Eddie, are a problem to Coach Walter Marshall when it comes to telling them apart, but they are no problem in the scoring department. The Coal Township High School juniors are the team's leading scorers, paced the Shamokin, Pa., school to its first six victories. (NEA)

Two More Fall From Ranks Of Unbeaten Quintets

NEW YORK — (AP) — Syracuse and Mississippi State were knocked out of the unbeaten ranks in Yale picked Brown, 44-39; Cornell took a 60-34 thumping from Colgate; and Pennsylvania routed Delaware, 78-54.

A free throw by Lou Drago in the last 30 seconds gave Bowling Green a 84 to 83 overtime victory over Toledo while Georgia Tech, ahead at the half by 18 points, staved off Auburn's late bid to win, 55-54.

Syracuse was ranked 14th in this week's Associated Press poll. Louisville, No. 15, beat Xavier of Ohio, 77-67. Oklahoma City, No. 18, trimmed Wichita, 53-46, and Dayton, No. 20, walloped Ohio Univ. 101-71. None of the other teams in the top 20 saw action last night.

Most of the nation's action was on the East. Columbia opened defense of its Ivy League crown engagement at Shamrock January 22.

Sukeforth Hunts New Coach Job

BROOKLYN — (AP) — Clyde Sukeforth was out of a job as coach of the Brooklyn Dodgers today, and Billy Herman was appointed in his place, but Sukeforth said there was nothing to reports there were strained relations between him and Manager Charlie Dressen.

Sukeforth, in the Dodger organization 19 years as a catcher, coach and even manager for several days on occasion, resigned suddenly yesterday, the Brooklyn management announced.

Sukeforth was in charge of the Dodger bullpen last fall when Dressen called for a relief pitcher in the ninth inning to throw to Bobby Thomson of the New York Giants in the memorable final playoff game for the National League pennant. He told Dressen Ralph Branca was "ready," and Thomson hit his game-winning homer on Branca's second pitch.

At Waldoboro, Me., Sukeforth admitted he told Dressen that Branca was ready to pitch.

However, said Sukeforth, this incident "absolutely did not cause any tension between Dressen and himself."

Sukeforth wouldn't say why he was leaving the Dodgers, but offered: "I have several irons in the first and hope to get another job."

Isbell Unsure About Next Year

WACO — (AP) — Larry Isbell, Baylor's All-America quarterback who is also one of the top baseball players of the Southwest conference, is undecided whether to take his last athletic eligibility at Baylor or turn professional.

He said today he was waiting for the football draft to see what the pro grid game has to offer but that he actually prefers baseball. "It means more money and a longer life in your sport," he said.

If he will get a commission he will remain in Baylor and graduate, meanwhile playing baseball. He has been in the Air ROTC for two years and under an accelerated program now in effect can do the required work in three years. If he leaves Baylor he is subject to the draft in the armed forces.

Canadian Tourney Pairings Complete

CANADIAN — (Special) — Pairings in the Canadian Invitational basketball tournament have been completed. Play will open on Thursday afternoon, Jan. 17, at the local high school gymnasium. Twelve boys teams and twelve girls teams are entered. Defending champions will be the McLean girls and the Samnorwood boys teams.

Schools entering both boys and girls teams include: McLean, Darrouzett, Shamrock, Wellington, Panhandle, Samnorwood, White Deer, Briscoe, Miami, Kelton, and Canadian, and a boy's team from Price College and a girls team from St. Mary's Academy, Amarillo.

The first game of the tournament will be on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The following trophies will be presented after the final games on Saturday night: 1st place boys' team, 1st place girls team, 2nd place boys team, 2nd place girls team, Boys team consolation, Girls team consolation, Boys team sportsmanship, Girls team sportsmanship, Sportsmanship (Boys individual), Sportsmanship (Girls individual), Gold basketballs for first tournament teams, girls and boys, Silver basketballs for second tournament teams, girls and boys. Tournament play Thursday in the boys bracket will see Shamrock facing Briscoe at 3 o'clock; Miami against Wellington at 5 p.m.; Darrouzett meets McLean at 7 o'clock; and Kelton battles the home Canadian Wildcats at 9 o'clock.

Brown's Stars Made Favorites

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — It's nothing new for Paul Brown, but his American conference all-star team has been installed as a 6-1-1 favorite over the National's in Saturday's pro-bowl game.

The people who make the odds figure the Cleveland coach has the stronger line and therefore is in a position to swing the balance to the Americans in a close game. Jumbo Joe Stydahar, who coached the Los Angeles Rams, pro champions of 1951, plans to offset whatever line edge Brown has by using his Los Angeles backs, Bob Waterfield, Tank Younger and Dan Towler, plus the Chicago Bear blocking back, John Dettley.

"If those guys can't dent Brown's line," observed Stydahar, "nobody can."

Richardson To Clovis

Grover Seltz, former Oiler manager now heading the Clovis Pioneer, announced this morning that he has signed first baseman Virgil Richardson to a Clovis contract for 1952.

Richardson, always carrying one of the biggest bats in the league and the top fielding first baseman, was released outright by the Oilers last winter after serving as playing-manager of the club for the final half of the season, replacing Seltz at the helm.

Musial Talks To Salary Group

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The salary stabilization board, after a personal appearance by baseball's best hitter last year, Stan Musial, gets to work today on a new player salary formula.

Musial flew into town yesterday for a few words with board officials about his salary predicament. He signed a contract with the St. Louis Cards last year which would have brought him a reported $55,000 — if regulations had allowed it.

But they didn't. Despite his .335 average, best in either league, Stan had to be content with his 1950 salary of about $50,000 — highest salary for any Cardinal paid that year.

The salary board ruled that no player may be raised to a point higher than the highest paid man of the club in 1950.

The rule was an inflation curb — the same way the wage board has made rules governing wage increases during the mobilization period.

Salary board officials said daily today the new rule now being worked out would be an industry-wide, all-club rule. The 16 clubs would have one effective ceiling rather than 16 separate ones.

At this stage no one would predict how the new ceiling or formula might work.

Uncle Sam Wants To Mobilize Inventors Of This Nation

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Uncle Sam wants to mobilize the nation's inventors for an all-out assault on the big "idea bottle-necks" holding up many vital military projects.

The National Inventors' council, a semi-government outfit which acts as a go-between for Uncle Sam and the country's inventors, has already petitioned the Pentagon to start paying to inspire inventors to solve the enough money for accepted ideas big problems at hand.

REWARDS

Russia and England give tremendous rewards and privileges to inventors of useful military items. But the United States barely comes through with a "thank you." As a result, today, when the need for specific ideas and inventions is greater than ever, men of creative minds are apathetic about the service's problems.

Members of the council include top-ranking industrialists, Army and Navy officers and patent experts. John C. Green and Leonard Hardland, full-time employees of the council in the Department of Commerce, give ideas and inventions their first screening.

NEED FUNDS

Some of the pressing needs and problems for which the military is seeking outside help include: Improved fuels and lubricants for use in extreme cold.

Machinery for fabricating and welding high-strength titanium. An adhesive tape which will stand up in hot or cold temperatures and against weathering.

A device capable of burrowing a large, electrically heated tunnel through hard, compacted snow or solid ice.

New miniature radio equipment construction methods. A rocket motor that will be completely used up after it delivers its power.

The inventor mobilization plan, being considered by the council, would involve the preparation of a master list of those U. S. inventors not already employed by the government or by companies with big government contracts.

Persons on the master list would be given some classified information on just how far the services have gone on certain projects plus some of the needs which are now kept secret.

Lack of this information causes many good scientists and inventors to spend years on problems which have already been solved. The big need is for a greater exchange of information between government and private inventors, says Hardland.

MASTER LIST

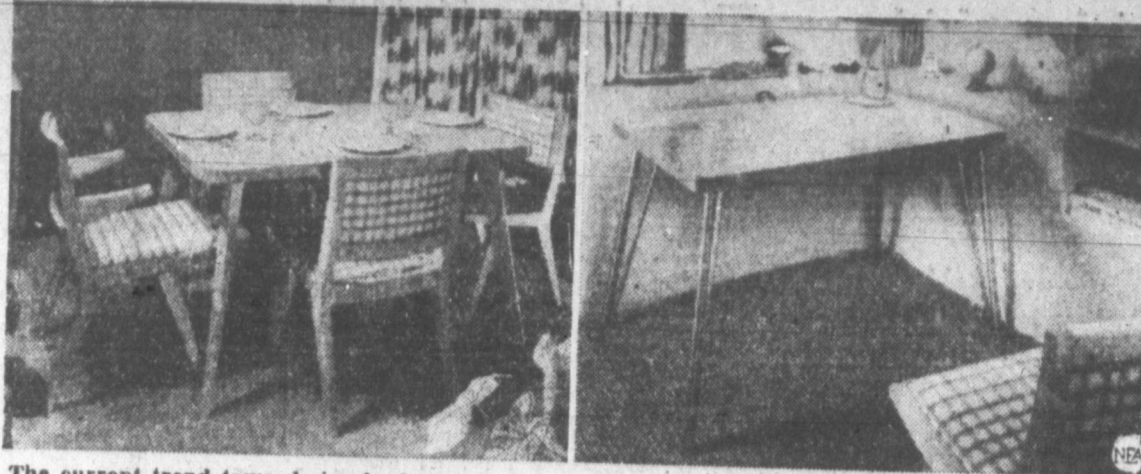

The master list would be limited to established inventors, men who would observe the restrictions on any classified information made available to them.

The inventor council would get about 400 ideas and suggestions during a normal week. A great deal of the red tape an individual inventor must go through in trying to sell something to the government. About five percent of these ideas get further than the waste-basket. But still the red tape involved in getting an inventor credit and money for an accepted idea is fantastic.

If his idea isn't patentable, or if he neglects to patent it, the inventor isn't likely to get a cent for a good idea from Uncle Sam. If it is patentable and he does patent it, he practically has to give away all rights to it to get the government to use it or to put any further work on an idea.

Giving inventors more information about what's going on in various fields and giving them more money for what they produce, are the two big factors in breaking the idea bottleneck, a patent expert for the Pentagon says. If we don't do something along these lines soon, he claims, Russia is likely to overcome the lead we have in scientific warfare.

The current trend toward simple design and natural finished woods in home furnishings is evident in this set (left) designed especially for young marrieds. Table is extendable and has multi-layer plastic top that resists scars and stains. Chairs have plastic upholstery. Table for a boy's room (right) will lighten cleaning load for mother. Plastic top can take real abuse; base of table is plastic-sheathed tubular steel. Table top is gray; base has golden sand finish.

Chemicals Advance: Huge Building Program Seen

HOUSTON (AP)—A billion dollar expansion program in the chemical and primary metals plants of Texas and Louisiana is underway or planned, the South Texas National Bank of Houston has reported.

The bank released results of a survey it conducted and said 81 percent of the two-state total, or $1,194,607,268 is in Texas. It said 75 percent, or $845,385,261 is concentrated in the Gulf Coast petrochemical region.

Total cost of the program was pegged at $1,375,775,076. Expansion involving refineries and gasoline plants carried a price tag of $239,337,671.

The bank said most of the cost of the program was figured from DPA certificates of necessity on portions of the facilities ranging up to 100 percent for production of critically short materials.

Biggest proposed expansion is by the Carbide & Carbon Chemicals division of Union Carbide and Carbon Corp. It filed reverse applications with the Defense Production administration, proposing six facilities at Texas City costing $60,258,000 and the seventh applying for a $78,665,000 certificate for a facility in "Texas."

The company has made no announcement as to site of this facility, but it is believed it will be between Texas City and Corpus Christi.

DOW Chemical at Freeport is another that plans a tremendous expansion, amounting to some $78,745,037.

Phillips Chemical Co. plans to build a $38,280,000 plant on the Houston ship channel.

The expanded plants of the two states produce a variety of products, ranging from rice oil to aluminum, aviation gasoline to cold rubber.

Chemical plant expansion in Louisiana was estimated at $218,080,808 and refineries and gas-line plant expansions in that state at $37,587,000.

Expansions in Louisiana include the American Petrochemical Corp. at Lake Charles $5,459,780, the Mathieson Chemical Corp. of Lake Charles $2,266,851, the Southern Alkali Co., Lake Charles, $10,080,000, and the United Carbon Co., Lake Charles, $2,299,000.

Tracy Cary And Roy Johnson To Lead United Christian Youth Action Here

TRACY CARY

Representatives of Protestant churches and community youth-serving organizations met Monday night at the First Methodist church to select leaders for the Community Call committee in the organization of "The Call to United Christian Youth Action." Tracy Cary was elected chairman of the Community Call committee and Roy Johnson, vice chairman.

The action is a nation-wide program to enlist some 1,000,000 young people and their adult leaders in a united program of Christian action the world over. It is sponsored by the United Christian Youth movement which represents 38 denominations with about 10,000,000 youth in their ranks.

Mr. Cary said today that the first planning meeting of the Community Call committee will be held at the First Presbyterian church Monday. Representatives from all participating groups will begin laying plans for enlisting Pampa's Christian young people in the program, he explained.

"All churches and community youth-serving organizations wishing to share in this program of United Christian Action here are invited to have representatives present Monday," he said.

He also explained that the youth here will share in a series of national and world projects by contributing one dollar each as a part of their commitment to "The Call." These projects will include a nation-wide radio program, the expansion of cooperative youth work, support for cooperative Christian youth work around the world and a Christian youth program for the armed services.

United Christian youth action will begin in Pampa and around the world following the observance of Youth Week, January 27 to February 2 when the young people and their leaders dedicate themselves to the program of "The Call."

Ava Lee Morehead To Wed In Canadian

CANADIAN — (Special) — Mrs. Vera Morehead announces the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Ava Lee, to Shirley Hale, son of Mrs. Oliver Jones of Amarillo, and the late Paul Hale.

The wedding date is set for February 15 in the First Methodist church in Canadian.

Miss Morehead is a graduate of the Canadian High school with the class of 1948. Since leaving school she has been employed with the First National bank of Canadian.

Mr. Hale is a veteran of World War II and served with the United States Navy. He received his degree from West Texas State College at Canyon after he was discharged, and is now employed at the Amarillo Air Base as a civilian instructor.

The couple will make their home in Amarillo.

Paris Fights The Fashion Battle With Experience And Originality

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Woman's Editor
NEW YORK — (NEA) — "In Paris, we are not afraid of competition. So our reply to the new Italian designs will continue to be the freshness and originality of our own creations."

This is straight from Raymond Barbas, an active and articulate Frenchman who is president of the Chambre Syndicale de La Couture Parisienne, representing all French couture-houses, and of Jean Patou Couture.

Barbas, in New York on a brief visit, made it clear that he is unperturbed by the sudden appearance of Italian designs or by the prospect of competition practically at the Parisian doorstep.

"Design," he explained with a little smile, "is a field in which experience, background and tradition mean nearly everything. We have all of these."

"Further, we feel that competition is healthy. It's a source of improvement for everyone. Why, look: American competition, developed within your own country, has helped to give you the highest standard of living in the world."

Barbas shrugged, a typical French shrug. "Why should we worry?"

The next French collections, Barbas pointed out, will quite probably make use of some Italian fabrics, if they are good.

Texas And Southwest Have More Than Kept Pace With The Expanding National Economy

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Texas and the Southwest have more than kept pace with the nation's expanding economy, according to a Commerce Department study of trends from 1929 to 1950.

Industrial construction marked the development in the four-state area, which also includes Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona. Texas boomed the most.

The per capita income in the region increased at a higher rate than the national average during the two decades, although it still was less than the 48-state average at the close of the period. The figure was $1166 for the region in 1949 compared with $1330 for the country as a whole.

These figures represented a 151 percent regional increase compared with a national average increase of only 96 percent. The per capita income in Texas for 1949 was $1205, up 15 percent. The Southwest had about 10 percent of the total new construction. Big industries and other expansion has been a major factor in its income advance from 4 billion dollars in 1929 to 13 billion in 1949.

The Southwestern region, the commerce study disclosed, increased 27 percent in population during the 20 years ending in 1950 notwithstanding the fact that Oklahoma showed a 6 percent decline. The national average population increase for the period was 24 percent. Arizona's population soared 74 percent. New Mexico's 62 percent and Texas' 34 percent.

Texas and New Mexico experienced only "nominal inflows of people by migration" during the 1940-1950 decade, the report noted, while Oklahoma lost a number equal to one-fifth its population by out-migration. Arizona, meanwhile, gained a number approximately one-fourth of its 1940 population.

"It is clear, therefore," the report added, "that the region's above-average rate of population increase, was entirely due to its unusually high rate of natural increase, half again higher than the national average rate."

Manufacturing now constitutes the Southwest's fourth largest industry, the government survey revealed, and has been increasing in the region faster than the national average.

"Most of the industrial growth of the region in these two decades was concentrated in Texas," the report continued.

"Manufacturing establishments in Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona barely kept pace, as measured by manufacturing workers, with the national average rate of increase. Texas employment expanded much faster.

"Wages paid in the region's factories were 11 percent below the national average in 1939, and despite subsequent wage increases at a rate above the national average increase, they were still 8 percent below in 1947. This cannot be explained by unduly large proportions of low-earnings industries in the region; on the contrary, the Southwest has unusually large proportions of its manufacturing workers employed in high and medium earnings industries.

"In most instances, the industry wage scale is less than the national average. An outstanding exception is the petroleum and coal products industry, in which Southwest annual average wages were

Boyle's Column: Better Get Your Earmuffs; Election Din Already Begun

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — (AP) — Bought your earmuffs yet? Well, you'd better buy 'em now, before the mad rush starts. No ears are likely to bear up under the political din between now and November without protection of plugs or muffs, delectable verbal Niagara Falls of "I view with alarm" and "we point with pride" is already flooding from the nation's 115,000,000 radio and television sets.

Some bartenders already are demanding sabbatical leaves, declaring the political tempests among their toss pots at the rail will make life unbearable. Others are simply laying in a supply of baseball bats.

Here are a few quick tips on how you yourself can live without a black eye until balloting time:

1. If you must wear campaign buttons, wear two — one saying "Bryan or Bust" and the other "Back to McKinley." That will show you are non-partisan and home.
2. If you feel you simply have to discuss the political situation at a bar, put a couple of ice cubes in your mouth first. You will know what you're saying, but nobody else will — so they can't object.
3. Avoid dry martinis altogether. It is in this concoction that caused Dr. Jekyll to turn into Mr. Hyde, and it may turn you from a Republican into a Democrat, or vice versa.
4. No matter how swell a guy you think Harry Truman is don't teach your children to go around chanting, "Taft on a raft," or "The can't give you anything but love, baby." Do you want your kids to come home with black eyes?
5. Other remarks to avoid in public yourself:
 - A. "Why doesn't Harry take up the accordion — then he could squeeze his way out?"
 - B. "Eisenhower's an old soldier — why doesn't he just fade away?"
 - C. "Well, I was passing General Grant's tomb the other day and you know what I heard? A ghostly voice crying, 'don't... don't!'"
 - D. "So Stassen plans to have That'll be a real kitchen cabinet — ha, ha, ha!" (a remark net — like this can cost you your happy show you are non-partisan and home.)
6. But the best tip of all is Write down your own presidential choice in a little black diary, and lock it away. Then Sport shirts too, some in hand. If you are redoing your kitchen shut up. And open up your diary sealed knits, are designed for the day after election and uncontained movement with the space. Farmers, Ranchers 'Unjustly Blamed'

FORT WORTH — (AP) — Farmers and ranchers are being unjustly blamed for large increases in the cost of living, Congressman Poage of Waco told the American National Attorneys' Assn.

Farm income has gone down in the last three years while the cost of farm production has steadily increased, the vice chairman of the House Agriculture committee said.

"Increases in food prices since the beginning of the Korean war cannot fairly be laid at the door of the producer for he is not making more for his products," Poage asserted.

Mineral resources, especially petroleum and natural gas, are more important to the economy of the Southwest than to any other part of the country. The region was the leading producer of minerals in 1948, having moved from second place in 1929 — the percentage of the national output increasing from 48 to 54 percent regarding oil and gas. The entire output of coal for the region comprised only 1 percent of the total national production.

Among the non-commodity-producing industries, government activities expanded most, largely in the nature of military installations.

We May Lose Harry If We Are Lucky

The gossip mill that churns its grists on the banks of the Potomac river has been grinding out a steady flow of reports...

In the history of American politics there is adequate evidence that the electorate will tolerate waste and inefficiency...

We are not convinced that any of the Republican candidates who seem to have the best chance...

The candidacy of Truman himself would be a cruel blow to the dignity of the office...

The American nation has been a sorry victim of the Truman luck. Politically, the man has been hung with a bad name...

Truman was elected vice president in 1944 because he was an inoffensive and unimportant compromise...

No doubt he would like to eat such whole phrases as: "This Alger Hiss case is just a red herring!"

I like Uncle Joe. He's a good fellow. (In Korea, perhaps?)

It is of recent record that congressional investigations forced an EPC house cleaning...

These are in the category of influence peddling and down-right stealing.

Wrong doing in public office becomes more serious as the government extends its authority over the people's private affairs.

Wise Statements From Frederic Bastiat And Senator Jack B. Tenney

Since I had the main works of Frederic Bastiat republished and made available, it is always a pleasure to me to see other people quoting from Bastiat's works.

Now I want to quote how Senator Jack B. Tenney is using the books he purchased from The Register in his publication, Sun Features.

"Frederic Bastiat listed a number of the socialist ideas of his day, most of which appear to be flourishing over a hundred years later."

"What liberty, then, should the legislators permit people to have? asks Bastiat sarcastically. Liberty of conscience? Liberty of education? Labor? Trade? Liberty of association? None of these freedoms are safely left to the people according to the socialists."

"Clearly then," says Bastiat, "the conscience of the social democrats cannot permit persons to have any liberty because they believe that the nature of mankind tends always toward every kind of degradation and disaster."

"Why not ask them to show their titles to their superiority? We certainly are fully justified in demanding proof of such avowed greatness."

"If their plan was true, it seems to have backfired and the great abuses of special privilege and graft are still with us under new forms."

Mr. Truman's "social responsibility" seems to be of the lowest caliber if the men of little ethics and morals he has installed in office are a criterion and if by his acts we are to judge him.

Perhaps, the nation may be able to see some cheer in the tales of governmental corruption. If those tax collectors hadn't been so crooked and if Truman had been less stubborn, his luck might have held out a little longer.

BLANSHARD

In the final chapter of Paul Blanshard's famous book "American Freedom and Catholic Power," the author gets around to making up his mind as to what should be done about it. That's why I said he has a very keen mind—UNTIL he makes it up.

Having written that a resistance movement is needed against the mighty and growing power of POLITICAL Romanism and its hierarchy in America while the author had previously shown that you can't separate the political and social acts of the Catholic church from its theological teachings...

So far as I know, when you start a resistance movement against something, you're already a "partisan," whether narrow or broad.

I think Blanshard's weakest point is where he makes up his mind as to what should be done via a resistance movement.

First, he wants every American to have the RIGHT to secure birth-control information. I agree with that.

Next, he wants to "oppose all discrimination against non-Catholic clergymen and doctors in Catholic hospitals." I DON'T agree with that.

Ousting Of Caudle Breaks Up Carolina Political Faction

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — President Truman's summary dismissal of former Assistant Attorney General Theron Lamar Caudle, the patently scapgoated...

"BRUTUS" — The major casualty in this bitter political feud was James F. Byrnes, who was once man Friday for Franklin D. Roosevelt and Truman.

The "purge" was directed and engineered by Mr. Truman after he had satisfied himself and his Missouri friends that the Dixie group was becoming too powerful and ambitious for his own good.

"Muley Bob" gave Mr. Truman only $6,000,000 of the original quota by the White House, and vows that there will be no further boost at the current session.

Under strange and still unexplained circumstances, the judicial organization at Charlotte, N. C. once the center of Caudle's legal and political activities, was swept out.

Nicholson now has law offices in Charlotte with Charles Caudle, brother of Theron Lamar, Nicholson has figured in testimony before the King subcommittee as a possible beneficiary of some of the former's extra-curricular operations.

The steel industry is now engaged in the greatest expansion program it has ever undertaken, and the gimmick boys need watching.

Don Coleman, Michigan State's lightweight tackle, was the boy who threw the key block when Dick Panin ran 88 yards for a TD against Notre Dame.

Allied HQ Is Heart Of Puny Efforts To Redeem Mistakes

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

PARIS Supreme headquarters of the allied powers in Europe is a one-story building with wings which run out from spine-like ribs on the skeleton of a perch.

Whatever satisfaction one may derive from the knowledge that these frivolous men deserve the blame for the present predicament of western civilization at the mercy of Soviet Russia, the fact remains that the United States is now irrevocably committed to a tremendous effort to smother enough strength to deter Russia from starting that war.

General Dwight D. Eisenhower who had retired and was looking forward to an easy life of reading and some petty farming, is back in his soldier suit in a small office in this half-pint Pentagon working for the future of three grandchildren.

He is planning forward, but admittedly we are at Russia's mercy because if Russia should start that war and even if our side won military victory, that victory would be an introduction to economic and political disaster.

Eisenhower believes the American people have put aside the questions of responsibility for the mismanagement of victory and are politically more mature than any other people in the world.

ALMA CONROY suspended the making of crepes suzette to watch the cool, somehow infinitely older and more poised Tommy retell his story. She had been given some uneasy moments in the police station at Longtown, Pa., when she had been questioned. But actually she wasn't expected to know a great deal—only that Tommy had been suspicious of Mrs. Denton and that he and Brighton Muncie had gone in pursuit of her after the disappearance of some jewels at the House.

Joe Denton hadn't known about his stepmother being in deep water until her sudden disappearance. Now Tommy began his story. "I didn't have to invent much," he said simply. "I caught up with the three of them—Bright, Mrs. Denton and Apollo Brown—riding in Brighton's car near the Hampton Circle. It's a new road with no buildings on that stretch.

"Brown was driving. Just ahead of me the car skidded in the snow and crashed into a telephone pole. Your—well—she was pinned under the car, probably killed instantly. Brown was hurt badly and I thought he was dead too, but Brighton was thrown clear. I stopped my—rather, your car, got out and ran toward Bright. He was stunned but uninjured otherwise and after a few seconds began to come to. I helped him to his feet and started to lead him toward your machine. Then I heard a shot and Bright folded.

"Brown had raised himself on one elbow for the shot—just as I told the police. Then I saw in a flash just how the whole thing could be handled. Brown had rolled over on his back and I saw he was gone, too. Nobody would walk now. I put Bright in your car, found the jewels, and the rest you know."

"Humph!" said Joe, drawing a long sigh. "This winds things up very nicely, especially as the authorities here in New York seem satisfied that Apollo Brown did the Mammoth Job—on his own. They found his fingerprints there, I see. Some papers were missing from the files, and I'm still betting they were the proof that Mammoth's offer on the sweepings had been suppressed."

"Yes," Alma agreed, "but," she wondered aloud, "what about Higgins & Company? Won't they talk?"

"Only to back up my story," Tommy grinned. "It's a perfect out for them. They helped trap the old lady, period."

Joe stood up and buttoned his coat. "Thanks for the meal, folks," he said. "And the usual apologies about running afterwards. But I'm dead on my feet, and you both must be, too. We'd all better get some rest."

FOR a while after Joe had gone Alma moved about the apartment quietly, putting things to rights, her mind fixed on one last problem. It was all very well for Joe to say that the whole dreadful episode was wound up, but there was one thing Joe did not know about. He had never been told of the gold and moonstone cufflink which she had picked up in Mr. Wheeler's office immediately after the murder. Since the day she had shown it to Tommy neither of them had mentioned it to anyone, not even at the police station, when an inventory of Bright's belongings had shown that the matching link was in one of his shirt-sleeves at the time he was killed. The more she thought of it, the more its possession worried her. It was still in her handbag and had been all through the investigation. Was that inquiry really ended? She paused in her

Christian Missionaries Report Converts Among Koreans

KOJE ISLAND, Korea. (AP)—Christian missionaries of all faiths are working among the 170,000 prisoners of war and civilian internees on this island off the South Korean coast. They report some converts.

Up to 7000 attend Sunday religious services at 20 different locations on the island. As many as 3000 attend week day Bible classes, but one missionary said 500 was about average.

The Rev. Bruce A. Cummings, who spent 11 years in Korea before World War II, estimated that "not more than one percent were Christians to begin with and now (the total) is about five percent."

Anglican Bishop Cecil Cooper missing and believed a prisoner of the Reds, estimated in Seoul before the war that about five percent of all Koreans were Christians.

Cummings, a native of Baltimore, said converts must show reasonable evidence of personal conviction for six months. Then they are given an examination and become catechumens (probationers). After another six months they are eligible for baptism.

"They could put many of our own church people at home to shame with their knowledge and practice of Christian principles," Cummings said.

"It would be foolish to suggest that every person who professes Christianity has become a new person completely," he added. "He still is human and habits of centuries are not changed quickly."

The missionary emphasized that there is no conflict between Catholics and Protestants.

"The field is so large and there are so many people there is no need for treading on each other's toes," he said.

Attendance at religious services is purely voluntary. And the Rev. Earle J. Woodberry, who has spent virtually his entire life in the Orient, said the missionaries don't bother those who do not come to the meetings.

"We are busy enough working with those who want our help," he added.

The Rev. Harold Voelkel of Berkeley, Calif., a veteran of 23 years service in Korea, returned with UN forces which landed at Inchon in September, 1950. He immediately began working among prisoners of war.

He is enthusiastic over progress. "There are 1200 prisoners of war enrolled in the Bible institute and more than 1000 others study the Bible correspondence course," he said.

Catholic chaplains were greatly pleased over the recent visit of Francis Cardinal Spellman.

"Yes, It's Made a Big Difference in Don"

THERE'S every reason for the father of a hustling carrier-boy to point with pride to his son's progress as a young businessman—the owner and manager of a thriving newspaper route! For many a successful man remembers how valuable his own newspaper-boy experience proved to be—and knows it is even more so for today's teen-agers!

Better than any other spare-time gainful activity, a newspaper route satisfies an enterprising youth's desire to earn his own money, buy his own things, develop his particular talents, and speed up his savings program. Besides, it adds practical training to his regular schooling, teaches him basic business methods, and offers him many special awards and incentives to excel in serving his customers and expanding his route.

But above all, his parents and friends are pleased at the way a newspaper route helps him become more manly, ambitious, resourceful and self-reliant—gain habits and qualities which are stepping stones to success and good citizenship.

It's the Answer to Your Son's Spare-time Problem, Too.

ALMA CONROY couldn't understand the queer tone in her husband's voice. Bright was there, with Tommy, apparently - but wasn't Bright Muncie one of the thieves?

"What does he say?" Alma asked over the phone. "How did he explain..."

This time Tommy interrupted her. "Bright is dead," he said. "Shot in the back. Brown shot him when he was dying."

It was almost impossible to grasp the horror of what Tommy was telling her. But it was more than a mere recital of facts.

Alma had read about in newspapers and detective stories, but which she'd never thought of as being anything she would ever experience herself.

STATUESQUE BEAUTY - Perched on the statue of an old beauty is young beauty, Isabella Valdeitaro, 19, of Rome, who won the title "Miss Italy of 1951."

The entire fantastic pageant of crime and heroism which had brought the obscure little village of Longtown to the front pages of every newspaper in the country now seemed remote and unreal.

Police Sgt. Brighton Muncie Killed Saving British Royal Jewels... Sacrifices life to return property stolen from Trumbull & Co.

THEN followed the story, as told by police reports quoting Tommy and corroborated by herself and Joe Denton, of how Bright and Tommy had long suspected Mrs. Denton of not being crippled, and set a trap for her.

Joe Denton was reading the account carefully, gripping the newspaper in one hand and attacking a dish of civet de rognon with the other.

The authorities at Longtown had separated him from the Conroys over the court formalities, were over, in order for him to attend to the last services renderable to his mad old stepmother.

When he had finished reading what Tommy had told the police, and what the police had said, he put aside the paper and looked challengingly at his host.

ROBED CHURCHILL - Prime Minister Winston Churchill, dressed in flowing ceremonial robe, marches in a procession at Bristol University, Bristol, Eng.

CHRISTMAS BELLE - Real Christmas trees are few and far between in sunny Hawaii, but beach-belle Nancy Brown gets into the Yuletide spirit by decorating her coconut straw hat with Christmas tree ornaments.

Columnist Gets Excited At Prospect Of Trip To Paris

By HENRY McEMORE that wine gives me a heartburn. I wonder if readers understand I'd much rather have a Coke than about a columnist being excited, the oldest vintage. But, no, I'll be I'd like to give you a play-by-play showoff the minute I hit the play diary of my past six hours. town. I'll speak French that I don't know. I'll order food that I don't like. I'll say, "Ooo-la-la," when I wonder how I'm going to get there.

3. I call information and ask the number of the Pan American Airlines. Information gives it to me: it's Murray Hill 6-7100. I ask trip. That does not include Elsa for Dick Logan. Getting Logan, I Maxwell, or the Duke, or Barbara ask him whether he can get me on.

4. He asks me a very nasty question, "Can you afford to go?" I say, "No." He says, "Pick up your ticket in my office at two o'clock, and bring a check for around seven or eight hundred dollars."

5. Call my bank and ask for my balance. I am told that my balance is $713.12. Glad tidings!

6. I'm packing now. Nothing is pressed and, nothing is clean. When I get off in Paris nobody's going to take my picture, no one is going to say that a distinguished American arrived today. I'm going to look like a Georgia boy on a trip he couldn't afford.

7. Wonder if you'd help me choose a hotel. In my heart, I'm a Lancaster fellow, a Ritz boy, a George V chap, but this time I won't be able to stay in hotels like those. I want a small place, on a quiet street, with a bathroom up the hall. That's the sort of place I'm going to stay in, and I shall not be alone. There'll be other tourists there, being just as phony as I am. None of us will admit that we're staying where we don't want to. I wonder how many tourists have stayed in uncomfortable hotels because of lack of dough. I wonder how many tourists have not fooled themselves when they told themselves that the only way to know Paris is to live in little, out-of-the-way places with natives whom you can't talk to. No elevators, either.

8. It's a mortal cinch I'll drink wine in Paris, despite the fact

9. But, I think I know this much about my type of people to write in black and white that some of them are a little envious of me: it's Murray Hill 6-7100. I ask trip. That does not include Elsa for Dick Logan, I Maxwell, or the Duke, or Barbara Hutton.

10. I told you I was excited. That still goes. I hope I never reach the point when flying to Paris doesn't set my heart to jumping. I wish every one of you could come with me. If I had enough money, I'd buy every one of you a ticket. All selfish, too. Just to see your eyes sparkle when we walk off the plane at Le Bourget. Believe it or not, I'm trying to tell you I'd enjoy having you all there.

Stinky Given Award For Achievement

FORT HOOD — (AP) — Stinky was presented a certificate of achievement this week for his "conscientious devotion to duty, which reflects both credit upon the Army and all goats."

Stinky is a goat attached to the 701st Armored Infantry battalion, first Armored division. Under current orders, he is assigned, on a day by day basis, to the company having the highest AWOL rate and the lowest general standing in the battalion.

The company that gets him must see to it that his diet of grass and kitchen scraps is strictly adhered to. It also is responsible for combing his wool, pitching a shelter tent for use in inclement weather and keeping his blue horns and yellow hoofs freshly painted. "Stinky" has practically driven the unit's AWOL record into non-existence for the past few months. For this distinguished service, Maj. Ace L. Water Jr. presented the certificate at an informal ceremony here.

Man's fondness may be for wet goods; but it's not any stronger than woman's fondness for dry goods.

Interstate Auto Theft Suspect Is Arrested By FBI

EL PASO — (AP) — The FBI has announced the arrest of Jay Paul Shelton, 34, wanted on federal charges of auto theft in three Southern states.

D. K. Brown, in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation office here, said Shelton and a woman companion, Mary Grey Perry, 29, were arrested at a tourist court.

"They were sure living on top of the world," Brown said. "Shelton had a late model Cadillac, a luxurious aluminum car trailer, two registered red cocker spaniels and an extensive wardrobe including silk shorts. "He was carrying three $1000 bills, a $500 bill in a shoe and several hundred dollars in smaller bills.

"We also got the tools of his

MacArthur Group Lauds Eisenhower's Entrance Into Race

DALLAS — (AP) — The temporary chairman of the "Demand MacArthur" group says he welcomed the statement of Gen. Eisenhower in which he apparently made himself available for the Republican presidential nomination — two brief cases stuffed with car titles, registration certificates, out of state license plates, blank checks and rubber stamps.

Brown said Shelton is charged with interstate transportation of stolen vehicles in Florida, Louisiana and Georgia.

"We are very glad that he has made himself available, it being our desire that the American people shall have the opportunity to consider and select from among the best men of our nation one to become our next president," said William S. Henson, Dallas.

Henson added "Demand MacArthur" will continue "its course before the American people in the belief that he is by far the best qualified man for president."

Henson said that the group expected to have a permanent chairman within a week. He said that the headquarters here has been getting "literally hundreds" of letters and telegrams from every part of the United States.

With Election Time Near — Congress Takes Bifocal Look

By JAMES MARLOW WASHINGTON — (AP) — Every one now seems agreed that this will be a completely dismal session of Congress — insofar as it concerns lawmaking — but it will be a rip-roarer vocally and politically.

Especially politically, since next fall the voters must choose the occupants for all 435 House seats and one-third of the 96 Senate seats. This is a situation hardly conducive to silence, modesty or political impartiality on the part of those members of Congress who want to keep their jobs, meaning practically everybody there.

Oldtimers around here have the notion, which is hardly odd, that almost everybody who ever gets a seat in Congress would like to feel it's his permanent property and always in an election year develops that bifocal look which enables him to keep one eye on his work and one on the voters.

Experts in political science have pondered the question — should Congress have its daily sessions televised? — in the belief that if the folks back home could ever see their congressmen in action they might wind up with a better Congress or at least more work done.

It may be only a coincidence that Congress has never shown even small enthusiasm for this idea at all — past, present or future — but it may have turned out to be a blessing for all of us, in this election year at any rate, that Congress won't be within mugging distance of TV. If TV's glittering eye looked down from the galleries, putting every speech in focus, it isn't hard to surmise what would happen among the members of Congress who saw a chance every day in the week to make a stump speech for the benefit of the people at home. The congressional crush in front of the camera would be grander than bargain day in Gimbel's basement. Much to the relief of the Democrats, who have made a spectacle of themselves more than once through the years with their intra-party differences, the Republicans this year will probably take over their franchise and even give them pointers in bare-knuckling while wearing gloves. This alone should add to our entertainment, if not to our enlightenment, since everybody in Congress is a politician and what ever a politician says in the field of politics can be sliced in half without losing an ounce of sense.

In both houses there will be devotees of General Eisenhower and Senator Taft and others making wooing glances at the presidency, and since devotion means ardor and ardor means heat there ought to be a warm time among the Republicans in all camps, neither very anxious to make hay for the other while still hoping the party can win because everyone wants to keep his job.

The Democrats are already confused among themselves a bit but the intentions of President Truman, some thinking he'll run, some thinking he won't, then to the general noise will be added the creaking of necks as Democrats look over their shoulders to see who gets tapped, each of the more prominent among them probably secretly yearning for the tap to hit him even if, in the end, it knocks him out.

Food Prices Decline

NEW YORK — (AP) — Wholesale food prices dipped this week to the lowest level since mid-November, 1950, according to the Dun & Bradstreet food index.

At $6.64 the index compared with $6.64 last week and was 5.8 percent below the year ago week's $7.02.
