Britain Joins Demand that Aire Close Its Axis Listening Posts

LONDON, March 11.—(AP)—British pressure was applied on Dublin to accept the United States request for the closing of Axis listening posts in Ireland, and in answer Aire's Prime Minister Eamon de Valera merely gave the British government a copy of the rejection he sent Washington, it was disclosed today.

—would be brought to bear against the Irish government. position, and when further improvements in control are wanted we will make them. The belief was general, also, that United States would not have made its request without considering what it would do in the event of a refusal. And the demand coincided with other evidence of a stiffening of United States policy toward neutral nations suspected of playing ball—willingly or unwillingly—with the Axis.

Crews Choose Targets With Great Care

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, March 11.—(AP)—American Liberator bombers reached out from Italy today to batter the great Nazi navy base of Toulon on France's southern coast for the second time this week while Marauder medium bombers smashed at the railway facilities of ancient Florence for the first time in the war.

At the same time Flying Portresses also blasted Padua, important railway center in northeastern Italy, 50 miles from Venice.

Padua, like Toulon's submarine pens, which were attacked as recently as last Tuesday, had been raided frequently but until today Allied airmen had spared historic Florence, even though pounding enemy communications lines on all sides of the city.

The heavy bombers plastered submarines and submarine pens at Toulon and covered factories and port installations with a pattern of heavy bombs.

Twelve-tailed Lightning fighters escorted the big bombers and provided a strong cover which met but little enemy fighter opposition. Flak was moderate over the target, in contrast to the raid earlier this week when anti-aircraft fire was strong and accurate.

Early reports indicated that the Germans lost heavily in attempting to deflect the attack. In fact, over which they developed one of the biggest aerial battles yet encountered by airmen from this theater.

Thunderbolts of the 15th Air Force, the Padua raiders, and they had to fight their way through clouds of German fighters before they could get the bombers over the railway junction target.

Monty Predicts Longer Battle

LONDON, March 11.—(AP)—Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery declared today that the invasion of France would probably extend into next year.

In another confident expression, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme commander of the Allied invasion forces, told graduates at the Royal Military College at Sandhurst that he hoped to meet them soon, east of the Rhine.

Montgomery, commander of British ground forces under Eisenhower, told war workers on a tour of tank and gun plants that: "I have not the slightest doubt that if the battlefront and homefront really get down to it this year, we can get today the thing almost finished—held so tightly that next year we will just topple it over."

"At the end of this year, if not sooner, we shall have it about ready for toppling over," he added. Eisenhower told the young officers at Britain's "West Point" that "a small unit of leadership will win the forthcoming ground battle. You must master your job, and master it quickly."

Colorful Sir Bernard, of British Eighth Army fame, who took a day off from inspect and chat with the force to inspect and chat with the men and women making tools for the attack, was cheered when he remarked on the changes that had occurred since the days of Dunkerque.

"I got pushed into the sea myself, at Dunkerque—very unpleasant. But we are doing the pushing now," he said.

If a non-com has a detail under him to move a bunch of crates, everything progresses very nicely, unless an officer just happens to pass by. In that case, the detail becomes of tremendous importance, the very one on which ultimate victory depends. The non-com assumes a dictatorial attitude and barks terse orders to the poor privates. He is BLOWING SMOKE. In other words, the detail is a display of authority. He says then goes and blows a little smoke himself in front of the colonel.

PAAF Soldiers Receive Data On Elections in 11 States

Pampa Army Air Field personnel from 11 states can now start picking their political candidates for the May primary elections.

The war department has announced information to facilitate voting in May state primaries by army personnel whose voting residence is in Alabama, California, Florida, Indiana, Maryland, New Jersey, North Carolina, Ohio, Oregon, South Dakota, or West Virginia.

Both state absentee ballots and the "official war ballots" cover federal and state offices, and offices of lesser jurisdiction such as district, county, and local, in all 11 states except Maryland, where no offices other than federal will be voted on.

Information issued to date is based on state and federal laws as they existed at the time the information was issued. Soldiers were advised that Indiana, Maryland, New Jersey and Ohio were holding or may hold legislative sessions which may result in some change in facts as given.

The primaries are called to the attention of men from the states concerned in time to give them maximum opportunity to complete all steps necessary for balloting. In addition, postage-free post card applications for ballots are made available to be used as indicated in special instructions for each state. In lieu of these post cards, soldiers may write application letters, using the text of the card. Applicants for primary ballots must state their party affiliation. In addition to signing the applications, soldiers should print their names legibly and give their army serial numbers and addresses.

Under existing laws of these states, a voter must be at least 21 years old at the election date in order to vote (except in North Carolina where he must be 21 years old on or before Nov. 7, 1944.) In certain of these states, voters must take certain steps, in addition to filling application for absentee ballots, in order to be eligible to vote. If a soldier is in doubt as to whether he is a qualified voter under the laws of his state, he should inquire immediately by letter to the secretary of state, of the state of his voting residence, as to whether it is necessary to register, pay taxes, or meet other requirements.

also sent powerful formations against Prato and Pontassieve near Florence. They reported good coverage of the targets.

Creations were especially briefed to avoid damage to Florentine cultural, historic and religious treasures, headquarters declared, but the assault had to be made because the Germans—as at Rome—had "made deliberate use of our cultural reluctance" to risk damage to cultural objects.

Ground in Italy, there was patrol activity generally, and Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark after inspecting the invasion bridgehead below Rome declared "things are in good shape up there."

London reported that American heavy bombers blasted military targets in Muenster, Germany, and the Pas-de-Calais area of France today to cap perhaps the most significant week of the air war and late tonight Axis-controlled radio stations indicated that the night bombers were keeping up the tempo of the attack with new assaults.

The Paris radio failed to come on with its regular 10 p. m. news bulletin and the Luxembourg transmitter announced that it was "closing down because of the approach of enemy aircraft." The Frankfurt radio then broadcast a warning that airplanes were reported in the alert area.

The operation of the American bombers was the 14th this month for the Allied heavyweights based in Britain.

No bombers were lost in the day's operations, but four fighters were missing.

Two Texans—Sgt. Willie B. Slaughter of Mexico, and Sgt. Robert L. Chudej of Temple—won Distinguished Service Crosses for outstanding heroism in the bloody struggle up the Italian peninsula.

In addition, the third battalion of the division's 141st Infantry regiment whose motto is "Remember the Alamo" and among whose battle streamers is that of "The Republic of Texas" was cited as a unit and every member received a blue citation ribbon.

The 36th has fought and bled from Salerno to Cassino, and General Clark of the Fifth Army pinned Silver Stars on the breasts of 137 soldiers in the division.

The general said the nation was proud of the 36th as he faced the silent ranks before him, the regimental flags flying behind him.

sure on Spain to move closer to neutrality.

Meanwhile many Irish apparently were endorsing De Valera's position. Irish censorship forbids criticism of the government's neutrality policy, but it cannot compel such commendation as came from the Irish Independent, which said the prime minister's reply represented the general attitude of the people and the will of parliament.

WASHINGTON, March 11. (AP)—President Roosevelt was disclosed tonight to have advised Prime Minister De Valera two years ago that the Irish government should take steps not to "stand alone" when the time comes for the peace table conference.

The chief executive gave the friendly warning to Prime Minister De Valera in a message handed to the Irish minister here Feb. 26, 1942, which had the primary purpose of assuring De Valera that American troops in the British Isles did not constitute a threat to Ireland, but rather a protection.

"There was not at the time, the slightest thought or intention of invading Irish territory or threatening Irish security," Mr. Roosevelt's note said.

The note was made public by the state department tonight by way of clarifying the record on Irish American relations which reached a climax yesterday with official announcement that De Valera had rejected an American appeal to oust Axis diplomats from his country because of their spy work.

At the same time that the president's message was given out, the state department also released the text of a note delivered to De Valera last Jan. 6 by David Gray, the American minister in Dublin, setting forth the reason for rejecting Ireland's request to purchase an 8,000-ton merchant ship from the U. S. war shipping administration.

PERSONALITY SKETCH: We could tease Lorene McClintock, assistant USO, a bit here and there with her new name which was recently given her at the USO, but best we forget that and give a sketch of her most interesting and unusual life.

As a person might imagine she likes to travel and consequently she has done a great deal... the first trip came when she journeyed to Mexico City with her parents...

During the trip home the boat docked for two days at Miami and ended her cruise at Galveston. Her financial status then amounted to ninety seven cents and by the time she got to Dallas she had five cents, which she had saved to make a telephone call to her parents.

When we asked her why she didn't know, she said, "Oh I learned it in New York and didn't have time to learn it here."

During this time she became acquainted with Glenn Cooper Henshaw, who was then in the country as a painter of portraits and landscapes and she posed there for two portraits.

The next months were spent in Kansas City. While there she hit upon an idea. As Lorene took a major in music from S.M.U. she could see no good reason for people not to be able to learn to play the piano in two months at least for their own amusement and entertainment.

During the trip home she became acquainted with Glenn Cooper Henshaw, who was then in the country as a painter of portraits and landscapes and she posed there for two portraits.

War has glamor. If adults feel it, how much more children react to the heightened excitement of war activities. The glamor of war creates the relationship of children with each other, and with men in uniform. The world is in high gear—and that means parents must exert more careful control over their children.

Stretch Curtains With These Tricks

Are you finding fewer mesh curtains in the stores these days? You'll be surprised how much window you can cover with how little curtain if you use your ingenuity in "stretching" what you have.

"You won't find as many mesh curtains on the market this year because the same machines which usually turn out marquisettes and other mesh fabrics must now produce big orders of mosquito netting for the Army."

"But as our windows grow shabby, shall we mope over holes and frayed hems? Not at all. Get out the darning needle and mending tape, find remnants about the house, call in the sewing machine, spice the whole with color and imagination and you have windows as pretty as a picture."

"Economize on cottons and rayons now and so help delay or ward off a real cotton shortage."

"Are the ruffles worn and are there weak spots in the mesh? Replace the ruffles with colored hems and boldly darn big circles over the worn spots with colored embroidery thread to match. Make the circles just the size of your embroidery hoop. They are ABC to do."

"Have you one dull window and a worn pair of curtains? Add a valance and wallpaper border to make the window look like a pair. Cut off the worn curtain edges, re-hem them and add a length of striped dress fabric for fullness. Hang framed costume prints and bouncing, handmade, fat tassels."

"Does the bathroom window look bare? Salvage sash-length curtains from an old pair, and decorate both curtains and shade with colored disk of adhesive mending tape."

"Are your curtains shabby all over? Use checked gingham to replace torn heading, for a deep flounce and for appliques over worn spots."

"Do you have only one pair of curtains for two windows? Hang the pair in the center and a length of dress fabric on each side. Frame the whole, including the radiator cover, in a bright plaid wallpaper border that runs to the floor," said Mary Gillies of McCall's magazine.

'Curie' Features Pidgeon, Garson

BY BROWNWOOD EMERSON

The story of radium, the great healer, is interwoven with the romance of its discoverers in Metro's "Madame Curie," which unites Walter Pidgeon and Greer Garson for the third time.

Beginning of the picture shows Marie's student days in Paris and tells of her courtship and subsequent marriage to the brilliant young physicist, Pierre Curie, and of their work together as scientists.

In their experiments the two work against the elements, sickness, and despair. Their labors are finally rewarded with the discovery of a new element, radium, that they make available to the world at no profit to themselves.

In her work in the chemical laboratory, Greer Garson has contracted radium poisoning. She refuses to give up her experimental work nonetheless. The scars heal of their own accord, and for the tissue quality of Walter Pidgeon (Pierre Curie) realize the healing dame Curie.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Madame Curie" has been voted the BOXOFFICE Blue Ribbon award for February by the National screen council.

Thus the dramatic story of the discovery of radium, so simply presented in this screen production as to be understandable even to children, is honored as the best release of the month for the whole family to see.

"Lifeboat" (20th-Fox) was the runner-up for the award and these other releases for the month were given Honorable Mention: "Jane Eyre" (20th-Fox), "The Miracle of Morgan's Creek" (Paramount), "The Desert Song" (WB), and "Lost Angel" (MGM).

BATAAN HEROINES Thirteen heroic women remain on Bataan to help evacuate the wounded. That, briefly, is the plot of Metro's "Cry Havoc," showing Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the LaNora.

Move Over, Brother! Even President Has Income Tax Troubles

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(AP)—You can't get anything done for figuring on that blasted income tax? Move over, brother, you've got distinguished company.

President Roosevelt, it seems, is struggling with Form 1040, which you probably can see in your sleep by now. You'd think, wouldn't you, that he'd just call up the treasury and have Henry Morgenthau send over an expert or two?

But not FDR. He does it the hard way, computes the whole thing himself. Because the operation of his mother's estate involves among other things, the renting of some bungalows, the Roosevelt return is somewhat complicated this year, but a couple of more whiffs at it and it ought to be ready for the internal revenue collector.

Fly Says Army, FBI Tapped Hawaii Wires

WASHINGTON, March 10—(AP)—The armed forces and the federal bureau of investigation tapped all the wires out of Pearl Harbor before the Japanese attack, Chairman James L. Fly of the federal communications commission testified before a special house committee Thursday in seeking to show congressional investigators that his agency was not responsible for this phase of national security.

Fly added that the law prohibited such wire tapping but the justice department felt it was justified in doing it in the circumstances.

Fighter Ace Sacrifices Life to Save Town

By AUSTIN REALMEAR
A U. S. FIGHTER BASE, England, March 10—(AP)—Lt. Charles F. Gumm, Jr., a fighter ace who was the first Mustang pilot to shoot down an enemy plane over Europe, died a hero's death eight days ago to save civilians from his crashing plane, it was disclosed today.

Gumm lived at Spokane, Wash. The story of his heroism in refusing to parachute from a plane which would have fallen in the English town of Nayland was told by Canon W. L. Wright of St. James vicarage in Nayland, who came to this base to tell the pilot's buddies that the townspeople were deeply touched by his sacrifice.

He said many persons saw Gumm's plane falling toward the village when the engine of his fighter fell during a test flight. There was no doubt in their minds, he said, that Gumm could have bailed out safely, but the plane would have crashed into houses.

Instead, Gumm stayed with the ship, fighting it clear of the town. It reared an open field, but was so low a wing caught a tree, flipping the plane over throwing Gumm from the cockpit to his death.

Great Britain's Candidate

(The Chicago Tribune)

Readers of The Sunday Tribune saw a facsimile reproduction of significant portions of the newspaper prepared by the British ministry of information and distributed by it to many thousands of American soldiers on their arrival overseas.

A leading article in this official publication of the British government said that a $50,000,000 campaign fund is being collected among industrialists in this country to beat the fourth term. Big money was organizing "Constitutional clubs" in 250 key districts to defeat Roosevelt.

Nevertheless, his chances were excellent. Nobody could be found to bet against him. Etc., etc.

The British government that prepared and published this material and saw that it was distributed to American voters in uniform, knew that the talk about a $50,000,000 campaign fund was utterly false. The purpose was plain. It was to persuade American soldiers, at a time when they are unable to check the facts for themselves, that predatory wealth in this country is determined to defeat Mr. Roosevelt.

The British propaganda ministry has observed the success achieved by Mr. Roosevelt himself by the use in previous campaigns of demagogic appeals to class consciousness and has deliberately struck the same note. The soldiers have no means of knowing that there is no $50,000,000 slush fund and that no Constitutional clubs are being organized. Few of the soldiers will suspect the good faith of the British government, itself which put this lying publication in their hands while pretending to offer a token of friendship, appreciation, and good will.

Now the British government is covering up. It cannot, of course, deny existence of the newspaper, but it refused the other day to allow a reporter for the Associated Press to see it. Nevertheless, The Tribune got a copy and we regard this achievement of our reporters as one of the most important in the long history of this newspaper.

The facsimile provides additional and clinching evidence that the British government is determined to do everything in its power to win the fourth term for Mr. Roosevelt.

Mr. Roosevelt is demanding an unconstitutional system of soldier voting that will give him the maximum benefit from such lying propaganda. If he has his way, the name of his opponent is not to appear on the ballot, with the result that the soldiers will be left to assume that the Republican candidate is the creature of a big business conspiracy. British censorship will see that the soldiers know no more about issues of the campaign than will serve Mr. Roosevelt and his purpose.

The determination of the British government to reflect Mr. Roosevelt has been apparent at least since Mr. Churchill, then Mr. Roosevelt's guest, made his trip to Cambridge, Mass., to receive an honorary degree. His speech was timed to stampede the Republican conference at Mackinac, and if the effort failed, it was no fault of the prime minister's. He did his best for Mr. Roosevelt and it was clear that he would continue to do his best for him as occasion offered. The opportunity, as we now know beyond all doubt, has presented itself and has been seized.

The dishonesty of the whole proceeding is a measure of the ruthlessness of the British government in its determination to swing the election, but that, too, has been apparent for some time. The Anglophile press in this country, with its smear chorus, has been equally ruthless and for the same reason. Readers of the series of articles now running in The Tribune, exposing this aspect of the matter, can examine the evidence for themselves, but the censorship will keep it out of the hands of soldier voters.

Five Towns Furnished Honored Battalion

DALLAS, March 11—(AP)—The third battalion of the 141st infantry regiment, 36th Infantry division, which has been awarded a presidential citation, was composed mostly of men from San Antonio, Luling, Gonzales, Waelder and San Benito, Brig. Gen. R. A. Weathered, who was commander of the 72nd brigade of the 36th when the former Texas national guard outfit was mobilized, and later assistant divisional commander until he was retired, was jubilant at hearing the battalion was cited for courageous performance in the Salerno landing.

He said that at the time of mobilization the battalion was composed of the headquarters company, from San Antonio; three rifle companies, I from Luling, K from Gonzales, L from Waelder; and company M, a heavy weapons outfit, from San Benito.

Gen. Weathered said he received a letter some time ago from Col. Richard J. Werner of San Antonio, who led the 141st infantry regiment, saying: "I felt we were honored to be permitted to lead the invasion."

Woods, state superintendent of schools, call an informal meeting of public school officials in Fort Worth on March 24 to discuss pending federal legislation bearing on education with its implications for Texas.

The state department has asked local school superintendents to attend.
