No Joke, Son, Leo Durocher Really Intends to See This Thing Through

By GAYLE TALBOT HAVANA—(AP)—The reports that have been filtering back home about the great reformation of Leo Durocher have not been exaggerated...

"Last night as he eased into a conservative suit of palamas at 9 p. m. and prepared to get a good night's sleep, which he has discovered is amazingly beneficial, Leo expounded at some length, between polite yawns, on the new Durocher regime.

"I'm not asking my players to do anything I'm not doing," he continued, virtuously. "Look at me, I haven't been out of this room at night. I ate one meal in the dining room, and what happens but a bookmaker comes over and tries to sit down with me. So now I'm having all the rest of my meals right here in the room.

"This bookmaker is going around now saying I'm high-hating him. I'm not high-hating anybody. I'm just taking care of my job."

By The Associated Press Twenty-four schoolboy basketball teams start moving into Austin tomorrow for the three-way Texas Interscholastic League Tournament with the Class B squads to fire the opening guns.

Pairings released yesterday by R. J. Kidd, athletic director of the league, send Crozier Tech's Wolves, defending Class AA champions, against a highly-rated El Paso team in the first round.

Thomas Jefferson of San Antonio, the title favorite, is in the lower bracket but meets a tough Waco team in the opening melee.

A Tech-Jefferson battle in the finals would be a natural. A lot of talk has gone under the bridge since last year when Tech edged Jefferson in the first round.

Cassie sat down weakly. "No. For goodness sakes."

They clustered around her excitedly. Papa had dumped her luggage in the middle of the kitchen floor, and Mama was beginning to set out the dishes for supper.

"Parker loaned me the money to build a big new chicken house," he scratched his head and grinned at Cassie.
"O Papa, how could you let him loan you the money! After all, he's not a member of the family any more now."

"It's a strictly business proposition," Papa said. "And don't you forget it."

"And Papa's got a thousand baby chicks ordered already from the hatchery!" Sid added. "And I'm takin' agriculture at school, all about raisin' chickens and pigs and plantin' gardens."
"Sure, are you sure that's what you want to do?" Cassie said.
"Sure we got a farm all our own, ain't we?" Papa asked. "Why shouldn't Sid study farmin'? The whole place'll belong to him some day. And anyway, he likes it. The trouble with you, Cassie, is that you always know what everybody else ought to do."

"Never mind, Papa," she said. "I'm just tired from the trip. Don't pay any attention to me."
Later, upstairs in the old room with the twin beds, she thought, "Papa's right. I always know what everybody else ought to do, and make as fine a mess of my own life as anyone possibly could."

She went to the windows and looked out. The snowy fields stretched away, blue in the fast falling dusk.
Papa had changed in the six weeks she'd been away. There was an eagerness in him that hadn't been there before.
Well, everyone changed one way or another. Change was the only thing that was permanent. Even she would change. After a while there wouldn't be this heavy ache in her throat any more. Any maybe some time again she'd be happy. She had lots to look forward to. There was the baby for instance. Only babies never seemed real until they were born.

It's the Church's Responsibility

PORT WORTH—(AP)—Pointing out that four out of five Methodist students attend state colleges instead of church schools, Bishop A. Frank Smith declared that the church should follow them to the college campus.

Bishop Smith, presiding bishop of the Houston area of the Methodist Church, spoke here yesterday in the interest of a statewide program of the Wesley Foundation, Methodist organization which is seeking to provide buildings near state college campuses for Bible teaching and recreation of students.

"It is the responsibility of the church to provide leadership of mind and heart in the field of education," he declared.
Rev. W. W. Ward, district superintendent, said that the Central Texas Methodist Conference will attempt to raise $50,000 to be used to erect buildings near state school campuses. Money raised from this area will be used for buildings at North Texas Agricultural College, Arlington, and John Tarleton College, Stephenville.

Assembly Rapped by Council Head
LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—(AP)—Sir Ramaswami Mudaliar, president of the United Nations Economic and Social Council, declared Saturday the General Assembly had ignored its own stand against Franco Spain by voting to give the International Chamber of Commerce a voice in U.N. affairs.

These organizations were the World Federation of Trade Unions, the American Federation of Labor, the International Cooperative Alliance and the International Chamber of Commerce. The Assembly had included the latter in the list despite charges that Franco Spain was member of the I. C. of C.
Papanek did not mention the I. C. of C. specifically.
Sir Ramaswami declared that the Assembly evidently had made an exception in the I. C. of C. since it knew what it acted "whether any of these non-governmental organizations had Spanish membership or not."

'Out of Season,' It Cost Him $28.45

DENISON—(P)—Things were so quiet you could hear a cue ball drop in the corner pocket at the Sportman Club when a stranger stepped inside packing a mean looking shotgun.

"All right," he barked, waving the gun, "get over to those benches and sit down!"

The pool players and hangers-on did.

He eyed the group, then turned and "looked out."

Police a few minutes later spotted the well-oiled guntooter leaning against a store front a block from the club on Main Street.

"What do you think you are doing?" the police asked after grabbing the gun.

"I'm hunting rabbits," he replied.

The 12-gauge shotgun, police found, was fully loaded with number 6 shot.

Corporation Court fined the Main Street hunter $28.45 for being drunk and causing a disturbance.

Tuxedo Shirts Are Flown to Mexico City

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—(P)—U. S. Embassy officials in Mexico City had tuxedo shirts to wear at President Truman's reception there last night—thanks to a Little Rock concern.

The shirts were flown to Mexico City after an emergency call to the M. M. Cohn Company from Fred Gilson, shirt company representative of Dallas, Texas.

"There's not a tux shirt in the whole darn state of Texas," Gilson explained.

Dignity Bedecks Preparations for Pres. Truman's Visit Thursday to Waco and Baylor

WACO—(P)—President Pat Neff of Baylor University has one weakness—gavels. He collects them, and gives them away at the drop of an eyelid.

But he's going to give President Harry Truman something else. A scrap book, leatherbound in Baylor colors, will be compiled. It will contain photographs, newspaper clippings, programs and other documentary accounts of the President's visit to Waco Thursday. It will be presented as soon as it is completed.

Friends of Neff, however, say they wouldn't be surprised if a gavel were presented, too.

The academic gown of Doctor of Laws which will not be just another gown to be put on and then returned to Baylor's lockers. It will be a gift to the President.

It was specially designed and made by an Ohio company. It contains the words: "Dr. Harry Truman, Baylor University."

Also inside the gown is a letter during World War I, in France.

"My commanding officer gave me a message to take to an artillery outfit about a mile behind us," Mercer recalls. "I gave it to an officer named Harry Truman. He certainly didn't look like a future President then. But his men swore by him. They boasted he was the best commanding officer in the world."

from three workers who made the gown. Neff said he would leave the message pinned where it was.

The diploma to be given President Truman will be an especially engraved sheep-skin worthy of the dignity of the President of the United States, Baylor says.

President Truman's visit to Waco Thursday will not be his first. As grand master of the Grand Lodge of Missouri, A. F. and A. M., Mr. Truman was a visitor to the Texas Grand Lodge annual meeting in December, 1940, a few weeks after he had been elected for a second term as United States senator from Missouri.

He was received with honors by the Grand Lodge and presented to Texas Masons with other prominent Masons from out of the state.

A mighty array of horsepower will carry the presidential party through Waco's streets.

The President's bullet-proof Cadillac, now housed in the Waco City Hall basement, will be featured. The President, of course, will ride in it.

Also in the parade will be a special Chrysler convertible sedan, six Lincoln convertibles, and two Greyhound buses. The Chrysler and Lincoln are being sent here especially by the manufacturers to participate in the drive, which secret service men estimate will take exactly 30 minutes.

Eanners, posters, flags and other decorations are being erected for the big occasion. Over 500 pictures of President Truman have been ordered from headquarters of the Democratic National Committee. Windows of stores will be appropriately decorated.

Businesses will close from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m., and schools will not hold morning classes. They will resume work at 1 p. m., after the President speaks.

The last time Clifford Mercer of Waco saw President Truman, Truman was dirty and unshaven. It was

LOS ANGELES—(P)—Superior Judge Paul Vallee granted an uncontested divorce decree to Mrs. Shirley Reumker yesterday after Attorney Barry M. Woodman prevailed upon the court to move the hearing from the regular chambers on the 19th floor to the ground floor probate court room.

Woodman explained his client suffers from claustrophobia and was unable to bring herself to enter an elevator to reach the 19th floor room where Judge Vallee presides.

President Aleman welcomed United States investments with "most respect" for Mexican laws because "we have economies that can complement one another fruitfully."

Before attending the dinner at which he spoke, President Truman received a thundering cordial welcome from Mexico's highest dignitaries and her plainest citizens. He smiled broadly as he rode two miles through flag-decked streets to the American Embassy.

The day was warm and sunny and Mr. Truman doffed the overcoat he had worn on taking off from Kansas City seven hours before. He is to spend three days here on what is described officially as a good will visit. President Aleman will return the visit by traveling to Washington next month.

No Need to Remove Trailer

A PERSONAL STATEMENT TO PASSENGERS AND SHIPPERS FROM THE PRESIDENT OF SANTA FE

Now that the war is over, you and I and the fellow down the street are learning once again what it means when Buyer meets Seller under the stimulus of good, old-fashioned American competition, operating in a free market.

We hope our competitors have the same idea—for the spirit of honest competition is what has made this the "gettin' aheadest" country on the face of the earth.

The American people have repeatedly expressed their confidence in this competitive system. I feel an obligation to report a few of the things we are doing under it.

The Santa Fe lines have been called "the trail that is always new."

Yesterday, as an "early settler," we fought our way across blazing deserts, rocky snow peaks and flooded rivers in laying our tracks across the Southwest.

Today, in breaking trail in the direction of new technologies and techniques, we are fighting stubborn national reconversion problems that are holding back delivery of new and much-needed equipment and materials needed for improvements in our physical plant.

However, the "bugs" in getting back to normal are beginning to be worked out.

It is now hoped, within the next few months, we can move forward more rapidly with our improvement program and definitely announce a completely new daily Super Chief and El Capitan on our Chicago-Los Angeles run; also a completely new, swifter, streamlined service between Chicago and the sunny heart of Texas.

New Fleet of Fine Trains
These new streamlined, diesel-powered trains will embody every refinement of comfort that we have been able to devise—greater privacy, more room to stretch out, and new conveniences that are "something to write home about."

Sleeping cars will be "wired for sound" so that, if you wish, you will have your choice of recorded musical selections or radio programs, simply by pushing a button.

As usual, Fred Harvey will look after the interests of the Santa Fe traveler's inner man with the finest cuisine and dining car service available anywhere in the world. (At least that is what passengers say about it.)

New "lunch counter" diners on some of our trains will serve you a light snack at any time as well as a complete and more leisurely meal in the Fred Harvey manner.

Pioneering in Equipment and Facilities
It is in line with Santa Fe tradition that we have pioneered in diesel power and now have 658,760 horsepower in service. Within the next few months, our total diesel power will be 704,760 horsepower.

Curves are being straightened, bridges are being rebuilt and hundreds of miles are being railed with heavier track to provide greater speed and safety.

Radio is replacing the old hand and whistle signals in the yards, which both increases safety and expedites the movement of freight.

War-heralded electronics are finding new application in determining the strength of steel, and testing the stress and strains in bridge structure.

We are pioneering in glass brick in roundhouse walls for better light and improved working conditions.

The simple truth is that the metallurgist, the scientist and the engineer have produced no material or equipment suitable for use in railroad transportation which is not being used by Santa Fe today.

Pioneering in Public Service
We are pioneering in other directions, too. Not long ago, the Interstate Commerce Commission permitted extension of Santa Fe service to the harbor of Long Beach, California, which, along with Los Angeles harbor, promises to be of great importance in the development of traffic to the Far East. This was a service long desired by the public.

In a similar spirit of service and progressiveness, Santa Fe is now seeking, in conjunction with the Burlington, a new fast route between St. Louis and Kansas City, there connecting with the present main line of Santa Fe.

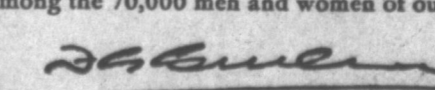

Air-minded, Too!
Santa Fe is offering to expand the scope of its public service by establishing an air operation to carry mail and freight in Santa Fe territory. Applications for that purpose have been filed with the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Free Enterprise in Action
I submit these few facts as examples of free enterprise at work on the Santa Fe.

We cannot force people to ride on our trains or to ship "Santa Fe all the Way," but under our American system of competition we announce that we are going to make it increasingly attractive to them to do so.

Yes, the trail is always new—today—tomorrow—and tomorrow.

I feel confident in saying that this is a spirit which prevails among the 70,000 men and women of our lines.

F. G. GURLEY, President
THE ATCHISON, TOPEKA AND SANTA FE RAILWAY COMPANY
