Lufkin Solves Juvenile Delinquency Problem by Installing Youth Center

LUFKIN, Nov. 16 (AP)—Petty crime and misdemeanors are taking a terrific beating from the teen-age youngsters in this busy lumber and newsprint capital.
Given a free hand to work out their own corrective program, they have just about solved the juvenile delinquency problem in Lufkin.
Half a dozen other cities are studying the Lufkin plan, in which town-people have provided a downtown clubroom, patterned after USO centers. There kids congregate after school, play ping-pong and other wise let off steam. An adult hostess stands by, more a counselor than a chaperon.

A student committee, with occasional guidance from an adult advisory group, governs the club, located in a downtown building once used as a restaurant.
The quarters are open all day Saturday and two hours Sunday afternoon.
Furnishings include ping-pong tables, a juke box, booths for soft drinks and sandwiches and writing tables, art desks, school pennants, pictures, scribbled slogans and autographs bedeck the walls.
It all began last spring, when parents alarmed over juvenile delinquency decided to do something about it.
The Rev. Morris Elliott, Episcopal rector, put the problem point-blank to a teen-age youngster.

"What is the matter with you kids and what is the matter with Lufkin?"
"There's nothing the matter with us," countered the boy. "We're just trying to amuse ourselves as best we can until we get old enough to move away where there's something for us to do."
"That was the reactor's cue. He put the matter up to the Ministerial Alliance, conferred with other town-people. Their problem: To provide a counter-attraction in Lufkin that would keep the youngsters off the streets and away from roadside taverns.

Aged Man Burns To Death in Fire Here

H. C. Eddins, 65, was burned to death in a fire that destroyed his residence at 428 Moline at 9:30 last night.
The fire was caused by sparks from a wood fire in a stove in the combination living and bedroom, that ignited a bed.
Pampa firemen made a run to the place but the house's roof had caved in and the fire had totally destroyed the house when they arrived. The firemen strung 1,500 feet of hose to prevent further spread of the flames.

The fire was first noticed by Clarence Olsen, 815 Talley, and B. Moore, 1101 Wilks, as the two men were eating supper at Olsen's residence. They saw the flames and rushed to the Eddins house, walking through a doorway but so high were the flames they could not enter the bedroom.
Going outside they tried to break through a wall of the house by using an axe, but the handle broke. They could hear Eddins calling for help, but soon his cries stopped, indicating he had suffocated, Police Chief Ray Dudley said.

OPA Promises Aid to Combat Feed Shortage

AUSTIN, Nov. 16 (AP)—Enforcement officials of the office of price administration have assured state officials they will exert every effort toward the elimination of feed shortages in Texas.
The assurance was given at a conference last night between three enforcement officers, Lieut. Gov. John Lee Smith and Houghton Brownlee of Austin, chairman of a state senate committee which recently investigated the feed situation.
The OPA officers were Lester Boone, J. K. Smith and W. P. Dobbins.
Boone said Smith, declared the officers were instructed by Washington to consult with the state officials.

De Marigny's Wedding Plans Are Cancelled

NASSAU, Bahamas, Nov. 16 (AP)—New uncertainties piled up for dapper Alfred de Marigny today as a surprise cancellation of his planned re-marriage to his pretty wife Nancy was added to an official invitation to leave the island.
The Rev. Father Bonaventure, who was to have performed the ceremony, was left waiting at the altar when the bride and groom failed to appear.
De Marigny, acquitted last week of charges that he killed Sir Harry Oakes, his wealthy father-in-law, announced yesterday morning he and his red-haired wife would be re-married at 2 p. m. He explained that their marriage in New York in 1942 was a civil ceremony.
Father Bonaventure waited at the church for little over an hour after the appointed time. Then he talked to De Marigny on the telephone, after which he announced:
"There will be no wedding today. He said he is ill."
Friends of De Marigny's wife, however, indicated she was taken by surprise by the change of plans and was more than ready to think over the idea. She is a Protestant and he is Catholic.
The scheduled ceremony was explained by Father Bonaventure, pro-vice apostolic of the church, as a "validation of marriage." He added that the twice-divorced De Marigny did not marry his first and second wives in a church either.
There was no announcement by De Marigny on further plans for the ceremony or what he planned to do about the "invitation" by the governor-in-council to leave the crown colony.

Chinese Exclusion Law Nears End

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP)—The United States moved another step toward repeal of the old Chinese exclusion laws today with submission of a report to the senate recommending adoption of the house-approved bill.
Chairman Andrews (D-Fla.) of a senate immigration and naturalization committee, said as he filed the report that "the tenacity and courage of the Chinese in their terrible ordeal of the last seven years had impelled a respect that we are proud to acknowledge."
"It has always been the policy of the United States to help China in her struggle against encroachment upon her independence and sovereignty, and we are now brothers in arms in that cause. It is fitting, therefore, that the inequality of discriminatory legislation, inconsistent with the dignity of both our peoples, should be eliminated."
The Magnuson bill would place Chinese on an immigration quota basis which would permit the annual entry of 105 persons. Chinese also would be made eligible to become citizens.
The citizenship provisions, Attorney General Biddle told the committee, affects directly only approximately 45,000 Chinese residents in this country but will create good will extending to the millions in China who are fighting at our side.

Honest Boy Gets $1,000 Reward

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (AP)—Bobby O'Dwyer's modest bank account, built up on his $5-a-week errand boy salary, received a $1,000 boost today.
The 11-year-old boy found a pocket containing three diamond rings, a diamond studded pin and a diamond necklace outside a bank several days ago.
He gave the gems, valued at $115,000, to his father who located the owner, Mrs. Pauline Weiss, an elderly woman in her 70's. Bobby handed over the pouch to Mrs. Weiss who, in turn, presented the youth with nine crisp $100 bills and two equally crisp $50 bills.

Senate, House To Hear Hull

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP)—Secretary Cordell Hull broke precedent by travelling 20,000 miles for the Moscow conference and he'll break it again Thursday with a two-mile trip from the state department to Capitol Hill.
Hull will be the first cabinet member to speak before a joint session of congress, which wants to hear a first-hand account of the historic Moscow pact.
Arrangements were made by the principal radio networks for broadcasting the secretary's address, beginning at 11:30 p. m. today.
Judging from the secretary's remarks to a news conference yesterday, his first since he returned from the Anglo-American-Russian talks, he will emphasize to house and senate these points:
1—A call for a unified American policy of interest in foreign affairs, he prepared to address a joint session of congress Thursday on results of the Moscow conference, the official Soviet government newspaper Ivestia paid him a front page editorial for his contribution to the meeting.
Hull has played a particularly big role in the collaboration between the U. S. and the U. S. A., said the editorial marking the tenth anniversary of the establishment of diplomatic relations between the countries.

Warehouse In Virginia Blows Up

By HARRY NASH
YORKTOWN, Va., Nov. 16 (AP)—An explosion in a warehouse at the naval mine depot here today killed an estimated six to eight civilian employees and injured between 20 and 30, two of them seriously. The blast awakened thousands of residents and had the effect of cutting Newport News, some 30 miles distant.
Captain R. D. Kirkpatrick, USN (Ret), commanding officer at the depot, said he believed the damage was extensive but that no estimate could be given immediately. Several fires broke out after the blast but were quickly extinguished.
The explosion occurred at 12:25 a. m. in the explosive plant area. The force threw the lighting system out of commission and all persons not participating in rescue work were ordered out.
"I was awakened in Portsmouth by a violent shaking sensation which continued for five or six seconds. But I heard the explosion proceed in the street in Norfolk said the flash, visible just before the concussion, resembled a huge rocket."
It was believed at first that the explosion had occurred at the Norfolk naval air station where on Sept. 17, 28 were killed and about 245 others hurt in an explosion of depth charges. The fifth naval depot, located at Norfolk, said a false fire alarm at the Yorktown explosion had given rise to the belief.

Anti-Subsidy Fight Drafted

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP)—House subsidy foes today threatened to attack the very existence of OPA unless President Roosevelt drops his demands for authority to pay out government funds in order to hold down retail food prices.
The house may take up on Thursday a bill extending the life of the Commodity Credit Corporation, including an amendment banning all consumer subsidy payments after this calendar year.
"Mr. Roosevelt vetoed such a bill before Steagall said that if the president takes the same attitude again, his committee will attach the prohibition to legislation extending the life of the office of price administration beyond June 30, 1944, end of the fiscal year."
"You know they want that continued," said Steagall, referring to OPA.
The swell of criticism against subsidies continued in the senate where the agriculture committee, avowedly against them, called in more than 200 witnesses, including state agriculture department heads, and food producers' spokesmen for their views.

Couples with Same Traits More Likely To Wed Than Others

CHICAGO, Nov. 16 (AP)—A boy and girl with common traits are more likely to get married than a couple having opposite attractions, two college professors who made a survey of 1,000 engaged couples disclosed today.
Dr. Ernest W. Burgess, professor of sociology at the University of Chicago, and Dr. Paul Wallin of Stanford university, called it "homogamy in marriage." Homogamy is a Greek word meaning "like marries like."
The chief point of similarity which governs marriages, the professors said, is the survey disclosed, is religious affiliation. Persons adhering to the same faith are more likely to be attracted to one another and to marry than persons of different faiths, they said.

Allied Planes Raid Norway, Balkans

(By The Associated Press)
Russian forces drove west of isolated Gornel and Zhitomir today in a great battle to collapse the Nazi center and open an avenue for the eventual invasion of Germany itself.
Gornel was virtually surrounded. Only one escape railway remained open after the Russians captured Demekhi, 34 miles west on the railway to Warsaw. At Demekhi, the Russians were within 320 miles of east Prussia and in the Nevel area farther north, the German border was only 275 from Russian field guns.
The whole pattern of the Russian campaign appeared to be one of isolating and annihilating German forces which have been ousted from all but about 150,000 square miles of pre-war Russia toward Poland from Kiev and Zhitomir had effectively severed the German armies of the south from those of the center and north.
The campaign which isolated Gornel and brought the rail junction of Rechitsa within artillery range appeared aimed at cutting the German central armies adrift from those of the north, besieging Leningrad.
U. S. heavy bombers attacked undisclosed targets in Norway this morning after British Mosquitos had bombed western Germany by night. The Nazis struck back at a southwest English coast town and at London's outer suburbs.
Weather minimized fighting in central Italy where the American Fifth Army lost a hill north of Venafro to two German counterattacks. The British Eighth Army on the east coast gained some ground and sent more patrols across the Sangro river. Nazi resistance remained strong everywhere.
American and Yugoslav bombers soared again into the Balkans, bombing the Greek airbases of Eleusis and Kalamaki near Athens. The Turks said the Germans had protested sharply to the Bulgars over the inefficient defense of their own capital of Sofia Sunday.
Another Turkish report said Greek troops which reinforced the beleaguered British and Italians on the Aegean island of Lemnos, Nubarska, Tominia, commander of a Japanese army, corps on the "southern front" had died of illness contracted in the field (probably lead poisoning).

French Request Lebanon Stores To Open Again

LONDON, Nov. 16 (AP)—The French-installed Lebanese government asked storekeepers to reopen their shops today, the Beirut radio said, as Gen. Georges Catroux, commander of the French force of national liberation, sought to settle the dispute over the little republic's sovereignty.
The broadcast said the appeal was made to merchants to resume business "in order to restore normal conditions with the least possible delay."
From other countries in the Near East, meanwhile, appeals on behalf of Lebanon continued. A Baghdad dispatch said that Wendell L. Willkie's support for Lebanon, "in the interests of democracy, the Allies and the aims of the United Nations," had been asked in a cable sent by the president of the Iraq senate.
The French on the other hand claimed Lebanese and Syrian support. Radio France in Algiers said that the work of collaboration undertaken by France in Lebanon should be continued.

Supply Chief In Far East Arrives

NEW DELHI, Nov. 16 (AP)—Brig. Gen. W. E. R. Covell, who has arrived here to assume command of the United States army supply services in China, Burma and India, said today that he was the most important theater of the war and might become the most important in the not too distant future.
Gen. Covell is taking over shortly from Brig. Gen. Raymond R. Wheeler, who, it is understood, is getting another assignment.
The public in the United States as elsewhere, Covell told correspondents, is inclined to be more optimistic than is the military over the course of the war.
"They realize," he said, "we cannot lick Germany in the next six months but that there is a possibility that Germany will collapse before that."

THEN WHY MAKE A PET OF HIM?

LEAVES FROM A WAR CORRESPONDENT'S NOTEBOOK

by Hal Boyle

A FIGHTER-TRAINER BASE IN NORTH AFRICA, Nov. 10. (Delayed.) (A)—Have you heard the story of the three one-armed bandits? Well, they're in the army now—three mechanical Robin Hoods who still rob everybody who comes their way, but the dough goes back to the guys in uniform.

The "bandits" are three slot machines which back in 1942 were emptying the pockets of a group of soldiers in Waycross, Ga., who were being conditioned before going overseas as part of the 12th air force service command.

There were so many slot machines in the fun spots of Waycross that the good citizens decided they had become a threat to the morals of their soldier guests. So a group petitioned the sheriff to step in and the machines were confiscated and taken out of circulation.

But shortly afterward the sheriff received a visitor—an army officer. His request was brief, but apparently eloquent, for a few days later one dime and two nickel slot machines were doing a handsome business in the post exchange at the nearby army base.

Instead of lining the pockets of night club owners, however, the profits went into a special fund for the soldiers. Within a short time the machines had purchased a washing machine, an electric iron and many other conveniences not considered basic army equipment.

Then the men were sent overseas to North Africa. Along with them went the three slot machines, packed in innocent-looking crates. For weeks they provided entertainment for the troops and profits for the organizational fund, but when the Germans made their break through at Kasserine Pass the service command unit was called upon to move hurriedly and the coin grabbers were left behind with another outfit.

Now they have turned up in the officers' club of a unit training fighter pilots.

Mess officers of the unit is Lt. James Cooper of Birmingham, Ala., who once was a high school football star and who surrounds pilots in his outfit with one of the most ornate clubs in the North African theater.

The three hard-working little slot machines have paid for it all—the cherry wood bar, the handsome brown leather chairs, deep-piled hush-hush rugs and even the card table. They also have eliminated the need of mess fees for the officers and help buy many little "extras" for the enlisted men.

"A scarcity of nickels and dimes hampered operations for a while," Lt. Cooper explained, "but that was remedied. One of the fellows turned up one day with some metal disks he had made. From then on the slot machine business boomed, and our profits have been tremendous."

The "take" from the three machines was approximately $150 a day and the monthly net is close to $5,000. All of it goes for those little extras that make the difference between satisfied and "very satisfied" soldiers.

"Shucks," said Mess Supt. Andrew Ahlstrom of Long Lake, Mich., "we figure our pilots will get so mad playing them they'll gladly go out and shoot Germans."

TODAY on the HOME FRONT

by James Marlow and George Zielke

WASHINGTON—(AP)—If anyone still had the idea that the United States intended to try single-handedly to feed the world when hostilities end, President Roosevelt's food message to congress tended to set the matter straight.

The chief executive said:

"A certain small percentage of (U. S.) food will have to be used as the United Nations liberate presently occupied countries, until such time as the populations of these countries can have a chance to become self-supporting."

The president drew an outline of his policy in telling of our experiences in French North Africa, which, he said, "with some assistance from us in expanding their agricultural production," now is able not only to care for itself but also to supply food to our forces there and supply "substantial quantities" of food for use in the Italian campaign.

The emphasis, then, may be on providing seed, fertilizer, machinery and agricultural experts to help nations to help themselves, after preliminary emergency relief.

The president used the word "assist" twice in summarizing:

"We shall assist in fulfilling the requirements of our fighting Allies for food and shall also assist in assisting that the liberated peoples will be given sufficient food to regain their physical and economic strength."

This sets the tone for the United Nations relief conference to be held next week.

Herbert Lehman, former governor of New York, more recently director of this country's foreign relief and rehabilitation operations and generally expected to be chosen director general of the new United Nations relief set-up, said in a speech last June:

"America cannot feed the world from its own resources alone. Neither can Britain nor Russia nor China nor any one of the other American republics. Satisfaction of the wants of the millions of suffering men, women and children can be accomplished only by the concerted action of all the nations whose productive resources were fortunately spared the fire and destruction of modern warfare."

He added:

"At least 50 per cent, and perhaps more, of the total cereals required for European relief can readily come from areas other than the United States, and it should be noted that cereals comprise well over half of the total tonnage of any table of relief food shipments."

The original draft of the proposed agreement for a United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration called for a pledge of full support from each member government "within the limits of its available resources and subject to the requirements of its constitutional procedure, through contributions of funds, materials, equipment, supplies and services."

The new draft says:

"The amount and character of the contributions of each member government will be determined from time to time by its appropriate constitutional bodies—in our case, congress."

In other words, it will be up to each country to decide how much it will provide.

Frigate Named For City of Brownsville

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16—(AP)—Final touches before it is sent on its way to war were given today to the trim frigate USS Brownsville, named for the city at the southern tip of Texas.

Christened in champagne by Mrs. J. H. Burney, native of Brownsville and daughter of the city's mayor, the vessel slid down the ways at the Henry Kaiser No. 4 shipyard at nearby Richmond Sunday and was towed by tugs to an outfitting dock.

"I'm certainly glad to have had a part in such an honor," said Mrs. Burney, now of nearby Berkeley.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Frank C. Pierce of Glendale, Calif., former Brownsville resident.

Invocation by a navy chaplain, a short musical program and presentation of flowers to leading participants preceded the breaking of the be-ribboned bottle over the prow. The ceremony, held on a platform next to the ship, was carried throughout the huge shipyard by loud speakers.

Thousands of workmen paused only briefly to watch the launching.

The Brownsville is slightly smaller than the new destroyer-escorts but is designed for similar duty in war zones. She will be manned by coast guardsmen.

There is no agreement on the origin of the name "frigate," but those ships have played a big role in history. They originally were propelled by sails or oars and later, larger ones were analogous to cruisers in relation to ships of the line. Specifications and armaments of more modern types such as the Brownsville are unrevealed.

Victims of July Crash Removed

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 16—(AP)—The bodies of three of six airmen who were killed last July in a southern Utah plane crash were brought here yesterday. The plane, which disappeared while en route from Mather Field, Calif., to Colorado Springs, was found early this month by farmers.

Those brought here were: Capt. Robert D. Spitzer, Alexandria Army Air Base, La.; Staff Sgt. Allen C. Hebert, Beaumont, Texas, and Sgt. Charles B. Royse, Berkeley, Calif.

How to Give Juvenile Delinquency a Black Eye

We want to call your attention to a story on page one of today's Pampa News about the Lufkin plan of dealing with juvenile delinquency. Pampa needs something like that and needs it badly.

In Pampa, teen-age boys and girls must make their own recreation and entertainment. That's a difficult thing to do when the town is so small and so far from the big cities.

Lufkin's plan got its start from a minister who took it up with the Ministerial Alliance. He has been working hard to start a plan in motion.

It cost Lufkin an original subscription of $2,000 to get the plan under way and no its operating costs average about $75 a month.

We'd like to suggest that the Ministerial Alliance, the High School P. T. A., Chamber of Commerce or some other organization be committed to Lufkin to get the low-down on how Lufkin operates this juvenile delinquency eradicator so successfully.

THE ALCOHOL SHORTAGE

(The Chicago Tribune)

The war production board has revealed that the supply of industrial alcohol is approaching a dangerously low level because of the demands of the synthetic rubber manufacturers.

The war production board has revealed that the supply of industrial alcohol is approaching a dangerously low level because of the demands of the synthetic rubber manufacturers.

Next year's alcohol requirements have been placed at 640 million gallons, and under the most favorable conditions the government experts say that not more than 580 million gallons can be produced.

Even to meet the inadequate production schedule will require cuts in war supplies in unexpected quarters.

Hal Foust, in a story from Washington in last Thursday's Tribune, stated that the alcohol program for 1944 contemplated the use of 162 million bushels of grain, an increase from the 93 million bushels used in 1943.

Diverting 69 million bushels of corn from animal feed to the rubber program will reduce the meat supply by approximately 690,000 pounds, or 20 pounds per family.

According to the New York Journal of Commerce, the government contemplates taking over a million tons of sugar from the next Cuban crop for conversion into molasses to be used by the regular industrial alcohol producers in the United States.

Even so, there will not be enough alcohol to meet the nation's war time requirements would necessitate still more grain and therefore still less meat for civilians, and still more molasses, and therefore still more diversion of shipping or less sugar in the nation's kitchen.

The shortage can be met without resorting to either of these steps. Further cuts in the meat supply and in the sugar supply and further reduction in the army-carrying fleet can be averted by using materials now going to waste.

At its paper mill at Old, Ont., The Tribune has demonstrated that alcohol can be derived from waste sulphite liquor which has never been thought worth saving and which runs down the drain pipes at other paper plants.

The United States forestry service has determined that by processing all such waste in the United States and Canada 80 million gallons of alcohol could

Common Ground

By R. C. BOILES "I speak the pro-war primer. I give the stars of democracy. By God I will accept nothing which all cannot have their counterpart on the same terms."

"Make America American"

The International Kiwanis club has undertaken a very worthy project. It has undertaken to get its members, as well as the voters, to understand the advantages of free enterprise as opposed to dictatorial or planned economy form of government.

The project started with the Kiwanis club at Dallas, Texas. It is a good move because it will tend to cause the members of the Kiwanis club to better understand what the American principles advocated by our founding fathers were.

If I should make any suggestion it would be to change the heading from "Keep America American" to "Make America American."

We do not want to keep the kind of America we had for the last thirty years and especially the kind of America that led up to a worst and longest depression in our history.

The International Kiwanis, in setting out its bulletin, set forth how prosperous America has been compared with our population and natural resources, and states that the American principles as originally enjoyed in this country meant:

"Freedom! Freedom for man and his posterity; freedom guaranteed by Constitution; freedom to worship; freedom to speak and think and write; freedom to work and earn and spend; freedom of enterprise; freedom to choose and shape our own destinies; freedom to want more than we had; freedom to acquire more to satisfy our wants and desires."

The International bulletin also says: "Out of this great American Freedom—out of the benefits arising from the conduct of the affairs of free men, out of the profits from the labors and enterprises of this free people, we, the American people, have achieved more than any other nation on earth."

Then the International explains why all this progress. Their explanation is: "Simple, isn't it? Freedom was the touchstone, the fusing agent."

Yes, this International Kiwanis is undertaking a much needed work. I hope every Kiwanis club and every other club in the land will dedicate themselves to this great work our country will not be saved unless people do as Tom Raine said, "The who expect to reap the benefits of freedom must, like men, undergo the fatigue of supporting it."

That would make up the 50 million gallons and leave 30 million gallons for the rest of the stockpile. It would do this without requiring anybody to eat less meat or go without sweetening.

The Tribune has offered the entire wood-pulp industry of Canada and the United States the benefit of its experience. Surely they should be enthusiastic response, now that the WPB has reported upon the utter inadequacy of our alcohol sources.

SOFTENED "AMERICANISM" (The News and Courier, Charleston, S. C.)

The News and Courier does not shut its eyes to the ugly fact that social statistics, federal medical records, numerous other promises of governmental benefits, are pleasing, beloved, of a great portion of the American people.

The plain and simple reason is that they no longer believe that they are capable of taking care of themselves and their families.

Without putting the thought in their heads, they need a guardian, that they would be much safer and happier were their country a Socialized State with a government taking responsibility to provide them with food, clothing, shelter and beer.

Until lately all the Americans understood that they would have to work or starve, so most of them worked. The thought of "freedom from want" and from "the fear of want" as a benefaction from Washington never occurred to the masses.

The Liberator, who had loudly shouted for economy, came into office and began the great distribution. Thereupon it soon became apparent that the resourcefulness and the hardy Americanism so much dilated upon in the school and story books, was in great part a myth, or, at any rate, a thin memory.

In no part of the United States was the spirit of mendacity stronger than in Southern states when in 1933 and thereafter the "Democratic" philosophers began to teach that mendacity would pay and to practice big scale, national almsgiving.

WHO RUNS OUR ARMY? (The Chicago Tribune)

Last week Field Marshal Jan C. Smuts, the renegade Boer, made the announcement that America would have to carry much the heaviest part of the burden of the invasion of Europe.

This announcement, like all news of our forces, came from London.

Now Lt. Gen. Douglas Brown- ing says that we must raise a much larger army than the 10 million men which is the present goal announced in this country.

Who is running the American war effort? The answer appears to be the British war office. The American staff and generals merely execute orders originating in London.

The Washout

By ERKINE JOHNSON Today we met an actor who admits he likes to show off and says there are just as many actors among bricklayers and soda jerks as there are on the stage.

"The show-off—'and,'" says he, "what actor isn't?"—is Michael O'Shea, the young Broadway actor who did on a puffy star and re-wig in his film debut as Barbara Stanwyck's leading man in "Lady of Burlesque."

O'Shea is doing much better now, than any late playboy in show business. He's worked in vaudeville, smokes, the chautauqua, the borscht circuits, night clubs, burlesque, been a band leader and even took a week in gangster dialect on the radio.

But as Michael says, most of the time he was out of a job. "Strictly on the panic," is the way he describes his life in show business. He was a bundle wrapper, newspaper copy boy, a Western Union messenger, a bell hop, bricklayer, sailor, soda jerk, amateur boxer and a professional actor.

"And I never stopped showin' off," he says. "I jizzed it up," he says. "I swirled the ice cream spoon above my head, dropped the tank in a dizzy height to land square in the mug with a nice splashy sound. I squirted the fizz water and flavor with the flourish of a magician, and I said the glass down the counter with the fast but calculating speed of a baseball pitcher so it landed at first base right in front of the sixth customer down the counter."

It was true, O'Shea said, that he broke a little hardware in the joint and maybe scared the digestive tracts of a few customers, but he was a professional actor. When the O.P. ticket. They didn't just fill a glass with the right goo, no sir, not O'Shea.

DR. FOSDICK'S 'ON BEING A REAL PERSON'

Sound Physical Health Not Essential to Being Real Person Three factors enter into the building of personality: heredity, environment, and personal response.

The importance of the first two we take for granted; they rigorously limit the control of the individual over his own life.

As Oscar Ameringer puts it: "Except that I inherited certain cerebral activities from an unknown number of unknown ancestors, was deeply influenced by persons most of whom were dead before I was born, and shaped by circumstances over which I had no control, I am a self-made man."

Life consists not simply in what heredity and environment do to us, but in what we make out of what they do to us.

One of the clearest illustrations of this fact is found in the very place where its discovery might seem most difficult. At no point do heredity or environment impinge upon us so intimately as in our own physical organisms.

Some of the physical, such as certain glandular diseases, can utterly disrupt the person, while psycho-physical organisms, and as a building site profoundly influences the size and kind of house that can be built upon it.

So the heredity and environment do to us, but in what we make out of what they do to us.

War Today

By DEWITT MacKENZIE Associated Press War Analyst The retreating Nazis in the Kiev-Zhitomir sector of the eastern front have only 165 miles farther to fall back before they will again be where they began their ill-fated attack against the Soviet Union on June 22, 1941.

At the rate the retreating Nazis have been traveling recently—about 15 miles a day—they theoretically could shoot a column through to the old demarcation line through Poland in about 11 days. Actually, of course, that's not the way such an immense battle works.

The Muscovites are developing their other offensive both north and south of the Kiev sector for the double purpose of pocketing and annihilating Germans and of bringing their long front back into alignment.

It's important to note that the Germans still are counter-attacking heavily in the Dnieper-bend trap in an attempt to break the group by closing this trap on the large number of Nazi troops still in that area.

Such counter-attacks also are calculated to slow down the Russian drive in the Kiev sector by threatening the Red flank. The ability of the Hitlerites to stage such counter-thrusts should dispel any notion that they are a crushed and routed army.

However, this titanic battle, which extends for some 800 miles north and south as the cross files—much farther if you measure all the serpentine, winding, and circuitous lines—reached a crisis. The offensives which now are being pushed in the sectors of Krivoy Rog, Kiev, Korosten, Gomel and Nevel, bid fair to produce some great and bloody changes in the near future.

The way things look, the Red armies are set for another winter of fierce combat. The ground is frozen—and it already is hard along with a distinctive personal rejoinder is thus evident even in that most intimate realm where heredity and environment impinge upon us in our physical organisms, we may certainly expect to find it everywhere else.

At a recent meeting of the Wayside Home Demonstration club, in the home of Mrs. Harold Osborne, Mrs. Julia Kelley demonstrated the proper mulching of shrubs for the winter.

Leaders are: Lavoy Harris, garden demonstrator; Mildred Haloway, poultry demonstrator; Effie Lou Carpenter, small fruit demonstrator; Patricia Ann Ferguson, clothing demonstrator.

Mrs. Pearl Spaugh To Speak Tonight At A. A. U. W. Meet

Mrs. Pearl Spaugh will be program leader tonight when the A. A. U. W. meet at 7:30 in the city club rooms.

A display of books will be arranged by Miss Clarine Brannon who will discuss the "Treasured Wealth in Books." Mrs. Perry Gaut will give a poem by Arthur Quoterman, depicting the modern detective story.

Delinquency Is Linked With Lack Of Able Teachers

An Iowa judge, after passing sentence on three delinquent girls, came out with his idea of a sensible step toward lowering juvenile delinquency. He believes that co-education should be discontinued from the third grade through high school, and from then on the boys should be taught by men and the girls by women.

But will a step backward — as educational segregation of the sexes would be — help in any way? Now that the war has opened up most of the business, industrial, and professional fields to women, it would seem that more than ever the need of boys and girls is to learn to get along with each other.

Gay Color Brightens Frocks for Holidays

The New York creations above are bright little numbers for gala holidays at home or for dining out. At left is a deep rose crepe dress whose peplum and short sleeves are trimmed with unusual rose petals of the same material.

At right is a porcelain blue, with lace bodice covered with iridescent sequins and surplice version skirt.

By ROSSELLEN CALLAHAN NEW YORK The early winter collection of tussy frocks which New York designers have created for you to wear to the family set-togethers and festivities on Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's day, will more than make up for any lack of table luxuries due to rationing.

Knowing that it's frocks with an accent on femininity which catch men's eyes these days, smart stylists have emphasized brilliant color combinations and such soft touches as net ruffles, petal-shaped, metallic embroidery, bouquets of bright flowers tucked into the belt, sweetheart necklines and short, shirred sleeves.

The beau or husband home on furlough will never notice there are no chestnuts in the dressing room meat in the mince pie if his "one and only" wears a frock as pretty as one new model in black velvet with flattering sweetheart neck and short, caught-up sleeves edged in delicate black net ruching. A huge pink velvet cabbage rose at the belt-line gives it just the needed touch of color.

Dressy, yet extremely simple and becoming to all ages, is the deep rose one-piece crepe, with its flat peplum and shorter-than-usual sleeves trimmed with rose petals, of the same fabric. This, too, features a sweetheart neckline, and tiny tucks in the bodice give it a softness which offsets its extremely slim skirt.

Giltier gowns are still among the most brilliant successes of the season. The extreme simplicity of styling in the newest designs prevents them from making you seem overdressed, even though you don them in the late afternoon. One of the loveliest of the new-but-not-newly sequin styles has a porcelain blue surplice crepe skirt with a slight drape, attached to a long-sleeved lace bodice encrusted with iridescent sequins.

If your social life has been somewhat curtailed, it would be best for you to select a style which lends itself to brilliant accessories. Holiday holiday dinners be but one of the few times you'll have need for formal afternoon clothes. A long-sleeved, solid-colored crepe dress with draped or ruffled neckline is your best bet. If it's a belted model, switch the plain buckle for one of rhinestones, sequins or jet and match it up with buttons or medallions of the same.

But whatever your style preference, remember that it's smart to be feminine.

Episcopalians To Attend Supper At Parish Hall Tonight

Tonight at 7 o'clock, the Women's Auxiliary of St. Matthew's Episcopal church will sponsor a covered-dish supper at the Parish hall of the church.

Coltco Club Sews For Red Cross At All-Day Meeting

The Coltco Home Demonstration club held an all-day meeting Friday in the community hall when Red Cross sewing was done during the meeting hours.

A luncheon was served at noon and plans for the next club program were made followed by a report on the club's accomplishments during the year by Mrs. Jack Vaughn. She reported that the total number of pounds of vegetables stored by club members was 590.

Following the business session a demonstration was given by Mrs. Julia E. Kelley, Gray County H. D. agent, on how to care for shrubs.

HOME FRONT FORECAST

By ANN STEVICK NEA Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON — Future kitchen stoves may outshine the great American bathroom in splendor of color and decoration. The first glazed ceramic cook stoves, expected to appear some time after the first of the year, will be in traditional cream, white and black. However, there is no reason why they can't blossom out later in shiny green, blue or blue.

Factories in various sections of the country are being sought to make them, to save shipping space. The stoves will weigh only 300 pounds, replacing a model weighing 1,085 pounds. They are said to be proof against normal shock. The exterior is made of transit board, a composition of cement and asbestos, which is not brittle. The glazed finish, however, is slightly softer than enamel.

There is only one model so far. It is of trim modern design, with two large round clay lids which let down when the burners are not in use.

BUXOM TURKEYS If the new turkey prices terrify you, you may be encouraged to look forward to more meat per pound in the future. A national turkey improvement plan is under way which starts with more careful breeding and carries on with the egg and the growing turkey. Sanitation, feeding and housing are to be improved. Turkeys which don't come up to minimum body weights and good meat conformations will be removed from flocks. There should be fewer scrawny birds in future crops.

ODDS AND ENDS Have a "wobbie"—It's a cross between a carrot and a beet, produced in Holland. Hospitals will be allowed to get points ahead of time to enable them to buy in quantity. The Busy Bee myth has been exploded. This year, because of July rains in the bee belt, the bees loafed around. A pin-up chart to hang in your kitchen to check your wartime eating will soon be available at most groceries.

Moisture causes much trouble for automobiles by collecting on ignition parts and inviting leakage of high-tension current, with all of the serious aftereffects of delayed starting.

"Build The Future With Books," Is Theme For National Book Week Here

In observance of National Book Week, the Pampa Public Library has on display many new books. The theme, "Build The Future With Books," and according to Mrs. James Todd, librarian, "More than at any time during the last twenty-five years, there is a compelling need for a steady influence on people's living and thinking. In a world torn apart by distrust, suspicion, greed and intolerance, books can teach and develop an intelligent regard for other nations and races. Just as books about our American heritage can foster a desire to expand the ways of democracy to the furthest corners of the earth."

How Sluggish Folks Get Happy Relief

Mrs. Todd has invited the public to visit the library and to look over the shelves of books. In commenting on National Book week, Mrs. Todd said, "Through the medium of the printed page, we are enabled to enlarge our horizon of knowledge and experience and be better prepared to mold our future."

Supreme Court To Review OPA Rent Powers

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16—(AP)—The supreme court has refused to review a decision holding constitutional a section of the public utility holding company act prohibiting registered holding companies from making contributions to political parties or candidates for public office.

The legislation was challenged by the Union Electric company of Missouri and by Louis H. Egan, of Clayton, Mo., former president of the company. Egan was sentenced to two years imprisonment and fined $10,000. The company, a subsidiary of the North American company, was fined $50,000.

In upholding the legislation and the two convictions in the federal district court at St. Louis, the eighth federal circuit court said:

"Considering the evil effect of political contributions we think the prohibition of such contributions, whether made to candidates for federal or non-federal offices, whether to national or local parties or committees, by public utility holding companies is within the power of congress."

It was contended by the company that the legislation was unconstitutional because it sought to regulate non-federal contributions and "encroached upon the powers reserved to the states."

The court agreed to review litigation involving the constitutionality of the OPA rent control program.

The justice department appealed from a decision by the middle Georgia federal district court holding the legislation to be unconstitutional.

The supreme court already had agreed to review litigation brought by two Boston meat dealers, involving constitutionality of price fixing provisions of the emergency price control act.

A prayer involving "divine wisdom" failed to obtain a supreme court review for a draft registrant who refused to report for work at a conscientious objects' camp and was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

Texas Air WAC Week Opens Today in Pampa

Highlighting "Texas Air WAC Week," which starts today and ends next Monday, Lt. Emma Yukna and other WAC recruiting officials in Pampa will have a special booth at the La Nora theater at which WAC and Air WAC information will be given to women residents of this area.

Governor Coke R. Steynson, calling on all Texas women to give serious consideration to the opportunities open to Texas who enlist now as "Air WACs," issued a proclamation this week, setting aside the period Nov. 15-22 as the time in which he would like to see Texas reach its Air WAC quota. In conjunction with that proclamation, Lt. Yukna and her assistants will make a concerted local drive to explain the special consideration being given to women who enlist now for definite service with the air forces.

In addition to the booth at the La Nora, which will be staffed each evening this week, a special WAC window display will be featured by Turfco store on North Caylor on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

No Secret Treaties Made, Hull Asserts

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16—(AP)—Secretary of State Hull, in his first public report since his historic conference with the British and Russian foreign ministers, said Monday that no secret agreements were made in Moscow.

Expressing pleasure over the reception accorded the Moscow declaration by the American public, Hull said the agreement reached among the United States, Great Britain, Soviet Russia and China came about because each of these big nations is trying to push away from isolationism to what he described as sane international principles.

Hull repeatedly emphasized the importance he attaches to the Moscow decision looking toward international organization for world peace.

He disclosed that he had been conferring with American leaders from all parties for over a year in an effort to establish a common United States foreign policy.

If we can't cooperate among ourselves, he said, how can we expect to get the cooperation of other peoples? Hull added that this country now has a choice of a program of cooperation such as was outlined at Moscow or no program at all.

Indian War Veteran Dies at Clarendon

CLARENDON, Nov. 16—(AP)—Alfred Estlack, a veteran of the Indian wars who was 100 years old, died Saturday at the home of his son. Funeral services were held Sunday.

Born on the Ute Indian reservation in Colorado on April 11, 1843, Estlack by the time he was 16 was schooled thoroughly in Indian language and lore. For 12 years he served as a scout under General Crook in the United States army.

Estlack sometimes told the story of how, in a letter which preceded the battle of the Big Horn, he did scout duty for General George Custer.

In 1883 Estlack settled in old Tascosa, Texas, and thereafter remained in Texas.

His survivors include a son, R. M. Estlack, Corpus Christi.

COULD IT BE POSSIBLE? HARRISBURG, Pa.—City councilmen stared and then asked Frank P. Cirillo if they had heard him all right.

Tojo Emerges As Japanese Hero-Dictator

King Victor Emmanuel III has reason to look irritated, for Premier Badoglio virtually has told the aged monarch he must abdicate.

(Editor's Note: Russell Brines, Associated Press staff correspondent at Manila and Tokyo before the war, is returned to the Western Hemisphere on the exchange ship Gripsholm, which reached Manila Nov. 10, after 21 months' internment at Manila and Shanghai. This is his appraisal of the status of Gen. Hideki Tojo, Japan's war premier.)

By RUSSELL BRINES

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Nov. 16—(AP)—Stern-faced Gen. Hideki Tojo, Japan's most active and most publicized premier, has become the empire's outstanding war hero and at least outwardly its unchallenged dictatorial leader.

As a general and war-time premier, Tojo escapes the criticism the Japanese usually level against their commoner rulers. An intensive press campaign is being built up as a symbol of stern devotion to duty and the frugal living which the times demand of all subjects.

His outward power is tremendous, for he completely dominates a cabinet which rules the country firmly. Other cabinet members, even the navy minister, are of relatively little importance amid the fanfare of the government-inspired propaganda surrounding Tojo.

His picture is constantly featured in the newspapers showing him visiting wounded soldiers and sailors, addressing factory workers, consoling youthful war orphans.

Tojo is never shown smiling. He always wears the same expression accepting homage with condescension and a brief salute.

News stories show him marching briskly during reviews so that his aides, some of whom are large physically, have to step lively to keep pace.

Some pictures of the premier conferring with his subordinates give the premier an expression of hurried impatience. Other shots show him striking similarity to the emperor.

Japan's war leader has traveled widely in the past two years almost always by air, so that he has been seen by a first premier to fly while in office.

In addition to numerous trips to all parts of Japan, he has visited Manchukuo, north and south China, Indo China, Thailand, Burma, Singapore, The Netherlands East Indies and Manila.

The Japanese carefully guard his shinning car in each city visited, and at least once he is pictured as being escorted by a military band.

All evidence is that these junkets are not intended primarily for propaganda purposes but are his direct method of coordinating the war effort.

In his outward personality there are none of the human touches which gossip says Japanese normally find in public officials—a man's drinking capacity, his ability as a poet, his attitude toward art, or his preference for some geisha girl.

Instead, he is pictured as an abstemious, hard-working soldier who in daily life shares the hardships of the front.

Thus as a symbol of the Japanese ideal which the army is trying to spread among the people, Tojo is publicized more than any other officer while alive. Other generals and admirals are given a brief play in the press after some reported victory, but they are soon blacked out. Japan's national heroes in this war, except Tojo, are still men who died in action.

This apparently is a continuation of the normal policy of preventing any officer from becoming sufficiently important to gather a following and threaten the leadership of the actual army rulers who generally operate behind the scenes.

It is apparent the propaganda campaign is intended to build Tojo into the "strong man" the Japanese always have desired.

But whether he actually is that, or whether he is, as usual, merely the "front man" for a clique, is unclear.

He emerged rather abruptly in the public eye in 1940 as war minister, and the Japanese press then failed to explain why he was elevated to such prominence relative to security.

He now is one of the most powerful men in the nation's history, yet few Japanese seem to know or care on what basis he received his initial push into the limelight, and the Japanese press so far has not explained his career.

Panhandle to Get Soy Bean Supply

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16—(AP)—Five million bushels of soy beans are being sent to Texas to relieve the livestock protein feed shortage, the Commodity Credit Corporation said today.

Slightly more than that amount is scheduled for delivery to Oklahoma.

Produced largely in the Midwest, the soy beans are sent by car loads to cottonseed crushing mills in Texas and Oklahoma which have been converted for processing soy bean meal, CCC spokesmen said.

The spokesmen acknowledged that requests for protein feed were continuing to pour in to Washington from livestock producers throughout the Southwest, where drought conditions precipitated a critical feed shortage. They added that small quantities of government-owned corn and wheat also had been sent to the Southwest for feed.
