Every Phase of Iran Conference Is Snapped

(Editor's Note: Lloyd Stratton, president of Associated Press, Limited, British subsidiary of the Associated Press, and an accredited press correspondent with the U. S. army, was in Cairo just before the meeting between Roosevelt, Churchill and Chiang Kai-shek. After the conference was underway with the Russians not in attendance, Stratton figured there would be a separate meeting and that Tehran seemed the logical site. By a fortunate set of circumstances he obtained passage on a plane, being among the last civilians to leave Cairo before a temporary ban was placed on air travel, post and telegraph. Stratton witnessed the Soviet trade union journal "War and the Working Class" delivered a strong warning that Finland, Hungary and Rumania would suffer worse consequences the longer they lingered in the battle.

U. S., Britain, Russia to Smash German War Power

Iran Parley Details Are Announced

...The text of the main declaration by the three leaders:

1.—We, the president of the United States of America, the prime minister of Great Britain and the premier of the Soviet Union, have met these four days past in this capital of Stalingrad to Premier Stalin, a British recognition of the Russian heroes who turned the Nazi tide at Stalingrad last winter.

2.—No territorial changes that do not accord with the freely expressed wishes of the peoples concerned.

3.—Respect for the right of all peoples to choose their own form of government; restoration of "sovereign rights and self government" to those "forcibly deprived of them."

4.—Endeavor, with due respect for existing obligations, to promote a better distribution of raw materials and trade to all states, "great or small, victor or vanquished."

5.—Full collaboration among nations in the economic field in order to improve labor standards and social security.

6.—After the final destruction of the Nazi tyranny, a peace establishment to assure all men "freedom from fear and want."

7.—Freedom of the seas for all nations.

8.—Abandonment of the use of force and disarmament of nations "which threaten or may threaten, aggression outside of their frontiers, pending establishment of a wider and permanent system of general security."

Dispatches from Teheran said the conference atmosphere was one of extreme cordiality. The main declaration by the three leaders concluded:

"We came here with hope and determination. We leave here friends in fact, in spirit and in purpose. It was the first time President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin had met.

On the first day of the conference Stalin, accompanied only by his foreign minister, Vyacheslav Molotov, walked up the steps of the Russian embassy compound, which was the president's residence during his stay. He left Molotov talking in an ante-room with Henry H. Hopkins, the president's official adviser, and strode on alone to come face to face with thousands of miles across the desert for the rendezvous further cementing Allied unity in war and peace.

It was believed to be the first time Stalin had left Russia since the Communist revolution in 1917. The Russian embassy area, and Teheran itself, swarmed with Russian tankygunner guards, and even the embassy sergeants were packing pistols.

Security measures were heightened because it was learned a number of German saboteurs had been dropped by parachute in Iran a few weeks before the big three arrived. Most of them were reported captured.

A number of Iranians whose loyalty was questioned, including at least one army officer, also were locked up during the conference.

One of the ceremonious highlights of the conference at the foot of the snow-capped Elburz mountains was the presentation by Prime Minister Churchill of the "Sword of Stalingrad" to Premier Stalin, a British recognition of the Russian heroes who turned the Nazi tide at Stalingrad last winter.

est probably will be story told in pictures.

Nearly every significant feature of the meeting and its personality were photographed. But to me the most outstanding and spectacularly colorful ceremonies of all were those held today in the Russian embassy shortly before the termination of the conference.

Gathered there was the greatest concentration of global power ever assembled under the same roof.

First came the solemn, impressive presentation of a Stalingrad sword to Stalin.

The sparkling crimson sheathed sword lay across a table made especially for the occasion and placed in the center of a 50 by 75-foot room used for all the conferences.

The Stalingrad sword was wrought in London by Tom Beasley, a veteran artisan who has made all the ceremonial swords in Britain for several decades. It was inscribed to the Soviet heroes who defended the city.

The domed, sky-lighted room carried a bluish-gray color scheme with four draped windows on the south side and the opposite wall broken by two big fireplaces.

In filed to British soldiers, specially chosen from the Buff regiment, who lined up in front of the fireplaces. They were followed by an honor guard of 22 Russian officers, who marched and took their places in a double line before the windows. Each was armed with a tommy-gun and wore black boots, blue breeches, olive drab tunics with red shoulder boards and black visored caps circled by red bands and with a gold star in front.

The highest military figures of this war and the diplomats grouped themselves around the room with Roosevelt quietly taking a seat in the southwest corner where the photographers also congregated. Suddenly Vyacheslav Molotov, Soviet foreign commissar, entered, walked to the table surveyed the scene and departed.

Then came Stalin, appearing noiselessly and clad in a plain khaki blue uniform with gold star epaulettes. He was wearing a single decoration, the Order of Lenin.

A few seconds later Churchill walked in wearing the uniform of an RAF commodore.

A 22-piece Russian army band, at a signal sounding like "Marsch," played the "Internationale" and then "God Save the King" while Churchill stood to salute Stalin with right arm raised and hand half flexed.

A British officer picked up and held the sword rigidly before him while Churchill spoke on behalf of the king about the "steel-hearted heroes of Stalingrad."

Stalin replied with a low-voiced expression of appreciation.

Stalin took the sword from Churchill's out-stretched hands, kissed the hilt and handed it to King George VI of England, President Michael Kalinin of Russia and Premier Roosevelt. These were the first of Churchill's tributes.

Churchill toasted Roosevelt twice and once as Roosevelt the president and once as Roosevelt the man. Then he toasted "Stalin the great" Stalin before drinking to "my fighting friend Churchill." Roosevelt replied to both with appropriate words.

The three men simply were reflecting over the matter of Churchill's birthday the same goodwill and understanding already reached, according to all sources, in the series of plenary conferences on gravely issues: Stalin, of course, talked through an interpreter, but he had his own "sign language" for effectiveness in expressing his sentiment. Whenever any one was toasted he got up with his glass, walked over to them and smilingly clinked glasses before drinking. There were 34 guests present and each one gave at least one toast. Eye-witnesses maintain Stalin got up and clinked glasses at every toast.

The party was somewhat reminiscent of the hospitality Stalin offered Churchill at the Kremlin when he prime minister visited Moscow. It broke up about midnight.

Churchill who had begun perhaps the happiest birthday of his life by receiving greetings from his wife and others took one last look at his presents before retiring to his quarters. They had occupied honor places on the dinner table: One from Harrison was a piece of beautiful old Persian handspun silk with a card disclosing it came from "Averell."

The other gift was from the president of the United States—a blue and white Persian bowl of the 13th century—referred to by an exacting connoisseur as a "fair antique." The president's card was inscribed:

"For Winston Spencer Churchill on his 69th birthday at Teheran, Iran, Nov. 30, 1943, with my affection, and may we be together for many years."

Italy's west coast, was hit and left burning.

The British Eighth Army's drive to the Moro river represented a gain of about two and a half miles from San Vito, whose capture was announced yesterday, and carried the Adriatic offensive to within 10 miles of Pescara.

German losses on the Adriatic front were described officially as heavy. "In some places the dug into solid rock to a depth of eight feet and hand-to-hand combat," a headquarters spokesman said.

Gen. Clark's Fifth Army punched on through similar formidable defenses. The Germans were bitterly contesting every inch of the strategic heights guarding the plains beyond, where armored divisions can be brought to play.

Report that an Italian army of about three miles southwest of Mignano, through which winds highway 6, the road to Rome.

Headquarters said the Nazis had thrown nine divisions, 100,000 to 135,000 men, into the defense of the line they had hoped to hold through the winter months. Although no mention was made of forces the Germans may be holding in reserve nearer Rome, it is known that Nazi forces have been moved from the field Marshal Erwin Rommel's pool in the north.

Reinforcements also have reached Italy for the great Allied offensive, believed to be imminent. Allied-held port dislocated yesterday. It said that Canadian tankmen and motorized troops had arrived after an uneventful crossing.

Report that an Italian army of upwards of 50,000 men was poised in the Abruzzi mountains in the line of the German retreat before Montgomery's forces came, meaning the opponents of Nazism fully realize that with Hitler and his subordinates in full control of all instrumentalities of power, they could never see the Nazis unseated. Nothing but a crushing military defeat, they argued, could doom Hitler.

The passage in the principal Teheran declaration which, I believe, will have a tremendous effect in the world, is the following:

"We shall seek the cooperation and active participation of all nations, large and small, whose peoples in heart and mind are dedicated, as are our own people, to the elimination of tyranny and slavery, oppression and intolerance. We will welcome them as they may choose to come into a world family of democratic nations."

No German democrat will take offense at the assertion of the principal Teheran declaration that plans have been "concerned for the destruction of the German forces."

Whitney Stresses Teamwork as He Addresses Cadets

Teamwork between ground and air forces is essential to winning the war, Col. Frederic W. Whitney, commanding officer of the McLean Prisoner of War Camp, told the graduating class of 43-E at the graduation held yesterday at Pampa Field.

"Only by the contribution of the type of teamwork which now exists between air and ground forces can we go ahead on all fronts as we are doing today," the colonel told the newly-commissioned lieutenants.

The graduation speaker was introduced by Col. Daniel S. Campbell, commanding officer of Pampa Field, who complimented the class for its safety record. Against the class was marked up only one classified mishap, a ground loop, not serious.

Honor ground school student was Lieut. Charles Schneider, 25, of Los Angeles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Schneider, Shadowlawn, Okoshok, Wis.; ring commander, Lieut. Clarence F. Weisner, 23, Oklahoma City, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Weisner, 201 Benton, Ellis, Kas.

Invocation was by Capt. Maurice P. Garner, post chaplain; administration of the oath by Lieut. Col. W. B. Marschner, executive officer; wings presentation by Maj. Jack F. Matt, director of training.

This was the tenth class to graduate from Pampa Field. A new class 44-A, has already started training.

Oldest Texas Judge Expires at El Paso

EL PASO, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Texas' oldest pioneer jurist, Judge A. M. Walthall, died last night at his residence here at the age of 92 after a lingering illness.

Mr. Walthall, who was 44th year of service on the Texas bench, was asked his associates of the eighth court of civil appeals to request that El Paso, Presiding Justice Spauldine, and Coke R. Stevenson name a commissioner to take over his duties.

The request expressed the veteran jurist's wish to retire from the bench on which he had served since 1914—a total of 29 years.

He left the office as one of the oldest high court jurists, from the standpoint of both age and service.

He came to Texas in 1873 from El Paso, Mo., and taught in Parker county for a little more than two years. He was granted his law license in Parker county and returned to Missouri to take as his bride his childhood sweetheart, Miss Sallie Harris, who died in 1941.

He resided for awhile in Fort Worth and in 1885 he moved to Pecos, where he was vice president, auditor, and attorney for the Pecos and Northeastern railroad.

In 1897 he was elected judge of the 34th district court, a district which then extended from Pecos to El Paso, and presided there until his appointment to serve the unexpired term of Judge J. F. McKenzie in the eighth court of civil appeals. He was elected to his first term in that court on Oct. 14, 1914.

Away from the bench, one of the judge's main interests was his Bible class in the First Baptist church, where he taught for 43 years.

Judge Walthall is survived by two daughters: Mrs. Will Graves of Texarkana, and Mrs. Mary Dunn of El Paso; and a son, Harris Walthall, an attorney and city alderman of El Paso.

Crops, Pastures Helped by Rain

(By The Associated Press)

Crops and pastures were benefited in many sections of Texas yesterday by gentle rains which also helped replenish dry livestock tanks.

A half-inch rain at Dallas was reported helpful to pastures and to small grains badly needed to increase the short supply of costly proteins which dryfarms must have.

The heaviest rain in several months, about an inch and a half, fell in the eastern part of the state and grain and other crops which had been dying in Cooke county for weeks of moisture and helped refill virtually empty stock tanks. Some farmers had hauled water for livestock in recent weeks.

Wichita county grain areas were helped by a drizzle of .75 inch.

A slow rain which measured .14 at El Paso fell through southern New Mexico and far West Texas Saturday night to put water in stock tanks but range benefits there were considered slight because of lateness of the season.

Other rain reported for 24 hours ending at 6:30 p. m. Sunday included: Waco .21; San Antonio .34; Amarillo .07; Electric .80; Abilene .89; Big Spring .69; Austin and Corpus Christi, trace.

New York Builds Biggest Airport As Future Hub of Global Skyway Traffic

By MARGUERITE YOUNG
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—The world's greatest postwar skyway depot, where you may find a 100-passenger plane for Europe any hour of the hour, is taking shape right here—now.

Somewhat on the Q. T. this city has bought and built land, laid it out, and almost finished the groundwork for a civilian air-sea base that will make LaGuardia Field, now biggest on earth, just a busy local station on the global sky-map.

Announced Mayor F. H. LaGuardia has been spearheading the new terminal at Idlewild, Long Island, for two years, and saying nothing much about it. Plans are complete to helicopter-land and bus parking lots. They have been redrawn lately to catch up with wartime aviation advances. Meanwhile, actual engineering work has been done on the ground and in the water.

Now, scarcely noticed even by the local citizenry, the main seaplane channel is just about all dug. By spring, the builders will be ready to pour concrete runways for 200,000 passenger and cargo expresses.

This puts New York out front for postwar business, experts say. Every great international air crossroads—London, Paris, Berlin, Moscow, as well as New York—has outgrown prewar airports. London is planning one to supplement Croydon. So far as is known here, the project at Idlewild is the only one so far advanced that, should there be a sudden break in the war in Europe within a year, resulting commercial traffic could be handled with postwar efficiency on the ground and in the water.

Overseas week-ends and tree-trimmed fruit fresh off the air cargo express from the tropics thus become a future certainty for the average New Yorker. Mayor LaGuardia has said the air-borne banana will be cheaper, too.

FIELD CITY IN ITSELF
The transcontinental and trans-ocean traveler will step out of his plane onto a built-in gangplank leading into the administration building. It is in the middle of the base which will be a city in itself. It will have a bank, beauty shop, general ticket offices of the airlines, and other modern facilities for the traveler and the 30,000 or so people it will take to run the place.

From here you may motor into Manhattan—just 22 minutes away—or you may take a helicopter-taxi or bus to a destination distant enough to make that worthwhile.

Runways go around the administration building and occupy the eastern side of the base. There are eight of these, 200 feet wide and 10,000 feet long, arranged in pairs for safe simultaneous landings and takeoffs, regardless of wind direction. Fog-dispersing equipment will make bad-weather operations safe.

Operations will be directed from mobile auxiliary control towers as well as from the central one. Probably there will be, too, a traffic-separation point, about 50 miles outside Idlewild, which will both prevent cross-traffic over New York City and serve the traveler's convenience. In the main, the giant passenger and freight expresses will be routed into Idlewild, "short-haul" traffic into LaGuardia Field. But the traveler will be able to switch at the junction: if he is coming east from Chicago to Manhattan, he may land at Idlewild; but if he is going home to Westchester, he may take a "local" from the Junction to LaGuardia Field, which is nearer.

Freight loading docks are at the extreme western edge of the field. Warehouses will be near-by; official say goods will get going by air cargo express within two hours after it is ordered.

TRAFFIC WILL BE TRIPLED
Mayor LaGuardia a few months ago, said scheduled flights beginning and ending at the terminal will reach the staggering number of 950 daily—and officials now call that a very conservative figure. LaGuardia Field at peak does 325 operations a day; and the new base is designed to handle eventually five times as much traffic. Four thousand passengers now are accommodated in LaGuardia Field's peak day. A federal official recently estimated 17,500 will be New York's daily postwar load.

Hundreds of pilots, city planners, airway executives have a hand in keeping the blueprints up to date—under the direct supervision of Mayor LaGuardia; his Department of Marine and Aviation Director, Major Elmer Haskett. The Mayor jokingly remarked that LaGuardia Field was outgrown before it opened in December, 1939. Within about a year, the U. S. Navy began negotiating for the city's other field, Floyd Bennett and LaGuardia set his Marine and Aviation Department to hunting seriously for a site for a new base. They found this one at Idlewild, a bleak stretch of marsh surrounding a golf course on Jamaica Bay.

Tentative plans were drawn in December, 1941. Dredging and filling the 2,500-acre site began 18 months ago. The former swamp is now raised about 12 feet above sea level. Over 20,000,000 cubic yards of sand have been sucked in water from the bay bottom, carried ashore in huge pipes on pontoons, and dumped.

Estimates of final cost vary, but experts say it will run to anything like five times the cost of LaGuardia, around $50,000,000.

NEWS OF OUR MEN—WOMEN IN UNIFORM
Earl Carlson and C. W. Vance of the Pampa fire department are now with the U. S. Merchant Marine, doing a good job at sea, according to word from a Merchant Seamen's group.

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Smith, 514 S. Gray, from their son, Robert A. Smith, second class petty officer, that he has arrived safely somewhere in the South Pacific and is awaiting assignment to a squadron.

Robert E. Kuntz, son of Mr. Lloyd Kuntz, 839-20 Frances St., Pampa, has been graduated from the army air forces flexible gunnery school at Tyndall Field, Fla., and promoted to the grade of sergeant.

Upon his graduation, the soldier received a pair of silver wings signifying that now he is ready to take his place as a member of the combat crew of an AAF bomber.

At the gunnery school, he was thoroughly trained in the operation of a 39 and 50 caliber machine guns, first on ground ranges and later in the air.

As an aerial gunner, he will be one of the men whose marksmanship blasts enemy fighter planes from the sky and thus guards our heavy and medium bombers as they drop death and destruction on Axis targets.

Senators Wrangle Over Service Vote

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—(AP)—A smoldering controversy between Senate Democrats broke into the open today with a charge by Senator Guffey (D-Pa.) that Southern members of his party had joined in an "unholy alliance" with Republicans to "deprive the armed forces of America of the right to vote."

Threatening to resign his chairmanship of the senate Democratic senatorial campaign committee in protest, Guffey asserted that the coalition which junked the administration's service men's vote measure in the senate yesterday and substituted a "state's rights" proposal also was out to kill the anti-poll tax bill.

Guffey declared that the substitute proposal offered by Senators McClellan (D-Tenn.), McClellan (D-Ark.) and Eastland (D-Miss.), calling on the states to enact legislation under which men and women in the armed forces could cast ballots in the 1944 presidential election, would "deprive" uninformed personal of the vote.

On the other side of the capital House Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts bluntly termed the substitute bill "meaningless" and hinted that an attempt would be made to block it in the house unless it is revised.

However, Rep. Rankin (D-Miss.) predicted swift passage of the senate substitute, terming it "one of the greatest victories for states rights and constitutional government in the history of this nation."

Chicago May Stop Hog Shipments

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—(AP)—An embargo on the shipment of hogs to the Chicago union stockyards may be requested if supplies are not cleared over the weekend, livestock observers said today.

While fresh receipts of hogs this week have not been excessive, the number of hogs bought at outside markets and shipped here direct to packers have been large enough to meet slaughter house requirements.

These "direct" shipments plus the arrival of salable head, have created the worst jam in the history of meat processing plants here. Packers have been unable to slaughter all offerings, and as a result, many hogs are being held over each day in the yards.

The government is reported to have a plan already set up on an embargo to go into effect unless the situation becomes less serious within the next few days.

GOP to Draft Own Platform

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Informal suggestions that the Republicans and Democrats adopt identical foreign policy planks in 1944 ran into outright opposition today from Alf M. Landon while Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) questioned whether it is practical to pour them in the "same mould."

Senator Vandenberg said in an interview that he felt that while Republicans and Democrats had "substantially agreed on a general pattern" of postwar foreign policy in the Connally resolution recently passed by the senate, "there is more to be lost than to be gained by trying to turn that general agreement into a specific strait jacket."

Vandenberg announced he intends to call a meeting of the foreign policy committee of the Republican postwar advisory council next spring to draft recommendations to the party's platform committee at the next national convention.

The Michigan senator said he thought it would be "low's labor lost" to attempt to pour the various foreign policy pronouncements of leaders of the two major parties through the same mould in an effort to eliminate the question entirely as a campaign issue.

Wheat Prices Up, Buy Livestock Down

AUSTIN, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Prices received by Texas farmers for many products were up Nov. 15 as compared with Oct. 15, but the trend in livestock prices continued downward.

The United States department of agriculture in its mid-monthly survey of local market prices reported that the price of hogs was down from $13.40 per 100 pounds to $13 per 100 on Nov. 15, thus adding pork to the list on the decline.

The average price received by farmers for cotton was down sharply from $16.50 to $15.50.

Baby Girl Weighs Pound, 10 1/2 Ounces

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Swathed in a fluffy crib of absorbent cotton and waving her one-inch arms, a baby girl so tiny it could be held in the palm of an adult's hand held her own today in her bid for life.

The child, which by all medical rules of the past should have been dead when it was born three months too soon at the Shore Road hospital in Brooklyn last Saturday, was making fractional gains in weight as she lay in the incubator. She weighed only one pound, 10 1/2 ounces at birth.

The little girl, Mary Ann Macell, was delivered by Dr. Lewis Kaplan to Mrs. Ann Macell, 39, of Brooklyn.

YOU'VE GOT TO BE GOOD . . .

You'll be up there in good company when you fly with the A.A.F.!

You'll be on the same team with fighters who knocked out the Luftwaffe over Salerno . . . with bombing crews that blasted Schweinfurt and blew Ploesti off the map . . . with hunters who tracked a Jap fleet to the Bismarck Sea, and bagged every ship that flew the red-ball flag.

You'll be up there in the "big leagues" . . . and to make it, you've got to be good . . . and that puts it up to you!

If you think you've got what it takes to fly . . . if you're willing to work long hours, on the ground as well as "upstairs" . . .

Then maybe you, too, can win your wings as Bombardier, Navigator or Pilot. . .

And fly and fight with the A.A.F. . . . the greatest team in the world!

MEN OF 17 . . . Go to the nearest Aviation Cadet Examining Board; see if you can qualify to join the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve. If you qualify, you will receive the Enlisted Reserve insignia . . . but will not be called for training until you are 18 or over.

Begin now to prepare yourself, mentally and physically, to be a Bombardier, Navigator or Pilot in the A.A.F. Bone up on math, physics, history, geography . . . all important subjects for a member of the Air Forces. Above all, study hard . . . and keep your mind alert. For the A.A.F. wants your training as an Aviation Cadet to be second to none in the world . . . so that when you win your wings, you'll be the toughest and smartest flyer ever burned up the sky!

Toughen your body, too. For, as a member of a bomber crew or a fighter pilot, other men will depend on your "staying power," and you will depend on theirs. Meanwhile, see your local Civil Air Patrol officers about taking C.A.P. Cadet training—also see your High School Principal or Adviser about the recommended courses of the Air Service Division of the U. S. Victory Corps. Both afford valuable pre-aviation training.

TO WIN YOUR SILVER WINGS . . . You'll start your A.A.F. training in one of America's leading colleges (after a brief conditioning period). Here, in 5 months, you will be given the equivalent of a year of college training. From the College Training Detachment you will go on to 8 months of full flight training.

When you win your wings as a Bombardier, Navigator or Pilot, you will get an extra $250 uniform allowance . . . and your pay will be $246 to $327 a month.

And after the war you will be qualified for leadership in the world's greatest new industry—Aviation!

See your nearest Aviation Cadet Examining Board—or the commanding officer of the College Training Detachment nearest you—for complete details.

'Super' Christmas Gifts for That 'Special' Person

Many-purposed fur fills the bill for the feminine gift de luxe. War-timed are furs, designed by Alfred Rainer, which are shown above: a longish jacket of American gray fox, which can be worn anywhere; an indoor or outdoor weskit of American river otter or hair seal with hand-knit sleeves.

Shops are showing some really "super" gifts to surprise the ladies this Christmas, and many have a practical side to them, too. There are furs to keep her warm, lovely negligees and housecoats to boost her morale after a long work day, beautiful brocade bags and glittering jewelry to give a formal feeling to her street-length costume.

The clever new clips and pins which are being shown at Christmas counters have the precious look of real jewelry. Many are gold-plated sterling silver, hand set with rhinestones and delicate enamels.

Tarawa Losses May Force New Landing Method

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—(AP)—A possibility that entirely new methods of assaulting Japanese island strongholds in the Pacific may have to be developed arose today as experts combed the lessons of Tarawa.

It took 2,900 tons of explosive, millions of rounds of machine gun bullets, 1,026 American killed and 2,557 wounded to exterminate the Japanese who held mile-square spot of land in the Gilbert island group.

The Japanese had built their emplacements and strong points down into the flat terrain of Betio island at Tarawa in many cases setting the structures almost flush with the ground. That these structures were of immense strength is attested by the fact that they withstood what Secretary of the Navy says was the most intense bombing and shelling in the history of warfare.

American ships which carried out the pre-invasion bombardment at Tarawa were vulnerable to enemy planes and could not waste too much time softening-up operations.

The Japanese had been working feverishly to build up their defenses there since they took it soon after Pearl Harbor. There was no way for us to know precisely what guns they had there, what defenses they had built into the island beaches. We only knew that the island had to be taken, and that the Marines were the men to do the job.

"We put up a heavy barrage before the landing—but amphibious is one type of warfare where speed may mean the difference between victory and annihilation. Our landing craft had to reach shore—and quickly. The Marines who took Tarawa knew that a beachhead was going to cost them many men, but they did not stop to count the cost in their own lives.

"Unchartered reefs were encountered which held up Higgins boats carrying men from the transports and warships to shore. These Marines did not know the word 'quit.' They went in, just a few days ago, and fought and died and gained another victory for their dearly beloved corps.

Oil Bonuses Paid For School Land

AUSTIN, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Record bonuses of $3,643,600 were paid here at an auction of oil and gas leases on University of Texas lands.

Previously the high was $1,375,000. Besides the bonus, successful bidders pay royalties and rental fees to the university.

Leases were sold yesterday on 40,714 acres in Andrews, Gaines, Martin, Reagan, Crane, Crockett, Upton and Cooke counties.

Highest bonus paid was $405,000 by Mid-Continent Petroleum Corp. of Tulsa, Okla., on 321.8 acres in Andrews county.

Mid-Continent also made these successful bonus bids on other Andrews county tracts: $380,000 on 321.8 acres, $225,000 on 160.9 acres, $222,500 on 321 acres.

Leases on additional Andrews county land brought large bonuses from the following: Stanolind Oil and Gas Co. of Fort Worth, $310,000 on 321.8 acres, $150,000 on 160.9 acres, $140,000 on 160.9 acres; Gulf Oil Corp. of Fort Worth, $170,000 on 321 acres; Sinclair Prairie Oil Co. of Midland, $162,000 on 160.5 acres.

Pacific Natives Get Rich under Americans

PORT SHEPHERD, Hawaii, Dec. 6.—(AP)—On the Ellice Islands, the Americans brought the natives an undreamed era of prosperity.

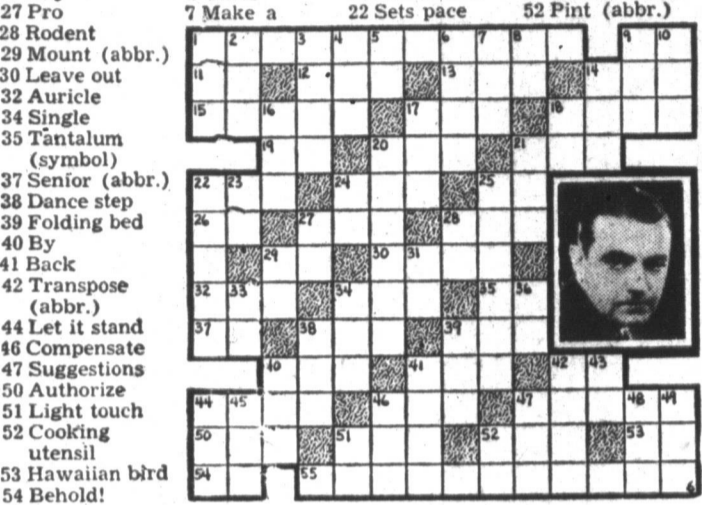

On the Gilberts, the Japanese took away the natives' food stocks, forced them to work without remuneration, and gave them gunnysacks for clothing.

That is the contrasting story brought back from the mid-Pacific by two General Smiths—Marine Major Gen. Holland M. C. Smith who commanded amphibious forces against Tarawa in the Gilberts, and Army Major Gen. Ralph C. Smith, who commanded the 27th division against Makin.

Ira Eaker Is Quiet Pilot Who Knows Flying from Ground Up

By LEE McCARDELL (London Bureau of the Baltimore Sun)

(Distributed by Associated Press) LONDON (By Cable)—It takes all kinds of generals to run a first-class war and a few generals to operate an air force. At least a score of them in Britain are assigned to the Eighth United States Air Force.

"The general" might be anybody in London but there's only one of those 29 air force generals who is referred to as "the general" in such a manner that you recognize the person under discussion.

He's the top man in the eighth air force, Lieut. Gen. Ira C. Eaker (pronounced "ack"), commanding general of all United States air units in the European theater of operations.

Eaker occasionally visits the London square on which the ETO headquarters fronts, but he's more likely to be at his own headquarters, a plain brick building which might readily serve as an office unit of some vast, sprawling industrial plant.

Eaker's headquarters is the source of plans and policies covering the immediate operations of the Eighth United States Air Force. Bomber and fighter squadrons from which operations are conducted are scattered far and wide throughout the British Isles. The general gets around to visiting them in due time, usually traveling in a two-motored Beechcraft which carries four other passengers and which, as a rule, he flies himself.

A quiet, unassuming, large-statured pilot, whose characteristic manner is a combination of judicial and ministerial calm, he knows flying from the ground up and down. He has done practically everything an airman can do, even to ballooning out.

For extraordinary achievement as a pilot, he received the Distinguished Flying Cross in 1927. Two years later he was awarded an Oak Leaf cluster for his cross.

Three South American countries have decorated him for a good-will flight around the continent. He wears a Silver Star for leading the first American air attack against Europe.

A Buckingham palace, King George recently added to all these medals the badge of Knight Commander of the Order of the British Empire.

In collaboration with his friend Gen. Harry H. (Hap) Arnold, chief of the United States army air force, Eaker has written three standard books on aviation. The titles are: "This Flying Game," "Winged Warfare" and "Army Flyer."

His studious inclination has taken him back to school three times, twice to study law and later for journalism, when peacetime tours of duty made such courses possible.

But for months after his arrival in England, he was wary of any predictions on the effectiveness of the Americans' high-altitude precision methods.

U. S. Munitions Output 6 1/2 Times More Than 1941

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Munitions now are pouring from American factories at six and one-half times the pre-Pearl Harbor rate, the National Association of Manufacturers said today.

"In the two years since Pearl Harbor, American industry has performed a herculean task of producing the myriad weapons, vehicles and instruments required for an expanding global conflict," the NAM said in a survey of production prepared for its annual convention next week.

Aircraft—An annual rate of 100,000 planes reached in October, with a probable total for the year of 85,000 against 49,000 in 1942, an even more impressive climb when the increased percentage of heavy bombers is considered. The report said the United States is building more aircraft than all other nations together. Merchant ships—This year's total 19,000,000 deadweight tons or five times 1939's aggregate.

Naval Construction—An increase of 1200 per cent in two years to more than 25,000 vessels in midyear 1944.

Machine Tools — $1,130,000,000 worth in 1945 on top of the record of $1,217,000,000 turned out in 1942.

Steel—Close to 30,000,000 tons for 1943 against 53,000,000 in 1939.

Aluminum—An estimated 1,841,000,000 pounds in 1943 against 327,000,000 in 1942. The total 1943 supply, including imports and scrap, will amount to 2,846,000,000 against 444,000,000 in 1939.

Magnesium—Output for 1943 estimated at 336,000,000 pounds against 6,700,000 in 1939, with a goal of 500,000,000 pounds a year by the end of 1944.

Copper—A total output of 3,078,000 short tons almost doubles 1939 supply.

Rubber-synthetic rubber production climbed from about 22,500 tons in 1942 toward 275,000 tons this year with a goal of 850,000 tons for 1944.

Petroleum—Wartime secrecy masks figures on aviation gasoline but, the NAM pointed out, Secretary Hicks said an old goal of 150,000 barrels daily is obsolete against 400,000 daily at the time we entered the war.

It's funny how a fat penny always is willing to pay a penny to be shocked.

Real and personal concern for the safety of the men who fly the fighters and bombers of the Eighth United States Army Air Force takes priority over all other considerations with Eaker.

Casualties are more than statistics. He calculated losses carefully, refuses to take unnecessary risks, or assume obligations which he might be unable reasonably to meet.

FLASHES OF LIFE

(By The Associated Press) FAST WORK NEW YORK—Firemen of Hook and Ladder Company No. 11 got out of warm beds at 3:01 a. m., tore down a building wall, put out a very hot fire between two partitions, and was back in bed in less than 30 minutes. The fire was in the firehouse.

WILLIOW WEATHER AN ALEUTIAN BASE — The meaneast Aleutian wind of the season blew an outhouse smack through the wall of the general's quarters hut.

The general, Lt. Gen. Simon B. Buckner, Jr., commander of the army's Alaskan department, fortunately was absent.

It was the worst damage caused by recent blizzards and gales. The year's record wind: 112 miles an hour was recorded last April 8—before the instrument flew apart and the whole observation hut was blown off the hill.

TRAVEL PROBLEM KANSAS CITY—Robert B. Caldwell, attorney, found a woman in the parlor car seat that was assigned to him. She wouldn't move. Another man also claimed the seat—so Caldwell retired to the dining car and let them argue.

Soon the conductor found Caldwell and explained: "You win—the woman was in the wrong car and the man was on the wrong train."

SEEMS IT WAS SUGAR ATLANTA—A Negro was arrested by the FBI on charges of falling to sign up for selective service.

"Why didn't you register?" asked Assistant U. S. Attorney Raymond W. Martin.

"I did," the man replied, "but I don't know whether it was for the draft or for sugar."

Lemons are almost as well known as aids to beauty as for their many food values. In fact, Mildred Beautiful finds them the only cosmetic equally good without and within. Orange County grows a large percentage of the lemons grown in the country.

Lemons Are Versatile Versatile! that's the lemon. This fruit has many other home-hold uses in addition to its familiar place in recipes. In the well-stocked kitchen, there will always be an ample supply of lemons for these various needs. To Sour Milk: Sweet milk soured with lemon may be used exactly like natural sour milk or buttermilk in any baking soda recipe. For a liquid equal to natural sour milk or buttermilk, place 1 1/2 tablespoons lemon juice in a standard measuring cup. Fill to the 1-cup mark with fresh, sweet milk, or with diluted evaporated milk. To Replace Vinegar: Lemon Juice may replace vinegar in almost any recipe calling for latter. To Remove Fruit, Ink or Rust Stains: If the material is washable and color fast, rub the spots well with lemon juice, then cover with salt and place in the sun. Repeat process if necessary. To Bleach Linen or Mueelin: Melanin with lemon juice and spread on the grass in the sun. To Brighten Cotton, Lifen or Rayon: When these fabrics have been grayed or yellowed by improper washing and rinsing, add the juice of 1 or 2 lemons to each 3 quarts of rinse water. To Rinse Sinks: In washing sink linings, rinse every third time in water to which lemon juice has been added (1 tablespoon lemon juice to each gallon of water). This gives life and brilliancy to the sink. To Rinse Woollens: For each 2 pounds of blankets use the juice of 1 lemon in the rinse water to maintain resiliency and to counteract shrinkage. For Aluminum Ware: When aluminum ware becomes dark, fill with water, add a sliced lemon and boil. For Copper and Brass: Cut lemons in halves, dip in salt and rub metal well with them. For Woodwork: Use juice of 1 lemon in 1 quart water as a rinse when cleaning surfaces of painted or stained woodwork. This will maintain the glossy surface. To Remove Lipstick Stains: Use lemon juice full strength on white wash fabrics—diluted on colored.
