Navy 'Cruiser' Will Be Here On November 27

A land-going navy recruiting "cruiser" will drop anchor in Pampa at 8 a. m. Saturday, Nov. 27, at the corner of Foster and Cuyler streets and remain until 11 a. m., when it will get underway for Berger, Chief Petty Officer Ray Lokoy, in charge of advance arrangements for the cruiser, announced here.

Manning the cruiser which has toured every state in the union is a crew of navy recruiters who will accept applications for enlistment in the WAVES. Accepted male applicants in all branches will be furnished transportation to nearest navy recruiting station for final examination and completion of enlistment. WAVE applicants will be sent to Dallas for completion of enlistment.

Men enlisted for ship repair units will fix damaged fighting ships at advanced naval bases, or follow in wake of attacking task forces, in fully equipped repair ships, to repair all but major damage on the spot and get ship and crew back into the fight at earliest possible moment. Qualifications for enlistment, or voluntary induction of draft age men, are, with few exceptions similar to Seabee requirements. Carpenters, electricians, riggers, welders—mechanics of all kinds—are needed. Most of those accepted qualify for petty officer ratings with base pay from $78 to $128 per month, plus 20 per cent when serving overseas. Family allowances are same as for other branches of military service. Age limits are from 18 to 50½ years.

Men between the ages of 17 and 18, and those between 38 and 50½ years may enlist for general service with petty officer ratings for those qualified. Draft age men may enlist only for ship repair units.

The recruiting "cruiser" unit consists of a large truck towing a four-wheel trailer. The trailer is equipped with office for handling applications for enlistment and has modern living quarters for the crew. The truck is equipped with public address system and will furnish patriotic music while here. The general public is invited to inspect this cruiser. Literature and information will be given freely and without obligation, Chief Lokoy said.

How Army Finds Suitable Jobs For Soldiers

How does the army find out what kind of a job to give a man when he reports to an air field such as the one at Pampa?

Well, it's a relatively simple matter. Upon his arrival here, his records are checked by classification experts, and he usually soon finds himself doing the job for which he is best fitted.

Each man at Pampa Field is holding down one of the 998 military occupational specialties listed today's United States army. In this army of specialists and experts, Uncle Sam's fighting men are thus assigned to their jobs according to their previous experience, education and aptitude.

There are 500 basic occupations and 498 variations, making the job of classification an important and tremendous task if all men are to be properly assigned. There is a civilian occupational number, too, for such jobs as pigeon trainer, glass blower, barn boss, underwater listener, and so on.

A soldier qualified in several different types of work or having varied talents is classified into the occupation most essential to service. A highly trained man usually winds up doing the same type of work that he did while in civilian life. A person with no occupational background is classified as a nonspecialist, and is trained for certain work most beneficial to the army.

To obtain the soldier's occupational objectives, all pertinent information regarding the soldier is recorded on the soldier's qualification card, more commonly known as "Form 20." On this large yellow card, 36 holes may be punched to classify a man into any of the 998 occupations. This same card has 122 additional holes which will classify a soldier as to the district he is from, his birth date, religion, hobbies, athletic qualifications, work history, proficiency in languages, and his ability to furnish entertainment along with many other factors.

One of the most important entries on this qualification card are the results of the various aptitude tests given the soldier at his reception center. These may determine whether he is qualified to be an aircraft, radio, or automobile mechanic, or it may show that he is not capable mechanically, yet qualified for some other duty.

This card record of each man's civilian and military skill follows him wherever he goes. What is on the card generally determines where he goes and what he is to do. This is America's modern system, by means of which the army is making an effort to fit the square pegs in the square holes.

More than eight minutes are required for the light of the sun to reach the earth.

The lumber that goes into one mine sweeper is enough to build 200 civilian homes.

Kelland Asks For One Plank

HARRISBURG, Nov. 20—(AP)—Arizona Republican National Committeeman Clarence Budington Kelland, echoing the proposal of Navy Secretary Frank Knox, suggests that Democrats and Republicans include identical foreign relations planks in their 1944 platforms.

Kelland said identical foreign policy planks would tell the world "that no matter what the outcome of the election shall be, upon the question of post-war cooperation and foreign policy America is not divided, but is one and indivisible."

Lepke Execution Halted by Dewey

ALBANY, N.Y., Nov. 20—(AP)—Governor Thomas E. Dewey today deferred executions of Louis (Lepke) Buchalter and two associates in Murder, Inc., for a third time because, the governor said, President Roosevelt "has again failed to surrender Buchalter to the state of New York to be dealt with in accordance with law."

Buchalter, Louis Capone and Emanuel Weiss are under death sentence for the murder of Joseph Rosen, Brooklyn florist, in 1936. Their conviction has been affirmed by the United States supreme court and the court of appeals, highest New York state tribunal, in 1936. Buchalter, whom Governor Dewey termed the "major figure" of the trio, is serving a 14-year sentence on a federal narcotics charge. He is in the federal house of detention, New York City. Capone and Weiss are in Sing Sing prison.

Dewey, deferring the executions—last set for Dec. 2—until Jan. 6, said counsel for the three condemned men have applied for clemency hearings.

"I have twice respited the executions of Capone and Weiss," the governor added, "because I will not consider their cases while the principal defendant is protected from punishment by the failure of the president of the United States to grant the customary conditional pardon."

Nazi Losses on Leros Are Declared Large

CAIRO, Nov. 20—(AP)—Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, British commander in the Middle East, says that enemy casualties at Leros, including those drowned at sea, exceeded the total number of British forces employed in defense of the island. Leros fell Tuesday night, the Germans claiming capture of 3,200 British and 5,350 Italian (Dachau) troops.

British officers declared more than 36,000 tons of German shipping was sunk, and Nazi air losses exceeded those of the Allies 3 to 1.

"As a diversion the whole Aegean operation has paid us dividends," Wilson told newsmen. "In casualties alone the Germans lost as many as our total force employed. And in breaking up German convoys we have caused irreplaceable losses because Germany has not fresh supply of shipping from which to draw."

Common Ground

By R. C. BOWLES
"Speak the plain word, I give the sign of democracy. By God I will accept nothing which cannot find its counterpart on the same terms."
—WALSH.
Workers Need a Sales Tax

Contrary to what is generally believed, there is no class of people that needs the sales tax more than the working man. The reason he needs a sales tax is that it will make it possible for him to get higher real wages, have a higher standard of living, get more for a given expenditure of human energy.

The reasons it will do this are many. It will help establish an economical government. Whenever a man pays in proportion as he uses, he will be interested in government economy. This government economy will eliminate many bureaucrats who are interfering with production.

Another great thing a sales tax would help do would be to have a sound money system. Especially is it true if the sales tax, together with other consumption tax, was large enough to pay our government costs as we go along. With a sound money system, together with big producers being freed from bureaucratic control, there would be a great deal more wealth produced which could be converted into tools that would make it possible for the worker to produce more and thus get more.

There is not much question that if we do not have some form of consumption tax like a sales tax we will have more and more inflation, more and more inflation. Either of these will interfere with greater production.

The Biggest of All Reasons
But the most important reason of all is that it is that it will help each individual retain his self-respect. It will make him a part of his government. It will make him feel that he has equal rights in the government to every other citizen, no matter how much more another man produces than he does. This is so because he will then be paying in proportion as he consumes. Then there will be no classes in the government, provided all taxes are placed on consumption in proportion as consumed. Then he can look every man in the face and say, "I am not under obligation to you for helping pay my share of government costs." This feeling of self-respect will make it possible for him to have respect and love for other people which is absolutely impossible for him to have when he asks others to pay his share of government costs.

Yes, there is no class of people that a consumer sales tax would do more to help, both materially and spiritually, than the class of people with small incomes. This is true in spite of the contention of demagogic politicians and labor leaders. I have never found any one opposed to a consumer sales tax who knew enough about the subject of taxation that he was willing to answer questions on it. The opponents of a sales tax cannot stand up under a free and fair discussion.

The Red leader, who is a bare-knuckled trader, told his recent visitors frankly that he had trusted Washington or London during that period. He also admitted that like the United States and England, he is fighting for his fatherland. But he has given every indication that he is alive to the march of events.

THREAT—The eventual defeat of the Axis will enable Stalin to make boundary concessions for the general good of Europe to which he would never have agreed a few years ago, according to our scouts.

Moscow has become so strong, industrially, and Berlin will be so weakened, that the dictator may retain only a sentimental and watchful interest in the border territories. He realizes, too, that if he should want to invade it, in the event of another triumph over the west, he would do so any time he chooses.

Not even the statement of Constantine Dumanosky, envoy to Mexico, has affected the optimistic viewpoint entertained in Washington. The embassy is credited with the remark that his country will demand that portion of Poland which was grabbed in the 1939 partition with Dr. Fuehrer.

Since this question furnished the fiercest threat to the Pacific harmony at the peace table, the altered attitude of the Kremlin has improved the atmosphere at our State Department and 10 Downing Street.

CAUTION—Stalin ribbed Americans and Britishers on their horror of his social and economic philosophies. With grim irony he pointed went off the New Deal reservation to damn the war as an imperialist grab and Mr. Roosevelt as England's willing tool. The Communists picketed the White House and Mr. Roosevelt retaliated by keeping Earl Browder in the penitentiary. Almost from the moment Hitler broke with Stalin the old relations were resumed. Mr. Roosevelt again was a Communist idol and Earl Browder was turned loose.

It is time to see what political advantage Mr. Roosevelt and his New Deal got from his compact with communism, but America hasn't obtained anything. It is absurd to pretend that Russia is fighting for us, or that the country is fighting for Russia, now as always. Our people have been denied food that has been sent to Russia or is being hoarded for shipment to Russia. Our hard pressed people in the Pacific have been inadequately supplied with planes because of shipments to Russia.

Russia is today and for 200 years has been one of the preponderant military powers of the world. Her arms have marched into Copenhagen, Paris, Switzerland, Italy, Turkey, and several times into Berlin. They may get there again before long. Russia is strong with the world's biggest army, and she has controlled greatly to making her so, but she is far from helping us in our war against Japan. On the contrary she is allowing Japan to obtain an important part of her food supply from Russian sources and at the same time is allowing the Japanese to get weather information within Russian jurisdiction for use against us in the Aleutians.

The failure of Russia to cooperate with us against our enemies at we have cooperated with her against hers was the inevitable consequence of Mr. Roosevelt's original deal with Stalin. Stalin has delivered his American votes to the administration and regards that as payment in full. Mr. Roosevelt cannot now complain, because he benefited from the deal and still stands to benefit from it.

This mismanagement of our foreign relations is leading to political realignment in this country. We are approaching the time when there will be on the one hand a patriot party, composed of those who have no allegiance except to the Republic, and on the other, a party of those whose allegiance is divided, who desire a dictatorship, and would destroy the Republic to gain their end.

As for The Tribune, it gladly accepts the abuse of the latter group, because we intend to remain leaders in the cause to which we are dedicated, the cause of the Republic of the United States.

News Behind The News

The National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER
FRANKNESS—American diplomats and economists back from Moscow profess the belief that Russia will cooperate fully and sincerely with the western powers after the war. They are convinced that the barriers of distrust which existed since the Versailles Peace Conference have been leveled by a frank exchange of ideas.

They do not think that the Soviet Union will seek to exercise a selfish hegemony over the Baltic states, Poland and the Balkans, although she will naturally give a voice in that area. The Allies created these republics in 1919 in accord with Woodrow Wilson's theory of self-determination of peoples.

A more realistic factor in their establishment, however, was the Anglo-French fear of Bolshevism. David Lloyd George and Georges Clemenceau wanted a cordon which would prevent a possible alliance between Germany—then in a turbulent mood—and Lenin's armies of international revolution.

While yearning at home, Stalin would present a possible alliance with the West. He did demand the right to establish bases in this region as a defense against the Nazis. But France and Britain, still hoping for a clash between the Wilhelmstrasse and the Kremlin, balked. It was on this point that Anglo-Russian negotiations for collective security foundered in pre-Munich days.

The Red leader, who is a bare-knuckled trader, told his recent visitors frankly that he had trusted Washington or London during that period. He also admitted that like the United States and England, he is fighting for his fatherland. But he has given every indication that he is alive to the march of events.

Around Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
It's odd that a film star willingly takes the smallest part in a motion picture. But as a goodwill gesture towards Dana Andrews, Rita Baxter will play the role of Anne, a character presented briefly and in voice only in Darryl Zanuck's "The Purple Heart" at 20th Century-Fox. Miss Baxter and Dana reached stardom together in "Swamp Waters" two years ago, and continuing their success together in "Crash Dive" and "The North Star". Andrews confided to Anne that he would feel a lot better if she were in the picture too. She promptly refused to play an off-screen role, without billing, and Milestone gratefully accepted.

Grandpa Antonio Cansino, in his '80s, visited Rita Hayworth on the set of "Cover Girl". He posed willingly for photographers with Rita but refused all publicity. When the still man insisted, he whispered in Spanish to Rita. "He says he can't explain Rita. He forgot to bring his teeth."

All messenger boys who ride bicycles on the Coliseum lot have been warned to either lock 'em up or not park 'em near the "Curly" set where Cary Grant is working. He's a frustrated bike rider. Leaps on 'em and goes dashing around all over the lot.

Jeff Donnell is carrying on a one-man campaign to change the title of "Nine Girls" at Columbia. He's passing out packets of matches with the slogan, "Jeff Donnell and eight girls—Rosemary Lane, Flaminio Piccoli, and the better our redly and environment together, the more important is our personal response."

When this proposition is translated into terms of biography it rings true. Granted that great personalities may have had a promising hereditary start, and that one can discern the powerful effect of environmental conditions on their development, yet Beethoven without Beethoven's personal response would be unimaginable. Helen Keller's victorious spirit certainly does not seem to be the wily-nilly result of heredity and circumstance. Only an obsessing hereditary theory can lead one to such a side as non-existent or ineffectual hereditary handling of her life's data, her highly distinctive confrontation of life with a personal rejoinder.

Moreover, the disastrous misuse of the heredity and environment is too familiar a phenomenon to be doubted. Children are not coercively destined to well-integrated personalities because they are well born and bred. Identical twins, of like genes and similar environment, can travel diverse paths to noticeably different personal results. The better the heredity, the more good environment matters; the better the heredity and the environment together, the more personal response counts.

If when heritage and circumstance are thus fortunate, the individual's distinctive handling of life's data is an indispensable factor in his personality, at what stage in the descending scale of such good fortune can one suppose that that factor disappears? If personal response is operative in using a fortunate situation to great ends, is it not also operative when a deplorable situation is mastered, and some man, hard put to it by handicaps and limited in natal endowment, becomes, nonetheless, an admirable person?

Here lies man's central responsibility from which he has no right in any situation, by any excuse, to exempt himself. We are willing to accept such responsibility when we succeed; but by handicaps and limited effort we achieve a desired end, we are sure we had a share in that.

No Chopin, writing music in the throes of creative agony, breaking up one quill pen after another and pacing his room in a frenzy, could believe that the finished nocturne was merely the fated result of genes and general environment. His conscious personal share is obvious.

We thus accept responsibility when we succeed; but by handicaps and limited effort we achieve a desired end, we are sure we had a share in that.

It is a reasonable assumption that unless we make some grave mistake in strategy, the year 1944 will see the climax of the European war.

DR. FOSDICK'S 'ON BEING A REAL PERSON'

We Want to Take Credit for Our Successes, but Not Our Failures
When one confronts the experience of good fortune in biological endowment and conditioning circumstance, two propositions emerge. First, good heredity alone does not settle everything, because the better the heredity the more important is a good environment. Second, good heredity and good environment, together do not decisively settle everything, because the better the heredity and the more fortunate the circumstances, the more important, not the less, becomes the individual's conscious personal response.

A priceless violin, made of the best wood, needs the more to be cared for under good conditions; and furthermore, such a violin, so cared for, only makes more important the playing of it. To be sure, no analogy can be drawn between the reciprocal intimacy of body and spirit, but in some such way the better our heredity, the more important is our environment, and the better our heredity and environment together, the more important is our personal response.

When this proposition is translated into terms of biography it rings true. Granted that great personalities may have had a promising hereditary start, and that one can discern the powerful effect of environmental conditions on their development, yet Beethoven without Beethoven's personal response would be unimaginable. War Today

Associated Press War Analyst
Germany's calm in the Aegean sea, on top of the capture of Leris the other day from British and Italian forces, fits perfectly into the picture of growing disaffection among Hitler's Balkan satellites and further marked signs of Turkish support for the Allies.

As this column pointed out Wednesday, the Nazi high command in his swift drive to possess himself of all these little islands, which dominate the Aegean, is bent on creating a strategic barrier against the Allies in the Near East. His purpose is three-fold:

(1) To prevent invasion of the Balkans via the Aegean; (2) To keep the Allies from sending sea-borne aid to the Russians via the Dardanelles and the Black sea; and (3) To hold a club over the head of the Turks.

Apart from the fierce resistance of the Greeks and the Yugoslavs, there are increasing signs that many people of Bulgaria, Rumania and Hungary are striving to find a way to escape Hitler's clutches. Allied headquarters in Algiers estimate that the fuhrer is being forced to employ some 40 divisions of varying strength—perhaps close to 500,000 men—in Southeastern Europe. That's far more than he can afford, in view of the terrible strain the Russian campaign is putting on his main force. However, with the Balkans boiling he can't afford to take chances.

Naturally, as Hitler's troubles increase, so does the independence of the Turks. The post has been reached where in the past few days they have been permitting newspaper correspondents to file dispatches from Ankara, the capital, saying bluntly that Turkey is headed for war on the side of the Allies.

The censorship wouldn't pass any such language unless the Turks were feeling sure of themselves. Small wonder then that Herr Hitler has a penchant for collecting Aegean Islands. They can't cure his ills, but they can act as a blood transfusion. As things stand, he virtually dominates the Aegean, and many of the most important islands lie close to the Turkish coast.

Literary Expendables

A soldier wants books and needs them, wherever he may be. The Army does this, and will distribute, through its library service, 20 million books to overseas troops during the coming year.

These books are "expendable." They are of pocket size, paper bound, and inexpensively printed by the Council on Books in Wartime, a non-profit organization. "They can go wherever a soldier goes. And if some of the books are lost or destroyed, the financial loss is not great. We have a paper of value. It is true. But even so, it is hard to think of a more reasonable expenditure of the existing supply. A soldier's need for the wisdom and entertainment that books afford becomes greater as he moves to strange lands and approaches the fighting front."

Now They Know

One of those innumerable pieces of OPA literature brings the cheering news that the government doesn't like to pay taxes—at least it doesn't like to be reminded of them. OPA, in this release, is asking you to help it by giving up fuel to the government or its agencies to lump the federal transportation tax in with the rest of the bill.

By way of explanation, OPA says that "the government and its agencies object to making payment of the tax when it is stated separately."

Censorship

Our dispensers of information in Washington might ponder with profit the wise observation made by Paul Bellamy, editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, in a recent address.

Said Mr. Bellamy: "My quarrel with much of the censorship idea entertained by both the Army and Navy, and to a certain extent by other departments of the government, is that many of these officials do not seem to realize that the American people are entitled to know about death, that they know about cowardice and about bravery, about good and about wrong. It is folly of the worst kind to try to keep bad news away from them, and it is equally folly to keep good news from them."

AMERICANISM BEGINS IN THE NURSERY
(The Los Angeles Examiner)
The American must be reeducated from childhood. If we are to wipe out the encroachments of alien-minded doctrines in the minds of our school children and college attendants.

In fact, this reeducation must begin in the nursery. Dr. Carl J. Friedrich, professor of government at Harvard University, in an address in Boston.

Dr. Friedrich stated that the democratic ideal has as its core "the capacity of the common man to think and act for himself," that to this end character is more important than intellect, and that "the primary task of education is to inculcate a sense of values."

This education in real, traditional, fundamental Americanism must therefore begin with the human being, the baby in the kindergarten.

Citizenship may be seen by some as far removed from the nursery school. Dr. Friedrich told the assembled specialists in the fields of health, education and social welfare. But, said he, on the contrary, it is in the earliest years mainly in the home and from the parents that a firm sense of values and the self-discipline which is the foundation of character are acquired.

A hundred years ago, he added, even fifty years ago, this teaching was given entirely at home. Its importance must not be forgotten as education in the nursery. The responsibility for the care and guidance of the young child.

Dr. Friedrich is on the right track. If we are to go on as the United States of America and not as the United States of mental Mongrels, the mental habits of our boys and girls—and it must begin literally in the nursery.

Americans Urged To Learn Spanish
 DALLAS, Nov. 20 — (AP) — E. A. Trowbridge, professor of animal husbandry at the University of Missouri, asserted here last night that to build good will in South America, North Americans must learn to speak Spanish, be honest in their dealings and have good manners.

Speaking before the Texas Geographic Society, Trowbridge reminded his hearers that the oldest university in the hemisphere is at Lima, Peru.

Lieutenant Ellison Home Is in McLean
 First Lieut. Coy B. Ellison, reported Friday by the war department as from Pampa and as being among Texans missing after the air raid on the Ploesti oil refineries in Rumania, was not from Pampa but from McLean.

The lieutenant is a nephew of Mrs. Opie Swafford, 1307 Charles, Pampa, but was raised by his grandmother, Mrs. Angle Beck, at McLean.

He attended Hardin-Simmons university, Abilene, for four years, 1936-1940.

Lieutenant Ellison had been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for his part in the Ploesti raid and was one of the 36 out of 99 Texans receiving either the D. F. C. or bronze oak leaf clusters in this action.

Willkie Avers GOP Victory Is Possibility
 NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20 — (AP) — Wendell L. Willkie does not agree with "persons who say the trend toward a Republican victory is inevitable," but he told newsmen here today that "the election looks hopeful" for the GOP in 1944.

The Republican standard-bearer in the last national election, here on a party pulse-taking tour, also detailed to newsmen and state party leaders some of his views for the forthcoming campaign.

"That the American people have always been ahead of their leaders is an established fact," he said, "and because of their knowledge of world conditions now, they are ready to assume the responsibilities which would come with cooperation in world affairs through pacts and agreements with other nations."

"Because the people have shown what they want in a foreign policy as well as in the economic set-up within the United States, it is up to the Republican party to see that such a program is offered them next year."

Willkie said his party does not have much hope of strong support in the South, but asserted that if "Southerners voted logically, I think I come nearer representing their political beliefs," than do other aspirants for the presidency in either party.

Gasoline for War Veterans Sought
 WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 — (AP) — Rep. Beckwith (D-Tex.) said Undersecretary of Navy James Forrestal had informed him the war and navy departments had requested the office of price administration to grant special gasoline allotments up to a maximum of 50 gallons for use by military and naval personnel returning from overseas duty.

The present allotment for all servicemen on furlough is five gallons. Beckwith had recommended to the OPA that this quota be increased to 30 gallons, but this proposal was turned down.

Possibility that an exception would be made in the case of servicemen returning from overseas duty and on furlough was seen, however, in Forrestal's communication to Beckwith. The navy official said the OPA also had been requested to make available special gallons of gasoline to army and navy personnel convalescing from illness or injury acquired while on active duty.

"In view of the shortage conditions which continue to exist in varying degree throughout different sections of the country," said Forrestal, "the above requests made by the war and navy departments were, of course, contingent upon the availability of gasoline for these purposes in relation to other essential requirements."

Leon Henderson Flays Congress
 WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 — (AP) — Leon Henderson, who used to take it on the chin from congress when he was administering price control, got in a few licks of his own last night.

The former OPA chief threw a couple of haymakers at congressional investigating committees—also a sore point with Harold Ickes, interior secretary—contending they help augment "a rising tide of disagreement" between the administrative agencies and congress.

Henderson spoke at a lawyers guild dinner honoring Chairman James I. Fly of the federal communications commission.

Praising some committees, such as the Truman investigating group, as having dignified the congress, Henderson asked:

"But what can be said for the partiality of the Cox committee, the Boren committee, or the recent Smith committee?"

"I mean, what can be said to bring about good relations between executive and legislative departments? Nothing. And the same goes for the degradation to human dignity perpetrated by the Dies committee and the Costello committee."

"If congress wants harmony with the executive departments, and the majority of congressmen do, then it could make no first step which would help more than severe recheck of committee abuses."

Chicago Favored For Party Conventions
 WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 — (AP) — Not that they are necessarily superstitious, but both Republicans and Democrats might have good reason to favor Chicago for their presidential convention city next year.

A better reason, that is, than the transportation squeeze.

Past performances show that candidates selected in the Illinois city have won the election in two out of every three contests.

Both parties will meet in January to pick convention sites.

Because of its central location and for the added reason that political dividends usually accrue from choices made in the heart of the farm belt, the Republicans have held 11 of their 22 national conventions since 1856 in the windy city on Lake Michigan.

Of these 11 candidates, seven have been elected: Lincoln, Grant, Garfield, Harrison, Theodore Roosevelt, Taft, and Harding.

Six other Republican conventions have met in the Midwest—at Minneapolis, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Kansas City, and twice at Cleveland, making 17 Midwest conventions out of 22 since the party was born.

Out of these six came four other presidential winners—Hayes in 1876 after a four-state ballot dispute threw the election into congress; McKinley in 1896, Coolidge in 1924, and Hoover in 1928.

Nazis Are Still Strong, Asserts Army Official
 WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 20 — (AP) — German capture of the Island of Leros in the Dodecanese is not in itself "great military importance," but is "a significant answer to those who have predicted an early weakening in Germany's will to resist," under Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson said today.

In a speech at Washington and Jefferson college, Patterson generally reviewed the military situation on major fronts and reiterated his belief that "there is a hard fight ahead of us the year ahead is the year of decision."

"No thinking man would predict when the war will end," Patterson said, "but I am sure that, in 1944, the blows will be struck that will determine the outcome."

He said that the war in Italy had become "a slugging match" and that there is "no chance for a war of swift movement there."

He attributed this to the fact that roads paralleling the fronts are almost non-existent, the only good roads being in the direction of the Allied advance.

Patterson said that on the Russian front the Germans had suffered "huge losses" including 20 divisions.

Watch Children's Health, Cox Says
 AUSTIN, Nov. 20 — (AP) — Advising Texas mothers to safeguard children against winter's health hazards, Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, emphasized the dangers of diseases affecting the respiratory system.

Cox said pneumonia and bronchitis often follow neglected colds and severe cases of measles and whooping cough.

"Respiratory ailments are much more difficult to combat successfully than the digestive ailments prevalent in summer," Cox added.

Harvesters Cruise Way To 34 Victory In 'Rover Boy' Game

Notre Dame, Michigan, Purdue, Army Wind Up Among Winners

Aggie-Texas Game Thursday 51st Of Series

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Texas vs. Texas A. and M.—the oldest, deepest and most colorful football rivalry in the Southwest.

Whether the teams are walloping in the cellar or fighting for the title, whether there is war or peace—Texas vs. Texas A. and M. is the big show for a day.

Fifty times have they met and next Thursday here they'll start on the second fifty.

This time the game is the most important for the year both from a tradition standpoint and from the championship angle—because the Southwest conference title will be riding on the result.

There will be a sell-out crowd as usual although this time the number will be limited by A. and M. college. Only the regular seats will be available—33,000 of them.

There will be no bleachers erected, no boxes provided. This is a war year and materials are scarce.

But the game will lack nothing in pageantry and color and fierce battle of the 50 gone on before.

The Aggies are far behind in the victory parade—they've taken only 16 games of the half-hundred played. Texas has won 30 and there have been 35 ties.

How wonderful it is to live in a country where one may speak freely, worship as he chooses, write as his heart dictates... in a country where every voice, no matter how feeble, speaks for his rights in the government... a country in which the government and the people back each other to the utmost to blot out the aggressor. Let us be thankful on this Thanksgiving for our countless blessings under our flag. This is our way of life... let us preserve it.

Caststorm Again Brews Old Magic

Not only are the Golden Sandies experts in football, the Sandies are also masters of psychology. Look (and no pun intended) at what Paul Ewell, Amarillo Daily News, said about the Amarillo-Brownfield football game at Brownfield, in Saturday's issue of the Amarillo newspaper.

Amarillo won the game 21 to 0. "Amarillo Stalled in First Half," read the second deck headline below the wireman.

Any Harvesters fans who point a comparison with the score of the Pampa-Brownfield game, which Pampa won 26 to 6, are simply doing some wishful thinking.

Amarillo is gunning for Pampa, as usual. Keeping up the customary propaganda, Amarillo wants Pampa and the Harvesters to believe that it will be a simple matter to upset the team from Potter county in the Thanksgiving football classic here next Thursday night.

Harvester spirit will reach the season high when a gigantic pep rally is held from 9:45 a. m. to 10:45 a. m. Wednesday in the auditorium of Pampa's school.

The program, which will be broadcast by Radio Station KPDM, The Pampa News station, will include music by the Pampa Band, speeches by Coach Otis Coffey and others, and pep squad stunts.

Amarillo never knows what the Harvesters will do, and no matter what the season record of the team has been, they take no chances with the Green and Gold.

Amateurizing Brownfield 21 to 0 may be attributed to the fact being over-confident and thinking they had a pushover against the Cubs.

Another possible angle is that they deliberately planned it, that way, so Pampa and the Harvesters would begin dreaming that the Sandies were really another team. Amarillo, the team the Harvesters beat Friday 34 to 0.

Four District Grid Champion Titles Decided

(By The Associated Press)

Four district champions have been determined in Texas schoolboy football and a dozen more will be named next week to complete the bracket for the state play-off.

Ysleta, Wichita and Goose Creek sacked up titles Friday night. Davis of Houston had won its pennant the week previous.

Ysleta beat Bowie (El Paso) 27-0 for the district title. Wichita crushed Preston 47-6 to ascend the throne in District 10 while Goose Creek raced over Beaumont 46-0 to clinch the title in District 14.

In the first round of the state play-off Goose Creek will meet Jeff Davis. Ysleta's opponent has not been definitely named although San Angelo virtually clinched the District 3 championship Friday night by beating Sweetwater 13-7.

Ysleta will play the winner of District 9 which will be Baytown, barring one of the major upsets of schoolboy football. The Buckaroos, who crushed Mineral Wells 103-0 Friday night, are the district's biggest score, are in undisputed and unbeaten first place.

The picture was clear in most of the other district play-offs.

Major reversal of the week was the defeat of Tyler by Kilgore 13-6 to give Marshall clear leadership in District 1.

Sweetwater was the only undefeated, untied team to fall. Amarillo, San Angelo, Ysleta, Highland Park, Dallas, Lufkin, Goose Creek and McAllen won their games. Amarillo beat Brownfield 21-0, Highland Park ran over Sulphur Springs 60-6, Lufkin defeated Waxahachie 27-6 and McAllen downed San Benito 31-7.

BASEBALL BOOM FORECAST

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, predicted today that baseball would flourish in 1944 and there would be more instead of fewer leagues in operation.

Oklahomans Blazed By Ground Play

They put everything but Stover at Yale, Brown at Harvard, and Old Siwash into a weird mixture of football here Friday afternoon, and when the fumbles, intercepted passes, 50-yard punts and long end runs had been put on the table the Pampa Harvesters were feasting off a 34 to 0 victory over Mangum, Okla., the North Sooner state team the Pampa eleven has played this year.

Big Charlie Boyles, co-captain and back, accounted for three of the five touchdowns scored in the game and for three extra points, one on a pass to Bridges, while Merle Robbins, speedy left halfback, scored the other two touchdowns.

Listless Beginning

The first quarter was an apathetic affair. The team apparently putting forth much effort. For Pampa, there were a few bright spots, such as consistent ground gaining by Boyles, a splendid 39-yard run by Cracker, fullback, and Gene Robbins, speedy left halfback, scored the other two touchdowns.

McCracken also did a good job of ground gaining, running up 19 yards in four plays but had tough luck in getting a low pass from center that skimmed the ground. He tried hard to recover but Mangum players swarmed all over him and he lost 12 yards.

Pampa's first touchdown came late in the second quarter after John Paul McKinley, right guard and co-captain, led an avalanche of Harvester tacklers to stop a Mangum receiver.

Bridges Recovers, Punt

Pampa blocked Mangum's attempted punt, Bridges taking the ball back for 12 yards. McCracken carried it to the Mangum 9. Boyles made a first down, gained the 4-yard stripe, edged closer, then went over from the Mangum 2 for a touchdown. He then kicked the extra point.

It was at about the corresponding time in the third period when Pampa scored its next touchdown after two brilliant runs by Robbins, one for 39 yards and an interception by the other for 41. McCracken took over from there carried the ball over, then kicked the extra point.

Ysleta was first down, gained the 4-yard stripe, edged closer, then went over from the Mangum 2 for a touchdown. He then kicked the extra point.

For the second, Boyles made a 55-yard run. His kick for the extra point snatched the cross bar, but the kicker luckily flipped over to the Mangum 10.

In the game Aloha, after W. Star, 160-pound Mangum back, had been held for no gain, Mangum went into a huddle to talk things over, and was penalized 5 yards for too many times out. Mangum's punt was returned 20 yards by Boyles. The Harvester, with Glenn Dobbs of Tulsa on the pitching mound, tossed 15 passes in that last period, two of them for touchdowns, and Dobbs completed 29 out of 46 for the afternoon.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Little Fred Earley, an 18-year-old Navy V-12 trainee, today place-kicked two vital extra points after a pair of last half touchdowns to give Notre Dame a 14-13 victory over the pro-powered Iowa Seahawks.

A crowd of 45,000 went wild as Notre Dame climaxed a terrific up-and-down struggle to win its ninth straight game after spotting the Seahawks seven points in the first period.

The Irish, with Great Lakes next Saturday standing between them and their first undefeated-untied season since 1930, today were stamped as one of the best, if not the best, team in the school's lush football history.

Only four yards short of a touchdown, the halftime whistle ended Notre Dame's chances of tying the score. But the Irish forgot the heartbreaking incident and rolled 64 yards to a touchdown market to the Seahawks at the outset of the fourth, and then paraded 45 more yards into the end zone.

The Seahawks, going down to their first defeat in nine starts, suffered a broken jaw in the last period during Notre Dame's touchdown drive.

The Seahawks great line, holding the Irish terrors of the 7 to 127 yards by rushing—the lowest cut of the season for them—did not permit Notre Dame to advance beyond the midfield stripe in his first quarter. Todd's remarkable punts, two going out of bounds on the four and two-yard lines, never gave the Irish a foothold from which to start.

The Seahawks pushed over their second touchdown at the start of the last period. After a 73-yard march had been stopped on the six and the Irish had taken over the ball, Lujack fumbled with George Tobin recovering on the 13. Todd promptly whipped a pass to Dick Burk, reserve end from Minneapolis, for a touchdown. McGarry's try for extra point failed, the ball bouncing off one of the uprights.

After the ensuing Seahawks kickoff, Notre Dame sprung Miller and Mel from its deceptive 7 on a 55-yard drive. Miller crashed over from the six and Earley's placekick clinched the victory. But before the final gun, the Seahawks pumped 49 yards to the Irish 11 with Guepe's 12 yard pass to Perry Schwartz, twice an all-league end for Brooklyn, doing most of the damage. McGarry was called upon to try a desperation field goal from the 16-yard line, but it fizzled. Later the Seahawks regained the ball on the Irish 33 when Schwartz captured Miller's fumble, but last-minute passes were grounded.

New Trainer Puts Beau Jack Back On Lightweight Throne

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Beau Jack was back on top of the lightweight heap today and he gave full credit to his new trainer, Larry Amadee, for his being there.

Following Amadee's instructions to the letter the Beau, 3 to 1 underdog in the betting, regained the 135-pound title by outpointing Champion Bob Montgomery in a furious 15-rounder at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Under Amadee's tutelage Jack amazed the crowd by 17:36, that contributed to a gross gate of $96,873.04, by fighting differently than he did when he lost his title to Philadelphia Bob in May or when he was upset by Bobby Bufin in a 10-rounder, only six weeks ago.

You Have To Be A Football Hero, Halfpint Learns

AUSTIN, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Billy Andrews, diminutive University of Texas football water-boy who has proved he is a drop-kicker, today also became No. 1 boy for a section of the school's code.

He was elected "Mr. Wica of 1943" by an organization of non-sorority girls, a title which in effect makes him their official sweetheart of the year.

Andrews, four-foot-eleven water-boy and manager for the Longhorns, drop kicked two points after touchdowns for Texas in the Texas Christian game last week.

THE PAMPA NEWS

Of Cabbages and Queens

by Jane Bara

Some of us go from day to day—month to month and season to season without ever really noticing the things that occur in this world around us. Some of us have a deeper appreciation for Spring and all its light-hearted gaiety; other those summer with its lazy long days. But when fall comes there is something in the air that is invigorating and inspiring. In our hustle and bustle of war time living we overlook the many thousands of little things that go to make us happy. The following poem written by R. H. Greville was sent to this column. It expresses much that would be well to retain.

A DAY'S BLESSINGS
Lord, let me always be aware
Of simple blessings near at hand;
The inspiration of a star;
The mellow sunlight on the land;
The reverent, listening calm of trees;
The song of grass in windy weather;
Two or three or four together.
Let me have laughter in my heart,
And know and feel and give again
To each what he has need of most
For stilling fear or easing pain.
And when the long glad day is through
And far-off sounds and murmurs cease,
Let me have also in my heart
The benediction of Thy peace.

Before we can ever hope to attain the big things in life, it is necessary for us to appreciate the little things.

When your neighbors say nice things about you—then is the time to start feeling good, for to have a good neighbor, you must first be a good neighbor. And it comes to this desk that Mrs. Roy Chisum is perhaps one of the nicest neighbors a person could have. Mrs. Chisum has been a big help to the Cadet Wives and their husbands that have come from the four corners of the nation to make their home in Pampa. She helps them to find a place to live and when that is impossible, as is often the case, she makes room in her own home until they are settled. She never meets a stranger. If so, within 10 minutes she knows their name and their favorite food and has them sitting at her dinner table.

Her hobby is interior decorating, and there is no sissy stuff about her. If she wants something built she does not wait for busy workers to find time to come to her house. She puts on her dirty overalls and gets down to serious business. Perhaps the next day she will look like something out of Harpers magazine.

It was said of her several weeks ago when the V.F.W. Auxiliary sponsored "Poppy Day," that there were always two people that could be depended upon. Those two people were Mrs. Chisum and her son, Carroll, who is 16 and in high school this year. "They always manage to start selling poppies at 6 o'clock in the morning."

Mrs. Chisum leads a full life, a busy life and thusly a happy life.

This one struck my tickle reservoir: "At a recruiting drive in Los Angeles, Bing Crosby sang 'Anchors Aweigh' and ten lads immediately joined the navy. The next sang 'The Caissons Go Rolling Along' and twenty lads signed up for the field artillery. Bing's last effort was to sing 'There's a Gold Mine in the Sky' and one hundred and thirty Scotchmen rushed in to join the Air Corps."

The reason that a long residence in the Panhandle is considered news is that the game is a sort of endurance contest with the elements—mostly wind.

This week we thought sure we'd have another one of those letters from Mrs. C. in Wheeler... to sort of serve as our inspiration for pounding out this weekly opus.

"A friendly spirit is a courtesy which everyone owes to himself and the world."

After printing the little poem about the "Typogremlin" last week some one sent this little story to the news:—"One evening our paper went to press with a picture of the town's most prominent women. Under her picture was the heading, 'Prize Sow.' We caught it after only twenty papers had been run, which we destroyed, but imagine what would have happened if it had not been caught."

And here's one for the books:—In conversation with one of my favorite high school boys, mention was made of the art exhibit now hanging at the USO. "The self-portrait of Florence Jackson is very good, isn't it?"
High school lad:—"Yeah, but who did it?"

And speaking of the USO, never a day goes by but what some unusually interesting person shows up there. Bonnie Oborski is around these days to give a lending hand with the library and she will be in charge of wrapping Christmas packages for the boys to send their folks back home... and this is just as good a time as any to hang out a "HELP WANTED" sign—there will be many packages to be wrapped during the Yuletide season. Help is badly needed, so if you are an Eagle Beaver and have a flare for wrapping fancy packages, be sure to make yourself known at the USO... But getting back to Bonnie. We had the hardest time learning to say her name. She is from Montreal, Canada, and calls herself "Bonnie" and says "haah!" etc., etc.—Not to mention her travels to London and Berlin, she has served at a great many USO clubs all over the country and at the Stage Door Canteen in Washington. Her husband is Flight Officer Tommie Oborski stationed at the Pampa Army Air Field... From Canada to Texas—whatta life.

Do you know how it got started? Why are jeeps called jeeps? They were first known as "G.P." or general purpose vehicles according to some reports. Shop mechanics at the proving grounds got careless with the initials and the G.P. became a jeep.

When selecting Christmas gifts for everyone this year, you won't go wrong if you look over the Pampa News gift guide on the classified page... ummmmm any resemblance to advertising here is purely intentional.

Don't worry "Mom" because the girl down the street hears from your Johnny twice as often as you do. "Doesn't mean that Johnny doesn't care about his home or parents. Not at all. That is just the way of young men. Or says an Army censor at one foreign base who has noticed that the average soldier writes three letters a week. One of those letters goes to Mom, and the other two to the girl friend.

So don't be jealous of little Susie down the street. Johnny has to write her more often than he does you. After all he's courting her. And he knows he may have competition at home, so he had better keep his letters frequent and regular if he is to keep some girl still at home from crowding him out.

But you, Mom, will always be there. Johnny knows he will be tops with you whether he writes once a week or once a month... Once you have learned to accept the fact that Susie gets the mail with good grace comes home and marries the girl who is sitting the bulk of his mail now, you'll have to be satisfied with only a fraction of his time and interest... and that, too, won't be because Johnny has grown away from you or lost interest in his family.

We've received numerous letters during the past two weeks from Pampa's little boys and girls who are eagerly awaiting Santa's visits—but the best letter yet is the one that began—"Dear Santa: Please bring me a tinker-toy set—a bomber air plane—i.e., etc., and P. S. Don't forget to bring Mama a tinker coat."—We're wondering if Mama didn't add that P. S. herself?

Next Thursday is Thanksgiving. To many the word Thanksgiving is synonymous to turkey, football, and perhaps a day off from work. The inner meaning of the word is sometimes overlooked because of the trimmings. This year, of all years, we in America should, more than any other group of people, stop long enough to let the word "THANKSGIVING" really soak in.

Colonel Whitney Is Guest Speaker

Junior High Parents and Teachers observed "Father's Night" Thursday evening at the Junior High auditorium.

Music given by the Junior High band under the direction of Ray Robbins, opened the program followed by an announcement given by Winston Savage, principal. Principal Savage then introduced the guest speaker, Col. Fredric C. Whitney, commanding officer of the McLean Internment camp, who has been in the United States Army since 1905. Col. Whitney received an appointment by General Pershing as a governor of the Philippine Islands. His talk was based on his experiences.

We, the Women

By RUTH MILLET

"Now, the time is drawing close, gang,
We can wear civvies, and it won't be wrong
We'll kick the women out of the factories,
And keep them home where they belong.

Those are the last lines of a so-called poem, written by an American who signed himself Sgt. "X."

The thing that makes it sound as though it were written by a Nazi is the use of the word "kick" otherwise, the sentiment is being expressed over and over again in America today.

Here is essentially the same idea written by a better writer, Claire Boothe Luce—and entered in the Congressional Record by her colleague, the Hon. B. J. Monkiewicz of Connecticut. Her article from which these few lines below are quoted was originally printed in the November 1942 issue of "The Women's Home Companion."

"And when victory comes, what then shall become of the women who help us so overwhelmingly to win it? What shall the women in war work do then, when the men are coming home from the battlefields and looking for their jobs or for new jobs in civilian economy?"

WOMEN SHOULD RETURN TO THEIR HOMES
"The answer is simple: All patriotic women who are now holding down soldiers' jobs in factory or field or office, who do not need their wages for self-support or the support of dependents, will return to their most essential peacetime job: the re-solidifying, expansion, and strengthening of their war-disrupted families.

"They will go back to their homes and their families—their real jobs—with a new vision and a new purpose; to raise and educate more and better Americans."

Miss Boothe puts it more gently than Sergeant "X" does. It is essentially the same philosophy. Show the women back into the home where they belong as soon as the war is over.

That attitude is a real threat to democracy in America. It is the attitude Hitler fostered in Germany, which eventually made German women so helpless that they even forfeited their right to the spiritual guidance of their children.

Show women back into the home and in a little while they don't even have any say-so in the home. They become stupid and docile and wholly dependent.

If democracy is to thrive and grow stronger and stronger in America, after the war women must have true and actual equality with men.

In a democracy, any woman has a right to compete with any man or men for any job there is. Let's not forget that when we hear men saying bluntly and women saying prettily that "of course, women's place is in the home."

Thanksgiving In America 1943

In more than thirty million American homes this Thanksgiving will be the happiest in five years and the most solemn. People will be giving thanks for the certainty of victory.

Few of the nations homes will have failed to pay a price for the victory we see ahead. But the sacrifices will have been for value received. The danger we have faced and surmounted was real, the gains are definite.

There is this vital difference between the civilization which we are successfully defending and the totalitarian war-makers' perverted way of life: with us the state exists for the sake of the individual; in their bleak philosophies the home exists for the sake of the state.

Americans think of their country as the sum total of the nation's thirty million individual homes and of the state as the protector, adviser, guide for those homes. When we think of our country as a machine expanded to continental dimensions. We think of the fellowship of the fireside enlarged into the fellowship of the nation.

But to the totalitarian despots whose day of reckoning is now approaching, millions of homes are on only so many feeders for a machine called the state. The individual home only a cell in a huge ant hill is everything and the individual ant is nothing. In the totalitarian creed the home is only the recruiting ground for war. The man in the home is not a citizen in the making but a future soldier. The woman is only a machine for the production of soldiers.

It has often been said that one of the surest tests of a civilization is the status which it accords to its women. The totalitarian response to that test is invariable. Wherever free government has been eradicated masters' places to define the position of women, to assist her "proper" place. The masters call it sending women back to the home. But not to home in our sense. Militarists do not want women in the home to pre-empt the activities of happy people called a family. They want her back to the home as a breeder of future soldiers and munition workers.

It is quite true that in order to destroy the monstrous notion that a woman's only duty is to breed soldiers for the state. It is one good sign of our confidence in victory that so much is already being said about America's postwar homes. We have every expectation of countless improvements in our homes when science and technology turn back from war to peace, and the interrupted upward march is resumed.

But one thing should not be overlooked. No doubt our homes after the war will be more comfortable and safer and easier to run. Primarily, however, we must think of American postwar homes not in terms of material conveniences and gadgets, but as free family groups whose human dignity is not being vindicated against the enemies of the human spirit; we must think of them as the families of free men and women and children in a free nation.—Woman's Home Companion.

V Notes RED CROSS VOLUNTEERS

By MRS. H. H. HAHN
The local office of the Red Cross is receiving daily three or four letters concerning claims or referral disability discharges from the armed services; hence, it is well to remember these points: there are two types of claims:

1. Death claims, filed by parents or widow of deceased.
2. Disability, filed by disabled ex-service man himself.

The disabled ex-service man should file a claim in order that it may be on record at the Veterans' Bureau in Washington. If his disability is not serious enough to prevent his making a living now, it is possible that in the future he might not be able to work. If the claim is already on file, it will be easier, and there will be less delay in getting his case reviewed.

All disabled ex-service men are urged to keep their insurance in force. If a large policy is not required, it is possible to have the amount reduced.

The Red Cross stands ready at all times to give assistance and information to ex-service men and their dependents and to descendants of deceased men in presenting claims for compensation and other government benefits.

Mrs. C. P. Bukler, chairman of surgical dressings, announces that the surgical dressings room will be closed all day Thanksgiving, but work will be resumed on Friday.

In addition to the night classes which meet on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, plans are being made for Monday night classes. Details will be made public next week. As is true of all Red Cross activities, the new class will be open to anyone who can give even a few hours a week to the work.

Mrs. Buckler declares that workers are improving all the time, and splendid results are apparent. She has written for shipping instructions for 69,000 surgical dressings.

Mrs. J. E. Massa, production chairman, reports that these articles were included in the shipment which was made last week: 8 turban sweaters, U. S. navy; 27 mufflers, army; 1 Brooks type man's sweater, civilian; 2 V-neck sweaters, army; 1 turban sweater, army; 11 pairs wristlets, army; 4 army helmets; 14 pairs army gloves; 1 pair army socks; 8 cotton quilts; 25 men's lightweight pajamas; 4 women's blouses; 45 men's lightweight bathrobes; 108 ditty bags; 8 fracture pillows; 2 afghans; 2 night shirts; 1 child's outing flannel pajamas. The ditty bags are used in navy hospitals where they are hung on the beds for men to keep their personal articles. These articles filled 4 cartons and weighed a total of 215 pounds.

Of the quota of 378 comfort kits recently accepted about thirty or forty remain to be made. Production would like to have these completed soon, in order that all may be filled as soon as the items which are put into them are received.

Cutting is being continued on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday; material being cut in striped chambray of which convalescent robes are to be made.

The local committee of the North Plains Camp and Hospital Service Council met this week and heard the report of the meeting at the Prisoners of War Camp at McLean on Nov. 10.

Do you have a piece of wicker furniture tucked away in attic or garage? If so, you would like to put it to use, the local committee has a need for it. Since wicker does not fit into the scheme when other types of furniture are used, tables, settees, chairs, ferneries, etc., when made of wicker can be used together to make a harmonious furniture grouping. The committee has a divan of wicker on hand and would like to have other pieces to use with it. The plan is to paint all pieces a soft blue or green and use them in the psychopathic ward at the hospital at PAAF.

Organizations desiring to furnish a number of gifts for men in the hospital at PAAF at Christmas are asked to notify Mrs. George Pfau. It is hoped that there will be an individual gift for each man. The gift package might contain such articles as a pocket size book, writing paper, hand candles, a pack of cigarettes, and any other small, useful articles. Cost will probably range from $1 to $2.

Mrs. F. M. Gullerson, chairman of Volunteer Special Services, suggested that some organization might wish to take charge of all details and give a Christmas party for a ward in the hospital. One club did this last year, providing and decorating a tree, securing a chorus for singing carols, giving a small, attractively wrapped gift to each man, and serving light refreshments of fruit punch and a big homemade layer cake with thick icing—just like those the men associate with home.

A committee composed of Mrs. Bruce Pratt, Mrs. E. W. Henshaw and Mrs. W. D. Denton was appointed to investigate the possibility of obtaining stage scenery, curtains, back-drops, etc., to be used by the men at the McLean Prisoners of War Camp. Our men there are said to have a great deal of dramatic and musical talent, and these efforts are being made in order to give them an opportunity to exercise it.

Mrs. L. L. Lunford has given 12 pictures which were framed by the Red Cross and will be used in the rooms and day rooms.

Mrs. R. E. McKernan has given 39 books of late fiction to the day room used by the 83rd squadron at PAAF.

Mrs. Wright will have four dinner guests, and Mrs. McKernan will have six. When Mrs. McKernan asked one of the guards whether he could get some men from her native state to come for Christmas dinner, he answered that he could get "a whole battalion."

USO Muses

By ARTHUR ARLUCK

SGT. ARTHUR ARLUCK

Though for 2 months the USO has been going strong in the brand new, up to date location it inhabits now, the formal dedication and opening took place last Tuesday. One might say it was a bit late. No doubt it was if one is a stickler for technicalities. But who wants to be technical. It's never too late to find out the swell job Mrs. Pagan and her able assistants are doing, that the people of Pampa are backing us up 100%, and most important that it's all for the G. I.

With all due credit to Colonel Campbell, who gave a sound and sincere speech on "What the Army Thinks of the USO" and Lt. Colonel Wm. G. Gilks, of the Salvation Army, who made the Dedication Address, the enlisted men were very much the chief cause of acclaim. Pfc. Harry Garson's speech on "What the USO Means to the Enlisted Man" was more than a speech. It was a report on what the USO has done and will keep on doing for the enlisted man. His plaudits for the USO did not come from any fountain of beautiful words but rather from his experiences at the USO and the others he's visited. The audience was deeply impressed and couldn't help but sense his profound sincerity.

Pvt. Joe Humak who uses his mechanical ability working for the instrument section on the line, put his vocal ability to good use. His is a remarkable tenor and the applause he received was well deserved. Joe has been broadcasting evenings for KPND and will continue to do so as long as he can stay on the day shift. Oh! that night!

For the PAAF Glee club, it was their first public appearance. You can't blame them for acting kinda shy. Their first performance began all timidity was gone and every voice was at its best. Their "Soul-Hearted Men" made a guy want to go out and do big things like massacre a regiment shined for once. Their other song was "When Day is Done," a very mellow and efficient rendition. Warrant Officer Ken Carpenter, directs the Glee choristers are due for many more encores and return engagements.

All ears were a-lissin when Roy Dudley gave forth on his Vibraphone. The Vibraphone is a musical gadget not oft seen by most people and the novelty of it combined with Roy's grand playing made the moments of his rendition ones of complete entrancement.

Dr. F. Hutton Schill has been a resident of Pampa for several years. An artist in his own right, he has been teaching to many of the folks in this town during his stay. His efforts and many of his students' are now being exhibited at the USO. Many of the paintings are good and they are all worth looking at. The exhibit will remain about another week. Most of the artists, exhibiting are fledglings at the game and they will really feel honored if you will come down and take a look "Crude Oil" and "The Bride" are the getting married next week" he informs this reporter and this problem confronts him. Where sits the parents of the bride and the bridegroom during the ceremony? After exploring the problem and making the proper research we think we can end the young man's problem in the best Emily Post manner. The parents of the bride should be seated on the left side, front row, first two seats from the aisle, the bridegroom's parents correspondingly on the right. If that doesn't meet with the approval of all parties concerned then you might suggest the shady side of the church.

Cpl. Vic Bellini also has a problem and here's a chance for someone to do a small favor yet a deed which Vic will take a long time in forgetting. He's just received some 88 millimeter moving pictures of his wife and 4 months old baby back in New Jersey. You don't need too much imagination to see why the use of an 8 millimeter projector for a short while would be like Manna from heaven for Vic.

Couldn't make the dance at the gym last Thursday night (that nite shift again) but hear from all sides that it was smooth as all our gym dances sponsored by the USO council.

Speaking of dances, you G.I.'s are in for a good time if you can make the Thanksgiving dance at the USO this week. It's formal but don't let that scare you. Your uniform will be in perfect order with all the frills and laces. Try to see that your best girl gets there because the high note of the evening will be a beauty contest. If she can't make it you can join the rest of the gang in picking the most beautiful so come on girls give that curt a twirl. There's also a prize for the best dancing couple on the floor. You don't have to be a long engagement or perhaps you want to know the telephone of a half dozen good looking blondes. Please fellows—the line at the USO desk forms at the left—don't shove, don't push—there's enough room for everyone!

by James Marlow and George Zielke

WASHINGTON (AP)—Hold your hat. It looks as though we may be going on an inflationary ride. The signs point to it. Long or short, the ride will dent your dollar and make it worth less than it is now.

It explains little to contend that farm and labor organizations are suddenly greedy or that congress, thinking of the 1944 elections, is suddenly nodding yes, yes, to pressure for higher farm prices and wages.

The forces now battering against government controls on prices and wages have been in the making more than a year. This is no sudden outburst at this time for money and more money.

This much is clear: If wages and prices go up, then you'll be making more money but paying still more for what you buy. In that case, your dollar will be worth less than it was before, although you may have more money in the paycheck.

Point No. 1 to remember is this: Living costs are 23 per cent higher now by official count than they were in January, 1941.

Congress has refused to give the office of price administration anywhere near the number of investigators it asked to check on prices; and it apparently is about to refuse again to grant subsidies without which the administration declares prices can not be held down.

The administration now is interested in paying subsidies to farmers to make up for the difference between their increased costs and the limits placed on farm product prices by OPA.

This is an old method of keeping down costs to the consumers—the administration theory is that if the prices workers pay can be held down, then they'll have no just claim for higher pay—and has been used through the generations in this country, especially for farmers.

But now farmers say they don't want millions of dollars in government handouts—subsidies—but want to be free to charge prices they think they should receive.

Past and present congressional conduct undoubtedly has several motives: Political; yielding to pressure groups; and simple conviction that the administration is wrong in asking the subsidies.

But the story goes back to the autumn of 1942 when prices had risen 17 per cent above January, 1941, and when the war labor board, beset by wage demands, developed what it considered a measuring stick for all hourly wage raises.

This measure, called the "Little Steel" formula, did this: The board said that henceforth no workers could be paid an hourly rate more than 15 per cent higher than the job called for in January, 1941. This brought the wage increase within 2 per cent of the cost of living increase.

The board figured then that government controls could keep living costs from going higher and that for the war's duration those costs would be parallel or almost parallel with wages.

The long-run suffers from any general increase in prices and wages will be the white collar workers and those living on fixed incomes. Some white collar workers have received increases, but WLB statisticians estimate that millions of them haven't.

WASHINGTON (AP)—If you're dizzy trying to follow the bubbling pot, here's the ABC background to keep in mind in case the pot boils over.

All over the country, labor—but particularly the steel workers—is beginning to demand higher wages. The nation's railroad workers at this moment are halting on whether to strike for better pay.

All the ferment revolves around a phrase—the "Little Steel" formula. The story goes back a year to the autumn of 1942. At that time living costs had risen 17 per cent above what they were in January, 1941, the date when costs began to climb.

The war labor board, created by President Roosevelt to stabilize wages as one of several means of preventing inflation, was besieged by wage demands to meet the increased living costs.

Needed was a method which could be applied to all hourly workers equally. The board linked hourly rates of pay with living costs because otherwise a worker whose wages lagged too far behind living costs would be earning less for his labor.

The board wasn't concerned then or now with a man's total earnings through extra hours of work paid for at the standard rate of time and a half for over time. It was the basic hourly rate which counted.

So in the autumn of 1942 the board hit upon what it called the "Little Steel" formula which would apply to all hourly workers. It got that name because the board disclosed the formula in granting a wage increase to steel workers. This was the formula:

No one should receive an hourly rate of pay higher than 15 per cent above what a particular job called for in January, 1941. Remember that this formula was announced when living costs were 17 per cent higher than in January, 1941.

The board figured that a 2 per cent difference wasn't too great and hoped the government would be able to keep living costs from going beyond 17 per cent by various methods, such as price control.

But living costs continued upward. Now they are 23 per cent higher than in January, 1941, or 8 per cent above the 15 per cent wage increase permitted under the "Little Steel" formula.

So now, one year after the formula was created, the steel workers come back for higher wages to meet higher living costs. This would mean scrapping the formula. Labor says that the government records on living costs are not accurate, that costs are even higher than the figures show.

That's one part of the story. Here's another: Just about that time in 1942 when the WLB was concocting the "Little Steel" formula, the railroad workers—one million in the 15 non-operating brotherhoods and 350,000 in the five operating brotherhoods—were demanding wage increases.

The negotiations have been long-drawn out but at last a special board appointed to consider the demands recommended that the 15 brotherhoods receive not the 20-cent an hour increase asked but only 8 cents.

The brotherhoods accepted this and signed an agreement with the railroad board that the government's economic stabilizer, Fred Vinson, said a flat 8-cent increase for all the 1,000,000 workers would violate the "Little Steel" formula. He turned thumbs down.

"Thank Your Lucky Stars" Ace Musical

By BROWNWOOD EMERSON

Mid-autumn means that the film musicals are going full blast and typical of the season, another of those glittering combinations of song and comedy comes to the LaNora screen this week, in "Thank Your Lucky Stars," the Boxoffice Blue Ribbon picture of the month.

Texas' Ann Sheridan has an important role in the Warner Brothers picture, which is showing Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Ann Sheridan lectures the girls on "Love Isn't Born, It's Made" in Warner Bros. "Thank Your Lucky Stars."

John Wayne and Jean Arthur are teamed in a yarn about a Gotham girl on a vacation who tries to corral herself a tall bronco buster for a husband. It's an RKO Radio picture, titled "A Lady Takes a Chance," opening a four-day run today at the LaNora. A scene from the picture is shown below.

In RKO Radio's infectious funny "A Lady Takes a Chance," John Wayne declares his independence of all women in general and of co-star Jean Arthur in particular.

At the Crown today and tomorrow is showing George Stevens' "The More the Merrier," farce about living conditions in jam-packed wartime Washington. Jean Arthur, Joel McCrea, and Charles Coburn share the top honors among the cast.

Based on the building of the Alcan highway, road linking the U. S. Canada, and Alaska, is "Alaska Highway" Paramount picture showing today tomorrow and Tuesday at the Rex. Jean Parker, Richard Arlen, and Bill Henry are the principals.

Lovely Jean Parker is the center of an exciting triangle in Paramount's action drama "Alaska Highway." Richard Arlen and Bill Henry are the men in the case. They appear as brothers in the thrill film.

Department Of Justice Joins Whisky Probe

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (AP)—The justice department already has begun an investigation of the liquor industry, into which a senate committee proposes to inquire.

Disclosing that his office is out to determine if there have been price-fixing activities and a withholding of supplies from the market in order to create an artificial shortage and thus increase prices, Wendell Berge, assistant attorney general in charge of the anti-trust division, told reporters that he had assigned special men to the inquiry and instructed them to "push it."

Berge said his department was in "full sympathy" with the senate investigation and that his staff would follow it for evidence bearing on any monopoly or restraint of trade angles.

The Berge announcement followed an assertion by Senator Scrugham (D-Nev.), whose resolution set off the senate investigation, that there is enough whisky in bonded warehouses to provide every American citizen with more than 12 quarts.

Secretary Morgenthau told a press conference, meanwhile, that a proposal by Senator George (D-Ga.) to halve the time liquor may be kept in the warehouses without payment of taxes would solve the current retail whisky shortage "overnight" and "the black market in liquor" at the same time.

Berge told newsmen that the justice department inquiry thus far had resulted in "strong suspicion" of monopolistic practices in the industry, asserting:

"It looks like a fertile field."

France's Army Reborn, Awaits Final Invasion

Re-fitted with American uniforms and material, the new French army began to arrive in Africa today ready to aid in the cleansing of Europe and the liberation of France. Capt. Andrew Maurios, world famous author and now a member of the French intelligence service, tells of the renaissance of French military power and how this new army successfully met its first test in the reconquest of Corsica.

By CAPT. ANDREW MAURIOS ALGIERS, Nov. 20 (AP)—In December, 1942, a mission headed by General Bethouart went to the United States to look after the rearmament of the French army.

Even during the Tunisian campaign the first of these supplies began to arrive in Africa, and later, during Gen. Henri Giraud's trip to the United States, new agreements were drawn up that the French army was to have at least 400,000 men.

On Gen. Giraud's return the unification of all French forces finally was achieved. There is now in Africa and there will be tomorrow in France nothing except one single army.

The French soldier of today is dressed like the American soldier. The only difference is that he wears a black tie and a French insignia. The American uniform is very intelligently conceived and very well adapted to life in the field. It is most popular with our soldiers. There is nothing but the morale of the soldier that to feel himself well dressed and well shod. All the details of the canteen—the mess-kit, cooking utensils—nothing but praise. The army vehicles, especially the jeeps, have become indispensable to the French army.

But it is the armament above all which interests the soldiers. There are no fighting organizations prouder of its arms than the new French army. Throughout Africa fine regiments of tanks and tank destroyers have exactly the same proportion of automatic weapons as the American divisions. The French soldier knows that America has given him the best and he has an unshakable confidence in his armament.

This new army is, so to speak, all puffed up and ready to go. Its morale is of the highest and it waits impatiently for battle. All of these young Frenchmen have the feeling that they must take revenge and they are in a hurry to take it.

The short campaign in Corsica is important in the history of the French army not because of the numbers employed, which was very small, but for these two reasons.

1. This was the first time since the armistice that the French army, air force and navy performed, without assistance, a combined operation. French ships transported and protected our soldiers while French pilots scored numerous victories.

2. For the first time also, the French army had reestablished French sovereignty in a French department. Less than 4,000 French troops have imposed their will upon almost 100,000 foreigners.

The French army is now an accomplished fact and awaits only an occasion to prove it.

Father of Nine Gets Draft Call

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 20 (AP)—A mother and nine children, including six-month-old twins, bade an revoir today to the head of the family who is off to war with the navy.

Armand Beliveau, 34, chose a naval career after selective service called him.

"I'm willing to do my part to end the war," the father said as he left home, "but I feel there are a lot of younger men without families who could be taken before family homes like mine are disrupted."

Wife, Ration Books Missing

HOUSTON, Nov. 20 (AP)—Herman Lollis Dickinson asked the aid of the Houston police department's missing persons bureau in finding his 24-year-old wife, Loretta, who disappeared Nov. 6.

Lollis said his wife left home early Nov. 6 with $85, his O gasoline ration book and all the family food ration books.

The defense plant worker expressed the belief that his wife, the mother of three children, might have been the victim of robbers or amnesia.

Enemy Camouflage Fails to Halt Bombs

By KENNETH L. DIXON SOMEWHERE IN ITALY, Nov. 8 (Delayed)—(AP)—Little personal items from the front, the rear front, the camps and air bases in this theater:

Tech Sgt. Henry C. Henson of Meadow, Texas, whose wife lives in Kansas City, Mo., has received a clipping of the Kansas City Star with the picture of his wife and a new baby daughter he's never seen.

He's showing it to everyone who files in the army transport plane on which he's crew chief. And Second Lieut. Victor A. Anderson, Ogden, Utah, the plane's pilot, tells how Henson had an argument with his wife over whether the baby would be a girl or a boy. He held out for a girl, and to cinch his point named her Helen Andria and painted the name on the plane's left motor four months before Helen Andria was born. Mrs. Henson bowed to the inevitable and accepted the name.

The name on the plane's nose, by the way, is Daisy Deane for Mrs. Anderson, who now lives in Dunn, N. C.

Lt. Colonel Yancey S. Tarrant, Brownwood, Texas, commanding officer of an A-36 outfit, has a new respect for enemy camouflage. He and a squadron of his invaders went out on a request mission to bomb enemy armored units the other morning, but found no sign of them at the designated spot. Disgustedly, they finally followed through anyway, divebombed the specific point and flew back swearing at such inefficiency and waste of good bombs.

The official report credits them with destroying 18 enemy tanks.

Chinese Labor Law Adopted

CHUNGKING, Nov. 20 (AP)—A national service law requiring all male Chinese between 18 and 50 to do at least 80 hours of labor service every year, unless specially exempted, was announced today by the executive yuan (council).

Labor service for women also is to be provided under a separate law. Under the new law men will be required to assist in road construction, water conservation and other public works and in special circumstances the period of service may be doubled.

Defense workers were among the exemptions.

The yuan's first public libraries were planned in ancient Rome by Julius Caesar.

Carrier 'Bataan' Is Commissioned

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 20 (AP)—The navy set aside its usual rule of secrecy to announce the commissioning of the aircraft carrier Bataan, which was launched August 1 at the New York Shipbuilding Corporation yards, Camden, N. J.

Ordinarily, news for publication about new ships is limited to launchings, but the fourth naval district said an exception was made "to demonstrate the patriotic bond between the people of the Philippines and the people of the United States, whose combined armed forces fought so valiantly on Bataan."

GET 'EM HARVESTERS!

Four Second-Half Scores Trip Mangum 34-0 Friday

By scoring four touchdowns in a thrill-packed second half scoring spree, the Pampa Harvesters rolled over the Mangum visitors 34-0 Friday afternoon. The Harvesters led by only one touchdown at the half, but four intercepted passes and several brilliant runs gave the home team all the scoring opportunities necessary in the second half.

The running of Gene Robbins, Harvesters halfback, the punting of Bill Starr, Mangum quarterback, and the pass interceptions by Charlie Boyles were all features of the game. Robbins, who spends most of his time blocking, intercepted four passes, one for a touchdown and another setting up a score. Three Mangum passes were intercepted by Boyles. Harvesters co-captain, one scoring for the Pampa team.

Halfbacks Starr and Parmer shared the honors for the Mangum squad. Parmer punted three times over the heads of all Harvesters, once for 45 yards and twice for 65. Starr completed five out of nine passes, the other four being intercepted. The Harvesters passed six times, completing two.

Neither team scored in the first quarter although Robbins once carried the ball 40 yards to paydirt. The run was called back for a Pampa penalty. In this quarter Starr, standing practically on the Pampa 15-yard stripe.

First Pampa score came midway in the second period. Reginald Bridges, Pampa line-backer, returned a partially blocked Mangum punt to the visitors' 17. Merle McCracken carried to the Mangum 3, and three plays later Boyles scored and added the point. This ended the Harvesters' scoring in the first half, although the team was near a second touchdown when Billy Washington, wingback carried a pass to the Mangum 15.

In the third quarter Robbins set up a score by carrying an interception 30 yards to the Mangum 45. On the next play Robbins steamed all the way to the Mangum two-yard line and from there McCracken scored and kicked the point. Later in the second half Boyles scored twice, once on a 60 yard punt after catching a Mangum pass. The final Pampa score came on a beautiful run by Robbins from the Mangum 48. Boyles tossed to Bridges for the extra point.

At the half, both the Pampa High and Pampa Junior High bands marched. The Green and Gold Harvesters band formed a large anchor on the field, playing "Anchors Aweigh." The junior high band marched in the rear, playing the national anthem.

For Mangum it was Tyler and Caffey, ends; J. Fleming and Nelson, tackles; G. Fleming and Jones, guards; Robertson, center; Nichols, quarterback; Pierson, fullback; Starr and Parmer, halfbacks.

Every great scientific truth goes through three stages. First people say it conflicts with the Bible. Next, they say it has been discovered before. Lastly, they say they have always believed it.

BOOK WEEK IS USHERED OUT

Yesterday the twenty-fifth annual observance of book week was ushered out. This year's Book Week, November 14th-20th, had for its theme "Build the Future With Books."

This title is most appropriate in this year of struggle for world-wide liberty. For this slogan challenges all of us more than ever before—liberty for all. It is a challenge to all of us, whether we are in the United States or in the rest of the world. It is a challenge to all of us, whether we are in the United States or in the rest of the world.

High school students are more aware of this fact than younger people, for usually when students go as far as high school, they are beginning to appreciate good books.

THANKSGIVING IN WARTIME

Thanksgiving, a day that started with such a significant, reverent meaning, has more or less turned into a holiday that is also the day for the most important football games of the year. Do you honestly think this is right?

We are hearing our second anniversary of a bloody war. This war has taken the lives of many of our young men, our sons, brothers, and schoolmates. On this Thanksgiving we should be thankful, not thankful for war, for the huge salaries that it is bringing to the American laborer, but thankful that the American cities have not been demolished by the bombs of our enemies. We must be thankful that we, a freedom-loving people, do not have to live under totalitarian government, a dictatorship.

Some people are blind, not visibly, but mentally. Many are able to find nothing in which to be thankful for, but there are such things. We can be thankful, but repentant, that we have learned a lesson, thankful that we have the chance to save our children from the devastation of war. We must not only be thankful, but we must be prayerful for better things to come.

Be ye thankful for all these things; but, this above all, to thank that Victory and Peace are ultimate.

At dinner on a Florida-bound ship, a Boston lady remarked to the captain, a South Carolinian: "I understand there are people who live in the South the whole year round."

Harvesters Hosts At Annual Bon-Fire Pep Rally Wednesday

Because part of the student body of Amarillo has promised to be here for the pep rally and for the bon-fire, it is necessary we make a good showing by bringing word for the bon-fire and by coming to the pep rally next Wednesday night.

The Dorothy Wilgus, head cheerleader, said that the pep rally will be held at 8:00 o'clock, Wednesday night, November 24, around the bon-fire which is to be built by the student council, according to Dorothy. The bon-fire will be behind the high school building. As is the usual custom, the bon-fire is for the Pampa-Amarillo game which will be the following day, Nov. 25.

All students who have scrap lumber for this bon-fire should see the chairman of the bon-fire committee, Johnny Campbell, or any other student council member and give them the material. If the student has the means with which to do so, they are asked to bring the wood and put it behind the high school building. If not, Bobby Davis, a member of Johnny Campbell's committee, will come and get it.

It is urgent that we have this material for the bon-fire by Wednesday because it will be the most important event in connection with the football season, the pep rally before the Harvesters-Sandie game, said Helen Alexander, vice-president of the student council.

Pampa High Band Is Feature of Assembly

"Boogie Woogie Band" played by the Pampa High band made it hard for the students to stay in their seats during the assembly. The assembly program was made up entirely by the band music.

Under the direction of Ray Robbins, the band played "Gloria Mundi," "So This Is It," "Getting Sentimental Over You," "Paper Doll," "Infantango March," and "Boogie Woogie Band."

The Future Homeowners of Texas met last Friday after school for a short business meeting to nominate officers for the year.

The club voted to help in Junior Red Cross work as part of their project. Those present decided to make menu covers for the Army hospital for Christmas and also to make comic notebooks for the soldiers in the hospital. Officers of the club are Mrs. Robert H. Sanford and Mrs. Leslie Hart.

First round of brick paving laid in the United States was at Charleston, W. Va., in 1870.

Pampa to Meet Sandies Thursday In Season Finale

The Mangum game Friday afternoon was the final tune up before the Harvesters meet the high-powered Amarillo Sandies on Thursday, Nov. 25. The game will be the second Harvesters-Sandie wartime classic, and will be the last scheduled game for the Harvesters this year.

Amarillo's Golden Sandstrolcher featured in a Look magazine article, have rolled over all opposition so far this season. Coached by Howard Lynch and T. G. Hull, the Sandies showed their power two weeks ago in routing Lubbock 47-0. Part of the reason for the Sandies' success was probably due to the lack of Moyer and Retzer from the Western lineup. Other comparisons of the strengths of Pampa and Amarillo are the Plainview scores: Pampa 33, Plainview 0; Amarillo 33, Plainview 6.

The Harvesters have won five out of three this far, and have shown plenty of ability in certain games. For 13 players, the Amarillo battle will be the last high school game. They are co-captains Boyles and McKinley, Louis Allen, Larry Fulker, Dick Manry, Jerry Kerbow, Bob Curtis, Reginald Bridges, Gene Robbins, James Hart, Merle McCracken, J. C. Hopkins and Bob Davis.

To the minds of Pampa High school students, the Harvesters have won all too few of their Thanksgiving Day games with Amarillo. This year Amarillo, as always, has a strong team and hopes to defeat Pampa on their way to another state title. Two years ago the Harvesters were defeated by Amarillo 16-12. This year the green and gold will be playing their hardest to avenge last year's defeat, and to turn a good season into a great season by beating Amarillo.

How to Behave In Cafeteria

By JANICE WHATLEY
Ever since most of us have been old enough to eat in a cafeteria there has always been something about it that has made it a place of special interest. Cafeteria manners, especially in school, are rules which are continually doing something wrong in the cafeteria. The Student Council with the aid of Mr. Aubrey Steele and Miss Anne Louise Jones have given the students some rules to obey in the cafeteria.

Some students have heard the rules and disagree. A few of them believe the rules are too strict. Ten of their precepts on how to behave in the school cafeteria as some of the students think they should be:

1. When entering the cafeteria (and be sure to run) be sure and knock everyone out of your way, even if it means breaking their leg, so you can get the space for the others.

2. After you get to the cafeteria you must push the fellows in front of you and if you can sneak in front of the person three or four places in front of you, then you have succeeded so much the better.

3. When you finally get to the head of the line-by all means grab two or three pork chops, if they have pork chops, and hide them in your pockets, or if you don't have pockets, put them in your purse, while the cafeteria lady is serving someone else.

4. While you are in line waiting to pay, you can eat most of the food you have on your plate so you won't have to pay so much.

5. After you have eaten be sure and have your tray taken away. A big mess around it, so the people working in the cafeteria will have a lot to clean up.

6. When you get to the cashier, pay for your food. If you don't have money, ask the cashier for a loan. If you don't have a loan, ask the cashier for a loan. If you don't have a loan, ask the cashier for a loan.

7. A friend in conversation with Voltaire said: "It is good of you to say such pleasant things of Monsieur X when he always says such nasty things of you."

To which Voltaire replied: "Perhaps we are both mistaken."

At dinner on a Florida-bound ship, a Boston lady remarked to the captain, a South Carolinian: "I understand there are people who live in the South the whole year round."

'Taming of Shrew' Beginning To Shape

Abridged and somewhat modernized, "Taming of the Shrew," a Shakespearean comedy, promises to be one of the biggest laughs staged in Pampa when Jim Wanner as Petruchio tames the screaming Penny Ann Covey as Bianca.

When asked how the plot ran, Jim began, "Well, I hear of a girl who is a terrible shrew. I talk to her father or I hit her, and we begin a verbal sparring match which I gradually win as time passes."

Continuing with the plot (this was the telephone), Jim went on, "Finally her Old Man comes in. Before I have her consent, I announce to him right before Bianca that I'm going to marry her. She blows up, I simply explain to her father that we have planned for her to continue the shrewish disposition when in public and not to show our real affections except alone."

"Trouble mounts as the wedding approaches. But you must not know how much fun we have. Come see me swing Penny over my shoulder," finished Jim as he hung up.

Miss Ruth Stapleton, director of speech and coach of the play, reports a need for several more boys to take care of the four male parts not yet assigned.

Jim Wanner Is Chosen As Junior Rotarian This Month

Elected by the Student Council Tuesday as Junior Rotarian for the month of November was Jimmy Wanner, senior, according to Jerry Kerbow, president of the Council.

A senior boy, he is elected each month by the Council to meet with the Rotary Club at its weekly meetings every Wednesday. The student acquainted Rotary members with Pampa High.

Tall, deep-voiced Jim, an outstanding member of the senior class, is a member of the National Honor Society, and has been a member of the Hi-Y for three years. Having been in the run-off for Student Council president, he is vice-president of his home room, 217. When a sophomore, Jim was a member of the one-act play cast. He was also in the play last year, "This Is the Army Now," and will star this year as Petruchio in "The Taming of the Shrew," which is this year's senior play.

At mid-term Jim will graduate and attend Texas Tech until receiving his draft notice. He will take a freshman engineering course which includes chemistry, physics, trigonometry, college algebra, analytics, and military science.

Even though his schedule is full, Jim finds time for studying military science and stamp collecting, which he has been doing since he was a boy. He is also a member of the Hi-Y.

Former Football Hero Is Visitor This Week
"Three-Point" Edson visited the halls of Pampa High this week. Those who attended Pampa high a year ago will remember Bobby Edson as the boy who kicked the field goal in the Amarillo game which was Pampa's first time in ten years.

Edson is stationed in Melbourne, Florida, being a mechanic in the Naval Air Corps. He is a member of the Aviation Machine Mate Third Class. On a ten-day leave, he will go to Norfolk, Virginia, November 28 to be inducted into the service. Having finished his training at Norman, Oklahoma, he arrived in Pampa Tuesday night.

When in high school Bobby was a freshman favorite, a football hero, and a member of Hi-Y. Having been in the Navy a year, he joined the Hi-Y again. He is a very handsome specimen, he makes a very striking appearance. Some of the Pampa boys who were in Norman with Bobby were Pete Mills, Ralph Burton, Bill, Max and Ronald Grossman, Clarence Smiles, John Cornett and Pete Morris.

Bobby saw hot-camp in San Diego. Bobby saw Henry Fonda, who looked in real life as he does on the screen, so he said, "He's not wonderful," says Bobby, "but he is wonderful."

Only 275 annuals have been sold up to date! This leaves a total of 125 of Pampa High school's 1943-44 yearbooks to be sold by the 30th of November. Only the students who have sold the minimum of 400 annuals by this deadline Dear Old Pampa High school will, in all probability, receive their yearbooks.

YOUR CLASS ANNUAL REPRESENTATIVE AT ONCE!
The annual staff has also begun to accept orders for yearbooks. The cooperation of the student body is needed to make the 1943-44 Harvesters a super-annual. If you have some orders, contact the student body representative concerning school life—turn them in to Miss Warren in room 101.

ORCHIDS to Miss Madge Rusk for her bulletin board. By many students here is considered the most beautiful board in the building. If you don't believe me, just drop around and see for yourself. Room 207.

Piqueuses Things About Autumn
Mac Morris, assistant director of the festival, has a list of things that are piqueuses about autumn. These are: football games, hot-dogs and cokes, fall leaves, wieners roasts, toasted marshmallows, hay-rides, bonfires, popcorn, feather ornaments, shocks of wheat in a level brown field. These are the things of an unforgettable Indian Summer.

The Mermaid Inn

By CLAUDE ALLEN
Editor's Note: This story is a theme written for an English project in senior English under the direction of Miss Katherine Simmons.

Old Ben Johnson mournfully sunk his massive lips into his mug, and his deep eyes deepened and softened. A loaded silence filled the room as with the imminent spirit of the dead listening.

Out of the hubbub and dust to tongues and wits, the bawdy tales and scraps of balladry, as out of the coals rose the slow, round world, emerged Ben Johnson as a tragic remnant of the Mermaid's soul.

All the joyous communion which the world's mightiest poets had upheld in the inn had sorrowfully diminished. Only Ben was left to come drink and sing and dream in the lonely, dark corner.

Long these pictures had haunted Ben's mind, between the silent, candlesticks, across the oak table, with his keen white face, dark smouldering eyes, and black, disheveled hair; Chapman of steady strength and clear passion; Marlowe, our morning star, sporting over books by candle-light; Michael Drayton, who saw everything, through a mist, and poor Spenser, a shy gentle soul, with haunted eyes like a starfish forest pool; all of these had been the pictures of his youth, curling, low, from Ben's curved stem pipe while, like some old black oak water-hoisted—a bearded oval face.

It is true that all visitors of Pampa High, as well as parents and students, stop to read this Honor Roll, and it is important that the list be as complete as possible. If you have found someone's name missing from the roll, write it down so as to remember it, and turn it in immediately.

Many Empty Chairs Will be Found This Thanksgiving Holiday

The vision of steaming brown turkey, plum pudding, delicious cranberry sauce, dressing, creamy potatoes with rich brown gravy and spicy aromatic pumpkin pie may be more than a dream as Thanksgiving draws nearer and nearer.

This is what Thanksgiving means to most of us. But how did it come to mean this, and how far does this extend? Thanksgiving is observed in the United States by the giving of thanks to God for the blessings of the year. Originally it was a purpose has become less specific.

There certainly was a rush when seniors began paying their dues Wednesday during home room period so that they could get their report cards. Some of them wondered why they had to get their cards, because there wasn't much on them anyway.

Seen in the halls: Barbara Johnson and George Neef; Colleen Carver and Leand Tate; Bob Troop (some senior girls wish they could have been with him); Jimmy Wanner all dressed up ready to go to Rotary Club; Bob Cochran, tripping (I mean really tripping) down the hall; Tr-Hi-Y girls having their pictures made, and oh so pretty too! Miss Warren talking to Mr. Steele, and later to Mr. Willis; nearly every one running around during home room period having their pictures made.

Norma Jean Beagle just got back this week from being a bridesmaid at a wedding in Oklahoma City.

Joyce Pratt and Gene Robbins certainly had a good time together Saturday night on a hay ride; so did Junior Coffey and Doris Ann Davis.

One of the longest stodies in High school are Wayne Boyles and Margie Wilson. From the looks of things it seems that they will be for a long time to come. Let's hope so anyway.

Tracy Carey is always attending weddings or otherwise. The tenors in the Choir missed Tracy the other day. He was playing at a wedding. Tracy Carey boy really rushes around.

Old Ben quietly lay his head upon his folded arms and his melancholy hat fell noiselessly upon the floor.

Ben Johnson had joined his friends, the counselor of kings, the singer of songs and writer of poems.

"Dead," whispered the dripping rain outside. "Dead," echoed the eaves in a booming voice.

Turn in Your List Of Boys in Service To Student Council

In order that the School Honor Roll which is now standing in the front hall may be completed, it is necessary that students aid in the promoting of this project by turning in names of former students who are now in the armed services.

The Student Council, president of the Student Council last year, but is not complete, as many students have joined the armed forces in the past few months.

Students are urged to turn in all names of students who graduated no more than five years ago to Aubrey Steele in the office or to Frank Frauf, chairman of the Student Council.

It is true that all visitors of Pampa High, as well as parents and students, stop to read this Honor Roll, and it is important that the list be as complete as possible. If you have found someone's name missing from the roll, write it down so as to remember it, and turn it in immediately.

PTA Pledges Fight Against Delinquency

AUSTIN, Nov. 20—(AP)—The Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers adopted a resolution pledging support in enforcement of the law providing discipline of parents for failure properly to control a child.

This was one of a number of resolutions on the subjects of juvenile delinquency, post-war education and the four freedoms.

The congress at its final business session Thursday also heard an address by Herman Jones, Atty. in attorney, who said that in providing freedom from want the greatest contribution of government would be adequate educational opportunities.

Pampa Wac Helps To Keep Air Transport Command Records

This story and picture about WAC Private Lillie Gooding of Route 2, Pampa, one of the first local women to enlist in the Women's Army Corps, would have appeared earlier except for the exigencies of war.

The plan was to print the story and picture while Private Gooding was here on furlough but because of war conditions, the cut was not received from the engravers until after she had returned to her station in Washington, D. C.

Private Gooding, a graduate of Phillips High school and a former employe of the Cullen Drug store in Borger, was employed at the Worley hospital, Pampa, at the time of her enlistment in the WAC in February.

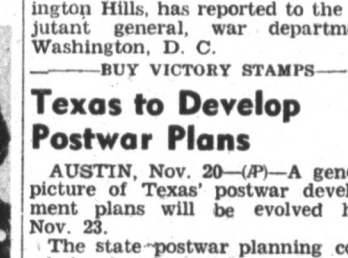

She spent her 15-day furlough at the home of her sister, Mrs. A. L. Montgomery, and her mother, Mrs. Hattie Gooding.

Since July, upon completion of an assignment at a WAC administration school at Fort Des Moines, Iowa, Private Gooding has been stationed at Beverly Point, Va., just outside Washington, D. C. There, she lives in WAC barracks with a company of WACs employed in the offices of the air transport command.

Her duties in Washington consist of filing and library work in the statistical office of the transport command, helping to keep records of the amazing global activity of the ATC.

During off hours, she and other members of her company have organized a "Footlight Club" for the presentation of plays at nearby Bolling Field and other army bases. Dances and other social events are scheduled regularly she said.

Private Gooding declared that all of the officers at the ATC seem quite pleased with the work being done in Washington by members of the WAC, and that the women themselves are glad to be serving in the nation's capital.
