Nine Die, 32 Hurt In Atlanta Fire

Fire Causes Four Deaths In N.O. Club

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) -Spectators jammed streets in the heart of the city as five women leaped from the 15th floor of a burning building. Some wept, some prayed as helicopters raced with death to rescue eight men trapped on the roof. Four persons died.

The women on the 15th floor of the 16-story building called for help as firemen tried unsuccessfully to reach them with extension ladders lashed together. We were three stories too short." said Fire Chief Louis San Salvador. He said there was a possibility of arson. As the flames licked nearer. the five women began jumping.

With the horrified crowd watching, they plunged to a rooftop of an adjoining building - a fall of eight stories.

Each fall was accompanied by a scream from the crowd.

"The first girl ... fell-straight," said Mark Wheeler II, who watched from the street. "The ohers ... came out sommersaulting and hitting the edge of the building as they Pat Tynes watched from the roof of the building to which the women plunged.

He said firemen tried four times to shoot a rope to the women above, getting enough height, but aiming wide of the mark.

"After each shot, they had to reload the gun, rewind the rope and set up for another shot," Tynes said. "Time was so

In still another attempt at rescue, helicopter pilot Albert Carrigan tried to get a rope to the women.

"I got to the corner of the building just in time to see the last one fall." Carrigan said. "It was sickening.

Two who survived the fall had their impact broken by men on the lower roof who linked arms and tried to catch them. They were listed in critical condition with internal injuries.

The fourth victim of the fire, a man, was found on the 14th floor stairwell, apparently a suffocation victim

Meanwhile, eight men were trapped on the roof of the burning Rault Center, an officeresidence complex.

"We were in a race with that smoke and I just knew we were losing, and that 'copter was the most beautiful thing I had ever seen," said Cal Grevemberg.

John Lockwood an oil company helicopter pilot, was flying by the center when he saw the fire and spotted the men through a haze of tar-stained

The fire gutted the 15th and 16th floors. The top floor was occupied by the exclusive member-only Lamplighter Club.

Hotel Blaze In Houston Takes One Life

HOUSTON (AP) - Fire raced through an aging downtown hotel building and killed at least one of the residents early

Officials attempted to determine if any other persons died in the blaze at the old Travis hotel in the city's Market Square area. At least five firemen were overcome by smoke. They were treated at the scene The body of a middle-aged man was brought from the building about two hours after the fire was reported. Two guests fled down a steel fire escape. Three emergency ambulances stood by at one time and police had trouble keeping a curious crowd out of the way of firemen. Twenty-six pieces of fire-fighting equipment were moved to the scene and 170 firemen were called out.

The three-story building is surrounded by small business The cause of the blaze was not known at once. It was not learned at once how many guests were in the hotel at the time of the fire.

TRUDGING BACK TO SCHOOL-Despite yesterday's snow storm which caused early dismissal of school, students had to return to classes this morning after the weather cleared up. With snow and ice still on the roads in many places, traveling was safe enough to allow nearly normal flow of traffic, probably dashing the hopes of many students who had hoped for a day of play in the snow. Above, a crowd of boys head into the Pampa Junior High building after the first period bell rung.

Apollo 17 Countdown Begins

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) - The launch team fed electrical power to a Saturn V rocket today to start the long countdown for Apollo 17, the last U.S. journey to the moon in the foreseeable future. The countdown clock began ticking right on schedule at 8:30 a.m. EST, aiming for a liftoff of giant rocket at 9:53 p.m. next Wednesday, the first night launching of a U.S. manned space flight.

Other early activity included filling the water tanks of the lunar and command ships, Challenger and America.

The clock read 104 hours 30 minutes as it started. It will be halted at several planned points to provide launch crew rest periods and catchup time for any item that might fall behind schedule.

Key events in the countdown include installation of pyrotechnic devices, activating bat teries. loading the command ship's power-producing fuel cells, servicing the two space vehicles and pumping more than one million gallons of fuel into the Saturn 5 tanks.

The astronauts who will make the last Apollo voyage. Eugene Cernan, geologist Harrison H. Schmitt and Ronald E Evans planned to spend most of the day in spaceship simulators, rehearsing the launching and the firing out of earth orbit

The governing panels of two taxing entities involving Gray County taxpayers have adopted a "wait-and-see" policy regarding constitutional amendment six approved by the voters in the recent general election. Gray County Judge Don Cain probably discuss the homestead exemption statute but no action would be taken until an official copy of the law is in their hands. Bob Carmichael, president of the school board said that body would await a directive from the Texas Education Agency said members of the before undertaking any action. The measure provides that any political subdivision-county, city, town, school district or others--may grant a tax exemption of not less than $3,000 for homesteads to persons 65 years of age and

As it was argued on the floors of the legislature, the provision was not mandatory per se but provided measures whereby the issue could be forced by petitionary election. It further provided that when any ad valorem tax has previously been pledged for the payment of any debt, the taxing officers of the political subdivision shall have authority to continue to levy and collect the tax against the homestead property at the same rate as the tax so pledged until the debt is discharged.

Judge Cain said he felt Gray County may already be acting within the scope of the provisions since it was granting homestead exemptions to all property owners designating such homesteads.

Both the school system and the county government have pledges that could be considered as exemptions until the contracted obligations are loophole in Texas' insurance laws can make policyholders defenseless pawns in the financial games of companies they have trusted to insure them.

One of the things at stake is a policyholder's freedom of Another is the possibility he will lose money.

Insurance companies, mainly those in the life and medical fields, often sell or transfer blocks of their policies to other companies. It's completely legal. In nearly all cases, the policyholder keeps the same policy he bought from his original insuror. And a company must obtain a policyholder's consent. by his signing a form or paying premiums to his new company.

But here's the catch: The companies almost never tell policyholders they have the right to say "no" to the sale or transfer of their policies. And the law does not require such a disclosure.

"They can't force you to go. The problem arises from the fact that most people don't know this," says Robert Clines, general counsel for the State Insurance Board.

Tom I. McFarling, the board's man in charge of salvaging endangered insurance companies and protecting their policyholders if they do collapse, has firm views on the practice.

"I think this is terrible...In my opinion, it ought to be regulated." he said

Clines said transfers of polcies from one company to another is a "very common happening" and that even the biggest companies do it.

In most cases, the board does not have to be notified, he said. According to one source, the insurance board for a number of years has discussed whether it should ask the legislature to pass a bill requiring companies to tell policyholders they can refuse to consent to the transfer of their policies. 'I had not thought about it for member Durwood Manford when asked about the subject. Clines says he personally favors such a requirement but admits that "I can't tell you whether more good or harm would result.

Insurance companies generally do not favor such disclosure, informed sources say, because they believe it would encourage rejection of transfers and require expensive campaigns to persuade policy holders to approve transfers. One source called this the

An insurance company might decide to sell part of its policies for any one of several reasons. Sometimes a small company in financial trouble will do it to raise money. Or a company might decide to shift its emphasis from one kind of coverage to another. A holding company, for purely internal reasons of efficiency, might switch a number of policies among companies under its control.

In many cases it works out to the benefit of the policyholder. In others, it may be detrimental," Clines said.

He said a major area of transfers used to be hospitalization insurance companies that "were interested only in selling policies, not servicing

"There was a premeditated selling of policyholders to somebody else to run them off. We have largely stopped that,"

RETIRING AFTER 46 YEARS SERVICE

Pampan Recalls Changes Of Railroad Operations

'Present-day railroading is a far cry from what it was when I first went to work," T.C. Narron, 611 Magnolia, said. "The progress and the new innovations that have come along is almost unimaginable.

At 5 p.m. today Narron, currently serving as agent at the Pampa Santa Fe Railway Depot, retires after working 46 years and three months for Narron first went to work for the railroad as an apprentice telegrapher at Mooreland, Okla., in August, 1926. He was promoted to telegraph operator in August, 1928.

From then until November, 1940, he worked at all stations on the Plains Division, including the Clinton, Okla., branch and the Buffalo, Okla., branch, with the exception of three places. He hasn't worked at Texico. N.M.. Perryton or the East Tower in the Santa Fe. Yards in Amarillo.

He came to Pampa in November, 1940, and has remained here since. He came here as a telegraph operator and worked as that until October, 1968, when he became agent upon the retirement of former agent Aubrey Sprawls.

"During my tour of service, I have seen the change-over from the old steam locomotives to the present-day sleek diesels," Narron said

Changes have included the transition from telegraphy to telephone, radio and microwave and the switch from individual station reporting to a centralized accounting bureau, located in Amarillo.

Another change was the SPACE CENTER. Houston (AP) - Eugene A. Cernan, commander of the last Apollo mission to the moon, is the cheerleader of the astronaut A Navy captain and two-time space veteran. Cernan drives his coworkers with pep talks, pushing them at a blistering pace. We may be the last on the moon." Cernan says of his Apollo 17 crew but we're the number one team. Born in Chicago, Ill., Cernan grew up in nearby suburbs and was graduated from Proviso High School in Maywood.

His widowed mother, Mrs. Andrew G. Cernan, remembers the astronaut's youth as a whirlwind of activity. He played in the school band, later abandoning music for sports and winning letters in football and basketball. Aviation was another early interest. "He was always making airplanes." Mrs. Cernan recalled. After high school, Cernan turned down several other scholarships to enroll at Purdue University at West Lafayette, Ind., where he joined a Naval ROTC squadron. During summers, he worked on construction crews building O'Hare Airport in Chicago. He was graduated from Purdue in 1956 with a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering and was commis-

In 1961, Cernan entered the U.S. Naval Post Graduate School at Monterey, Calif., earned a master of science degree in aeronautical engineering and was named an astronaut in 1963.

Cernan teamed with veteran astronaut Thomas Stafford in 1966 for the Gemini 9 mission. During the three-day flight.

Cernan became the second American to walk in space. He spent 2 hours, 10 minutes outside the spacecraft. Cernan made his first trip to the moon three years later Caught by surprise, Cernan uttered a stream of salty Navy language that was picked up by live television coverage of the mission and beamed into living rooms across America.

The astronauts quickly brought the craft under control and discovered that a guidance switch had been in the strong position By the time Apollo 10 had returned to earth, Cernan's comments had generated a blizzard of editorial discussion and news commentary. Letters about his remarks poured into Cernan's office and later, at a televised news conference. Cernan said: "To those of you who understood the significance of the moment, I say thank you. And to those of you who I offended.

I'm sorry Asked about his thoughts on his first lunar orbit flight and about going back, Cernan said in a recent interview:

When you look back at the earth from the moon and you see the perfectness of it and the beauty of it and the logic of it all, you know it didn't happen by accident. It is moving with beauty and you get a feeling that you are looking at our earth as a God, whoever that God might be, envisioned it when He created it. I'm anxious to get back and get that feeling Cernan is a blue-eyed 6-footer with a lithe and wiry build. His hair once brown is now almost totally gray.

He is married to the former Barbara Jean Atchley of Houston a blonde ex-airline stewardess whom Cernan first saw in a line at an airport. He tracked down her name, managed an introduction through a mutual friend and, after a two-year courtship, persuaded her to become a Navy wife.

The couple has one child, Teresa Dawn, 9.

Wave Of Complaints

Score one for consumerism. A wave of complaints about the direct-mail selling of insurance is beginning to get results. according to Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Some 19 states have either instituted or proposed varying kinds of curbs on companies selling supplemental health insurance by mail. Nine states have fined or have taken other actions against individual companies for misleading advertising

Following a four-month investigation, as well as the example of numerous newspapers around the country, the National Association of Insurance Commissioners had ordered the drafting of model advertising regulations for adoption by state insurance officers The companies under fire typically offer hospitalization benefits of $15 to $50 a day, at a cost of between $50 and $100 a year in premiums. (Actual costs of hospitalization are approaching $100 a day.) Criticisms center on the headlining of maximum benefits while playing down exclusions, waiting periods and limitations on payments for pre-existing illnesses. Within the industry itself, criticism has also been

People who have bought coverage usually don't find out what they have and what they don't have until they put in a claim, he says, with the result that state insurance departments have been deluged

Nevertheless, the mail-order way of doing business is in the American tradition. Fortunately, at least as far as insurance is concerned, the consumer will soon be able to know exactly what it is he is

Catching Up With Kids Every kid who ever made a model airplane whose wings

Technology magazine reports that government and industry researchers are investigating a 'radical, anti-symmetric wing-fuselage arrangement' which, like a kid's first model, has wings that don't stay put.

Early designs for supersonic transport featured wings that could be swept forward and back on both sides. The latest idea envisions a straight wing mounted on top of the fuselage with a pivot at its center point. At high speeds, half the wing would be pointed more toward the direction of flight and the other half would be trailing.

U.S. Losing Economic Olympics By BRUCE BIOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) -What happened to American athletes at Munich is symbolic of larger things. The United States, you might say, is losing the economic Olympics.

The high attention given our trade problems with Japan has tended to obscure others that, in the long run, may be worse. We are being seriously squeezed down in our vital trade with the nations of the European Economic Community.

The EEC, through its internal trade and its preferential trade agreements with non-EEC countries, is becoming an enormous and increasingly exclusive trading bloc.

It already has special tariff arrangements with some 30 nations. The total will pass 50 when Britain enters the Common Market in 1973.

Even by itself, the EEC is today the world's largest trading unit, having surpassed the United States within the last 12 months

The prospect, then, is that American exports will have a harder time surmounting tariff barriers in Europe and elsewhere. We may be more dependent than ever upon our markets in Canada, the rest of the Western Hemisphere. and Most disturbing in this situation is the EEC's continued policy of protectionism in farm products. We are the world's most efficient producers of agricultural products, and of course the biggest exporter. Yet the nations of the EEC have firmly held to programs of support for their own farm products, even at cost of high European food prices.

Underscoring the bad trade news for the United States is a new trade report from the Organization of Economic Cooperation and Development. It revealed a whole host of unresolved differences between the United States and the EEC.

William Eberle, President Nixon's special trade representative and the U.S. member of the group which produced the report, voiced keen disappointment with the findings. He was particularly distressed with the group's collective judgment that farm products are different from industrial products in trade terms, and that many years may have to pass before barriers to freer flow of agricultural goods are brought Eberle's over-all complaint against the report was that it tendency among the West European countries to stall indefinitely on trade readjustments of great importance to us. In a personal postscript to the document, he

-E.S. ANSWER: Leave it to a child to ask the right question!

As it exists today. 'government' is a group of politicians who exact revenues from people who don't want to pay and who enact unwanted laws to keep themselves in control. That is the essence of political government or misgovernment, and the

SOVIET MISSILE ADVANCES

The signing of the Strategic Arms Limitation Treaties has done nothing to slow down Soviet weapons advancement. Recent reports indicate that the Kremlin is moving ahead rapidly in missile development.

According to U.S. officials, the Soviets have now tested an advanced guidance system for their new long-range submarine-launched missile (the Sawfly) This system will improve the missile's accuracy.

The Soviets have also recently tested a new warhead for their intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBMs) which will enable the missiles to enter the atmosphere much more rapidly, thereby improving accuracy and decreasing the likelihood of anti-ballistic missile interception Test flights have been more of a 200-mile missile with a special ground-scanning device which corrects the missile's course as flies. This will greatly increase the accuracy of land-based ICBMs.

The Kremlin has developed a new launching technique for its SS-9s, the missile which could be used in a first strike against our country.

The Soviets have been working on defensive weapons. developing a new anti-ballistic missile with a new radar system. This missile will be very effective in stopping incoming missiles which might be launched by the U.S. after a Soviet attack Analysis of recent satellite photos suggests that the Soviets have also begun construction of their first aircraft carrier, a 30 000 to 35 000-ton vessel with a full flight deck of 800 feet. All of these developments bode ill for the security of our country. They suggest that the Soviets regard the SALT treaty the way they have regarded other treaties: as a political weapon. not as an agreement to be kept.

description fits virtually every known regime at the present time. In our opinion this is not the way that government ought

According to the Declaration of Independence, true government "derives its just powers from the consent of the governed." This means that, if the government attempted to do something that you as an individual did not approve. you wouldn't have to pay for it. We believe that the Declaration of Independence sets forth the correct moral principle of government and that this is the kind of government we ought to

We believe there are three ways by which a person may arrive at his own definition of government.

First, you can think what would happen if a group of people left the United States and went to settle on some relatively uninhabited island. Obviously, not all of them would agree on all things at all times. Thus there would need to be some means of settling disputes. Those settlers that were members of the same churchmight choose to settle any differences among themselves by taking the case to the pastor or to the elders. This is sometimes known as an ecclesiastical court. Next, there would have to be some method of settling disputes between persons who were not members of the same church The chances are the disputants would go to a man of wisdom and ask him to judge the case. This would be about the same as a civil court. After that would come instances in which a person might become violent through anger or derangement. Worse vet. instances of dishonesty would crop up. So the settlers would appoint a committee to apprehend robbers, thieves and violent men. This would be a police department.

Also the colony would create some system of warding off attack by outsiders. That would be the army. Thus that which is called government arises.

Second, a person can look into history and find an actual example in which a group of persons did leave a populated land and settled in the wilderness. Such a case would be the Puritans and associated persons who sailed on the Mayflower in 1620 from England, landing at Plymouth,

Yet a third method is to consider what government ought to be and also what it ought NOT to be. That is: (a) a government ought NOT to be misgovernment; it ought NOT to become a political government attempting to represent people who do not wish to be represented. In our view, government is just a committee that honest men appoint, and pay for, to keep down crooks, thieves and intruders so that the rest of us can go about earning a living. When the committee begins to cost more than the crooks and thieves, then you know something is wrong. Mother has to go to work because the crooks and thieves got on the government committee and are looting the people. That, together with the mistakes that even well-intentioned people make, has created our present very costly "political government" which in reality is

Calorie Measures

Dear Dr. Lamb-I understand that a calorie is a unit for measuring energy produced by food when oxidized in the body. I do not understand how the amount of calories for each particular food is determined. What is done to figure out the calories in the foods? In referring to different books to check the amounts of calories in bananas, the amounts differed greatly. One book said 88 calories while another said 146 calories. How would I know which book

Dear Reader-There are several complex methods of measuring calories. These are very accurate for the specific amount of type of food tested in the laboratory setting. This information is always applicable to the foods available in the grocery stores. Your example of a banana is a good one. Bananas of different sizes have different numbers of calories. Often listings meremake approximations What you really need to know is how many calories are there in a given weight of edible food. For example, how many calories are there in 31/2 ounces (100 grams) of the edible part of a banana. Calorie values expressed in this way are usually very ac-

As a general rule one gram of carbohydrate contains four calories, one gram of protein four calories, and one gram of fat nine calories. These are very gross approximations, since a gram of protein from meat contains more calories than a gram of protein from soybeans. The difference is related to how much of the protein is actually absorbed and used during metabolism. Many common foods contain water so don't assume that one pound of lean meat is one pound of protein. About 70 per cent of its weight is water. Dried apples contain more calories per ounce than fresh apples

because they contain water. To enable people to know the calories in foods, I have calculated these values based on analysis from the U.S. Department of Agricul-ture in my new book, "What You Need to Know About Food & Cooking for Health' (Viking Press). The tables of common food values included in this book provide the total calorie values for 3½ ounces or 100 grams of edible food as well as the calories of protein, fat (saturated, monounsaturated, polyunsaturated) and carboydrates. You need this kind hard information to know what the contents of any given food item really are. When food values are expressed in ways other than in calories, the information is often misleading. A common statement is that lean round steak is "very low in fat." It is by weight, since 70 per cent of its weight is water and only 30 per cent of food value. Only 5 per cent of its weight is fat, but over 30 per cent of the total calories are from fat.

"Curiouser and curiouser," thought Alice. "I know the Hatter is mad but lots of good bridge players in the real world are mad and this madness hasn't seemed to affect his game here in Wonderland

She had led her six of spades against the Hatter's three no-trump contract. The dormouse sitting East had played the jack. The Hatter had won with the queen, entered dummy with the king of diamonds and led the jack of clubs for a finesse.

Alice had taken the trick with her king and now had to decide whether or not to lay down the ace of spades.

The point to consider was that the Hatter had won with the queen and therefore had clearly shown that he also held the king. Had he falsecarded and won the trick with the king Alice would not have known where the king was because the dormouse would play the king if he held king-jack, but would play the jack if he held queen-jack.

Had the Hatter's play of the queen been carelessness or was there method in his madness and had his play been designed to tell Alice that he held the king so as to get her to lead some other

Alice decided this latter was the case. She laid down her ace of spades; dropped the king and ran off enough spades to set the contract. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

POLLY'S POINTERS

Dry Cleaners Need Spot Information

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—This is my first letter to a newspaper but I just had to answer both Linda and Mrs. R. J. G. We run a dry cleaning establishment. It is a real peeve with me that people think that all things that happen in a cleaning plant are the cleaner's fault. There are some things the customer should do. Be sure to read and then save the labels from clothing and tell your cleaner if there are special instructions. There are so many new materials that we cannot possibly keep up with them all. If you know what caused a spot do tell the cleaner, especially if it is blood. Do not try to remove a spot by rubbing it as sometimes the color is removed and does not show up until after the garment is cleaned and pressed. Some stains change the color of the material but this may not show up until after the pressing. We make mistakes just as everyone does but do take your clothes back to the cleaner if you have a complaint. However, remember the manufacturer is just as much to blame as the cleaner with all these new and goofy materials. Linda, take those trousers back to the cleaners. If nothing has been done to set the gum in the material most of them will run it through, without pressing, for a very small fee. Thanks for letting me get this off my chest.—B. L. R.

DEAR POLLY-My Pet Peeve is with the manufacturers of garbage cans who do not make holes in the bot-toms of the cans so any liquids, even rainwater, could drain out. The bottoms do not wear out, they rust out, while the rest of the can stays in good shape. I think this would enable us to use such cans much longer .-

DEAR POLLY - There seem to be two solutions for Mrs. R. J. G.'s white dress that is yellow when it comes home from the cleaners. Either the dress should be washed and not cleaned in the first place or she should change dry cleaners. Never wear a white garment until it is "black" before sending it to the cleaner.-MRS. D. M. W.

DEAR POLLY-After cutting a dress out of double knit material I found that neither tracing paper nor tailor's chalk would mark the dart lines. In desperation I tried my nail whitener pencil and it worked beautifully. Moisten first as you do for your nails. OLIVE

Player Trades, Kuhn Spark Baseball Meeting

Bradley now is a member of the San Francisco Giants and Ken Henderson and Steve Stone are new additions to the Chicago White Sox roster.

And the trading goes "round and round" at the winter baseball meetings.

We now have the most powerful team in White Sox history," Chicago Manager Chuck Tanner said after swinging a three-man trade Wednesdayone of three in nine hours and the 10th swap in five days at this 71st annual affair

Henderson, a hard-hitting center fielder and Stone, a young pitcher of promise, where acquired by the White Sox for Bradley, a pitcher of proven quality.

Henderson, who hit 18 home runs for the Giants in 1972, joins the like of sluggers Dick Allen and Bill Melton in the loaded Chicago lineup.

In an almost-simultaneous announcement, the St. Louis Cardinals secured relief star Wayne Granger in a threeman trade with the Minnesota Twins. The Twins landed outfielder Larry Hisle and pitcher John Cumberland

Earlier in the morning, the Cardinals obtained infielder Ray Busse and Bobby Fenwick for catcher Skip Jutzke and infielder Milt Ramirez from the Houston Astros.

The activity was heavy-but it was just an average day. Since Saturday, when the New York Yankees and Oakland A's started things off with a threeman trade, a total of 38 players

Meanwhile, commissioner Bowie Kuhn took some play away from the fast-talking general managers by delivering a pitch of his own at a press con-

Kuhn, remarking that he hoped to prevent another strike like last spring's, revealed a new basic contract proposal from the owners to the Major League Players Association.

The package offered improvements in the reserve system, benefit plan, salaries and basic agreement contracts. But the commissioner emphasized that there was "still considerable difference" between the club owners and players' representatives.

"I would say that there is a considerable difference in the philosophies of the players and the clubs as I understand them," said Kuhn. "But I'm gratified by the efforts they've made so far and I feel both sides are prepared in the weeks ahead to proceed with negotiations and find a solution."

However, if Kuhn wishes to avoid a repetion of last spring's strike, the owners will probably have to come up with a higher bounty than the $6 million offered in their yearly contributions to the benefit plan.

One of the significant items in the latest proposal, the owners said they would continue their annual contribution for three more years, with an increase in 1975 "up to $350,000 more to meet the increased cost year." That was the specific that sparked last spring's 15day strike, the first in baseball history.

The reserve system was another hot topic aired by Kuhn before a roomful of reporters.

"Firstly, on the matter of the reserve system." said Kuhn. "the clubs have proposed that a player with five years of major league service becomes a free agent unless his club offers a salary of at least $30,000 for his sixth year. A player with eight years of major league service becomes a free agent unless his club offers a salary of at least $40,000 for his ninth year.'

The owners also proposed to create a draft pool of three players from each major league roster, available at a price of $35,000 apiece, and offered to reduce under their control rosters from 40 to 38 and major league rosters from 25 to 23.

Also, the owners proposed that players with 10 years of major league service be consulted regarding consignment of their contracts. In order to qualify under the owner's plan, the players would have to play for the same team for the last five seasons.

The reserve system, which binds a player to a team until he has been traded, sold or released, has long been an irritable wedge between owners and players. And, Kuhn said, it is still a burning item.

Kuhn said that 13 negotiating sessions have been held be tween the owners and players

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The first-place Boston Celtics played poorly for one half, but the last-place Philadelphia 76ers played poorly for an entire game.

We played very sloppy in the first half," said Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn after Wednesday night's National Basketball Association game against Seattle. "We can't afford to play like that.

But they could afford to play like that, moving from a 49-45 halftime lead to a 120-98 victory that boosted their Atlantic Division-leading record to 18-3. John Havlicek led Boston with 22 points while Spencer Haywood scored 29 for Seattle.

'We just did everything wrong," said Philadelphia Coach Roy Rubin after the 76ers were routed 139-91 by the New York Knicks for their 20th defeat in 22 games. The Knicks won for the 20th time in 24 starts and lead Boston by a half game but trail the Celtics by percentage points. The top Knicks scorer was Bill Bradley, with 26 points, while Fred Carter led Philadelphia with 21.

Turnovers Kill Dallas

By Associated Press

DALLAS (AP) - One of the problems of the defending World Champion Dallas Cowboys can be traced to what National Football League statisticians like to call "turnovers" or loss of the ball.

A year ago the Cowboys had taken the ball away from their opponents-either via the interception or fumble-11 more times than Dallas had surrendered it. This year the Cowboys are five turnovers in the red. That's a difference of 16 from last year. Dallas Coach Tom Landry cited turnovers Wednesday as one of the critical Cowboy problems as they strive for a "wild card" berth in the National Conference.

HOUSTON (AP) - Coach Bill Peterson of the Houston Oilers says the Oilers played one of their worst games of the season last Sunday.

WHAT AMERICANS THINK

Future Has Americans Concerned

By Stanley C. Plog, Ph.D. President, Behavior Science Corp. (BASICO), Eos Angeles

@ 1972 by Newspaper Enterprise Assn. America today is a nation that is comfortable but worried about the future. There is a widespread feeling that the nation may gradually be "going downhill."

Most people have difficulty specifying the reasons for their uneasiness, yet their concerns are similar; they are worried about the stability of the economy, the security of the nation at home and abroad and our position among the nations of the world

These conclusions grew out of recently completed research by

Behavior Science Corporation (BASICO) on the issues and problems which confront America today. The research consisted of a series of en-

Dr. Plog counter-t y p e discussion groups and 1.500 in-person interviews with adults in major metropolitan areas. In addition, a selfadministered questionnaire, covering more sensitive items, was completed by all respondents after their personal interviews.

The research was conducted entirely with persons who have been identified as "middle America"; that is, individuals who have comfortable incomes ($9,000 a year minimum family income, or $7,500 a year minimum single income).

In the encounter-type discussion groups, a majority of participants expressed a degree of satisfaction with the opportunities that America provides and feel that it is unquestionably the greatest nation in the world.

The majority of all ages and income groups says that whatever faults America has. they are less than the faults of other nations of the world, and that Americans have the freedom to criticize and take actions to correct social injustices. But all groups share a general feeling that the good times can't last—that social forces are in operation which ultimately could destroy this

10-News MAGNETS PICK OUT THE TIN CANS

NEW YORK (AP) -Discarded steel, or "tin," cans are being recovered from household refuse by magnetic separation in 16 cities at the rate of 2.4 billion annually, say latest figures from the American Iron and Steel Institute. Eleven more localities are expected to install magnetic equipment by the end of 1972, adding 1.6 billion salvaged cans to the total.

Reclaimed steel food and beverage containers now exceed all other materials in the solid waste stream that are recycled or re-used by industry. The strong trend toward magnetic separation indicates that municipal and regional systems will be recovering more than five billion cans annually by 1975," declares R. Thomas Willson, senior vice president of the institute. "Sanitation departments that employ magnetic systems report they are reclaiming fully 90 per cent of all used steel cans in their areas.

by the various protest Is next year going to be betgroups but others relate to the belief that America is "going soft" because of its own affluence. Interestingly, this softness is not always attributed to others. A Boston construction worker stated the opinion of many when he said:

"I realize I've got it easy. Because of all the wage increases and fringe benefits I've got. I'm really overpaid and overfed and I'm too lazy as a result. I don't even stand up for my union. I go on strike if they pay me while I'm on strike. But when I get a haircut, and especially when I take my kids along, I go to a scab (non-union) barber. He's cheaper.

Most people, however, attribute the problems they see to forces outside their control. The up and down nature of the economy worries them.

They read about the problems of the balance of payments and wonder what its ultimate impact will be. And the future of world relations. even though we appear to be approaching a time of peace, of great concern. Will America continue to maintain its strength and world position or are we about to let others take the lead?

Most of all, people are wondering if we still have the will to work hard and stand up for our convictions An accountant in Los Angeles expressed the beliefs of many by stating:

"I really am concerned about where we're going. We've got so many luxuries and life is so easy that we don't have to work hard any more. We seem to make up problems for ourselves, just to have something to do. It's just like the days of the Romans, and I'm afraid we're going to meet our downfall just like they

We tested these opinions on a national sample of 1,500 respondents. The results showed that an overwhelming majority—threequarters of all middle-Americans-are deeply concerned about the future. Men and women share this concern equally and very few differences appear among different income groups.

But, more specifically, what about the near future? ter or worse than this year?

We asked about next year's potential income, a measure of the degree of confidence that a person has in his own

The response indicated that, in spite of the President's wage and price guidelines, a strong majority of Americans (represented by 72 per cent of those sur veyed) expect to make more money next year. They feel confident that, in the short run, they will continue to have a job and will do even better on it. In this case, the confidence level of men was considerably higher than that of women (78 per cent vs. 65 per cent), and people with higher incomes expressed considerably more confidence in future earnings increases than persons with more modest incomes.

In general, though the trend is more in the direction of long-term pessimism, Middle-America is comfortable now and optimistic about tomorrow but there are growing doubts and anxieties about the day after tomorrow, based on a growing suspicion that today's good life may harbor the seeds of its own destruction.
