

Would-Be 'First Lady' Retiring

By EDITH GAYLORD
CHICAGO, July 1—(AP)—Mrs. Thomas E. Dewey has declared that if she becomes mistress of the White House she hopes to lead a quiet life. Also she would have her 8 and 11-year-old sons keep their boyhood years going "as nearly normal as possible."

Never having been inside the White House, she told a news conference, she would not attempt to specify what the role of the president's wife should be.

Mrs. Dewey said that if and when her husband makes any campaign tours she will accompany him. She told a questioner she hopes such a tour will include her birthplace,

Sherman, Texas.

She declined to commit herself on whether women should be given greater voice and greater opportunity of action in connection with governmental and international affairs, saying that individual women should do as they like in such matters.

Emphatically, she said she has no interest in doing any radio work, making speeches or writing for newspapers.

"I'd rather leave that to my husband," she said.

She said she has not decided whether as First Lady she might hold news conferences such as those instituted by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. However, contrary to the rule of Mrs. Roosevelt's conferences, Mrs. Dewey said if she held conferences she would admit men reporters as well as women.

Replying to a question, she said she was with her husband while he

100th Anniversary Is Celebrated

The One Hundredth Anniversary of the conversion of the Founder of The Salvation Army, William Booth, occurs today and the Salvation Army around the world is making an event of that date.

William Booth was converted as a lad in the Wesleyan Methodist Connection, and his attention was thus early directed to the claims of God and Christ.

From that conversion came an Army which now operates in 87 countries and colonies throughout the world. The work of The Salvation Army now includes service with the Armed Forces, an adequate representation of Salvationists, with equipment having been a part of the invasion forces which now hold strong positions on the coast of France. Equipment for the Salvation Army forces is a convertible ambulance, a six-ton, thirty-horsepower vehicle which can serve 4,600 men before returning to base for refilling. The vehicle is easily convertible into an ambulance, and the attendants are equally adept at serving sandwiches or nursing. Scores of these are in use.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill recently said, when conferring with a number of Allied Generals in London, that General Booth of The Salvation Army, was one among three of the greatest generals and leaders in the world.

Glen R. Harrell
No. 2—Carrier of the Week

Maybe that cap indicates a future West Pointer and the odds are that he will make good there, as he has as a carrier for The Pampa News.

This week's Carrier of the week, shown above, is Glen Robert Harrell, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Harrell, 620 E. Foster.

Glen covers his home neighborhood in delivering copies of The Pampa News. His route is comprised of E. Foster and E. Kingsmill.

He is well liked by all his customers. Glen has black hair and brown eyes, is only 4 feet 5 inches tall, and is a native of the Panhandle, born at Mobeetle, November 4, 1932.

Swimming and horseback riding are his hobbies as well as baseball. He was on the fifth grade baseball team last school year at Woodrow Wilson school.

Glen has been a carrier for nearly a year, starting in September, 1943. Since that time he has averaged making $35 a month, besides purchasing two $25 war bonds, and having a carrier bond of $42.

Officer Meeting To Be Held Here

Pampa will be one of two cities in the Panhandle at which law enforcement officers training schools, conducted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, will be held from July 6 to August 16. The other city is Amarillo.

At the schools officers will study court procedure, city ordinances, technique and mechanics of arrest, traffic laws, handling of firearms, police identification, statements, confessions, and reports.

Attending the school here will be police chiefs and patrolmen of Pampa and Borger and sheriffs and deputies Gray, Carson, and Hutchinson counties.

In Pampa, the course will be 20 hours, and will be held from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m., two hours daily on Wednesdays and Fridays, beginning on July 7.

Instructors will include Loyde E. Kingman, Amarillo, FBI agent in charge, Edwin C. Dorris, Jarrell H. Kyle of Gray county and his deputies; Tom Carter and Max E. Richardson, also of the FBI.

Others on the program are Ray Dudley, Pampa chief of police; Sherman White, Pampa, Gray county judge; Robert Franklin Gordon, Pampa city attorney; Joseph W. Gordon, Gray county attorney; Mrs. Grace Hodge, Amarillo police department; juvenile officer; Capt. H. H. Thomas, Amarillo police department; Sgt. C. G. Conner, Amarillo, Texas Highway patrol.

Chief Dudley said invitations to attend the course had been accepted by Sheriff Dale Lane, Borger, Hutchinson county sheriff; Jack Julian, Borger chief of police; Clarence Williams, Panhandle, Carson county sheriff.

Acceptance includes attendance of as many patrolmen and deputies also as can be spared. Sheriff G. H. Kyle of Gray county and his deputies are also to attend, along with Pampa police.

Place of the school here will be either the city commission room or corporation court, at the city hall.

Youths "Harvest" Her Fruit Crop

Don't eat peaches-off the tree when you can't see peach-spray. This, in effect, was what Paul D. Hill, county juvenile officer was advising Pampa boys and girls Saturday, in response to a complaint that came to him from a Pampa woman whose orchard had been raided.

The woman notified Officer Hill that the peach trees had been sprayed, and there was danger of the sprayed fruit being unsafe for boys and girls to eat. Some of the peaches had already been "harvested."

worked on his acceptance speech, and that he usually discusses speeches with her in advance.

Their young sons, she said, seemed most impressed with their father because he rated a big motorcycle escort here. That was what they wanted to hear about when she talked with them by long distance telephone, she said.

Replying to another question, Mrs. Dewey said that while her father, O. T. Hutt of Sapulpa, Okla., always had voted the Republican ticket, she thought her mother was a Democrat.

Asked whether she herself ever voted the Democratic ticket, Mrs. Dewey replied, "I never voted until I went to New York."

Apparently self-possessed but somewhat wary of reporters' queries, the Republican candidate's wife asserted that she likes to travel and would "always" be with her husband, wherever he went, but will take no active part in campaigning, except to accompany him.

Today we're in France . . . but we're still a good 600 airline miles from Berlin and airline miles follow a straight line . . . fighting miles do not! Ex-Employee of News Dies at Littlefield

Funeral services were pending in Amarillo yesterday for Eugene M. Rook, 48, father of Donald Robert Rook, former Pampa News mailer, and of Robert, U. S. navy, who was found dead in his hotel room at Littlefield Thursday morning.

Mr. Rook, traveling salesman for the H. A. Marr Grocery company, World War I veteran, was a member of the Presbyterian church and went to Amarillo from Pampa, three years ago.

Besides his two sons, he is survived by the widow and a daughter, Miss Dorothy Rook, a sister and a brother.

BRUCE L. PARKER Makes Statement

Bruce L. Parker wishes to make the following statement in the interest of his candidacy for County Attorney:

Mr. Parker has lived in the Panhandle of Texas all of his life and in Gray County for the last 14 years. He attended three universities before starting the practice of law and holds three college degrees, including a law degree. He opened his office in Pampa, Texas, in September, 1930, and has continued to practice law there from that day until the present time.

He invites you to check his record as practicing attorney in Gray County. His office is in the Combs-Worley building in Pampa. Through his long residence in Gray County, he has become familiar with the problems which confront the County Attorney in Gray County, and his training and experience qualify him for handling these problems.

He does not feel that it is patriotic to use too much gasoline and rubber at a time when it is so badly needed by our armed forces, and for that reason may not get to see all of you before election day. He invites the voters to check his record. It is here in Gray County. Ask anyone who knows him. He solicits your vote and influence.

V Notes RED CROSS VOLUNTEERS

By MRS. H. H. HAHN

Pampa next-of-kin of American prisoners of war not only can get advice from the Pampa Red Cross chapter in selecting gifts, but they can even get the carton in which to ship the gifts to Americans in German hands.

Mrs. Hal Suttle, chairman of the Pampa Red Cross chapter, announced today that heavy cardboard cartons especially designed for prisoner of war gift packages are available free of charge at the local Red Cross chapter in the City Hall.

"This service is offered to speed delivery of parcels to Americans in enemy lands and to insure against damage resulting from improper packing," Mrs. Suttle said. "Many gifts for war prisoners have been damaged or delayed because of weak packages or containers not meeting the size requirements."

In the past such boxes had to be completely repacked at the New York office of censorship, and the standard carton now being distributed by the Red Cross will avoid such delays and duplication of effort.

Cartons are available to anyone having an official gift label from the Provost Marshal which is necessary for every gift parcel," Mrs. Suttle said. "The free container is approved by the postal authorities."

and is of the correct size. Unfortunately, there is still no means of sending gift boxes to prisoners in the Far East.

The prisoner of war committee of the Pampa chapter has as its function advising families and friends of prisoners of war about regulations and communication regarding Americans in enemy prison camps.

You can eat eggs and have them, too, according to Miss Clara Brown, nutrition chairman of the Pampa Red Cross chapter. "In fact, if we do not help eat up the present egg surplus, poultry raisers may be disappointed about egg prices, kill off their flock and thereby induce a winter egg shortage," Miss Brown pointed out.

The war food administration has requested that every consumer eat at least one more egg a week for the present surplus. The inclusion of more eggs in the diet need not become tiresome, for their versatility allows them to be prepared in a variety of ways. They can be used as a basis for any meal from breakfast to dinner, and may be served in the guise of a fluffy dessert or a hearty main dish.

Storage warehouses throughout the country are filled to the bursting point and cannot take care of the eggs that nearly 500 million hens are laying at the rate of 200 million a day.

"Any step that would reduce egg production would be disastrous," Miss Brown said, "for it would stop the supply of a critical war material needed by the armed forces and for lend-lease. These ration free protein foods are also a must in the civilian diet."

"Women who have had the Red Cross nutrition course given by the Pampa chapter know that by cooperating with the government in reducing the egg surplus, they will at the same time be guarding their family's health, helping their food budget along, and conserving their time as well. Eggs, easily and quickly prepared in many ways, contain three elements necessary for health—proteins of high biological value, essential minerals, and necessary vitamins," Miss Brown asserted.

Black Is Big Fashion This Summer From Bathing Suit to Evening Wrap

Several black fashions have started up this summer which are going to make the season bright with darkness. Black shirtings will be scarce, but there will be seen black cotton frocks, black dresses, black suits, blouses, bathing suits and evening wraps, declares Marian Corey in McCalls for July:

"Few black sheer dresses are forthcoming. The fine yarns that made them have gone to war. If you are lucky enough to find a few yards of such material, grab it quickly and make yourself a transparent black shirt frock to wear in town all summer."

"We don't say that you will see hordes of black cotton dresses this summer, but we prophesy that when ever one appears it will be noticed. These dresses are made of black balloon cloth, black shantung, black butcher's linen, black spun rayon, and black crepe. They are not exclusively a town fashion as was the black sheer. You can have a resort frock of black crepe. A black cotton shantung and white lawn frock could wear anywhere, and without a blouse it's a play frock. Other black cotton frocks of importance are sun-backers, and shirtwaisters with white rickrack sewn on them somewhere. The latter makes the smartest kind of cotton office dress for the business girl."

"A black dress with white jacket is another black fashion just getting a start. It's a smart combination—nice to have the black blouse on the sewing very light work. She urges anyone who has a sewing machine to check out several kits and make them some afternoon. Anyone who would like to do the sewing but has no machine can use one of the prototype room on Tuesday or Friday afternoons from 1:00 until 4:30."

We, the Women

A Doberman Pinscher recently received an honorable discharge from the Army's K-9 Corps and was sent home to his owners.

A letter accompanying the veteran of the canine corps said: "In returning your dog, it is desired to bring to your attention several items of interest and importance concerning his present temperant and health. First, in preparation for his return, every effort has been made to make your dog friendly. Some of our best trainers have defected considerable time to accomplishing this. It is felt that he should quickly become accustomed to his former home, surroundings and masters. Under no circumstances should your dog be teased and it is inadvisable to permit or encourage strangers to pet or approach the dog."

"That war veteran is going to get along alright. Because his 'family' has been told exactly what to expect him to be like after his army experience, and let him be treated by others.

It's too bad civilians can't be told as directly just what to expect of their returning service men and exactly how to treat them so that the men's transition from military to civilian life will be as painless as possible.

NO QUESTIONS ASKED

The Doberman Pinscher isn't going to be teased, and he isn't going to have to put up with any unwelcome attention from strangers.

But the soldier who comes home after combat is all too likely to find himself being annoyed by the comments and questions of persons who, because they don't understand what he has been through, are lacking in tact and understanding. And strangers will feel no hesitancy in asking even such personal questions as "How did you receive your wounds?" And the facetious, "Well, how does it feel to be a hero?"

Texan Has Reunion At Convention

A Texan who combined the Republican national convention in Chicago with attending a family reunion was Henry Schafer, of the 18th congressional district, who divides his time between a residence in Oklahoma City and his ranch in Slicklytown, near Pampa.

With him for the get-together were a brother, Herman K. Schafer, of Omaha and Mrs. H. K. Schafer, a daughter, Mrs. L. M. Miller of Pampa, a son, Kermit Schafer of El Reno, Okla., and Mrs. Kermit Schafer, a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Harry J. Schafer of Chicago and two couples of old friends, the Harry Lohrmans and Floyd Brittons of Evanston.

The group was entertained Tuesday night by L. J. Benckenstein of Beaumont and Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas of Beaumont.

Reunion of the Schafers was the lead in a convention feature story by Sam Kitch, Fort Worth Star-Telegram staff writer, in a story published in yesterday's issue of the Ft. Worth newspaper.

Public Debt Is Past 200-Billion Mark

WASHINGTON, July 1—(AP)—The public debt has passed the $200,000,000,000 mark. The Treasury's daily statement for the close of business Wednesday, issued yesterday, reported the gross public debt, including guaranteed obligations of the government, at $200,230,958,323.06.

The public debt has been increasing sharply recently, reflecting war bond sales in the fifth war loan drive. Each bond sale automatically increases the debt.

Since the war loan drive opened June 12, the public debt has increased more than $11,000,000,000.

A FOURTH OF JULY SALUTE!

To Our Men and Women
Who Are Fighting to Preserve Our Freedom

We hail with pride those courageous young people of ours who are fighting to maintain the ideals that were incorporated into a new state one hundred and sixty-eight years ago. A state that was born fighting for its rights and has fought for them ever since—and won.

And yet, we are not a warlike nation. Our youth has not grown up in rigid military tradition. We don't want that—we want our kids to be kids as long as they can, free to play ball on the corner lot, go swimming, skating, or anything else they choose. But this generation has had to put youth behind them sooner than they would have normally and go to war so that their children may grow up to enjoy the freedom of the corner lot, too.

We want to do all we can to bring those youths turned fighting men home soon. The best way we can help, of course, is to buy bonds—lots of bonds. Buy as many as you think you can afford and then buy another. Hold on to all of them. It's an investment in the future—and boys' lives.

Lurid Story of Atrocity Told

NEW YORK, July 1—(AP)—The following dispatch by Leonard Morley, a correspondent for the Censley Newspapers of Great Britain, was distributed in New York today by the British Information Service. It bore the dateline "With the British Sixth Air Borne Division in Normandy, June 29:

"This is the story of one of the most brutal actions perpetrated by the Nazis against British troops in Normandy—the story of how German soldiers broke into a medical aid post in the Orne valley on D-Day, killed the helpless men, then murdered the Padre, George Edward Maule Parry of the Sixth Airborne Division, who tried to defend them.

"Parry, 29, formerly of St. John's, Leytonstone and Emmanuel church, Forestgate, was killed by knife and bayonet.

"The parachute division was given the job early on D-Day of dropping by parachute and capturing intact the vital bridges spanning the river Orne and the Caen canal. Parry dropped with them. Soon all were engaged in defending themselves against some of the most bitter and determined Nazi counter-attacks of the invasion.

"After one attack the enemy broke a company's line at one point, penetrating sufficiently to reach the medical aid post where Parry was working on the wounded. Those near enough to see what happened say that the Nazi troops who seemed to be in a completely frenzied condition set upon the wounded, shooting and bayoneting them.

"Parry immediately went to the aid of the helpless Britons lying on the dressing station floor. He protested vehemently against the murder of the helpless paratroopers and then when this was ignored by the enraged Germans he is believed to have tried physical intervention, putting himself between the Nazis and the wounded troops. He was then charged by the enemy and in the following struggle the Nazis used bayonets and knives and Parry was cut down. He fell beside the helpless men, then murdered the Padre, George Edward Maule Parry of the Sixth Airborne Division, who tried to defend them.

"The title was conferred upon her by the United Home Finding Service, which places some 4,000 children in foster homes annually.

Dewey's Rich Voice Aided His Career From School Days to GOP Nomination

By S. BURTON HEATH
NEA Staff Correspondent

By twisting a few details, Horatio Alger could have based one of his better rags-to-riches books on the rise of Tom Dewey from printer's devil to Republican candidate for the presidency.

There weren't really any rags. Tom's father came from one of the earliest colonial families (the first American Thomas arrived in Dorchester, Mass., in 1634) and himself was publisher of the weekly Owosso, Mich., Times, postmaster and an active GOP worker—able and willing to provide all necessities and moderate comforts for his family.

Nor did the family have to look back toward Plymouth Rock and the Pilgrim Fathers to justify itself. George Martin Dewey, this Tom's grandfather, was a delegate to the convention at Packson, Michigan, which founded the Republican party. A fifth cousin was that cussy old Vermont, Admiral George Dewey, hero of Manila Bay; another relative (degree vague, perhaps because he was a Democrat) was Nelson Dewey, first governor of Wisconsin.

WON SCHOLARSHIP

So Tom Dewey did not literally start from rags and more than, actually, he has achieved riches. He started from small city middle class comfort and has arrived at metropolitan middle class comfort—plus a little.

As a schoolboy Tom became "devil" in his father's printshop, which is to say that he was the lowliest member of the staff, privileged to do all the dirty work that nobody else would do or had time to do. In such spare time as he could find he could learn the printer's trade.

Apparently he was allergic to printer's ink, because he did not even begin to follow in the footsteps of Horace Greeley. Instead he got himself a job, one summer, on a farm. In spare time he clerked in a local drugstore and distributed newspapers.

He was not by testimony of one of his teachers, particularly popular among his playmates. A major trouble was that he knew all the answers, not just in his own mind but in fact. Even more important, he was impatient with those who did not know the answers or could not think of them, and was willing to participate actively in public speaking.

In high school he played at football, tooted the bass horn and, perhaps to give the senior class prophet something with which to work, participated actively in public speaking.

At the University of Michigan he majored in political science (more material for the seer) but the scholarship that he won was not for academic honors. It was for his singing.

SINGING PAID EXPENSES

According to one version he was considered shy and retiring by his college classmates. Whether or not this was true, he seems to have taken little active part in extracurricular activities other than music.

In the fall of 1923, using his scholarship, he came to New York to study for a musical career. At the same time he matriculated in the Columbia university school of law. He helped to pay expenses by singing in the choir of the Church of St. Matthew and St. Timothy, and in a synagogue.

Meanwhile he was courting Frances Hutt, born in Sherman, Texas, but then from Sapulpa, Okla., a fellow student at the school of music with a pleasing personality and a good mezzo-soprano voice.

Dewey was graduated from law school in 1925, having completed a three-year course in two years in spite of diversions. He spent the summer touring Europe in a jalopy and on a bicycle, and returned that fall to begin his pre-admission clerkship with a good but not prominent law firm. Admitted to the bar in 1926, he was affiliated successively with two firms until 1931.

ALL OR NOTHING

In connection with a case which his firm was defending, young Dewey's work made a great impression on George Z. Medalle, one of New York's best-known lawyers who then was United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York. Mr. Medalle invited Dewey to join his staff. Dewey bargained—all or nothing; he would accept only the post of chief assistant in the very important office.

Those who knew George Medalle as a hard-headed, unimpressible veteran, as independent as dewey, feel that he must have seen farther than others could then, because he accepted Dewey's terms and made him chief assistant. They have remained the closest of friends ever since.

In the next two years, Dewey convicted, among others, the racketeer "artichoke king," Costello; Deputy City Clerk McCormick, a powerful Tammany district leader; Irving Wexler, better if less favorably known as "Waxy Gordon."

When Medalle resigned late in 1933, Democratic and Republican judges of the U. S. District Court unanimously chose Dewey to succeed him until President Roosevelt could get around to name a Democrat. At the end of 1933 Dewey set up his own office and went into private practice.

In 1928 he had married his music school sweetheart, who meanwhile had been doing concert and revue singing. They have two sons, Thomas E., Jr., and John Martin Dewey. Their home is on a 300-acre farm in Pawling, N. Y.

Leaves From A Correspondent's War Notebook

By HAL DOYLE
A BRITISH PORT, June 16—(Delayed)—His first trip to sea was the greatest adventure in the life of 19-year-old Edwin Pischog of Chicago, a tall, boyish merchant seaman whose mates have nicknamed him "Sweet Pea."

He scribbled an account of his first 10 days on a freighter bound for Britain, an experience typical of that of thousands of young American sailors who have been delivering war goods with which Allied soldiers are winning the campaign in Normandy.

"There is nothing like your first trip at sea," wrote Sweet Pea. "I remember the posters in boot camp (for apprentice seamen) telling you that boot training was tough because it got you in shape for life at sea.

"At one time I didn't believe that, but after two days out, I knew there was a lot of truth in that.

"I happened to be one of the so-called boots on this trip. The navy boys are all salty after their first trip. My first 10 days out I think I learned more from those salts than I could by going through a four-year course in the best college in the U. S. A.

"I'm just 19 and not too bright, yet, I'm not a gourd head. But some of this stuff they tell me about is just impossible. Like the gunner's mate who was in the invasion of Sicily he told me about shrapnel on the deck, and said he had to use a broom and shovel on it. Now could you believe that? Well, frankly, I did.

"This one fellow is quite an artist at this talk stuff. Another time he told me he was taking a cup of coffee to the bridge and it happens it was pretty rough on this ship and it makes a big dip before he reached the bridge.

"Well his story goes that the cup came up filled with water instead of coffee. I thought I could tell some good ones, but I'll take a back seat.

"The first time a general alarm sounded I tramped on three guys and got run over twice myself. Then got the life jacket on backward. I got the life jacket on backward.

SAME WORDS—DIFFERENT STORY

CAMP BUTNER, N. C.—(AP)—Among soldiers just returned from combat, a private came into the finance office here to check on his deposits. His account showed an astounding total of $6,000 deposited during his overseas service. "I gamble," he explained. Another private also checked his account, which showed $5 deposited in 1941, $5 deposited in 1943, and $5 deposited in 1943. "I gamble," was his explanation.

CENTS SENSE

TACOMA, Wash.—Deputy U. S. Clerk Edgar Scofield didn't worry when Judge Charles H. Leavy ruled that two cents must be paid to complete a U. S. Land condemnation case—and that the money must be divided among three executors. "Let them figure it out," said Scofield, making out the check in the name of all three.

'Just a Hell Of a Nice Guy'

ALLIED ADVANCED COMMAND POST, ENGLAND, June 30—(AP)—Fame is a mantle that will require considerable tailoring before it comfortably fits the stocky shoulders of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Intimate friends of the Supreme Commander tell you that the prospect of greatness—which must come inevitably when allied armies smash Adolph Hitler—is particularly discomforting to Eisenhower. They say he is disturbed by the realization that he no longer can walk down a street without attracting a great deal of attention, or enter a restaurant without creating a small furor.

The general by nature is most informal. The contrast between him and the stiff military Prussians is remarkable. Typical of this was the story told by an ensign on a destroyer that twice carried the Supreme Commander in France.

"On the second trip, the General recognized me and spoke to me and a lot of other fellows," the ensign said. "He is just one hell of a nice guy—not nearly as excited or impressive as some Colonels and Brigadier Generals who came along."

LEAKY ADVISOR

GREAT FALLS, Mont.—Plumber Edwin Johnson said he couldn't attend the luncheon. A woman had called and asked him to fix a leak. "Oh, let it go until after lunch," said club member Carl Lehman. "Some women expect you to jump at the drop of a hat."

When he returned to his office he had a telephone call from Mrs. Lehman. "Where have you been?" she demanded. "I called the plumber but he didn't show up. Our water pipes have broken, and the basement's flooded."

CROWN NOW and MONDAY

Do you expect to be alive by dinnertime?

A number of Americans will not be.

Many Americans will be dead before this day is ended. Many more tomorrow. Many every day in the weeks to come.

For this is the most critical stage of the toughest, bloodiest war America has ever faced. This is the time when America must make her supreme military effort. Nothing can be spared—in men or equipment.

For us at home, too, the greatest effort of the war is demanded—now.

The greatest sum of money ever raised must be raised in the next few weeks—by our purchases of War Bonds.

This doesn't mean simply buying a bond in the regular way. It doesn't even mean buying extra bonds as in other War Loan drives.

It means doubling—yes, doubling—what we've done before.

It means putting in $2 for every $1 we put in other drives. $20 for every $10! $200 for every $100!

To many this will mean real sacrifice!

Well, what if it does? The supreme effort of the war is at hand for every American—both here and overseas! Double your bond buying!

And here are 5 More reasons for buying Extra Bonds in the 5th!

1. War Bonds are the best, the safest investment in the world!
2. War Bonds return you $4 for every $3 in 10 years!
3. War Bonds help keep prices down.
4. War Bonds will help win the Peace by increasing purchasing power after the War.
5. War Bonds mean education for your children; security for you, funds for retirement.
