Bond Buyers to See 'Guadalcanal Diary'

SPEAKS TOMORROW

'Guadalcanal Diary' at the LaNora theater here tonight will be only those select persons who have purchased a War Bond during the current Fourth War Loan campaign.

There are only 1,000 seats available for the single War Bond showing, which will begin at 7 p. m. If you have purchased your bond after Jan. 29 and did not receive your bond show ticket, take your bond back to the place you purchased it and they will give you a ticket to see the show, committee members said.

Personnel from Pampa Field will be the chief entertainers at a big bond rally to be held tomorrow night at LeFors.

District Judge W. R. Ewing will speak at a rally at Phillips camp Friday night, and there will be a rally for colored persons here Saturday at 8:30 p. m.

Boy Scouts this afternoon were beginning the house-to-house canvass, urging all residents to buy War Bonds.

With $21,681.25 in sales reported yesterday, today's total increased to $209,463.75, leaving $228,536.25 more to go on Gray county's quota of $1,038,000.

E bond purchases total $273,943.75, which is $124,956.25 short of the goal of $398,900.

Statement of total sales through the close of business Tuesday, Feb. 8: E bonds, $273,943.75; series F, $4,830; series G, $32,600; series C, savings notes, $259,500; 2 1/2% treasury bonds, $7,000; 2 1/2% treasury bonds, $67,500; certificates of indebtedness, $118,000; unknown type of securities, $47,000; purchases by individuals, $384,391.25; purchases by corporations, $425,075.50.

Rayburn Backers Campaign For Vice Presidency

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9. (AP)—With many political observers convinced that President Roosevelt will seek a fourth term, interest shifted temporarily at least today to the vice presidency. The feeling among some forward-looking politicians is that if Mr. Roosevelt is elected, the man who serves with him will be the No. 1 candidate for the presidency in 1948.

The importance which politicians are attaching to this belief is emphasized by an early move to obtain convention pledges for House Speaker Sam Rayburn. Rayburn supporters would like to be sure that he will go into the convention with pledges sealed and not face the risk of being upset through the selection of another man by the chief executive.

The service vote—approved by the senate under a federal ballot plan and by the house under a "states' rights" or state-controlled ballot plan—was headed for a congressional conference committee today. The committee will try to reconcile directly opposite viewpoints in time to give servicemen a vote in the 1944 elections.

SUBSIDY

And the senate, temporarily rid of that hot potato, picks up another heated controversy today—the bill to continue the Commodity Credit Corp. minus its authority to pay subsidies to keep retail food costs down. Subsidy opponents have proposed an extension of the CCC expiration date of Feb. 17, but administration supporters are expected to let the pending bill come to a vote in the hope that President Roosevelt will veto it.

TAXES

Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the senate finance committee proposes today to begin immediately to simplify tax forms. Under one plan, says George, 30,000,000 of the nation's 50,000,000 taxpayers could be relieved of filing returns at all. All their taxes would be deducted from their wages and salaries.

Pampan Spots Safe in Lake On Highway

Minus $1,000 in cash, the safe stolen Monday midnight from Ideal Food Stores 2,344-6 S. Cuyler, had been recovered today.

Dow King, Pampa used car dealer, spotted the small safe in a shallow lake along U. S. Highway 60, 4 miles west of White Deer, as he was returning from a trip to Amarillo yesterday.

King notified the sheriff's department here, and officers brought the safe into town last night.

Chief of Police Ray Dudley said all the cash was missing, but an estimated $1,000 in checks, receipts and coupons were not touched and were not damaged by water.

The safe was beaten open, Dudley said.

The officer characterized the burglary as the work of a professional. No arrests have yet been made.

Chief Dudley had to play hide and seek with three Pampa boys yesterday but he finally managed to round up all three and bring them before the county judge in connection with an attempt to cash a $45 check, purporting to have been signed by "John Haggard," the county commissioner, at a local department store.

Manager of the store notified police at noon yesterday of the boys' attempt to cash the check. He helped Chief Dudley find the boys, whose ages range from 15 to 16. Two of the trio stopped at the Rose building.

The third boy ran and got away but was later caught in a wheat field east of town.

Later, in the judge's office, one got away again but was captured and brought back.

Balaan Group to Ask For Philippine Action

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9. (AP)—Dr. H. V. Spensley of Albuquerque, N. M., has called a national meeting here tomorrow of representatives of Bataan relief organizations and associated groups from 14 states.

Spensley said a national organization will be formed tomorrow which will probably request congress to take cognizance of the Philippines situation.

The representatives from the 14 states will consider asking congress to adopt a resolution urging the war department to "give General Douglas MacArthur the men and equipment to go in and get our boys out of the Philippines now."

The special drive by the high school to sell enough bonds to purchase a P-51 Mustang fighter plane began when 12 teams canvassed White Deer and Skellytown throughout the day and a bond rally was staged that evening at the White Deer grade school. Sales for the day were $12,000.

Col. E. A. Simpson was speaker for the occasion, and Theda Hester, Band Queen by Billy Clements, president of the student body. The queen's attendants included Leatrice Hull and Lawrence Hester, June DeMoss and Buddy Biggers, Dorris Banzet and Robert Beu, and Betty O'Neal and Paul Willis. Cassino Sector - Vital Battlefield on Road to Rome

The story of the long and bitter fighting in the region of Cassino, Italy, is illustrated by this remarkable aerial photograph looking northward across territory already won by the Allies. Enemy artillery positions in the mountains made the approach to the town of Cassino especially difficult. But with the capture of Mt. Trocchio (center), the valley at the right, and the foothills of Mt. Cairo in the middle background, Cassino now is three-fourths encircled. The Germans, still resisting fiercely in part of the town, have only a narrow escape route through the Liri River valley. In lower foreground, toward the right, a burst of smoke shows where American artillery is firing over Mt. Trocchio at an enemy position. On the hill is the famous Abbey of Monte Cassino.

Kansas Warden Quits Over Execution

TOPEKA, Kas., Feb. 9. (AP)—Warden M. P. Amrine of the Kansas state prison resigned last night rather than supervise an execution which he described as an "evanescent ceremony of a civilians, progressive state."

He handed the resignation to Gov. Andrew Schoepel shortly after the state's chief executive denied clemency for Fred L. Brady, set for execution on Feb. 1 and that additional supplies were being brought in from Argentina.

The WFA said that all but 20,000,000 pounds of the government stocks had been earmarked for the name services, lend-lease, and other war programs. The 20,000,000 pound stock is being held in what is called a "contingency reserve."

Most of that earmarked for the name services and lend-lease will have been used. Officials said, by the time the government re-enters the butter market next April.

Government stocks were accumulated during the heavy production season of 1943, and officials said that if the 20,000,000 pound emergency stock were released to civilians now, government purchases would have to be 20,000,000 pounds heavier during the coming heavy production season, with the result that there would be smaller civilian supplies later.

As to the Argentine butter, they explained that was being used to supply the United Nations mercantile marine calling at American ports.

Navy Will Continue Its College Program

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9. (AP)—Rear Admiral Randall Jacobs, chief of naval personnel, declared today that "the navy department has no plans to discontinue" its college training program.

Jacobs said his bureau "has recently received a number of inquiries concerning reports that the navy college program may be stopped."

In a statement, he declared:

"The U. S. navy is still expanding. The urgent need for technically trained young officers continues, and the colleges and universities participating in the V-12 program are doing a splendid job of producing such officers. While changing war-time conditions may, from time to time, necessitate revision in the quotas for the program in order to conform with the needs of the service, the navy does not contemplate discontinuance of the program."

WFA Builds Up Butter Reserve

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9. (AP)—The war food administration is waging a "behind-the-scenes" fight to hold a 20,000,000-pound "bank reserve" of butter for possible emergency needs by the military forces, foreign relief agencies, lend-lease recipients, or American civilians.

Pressure is being exerted by consumer and trade groups and some government leaders to release this reserve to civilians now but the food administration is resisting it.

Requests for release of WFA stocks developed after publication of reports that the government held about 130,000,000 pounds of butter on Feb. 1 and that additional supplies were being brought in from Argentina.

The WFA said that all but 20,000,000 pounds of the government stocks had been earmarked for the name services, lend-lease, and other war programs. The 20,000,000 pound stock is being held in what is called a "contingency reserve."

Nimitz Strikes For Allied Bases in China

(By The Associated Press)

American sea and air forces, a potent winning team in the conquest of Kwajalein, smashed anew at Japanese positions among the remaining Marshall islands to implement their commander's expressed aim of driving across the Pacific to set up Allied bases in China.

Warships and planes bombarded enemy-held atolls Sunday and Monday even as Marines and soldiers were mopping up the last of the overpowered Japanese on the pulverized battlefields of Kwajalein.

"We'll also examine the other atolls," declared Admiral Chester W. Nimitz upon his return to Hawaii from a visit to the captured island.

The Japanese bases bombed Feb. 6 and 7 were not specified, except for Jaluit where several small enemy boats were sunk. Pacific fleet headquarters laid down a new policy of not naming Marshall targets in order not to divulge any information which disrupted communications won't permit the imperial high command to learn about immediately.

Associated Press War Correspondent Paul Beam, who rode in an army divomber in one raid Feb. 6, observed that the enemy's pet fighter field in the Marshalls "has been rided and torn by bombs which rained in recent weeks from fighters, divbombers, and heavy and medium bombers."

At Kwajalein, occupation of which was announced completed yesterday, Nimitz told interviewers during his inspection trip that he hoped to keep Japanese bases on Wotje, Mialeap, Jaluit, and Mill neutralized in the continuing Marshalls offensive.

Most of the 1,148 Army and Marine wounded already have been removed to established military hospitals.

Yanks Take Fourth Of Cassino

(By The Associated Press)

Allied planes destroyed the great part of Cassino, main German stronghold in the siege lines around the Rome beachhead into which the Nazis said officially today they had advanced "several miles."

Headquarters at Alstera gave no confirmation of the German communication claim and spoke only of "enemy patrols probing positions below Rome. Dispatches told of increasing German pressure and intense artillery fire against the American and British troops in the pocket, last reported 14 miles long and eight miles deep.

Some advances were claimed on the main Fifth Army front, 60 miles below the Rome sector, where the Americans had occupied a fourth of the ruins of Cassino and climbed at one time to within 75 yards of the Benedictine abbey on Mt. Cassino. An attack in full strength was repulsed, and the cliffs surrounding the dominating monastery before dawn yesterday. "The Germans had been holding fast here for six days in a violent battle.

A German report likened the waters off the supply port of Nettuno below Rome to a "ship graveyard" as a result of air attacks.

Russian victors at Nikolai pressed upon Kriwoi Roser after killing 15,000 and capturing 2,000 Germans in their latest triumph on the Dnieper.

Fleets of U. S. Marauder bombers left British airfields at dawn to renew the battle against Northern France. The Paris radio went silent.

Yugoslav Partisans said without detail that they had inflicted a "devastating defeat" on Axis troops 45 miles south of Sarajevo.

The Russian magazine "War and the Working Classes" said any suggestion that autonomy was granted the 16 Soviet republics to achieve territorial gains was Nazi-inspired propaganda. The Swedish minister to Russia went home to consult. Conceivably, he could be carrying peace terms for isolated Finland, warned again by the U. S. to quit the war against Russia or suffer the consequences.

The most violent fighting continued in and around German-held Cassino, 60 miles from the Rome front in Italy. On the Adriatic, the Germans turned back three thrusts against the British and Canadian troops of the Eighth Army, but without gain. The Germans asserted via Radio Vichy that the Allies had thrown 30,000 men and 400 tanks into the Cassino battle to relieve the pressure on the Rome pocket.

"Active patrolling" was reported in the Rome bridgehead, stuck like a tobruk in the German flank. Headquarters said the Allies further consolidated their positions and that German shelling increased.

Allied air fleets flew 1,500 sorties without loss yesterday to bolster the bridgehead against German concentrations, airfields and rail yards were bombed and strafed. Targets included rail yards at Sienza north of Rome, Padua, Verona, and Viterbo and shipping off Dalmatia. The heaviest application of predominant Allied air power was at Cassino, 26 miles southeast of Rome and an Apennian way control point.

Further down the coast, warships shelled Formia on the same road.

The capture of the 1,500 square miles of bridgehead east of the Dnieper opened the way for a Red army charge on the Black Sea ports of Chernobyl and Nikolayev as well as the iron center of Kriwoi.

WHEN WILL I GET SYNTHETIC TIRES? Facts on the rubber situation by Phillips Petroleum Company, operating a 90,000,000 pound butadiene plant, for an annual production of rubber equivalent to 11,000,000 tires.

THE RACE FOR RUBBER is right now entering the homestretch. Swiftly and surely, the nation's synthetic rubber plants are approaching peak annual production of 850,000 tons.

Despite this record-breaking achievement, the next six months are the time of crisis, because the full fighting power of rubber is needed for war: rubber for life rafts and landing boats... rubber for bullet-sealing tanks and electrical insulation... rubber for a thousand and one victory needs.

This is why only the most essential civilian drivers can be supplied with new tires of synthetic rubber, at least until late in the year. The rest of us must continue to save miles and rubber, and recap in time to keep rolling.

As a major producer of butadiene (the chief ingredient in synthetic rubber) and 100 octane aviation gasoline, the Phillips Petroleum Company presents these facts as a contribution to general understanding of the present transportation problem.

With us, as with every American motorist, the needs of war come first. But when victory is won, car owners will begin enjoying the benefits and product-improvements flowing from Phillips gigantic chemical plants, devoted to producing new and better things from petroleum gases as well as petroleum.

THE Home Nurse

By MARY BEARD

There are four general objectives to be kept in mind in caring for the sick in home.

1. To do everything possible for the welfare of the patient so as to hasten his recovery.
2. To minimize the disturbance to family life.
3. To avoid conflict with the work of family wage earners, and
4. To prevent unnecessary strain on the home nurse.

Obviously, the routine of the patient's day will vary according to the nature and severity of his illness, and according to the doctor's instructions. However, the schedule should provide time for the following procedures approximately in the order given:

1. Before breakfast care—a glass of water or a hot drink, face and hands washed, mouth and teeth cleaned, toilet or bedpan, and bed straightened.
2. Breakfast.
3. Bath—not earlier than one-half hour after breakfast.
4. Midmorning lunch or liquid.
5. Lunch.
6. Nap or rest period.
7. Visitors, if permitted, and in consequence of minor illness light occupation or diversion.
8. Mid-afternoon nourishment.
9. Patient and room put in order before supper.
10. Supper.
11. Evening care—which includes back rub or sponge bath, mouth and teeth cleaned, toilet or bedpan.

Of course, time must be allowed between these intervals for taking temperature, pulse and respiration and for giving medicines and treatment ordered by the doctor.

"Contributors to a New World Order"

NATIONS UNITED

Will Win the "VICTORY" and the "PEACE"

An Institute of International Understanding is a public forum conducted by a Rotary club to study world problems in terms of the relationship of peoples of the world to each other. These Institutes are held one evening each week for four successive weeks. At each of these meetings an outstanding speaker gives an address on some phase of the general theme, "Contributors to a New World Order." His talk is followed by a forum period in which members of the audience may ask questions on the subject under discussion.

Such an Institute is being sponsored in Pampa by our Rotary club. Similar Institutes are being held this year in some three hundred communities throughout the United States and Canada.

These Institutes of International Understanding are definite contributions by Rotary to the solution of international problems and the advancement of international understanding. Rotarians are strongly of the opinion that, if the various peoples of the world can become conscious of their inter-relatedness and can get together in a neighborly sort of fashion, the resulting good will and mutual understanding will take them a long way on the road to universal peace.

The prominent speakers presented by the Institutes discuss what such leaders among the United Nations as Russia, China, England, and the United States, have to contribute to a new world order. They present no panaceas for permanent peace. Their objective is to furnish material which may be used as background so that members of the audience may be better informed on world problems and may reach their own conclusions.

Through these Institutes of International Understanding, Rotary clubs are making a significant contribution to the development of an intelligent opinion in world affairs.

pitfalls in forward areas. Associated Press War Correspondent Lell Erickson reported from a U. S. navy hospital ship at Kwajalein.

Returning to Pearl Harbor, Nimitz, supreme commander of Central Pacific forces which invaded the Marshalls Jan. 31, startled newsmen with the frank statement that it was his aim to sweep across the Pacific and establish bases in China for assault on the life-line of Japan's war machine.

"In the last analysis," he said, "I do not believe we can defeat Japan from the sea alone.

"I believe the Japs can only be defeated from bases in China because they draw food, iron and other supplies from Manchuria and China, and as long as they have access to these they will be difficult to beat."

The Japanese Domei news agency hinted today that transportation problems are limiting Japan's use of the resources of occupied areas in Malaya, Hainan, China and the Philippines.

Admiral Nimitz also declared that "we want air bases in China from which we can deliver air raids—not sporadic ones but like those the Germans are receiving."

No Allied bombs have interrupted aircraft production in Japan as they have in Germany and France. And high quarters in Washington estimated today that Nipponese plants are turning out 1200 or more planes a month, preponderantly lighter types or 100 per cent more than most calculations since Pearl Harbor.

This would explain in large part how the Japanese are able to replace heavy air losses such as they suffered last month. Based on official figures, the Allies shot down or destroyed more than 700 planes in January in the Pacific—south, southwest and central—and in the China-Burma-India theater.

Possibly indicating the arrival of badly-needed reinforcements, nearly 60 Japanese fighters appeared over Rabaul Sunday when 150 Allied planes came in from their Solomon bases for another time-table raid on that New Britain base. On

Aviation cadets of the upper class at Pampa Army Air Field will be speakers to appear here in the club of the Rotary club at the opening lecture on the Pampa Community Forum in the junior high school auditorium tomorrow night and will attend in a body. It was announced today by Maj. Jack F. Marr, director of training at the local unit of the Army Air Forces Training Command.

Because of the importance of the event, Maj. Marr stated the flying schedule at the field had been rearranged to permit the cadets to hear Lt. Col. Edward F. Lascelles, of London, Eng., the first of four speakers to appear here in the club of the Institute of International Understanding.

Officials of the Rotary club also announced today that enlisted men and women in uniform will be admitted free to the lecture.

Lieutenant Colonel Lascelles, a member of the British Army staff in World War one saw action in the Mediterranean area, is scheduled to speak at 8 o'clock tomorrow night.

Prior to his appearance, the Pampa Army Air Field band will give a 30-minute concert beginning at 7:30 p. m. The band will be under the direction of Warrant Officer Ken Carpenter.

The general theme of the Institute will be "Contributors to a New World Order." Lieutenant Colonel Lascelles' topic tomorrow night will be "The British Commonwealth as Contributors."

Three other speakers on the Institute program will appear in Pampa on Feb. 17, March 1 and March 23 to give views of China, Russia, and the United States.

The purpose of the Institute, Rotary officials said today, is to give the people of the Pampa area an opportunity to hear informed speakers discuss vital subjects current in the day's war news.

"It is one of the finest opportunities ever afforded to gain background knowledge of what is going on in the world today," Doyle F. Osborne, Rotary president, said this morning.

Sid Patterson, of the club's publicity and ticket sales committee, said today a full house is expected to hear tomorrow night's speaker.

"We'll be disappointed if the auditorium isn't filled," he said.

Tickets have been selling fast this week and the lectures have been given the endorsement of the American Legion, civic clubs, churches and school officials.

Doors of the junior-high auditorium will be opened at 7 p. m. tomorrow. There are no reserved seats.

the last two reported attacks, the enemy's interception was described as weak.

Between 13 and 23 Japanese planes were shot down in the Sunday sweep at a moderate loss for the Allies. The enemy again used phosphorus bombs, apparently unsuccessfully, in attempts to break up the attack in which 124 tons of bombs were dropped on Rabaul's Lakinai airbase.

The Japanese, in one of their frequent offensive sweeps, raided American invasion beachheads at Arawa and Cape Gloucester in Britain. Some soldiers and natives were wounded at Arawa.

Aviation Cadet Charles E. (Ed) Bradford of Pampa is spending a few days leave here after completion of his primary flight course at the Spartan-operate British flying school at Miami, Okla. He returns there this week-end to begin basic and advance training. He is scheduled to receive his wings there in about four months. Bradford joined the air force in May, 1943, went to Keesler Field, Miss., for basic training; Decatur, Ill., for a college course; and to San Antonio for classification and pre-flight work. He is a former Pampa News employe.

Rog, 60 miles northwest of Nikopol, Seven German divisions in their futile defense of Nikopol and its manganese — needed to harden German steel. The Russians said nothing further of five Nazi divisions previously reported cut off in that area, suggesting that remnants of those formations had escaped.

Ten other divisions, trapped near Cherkassy were whittled down further as the Russians pressed in from all sides.

In the north, the Russians advanced 10 miles closer to Luga, a railroad strongpoint on the Leningrad-Pskov railroad. More villages beyond Novosokolniki fell in a drive toward Latvia. The Germans spoke of evacuations along the Estonian coast, but the Russians made no new report on their divisions curled around the ancient city of Nava.

The morning air attack was the third assault against the French invasion coast in 24 hours. American heavy bombers had struck Frankfurt in Western Germany by day yesterday, destroying 19 German planes at the cost of 25, of which a dozen were heavy bombers.

German radio voices prodded their home front for greater efforts. Another voice from Moscow, that of captured Nazi Gen. Walter von Seydlitz, called upon the Germans to surrender, asserting:

"A great winter catastrophe for the German armies in the east is facing you now, irrevocably and unavoidably."

Lions Club Honors Boy Scouts, Cubs

A great crowd of Scouts and Cubs from the different troops and packs in Pampa attended the Lions club birthday party last night at the junior high school cafeteria given in their honor. The boys assembled around 8 o'clock, playing a few games together and singing songs.

The entire "feed" was furnished by the Pampa Lions club except the pop which was furnished by Wm. T. Fraser, manager of the Nehi-Royal Crown Co. The party was under the direction of Davy Eaton, chairman of the boys work committee of the Lions club, assisted by Winston Savage, principal.

After the party all Scouts assembled in the junior high auditorium where Judge S. D. Stennis, chairman of the Gray county war bond committee, explained the house to house campaign that the Scouts are going to make today and tomorrow, when they will take subscriptions for War Bonds.

The following Scouters helped to make the party a success: L. E. Frary, James McCune, O. W. Frevitt, Durland Wallace, Dr. H. L. Wilder, E. L. Gallimore and Hugo O. Olsen.

maintaining them promises to be a costly one. Forced to supply the beachhead from the sea, the Allies face a steady drain on shipping from German rocket glider bombs.

The decision to follow a cautious role in bridgehead was taken despite the fact that the surprise landings enabled the Allies to achieve the goal desired by all generals—numerical superiority at a given point of attack.

It is now apparent that the advantages of surprise and numerical superiority both have been lost, for the Germans have been able to build up their strength and have brought in new divisions from the north. There is no reason to suppose they will not be able to hold this advantage.

Recent discoveries in the Southwest have led scientists to believe that man inhabited North America in the glacial period, much earlier than they were at first believed to have arrived.

"You've earned some sort of medal yourself, I'd say, for giving lots of us drivers safe warning. Good thing you kept harping on rationing. You said limited driving couldn't keep clearing out the rank acids always left from combustion; they'd linger and corrode the engine. But you said that plating, of course, wouldn't soon let metals corrode. And you convinced me, all right, about keeping my engine OIL-PLATED with your patented Conoco Nth oil. Now my OIL-PLATED engine is seeing me through, and I say good for you! ... helping the home front! They all should know how Conoco Nth gives engines protective OIL-PLATING!"

The how it is that Conoco Nth motor oil—popular-priced—includes a costly modern synthetic. Its strong "power of attraction" fastens and maintains the OIL-PLATING on inner surfaces. Despite engine inactivity, the unavoidable acids aren't "working right through" the OIL-PLATING, and so the wartime risk of corrosion is cut! Take The Chains Off Radio.

We're in favor of the program of Niles Trammell, president of the National Broadcasting Corp., for the bringing of radio in the United States within the Bill of Rights' guarantee of freedom of speech. Radio does not now enjoy that freedom; yet radio is one of our great media of speech and communication.

At the present time, the communications act of 1934, a vague and loosely worded statute, is administered by the federal communications commission, better known as the FCC. The FCC's chairman, James L. Ray, is a veteran business man who has been in the industry since the 900 to 1,000 broadcasting agencies in the United States in 1934. He has been in the industry since the life-and-death power to revoke a station's license if the station fails to please the FCC.

A declaration that radio broadcasters have full freedom under Amendment I of the Constitution (the freedom-of-speech clause of the Bill of Rights) is a well known fact. The FCC's power to regulate radio is a life-and-death power to revoke a station's license if the station fails to please the FCC.

Long-term or permanent licenses, renewable only for specified causes. Licenses to be revocable only after jury trial and conviction in the federal court for the district where the station is located.

FCC to be forbidden to administer antitrust laws against radio; these laws to be enforced again radio in the same manner as against any other industry.

Government to be ordered to issue experimental licenses and encourage development of radio in the same manner as against any other industry.

Discrimination to be forbidden on basis of occupation or business in granting licenses. Procedural parts of the 1934 communications act to be revised to conform with recommendations of the Federal Communications Bar Association and the National Association of Broadcasters.

All these improvements look good to us. Some of them are embodied in the White-Wheeler bill, a measure pending in the House. We think all the Trammell recommendations ought to be written into this bill, after which Congress should pass the bill. It is time to knock the bureaucratic chains off the American radio industry.

Many who are opposing subsidies can do no further with Mr. Willis. There are food shortages—serious ones—at the consumer level, which is what the shortages hurt. Prices are alarmingly high already and appear higher because, so often the cheaper items are unobtainable and it is necessary to pay for the more costly.

DELEGATES OF JACKSON
(News-Courier, Charleston, S.C.)
At the "Jackson Day" dinner of the "Democrats" in Washington, D. C., which cost each diner $100, was present no citizen described by the President in 1936 as an "economic royalist". All those present were of the common man ($100 a plate men, just like common Democrats in South Carolina who pay no taxes and draw no salaries). They were all "liberals" and "humanitarians". They seemed to be fourth-termers, fourth-termers being the natural votaries and celebrators of Andrew Jackson, a hero of third terms for presidents.

Jack, by the way, was a veteran soldier, fighting man, and a thing that he seemed to fear was public debt. Therefore, the liberals and humanitarians love to celebrate him and eat-and-drink-$100 dinners in his honor. Vice President Henry Wallace, member of a wealthy family and a common man of the common man's century, said in his speech that "the New Deal is not dead and has yet to attain its full strength". When it attains its full strength, it will be a "democracy" which in the South would include abolition of separate washbasins and sanitary arrangements.

Men of Principles Not Permitted To Pick Their Associates

Under our present laws, men who believe in the principle that all men are equal before the law are not permitted to select each other as associates in preference to those who do not so believe. Few people realize that this is a fact.

On the other hand men who do not believe in principles but believe in force and a dictatorial form of government are permitted to associate together without any restriction by the government. The law sanctions associations of men who believe in compulsion, intimidation and force of labor unions. But it does not sanction the employer who believes in peaceful voluntary negotiations, without threats or intimidation, to get his work done.

It is no wonder we have had before war, ten years of unemployment. It is no wonder things are getting scarce when our government will not permit men who believe in free enterprise—that is, voluntary agreements between individuals—to associate with men who like to believe in compulsion, intimidation and force of labor unions. But it does not sanction the employer who believes in peaceful voluntary negotiations, without threats or intimidation, to get his work done.

Can anything be more terrible than a condition that prevents men who believe in equal freedom from choosing their associates? Can anything be more terrible than a condition that prevents men who do not believe that all men are equally free to have the right to associate with anyone they wish?

State Planning
Most people who believe more and more in state education and state planning have undoubtedly overlooked the opinions of some keen students on this subject.

Henry Thoreau said, "The state has never yet done anything to help a good cause along except by the alacrity with which it got out of the way."

On the dangers of growth of government interference with man's natural rights, Albert Nock says, "According to my observations, mankind are among the most easily tamable and domesticated animals on the face of the globe. They are readily reducible to submission, so readily conditional to a word as to exhibit an almost incredibly enduring patience under restraint and oppression of the most flagrant character. So far are they from displaying any over-weening love of freedom that they show a singular contentment with a condition of servitude, often showing a curious calm pride in it, which contrasts sharply with the love of freedom that they show in their own minds."

These thoughts dominated recent discussions here of a system through which soldiers on the battlefronts can be relieved periodically and returned home for recuperation whenever possible. And unless future crises require it, the system would be to rotate the constant observation will not be shot back into the lines. They will be kept in this country as instructors or in non-combat assignments overseas.

CASUALTIES—The Administration aims to avert a similar catastrophe for the United States in the years ahead. DEPRESSION—A fundamental desire to preserve American manpower for the postwar period lies behind the Roosevelt-Stimson-Knox policy of holding every large military machine that will be needed to defeat the Axis. Army-Navy spokesmen recently explained the long-range implications of the program to members of the House. Washington recognizes that every country will need leaders of government and business in the fiercely competitive years that will follow the conflict. P. D. R. has frequently commented on the terrific loss of brilliant young men suffered by Britain and France in the last struggle. Youngsters who would otherwise have filled key posts in those nations were moved down on the fields of Flanders.

It was owing largely to the disappearance of potential masters of statesmanship that the Munich Pact was brought about by such oldsters as Prime Minister Chamberlain and Premier Daladier. A coterie of anciently unable to unwilling to keep abreast of the times controlled the chancelleries of Europe from 1919 to 1939. It was they who pursued a course which led directly to the 1939 depression, the rise of dictators and the present conflagration.

Leaves From The Editor's Notebook

Guessing what Russia means by pushing the middle-of-war to emphasize that it is composed of 16 parts is one of the most interesting problems arising since. The assumed sacrifice, from this distance, seems about as great in one case as in the other.

The assumption of many commentators that Russia cannot be get herself 16 votes in the next peace conference, against six for the British Commonwealth of Nations is only a guess. Russia cannot be dismissed so lightly, though it probably is not the best reason for the Russian plan. Remember, it was American support which did the trick. The assumed sacrifice, from this distance, seems about as great in one case as in the other.

Whatever front the Russians present, one thing is clear. To borrow Ben Franklin's phrase, they must hang together, or they will hang separately. And Stalin can doubtless be counted on to preserve their necessary unity.

Why do the Nazis continue a losing war? This question, still unanswered, has a plausible answer from the columnist, Jay Franklin, who says they might be thinking of what happened in the Seven Years' War.

Then King Frederick the Great of Prussia, one of Germany's national heroes, was at war with Russia, France and Austria. He had some brilliant successes, but the English, who were also fighting the French in Canada, but for the most part he had to go it alone. After some brilliant successes, but the English, who were also fighting the French in Canada, but for the most part he had to go it alone.

DISCHARGE—In pursuance of this plan, medical men in all Services have installed a unique, although unadvertised, feature, called a "scraping system" in hospitals and rest centers such as those in New Jersey, Florida and California.

They do not subject to psychiatric tests, for they try to avoid the clinical aspects of an examination. But they keep an eye on the boys, question them unobtrusively about their ambitions and qualifications and enter comments in the records.

Eventually—at the time of discharge perhaps—these notations on reactions may be used to inform the individual concerned of his family where he might best fit into a peacetime setup.

In short, the vast forces of Yankee fighters will be demobilized gradually and realistically instead of being thrown back into the social and economic scramble in a better-skilled manner—as wasted, washed-up troops.

INSPIRE—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge's resignation to enter the Army has set many of his colleagues, especially members of the House, to thinking. They are beginning to suspect that the war will be ten-thousand-dollar-a-year seats for a fifty-dollar-a-month tour in the armed Services.

This war began a long while ago. I am getting fed up with the thing. I think it's nearly time we finished it.—Gen. Sir B. L. Montgomery.

All this talk about punishing Germany and punishing war criminals is nonsense, except as a crime. It conforms to international law as set by civilized nations—although I'm sorry it is.—George Bernard Shaw.

There isn't a WAC in Italy who wouldn't welcome the chance to chuck her typewriter or jeep and go back to the States to fight side by side with her buddies.—Second Lieut. Edgar V. Perkins, Second Army, Italy.

But must resign. His leaders in the lower chamber warned that sufficient absence would give the G. O. numerical control of the House. But it is a good bet that the Lodge move will inspire many to do likewise.

Peter Edson's Column:
ARMY INFORMATION'S JOB NO SMALL ONE
The Pampa News Washington Correspondent

Congressmen on Capitol Hill are having their secretaries phone across the Potomac to the war department in the Pentagon Building a new line of questions: "What were the soldiers in the field told about the president's last message? Was the opposition given an equal break? Were both sides of the debate on the soldier-vote in the field cast to the soldiers and sailors at home and abroad? What assurance have we that Republican and Democratic political arguments will be given equal prominence in army newspapers and in army broadcasts to troops overseas during the coming campaign?"

All such questions, which used to be shot at OWT's Elmer Davis, now end up on the desk and in the lap of a 39-year-old Col. Edward L. Munson, Jr. who used to teach plebe English at the Academy, but who now has the title of chief of the army information branch of the mobile services division, under Brig. Gen. F. H. Osborn. From now until the election Colonel Munson will probably be sitting in one of the hottest seats in the whole war department's pentagonal set-up, and you can darn well see why. Politicians fear that this next election may be decided by the soldier vote, and each side is scared the other will gain some small advantage in spelling-binding the troops into voting for their man. To the present political situation, this is of greater moment than you win the war.

OPERATES ON BIG SCALE
To do its job, the army information branch—which it should be made clear, has nothing to do with its public relations branch—has probably the biggest and most varied news, radio, magazine, movie, educational and research network ever put together. It operates with only eight officers in Washington, the staff of around 300 working mainly in New York on news, in New York and San Francisco on radio, in Los Angeles on movies. Its movie operation, headed by Frank Capra, is about half the size of Paramount's. It is responsible for the "Why We Fight" series of films that play such an important part in letting American soldiers and sailors know what the war's all about.

This radio network, under Lt. Col. H. A. Lewis, broadcasts 42 programs a week, hits every theater of operation by standard or short-wave, and may be rebroadcast by some 65 army stations all over the world. Theoretically, there is one radio receiver for every 125 men going overseas, but the number of sets in the possession of individual soldiers or acquired by units in the field may raise this ratio. It made 250,000 transcriptions for rebroadcast last year, half decommercialized commercial programs, half original G. I. programs.

It publishes a weekly news map for world-wide distribution to American armed forces to keep them posted on progress of the war. It has published a series of a score or more of pocket guides, with some editions going into the hands of acquiring soldiers of the nations of the countries in which they are serving.

By ERKINE JOHNSON
You gotta give little Bert Wheeler a lot of credit. It's rough going when a high-powered screen comedy team is broken up. But Bert is climbing back on the handwagon.

"Just like starting all over again," he says. "Nine years ago the team of Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey was the hottest thing in pictures. They were as big as Abbott and Costello are today. They co-starred in 45 comedies, earned a neat six million dollars for the RKO studio."

Then one morning in 1937 Woolsey's heart acted up. They carried him off the set on a stretcher and he never returned. A double completed the picture with Wheeler.

For six months Wheeler wandered around town in a daze. After working as a team with the same partner in 45 pictures—well, the old light was gone.

When Bert was ready to return to work, Hollywood would have none of him. "Wheeler without Woolsey!" Casting directors and producers winced. "It's no good. It's like coffee without sugar. The guy is washed up."

"I couldn't understand it," Wheeler said. "I used to get laughs. I met Woolsey. So I decided the only thing to do was to start all over again."

BACK TO THE BOARDS
When Bert went to England and played the musical comedy halls and was a big hit. Then, just before war broke out, he returned to New York and played two hit Broadway shows, "Priorities" and "Laugh Time." The road company of "Laugh Time" finally brought him back to Hollywood, where every talent scout and Hollywoodite in the audience agreed he was the funniest thing in the show.

They offered him three movie roles. But Bert turned them down. "They were the same old stuff—musical comedy routines," he said. The comedy Bert Wheeler would like to do on the screen now is far different from the old slapstick stuff which once earned him $100,000 a picture. He describes it as "comedy relief in dramatic pictures." Like the role John Garfield played in "Destination Tokyo." With a background of 30 years in show business, he probably could do it well.

Meanwhile, he has a spot on a national radio program and enough personal appearance and vaudeville offers to give an agent nervous indigestion. "If I don't get the right kind of role in Hollywood this time," he says, "I'll go back on the road until the right spot does come along."

We know a lot of swell stories about Bert, but the one we like best concerns the only time Frank Fay left Bert speechless. When vaudeville was at its peak, Fay was cracking boxoffice records at the Palace theater in New York City. He'd been playing the theater 57 consecutive weeks, and was still packin' in the customers when Wheeler was booked on the same bill. Fay asked Bert to come on to his dressing room and suggested they do an afterpiece together. "We'll just go out and do some fancy ad libbing," Bert said. Wheeler tried to get out of it, knowing Fay as the best ad libber in the business, but Fay was insistent and there was nothing Bert could do.

So the boys went out together and Fay started talking but Wheeler just stood there and didn't say a word. Finally Fay got mad and asked Bert why he didn't say something. So Bert said, "Frank do you want me to get a bigger laugh than you've been able to get in 57 weeks on this stage?" Fay smiled and said, "Just try it," he said. So Bert, about two feet short and 100 pounds lighter, hauled off and hit Frank Fay right in the kisser. It got a terrific howl, but what made Fay even madder was that the theater manager thought it was part of the act and made them keep it in all week.

ON the Colonel's desk, the telephone that was connected only with his secretary was ringing. It was Winifred who answered it. She giggled, "Oh, yes. Send him right up."

She turned on the Colonel in a surburst of sweetness. "It's a reporter from Events. He wants your opinion on the psychology of the Japs."

The young man came in, nodded tolerantly to Winifred, and said to the Colonel, "The boss thinks your ideas about Japan ought to be valuable. He says you handled a lot of publicity for the Japanese Government a few years ago."

The Colonel sputtered, "Nonsense—nonsense! Just a few routine matters—some commercial promotion that happened to come into our office—carelessness on the part of an underling—fired him the moment I heard he'd accepted the vile stuff!"

Winifred Homeward, delicately gesturing with a cigarette, her bright voice soaring, caught the reporter's attention: "But you're perfectly right to come to him. Even if he is my father, I must say there's no one who has more information about Japan and how to crush it than the Colonel, whether as a soldier or an administrator. Here's the way he and I feel about it. What's the shortest way from New York or Detroit or Pittsburgh or Washington or St. Paul, or for that matter, from Toronto, to Tokyo or Kobe or Yokohama, or what really counts, to Korea where, we have inside information, the natives are ready to rise against their Japanese overlords—"

Colonel Marduc quietly wandered out of the room, quite unnoticed, and did not return until after this spirited interview with him was over.

WINIFRED said to Peony, "These men—even the talented ones like my father and your husband and mine—they do mean so well, but they have no sense of orderliness and human values, like us."

London newspapers are looking with jaundiced eyes at the Anglo-Italian beachhead operations below Rome, and suggest the Allies should have been more cautious about forging ahead when they first landed and there was virtually no opposition.

Time may, or may not, justify this harsh criticism, but it strikes me we lack facts to warrant such sweeping conclusions as yet. The London Daily Herald, which among those disappointed, seems to furnish its own excellent answer when it says: "We do not yet know enough to criticize or account for the state of affairs."

We may get a better view of things after the big battle which seems to be boiling up at the beachhead. That's the thing of immediate importance—and it may be a very nasty affair, with heavy casualties. Hitler indicates determination to annihilate our beachhead force as part of his delaying action in Italy.

The great Marshal Rommel, one of the master tacticians of the war, reportedly had been rushed to the Kaiser's headquarters where he was told to move heavy reinforcements from the north, and have even brought in a contingent of Hitler's elite guard. They are brutal and trained in sadistic murder.

The enemy may be superior notwithstanding there and didn't say a word. Finally Fay got mad and asked Bert why he didn't say something. So Bert said, "Frank do you want me to get a bigger laugh than you've been able to get in 57 weeks on this stage?"

MODERN PILGRIMS
AN ALEUTIANS BASE (AP)—The first American women living on Attu since the recovery of that outermost island from the Japs, are called the "pilgrim peaches." The group—eight nurses under Lt. Judith Wilson, formerly of Anchorage, Alaska—arrived on the island "Thanks-giving day."

FUNNY BUSINESS

"With spring seats in the corners, it always ends in a draw!"

A DISTURBING letter had come in to Dr. Planish from Mr. Johnson of Minneapolis, written from the Great Lakes Naval Training Center: "I have been asked to be a sponsor, whatever that means, for a Dinner in Decatur to the Plain People, to be held in your very fine Gladioli Hotel and to be conducted by three novelists, a portrait painter and an alderman, at $3.50 a plate, which is a good plain price. There are a lot of other names on the list of sponsors, but what bothers me is that they seem to have left out all the Plain People."

"Should I send some on? I can't come myself because I am nose in the Navy, but I know quite a few of the Plain People in Minnesota—a dumb farmer who happens to be my uncle, and a surgeon who likes duck hunting, and my plumber and a chemist who went to Yale. I guess you should make him a Plain Person as that college was founded to promote plain democratic learning. Or do you think they might resent the implication that they are no Plain and so look down on their raptures of his transmogrified Peony."

The next letter in the afternoon mail was from President T. Austin Bull of Kilminkine, inviting him to be the speaker at Presentation Day, in early May.

"If you can possibly afford the time, stay on for a few days and get a real rest here in the quiet while the lilacs are out and the thin green lines of young oaks look so prettily against the black earth."

A young Gid Planish was reborn and he exulted. "I'm going, and maybe I'm never coming back!"

NO, said Peony, Good Lord, no; she couldn't possibly leave her shorthand to go out to any Middle-western town, she didn't think the Bulls and that Teckla Schum, that Gid used to be so much in love with, cared so much for her; and mother were dead and she had lost track of all her dumb friends in that dumb Middle-west. Besides! She wasn't going to waste all these lovely new clothes that she was (partly) paying for out of her new salary on a bunch of farmers, not her!

But she insisted on their having a Real Time, a typical happy evening in New York, before he went West, and they had it, to the full splendor.

Not Colonel Marduc nor the chirping Descoza Wheyfish and certainly not the anxious Dr. Planish had ever had so much fun in the invisible empire of propaganda as Peony Planish.

The day you threw a party instead of buying a bond

It was the 26th of May, 1943.

To you, it was a heavenly Spring day that just had to be celebrated in some way. Besides, you were so bored with all the talk and headlines of war.

To our men on Attu, it was the fifteenth day of incessant fighting. That is, to those who had not been killed, or put out of action with wounds or frozen feet.

They hadn't slept for days; their sunburned faces ached; their heads and beards and wool-covered bodies itched; their feet were never dry. The dead lay all about them in the fog and snow—an occasional Jap, twisted grotesquely in death, over the body of an American.

But the biggest push of the battle was just ahead.

They had to attack a Jap-held plateau called the Bench, which meant scaling a steep cliff, in the face of continuous gunfire from the Japs, smugly entrenched on top. The final 25 yards were so steep, the soldiers had to drag themselves up by plunging their rifle butts into the snow.

The Japs lay quietly in wait, until our men were almost to the summit. Then, without rising from their fox holes, they rolled grenades down on them. Three times new groups of Americans scaled up the cliff—to be blown to eternity.

And suddenly—one American stood alone on the Bench. With his rifle pointed down, he walked deliberately from one fox hole to another, shooting into them with deadly accuracy. Impervious to the Jap grenades all about him, he went on, finally using his gun butt to bash the Japs as they trembled in their holes.

He was still bashing away when our troops finally reached him.

Asked later how he did it, he explained his best friend had been killed as they started up the slope and he didn't remember anything after that.

Asked by his Colonel what he wanted, he said since he'd been a Corporal so long, Sergeant's stripes would be nice.

He got his stripes and he's mighty gratified. He did not get an invitation to your party, but that's alright—he was too busy to attend.

Did you have a good time at your party?

Incidentally the price of that party would have bought an extra Bond. The 4th War Loan is now on. Every American is asked to put at least $100 extra into Bonds while this Drive is on. Not your regular Bond investing, but extra. $100 at least—or $200, $300, $500.

Let's all BACK THE ATTACK!
