

Dust Storm Resembling Old Days Hits West Texas

Pedestrians Most Affected In Pampa Area

A dust storm reminiscent of the famed era prior to 1936 left its mark throughout the Panhandle yesterday but Pampa, miraculously, escaped some of the worse effects felt by other Panhandle cities and towns as winds ranging up to 70 miles-per-hour lashed the entire north section of the state.

The fine silt blown from farm lands to the north and northwest settled over this area at sunrise yesterday morning, accompanied by winds reached an average velocity of 46 miles-per-hour, with gusts in the 60's and 70's. Low visibility was one mile.

Damage here, however, was confined to broken radio aerials, slight damage to one plane at the Municipal Airport and a general dry feeling in the lungs of unfortunate pedestrians.

Cecil Hudson, amateur radio operator who lives at 1600 Jordan, reported that his directional antenna on his amateur radio had been blown over with an unestimated amount of damage.

Herman Whitley, 312 West Brown, reported that his antenna was undamaged. "When the telephone poles start blowing over, that's when mine will," he said. Whitley's aerial is on two large "Black Diamond" poles.

A Cessna plane at the Municipal Airport was damaged when the wind caught the tail and whipped the plane around. Damage was estimated at $50 by Roy Webb, airport manager. No damage was reported at the Pampa Flying Service on South Hobart.

Around Pampa, little damage to crop lands was reported, although much of the dust came off plowed fields on the highway between the windmills or other structures being damaged was received.

Motorists traveling outside the Pampa area reported that clouds of dust off plowed fields made driving hazardous many times. Areas between Amarillo and Lubbock were the hardest hit with several smash-ups on the highway between the cities reported. Several persons were injured.

On the scientific side, Pampa reported a relative humidity of 19 degrees early this morning but the expected snow flurries either did not come or were too light to be noticed. "The mercury hung at a 60° in the morning, and the cold and colder weather was expected tonight with a high in the 70's."

Tornado Strikes At Alabama Town

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—(AP)—A tornado struck the northern edge of Montgomery today, and the Highway Patrol reported "several persons" injured. Another report, unverified, said "three or four" white persons and "several Negroes" had been killed but, the highway patrol said it had no confirmation.

All ambulances, highway patrol cars and police cars were rushed to the scene. The tornado struck Gunter Field on State Highway No. 11.

The storm missed the army post, a telephone operator at Gunter Field, who would not give his name, said some of the injured had been taken to the dispensary there, but that hospital attendants were "too busy" at the time to answer the telephone and the condition of the storm victims was not known.

Rising in from the southwest the tornado cut a path about a half-mile long and 200 yards wide through a community twine from the city limits.

Mrs. Mary Cast and her son whose name was not immediately available, were in their store along side the highway when the storm demolished the building. They were seriously injured.

Mrs. Kate Harbin said she was hurt at her home and was hurt when the roof caved in.

Bible Courses Are Explained by Jewett

Dr. Frank L. Jewett, of 41-year head of the Bible School, University of Texas, yesterday explained the Bible studies as held by the school to the Pampa Rotary Club during its regular meeting held in the Palm Room, City Hall.

Dr. Jewett, now retired, told the club that enrollment in the Bible courses have increased steadily every year.

Two vocal solos were given by Mrs. Shirley Norris accompanied by Charlotte Alston at the piano. A report on the inter-city meeting at Amarillo was given by Quentin Williams.

County Agent Ralph Thomas spoke briefly on the work of Junior Rotarian John Spearman. This was young Spearman's last meeting as a Junior Rotarian.

Irvin Cole, president of Rotary, had charge of the meeting.

REDS CUT U.S. RAILWAY WITHDRAWAL LINE

Speculation High As to Next Steps

SHANGHAI—(AP)—Communist forces in North China cut the vital Peiping-Tientsin railway today, shortly after the announcement that American military units are being withdrawn from China.

The Communists severed, temporarily at least, the route over which U.S. forces must withdraw from Peiping, site of the truce headquarters that will be abandoned with the end of America's long but futile peace efforts.

Associated Press Correspondent John Roderick reported from Tientsin that the railway link was cut at Weishanchuang, about midway between Tientsin and Peiping. Fighting still raged there.

Before the Communists attacked the government's rail artery, American authorities in Peiping discredited reports that the Communists might attack the city before U.S. Personnel left.

They asserted the Communists were too weak to take either Peiping or Tientsin, although they could delay or imperil the American withdrawal by damaging the railway—which is just what they did. However, such disruptions ordinarily can be quickly repaired.

It was the first serious Communist attack on the railway, which once was guarded by U. S. Marines, and was differed from the sniping and ambushes in which Marines were caught several times.

While both government and Communist leaders speculated over the effects of the departure of the Americans, informed sources in Nanking predicted that all Communist liaison offices in government territories would be closed with the possible exception of Nanking's.

They pointed out that government military commanders long had complained of the presence of top-notch Communists in Nanking, Shanghai and Chungking, where they were able to observe and report to Yenan.

Under terms of last year's agreement establishing mediation machinery, Secretary of State Marshall, then special U. S. envoy, pledged that the United States would return Communists from existing headquarters at Peiping, as well as liaison officers, to Communist territory.

Most of the high-ranking Communists probably will return to Yenan, the Communist capital. The transportation will be a big job for the thin U. S. Air Force remaining in China.

Withdrawal of the U. S. Marines, which American sources in Peiping said would follow the departure of the 1,000 Army and civilian personnel from Peiping quarters, will leave 2 OPA's public relations branch advised newsmen a rent ceiling order.

Drive Opens to Uphold Talmadge For Governorship

ATLANTA—(AP)—Talmadge leaders introduced in the Georgia Legislature today their first punitive legislation aimed at quelling official opposition to claims of Herman Talmadge of the disputed Governorship of Georgia.

The Bill would strip Georgia's Attorney General of his power to acquire into activities of public officials, and would force him to accept assistants named by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate.

The target is Attorney General Eugene Cook, who has refused to recognize Talmadge as Governor, and is representing Talmadge's rival, Lieut.-Gov. M. E. Thompson, a court action to unseat him.

Cook rejected two assistants nominated by Talmadge and accepted four others nominated by Thompson.

Meanwhile Talmadge publicly contumacious the House of Representatives, and the State Department, despite refusal of the State Treasurer to disburse funds to agencies with dual administration.

The Treasurer, George B. Hamilton, declined comment except to observe that while Talmadge Department heads were free to use funds now in their possession they could not be used to support Talmadge.

Plan to Hike Rent Termed Office 'Mix-Up'

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A short-lived OPA order that would have boosted rent ceilings 10 percent was chalked off by a high official today as simply a government agency "mix-up."

President Truman scotched the order the minute it "came to the attention of the White House," this official told a reporter, adding: "It seems to be quite definite there will be no across-the-board increase at this time."

The official, who would not permit use of his name, said the order went from Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming's office of temporary controls to OPA during Fleming's absence from the city.

But just how it happened is "still something of a mystery," the official said. He explained, however, that an order relating rent controls to benefit individual landlord "hardship" cases was being drawn up and that a 10 percent increase plan apparently got in the picture as a possible alternative.

At the end of the confusing chain of events the situation was that President Truman still hopes the government can hold the line on rent controls, but is leaving the decision to the public.

Joint Board May Fight Outbreak Of Dread Disease

WASHINGTON—(AP)—U. S. agriculture authorities were reported today considering proposals to establish a joint U. S.-Mexican Food and Mouth Disease Board to combat Mexico's outbreak of the dread influenza.

This was learned from well-informed government officials as the outbreak of the disease in Mexico, which is spreading rapidly, has become a national epidemic.

1. Governors of cattle-producing states.

2. Congressmen interested in the outbreak.

3. The Mexican government and private organizations affected by the potential threat that the disease might cross the U. S. border.

Informants in a position to know said the subcommittee of the joint U. S.-Mexican Agricultural Commission has submitted to the two governments recommendations for a two-nation board to be set up to study the Mexican outbreak.

These informants describe the subcommittee proposals this way: Under the recommendations, the board would be empowered with full authority for the planning, direction and execution of programs for the eradication of the disease in Mexico.

The subcommittee, which met in Mexico City, suggested that representatives of the board include veterinarians, livestock producers and businessmen.

The bi-national group proposed a widespread slaughtering program for animals in newly infected and directly exposed areas by immediate destruction.

This means, informants said, a widespread slaughtering program under supervision of U. S. and Mexican sanitation authorities would be begun whenever authorities agreed that it was necessary.

In addition, government officials said, the subcommittee urged that "immediate steps be taken to establish a joint U. S.-Mexican research organization" to study animals in the Mexican outbreak areas.

Government officials emphasized that the recommendations must be acted upon by the full joint commission, then approved by secretaries of agriculture of the two nations.

Italy Seeks Share in Writing German Treaty

LONDON—(AP)—Austria asked the Four-Power Conference of Deputy Foreign Ministers today to draft for her a peace treaty which could become a "Magna Carta" for Austrians rather than a burden.

Italy also presented an appeal to the conference, asking for a share in the writing of the German treaty in view of Italy's co-belligerency late in the war.

Deputies of the United States, Britain and France, meanwhile, appeared to be lined up against the Soviet Union's delegate, who seeks to allot strictly secondary roles to smaller nations in drafting the German peace treaty.

British sources said Austria put herself formally on the record against Yugoslav claims to the province of Carinthia by asking deputies for a democratic constitution, membership in the United Nations, early withdrawal of occupation troops and reestablishment of pre-war boundaries.

Italy's plea for a part in the writing of the German peace, was morally justified, her representative told the deputies, by contributions to the victory of the United Nations.

Ambassador Nicola Carandini, Italian representative in London, entered the plea in a note to the Big Four deputy foreign ministers, who are deliberating here on German treaty problems.

American sources said the note was likely to receive favorable consideration by the U. S. delegation. The attitude of Britain, France and the Soviet Union was not immediately determined, but some western officials suggested that Russia, firm with Italy during the Paris peace conference, was not likely to approve without a fight.

Carandini's note said the request was justified by the fact that Italy was in a state of war with Germany since Oct. 13, 1943, by "sacrifices of millions of people" during the war and by their contributions to the Allied cause.

It observed that the preamble of the Italy's own peace treaty recognized her war contributions and her status as a co-belligerent.

Carandini said the memorandum in Washington a model of the treaty in the rehabilitation of Europe, a problem in which it said Italy was vitally interested because of her geographical and political position.

Carandini said Italy would make known her views on the treaty by "sacrifices borne by the Italian people."

Therefore, the council said, it would be tragic for Congress to use the abnormal occurrences of 1946 as the basis for reorganizing by ill-considered and punitive legislation the whole system of free effective collective bargaining.

OPA Transient Room Control Nears End

Lifting of rent control over daily rates charged for transient rooms in hotels and motor courts will begin Feb. 15, Fred S. Brown, local rent control director, said today.

However, controls will be retained on rooms available to weekly or monthly guests under the present quota provision of the rent regulations.

Decurtain of transient rooms in individual hotels and motor courts will go into effect on or after that date as each establishment applies for decurtain and supplies the Office of Price Administration with a list of its permanent rooms, identified by room number or location.

Forms for decurtain will be available at the rent office after Feb. 1. Rooms houses are not in any way affected by the action, Brown added.

Chinese Passenger Flights Suspended

SHANGHAI—(AP)—All Chinese commercial passenger flights were suspended today by the Ministry of Communications pending an investigation into the mid-air explosion of an airliner near Hankow Tuesday, with 25 reported killed, and the disappearance of a second plane.

Three Motorists Pay Traffic Court Fines

Following up on the crack down on traffic violations, city police yesterday gave three motorists tickets for running through stop signs, and one for parking in an alley.

One stop sign runner was fined $3 last night while two were fined $1 each this morning before Corporation Judge Clifford Brady. Judge Brady also fined one man $1 for parking in an alley.

Four other motorists were arraigned on charges of intoxication before Judge Brady this morning. Three were assessed fines of $10 each and one $15.

Senior Officers Of Aggie Corps Resume Posts

COLLEGE STATION—(AP)—The situation created at Texas A and M College by the mass resignation of approximately 200 officers of the cadet corps appeared headed toward clarification today.

Senior officers of the corps voted last night to return to their military organizations and said they hoped to reassume their positions of authority.

In a statement issued after a closed meeting of the Senior Class they said they would ask that their commissions be restored "because we feel we owe a duty to constituted authority to carry out our duties as representatives of the U. S. Army. We will carry out the orders of the Military Authorities of the College."

They also expressed their appreciation for the cooperation of the Military Department of the school. The Dallas Morning News in a story signed by its correspondent Charles Burton said today that the officers voted "to return to their units and to ask for the resignation of the school head."

The News said "the decision to ask for Gibb Gilchrist's resignation came in the form of a motion reported to have been passed by a large majority in the closed session."

Such a resolution was not mentioned in the statement the Seniors issued after the meeting. Officials of the school declined last night to comment on the report.

In their statement the Seniors said that they had drafted 12 proposals which they felt would give them more voice in student government and hoped college officials would act favorably on them.

The proposals included a request that the Cadet Officers be granted more voice in issuing orders to the corps. Senior privileges for Freshmen and two weeks advance notice of impending changes in major regulations.

They also asked for a change in the system of selecting faculty panels to try students charged with major infractions of college rules, and a Senior court to try cases of a minor nature, and that no military officer be housed in student dormitories.

Other requests were for the privilege of keeping the present uniform if desired by a majority vote, that Seniors be given the right to try Cadet Officers accused by college authorities, removal of threats to deprive Cadet Officers of advanced ROTC contracts, that extra military drill be permitted if Company Commanders deem it necessary and early removal of all Freshmen students from the A and M College in excess of 2000.

President Gibb Gilchrist, who returned late yesterday from a trip to Houston, conferred with a group of Seniors, including Bill McCormick, president of the class; Cadet Colonel Ed Brandt of Houston and other officers.

Local Motorists Warned by Chief

Chief Lonie Allen yesterday warned all motorists of a crack down on traffic violators, and that tickets for offenses will be given to anyone caught going through a red light, failing to stop at stop signs, running the yellow light, surging on red without coming to a complete stop, passing school bus that is taking on or discharging passengers, speeding, exceeding the speed limit at, or near, a school district, and making U turns in the middle of a block.

People who violate these laws are practically taking some one's life into their own hands," Allen said. "We have had a great increase in the amount of petty accidents some of which could have been worse than they were, mostly from these violations," Allen concluded.

Man Fined $200 On Liquor Charge

Tommy Stroud, 31, Alva, Okla., was fined $200 plus cost in County Court yesterday morning, after entering a plea of "guilty" to charges of transporting liquor without a permit. Stroud's wife, who was also arrested, and charged with "carrying a concealed weapon," was found "not guilty."

Stroud and his wife were arrested Friday night by Liquor Control Board Agent Bill Money, approximately two miles northwest of Pampa. In addition to the fine, five cases of liquor which were recovered and Stroud's car were confiscated for public sale by the Liquor Control Board.

Money told, in testimony, of following the couple to several different liquor stores in town, where they purchased a case of liquor from each store. He also told of following them to the place where they hid part of the whiskey.

Mrs. Stroud denied knowing that the concealed weapon she was charged with carrying a .25-caliber automatic pistol, was in her purse. At his trial her husband stated that he had put the weapon there two or three days ago without her discovering it.

Love Has Two Faces

By Irene Lonnen Ernhart

Copyright, 1947,
NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Cassie Fletcher is the main support of her family and feels such a burden of responsibility toward them that she turns down Mike (argill's) proposal of marriage, even though she is in love with him. When Len, her spoiled 17-year-old sister, and wealthy Lon Cavendish try to slope, they are headed off by Mike and Parker Hamilton, a friend of Len's. The next day Len vows she'll get even. Parker Hamilton brings Cassie a note for Len from Lon.

VIII
CASSIE never knew what Len had said in the note, but Len didn't cry any more. There was instead an air of secret satisfaction about her, when she wasn't playing the role of martyr. Mama bawled her worse than ever, catering to every whim within reason, and Cassie did her best to keep peace in the family.

It was her own secret, about Mike. A terrible aching secret. The last week in August was Cassie's vacation. She decided to spend the time shopping for Len's school clothes, and Sid's, and to try to fix the house up some. Len wanted new sweaters and skirts. That's what all the girls were wearing. She told Cassie she'd like a good dress for the holidays, something nice, velvet, even maybe, appropriate to wear dancing. And some good shoes, too. Those things could wait, though. Cassie knew what it meant. Christmas Lon would be in Mortonville. That was likely what he'd promised in the note, and that was what kept Len contented.

School started, and Cassie had a start of relief, because it took Sid off the streets, and Leni would be busy.

It was one November day, close to Thanksgiving, a windy raw day with an occasional sharp sting of rain in the air, that she ran into Parker Hamilton again.

She had on a new brown hat, high-crowned and sleek, tilted rakishly over one eye, and her hair grown long now was brushed into a soft, shining sheath. You had to keep up a good appearance when you worked in the Cavendish building.

She came out of the elevator in a hurry, wanting to get a bus before the crowds came from the stores. She ran squarely into a tall man, and when she looked up, aware of the smell of tweed and tobacco and expensive cologne, he grinned.

"Hello there, spitfire," he said. He took her elbow and led her aside from the crowd.

His shy but infectious grin brought an answering upward tilt to her own mouth. If she had been unbearably rude to him he had evidently forgotten, or decided to ignore it.

"Do you work here?" "I wondered if I wouldn't run into you somewhere again. I gave you a quizical examination, "I rather wanted to—in spite of—well—"

"I'm sorry I was so unpleasant," Cassie said. "It's nice seeing you again." "Wait. Wait a minute." He touched her arm again. "How about letting me drive you home. It's such a bad day. Raining."

"It isn't raining now," Cass said, looking out. "But it will at any moment." Her laughter mingled with his and he took her arm.

It was rather nice, having a man hand you into a fine car, someone like Parker Hamilton, so that people looked with respectful curiosity, and the other girls from the Cavendish building going along the street stared enviously.

"How's Len?" He started the car. "Fine." She noted that his face was very tanned. Her own summer tan had almost disappeared by now. His hands on the wheel were brown, long, strong-looking hands.

"The Cavendish family is coming to Mortonville for Christmas, I think." Maybe he was aware of her faint stiffening, for he added, "Maybe I shouldn't have mentioned it. Has Leni heard from him?"

"Once or twice, I think." She wanted to think of something to say. It was queer—if took a chance encounter like this with someone she almost disliked, to make her realize how lonely she'd been lately.

"Have you been away?" she asked. "You look so tanned." "Oh that." He laughed. "I spend a lot of time on the farm we own up the river. I fished all of October, and then we've got some bird dogs I like to take out for a run now and then. There's been some repair work done on the house too, and I had to supervise that. Nothing for me to do around the bank while Dad's still active, you know. Finances and stuff bore me stiff, anyhow."

"It must be nice to be rich!" It was out before Cassie knew it, a sarcastic, cutting statement.

"Nice?" He gave her a long straight look. "Oh, I don't know. It isn't so nice to have no purpose in life, nothing to look forward to. No—well—no nothing."

"I suppose not." At least, she was thinking, it was pleasant not to have to grub all day in a stuffy office, punching a typewriter, writing dull business letters, and then go home to more dullness. It was fine also to look well dressed —to have that effortless look of quality!

He interrupted her thoughts. "Let's don't quarrel again, please!" She said nothing. They were on Carson street and it had started to rain again, the wind blowing raw and wild, whipping through the bare trees, whipping off a few last brown leaves, sailing them through the air.

"Could I see you again, Cassie?" He asked suddenly, as he parked the car in front of the house. He turned toward her, and there was something hungry in his face that stopped the negative answer on the tip of her tongue.

Jack Doyle, Retired Engineer, Succumbs

Jack Doyle, 74, a resident of Pampa for 11 years, died in a local hospital yesterday after a short illness.

A retired mining engineer, Doyle was a graduate of the Pennsylvania School of Mines and a member of the Masonic Lodge.

He is survived by a brother, Mike of Pampa, and a niece, Mrs. Erma, Tollebaugh, Kersey, Colo.

Funeral services will be conducted from the Duenkel-Carmichael Chapel tomorrow afternoon at four o'clock with the Rev. Grady Adcock, pastor of the Harrah Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery.

der would be forthcoming soon.

3. Something over an hour later OPA called off its announcement.

4. Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said the White House correspondents to his office and told them the President, advised of the reported increase, declared that he had not authorized it.

Rent ceilings, which have been frozen in many parts of the country since May, 1942, affect some 16,000,000 houses and apartments sheltering 60,000,000 people.

OPA has estimated that a 10 percent boost in these rents would cost the tenants $576,000,000 a year and jack up the cost of living index 1.3 percent.

gradually rising temperatures tomorrow.

Elsewhere, according to the Associated Press, dust was still visible as far south as Austin but most of the state reported only a dusty odor in the air.

The weather remained clear and cool over the state today, with Brownsville at the extreme tip of the state reporting a high of 66 this morning.

While snow flurries were striking a few points in the state, many parts of the nation were shivering under blasts of snow and sleet, while a tornado hit Southern Missouri and Northern Arkansas, killing at least five persons and injuring 14. Another tornado struck at Montgomery, Ala.

Temperatures dropped to zero in Minnesota, while Outlook, Mont., sometimes considered America's own North Pole, reported 17 degrees below zero.

There still will remain the Navy's training school in Tsingtao and the military advisory group in China, both small. Either could pull out easily on orders from Washington.

There still was no official comment, either from the government or the Communists, on the announcement of the end of U. S. mediation efforts made yesterday.

The nearest thing to it was a statement handed out by the Ministry of Information in Nanking with Chiang Kai-shek's approval.

It said that the government had no course but to continue its "political democratization" with the assistance of minority parties because the Communists were refusing to reopen negotiations.

Georgia's White Primary Bill, a bid for the total exclusion of Negro voters from Democratic primaries which constitute the decisive balloting in this state, moved over to the state Senate today after receiving a thumping two-to-one approval in the House.

Senate action on the measure is not expected until next week, after a committee appointed to study similar measures in other states has reported on Monday.

Taking its vote late in the afternoon after almost seven hours of continuous debate, the House approved the bill yesterday by a vote of 133 to 62.

The bill will divest the state of any control over party primaries, leaving them to the parties themselves as "private organizations" which proponents say legally can set their own membership qualifications. It is a studied effort to bypass a U. S. Supreme Court decision that Negroes can not be barred from primaries recognized by state law.

The President probably will be with the fleet a couple of days, Ross said, although plans have not been completely worked-out.

"He's going if circumstances permit," Ross said. "There is a tentative trip—to the Caribbean—in view." Ross had no information when a reporter asked if the President would stop at New Orleans on his way down to Mexico City. The secretary was inclined to believe this trip may be a non-stop flight.

At the time of the Baptist controversy, the District Baptist Conference in Washington took issue with their Texas colleagues and adopted a resolution assuring the President of their "earnest and continuous prayers."

Ross would not say whether Mr. Truman will vacation aboard the presidential yacht Williamsburg, after witnessing the fleet maneuvers.

A possibility arose that Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder would be ranking executive in this country during at least part of the President's absence, since Secretary of State George C. Marshall is due in Moscow March 10 for the four-power Foreign Ministers Conference.

Agreement Averts Transit Strike

FORT WORTH—(AP)—Company and union representatives reached an agreement late last night which averted a strike of Texas Motor Coach Drivers set for 4 a. m. today.

The owners of the bus company and the negotiating committee of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, which represented the drivers agreed in direct negotiations to a wage increase which will pay the drivers 5 1-3 cents per mile, or $1.25 a day increase for a regular bus run. Formerly the drivers were paid 4 1/2 cents a mile. The new pay schedule is retroactive to Dec. 16.

Both sides expressed satisfaction with the settlement.

WE, THE WOMEN

Children Shouldn't Touch Dad's Things

By RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer

Is it wrong for a husband to complain when children are not taught to respect their father's rights to privacy in matters pertaining to his desk and tools? In our home many arguments have been centered about this question. The result has not been satisfactory in any sense of the word.

So writes a man who goes on to explain: "I believe that an injustice is being done these children by not teaching them to recognize the rights of others.

"Like a good many other dads, I dislike to have my children thumbing through my desk, but on the other hand I do wish there were some adequate means of convincing their mother and them that what I ask is not exceptionally difficult or selfish."

"This complaint is so frequently made by men that there must be many other American fathers who have the same trouble. And certainly they have a right to complain if they can't have any privacy of possessions in their own homes.

It usually happens like this: The mother, being busy, finds it too much trouble when the children are small to name a few un-touchable objects and make the ruling stick. So the kids get in the habit of taking over everything in the house.

Or Mama, is perhaps, the kind who thinks her little darlings should have whatever they want, and if Papa insists on a "hand-off" policy about his own belongings she considers him a cantankerous, selfish fellow.

SIDE WITH PAPA

The kids quickly get that idea, too. And even if they do respect Dad's orders to let his things alone they don't learn respect for the property of others. They think they are just conforming to the demands of a cranky father.

Women are foolish to go along with the kids instead of siding with their father in this matter. A home loses a lot of its appeal to the man who has to act like a dictator to get his most simple, fundamental rights.

'Our Youth' Theme Of Progressive Club

McLEAN—(Special)—The Progressive Club met Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Louella Stokes for re-election of officers and a program on "Our Youth" led by Mrs. Marian Bentley as leader, assisted by Mrs. Ruth Hindman.

All officers were re-elected as follows: Mrs. Fern Hibler, president; Mrs. Johnnie Villa Rogers, vice president; Mrs. Ruth Kemp secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Naomi McCarty, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Minnie Haynes, parliamentarian; Mrs. Marian Bentley, reporter; and Mrs. Louella Stokes, Federation Councilor. Seventh District president is Mrs. Icie Harrah, Pampa; state president, Mrs. Florence J. Scott; and General Federation president, Mrs. Lucy Dickinson.

The president, Mrs. Hibler, gave a talk on advancements with the school and town.

Date cake, with whipped cream and coffee, was served to Mesdames Hibler, Bentley, Hindman, Stokes, Haynes, Naomi McCarty, Marietta McCarty, Imogene Glass, Dorothy Beck, Tressie Mantooth, Jewel Montgomery, and Doris Zuppan, and Mrs. Eula Faye Stokes, visitor.

Pastor Begins New Series of Messages At Central Baptist

"The People's Power Night" at the Central Baptist Church each Wednesday night at 8:15 continues to draw an interest.

Special music is furnished by the youth of the church who make up the choir for these services. Much new talent is being discovered and used.

Rev. Rudolph O. Harvey has received an overwhelming response and endorsement at the beginning of a new series of messages that will cover the entire Bible, Book by Book. He is bringing these messages that each individual might have a better understanding of the Bible, and of its value to each life, home, church, and nation. The first message, "Man's Way Down" was taken from Genesis. The message for Feb. 4 will be "Man's Way Out," and each member and visiting friend is urged to study the Book of Exodus for this service.

Everyone that is not attending church is cordially invited to attend.

Rhinehart-Carmichael Wedding Rites Jan. 24

MIAMI—(Special)—Miss Jean Rhinehart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Rhinehart, of Iraan, Texas, became the bride of Jack C. Carmichael, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Carmichael, of Miami in a double-ring ceremony performed at 7:30 Friday evening, Jan. 24, in the home of the bride's parents.

Rev. J. T. Lancaster, pastor of the Iraan Methodist Church performed the ceremony.

The home was beautifully decorated with carnations and fern. The bride wore a royal blue gabardine suit with black accessories and carried a white Bible topped with an orchid corsage. She was attended by Mrs. J. L. Young, who wore a green wool suit and a corsage of pink carnations. James Jolly, uncle of the bride, was best man.

An informal reception followed the ceremony with Mrs. James Jolly, aunt of the bride, presiding at the coffee service. The three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom, was served by Mrs. T. M. McNeil, also an aunt of the bride.

Mrs. Carmichael is a graduate of the Iraan High School and is attending Texas Tech College at Lubbock. The bridegroom is a graduate of Miami High School and is a student at Texas Tech, since he was discharged from the Navy where he served in the Medical Corps for about 3 years.

After a short wedding trip the couple will be at home in Lubbock.

Teen Age Marshall Boy Two Year Choir Veteran

By GARTH JONES Associated Press Staff Handsome and blond Don Rives casually penned his autograph for a giggling college girl and waved her to one side for his next feminine fan. Don is the 12-year-old second soprano for the Apollo Boys' Choir. He's been doing this for two years now. "I rather like it," Don remarked, glancing around at the usual crowd down upon the juvenile chorists after each performance. Don is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Rives of Marshall, Texas. Two years ago his music teacher got him an audition with the choir and he made good. He also plays the piano and violin. "It's all very nice now but I don't know if I will stick with it," Don remarked as he signed the back of a program. Most of the boys stay with the choir from two to three years. Sometimes their voices change. Sometimes it's missing teeth. "Choral work in the classic manner is the only thing," Don believes. "You know, with a symphony orchestra accompaniment." The choir is directed and trained by Coleman Cooper in Dallas. He got his training methods from the Vienna Boys' Choir. The choir has made numerous appearances with symphony orchestras and ensembles throughout Texas. They recently returned from a New York tour. "You know, I have a brother. He's

School Notes From Canadian

By POLLY WARD Worried faces and quiet study halls were something new in CHS last week as mid-term exams were held Thursday and Friday. Students with a 90 average in a subject were not required to take the test, but the majority of the pupils have been "burning the midnight oil" reviewing for their tests. The last home game in basketball this season will be next Tuesday. The Canadian boys will play Perryton and the Allison girls' team is coming to play the Canadian girls. Both teams coming are considered the two outstanding teams of this season, and a good crowd is expected. The boys' district basketball play will be held here Feb. 13-14-15. The district Boy Scout leader of Pampa will give the assembly in high school and junior high next Thursday. The public is invited. The cast for the faculty play has been selected, and the practice will start next week. The play, "Cyclone Sally," is a royalty play and has over 5,000 productions to its credit. It is a comedy and one of the leading plays of the stage world. Mrs. Cullers died here Tuesday. Burial was in Ringgold, Texas, under the direction of Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home. German V-2 robot bombs were taller than a four-story building.

Tug-of-War Starts in Texas House Over Adjournment

By DAVE CHEAVENS Associated Press Staff AUSTIN—The pulling and hauling has started between legislators who want to get the job done with dispatch, and those who want to stay around. It is not a new situation in legislative history, but in the current session it started earlier than anyone can remember. The session was hardly a week old before Rep. Claude Gilmer of Rock Springs came up with a resolution setting the final adjournment date for May 13. Although the matter was tabled in the House, there are ways of reviving it. A determined group of House members will see to it that the folks back home are constantly reminded that one segment of the yawning body wants to hold the length of the session inside the 120-day limit. While nothing has been said in the Senate about final adjournment, that body has given evidence it wants to get through and go home. More important legislation was introduced early in the Senate this session than ever before in the history of the Legislature. Committees were appointed immediately and public hearings were set on controversial bills. One senator was heard to complain bitterly, but privately, that he has been kept so busy that he hasn't had time to look for a house. "It probably doesn't matter," he added. "At the rate we're going, we'll be back in the old home town before I can get my family moved." The last general session, which has already gone down in the books of some recorders of legislative history as "the fumbling session" because of its numerous costly miscues and invalidated acts, did not even have the virtue of quitting on time. It ran from Jan. 9 to June 5, a total of 148 days. This was the second longest general session in history. The longest general session came during the second term of W. Lee O'Daniel as Governor. It was the 47th in 1941. This session started Jan. 14 and ran through July 2, a total of 171 days. The 48th Legislature lasted exactly 120 days. The constitutionally suggested length of a general session is 120 days. Members of the House and Senate are paid $10 a day for their services to the state for that long; after that it drops to $5 a day. Prior to 1921, the constitutionally suggested length of the session was 60 days and there were more special sessions. There has not been a special session since Coke Stevenson's first and last in 1941. That one ran from Sept. 9 through Sept. 19. It passed two laws—the County Bond Act and an appropriation bill for its own expenses. Stevenson held out firmly in the face of numerous and repeated demands for wartime special sessions on numerous subjects including soldier voting and old age pensions. There were no special sessions during O'Daniel's administration. The largest number of called sessions came during Dan Moody's tenure—there were three in 1929 and two in 1930. It should be noted that this was prior to adoption of the amendment setting the suggested length of the regular session at 120 days. Gov. Beauford H. Jester may not be as averse as his two immediate predecessors to calling special sessions. Gilmer, arguing for his May 13 adjournment resolution, told the House that the new Governor informed him he would call a special session if the Legislature has not completed its must business before May 13.

Gracie Reports

By GRACIE ALLEN Well, I see that the population of Egypt has risen from a little over a million in 1907 to eighteen million now. Which must be upsetting our California Chamber of Commerce. We've added quite a few people in the past 40 years almost depopulating the farms of Iowa in the process—but we can't match that rate of increase. It's hard to understand what advantages Egypt can have over us. I've never heard of Egyptian oranges. Egyptian bathing beauties or Egyptian old-age pension plans, and they don't have an annual football game in the Sphinx Bowl. Once they attracted some pretty important visiting celebrities like Julius Caesar and Mark Antony. But the lady they went to see doesn't live there any more. Maybe the secret of Egypt's growth is transportation. Maybe people would rather live where they can go see the Pyramids on a nice new camel than where they have to struggle past the home of Lana Turner in a pre-war jalopy. The Liberty Bell, in Philadelphia, is 12 feet in circumference around the rim and 7 1/2 feet around the crown. The bell weighs 2000 pounds.

Leaves From a Correspondent's Life Note Book

By HAL BOYLE NEW YORK — (AP) — The rain falls. Under a darkening sky Manhattan's timeless towers turn into menacing titans formless as nightmares. The lights wink on slowly and the night crouches back like a startled cat from the friendly sky-scrabbers. The rain falls. It shines the dull gray streets and turns the leviathan of cities into a wet and tumorous world. Neon signs throw a mystic glow against the lowmassed clouds like a crimson prelude to the end of the world. An exciting sense of anything-can-happen runs through the town. The rain falls. Home-bound stenographers skitter and squeal across the splashy streets. The subways mass with damp flesh and every neighbor has a woolly smell. Vapor fogs bus windows and the drivers get a tired rasp in their voice as they tell the dripping customers to move back farther in the car where there is always supposed to be more room. Some day when the rain is heavy a bus driver will go mad and say, "Move up in front please everybody." The rain falls. Sick old people in hospitals look out at the misty emptiness and make up their minds to die. And lonely men and women in hotel rooms stare vacantly and live in days gone by. Young people with both feet in the future because they have nothing to stand on in the present call each other on the phone and make plans and compromises. And middle-aged widows with bunched hair who work all day behind department store sales counters limp heedlessly toward their boarding houses on tired feet. They hope this night at least the small electric heater will warm a hall-room stoddy with lost hopes. The rain falls. Newsies drag in soaked papers no one will ever buy. The ink of unread headlines smudges their crumpled hands. Cops on beats ponder why they didn't become bartenders. Along the Bowery the ragged men nobody knows hold out empty palms and grab at raindrops with hands of failure. Along Park Avenue the tenants of the temples of power gaze down upon the changing traffic lights. Emerald and ruby necklaces of an ordered world where the heat never falls. And the rain never falls.

Rio Grande Fruit Is Packed for Export

McALLEN—(AP)—Citrus fruit provided by a number of shipping firms in the Rio Grande Valley is being loaded aboard the first four vessels at Brownville this week for Texas' first post-war sale of fruit to England. Valley packers are delivering the fruit on a pro-rata basis, said officials of the Texas Citrus and Vegetable Growers and Shippers Association. The North Pacific ocean isn't menaced by icebergs since the narrow Bering Strait serves as a bottleneck to keep them from drifting south as they do in the Atlantic.

65TH BIRTHDAY The 1947 March of Dimes of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis draws to a close today on the 65th anniversary of the birth of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, founder of the Foundation. During the past nine years March of Dimes funds have written an ever-growing volume of service to infantile paralysis victims. Scientific research into means of curing or preventing infantile paralysis has been placed on a continuous and productive basis. The March of Dimes has made all this possible—thanks to the generosity of the American people. The dimes and dollars you contribute to the 1947 March of Dimes will help win the victory.

STUDY STEWARDSHIP PANHANDLE — (Special) — A good crowd was present Sunday evening at the Methodist Church for a continuation of their Stewardship study. Rules Group Will Convene At Dana X. Bible's Ranch

Austin—(AP)—The National football rules committee, augmented by three advisory groups, assembled here today preparatory to adjourning to Kerrville, 120 miles west of Austin, for a three-day session during which time the gridiron code will be studied for possible changes.

It is the first time in history for the rules group to meet in Texas and it is being done to honor D. X. Bible, athletic director of the University of Texas, who is rounding out 25 years as a member.

Bible will be host to the meeting at Camp Mystic, his summer home near Kerrville.

Business will be combined with pleasure as Bible gives his visitors a round of entertainment which includes a lunch visit and chuck wagon dinner tomorrow, rodeo Saturday and open house and barbecue dinner Sunday. Business sessions of the committee will be held in the morning and afternoon, and there will be a press conference at which time the committee will announce any rule changes. Only a few minor ones are up for consideration. These include bringing the ball in 20 yards instead of 15 from the sidelines, a liberalized substitution rule and restrictions on the so-called "running back" rule.

Among the first arrivals was Lou Little, coach of Columbia who is a member of the coaches advisory group.

Dudley, Packers Take Grid League Rushing Laurels

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
NEW YORK—(AP)—For the first time since 1938 the T-Formation has taken a back seat in the national football league.

In announcing officially today that the Green Bay Packers topped the best yardage total on rushing plays and Bill Dudley of Pittsburgh was the No. 1 ball-carrier, league headquarters merely confirmed a couple of facts known to the fans since the season closed.

But the 1946 season was the first in eight years in which a team employing the T-Formation failed to top the circuit in yardage gained on the ground.

The Packers, whose attack is built around what coach Curly Lambeau calls the "cock-eyed Notre Dame" system, piled up 1,765 yards on 560 rushing plays to nose out the champion Chicago Bears by 46 yards.

The Packers' delegation to the league's ground-gaining chores to Ted Fritsch and Tony Canadeo. This pair, operating under variations of the old Notre Dame system, carried the ball 246 times between them and accounted for 620 yards of the Packers' total.

Dudley, who quit the Steelers to return to the University of Virginia as backfield coach, topped the leading individual total chiefly to the fact he carried the ball 146 times, 40 more than any other player.

After plugging a B-29 in the Pacific, Dudley came back last season to cover 604 yards on the ground and regain the title he won in his season in the league in 1942.

Scandal Turned To New Boss

DURHAM, N. C.—(AP)—Judge William C. Bramham, having accepted five suspended players in the Evangeline League of gambling, conspiring to throw games, spending part of their time as bookmakers and even fleeing to other states, today dropped the minor league baseball scandal into the lap of his successor.

As a parting shot, the retiring president-treasurer of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, turned over to the new minor league czar, George M. Trautman, a lengthy report on his investigation into what he termed the "very, very bad" condition in the class D circuit.

The report, made to association members, contains allegations that players—some of them allegedly former New Orleans bookmakers—throw games according to their bets. The report is frequently punctuated with statements by the players denying the charges.

Homer Norton's Fate Will Be Decided by Council Saturday

Carver Cagers Play Here Tonight

COLLEGE STATION—(AP)—What will be done about the coaching situation at Texas A. and M. College will be answered Saturday as Homer Norton faces his second test with the alumni in ten years.

The athletic council will meet and Chairman C. W. Crawford said "We will make our recommendations to the Board of Directors who in turn will make his report to the board of directors of the school." But whether there will be any immediate announcement of the council's findings is not known since Crawford said he would not make details of the report public but that they "will be in the president's hands."

Rumblings of discontent started among the ex-students before the last football season ended. It reached its "low-down stage" last week when the executive committee of Ex-Students Association sent to the athletic council a resolution stating that "it has become evident that Mr. Norton, though he has lost the confidence of the ex-students and thus no longer can bring full satisfaction to Texas A. and M. We recommend early action to be taken to relieve Mr. Norton from his official duties as head coach and athletic director."

Norton has a contract with more than $100,000 for the next two years from the ex-student executive committee was that immediate action be instituted either to retain Norton or make final settlement on his contract.

The Ex-Student Association made a similar recommendation in 1938, asking dismissal after the Aggies had experienced a dismal season, but the council did not follow the recommendation and in 1939 Norton produced an undefeated, untied team that was acclaimed national champion. In 1940 the team tied for the Southern Conference championship and in 1941 won it again. Last season the Aggies won four games while losing six. They haven't defeated arch-rival Texas since 1934.

Norton had no comment to make on the situation other than that "I'm surprised at what has been done" and pointing to his record. This record includes a sum to the athletic department treasury estimated at one-half million dollars over a period of 13 years.

Norton recently has been mentioned in connection with the coaching position at the University of California.

High School Tourney Scheduled in Dallas

DALLAS — (AP)—The State High School Invitation Golf Tournament, sponsored by Highland Park High School, which was suspended during the war will be revived this spring.

C. D. Bowley, vice principal and golf director of the school, said the tournament would be held April 22 through 26.

Greenberg Ready To Talk Contract

NEW YORK—(AP)—Sluggish Hank Greenberg says he plans to meet with officials of the Pittsburgh Pirates within a day or two to discuss the terms of his 1947 contract.

The former Detroit Tiger star who drew $55,000 while leading the American League in runs batted in and homers last year expects to talk with General Manager Roy Hamey of the Bucs who will be here for the major league's baseball meetings tomorrow and Saturday.

Olivia De Havilland Most Sought After Hollywood Actress

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Popularity and with movie producers these days is Olivia De Havilland, due to her Academy Award potentialities. She says she read 5 scripts in 24 hours and 15 in one week. "I still haven't found anything she likes," she is looking for a warm romantic story with the same feeling, but without the aging aspect of "To Each His Own."

Another alumna who won't be returning to Burbank is Joan Leslie, even though Warner has tied to lure her back with the plum of the Marilyn Miller biography. "I studied four years for that role and didn't get it," she tells me, "and I'm not going back."

Two personal productions are scheduled to roll again this week. "Arch of Triumph," which started last July, will resume tomorrow following Charles Boyer's illness. The episode "A Miracle Can Happen" gets under way later this week now that Jimmy Stewart and Henry Fonda can be carried for their sequence. It has been shooting off and on for almost a year.

A new development in the local "Duel in the Sun" banning is section of 400 Catholic high school students in escheving all films for a month. As always happens, one considerable film hurts the whole industry. The Seiznick office claims the blame should rest with the production code authorities, who okayed every part of the picture.

Joan Blondell finished "The Corpse Came C. O. D." and left with her two children for New York. She'll take the Queen Mary for England where she'll make a movie and return in four months.

Deanna Durbin recovered from the flu and will start "For the Love of Mary" recordings this week. Studios don't usually splurge hard-to-get color film, but 20th-Fox did on the test of Jane Harvey, Dest Arnes' vocalist. She must be good.

Tyrone Power may be dating Lana Turner in Mexico now, but he was seeing Ann Dvorak before Lana went south of the border.

The steamboat was invented by Robert Fulton.

Green, Bridges Buy Into Abilene Club

Adam Walsh Heading For Little Bodwin

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Adam Walsh resigned recently as coach of the pro Los Angeles Rams, will return to Bowdoin College as head and coach.

Walsh said he plans to leave Los Angeles in about a month for Brunswick, Maine, to rejoin the school where he coached from 1935 through 1944.

Campaign on to Beat Ben Hogan at Tucson

TUCSON—(AP)—Leading golfers of the country swung into the $10,000 Tucson open today with something like a "Beat Hogan" campaign gathering momentum on the fairway.

The slogan around the El Rio Country Club epitomized how matters stand among followers of the winter golf circuit. It was simply "Beat Hogan and win yourself a reputation."

Hogan didn't participate in the pro-amateur match yesterday but he managed to bet in 12 holes of golf after his return from a Los Angeles radio appearance with Jimmy Demaret, of Houston.

Evans Named Head Coach at College

VICTORIA, TEX.—(AP)—Hester Evans, assistant football coach and head basketball coach of Victoria High School for the past eleven years, has been named football and basketball coach of Victoria Junior College.

Evans, who has coached football and basketball for the past eleven years, has been named football and basketball coach of Victoria Junior College.

THE LESSON OF UNIFICATION

The unification plan for our armed forces and the events leading up to it offer an example which the world's governments might observe with profit. For the compromise which finally emerged was an achievement that the nations someday must consciously strive for—an organization structure that promises security and peace through a limited surrender of sovereignty.

There was a basic similarity between the feelings of the Army and Navy and those of the wartime Allies. Under threat of defeat they joined forces with admirable spirit, mutual respect and singleness of purpose. But before and after that threat was present, their attitudes were decidedly different.

Many high officers of each service regarded the other branch with jealousy and suspicion which matched the viewpoints expressed during the least admirable moments of postwar Big Three relations. Secretiveness was the order of the day, and with it an obvious inclination to exaggerate the errors and shortcomings of the rival service and the virtues of one's own.

It took many months of quiet, patient, hard work to break down the walls of sovereign pride which surrounded the two services. But they finally gave way before the combined forces of logic and experience. Victory and defeat taught the same lesson—that to remain isolated and uncooperative in the face of danger is to invite disaster.

When the compromise result was revealed, the sacrifices which each service made seem scarcely important enough to have warranted all the heat that apparently was generated in reaching it. Both Army and Navy retained their internal sovereignty. Tradition, pride and morale seem untouched by the change. None of their former distinctions is abolished.

The Army gave up control of its Air Forces, to be sure. But it would have been folly in the light of air power's contribution to victory, and greater folly in the light of air power's future role, to deny this mighty arm of defense a separate budget, admiration and development unhampered by the overlapping authority of grudging, ground-minded officers.

All that has really happened under unification is that organization and planning are integrated in the interest of greater safety.

The U. S. decision to withdraw troops and abandon mediation as a means of arriving at Chinese unity may put more pressure than ever on the contending factions there.

In Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

(Johnson Heard on KPDM Monday Through Friday, 2 P. M.)
HOLLYWOOD—While idol-worshipping Hollywood gets ready to kneel in reverence before the great Oscar in the forth-coming Academy Awards, let's pause a moment today and honor the unheralded movie champions of 1946—those folks, and things, you never heard of who accomplished so much for what eventually showed up in your neighborhood theater.

PLENTY OF CANDIDATES
It was an idea right down Bill's alley. So here they are:
1. The statue on the church clock tower that sent Orson Welles to his death in "The Stranger."
2. The straight-edge razor wielded by Gregory Peck in "Spellbound."
3. The woman's scarf that kept Edmund O'Brien on the trail of "The Killers."
4. The key to Claude Rains' wine cellar in "Notorious."
5. The bottle that tempted dropping a method of procedure which failed to work.

NEWS NOTEBOOK
WASHINGTON—(NEA) — When President Harry S. Truman was just a senator and chairman of the War Investigating Committee, he appeared one day with counsel at the gate of the Hanford Ore atom-splitting and plutonium plant. He told the guard at the gate that his committee wanted to know what was going on inside. But, under strict government orders the guard said she couldn't go in. "Tell me," said the senator finally, "what are they making in there?" The guard looked around to see that no one was watching. Then he whispered into the senator's ear the secret answer, "Bubble gum."

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

Common Ground

By R. C. HOILES

Challenge To The Churches
I want to quote from statements made in Truth Magazine under the heading of "Challenge to Churches." Truth is a magazine that is 140 years old. It is published in London. The magazine is published about the people in London still celebrating Christmas but departing so far from the principles taught by the person Christmas is intended to commemorate.

FREE—A Supreme Court decision against Mr. Lewis and the U. M. W. will settle nothing, according to this viewpoint, because the mines must remain in the hands of private operators, despite vagrant demands for nationalization in the near future.

POLITICS—The political repercussions will redound to a ruling for Lewis. Lewis is enormously in favor of the Democrats and the Truman Administration. Only belatedly have the Hannegans come to realize that fact.

And let's not forget those folks you never heard of.
There's Gobo Gloeckenspiel, electrician.
Gobo's work keeps him high in the catwalks of the studio sound stages, pointing his light at the stars below. He's watched movie-making from above for so many years that he recognizes stars by their cowlicks.

And some kind of an Oscar should go, too, to Bonsable Black, the maintenance man.
It's his job to clean up the set between takes. Bonsable works on eight western movies in a row—and never complained even once.

Legislative representatives—which is the polite name for "lobbyists" of the veterans' organizations thought that the hundred or more World War II vets among the new ex-GI legislation they're finding out differently. The vets in Congress think they're experts on all matters pertaining to ex-service men and women. They all have different bills. They scrutinize every new bill the vets' organizations propose. They offer plenty of suggestions for revisions. "They're our word bandits," says the lobbyist confidentially.

announcement of voluntary price cuts on Ford cars. What the competitors are peeved about, however, is that in all the excitement of including praise from White House assistants—it was generally overlooked that OPA last year granted increases higher than the recently announced cuts. On Aug. 12 OPA granted all auto manufacturers increases averaging 73 percent. On Sept. 16 Ford got an additional 6 percent.

Governor William Hastie of the Virgin Islands, in Washington for budget hearings before Congress, is spending spare time looking for new industries for his islands. They don't have hotel capacity for tourists, but he hopes to get Navy officers' quarters released for conversion. Biggest inducements for new industries are low minimum wage and plenty of labor. Furthermore, goods manufactured in the free-port Virgin Islands have a tariff advantage.

playing politics of a high order when he persuaded the anti-Roosevelt tribunal to abandon its condemnation of early New Deal reforms. He bowed to ballot-box returns and to public opinion, and thereby preserved both the unity and the integrity of his beloved court.

CREDIT—The legalities advocating a decision in favor of John L. and the U. M. W. contend that Chief Justice Vinson will show the same sort of legal and political statesmanship if he can persuade his associates to adopt this revolutionary proposal.

From the standpoint of practical politics, such a judicial finding would pass the anti-labor bill to a GOP Congress. It would strengthen Mr. Truman with angry labor groups, although he would get the credit of strikes for having defied John L. Lewis.

So They Say

My friendships in Washington are not for sale. I'd rather go back to Arkansas and scratch gravel with the chickens—Leslie L. Biffle, former Senate secretary.

There is no reason for a non-union to be head of an American House and abroad showed the ultra-liberal Justice William O. Douglas asked one of the key questions. It was:

"How is the government handling current claims during its operations of the mines?"
That query was so pertinent that Mr. Sonnett declined to answer it. He begged off for two reasons. The Lewis's basic contention is that government seizure is only a "paper and fictitious operations" that he did not defy the government and, therefore, that the Smith-Connelly Act does not apply.

Had Mr. Sonnett replied that the government was handling and paying all claims for damage during its occupation of the mines, it would have opened the door for a flood of suits amounting to many millions of dollars. But had he admitted that these claims were being held in abeyance pending return of the property to the private owners, he would have supported the Lewis thesis that Uncle Sam is only a fly-by-night interloper.

THOUGHTS

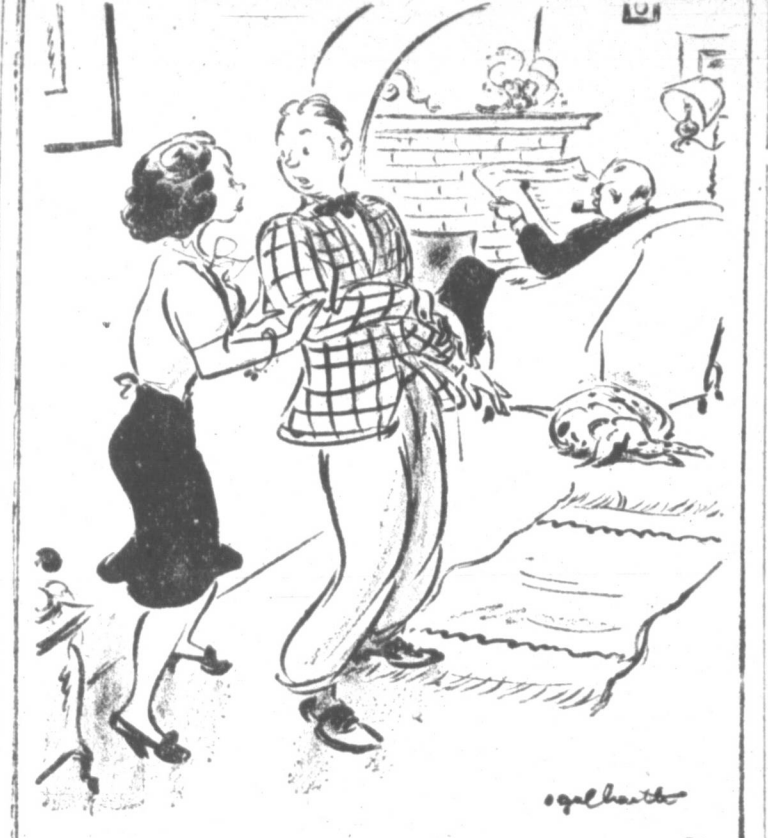

Abide in Me, and I in You. As the leaf cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine, no more can we, except we abide in Me.—John 15:4.
Hast thou not learn'd what thou art often told,
A heart that's sterner, and believed of old
That no success attends on spears and swords
Unbaited, and that the battle is the Lord's?
—Cowper.

We expect more of America than Americans should expect from Europe. We are dying, degenerate. We fight for small things.—Henry Sodergberg, Swedish YMCA official.
It appears now that inflation has largely run its course.—Marriner S. Eccles, Federal Reserve chairman.
Despite the extent of nationalization in England and France, in Argentina and Spain and the expanding domain of Soviet Communism, we tend to console ourselves the thought that it can't happen here. Unless we break through such smugness we shall be in danger of losing by default.—William K. Jackson, president U.S.C. of C.

Homesites Donated To Texas Christian
PANHANDLE—(Special)—Announcement has been made here of the gift of 21 acres of land in the western portion of the townsite of Borger to Texas Christian University at Fort Worth by Mrs. J. P. Weatherly.
The land, to be named Westover Hills addition will be restricted to residential districts and funds derived from the sale of these lots will be used for the education of ministerial students at TCU.
The gift was made in memory of George and Rachel Deahl, deceased parents of Mrs. Weatherly.
We will find a way for using atomic power for all purposes long before our local and oil resources are threatened with exhaustion.—Dr. Lee De Forest, inventor of audion tube, which made radio broadcasting and sound pictures possible.

Texas Today

(Editor's Note: The following column, Texas Today by Jack Rutledge, is based on an ad appearing Sunday, Jan. 29, in The Pampa News. A copy of the ad and front page box carried on that date in The News and relating to the ad, was forwarded to the Dallas Bureau of the Associated Press where Mr. Rutledge compiled this story which was distributed to all Associated Press members of the Texas circuit.)

By JACK RUTLEDGE
Associated Press Staff
Billy Rose, the showman, wrote such amusing copy in his advertisements that it wasn't long before he was signed up by a syndicate to write a column.

Something like that is happening in Pampa, says Editor J. L. Swindle of the Pampa News. A well-to-do real estate man named J. Wade Duncan pounds out such down-to-earth, chatty and downright amusing materials for his ads that copy of the first thing readers do is turn to the classified page.

Here's a sample:
"I've had quite a few complaints from some of the new comers and out-of-town people as not being able to locate the Duncan Bldg. Well, that is something. When you come to town and get in the busiest part then you are in what is called the Duncan Bldg."

"The Duncan Bldg. sets on the corner, and it is a two-story affair right in the middle of the business district of Pampa. When you come up into this building you are on our own, as we start selling you something just as you hit the head of the stairs.

"You can buy real estate, get a divorce, insure yourself for life, or fire, borrow money, pay bills, get an oil well drilled, sue anybody, sell anything, in fact you can do something or have anything done, if you have the money—to pay for it. If you don't have any money to do anything with you can loan, as my office has some pretty comfortable furniture in it.

"If you get tired of loafing you can move over to Fred Gray's office and lay down, he's got a divan in his... Anyway, don't ever ask me anymore where the Duncan Bldg. is, as I think this is self-explanatory, besides costing me about $12. They don't run these ads for nothing."

Then he lists a few items for sale, and they all read like bargains, the way he tells it. He even hints that the prices he lists are final.

"You know it takes a buyer to make a trade, just because someone prices his stuff for $5,000 is no sign that he's going to stay with that price."

We have a hunch J. Wade Duncan won't stay with real estate, either.

Panhandle Resident Sends $200 to IOOF

PANHANDLE—(Special)—Mrs. John F. Weatherly this week contributed $200 to the fund being raised for the Odd Fellows Orphan's Home at Corsicana. This brings the total raised by Panhandle to $700 including $200 raised recently by Carson Lodge No. 686 IOOF.

With only 74 members, in the lodge contributions from this community have been regarded as unusually generous.
