New Large Elevator Planned at White Deer

WHITE DEER- (Special) -Contract for a new reinforced concrete 250,000 bushel capacity elevator was awarded to the L. S. Fisher Construction Company of Wood-ward, Okla., Saturday, by the directors of the Farmers Elevator Company, Inc., of White Deer. This building, to be placed just west of the present elevator, will increase the storage capacity of the Farmers Elevator to about 310,000 bushels, and since a longer automatic scale and loading machinery that will load a car in about 20 minutes will be installed, it will greatly facilitate the handling of wheat during the rush season. Some machinery and motors have it is one of the minor mysteries involved in the case. For one thing, bright glare of downtown lights shone on it at all times. When Blanda first missed his pole he though it was a practical joke. As time went on and it stayed miss-

It has seen a lot of the city's history made. It has been covered with dust from horse-drawn ve-hicles. It has served as a place of momentary refuge far the alco-holically upset. It once served to support a dying victim of a sensa-tional killing, and still carries somewhere under its many coats of paint the dark stains of his life

Joe Blanda-and Orange-would like to have it back.

On the other hand, Sheriff Oran Smith of Johnson County has something he doesn't know what to do with.

It's a tombstone. Where it came from is a mystery. Sheriff Smith answered a recent call and found tombstone in a ditch beside the highway west of Cleburne.

The sheriff of Henderson County came to Dallas and refused to stay at a hotel unless he had 200 feet of rope for use as a fire escape in case of a blaze. It was during that series of disastrous fires, and you can't blame him.

The story was printed, and a gentleman named S. A. Sellers of Dick-son writes that the sheriff should be warned

"He'll kill himself," said Mr. Sellers worriedly. "Those heavy pigskin gloves of his will be hotter than his pistol ever got.

"He should go out to an oil well drilling rig in East Texas, go to the top of some 136-foot derrick and slide down the cat line. And they are not half inch. He will find out of some 136-foot derrick and just how good he is at rope slid-

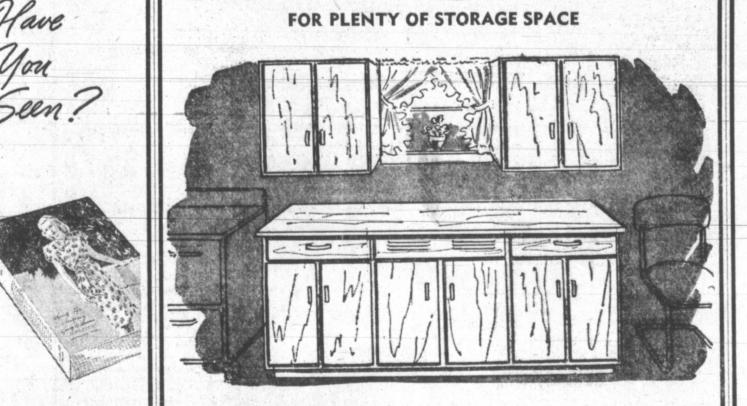

Mr. Sellers goes on to say that if the sheriff must have a safety device, why not try the new safety cable with a safety buggy the oil people have developed? He said it has a seat and brake to regulate the speed, and is sold at all oil field supply stores.

In Denison, however, the citizens have faith.

A sag in the roof and balcony of the Calvary Baptist Church was discovered at 10 a.m. But more than 200 members sat through services as usual. Then 25 members and several firemen chopped off an estimated 20,000 pounds of ice which had form-ed on the flat roof.
