High Court Breaks 75-Year-Old Ruling

WASHINGTON, June 5—(AP)—Overruling a decision that has stood for 75 years, the Supreme Court held today that insurance is business interstate commerce, and is subject to the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

Justice Black wrote the court's 4-3 decision. Chief Justice Stone wrote a dissenting opinion in which Justice Frankfurter concurred. Justice Jackson also wrote an opinion in which he dissented in part. Justice Roberts and Reed took no part in the case.

The case specifically involved 196 stock fire insurance companies, and 27 individuals connected with the southeastern underwriters association in Florida, Alabama, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia.

Anti-trust charges brought by the Justice Department were dismissed by the federal district court at Atlanta on the ground that the Supreme Court had held for 75 years

Future Motorist Will Get 'Keys To Hemisphere'

WASHINGTON, June 5—(AP)—Senator Connally (D-Texas) unrolled a rosy post-war prospectus for ration-hobbled motorists today by releasing details of an agreement on international highway travel between 12 of the American republics.

Designated, according to Secretary of State Hull, to "stimulate and facilitate motor travel among the countries of this hemisphere by simplifying certain formalities," the convention has been signed on behalf of the United States and 11 Latin-American nations but still must be ratified by the Senate.

It sets up uniform rules governing registration, driving licenses, standards of size and equipment, and the keeping of records of travel across national frontiers.

When the last ration ticket is thrown away and dad buys a set of new tires and invites the family to hop in the sedan for a trip to Peru, about all he's going to have to worry about is how to speak Spanish and pick the native pottery molder boys.

The hemisphere-wandering motorist will have a special international registration plan for his car. The oval marked three inches high and ten inches long bearing his nation's name.

In addition to the United States, the agreement is made by Bolivia, Brazil, Cuba, the Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Guatemala, Haiti, Nicaragua, Peru, El Salvador and Costa Rica. Nine more signatories would account for all the Western hemisphere republics.

Francis Biddle Raps Ward Store

BOSTON, June 5—(AP)—Attorney General Francis Biddle declared today that Montgomery Ward's "defiance of the government cut under the whole national determination to settle labor disputes peacefully and finally during the war."

In an address prepared for the international labor congress workers union convention, Biddle said:

"If Ward's could defy the government successfully, an excuse was given to either side, when it didn't happen to like the board's (the war labor board) settlement, to ignore it."

"The Ward incident was the only instance in which the government had been resisted, where a company resisted the taking of possession of a plant to enforce an order of the labor board."

"And Ward's attitude was not new. It was based on an assertion that Ward was not bound by the no-strike, no-lock-out agreement. It would not submit differences with employees to the machinery for peaceful settlement to which the rest of industry was submitting, and on which depended an uninterrupted flow of production and successful prosecution of the war."

"As far back as December 8, 1942, Ward's expressed this view, to which it apparently still adheres, in a statement in the newspapers referring to the no-strike agreement."

Socialists Seek Fund for Race

READING, Pa., June 5—(AP)—The Socialist party sought today to raise $100,000 to defray the cost of a nation-wide campaign by Norman Thomas, of New York, and Darlington Hoopes, Reading, Pa., its presidential and vice-presidential candidates, selected unanimously in national convention yesterday.

More than $8,000 in cash and pledges was raised among delegates of the last convention session.

Thomas, 59-year-old veteran of socialist campaigns, former minister, and four times head of his party's national ticket, said he accepted a fifth nomination only because of the unusual times and the opportunity to combat what he called the "imperialistic" peace aims of allied leaders.

Enemy Claims New Offensive Is Now Ready

By The Associated Press
The Japanese war offensive is running against ever-heavier air, sea, and undersea Allied blows, with the announcement today that U. S. submarines have destroyed 16 more of Nippon's dwindling fleet of merchant ships.

This brings the total of enemy ships sunk by American subs to 589.

The latest bag included one large transport, one large cargo vessel, seven medium cargo vessels, two small cargo vessels, four medium cargo transports, one small cargo transport.

When the actions took place was not given.

Meanwhile, Tokyo radio said today "an offensive" which will cut China in two and "foil American strategy" is ready.

Allied aerial successes were reported in new assaults in New Guinea operations in the southwest Pacific, against the Kurile Islands in the north Pacific and on Truk in the central Pacific.

In the vital China theater where Chinese troops are trying to stop the Japanese advance on Changsha in Hunan province, American airmen harassed the invaders.

And in the India-Burma theater an Allied operational summary said "overwhelming air superiority" was a major factor in placing those

Your Dreams And Your Guesses Are All Wanted Here

Believe in dreams? Well, if they come true—you can look for the Allied invasion of Europe to take place on June 20.

Testing her guess into the hopper of invasion dates, Mrs. A. T. White, Box 210, Pampa, reports that she had a dream two months ago in which "the invasion started on the last day of June and Germany surrendered unconditionally at sunset of Sept. 30."

Mrs. White says her dream also included the prediction that "Japan didn't fall until February of 1945."

In writing to the Pampa News Invasion Editor, Mrs. White says that she had this dream two months ago and she already has written the "news" to her cousin in England.

"This was just a dream," she says, "but one I'd like very much to come true."

Mrs. E. B. Palmer, 1304 Charles Street, picks her date for invasion as "on or near June 18, with a grand victory by June 23."

She hopes it will turn out that way, she says, because June 23 is her birthday.

L. H. Dillman, Box 233, Pampa, believes the European landings will start at 12:30 a. m. London time, June 7. That would be 5:30 p. m. tomorrow, Pampa time.

What's your guess?

The person who comes nearest to the exact day and hour will be interviewed over Radio Station KPDN just as soon as possible after 8-Hour.

Send your invasion date guess to the Invasion Editor of The Pampa News. If you wish, explain in not more than 25 words why you picked that particular time.

2 Large Groups Hear Discussion Of Nazi Germany

Before two large groups of about 1,200 persons, the Rev. Joseph Paul Bartak, representative of the Methodist church for 20 years in Czechoslovakia, preached Sunday morning and evening at the First Methodist church.

His subject for the morning service was "The Land of John Huss." This subject was more or less introductory for his talk Sunday night, in which he told the events that led up to the war and his experiences in Germany.

During the evening he told something of the history of Czechoslovakia, and brought out the happenings as they started in 1939, when Prime Minister Chamberlain of England made his flight into Germany to visit with Hitler.

Czechoslovakia was prevailed upon to allow Germany to occupy the Sudetenland, which was about one-third of Czechoslovakia and from that beginning, he traced the happenings on up to the time he was arrested and placed in an internment camp by the Gestapo. The Gestapo arrested the Rev. Bartak about two or three days before the United States declared war because he was a United States citizen, and at that time they knew that a war with the United States was inevitable and were arresting all the important American citizens.

"Food was very scanty in the internment camp and we all lost weight quite rapidly. We were able to hold religious services, and I preached regularly each Sunday to the internees, but I first had to submit a copy of the sermon to be passed upon by the German authorities. During the sermon there were always two guards on hand to see that I didn't say anything that was not included in my original copy. After the Red Cross had made contact with the enemy, we received boxes of food and were fed much better."

In his opinion, Rev. Bartak said that war was not cruelly treated, and that they would receive fair treatment as prisoners of war.

Rev. Bartak was interned in Prague and in Lauf, Germany, from December 11, 1941, to May 16, 1942. He was exchanged on the Drottningholm, and arrived in New York June 1, 1943. Rev. Bartak is now awaiting the liberation of Czechoslovakia to return to that country and his work.

This is his last speaking engagement.

No Propaganda For 'Straw Caesar'

LONDON, June 5—(AP)—The fallen Duke, Benito Mussolini, appealed to the people of Rome today to "make life as hard as possible" for Allied troops which captured his former Fascist capital yesterday.

Mussolini's message as read by an announcer in a broadcast on the same wave length as the Rome radio at 7:19 a. m. (12:19 a. m. Central War Time).

"With the help of the treachery of the monarchy," said Mussolini, who now heads a puppet Fascist organization under German protection in northern Italy, "the Americans were able to land in Italy. German troops have courageously contested every step of their advance, but have now given up."

"It is a great sorrow for us, and I do not want to resort to propaganda now."

"Italians! Do not morally surrender to the enemy. What all means at your disposal, make life as hard as possible for him. Our will is not broken. We shall continue to fight and to work at the side of the tripartite powers, and especially Germany."

Doughboy Acclaimed For Disparagement

NEW YORK, June 5—(AP)—The Allied entry into Rome received its crowning touch today when a soldier stood with one of his comrades on the marble balcony overlooking the famous Palazzo Venezia where Mussolini used to harangue the Italian people and made a speech about the fallen dictator, NBC said.

A cheering crowd of Italian men, women and children stood below and although they didn't understand a word he said they laughed and cheered and waved flags.

Production Goal Yet to Meet -- Nelson

DETROIT, June 5—(AP)—Americans were advised by Donald M. Nelson today to think less of war production cutbacks and more of a "big war production job" that "still remains ahead."

Declaring that industry's outlook on cutbacks "and contract cancellations was entirely out of proportion to the facts," the war production chief said that arms output must exceed its current rate in order to attain next November's scheduled peak.

Silent, Indian-Like Americans Occupy Il Duce's Former Haunt

By DANIEL DE LUCE
ROME, June 4—(Delayed)—(AP)—This cradle of the western world of freedom tonight with the high wind of freedom, stirred by the Fifth Army and thousands of Italian partisans flaunting red flags.

Behind a screen of Roman volunteers who wore hammer and sickle armbands and waved old firearms, American forces drove from suburban Centocelle to the Tiber river where half smothered with kisses and roses.

The German Wehrmacht, which once swore that Rome was an open city, fought futilely in the ancient streets to delay the American thrust.

Wherever the Americans moved forward today against hit and run Nazi armored forces they found forces of all ages and degrees of poverty—ready to die for "the liberation."

"Why were you so long coming? We expected you four months ago," said some of the partisans.

But others lying dead across German machineguns they had tried to seize barchand, or waiting in unwhispering silence for their wounds to be bandaged, asked no questions.

I saw a 10-year-old boy carrying ammunition for his elder brother on sniper patrol. A stubby-bearded, gray-haired peasant in his middle fifties begged to be put into action. A dark-haired girl with a bandolier insisted "Me partisan, too."

By military standards the battle for Rome was merely a heavy skirmish with the objectives temporarily being to secure the Tiber bridges. From just behind the leading tank, however, I found the struggle as hard on the senses as getting hit between the eyes with brass knuckles.

Several tanks and one heavy self-propelled gun held up our armor for seven hours at a point five miles outside Rome. But the Allied commander accepted unusual risks rather than bring down a devastat-

Church Does Not Wish Aged Pastor To Resign Position

DALLAS, June 5—(AP)—Members of the First Baptist church have unanimously refused to accept the resignation of their pastor, Dr. George W. Truett, 87, internationally known Baptist churchman.

Instead they voted to provide him the aid of an associate pastor when he tendered his resignation at yesterday's services because of ill health.

Dr. Truett, who on Sept. 13 will have been pastor of the church 47 years, was unable to attend the service and his resignation was presented by the assistant pastor, Robert M. Coleman. A committee was named to recommend an associate pastor.

The congregation moved unanimously that although they appreciated Dr. Truett's feelings in offering to resign because of illness, they "lovingly and emphatically declined to accept it."

Dr. Truett, whose church has grown from 715 members to nearly 8,000, became ill last August, and was granted a six-month leave of absence in January.

Repercussion To Fall of Rome Is Watched Closely

WASHINGTON, June 5—(AP)—American diplomats viewed the fall of Rome today as speeding the grand assault on Hitler's Europe and controlling the fate of the Balkans with clear evidence of the fate destined Berlin.

Happy at the capture of the Italian capital, original seat of Fascism, these officials earnestly examined reports that the word would be given to the Italian army to clear the Sacco valley south of the capital and captured such places as Pioggia, Pioggia, Guarano and Cave. Nowhere was there evidence of a German garrison, and it was probable that the foe would have to retreat up the west coast at least 39 miles to Civitavecchia and probably

Hot Debate Is Expected This Week in Senate

WASHINGTON, June 5—(AP)—Wrangled in cotton and wool, a bill to continue price controls for another eighteen months headed today for what may be a week of bitter Senate debate.

Most of the scrapping centers around the cotton amendment by Senator Bankhead (D-La.) to require new cotton textile price ceilings based upon a cotton parity price and taking into consideration the manufacturing cost plus a reasonable profit.

President Roosevelt has labeled the amendment inflationary, and Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson said in a statement yesterday that "it will not add a red cent to the price of cotton, wool, or any other commodity, and it will cost consumers hundreds of millions of dollars. Vinson said cotton mills would get it all."

But Bankhead contends his plan would assist consumers by removing all portable supplies even though the city itself had escaped the devastation of a siege.

The other task confronting directly the Allied command of General Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, and indirectly the Washington, London and Moscow governments, was that of reorganization of the whole Italian regime headed by King Ciriaco Emanuele and Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio.

The king promised weeks ago that he would retire when Rome was liberated. His son, Crown Prince Umberto, will take over in his place as a sort of regent.

Badoglio is expected to continue as chief of the government, at least for a time. His task will be to recruit from the Italian political forces which he may find Rome supports and numbers for his government.

'Supermen' Reel Back Above Rome

By The Associated Press
Five hundred heavy bombers, joined by as many lighter ones, blasted the bomb-dazed German armies today as they sought a place to make a stand above Allied-held Eternal City, as the air war from Great Britain stepped up in its lethal intensity.

Indeed the 14th army may already be virtually destroyed. Lt. Gen. Walter Clark was quoted by the Naples radio as telling his corps commanders: "We have destroyed parts of two German armies, the 10th and the 14th, and I doubt if the 14th is any longer capable of fighting. We have taken 20,000 prisoners, wrecked the German armies and have captured and destroyed vast quantities of enemy battle equipment."

Considerable numbers of the enemy appeared trapped southwest of Rome below the Tiber, the seaward bridges of which were destroyed. Prisoners exceeded 20,000. Swarms of Allied planes turned the Nazi retreat into nightmare. Flocks of retreat were blocked with wreckage of 1,200 more vehicles; lines of supply were kept cut. The Germans had suffered immense losses in men and material and wherever they fled, Allied bombers whipped them mercilessly.

Highway 5 leading across Italy to Pescara came under Allied domination in the Rome area. Bit by bit, the 20 German divisions in Central Italy were being caught in the Allied meat grinder and chopped to bits. The eighth army cleared the Sacco valley south of the capital and captured such places as Pioggia, Pioggia, Guarano and Cave. Nowhere was there evidence of a German garrison, and it was probable that the foe would have to retreat up the west coast at least 39 miles to Civitavecchia and probably

LONDON, June 5—(AP)—A frontline rifleman leaned tiredly against the wall of an old Italian farmhouse in that misty bloody valley leading to historic Cassino.

It was last February, just a few moments before the column was to attack.

The tall, blond Iowa farm boy had walked a long way since he left the cornfields more than two years before to join the 34th division, which had spent more time in combat than any other American unit in the Mediterranean.

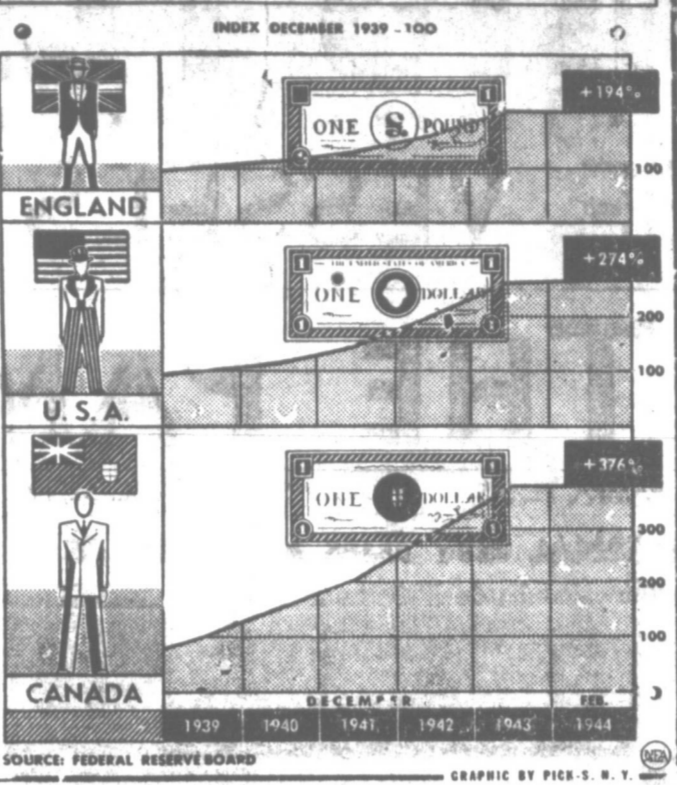

For days they had been under incessant enemy fire and were so worn out that some had ceased to care where the next shell landed.

"If I live through this damned thing," the lanky doughboy said, "I never want to see a mountain again. I don't want to see anything higher than a cornstalk and I won't have to climb that. But what the hell chance have I got to be back? The folks back home have got no idea what the war is, not even my own folks. They think you can stay in there pitching and still have a chance. OPA Official Is Super-Salesman

By JAMES MARLOW and GEORG EZIELKE
WASHINGTON, June 5—(AP)—You've probably never heard of Zenas L. Potter, even when he had his big success in congress.

Tucked away in OPA, Potter is hip-deep in charts and he's as happy with those charts as a congressman with a microphone.

At 57 he looks a little like a contented Santa Claus without the whiskers. He's director of OPA's Office of Congressional Information.

Recently OPA Boss Chester Bowles took 118 of Potter's big charts to the capital to show the senators how he said OPA is holding down prices.

Bowles lectured with each chart. When he had finished, the senators said his talk and the charts were "masterly." And they asked for special charts for themselves to use when they address "chambers of commerce or special groups."

This made Bowles happy but not happier than Potter who hadn't said a word. Bowles and Potter had been advertising men. Together they had worked out the charts.

In a roundabout way we heard of Potter. We went to see him to ask him about himself and his charts. This is what he said:

Before the last war he worked for a cash register company whose president was a firm believer in charts and thought the perfect sales talk would require the customer to use all five senses of taste, smell, touch, seeing and hearing.

This permanently impressed Potter who left the company in the first World War to help direct a special government bureau which weekly provided confidential reports on home front conditions for President Wilson.

After the war Potter became vice president and business manager of the New York Evening Post. Then he moved into advertising where he could go to town with charts.

One day in 1930 he suddenly bought oils and a brush and went home and told his wife, Miriam Clark Potter, author of children's books, "I think I can paint."

The couple went to France for a year. Potter painted landscapes and soon was the fastest painter in Paris, but not the best.

He returned to this country because a better painter and sold two pictures. When that happened, he and his wife bought a piece of mountain in California and settled down. He illustrated his wife's books and did landscapes.

The war arrived. Potter wanted to help out. He came here to work for the government. When the war ends Potter will go back to his mountain to paint and putter.

heads know us from that hill. "It's the some old story in sunny Italy."

"Mop up one hill and those damned Germans move back and camp on the next one. It looks good in the papers back home, but there ain't so many of you guys left. Ever know Bill? And Chuck—the damned Germans? I don't want no more buddies—don't want to lose no more."

"Remember how the old man used to talk about France? Hell, they pulled two out of the line after two or three weeks then. You had a chance then.

"This is real war. Hell, we was in 45 days at a stretch in Tunisia, a month and a half. You know you've had it then. And here we have been in 75 days—that's two and a half months—and fighting all the time with the damned screaming meemies to wake you up at night.

"Only five of us old boys are left in this company. All the rest are gone or wounded or counting their fingers in prison camps.

"Where's that big army they talk about so much back home? We keep hearing about millions and millions of men and here we are bleeding to death because there ain't quite enough of us. We could use a few more here. Maybe then we could knock off for a day or two, get washed up and have a little vino."

"I want to do my part, but we've been hitting that line for two years now. I figure it ought to be the other fellow's turn. I ain't afraid of dying, 'cause I got all of that washed out of me long ago, but I sure would like to see Iowa and my folks again. And I ain't got much more chance than I have of drinking leed tea in hell. Not unless they pull us out for a while. Do we have to keep on carrying the ball forever?"

No one answered. Then a lieutenant came out.

"Okey, comfiet," he said. "Time to move."

Weary as they were, they fought their way into a corner of Cassino and held it until moved on to another front.

Now there is celebration over the situation in Italy, but it is no time to forget those comparatively few men of such units as the Rangers, the first, third and 34th infantry divisions which carried the load in the early days. Now it appears the war department will be able to get many of them home for a long deserved rest.

His Fuehrer's Face

He Broke All the Rules--But Is Now a Legend for His Daring

By HAL BOYLE
LONDON, June 5.—(AP)—Death has made a legend of Karl Warner, known to thousands of American troops as "Molotov, mayor of Brooklyn."

This incorrigible 24-year-old private, once called the "poorest example of a soldier in uniform," became the outstanding one-man army of the Tunisian campaign. Working almost entirely alone, he developed into the army's best scout, killed at least a score of enemy officers and men in close combat and once bluffed an entire Italian command into surrendering, disarming 140 men himself without firing a shot.

He violated every military rule in the books, deserted posts, slept on guard duty, disobeyed orders and went AWOL, and yet he lives in the annals of the fighting Ninth Infantry Division as perhaps its greatest front line fighter.

In a recent issue of the Stars and Stripes, Staff Sgt. Charles Kiley, Jersey City, N. J., gave a detailed account of the exploits of this fabulous figure.

Twice during the North African campaign I ran across Warner. The first time he was sitting in front of a pup tent by the ancient stone fortifications at Port Lyautey in November, 1942, after a bloody 3-day clash which won French Morocco for the Allies. Warner and his infantry buddies were storming the fortress in hand-to-hand fighting and he had taken a fine pair of French field glasses from a slain officer.

At the entrance of his pup tent was the skin "Molotov, mayor of Brooklyn."

The last time I saw Warner was almost six months later. He lay dead by the roadside, crumpled in his own blood after being ambushed by a German machine gunner in the cork forests of northern Tunisia only a few days before capture of Bizerte ended the campaign.

Warner was secretive about his past life but friends said he originally came from Detroit. He also was something of a race track hanger-on and because of his striking blonde hair he was known as "Curly." Another soldier gave him the moniker "Molotov" after Warner once said he was "half Russian, half Jewish."

Brawling, boasting and arrogant, Molotov was hated and despised by most of his outfit before it went into action. He showed up for induction in a camelhair coat and a white silk muffler.

In combat Molotov broke even more red tape than in training. He usually scouted as a lone wolf, carrying two pistols and a carbine as well as the field glasses which he kept as a trophy of his first battle.

He was absolutely fearless, refused to wear a helmet and threw away at least a dozen when he was issued to him at various times.

"When I get it," he said, "a helmet won't make any difference." At Sened Molotov took an interpreter and boldly strode up to the opposing Italian garrison. He glibly told them they were surrounded by an overwhelming American force. They were so convinced by his gab that they gave up after feeble resistance.

He helped overcome an enemy strong point at Maknassy by an audacious feat. Going 800 yards forward and with his blonde hair shining like a beacon, he leaped

Meat Value Is Subject of Talk

A series of lecture-demonstrations covering various phases of the subject of meat, and designed for presentation at selected Army Air Bases through the nation, will be conducted at Pampa Army Air Field for three days, today through Wednesday, for the benefit of mess commissary and veterinary personnel at the local air base. The program has been arranged by the Meat Utilization Division, Air Quartermaster, Headquarters Army Air Forces, in cooperation with Col. Daniel S. Campbell, commanding officer of Pampa Field.

Four demonstrations will be presented in the north side of the consolidated mess hall by D. E. Miller, meat specialist of the National Live Stock and Meat Board, an organization which represents all branches of the livestock raisers and feeders, livestock marketing agencies, meat packers and retail meat dealers. There was one demonstration today.

On Tuesday there will be two demonstrations, one at 8:30 a. m. and the other at 1:30 p. m. The fourth demonstration will be held at 8:30 a. m. on Wednesday.

Subjects to be covered by Mr. Miller during the three-day session include the nutritive values of meat, the relation of menu planning to the efficient use of meat, the conservation of fats, canning and serving meat, refrigeration, sanitation, the storage and issue of meat, and the care of meat tools, meat blocks and cutting tables.

COMMANDEE-IN-CHIEF
The New Deal doctrine of the "Commander-in-Chief's" authority over civilians is a very dangerous poison. It is time for the public to understand that there is no authority for it under the Constitution, whether in war or peace.

During the Mexican War a lieutenant-colonel required a merchant to move his merchandise into an area where it was totally lost. The merchant sued the colonel for treble damages. The jury awarded damages in the sum of $90,806 plus costs of $5048. The United States Supreme Court upheld the verdict and left the officer to reflect upon a judgment of $95,354. Mitchell v. Harmony, 51 U. S. 115.

The court said that the "law did not confine in him a discretionary power over private property. Urgent necessity would alone give him the right." The court held also that the officer was not liable because he obeyed an unlawful order of his superior.

In a British case, England's greatest judge, Lord Mansfield, held a navy officer liable in damages for pulling down a house in which liquor was sold to his sailors to "the injury of their health." This was held to be an arbitrary and illegal exercise of power. Instead of destroying a civilian's home, the judge no doubt thought the officer might have commanded his own men not to go there to get drunk.

Applying this to the Montgomery Ward case, where men struck in violation of the Smith-Connally law, Lord Mansfield would probably hold that the strikers should be the ones to be disciplined, rather than their employers.

During the siege of New Orleans, the commanding general was Andrew Jackson, whose picture is hung at New Deal banquets. Jackson put a judge under military arrest on the ground that the judge was interfering with army action, although peace had been declared. The judge fined the general. Jackson, although a hot-headed man, was big enough and morally brave enough to admit his mistake and pay the fine.

The greatest American judicial decision bearing on this question, however, is ex parte Milligan, which Attorney General Biddle recently tried to get the Supreme Court to overrule without success. In that case a civilian was tried by a military court and sentenced to death. But as the arrest took place outside the theatre of actual military operations, the Supreme Court reversed the conviction and held illegal an order of President Lincoln, the "Commander-in-Chief," suspending habeas corpus in non-belligerent territory.

"The Constitution of the United States is a law for rulers and people, equally in war and in peace, and in times of peace, it is the shield of its bearers with the shield of its peace, and under all circumstances. No doctrine, involving more pernicious consequences, was ever invented by the wit of man than that any of its provisions can be suspended during any of the great exigencies of government.

"Such a doctrine leads directly to anarchy or despotism, but the theory and necessity on which it is based is false; for the government, within the Constitution, has all the powers granted to it, which are necessary to preserve its existence, and has been happily proved by the result of the great effort to throw off its just authority." U. S. Supreme Court, in Milligan case decision, cited in Senate debate of November 17, 1922.

Mr. Roosevelt has been unfortunate in his attorney generals, Jackson and Biddle. Both of them have been able to find everything that Mr. Roosevelt undertakes to be legal. Mr. Biddle now says flatly that the army of occupation of Montgomery Ward was entirely proper whether Congress authorized it or not and that it is not reviewable by the courts.

This is nothing less than the One Man doctrine. We mobilized an army to crush that doctrine in foreign lands, and find part of that same army used to uphold it at home.

Whether the Supreme Court will uphold Messrs. Biddle and Roosevelt remains to be seen. A governor of Texas declared martial law and, with his soldiers, denied the right of civilians to carry on their business. Chief Justice Hughes, speaking for an unanimous court, ruled that the doctrine of military necessity is subject to judicial review. He said that if this were not so "the fiat of a governor, and not the Constitution of the United States, would be the supreme law of the land."

Too bad a Hughes is not President today.

Mexican President Will Take No Hand

MEXICO CITY, June 5.—(AP)—President Avila Camacho will not publish a decree or take any direct action to avert a strike against 100 mining companies operating in Mexico, says Aquiles Elorduy.

Elorduy is representative of one of the largest mining companies facing the threat of a strike on June 10. He has attended the conferences held in the Ministry of Labor to bring to an agreement the mining companies and their workers.

He was told, he said, by Labor Minister Trujillo Gurría of the president's decision to take no official action in the mining conflict.

Civilian Workers Buy War Bonds At Pampa Air Field

Civilian workers at Pampa Army Air Field have subscribed 100 per cent for purchase of War Bonds and in the past month have purchased bonds with a total value of more than any single group on the local air base, which includes officers, cadets and enlisted men. It was announced yesterday by Col. Daniel S. Campbell, commanding officer, who thanked the workers for their splendid cooperation in the recent War Bond drive.

Civilians purchased War Bonds to the value of $11,123.75 during the month of May.

War Bond officer, Capt. Thomas R. McHenry, Sr., reported today that 85.8 per cent of the military personnel purchased bonds amounting to $20,859.25, which brought the total amount purchased at Pampa Field during May to $32,063.00. Officers at local air bases lead in the purchase of bonds among military personnel with a purchase last month of $4,704.25 worth. Cadets placed second with purchases amounting to $4,696.75, and enlisted men purchased $4,656.25 worth of insurance in their government.

Capt. McHenry, who attended a meeting at the Eighth Service Command headquarters at Dallas on May 26, also reported yesterday that plans were laid at the meeting for the continuing Army War Bond program.

At the conference, which was attended by approximately 200 War Bond Officers, speakers told the group that "War Bond buyers of the nation are the bankers or 'underscrivers of the invasion.' Capt. McHenry said.

Highlight of the conference was the presentation of the Minute Man flag to Maj. Gen. Richard Donovan, commanding general of the Eighth Service Command, by Lt. Col. Charles R. Conroy, executive officer of the Service Command's War Bond Council, Army Service Forces, the War Bond officer at the local air base added. The flag was won by the civilian employees of the War Department who are currently investing more than 10 per cent of their pay each month in bonds to the extent of more than 90 per cent participation.

"The Army War Bond program is the greatest systematic savings plan in the history of finance," Col. Conroy said in presenting the flag. He revealed that 3,000,000 officers and enlisted personnel are purchasing $8 million dollars worth of bonds a month through pay allotment, a little over one million dollars worth a day, and that more than a million employees of the War Department are subscribing at the rate of 20 million dollars worth of bonds a month.

Other words, although it is in the history of finance," Col. Conroy said in presenting the flag. He revealed that 3,000,000 officers and enlisted personnel are purchasing $8 million dollars worth of bonds a month through pay allotment, a little over one million dollars worth a day, and that more than a million employees of the War Department are subscribing at the rate of 20 million dollars worth of bonds a month.

Freedom Called Spiritual Gift At Church Conference

BOSTON, June 5.—While holding military might essential to the victory of allied nations over the anti-Christ claims of injustice and intolerance, The Christian Science Board of Directors today told the annual meeting of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, that freedom is essentially a spiritual gift. "to be realized only through spiritual understanding and attainment."

Before an audience of several thousand Christian Scientists essentially local in character due to wartime restrictions upon transportation, the directors cited the universal determination to win the peace as advance evidence of a world-wide realization that "righteous victory under arms will not suffice to guarantee freedom to mankind."

Freedom from want and fear, freedom in worship and speech, the directors stated, constitute much more than a political slogan or governmental ideology, "for our great Way-shower, Christ Jesus, proclaimed centuries ago that freedom accords with God's will and law; furthermore he gave simple, clear direction for the attainment of full freedom for the individual, and through the individual for all humanity."

In other words, although it is in the history of finance," Col. Conroy said in presenting the flag. He revealed that 3,000,000 officers and enlisted personnel are purchasing $8 million dollars worth of bonds a month through pay allotment, a little over one million dollars worth a day, and that more than a million employees of the War Department are subscribing at the rate of 20 million dollars worth of bonds a month.

As of June 1
Young Men of 17
May again join the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve

ENLISTMENT in the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve is once more open to qualified young Americans . . . who want to win their wings on the "greatest team in the world"—an AAF air combat crew.

In April, thanks to the air-mindedness of America's youth, the AAF's personnel program was well ahead of schedule. More than enough men were in training, and in the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve, to meet scheduled quotas for combat crews. At the same time, the need for men in other branches of the army was urgent. Therefore, opportunities to join the AAF—including the 17-year-old Enlisted Reserve—were suspended.

As the Commanding General pointed out, the suspension of enlistments in the Reserve was intended only as a temporary measure. Accordingly, effective June 1, enlistments have again been opened in the 17-year-old Enlisted Reserve in order to insure a sufficient number of qualified individuals for training this fall.

The AAF is a Team
Today, the AAF is the largest, most powerful air force in the world. Fighting side by side with the planes of our Navy and our Allies, it has won control of the air in every theatre—and has carried the war to the military and industrial hearts of Germany and Japan. It is daring the enemy to "come up and fight." Yet its losses have been less than anyone had anticipated or even dared to hope.

That all this has been accomplished is due, in large measure, to the fact that the AAF air combat crew is more than just planes and men. The combat crew is a team . . . the greatest fighting team the world has ever seen . . . with Gunners, Bombardiers, Navigators and Pilots flying and fighting together, to win.

And any young man who wants AAF wings should keep this ideal of teamwork uppermost in his mind. It is the key to AAF successes in battle. It will be the key to his own success in the AAF.

If you want to fly with the AAF, you may apply at any AAF Examining Board for enrollment in the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve. Upon passing the preliminary qualifying physical and mental tests, you will become a member of the U. S. Army Air Forces—on inactive duty. This means that you will not be called for training until you have reached your 18th birthday. If you are at work you may remain on the job until you are 18. If you are in high school, you may elect to finish the semester you are in when you become 18. If you are a high school graduate, not over 17 years and 9 months, you may elect to take advantage of the Army Specialized Training Reserve Program, which provides free college training for men approaching military age.

When called, you will first be given "basic" training. During this period, you will take "aptitude" tests to determine whether you will be classified for training as Gunner, Bombardier, Navigator or Pilot.

Your Place on the AAF Team
If you have an outstandingly high aptitude rating for a particular position, you may be given an opportunity to compete for the classification that you prefer. But it is important to remember that all jobs on the AAF team are vitally important . . . that air combat crews not only are chosen from the very cream of the nation's young men, but that each seat in every plane must be filled by the man best qualified to fill it.

Gunners go into actual combat as non-commissioned officers. In addition to being the world's best aerial marksmen, gunners may qualify as trained technicians—in radio, armament or airplane mechanics. Pilots, Navigators, and Bombardiers are graduated from training as 2nd Lieutenants or Flight Officers.

Your job, and your rank, in the AAF will depend upon your own demonstrated abilities. For full information as to qualifying for the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve, see your nearest AAF Examining Board or local Army Recruiting Station.

For Pre-Aviation Training
Whether or not you have yet reached 17, you can begin now to prepare yourself to qualify for the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve. See your local Civil Air Patrol officers about C.A.P. Cadet Training . . . also see your High School principal or adviser about recommended courses in the Air Service Division of the High School Victory Corps. Both offer excellent pre-aviation training . . . and help point the way to AAF wings.

War Bond Money: Pampa, with other cities and communities of this country, is getting ready for an all-out effort in the coming 5th War Loan Drive.

What greater reason than the invasion could there be for the 5th War Loan Drive? Europe from Europe, every member of our armed forces, irrespective of branch, will place his life in jeopardy.

Maybe the hero who will lose his life in the invasion will be your son or some other relative or friend. You must support him.

Our brave fighters on the battlefields are inspired by good news from home. It will be so with those who will take part in the invasion.

Money loaned to the government thru war bond purchases is used to buy war supplies. The invasion will need an extra amount of supplies.

If war bonds are not purchased the government must create more or even confiscate property, to raise the money needed to finance the war.

Let's underwrite the 5th War Bond Drive quickly. Let's do it in the opening days of the drive.

Let's make it impossible for the ambushing of our troops by the terrible Japs as was told in The News recently.

Let's invest in war bonds during the coming drive and destroy our inhuman foes.

Another Breach of Law: The Nazis, hard-pressed for military manpower, have resorted to yet another breach of international law.

One unconfirmed report coming through Sweden said that it had started: that five parachuting Allied airmen had been killed.

Some of the strikes resulted from jurisdictional quarrels between CIO and AFL unions.

Effective immediately, the word "catastrophe" will be eliminated from all reports and orders also from the vocabulary in general.

We have not enough industry to serve America's needs or the world's needs. In this country we have done pretty well so far as we have.

Common Ground

By E. C. HOLMES: "I speak the plain-word principle, I give the plain words of the common ground."

Luxury the Road-Maker of Progress: In his analysis of "Socialism," Ludwig von Mises explains how great disparity of incomes is to the advantage of society.

How would the automobile of today have been developed had not those people with incomes beyond necessities been able to buy an automobile?

There were big profits in these things at first for those who had the best product. They sold for big prices compared with what they sell today.

Practically everything, excepting bare necessities, now in common use was made available to the masses only because of the fact that some people had sufficient income to buy them when they were merely whims of luxury.

During April, Michigan, which leads all other states in war production, experienced the largest number of labor disputes on record.

Let's invest in war bonds during the coming drive and destroy our inhuman foes.

Leaves From The Editor's Notebook

American labor leaders must certainly be aware by now that as wartime strikes become increasingly numerous the public and the government are becoming increasingly impatient with them.

Being courageous as well as foresighted, Mr. Thomas adopted strong measures. A few months ago he and other members of the U.A.W. executive board issued severe disciplinary orders against unauthorized strikes.

He minces no words. He charges that "any person who sets up a picket line is acting like an anarchist."

Mr. Thomas calls attention to the slowness of government agencies and the efforts of many management men to take advantage of the no-strike pledge to weaken the unions.

They become indignant when told that North American processors cannot meet their figure because of current OPA ceilings.

But we woke up to discover that more than a year's supply had been stored in the Baltic.

When our efficiency experts try to influence such natives, they are unsuccessful and only arouse bitterness.

VESELES—Swedes in this country are on the anxious seat these days. In New York they listen to sharp comments by their old friends who take exception to Scandinavian war profiteer's making money by selling ball bearings to Germany.

"Good circulation makes you not tired and makes you beautiful in se and desposition all at once."

War Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE: Associated Press War Analyst. Ejection of the Nazi vandals from the Eternal City will be accepted the world over as a guarantee of Allied ability to demolish Hitler's Fortress Europe.

"That seems to me to be the outstanding aspect of this achievement by the arms of civilization. The moral effect will be tremendous."

"The year of the invasion will bring Germany's enemies an annihilating defeat at the most decisive moment."

"Three years ago, or even less time, such a declaration from the master gangster would have made many peoples cheer. But today, with his shattered legions fleeing northward from Rome before the holy purging Allies, the harsh gutturals which once terrified the timid are just the empty mutterings of a beaten Her Schlicklegruber."

"The recapture of Rome satisfies one of the two major objectives of the Allied offensive in Italy. The other was the annihilation of German Field Marshal Kesselring's armies."

"How well the Allies will succeed in the grim task of destroying the enemy is still to be determined. They were pursuing columns from the Nazi Tenth and Fourteenth armies northward from Rome today and continuing to take a bloody toll. The Allied air force was piling the highways with dead Germans and shattered equipment."

"Five German divisions—perhaps more than 50,000 men—have been virtually annihilated. Several others have been shattered. The greatest slaughter may be going on at the moment of debate. Those troops which haven't yet retreated past Rome towards the north are in dire straits and being trapped. The position of the German forces which have been holding between Rome and the sea is particularly precarious."

Whether Kesselring will have enough strength left to make a stand is still to be determined.

That's News
 Once upon a time an "invitation" to meet Adolf Hitler at his Berchtesgaden retreat sent trembling, terrified puppets and stoves of Europe hastening to obey. But something seems to have happened to the host's prestige. The other day he sent one of those same social summonses to the Regency Council of Bulgaria. The council said it was awfully sorry, and thanks very much, but there were things to do at home.

So, at long last the fly has turned down the spider's invitation to walk into the parlor. And that, according to the classic definition involving the man and the dog, is news.

Lt. Crowell Eddy served as best man and Lt. Russell Mattingly and A. Bill Bridges were groomsmen.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of white satin with high neckline and inserted yoke of chiffon edged with a design of seed pearls. The long fitted sleeves were pointed at the wrist and she wore a shoulder-length veil caught at the top with tiny seed pearls. On either side of the veil were floral designs of pearls. Her bridal arm bouquet was composed of gardenias encircled with stephanotis with white satin streamers covered with stephanotis.

Mrs. Kirchman wore a black and white street-length dress with elbow-length gloves and black accessories. She wore a corsage of white rosebuds.

Mrs. Baldwin wore a floor-length dress of powder-blue with matching feather hat and elbow-length gloves. Her corsage was of burgany split carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Kirchman home. The three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom centered the table. Miss Mary Barnett presided at the crystal punch bowl flanked on either side with crystal candelabra.

Lt. and Mrs. Baldwin left immediately after the ceremony for a short wedding trip. Mrs. Baldwin traveled in a dress of white linen, princess style, and wore accessories of black. The couple will be at home at 432 Hill street.

The bride is a graduate of Pampa high school and attended Colorado Woman's college. Denver and she has been employed by Civil Aeronautics Administration as Aircraft communicator for the past two years.

Lt. Baldwin graduated from Springfield High school, Springfield, Mo., and was a Sophomore at Drury college, Springfield when he entered the Army Air Corps. He received his wings at Pampa Army Air Field Feb. 8, and is an instructor at the local base.

BOOKS of Today

Although H. E. Bates is 39 years old and has been writing since he was a junior reporter on a country newspaper in England at the age of 17 years, "Fair Stood the Wind for France" is only his fifth novel. His short stories have been very successful, however, and that is a form he has mastered entirely.

Not that he is not also an expert novelist. His expertise is especially manifest because he has been able to write a solid and intelligent novel about the war which makes sense between book covers, but which also was capable of being condensed into a Saturday Evening Post serial; indeed, the book is a first rate commercial proposition, since it has been serialized, and in book form it is half of a great work-of-the-Month choice. The other half is James Norman Hall's "Lose Island."

Mr. Bates' novel begins with a British bomber flying across France for England. It is commanded by a flying officer, and the crew is made up of four sergeants; the group has been long together and the social and military differences of rank have disappeared. The crew is merely an efficient unit.

But the bomber loses a propeller and comes down in a marsh somewhere south of Paris. John Franklyn, the officer, is badly wounded in his left arm and the others are unhurt. They come, at last, to a mill and farm, and there they are taken in, not as an heroic gesture, but very simply and naturally. It is all the French peasant who refuses to be bullied; the grandmother has seen three great wars and knows there is nothing left in the world but the infinite; Pierre is sustained by hatred of monumental proportions; Françoise has, quite simply, faith in God.

"Fair Stood the Wind for France" would have been a stronger novel if Mr. Bates had not felt bound to offer the Saturday Evening Post a love affair between that officer and Françoise, but it would have been less beautiful. There is suspense, accurate observation, honesty and first rate writing in the book.

Driver License Available Here

For the first time in two months, since A. F. Owen was inducted into the armed forces, Pampa has a driver's license examiner. Assignment of the official in Pampa eliminates the need of Pampans' having to drive to Amarillo to take the test.

Like other newcomers, the examiner is having difficulty finding a house. His wife and 10-year-old son, Rex, are now in Plainview but expect to join him and make their home in Pampa.

Examiner Hampton will serve not only Pampa but also five other cities, Berger, Canadian, Shamrock, and Wheeler.

His schedule is as follows:
 Pampa, office of justice Charles Hughes, court house, on Mondays and Saturdays, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., and also every Friday except third Friday of each month.
 Berger, city hall, every Tuesday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and second, third, fourth, and fifth Wednesdays.
 Miami, county commissioners room, court house, first Wednesday of each month, 9 a.m. to noon.
 Canadian, sheriff's office, court house, first Wednesdays, 1.30 p.m. to 5 p.m., and third Fridays.
 Shamrock, justice of the peace office, first, third, and fifth Thursdays, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.
 Wheeler, county commissioners room, court house, second and fourth Thursdays.

Public Warning! BEWARE OF PIN-WORMS

War-time living conditions may be the cause of spreading Pin-Worm infection. Scientific reports in many communities have shown at least one-third of the examined children and grown-ups to be victims of Pin-Worms.

Watch out for the warning signs that may mean Pin-Worms in your child or yourself; the tormenting, embarrassing itching, the uneasy stomach, bed-wetting, nervous fidgeting, finicky appetite.

New Discovery Hailed by Doctors. After centuries of distress caused by Pin-Worms, a new and highly effective way to deal with this stubborn pest has recently been discovered.

Joseph Bartak was born in Bohemia and was naturalized an American. He served as founder and first pastor of the Central Church at Prague, and later as district superintendent and legal representative of the Methodist Board of Missions.

Pineapples from South Texas will soon be on the menus of many Gray county families. The shipment of 355 dozen pineapples, ordered some time ago under a plan sponsored by the marketing committee of the Gray County Home Demonstration Council, is due to arrive tomorrow by truck from Laredo.

Bulletins and recipes on pineapples are available at the agent's office. The "hot water bath" method is recommended by the Texas Extension service for canning of all fruits and tomatoes.

But in northern Honan the Chinese recaptured Ankiang in their drive on the big Japanese base of Yochow, 55 miles east.

American bombers from the southwest and central Pacific hit Honan province, 400 miles north, the Chinese pressed on toward Japanese-occupied Loyang from captured Sungtsien, 45 northeast.

Chinese troops in Yunnan province crossed the Shweli river, pushing to within 12 miles of the Japanese base of Tengchung in their drive into northern Burma.

4-H Boys Will Be Honored Tomorrow

Farm boys of five Panhandle counties will receive recognition for producing enough food for 12 months to supply a fighting man for a year when they are taken on an inspection trip of Pampa field, located 11 miles east of Pampa.

Each of the boys who will visit the field has produced at the minimum enough food for the past twelve months to provide for a soldier, sailor, or marine.

There will be 50 boys and men in the group that will meet at 10 a. m. tomorrow at Pampa field. Heading the party will be L. L. Johnson, state boys club agent, Knox Park, District 1 agent of the Texas Extension service; Glenn T. Hackney, Gray county farm agent, and his assistant, David P. Eaton, Jr.

Also in the party will be Laura Lane, Texas Extension service editor. Agent Hackney said that 33 boys from three counties had already indicated they would be present and that he expected the party to total 50, including state extension service officials, and county farm agents.

Grav, Roberts, Hemphill, Wheeler, and Lipscomb are the counties that will be represented. Capt. Harold B. Smith, Pampa field relations officer, is to conduct the party on its trip. The group will see the hospital sub-depot, and if conditions permit, will also visit the control tower, Link trainer and parachute departments, and the line.

Around 1,250 American bombers and fighters lashed the French invasion coast for the fourth consecutive day with 2,200 tons of bombs. British heavy bombers hit the same area last night and also bombed Cologne without loss.

Mediteranean bombers struck northern Italian rail yards heavily to cut off supplies to the distressed German armies. Five recent attacks on the Romanian oil field of Ploesti were estimated officially to have cut production from 9,000,000 to 2,000,000 tons annually.

Some 180 miles north of Ploesti, the Germans continued heavy attacks against the Russians losing 1-100 men, 30 tanks, and 44 planes. The Foglia fields are 520 miles from Munich; London is 570 miles away.

The German command said violent fighting was taking place northeast of Rome and said the city fell after "bitter street fighting" when U. S. tanks pushed into the center of Rome. The Germans, belatedly, had tried to declare Rome an open city.

Nazi propaganda promptly called Rome a "tourist center" without strategic, political or economic value. Mussolini called on the Romans who had greeted the American liberators with flowers and wine to "make life as hard as possible" for the victors.

Official accounts from Naples said Rome was entered at two points at about 8 and 9 a. m. the principal break-through coming in the famous Hermann Goerring sector. The fifth army commander, Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark, told his troops: "It is the immediate task of the fifth army to pursue the retreating enemy and destroy him."

Mrs. Taylor said that yesterday's strategy-meeting was attended by representatives from virtually all congressional districts. Petitions, to be presented the state democratic executive committee, are being circulated over the state now.

They must be signed and returned before June 12, the date of the next executive committee session. At this meeting, the committee must cerify names of candidates to be printed on the July 23 primary ballot. The committee will also have before it a request—backed by a threat of legal action—that the names of the two rival sets of presidential electors named by the uninducted and pro-Roosevelt conventions, be printed on the ballot.
