

NO SHOES—NO SCHOOL—In Finland, shoe priorities go to men who must work in the forests and many children are absent from school because they lack foot covering. Typical is 8-year-old Anja Paakkari, of Torma. Using old yarn salvaged from a much-worn sweater given to her by the American Red Cross more than a year ago, and welding needles that are mere pieces of wire, she knits a pair of socks for herself. She'll wear them without shoes.

Pasquel Won't Walk Across Street To Talk to Ex-Cardinal Player Now

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

HAVANA—(NEA)—While a Mexican League holdout, Max Lanier beat Mike Gonzalez's Havana Reds twice within three days to give Adolfo Luque's Almendares Scorpions the championship of the Cuban Winter League.

Yet Jorge Pasquel of the Mexican League didn't take the trouble to walk across the street to discuss contract with the great southpaw. President Pasquel last spring flew to New York to make his greatest catch in talking pitchers Lanier and Fred Martin and second baseman Lou Klein into jumping the Cardinals.

The holdout trouble came this trip when he offered all his subjects reduced salaries on the ground that they fell down on him. Lanier had arm trouble below the Rio Grande. Anyhow, he was doctored for it in St. Petersburg, Fla., where he made friends training with the St. Louis club.

As Senior Pasquel gave Lanier the silent treatment, the lefthander was ready to sit out all season.

Suspended from organized baseball, only Mexico and Cuba are left to him.

Asked how he liked it, Lanier replied: "You can win with less than what is needed in the National League." That was all.

With bonus and contract, Max Lanier was well paid for one year, but there are unmistakable signs that, like the others, he regrets having crossed the border — for good.

Fear is expressed in the Flatbush flock that Bruce Edwards will turn out to be a stunted Shanty Hogan. Remember how the huge New England Irishman circumvented John McGraw's orders cramping his stylish attack as a trencherman?

Edwards came up from Mobile early last summer at a compact five-foot nine and 185 pounds to be the best catcher in the National League at the end of the season. The Sacramento lad reported in Havana looking like a butter ball, 35 pounds overweight.

Edwards has sweated off five pounds to date to come in at 215, which is still 30 pounds too much.

At 23, he is still young enough to get it off, but any old hand will tell you it's difficult for a heavy eater to pull punches with a knife and fork.

That is precisely what Bull Edwards will have to do if he doesn't choose to eat himself out of the majors—a painless but costly way to go.

It's the same old story in old Havana—the high cost of living. Along this line, if you haven't visited the Cuban capital lately you haven't seen anything yet.

Prices are so high the Dodgers are squawking about the size of the tips. A light lunch sets you back $7. On Saturday the tariff on sirloin steaks, with no trimmings, is hoisted to a prohibitive figure. And nobody has seen any of the choice cuts reportedly flown here for the Brooklyn party.

The new Gran Stadium accommodates almost three times as many as the park where the Giants and Dodgers formerly train, but the baseball writers miss old Tropical Stadium with its beer gardens on the grounds, where you could have one on the house.

Longhorns Win Wild Game From Cowboys

AUSTIN—(AP)—Hardin-Simmons University and the University of Texas put on a free-scoring baseball game here yesterday.

The University of Texas nine won, 2-0.

Called after six and one-half innings, the game's highspot was the game's second inning. Hardin-Simmons scored seven runs in its half, Texas 15.

SOARING FOOD PRICES WILL TUMBLE BY FALL

NEW YORK—Current soaring prices eventually will be the instrument of their own destruction, says BUSINESS WEEK, predicting most costs will come tumbling down by fall.

"In a whole string of farm products, it's a case of shortage now and relative plenty later on," the magazine asserts. "As soon as marketplaces can be sure that crops are not going to suffer from bad weather—and barring such a setback—prices are expected to start down."

Iceland's hotels are heated by water from hot springs.

Marshall Five Strong Favorite To Capture Kansas City Meet Training Camp Notes

By SKIPPER PATRICK
KANSAS CITY—(AP)—The Thundering Herd of Marshall College, Huntington, W. Va., was an odds-on favorite today for the title as the ninth annual National Intercollegiate (NAIB) Basketball tournament advanced to the semi-final round.

Marshall, a dashing team of youngsters who shoot 'em on the run from any spot on the court and execute back-hand bounce passes in the clutches, will meet the slow-breaking Hornets of Emporia (Kansas) State Teachers College in the opening semifinal tilt at 8 o'clock (CST) tonight.

The Herd, coached by Cam Henderson, defeated Eastern Washington College of Education, Cheney, Wash., 56 to 48 last night, and Emporia State beat a good Beloit (Wis.) College quintet 55 to 52 with a strong second-half rally.

Mervin Gutshall, who makes most of his shots from long range, paced the Herd in the opening game, dropping in eight field buckets and four free throws for 20 points.

The second game tonight matches the scrappy lumberjacks of Arizona State, Flagstaff, against a methodical Minnesota State (Mankato) College team.

CLEARWATER, FLA.—(AP)—General Manager Herb Penneck took a first look at his 1947 Philadelphia Phillies and was impressed with the new batch of rookies as much as anything else.

Charlie Tompkins.

Three young pitchers—Dick Koccher, Bibba Church, and Homer Spragins—caught his eye particularly.

"They have everything it takes to make pitchers except experience," he commented. "I like particularly well the way Church breaks his curve with his free, easy motion he can arm a change of pace."

FUNNY BUSINESS

BY HERSHBERGER

Clearwater, Fla.—Bucky Walters, Johnny Vander Meer and Clyde Shoun are slated to pitch for the Cincinnati Reds against the Philadelphia Phillies today. Manager Johnny Nuen of the Reds says that Augie Galan, obtained in a trade from Brooklyn, will be the Reds' left fielder, a berth that has been a sore spot in the Red leg machine for a number of years.

St. Louis Cardinals.—Trade winds are blowing through the Boston Braves training camp. General Manager John Quinn and President Lou Berini said they had talked with the Cardinals' Sam Beardson, Herb Penneck of the Philadelphia Phillies and Warren Giles. However, they added, "We won't complete any deals in the near future but there may be something in the air."

Sarasota, Fla.—The unanswered question, "Where's Rudy York?" has been answered—in part. The Red Sox reported that the big first baseman, unheard from since last season, was driving here from his Garterville, Ga., home. The chores of spring training didn't appeal to the big first sacker.

Pasadena, Calif.—Pitchers Ike Haynes and Frank Pappis of the Chicago White Sox are in sick bay. Haynes is nursing a sore elbow and bruised ankle while Pappis is recovering from being hit in batting practice yesterday.

Los Angeles, Calif.—The Chicago Cubs, hampered last season by numerous injuries to star players, have a couple of athletes sitting things out again because of various ailments. Phil Cavarretta's sore arm is improved but first sacker Eddie Waikuk has a ailing hip and outfielder Andy Patko has a charley horse in his right leg.

Phoenix, Ariz.—Willard Marshall has increased his chances of retaining a regular outfield berth on the New York Giants. The young Billhawk, who came fast after a poor start last season, drove in triple runs by belting two homers, a nine and single yesterday to lead the Giants to a 17-7 victory over the Cleveland Indians. The two teams resume their spring series here today.

Carver Loses to Lubbock Cagers

Carver High's cagers lost the first game of their bi-district series with Dunbar High of Lubbock here Wednesday, 18-17, but the Carver girls registered a 34-14 victory.

The defeat was the first of the season for the Carver boys. Dunbar held a 12-6 lead at the half but Carver came back strong and early in the fourth period held a 17-16 lead. Dunbar sank a shot in the last few minutes of play to win the game.

The Carver girls, unbeaten in seven starts, had little trouble with the Lubbock sextet. Alice Vinson was high for the game with 18 points.

Another game in the series is to be played in Lubbock. The date has not been set.

Horton Smith Holds One-Stroke Lead in Jacksonville Open

JACKSONVILLE, FLA.—(AP)—Tall, sandy-haired Horton Smith of Detroit, veteran of a thousand links duels, hung to a slim one-stroke lead today as second round play began in the $10,000 Jacksonville Open Golf Tournament.

Hard at his heels were little Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., the pre-tourney favorite and a top-ranking money winner.

Smith, who annexed the masters crown at Augusta in 1934 and 1936, carded a four-under-par in a strong wind yesterday to lead the field of more than a hundred pros and a sprinkling of amateurs.

Senators May Prove Real Threat in American Loop

By GAYLE TALBOT
ORLANDO, Fla.—(AP)—Ossie Bluege is dead certain of two things this spring. (1) His Washington Senators are going to post an improved fielding average over last season, and (2) he will have a vastly happier catching staff.

"I might even be a little happier myself," says the man who has just broken up and dispersed the greatest herd of knuckleball pitchers ever gathered under one tent. "Knucklers are hard on the nerves, even when they're winning games for you."

Of the crack crew of flatter-balls who came within an eyelash of winning the American League flag two years ago and helped nail down fourth place last year, Bluege has retained only the little left-hander, Mickey Haefner, and he hastens to point out that Mickey isn't entirely dependent upon the dippy-do.

"We had the worst fielding average in the league last year because of about a thousand passed balls," Ossie gloomed. "Our catchers simply couldn't tell where those knucklers were going. We lost more than one game that way, too."

With the bulk of the knucklers gone—Dutch Leonard to the Phils and Roger Wolf to Cleveland—Rick Ferrell, once a great catcher and now a Senator coach, is said to be considering a comeback attempt. The club might use him, at that, as their present set of backstoppers, Al Evans and Frank Mansuso, leave something to be desired.

Relative of Local Resident Succumbs

Joe M. Barnhart, about 80, brother-in-law of Horace McBee, auditor at the Pampa Daily News, died at 12:30 yesterday at noon at Levelland. He had lived there for a number of years.

Several children survive, in addition to the widow, the former Miss Julia McBee, who resided here for a time several years ago. Burial will be at Levelland tomorrow, and Mr. and Mrs. McBee plan to attend.

FIRST IN COMBINED CAR AND TRUCK SALES!

The final registration figures are in, and again in 1946 America purchased more Chevrolet cars—more Chevrolet trucks—more Chevrolet cars and trucks combined—than any other make, despite the fact that Chevrolet was out of production entirely during the first three months of the year! A magnificent tribute to Chevrolet production efficiency, as well as to the dollar value of Chevrolet products! It's the best proof you can possibly have that you're wise to choose Chevrolet, the only cars giving BIG-CAR QUALITY AT LOWEST COST, and the only trucks rating as THRIFT-CARRIERS FOR THE NATION! True, there still aren't enough new Chevrolets to go around, but highest popular demand means higher dollar value, just as highest production means quicker delivery of your new car or truck. Doctors Will Hold Spring Clinical Conference in Dallas Next Week

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
DALLAS—Physicians will catch up with medical progress in Dallas next week.
 Fifteen distinguished professors from North American medical schools will serve as instructors when 1,500 physicians gather here for four days of intensive study.
 The Dallas Southern Clinical Society, a group of 150 Dallas doctors, is spending $20,000 this year on the program of its sixteenth annual spring Clinical Conference. From Monday through Thursday, the professors will present new methods, trends and techniques and their audiences will include physicians from Canada, Mexico and every section of the United States.
 "These conferences are designed mainly for general practitioners who may need instruction in a variety of fields," spokesman for the Dallas society said. "And this year we will have on hand many doctors recently out of service who will need quick courses in some branches of work."
 The program is so crammed with lectures that no one man could attend but a fraction of them. On Monday, for instance, a doctor may take his pick of four series of talks, all running from 8 to 5 p. m. He may decide to listen to one lecture in each of the four series and he can do this easily because the programs are timed to the minute. No speech ever goes longer than the schedule says it will for buzzers sound the termination of all addresses. This practice was begun at the first annual conference years ago by Dr. O. M. Marcham, first president of the Dallas society. Paced with the problem of a simultaneous series of lectures, Dr. Marcham went out and bought eight alarm clocks. Alarms terminated all speeches on the dot and this punctuality was found so agreeable that either the clocks or warning buzzers have been used ever since.
 During lectures, a speaker is seldom interrupted, but members of the audience have their chance to ask questions at the round-table luncheons. Each day, three or four of these luncheons will be held. On Tuesday, for example, there will be a luncheon for each of four fields—medicine, surgery, ear eye nose and throat, and urology. If the general practitioner hears a lecture on surgery in the morning and wants to ask the lecturer some questions, he attends the surgery luncheon. The round-table luncheons run from 12:30 to 12:45 daily—plenty of time for discussion.
 To give an idea of the scope of the conference, there will be 22 lectures on Monday alone and the schedule for the remaining three days is just as full.
 A feature of the meeting will be the clinical-pathological conference—the doctor's own quiz show—Tuesday evening. In this program an extremely complete case history is presented—the history of some unnamed person who has passed on. Every symptom of the person's ailments are given, together with results of all physical examinations given the subject. Then, the 864 question is—what did the unfortunate die of? The experts try to answer.
 Dr. J. R. Lindsay, Professor of Surgery (Otolaryngology), University of Chicago; Dr. Ferrin H. Long, Professor of Preventive Medicine, John Hopkins University; Dr. H. G. Pinna in "Marriage of Pizarro"; 6:30 Norman Soupsins on Russia; 9 Prof. Quizer.

Whitehorn, Professor of Psychiatry, John Hopkins University; Dr. Julius L. Wilson, Associate Professor of Medicine, Tulane University.
 The Dallas Southern Clinical Society meets 52 Fridays each year to prepare for its big annual conferences. Dr. Milford O. Rouse is president of the society and Dr. Elliott Mendenhall director of clinics for the society, is in charge of this year's program.

THE STORY: Sherry and Mona had a collision in one of Hollywood's bungalow courts. She works in an insurance office and is making a play for her married boss, George Broderick. Sherry goes home, wants to write, wants to know Mona's interest in the three boys who live at the end of the court. Sandro, who is French, wants to act in the movies. American Tony, who is distant and distant, wants to become a producer. Tony takes Sherry for a drive on Halloween. He confesses his bitterness and hopes Sherry thinks she is in love with him.

EVER since Halloween Sherry had been getting ready for Christmas, and now it was less than a week away.

She turned off the boulevard and headed north. The blast of cold wind that met her almost shook the bundles from her arms.

Sherry wished Mona could stay home afternoons and go shopping with her, but Mona thought that unless you had a lot of money Christmas was a nuisance. Sherry had met her downtown Saturday though, and they had had lunch and a glorious afternoon in the crowded stores.

Mona had seen a coat in the window of an exclusive shop and had gone in and tried it on. It was a soft camel hair with a sable collar. She looked stunning in it and Sherry had thought that that was the sort of thing she should always wear. It was two hundred and twenty-five dollars though, and Mona had said she would look further and probably be back.

Then they had gone to the toy department of a big store. Sherry had felt silly about suggesting it, but Mona was sweet and they had ridden up on the escalator. While they were watching a puppet show Mona had said, "By the way, angel, George is meeting us later." Then Sherry knew why she had been so happy.

They had met him at the Billmore, and he and Mona had had Sandro's working. I don't know where Kris is." Marcia put the tray down on a brass table.

She said, "Eat most of the cakes, won't you? If I gain another pound I won't be able to wear my new broadcloth."

Sherry laughed and said she thought she could eat all of them, and the telephone rang. Marcia answered it and talked to a man about business.

She said, "Never mind the excuses, Smith. That deal was set, till you gunned it up!"

SHERRY sipped her creamy chocolate and thought it would be nice to be a business woman, and say, "Never mind the excuses, Smith," to men. Marcia was nearly forty though, and that made a difference.

When Marcia was finished she came back to the fire and sat down. "Was it very important?" Sherry wanted to know.

"No more than my right arm," Marcia told her, "but I'll pull it out of the fire yet."

Then she told Sherry about it and what she did. How she took trips around in the mining country and found good gold properties and took options on them. Then she either sold the option or got people to operate the mine and had herself out in.

It all sounded lovely to Sherry, especially the trips through the mountains and the deserts and the big trees. She told Mona about it that night.

"I've got a lot of respect for that woman," Mona said. "She knows what it's all about."

Sherry said, "Don't you think it would be nice to ask her to our Christmas party?"

Mona shrugged. "O. K. by me, honey."

Sherry flew to the telephone. She asked Marcia to dinner at 3 o'clock Christmas Day and Marcia accepted.

"Swell," she said, "I'll bring the champagne."

Sherry ran back to the kitchen. She said, "Mona, guess what Marcia's going to bring champagne!"

Mona said, "The party begins to sound like a party."

HELPS KIDNEYS
Remove Harmful Impurities
Backache, loss of the old pep, getting up nights, and headache are often caused by nothing more than improper kidney action due to excess acid in the urine. The kidneys are one of Nature's ways of removing impurities from the blood and when these impurities back up, trouble may start.

If you have these troubles, give your kidneys and bladder a good flushing out by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. It works on the kidneys to flush them out, increasing the flow of urine to help relieve that excess acidity and ease that burning sensation which you may wonder helps that bladder irritation that makes you get up nights.

Made of 16 herbs, roots, vegetable and balsam. Swamp-Root is absolutely safe, habit forming. Millions have taken it for three generations. It is given with wonderful results. Caution: take as directed.

For free trial supply, send to Dept. K, Kilmer & Co., Inc., Box 1335, Stamford, Conn. Or—get full-sized bottles of Swamp-Root today at your druggists.

show were Olive de Havilland and Frederic March who won the top acting honors. And outside the Shrine Auditorium 1,200 bobboxers and other fans screamed for such modern-day names as Sonny Tufts, Alvin Ladd and Van Johnson. But the motion picture industry dipped further back into its memory than last year's pictures, and honored the people who were stars when Frank Sinatra was going to grammar school.

Part of the program consisted of movie clips from previous Academy winners and following this Ronald Reagan introduced performers who appeared in the honored films of years back. There were such names as Buddy Rogers, Warner Baxter, Richard Dix, Richard Arlen, Lulu Rainer, and for the biggest hand of all, Masey Pickford. There was also a tribute to the departed Academy winners, Marie Dressler and George Arliss.

The show's most heartwarming event occurred when Shirley Temple awarded two special awards. The first went to Claude Jarman, Jr., the Tennessee boy who was cited for his work in "The Yearling." He made the most moving speech of the evening, thanking Director Clarence Brown "for picking me out of my schoolroom." The other award went to Harold Russell, the handless veteran of "Best Years of Our Lives." In simple words he accepted the statuette "on behalf of thousands of disabled veterans who are lying in hospitals all over the country."

Jack Benney, who replaced Bob Hope, the master of ceremonies in previous years, remarked that the Academy should give out something more substantial—"something like $50." Donald Nelson, Byron Price, Eric Johnston, Mayor Ewron and Governor Warren added dignity to the occasion. They! Guess who predicted the three top winners. Me!

Governor Beauford H. Jester's fact finding board had not arrived in Odessa to begin the investigation promised by the Governor last night. His appointment of the board is credited with terminating the walkout.

The union said it had not been notified of the board's plans. Workers returned to their jobs in full force throughout Texas this morning.

The return to work order was issued in Odessa seven days after the walkout, and 24 hours after the blackout became statewide. The Midland area, including eight towns, had been idle for several days.

The workers first returned to their switchboards in Austin, Waco and Fort Worth last night, and today service was reported normal at San Antonio, Gainesville, Corsicana, Vernon and other points.

Service was being resumed in Dallas. Many workers had reported early today, and officials announced that all would be back on the next shift. Little difficulty was being experienced in placing long distance calls there, even with the curtailed staff.

Gov. Jester stepped into the controversy after telephone service had partially closed down as telephone workers over the state joined in sympathy with Odessa union members.

Company and union officials agreed to abide by the decision of a five-man fact finding commission appointed by the Governor after he had invoked the State Industrial Act.

"That's wonderful," exclaimed Gov. Jester when informed late last night in Fort Worth of the telephone workers return to work, pending the inquiry by the commission. "I'll sleep a lot better knowing that!"

Earlier in the evening Jester had told the rodeo audience at the Southwest Exposition and Pat Stock Show that "the interest of the people in general will be served" in reference to the telephone situation.

The Governor appointed three citizens to represent the public, one to represent the employers and one to represent labor.

Named to the board were: C. Y. Lyman, an independent oil operator at Midland, for the employers; Rene Schroeder, of Houston, a member of the Sheet Metal Workers Union, for labor; and Ernest Coker, Livingston, attorney; Lloyd Steinberg, Haflingen, attorney; and Eugene Thompson, Breckenridge hardware merchant, for the public.

The shift was to be made at the end of March. But Gurney's committee proposed yesterday, after an other closed door session with Secretary of War Patterson that the records be left where they are at least through June even though this would cost an extra $2,000,000.

Pictured eating his 48th oyster at one meal, 4-year-old Johnny Brav, of New Orleans, backs up his claim to be the world's champion oyster eater for his age. The 70-pound gourmand also likes all other foods and eats more each day than do most grown persons.

Republicans

Senator Aiken (R-Vt.), who has yet to make up his mind on pitting direct financial and limited military assistance against Communist pressures in the Mediterranean area, summed up the situation to a reporter this way: "It looks like there isn't much Congress can do but go along with the President in this crisis."

Similarly, Senator Connally (Texas), top Democrat on the Foreign Relations Committee, predicted that Mr. Truman's proposal "will pass both Houses by a large majority."

As Senate Republicans gathered in a party conference (9 a. m. CST) to hear Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, report on President Truman's personal appeal to Congress Wednesday, there was evidence that the Aiken and Connally views were shared by some Republican leaders.

he publicly announced commitment to go into Greece and Turkey could be reversed by Congress only if it chose to withhold funds. But this Republican said any such action seemed likely to be interpreted in Moscow as a display of American weakness a result he said he would regret to see despite his reluctance to approve military as well as financial action.

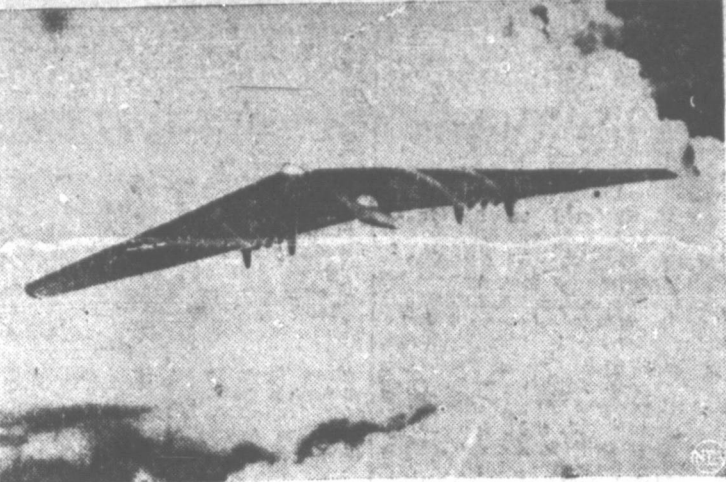

For that reason this GOP leader said Congress has little choice but to go along with the President. An indication of the air of tension prevailing in Congress was provided meanwhile by the action of the Senate Armed Services Committee in deciding to keep Selective Service records where they are for at least three months.

The original plan proposed by Mr. Truman after his decision to let the Draft Act expire March 31, was to have local boards ship their papers to state capitals.

While Chairman Gurney (R-SD) said the Mediterranean situation itself was not discussed at the committee meeting, he told reporters members had it in mind and: "We decided to keep county draft offices open in case the world situation gets more critical and we have to open them up again."

INCOME TAX CONFUSION CHICAGO—AP—Nigel Campbell, collector of internal revenue, has a pile of mail from taxpayers who enclose notes with their income tax payments. One man, who claimed a $600 deduction for medical expenses wrote the collector: "I have been out of city for the last three months. I am traveling for my wife's health."

Pampa Teacher to Head Panhandle Schools Next Year

Cecil B. George, head of the History Department of Pampa Senior High School, Tuesday night was elected superintendent of the Panhandle Schools over several competitors for the position. He will finish out the term here before taking over the administration of the Panhandle schools on July 1.

The superintendent-elect served with the United States Navy during World War II with the rating of chief petty officer and taught American History in the Naval Academy Preparatory School at Bainbridge, Md., from 1942 to 1945. Graduating from North Texas State Teachers College with a B.S. degree history major, he served for one year as principal of the Bellevue High School and was then elected superintendent of the Bellevue Schools from 1939 to 1942 when he entered the service.

After his release from the naval service, George came to Pampa and taught American History here for two years, and was made head of the school's History Department. In the summer of 1946 he received his M.S. degree from NTSTC majoring in Public School Administration and wrote this thesis centering around "The Reorganization of Schools of Wise County, Texas."

George and his family will move to Panhandle in the near future.

In an earlier statement, Premier Recep Peker of Turkey termed the speech "realistic and fully humanitarian," said it meant an end to U. S. isolationism and declared it would "inspire the peace and freedom-loving peoples of the world, American and British delegations to the Moscow Big Four Foreign Ministers' Conference were reported to have routed translators out of bed to render the Ivestia editorial to English.

The editorial, first Moscow newspaper reaction to the Truman address, asked: "What will be left of Greece's sovereignty after the American military and civilian personnel will sit on the heads of the Greek rulers and when this personnel commences the direction of Greece with the aid of $50,000,000 American dollars?"

(Congress has been asked to assist Greece with $250,000,000 and Turkey with $150,000,000 and with civilian and military personnel to supervise the use of financial and material aid.)

The French delegation held the view that unless the Americans, Russians and British took decisions outside the scope of their 1945 Big Three action on China, France had no interest in participating in the new meeting.

On the Carpet

Behind closed doors, Chairman James M. Landis, above, and other Civil Aeronautics Board members were questioned by the Senate Commerce Committee on recent wave of aviation accidents and involved finances of airline companies. Observers predicted congressional probe and possible formation of a government air safety board separate from the CAS, which now investigates crashes.

Legislature

Other bills ready for introduction included one by Rep. Davis Clifton of McKinney to raise the occupation tax on gasoline from 4 to 6 cents on the gallon.

The bill, which Davis said was sponsored by the County Judges and Road Commissioners' Association, is designed primarily to provide more funds for the building of rural roads.

One-sixth of the income would be allocated to a county and road district highway fund. It would be distributed to counties under a formula based on motor vehicle registration, ratio of county area to state area, county population, and unsurfaced road mileage.

Counties would be required to provide engineers, engineering facilities and engineering supervision in order to qualify for funds.

Rep. Carlton Moore filed a bill calling for a $250,000 appropriation for the establishment of a hospital for insane people convicted of crime.

Chamber Publishing Latest Map of City A new map of the city, showing all additions and new developments, is being printed by the Chamber of Commerce and will be ready for distribution in the near future.

Firemen Fix Leak In Machine Line

City foremen rushed to the home of a brother fireman late this morning only to find that the wife of Hoseman Harold Strickland, 1303 Luncan St., was excited about gas fumes from her washing machine and that there was no fire.

The fumes from the machine had made her and her three-year-old son, Jerry, slightly dizzy and they immediately called the firemen. The men fixed the leak and all was well.

Elders of "The Church of Christ"—Their Qualifications
1—THE SCRIPTURAL QUALIFICATIONS FOR ELDERS ARE HIGH.
The weighty responsibilities that rest upon the eldership of "The Church of Christ" necessarily imply high qualifications. The group of men that oversee a congregation must be qualified in heart and life if they perform their work well. Too little attention has been given to the qualifications of elders. The elders themselves have neglected the qualifications, and congregations have ignored them. For any congregation of "The Church of Christ" to be scripturally organized, its elders must have these qualifications either in the absolute or relative sense. If only in a relative sense, they must have both the ability and willingness to improve. That is, they must strive to measure up to the height of each qualification. The qualifications for elders and deacons are recorded in 1 Tim. 3:1-13; Tit. 1:6-9. They are both positive and negative.

2—POSITIVE QUALIFICATIONS:
1—MUST DESIRE THE WORK. No one can make the kind of leader that Christ wants in his Church if he does not desire to do the WORK of a leader. 2—MUST BE BLAMELESS. He must desire to do every thing in the right way. He must not purposely do anything wrong. If he unwittingly does wrong, he must do all he can to make it right, then ask for forgiveness. That way he can be blameless. 3—MUST BE WITHOUT REPROACH. "Men of irreproachable character." He Knew The Gardener

An old man was asked one day, how it was that he found so much delight in taking a daily stroll through a nearby garden. "Oh, you see," he said, "I know the gardener."
There IS a difference if you know the gardener. There are millions of people walking through this fair world, breathing God's fresh air, reveling in the beauties of His creation, being warmed by His sun in the day time, and counting His stars like tiny candles at night—but who have never met the Gardener!
Every thinking man knows there must be a Gardener, there must be a Mind which has created the beauties which surround us, there must be a Hand which preserves and keeps them. But is it possible to find the Gardener? Is it possible to know Him?

Indeed, it is! Jesus says: "He that hath seen Me hath seen the Father." God has revealed Himself in Jesus Christ. "No man cometh to the Father but by Me," He said at another time.

God reveals Himself to us in His majesty and His might through the telescope and microscope. But He reveals Himself in His personal love to us only through the Gospel of His Son.

It is the penitent heart that feels the warm touch of the Gardener's hand—the heart which has been broken by sorrow over its sin and trusts alone in Jesus Christ for mercy and for pardon.

There are millions of people in the world today, to whom the world is a garden, and who enjoy their daily walk through it simply because they "know the Gardener." These people are the Christian men and women who have found a forgiving God in the pages of the Bible.

If you are not on speaking terms with the Gardener, cultivate the company of the people who know Him. Join them near Sunday at church.

Elders of "The Church of Christ"—Their Qualifications
1—THE SCRIPTURAL QUALIFICATIONS FOR ELDERS ARE HIGH.
The weighty responsibilities that rest upon the eldership of "The Church of Christ" necessarily imply high qualifications. The group of men that oversee a congregation must be qualified in heart and life if they perform their work well. Too little attention has been given to the qualifications of elders. The elders themselves have neglected the qualifications, and congregations have ignored them. For any congregation of "The Church of Christ" to be scripturally organized, its elders must have these qualifications either in the absolute or relative sense. If only in a relative sense, they must have both the ability and willingness to improve. That is, they must strive to measure up to the height of each qualification. The qualifications for elders and deacons are recorded in 1 Tim. 3:1-13; Tit. 1:6-9. They are both positive and negative.

2—POSITIVE QUALIFICATIONS:
1—MUST DESIRE THE WORK. No one can make the kind of leader that Christ wants in his Church if he does not desire to do the WORK of a leader. 2—MUST BE BLAMELESS. He must desire to do every thing in the right way. He must not purposely do anything wrong. If he unwittingly does wrong, he must do all he can to make it right, then ask for forgiveness. That way he can be blameless. 3—MUST BE WITHOUT REPROACH. "Men of irreproachable character." "For as God's overseer a superintendent must be irreproachable." 4—MUST HAVE A GOOD REPORT OF THEM WHICH ARE WITHOUT" lest he fall into reproach and the snare of the devil." STORES RAISE LIVING STANDARDS

It takes a great war, with its unprecedented drain on our labor and resources, to reduce this country to an economy of scarcity. In normal times, the average American consumer enjoys the fruits of an economy of abundance.

Retail stores present an accurate gauge of our unprecedented living standards. Every kind and character and quality of goods is found on their shelves. The needs of all tastes, all pocketbooks, have been anticipated and met. That is not true of any other country. Abroad, good stores are usually found only in the larger cities, and they are patronized most extensively by people of relatively large income. The person who lives in the village has small choice when he goes to market.

Chain systems and progressive single unit stores must be given credit for the present scope and efficiency of American retailing. They reach into the smaller centers of population, and offer consumers selections of goods comparable to those found in big cities. No matter where you live, regardless of the distance from the manufacturing areas, standard goods of known quality and value are immediately available.

The retailer is the consumers' link with the vast American production machine. Without that link, the abundance made possible by mass production would be denied to millions. The store, like the factory, directly affects the well-being of all.

A CHANCE TO HELP

Pampans who derive personal satisfaction from helping someone in need will have another opportunity to help during the week of March 15-22.

That will be known as the Bundle Week, and all families are being asked to prepare packages of used or unused clean clothing, to be distributed to the needy in Europe, Asia and the Philippines.

In time of need so many lands look to the United States for help. They picture as the home of the most fortunate people in the world. Americans have responded well in the past to all calls, and in the most American way—the voluntary way. Perhaps that is the reason the response has always been so wholehearted.

The Nation's Press

IS GENERAL MARSHALL PRO-BRITISH?
(Truth, London England)

General Marshall's appointment as United States Secretary of State, in succession to Mr. Byrnes, has had a surprisingly good press in this country. Many and fulsome have been the tributes paid to him, and care has been taken to present him as a very good friend to Britain. The former United States Chief of Staff may well deserve to be thus acclaimed. It is to be hoped, however, that he will reflect upon the forgiving nature of the British people. There is no sense in blinking the fact that this distinguished soldier played some odd tricks during the war. One was his cable to General Eisenhower congratulating him on the capture, by Americans, of Brussels and Antwerp. Another was the ante-dating of Montgomery's assumption of command in the Ardennes by three days, so that the British General was made to appear responsible for the initial debacle.

The British knew nothing of such actions until the war was over. If the same pettiness of spirit is shown by the American General in his new role, it will not help Anglo-American relations, especially as there is some evidence to suggest that even the British Government has become tired of the constant denigration of this country in the United States.

FEDERATION?

A United States of Europe? With Russia threatening to roll across Europe to the Channel, and more and more Western statesmen apparently are toying with the idea of a United States of Europe—perhaps not one nation indivisible but at least a federation knit closely enough to create an integrated industry and a common plan of defense.

Such a federation, or United States, if it existed today, would be worth more than a ship load of gold to Uncle Sam. It would help to balance off the Russian threat, and it would provide a second "great" nation with whom we could exchange wealth for our common property. We are very much alone in the economic world, being the only "have" nation; not another one can buy our goods in appreciable quantities except on money borrowed from us.

The likelihood of any such United States in time to flourish in this post-war turmoil, is not impressive, but for the first time in a century, at least a possibility—the possibility arising out of need.

When Napoleon tried to force a European federation, Germany opposed, principally because France would dominate it. With the arrival of Hitler on the scene, however, the situation was reversed, and subsequently France has seen that Germany would dominate any such union.

Here are more questions and answers from the magazine issued by the Foundation for Economic Education:

(Question) What do you folks at the Foundation mean by the word "statism," spelled with an "e"?

The dictionary does not seem to justify such a word.

"Many writers use the word a coined word, using the word 'state' in its meaning as the political power over individual citizens, and 'ism' meaning the cult devoted to that idea or practice.

"We use it, as more and more are coming to use it, because there seems to be no other word in the English language to express the meaning of 'a belief in the subjugation of the individual to the power of a central government; that is a totalitarian state'.

"Many writers use the spelling 'statism' in the dictionary, but inasmuch as the dictionary gives a directly opposite meaning to the word spelled in that way we prefer to avoid it. The dictionary defines 'statism' as 'a belief in state government, as in a republic, as contrasted with a belief in communism or a soviet government'.

"It is confusing until the distinction between the two forms is made clear. In essence, the word 'statism' by dictionary definition means a decentralization of power toward a federal government over that state; 'statism' by our definition means a concentration or centralization of power in the hands of a central state complete unto itself. There seems to be no other word which expresses the same idea that 'statism' expresses and which would be devoid of that confusion.

(Question) Is the United States on the gold standard?

(Answer) The various forms of money which are legal tender in present-day America are inconvertible into gold. The government is not entitled to claim their redemption in gold, whether gold tallicoin or gold coins.

"The nation's legal tender is chiefly paper money printed and issued by the Government or by the Federal Reserve Bank, which, however, the lawyers may describe their constitutional character, are agencies of the Federal Government. It is true that the United States government has issued the largest gold hoard in the world. It is moreover true that inflation or the increase in the amount of money in circulation and of deposits subject to check, has gone so far in the United States as it has in other countries, for instance, France. It is finally true that the Government occasionally sells small quantities of gold against dollars, exclusively for export into foreign countries.

"But the dollar is today fiat money. This country is no longer on the gold standard. From the point of view of legal forms, any answer to this question may be controversial. Yet, what counts in life are not legal subtleties but the actual state of affairs of people as individuals.—Ludwig von Mises.

(Question) Is labor, according to economic thought, a commodity? If so, doesn't that degrade those who work to the status of sand and gravel?

(Answer) "The laborer is not a commodity, but the service he renders cannot escape economic law. That means quite simply that if the service is made artificially costly, the price will rise of its market, if given monopoly status. It has achieved monopoly status.

"The above quoted answer is from 'Controlled vs. Uncontrolled Economy' by Bradford B. Smith. Single copy available on request for those who have not already received a copy from the Foundation.—S. M. Curtis.

Yugoslavs Halt U. S. Investigating Team

ATHENS (AP)—A team sent to Yugoslavia by the United Nations Balkan Investigating Commission was reported today to have been turned back at the border. A report from Philadelphia to the press of the here said yesterday that Yugoslav authorities refused to let the team into their country on the grounds their government had not instructed them in regard to it.

Economically, a combine would relieve some of the headaches of European industry today, wiping out barriers and permitting a free flow of goods. French and Danish agriculture would complement German industry. French iron would be readily available to industrial Ruhr, where human energy and industrial know-how would help to raise standards all over Europe.

Thus the economic phase of the Ruhr and Saar problems would be substantially reduced, problems which cannot otherwise be settled to France's liking without stirring in the Germans war-breeding bitterness.

Such might be the immediate picture of a federation of European states. On the other hand there are observers who would not touch the idea with a ten-foot pole. They are afraid Russia might take over the federation when it was yet struggling to get on its feet. Or that, under its own power it would become the mighty military machine which Hitler was about to make of it.

Perhaps a more likely development will be a closely cooperating community of Western nations, based on a community of interests and also made necessary by Russia's self-isolation and growing military might.

MACKENZIE'S Column

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

While there can remain small doubt in most minds regarding the far-reaching implications of President Truman's declaration of a new world-policy which is calculated to halt Communistic aggression, a good many folk are puzzled as to just why Greece and Turkey have been selected as the symbols of Uncle Sam's determination.

Why shouldn't we have picked any other two countries in the path of the Red advance? How is it that these two small Balkan states cast such great shadows in global affairs? This column has been asked to elucidate.

Perhaps the easiest way to arrive at our answers is first to set down the objective of this dynamic new policy. To epitomize, it's aimed at preserving the security—both military and political—not only of the United States and the Western Hemisphere, but is designed to maintain world peace.

Communism means no words in making it clear that it is out to destroy what it terms the capitalistic governments. It employs not only political weapons but bolsters them

PREROGATIVE

Personal feelings need not underlie the Martin maneuver, for he understands well. House members have been aggrieved for years over the holly-holly way in which the Senate has handled all legislative handiwork. For the sake of harmony, the Martin men, and Sam Rayburn's razzle-dazzle boys before them, have surrendered to the senators' occasional whims.

Now, they intend to assert themselves, especially as revenue-raising responsibility is a Constitutional prerogative of the House. All tax measures must originate there.

Even more compelling is the fact that the Speaker's crowd must run for re-election next year, and they feel that they must offer extra-constitutional inducements to the Senate. They also note that most of the senators in the opposition camp are safely seated for from two to four years.

COMPROMISE

The belligerence exhibited by "Fiery Joe," as his critics now refer to him in semi-ironic vein, has already had the intended effect on the Senate conferees who have been named to negotiate a compromise between the six-billion and the four-and-a-half billion figures. It is as if the show of House recalcitrancy has already softened the opposition.

The Senatorial representatives insisted at first that they would not touch the six-billion figure above five billion as the maximum. Now they are passing around word that they might settle for five and a quarter billion. That would be a compromise between the two bodies' original programs.

CUSTOMARY

Without indulging in too many technical details that kind of deal would permit (1) an approximate two-billion-dollar slice off the public debt as a token economy; (2) a billion-dollar cut in the allowance for national defense, and (3) a twenty percent reduction in personal income taxes "across the board," or staggered so as to give the lower brackets a slight preference over their more favored brethren.

And Speaker Martin's intervention, it might be noted—he has been busy with customary for Speakers of the House to play the leading role in final fixing of revenue plans. "Fiery Joe" is walking in the footsteps of former Speakers Langworth, Rainey, Byrnes, Garner, etc.

RIVAL

Mutual friends begin to believe that the two Ohio Senators Taft and Bricker have fallen into the same sort of political relationship that existed between F.D.R. and Alfred E. Smith from 1928 to 1932. They failed to discuss frankly their rival presidential candidacies, and grew embittered.

Mr. Taft may believe that it is his turn to make the try, but, contrary to published reports, he does not want Senator Bricker to step aside openly. That would be accepted as a Taft-for-President proclamation, and the Cincinnati man is not yet ready to announce his intentions.

On the other hand, Mr. Bricker seems to feel that he may yet be the beneficiary of a Taft-Dewey-Vanderberg stalemate. He is a statesman and politician in his own right. He apparently sees no reason for becoming a Taft user on the political stage.

QUICKIES

By Ken Reynolds

Such might be the immediate picture of a federation of European states. On the other hand there are observers who would not touch the idea with a ten-foot pole. They are afraid Russia might take over the federation when it was yet struggling to get on its feet. Or that, under its own power it would become the mighty military machine which Hitler was about to make of it.

Perhaps a more likely development will be a closely cooperating community of Western nations, based on a community of interests and also made necessary by Russia's self-isolation and growing military might.

So They Say

We in America find ourselves slighting education at home, minimizing it and failing adequately to explain ourselves to other people—Assistant Secretary of State William Benton.

No emergency has ever been so threatening to the idea of public education as the shortage of teachers, unrest in the profession, and the decreasing number of promising and able young men and women who are preparing for teaching.—Mrs. L. W. Hughes, president National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

TONIC FOR JITTERS

Those of us who get the airplane jitters from reading about the crashes overlook the fact that the percentage of air casualties to total passengers carried is really very low compared with past years. But the life insurance companies are not so careless with statistics. The Institute of Life Insurance reports that currently 98 per cent of a representative group of life insurance companies will issue policies at standard rates to passengers on scheduled commercial air lines in the United States, compared with 87 per cent a year ago. The companies surveyed represented more than 80 per cent of the total life insurance business.

NASSAU, Bahamas.—There are two worlds in Old Nassau—one black and two centuries apart—and all that links them is song and a worn guitar.

The world of today lies along Bay Street, where rich visitors from New York and London and Montreal drive by in the cushioned comfort of imported cars, society ladies shop in expensive stores for doekin gloves and fine British woolsens, and duty-free Scotch is cheap at $5 a bottle.

The world of yesterday is on the native wharf block A6, where weathered sloops from the "out islands" come to market, guided by the timeless compass of seamen, the sun by day the stars by night. Scores of small craft, paint-blistered, sails furled, ride at anchor voyaging hundreds of miles across blue seas to bring cargoes of island produce and livestock—green tomatoes, mangoes and pineapples, beating sheep and squealing pigs. This is the Bahamian life that has outlasted pirate raids and international wars, hurricane and tidal wave. Each tiny boat is an ambassador for half a dozen families scattered in the islands, carrying the coconut harvest of one, the mounful calf sent by another. The captain will get the best price he can, and bring back cheap yards of dress material, sacks of thick-grained salt, kegs of nails, sugar, canned goods — and spicily Nassau gossip.

White men and black men come in the boats, and many bring their ladies for an exciting day in the big city of the Bahamas (Pop. 30,000). A boatman picks up an old guitar and thrums it softly. Soft Bahamian voices join in the old island tunes, and laughter floats inward. It is then the moneyed tourists like to come down to the wharf and listen to the song and the guitar—and are linked for a moment with the strange old islanders for whom life is a strange enchantment and poverty a long adventure. While the song lasts the two worlds of Nassau are one.
