SWB Rejects Compromise Rate Hike

By TEX DeWEESE

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. has turned down the Pampa City Commission's compromise rate schedule submitted to the utility Nov. 28, City Manager Mack Woford announced today.

In a letter to the mayor and city commissioners from David Dillard, SWB district manager at Amarillo, siad it was set forth that the "the company does not feel rates proposed by the City Commission are adequate to insure the type of service Pampa wants and needs now and in the future in the face of constantly rising costs of doing company, the city manager stated, further requests that the Commission review the utility's earning situation and approve the rate schedule as initially requested by Southwestern Blastoff Set For 8:53 p.m.

- Seventeen, the last of America's proud Apollo flights to the moon, lifts into the dark on a column of fire tonight - a dazzling windup to an epoch of lunar exploration.

Astronauts Eugene A. Cernan, Ronald E. Evans and Harrison H. Schmitt were pictured as "all charged and ready" for the 13-day journey that may be man's final visit in this century to his celestial neighbor.

The blastoff is scheduled for 8:53 p.m. CST. Despite the few ever-present hitches, launch officials called the countdown of Apollo 17 one of the most trouble-free in the 11-flight Apollo series.

The skyscraper-tall Saturn 5 rocket and its cargo of men, scientific equipment and sacrificial mice will rise with a hellish roar on a 2,200-foot tail of flame that may be visible 500 miles away.

For the half million or more people expected in the area, veather conditions were not perfect. The forecast called for considerable cloudiness at 12,-000 feet - the altitude the rocket reaches in less than a min-

Although this is the last moon flight, it is not the end of space exploration. Three crews of three men each plan to man an earth-orbiting laboratory-for periods of one and two months next year, and the space shuttle is in prospect for the late 1970s.

Cernan'and Schmitt will land on the moon at 2:54 p.m. next Monday near the Taurus mountains and the Littrow crater in the northeast section of the moon. That area is scientifically interesting because it is expected to have the newest, as well as some of the oldest, rocks in the moon's 4.6 billion years of existence.

During their record 75 hours on the lunar surface, the astronauts will explore, collect samples and place experiments leaving the lunar lander they call Challenger three times for seven-hour periods.

They plan to drive their moon car a total of 23 miles in quest of material that Schmitt said would "fill in missing chapters in the evolution of the moon the first and the last."

He explained rocks returned by five previous moon-landing crews ranged in age from about 3 billion to 4.2 billion years old.

Evans, in the command ship named America, will conduct experiments from 60 miles over the surface in his 75 revolutions of the moon. By splashdown in the Pacific on Dec. 19, the command pilot will have flown 1.4 million miles

Board Decision Due Wednesday On Closing Pampa Junior High

At the close of an extended talk session on utilization of buildings and campuses yesterday, members of the Pampa school board committed themselves to a decision at the next regular meeting Dec. 13. The plan most favored at present would close Pampa Junior High School, create a "middle school" for seventh graders at either Horace Mann or Sam Houston and place eighth and ninth grades at Robert E. Lee.

This was the recommendation of Dr. James Malone and his administrative staff. It would be a "stop-gap" measure at best for a projected three-year period. After that time, it is 'elt that enrollment should have stabilized and other preparations could be completed to move the ninth grade to high school and place seventh and eighth grades in a middle school.

It was opposed by board member John Gikas who felt the problems attendant to a shrinking enrollment should be met by leaving campuses as they are for the three-year period and cutting down on classroom teachers units as a means of lowering operating

This was cited as bad for teachers moral in that a continued falling enrollment over the three-year period would require more curtailment of classroom teachers units until well-qualified teachers would seek employment elsewhere in the interest of

On the other hand, the middle school proposal tied with the closing of Pampa Junior High would be a planned three-year package that should weather variances in pupil count with less change than the Gikas

There is one inescapable fact spelled out in dollars and cents: something will have to be done. Board members decided to meet the situation head-on knowing it would make then

Actually, there are some well-meaning parents who still do not know that much of the money available to the local school system for the quality of education it now enjoys is tied directly to the number of students enrolled. Although enrollment has fallen below the critical five thousand mark, there was a year of grace built into state aid. Next year is a different story.

Neither would local tax payers be financiallyable to pay the rate demanded to maintain the status quo if they were emotionally inclined to do so. Hence the need to make a ifornia theologian urged the nation's churches to stop constructing new buildings and put a fixed limit on salaries paid church employes—as part of an effort to trim consumption of the earth's resources.

"Simplicity, frugality and self-sacrifice" are demanded in the times ahead, says the Rev. Dr. George Rupp, of the University of Redlands

Declaring that the planet cannot sustain indefinitely continued economic growth, and that justice demands more equitable distribution of available resources, he told a general assembly Tuesday of the National Council of Churches

"The most crucial tendency that must be confronted is the materialism that pervades American Life.

"Instead of acquiescing to western preoccupation with material products, the church must again work to focus human energies on what Paul (the apostle) calls the fruits of the spirit-on enterprises which sources and cause pollution."

He proposed that the representatives of 33 denominations with about 43 million members "go on record as opposing all further construction of church buildings."

"It seems to me that only a moratorium on the church's exhorbitant and unnecessary investment in physical plant can render credible our rejection of indefinitely continued economic

At the same time, he proposed that the assembly recommend that its member denominations set a maximum salary for all church employes-with money saved this way used to increase pay of those at the low end of the wage scale.

"This action would serve to symbolize our seriousness about reducing excessive consumption while at the same time emphasizing the need to redistribute the limited resources available," he said.

Noted anthropologist Margaret Mead told the assembly that modern knowledge and technology enabled the humanity to "really carry out the injunction to love thy neighbor as thyself."

At a news conference, she and two top theologians criticized the present way of teaching evolutionary theory, saying it often is presented as fact, rather than an unproved hypo-

Major Oil Companies Deny Cutback Report

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) - Major oil companies Tuesday denied a broadcast report that they planned to curtail retail service in the Midwest because of high cost, competition, and continued gasoline price wars.

Television station KUHI of Joplin reported Monday night that up to 12 states could be affected by cutbacks, including Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma Arkansas, Nebraska and Iowa. The station said Gulf already had announced a cutback and that curtailments were planned by Shell, Standard of Indiana, Mobil, and Humble oil companies Denials were issued by the companies from regional Midwest offices and from headquarters in New York and Gulf said in Chicago that the company had announced Oct. 10 it was disposing of some as- service.

sets. But, the spokesman said Monday, "This does not mean closing of stations."

He added that in cases where stations were sold, "we expect them to continue operations.' He added the $230 million in assets involved pertained to worldwide operations including refining and marketing. Flat denials of the report were issued in New York by Standard Oil of Indiana, Mobil Oil, and Humble Oil.

A spokesman for Shell said in Houston: "There is no substance whatsoever to the report Shell is reducing its retail operations in Midwestern areas.'

An American Oil spokesman said, if anything, American planned to "improve our customer base" in the Midwest."

Spokesman for the companies in Iowa and Oklahoma also denied any plans to curtail retail

'Nude Entertainment' Hurt By Court Ruling

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) - California's topless-bottomless entertainment industry is girding for a battle over an antinudity ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The court's decision gives state liquor authorities the power to begin enforcing regulations against topless waitresses and topless-bottomless entertainers.

Peter Sexton, deputy director of the California Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, said topless-only dancers still are allowed if the entertainer stays at least six feet away from the nearest customer on a stage at least 18 inches high. Topless waitresses, said Sexton, are out.

"Nude entertainment per se is on its way out," Sexton added.

The 6-3 Supreme Court ruling said that states can shut down bars that feature nude dancers and other "bacchanalian revelries on grounds that First Amendment freedom does not go beyond books and movies to gross sexuality' in public." Edward J. Kirby, director of the state Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, said the ruling will affect all other states, too. It was issued Tuesday in a California case. Nudie-bar owner Tammy

Heath said there is going to be a struggle if Kirby's department starts moving to revoke liquor licenses on the basis of the type of entertainment of"They've got one hell of a fight on their hands," she said. State lawmakers could overrule the liquor department's regulations against mixing liquor and full nudity. But such action would require the signature of Gov. Ronald Reagan. who endorsed a recent unsuccessful statewide antiobscenity initiative.

A) Yes, a widow or widower who can qualify may use the lower tax rates to compute his or her tax. You are en-titled to the benefit for certain widows or widowers if your husband (or wife) died within the two years preceding the year for which the tax is being computed and you meet the following requirements: 1) You must have been entitled to file a joint return with your husband (or wife) for the year of death-whether or not you actually filed jointly;

You have not remarried; You have a child or stepchild who qualifies as your dependent; and

4) You furnish over half the cost of maintaining your home, which is the principal residence of your dependent child or stepchild except for temporary absences.

Q) I spent over $800 for an operation on my 22-year-old son. I can't claim him as a over $750 and is not a student Can I still deduct his medical expenses on my return? A) Yes. You may deduct medical expenses paid for a person you could claim as a dependent except for the fact that he or she had income of $750 or more, or filed a joint return with his or her husband (or wife). This means that all other dependency tests must be met, including your furnishing over one-half of the person's total support for

Q) I received a $2,000 Federal disaster loan to repair damage caused to my business by tropical storm Agnes. The loan was cancelled and the debt forgiven. Does this have any effect on my taking a casualty loss deduction?

A) Yes. You must reduce your casualty loss deduction by the amount of the cancelled loan. If you have already taken the casualty loss deduction by amending your 1971 return without taking into account the cancelled loan, you must include the cancelled

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Bacause of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the

Legendary Hustler Titanic "Thompson" Describes Life, Experiences To AP

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) -In the spring of 1912, Alvin Clarence Thomas, 20, was in Joplin, Mo., beating a fellow named Snow Clark out of $500 in a game of nine-ball.

To give Clark a chance to get even, Thomas wagered $500 he could jump across the pool table without touching it. An old mattress was positioned on the floor beside the pool table. Then, with a running start, Thomas dived head-first over While Thomas who now lives in Colleyville, a Fort Worth suburb, was counting his money, someone asked Clark what his name was. "It must be Titanic," Clark said. "He sinks everybody.

From then on, Alvin Clarence Thomas was known as Titanic. and Snow Clark didn't know it, but he had just christened a legend. Ti, as his friends call him, went on to become the -111 feet. That was better than Paul Bunyan of hustling, gambling, bookmaking and flim

His last name became Thompson when he told New York newspapers that was his name when he was hauled in as a witness during the 1928 Arnold Rothstein murder case.

Rothstein was accused. though it was never proved of fixing the 1919 World Series in what became known as the Black Sox scandal

Now. 80, Thomas ("I only went by Thompson during the trial, but I guess it stuck") lives here with his wife, Jeanette, 63. They have a 13-yearold son, Ty Wayne Thomas.

Although "semi-retired" from hustling for about three vears. Titanic remembers the days, when-by his own admission- he was the best hustler and perhaps the best athlete around

Despite efforts to discourage stories ... as this-he has no objection in sitting for an interview-he says "I guess everyone of any maturity connected with hust ling has heard of me."

That's understandable, since during the course of his career he won about $1 million in a long-running poker game with Nick the Greek as his partner, shot a course record 29 on the back nine of Fort Worth's Ridglea County Club to take Byron Nelson for about $2,000, killed five men-all trying to rob him-and caused another man to drown himself. "He was bothering a girl friend of mine"-and married at least four and possible five "pretty young girls.

"I think it was five," he said. What number are you, Honey?" he asked his wife.

'I don't know she said. "I haven't been around all that to marry a "more settled fellow named Pretty Boy Floyd," he said with a grin.

In his unpublished and unfinished autobiography, "King of the Huslters," Thomas describes himself as having, "a mind which would put a computer to shame, hands of steel with a velvet touch and nerves as cold as the iceberg that sank the ship from which I obtained my nickname.

His "hands of steel" have arthritis now, but he still offers to "play anybody except Lee

Brigitte Bardot In

Top o' Texas

'Trevino's the best pitch and putt player in the world." Thomas said. "But I'll play anybody else."

Thomas was born Nov. 30. 1892, in Monette, Mo. Until recently, it was always written that he was born somewhere in Arkansas, sometime in the 1890's. He and his wife finally found a record of his birth in an old census tract.

"Daddy was off gambling somewhere the night I was born," he said. "They say he came home for awhile but I never knew him 'cause he left again when I was a couple of months old

His stepfather and some uncles taught him a few games, "poker, gin rummy, all I really needed to know at first." He combined that with more of his share of athletic ability-"I could stand flatfooted and jump anyone else did at that time. It's

When I was 16, I left home, he said, "to find out what the world was like. Before I left, my mother made me promise her that I would never smoke or drink-and I've kept that promise 'till this very day.'

Eventually. Thomas found himself in Oil City, La., a boom town running over with profits of recently struck wells.

He started walking the streets and ended up in a bar watching men play stud poker. A tall man wearing a big diamond ring told him $25 would get him into the Titanic asked someone who the tall gentleman was and was told. Lee Thomas.

"Right away I knew it was my daddy, so I put my $25 down and sat down to clean him out."

"We cleaned the other guys out real quick and my father told the newcomers to stay out. We went eye to eye for over six hours." Titanic said.

Finally the elder Mr. Thomas stood up. "You've won about all the cash from me that I care to lose," he said. "$1,600."

Titanic counted $1,600 worth of chips and pushed them toward his father. "You never had a chance." he said. "And that's why I'm gonna give your money back-'cause I know you're my daddy.

Daddy got real tickled when he found out his own son had cleaned him out and he began hugging me," he said. "But he did take back his chips. "That was the biggest thrill I ever had-wiping out my old After hanging around Oil City for a few more weeks. Titanic got the urge to move again. "Daddy understood," he said. "I heard he died 13 years later

So Titanic began to tour the country and build a sevenfurlong reputation for hustling- hustling as opposed to gambling.

'Like I told a judge one time when I was arrested for gambling," he said. "I wasn't gambling-there wasn't any chance to it. No one in the room had a chance but me.

He never cared much for an even bet-"too much luck involved," he says. If he bets on something, a person could count on him having the percentages on his side. If he could, he would have all the odds with him.

When asked why he didn't turn professional and pack his golfing ability on the PGA circuit, he said, "not enough money in it. In those days, you might win a tournament and get a golf bag instead of cash. Hustling golf pros was more profitable."

Titanic always has been troubled by dizziness and carried some pills with him for that reason. Once he was in a "mild" poker game and one of the men in the game. "this goofy old drunk," saw him take one of his He asked Titanic for a pill and after a small argument. Thomas consented.

A few days later they were on the golf course together and the other fellow wanted to play Titanic for $500 a hole.

"This guy was goofy, but he was a fine golfer and I didn't feel like playing him even-I probably could have whipped him, but I didn't feel like trying-so I said I'd play him if he took one of my pills. "He said, 'sure' but I slipped enough to win.' His nemesis was horse racing. "Never could beat them," he said. "They're too unpredictable." He figures he dropped about $2 million on horses.

Once he fixed two 6-to-5 horses in a three-horse race and sunk about $20,000 on the third, an 8-to-1 longshot.

He couldn't understand it when one of the 6-to-5 nags broke the track record and the other nearly beat her. It seems he had given his money to two long-gone stable boys instead of Nellie A. came down the stretch about 100 yards ahead of the rest. Then for no reason at all, she just fell down and broke her leg. They had to shoot her." he laughed ...

Titanic's notoriety has caught the attention of Hollywood, several magazines and newspapers over the world. This has made it necessary for him to have a 'semi-official' agent-Dr. James Hill, a Dallas dentist

Dr. Hill recently helped negotiate a contract in which Sports Illustrated paid Titanic the highest sum they have ever paid for a first-person story, he said.

The amount is believed to be around $5,000 but Titanic wasn't satisfied. Dr. Hill said, "he finally agreed on one condition. The contract had to stipulate that Bud Shrake (a Sports Illustrated executive editor) had to play Ti in gin rummy.

"When we got the contract, it said in fine print, 'and please' don't make Mr. Shrake play gin rummy with Mr. Thomas."

Titanic is feeling his age now. He can still "hit a dime with a pistol at 20 feet-when there's money on the line." He bowls everyday and averages about 185. But hustling is slow, now. "The law's got everybody scared and I suffer for it.

It takes money to hustle in the big time, and that's another reason for his semi-retirement. 'He's always taken advantage of greedy people," Dr. Hill said. And greedy people now have taken advantage of him."

But Titanic probably doesn't worry too much. "Money never meant anything to me, anyway," he said "Except something to play with. Maybe if it had, I would have kept some of,

"Since price-fixing is illegal under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, how can the legal profession get away with it?" asks author Murray Teigh Bloom in the magazine's December issue.

In recent months, Bloom notes, federal government trust-busters have moved against the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, the American Institute of Architects and the American Society of Civil Engineers, all of whom have been charged with eliminating price competition among their members.

Yet similar price-fixing is rampant among attorneys, with

LUBBOCK -- The Ranch Headquarters at the Museum of Texas Tech University has been closed to all but groups visiting by special arrangement; it was announced Tuesday.

By working closely with private business firms, VA training specialists helped employers to set up 19,266 new job "slots" in which veterans may receive on-the-job training and thus be eligible for VA payments in addition to the wages paid by the employer.

During its first 15 months of operations, the VA-industry cooperative program has resulted in 103,600 new job-training "slots." During the same period the Waco Regional Office training specialists have arranged 5,264 openings for veterans job training.

"Slots" are openings employers are willing to fill with qualified veterans using GI Bill apprenticeship or job-training benefits with the understanding completion will lead to permanent jobs.

Under the "outreach" program, VA specialists visit employers; suggesting they place veterans in job-training 'Slots" to develop skilled personnel tailored to the PERSONAL FINANCE A Cloudy 1973 in The Crystal Ball?

By CARLTON SMITH

Since we predicted last January, 10 months before the event, the outcome of the recent presidential election, maybe you'll pay a little more attention now that we're donning our soothsayer's hat again.

To be properly modest about it, we didn't actually predict the outcome-we only told readers how they could. The "Stock Trader's during an election year, to make the economy look Almanac" (1972 edition) was our authority for the crystalballing. It pointed out, at about this time last year, that if the widely watched stock market index, the Dow-Jones average, stood higher at election time than at the beginning of the year, an incumbent president should be an odds-on shoo-in.

Trading Stamps Return

NEW YORK (AP) - Like a deposed political party that senses a change in the climate of opinion, the trading stamp industry is planning a triumphal return to the market place. scene of a costly retreat two years ago.

The return, the renaissance, the second generation - all terms widely used by stamp people - is expected to be accompanied by innovations in product distribution that, if successful, will be revolutionary.

We have millions of stamp customers waiting for the return," said Curtis Carlson, head of Gold Bond stamps. "Many have books partially filled and are looking for additional outlets to continue their savings.

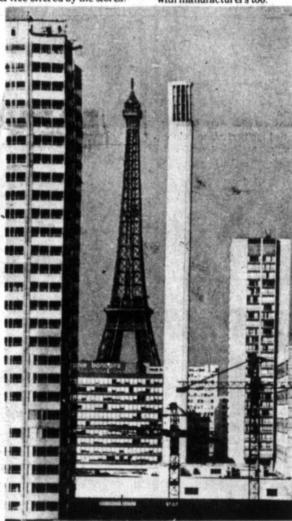

Irving Axelrod, head of Big Bonus stamps and chairman of the Trading Stamp Institute, insists that "most so-called discount stores will be giving stamps in the future." Asked why, another stamp man said, "People like them.

But there is more to it than that. When stores began dropping stamps, causing the industry to shrink from annual volume of $1 billion to around $750 million, they almost invariably went in for discounting

This, said William Preis, head of Triple S stamps, is what they should have been doing anyway simply because that is the nature of a supermarket, which generally accepts no credit cards, requires self-service, makes no deliveries and so on.

Many stores, however, are finding price cutting disastrous. Some are in serious financial trouble. In many instances, stores are selling below cost, and so feel that attracting customers that way is to court dis-

The broadest perimeters of the year-end rally are October and January, the narrowest are the four final days of December into the first two of January.

Sharing shoes can lead to a beautiful friendship

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Apropos the amputee who voiced complaint over the necessity of purchasing two shoes when only one was needed: She [or he] should have mentioned her shoe size and which appendage had been pruned-and the chances are that several shoe-mates might have responded.

I'm an amputee myself, and I'm always on the prowl for a female, minus her left leg, who wears a size 6-B. Sharing shoes can be the basis for a beautiful friendship. Her left for my right is a profitable swap. Since the demise of the shoe exchange-originally in St. Louis and then Santa Monica-amputees are pretty much on their own. Of course, an amputee can have a custom-designed shoe made, but this is usually more costly than purchasing a pair and discarding one

DEAR ABBY: Let "AFRAID OF DOGS" try this: If a dog approaches in a menacing manner, say, "Shalom" in a firm but cordial way. Keep repeating it until the dog retreats

I tried this once, by accident, and it worked, so now I do it every time a dog looks like it is going to attack me. As many as three barking dogs have come toward me at once, and I kept repeating, "Shalom, Shalom," and, thank goodness, it's always worked. SHALOM IN LOUISVILLE

DEAR ABBY: If your recent column on fire safety saves even one life, its worth becomes priceless. May I add

The day I arrived home from the hospital, virtually helpless in a heavy cast, the fire chief paid me a visit. He noted the nature of my disability, and pointed out alternate escape routes. He then placed a large red fluorescent sticker on my front door to notify the first responding fire fighter that there was an invalid in the house.

When I could walk again, I notified the fire department. They came and removed the sticker to prevent firemen from risking their lives and wasting precious time on a the trump suit.

Then he led a heart to dummy's queen and really went into a huddle when the queen held.

Some players huddle for no apparent reason but eventually Byron found a play that was sure to bring home the slam if West held the ace of hearts. Let's see if you readers can find this sure-thing play.

Byron simply cashed dummy's ace of clubs and led the four of hearts to his 10-spot. West took his jack and found himself caught in the toils of an early end-play.

It didn't matter what he led. Byron was sure to take the rest of the tricks.

The ace of hearts lead would set up Byron's king. Byron would ruff in dummy; get to discard one of dummy's diamonds on the good heart and trump his third diamond with dummy's last trump. A low heart would allow the diamond discard immediately.

HOUSTON (AP) - If the top names in pro golf don't enter the $205,000 Houston Open in 1973, it won't be because the Houston Golf Association didn't put up the money, executive secretary John Davis says.

The futility of a sensitive situation confronted young Marty Domres of the Baltimore Colts last Sunday, after he started a game in which his predecessor, Johnny Unitas, made a dramatic final home appearance for the Colts.

The mental anguish hurt Domres much more than a back injury he received in the game against the Buffalo Bills.

Conclusion of the Beginning

Such is human nature that when the voyage of Apollo 17 passes into history, even those who have been most critical of the space program may experience a feeling of nostalgia-and perhaps even pride-about having lived through one of the most exciting and significant eras in human Appropriately, the last manned American mission into deep space for possibly decades to come will be both the most spectacular and the most scientifically rewarding fight of the entire Apollo series.

Among the "firsts of the last" will be the first nighttime launching, scheduled for 9:53 p.m. EST on Dec. 6. If coniditions are clear, the tail of fire of the mighty Saturn V rocket will be seen by millions within a 500-mile radius.

The two members of the Apollo 17 crew who will land on the moon on Dec. 11-moon-voyage veteran Eugene A. Cernan, commanding, and geologist Harrison H. Schmitt-will stay for a record 75 hours and make three outside excursions of seven hours each. (The third member. Ronald E. Evans, will remain in moon orbit in the Command Module.)

Schmitt, incidentally, will be the first scientist-astronaut to have participated in a space flight

Also to be recorded in the log of Apollo 17 will be some 26 experiments and investigative tasks the astronauts will conduct, nine of which, in this last-chance endeavor, will involve scientific instruments never flown before. Like their predecessors, the astronauts will probe into the moon's history, seeking more clues as to its origin and that of the universe itself.

Another 200 pc rocks and soil will be brought back to earth. These, along with an accumulating mass of data from instruments left on the moon, will keep scientists busy for years and help to bridge the gap that is foreseen between Apollo 17 and man's next venture to the moon or another planet It is difficult to believe that it all began a short 15 years ago. on Oct. 4, 1957, when the first Sputnik shocked the world into the realization that a new age had dawned and that a "new ocean," as John F. Kennedy later described it, beckoned mankind. Though it is history, it is difficult to believe that the successful landing of men on the moon and their safe return to earth was accomplished by Apollo 11 on July 20, 1969, a little more than nine years after President Kennedy enunciated the goal. It is' difficult to believe that when Apollo 17 splashes down in the Pacific on Dec. 19, 1972, this brief era will have ended.

But it will not be the end. As Eugene Cernan said recently, "It's just the conclusion of the Skylab, the manned earth-orbiting laboratory, lies ahead, as does the development of reusable shuttle rockets and the first joint U.S.-Soviet venture. An American space probe continues to wing toward Jupiter and beyond. Mariner 9. still in orbit around Mars, has photographed that planet's entire surface. An instrument landing on Mars, designed to seek evidences of life, is scheduled for 1976. Aware that he will be the last Apollo astronaut to leave the moon, Cernan reflected on what he would do and think at that

"I'll probably stand there and look back at the earth. I will contemplate the fantastic series of events that brought man to the moon. And I'll look at the dream of man one day going there, too.

The Apollo saga will be ended. But not the dream

Solution to Atomic Waste?

There's seldom a silver lining without a dark cloud behind it. Not the least of the problems associated with atomic energy. which we one thought would solve mankind's energy needs for all time, is how to dispose of highly dangerous atomic waste. The method currently used today is the deep underground

A German engineer has come up with a bold idea-firing the wastes into that great big nuclear furnace we call the sun. It would be costly, he admits, but so is burial. The beauty part is that the radioactivity of the wastes could be utilized, under the right circumstances, to power the rockets that carry

Here's One Of Better Good Guys

WASHINGTON (NEA)-The thinned-down posse of Republican governors gathering at Phoenix predictably will be griping that President Nixon didn't lend a real hand this fall to some of their campaigning brethren and other candidates. But their party problem is bigger than Put aside for the mmoment all the stuff about how both parties are weakening, how the ties of allegiance to them have grown fragile, etc. They still do exist, they still are used as vehicles for electing people to major office, and they must be measured by certain standards of performance.

The thing to say about the Republicans is that they are poor party-builders and have been for a long time.

When they were plunged into minority status by Franklin Roosevelt's ascendancy, the GOP took a long time to wake up to what had happened to them. For a while thereafter, the only times they won anything big were when voters got made at the Democrats and reacted at the polls, as in the GOP resurgence in 1938 and its 1946 victories reflecting accumulated irritation and weariness after World War II.

Gen Dwight Eisenhower's personal popularity brought the party, in 1952 and 1956, its first real chance to come back, to regain majority status. The Republicans blew it.

Who would believe that a party whose candidate won the presidency by 9.5 million votes in 1956 could drop to a pathetic total of 14 governors, 154 of 435 U.S. House members and a third of the Senate seats in 1958?

Some very skillful men had been involved in getting Eisenhower nominated and elected the first time. If they did not exactly vanish into the woodwork, they evidently were distracted by other tasks thereafter, and certainly their numbers did not increase.

Since that period, they've relied mostly upon divisions within the tangled Democratic party to bring them what successes they've had. They did get back into heavy dominance of the governors' ranks, not long ago possessing the governors' chairs in all the big northern states down to the population level of Missouri. Their edge was 31 to 19. But here we are in 1972 and its's the Democrats 31

Moreover, the Republicans are in a spell where they're \ road traffic does not offer many going to have the presidency once again for at least eight years, and once more they're showing virtually no talent for party-building.

Every political analyst worth his salt knows the American voters, in considerable degree, are up for grabs The opportunity is golden. But if the Democrats are faltering, so are the Republicans. They have a positive genius for fielding lousy candidates. They don't seem, on the whole, to know how to build up good men for the great quest for office. They play at politics like college graduates who meet from time to time for reunions. A lot of them behave between election years as if politics were a distasteful exercise that had to be gone through periodically.

but mercifully did not last long. This, of course, doesn't free Mr. Nixon from some blame. For he and the people who brought him to success surely have grasped the party's need for building up. The point is that the burden of failure has to be widely shared.

The GOP does have some bright exceptions, like Govs. Daniel of Washington, Robert Ray of Iowa, William Milliken of Michigan, Francis Sargent of Massachusetts. They work at it. Most of the rest are a bunch of country-clubbers who now are complaining that Mr. Nixon didn't help them make it down the fairway.

WASHINGTON (NEA)-I would like to celebrate today a man named Walter Smith. The nation has not heard of him, but if there were far more like him it would be a better place.

Smith drives a small shuttle" bus on daily runs between the Washington headquarters of the department of Health, Education and Welfare and the giant national complex of the Social Security Administration on the outskirts of Baltimore. I've known him for only a dozen days, but that was long enough for me to judge him. One each of those days, we talked continously for almost an hour. First off, Smith is superb at his job. He drives with real skill and concentration, even as he is talking vigorously. He takes pride in his work, though threading one's way through the thick maze of Washington-Baltimore open iks of excitement.

Smith's runs are scheduled. He tries hard never to be late. And he won't depart ahead of time, either, for he reasons that people maked down for a 9:30 shuttle should not find that it left at say 9:27. He resist pressure from passengers who urge him to dash off early.

So, in an era when millions are complaining about the

RIGHT KIND OF WELFARE REFORM

Congress debated several schemes for "welfare reform" in its recently completed session. Yet these plans would have increased federal involvement in welfare and set up a guaranteed annual income at tremendous cost. Constructive Congressmen should study the genuine welfare reform in the state of California which cut the cost of welfare at the same time as it increased benefits to the genuinely needy.

The California welfare reform plan cracked down on welfare cheaters and took steps to restrict aid to those who really needed it. As a result, welfarerolls have gone down in? 14 of the last17 months. Since the reforms were initiated in March of 1971, the welfare rolls in that state have been reduced by 220,653 persons.

During that time California has managed to save half-a-billion dollars in additional welfare costs because of reform. In 38 of California's 58 counties. property taxes have been reduced because of welfare savings. Los Angeles County, which probably has the highest property taxes in the nation, has reduced its tax rate 40 cents per $100 of assessed caluation.

The most significant aspect of this reform program is that welfare payments to those genuinely in need have actually been increased. Those people whohave no way to support themselves have had their grants raised by 30 per cent, while major cost-of-living increases have been given to the aged, the blind and disabled.

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D. Facts Should Help Egg Industry

Dear Dr. Lamb - I read your column about your receiving a letter from a legal firm representing the egg industry and your reports of the high cholesterol in an egg yolk as being detrimental to the egg industry. don't see how this could be. It should help them. I now buy twice as many eggs as I ever did before because of your column. You stated two egg whites could be substituted for one whole egg and the whites of eggs are a very good source of protein. also feed the yolks to the dog for a shiny coat as you suggested. It seems to me the health of the nation should come first. I just wish that there were more recipes available - perhaps the egg industry could put out more recipes — using egg whites. We find potato salad just as tasty with six egg whites as with three whole eggs. Radishes, pimiento, and paprika give it color. I had the simplest tip on substitute for sour cream. whipped low fat cottage cheese in a blender with something else. We thought it equally as flavorful as sour cream, but I have forgotten the other ingredient. It was so simple I never wrote it down. Such recipes are what we need from these industries. I for one would just as soon keep my hushand around for a good many years yet. Thank you for your informative column. Dear Reader-Your observation is absolutely correct. If individuals used two egg whites instead of a whole egg as was originally recommended, they would end up using more eggs not less eggs just as has been your experience. Many bakery products and other items can be prepared in this way. I have included a lot of recipes in my new book, About Food & Cooking for Health," to help solve some of the problems people like vourself have. The sour cream substitute recipe involves mixing together 1/4 cup of nonfat milk powder with 1 cup of cold water. Add this to 8 ounces of uncreamed cottage cheese, 2 teaspoons of lemon juice, and ¼ teaspoon of salt. Blend the mixture well and refrigerate until you are ready to use it.

I have been very pleased by the many letters I have received from readers supporting my position on pro-viding information to the public, and I agree the development of new products that can be used by people who have medical problems is an important contribution that can be made by industry. Even in the original column about eggs, I cited one of these egg products which provides eggs with one-fifth the amount of cholesterol and fat as ordinary whole eggs contain, so it is possible to do this just as the dairy industry has been so successful in providing a wide variety of useful low fat and nonfat products for the consumer. Thank you for your nice letter.

Strauss is within 10 votes of capturing the chairmanship of the Democratic National

The Dallas lawyer and former national treasurer has nearly 100 firms votes of the 105 necessary to replace Mrs. Jean Westwood, Sen. McGovern's handpicked incumbent.

While Strauss has a wide edge, former- Chairman Lawrence O'Brien is still strenuously scrambling to stage a comeback. In the homestretch, the race is between Strauss and O'Brien. The latter has two prominent backers vigorously promoting him--Sens. McGovern and Edward Kennedy. Both are operating more or less covertly.

Kennedy, because his support would be suspected as wanting to install a national chairman favorable to his aspirations. McGovern, because the South Dakota radical's approval would be "the kiss of death" to powerful party elements -notably COPE. politicalarm of the AFL-CIO, in the forefront of the drive to elect Actually, McGovern and Frank Mankiewicz, his top mastermind, are personally not enthusiastic about O'Brien.

Reluctant Choice Although supporting them before and during the Miami Beach convention, they booted him out as national chairman and installed Mrs. Westwood. As a face-saver, O'Brien was subsequently designated 'campaign coordinator''--with neither functions ner authority.

Now they are quietly backing him because of the flop of Maine national committeeman George Mitchell to replace Mrs. Westwood.

Several weeks ago. Mankiewicz suddenly launched a boom for Mitchell in an effort to stop Strauss. Mankiewicz figured that Mitchell, a onetime member of Sen. Muskie's staff, would rally support from party leaders bent on getting rid of Mrs. Westwood but uncertain about Strauss for various reasons

This crafty stratagem got nowhere. lankiewicz's ploy never got off the ground.

So with the showdown approaching and no hope for Mrs. Westwood or Mitchell, McGovern is secretly siding with O'Brien-whom he bounced as national chairman only a few months ago.

It's highly doubtful this undercover move will help O'Brien. But it does graphically illustrate one of McGovern's most revealing traits: his unctuous ability to rise above principle. The South Dakota radical is remarkably adept at that -- as he strikingly demonstrated throughout his campaign, beginning with: I'm 1,000 per cent for him

Contrary to previous reports, there will be no more hearings by the five-member special House Armed Services subcommittee named in October to make recommendations on this problem that directly affects nearly one million veterans.

Instead, the staff of the subcommittee has begun drafting a report for submission to the full Armed Services Committee by the end of this

That is in accordance with the directive by Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D.-La., committee chairman, when he set up the special subcommittee. He specifically requested the subcommittee's findings be in the hands of the full committee before the new Congress convenes (Jan. 3) so an early start can be made to consider its report.

What the subcommittee contemplates recommending-if anything-is a closely guarded secret.

Neither the five committeemen nor staff members are talking.

Rep. Hebert asserts he has no information; that the still-incomplete report has not been discussed with him by subcommittee chairman Samuel Stratton, D.-N.Y., or the other panel members.

Says Hebert, "They have a completely free hand. I'm not asking them, and they haven't told me. When they get ready to do so, that will be time enough."

CA

There is no explanation why the subcommittee called off further hearings and began work on its report. When Congress adjourned around the middle of October, Rep. Stratton stated several days of additional hearings would be held after the Nov. 7 election.

The decorated Navy veteran was definite about that. Also it is known a number of witnesses had asked to be heard--virtually all strongly in favor of recomputation of retired pay.

One full committee source has a possible explanation for this backstage change in plans. According to this authority, the five subcommitteemen (3 Democrats, 2 Republicans) have decided to recommend an exhaustive study of the entire military retirement system for the purpose of completely revamping it. In other words, the recomputation issue would be pushed into the background as part of a larger overall problem It is definitely known certain members of the subcommittee have privately hinted atfavoring such a course

No Surprise Meanwhile, Sen. John Stennis, D.-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, still has done nothing about making good on his promise to appoint a special subcommittee on recomputation.

That commitment was made in public on the Senate floor more than six weeks ago. There is little liklihood anything will be done about it until after the new Congress convenes--if then. Most probably, Stennis will

This is what happened on the survivors benefits legislation Congress finally enacted last September -- after the House--passed measure was installed in Stennis's committee for more than 10 months. The odds are strong he will do nothing about recomputation until and when the House acts.

Santa and the ICE KING

CHAPTER ONE A LONG WINTER

In Northern lands near the top of the world Christmas comes in the wintertime.

In Southern lands near the bottom of the world it is different. There Christmas comes in sum mer.

In June, July and August, Northern children swim and picnic and walk barefoot in the woods. But during these very same months Southern Hemisphere children ride sleds and skate and wear gloves every day. For these children summer doesn't come until December and Christmas itself often comes on the hottest day of the year.

There is, of course, a scientific explanation for this strange state of affairs and you have probably heard this explanation and accepted it as, very properly, you should. But some folk say there is another reason, not at all scienfific, why December comes in summer near the South Pole while at the same time coming in the winter at the North Pole. If you can believe these folk it is all because of Santa Claus and Oonik, the Eskimo boy, and the way the two of them long ago tamed the Ice King of the

Here is the story they tell: Once upon a time, in a far away Northern land, there a little Eskimo boy named Oonik. He lived with his

One year it seemed that the winter was colder than anyone could ever remember. The icy

Sometimes, when good to live in our summer Oonik and his father returned tents and hunt for bird eggs in home from hunting they had trouble finding the door to their own home because it was the grass!"

But weeks went by and May came and June and even July passed by and still the icy winds blew and the snow piled weeks at a time. PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) -Santa Claus standards are higher than ever this season, and old St. Nick himself might have a tough time getting hired by department stores.

So says Tressa Houck, operator of a Santa Claus employment service for four years in Palo Alto, just south of San Francisco.

"There are black Santas, bilingual Santas and Santas of all sizes and shapes," said Mrs. Houck, whose Western Girl agency has placed more than 400 Santas around the county over the years.

In an average day, she said, Santa may interview 1,200 chil-

Some kids get so excited they wet their pants - and Santa's while telling Mr. Kringle what they want for Christmas.

"We always keep a spare pair of pants handy," said Mrs.

College-age men make the best Santas, she said, because "they get along best with children and can take the wear and

"It's not easy. They need a mother's patience, a child's wonderment and most importantly they've got to believe in the spirit of Christmas."

And each little kiddie gets the same speech with the precision of the guard-change at Buckingham Palace.

Says Santa, "Hello, there, young man (or young lady). Been about a year since I've seen you. Come over and see your old buddy, Santa Claus."

Then comes the tough part, said Mrs. Houck. "Santas are taught to handle children like fragile China, and to use the word 'folks' instead of mother or father. So many children don't live with their original parents.

The big moment arrives when the child gets to recite the gift list, she said. Then Santa musters up his saintliest qualities to "listen, listen ... and listen some more. Then encourage the child to eat vege-

NEW YORK (AP) - Americans are going heavily into debt again after imposing a Spartanlike regimen on themselves beginning in the summer of 1969, when economic and other fears overpowered the buying instinct. In October alone they added credit of $1.92 billion, a record for any month. Excluding home mortgages, it brought consumer credit to nearly $150 billion and the peak of the surge may still be many weeks away. The greatest single category of credit is for the purchase of automobiles, although the more recent increases quite likely reflect in part the activities of early Christmas shoppers. Regardless of how the money is being used, it is considered significant because it indicates a fundamental change in consumer psychology - from fear to confidence, from lethargy to enthusiasm.

The disease that afflicted consumer buying had been accompanied by a surge in the rate of savings that peaked at 8.6 per cent of take-home pay in the second quarter of 1971.

Since that time the rate has been declining, although there were indications it was leveling off at a rate around 6.4 per cent. A drop of that magnitude adds at least $15 billion a year to
