CABOT ORDINANCE — ONE OF PAMPA'S NEWEST — One of the newest industries in the Pampa area which is already under production, is the ordinance plant operated here by Cabot. Above, a rough ingot is beaten into a rifle tube in one of the several operations which are carried out in production of gun tubes for the armed forces. This is but one of the many phases of industry which are being honored this week in Pampa during Texas Industrial week, April 1-7. A series of open houses is being held this week to show residents in the area the inside story of Pampa industry. For further details on the ordinance plant, turn to Page 20. (Smith Photo)

Tours, Discussion Scheduled As Pampa Salutes Its Local Industries

Pampa — center of the nation's carbon black industry and in the heart of the Panhandle's oil field — will salute its industries from April 1 through April 7 in the annual Texas Industrial week celebration.

A program of industrial tours, service club speakers and lectures to high school students has been planned by a chamber of commerce committee headed by E. L. Green, Jr.

"Progress and growth of the city of Pampa has been due in no small part to the growth and prosperity of the industries that have located here," said Mayor C. A. Huff. "The future welfare of the community is dependent on the continued progress of these industries under a free enterprise system."

Four civic luncheon groups will meet this week. Mayor Huff will talk to high school students on the industrial act as "hosts" at four industrial plants. Members and all other residents are invited to tour the factories.

Roy Smith, publisher of The Pampa Daily News, will speak to the junior chamber of commerce Tuesday noon. Members will then tour the Fisher Panhandle Grain Co.

The public is invited to tour the plant from 1 to 3 p.m. The skelly - Kingsmill plant will hold open house Wednesday, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Dudley Steele, Cabot Carbon superintendent, will talk to Rotarians at noon, after which Rotarians will be at the plant.

Postmaster W. B. Weathered will talk to the Lions Thursday. The Panhandle Packing Co. is holding open house that day. Cabot's ordinance plant, the gun tube factory, can be toured from 1 to 3 p.m. Friday. Kiwanis club members will hear Charlie Robinson, of the Fisher Panhandle Grain Co. at noon, after which they will see the Cabot plant.

The chamber of commerce industrial week tried to select a cross-section of Pampa industrial plants. They were particularly interested in those places producing capital goods. But the open houses and tours are intended to honor all plants in the Pampa area, the chamber said.

The Texas house of representatives and senate passed a concurrent resolution for the observance of Texas Industrial week noting that "the keystone in the American battle for world peace and prosperity will rest . . . upon the industrial might of Texas and the other states."

Mayor Huff also issued a proclamation for the week.

Cotter Seeks Constable Post

Prescient - level politics jumped ahead two notches Saturday as a former city policeman announced he would seek the office of constable and a justice of the peace filed with the county Democratic committee for re-election.

Thomas E. Cotter, 513 Lowry, said Saturday he was entering the Pet. 2 constable's race and would file with the Democratic committee Monday.

This will officially make the constable battle a three-cornered affair among Cotter, H. A. Doggett, juvenile officer, and Earl Lewis, former constable. (See COTTER Page 2)

Safecrackers Hit Texaco

Safecrackers hit Pampa Friday night and took about $80 from The Texas Co. Sales department, 400 E. Tynk.

The burglars broke the padlock on the door and entered The Texas Company office where the safe was.

"Who ever pulled this job, used techniques of professionals, for they wasted no effort in opening the safe," Sheriff's officers said Saturday after investigation.

The safecrackers knocked the safe knob off, punched the tumblers to gain entry to the safe. Inside they passed over everything except the cash, Texas Company Agent Marvin Harris said.

He reported $90.95 missing. Also in the safe were coupons of considerable value. Harris said, but they were not taken. Harris discovered the break - in early Saturday morning when he came to work.

The broken padlock was found in the yard. Aside from the knocked knob, Sheriff officers reported it had been a clean job and no evidence was left.

President Truman Speaks For Himself

WASHINGTON — (AP) A song the Eisenhower - for - president camp is plugging carries the line: "Why, even Harry Truman says 'I like Ike.'"

Harry Truman spoke out for himself last night on his likes. He told the Jefferson - Jackson dinner of Democrats: "I like politics."

Off-The-Cuff Statement Stuns Nation

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman announced last night he will not be a candidate for re-election.

He electrified the annual Jefferson - Jackson day dinner at the National Guard armory by declaring: "I shall not be a candidate for re-election."

A chorus of "noes" broke out among the 5000 Democratic politicians as the historic pronouncement was made.

It came as an off-the-cuff interpolation in his prepared address, which had contained no intimation of his intentions.

"I do not believe it is my duty to spend another term in the White House," the chief executive said.

A second before that he had declared:

"I have served my country long and I believe honestly."

Although the announcement obviously took most of the diners by surprise, several cabinet members at the speakers table appeared unamused.

Secretary of State Acheson did not so much as blink at the announcement. And Attorney General McGrath began shaking hands with well-wishers with no sign that Truman's announcement had surprised him.

Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, who has been reported to be Truman's choice for the Democratic presidential nominee was asked if the President's declaration made any change in the governor's position.

"It was all a surprise to me," Stevenson told a reporter. "I am still a candidate for the governor of Illinois and nothing else."

Asked if he would accept the Democratic nomination, Stevenson said: "I'll cross that bridge when I come to it."

"This breaks our hearts," said Attorney General McGrath when newsmen asked him for comment. "I am a strong administration supporter, said he had expected the announcement 'for a long time, but I didn't look for it tonight.'"

Humphrey added that the President's action "had opened up the picture to a number of good presidential possibilities."

Here are the exact words in which the President made the announcement of world-wide import. "I shall not be a candidate for re-election. I have served my country long and I think efficiently and honestly."

"I shall not accept a renomination. I do not feel that it is my duty to spend another four years in the White House."

Griefs of no, no, from the floor we must always remember the things the Democratic party has done, and the high ideals that have made it great."

In his speech the President lambasted the Republicans as "fakers" and phony propagandists.

The President did not give the nod, in any public way at least, to Gov. Stevenson or any of the other candidates.

Those in the race besides the incumbents are: E. L. Green, Jr., Elmo Eugenia and W. B. Moore.

Deadline for absentee voting is midnight, Tuesday, March 31.

Margaret Says She Doesn't Care

PORTLAND, Ore. — (AP) — Margaret Truman here for a singing concert, said last night it was "no surprise" to her that her father will not be a candidate for re-election.

"I've known about it before and I learned this afternoon (Saturday) that he was going to make the announcement tonight," she said.

"I've always felt that whatever he did was fine with me. Mother feels the same."

She said she didn't know what her father's future plans were. But of her own, she said: "This will make no change in my plans. I planned my musical career many years ago."

Miss Truman was told of her father's announcement only a few minutes before she was to appear on the stage.

Dr. Painter Resigns U-T

AUSTIN — (AP) — The University of Texas began looking for a new president Saturday as the board of regents accepted the resignation of Dr. Theophilus S. Painter.

The small, bespectacled, 62-year old scientist said he felt the time had come when he could relinquish the administrative reins without detriment to the school's progress, effective Aug. 31.

Painter said operation of the university is now running smoothly, and Regent Chairman Dudley K. Woodward, Jr., of Dallas indicated he thinks the "academic tornado" that swept the university from 1944 to 1946 has worn itself out.

Painter's decision to quit at this time came as a surprise even to some of his closest associates.

Painter asked — and Chancellor James P. Hart recommended — that he be relieved of his $15,000-a-year post to return to his former teaching and research job as distinguished professor of zoology at $9600 per nine-month school year.

Painter's decision to quit at this time came as a surprise even to some of his closest associates.

Milkmen Retain Grade 'A' Rating

All milk distributors and processors serving Pampa and Gray county have retained their Grade "A" ratings. A. N. Thorne, chief milk and dairy sanitarian said Saturday.

The ratings are based on continued inspections of herds, plants, barns, and products of each of the dairies and creameries. The ratings are made every six months.

The ratings are also based on United States Department of Health ordinances and codes. Thorne added.

Plants retaining their Grade "A" ratings are: Sunshine Dairy Foods; Plains Creamery; Borden Creamery; and Kelley Creamery.

Rogers Slips In Cut For Bureau Budget

An on-the-spot amendment to an appropriation bill introduced Friday by Rep. Walter Rogers, cutting $816,800 from the Bureau of Mines' budget, passed by 192 to 164 on a roll call vote.

When the appropriations bill came up, Rogers said, the intention of economy-minded Congress was for bureaus, departments and commissions, to absorb their cuts by dropping the "dead heads" from payrolls and increase salaries of efficient help.

The Pampa congressman said all of the departments co-operated except the Bureau of Mines by $620,000. When the bureau's budget came up Rogers jumped to the floor with an amendment, not previously contemplated, asking the $816,800 cut.

"We had a stiff fight on it and when it finally came back to the floor on a roll call vote it passed 192-164," Rogers said. One congressman asked Rogers: "Do you have any mines in your district, Mr. Rogers?"

Rogers chirped: "No, but I've got a heck of a lot of taxpayers that are sick of wasting money."

The Pampa congressman is expected to arrive in the district April 3; address a group in Tulla on April 4; return to Washington the following day.

He did not say in his telephone conversation with the Pampa Daily News Saturday afternoon, if he would be in Pampa during his three-day visit.

Congressmen are permitted to be away from Congress only three days at a time without first obtaining permission.

Mrs. Barnes, a past president of the NSA and publicity chairman of the cancer drive, died last year from cancer.

Local models will parade the newest fashions at 3 p. m. today in the junior high auditorium. Admission receipts will be turned over by the NSA sponsors to the Gray county cancer fund.

Other activities planned for the month include a hat stylist show and a series of bake sales. Mrs. Helen Warner, in charge of the bake sales, will welcome contributions.

On April 16 Mrs. Otis Nace will review a book at a silver tea in the city club room. On April 18, a square dance jamboree will be held.

Besides Mrs. Baten, she is survived by two other daughters, Mrs. Stella Crawford, Clarendon, and Mrs. Frances Clark of Brownsville; one son, E. R. McNeal of Stratford; one brother, S. W. Ward, Moran, and 13 grandchildren.

Funeral is to be held at 2:30 p. m. Monday in the First Baptist church, Clarendon, with burial in Citizen's cemetery.

City Reacts To Decision Of President

Pampa greeted the President's announcement last night that he will not seek re-election with mixed reactions. Some felt the President had made a wise move. Others were distressed that he will not be a candidate while still others were openly elated.

To all, it came as a surprise. Aaron Sturgeon, Gray county Democratic chairman, informed by The Pampa Daily News of President Truman's announcement, not to run for re-election, today indicated he was pleased with the decision.

"The Democrats have several able persons in their ranks," he said. "I am sure the convention in Chicago will bring forth a strong Democratic candidate suitable to all true Democrats, especially those of us in the South."

Ben Gull, former Republican congressman and a leader in the Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower movement, said, "I still want Ike for President."

"I am happy, of course, over President Truman's decision because it is for the good of the country. However, I think the Democrats have lost their strongest candidate. There is the possibility the party may draft him. But I sincerely hope he doesn't run."

George Cree, an ardent Taft supporter, said he thought the news was "wonderful." He thought the move would help his candidate.

"This throws the Democratic patronage wide open," he commented. "It will give the party a chance to reform and rebuild. It is wonderful news."

Paul Camp, 600 Louisiana, said he believed the President was upholding the nation's wishes as to tenure for a White House resident. Camp said he didn't believe Truman should run again, that he had been in office long enough. " . . . it's going to be hard on the party, though," he added.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyal Davies considered the President's move as wise. Said Mrs. Davies: " . . . thank goodness." . . .

Others echoed this particular sentiment. Charley Webb, Gray county rancher, said: "I don't believe I have any comment to make. That is his business. I'm not surprised, though. I think there's too much heat on him. But I really am glad."

However, not all considered Truman's move the right one. Earl Miller, Pampa businessman and a staunch supporter of the President, said, "I'm heart-broken. That was the only man for the job. He's the smartest man in the country. But mark my words, he'll come back."

W. L. Rowntree, an oilman, said it suited him just as much to have Truman not running.

B. M. Behrman, a Pampa retailer, said he did not know whether the news was good or bad. "It is unexcited news," he said.

Charles Cook, chamber of commerce president, said he did not care to make a comment on the situation.

'Jolly' John Beverly Is Still A Youngster

Mr. John Beverly, native Texan, acquaintance of many of the famous and infamous had of the last century and well-known range riding pioneer of the state, celebrates his 95th birthday today.

The Rebekah and Oddfellow day night and presented him in lodge, held a party for him. Thus, with a birthday cake, Friday night Uncle John and many of his friends met at the Guy Dunwoodies for a cake and coffee social — this is the 18th year Mrs. Dunwoodie has baked Uncle John a birthday cake. And a speckled trout fish dinner was prepared yesterday by Mrs. Roy Hallman. The fish dinner is another tradition and this year Mrs. Hallman sent to Denver for the trout.

The Beverly home, 510 N. Cuyler, is a busy place with friends of all ages dropping in for a "chat" and to listen to Uncle John's seemingly inexhaustible command of witticisms and jokes.

Uncle John's chief interest throughout his life has been in cattle and horses. His range-riding experiences include many thrilling events. He recalls driving herds of cattle to Dodge, Honeywell and Caldwell, Kan., long before Kansas City became a cattle center.

He has worked many of the famous ranges in Texas and New Mexico.

"I was the first cowboy to put the Mill Iron brand on a cow," Uncle John recalls.

On Dec. 18, 1900, he married lovely and talented Katie Jordan and she has been my good wife and helper ever since."

They are both members of the First Christian church; he is an Oddfellow and Katie is a Rebekah. "Our many friends are among our dearest possessions," Aunt Katie said.

Aunt Katie and Uncle John are both proud of their claim as "native Texans."

Beverly's father came to Texas as an early Collins Co. settler in 1874. He was a veteran of the Civil War when he lost an arm and was nursed by Belle Starr.

Uncle John and Aunt Katie moved to Pampa from Clarendon in 1929, purchased their home

Dr. Wright was named Panhandle chairman by Dr. Walter H. Fischer of Temple, public health committee chairman, and Dr. Charles Smith of Fort Worth, state posture chairman.

The Panhandle chairman said he planned to name county and city leaders in all the 26 counties in his jurisdiction within a few days. ### Reds Thwarted In Iranian Raid

TEHRAN, Iran — (AP) — American staff members and Iranian soldiers thwarted an attempt by about 250 Communist led youths today to raid the U. S. information service library.

The attempt apparently was aimed as retaliation for the police closing of the nearby headquarters of the organization for Democratic Youth, a Communist front, after bloody rioting yesterday.

The youths first gathered in small groups around the three-story USIS building and shouted insults at Americans entering. Staff members later noted that about 50 youths had quietly slipped inside. The staff quickly locked the building's iron gates.

Several truckloads of Iranian soldiers rushed to the scene and dispersed the mob. The American staffers, aided by U. S. embassy marine guards in civilian clothes, quietly persuaded the group inside to leave.

PRESIDENT

Reached after his startling announcement, as he prepared to enter his car to return to the White House, Truman was asked if there was any chance he might change his decision.

"None whatsoever," the President said.

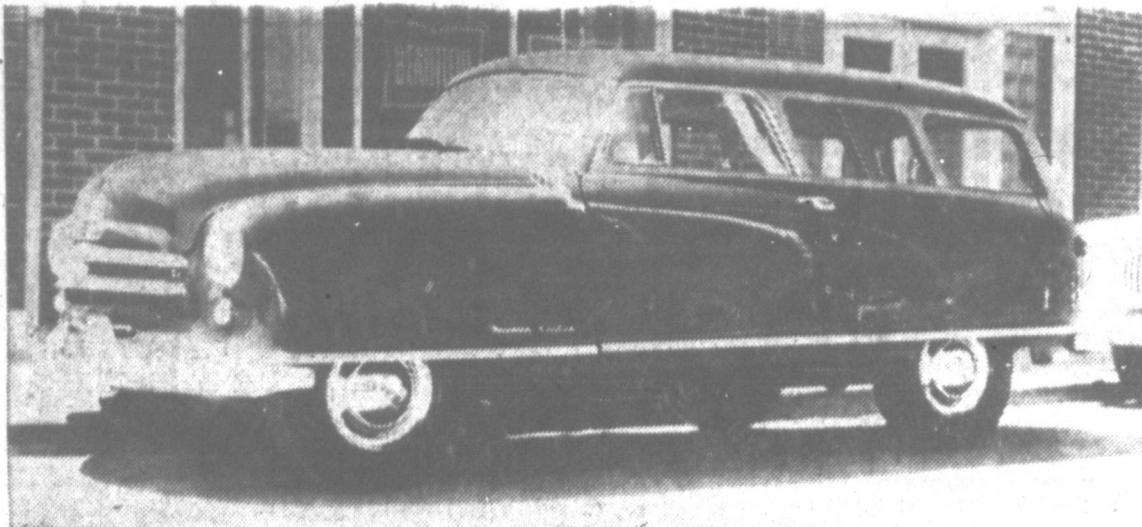

Mrs. Truman, walking behind the President, was asked: "Are you happy over that decision?"

She turned, and with a smile, said: "Of course, anything he says goes."

There was shock and amazement written on the faces of the members of the White House party, including some of the regular workers, who have been devoted to the man from Missouri.

Soilmen Hold Land Discussion Here

Soil conservation supervisors from five counties comprising four soil districts met Friday in Pampa to discuss mutual problems.

They were addressed by W. C. Johnson, soil scientist stationed at the Amarillo agricultural experiment station, and by Judge J. R. Porter of Donley county chairman of his board of soil conservation supervisors, and Sid Payne, member of the five-man state soil conservation board.

Johnson told of many experiments carried out by station personnel and invited the supervisors to the 365 acre farm. Among the projects of special interest to the conservationists were a study of the economic value and the methods of chisel-plowing; gains to be expected from grazing; and the use of legumes. Plots of land will grow grass for periods of three, six, nine, and 12 years and then plowed up and cropped at the same time to see the benefits of long-range grass programs on productivity.

"One problem we have to face in this area is that legumes are heavy users of water," Johnson said. "We would like to find a beneficial legume which would not consume so much of our precious water."

Judge Porter read some interpretations of the state general laws of the conservation soil laws of the 51st and 52nd legislatures. He noted that monies in the treasuries of districts could revert to the state general fund after the biennial, but that certain inventories could be kept.

Fayne urged the closer cooperation of all concerned with agriculture — the supervisors, county agents, production and marketing secretaries and committees, and vocational agriculture teachers — in line with the recommendations of the federal department of agriculture.

W. B. Jackson, local chairman of the soil conservation board, headed a roundtable of the area supervisors in a discussion of problems and in plans for further co-ordination of their own activities.

Soil conservation boards, set up under federal and state laws, are voluntary organizations of farmers and ranchers interested in conserving the soil from wind and water erosion.

PHS Singers Win Top Choral Awards

Pampa High school shared top honors Friday in the Region I interscholastic League choral competition held at West Texas State college as they won first division ratings in both concert and sight-reading performance.

Hot Mayor Race At Shamrock Slated Tuesday

SHAMROCK — A city election will be held here Tuesday with a heated race in sight for mayor. A record vote is expected as two popular businessmen, R. F. Douglas and R. Stuart Tisdal seek the top city post.

Three members of the city council will also be selected in balloting but there is no contest since only three men have filed. These are G. L. Harrison and Jack Martin who seek re-election, and Cabot Brannon, a newcomer to Shamrock politics.

For the second straight year, the choir won a sweepstakes award, highest of the contest, which included a first division concert and sight-reading.

Choruses from 20 Panhandle schools participated in the contest. Saturday the Pampa Junior High school ninth grade choir under direction of Miss Carolyn Boyle participated in the contest at Canyon.

Results of Friday's contests included senior girls sextet, a first place for their presentation of "Reverie" by Debussy. Carolyn Carver, soprano, won a first division place for her "A Memory." Marcella Waters sang "I Wonder as I Wander" for a first place win. Ronald Still, tenor, received second place for his "Lo Te Sal." The Junior girls sextet and boys quartet also won second place awards.

The Pampa group returned with a Silver plaque which will be engraved and placed in their trophy case.

Local Veterans of Foreign Wars were so impressed by the program which was presented in an advanced hearing to them, that their District Commander Jones Seitz presented B. M. Enloe, sponsor of the program, a certificate award for patriotic service.

Seitz said this radio program will enlighten the American people more than ever to the dangers that Communism and Communists present.

Ike Is Still A Puzzle Politically

The conflicts between the expressed desires of the general public on a variety of subjects ought to give pause to think to the dyed-in-the-wool supporters of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower.

That he has captured the admiration of many Americans cannot be denied. The strength of his pull in the primary votes in New Hampshire and Minnesota indicates that there is a great popular trend toward support for Eisenhower.

But the reason for this popularity is still not disclosed in the primary voting so far. Conceding that the popularity exists, those who are looking for some leadership that will follow out the Truman administration will do well to consider long the reasons why the popularity has come about.

While he is personally agreeable looking and has infectious grin this cannot be the answer for a politician who repeatedly avoided the "personality kids" for more solid candidates. Gov. Earl Warren of California is a nice looking guy with a ready smile but there is great resistance building up toward his candidacy for the presidency.

The fact that Eisenhower is a career man in the Army certainly does not endear him to great multitudes of voters for even a man of the stature of Gen. Douglas MacArthur is frowned upon as a potential candidate because of his military background. And previous voting seems to pretty well establish that the voters are not particularly concerned about voting for "a veteran" and it is more or less common knowledge that the rank and file of those who have served in the armed forces are not in love with "the brass" of any branch and the top ranking brass are no exception.

That there is a general mistrust of those with military backgrounds as presidential timber might also be reflected in the recent voting in the House on the Universal Military Training bill. Here was a bill that was supported in general by all of the branches of the service, by the administration, by such influential groups as the American Legion and others but was still rejected by the House because there was a general protest against the measure.

That Gen. Eisenhower is an able administrator of affairs turned over to him seems to be demonstrated in his military work. But seldom is there great public support of a man just because he can handle paper work and get along well with his associates.

Certainly Eisenhower's stand on American foreign affairs is sufficiently in line with those of Truman that the write-in voters in Minnesota were not protesting against the administration on this score and there is sufficient lack of understanding of most of Eisenhower's beliefs on domestic policy that this, too, would not attract the following he has. Because he entered the race in the manner in which he did and was the under-dog there was a natural American sympathy for "Ike" as compared with Taft and Truman, each of whom was looked upon as the leader of the two political parties. Moreover, Eisenhower in his career as a military man has had no opportunity thus far to offend anyone. He has not been in a position where he has had to choose between doing what he thought was right and giving offense to some political group. He has been successful as a military man.

These may be some of the reasons for Eisenhower's popular appeal. Whether they will be sufficient to attract voters in a "clutch" balloting remains to be seen.

Labor Unions' "Free Ride"

Labor unions are using every tactic possible to secure the equivalent to a closed shop, which has been outlawed by the Taft-Hartley law. Now they want a union shop, which in reality is the same thing as a closed shop other than the fact that an employer may hire men who are not union members but who will have to become union members after a certain period of time.

One of the false arguments they use is that the man who is not a union member is getting a "free ride"—that he is getting wages that he could not get without the union.

That is a false argument. The man who does not believe in unions is undoubtedly the man who is the biggest producer. He is the man who is making it possible for the union man to produce more than he produces. He is the man who understands what increases wage levels. He is the man who understands that labor unions, instead of increasing wage levels, keep wage levels down. He understands that they keep them down because labor unions that protect the inefficient and keep the efficient from competing with the inefficient greatly retard production. He understands that labor unions have prevented billions of dollars worth of wealth from being created by their featherbedding, strikes and interferences with an unhampered market. He is the man who understands that what is not produced cannot be paid out in wages. He is the man who wants no special privileges. He does not want a "free ride" as do the labor union members, who want their wages to be higher than other people can get for the same production. He is the man who knows how to get a free market for his product. He knows that if some workers get true value of wages or anything else unless all people are permitted to help establish values. He knows that wages that are not based on a free market are artificial. He knows that if some workers get more than they produce that other workers must get less than they produce.

So the argument that we should have a closed shop because some people who do not belong to unions get a "free ride" is false. The "free-riders" are the union men who keep other people's wages down because they get an artificial wage—because they get wages that are immoral and that are a violation of the Commandments and the Golden Rule. They get wages that are based on no moral principle. They get wages that are based on the practice that might be called "the end justifies the means" and that there are no eternal laws that govern wages that men need to live by.

So the next time you hear the propaganda that we should have a union shop because those who are not union members are "free-riders," point out to that person that the non-union man is not getting a "free ride" because he is getting a wage that he could not get on a free market, and the non-union man is earning more than the union man.

It is easy to see why so many people fail to understand how labor unions keep wage levels down. Labor unions are based on the principle of a tax supported schools are based on—that might makes right. And when the youth is taught by example that might makes right, it is easy for him to believe that he can get away with it. He goes to work that might makes right when establishing wages or getting what he wants on a non-competitive basis.

It is undoubtedly because the union man believes that he is getting a "free ride" that no labor leader holding a responsible position will attempt to defend his position where he is obliged to answer questions as he would before a court for $1,000. No labor leader can defend his position that they are not getting a "free ride." And yet they have the nerve to contend that the non-union man who works in a shop where the wages are set by the union is the man who is getting the "free ride." While the non-union man may get the same weekly wage, he undoubtedly produces more and his unit cost is undoubtedly less than the wages received by the men who believe in unions.

The man who believes in unions does not believe that he has to earn what he produces. He believes he can get it by a form of exploitation, by a form of civil war—by setting an artificial price that the employer has to pay or else the union man attempts to injure the employer by simultaneously quitting. Would the man who believes that the non-union man is getting a "free ride" contend for one minute that an employer has a moral right to join together with other employers and simultaneously discharge their workers in order to injure them so that they can hire them for less? If it is immoral and uneconomic for a group of employers to do that, it is equally immoral and uneconomic for a group of workers to join together to simultaneously quit work in order to get a "free ride."

Reporting editorially on this, the San Francisco Chronicle said: "The argument of OPS is without bearing. Earnings are not a figment. They are not profits out of which the regulated utility can pay a return on its investment. They cannot be spent to build dams or powerhouses. If OPS formulas are completely unrealistic."

The OPS argument is pure political hokum. But it will be used effectively in the destruction of our free economy unless more men like California's deftly oppose it, and more papers follow the Chronicle's lead in exposing the fallacy to the public.

THE IDEAS OF MARCH

HISTORICAL CONCEPT

According to the old Roman calendar the Ideas fell on the 15th day of March, and on the 15th in several other months. But by ancient tradition the Ideas of March stand out as the day predicted for the death of Julius Caesar. Hence, says Webster's dictionary, March 15 is a fatal or inauspicious day. Webster further defines inauspicious as "ill-omened, unlucky, ominous, adverse, and sinister."

To the American taxpayer the 15th day of March has become a day of those things. Reality has replaced tradition. Perhaps the average citizen doesn't realize the magnitude of his taxes compared with his income, but he knows his taxes are heavy, and final settlement day is, indeed, an inauspicious day.

At this appropriate time Newsweek points up the great American tragedy: "Today, the average American is turning over 2 cents out of every dollar he earns to one tax collector or another." Approximately one-third of all labor performed is being taxed away in the name of benevolence. The magazine notes that it has become no mean feat for a man to stay even with the board, let alone to get ahead in these times.

Through hidden taxes coated with political appeasement, the taxpayer is taken for his biggest ride. And the take through this deceptive method is growing at a rapid rate. The new levies upon corporations is a case in point. Another is the stepped-up tax against high salaried executives.

It is true that the executives, as individuals, are deprived of up to 89 percent of their high salaries, but the whole salary is a charge against production and as such becomes a part of the cost of merchandise. This cost must be paid by all of us when we buy the goods we need. And the money so taxed away is spent on government consumption wages instead of being channeled back into reproducible wealth—as in time past—to the ultimate benefit of the whole nation.

As for corporation taxes, they exist in name only. Corporations cannot pay taxes and survive. Taxes are a part of business costs and must be paid by the consumer. In a recent ruling Harold P. Huls, of the California Public Utilities Commission upheld the Pacific Gas & Electric Company in their application for higher rates based partially on this very argument. The Office of Price Stabilization had, unrealistically, opposed the increase.

Counsel for the OPS argued that the company's earnings in 1951 were better than during the forties. If increases in federal income taxes were not taken into consideration, Huls countered that taxes are as much a part of the cost of doing business as any other cost and that PG & E had a right to include their operating expenses and recover them in rates. (More than half the additional revenue sought was for the increase in federal taxes and the remainder for increases in other operating expenses.)

Reporting editorially on this, the San Francisco Chronicle said: "The argument of OPS is without bearing. Earnings are not a figment. They are not profits out of which the regulated utility can pay a return on its investment. They cannot be spent to build dams or powerhouses. If OPS formulas are completely unrealistic."

The OPS argument is pure political hokum. But it will be used effectively in the destruction of our free economy unless more men like California's deftly oppose it, and more papers follow the Chronicle's lead in exposing the fallacy to the public.

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE VERDICT

Are the results of the New Hampshire primary highly significant? Do they indicate any "national trend"? Do they prove, as Editor John Knight of The Chicago Daily News says in his Editor's Notebook of March 15th, that: "People Like Ike; Tired of Truman"? Maybe yes—maybe no. Your guess is just as good as mine!

But with all due respect to Editor Knight for whose opinions I have a healthy regard, I think his New Hampshire diagnosis is a bit too general and premature. There is certainly no denying that Senator Kefauver scored a startling underdog victory, but his national chances have been considerably dimmed by Southern Senator Russell's newly announced anti-Truman competition. There is also no denying that like won the Republican "popularity contest" over Taft by about 10,000 votes, with about 10,000 more going to neither, which leaves Ike with 50 percent of the vote.

Whether this is considered a "land-slide" undoubtedly depends upon whose team you are on. Editor Knight's conclusion is that "the people like Ike." It might be more accurate to say: "In the hand-picked state of New Hampshire, which Eisenhower's managers chose as their "strongest state," about 10,000 more Republicans favored Ike than favored Taft. Is that highly significant?"

Mr. Knight grants that the general had the powerful backing of Gov. Sherman Adams' organization, but quickly adds: "offsetting this was Taft's presence in the state and the tacit support of Sen. Styles Bridges." I find this summary both inadequate and unfair. Senator Bridges, for his own good reasons, maintained a strict "hands-off" policy in the New Hampshire of such potent like spokesmen as Senators Lodge and Duff, Rep. Walter Judd, Paul Hoffman, Connecticut Gov. John Lodge, and Kansas Senator Frank Carlson, along with such well-known entertainers as Tex McCrary & Jinx Falkenburg, plus Fred Waring and his band. Against this colorful array, nobody came to speak for Taft except the Senator himself. And that for only a brief three days near the end.

Why too does Editor Knight soft-pedal the power of the Republican State machine in a Republican State? He seems to attribute former delegates to the Democratic machine. He says: "Truman had the solid backing of the Democratic party machine and the labor leaders. His delegate candidates were experienced, widely known political figures, whereas Kefauver's delegates had been picked wherever he could find them." Was not Taft's situation just about as unfavorable as this too?

Mr. Knight concedes that neither primaries may tell a different story. "I am not a prophet," he writes, "but I believe that wherever he could find them, it is doubtful if some state like Illinois had been the first testing-ground, and Taft had won by a 10,000 majority, if Mr. Knight would then have written: "The People Like Ike" and regarded it similarly as a "national trend"? It is doubtful.

On February 23rd, Mr. Knight wrote: "Eisenhower's refusal to jeopardize the success of his mission in Europe by joining the pre-convention scramble must be admired and respected." He now says that Eisenhower's managers "will soon be clamoring for Ike's early withdrawal to the United States." Suppose the General should not change his mind, and contrary to his earlier announcement, return home to campaign for the nomination? Would that in any way affect the "admiration" and "respect"? And suppose he doesn't come home. Is it not true that Eisenhower's stand on many crucial and controversial issues, both domestic and foreign, is unknown? Is it not true that his own supporters have been making contradictory "claims" about his "conservatism" or "liberalism," and about his support for, or opposition to, the Truman foreign policy? What will happen if the General remains silent, and these contradictions continue to mount? On the contrary, what will happen among the widely-diversed and opposing groups who are now in the camp. If he breaks his silence and takes a definite stand on these various issues? Is he not bound to lose some of these groups as soon as he opposes some of their pet policies and programs?

It remains so many different things to so many people indefinitely, and win the Republican nomination that way? If so, what happens when he is then obliged to campaign on a platform which will be written by regular organization Republicans? On the other hand, if he openly antagonizes such organization Republicans in advance of the convention, how can he then hope to obtain their support? All these vital questions remain to be answered, and it would appear to this observer, that only time—and future revelations—will truly tell what "the people like."

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR P. JORDAN M. D.

Some superstitions are remarkably persistent, and it seems likely that they will exist as strong a thousand years in the future as they did a thousand years in the past.

I have a friend who is two months pregnant and has a pet dog which she is fond of, and she gives it a lot of attention. I have been told her baby could be marked by this dog. Could this be true?

The presence of a pet dog around the house during pregnancy should have no effect what-so-ever on the unborn child unless the mother stumbles over the dog or is allergic to it.

What is the difference between barbiturates and phenobarbital? Reader: A-Phenobarbital is one of the "weaker" varieties.

Q-If one has infected ovaries and needs an operation, do the tubes and uterus have to be removed also? Does the removal of female organs sometimes affect the mind? Mrs. J. K.

The answer to the first question is "not necessarily." The tubes or part of them, and the uterus, can be left in place when the ovaries are removed unless there is some special reason to remove them also.

In the second question, there is no reason to believe that removal of the female organs has any direct effect on the working of the mind.

Q-There is a dispute between four of us as to whether a woman over 55 years old and a year past the change of life, can become pregnant. A. B. C. D.

It has occurred. Q-Please tell me if hormone face cream is dangerous to use. Mrs. E. A.

It seems doubtful that any direct connection between the use of hormone face cream and the development of cancer or other diseases has been definitely proven in human beings. In spite of this, some doctors are not too happy about the widespread use of such hormone preparations.

Q-Several months ago I had Bell's Palsy, and still have trouble with my face and with typing. Will this get better? M. B.

Recovery from Bell's Palsy almost always takes place and is almost always complete, though it may take quite a long time. Elderly people have more difficulty than those who are younger.

The hint in the inquiry that there is difficulty with typing suggests that there may be some other disorder of the nervous system, and if this is true it will have to be taken into consideration in treatment and in forecasting the outcome.

Henry Swears Off Smoking

Until Cigarettes Are 'Right'

By HENRY McLEMORE

If I quit smoking I don't think the tobacco business will fall apart, but it is just about to give up smoking. Not because I don't like to smoke. After a strenuous day of sitting down, nothing gives me as much pleasure, or relieves the tension caused by leaning back in a Morris chair, as a few puffs of tobacco.

I speak as an old, experienced smoker. The first thing I ever smoked is what is known in Georgia as rabbit tobacco. It is a grey weed, whose full flavor can only be brought out by wrapping it in torn-off pieces of grocery store bags. From a rabbit tobacco I went to tea, which gives a boy in rompers an exhilarating thrill. From tea I went to coffee, and how well I remember Mama saying, "This family's not drinking that much coffee."

She forgot that five children were smoking under the house when parents were not looking. From coffee, the McLeMores children went to wicker chairs. Don't let anybody ever tell you that a three-inch length of wicker, from the rocker side, and covered with varnish, is not one of the sweetest smokes in the world. As a boy I sang tenor in the choir until I smoked some wicker. A week later I had a deeper bass than most of the old men in the church.

But to get back to modern-day cigarettes. If you believe the maker of one certain brand of cigarettes, he corners all the good tobacco and his competitors have to be content to buy paralytic tops, shedding from Kefauver hats, and worn-out broom straws. If a man didn't have any more sense than to believe him, he wouldn't smoke any other cigarette but the one with the good tobacco in it. I have a notion that tobacco companies bid for the same tobacco.

To get back to why I'm going to quit smoking, I'm going to tell you this. I haven't got time to test them all. One cigarette company says, "Unwrap our product, put it in your hand, and compare it with the cigarette next door." Another company says, "Measure our cigarette and you'll find it's a half mile longer than any other cigarette, plus having the advantage of a bale of cotton in the end of it." That's called the filter.

So help me, there's a cigarette that's trying to sell itself on the fact that there's no nicotine in it. I think that rather than buy that cigarette, I'll just open the window and breathe the Lord's pure, fresh air. I get a little mad about a cigarette which I shall call Ancient Carat. It was the first, years ago, to advertise its medicinal properties, with a slogan that said you could smoke billions of them without coughing. Now, this same cigarette company is knocking soever on the door of the same advertising they did years ago. It must be tough on the copy-writers.

I won't smoke again until I find a cigarette that answers all these requirements: 1. It must be shorter than King size, but longer than normal size. 2. It must be sold on the strength of tobacco, not jingles. 3. It must be tobacco and nothing else. 4. It must be endorsed by 200 weasels, conducted under an impartial survey. 5. It must sell on its own merit. 6. It must be good enough tobacco not to have to be sold by crooners, private eyes, lightweight doctors, or a ten-piece band.

I wonder if tobacco companies will ever get around to selling cigarettes, not entertainment.

Success Secrets
By ELMER WHEELER
So often nowadays you hear the remark that "this" business or "that" profession is overcrowded and does not hold opportunity! Oh, how mistaken people are who say these things or feel that way! Every business isn't an open field... after all this is a competitive world. But this is just the point where your success begins.

Because life is competitive it creates two groups of people—those who are achieving fame, fortune and satisfaction in their vocations and those who, no matter how hard they seem to work or try, never rise above the "average."

What is the reason for this? The answer is simple... abilities and aptitudes all his own. To enter a field because someone else has achieved success does not guarantee that you too will succeed.

Of course, the opposite is true, too. You can succeed in a field where many others have failed. That is why—no matter how crowded a particular field—those who are following their natural talents have nothing to fear. The field may become increasingly crowded but those with what it takes will always be on top.

Remember... follow your natural abilities, capitalize on your strong points and forget the grumblers! Some morning they'll make you president!

WORD POWER (Christian Economics)

Lincoln's Gettysburg Address contains about 270 words, the Ten Commandments about 300, the Declaration of Independence about 1,300, while the O. P. S. order to reduce the price of cabbage contains 26,911 words.

Bureaucracy apparently operates on the principle that excessive word power makes up for lack of efficiency and effort.

Unless Nehru, with the help of outside nations like the United States, can forward his bold program of agrarian and economic reform, more weary, hungry, distressed Indians—including a bankrupt middle class—will turn to Communism.

When Nehru thought, "I've priced" $2,000 automobile did you do any wondering? You paid taxes on more than 200 separate transactions that went into the construction of that car. Your wife's new hat carried 150 hidden levies. All days have become "Days of March" for the taxpayer. Do you think you can beat this sinister thought: You can—at the polls!

Wellington Skyrockets Win Panhandle Relays

By BOB DIXON
PANHANDLE — Wellington's Skyrockets lived up to advance billing Saturday when they grabbed first place honors in the sixth annual Panhandle Relays.
 The Skyrockets got a total of 33 points to win by 12 1/2 points over their nearest rival, Canyon, with a total 20 1/2. Dumas finished third with 20.
 In gaining the victory the Skyrockets got a total of four firsts, three seconds, one third and two fourths. Points were given on a basis of five for a first, three for a second, two for a third and one for a fourth. Events in which Wellington won first were the high jump which was won by Virgil White who cleared the bar at five feet and eleven inches, the 220-yard race won by Sheldon Woods in 23.9 seconds, the 180 yard low hurdles which was won by Hoot Gibson in 22 seconds and the 440-yard relay.

Ray Burrus of Canyon won the meet's individual scoring honors by collecting 12 1/2 points. He had a first place victory in the broad jump with 19' 8". He also won second in the shot and the discus events.
 Defending champion Dimmitt could only come across with 13 1/2 points this time. They had a first place winner in the 120-yard high hurdles as Walter Crum made the distance in 16.40 seconds.
 Most exciting event of the meet was staged between Bob Hardaway of Canyon and Weldon Johnson of Dimmitt in the pole vault competition. After the large field of entrants were knocked out, Hardaway and Warren kept pace with each other until the bar was placed at 10' 8". Hardaway made it on his second try but Warren wasn't as fortunate as he missed all three efforts. This was the last event of the day and it gave Canyon their second place victory.

Other schools getting points were White Deer with 12, Canadian with 11 1/2 (all of which were won by Julian), Panhandle with 9 1/2, Shamrock with 5, and Miami with 4. White Deer had three seconds, a third and a fourth. Canadian had a first, and two seconds. Panhandle had a second, two thirds and two fourths. Shamrock had two thirds and a fourth. Miami had two thirds.
 The 15 schools entered in the meet were Wellington, Shamrock, Perryton, Dumas, Canyon, Memphis, Spearman, Friona, Dimmitt, Lefors, Dalhart, Canadian, White Deer, Miami, Panhandle.
 The meet was originally scheduled for last Saturday but because of bad weather it had to be moved up a week. This caused approximately 10 teams to drop out as they had other meets to attend this week end.
 It also caused the cancellation of the White Deer track meet which was to have been held yesterday. White Deer called off this meet so that they could be in the Panhandle meet in which event they could get in some practice against the Panhandle team which they will meet next Saturday in the District 3-B Interscholastic League meet at Panhandle.

Summary of today's events follows:

 The youths are: Cadet Donald S. Hicks, P. O. Box 1973, and Cadet Bobby R. Seitz, 929 Mary Ellen St.
 They will be initiated into the organization during the second week in April, according to Capt. Karl Berninger, Wentworth's director of athletics.
 Harold Lewis, Jack of all sports for the Junior High Reapers, was entered in the hospital when it was learned that he had a cracked vertebrae.
 He will remain in the hospital for about a period of two weeks. After this he will have to wear a cast for about two months. This will keep him from participating in any more athletic events this school year. As for football next season it is not known at present whether this will keep him out.
 How he received this injury is not definitely known. It is, however, an opinion of a few that it occurred during the Berger football game last year and that it became aggravated during a practice track meet that was held here short time ago with Phillips.
 Lewis was to have participated in a junior high track meet to be held in Amarillo tomorrow morning in Amarillo.

Pair Of Reapers Ineligible For JH Track Meet Monday

The Reaper track hopes received a jolting blow Friday when it was learned that two of their members were declared ineligible to compete in the Junior High track meet to be held in Amarillo tomorrow beginning at 1:30 p. m.
 Harold Lewis and Kenneth Hinkle were declared ineligible when it was learned that they had competed in a meet held at Big Spring a week ago Saturday. Hinkle didn't place but Lewis won two fourths. Those came in the 100 and 220 yard dashes.
 The ineligibility ruling came before it was learned that Lewis wouldn't be able to compete because of a back injury that placed him in the hospital.
 As both Hinkle and Lewis carried most of the events, coaches Pernal Scoggins and Marvin Bowman find themselves with a rebuilding job with very little time to do it.
 Trackers to compete are Jackie Edwards, Bill Cuipepper, John Cantrell, Raul F. Miras, Jerry McNaughton, Leroy Davis, Buddy Sharp, and Joe Cook.
 This will be the first meet for the Reapers.

Berg Leading Pack In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS — (AP) — Patty Berg turned in a flawless four under par 34 to take a nine stroke lead after 54 holes in the New Orleans Women's Open Golf Tournament Saturday.
 Betty Jameson, the veteran shotmaker from San Antonio, Tex., moved up from third to second place ahead of Babe Zaharias with a two under par 36 for a 190.
 The Babe, troubled with short puts, took a 20 on the front nine for a 192. Louis Suggs, the Cincinnati slugger, continued her brilliant game after a slow start and posted a 59 for a 193.
 Betty Rawls of Austin, Texas, also had a one over par 38 for a 19 which was good for fifth position after 45 holes.
 A professional and an amateur posted 15. The professional is Betty Bush, Hammond, Ind., who had a 60 to go with a 195. The amateur is Mary Lena Faulk, the Thomasville, Ga., sensation who also turned in a 40 to couple with a 155.

Hacker Winner As Cubs Nip Sox

MESA, Ariz. — (AP) — An eighth-inning double by Harry Chiti, scoring Ransom Jackson, broke a 6-6 tie and gave the Chicago Cubs a 7-6 victory over the White Sox Saturday.
 The Cubs had trailed 5-1 after 4 1/2 innings but came back for five runs in the fifth, all off Sox starter Mavy Grissom. Included in the uprising were singles by Chiti, Hal Jeffcoat, Ron Northey, Eddie Miksis, Dee Foney and Roy Smalley, and a double by Frank Baumholtz.
 The Sox tied the score in the upper half of the eighth, Chico Carrasquel singling in Willie Miranda.
 Bob Schultz started for the Cubs and gave up the Sox' first five runs. Warren Hacker pitched the last four innings.
 Al Widmar and Harry Dorish followed Grissom to the mound for the Sox.

Red Sox Unload On Yankees, 8-5

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — (AP) — The impressive spring records of New York Yankee righthanders Tom Morgan and Tom Gorman were blunted Saturday as the Boston Red Sox blasted 16 hits and crushed the world champions, 8-5.
 Johnny Peaky led the onslaught with three hits and Ted Williams socked his third exhibition homer.
 Morgan, who has allowed only five safeties and one run in fourteen previous innings, was blistered in the opening frame for three tallies, two of which came on Walt Drope's single.
 Williams slammed his 400-footer over the right field fence in the third and Sox picked up two more tallies in the fourth on four hits.

Fain's Home Run Wins For A's

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. — (AP) — Thanks to a home run by Ferris Fain and nine bases on balls, the Philadelphia Athletics piled up seven runs in the first inning, then added another in the fourth, to defeat Toronto of the International League 8-5 Saturday.
 The victory ended a four game losing streak for the A's.
 Fain, last year's American League batting champion, slammed out his first homer of the spring training season.
 Toronto outhit the A's 12-7, but was so generous with walks that it gave up eight in a row in that wild first inning.

Says School Not Same Since Shivers' Visit

FORT WORTH — (AP) — A 16-year old escapee from the state training school for girls says the "campus hasn't been the same since Governor Shivers was there."
 Juanita Lee Thomas, one of four girls who ran away from the school Monday night, was caught here yesterday. She told a reporter she "and most of the other girls" do not like the way they are being disciplined.
 She said she understood Governor Shivers told school officials to deal out more punishment. She said she had heard of no ban on whipping, and that she objected mostly to confinement in Witherspoon cottage, a detention center for girls classified as trouble-makers.
 The girl refused to say anything about the other three girls who left the school with her.

MALCOLM DOUGLASS
... watch him this summer.

Malcolm Douglass, A Putting Fool, Key Man For Aggies

COLLEGE STATION — (Special) — When young golfer can consistently shoot in the sixties and low seventies, it seems reasonable to believe he should drag down some trophies.

Not so in the case of Malcolm Douglass, a 21-year-old shot-maker of the 1952 Texas A&M golf team. Douglass, while playing the tournament grind last summer, gained the semifinal round seven times in 11 meets and never once finished on top of the heap, even though he fired five and six-under par golf.

Team coach Joe Fagan seems to think Douglass has rid himself of that ill omen because the Pampa pre-law major hasn't been defeated in competition this year.

The son of Curtis Douglass, a prominent Pampa lawyer, and Mrs. Douglas, Malcolm has toured the A&M course twice in early season matches and won from two opponents handily.

He fired one-under par golf to trip the Hardin Simmons number two man here two weeks ago and later that same week, was two-over-par in winning 3 and 2 from his opponent in a match with the University of Houston.

Last summer he played various tournaments in West Texas, Oklahoma and Colorado. It was in a match in Denver that he felt he should have taken down top honors but didn't. He finished four strokes off the pace but that doesn't let the story.

In describing his first round, Douglass recalled that he was hitting nearly every shot perfectly and

Longhorns Open In Traditional Style

The University of Texas opened the Southwest Conference baseball campaign by upholding a ten-year-old tradition.

For ten years Southern Methodist has not been able to whip the Longhorns in conference baseball play. And the Mustangs topped again Friday, 5-2.

In the other conference game of the loop Texas Christian dropped Baylor 2-1.

Texas A&M broke a seven-game losing streak to win 7-3 non-conference victory over the University of Minnesota. Rice defeated Loyola Tech 2-1, also a practice game.

In the Dallas game Friday Texas went out in front in the third inning when Second Baseman Gene Oden singled home a run. The Longhorns counted twice more in the fifth when Oden doubled with two on base. Texas added another in the seventh, and one in the eighth.

Greens Gossip

By HOGAN O'SNEAD

Maybe we will have an early spring after all, and too, maybe it's just wishful thinking. The one thing that makes me think of an early spring was the fact that I saw Dr. Joe Donaldson playing golf last Friday in a short-sleeve shirt with a Panama pattern. He shot a fine 38, too.

Saw Jack Mayor, Dr. Frank Kelley's father-in-law, hitting his best lick against his favorite son-in-law. This twosome has been playing each other for years for a pint of bloody every round. Dr. Frank had to have two transfusions last summer.

Hope to see a big group of Pampa players at Phillips Country club today to compete in the first matches of the Panhandle Men's Golf Association. Pairings will be made from 10 to 12 this morning and the first groups will tee off at 12:30 p.m. — those players who like to play in the match must turn in his name to Johnny Austin at the golf shop before 10 a.m. today. Pampa Country Club is the defending champion that year and all the players I have talked to seem to think they can repeat. Here's hoping.

Happened to walk into the golf shop the other day and heard quite a conversation about some great golf shots that were made by local players and Top of Texas players the past few years. As all of you probably remember, Jack Williams and Tommy Hale, last year's finalists in the TOT, probably hit two of the greatest golf shots ever seen at the Pampa Country Club. Shots that were hit when the pressure was on. As you may remember, Williams took a birdie three on No. 18 to throw the match into extra holes to decide the 1951 champion. A fairly strong wind had to go into the green first. His ball was rolling about 145 yards from the hole and he had to putt first.

You can imagine the pressure on young Tommy. He took his time and stroked the ball into the cup for his birdie 3. Williams swept his in for a birdie 3 to gain a have and on to the 20th hole, which he won with a par 4 and became the 1951 champion.

There, ladies and gentlemen, is probably the two finest golf shots ever hit at the Pampa Country Club, especially when the players were under so much pressure. But try and convince Rubi Samples his hole-in-one the other day wasn't the best.

Many of us have made shots that made our opponents drop their heads and wonder about murder, but the two second shots made on the first hole by Williams and Hale shall never be forgotten by the huge gallery following these two boys.

Here's a golf story that's making the rounds now that might draw a chuckle. Seems a golfer was seen driving off in front of the markers when an other member of his foursome said "You can't do that. You'll lose the hole."

"What for?" asked the golfer. "For driving off in front of the markers when another member said 'Go on back to the clubhouse,' said the golfer, 'I'm playing my third stroke.'"

See you at Phillips today.
Hogan.

Despite Age, Satch Is Tough

By RALPH RODEN

Doubt exists concerning the exact age of Satchel Paige but there's none that Old Satch still can pitch.

The St. Louis Browns' training roster has the following for Paige under the column listed as "Birth Date":

Sept. 11, 1892-2; 1896-2; 1900-2; 1904-2.

At the end of the pitcher's list is the following line: "Z-take your pick."

But whether he's 59 or 48 Paige still is no pushover in the clutch.

Old Satch saved a 4-3 decision for the Browns over his former Cleveland Indian teammates at Tucson, Ariz., Friday.

The Browns entered the eighth inning in front, 4-1, when the Indians suddenly climbed all over Cape Bearden, also a former Indian.

Al Rosen homered, Jim Fridley doubled and Merrill Combs singled to chase Bearden. Paige shuffled in from the pen and was greeted by a double but he smuffed out the next two batters to end the rally.

The Indians put runners on first and third with one out in the last of the ninth but Paige got out of that jam by fanning Rosen and nailing Fridley on a grounder.

Turnesa Doubts Ability Of Ladies Good As Amateurs

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y. — (AP) — Willie Turnesa captain of the United States Walker Cup team, took exception today to a recent statement that the current crop of feminine golfers can match shots with the best of the nation's male amateurs.

The statement was made by Fred Corcoran, tournament director of the Ladies PGA. He suggested a match between Babe Didrikson and U.S. Amateur Champion Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex. That match has been made and will be played in the near future, probably in Texas.

Corcoran said the "big four" of women's golf — The Babe, Patty Berg, Louise Suggs and Betty Jameson — are capable of gaining the quarterfinals of the Men's Amateur championship and might even win the title.

All of which caused Turnesa to say with emphasis: "I'm not taking anything away from such fine distaff players as The Babe, Patty Berg and Louise Suggs, but they're only good as far as women go. When Corcoran makes a statement such as this, I think he's just whistling in the dark."

"In fact, I doubt very much if any of his girls could even qualify for the National Amateur, let alone get to the quarter-finals."

The former American and British Amateur champion also had word or two to say about the Zaharias-Maxwell match.

"If the match is ever played," Willie said, "I don't think The Babe has a chance of beating Maxwell. I've never seen Maxwell play but he's the National Amateur champ and that's good enough for me."

"If the match is played on a regulation course (no pitch and put variety) and over 36 holes Maxwell will win in a walk."

Newspapers, in the form of a daily gazette, were known to the Romans.

Fast Golf Means Good Golf — If You Putt Your Mind To It

By WADE JONES
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The Professional Golfer's Association comes up with some ideas for speeding play on the country's overcrowded courses, a thing that's needed like a green needs grass.

The PGA teaching committee says one of the chief causes of the five-hour round these days is the guy who waits until the last minute before selecting the club he's going to use and deciding how he's going to make the shot.

Choose your club and get your shot figured out while you're walking up to your ball or waiting for the foursome ahead to move on. When it comes your turn to shoot, you're all ready and set.

Florida Golf Gets Sarazen Blast

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Gene Sarazen, golf's most traveled competitor, thinks it is a shame the way Florida has let some of its golf courses remain dormant.

"I don't doubt that practice swings slow down the play on a course. If your foursome is playing slow, invite the people benumbed to play through. The sporting thing is not to wait for them to ask your permission. Ordinary politeness and good manners improve everybody's peace of mind, and heaven knows that happy state is what every golfer should be striving for."

It doesn't take much figuring to see how failure to observe these little rules can actually add hours to the playing time of a round. Say every man in a foursome wastes 10 seconds on every shot — taking practice swings, and not lining up his shot and selecting his club ahead of time. If each man takes 90 strokes for the round, that means he's wasted 900 seconds, or 15 minutes. And it means the four players have wasted a total of 3600 seconds, or one hour.

Add to that the time wasted looking for lost balls, without letting the people behind you come through, adding up scores on the greens, etc., and you could easily get another hour. Which means two hours wasted that needn't have been.

TOMMY HALE
... Top of Texas finalist

Irish Freshman, Tom Hale, H-SU Cowboy Linkster

ABILENE — A freshman and senior have teamed together to give the Hardin-Simmons university Cowboys, defending Border Conference champions, one of the best golf combinations in the state.

The freshman is Tom Hale of Shamrock, runner-up in Pampa's Top of Texas golf tournament last year. George Smith of Paris is the senior.

In four matches, all played on the road, Smith and Hale have won their matches. The Cowboys have won three of the four matches, defeating Trinity, 4 1/2-2 1/2; Houston, 6-2; and Baylor, 6 1/2-1 1/2. They lost to Texas A&M, 4-3.

Hale could easily develop into one of the best collegiate golfers in the state. Coach E. W. (Bill) Ledbetter believes. "Hale's slow, deliberate action and proper temperament are the best I've seen for a freshman golfer," Ledbetter declares.

No matter how large the crowd, how difficult or easy the shot or how he has to make, Hale goes at his golf game in the same manner. When it comes your turn to shoot, you're all ready and set.

This applies to the greens as well as to the fairways. Dope your putt out and stand by your ball ready to make the shot as soon as it's your turn. Don't take an extra practice putt after you've holed out and don't stand around on the green figuring out scores. Do that while you're walking from the green to the next tee.

Cut out the practice swings. They will do you more harm than good, the committee says. Some people, like Babe Zaharias, will give you an argument on this, but there's no doubt that practice swings slow down the play on a course.

If your foursome is playing slow, invite the people benumbed to play through. The sporting thing is not to wait for them to ask your permission. Ordinary politeness and good manners improve everybody's peace of mind, and heaven knows that happy state is what every golfer should be striving for."

LEFORS — (Special) — Vets-atillie Jimmy Doom and outstanding Billy Watson, have been elected co-captains of the Lefors Pirate football team for the 1952 season. It was announced here last Friday.

Doom, an all-districter last year, sparked the Pirates at both ends and in the backfield. Where he will be assigned this year to Coach Bob Callan remains unknown, although it might well be at both places.

Watson, another all-districter, is an excellent passer and is expected to be one of the main cogs in the Pirate offense next season.

Spinning Reel Boon To Anglers

By AL McCLANE
Fishing Editor

The other day I took our neighbor's nine-year-old son out fishing. Teddy has been hot on any trail for the past few months—and frankly, I dreaded the day when the two of us would be confined to a rowboat.

Things didn't turn out badly, though. In fact, he caught a large pickerel among lesser fishes, and I only had to retrieve Teddy four times. All of which brought to mind the possible fishing has become for anybody, regardless of their age.

In the old days, learning to cast was a slow process. You could count on at least one year of fundamentals before getting around to actual fish catching. Fly casting and bait casting are difficult arts.

When a child is at the "curiosity" stage, he wants to catch fish—not get fouled up in a subject which most adults don't understand. Spinning has made the catching possible—leaving art as a later development.

A good many people who never even had a nodding acquaintance with the business end of a rod until a few days ago are now casting like experts and taking a fair share of fish. As a matter of fact, young, old, blind and feeble are tossing baits all over the landscape with startling ease and deadly results—thanks to the spinning reel.

This reel is designed so that the spool doesn't turn. The line simply peels off the spool, just the way thread peels off a spool when you hold it by one end. In terms of fishing, this means no more foul-ups. No matter how clumsy and inexperienced the operator, 10 minutes of practice will put him in the big leagues.

Game Arrests Up For February

AUSTIN—The director of law enforcement for the Texas Game & Fish Commission said the arrest report for February showed 314 cases and total fines and costs of $3743.97.

This compares with the 232 cases and $3966.77 for February last year and 463 cases and $13,030.22 for the January of this year.

He said the coming of spring was reflected in the report in that 48 cases involved lack of fishing licenses. Twelve arrests on this charge were made on Lake Texoma alone.

The director said protection of game birds and animals got "an average number" of Texans into trouble.

Forty-six cases concerned various species out of season. Eight persons were charged with shooting doves out of season. Twenty-three arrests centered around raids on the deer herds, half of them for headhunting.

Thirteen cases were for hunting ducks or geese out of season. The director said the fines ranged upward to $400, the total assessed against a Houston woman on four counts of shooting mourning doves after the season closed.

How To Catch Lots Of Crappies

Here is one right from the tackle box of the master angler himself. It is seldom he takes a firm, flat footed position on a controversial subject; but here in the April issue of Sports Afield, Jason Lucas throws discretion to the winds and tells all you anglers, old and young, that with a spinner and a lure weighing from one eighth to one quarter ounce, you will catch more and bigger crappies than with any live bait or with any heavier lure.

This all gets back to the laziness and habits of those pan fish. They travel and feed in schools large and small. The first job is to locate as many of these beds where they school and stake it out, mentally, so you can come back to a place where you got a nice one; they will be back there. To locate these beds you must fish every foot of the 8,000 square feet within a 50 ft. radius of your anchored boat. Crappies take life easy; they won't go over 3 feet for a four course dinner. So, the angler watching that bobber is fishing 28 square feet of water, at most, against the 8,000 square feet you cover by circling a 100 foot area with 50 ft. spinner casts and retrieves, weighted for the proper depth. The spinner makes crappie fishing an art instead of just a relaxation, and you get a shot at all the crappies in those 8,000 square feet—some crappies.

We've seen eight-year-olds, one-armed veterans, and people whose hands were crippled by rheumatism turn out star performers after a few trial casts. Many folks never take up fishing because they lack self-confidence. Nobody can enjoy a sport unless he masters the fundamentals, and novices are apt to throw in the towel after long practice sessions with more complicated casting tackle.

Those days are gone forever, and we predict a quarter-million new anglers in the United States before long. It happened in Europe where spinning began, and it's happening here. One manufacturer has sold over 200,000 spinning reels in the past three years, and he's 40,000 reels behind in his orders for 1952.

The nice thing about spinning, aside from its simplicity, is that the tackle is versatile enough to be used for anything short of seamonsters, and it doesn't make much difference whether you use live bait or artificial lures. Spinning tackle comes in various sizes, and once you get snaggled in this game, the chances are that you'll want two or three outfits to get the most out of your fishing.

For most purposes, a seven-foot glass rod, spinning reel, and a nylon line will serve nicely. In fact, such a rig would handle everything from sunfish to salmon.

Black Bass Get Spawn Weather

AUSTIN—Recent warm weather has started black bass spawning in the state hatcheries, according to the Game & Fish Commission. The aquatic biologist at the commission's Austin office said the fish have been spawning at Huntsville hatcheries. These locations are in south Texas where the weather has been even warmer.

Two state hatcheries are out of service because the long drought cut water supplies. They are at Medina and Cisco.

The commission spokesman said if heavy rains came immediately these two units might be placed in service for the 1952 hatching season.

He said brood bass could be obtained from other hatcheries and from private tanks. He pointed out that one reason a small portion of the annual state hatch is diverted to private tanks is that the later frequently help supply brood bass in emergencies.

One hatchery innovation this spring is the new temperature controlled pond at San Marcos which already is in service. This is an experiment to determine whether water temperatures may be controlled to avert damage from late freezes and to expedite spawning.

Hatchery men believe that if spawning can be successfully advanced, then the bass fry may be placed into the lakes to feed off the young rough fish.

Meyer Unhappy Over Hitting

ALPINE—(AP)—Bill Meyer took a look at the statistics today and declared his Pittsburgh Pirates are improving their hitting if they hope to win games in the Grapefruit League.

Here for a game with the St. Louis Browns, Meyer pointed out that rookie Bobby Del Greco and infielder George Strickland are the only "Bucs" who have hit over the 300 mark during the exhibition grind. Del Greco is hitting at a .311 pace and Strickland has a .308 average.

Ralph Kiner, the Pirate home run hitter who clouted his second round tripper of the spring while the "Bucs" were dropping an 8-3 decision to the Chicago Cubs at Mesa, Ariz., Friday, is batting only .242.

Williams Gets Short Suspension

CHICAGO—(AP)—The Williams, former lightweight champion who was beaten by Chuck Davay Wednesday night, was suspended for six weeks Friday by the Illinois State Athletic Commission.

The commission said Williams needed the time to recuperate from the fifth round technical knockout in the Davay bout.

The suspension will apply in New York as well as Illinois because of a recent agreement between commissions of the two states.

Associated Press Sports Editor

Austin College has two of the outstanding big-time coaches of the country. But one of them won't be any coaching and the other is a backer of an "amateur" plan whereby the college would cut out aid to athletes and make it a matter for the "students."

Henry Frnka is going to Austin College as vice-president in charge of promotion, to wit: raising money and endowments, et cetera. Frnka coaches at Vanderbilt, Temple and Tulane. He was a better than a fair hand at getting the top athletes and winning bowl games and championships.

Already at Austin College is Ray Morrison, the man who started Southern Methodist to fame in football and who coached at Vanderbilt and Temple before quitting the big-time to coach and direct athletics at the Sherman college. He got tired of the pressure.

Now Morrison is a backer of the Austin College "amateur" plan which consists of getting other colleges interested in a conference that bans athletic scholarships.

Some may be so unkind as to say that Austin College the past few years has been on a "retreat" basis anyway, if you look over its football record. But that really isn't the point.

Austin college has been losing money on football in years. Dr. W. B. Guerrant, president of the college, says other small schools like Austin also are dropping cash on football and he wouldn't be surprised if most of the big colleges aren't doing the same thing.

"Our idea is to save football not to kill it," Dr. Guerrant emphasizes. "We must go back to the strictly amateur athlete to do it."

He means the kind of football your correspondent knew—eight games in October and November with friends and relatives coming out to see the games but with no red ink necessary on the school budget.

Dr. Guerrant says he has heard from one college that favors the plan. He hasn't named that school. In fact, Austin College doesn't propose to form the "amateur" league until a couple of years from now—if enough colleges come in to make it possible.

He also says he finds many of the athletes favor the plan. "Under the present system of athletic scholarships, there is no such thing as a basis of need," Dr. Guerrant declares. "The rich man's son gets a scholarship if he's a star football player the same as the boy who actually needs the aid to go to school."

And the poor boy who is capable of playing football in an amateur league but isn't good enough for high-pressure football of today doesn't get the aid. And the boys who aren't top gridirers don't even get to come out for the team even if they have money.

There would be as many football teams if athletic aid were cut off, and the competition would be just as good, but there wouldn't be as much to write about. However, you'd have better luck getting tickets on the 90-yard line.

C. A. (Bud) Newman, a new umpire for the Texas League, is fellow who can shut out the static from the ball players and fans any time he wants to. He is hard of hearing and uses a hearing aid. Bud was driving along with his partner one day. The partner was beating his gums. Finally, Newman said: "Well, you just as well shut up; I'm off the air." He had snapped off the battery in the hearing aid.

When Lubbock's Thomas Tinkers and Amarillo's Graham-Boeme played in an AAU meet in Tulsa there were 74 fouls. Each team had only three men on the court at the finish. But they were better off than a team from Keene, Tex., one time. Playing at Rio Vista, this team, aided up with just one man on the court. He did the center jump, got the ball and shot for the goal as the last whistle blew. If he had sunk it, Keene would have won the game. But he didn't. It spoiled a good story.

Professional baseball scouts are ganging the Southern Methodist baseball team these days. They're watching the double play combination of Hal Haynes, second baseman, and Fred Freeman, shortstop. Those boys can really go and they can hit, too. Both are seniors.

Southern Methodist has its best baseball team, one likely to win the Southwest Conference title. It would be a novelty. It has been over 20 years since somebody besides Texas or Texas A&M won the championship.

The Shops quintet, composed of Eva Kitchens, Alberta Eader, Joann Hallman, Candy Kelley and Marcy Crocker, will bowl in Class C. The Carbon crew, composed of Anna Lou Jones, Sharon Chatman, Betty Brake, Beverley Candler and Doris Piques, will bowl in Class D.

The length of the tournament has been extended another week due to the tremendous number of entries. It was originally scheduled to end the last of this month.

Castellani Gets Nod Over Bratton

NEW YORK—(AP)—"It ain't necessarily so," says happy Rocky Castellani today as he celebrated a no-knockdown victory over heavy-hitting Johnny Bratton.

The 25-year-old ex-Marine from Luzerne, Pa., surprised Bratton and the 5,216 paying customers in Madison Square Garden Friday night by staying on his feet all the way to win a unanimous and decisive ten round victory over the former NEA welterweight king. It was close, though. Rocky was staggered three times.

Now Rocky wants to give "his push-button chin a sterner test against former middleweight Champion Randy Turpin in England, April 22.

"We made an arrangement with Jack Solomons (the London promoter) for a fight with Turpin on the 22nd providing Rocky whipped Bratton," said Manager Tex Sullivan. "If Solomons holds to the terms we're ready to go over whenever he says."

Snowshoe Postman Hopes For Spring

RAWLINS, Wyo.—(AP)—Jack Bechtold, Dixon mail carrier, hopes for an early spring. Snow forced him to use snowshoes to deliver his mail in the tattered Medicine Bow National Forest. It takes him four days to travel 25 miles to deliver mail to five ranches.

—MARTNETT—
who played against Hartnett, though, will tell you he was murdered, pure murder.

"Steal against him? Not a chance. That guy would wait until a runner was halfway down to second and throw him out by 10 feet. He seemed to have some second sense which told him when you were going down, too. He'd call for a pitch-out and you were dead."

"Cochrane couldn't throw in the same class with Gaby. Look what the Cardinals did to him in the '31 World Series—stole his shirt. They blamed it on the A's pitchers, said that Grove and Earnshaw didn't have a motion to first to help him. That's a lot of bunk. Hartnett must have had some pitchers—without great motions, too, but nobody tried stealing on him the second time.

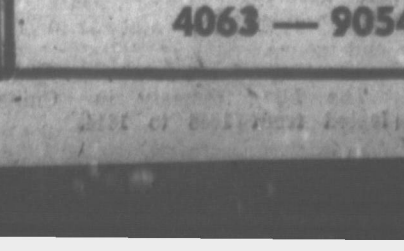

"And don't think he couldn't hit that ball. He'd give you 30-40 home runs a season, and he always seemed to hit them when they hurt the most. Remember that pennant he won with one on the last day? When they made him manager I told him I was mighty happy to congratulate him because he was losing his best man. Once you make 'em manager they don't like to play much any more."

In addition to his mechanical ability, Hartnett also had a remarkable faculty for calling for the right pitch at the right time, the three former curvers agreed. A batter very seldom got what he was looking for.

"From a pitcher's viewpoint it's a wonderful thing to have a man like that behind the plate," Hubbell observed. "I'll always think that Gus Mancuso didn't get anywhere near the credit he deserved

Sports Roundup

PHOENIX—(AP)—It was sitting around and talking time after the Giants' daily workout and the subject came up as to which was the greatest catcher the game ever saw—Mickey Cochrane or Bill Dickey.

"Neither," growled Tom Smeehan, head scout of the National League champs. "For my money, the best anyone ever has seen behind that plate was Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs. He had a better throwing arm than either Cochrane or Dickey, and he could murder you with that bat, too."

"Check," assented Frank Shellbach, the club's pitching coach. "You've named my man, Smart, too. Some players thought old Gabby was on the dumb side, but it was the biggest mistake they'll ever make. Dumb like a fox, he was."

"I'll have to go along with you," came in Carl Hubbell, who like the other two was something of a pitcher in his day. "I can't honestly judge the two American Leaguers because I didn't see too much of them, but I don't see how either of them could have been better than Gabby."

It was suggested that either Cochrane or Dickey, going strictly by the record book, showed a slight advantage over old "Tomato Face" in the matter of sticking averages. In Hartnett's best year, 1937, he hit .354. Dickey soared to .362 in '36; Cochrane to .357 in '30.

"That's all you fellows go by when you start getting up an all star club—the record book," Sheehan charged in a voice which swayed the draperies. "Any baseball player will tell you you can't go by the book, if you could, we wouldn't need any scouts. The men

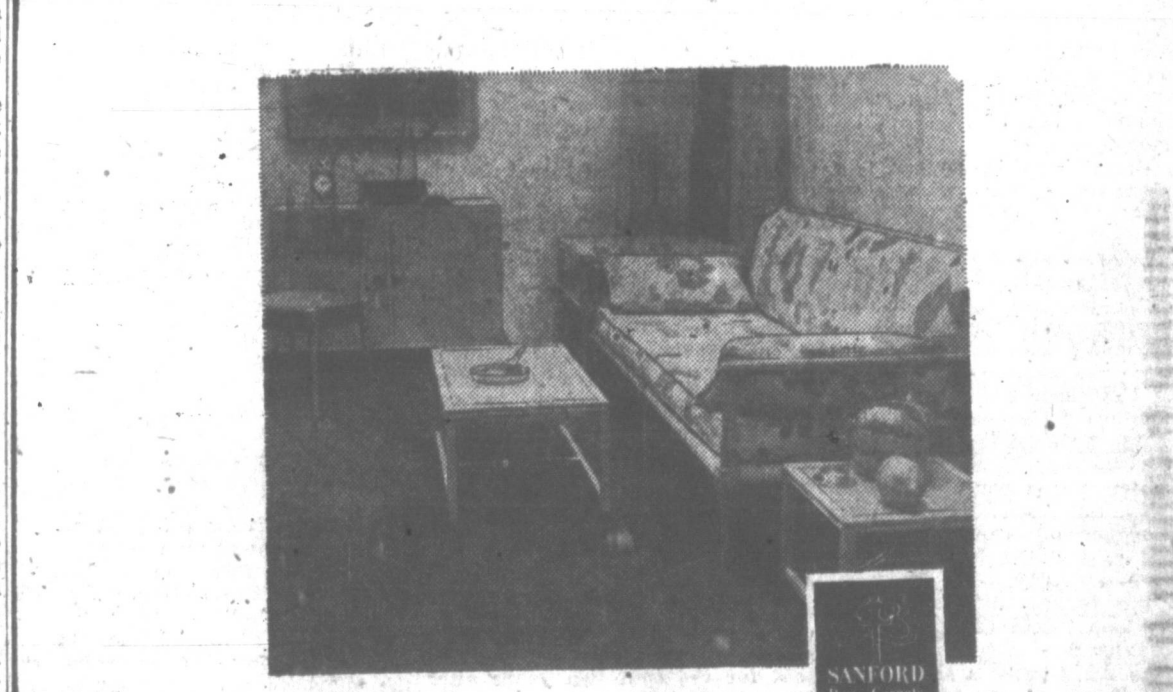

When we were winning pennants, it was a real delight to pitch to Gus.

"We would sit down before each game and talk over the opposing batters for a few minutes and we were set. After each pitch as I returned to the rubber I always had in mind what I wanted to throw next. Every pitcher does. Ninety-nine times out of a hundred when I looked that was what Gus was calling for. The hundredth time I might shake him off, and that usually was when somebody did to do? I've seen him stand out there and shake his head many a time before Mancuso had even given him a signal."

GETTING READY—Hoke Pepin, top, and Joe Edd Mackie, bottom, prepare their hotrods for the first hotrod race of the season which will be held at the old Pampa Air Force base two weeks from today, April 13. Pepin makes some minor adjustments on his motor, which has many chrome parts. It took him an estimated four months to plan and install the motor and transmission for his '41 Ford business coupe hustler. Mackie, who lives at 825 N. Dwight, shines up mirror as he doesn't have to worry about those ahead of him with his watch fading away. The races will start at 1:30 p.m. The Pampa hotrod enthusiasts recently organized a local hotrod club. (News Photos)

but that didn't mean anything. All pitchers do it, hoping to get the batter to thinking something's up. Know what Fred Fitzsimmons used to do? I've seen him stand out there and shake his head many a time before Mancuso had even given him a signal."

Members of the Top of Texas National Secretaries Assn. have taken on full responsibility of raising funds for this year's Cancer Crusade. They're dedicating the drive to the late Mrs. Minnie Barnes, 1951 chairman of the association's cancer drive, and to the thousands of other Americans who died last year of cancer.

While the drive begins officially today in the Pampa Junior High school auditorium at 3 p.m., when the style show is staged, tactfully thoughts of the spring cancer drive have been in the minds of Pampans and clubwomen in particular, since early fall.

Dr. Emily T. Hicks, Gray County's drive chairman, attended the sixth annual state-wide convention of the American Cancer society in Dallas in November, but before that time she had organized a group of service activities as a part of the year-round education program of the cancer society.

A loan closet filled with equipment a cancer patient might need was established in the Red Cross office; a cancer bin for scrap metal was set up at Bouland Supply; clubwomen made shirts, moving pictures on cancer phony-coats from men's dresses were shown, and information booths set up in both banks, and memorial funds also established in the banks for anyone desiring to contribute to the fight against cancer.

Now the drive is beginning. NSA is planning bake sales, a book review, a square dance jamboree, hat designer showing, and continuing the collection of scrap metal which will be sold to the government for a small sum, and the money turned over to the cancer drive.

In short, they have planned activities that will reach all groups of people who may want to contribute to the fight against cancer.

Tommy Kimbrow, Youngest Preacher In Pampa, Gives Memory Work Saturday

Tommy Kimbrow, three and a half years old, son of Mrs. T. J. (Dick) Kimbrow, 200 N. Ward, probably hasn't thought much about being a preacher or a Bible instructor yet, but many who heard him repeat from memory Saturday morning all his memory verses learned in Sabbath School since the first of the year think that he doubtless has the talent for such a profession.

Tommy's demonstration was his part in the 13th Sabbath mission program at the Pampa Seventh-day Adventist church last Saturday when the local Sabbath School joined with Sabbath Schools throughout North America in a fund raising program to establish two new hospitals in North African countries. A "over-flow" offering for the first quarter of the year, is expected to provide $45,000, to be expended in Nigeria and Ethiopia, church leaders say.

A small, meagerly equipped clinic in Jengre, Nigeria, now treating 15,000 patients a year, will be greatly enlarged, they say. A British missionary doctor and nurse, with native assistants, are now carrying on there, according to reports given the Sabbath School here.

The other hospital will be in Dessie, Ethiopia, where Adventists have been invited to start and equip a medical center, for which the empress and crown prince will provide the buildings. Three other Adventist hospitals are now in successful operation in Ethiopia. One conducted in Dessie before the Italian invasion of the country was con-

Sullivan-Dickens Rites Announced

In a formal ceremony read recently in Wellington, Miss Nancy Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pink Sullivan, became the bride of J. W. Dickens of Big Spring, son of Mrs. Rhoda Montgomery, of Wellington.

Vows were exchanged in the home of the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sullivan, Rev. J. F. Michael officiated at the ceremony read before the fireplace which was decorated with arrangements of white stock and palms. The bride wore a white gown and carried a bouquet of white flowers.

Mrs. Luther Gribble played "To a Wild Rose" and accompanied Mrs. Jack Kopp who sang "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer."

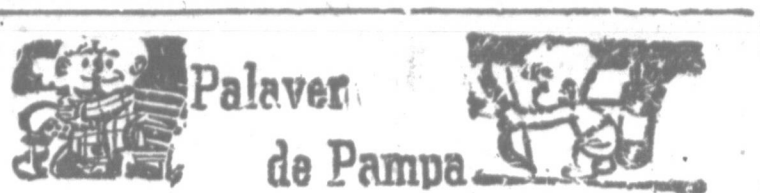

James Sullivan gave his sister in marriage. She wore a magnolia chantilly lace gown. Her veil of French illusion fell from a scalloped half-hat of magnolia lace. She carried a bouquet of gardenias.

Mrs. Vernon Ratzlow of Phillips was her sister's matron of honor. She wore a dusty rose snatching dress. The bride's four nieces were in the wedding party. Patricia Sullivan and Jans Ratzlow were junior bridesmaids and Susan Sullivan and Linda Ratzlow were flower girls.

Best man was Ernest Rice, Big Spring, cousin of the bridegroom. A reception followed the wedding. Mrs. Henry Sullivan and Mrs. Charles T. Roberts presided at the coffee service.

Following a wedding trip to Houston, Galveston and other South Texas points, the couple is at home in Big Spring where the bridegroom is employed by the Cabot Co.

The bride is a graduate of Texas State College for Women in Denton, and before her marriage lived in Pampa where she was an employe of Cabot Co.

HAVE HAD OUR LITTLE bungalow filled with relatives the past week. It is so wonderful having them with you, but in a way it is nice to be just your little family again. Don't you find that true?

WANNA START PLANTING. Everyone keeps saying to wait until the last frost is gone. Please tell this aspiring Luther Burbank just how one is to know WHEN the last frost has frosted.

CERTAINLY WERE a lot of parties — all kinds — last week. Pink and blue showers were given for Mrs. H. B. Ormon and Mrs. Frank Craig. Bridal showers for Miss Bobby Hedrick and Miss Gloria Kennedy. And congratulations to one of Pampa's pioneers, Mrs. J. L. Stroope, who celebrated her 76th birthday.

GOT THE YOUNGSTERS and Mr. Peg all outfitted for Easter, but poor Peg has been so absorbed in this task she has neglected herself! Can just see me the Saturday before Easter trying desperately to find "just the right" outfit. Will probably end up adding a gay bunch of posies and a bright smile to last year's ensemble. Oh, well — the rest of the family will shine, anyway.

CARLETON SMITH, DIRECTOR of the National Arts foundation, gave a most interesting talk, "The Arts and You," to the Knife and Fork club Monday night. Mrs. Massa was hostess to the Twentieth Century club Tuesday afternoon. "Education for Citizenship" was discussed. Several high school students formed a youth panel. The chamber of commerce officials and women's civic leaders met Tuesday noon to plan the organization of a Newcomers club. Mrs. Gene Fatheree was appointed temporary head. Such a club will be a grand thing to have here in Pampa. Mrs. Cameron Marsh discussed American music as an introduction to the Twentieth Century Culture program. Several selections of American music were played. Mrs. Myles Morgan was elected delegate to the district convention in Borger. Speaking of conventions. Mrs. J. W. Gardner, one of several members of the Pampa League of Women Voters, attended the state convention in Dallas and was elected secretary. Heard that Mr. and Mrs. Jack Foster showed their fascinating color movies on South America to the BGK club one night last week. Would like to see them — though, am afraid the travel-bug would really bite me.

MR. AND MRS. LUKE McClelland and daughter Carole motored to Dallas Friday. Carole is attending a formal dance with Eddie Scheig who is attending school there.

DON'T KNOW IF THIS warm weather is worth it or not — am beginning to notice the difference in my ironing already. Starched summer play clothes for the children are already coming into use.

OUR LITTLE POOCH is growing so fast. Am prejudiced, perhaps, but think he is a pretty bright fellow. Mr. Peg says he is a brainless canine — he's kidding. I know. Why, the little tyke goes right to the refrigerator everytime you mention food. Real smart, isn't he?

PANORAMA DE PEG: Del and Irene Beague have gone back to their home-away-from-home in Farmington, N. M. Saw Daisy Bellamy and Alice Howard driving to somewhere. It is so nice seeing Daisy looking so well. Raymond Harrah was off for Dallas AGAIN. Some special attraction down there, maybe? The Fletcher Kennedys are moving back to Pampa. Their many friends will be delighted to hear this.

MUST STOP "COOKING" during the hours when the youngsters are out of school for lunch. Those young things swishing about, make me feel so-o-o old. Seriously, do enjoy being around them, don't you? It has been so long ago that I can't remember me at their age. Ah, yes — sweet memories.

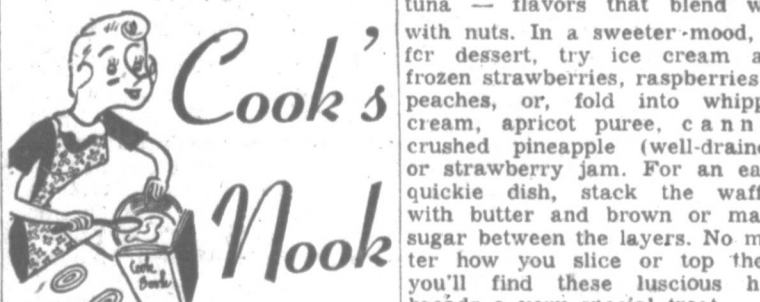

HAVE A NEW NAME to add to the list of Pampa bachelors — Fletcher Robertson, new managing editor at The News. He's handsome, too, gals.

MUST ADMIT THAT the wrestling matches Thursday night were most unusual. Had never seen women wrestle before. Was quite a show. Speaking of shows. . . saw "Angels in the Backfield." Perhaps it was Peg's love for baseball that made it so enjoyable, but am sure it was more than that. It was a darling picture and everyone seemed to get as great a boost from it as yours truly did.

JUST TALK: My, what lovely shoes there are on display these days. So many exciting styles and colors. Personally want a pair of each! Such a fascinating wardrobe we gals can have this spring and summer. Imagine a cool, crisp, palest green linen frock with tangerine shoes — or rich navy with bright yellow. . . Purchased a lipstick brush after years of deliberation. Every beauty article written pertaining to the proper method of applying lipstick stresses using a brush. Have even seen them in use — looks so simple and so worthwhile. But, alas, Peg has neither ability — nor patience. First attempt: my upper lip ended up under my nose (have a large enough mouth as natural). . . second attempt wasn't quite as bad. Though terribly lipsticked, did feel progress had been made. Then the third, and I might add, final attempt was even worse than the first. Anybody interested in a fine sable hair lipstick brush, slightly used — cheap?

SEEMS EACH WEEK Peg spends most of her time talking about the weather (quoth Mr. Peg). Made a promise not to mention it this week — didn't quite make it, huh? You must admit it was a noble try by

For a really scrumptious Sunday morning breakfast — or for a marvelous midnight snack — or for an unusual dessert at dinner time, surprise the family with waffles. They're doubly different if you stir chopped pecans into the batter — and pecans are on the plentiful list now. Try the recipe below — it's made like Grandma's old-fashioned sour milk waffles, but with a new scientific sweet-milk-and-vinegar formula which insures perfect results. Light, crunchy and tender, these waffles become plumper when pecans add their own delightful flavor.

To serve these super-duper waffles for breakfast, top with butter and syrup, and add some crisply broiled bacon to the plate. Then for a midnight snack, use a topping of creamed ham or

Mature Parent

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

When Ginny comes home from her first evening with her attractive new "date," she is not as happy as when she left.

She sits on the edge of our bed in the dark and says, "Mother, do you remember saying that what you can't have with self-respect, you can never really enjoy?"

She does not wait for an answer, but continues, half-absently as though she were thinking out loud, "That means if I have to give up the first man I've really gone for because I don't believe in necking on a first date, I have to let him go. . . ."

Into the darkness we say, "Darling, he may come back and if he doesn't."

She leans to kiss us, says briskly, "I know, I have to stand by whatever he does. . . ." and goes to her room.

Ginny has just given us one of parenthood's Pulitzer Prizes. She has incorporated a rule in her own set of values into her own set. She is struggling to solve a problem by this rule, not because she believes in it, not because she wants our praise, but because she thinks it is a good rule that will work out her problem.

By putting this rule of ours into use for herself, the experts tell us that our daughter has just passed one of the test points in her maturing independence.

She has made, they say, a "differentiation" with us, not a kindly, understanding parents to whom she is emotionally attached, but as fellow human beings whose standards make some sense.

Nobody has forced Ginny to this sudden recognition of her mother as a person who has had to formulate rules because like Ginny, she too has felt temptation, weakness and fear. Nobody knows exactly when the rule stopped being just words to Ginny and she had taken it into her mind like a rod and strong staff in her hand.

Her trust of the rules was involved with the past — with the afternoon we went back with her to the little girl's house with the toy she had taken without asking; with the cool, still peace following feverish defense of a lie; with the sound of relief in a father's "Well, I've done it!" the day he turned down a big fee from the client whose business looked shady.

So it was there tonight when our child wanted to take what she could not enjoy with self-respect. She flew blind on our rule just as a flyer flies blind on the beam without knowing the man who manipulates it.

Sometimes older children do not achieve this trust of the rules, but insist on trusting us, instead. That's not so good, since we are imperfect and often disobey our own rules. Most of us have known of children who have suffered disillusion and even a moral breakdown by suddenly discovering that the parent they have trusted is weak and faulty.

Social workers with delinquent children watch carefully for this "identification" evidence. "The big day of a successful social worker is not the day that Joe says to him, 'I didn't hit him back because I knew you wouldn't want me to.' Though this is an important day for aggressive Joe, it's not the one for the celebration.

The day for that is the day Joe says to his social worker, 'I didn't hit him back because I remembered he's just had his tonsils out and I could have laid him out too easy.' That's the big day — the one that tells his

Mrs. Dick Hughes, above, is pictured following the announcement last year that she had been selected "Woman of the Year." The annual selection of Pampa's outstanding woman is sponsored by the Beta Sigma Phi sorority. The first lady of Pampa has been selected this year by a citizens group and the sorority, but her identity will not be released to the public until Sunday, April 6, on which day the 1952 leading woman citizen will be honored at a tea in the City Club room.

Miss Roberta Leonard Honored At Shower

SHAMROCK — (Special) —

Miss Roberta Leonard, bride-elect of Don Powell, was complimented Sunday afternoon with a tea and miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. George Ciose.

Twelve hostesses were in the house party. They were Misses Ciose, John O'Gorman, Jack Taylor, Joe Hindman, Bert Bejenough, Earl Hamill, Jack Dekle, E. M. Rives, Huey Cook and Glynn Bell.

In the receiving line were Mrs. Ciose, the honoree, her mother, Mrs. R. B. Leonard of Pampa, and Mrs. Lewis Powell, mother of the prospective bridegroom. Decorations emphasized an orchid and white motif, chosen colors of the honor guest. In the dining room the table was laid with a cloth of white linen and centered with an arrangement of orchid stock and fern, flanked with tall white tapers in crystal candelabra. Individual cakes were topped with orchid and white roses.

Mrs. A. R. Newman, sister of Miss Leonard, presided at the guest register. Mrs. John McDowell and Mrs. Marvin Knoll poured alternately. In the gift rooms, many useful and attractive gifts were on display.

During the receiving hours Miss Patricia Reeves and Miss Bernice Ciose played piano selections. Approximately one hundred guests called during the afternoon.

The gift that Joe has not been motivated by the desire to please a beloved human being, but by trust in an impersonal principle of fair play.

Ruth Millett

Writes a young wife: 'I don't know what is wrong with my husband and me. We just can't seem to make friends.

'We have lived in this town four years, and we have certainly been friendly. Whenever we meet a couple we like, I immediately ask them over for dinner.

'I have given small parties for any number of young married women — because they had a houseguest, or in order to give a baby shower, or for whatever reason occurred to me.

'Yet when these young couples plan parties of their own we are seldom included. Why?'

Perhaps, you are trying too hard to make friends, rushing in when you should tread slowly.

You can be friendly without always taking the initiative. By doing so you run the risk of frightening people away.

A waiting friendliness is the best attitude for a newcomer. Show your pleasure at meeting strangers, and when it can be done naturally and easily, go ahead and make the first move toward friendship.

But don't be so eager to turn each acquaintance into friendship that you give the impression of reaching out and grabbing desperately at those you meet.

That quickly scares people away. Your very eagerness will make them more hesitant about accepting you. Try to relax a bit and wait for a few friendships to blossom, instead of trying to force each bloom.

That method may seem painfully slow, but it is the best way to go about making lasting friendships. And remember this. In friendships quality counts more than quantity.

New Addition Sewer Work Progressing

The quarter-way mark in the 720-foot outfall sewer line along Crawford in Prairie Village has been reached, reports from the city engineering department showed.

The 12-inch line starts in the alley west of Prairie Drive, the westernmost north-south street of the new addition, and runs east to E. Malone and Talley. There, it connects with the old outfall line and continues north and east to the disposal plant.

The 8-inch and 6-inch sewer mains, through the addition, will be laid after the outfall line is completed. Water lines and gas lines will follow and streets will be paved after all pipelines are completed. This procedure is being followed to avert tearing up freshly paved streets to install the lines, city officials said.

Methodists Fete Seniors At Banquet

Rev. Charles Lutrick, vestal minister, Thursday evening told 150 members of the Pampa senior class that they had a call in life.

He compared that call to circus life, where each member of the circus must cooperate to put up the "big tent." Rev. Lutrick said each student must answer life's call and must cooperate with each other and with God.

The dinner is sponsored annually in the First Methodist church by the Women's Society of Christian Service.

The circus theme was carried out in the decorations and entertainment.

Mrs. Luther Pierson, president of the WSCS, welcomed the seniors. Senior Tottie Hutchens delivered the response.

Others in the program were Clinton Evans, master of ceremonies; W. A. Wagoner, barber; Janie Branson and Bill Hutchinson, duet; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bowers and Mrs. V. Callahan; Mrs. Steve Oatis and Mrs. R. Pollard, booths; Mrs. E. A. McLennan, circus ring; Mrs. H. H. Butler was general chairman.

Canadian Baptists Launch $200,000 Building Program

CANADIAN — (Special) — The Brotherhood of the First Baptist church here has approved a $200,000 building program.

A new church building and an educational building are to be constructed at Seventh and Main where the old Gerlach home formerly stood.

Men of the church, in a meeting Tuesday night, were unanimous in their approval of the building project, and immediately started a building fund drive, setting their goal at $100,000 cash on hand before starting the building.

Pledges to the building fund, including cash on hand, already total $80,000, it was reported. A large part of this amount was pledged at Tuesday night's meeting.

Members of the building committee hope to reach the goal of $100,000 by April 9, when a report is to be given at an all-church dinner and meeting. An every-member canvass is to be launched to secure cash and pledges for the building fund.

No definite plans for new buildings have been adopted, according to the pastor, Rev. Taft Holloway, although several archi-

Test Tube Humans Said A Possibility

NEW YORK — (AP) — The day may be coming when human beings will be made to order with test tubes, according to a prediction made by Dr. Ralph W. Gerard, professor of physiology, University of Chicago, at a "conference on the future" held by executives of Mutual Fire and Casualty Insurance company.

The new breeding method already is used on animals. Selected human parents, doing the same, would give their eggs and sperm to a scientific laboratory. There, conception would take place in a test tube. The fertilized egg would be planted in a foster mother and, according to the facts already discovered with animals, the child would truly inherit the qualities of its test tube parents.

The first human step already has been taken in artificial insemination. But Dr. Gerard predicted it would be a long time before we have many made-to-order humans. He said we may not want to, because they will be monotonously alike. Or they may create castes.

He predicted new hearts, by transplantation, and new kidneys similarly. He said the secret of aging would be discovered and used for man's benefit.

Our present crude calculating machines, he said, will become truly brainlike and of great assistance in thinking.

Indicates Cotton Planting To Decline

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Unofficial reports have indicated that the United States may plant considerably less cotton than recommended by Secretary of Agriculture Brannan.

The department itself has made no cotton acreage forecast, as it did last week for most crops. It is prohibited by law from making cotton predictions before July 1 of each crop year.

This prohibition was set up many years ago when Southern lawmakers argued that such forecasts worked to the disadvantage of growers and to the advantage of cotton merchants and users.

The planting report for other crops indicated that less land would be planted this season than last, despite Brannan's plea for a sizeable increase.

Because cotton supplies are at the lowest level in 25 years — and low enough to cause a shortage of clothing and other textile products in the event of a crop failure — Brannan has recommended that at least 28 million acres be planted.

PAMPA'S OBLIGATION to its INDUSTRIES

Manufacturing needs positive encouragement if we are to continue the economic expansion of Texas. Jobs and opportunities depend directly upon the extent to which investments can be encouraged in our state. The stability of the tax structure and the state governmental policy toward business have been two of the main reasons why we have had such a tremendous industrial expansion in recent years. A national trend of spending and taxation has placed Texas at the economic crossroads. The state can turn one way — the way of fair and reasonable taxation — and continue its march of progress down the road of continued jobs, opportunities and prosperity. Or it can turn the other way — the way of crippling taxation — and halt our economic development by discouraging new enterprises, thereby promoting unemployment and diminishing business activity. Pampa's obligation to its present industry and to industries we hope to secure in the future lies with every citizen of this country. Pampa's obligation should be reflected on the statewide level.

COUNTER-BLOW—If you think Mrs. Ione Counter, Minneapolis, Wis., tomato packer, looks sadly pensive, you're right. She lost her diamond ring while packing tomatoes and figures it's in one of the 20,000 packages of them showing up in retail stores. Since the news got out, there was a boom in tomato sales.

MONKEY BUSINESS—Hugo, seven-month-old gorilla, enjoys being tickled by Mrs. C. B. Greer, Jr., of Houston, Tex. Hugo was captured by Mr. and Mrs. Greer in French Equatorial Africa. The $6000 infant is attended by a doctor, not a veterinarian, and is fed a baby's diet. When he grows up he'll live at the Houston zoo.

FUTURE SCIENTIST—Karl H. Muench, 17, of Evanston, Ill., wins the top award of a $2000 Westinghouse scholarship in the Science Talent Search for 1952. In the opinion of the contest judges he is "the nation's most outstanding future scientist." Karl hopes to make some form of medical research.

PACK YOUR DAY . . . A day is like a trunk. You can put twice as much in it if you know how. The right way to pack a trunk is not to dump the stuff right in the middle, but to pack it lightly in the corners and sides. Last of all, pack the middle. There is a right way, too, to pack a day. A man can do nearly twice as much if he appreciates what he can do in five minutes — if he fills up the corners of his day. — Efficiency Magazine	DEARBORN REAR-ATTACHED MOWER Can be attached to the Ford Tractor in a matter of minutes, detached even faster. CHANCE IS FOOLPROOF—Puerto Rico's "foolproof" lottery machine spins in San Juan as students make the weekly drawing of numbers. The government-operated lottery last year returned nearly 70 per cent of its $28,600,000 take to the public, distributing the rest to charities, needy municipalities, and to lottery ticket sellers as commissions. No one touches the numbered balls until they pop out of the outlandish-looking device.

SAVING FACE—Three North Korean deserters show the modish way to wear a cap when posing for a Western photographer. They are also modeling the latest thing in a "gift" uniform, "donated" by the grateful democrats of Czechoslovakia, which they received while with Red forces. They hide their faces for fear former Red superiors should see the photograph.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing. How quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unwelcome fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your drugist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcetrane. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoons twice a day. That's all there is to it.

LOST 35 POUNDS
"I have lost 35 pounds taking Barcetrane and my health is so much better," writes Mrs. W. A. Geisbart, 511 Orange Ave., MeAllen, Texas.

NURSE LOST 20 POUNDS
"On August 15, 1951, I weighed 178 pounds. I was running in a hospital and on my feet long hours. I decided I must lose weight. I heard about Barcetrane and decided to try it. On the first bottle, I lost five pounds; used four bottles and lost 20 pounds. I think Barcetrane is wonderful." Mrs. Willie Christian, 276 Scobey Court, San Antonio, Texas.

Cabot Ordnance Plant One Of Newest Producing Industries In Pampa Area

One of the newest industries which has production underway in the Pampa area is the ordnance plant operated here by Cabot Shops under the direction of R. A. Baker and H. J. Pickett.

The plant, reassigned government contract last year to make gun tubes for U. S. military needs, is located about five miles west of town on Highway 60. It was under government contract during World War II and was reassigned the contract for the tubes because of the excellent record during that period.

For those who have seen it, the process of producing these high-quality tubes is an enlightening experience.

The procedure begins when tons of scrap iron are brought in from points over the nation including Texas and other southwestern states. Only the highest quality materials, inspected by the government, are acceptable for the Cabot job.

When the iron arrives at the shops, it is transferred to a giant pile by use of huge magnet attached to a 25-ton crane.

From this pile, the iron is loaded into a giant electric furnace where it is melted to the desired temperature and poured into molds. According to Cabot officials, this particular type of furnace is used only where high-grade steel is processed.

The molten scrap is held in this "aristocrat of furnaces" about six hours while it is heated to desired temperature — about 3000 degrees Fahrenheit.

The huge furnace, having heated the metal to the right temperature, then pours the fiery load into a ladle which, in turn, pours it into ingots in preparation for the production of the rifle tubes.

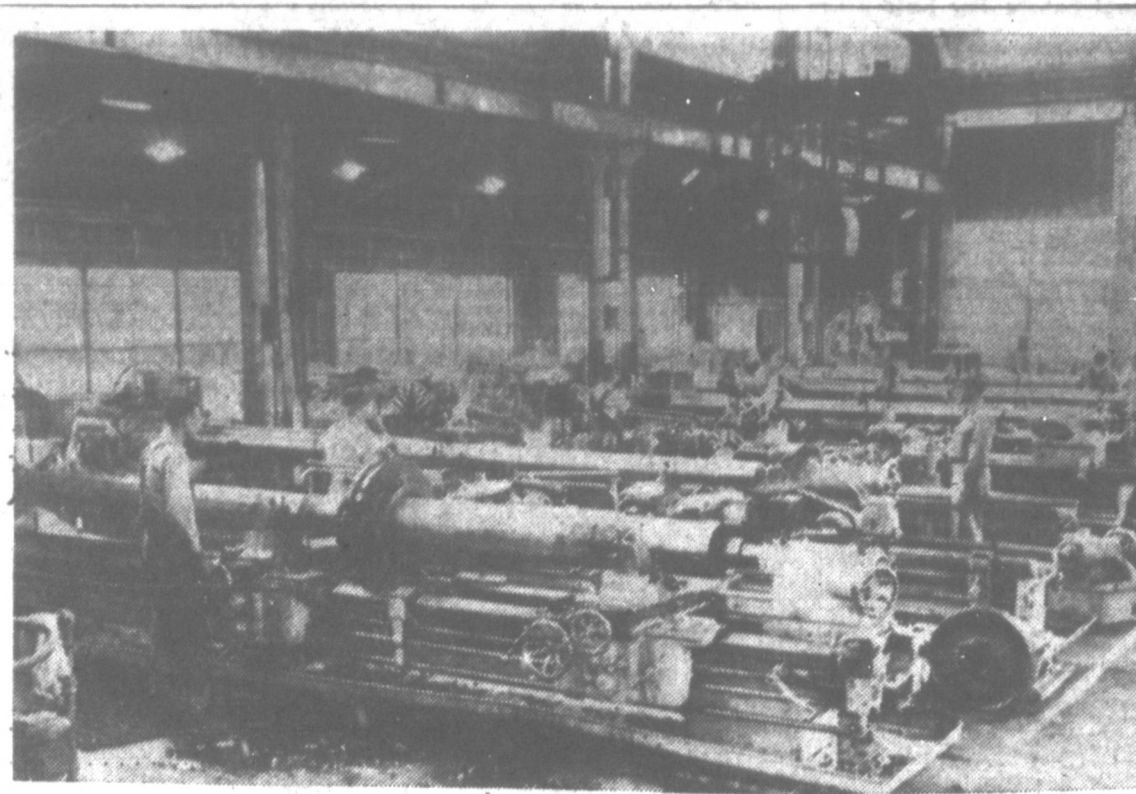

These ingots are held in molds for about three hours, or until their temperature drops to about half that of the molten stage.

The molds are stripped from the ingots and reheated or charged in still other furnaces until they are at the proper temperature for forging.

When the ingots leave their molds, they are given a heat number and a gun number which stays with them even after being put into use. This number, which is stamped on the mold, is that of the number of loads which has gone into the electric furnace and the number of the cast from that particular load. For example, the third mold from the 100th load of metal which went into the furnace would be No. 100-3.

The next step is forging. Here a huge hammer beats the short bulky ingot into a long, slender tube, the first indication of the ultimate shape of the gun tube.

The now-slender tubes are transferred from the forger into a cooling box where they remain for about three weeks, buried in shredded asbestos. At the end of the cooling period the rough-worked tubes are removed and each end sawed off for tests. Then the tubes are sent through a series of lathes which center, take off the exterior roughness, bore and finally polish.

MACHINING ROUGH FORGINGS — The first step at the Cabot Ordnance plant following forging of ingots in production of gun tubes for the armed forces, is machining the rough tubes after they have been beaten from short, squat casts into long, slender shafts of high-quality steel. After this process, the shafts are placed in other lathes to be bored. Finally, they are smoothed and tempered. (Smith Photo)

The ends, in the meantime, are subjected to various tests to determine quality of the steel used in the barrels.

After the tube comes off the finishing lathe, it is put through a special tempering process. The barrels are heated in deep, vertical furnaces.

The tubes are heated to a specified temperature, air cooled, re-heated again and water-cooled again.

From this point, the Army takes over.

Cabot has imported several skilled steelmen for the new plant. At least six key men were brought in from the Pittsburgh area. Much of the actual work, production figures and processes are held secret by the ordnance plants along with production techniques.

The plant was built by Cabot for use during WW II and following the war, was converted to use by the company for its own work in building pumping units.

However, many of the facilities used in the production of tubes, was kept intact.

When the government contract was awarded again, the shops were transferred into a newly built building designed specifically for local use.

Conversion of the old plant and moving into the new shop building was completed this year.

HEAT TREATING GUN TUBES — T catch of three rifle tubes are lowered into treating pits at Cabot Ordnance plant for the final step in production of gun tubes. These will be heated, air-cooled, re-heated, water-cooled and again re-heated and water-cooled before they are tempered properly. (Smith Photo)

Workmen Complete 37 Bridge Piers Across Canadian River

CANADIAN — (Special) — The last of the 37 big concrete piers that will carry the new highway bridge across the Canadian River here has been poured, and workmen are completing the abutments at each bank of the river.

Sheet piling has been driven around the bases of the abutments preparatory to pouring the reinforced concrete rip-rap, or apron.

Work on the new bridge is well ahead of schedule, and the job would be ready for the work on the bridge floor to begin within the week, but officials of the Austin Bridge Company, contractors, have been notified that shipment of the big I-beams would be delayed until about May 1.

Delivery of these big steel beams for the floor had been expected early in April, and the delay in delivery will be a big disappointment to users of U. S. Highways 60 and 83, as well as to the contractors.

J. W. "Andy" Anderson, of the Austin Bridge Company, stated that in all probability the entire job would have to be shut down by April 10th — as everything will have been done by then that can be done pending arrival of the big steel beams for the bridge floor.

The new bridge will be 2,926 feet long, the roadway will be 28 feet wide and will eliminate the bottleneck to traffic so noticeable during combine season when frequent traffic tie-ups occur because the drivers of these over-width machines sometimes fall to sea, or fail to heed the instructions to send a flagman across before attempting to take their wide loads across the narrow bridge now in use.

Sunshine Dairy, Snow Crop Frozen foods and Town Talk bread are among the products to be used at the second annual all-electric cooking school April 1 and 2.
