The Pampa Daily News

The history of liberty is a history of the limitation of governmental power, not the increase of it. When we resist, therefore, we are resisting the processes of death, because a concentration of power is what always precedes the destruction of human liberties.

President's Book Feeds Political Fires

WASHINGTON (AP)—This unprecedented — if not critical — look into the mind and activities of a President still in the White House discloses among other things that: Harry S. Truman, in his own words, is a sentimental, lonely man who sometimes feels the White House has turned him into a "two-headed calf" — a freak in the eyes of the American people.

Truman believes "there is no indispensable man in a democracy." The President makes this comment on politicians in general: "They never get out until they die or are kicked out." A big 350 page book full of these and thousands of other "unheard private thoughts" of the 32nd President went on sale today. The title: "Mr. President." William Hillman, Mutual Broadcasting system commentator, is listed as the author. But some 65,000 of the 80,000 words are those of Harry Truman himself. They are from his leather-bound diary, his private memoranda, his correspondence, his campaign documents, his startlingly frank conversations.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Tricks Really Count At Bridge Tourney

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

When today's hand was played in the recent Life Master Individual championship, some of the experts managed to lose their contract of three no-trump. The average player will find it difficult to believe this, since the hand is practically cold for nine tricks. What's more, it's very hard to blame the poor fellows who flubbed the hand.

The ten of clubs was led at practically every table. Declarer won in his own hand and fished the queen of spades, losing to East's king. East returned a club to dummy's ace, and dummy laid down the ace of spades, discovering that the suit was now solid.

What now? How should South continue with the hand in order to make the largest possible number of tricks?

It should be remembered that this was a match-point tournament. It was important to make the maximum on each hand. In this type of contest extra tricks are just as important as making the contract.

Some of the experts decided to go after the diamonds. They took one diamond finesse, losing to West's queen, and West led a third round of clubs. Now South got to dummy with a spade and tried another diamond finesse, hoping to win three tricks in the suit.

Instead, West won the second diamond with the king, cashed a club, and then set the contract by leading a heart to East's ace.

The proper line of play was to go after the hearts instead of the diamonds. When Fred Karpin, of Washington, D. C., played the hand, he tried out the spades in the normal way but then led the ten of hearts from dummy. East played low, Karpin played the king from his hand, and West played low.

Now Karpin ran the rest of dummy's spades. Discarding a dia-

Internal Revenue Employees On The Defensive These Days

NEW YORK — (AP) — It was touch and go for awhile at desk 12.

The Internal Revenue agent at Desk 12, Dist. 3, the New York Tax Collector's office, U. S. Treasury department, was talking to a newspaperman.

A woman came up and thanked him for helping her with her income tax return, then she gave him a nickel.

"Honest," the agent explained to the reporter. "It wasn't a bribe. As a matter of fact, she still owes me a nickel. I lent her a dime for a phone call."

Although this was said with a smile, it illustrated a mood widely prevalent among tax people these days. They're on the defensive. One female agent explained:

"Every time I withdraw $20 from my savings account and put checking account, I do it with a cashier's check. That's to make sure I can account for the money later."

The lady refused to give the reporter her name.

"You can't imagine the great strain we're under in the Internal Revenue bureau because of the scandals," she said. "Even us little people. You put my name in the paper and some crackpot will see it and write in to the collector saying I ought to be investigated.

"Even a screwball complaint like that, completely without foundation, could lead to a long, special investigation. This kind of thing has happened and innocent people have suffered. The morale these days."

As for the taxpayers coming into the collector's office for help in preparing their returns, most of revenue employees is terrible. Only a few enter with a chip on their shoulder or suspicion in their eye.

There has been "some snippliness," one agent explained. He has heard a few wisecracks like: "Pretty soft job you got." (It isn't).

"How many mink coats does George T. Woods, divisional chief, said he dreading the opening of the office for this year's income tax season.

"I thought it would be hell. I thought we'd take a beating over things like bribes and minks and deep freezes. But the great majority of people have been very nice. Maybe they feel sorry for the rest of us because of few bad apples."

"There are always a few disreputable publicity we've gotten for a grunted taxpayers," reported Chief Field Deputy George Hazley. "No more this year than any other time."

One elderly lady came into the tax office, sniffed, snorted and left, saying:

"Got engaged last night, Professor! Could you teach me something that would help me make monau?"

How To Make Your Gun Fit You

By WARREN PAGE
Shooting Editor

Most shotgun shooters, whether rabbit hunters or skeet and trap artists, have fitted themselves to their guns, rather than going to the trouble of shaping the gun to the man. For some 80 percent of us it's easy to learn to shoot any smoothbore of reasonable dimension.

What the factories call a standard shotgun stock will usually measure no less than 13 3/4 and no more than 14 inches from the center of the trigger — which is length of pull.

The standard buttstock is so shaped that if we extend the line of its sights (simplest way is to turn the gun barrel down and buttstock up on a large desk or table) and then measure down to the forward tip of the comb, this drop at comb will be 1 5/8 inches. The drop at the heel, or stern top section of the butt, will average 2 1/2 inches.

These measurements apply whether we shoot a pump gun, double over-under, or semi-auto. The average man, from five feet six to six feet, kills game and smashes clay targets very handsily with that gun-fit formula.

But lots of us characters have swan necks or no pecks at all, Abraham Lincoln or moon faces, arms like either gorilla's grippers or seal flippers. We have fits from poor gun fit. There are thousands of old crook - stocked smoothbores kicking around that were designed for men who shot with their heads straight up.

Trying to hold them in the modern fashion, cheek forward and firmly on the comb, means only misses by undershooting.

So if you can't hit a barn broodside, the fault is probably your own, but it might — just might — lie in the stock shape. Try to hold them up quickly and aligning it without thinking or aiming at that picture of Uncle Harry over the mantelpiece.

Try it a dozen times. If Uncle's nose is hidden by the breech section of the gun, it is probably too crooked for you, too little drop at comb and heel, probably also a shade short. If you see the longer half of the barrel, it's too straight, needs a little trimming on the top of the stock, arm may be over long. If you seem to be off-line sideways, the comb, which on a shotgun acts like a year sight, needs fattening or slimming as the case may be.

If you see just the last few inches of the muzzle lined up on Harry's chin whiskers, the gun is probably right for flushing game birds like quail, grouse, or pheasants, will shoot high on rabbits, and may on ducks.

The old scheme of checking pull length by crooking the right eye, poking the buttplug into the bend, and then noting whether or not the reach to the trigger is comfortable for your right forefinger, helps some people.

North-South Meet Opens

PINEHURST, N. C. — (AP) — The 50th North and South Invitation Golf Championship for women opening here today presented a golden opportunity for Pat O'Sullivan to join a select circle of those who have won the event three successive years.

The personable Orange, Conn., miss who winters at nearby Southern Pines and works at the desk of a resort hotel when not basking the daylight out of a golf ball, has won the last two stagings of this ancient tournament.

Three noted ladies of the links, Glenna Collett Vare, Estelle Lawson Page and Maureen Orcutt, have won three in a row.

Today Pat set out after her third straight in a field of 86. The background was the No. 2 championship course of the Pinehurst Country Club, with women's par of 74, measuring 5,915 yards from the front tees.

The low 32 scores will move into the first round of match play tomorrow, with one 18-hole round daily thereafter through the finals Sunday afternoon.

Mae Murray, Pat's Curtis Cup teammate and co-worker on the hotel staff, will be seeking revenge for her finals loss of a year ago.

Grace DeMoss of Corvallis, Ore., was in the field as Mrs. Page, a cup alternate.

News Briefs From The Training Camps

PASADENA, Calif. — (AP) — Perhaps the Cleveland Indians made a mistake in disarming Satchel Paige like a broken bat a few years ago.

Now with the St. Louis Browns, Satch is proving he still can fling skillfully for three innings. He pulled one honor at the start yesterday at Busbank, letting Al Rosen hit a homer that put the Indians into a 7-7 seventh inning tie.

Kicking the rosin bag a few times, Paige then fanned Jim Hegan to retired Cleveland in the seventh, fanned Bob Kennedy to stop the Indians in the eighth, and ended the game by fanning Jim Fridley.

TAMPA, Fla. — (AP) — The rumors that Pitcher-Ewell Blackwell may be traded to the Brooklyn Dodgers — are floating around again in the Cincinnati Reds' training camp.

There was no official pronouncement, of course, but even Blackwell took cognizance of the rumors. His comment, when a Cincinnati news photographer took his picture yesterday was, "your office might have to change that 'C' on my shirt to a 'B'."

There wasn't much in Blackwell's performance yesterday, however, to cause excitement. The lanky righthander went five innings against the Philadelphia Athletics and yielded all of the A's five runs and six hits.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — (AP) — Outfielder Bob Cerv's throwing arm has been coming under the fire of the critics here, but New York Yankee's General Manager George Weiss won't agree.

"Cerv's arm is good, good enough to play center field in the Yankee Stadium," said Weiss today.

Gene Woodling is a better fielder, the experts agree, but Manager Casey Stengel never would remove him from the spacious environs of left field in the Stadium.

LAKELAND, Fla. — (AP) — Detroit Tiger Manager Red Rolfe is counting on lefthander Ted Gray and righthander Art Houtteman and Virgil Trucks as his "big three" — pitchers who can start every fourth day.

If they shunt aside some arms, such as played Gray and Trucks, in the past two years, the Tigers could be contenders. All three are throwing fast with a loose, easy motion and finding the plate.

VERO BEACH, Fla. — (AP) — Ralph Branca, who has been throwing hard in an attempt to get himself in top condition for the Brooklyn Dodgers, has Manager Chuck Dressen happy.

"His change up looks much better than before, and his fast ball was doing things," said Dressen yesterday after Branca tossed two innings against the Philadelphia A's "B" team. "He looked real good to me."

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Max Lanier, the New York Giants pitcher, was back in camp today with glowing accounts of the St. Louis Cardinals, his former mates. Lanier worked out with the Cards for the past 10 days in Florida because of the death there of a business partner.

He reported that Manager Eddie Stanky has the Redbirds hustling.

"Nobody should sell the Cards short," he said. "When they get pitching, they'll be mighty tough to beat."

PASADENA, Calif. — (AP) — Lefty Bill Kennedy, purchased last week from the St. Louis Browns, will start for the Chicago White Sox today against the Cleveland Indians.

Howie Judson also was assigned for the game by Manager Paul Richards.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — (AP) — Red Schoendienst was back at his old second base spot for the Browns.

Hoppe's first defeat in three years in a world three-cushion billiard tournament.

Ray Kilgore, 46, a 10-point or 5 to 1 underdog (take your choice) defeated the 64-year-old grey eagle 60-47 in a tense 63 innings. He had to overcome both his own nervous pressure, which built up heavily toward the finish, and an extremely tight Hoppe defense.

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — An unknown San Franciscan last night handed perennial Champion Willie Hoppe a defeat.

ST. LOUIS CARDINALS AGAINST THE PHILADELPHIA PHIS YESTERDAY AS MANAGER EDDIE STANKY SUFFERED A SORCERER AND A SORE RIGHT LEG. Stanky is expected to play second much of the season, but has played in only one exhibition game so far. Schoendienst has been trying out at shortstop recently.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — In view of the weather around these parts for the past week, the question of whether the big leaguers will be able to make out a '53 exhibition schedule at today's meeting here appears to be purely academic.

The Cleveland Indians have been wandering around the coast for days, getting in a game only now and then between the, ah, showers. They estimated they had lost over $7,000 in potential exhibition receipts the time they dripped in here yesterday and wrung out their uniforms.

A report that seals were seen sporting between Hollywood and the downtown district proved to be without foundation.

IBC Faces Top Fight Of Career

NEW YORK — (AP) — The International Boxing Club, which has contracts with every world champion from featherweight to heavyweight, today was faced with the biggest fight of its three-year career.

The government filed a civil anti-trust suit against the club yesterday maintaining the IBC is conspiring to monopolize championship fights in the United States.

Commenting on the action in Washington, Attorney General J. Howard McGrath said the suit was intended to remove monopolistic practices. The public, contestants, promoters, and radio and television broadcasters are "entitled to a free, competitive market in a business which commands such wide public interest, he added.

Both James D. Morris of New York and Arthur Wirtz of Chicago, owners of the IBC, promptly defended their actions.

"As far as we are concerned, we've acted on advice of counsel, who said all our actions were perfectly legal," said Morris in Miami Beach, Fla., where he is vacationing. "If the government finds otherwise, we'll just have to change."

McNeely Lists 12 Letter Winners

Coach Clifton McNeely of the Pampa Harvester basketball team has announced the letter winners for the 1951-52 season. Seven major letters were given and six reserve letters.

Winning major letters were co-captains Duane Jeter and Tommy Smith, Marvin Bond, Jimmy Bond, Jimmy Dulaney, Jon Oden and David Crossman, team manager.

Reserve letters went to Billy Webb, Buddy Cockrell, Freddy Woods, Charley McCray, Roy Pool and Allie Miller.

The Harvesters had one of their finest seasons this year, winning 21 and losing but two, both to the district champion Borger Bulldogs.

Marvin Bond, who was the winner of the "Hustling Harvester Award" last year, gained his third basketball letter and Jeter and Smith added their second. It was also a third managerial letter for Crossman. All are seniors, as are Pool and Dulaney. Miller, though a junior, has used us his eligibility.

Harritt Schwartz was elected basketball queen last week.

Dr. Logan's Wife

THE STORY: Janet Logan, wife of the aging and failing Dr. Logan, is trying to shake off her attraction toward the youthful Peter Surinow, biophysicist doing atomic medicine research at Angel's hospital. Believing that a contribution toward atom clearance, in which Peter is interested, will clear her conscience and allow her to tell Peter she must see him no more, Janet sells some jewelry, raises $1200 and gives it to Peter in a certified check. Maxwell Cota, head of the hospital and landlord of the atom, has been trying to oust Peter from the hospital since. He has tried to brand Peter as a Communist because Peter objected to the loyalty oath. Failing in this because of Dr. Logan's support of Peter, Cota searches Peter's rooms and finds the check and a note by Janet Logan.

THE meeting of the Executive Committee was orderly enough during the opening speeches. Walter Pelletier's speech, delivered last, had not been received as he could have hoped, as his family had received it, but then it was one thing to be obliged to listen, another to want to hear. After it, the discussion period zoned to wrangling.

Into the heated argument, Gas Logan, who was perhaps the only composed member of the group, his hands clasped on his blue gabardine sleeves, his magnified blue eyes gentle as flowers, injected a peacemaker's note.

"Gentlemen," he said in a tone of exemplary quiet, "we are all beginning to repeat ourselves and no one seems to be convincing anyone else. I think we're forgetting that we're not enemies. We're all here for the same purpose—that is, to act in the best interests of the hospital. There is really no question here of a difference in politics. We all hate Communism. Let's not put each other on trial."

Peter Surinow is on trial to your motion is premature. There is still a further point of discussion, Dr. Logan. I suggest that your sympathies with Peter Surinow are deeper than we think."

"You better say what you mean," Cota be warned.

"I think you're the one who's going to have to make yourself clear, Dr. Logan. Whether you like being on trial or not, I'm afraid that's where this piece of paper puts you." He threw down the photostatic copies, shouting to those who had taken twisted positions in an attempt to read the paper, "A certified check in the amount of $1200 signed over by Janet Lecky Logan to Peter Surinow Now, Dr. Logan, maybe you'll explain what's going on here."

Dr. Logan's head bent to the thick paper, curling at the edges because of hasty removal from developer solution, on which was photographed the front and back sides of the check. When Dr. Logan could tear his eyes from the paper, he said through mask-lips, "I don't believe you, Cota. You're framing me—this is some trick—you made this whole dirty thing up..."

"Watch your tongue, and you must be able to recognize your own wife's handwriting."

DR. LOGAN'S hand clutched his left lapel, hung from it until the cloth gave way with a small sound. He put his free hand up to ward off the faces and bodies that crowded him, whose breaths on his face used up the breath he needed in his lungs. "My wife..." Logan choked. "You lie—cheap, dirty lie..."

That was when Gas struggled up-out of his seat and still pulling at the top of his lapel, he took small-bent-kneed-steps out of the room.

Pelletier got up and followed Logan. In the hall, he saw the stricken man's hand reach into his pocket, saw him slip the pill into a face contorted and motionless with pain.

There was a bench a yard or two down the hall, and Pelletier half-carried the man to it, sat him carefully on it.

Feeling Against Protestants Developing In Catholic Spain

MADRID, Spain — (AP) — The closer relations developing between the U.S. and Spain have caused the worst anti-Protestant wave in recent years, one of the highest Spanish Protestants has declared.

This source, who asked anonymously, emphasized the Spanish government is not backing the anti-Protestant movement. On the contrary, he said, it is extremely worried over possible reaction on forthcoming negotiations for U.S. financial aid in return for U.S. air and naval bases.

The Protestant leader said the campaign increased sharply following President Truman's statement recently he was not fond of the regime of Generalissimo Francisco Franco and the explanation by former U. S. Ambassador Stanton Griffis that the President was chiefly concerned at the lack of religious liberty in this country.

"On learning of the American President's declaration, our reaction was, 'what chapel will suffer the consequences?'" he said. "The answer came on March 5 with the attempt to burn Sevilla's Reformed (Protestant) Chapel."

On the heels of that, the fiery Pedro Cardinal Segura y Saenz, Archbishop of Sevilla, issued a pastoral letter warning the government the "spirit of Catholics is worried over the fear that, under the pretext of politics, concessions gravely prejudicial to the Religion may be made."

He declared Protestants, "once

Mass Killing

BILLINGS, Mont. — (AP) — Range-riding is more than just watching the dogies; Frank Hendren killed 665 rattlesnakes in six days while at work for a them gathering in a basin, piled livestock company. He found in bunches of 18 to 20 getting ready to den up for the winter. Hendren used a 1x4 board about 3 feet long to toss them away from their holes. Then he clubbed them to death. He notched the board to keep count.
