Murray Lashes Mobilizer; Rejects New Steel Talks

Refusal May Doom Strike Negotiations

WASHINGTON — (AP) — CIO President Philip Murray today blasted Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson as a "biased and uninformed" big businessman and refused to meet with him on the crucial steel dispute.

Wilson, flying back from talks with President Truman at Key West, Fla., had charted new steel wage-price peace negotiations in apparent hopes of avoiding boosts which Murray plainly felt might wreck the entire economic controls program.

Murray's tart refusal to meet with Wilson, even before the mobilization chief got around to sending out invitations, seemed to doom any such negotiations before they started.

105 Percent Increase For Scouting Cited

Scout membership in Adobe Walls council increased 105 percent in the last five years, district chairmen were told last night.

George Newberry, Pampa, of the Santa Fe council; D. E. Scott, Wellington, of the Southern district; Alton Boxwell, Perryton, of the North Plains district, and Ross Josephson, Borger, of the Adobe district, met with Paul Beisenherz, Adobe Walls Council Scout executive, to compare district activities of last month.

Wilson told reporters who met him at the airport last night that proposals made last week by the Wage Stabilization Board (WSB) for settling the labor issues posed "a serious threat" to the administration's efforts to stabilize the economy.

The steel industry says it will have to raise its prices up to $12 a ton to pay for wage increases recommended by WSB for Murray's union.

One source close to the steel industry said Wilson was thinking of advising President Truman to end all wage-price controls entirely, but Wilson's aides said that action is not being considered seriously.

Wilson's comment that the WSB's recommendations for a 17 1/2-cent hourly pay boost and other benefits for Murray's CIO steelworkers would threaten the economic stabilization program stung Murray into making a hot reply.

"It is clear," Murray's statement said, "that no constructive purpose can be served by attendance at a meeting with Mr. Wilson at which he would attempt to set aside the findings of the wage board in favor of an industry-dictated arrangement."

"Accordingly, the United Steelworkers will attend no such meeting with Mr. Wilson."

Murray, pointing out that he had postponed scheduled steel strikes four times at Truman's request and had followed the administration's suggestions in presenting the union's complicated demands to the WSB for suggested solution, said Wilson was unfamiliar with the case.

Gunmen Take $600,000

DANVERS, Mass.—(AP)—Three gunmen today stuck up the driver and helper of an armored car and fled with about $600,000.

The truck, owned by the United States Trucking Corp., had been stopped in front of a drug store in Maple street across from the Danvers National Bank when the gunmen appeared.

The armored car driver, Lawrence Johnson, estimated the loot, explaining he had been picked up money from various banks in several North Shore communities.

Jaycees See Film On Soapbox Derby

A film on the National Soapbox Derby, stressing the sportsmanship value to the boys participating, was shown at the noon luncheon meeting of the Jaycees.

Dick Stowers of Culberson Chevrolet, sponsor of the Derby here in Pampa, along with the Jaycees and The Pampa Daily News, showed the film.

Date of the Pampa Derby has not been set yet, but Jaycees, Culberson and Daily News officials are completing plans.

City Approves Tax Schedule Realignment

Recommendations by the city and school tax advisory board to reset basic values on certain types of structures for taxable purposes was accepted unanimously by the city commission and the Pampa Independent School district this morning during a joint session.

The recommendations when followed will decrease some taxes; leave others the same and increase still others.

Generally the formula is to lower base values of veneer and stucco residences, leaving frame homes at their present levels. However, additional built-in features such as central heating, additional bathrooms, additional kitchens, air conditioning systems, amount of partitions and hallways will result, generally, in a value increase.

Tax Assessor-Collector Aubrey Jones cited one veneer home with seven rooms and four and a half baths with combination year-round heating and air-conditioning, the overall assessment will be greater than if he had two baths and floor furnaces. This, he added, is based on like amount of floor space. The older homes, Jones said, are in for a base value reduction, while the new ultra-modern homes are in for a slight increase.

A recheck of properties in the southeastern section will also be made in an attempt to find some scale to lower those valuations.

Work on placing the new formula is to go into effect immediately with local help being employed rather than out-of-town experts.

The advisory board also recommended leaving the city and school values map the same as it was last year. However, technical help will be employed in working out equalization of commercial and industrial structures.

At the same time, the commission voted to increase sanitation charges (trash and garbage collecting) to decrease the Sanitation Dept. deficit, allowing for increased pay for lower bracket city employees. Department heads will not benefit from the wage boosts. City policemen will now start at $255 per month while firemen will start at $240 per month. Sanitation, water and street department employees will start at $235 while park employees will start at $225 per month.

DISCUSSING HOSPITALITY — Charles Cook, left, president of the chamber of commerce, Mrs. Lynn Boyd, Mrs. Gene Fathner and Frank Fata, were among a group of Pampans who met today to discuss plans for welcoming newcomers here. Fifteen persons gathered at the country club at noon today to discuss the chamber-sponsored project to offer the city's hospitality to new residents. E. O. Wedgeworth, chamber manager, said "... we would be amazed if we actually knew how many new settlers came here the past 12 months." The group discussed a series of coffee and bridge parties in the Palm room, in homes and in the country club for groups of newcomers. (News Photo)

Dr. Donaldson Will Not Run For School Post

Dr. Joe R. Donaldson, Pampa physician, today indicated he would not run for the Pampa Independent School board.

Friends circulated petitions on his behalf and the behalf of E. L. Green, Jr., a Cabot Co. vice president, for membership on the board. Green said he thought his candidacy would be filed this afternoon.

Dr. Donaldson said, "I don't think my name will be on the ballot."

He said rumors around town were that he was backed by a certain faction and he said he did not want to substantiate the rumor.

Green said he did not think his candidacy would be affected by Dr. Donaldson's withdrawal.

Four other candidates have filed for the two posts on the five-man board. The election will be held April 5 in the junior high school.

Frank Smith and J. C. McWilliams, incumbents, are seeking re-election, and W. B. Moore and Elmo J. Hudgins are seeking election.

Schools, Clubs Will Hear Speakers On Industrial Week

Pampa's senior high school will co-operate with the Industrial week sponsored by the chamber of commerce April 1 to 7, Supt. Knox Kinard said today.

"Industry has a great deal to tell us," Kinard said. "High school groups need to have a better acquaintance with industry."

Ben Guill, chairman of the education subcommittee, said no definite date for a school assembly has been set.

Mayor C. A. Huff will address the students and prominent industrialists will be introduced.

Derby Town, U. S. A. Is Dream Of McLean As City's Boosters Launch An Ambitious Program

The nation's tourists will be taking to the highways within a few weeks, intent upon seeing as much as possible within the limits of two- or three-week vacations. They will expect to see a lot of country and many sights, but those who drive through McLean are really going to get an eyeful.

Many who will come through the Texas Panhandle via highway 66 to see real cowboys are going to find those crazy Texans are wearing derbies.

To McLean, where the derby bloomed out this week as No. 1 headgear, that's just what is expected and what — it is hoped — will bring in a more abundant flow of tourist dollars.

The idea was conceived several months ago by Howard Horne, McLean businessman and one of the town's most ardent boosters. Members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce saw the possibilities and launched a campaign which may one day make McLean be known as "The Derby City."

The psychology, as Horne explains it, is based on curiosity. The average tourist, he says, comes to Texas to find cowboys, steers and cowboy boots. These are all Texas trademarks. Reno, Nev., is famous for its gambling casinos, California for its movie stars and McLean—it hopes will one day be famous for its derbies.

Horne and his fellow derby donors, admit the sight of Texans decked out in derbies might be slightly ridiculous. But that's what they think will do the trick for McLean.

The psychology, so Horne explains it, is based upon the fact that the tourist will be impressed with the old-fashioned headstipules the third largest industry in the nation. McLean figured that if they get when they see the derby instead of a steers' head, they can stop enough of them. When the tourist does stop to find out why everyone wears a derby, he will be given a card which tells him that they are worn in memory of Ed R. McLean, for whom the little city was named. Ed R. McLean, it is explained, was secretary to the Texas Railroad commission in September, 1902, when the first train was run through McLean. He was undoubtedly descended from the English nobility and wore a derby on all special occasions, the card says.

"When you are in McLean, wear a derby," Horne said. "McLean figures that of the hundreds of tourists passing through the town, less than one percent stop. Since the tourist trade constitutes the third largest industry in the nation, McLean figured that if they get when they see the derby instead of a steers' head, they can stop enough of them. When the tourist does stop to find out why everyone wears a derby, he will be given a card which tells him that they are worn in memory of Ed R. McLean, for whom the little city was named. Ed R. McLean, it is explained, was secretary to the Texas Railroad commission in September, 1902, when the first train was run through McLean. He was undoubtedly descended from the English nobility and wore a derby on all special occasions, the card says.

Things That Are Free: Art America's Only Salvation Says Speaker

"I think the arts in the next 50 years will prove to be our only salvation," Carleton Smith, Knif and Fork club speaker said at a dinner held last night in Pampa High school.

In introducing Smith and his subject "The Arts and You," Dr. Douglas Nelson emphasized the lecture was a departure from the "Russians are going to get you if you don't watch out" and-or Harry Truman and Co. theme.

Smith, foreign trade expert, economist and culture booster, told his audience of more than 500 persons that "when you speak about the arts you speak about things that are free... fortunately I don't think Congress has recognized art. When the government begins dallying in the arts we're in for danger."

Attributing Walt Whitman as being America's greatest poet of democracy the speaker quoted from his "Leaves of Grass," "undemocratically all is individualism."

The government that gives the most freedom and liberty to the individual is the best, Smith asserted.

Lamenting the United States' lethargy concerning art, the speaker said, "We furnish no place for the poet, composer or sculptor... yet the only thing that lasts is art. All that can be remembered about Texas in the next century will be works of art."

We place too much value on material things, many of which we are subject to lose in the next 10 to 20 years, Smith said.

The speaker also commented on art ideologies during the Hitler regime, behind the Iron Curtain and in many international centers through personal observations.

Smith concluded his address with a quote from Winston Churchill, "If men can only understand each other they will neither idolize nor hate."

The dinner was prepared and served in the high school cafeteria by cafeteria attendants.

Future Knif and Fork programs were announced to include a Royal Canadian mountie, pianist, a Far East expert, travel films and lectures on South America.

The invocation was given by Rev. E. W. Henshaw.

'60' Group Seeks Bridge Construction

A delegation will leave Pampa Wednesday morning from Ochiltree, Gray and Roberts counties to appear before the Texas Highway commission hearing in Austin.

The Panhandle group will ask further contracts for more construction on Hwy. 70 between Pampa and Perryton.

The roadbed has been completed or appropriations made for the completion of the road down to the river on both north and south sides of the proposed bridge.

The primary step now, according to E. O. Wedgeworth, is getting appropriations for the bridge. It is about half-way between Pampa and Perryton.

Ochiltree county delegation will be headed by W. B. LaMaster, long-time member of Texas Good Road Assn.

Roberts county delegation will be headed by County Judge Ed Hayes and other members of his commissioners court.

Gray county will be headed by Commissioner J. W. Bill Graham, Mayor C. A. Huff, Fred Thompson, W. B. Wethered, G. S. Vineyard and Wedgeworth.

DERBY TOWN

Every day is a special occasion to you and to us — and we hope you'll enjoy your stay here. When you again find yourself on U.S. Highway 66, the Main Street of America, stop again at McLean, Texas, the home of the derby, the finest people on earth, and the place where we go to extremes in enticing you to stop.

McLean ran into a snag when they started looking for the until now out-dated attire. In fact, it is so out-dated, the Jaycees wrote 17 hat manufacturers in the United States and turned up not a single derby. Nobody made them.

Finally they found a manufacturer in Canada who could supply them. Horne and his fellow townsmen won't just where in Canada — just Canada. The hats are paid for in advance and ordered by size — but just one color — black. The only difference in style is between the men and women's hats.

According to the derby backers, this won't be just a fad — it's going to be a year-round promotion. They insist it is the only way the scheme can work. They are going to be worn by as many people in McLean as the Jaycees can persuade and when a resident visits elsewhere, the derby goes too. A McLean delegation to a tourist conference in Amarillo last week end wore

Attorneys To Hear Kefauver April 15

County Attorney Bill Waters said Monday he planned to attend the second annual prosecuting attorneys' conference to be held in Dallas April 15-17 when Sen. Estes Kefauver, Democratic presidential candidate, will make a public appearance.

Sen. Kefauver is slated to address the group of prosecuting attorneys and the general public on crime and vice the night of April 16 in Dallas.

The meeting is the second such session to be organized and sponsored by Attorney General Price Daniel, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for United States Senator against Sen. Tom Connally, said:

The fight against commercial gambling and organized vice is a continuing battle. Our crime conference last year did much toward keeping racketeers and hoodlums out of Texas. This year we must let them know Texas is still on guard and will not tolerate their activities."

Truman Says U. S. Foreign Policy, Peace

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman says the basic purpose of the American foreign policy is to build peace in the world — but not peace at any price. And he says it is succeeding.

"We are turning back the threat of communism," the President says in a foreword to an 80-page outline of U. S. foreign policy, drafted by the State department at his request and printed for public use.

"We are not just sitting by, waiting for trouble to start in some far-away place," Truman said. "We are actively at work with our neighbors and friends... not only to overcome any threats to world peace but also to strengthen freedom and justice so that the danger to peace will be less."

"The purpose of the American foreign policy is to defend the independence and the integrity of the republic. To do this we must build peace in the world; not peace at any price, but a peace in which the peoples of all countries — big and little alike — can live free from the fear of aggression. Everything we do in our relations with other countries has that paramount aim."

It was made clear that United States postwar relations with other nations have been molded by a continuing threat of Soviet aggression.

The President, urging that as many Americans as possible read the outline, said that "it shows how we are turning back the threat of communism."

Ridgway Says Peace At Stake In Korea

TOKYO — (AP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway says the stakes in the Korean armistice talks are world peace.

The Allied supreme commander said in an interview he prays constantly that Americans will be extremely patient while United Nations command negotiators withstand Communist deceit and stalling.

Ridgway conceded that the prolonged truce talks — now in their ninth month — tried one's patience, but added:

"Patience is a necessity. The stakes in this case are not only the lives of Allied prisoners in Communist hands, but world peace itself. I think your people realize the situation in which we find ourselves today. A situation so potentially grave calls for the most sober — searching objective analysis of what you intend to do and what your objectives are."

"Far reaching, almost incalculable consequences could flow from acts which some of our people advocate in the current situation. But such suggestions do not bespeak any sort of objective analysis."

The 57-year-old commander described as "most disturbing" Russia's charges that the Allies are waging germ warfare in North Korea — charges denied repeatedly by high United States officials.

"It is completely in accord with the deliberate and repeated employment of falsehoods of Soviet leaders," Ridgway said. "It is a part of the big lie. The result is more hatred and more animosity and less chance of getting the world situation straightened out."

He added that the Communist charges show "they will stop at nothing to stir up things which could lead to bitterness and war."

The colorful combat general went to Korea in December 1950 to take over retreating Eighth Army after Gen. Walton H. Walker was killed in a jeep accident. He infused the dispirited Allied troops with renewed courage and determination. They stopped the Chinese Reds and North Koreans cold and then started rolling them back.

Ridgway, a hand grenade dangling from his right shoulder and a first aid kit on his left, was a familiar figure at the rapidly changing front.

President Truman's recall of General MacArthur in April, 1951 projected Ridgway from the battle front to Tokyo as MacArthur's successor.

Ridgway packs 180 pounds on a wiry, well built frame of five feet 11 7/8 inches. He keeps in shape by swimming, calisthenics and badminton.

After his 6:30 a. m. calisthenics, Ridgway pitches into a President Truman. Only last week the President praised the union for its efforts in behalf of farmers.

Farm Groups Are Split On Economics

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Whether farmers should have less help or more help from Uncle Sam is an issue driving a wedge between two groups of farm organization leaders.

Gone from the capital scene is the hand-in-hand unity with which farm organizations worked in the 30's and early 40's to secure federal farm programs—designed, in the beginning, to pull farmers out of a depression, and later, to keep them prosperous.

In the forefront of the fight are the American Farm Bureau federation and the National Farmers Union.

The farm bureau, generally regarded as "conservative" on economic issues, wants less federal activity.

The farmers union, which proudly espouses greater government participation in farming, has undertaken a campaign to discredit its sister organization with farmers. The union also is directing criticism at the National Grange, which agrees more closely with the bureau's philosophy than with the union's.

In its attacks on the bureau, the union has been getting help from Secretary of Agriculture Brannan.

In general, the farm bureau favors an economic setup under which factors of supply and demand set farm prices with a minimum of government interference. The union, on the other hand, wants the government to support farm prices at higher levels than now prevail.

The bureau wants Congress to reduce appropriations for many department activities, particularly for payments to farmers for carrying out soil conservation practices. This the union opposes.

Likewise, the bureau favors reducing activities of local farmer committees which now help administer farm programs. It feels these committees often are used for political purposes.

The union charges the bureau is siding with a "big business" attack on federal farm programs.

Leading the fight for the respective organizations are President Allan B. Kline of the bureau and President James G. Patton of the union. Both are scholarly leaders, well versed in economics and government.

This farm organization battle may greatly influence the outcome of this year's presidential election as well as the future course of government in the field of farm economics. Strong farm support has been credited with swinging the 1948 election.

Earn A Gold Star, Find Best Defense

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

It's probably safe for me to say that the average player would let South make four spades in the hand shown today. As a matter of fact, I'll even let my readers look at all four hands and search for the right defense. Those who find it can congratulate themselves — on their good eyesight, if nothing else.

When this hand was actually played in a recent rubber bridge game in Miami, Waldemar von Zedwitz held the West cards. He didn't have the advantage of seeing all the cards, but he found

NORTH 24		EAST
♠ 754	♠ 109	♠ 75432	♠ 1083
♥ KQ8	♥ 7	♥ 1083	♥ 1072
♦ AKQJ6	♦ 63	♦ 63	♦ 63
♣ 82	♣ 109	♣ 109	♣ 109
♣ 86	♣ 75432	♣ 75432	♣ 75432
♣ 86	♣ 75432	♣ 75432	♣ 75432
♣ 86	♣ 75432	♣ 75432	♣ 75432
♣ 86	♣ 75432	♣ 75432	♣ 75432

the right defense anyway.

After opening the king of clubs and continuing with the ace, Zedwitz took stock with great care. He had already taken two defensive tricks and could be sure of getting another with his ace of spades. Where was the fourth, and setting, trick?

Obviously, South held the ace of hearts and strong spades for his opening bid. Hence there was no possibility that East could produce a winning card. The setting trick had to come from the West hand.

There was only one chance, so Zedwitz played for it. He led a third club, allowing dummy to ruff, while South discarded. This discard did declare no good of course.

South naturally, and properly, led a trump from dummy and forced out the ace with his king. Thereupon Zedwitz led a fourth round of clubs.

East rose to the occasion by producing his ten of trumps, and South had to over-ruff with the jack. But now West's eight of spades was sure to become set up for the setting trick.

14 Cases Of Polio Are Found In State

AUSTIN — (AP) — Fourteen new cases of polio were found in Texas the past week, one less than the previous week, the state health department has reported.

The rate of incidence remained more than double the seven-year average of six cases for this week of the year.

The year's total number of cases through March 15 was 257.

Lubbock county reported the most new cases last week, four; Harris county has three; Cameron, Duval, Galveston, Kleberg, Montgomery, Tarrant and Taylor reported one each.

Plan To Convert Congo Pygmies

LEOPOLDVILLE, Belgian Congo — (AP) — A newly founded order of nuns is undertaking, with the approval of the Vatican, to Christianize the Belgian Congo pygmies.

Because of their shyness and lack of stability, they have so far escaped any missionary work among them. The Little Sisters of Jesus, have now established their first mission station in the Central Congo jungle near Beni.

Their first task will be to nurse sick pygmies brought to the mission hospitals in order to learn their languages. They will later move to their base camp in the jungle and visit the small settlements of pygmies.

Dutch Immigrant Brings Own House

LETHBRIDGE Alta. — (AP) — When Mr. and Mrs. H. Reitman and their five youngsters, emigrants from Holland, arrived in Canada the first thing they did was unpack their house.

Before leaving Holland, Reitman heard of Canada's housing shortage. He also knew it would be impossible to take over enough money to buy a house because of his country's foreign exchange controls. So he sold his house and bought a prefabricated house. It was shipped here via the Panama Canal.

Reitman figures he brought his family here, along with their furniture and their new house, for less than $3,000.

Montana Asks Dog Control

HELENA, Mont. — (AP) — State Attorney General Arnold H. Olsen ruled that Acting President P. C. Gaines may exercise a more strict control of dogs on the Montana State College campus. Gaines complained of general destruction by dogs and said they killed several sheep belonging to the college.

New Edition Of Holy Bible Goes To Press

NEW YORK — (AP) — Printing has begun on the revised standard version of the Holy Bible, the climax to a 15-year labor of love.

The printing of one million copies got under way Wednesday. They go on sale Sept. 20. Spokesmen for the copyright owner — The National Council of the Churches of Christ in the United States of America — hailed it as one of the biggest projects in book publishing history.

For 15 years, 32 scholars worked on the new version, aiming at clearer language and truer accuracy than the widely used King James version that dates back to 1611.

Published by Thomas Nelson and Sons, the Bible is being printed here at the American Book-Stratford Press, Inc.; at the H. Wolf Book Manufacturing Co., Inc., of Teterboro, N.J., and the Riverside Press, Cambridge, Mass. Plates also are being sent to Edinburgh, Scotland.

Dr. Luther A. Weigle, Dean Emeritus of Yale Divinity school, who supervised the revision, listed three reasons for publishing the new Bible.

"First, manuscripts much older than those used by translators of the King James version are available to modern scholars. Many interpolations and hand-copying errors made by medieval monks must be eliminated.

"Second, the archeological discoveries of the past 75 years have afforded incomparably richer resources for understanding the vocabulary, grammar and idioms of the Biblical languages.

"Third, many words in the King James version which meant one thing 350 years ago, mean something else now, and they must be corrected to give the true meaning of the word for our time."

Sex Hormones Used To Halt Cancer Spread

BOSTON — (AP) — The male sex hormone can change women's bodies so that their hopeless cancers are hit or killed by x-rays, it was disclosed today.

The change is mysterious, and occurs inside body cells. The body cells become vulnerable to x-rays, which they weren't before.

Four out of five women getting the hormone plus x-rays are seemingly well today, a year later. Earlier x-rays apparently had done little good. All had cancers of the cervix, the neck of the womb. Their cancers had spread to nearby tissues, and surgery wouldn't help.

This new hormone plus x-rays may open the way to more life-saving, possibly in other forms of cancer.

It was disclosed at the outset of a tour of cancer centers in eight cities, sponsored for science writers by the American Cancer society to help tell the public what their doctors for cancer research are doing.

This double treatment was described by Dr. John B. and Ruth

Says U. S. Building 'Better' Missiles

FRANKFURT, Germany — (AP) — A German expert who advised the U. S. Air Force on guided missiles says the United States has started mass production of missiles "which are far better and much more effective than the German V-2s of 1945."

He is Walter Dornberger, a former lieutenant general who was Adolf Hitler's "special commissioner" for combatting Allied air raids during World War II. He went to the United States in 1947 to work as a guided missile expert for the U. S. Air Force and is now employed by Bell Aircraft Corp.

Dornberger, who is on a business trip from the United States, said in an interview that the Soviet Union has not reached the same high level in development of guided missiles as the United States. He estimated that Soviet research is about at the place the Germans were in 1945.

He said the Soviets have used German technicians, but that the "men with the brains" escaped to the West and went to the United States or Britain.

Harried Legislators Ponder 'Gift' Problem

WASHINGTON — (AP) — As far as government officials are concerned, the difference between gifts and graft apparently is the money involved. It is fairly safe to accept 10-gallon hats, a box of oranges, cigars, a ham, pocket knife, cigar lighter, belt buckles, Bibles, ties, potatoes cheese, rat traps or maple syrup. Things like that, Michael V. Diskin, when head of the Office of Price Stabilization said it would be all right to take anything one could eat or drink within 24 hours. But mink coats, home freezers, free vacation trips or cash are almost certain to invite a congressional investigation. These tips for worried government workers came today in separate interviews with senators digging into multi-million-dollar government grain shortages. Two Agriculture department employes from Texas, fired for alleged inefficiency, discussed the question of gifts before the Senate Agriculture committee. They said acceptance of "nominal" gifts had been normal procedure until last year when even advertising novelties were blacklisted. One said that Secretary of Agriculture Brannan himself had accepted a 10-gallon hat from Texas admirers. Brannan has said the gift was made at a public ceremony after he made a speech. Three senators gave a nod of approval to "nominal" inexpensive gifts: Sen. Aiken (R-Vt) told a reporter that if a constituent offers him a gift such as "a better mouse trap" he has to accept or the constituent's insulted. He said almost all congressmen get gifts — sometimes unwanted gifts. "A kindly woman in Vermont mailed me a dozen fresh trout," he said. "The post office took eight days to deliver them. By the time they arrived the gratuity had turned into a liability."

Primaries May Draw Away From Convention Politics

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The presidential primaries so far have given a taste of what it might be like if the people in all 48 states had a chance to express their preference among presidential candidates. But once again this year, as in the past, the Republican and Democratic candidates will be chosen by delegates, not by the voters in general, at the two big party conventions in Chicago this summer. If there were presidential primaries in all 48 states before those conventions the voters might have been able to express their choice so unmistakably that the delegate-politicians would simply be limited to saying amen. By the time those conventions roll around, of course, the tide of popular feeling for one man or another may have become so apparent that the delegates wouldn't dare any political caviling but simply would approve the popular man. In 32 states the delegates to those conventions are chosen by party machines or bosses in state conventions or committees. In only 16 states will the voters have a chance to express preference among candidates or elect delegates. In New Hampshire freedom for the voters to vote a preference among candidates is an old story. This has been able to do it in previous presidential campaigns. Still, their huge vote for Eisenhower stood the politicians on their ears. This was the first year the Minnesota voters had a similar opportunity. Ever though the names of Eisenhower, Taft, Ke-fauver and Truman were not on the ballot, the people went through snow to write in their names, even when they couldn't spell Eisenhower. It was this write-in vote—the clearly expressed determination of the people to name and vote for the man they'd like for President — that astonished the politicians. Nothing like it ever happened before. And on April 15 the people of New Jersey will be able for the first time to express some direct preference. But this expression of voter opinion in a few scattered states is a long way from what might be if the voters in all 48 states had the same opportunity. If that even happens and at this moment there's no sign it will, the choosing of presidential candidates would be taken out of the hands of the politicians by the people. The big conventions then would be only rubber stamps, with nothing to do but okay the popular will, and draw up party platforms. Sen. George Smathers, Florida white cake batter in small cupcakes pans; when cool dip the cupcakes in white frosting and roll in coconut.

TAFT USES IKE'S "VOICE"—Brotherly love blooms in New Hampshire's snows, as Sen. Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio), uses a public address system belonging to a backer of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, in Meredith, N. H. The Good Samaritan came to the rescue when Taft's public address equipment broke down. Taft immediately used the borrowed mike to blast Eisenhower's candidacy.

Wants Texas To Solve Its Own Water-Supply Problems

FORT WORTH — (AP) — Gov. Shivers says he hopes Texas will work out its own water problems and not look to Washington for the solution. In a speech for the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Assn. convention Shivers emphasized the urgent need for hoarding and conserving surface and subsurface water. "We hear much of the importance to Texas of oil and gas . . . but water is more important," the governor said. "We have had inflation in everything I can think of, except water. There has been a steady and increasingly serious deflation of it." Shivers said the time may come when Texas is forced to pipe water from one area to another. "Unless an effective, permanent water conservation program is developed, such diversion of water to meet emergencies may come sooner than you think," Shivers said. "I hope that when the ultimate solution comes, as come it must — that when a permanent conservation program is finally adopted, it can be on a state, rather than a federal level. I believe that we, as Texans, can and should work this thing out for ourselves."

Scope Sights Make A Difference

By WARREN PAGE
Shooting "dile"

Once upon a time there lived a crusty character named Ray, which is only part of his true name, who was strictly a thumpy-thumpy man.

For him, none of these new-fangled scope sights, none of these super-accuracy shenanigans. If he needed a deer he'd take down his trusty lever gun and sneak in close to where he could spot his buck through the wings of a Rocky Mountain rear leaf sight, or just blast at him running and hope.

But the splitting crack of the .224 high-velocity job was instantly echoed by that watermelon-plop made by a 55-grain pellet slamming home, a plunk dear to every varmint hunter's ears. Ray began to think a bit.

He thought harder when another chuck was executed fully as far from the gun—and when a careless crow exploded into black feathers 40 rods away.

“Let me try that,” exclaimed the not-so-crusty Ray when the next chuck stroled from his den. And so began either his salvation or his damnation as a gun nut.

On the journey home Ray's talk was of the why's of straight-taper barrels and 12X scopes, of what was full length case resizing, and of how could his deer rifle be made to shoot like that.

And so now he argues the 219 Wadsworth the 22-250 for accuracy, talks of throat erosion and slow-burning or double-based powders, mumbles in his sleep of swages and scope attachments, 6 mms. and .17 calibers.

His children go hungry as this character loads his gun-room with super-accuracy equipment, his wallet stuffed only with prized targets. For he has become a gun nut.

“That's for me,” grunted one gun nut, and shifted his rifle in the chuck-rest, closing the bolt on one of those wildcat loads. That's for the birds, scoffed Ray, who was sure the chuck was as safe as if he were in church.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT
SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — The most significant baseball item of the weekend, which might have been widely overlooked in the crush of horse racing and basketball, was the announcement from here that the New York Giants were sending First-Base- man Tookie Gilbert and Short- stop Rudy Ruter to Oakland on option.

At the risk of being accused of expressing an opinion, we will say that this means the coast league is starting out to learn to stand on its own feet by first lying down and rolling over.

Both Gilbert, one of the most promising youngsters in the National League, and Ruter, a great fielder, will join the Acorns next week subject to recall to the parent club as quickly as a plane can get either or both of them across the country.

Their acquisition by Brick Laws' club even for part of the season is a severe blow to the seven other coast league teams, and especially to the eighth-place San Francisco Seals just across the bay, who are dreadfully short on experienced talent.

Gloom hung thick about the Seals' beautiful plant when word of the deal got around.

The Acorns, now managed by the old Polo Grounds immortal, Mel Ott, were high among the favored coast clubs even before President Horace Stoneham of the Giants got together with his buddy, Brick, the other evening and said here, pal, have yourself a pennant.

Where were we? Oh, yes, the Acorns of the coast league, which has a new "open" classification this season and is not, as we understand it, supposed to countenance working agreements with big league teams which would drain away its best young talent.

The Acorns are given Gilbert, who could play regular first base on better than half the major league outfits, and Ruter, who stole 34 bases for Minneapolis last year.

Some students might find it strange that the Giants, who have a lot of hungry farm clubs of their own, should give first grabs of their surplus talent to the Acorns. After all, Gilbert has been powdering the ball so hard lately that Durocher didn't want to send him out at all.

Well, sir, it's a fair question—how did those Acorns ever swing it, for all Laws' charming personality?

The only answer we can think of quickly is that the Acorns have in their possession a young fellow named Jim Marshall, first-baseman for the time being, who is by all accounts the greatest prospect produced around here in years.

Nothing might come of it. The kid might not develop. He might never play a game in the Polo Grounds, but that's the sort of gamble an operator like Stoneham has to take all the time.

Training Camp New Briefs

By The Associated Press
ORLANDO, Fla. — (AP) — Manager Bucky Harris gave his Washington Senators the day off yesterday and went fishing but came back empty-handed.

“So what?” he philosophized. “If I can hook one young pitcher out of that crowd with us now, I'll be happy.”

Rookie Pitcher Dean Stone was cut from the squad yesterday, leaving the mound-shy Senators with five freshman hopefuls: Buck Flesham, Harley Grossman, Raul Sanchez, Bucky Steward and Gerald Lane.

MIAMI, Fla. — (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers are going to set the pace in cutting their squad — and with good reason. President Walter O'Malley said today.

“We feel it is our duty to our fans in Montreal, Fort Worth, St. Paul and Mobile to get our farm clubs established as quickly as possible,” he said.

The situation in the minor league from the fans' point of view has been bad. Usually, just when they get used to the players, some get traded.

O'Malley left today to look over the farm clubs, and some on the Brook roster probably will be made over the weekend.

PHOENIX, Ariz. — (AP) — New York Giant Manager Leo Durocher today issued his first public statement on who will play second base for the National League champions.

“Davey Williams will open and there's nobody even close to him,” said the skipper.

Williams hasn't been hitting so far, and is not regarded as a top man at the plate, but this shortcoming apparently isn't bothering Durocher.

“He hasn't been able to do anything with the bat so far,” Durocher acknowledged, “but I'm confident he'll hit at least .260, and that won't be bad.”

BRADENTON, Fla. — (AP) — General Manager John Quinn announced today that 63 of the Boston Braves' home games will be televised this season over Boston stations WYAC and WBZ.

This includes all of the day games and 14 night tilts.

Vinegar Bend Mizell, who blanked the Warriors for three innings and struck out five at St. Petersburg on March 11, will lose them up for the Cardinals in the fourth spring meeting between these teams today.

Boxing States Agree To Purge

CHICAGO — (AP) — An interstate agreement between the Illinois and New York State Athletic Commissions has been signed to purge boxing of the hoodlum element.

The reciprocal pact provides for mutual recognition of suspensions and contracts between managers, or boxers, or promoters. It was signed yesterday by Joe Trainer of Illinois and Chairman Robert K. Christenberry of New York attending the regular session of the Illinois commission.

The two commissioners agreed that world champions in the future will be granted only six months from the date they win their titles to defend it. Otherwise it will be forfeited.

Cardinal Hurling May Be Bright Spot For Ed Stanky

By ED CORRIGAN
AP Sports Writer

Max Lanier, who tolled long and faithfully for the St. Louis Cardinals, looked over his old mates last week and predicted that with some pitching Eddie Stanky's men would be tough to beat.

He might have been right. The Cards have played 16 Grapefruit League games, and their pitching staff has permitted the opposition just 47 runs for an average of 2.94.

Except for the opener when the New York Yankees scored 11 runs, the elbowers have not allowed more than six runs in any one game — and they've been in five extra-inning affairs.

Yesterday's 1-0 triumph over the Philadelphia Phils was the fourth shutout turned in by the Cards. Willard Schmidt, a youngster who has been outshining Vinegar Bend Mizell, combined with the veteran Cliff Chambers to hold the Phils to two hits.

Schmidt has hurled 20 innings this spring without yielding a run. The Phils' only hit off him in his six-inning stint on the mound was a bunt by Forrest Burgess.

Stanky teamed with Red Schoendienst at the keystone for the first time this spring. He pushed Schoendienst over to shortstop and played second himself. Schoendienst, the regular second baseman, made an error, but otherwise looked good at shortstop.

The one sobering note of an otherwise good day for the Cards came when Bob Slaybaugh, a 20-year-old pitcher assigned to Omaha, was hit in the face by a line drive in batting practice. Doctors said he might lose his left eye.

Hal Newhouser, who had hoped to be of some use to the Detroit Tigers, started against the Cincinnati Reds and was shelled for four runs in the fifth inning. The Reds went on to win, 7-0, behind the pitching of Herman Wehmeier, Bill Bevins and Frank Smith.

The victory was the third in a row for the Reds and the second time this spring they have whitewashed the Tigers.

Wildcat Coaches Get New Pacts

CANADIAN — (Special) — The unusual, if not unique, dual coaching setup is to be continued in the Canadian High School Coaches Dees Henry and Mose Damron, whose Wildcat cagers tracts recently in a called session of the Board of Trustees.

Catch Henry, whose players won the District 1-A football championship last fall, will continue as head football coach and assistant in basketball, and Coach Damron, whose Wildcat cagers were runners-up for the District basketball championship, will continue as head basketball and track coach and assistant in football.

Contracts of High School Principal Harvey Tritt and Elementary Principal J. W. Sutton also have been renewed by the board.

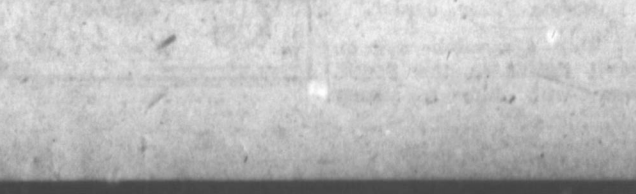

Supt. A. H. Bressler is now serving the second year of a three-year contract.

Tribute to a Neighbor

We'd like you to meet a neighbor on whom both of us depend. He's the man who operates the service station in your neighborhood. You depend on him to take care of your car, to supply you with products of high quality at reasonable prices. You expect, and get, from him more free service than from any other merchant with whom you do business: whatever you spend, he cheerfully cleans your windshield, checks your oil and tires, furnishes you with free battery water, and renders special services as you need them.

I just finished another one of those scotching pieces about men and their clothes, how conservative the poor men are and how they suffer for it. Nothing anybody will ever write poking fun at men and their clothes is going to change them. Men are just conservative by nature. It's the woman in the family who instigates the changes. Women love change as much as men hate it. When you hear that the Browns have finally decided to build a new house, or that the Smiths are making plans for an entirely new kind of vacation, you can be sure that Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Brown are behind those changes. And it's a safe bet that they've had to work for months, or maybe even years, to sell their husbands the idea that a change is desirable. Some women have so little luck in getting their husbands to make any kind of change they have to satisfy their desire for change in small ways. You'll find such women forever rearranging the living room furniture (usually the husbands liked it better the way it was), getting new hair-styles, trying new shades of lipstick, and searching out the most startling hats they can find.

A savory and attractive main dish, especially suitable for Lenten menus, is this salmon scallop. Onion, celery and lemon juice add piquant flavor to the sauce, made smooth and richly creamy with evaporated milk. The layer of diced celery, plus the salmon morsels and toasty bread crumbs topping are nice textural components in this good scallop.

Space No Longer Matter Of Distance — It's Just Money Now

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Space is no longer a matter of distance. To conquer the gap between us and the moon is now a matter of money, relatively no more expensive for the American nation today than it was for a shopgirl a generation ago to gamble her year's savings on a voyage to Bermuda.

They say they can reach the moon — and they will.

The age of the "rocketeers" has changed all our standards. Nobody really knows what space and time are, except by the old measures of how far the heart you want to be with is from you and how long it takes to reach her.

But space and time are words the scientists use to measure the universe. And they are shrinking that universe like a drying apple. They are conquering the old barriers of time and space, but whether they are getting closer to the heart's desire of the world remains to be seen.

Can I tell you of two personal adventures in time and space to point my meaning?

When I was a boy, the biggest voyage I remember in space was a wintery 45-mile trip with my uncle. It was in a weather-cracked, singlassed, Model T Ford steering across the vaguely-charted, muddy landscape between Kansas City and Lexington, Mo., my father's birthplace.

Our destination was known, but our route was a gamble. Our vehicle, sturdiest then known, was still a doubt. But it held up. The tires didn't, but they could be blown up again. We didn't think anything on four wheels in those days could go that far across those mud tracks in that temperature.

It wasn't until I saw Korea that I knew God gave men colder days. But I still remember the warm sense of victory when the beaten little car wheeled home.

I remembered those 45 miles of conquered Missouri mud again the other day when I sat in a New York restaurant and heard a 30-year-old man tell seriously how he had made plans to go to the moon.

His name was Werner von Braun, the German inventor of the deadly V-2 rocket that almost forced Britain to capitulate in the last world war.

Von Braun is a tall, blond, blue-eyed scientist who now is enlisted on the side of American arms and says he wants to be an American citizen. There is no doubt he is a genius. He has already proved it.

His genius is now devoted to a very simple proposition. He spends his time selling it with the simple ardor of a young salesman peddling a new vacuum cleaner.

He has figured out a way he can shoot a rocket some 1075 miles or so beyond the reach of gravity. He has figured that if he can shoot up 12 of them he can build a doughnut-shaped watchtower holding 36 men who can spy down as they circle the earth every two hours and use their platform through radar to control the world.

"An enemy just couldn't hide any more," he said. "We could call down fire on him wherever he was. If we don't build this space station, the Russians will sooner or later."

Von Braun says he can safely get men up and back from this whirling space station, even rocket them on to an exploratory trip to the moon and return them whole.

"It would take only four billion dollars and ten years to do," he said. "That is only a fraction of the American military budget."

Listening to him, I had no feeling of doubt that his project could be done. But I had no sense of victory over space. I only felt depressed.

If Von Braun is voted the money he wants and bold men carry out his plans successfully, they will have negated the obstacle of the sky.

But when 30 years ago, I made a 45-mile trip into the unknown to visit my father's birthplace there was someone who had come far and risked much discomfort to see, waiting at journey's end, Who's waiting up yonder?

Dr. Logan's Wife

By Diana Gaines

THE STORY: Dr. Gus Logan, aged and failing, is shocked by insinuations that his wife Jennet has been unfaithful. The insinuations were part of a campaign by Maxwell Cota, head of the hospital where Peter and Dr. Logan were staff members, to oust Peter, who is interested in alms clearance. Dr. Logan fails to understand that his wife, although attracted by Peter, has been faithful.

room? I suppose everyone knows about the affair but me. And if they didn't before, they know now.

"What do you mean?" Jennet asked.

"The meeting tonight was about Surinov. They want to fire him."

A sound of distress almost escaped her lips, and on his next words turned heartlessly into nourishing breath.

"Because of the loyalty oath. Pelletier backed him and so did I. I spoke in his defense. Cota was furious and pulled out a photostatic copy of the check. I thought it was some trick. But if it was not, then there are only two conclusions the men can draw. Either my wife is a tart or I am a Communist paying off my young helper."

Jennet's hand went to her mouth. She began to cry and the tears ran down her hand and finally they seeped through her fingers. She flung herself on Gus's back. "Oh, my darling, what have I done to you?"

Down against her flung body, she felt him sliding, down, down until she, staring, saw him writhing and gasping at her feet. She didn't know she was screaming until Ingrid came in, running, wild in hibiscus wrapper, her braid bouncing, her eyes popping.

BEFORE sunrise the morning after Gus Logan's death, Peter Surinov sat, by invitation, in the breakfast room of the Pelletier home.

"I phoned Rafe Warner at two this morning—that was the first chance I had to get the results of last night's meeting. It happened as I expected. They voted you out of a job, Peter. Unanimously! I told Rafe of Gus's passing. No one knew he had a bad heart, not even Cota." Dr. Pelletier sighed. His eyes were as weary as the lids which almost obscured them.

"Peter, Peter," he sighed, shaking his head, "what manner of man are you?"

And Peter who had for several stunning minutes heard himself cast in a villain's role that included treason, adultery and viciously achieved murder, could yet wince at the doubt in his friend's question.

His head jerked up as Stella Pelletier, who, like her husband, had not been in her bed for almost 24 hours, came through the swinging door with a platter of scrambled eggs and bacon.

"Peter," she said, spooning the fluffy yellow mound onto his plate, "you're to eat some breakfast. I don't know how much Walter has told you, but we both have the utmost faith in you, and you're not for one minute to lose faith in yourself."

PETER did not bestir himself from the task of neatening the sides of his egg-pile with the tines of the fork. Without raising his eyes from his plate, he announced in flat insinuating recital, "I have not had an affair with Jennet Logan. I am not and never was a Communist. So help me God." And then, riled by the necessity for such a speech, he leaned forward and slapped the table with a hand as big as a plate. "And to tell you the truth, I don't feel in the least responsible for Dr. Logan's death. All I feel is so mad my teeth hurt. I'd like to sink them into Cota's throat—I'd like to claw that ugly face till it ran..."

"Good," said Mrs. Pelletier, the dote of her lavender eyes belying the cheer in her voice. "Good for you. That's exactly what I hoped you'd say. Now calm yourself, Peter, and eat your eggs before they get stone cold. We've been through a lot tonight—and that poor child, Jennet, I just hope she doesn't lose her reason. But we've been through bad times before. I always say to myself while they're happening, 'This, too, will pass.' And it does. Do you take cream, Peter? Don't eat so fast, Walter, you'll get heartburn."
