For Normal Driving-It Loafs!

You cross over the boundary into another state-and there are the posted rules and regulations.

Maybe the daytime limit for passenger cars is "forty-five" - or "fiftyfive." Or, maybe no limit at all ... just your own good common sense and the general rules of safety.

Well, whatever the legal limit, your Golden Anniversary Cadillac' is going to "loaf"!

Down under its hood is the most powerful engine ever used in a standard American passenger car. There's more power there than you'll ever need -except for emergency.

But don't think that great power doesn't work for you -even when you are driving within the legal limits! It works for your safety ... because a great reserve of power is a wonderful safeguard in most of the driving emergencies that present themselves. It works for your comfort ... because no car rides so well, or handles so superbly, as when it "coasts along," with a great percentage of its power still under the accelerator. And it works for your peace of mind . . . for it is unbelievably comforting to know you have tremendous acceleration, should the necessity for it arise. Of course, power has to be harnessed and handled in order to be your friend and servant. So the Golden Anniversary Cadillac has superb new brakes-larger and more efficient-and designed and built to double the span of their endurance.

And those who want the ultimate in easy handling may order at extra cost Cadillac's new power steering that eliminates up to seventy-five per cent of normal steering effort.

It would take a volume to tell you all the things that have been done to make this a "car among cars."

But it will take but a mile or a minute for you to sense what it means in terms of pleasure and satisfaction.

It means something wonderful . . . too wonderful, in fact, to miss!

Better come in today-for a lookand a ride-and a revelation.

HOSPITAL ISSUE The Planned Parenthood Federation, a pro-birth control organization, has appealed to the American Medical Association, according to an AP (Feb. 2) dispatch, in behalf of seven doctors who were advised by St. Francis Hospital, a Roman Catholic institution, to either get out of the birth control group or leave the hospital staff.

According to the birth-control organization, in its attempt to get the AMA to crack down on the hospital, such an order works a grave injustice on the doctors, a hardship on their patients and is "a dangerous unethical act against the entire medical profession." The doctors are not Catholics (as anyone should know, seeing they were members of a "planned parentfederation.) The Catholic church forbids its members to use any kind of mechanical birth control equipment or therapeutic aborion, even where the mother's life is endangered.

It's my guess the American Medical Association will take no action against St. Francis Hospital in Poughkeepsie, much as the AMA might like to. To do so would put the AMA into a national fight with the Catholic church over the issue. The AMA leaders in the past have been only too willing to run roughshod over the rights of independent-minded and "rebel" doctors and to smear and castigate some mighty good practitioners who would not submit to the union yoke, but the AMA has no belly for a major fight with any organization as powerful as the Catholic church.

The Planned Parenthood birth controllers' spokesman told reporters his organization had "no objection to the refusal of Catholics to use planned parenthood," but added, "The thing we object to is their trying to force their beliefs on non-Catholics.'

The way this thing looks to me is that-according to our code of individual independence-St. Francis Hospital was within its rights in ruling that the seven doctors must choose between their birth-control beliefs and their practice in the hospital. Any doctor who practices in a Catholic hospital certainly should known that he can't very well be a member of a birth control society and on the staff of a Roman Catholic hospital at one and the same time.

It seems to me that anyone who owns a hospital has a right to make his own rules and run the thing his own way. If you don't like the other fellow's gate don't swing on it. If I were a doctor and I had no use for the rules of a to hold a job on its staff. I don't ing "to force their (non-birth control) beliefs on non-Catholics" by not wanting non-Catholic birthcontrol doctors on the staff or pirth control or therapeutic abortion practiced on non-Catholic patients seems to me a patent absurdity. I'll have to string along with the Catholics on that one for they are within their rights. After all, who owns the hospital, anyway? In applying the Golden Rule in all such cases, it is axiomatic that if you own and operate a business you have a right to make certain rules and if your employees don't like the rules they can resign and work somewhere else. If you cheat them and treat them unfairly they talist you have a right to make a rule against members of Communist organizations working for you, just as Catholic hospitals have a right to rule against birth-control doctors working for them.

As for the patients, no one is forced to enter a Catholic or Lutheran or Seventh-Day Adventist or other private hospital against his will. A patient who enters a hospital, or the doctor who sends him there, should know what kind of service to expect and what rules prevail before contracting for the

Just what the American Medical Association could do in a case like government and use political influence to force its dictums on the private hospital-but the AMA ent with it's own position against socialized medicine. Socialized medicine is simply government dictatorship over all hospitals and medical practice. I would conclude that, private rights being what they are, the ethical thing for a birth-controlling doctor to do would be to practice in hospitals which have no rules rules in one hospital let them choose another. If such "other" hospitals do not exist in a community let those who want them build them, just as Catholics and Methodists and others build hospitals. If you favor the building of

LOOKING SIDEWAYS

By WHITNEY BOLTON

I have been hobnobbing with the banking set recently and I have found evidence that white piping no longer is considered de rigueur either on vests or on attitudes. The boys are doing a land office business in making life pleasant for the little guy and all that troubles the bankers these days is that not enough people know about the multiple services which the most austere-looking bank can offer the modest little citizen.

It all began about 27 years ago when a fellow came up with the idea of instituting a small loans department within the structure of a huge bank. This man, who prefers to be nameless and who literally has changed the lives of millions, had a rugged task convincing the old-line bankers that it was neither dangerous nor undignified to make it easy for Joseph Doakes to get $100 when he needed it in a hurry and when Joseph was a little squeamish about asking two friends to go on his note. The old-line boys, trained in the Morgan school that if the loan was not for $500,000 or more it scarcely merited attention told the flaming revolutionary that he would destroy the sound principles of banking if allowed to prevail. But prevail he did, and the oldsters, or some of them, lived long enough to thank him for sluicing new profits into banking. Coincident with the small loans invention came a decision to humanize banks and to pass the information along to the public that a small-salaried man need not enter a bank with his tail between his legs and a hang-dog expression on his face. It took a few years to give the public some confidence in a banker's handshake, but in time ou and I and the rest of us did earn that a new era in banking had opened up. And if you want a concrete and rather amazing proof of that consider this: the head of the small loans department of a noted world-wide bank recently called his executives in and told them to be less stringent in granting loans. "I have been studying our bad loan figures," he told them. "We are running one-quarter of one per cent bad loans, That's too few. It proves that we are screening applicants too closely and making it too tough for people. Loosen up the rules a little and I'll be happier when I see one-half of one per cent as a bad loan figure. Let's show people we aren't ogres." Thirty years ago a banker who talked that way either would have been put in a straight jacket or whisked out of the banking business. The ease with which a smallsalaried man can obtain a small loan these days, confidentially and without involving co-makers on his note, still' stuns many applicants but it has had a healthy psychological reaction as to personal credit. On occasion banks may have helped a man who seemed to be not the best risk. The willingness of the bank to help has caused such a man to reshape his entire financial point of view and turn him-become determined to justifly the confidence placed in him. Many human tragedies, and many numan comedies, come to light in the small loans records of a gigantic bank. Recently, a man died in Puerto Rico. His sister, in New York , wanted to borrow $400 with which to bury him, She applied at her neighborhood bank. They asked her to bring in a picture of her dead brother, Meanwhile they cabled the Puerto Rico branch and asked them to have the cadaver photographer, front face. This was done and the print sent airmail to Manhattan. When the woman came in with her brother's picture the local branch manager compared the two prints.
