MORE ATTENTION TURNED TO SOLID SOUTH IN MOST HISTORIC ELECTION

ATLANTA, Nov. 7.—(AP)—All along the line in the solid south state democratic chairmen forecast today their states would remain in the fold, but the extent of southern anti-new deal movements remained an intriguing factor and in some border states the race was admittedly close.

Clear, crisp fall weather was promised as an estimated 3,740,000 voters reached for their ballots. Texas, with its 23 electoral votes was again among the states where the anti-new deal movement has been loudest and most militant, but the big state had some new bedfellows politically—Mississippi, Louisiana and South Carolina.

Reports from over the state indicated today Texans were exercising their voting privileges in unprecedented numbers.

Only from populous Harris county, Fort Worth, and a few other scattered points, came any inkling of how they were casting their ballots for state and federal officials.

The Houston Chronicle said unofficial scattered returns gave democratic presidential electors 4,385 to 636 for the republicans and 1,275 for the Texasetzar etn the anti-Roosevelt democrats.

All sections reported long queues forming before voting places. In North Texas a few early voters stood in showers awaiting their turn, but for the most part the weather was ideal over the rest of the state.

In Harris county, with an estimated population of more than 600,000, extra election clerks had to be called in to handle election crowds. The county has 163,788 qualified voters.

The Chronicle said precincts 90

In Dallas county long lines of voters were on hand when balloting places opened. Election officials predicted that the previous record of 72,000 votes would be surpassed by closing time.

The same situation was reported from San Antonio and Bexar county. One precinct which normally casts about 100 votes had recorded 88 in hour and forty-five minutes after the precinct opened.

Election judges at Fort Worth predicted the total vote for Tarrant county would go over 50,000 for an all-time record. The Star-Telegram said balloting was so heavy that few boxes had begun tabulation during the morning. The newspaper reported

Lubbock Bringing Strong Eleven for Game Here Saturday

Harvesters Need Victory to Stay in Title Running

Panhandle football fans go out to Harvester Park here Saturday afternoon probably will see just as good a football game as they saw at Amarillo last Saturday, and the chances are—a better one.

Now that there is a very good possibility that the District 1-AA race will be thrown into a dogfight tie, the Pampa-Lubbock game on Armistice Day becomes one of the outstanding attractions of the season.

Lubbock will bring a strong team to Pampa. It is a team that has defeated San Angelo, 1943 state champs, and has been upset in conference play only by the rough and tumble Plainview Bulldogs. Lubbock lost that one, 7-6.

Coach Mule Davis of the Westeners is bringing his squad to Pampa intent upon a win because he is looking ahead to that Thanksgiving Day game with Amarillo. Davis would rather win that one than any of them. But he has to win this week in order to get Pampa out of the way for the Sandies kill. At the same time the Mule has plenty of respect for each Otis Coffey and the Harvesters.

Advance dope from Lubbock is that Coach Davis is telling his charges this week that they are going to have a special assignment to "stop" Johnny Campbell. Pampa's light but speedy fullback who is gaining himself a statewide reputation for lightning-like ground gaining.

Campbell threw such a scare into the Sandies fans at last Saturday's Pampa-Amarillo game that they heaved a sigh of relief when that last half was over. On several occasions Campbell broke through and missed getting away for a touchdown only by the slightest margin. The Sandies knew if he ever got away it was curtains.

As it was he was one of the principals in ground gaining which took the ball into several threatening spots in Amarillo territory.

Pampa, since its defeat by Amarillo last week, now must knock Lubbock over this Armistice afternoon in order to keep in the running for that hoped-for three-way tie at season's end. Let's take a look at the Lubbock backfield that Coach Davis will bring with him Saturday. His son, Johnny (Little Mule) Davis, will be at the right-half spot. The son of the former Texas Aggie is one of the best punters in the state. He kicks 'em from 50 to 70 yards. He is in a class by himself when it comes to punting. Davis runs from the right wingback on a single wing formation. He is plenty fast and they say he resembles Pampa's Campbell on a broken field.

Another back who bears a lot of watching is Pinky Lowrey. He is a spinner back who does much of Lubbock's passing. Jimmy Cole is down at quarterback in the lineup, and falls into the category of a blocking back.

R. W. Moyer is the 200-pound plunging fullback for the Westeners. Although he has been out much of the time in previous games this fall, Moyer will be ready for Pampa. Lubbock will have George Brewer at the tail-back spot. Brewer is a lad who seems to be able to find a hole in the line where there isn't any, and he has a reputation of being mighty hard to drop.

Ramblers to Bump Into Tough Outfit

Randolph field's mighty Ramblers, undefeated, untied and unranked with 296 points in six games—an average of more than 49 per game—runs into an outfit of tough proportions this week when the Hlers meet Maxwell field of Alabama at San Antonio.

Included in the Maxwell roster are Johnny Clements, who won passing game at Southern Methodist; Darrell Lester, all-America center at Texas Christian in the thirties; Billy Hughes, who played at Texas, and others well known in this section. The Maxwell record does not indicate it will stop the great Randolph outfit but the Ramblers should furnish a little competition for the Hlers for a change.

Air Soon To Be Filled With Bowl Game Suggestions

By TED MEIER
NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—(AP)—College football took a back seat today to the Presidential election, but within the next few weeks the air probably will be filled with guesses on what games will play in the various bowl games on New Year's day.

This is the way things shape up according to information from unofficial sources:

Rose Bowl (Pasadena, Calif.)—The Nov. 25 game between Southern California and University of California at Los Angeles (UCLA) is expected to decide the Pac-8 coast representative. The winner will invite an eastern team with Tennessee expected as the likely choice. Last year USC beat Washington, 29 to 0, before 68,000.

Sugar Bowl (New Orleans)—Tulane, Georgia Tech, Mississippi state and Tennessee being considered as Southern representative. Committee would like a western conference eleven as opponent. Last year Georgia Tech nipped Tulsa, 20 to 18, in thriller before 69,000.

Cotton Bowl (Miami, Fla.)—Tennessee, Alabama, Miss. State or Georgia Tech most likely choices to meet either Wake Forest, Duke, Holy Cross, Tulsa and perhaps second ranking team in southwest conference. Last year Louisiana state beat the Texas Aggies, 19 to 14, before 27,000.

Sun Bowl (El Paso)—Sports writers are booming the second air force, of Colorado Springs, Colo., and mighty Randolph field as opponents. Last year Southwestern, of Texas, beat New Mexico, 7 to 0.

The east-west game will be played as usual at San Francisco, but nothing as yet has been heard from the Oil Bowl at Houston, Vaucan Bowl at Birmingham, Ala., and the Flower Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla.

Then, too, there probably will be, as last year, an Arab Bowl game at Oran; a Potato Bowl at Belfast; a Lily Bowl in Bermuda; and a Tea Bowl in London.

800 Bucks Bagged In 2-Day Season

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Missouri's 5,000 potential deer-slayers bagged 820 bucks during the state's two-day deer season, the Missouri conservation commission reports, adding:

With all that banging around, there wasn't a single hunting accident.

A mercator projection map, though distorting land areas remote from the equator, shows true compass directions.

District 1-AA Grid Dopesters Go Crazy Trying to Figure It All Out

When Plainview defeated Lubbock two weeks ago and Amarillo took Pampa's measure last Saturday, they contributed absolutely nothing that would help the experts pick a title winner in District 1-AA high school football circles.

The way things stand right now you can spin the wheel or reach in blindfolded and pull out a name and you will come just about as close to picking the district champion as any of the befuddled, so-called experts.

To get you confused right at the outset, consider this set of facts: The Lubbock Westeners, who come here for an important conference clash next Saturday afternoon with the Pampa Harvesters, already have defeated the 1943 state championship team, San Angelo. Keep that in mind. Then write this down: The Plainview Bulldogs whipped Lubbock two weeks ago and San Angelo panned back the ears of the Amarillo Sandies. And, of course, the Sandies on last Saturday won over Pampa.

Now, take a firm grip on your chair. Plainview, with its win over Lubbock goes to Amarillo this week to play Amarillo, a team already beaten by San Angelo, a team already beaten by Plainview. And that same Lubbock team comes to Pampa to play the Harvesters, already beaten by Amarillo.

Lubbock whipped San Angelo, but Plainview has beaten Lubbock, which, if you want to follow along and get a bit daffier trying to figure it out, should make Plainview head and shoulders above everybody else in District 1-AA because San Angelo also defeated Amarillo.

Still, the Sandies are rated by the experts as being tops over Plainview and are favored to win just as easily over Plainview as they did over Pampa.

Everybody will rise now, step to the window, throw it open and take four deep breaths. Fill the lungs, exhale and try to find your way back to the chair.

Now listen, again. In the district conference standings, Plainview and Amarillo, as of today, are even-Stephen. Each has

Music Lovers Thrilled by Voice of Celebrated Metropolitan Basso

A splendid song recital was the reward of more than 1,000 Pampans who assembled last evening in Junior high auditorium to hear Alexander Kipnis, the Russian-American basso, who offered a nicely balanced and varied program with the assistance of a model accompanist, Wolfgang Rose.

His voice is of noble emotional quality, bright and appealing in its upper register, and of singular depth. Last night in the Waltz Scene from Strauss' "Rosenkavalier" he sang low E with ease. For so heavy a voice it is wonderfully well controlled and his mezzo vox singing is exceptional in refinement.

Plans were made for a Thanksgiving dinner to be held Nov. 18, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Page. Refreshments were served to the following guests and members: Mmes. M. E. Morris, T. W. A Precious Right We Still Possess Americans will choose a President today just as they have every four years in peace and war. Tomorrow again just as always, Americans will take off their campaign buttons and once more become citizens of the United States, not democrats and republicans.

It would be a lot better for everybody concerned and for the nation as a whole if American citizens could be that way all the time. It would be better if they were vigilant about their government 52 weeks a year, year in and year out, instead of just about eight or ten weeks before an election.

Good American citizens have a right to be critical of government at any time they feel it is not being conducted for the general good of all. We still have that freedom left in the United States.

No matter who is elected today, Roosevelt or Dewey, it is the duty of every American citizen to stand up for what he believes to be right and to challenge what he believes to be wrong.

Usually on election day there are many trite, stock editorials written which admonish everybody to submit meekly to whatever party takes over after election.

The Pampa News wishes to make it clear that this matter, whether candidate is elected, Roosevelt or Dewey, it still reserves the precious American right to call attention of the people to anything which it sincerely believes not to be in the best interests of the people.

The News endorsed Governor Dewey this time because it believed him to be the best man for the job in the good old-fashioned way of wearing a party label. It prefers to remain free and independent.

The Nation's Press MAKING IT EASY TO GET INTO WAR (Chicago Tribune)

For much the most part, Mr. Roosevelt's address before the Foreign Policy Association in New York consisted of untruths and distortions of the truth regarding the management of our foreign relations under his direction.

At one point, however, he turned from a discussion of the past to tell what policy he intends to pursue in the future. He said that the Democratic-Oaks agreement requires the United States to go to war at the behest of the council of the united nations, without a declaration of war by the people's representatives in congress.

The transfer from congress to the council (composed of representatives of 10 foreign nations and the United States) of the power to engage this country in war, he said, will be brought about by constitutional means.

There are no constitutional means, short of an amendment of the Constitution, by which this result could be brought about. The Constitution says that congress alone congress has the power to declare war. Unless the Constitution is changed—and Mr. Roosevelt doesn't propose that—there is no authority in this country except the people's representatives in congress, and certainly no authority abroad that can send this nation to war.

It is true that there have been occasions in the past when warlike steps were taken on the President's order without a congressional declaration, but these were not full-scale wars and the Presidents who ordered the action did so at risk of impeachment. Mr. Roosevelt proposes, in some fashion, to unilaterally regularize and legalize something which cannot be regularized and legalized as long as the plain words of the Constitution mean what they say.

It is not news that the President is no respecter of the Constitution. It is news, however, that he has gone on record openly and brazenly in favor of evading one of its wisest provisions. This generation of Americans knows perhaps more than any of its predecessors the cost of war in blood and money.

Mr. Roosevelt says that in future it is to be easier to get into war than it ever was before. The people and their representatives in Washington will not have to be persuaded that war is necessary and unavoidable. All that will be required is that an appointee of the President, sitting in a council otherwise composed of foreigners eager to have us participate in their wars for their advantage, vote along with his colleagues of the council for war.

Mr. Roosevelt pretends that this method will keep us out of wars. He would do the hinges because, he says, that will make the door to war harder to open. It sounds absurd and it is absurd but it is Mr. Roosevelt's announced position and it is in full accord with his whole record in foreign relations. If he had wanted peace in Europe he would not have broken up the London economic conference in 1933. Increasingly, as the years advanced, he wanted war.

And now he blames the Republicans. He blames them, among other things, for scuttling the navy. In truth, Mr. Roosevelt was himself a leading advocate of this policy. He sent Norman Davis to the London naval conference in 1935, held almost three years after Hitler came to power. Mr. Davis was armed with a letter from Mr. Roosevelt, the full text of which is to be found at page 481 of the fourth volume of Mr. Roosevelt's public papers. In this letter, read to the conference by Mr. Davis, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"The Washington naval conference delivered to the east coast of the United States from the west, have increased from 42,000 barrels to 617,000 barrels a day.

LOOKING AHEAD BY GEORGE S. BENSON President Harding College, Searcy, Arkansas

CITIZENSHIP A farmer of my acquaintance has a knife he wouldn't sell for a ransom, although he is not wealthy. The knife is of a kind that could be manufactured in quantity to retail for less than two dollars. The farmer's soldier son took it from a Jap in a hand-to-hand fight but wounds he himself received left the boy maimed for life. The father prizes the trophy for its cost, not its worth.

One of the strangest quirks of human nature is the hook-up between cost and value. People so often appreciate things according to what they cost instead of according to what they are worth. A man who falls heir to a fortune without effort is much more liable to squander it than the miser who may have acquired a similar amount the hard way; his wealth cost him too little.

A THING OF VALUE It's like American citizenship, a thing of great value that costs too little. The knacker from an immigrant when he "takes out his papers" is not a drop in the sea compared to what he gets. Moreover, the vast majority of American-born citizens are ignorant of their first conscious breath. We grew up with citizenship. We have always had it and consequently don't appreciate it properly.

You may have read stories of how British citizenship, about the time America was being colonized, was keenly coveted by noble Huguenots who fled France as refugees. They were everywhere in Christendom is familiar with New Testament accounts of how Saul of Tarsus' life was spared more than once because he, although an Israelite, was born a privileged citizen of Rome.

AN EXPENSIVE ITEM Roman citizenship in Bible times could be bought and it cost a great price. It had great value, too, but it wasn't worth nearly as much in the eyes of American citizens, that costs so little to think everybody in the United States ought to be educated for citizenship. Not many are, natives or naturalized. Not everybody needs a college degree but everybody needs to appreciate his freedom.

Americans were conscious of their citizenship for a long time back of a century ago. Government held the spotlight of youth's attention. In the last hundred years, however, our nation has intrigued the interest of more and more American boys. Unfortunately a keen interest in something spells relative indifference to something else, and engineering had to give government in almost total eclipse.

HISTORY'S VERY HEART John Tyler was President a century ago. In 1834 Louisiana M. Alcott was ten, enjoying the mild childhood she so beautifully presided in. But wait!—the people were agog at the world's first telegraph line, one tinker in Washington and another in Baltimore. Little boys were eagerly flapping their wings against what more generally understood, and full meaning appreciated, as the nation started back toward normalcy tomorrow morning.

DESERTIONS—Political observers with a flair for the bizarre estimate that F. D. R.'s feuds with numerous Democratic and Progressive figures may influence voting in states which have a total of one hundred sixty-five electoral ballots. Although he quickly moved to patch up the near break, the Truman-Walsh encounter has focused attention on this phase of the battle.

The Chief Executive's disagreements with John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, may alienate enough former supporters to decide the outcome in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky and Ohio. Should Mr. Dewey carry those commonwealths by a narrow majority the Welshman will certainly take the credit.

The Walsh affair, as well as Mr. Roosevelt's rifts with the late Al Smith, James A. Farley, ex-Mayor of New York, and former Governor Joseph B. Ely of the Bay State, could hurt the Democratic candidate in general, and your immoral behavior toward the Welshman will certainly take the credit.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS The National Whirligig

By RAY TICKER ELECTIONEERING—The Presidential campaign has tended to produce a beneficial effect which, had not been lost on students of public psychology. Despite the taunt emotions the partisan slugging has aroused, it has provided a satisfactory value during an extremely critical period of the war.

To a certain extent it has taken the people's minds off that tragedy. For, especially in the earlier stages, it was almost impossible to interest anyone except the professionals in politics. It was feared that today's turnout would fall far below the 1940 figure of almost fifty million voters. But now, in spite of the millions in the armed services and caught in the industrial migration, it is estimated that there will be a respectable showing.

The electioneering has likewise made folks forget such vexations as rising prices, shortages and uncommensurate living conditions. Salesmen marvel at the good nature of customers when confronted by empty shelves and the prospect of ever greater scarcities before the first of the year.

CLOSER—Although he campaigned "in the usual partisan sense" from fear of defeat, President Roosevelt's active participation in the last few weeks has done much for awakening the electorate to the importance of this wartime contest. Had he persisted in his original plan, there would have been a distinct loss of interest, excitement and hope.

Save for a few understandable low blows, both candidates have waged the fight on a high plane. F. D. R. and the New York Governor have put the two major Parties closer together on fundamental domestic and foreign issues than they have been since World War I.

That consideration will become more generally understood, and its full meaning appreciated, as the nation starts back toward normalcy tomorrow morning.

Congress Set for Battle on Who Shall Be Empowered to Make Treaty

By CLARE JOHNSON WASHINGTON. — A full-fledged struggle is under way about methods to be used in making America's peace pacts. It is spiced by a proposal that "executive agreements" be substituted for treaties. Brought into focus by the Dumberton Oaks security talks, the issue faces sharp Congressional debate.

There are three major factions. One would retain the long-standing policy of the President's negotiating treaties which are binding only by consent of two-thirds of the senators voting. Most senators appear to favor continuation of this system.

A Majority Vote? Another group would have the House share in the treaty-making power, and would allow ratification by a simple majority vote of both chambers. This plan has strong support among House members, including such figures as Chairman Sol Bloom (D-NY) of the foreign affairs committee.

A third contingent favors use of "executive agreements" by the President. The agreements would be subject to majority approval later in the Senate and House, but often might be consummated before being submitted to Congress. This idea has not received wide support. It is sponsored by a group headed by Senator Claude Pepper (D-Fla.), frequently an administration spokesman.

The "Executive Agreement" Some of those backing the "executive agreement" plan contend it is already being used successfully. They cite President Roosevelt's exchange of 50 overage destroyers with Great Britain for use of western hemisphere bases. This trade was completed in 1940 and it was several months later that Congress gave its approval by providing funds for use of the bases.

Pepper himself does not go this far. He says he favors a constitutional amendment to allow a majority of both chambers to approve the agreements. He contends, however, that not enough time remains for such action and that "if the United States cannot make the peace and begin effective world collaboration... it will have to be not by treaty of peace but by executive agreement."

The Floridaian says the executive agreement "is historically as old and almost as well recognized as the treaty" and says since the time of President Washington there have been 1,200 such compacts and only 800 treaties.

He offers his definition of the agreement as "an instrument pertaining to international affairs which the Senate and House are willing by a majority vote to treat as an executive agreement, binding upon this nation."

A treaty, he continues, "is such an instrument which the Congress will not recognize unless it is ratified by two-thirds of the senators voting."

Congressional Authority Therefore, Pepper concludes, "Congress has the power of substituting a majority vote in the Senate and House for the two-thirds rule of the Senate."

Chairman Tom Connally (D-Tex) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has also printed, however, an analysis by Harry S. Fraser, an assistant counsel for his committee, which declares:

"If the subject matter of the executive agreement corresponds with or is analogous to that which was ordinarily cast in treaty form by the nations of the world when the constitution was adopted, it must still be cast in treaty form."

Former Oil Man Is Released From Prison LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Nov. 7.—R. G. (Boss) Shannon, convicted principal in the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City oil man, in 1933, was released yesterday from the federal prison here and left immediately by bus for his home in Paradise, Texas.

No one met Shannon as he left the prison gates. He was sentenced Oct. 7, 1933, to a life term, together with George (Machining) Kelly and five others. His sentence later was changed to 20 years, in the parole board said in announcing the parole in Washington Saturday.

Urschel was abducted in July, 1933, and held for $100,000 ransom for nine days. Shannon was charged with providing a hideout for the abductors.

Pres. Roosevelt May Visit Paris WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The possibility that President Roosevelt will visit Paris was raised today as the result of an invitation extended by the French provisional government.

The invitation was made in a letter to the Secretary of State from Henri Hoppenot, French minister and delegate to this country.

The letter stated that the French would be "particularly happy if President Roosevelt could accompany the chief executive to their capital."

There has been speculation on an impending meeting of President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin, and the President might include a Paris visit on a trip to such a conference. Unsettled conditions in France, however, could prevent such a visit.

WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE Associated Press War Analysts Marshal Stalin's declaration that Germany is "on the verge of inevitable catastrophe" is good to hear, but it would have been great if he could have told us "when" the catastrophe is likely to claim its victims.

Actually, of course, neither the astute Stalin nor anybody else can pin the thing down, for there are imperodicals which only time can clarify.

The allied high command still may hope to give us a merry Christmas, but on the other hand Winston Churchill says it's difficult to believe the European war "can be ended before Christmas or even Easter."

Stalin points out that the main problem of the moment is to "crush Hitlerite Germany in the shortest possible time," and says the "key to victory" is "to continue holding Germany between two fronts."

We shall know a lot more when we see whether the western allies can cross the Rhine on the double track. To my mind, a quick victory depends greatly on that. Success there, coupled with continued heavy pressure on the Russian front, would bring Hitler to an early end. I believe he's likely to crack fast, once his border defenses on any front are smashed.

Filipino Children Learning War Song PANAUAN, Leyte, P. I., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Filipino second grade school children have begun learning the words to "God Bless America" as the first school opened in liberated territory. The little tots sat at battered desks and repeated the words in unison, line for line, after their Filipino woman teacher.

It was the first time they had been allowed to speak of America publicly since the Japanese occupation over two years ago.

YOU GOTTA THINK QUICK

By Stanley Paley Copyright, 1944. NEA Service, Inc. THE STORY: Leo Kabateck, lately broke in the money boom, has just moved into a house on the corner. Boggio's girl friend, Ginger, announces she is moving into a house on the corner. Boggio is out of town. Ginger makes a play for Kabateck. She says: "I'm not having any." Boggio comes out.

to formulate plans. And shaving in this place was an entirely painless procedure.

By the time I was through I knew how I was going to handle Ginger. She'd been so anxious to come over not because she wanted to see the apartment but because she wanted to see me. What better opportunity could there be? Boggio was out of town and I had a perfect excuse for paying me a visit. She'd figured out what she was going to do even before she'd hung up the receiver. I should have known better than to imagine that the champagne had anything to do with her frame of mind.

The more I thought about it, the better I could see how her mind had been working. Here we were, Ginger and I, thrown together by our relationship with Boggio. We both hated him and—even though I didn't care to admit it to myself—I feared him. But we also knew how to play our cards and make Boggio come across handsomely for whatever he was getting.

Since Ginger's relationship with him was based upon purely financial reasons, she was going to be careful not to jeopardize her standing. I bet one couldn't count the guys who'd made passes at her but she was smart enough to play the role of the faithful little woman. For if Boggio was generous, he was also going to be stingy. He was a very high price on human life. Ginger no doubt feared that a new boy friend might eventually have become indiscreet. That is why she had decided—reluctantly no doubt—to stick to the straight and narrow path even though Boggio wasn't precisely the type to satisfy her exacting temperament.

And then she'd discovered me. I was the perfect soul mate. I had the same reasons for discretion as she had. And since I'd suddenly come up in the world, this was the appropriate moment. Now, more than ever, I'd wish to remain in Boggio's good graces. It was all so simple that a child could have practically reasoned herself at my head and the reason I'd bungled was because I'd been taken unaware.

I HEARD the bell at the end of the line ring and ring, and I was beginning to think Ginger was not in when she finally answered. Her voice was thick with sleep. "Hello."

"Oh, hello, Ginger. How are you?" She grunted something that could be construed any way I pleased. I let it go and continued in my most cheerful manner. "Hope I didn't wake you up, Ginger. Maybe I'm calling a little early."

"Virgil's not here. He's still out of town."

"I know, Ginger. I don't want to talk to Virgil. I want to talk to you."

"You needn't bother."

"Come now, Ginger. Don't tell me you're still mad."

"I'm not mad. I'm just not interested."

"If the telephone line was sensitive to a drop in temperature it would soon be snapping in half a dozen different places."

"Now listen, Ginger, I only wanted to tell you—"

"That's as far as I got. She hung up on me. I waited for a few moments, then asked the operator to get the number again. The phone rang for what seemed to be an eternity and at last the operator cut in."

"There's no answer."

"That's all right," I said. "Keep on ringing."

At the end of the line the receiver was suddenly yanked off the cradle. Still no answer. This was going to be harder than I thought.

So They Say

The bureaucrat is neither wiser nor better than you or I doing the same job ourselves. He is merely more irresponsible. His mistakes are on the house.—Eric A. Johnston, president U. S. C. of C.

Think about the fact that each family has someone at the front and that many families miss their fallen husbands and sons. Your playing around, your raising hell in general, and your immoral behavior toward the Welshman will certainly take the credit.

Here's one for the book. Several destroyers have applied for the new rate of pay. The rate is less of liberty and let us heed more in practice the obligations it imposes.—Jerome Tharand, member French Academy.

LIBERTY is a heady wine. We have been so deprived of it for four years that I fear we have become unaccustomed to it. In our press and politics we have less of liberty and let us heed more in practice the obligations it imposes.—Jerome Tharand, member French Academy.

Peter Edson's Column: THOUSAND CLUB WINDS UP LITTLE SHORT

By PETER EDSON Washington Correspondent The now-famous "One Thousand Club of the U. S. A." folds up today without achieving its objective of 1000 members, each having contributed $1000 towards re-election of Franklin D. Roosevelt. The admitted fact is that the club leaders found it a little difficult to find 1000 men with 1000 extra dollars.

On paper it looked easy. An average of only 20 members in each of the 48 states would have brought the membership to 960, and it should have been a cinch to get the other 40 in the District of Columbia, Oklahoma was the first state to crash through with its quota of 25 and cattle men, but after that initial success the going was slow and Dewey's blast at the club in his Chicago speech probably won't help the rushing and pledging of neophytes for this blue chip fraternity.

Some of the enthusiastic Washington backers of the One Thousand Club argued that business men, instead of giving their money to the Republicans, should have been crazy for Roosevelt instead of crazy against him because they have prospered so greatly under the last four years of democratic rule, making up all their losses of the depression.

These big profits don't show, explains one of the One Thousand Club promoters, but to anyone who can read a balance sheet, the profits are there. They are hidden in finding supplies to match the number of points he had brought along. Finally he got it worked out and the grocer asked him what else he could do for his new customer. "Who you for in this election?" asked McPherson. "Roosevelt!" said the grocer. "Put it in writing," said McPherson. "Put it on the line." The grocer called to his wife and asked her to make out a check for $50, then asked McPherson how he spelled his name. "Oh, don't make it payable to me," said McPherson hastily. Make it out to the Democratic National Committee.

McPherson turned in the money, but it should be made clear that it took a little longer than that to get the One Thousand Club.

A PROSPERITY IS USED Some of the enthusiastic Washington backers of the One Thousand Club argued that business men, instead of giving their money to the Republicans, should have been crazy for Roosevelt instead of crazy against him because they have prospered so greatly under the last four years of democratic rule, making up all their losses of the depression.

NATIONAL

vote in Los Angeles. In one precinct there, 12 1/2 per cent of the registered voters...

Even the heavily democratic deep south, where voting in presidential elections often is light, reported an unusually heavy turnout at Miami, Atlanta, Birmingham and elsewhere.

Baltimore and Norfolk, big war centers, also had heavy votes. Republican Dewey and Roosevelt, in eleventh-hour messages to the country, agreed that no matter who wins the presidency, it is supremely important to a democracy at war to pile up a huge vote.

"If every one will vote, there can be no danger to our country. Of that I am sure—because I firmly believe in the eternal rightness of the people."

Said Roosevelt in his talk from Hyde Park: "Our boys are counting on us to show the rest of the world that our kind of government is the best in the world—and the kind we propose to keep! And so when our people turn out at the polls tomorrow—and I sincerely hope that it will be fifty million strong—the world will respect our democracy."

Mr. Roosevelt summed up as goals for Americans: "To win the war and unite our fighting men with their families at the earliest moment, to see that all have reasonable jobs, and to create a world peace organization which will prevent this disaster from ever coming upon us again."

Governor Dewey likewise said "We want to make sure that this war will be the last war." He was critical again of home front measures of the Roosevelt administration and said "The great test is whether, knowing we need a new administration, we will make the change necessary to speed victory and to build the peace to come."

And thus the campaign ended, with peace-and victory calls from both sides. There was a quiet facade-cut of the more extreme accusations that have been tossed back and forth in America's big show that comes every four years.

The republican presidential candidate's wife and his mother, Mrs. George E. Dewey from Owosso, Mich., were with him for the important day. Governor and Mrs. Dewey traveled from Albany to New York City, their legal residence, to get their votes in.

A trip in the other direction was Mrs. Roosevelt's lot, she having gone to New York last night to a party for democratic staff members and volunteer workers.

For Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt, their polling place was again the town hall in Hyde Park. Their daughter, Mrs. John Boettger and grandson Johnny, 5, were the only family members at the Roosevelt home.

The bulk of the new congress that takes office next January likewise is being chosen today, and some of the best known figures in public life—and some lesser known who may serve in higher places in years to come—are offering themselves to the voters.

Treaties for peace, which require a two-thirds senate majority for ratification, may be affected by today's choices, made before either Truman or Latham has quit.

40 B-29's attacked two in the Volcano Islands, Sunday, and that strong forces of Liberators again bombed Chichi and Haha in the Bonin Islands.

These are the strong points guarding the southern approaches to Tokyo, Japan has apparently been rushing both land and air reinforcements to the islands, anticipating a possible amphibious strike.

The 24th division pushed down the hazardous northern trail to within 16 miles of Ormoc, remaining Japanese stronghold on Leyte Island, as American forces slowly closed a manna trap.

Some American units, caught in a Japanese trap along ridges commanding the trail, suffered heavy casualties yesterday. The Japanese encircled them and turned captured U. S. machine guns on the Yanks.

A slashing carrier raid Sunday (Manila time) on Manila Bay ran the total number of Japanese warships sunk or damaged since the Philippines invasion to approximately 70.

They sank a subchaser, probably sank a heavy cruiser, damaged a light cruiser, three destroyers and several cargo ships. Fifty-eight Japanese planes were shot down over Clark field. Most of the others were caught on the ground at five raided Luzon island air fields.

U. S. losses were not reported. Tokyo radio said 300 planes participated in this attack and 100 returned Monday. Results of the Monday raid had not been announced.

Carburized lance-based planes destroyed eight more Japanese planes over Cebu and Negros, and hit possible enemy reinforcement points on Mindanao.

British and Indian troops driving through the jungles of southeast Burma against P. Widdes were reported to have captured Kennedy Peak, dominating the road from Tiddim.

Chief Cook, Capt. Edmund announced his China-based 14th air force last month sank 25 Japanese ships, probably sank 15 and damaged 39. The total, including five privateers, amounted to 142,000 tons.

Chennault's planes also sank 294 sampans, barges, junks, river steamers and other small boats.

The secretary of state at Austin announced the state's service people voted 17,286. These ballots had been dispatched to their respective precincts, for counting tonight.

From other sections came these reports:
Gainesville: Rain in the Red river county during first two hours of voting sharply reduced balloting.

ported democratic electors, leading in two sections of Fort Worth while the Texas Regulars were ahead in another.

Austin and Travis county reported a heavy vote, section officials expected the county total to exceed 22,000.

A record vote of more than 30,000 was expected for Jefferson county. Marvin Fugh, judge in a Belmont precinct, said the balloting was considerably heavier than at the first democratic primary this year.

From other sections came these reports:
Gainesville: Rain in the Red river county during first two hours of voting sharply reduced balloting.

Corvick: Brisk, heavy voting indicated bigger poll than democratic primary, when 8,200 was a high mark here. The county has 16,000 potential voters.

Texarkana (Texas): two hours after polls opened, more than half the potential voters were cast at some boxes. An unusually large Negro vote was reported.

Mayor William V. Brown, outspoken anti-Roosevelt critic, said he would vote the Texas regular ticket.

Reports were received in Texarkana that some election judges had received instructions not to count split ballots.

County Clerk L. C. Lynch said he knew nothing about the report. He said his office has issued no such instructions.

Democratic chairman H. H. Taylor said he had nothing to do with the general election.

"I have issued no such instruction and I don't believe anyone else has," he said.

Flintville: Brisk balloting brought out 28 per cent of July primary vote during the first two and one-half hours.

Midland: The county is polling the heaviest vote in history. No
