College Students Catch Pictures of Stadium Collapse

LAFAYETTE, Ind.—Two student photographers performed in the highest tradition of speedy professionals to rush gramatic pictures of the Purdue basketball stand collapse to the NEA Telephoto leased wire, which distributed them throughout the country. (See picture, Page 1.)

Don Broeking, Purdue senior and freelance photographer who learned to take pictures in the Air Corps, took an amazing shot 20 seconds after the stands collapsed. "It was just another game up to half time," Broeking said. "Then there was a swelling scream. The bleachers were collapsing. It was the most horrifying sound I ever heard. My first thought was to get in there and get someone out. But I couldn't from my position in the balcony so I figured I'd better get a picture. Everything seemed to happen slowly but I know it couldn't have been over 20 seconds after the bleachers fell that I shot the picture."

Broeking rushed his picture to a small dark room in the basement of a fraternity house, developed the negative and rushed it to Indianapolis where The Indianapolis Times transmitted the picture on the NEA Telephoto leased line.

Meanwhile Bob Schmidt, another Purdue senior who had a small Speed Graphic was shooting other dramatic pictures close up on the floor of the gymnasium, where injured and dazed spectators lay amid shattered timbers. He shot six pictures with flash bulbs then opened his lens and shot three more by gym lighting.

Aided by Don Frankenberg and Ned Bailey, classmates who hold pilots' licenses, Schmidt tried to obtain an airplane to fly the pictures to the NEA bureau in Chicago. The Lafayette Field had no lights so they took turns driving an automobile during the night to Chicago.

Early editions of afternoon newspapers all over the country benefited by their enterprise, which was highly praised by NEA executives.

All too often in the past strikes have been launched and even settled with either employees or employers insisting on having their way with little regard for the rights and welfare of the public.—Rep. Charles A. Halleck (R) of Indiana.

Woman Picked Up In Dope Theft

A local woman yesterday was picked up by City Police at her home and brought in for questioning in connection with a dope theft. According to the City Police version the woman had removed a medical kit from the automobile of a Pampa doctor. As she put the kit in her car and drove away a nurse spotted her and took the license of her car.

In the presence of a reporter yesterday morning the woman said to police that she had taken the dope out of the kit, but intended to return the kit to the doctor. She also said she took two other kits at other times. She said she returned the two bags, and would return this one also.

County Attorney Bruce Parker late yesterday filed misdemeanor theft charges against her, and she was placed under $500 bond. Police then communicated with the Narcotics Division of the FBI, who in turn requested the woman to be held for them.

Late yesterday afternoon she was again picked up and held in the county jail, but was released this morning.

In the meantime the case was supposed to be transferred to the District Court, although District Attorney Tom Braly said that no felony complaints had been filed to his knowledge.

Judge W. R. Ewing, retained as defense counsel, said this morning that the FBI is interested because it is a federal offense to be in illegal possession of narcotics.

TARGET DELUXE
LAWRENCE, Kas.—Rip Collins, University of Kansas, sophomore, pulled the string of a 30-pound boy and sent an arrow into a balloon resting on the head of Bob Lemons, a fellow student.

The balloon burst and 10 smaller balloons floated around the fieldhouse where the stunt was staged between halves of a basketball game. The crowd cheered.

But Collins said hitting the balloon hadn't required much skill—the task had been to get the 10 small balloons in the large one. He explained he stuffed them all in, then pulled the necks of the little ones out of the neck of the large one, gave each of the small ones a shot of helium and tied them. That took two hours.

Clark Gable Planning Trip Around the World

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD—Clark Gable is planning to take a three-month flying trip around the world when he finishes his next picture. The actor will start "Angel's Flight" six weeks after he finishes "The Hucksters," then he'll take most of the summer for an air jaunt to distant places. His plan indicates what a handsome guy Clark has been in recent years since the death of Carole Lombard.

A highlight of the "Ramrod" junket to Salt Lake City was when a five-foot-four newspaperman told off Sonny Tufts for being overly boisterous.

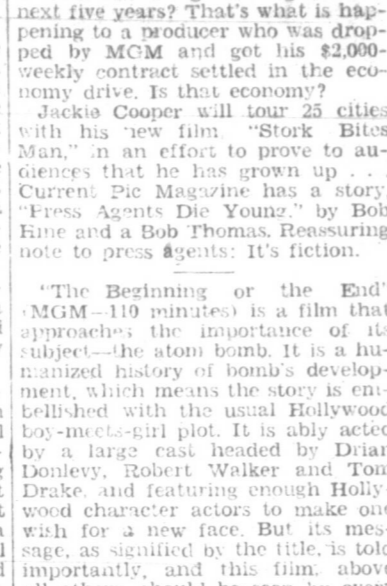

Charles Vidor has resumed his directorial chores to Columbia with "The Man from Colorado," and all was sweetness and light when I visited the set. And he is directing Glenn Ford, who testified against Harry Cohn. I tried to whip up a feud between Ford and Bill Holden, and they said they would cooperate by staging a fist fight in Ciro's next month. Nothing like getting the news before it happens.

How would you like to earn $500 a week for doing nothing for the next five years? That's what is happening to a producer who was dropped by MCM and got his $2,000-weekly contract settled in the economy drive. Is that economy?

Jackie Cooper will tour 25 cities with his new film "Stork Bites Man," in an effort to prove to audiences that he has grown up. Current Pic Magazine has a story, "Press Agents Die Young," by Bob Fine and a Bob Thomas, reassuring note to press agents: It's fiction.

"The Beginning or the End" (MGM—110 minutes) is a film that approaches the importance of its subject—the atom bomb. It is a humanized history of bomb's development, which means the story is embellished with the usual Hollywood boy-meets-girl plot. It is ably acted by a large cast headed by Brian Donley, Robert Walker and Tom Drake, and featuring countless Hollywood character actors to make one wish for a new face. But its message, as signified by the title, is told importantly, and this time above all others, should be seen by every citizen.

Loy Reed Williams, 59, a Pampa resident for 16 years, died yesterday at his home in Brownsville, where he had lived since September, after an illness of two months.

An employee of the Civil Service Commission, Williams also lived in California prior to moving to Brownsville.

He is survived by his wife; one son, Loy, Jr.; three daughters, Mrs. Howard Buckingham, Jr., Pampa, Mrs. J. K. Green, Colorado Springs, and Mrs. J. E. Fitzpatrick, Greenfield, Ohio; and three brothers, T. H. Williams, Drumright, Okla., Floyd Williams, Bixby, Okla., and R. C. Williams of Louisiana.

The body is being sent to Duengel-Carmichael Funeral Home. Arrangements are incomplete.

Police Outdistanced In Chase Aiming For Investigation

Outdistanced by a faster car, City Police lost a wild chase over Brown Street at 2:30 this morning.

Chief of Police Louie Allen said one of the cruiser cars was patrolling near the Bell Liquor Store last night when the patrolman saw a 1939 Dodge or Chrysler parked in front of the store. As the patrolmen stepped out to investigate, the occupants of the car sped away.

Social Agencies Working Overtime On the Country's Divorce Problem

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK—Saving marriages is today the number one concern of home town social agencies which a few years back were battling poverty as the major community problem.

It's not that there are no more poor, but it is that America's rapidly spiraling divorce rate has reached proportions of a public problem. The rate was one divorce for every three marriages in 1915 and this year it is expected to hit two for every five.

Frank J. Hertel, general director of the Family Service Association of America, spearheads 224 coast-to-coast member agencies which are trying to do something constructive about America's troubled family life, narrowed in increased juvenile delinquency of thousands of unhappy men and women.

"Preparation for a successful marriage starts with the mothers and fathers of every couple," Hertel said. "An agency really comes into the picture too late when it tries to do a repair job. Our aim of course is to patch up a marriage, but we also are trying to teach mothers and fathers to bring up their children so that ultimately they will have happy marriages."

Pre-marriage courses have been set up in many communities similar to one in progress for students at Pennsylvania State College, Miami, Fla., is a motel where happy families work with social workers treating day-by-day problems of family living and child care. New Orleans and other cities are holding a series of courses—lectures—on all phases of married life and care for children.

And throughout the country marriage counselors are working with individuals and groups, ironing out minor problems or settling major ones which can threaten the lives of two people bound, it appears, for worse instead of better. Hertel estimated these cases today constitute about 80 percent of a family agency's work.

In New York, the Community Service Society, one of the member agencies of the F.S.A., is working with individuals—men and women.

"We must take the long view and the short view of the situation," he said. "First, assist our families in making their adjustments. And second, reach their children through them, because today's children must be the happily married adults of tomorrow."

TRIPLE LIFE OF ELASTIC
When putting elastic in children's pajamas or pajamas, sew a hook on one end and an eye on the other to make it easy to remove the elastic before laundering. It triples the life of elastic to prevent too frequent immersing in water.

WE, THE WOMEN Fashion, Mama's Master, Is Returning

By RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer
Come spring and Mama is going to want not just a new hat, but an entirely new wardrobe. Not simply because it's spring.

The Civilian Production Administration is a lot to throw overboard. The war-time order that limited length and design of women's clothes, too late to affect fall and winter styles. But when the manufacturers start cutting spring clothes, they can whack into the goods in any way they choose.

Group 6 was in charge of the program on "The United Nations and Us" and Mrs. Fred Swezey gave the devotional. Mrs. Dale Pinson talked on "America and the Influence of World Peace," and Mrs. Charles Madeira gave comments on the United Nations organization.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all, and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barentrate (formerly called Barcol Concentrate). Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it.

So Mama could drag it out of the closet, tell herself it was better than anything she could buy.

bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back siluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly blot disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Varietas Study Club Planning Guest Day Tea

A Guest Day Tea to be held Tuesday, March 11, in the City Club Rooms has been planned by the Varietas Study Club and plans were discussed at the meeting of the club Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Ralph Thomas.

Mrs. R. W. Lane was leader of the program on "Texas Educational Institutions" and also brought a short message on "Spiritual Guidance in the Home."

Mrs. Lane said that Texas has 131 colleges, universities and academies. There are 56 junior colleges in the state, the second largest number for any state in the country. Texas also has the oldest junior college in the world, Decatur College at Decatur, yet this state ranks 26th in the nation in education. It is hoped, said the speaker, that this condition will be improved by the pending school legislation asking for increased pay for teachers and $55-per capita.

During the business session, presided over by Mrs. E. J. Haslam, Mrs. F. E. Imel was elected delegate to the district convention at Chiles in March. Mrs. C. L. McKinney was chosen alternate. The Golden Jubilee fund was collected.

Refreshments were served by the hostess to the following members: Mesdames C. W. Andrews, J. G. Gargile, H. P. Doster, E. C. Evans, H. T. Hampton, Lee Harrah, E. J. Haslam, E. E. Imel, Dow King, J. E. Kirchman, R. W. Lane, Horace McBee, C. L. McKinney, Luther Pierson, Sherman Wilkie, C. Q. Williams, J. C. Williams, J. C. Vollmert, and Joyce Caldwell.

Tea Given by WSCS of Methodist Church Has International Theme

One of the loveliest affairs of the year was the combined business and social meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church held in Fellowship Hall yesterday afternoon. The business meeting was followed by an unusual and interesting tea at which a number of booths were on exhibit representing several different countries.

Mrs. W. R. Campbell, WSCS president, presided over the business meeting at which the speaker presented the devotional on "Assurance of a Good Life," taking as her Scripture I Timothy, 3:14. After a brief introduction members and guests were invited to visit the exhibit booths representing several different countries.

Mrs. W. C. Wilson, attired in Indian dress, assisted by her small son dressed as an Indian boy, presided at the Indian booth. The display consisted of Indian pottery, jewelry, blankets, and of special interest were posters and snapshots from the Navajo Mission School at Farmington, N. M., and an arrow-head display belonging to Mrs. Harry Guill.

Mrs. Frank Wilson, assisted by little Nancy Vincent, both dressed in Mexican costume, were hostesses for the Latin-American display which consisted of Mexican baskets, pottery, jewelry, and a display from a Mexican mission school.

Exquisite linens highlighted the display from China, Japan and the Pacific islands, presided over by Mrs. Sam B. Cook and small daughter, Sami Sue, both attired in native mother-daughter Chinese costumes. This display consisted of a Pine Willow china set owned by Mrs. G. P. Branson, Chinese baskets, sandals and kimonos, a huailu grass skirt and fan from the Philippines, dolls from Honolulu, a ukulele from Hawaii, and lovely linen cloths, pillow slips and straw hats from China—all property of Mrs. Cook.

Mrs. E. P. Hollingshead and daughter, Ann, and Mrs. A. B. Whitten represented India and were dressed in costumes of that country. Among articles displayed were lovely jewel boxes of sandalwood trimmed in jade, precious stones, linens, ivory, brass, toys, and costume jewelry owned by Miss Billie Hollingshead who spent a year and

Hopkins H D Club Plans Community Dance, Cake-Walk

At the meeting of the Hopkins Home Demonstration Club Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. George Howe plans were made for a community dance and cake-walk to be held at 7:30 Friday evening, March 7, in the Hopkins Community Hall.

Mrs. W. E. Melton and Mrs. George Howe will be in charge, and each member has been asked to take a cake.

Mrs. T. D. Phillips gave a report on "Better Things for Better Living Through Chemistry". She said that there are many kinds of plastics, some new to us, and others already familiar with use. She mentioned several of these with which we come in contact in our daily living.

Mrs. Joe Stone discussed "Synthetic Clothing", and told of the various types of synthetic materials which we all use every day, such as rayon and nylons used in our clothing. She exhibited a crocheted purse made from white plastic.

A short talk on "Synthetic Home Furnishings" was given by Mrs. Paul Rice. She listed the ones commonly used by home-makers such as chair covers, shower curtains, radio dials, and vegetable drainers. Games were played at the end of the meeting after which refreshments were served to four visitors, Mesdames C. F. Jones, J. E. Schneider, John House, and Jerry McCarty, and the following members, Mesdames T. D. Phillips, Paul Rice, W. E. Melton, R. W. Orr, George Reeves, and Joe Stone.

Presbyterian Group Discusses 'Portrait Of Pilgrim' Monday

SHAMROCK (Special) - "Portrait Of A Pilgrim" was the subject of discussion at the Presbyterian Auxiliary Monday afternoon when the group met at the home of Mrs. Tom Brown.

The meeting opened with a prayer led by Mrs. Brown, who presided over the business session.

The lesson dealt with race relations and each member present had a part in presenting the program.

During the social hour refreshments were served to Misses Ruth Dodson, Earl Koger, T. H. Sourenburg, Thurman Adkins, Lester Hartsfield, and Wilbur Jordan.

Piano Recital

PANHANDLE (Special) - Sunday afternoon at four o'clock in the Panhandle High School Auditorium Mrs. Douglas Smith presented the following pupils in a piano recital: Lynn Weiser, Joyce Goodman, Elaine Eell, Zeldia Weatherly, Kathryn Sue Williams, Judy Price, Nita Merle Ketchum, Judy Shepherd, Peggy Moore, Glennia Rae Downs, Shelby Sue Patterson, Gregory Sherwood, Margaret Randel, Nannette Walker.

Southwest Drama Is El Progreso Topic

Mrs. Edgar W. Henshaw was hostess to the El Progreso Club when it met in her home Tuesday afternoon for an interesting program on "Drama in the Southwest."

Mrs. James Todd president, called the meeting to order and presided over the business session.

Mrs. Grundy Morrison, program chairman, gave a well-prepared and interesting paper on "The Development of the Little Theatre in the Southwest." She traced the theatre movement from the earliest Indian myths and Spanish folk plays, based mostly on a religious background, down through travelling magicians, minstrels and circuses to the present day rodeo, Wild West shows and frontier celebrations.

Mrs. Morrison said the Southwest had made a unique contribution to the major entertainments of the world. Mrs. C. T. Hightower gave a very enjoyable discussion of representative dramas of the Southwest.

During the social hour the hostess served refreshments to the ladies mentioned above and the following: Mesdames D. V. Burton, W. R. Ewing, Jeanette Hutchinson, Knox Kinard, Glen Cannon, B. A. Norris, and H. L. Ledrick.

The state of Illinois has 488 streams, with a total length of 11,500 miles.

Baptist Circles Meet For Mission Study

McLEAN (Special) - The Elizabeth Pool and Nina Hawkins Circles of the Baptist Church met in the church parlor Wednesday afternoon and evening respectively for mission study.

Mrs. P. A. Pierson of the former circle brought a study from "Palestine in Palestine" by Mrs. J. Walsh Watts who, with her husband, and Dr. and Mrs. T. B. Pearson were among the early missionaries to the Arabs in Palestine in 1923.

Those present were Mesdames Pierson, Homer Abbott, Leroy Williams, Luther Petty, E. L. Price, T. A. Langham, W. R. Lawrence, R. L. Appling, Wey Fowler, T. B. Windom, C. J. Montgomery, Robert Howard, George Colebank, Leo Gibson, Bunia and Sidney Kunkel, and Edna and Pauline Reeves.

Attending the Nina Hawkins Circle meeting were Mesdames C. B. Lee Jr., Guy Beasley, J. L. Marcum, Mildred Dilbeck, Marshall Geisler, Howard Williams and W. R. Lawrence, and Miss Margaret Glass. Mrs. Lawrence brought a lesson on "Mission Work" in Guam.

Pakan H D Club Holds Meeting

SHAMROCK (Special) - The meeting of the Pakan Home Demonstration Club was held at the home of Mrs. John Henciar, Sr., Thursday afternoon.

Miss Pauline Fisian, president, presided over the meeting which opened with group singing. The club prayer was repeated in unison.

For the program, Mrs. Emma Hastings, County Home Demonstration Agent of Wheeler gave an interesting and instructive demonstration on "Short Cuts in Sewing." She also taught the group the correct way to put in a zipper.

Mrs. Edward Pakan demonstrated the making of checker-board sandwiches. One new member, Mrs. Susan Pakan, was enrolled.

During the social hour there was an exchange of Valentines among the members and refreshments were served.

Mrs. John Cadra and Mrs. Emma Hastings were guests, with the following members present: Mmes. W. B. Burrman, J. W. Stauffer, W. A. Allen, Paul Macchia, Osie Parrish, Edward Pakan, Roy McMullin, and Susan Pakan, and Misses May Ruth Stauffer and Louise Risian.

We cannot see the new moon until about two days after it is new.

Love Has Two Faces

By Irene Lonnen Ernhart

XXX
 CASSIE sat up and swung her feet to the floor and reached for her robe. "You may as well know it now, Mama," she said briskly. "Parker and I are going to call it quits."
 "Parker and you—you don't mean you're goin' to get a divorce?" Mama dropped Leni's evening slippers and they clattered on the bare floor. Her faded eyes watered as she stared at Cassie.
 "Certainly a divorce."
 "Why Cassie Fletcher! Your Pa and I have stuck together for—let's see—29 years come June. A divorce! You ought to be ashamed of yourself. So that's what you were doin' with Mike. And Parker's such a good man, and he's got a job he likes now and is doin' so well again, and now you—"
 "Let's not talk about it, Mama. Let's not go over the whole thing and rehash it. Everything's been settled and that's all there is to it. He was the one that wanted it. It wasn't my idea. You don't beg somebody to keep on being married to you when they want to get rid of you!" Cassie said fiercely. She flew into the bathroom and turned on the shower full blast.
 "Mama was still there when she came out."
 "That Leni!" Mama said. "She's the one that causes all the trouble for everybody. I could see this was comin' and it's a wonder you didn't see Leni's crazy about Parker and she's always playin' up to him. She's so selfish—always has to have her own way about things. I never could do a thing with her when she was little even."
 "Let's not talk about Leni!" Cassie began to brush her hair. "Parker's going to see that you and Papa get this farm. It'll be all your own. And Sid—Sid will go to Purdue if he wants to."

 "Why don't you and Parker wait a while? He thought so much of you when you got married, Cassie. I can't figure out why—"
 "There's no use thinking about that. Everything's all settled," Cassie said sharply.
 "WELL, do you mean Parker's just going to give the farm to Papa and me?"
 They'd never owned anything. Even in the house on Carson street they'd always been a month or two behind in the rent until Cassie had started earning money and running things.
 "Yes, it'll be all yours." Cassie opened the door and started out. "Did Leni and Parker go ridin' as they planned?"
 "Nope. Parker said he'd changed his mind about stayin'. He drove off to Indianapolis. Leni's eatin' breakfast. Sid and your Pa went down by the river."
 It was a relief not to have to face Parker, Cassie thought as she went downstairs.
 Leni looked up lazily from the funny paper she was reading as she sipped her coffee.
 Cassie sat down and poured herself some fruit juice. Her hand shook a little. She'd felt so good right after the shower, but now suddenly the room swung round in crazy circles. "Oh good heavens!" she thought, "I'm going to be sick!"
 Leni was looking at her. Leni's blue-eyed stare blurred and receded.
 Mama always cried over everything. When Cassie opened her eyes, Mama was crying and wringing her hands. Leni had a newspaper and was fanning her own way about things. I never could do a thing with her when she was little even."
 "Let's not talk about Leni!" Cassie began to brush her hair. "Parker's going to see that you and

"Are you sure that's it?" Leni said shortly. There was a queer look on her face. "Maybe you think if you go to places and have a nervous breakdown, Parker'll come running home to you!"
 "LENI! How can you say such awful things to your own sister? I'm going to tell Papa on you."
 "He'll never come back to you!" Leni cried. "Never! You won't ever get him back! And I want you to know that you're only getting what's due you!"
 "What's due me?" Cassie pushed the dreadful possibility which had possessed her only a moment before out of her mind and fastened her attention on what Leni was saying.
 "For what you did to me!" Leni mocked. "Remember the night Leni and I were eloping? Remember it? How you stopped it all so neatly? I'd have been married to Leni. I'd have been Mrs. Leni Cavendish right this minute! Only I wouldn't be here. I'd be in New York—with him."
 "But Leni—that's all so long ago, and you were just a kid in high school. And there'd have been an annulment."
 "They wouldn't have had it annulled! He told me they wouldn't. He told me over and over he wished we'd gone ahead. After he was married to HER it was too late."
 "Stop it, Leni. Stop it this minute," Mama cried. "Can't you see, Cassie don't feel well!"
 Leni started to say something more, but Sid came banging in the back way and they could hear him coming along the hallway. He stood in the doorway, gangling and awkward.
 "Hey, what's the matter with Cass?"
 "She fainted. That's all," Mama said. "Now Sid—you didn't wipe your feet. How many times do I have to tell you!"
 Leni stomped out and Mama and Sid went too. Mama to get a cup of coffee for Cassie.
 "I'm going to have a baby," Cassie thought. The sickening realization made the room start spinning again.

Leaves From a Correspondent's Life Note Book

By HAL BOYLE
 MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—(AP)—Harry Y. Thaw, once America's most notorious millionaire, goes to his grave no more than an empty name to the rising generation.
 For 25 years after he shot to death Stanford White in June 25, 1906, over the affections of Evelyn Nesbit—the most celebrated love triangle slaying of the Twentieth Century—Thaw's court battles and playboy escapades made him the most publicized man of wealth in the nation. His life read like a case history from Freud.
 Yet when I mentioned his name to a young taxi driver while en route to the Miami Beach waterfront home where Thaw died, the youth did not recognize his name.
 At his death at 76 Thaw was the picture of a sedate retired gentleman of means—an unbuttoned six-foot one-inch patrician, still handsome with his thick white hair and small

OUT OUR WAY

By J. R. WILLIAMS

moustache. Although he had tossed away $1,500 a night on gay parties, he was a conservative in money matters. He disapproved of the New Deal and considered himself a staunch Republican in politics.
 As we sat in beach chairs on the lawn of the rented 15-room home where Thaw had wintered so quietly the last two years few neighbors knew his identity. His attorney, Sidney Werner, gave this last portrait of the man:
 "He didn't like gambling in any form. He was reticent and didn't express his moods or feelings.
 "His philosophy was to help others who needed it—and with the least possible fanfare. He helped many poor people and sent a number of boys and girls through school. But it upset him if his charities became known."

 "I do not believe he saw Evelyn Nesbit the last 15 or 20 years of his life, although he helped her out financially from time to time."
 "He never spoke of his earlier troubles."
 Although Thaw spent some eight years in insane asylums and took no active interest in business affairs, Werner said he had "a very keen mind."
 He inherited $3,000,000 and large interests in coke producing properties from his father, William Thaw, then rated as America's third wealthiest man—worth some $40,000,000.
 Born with a gold spoon in his mouth, Thaw never let it melt. He spent a million dollars trying to prove he wasn't insane and dropped uncoupled hundreds of thousands more in court fights, expensive escapades, and fruitless ventures as a producer of movies that never reached the screen.
 But he died still high in the millionaire class—well able to be buried in a gold casket if he chose.

Goering's Means of Cheating Allied Hangman Is Revealed

By THOMAS A. REEDY
NUEBERG, Germany.—(AP)—Herman Goering knew something about German plumbing which his captors didn't, and that was how he managed his suicide several hours before he was to be hanged, a reliable source has revealed.

The informant said the former reichsmarshal described his ruse in a letter to Col. B. C. Andrus, the prison commandant.

That letter and two others by Goering are in Allied Control Council files and probably never will be published officially. But the informant gave the following report on what Goering said to Andrus:

The Nazi leader told of having three metal cartridges, each containing a vial of prussic acid. Andrus found one on Goering's person and thought there were no more. But Goering had a second one in his luggage in Mondorf and a third one concealed rectally when he was moved to Nuerberg for his trial by the international military tribunal.

As soon as he was in his cell, Goering went over the cubicle minutely and studied the toilet. How much did the Americans know about German plumbing? That was the principal problem. But he had to risk it.

The marshal knew exactly how it worked. There was the flat china bed, unlike American plumbing, and the four-inch wide outlet in the front.

The water flushed down that aperture, but there it had to back-track, the pipe leading back, however, was not built in a straight line. There was a slight hump in it about three inches from the front.

Goering had to gamble that the hump was high enough so a metal cartridge placed in there, out of sight of course, would be so heavy that the water could not carry it over that hump. Flushing proved that it was.

From that moment on, Goering was cocky, belligerent, sure of himself. He never would hang. And he told his wife Emmy, at a visit one day last August. She said later she did not realize at the time why he was so positive.

He had several bad moments though when special shutdown inspections were held. But never did anyone probe the inner piping of the toilet.

Many times, Goering is reported to have said in his letter he carried the cartridge with him to the courtroom. This he felt he had to do in case his cell was changed abruptly in his absence, which actually happened five times. And each time he was prepared.

He carried the cartridge even in his uniform pocket sometimes, or occasionally rectally and once or twice embedded in the naval cavity.

When Goering was found dead, the metal cartridge lay beside him. It was stained green, the deposit of many weeks of lying in the aper-

His face in death was twisted into a leer.

Texas Today

By JACK RUTLEDGE AP Staff Writer

This is about a Junior College with growing pains. Five years from now, it will be a full-grown four-year college with about 5,000 students. Dust off your crystal ball and take a look and see if we're not right.

Most people visualize a Junior College as something that holds classes at night in the High School Building, or as a stepchild of the educational system carrying on in an abandoned building.

But Lamar College at Beaumont, a two-year Junior College today, is a big, husky thing with $1,500,000 worth of new buildings on its own campus within sight of old Spindle Top. It has 1,800 students, a figure larger than that boasted by some of the State's supposedly "big" institutions.

Men of vision in the Beaumont-Port Arthur-Orange district want to make it the High School of the area. The three towns are pretty jealous of each other and sometimes don't co-operate too well. But they're united on Lamar College. They want a nearby college their sons and daughters can attend.

One of the first steps, already taken, is inviting the State Legislature to Beaumont to look at Lamar College and surrounding territory. They're not inviting just a Senator or two or a committee, but the whole works. They want to fly them down there. Then feed 'em and fete 'em.

The idea behind the college is sound. Leaders want to make it a Technological College. They want to specialize in the chemistry of oil, in refining processes, in synthetics and plastics, and, of course, in agriculture.

Leaders point out the logic of having such a college in such a location: At Orange, DuPont has its greatest nylon silk plant; between Beaumont and Port Arthur there is the world's largest synthetic rubber plant; there are refineries by the dozen; there are oil fields; the area is the Rice Bowl of the South. And students, after studying these things in classes, can get practical training at home, in hometown projects. Further, they can even get jobs after graduation. There is no comparable large college near.

Lamar, which opened in 1923 with 125 students and today has 1,800, bids fair to become one of Texas' top schools. If they were selling stock, we'd buy some.

Bert Solves the Labor Problem

You hear a lot about capital and labor nowadays, as if the two could never get together. But look at Bert Childers—who has 320 acres of producing land, a fair-sized herd of cattle, and two farm hands working for him.

If anybody has a beef—whether it's about wages or hours or equipment—they talk it over at those friendly evening sessions.

I don't say all labor problems are as simple as Bert's. But from where I sit, the basic principle applies to any farm or factory or business: A principle of confidence and mutual respect, of daily talks together in a friendly and congenial atmosphere.

THURSDAY EDITORIAL SUCCESS STORY, BOY TAKES JOB

A day or so ago a Pampa housewife called the editor to say a word in favor of her newsboy. "This boy," she said, naming him, "should be commended for the courteous and efficient way he handles his route out here" (in her section of the city). We thanked her—not necessarily professionally, but because we did appreciate the importance she gave this boy's job.

A long time ago, when the newspaper came the daily medium of communication, and families depended so much upon it for their contact with the outside world as well as with their own community, small boys assumed that part of the newspaper business of delivering to the door the finished product. It was a job especially suited for him. Since then, some of our most successful businessmen cut their professional teeth on a news route.

It is one of those little jobs in which a boy may become endeared in the hearts of a community. He takes to a certain street at a certain time of the day. Suddenly the housewife looks up from her sewing or mending—or, maybe, these days, from the card table—and sees the newsboy as he trudges through all kinds of weather, literally standing on the last frontier of the Atomic Age, as he is, delivering the throbbing, quintessential accounts of the busy times. And she knows it is a certain time of day, and she goes to other duties, like preparing meals. Weather doesn't get too sloppy, or too hot, or too cold for him; because it is his business, and if he cannot do the job, some other boy is willing to work for these dollars.

And, so, he learns the interesting—but exacting—business of competition. He has, in fact, within his job the opportunity to set a pace for himself, one that will mold and refine the pattern of his future life and career.

When the Pampa housewife took time out to call us—she may have had to look up the number, and that can often deter telephoning—she proved to us she was interested in the boy. And it called our attention, also, to the boy-businessman—in his first job.

The Nation's Press THE FORGOTTEN MAN

The forgotten man of the Truman administration, Lewis B. Schwellenbach, who, if you can't place him, is secretary of labor, came out of hiding to tell the senate labor committee that no corrective labor legislation is required. All is going well, said Mr. Schwellenbach. Indeed, he hopes for fewer strikes during 1947.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG news behind the news

By RAY TUCKER Common Ground

WASHINGTON BY RAY TUCKER MESS—Republican leaders on Capitol Hill admit now that they have made a mess of their legislative leadership since their November victory, especially since President Truman, in his messages to Congress, placed all responsibility for recovery, prosperity and the conduct of foreign relations on the G. O. P.

So, on the Senate and the House side, they are fumbling around in an attempt to carry out these pledges. The Democratic opposites—former Speaker Sam Rayburn and former Majority Leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts—are far more able.

LEADERSHIP—The cold fact is that the Republican leadership in Congress, especially on the House side, is somewhat shabby.

CAMPAIGN—So, worried by charges that they have no definite legislative or 1948 program, Republicans will hold a conference of 1948 Presidential candidates and leaders to map the campaign on which they will fight.

BROADCASTS—American diplomats, newspapermen and businessmen in Russia and in Moscow's satellite nations cannot understand why the State Department should spend $5,000,000 annually to try to break through the "iron curtain" with radio broadcasts designed to improve relations between Moscow and Washington.

WHY THE WAGNER LAW IS Collectivism. Very few people realize how the Wagner law absolutely repudiates the American principle of individualism and adopts a principle of collectivism.

THOUGHTS My flesh and my heart faileth; but God is the strength of my heart, and my portion for ever. Psalms 73:26.

To keep up total demand at a level where it is very easy for anyone to find a job is no panacea for our economic ills—Dr. Bertil Ohlin, Swedish MP and economist, speaking in the U.S.

The simple fact that our American-style processes of finance, production, distribution and selling actually produce more goods for more people than does any other set of processes ever devised by man has never been planted deeply in the minds of our people.

'DO NOTHING' By Peter Edson

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Democratic congressmen are passing around the word that Republican majorities in Congress have adopted a "do-nothing" program. This is being cited as one reason why President Truman can afford to take off the month of March to visit Mexico and the Caribbean islands.

1. Cut the budget by from three to six billion dollars and balance it at the new low level. 2. That will provide promised economies and make room for possible tax cuts. They may not be as large as the flat 20 percent originally promised, but they will be something.

Publican Senate at least will start holding both afternoon and night sessions on Mondays and Wednesdays with an afternoon session on Friday, Tuesday and Thursday will be left for committee meetings.

QUICKIES By Ken Reynolds

Writing of a new farm program is being deliberately postponed till next year. It now appears that revision of the reciprocal trade program and the tariff will be put off till next year, though a number of throwback Republicans would like to make speeches about it.

Prescription Laboratory Finds Business on Dependable Service

Helping your doctor restore your health or the health of your loved ones by properly compounding the prescription that your doctor orders, J. H. Patterson, owner and operator of the Prescription Laboratory, (pictured above) is active in safeguarding the health and welfare of this community.
Patterson is well educated and experienced in the pharmaceutical profession, and is therefore well qualified to do the work that his profession requires. A registered pharmacist, Patterson has had 20 years experience in civilian practice and spent three years as a pharmacist in the Navy.
The modern Prescription Laboratory, which is located at 119 West Kingsmill, is a store that is expressly stocked to furnish all sick-room needs. The store was built, the firm was organized, with the idea of serving the needs of persons who are ill. Therefore, the filling of your prescription, the securing of the supplies that you need, to care for your family,

CARTWRIGHT CABINET SHOP

Mann's Malted Milk Bread Routes Cover Panhandle Plains

Each and every time you open a wrapper on a loaf of that delicious Mann's Malted Milk Bread, you are not only preparing to treat yourself to a vitamin packed, energy building food—you are also about to eat some of the finest textured, best tasting bread, that twenty-one years experience in the baking business could develop.
The Mann Bakery, founded in 1926 by J. N. Mann, started with one route. The bakery now has 14 routes operating over the entire Panhandle. The small number of employees Mann employed in the beginning has now increased to 52 persons. And, at the present time Mann hopes to complete one of the most modern and completely equipped plants in Texas by the end of the year.
The success story of the business, speaks for itself. The slogan, "Quality First," has always been stressed by Mann through the years and the quality products produced have paid off.

The Cartwright Cabinet Shop which is located at 2000 Alcock Street, has a complete stock of fine White Pine and many other quality woods available for the construction of all types of cabinets, counters, bars, and every imaginable kind of home and store fixtures.
George Cartwright, owner and operator of the shop, has had 15 years experience in the cabinet making trade. In fact, he learned to work with wood from his father, who constructed violins and many other delicate articles from wood.

Cartwright has been in business here in Pampa for the past 18 months. Prior to that time he was the shop foreman at the wood mill at the Pampa Army Air Base. Assisting Cartwright with his work is James Smith, who is studying the cabinet making trade under the on-the-job training program.
Remember—for the finest work in wood products that money can buy, for a job that is guaranteed to satisfy you, call the Cartwright Cabinet Shop. Where the prices are right, and the quality is the best. The number is 1410.
