Reds Fire On French Plane Near Berlin

BERLIN — (AP) — Two Soviet jet fighters fired on an Air France liner in the Russian zone of Germany today, wounding two German passengers and leaving 89 bullet holes in the plane's fuselage.

The plane landed safely Tempelhof Airbase.

The Air France office in Frankfurt identified the wounded as Mrs. Irmgard Nebel, Frankfurt, in the abdomen, and Walter Kurth, Bad Homburg, wounded in the arm and thigh. They were taken to hospitals.

Allied officials in Bonn at once temporarily cancelled all flights of allied civil aircraft into Berlin.

The U. S. High Commission said an official protest also had been made to the Russians at the Four-Power air traffic control center in Berlin.

Air France said there was a total of 11 passengers on the plane, none of them American.

The aircraft, a four-engine DC-4, was on its regular run from Frankfurt to Berlin through the air corridor established by Four Power agreement.

Air France said the attack occurred about 90 miles southwest of Berlin, over the village of Koennern, near Eisleben in the Russian Zone. The Russians maintain a jet fighter base in that area and hold daily training flights along the Elbe valley.

The Russian air safety center scheduled this morning listed training flights from the jet base, at Koethen, from 7 a. m. to 5 p. m. the weather was bright and sunny.

Soviet planes have frequently sallied into the 20-mile wide air corridors reserved for Berlin-West Germany flights but have not been regarded lately as a nuisance.

Shortly before the 1948-49 blockade of Berlin, Russian fighters were more daring and a series of "buzzing" incidents was climaxed by a Yak fighter ramming into a British liner, killing 11 occupants.

Technicality Faces City On Bridge Work

An oversight by one contractor in bridge construction bidding before the city commission this morning raised a legal technicality that could cost the city time in building the Yeager air Kentucky bridges or $1750 to award a contract.

W. R. Colville, Amarillo contractor, was low bidder on construction of the two bridges and pedestrian walkway through the Duncan bridge at $37,628.83. But when his bid was opened the required bid bond or cashier's check was missing.

A check with the Panhandle Insurance agency disclosed Colville had authorized writing the bond yesterday afternoon and it had been typed up about 8:25 a. m. today. The bond was inadvertently left out of the sealed envelope when it was handed to the commission shortly before 10 a. m.

A telephone call to Colville's Pampa headquarters brought the bond in the commission room around 10:25 a. m.

The question arose over whether it would be legal for the commission to waive the oversight, accept the bid and award the contract. If such a waiver would be illegal, the commission would have to either readvertise for bids or accept the next lowest bid of the Enix Construction Co. at $39,382.18—which would run approximately $1750 higher.

The commission instructed City Atty. Bob Gordon to search the law and make his recommendations this afternoon on whether the bid can be accepted.

The only other bidder was Cooper and Woodruff, Amarillo, with a bid of $42,065.84. Another bidder, Ernest Lloyd of Fort Worth, was about 30 minutes late and could not be accepted.

Earlier the commission awarded a contract to the Lively Electric Co., Borger, to extend present power lines from the water field to the new well south of town at a cost of $1800. The only other bid entered was from Electric Supply Co., Pampa, at a cost of $2230. A contract for supplying police summer uniforms was awarded the J. C. Penney Co. The Penney store agreed to sell policemen shirts at $3.25; trousers at $1.11; and caps at $4.50.

Pampa policemen pay 50 percent of the cost of their uniforms; the city pays the remainder.

GOPs, Demos Differ In Selecting Delegates

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third in a series of articles dealing with party politics and holding of presidential conventions. Today's installment is devoted strictly to doings on the Republican side of the political fence insofar as Gray county is concerned.)

By HENRY S. GORDON

Although Republicans hold party conventions on the same day and in the same manner as Democrats, they differ in two respects — naming of delegates to county and state conventions.

Republicans name their precinct delegates to county conventions on the same basis as do Democrats (number of votes cast for the Republican gubernatorial candidate in the last general election) with one exception. A precinct having less than a major fraction of 25 votes is allowed a minimum of one delegate to the county convention.

So when Gray county Republicans finish their precinct convention business Saturday afternoon a total of 28 delegates to the county convention will have been selected.

It is the method used by the county convention in selection of delegates to the state convention, where the parties differ.

One for 300

Republicans name one delegate to the state convention for every 300 (or major fraction of 300) votes cast for the Republican nominee for president in the last presidential election.

Thus the 1948 votes cast for Thomas E. Dewey in Gray county in 1948 entitle local Republicans to send five delegates to Mineral Wells on May 27.

If the Republicans operated under the rules which govern the Democrats, and name their delegates to the state convention on the basis of the 1950 gubernatorial vote, Gray county would be limited to two delegates.

This difference came about through legislative action and is known as the Dickler bill. It has state Republicans in almost as much disagreement as does the Taft-Eisenhower tussle.

Dickler Bill

The Dickler bill was passed over the protest of a vast majority of the Republican State committee, largely at the behest of J. Jack Porter, Houston oil man and Eisenhower booster in Texas.

"Republican state leaders," Orvil Bullington, state chairman, said recently in a letter to this writer, "feel that the same laws should apply to Democrats and Republicans alike."

Porter followers take the stand that the number of state convention delegates should go to the counties where the most work has been done. And, it is on that idea that the present law has been based.

In Saturday's precinct conventions Box 10, the court house, will name five delegates to the county convention. Boxes 2 and 9 Baker School and Woodrow Wilson School will each elect three; Boxes 12 and 14 — I.O.O.F.

Junior High Choruses To Present Music Festival

Pampa Jr. High school's choruses will present a free spring festival of music at 8 p. m. Thursday in the Jr. High auditorium.

Ensemble groups as well as the seventh, eighth, and ninth grade choruses will perform.

The first two numbers will be sung by all three choruses in mass, beginning with the Children's Prayer from the operetta "Hansel and Gretel." Next will be an American folk song, "Sweet Betsy from Pike."

Seventh Grade

The seventh grade boys' sextet, accompanied by Malcolm Brown, will sing the Negro spiritual, "Lord, I want to Be a Christian."

The seventh grade girls' sextet will sing "Jeanie with the Light Brown Hair," by Stephen Foster. The seventh grade chorus, accompanied by Cynthia Duncan and Marilyn Wells, will sing four numbers, Mozart's "Ave Verum," or "Jesus, Son of God," "Hear Thou Our Prayer, O Lord," arranged by Peter Tkach, and two Indian songs, "Sender of Dreams" and "Hill Song."

The eighth grade boys' ensemble will sing "Cool Water," by Nolan, and the eighth grade girls' sextet will sing "Star Dust." The

Judge Rules Against Truman In Steel Case

Grants Temporary Court Injunction

WASHINGTON — (AP) — U. S. District Judge David A. Pine today ruled the government's seizure of the steel industry was illegal.

He granted five major companies a temporary injunction ordering "maintenance of the status quo as on the date of the wrongful acts complained of."

In effect this bars the government from going ahead and giving the CIO steelworkers the pay raises recommended by the wage stabilization board.

Pine said the seized steel companies would not be able to recover possible damages from the seizure.

"The damages are irreparable," he declared.

He said that President Truman's seizure was "unauthorized by law."

And the judge specifically turned down contentions by the government's lawyer as to the extent of the President's executive power.

The government contended a steel strike threatened an emergency and that the President had "inherent" powers to seize the mills and prevent one.

Preacher Berates American Living At Jaycee Speech

Americans are living like the hounds of hell instead of the sons of God, Rev. Carl Bates of the Amarillo First Baptist church said today at the Junior Chamber of Commerce luncheon.

He accused the citizenry of losing its sense of values and of being sick with materialism.

"Something is wrong with the American way of life," the preacher declared.

Commenting on the political situation, he said the national government is a reflection of the American people.

Providing entertainment for the luncheon were Mrs. Helen Blocker Payne, a soloist, and Miss Angela Duncan, her accompanist.

Special guests at the meeting were wives of the members.

Hollis Rites Planned For Accident Victim

Funeral services for Harry C. Jones, 26, of Pampa, will be held Wednesday in Hollis, Okla., at the Sandy Baptist church. Burial will be in the O. M. cemetery near Hollis.

Mr. Jones died Monday from injuries he received in an accident Saturday night.

Born Feb. 22, 1926, in Emporia, Kan., he came to Pampa from Hollis several weeks ago.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Bertha Jones, Hollis; four sisters, Mrs. C. L. Wedding, Pampa; Mrs. Twyla Davis, Denver; Mrs. J. T. Aufleger, Claude; and Mrs. T. C. Ragan, Emu, N. M., and three brothers, Orville and Harold, of Hollis, and Wayne, Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

Lefors Man Dies Of Wreck Injuries

Billy Joe Day, 24, who lived with his parents 13 miles east of Lefors, died about 11 p. m. last night at his home. He was pronounced dead on arrival in Pampa.

Day suffered injuries Sunday in an automobile wreck near Clarendon. He had been in the Groom hospital but was released Sunday evening.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Day, Lefors; one son, Charles Earl; three sisters, Mrs. T. F. Snow, Pampa, Mrs. Donley Hall, San Antonio and Mrs. Pete Kumble, McPherson, Kans. One half-brother, Myron Day, Chicago and a grandmother, Mrs. J. A. Cook, Tulsa.

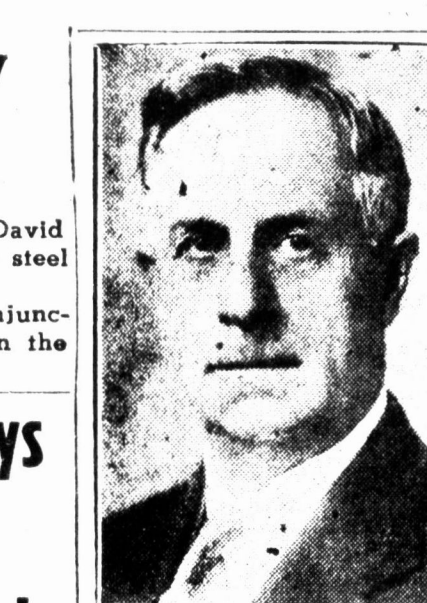

Day graduated from Lefors High school in 1945 and served 18 months in the army. He was employed for the Champlain Oil Company.

Cancer March To End Wednesday

Pampa's Postman's March for Cancer will end Wednesday. The drive, one of a series of Gray county cancer fund-raising events, has brought in $150.

Contributions may be placed in an envelope, stamped and addressed to the Postman's March for Cancer, Pampa. Your postman will pick it up.

"Not only have we raised needed money for research and cancer victims, but we have also made our community more cancer-conscious," said Dr. Emily Hicks,

Judge Ewing Dies Monday

Judge William Rees Ewing, judge of the 31st district here for 47 years, died Monday in Highland General hospital.

He was the first court reporter of the 31st district in 1902 and was district attorney from 1908 to 1916. He served as district judge from 1917 to 1947.

Judge Ewing was born on Sept. 30, 1874, at Carrollton, Mo. He moved to Canadian in 1903 from Roswell, N. M. He moved to Higgins in 1902 and to Miami in 1905. He lived in Pampa since 1932. He made his home at 423 N. Somerville.

He was a member of the Methodist church, the Pampa Masonic Lodge, No. 966, and the Texas and Gray county bar associations.

Survivors are his widow, Mrs. Lulu Ewing, one daughter, Mrs. William A. Wolff, of Guam; one son, Bob, of Pampa, one brother, Frank of Higgins; two sisters, Mrs. A. M. Winslett, of Higgins; Mrs. Roy W. Burnett, of El Cerrita, Calif., and two grandchildren.

Funeral services for Judge Ewing will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday at the First Methodist church.

The country courthouse will be closed during the funeral in honor of the judge.

Former Local Woman Dies In Amarillo

Mrs. Elizabeth Stevens, the former Elizabeth Linn, died at 2:35 a. m. today in St. Anthony's hospital in Amarillo. She was born Feb. 9, 1894 in Clarksburg, W. Va. She lived in Pampa from 1948-1951.

Funeral services are pending. Duenkel-Carmichael is handling arrangements.

Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. Lee Jones; one sister, Mrs. Orpha Stutler; two brothers, A. E. (Buck) and Glenn Harbert, all of Borger; 10 grandchildren, and one great-grandchild.

Baptist Revival Now In Progress

Dr. C. Wade Freeman, secretary of the department of evangelism for the Baptist general convention of Texas, spoke Monday night to the revival audience of the First Baptist church on "Is There a Hell?"

The revival is continuing all week in the church. Eleven additions to the church were made Sunday.

Rev. E. Douglas Carver said accommodations are being made to handle crowds. Nurseries will be provided for all services.

Tony Dick Dies Monday

Tony Dick, a retired oil field driller, died Monday night in a local hospital. He moved here five weeks ago from Datedand, Ariz.

He was born March 25, 1886, in Tipton, Mo. He lived in Skellytown from 1928 to 1932.

He is survived by two sons, George and Aubrey J., of Pampa; one grandchild, two brothers, Frank and Bill, of Tipton and two sisters, Mrs. Joie Werner, Mrs. Anna Dubon, both of Kansas City, Mo.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday in the Duenkel-Carmichael funeral home, with the Rev. H. H. Tyler, of the First Christian church, officiating.

School Board Plans Tax-Rate Election

"We cannot support our schools on our present tax rate," School Board President Raeburn Thompson said Monday night at a combination citizens-school board meeting.

Almost unanimously the 50 citizens approved of school board plans to hold a tax rate election before school adjourns for the summer and to build a school in the southwest part of the city.

The school board will appoint crowded classrooms afford for a citizen committee to present best conditions for children to make definite plans for the school.

Herman Whitley, vice-president election and a possible bond issue of the board, said, "It's our duty to make plans for children." He

Workers Here May Join Oil Strike

Eight hundred to 1000 Pampa members of the Oil Workers International union prepared to strike Wednesday as part of the nation-wide drive for acceptable contracts between union and management.

Expected to be affected by the strike locally are the plants of Cities Service, Stollery, Sinclair, Cabot Carbon and Columbian Carbon, union sources said.

Last day collective bargaining settlement presidential session of divulging the list, "at Taft-Hartley injunction could last not for a few days until after the walkout occurs."

The last strike here in 1945 "was not going to slip up was stepped short when Pampa's own company," he said, "Each went Roosevelt seized the oil one that is struck will be given ample notice for a safe, orderly shut-down." Meanwhile, along the Texas (See WORKERS Page 2)

Saving Bond Program Is Revamped

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Treasury today revamped its entire multi-billion-dollar savings bond program, raising interest rates all along the line.

Some of the changes will be discontinued effective Thursday. But three new types of bonds will be offered.

The familiar series "E" defense bonds — the type held by most individuals — will be continued. But interest rates for the full period of the bond will be raised from 2.9 percent to 3 percent.

And buyers will get a much bigger increase in interest rates over the first few years they hold the bond.

The changes will not affect "E" bonds already sold unless the bondholder wants to keep his bond after it matures. In that case, he will get the new interest rate of 3 percent.

Secretary of the Treasury Snyder said the many changes are designed to improve the bond program "in keeping with the times."

Apparently a reference to increased commercial interest rates.

Blind Vet Saves Woman Friend

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Anthony Valentino, 35, a blind World War II vet, made what he called "the luckiest visit" of his life yesterday.

He stopped to chat with his friend, Miss Lucy Mahchett, 30, clerk in a neighboring cleaning shop. He heard a weak call for help and recognized the voice.

Smelling gas Valentino groped his way around until he found the motionless body of his friend. He dragged her to the street.

Clark's UN Appointment Draws Congressional Fire

PT 234 CLARK'S UN APPT. WASHINGTON — (AP) — Gen. Matthew Ridgway's appointment to succeed Gen. Dwight Eisenhower as commander of the United Nations Command in Korea drew a storm of criticism in Congress. The top-level reassignment of Ridgway from Far East Commander to head of allied forces in Europe, and Clark from Chief of Army Field Forces to Far East Commander, were viewed by some officials as "a field commander, not a field commander."

Results of a decision by President Truman to side with Gen. Omar Bradley instead of Eisenhower in choosing the new commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) forces. Clark's crossing of the Rapido river during the Italian campaign has been under previous Congressional fire. Bitter criticism of the maneuver was voiced by members of the Texas National Guard.

Jap Peace Pact Attacked By Reds

MOSCOW — (AP) — Pravda reported today that the Japanese people are completely indifferent to their new peace treaty, which Russia refused to sign. All Soviet papers briefly reported the treaty had come into effect and all indicated they felt the pact would result in no change in the occupation regime in Japan. Pravda, the Communist party organ, said Japan's "Bourgeois press raised a fanfare for the occasion" but "all this fanfare is not having any influence on the Japanese people, who are manifesting full indifference on the entrance into force of the separate treaty which factually changes nothing in the situation in Japan, which remains under the hated American occupation."

Pravda Assails Red Cross As 'Incompetent'

MOSCOW — (AP) — Pravda published a vitriolic, half-page blast today at the International Red Cross, which the United States had proposed should investigate Communist charges that U. S. troops are waging germ warfare in Korea. The Communist newspaper termed the Red Cross an "obedient weapon in the hands of the State Department" and said the U. S. proposal for the inquiry was an "attempt to cover up the crimes of the American interventionists in Korea and China."

Methodists Battle Over Church Structure Change

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — The battle over a plan for reorganizing Methodist church administration sharpened today as the plan's leading opponent served notice he will not agree to any change in church structure. Such changes are recommended in a survey commission report which would streamline church administration. The report is before a committee set up by the Methodist General Conference to try to iron out differences between supporters and opponents. One recommendation — that a coordinating council be created to head church organization — was adopted by the conference yesterday. However, the council will not have the broad powers envisaged for it by the report. The opposition leader, Charles C. Parlin of Englewood, N. J., told reporters creation of the council will not change church structure since it will replace the present quadrennial committee. Parlin said what he objects to is the report's proposal that four departments be created with control over all church boards. He said he would insist that the boards be left as they are — responsible only to the general conference. "If we feel we can't come to an agreement in committee," the New Jersey delegate declared, "this will have to come back to the floor."

Panhandle Adds To City Limits

The city limits of Pampa will be swelled this week by seven and two-thirds blocks following action by the city council last week. The council passed a resolution bringing in the area lying between Oak and Maple last week. Two publications of notice to property owners will make the addition official. The petition to draw the additional blocks into the city was circulated several weeks ago by C. A. Caldwell and others interested in the move. Parts of the Garrettson and Ellic additions are the ones to be affected by the annexation according to Panhandle newsmen.

Hughes To Build 20 New Homes In Panhandle

Permits to construct 20 homes in Panhandle costing a total of $154,500 were taken out last week by R. G. "Dick" Hughes, Pampa builder. Hughes recently was issued another block of 20 permits for home construction totaling $153,500 in Panhandle. A large number of the foundations have already been laid for the houses that will be built in eight different sections of the city. Sewer lines are already being laid through the new residential areas being developed by the Pampa builder. Sinclair Refining Company and Union Representatives met yesterday in Houston to iron out details for an orderly shut down. Other plants receiving notice included Crown Central Petroleum, Houston; Pan American Refining Corp., Texas City; P. U. P. Oil Company and Atlantic Refining Company, Port Arthur. Russell E. Brown, council for the Independent Petroleum Association of America, which is holding its national convention in Columbus, Ohio, said the nation's independent oil producers will face a serious production slowdown if oil workers go out as scheduled. The association represents 40,000 independent oil producers who drill about 75 percent of the nation's wildcat wells. In 1938 Rhine River cargo to Rotterdam, Holland, totalled 32 million tons.

Impeachment Proceedings Could Figure In Election

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON — (AP) — When President Truman threw fuel on the political fire by seizing the steel industry, the heat was so intense you could have predicted there'd be cries for his impeachment.

Sen. Taft suggested it pretty promptly. But impeachment must start in the House, not in the Senate. So last week two House Republicans—Hale of Maine and Bender of Ohio—proposed it.

That's as far as the suggestion is expected to get. Besides, it's the kind of move which in an election year might backfire on the Republicans by creating sympathy for the President.

With this in mind, some Republicans made the comment: "We don't want to make a martyr of the President."

Tried in 1868
Anyway, impeachment is easier said than done. The only time Congress tried it on a President—Andrew Johnson, in 1868—the trial lasted three months. Johnson escaped and lived out the rest of his term peacefully.

The Constitution says the "President, vice president, and all civil officers of the United States shall be removed from office on impeachment for and conviction of treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors. . . ."

This is the way it goes. The proposal is made in the House. If the House approves by a simple majority vote—the Senate is notified; then the House appoints a committee of managers (prosecutors) to present the case.

The Senate sits as a jury to hear the evidence. When a president is on trial—because the vice president might have an interest in the outcome—the Chief Justice of the U.S. presides.

But since such a trial drags on, it's hard to keep the Senators still. They get up, wander around, duck in and out, thus missing a lot of the testimony.

Having missed testimony, some of them are reluctant to vote when it comes time for the Senate to decide guilty or not guilty. And the President is acquitted unless two-thirds of the Senators vote against him.

Ex-Confederates
Andrew Johnson, a Democrat who was elected vice president on Lincoln's Republican ticket in 1864, succeeded to the Presidency when Lincoln was assassinated the following year.

Johnson shared Lincoln's moderate views on reconstructing the South after the war. But he had to deal with a Republican Congress which wanted much harsher treatment for the ex-confederates.

He became so troublesome to the Republicans that in 1867 they passed the tenure of office act. This was to prohibit him from firing—unless the Senate approved—any of the people the President had appointed to government jobs.

He wanted to fire his secretary of war, Edwin M. Stanton, who had been playing cozy with Johnson's enemies. Besides, Johnson thought it would be a good way to test the tenure of office act.

He thought he'd fire Stanton and the case would go to the Supreme Court for a decision on whether the tenure of office was an encroachment on presidential authority and therefore unconstitutional. So he bounced his secretary of war.

But the House Republicans crossed him up by starting impeachment proceedings against him. After his acquittal, Congress repealed the tenure of office act.

Altogether impeachment proceedings have been started in Congress against 12 people. Besides Johnson, they were a Senator, a secretary of war, and nine judges. Most were acquitted.

Texans Have Big Share In Tax Kitty

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Texans paid a whopping $1,840,874,071 in to the government's tax kitty last year, the Internal Revenue Bureau announced.

The figure showed a sizeable increase over the $1,300,828,603 Texans shelled out for 1950, the year previous.

The Bureau's report indicated the government collected more taxes last year than ever before—about $382 for each man, woman and child in the nation.

The grand total 1951 collections amounted to $36,093,339,425.69.

That was a 40 per cent increase over 1950 and 28 per cent more than the previous record of almost 44 billions collected in 1945, the year World War II ended.

Individual income and social security taxes for 1951 totalled some 30 billion dollars, compared with 21 billions in 1950. Corporation income and excess profits taxes jumped to $16,564,712,955 last year. Various other taxes took about 10 billion more.

Lahej Sultan Flees; Troops Take Over

LONDON — (AP) — Britain announced this week that her troops have occupied the tiny Arabian territory of Lahej, between British Aden and Yemen, after Lahej's one-eyed Sultan fled to Yemen.

The British said the recent deaths of two of the Sultan's cousins — whom he had exiled — caused uneasy stirrings among the population. News reports added that the ruler also had been having trouble over the 42 wives he has acquired in a marrying marathon which started a year ago.

A quick protest from the Yemeni legation here said that independent kingdom on the Arabian peninsula's southwest coast viewed the British move with "complete surprise and astonishment" and charged it was not in accord with existing treaties.

Shipping Route
Lahej is part of the Aden protectorate which surrounds the British colony at Aden, an important Arabian peninsula bunkering port on the shipping route to the Far East. Britain controls the protectorate through the native Sultans.

The British colonial office gave this version of events in Lahej: The Sultan lost an eye in an assassination attempt in 1932 and has feared plotters ever since. A year ago he banished his brother and a batch of his cousins, contending they were seeking his downfall. Two of the cousins, Emir Hassan Ali and Emir Ahmed Mehdi, slipped back into Lahej and were found dead five days ago.

The deaths of the Emirs caused a stir among the population. Organized readings of the Koran, the Mohammedan scriptures, were reported being held in defiance of the ruler.

Heads Other Way
The British Governor of Aden, Tom Hickinbotham, who also administers the protectorate, then suggested an investigation and invited the Sultan to Aden. Instead he headed the other way, to Yemen. The British troops moved in.

News reports said there also had been trouble among the Sultan's Palace Guard. They said some of the 42 brides he has taken unto himself had been girl friends of some of the troops.

Major Leagues Open New Stands Today As St. Louis Browns Face NY Yankees

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The critical period is at hand today for major league rookies as eastern and western teams clash for the first time in the infant 1952 season.

Within the next fortnight the strategists must decide on the players they will retain for the long haul.

The ax will fall from now until May 15, the final day for trimming the rosters to the required 25 players.

The battle for survival among the greenhorns, and the early season upstarts—the St. Louis Browns, Boston Red Sox, Cincinnati Reds and Chicago Cubs—will command the fans' attention during the next 10 days.

American League teams invade the east, leading the rain, which has kept the clubs on the Atlantic seaboard in drydock for virtually a week, will subside. Meanwhile, the National League's eastern teams gladly left their water-logged parks for the west.

Browns Face Yankees

Manager Rogers Hornsby's St. Louis Browns, boasting a 7-3 record open in Yankee Stadium today, Lefty Bob Cain (2-0) has been selected to pitch against the Yanks' Vic Raschi (2-0).

Boston's Red Sox enter the resurgent Detroit Tigers, Cleveland's highly-regarded Indians invade Philadelphia, and the Chicago White Sox, last year's spring sensations, take on the Senators in Washington.

Boston (9-2) will be seeking to strengthen its hold on first place, while the Browns will be early to prove that their sensational early season spurt was no flash-in-the-pan.

In the National League, Brooklyn's pace-setting Dodgers clash with the Cardinals in a night game at St. Louis while New York is at Cincinnati, Philadelphia at Chicago and Boston at Pittsburgh.

The Dodgers, idle for a week, won 30 games and lost only 14 in the west last year. Brooklyn found the Cards easy pickings, winning 18 out of 22 games for the season.

Curt Simmons, returned from Army service, is expected to make his first start since 1950 for the Phils in the Cub series. The fledgling Pirates, moored in last place, will attempt to avert a nine game losing streak against the Braves.

In the only game played yesterday, the Cubs tied Cincinnati for second place by shading the Cards, 4-3, under the lights at St. Louis. Hankauer drove in all of Chicago's runs, two on a first-inning homer. Harry Brecheen, former Cub tormentor, was the loser.

The only scheduled game in the American League, between New York and Washington, was rained out.

Derby Trial Field To Set Up Favorites For Saturday

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The giant and the midjet of the 78th Kentucky Derby, both financially and physically, meet for the first time in the mile for the $100,000 added Derby Trial today at Churchill Downs.

Hill Gail, pride of Mrs. Warren Wright's fabulous Calumet Farm in the blue grass of Kentucky, is the giant. He is not only the largest Derby hopeful at well over 16 hands, but is the 6 to 5 favorite to measure 11 other three-year olds in the Trial and establish himself as the public's choice in Saturday's $100,000 mile and done-quarter run around the Downs' flower-bordered racing strip.

One of the 11 is Gift Silver, a mile of a horse owned by Odie Newell, at Ottumwa, Iowa, railroad engineer.

Unlike Hill Gail, this little product of an Iowa equine romance never has heard the roar of a crowd such as will greet today's winner and multiply many times by the crowd of 100,000 expected to jam the Downs on Saturday.

The Calumet cannonball, winner of the Santa Anita Derby, will be ridden today and on Saturday by Eddie Arcaro, the nation's top stake rider and winner of four derbies. Willie Perez, a Louisville high school student with practically no racing experience, is to pilot Gift Silver today.

Others Running

By no means do not believe that all of the interest in the Derby prep centers in Hill Gail and Gift Silver.

There is, for instance, Alfred Gowen, a horse owned by Odie Newell, at Ottumwa, Iowa, railroad engineer.

Indict Spivey On Perjury Charge

NEW YORK (AP)—The University of Kentucky, famed for its championship basketball teams, filed the full brunt today of game-fixing reverberations rocking the college sport.

One of the university's all-America stars, seven-foot Bill Spivey, faced arrest on a first-degree perjury charge despite his repeated protests of innocence. Conviction carries a maximum penalty of five years' imprisonment or $5,000 fine, or both.

Three other blue grass greats—Alex Groza, Ralph Beard and tening in general sessions court after pleading guilty to charges of conspiring with gamblers to fix a National Invitation Tournament game in 1948.

Melton Hurls Cats To Win Over S A

By CHARLEY ESKEW
Associated Press Sports Writer

Oklahoma City, the Texas League's cellar club, rose up and smacked Beaumont out of its title for the league lead last night with Bob Rayner sparking the Indians' win on a two-hit pitching job.

Elsewhere in the loop, three-hit and five-hit hurling jobs were registered. But even those hurlers had it rough as batters made the loop forget its "pitchers' league" designation for a night.

The lowly Indians backed Rayner with nine hits to club Beaumont and the Roughnecks netting two runs on a walk, a triple and an error, then their other run off the Stinger Rayner on Joe Sabatella's double.

San Antonio's two hurlers, Ryne Duren and Bill Black, gave up five hits but Port Worth had little trouble winning from the Mission, 6-2. Today's change of sites brings first place Fort Worth into Beaumont with the lead hinging on the four games ahead of them.

Tatum Homers

Oklahoma City overcame a 2-0 deficit in tumbling Beaumont when Frank Keller's triple got it in the fourth and Lou Parrotto's double produced two more in the fifth. Manager Tommy Tatum homered for the Indians.

Don Mossi started the five-hit for Dallas, but after he walked six and Houston knotted the count 1-1 in the fourth, he was pulled.

Joe Kotrany relieved and blanked Houston the rest of the way for the win. Joe Macko wrapped up the game for the Eagles with a grand slam homer in the fifth inning.

Port Worth didn't need many hits when San Antonio's Duren got started. Hit three three pitched, hit two batsmen and walked five, giving up six runs to the cats. Jim Melton won his fourth game.

Shreveport outthit Tulsa 11-1 in its loss. But Oiler batsmen Jack Weisenburger and Fletcher Robb hit for the circuit to make the big difference. Tulsa snuffed a six-inning spree by Shreveport in the sixth inning with the league's first triple play this year—Alex Grammas to Earl York.

Oyama Back In Ring Tomorrow

Sesue Oyama, a fellow whom many Pampa wrestling fans think should be wearing the Southwestern states junior heavyweight championship belt now being won by Tony Morelli, will face awful Alex Kasaboski in the main event on tomorrow night's wrestling card at the Southern Club.

Last week Oyama tangled with Morelli in a title match, and apparently had it won when Morelli was counted out after being put to sleep by Oyama. But the referee's notice that Morelli had one leg out of the ring and changed his verdict, forcing the big Jap to awaken the sleeping champion and continue the match. Morelli went on to take the win over the hot protests of the fans.

In a semi-final match George Lopez, a Mexican boy with colorful kilted Scottie McFarlin in a 45-minute or two out of three fall fracas. A 20-minute, one fall preliminary will see Ray Duran, husky Mexican City grappler, go against Badman Benny Trudel.

This promises to be a real seat to both boys being of the type that have no use for ring rules.

Ted Williams Day Set Tomorrow

BOSTON (AP)—Temperamental Ted Williams and Boston's rabid Red Sox rooters have scrapped often in the past, but tomorrow is Ted's day and the fans plan a rousing and sentimental send-off for the Marine Corps-bound slugger.

The lanky home-run belter who starts a duty tour of at least 17 months as a flying Marine captain Friday in Willow Grove, Pa., didn't want any big observation for his farewell but the movement just mushroomed.

He hasn't seen much 1952 action, having suffered a pulled tendon in his left leg while sliding in the season's opener in Washington. But he's seen service as a pinch-hitter and has been accorded a great reception by the fans.

Williams probably will be playing his final game for the Red Sox tomorrow. He'll be 34 next Oct. 30 and will miss both the seasons, making him an old man by baseball standards in 1954. He's said a comeback then might be too tough to attempt.

Brown To Report

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Robert (Bobby) Brown, New York Yankee third baseman, was scheduled to report to the first Army medical offices today to receive a physical examination prior to receiving a commission as a first lieutenant in the Army Medical Corps.

Pampan Ring Winner

Pete Kilpatrick, Pampa student attending Texas A&M at College Station, last week won the college 167-pound boxing championship in the all-college tournament.

Pete is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer C. Kilpatrick, 1005 Fisher.

Lou Gehrig, the Yankee immortal, was paid a salary of $6,600 in 1926, his first season with the club.

Pitcher Vic Raschi of the Yankees was assigned Joe DiMaggio's old locker at the St. Petersburg spring training quarters.

Abilene Takes League Lead; Rain Halts Three Contests

Sports Shot

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

DALLAS (AP)—If Midwest University of Wichita Falls should win its suit against the Texas Intercollegiate League and force the league to permit the Oil Bowl football game it would not necessarily mean that the league's power to enforce its rules would be in jeopardy.

This particular case involves a contract made before the league membership voted to ban all-sport games which use public school facilities.

Midwestern could win its suit and occasion no surprise.

The university has a contract with six years to run it was made four years ago calling for it to put on six football games at the high school stadium each year. The university doesn't have a stadium and leases the high school field for its home games. It also gives over the field for the Oil Bowl football game, in which high school stars of Oklahoma and Texas play. This is one of the six games Midwestern schedules for the field each year.

Midwestern says the Oil Bowl football game is good for it because through that means it attracts students and athletes. The game also contributes to charitable enterprises.

The university seeks to join the Intercollegiate League from suspending Wichita Falls High school from the league in the event it should grant Midwestern use of the field for staging the Oil Bowl game. Midwestern says either that or the league and school should be made liable for $17,000 damages per year for six years.

Apparently there is no danger of any other party bringing a similar suit against the League since nobody else has a contract like that.

Not First Case

It isn't the first time for the Intercollegiate League to be thrown into court. Other suits the League has won or they have died in court.

Back in the early days of the football game, Cisco halted the League before the bar after it had suspended that school for using a player conspired ineligibly. The lower courts ruled for Cisco but the higher courts for the League.

In 1937 Port Arthur took a case to the supreme court. It was filed after the district committee ruled Port Arthur could use boys who were in the twelfth grade. Few schools had 12 grade then and the opposition said it wasn't fair for Port Arthur to get to use older boys. This case became moot, however, by the time it got to the supreme court—the season was over, the next year the League passed an 18-year age rule which lowered the limit by a year. This took care of all objections.

Watch with Interest

The trouble over the Oil Bowl Game arose after the membership of the Intercollegiate League voted in a rule forbidding all-star games where facilities of the schools were used. The League did, however, make an exception in the case of the all-star game put on at the Texas Coaching School, deciding it was for demonstration purposes and that its profits went into the betterment of the coaching profession.

The League, in banning the all-star games, did not strike specifically at the Oil Bowl, which is put on for the benefit of crippled children's fund in Texas and Oklahoma. However, it felt it couldn't make a rule allowing one all-star enterprise and barring others. Thus the rule also applied to Wichita Falls.

The case comes up next Monday. It will be watched with great interest by all school officials. Suppose there is a school under suspension, forbidding it to play a schedule next fall and that school has a contract for those games?

Baldwin Named To Face Albuquerque

By the Associated Press

Abilene moved into sole possession of second place in the West Texas-New Mexico Baseball League last night on a 4-3 victory over Borger plus an assist from the weatherman.

Abilene at Lubbock, Clovis, Pampa and Amarillo at Pampa were all postponed because of rain.

Abilene at Lubbock and Abilene had been tied for second, a game behind league-leading Clovis. Last night's victory left Abilene a half-game out of first.

The victory was achieved by a combination of long distance clutching by Glen Selbo and Weldon Day plus steady fielding. Outhit 10-6, the defending Champion Blue Sox came through with two homers.

They slammed one with a mate aboard in the third to tie the score and also had a single. Day led off the Abilene seventh with a round-tripper that proved to be the winning run. He also had a single.

After that, Pitcher Fred Schmidt retired three visitors in order to gain his second win as many starts. The loss was charged to Ed Flanagan, nicked for the six Abilene blows.

The teams switch around tonight with Pampa going to Abilene to open the season there, Lubbock to open the campaign at Clovis, Lamesa to Borger and Abilene to Amarillo.

Borger..... 200 001 000—3 10 2

Home runs—Abilene: Selbo, Day.

The Oilers first rainout of the 1952 season came at a most useful time last night, as it found them trailing the Amarillo Gold Sox, 3-0, in the second inning. The washed-out contest will be played over at a later date.

Tonight the Oilers open their first road trip of the year, battling the always-tough Albuquerque Dukes at Tingley Field in Albuquerque. Manager Jake Phillips has selected righthander Clyde Baldwin, who has looked very impressive this spring, as his mound choice. The likely starter for the Dukes is Jess Priest, the young righthander who had such a brilliant record last year.

Last night the Oilers found themselves behind in a hurry. Three first-inning errors cost them one run and then Melv Connors greeted starter Max Moberg with a home run to start the second. One more run halted the contest because of the high winds and blowing dust which eventually turned into game-halting rain.

The Oilers had picked up a pair of hits in the first, stigabed by Deck Woldt and Stan Bartkowski, but couldn't turn them into a run.

Today the league has its second round of openers. League President Ray Winkler, who witnessed last night's contest, will see three of the openers. He will take in the afternoon opener at Clovis, and then see parts of both the Amarillo and Borger opening games.

Gold Sox Buy Les Mulcahy Back

AMARILLO (Special)—The Amarillo Gold Sox announced this morning the purchase of veteran catcher Les Mulcahy from the Denver Bears of the Class A Western Association.

Mulcahy, a former Gold Sox manager and player and also a former Amarillo regular first baseman, spent all of last year with the Amarillo club, hitting .333 and pounding out 35 home runs. He was sold to Denver during the winter.

The purchase price was unannounced. Mulcahy was expected to report to the club in time to be in the lineup for tonight's home opener.

Longhorns Due To Sew Up Golf

By the Associated Press

Texas already has the tennis team championship and probably will sew up the golf title today in the Southwest Conference.

The Longhorns yesterday beat Southern Methodist 5-1 to clinch the tennis crown, finishing up with 27 points to three for the opposition.

Texas also beat Rice 4-2 to 2-1-2 in golf and virtually clinched the title. The Longhorns have 25 points to five for the opposition.

Texas A&M has 14-2 to 9-1-2 and Southern Methodist 19 to 11. Southern Methodist plays Arkansas at Dallas and A&M engages Baylor at Waco today. If SMU drops one point it will lose a chance of even tying for the championship. If A&M doesn't win at least a 1-2 point, it will be out of the running.

Blue Sox Sell Fenelon, Calahan

ABILENE (AP)—Manager Hack Miller of the Abilene Blue Sox announced last night that Ed Fenelon, regular first baseman for the Hose last season, has been sold outright to the Roswell club of the Longhorn League and Jim Calahan has been sold to Lamesa of the West Texas-New Mexico League.

Calahan, limited service catcher, reports today to the Lobos to replace the injured Yogi Marti. Fenelon, catcher-first baseman, will remain with the Blue Sox through the Amarillo series, during which a replacement for Morris Card is expected to join the club. Card broke a leg Saturday night and will be out for the season.

Pep Opens Comeback

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Former featherweight Champion Willie Pep opens a comeback campaign here tonight against bustling young Santiago Gonzales of Mexico City.

The scheduled 10-round bout will be Pep's first bout since he lost a title shot to Champion Sandy Saddler last September.

Sports Roundup

By GAVILE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Ezzard Charles, who is not the heavyweight champion any more, began training on Thursday for a fight with Jersey Joe Walcott at Philadelphia on June 6.

It seems that Walcott holds the title, having knocked out Charles in a battle at Pittsburgh in July of last year. This will come as a surprise to many fans who were away on vacation at the time and who still recognize Ezzard as the champ.

The say Walcott has made less out of the crown than any champion of the modern era, possibly barring Primo Carnera, who was not permitted by his managers to open a checking account. The old pappy fighter has, however, made scores of appearances at charitable institutions and before church groups and has in general worn his laurels well, if anonymously.

Derby Trials

Despite anything you might have read to the contrary, the Derby Trial at Churchill Downs today does nothing except continue the issue. If you are looking for the winner of the big race on Saturday, pay the trial no mind whatever.

Why they call it the trial is one of those sweet mysteries. It is run over a distance of one mile, which is a long quarter less than the Derby Route. The horse first in the trial will, more than likely, develop the blind staggers when they ask him to put in a little overtime four days later. The nag to watch is the one which comes in fifth today, looking innocent.

Story Time

The best story in Frank Graham's new book "The New York Giants," we think, tells of the first time young Willie Mays of the Giants came to bat in Brooklyn last year. Roy Campanella, the Dodger's great Negro catcher, asked Willie what he thought of Preacher Roe, who was curving 'em for the Brookes.

"He's a mighty good pitcher, Mr. Campanella," Willie said.

"You're lucky today," Roy said.

"Wait till you get Don Newcombe tomorrow. He hates colored rookers. He'll blow you down!"

Graham, probably for lack of space, neglected to relate how the mischievous Campanella kept tossing dirt into Willie's shoes just as the ball was delivered. Willie complained to his manager, Leo Durocher, and next time he came up to do the bulky backstop.

"Mr. Durocher says if you do that again for me to throw a handful of dirt in your face, Mr. Campanella."

"That's fine, Willie," Roy said.

"Any time you feel like dying, you just do it," Willie said.

recalled, went hell his first 21 times at bat in the big show.

Indianapolis Race

Wilbur Shaw, head of the Indianapolis Speedway, was in town recently whopping it up for his 500-mile classic on Memorial Day. He was asked why he didn't install a couple of hundred mutually tinted windows and really make a killing.

"We thought of it," Shaw grinned, "but then we got to thinking

Ask Study Of 'Matesic Case'

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Arizona State College of Tempe has asked that "the Matesic case" be brought officially before the Border Conference at the spring meeting in Tempe May 9 and 10.

C. Z. Leshner, secretary of the conference and registrar at the University of Arizona, said last night the matter will be brought before the meeting at Tempe's request.

The Matesic case involved Joe Matesic who played on the Tempe football team last year under the name of his brother, Ed Matesic. As a result of the disclosure that Matesic was ineligible to play, head football Coach Larry Siemering at the spring meeting resigned. Matesic left the college early this year and is now in the Marine Corps.

Matthews Wins Easy

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (AP)—Harry (Kid) Matthews of Seattle K.O'd George Kaplan of Brooklyn so quickly last night many fans thought he simply collapsed.

They booed vociferously. Kaplan, 194, lasted only a minute and 18 seconds. The fight was scheduled for 10 rounds.

Matthews, 162, said his KO punch was a left hook that landed squarely on Kaplan's chin.

Ted Williams Day Set Tomorrow

BOSTON (AP)—Temperamental Ted Williams and Boston's rabid Red Sox rooters have scrapped often in the past, but tomorrow is Ted's day and the fans plan a rousing and sentimental send-off for the Marine Corps-bound slugger.

The lanky home-run belter who starts a duty tour of at least 17 months as a flying Marine captain Friday in Willow Grove, Pa., didn't want any big observation for his farewell but the movement just mushroomed.

He hasn't seen much 1952 action, having suffered a pulled tendon in his left leg while sliding in the season's opener in Washington. But he's seen service as a pinch-hitter and has been accorded a great reception by the fans.

Williams probably will be playing his final game for the Red Sox tomorrow. He'll be 34 next Oct. 30 and will miss both the seasons, making him an old man by baseball standards in 1954. He's said a comeback then might be too tough to attempt.

Brown To Report

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Robert (Bobby) Brown, New York Yankee third baseman, was scheduled to report to the first Army medical offices today to receive a physical examination prior to receiving a commission as a first lieutenant in the Army Medical Corps.

Pampan Ring Winner

Pete Kilpatrick, Pampa student attending Texas A&M at College Station, last week won the college 167-pound boxing championship in the all-college tournament.

Pete is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer C. Kilpatrick, 1005 Fisher.

Lou Gehrig, the Yankee immortal, was paid a salary of $6,600 in 1926, his first season with the club.

Pitcher Vic Raschi of the Yankees was assigned Joe DiMaggio's old locker at the St. Petersburg spring training quarters.

Meet Your Oilers

The newest of the Oilers is Morris Shipman, large righthanded limited service pitcher. Morris is on option to the club from Oklahoma City of the Texas League.

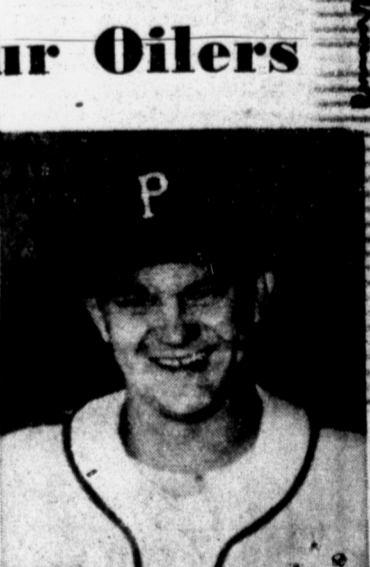

His story is sort of one of a boy's dream come true. He was born and reared in Oklahoma City and always wanted to be a member of the Indians. Now that dream has partially come true.

Morris was born on Oct. 29, 1931. He is married and his wife's name is Ella. He stands 6-3, weighs 215 pounds and is righthanded all the way. He graduated from Crooked Oak High school in Oklahoma City and started his professional career with Chickasha in 1960. Last year he spent at Shawnee, Amarillo and Oklahoma City. This spring went to spring training with the Indians and then was optioned to Pampa.

Morris' baseball future lies in doubt, however. He took his army physical April 18, and passed with flying colors. He expects to be called in June or July.

His hobbies are golfing, fishing and canvasing.

He has a brother who is supposed to be the largest man in college football. He stands 6-7 and weighs 330. He is presently playing for Tonkawa Junior College preparatory to enrolling at Oklahoma University.

Dr. Loan's Wife
By Diana Gaines

XL
THE gavel finally silenced the union of shocked protest. After a reprimand to both men, the chairman recognized Dr. Pelletier.
"I admit," Dr. Pelletier said, having recovered enough calm to lace his tone with venom, "that it is not customary for the committee to pass on the people I choose to employ. Normally, I'd take on Dr. Surinov without consulting anyone—except perhaps the superintendent himself. Unfortunately, Mr. Cota's judgment no longer seems valid to me. His personal animosities go beyond logic, beyond reason, beyond the interests of the hospital and the wider interests of science and humanity."
"You're the one that's biased!" Cota interrupted. "You're the Commie-lover..."
The gavel chopped through the babel of angry voices.
"Please remember," the chairman admonished, "that while this isn't a court of law, neither is it a back fence." There is nothing that offends medical men more than a breach of public dignity. This was perhaps the reminder that the chairman meant to convey when he added in phrasing somewhat confused by indignation, "At least we expect doctors to be gentlemen."
Cota, the only lay person in the room, turned a shade darker. The wall was up again. Not one of the boys. The outsider of whom gentlemanliness was not expected.
He spoke to himself out of a great inward quiet. "Nothing is expected of me. Nobody cares what I do. I don't have to do anything." He realized he was still on his feet. He sat down.
"... Dr. Surinov's loyalty is now beyond question," the chairman was saying. "But the reason her fingers down his pajamaed back.

"Oh, hi, Walter," Peter said. "How are you?"
Her fingers ceased their idle provocation, stiffened at the heraldic note in Peter's voice. "Cleared? No! They did? Tonight? No kidding? ... Unanimous vote—oh, Walter... What about Cota? ... Resigned? Oh, wonderful, in fact, hooray! Walter, I can't believe it... I can start tomorrow, yesterday... Oh sure, I know they'll release me—I took the job with that understanding... No, nonsense, who wants to sleep? Come on by, we'll have a drink. Celebrate. I want to hear the details, every word, and I want to see that blessed letter... Swell! We'll expect you in 15 minutes."
Jennet grabbed the receiver, sang into it, "Walter, you angel! We'll never be able to thank you. Hurry over!"
Her bones cracked in Peter's embrace.
"I'm so glad, my darling, so glad," she murmured over and over.
When he could release her, he flung himself back across the bed, his hands under his head, his eyes roaming the ceiling as triumphantly as if it were sky. Jennet sat with her feet tucked under the small of his back, hugging her knees.
"THEY spoke in ellipsis, reinterpreting the future, salting the relief by reminding each other of the pain, savoring the joy of their well-wishers—Peter's parents, Fred, Stella."
They fell silent, their thoughts turned loose to pasture.
Jennet's eyes, after a long stare into space, came back to Peter, and it was a shock to her to find his face set in grim lines, his eyes gone hard.
"Penny!" she demanded.
He looked up at her, and his smile was cold as rime.
"I was just thinking," he said, "all this rejoicing over exonerating from a crime I didn't commit and wasn't even accused of. It gives a guy pause."
(THE END)
PETER reached for the phone. Jennet turned on her side, ran

IT'S YOUR DEAL
Poker Is Competitive Game

By OSWALD JACOBY and ALFRED SHEINWOLD
Written for NEA Service
"I play poker fairly regularly," writes a Texas correspondent. "I very often check a good hand. If somebody else opens the betting, I may raise when it gets back to me. We recently had a stranger in the game, a business associate of one of our regular players.
"He objected to my tactics of check - and - raise. He said it would be considered unethical where he came from - somewhere in the United States.
"He was a nice fellow, not a sore loser. Is that the way they play poker outside of Texas?"
There's a difference of opinion on this point in some parts of the country - even in Texas. In every game there are people who want a game to be hard and spirited; and there are other people who want a game to be gentle and polite.
It isn't even a solution if you set up official rules. If people don't like the rules, they can and do say "Well, that may be the rule, but we don't play it that way." And you can't budge 'em.
When the same crowd plays poker fairly regularly, it's easy to adopt a set of house rules and house ethics. It doesn't matter to the rest of the world whether your regular game is gentle or tough; the important part is that every player in the game knows what is considered right and what Chrysler V-8 Saratoga Sedan, gasoline economy winner in Class "F". Entered and driven in the 1952 Mobilgas Gas Economy Run by Chrysler Dealer, Mid. Albany, Hollywood. It was one of three Chrysler FirePower V-8's to win in their respective classes.

180 HP CHRYSLER V-8 FIRST IN 3 CLASSES IN ECONOMY RUN!

Here is truly dramatic proof that Chrysler's great new FirePower 180 HP V-8 engine design is an entirely new standard of efficiency among American passenger car engines!
In this annual economy test, rigidly supervised and limited strictly to stock car entrants, cars competing are divided, by price and size, into 11 standard classes. The route, from Los Angeles to Sun Valley, covered 1,415 miles of every possible kind of driving. Average speed for all cars was just under 41 miles per hour.
And in 3 of the 11 classes, the Chrysler V-8 engine was best for gasoline mileage.
In Class "F", this magnificent new engine won first place for a Saratoga 6-passenger sedan (125 1/2-inch wheelbase, 4010 pounds). In Class "H", it won first honors for a Saratoga model 8-passenger sedan (139 1/2-inch wheelbase, 4510 pounds). And in the top price and size, Class "I", it was again first, in a Chrysler Crown Imperial Sedan (145 1/2-inch wheelbase, 5360 pounds).
To travel these substantial cars at this speed under these conditions gives additional proof, we believe, that here in the FirePower V-8 engine is the finest and most efficient engine ever put into an American passenger car!

WE INVITE YOU TO DRIVE THIS ENGINE, YOURSELF...
The same engine which has just scored these remarkable accomplishments is no farther from you than your own Chrysler Dealer. He will welcome the chance to let you take the wheel and feel for yourself what Chrysler has done... not only in engine performance, but in power steering, power brakes, new shock absorbers, passenger comfort... to deserve the title: "Finest Car America Has Yet Produced!"

Incentive Vital For Oil Production

The American oil industry is 93 years old and for the latter third of that time pessimists have been predicting that our oil supply could last only a few years at the most. In 1925 it was estimated that this country had only 8,500,000,000 barrels of proven recoverable reserves left. Since then we have produced nearly 35,000,000,000 barrels of crude and still have 32,000,000,000 barrels of proved reserves underground. That's nearly nine times as much oil as was thought to exist in the country just 27 years ago.

Research and technology are keys which will release as yet undreamed of supplies of liquid fuels. Every phase of the oil business from well surveying and drilling to refining methods and the making of liquid fuels from other sources is constantly being improved through the adoption of new techniques, tools and materials.

No Man Is Wise Enough

A brief item in a recent issue of Economic Intelligence, a publication of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, clearly and accurately described the basic difficulty in making price control work efficiently.

"Furthermore, price fixing may result in production of the wrong things and in the wrong proportions. For instance, in World War II price ceilings were placed on corn and wheat at too low a price in relation to meat animals. Livestock production boomed and critical feed shortages quickly developed. We were forced to subsidize the importation of feed grains from Canada in order to get out of this absurd situation."

Farmers Say No

Opposition to compulsory government health insurance is especially strong in agriculture. A short time ago the largest of the farm organizations, the American Farm Bureau Federation, with a membership of more than 1,450,000 families, went unequivocally on record against the scheme.

Of these important developments the Christian Science Monitor said, "Rural rejection of government health insurance has been little recognized in larger cities, which usually hear much of labor's viewpoint. But though labor's call for compulsory health insurance has been much better publicized, it remains the demand of a minority... Meantime agriculture provides a balance against labor on this issue and a formidable safeguard."

Quote, Unquote

"Nationalization of the oil and gas industry is the goal of our busy little bureaucrats in Washington. You see their fine hand in the promulgation of theories which would simply establish a dictatorship over fuel production in this country. You find them whispering in the ears of uninformed Congressmen that the interstate oil compact is a conspiracy between states and the oil companies to violate the Antitrust Act." — Allan Shivers.

A Definition of Capitalism

Funk and Wagnall's defines capitalism as "a system that favors the concentration of capital in the hands of a few." I respectfully differ and submit what to me is a more accurate definition, namely, that "capitalism is a system governed by the market economy."

"Nature understands no jesting. She is always true, always serious, always severe; she is always right, and the errors and faults are always those of man. The man in nature, as the man in the city, despises and only to the apt, the pure, and the true does she resign herself and reveal her secret."

Superficial observers think because businessmen have money, or capitalists furnish money, that they are supreme. On the contrary, they are bound to obey unconditionally the "consumer captain's" orders. They cannot determine for long what to produce, how many to produce, or selling prices—the consumers do that.

"The old mousetrap story was true 100 years ago and is true today. If we make the best one, and it is priced right, and we serve 1,000 people—we prosper. If we serve a million and do it better than our mousetrap competitors, we prosper a thousandfold. And not because we are capitalistic. We prosper only because we serve more people better than others, we satisfy their wants, we help them along the way."

Only Kids And Colts Can Take Louisville Derby Week

Carpet slippers or mint juleps? That's a question, son, and it's one I have to answer to myself today.

I must either take off for Louisville and the Kentucky Derby, or paddle down to the library and lose myself in delightful old Persian manuscripts, the study of falconry, and the influence of Plato on the Racing Form.

Derby Week in Louisville is a very tough week. If you reach Louisville on, say, Monday or Tuesday before the Derby, and return to your home, ready to go to work the following Monday, let no man call you a sissy. You have proved yourself. You are a mixture of whiplash, whalebone, and plywood.

Derby Week in Louisville is Valley Forge with horses. The Derby is such a strenuous thing that the Churchill Downs will not permit a horse past the age of three to run for the Corum roses. Colts are in their prime then. They are barrel-chested and muscled like weight-lifters.

I haven't the true figures at hand, but I feel safe in saying that the average three-year-old colt is stronger than the average man. The colt has only to work a minute or two at the Derby. The man has to carry on for almost a week in Louisville, without benefit of trainer, groom, exercise boys, or regular meals. All he has in common with

"Will Rogers once said, 'I never met a man I did not like.' "Of course I don't approve of all the things that people do," he said, "but there is some goodness and some cussedness in all of us."

He continued, "If you know a man well enough you can always find something good in him and you can always find something interesting about him. It is just a matter of what you are looking for."

Certainly Will Rogers must have "practiced what he preached" because few people in the history of this country was better loved.

You'll soon find that you are attracted to more and more people, and they, in turn, will be flattered by the attention you pay them. Use this approach to win more friends. If you believe like lots of people, that good friends are our most valuable asset in life, then you'll be rich before you know it!

Under the opportunity of socialism, looting is not only permitted but legalized and encouraged. Under its system the harder a man works, and the better he serves his fellow man, the more he is penalized! Yet these same socialists tell us that they act solely for the sake of "humanity." They use words like "liberty" to describe their curtailment of the greatest liberty any man can enjoy: that is, the product of his own labors. They say in effect (though, of course, never openly) that they "know better how to use your money and mine than you do." They gloss over the fact that they have no captain, the consumer, to leave them stranded as a penalty for mistakes of buying too much, paying too much, or planning wrongly. They might decide to take a billion dollars from us and establish a peanut farm in Alaska. (Others have tried it in Africa.) If it failed, of course, it would be no fault of theirs and they would take another billion next year for some other purpose. The penalty of failure does not exist under that system. Little wonder it has its enthusiastic supporters! But under the capitalistic system we reap directly the penalties of their own errors. They either serve some part of humanity and serve it well, or they fail; there is no other choice.

God has given to everyone that which is necessary for him to fulfill his destiny. He has given mankind the opportunity to succeed and the opportunity to fail. He has permitted and encouraged men to acquire property as the fruits of their labors. Is not the Commandment, "Thou shalt not steal," an absolute endorsement of private property rights? And nowhere under God's natural laws is there authority to establish devices which permit "legalized plunder" of other people's property—whether done under the name of social security, tariffs, rent control, progressive taxation, price controls, production controls or subsidies.

Under the opportunity of socialism, looting is not only permitted but legalized and encouraged. Under its system the harder a man works, and the better he serves his fellow man, the more he is penalized! Yet these same socialists tell us that they act solely for the sake of "humanity." They use words like "liberty" to describe their curtailment of the greatest liberty any man can enjoy: that is, the product of his own labors. They say in effect (though, of course, never openly) that they "know better how to use your money and mine than you do." They gloss over the fact that they have no captain, the consumer, to leave them stranded as a penalty for mistakes of buying too much, paying too much, or planning wrongly. They might decide to take a billion dollars from us and establish a peanut farm in Alaska. (Others have tried it in Africa.) If it failed, of course, it would be no fault of theirs and they would take another billion next year for some other purpose. The penalty of failure does not exist under that system. Little wonder it has its enthusiastic supporters! But under the capitalistic system we reap directly the penalties of their own errors. They either serve some part of humanity and serve it well, or they fail; there is no other choice.

National Whirligig.. Taut World Affairs Blocked Truman Impeachment Vote

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Not since the tragic days of Andrew Johnson in the post-Civil War era has the actual impeachment of a president been discussed so seriously as it was when the Republican's Policy committee of the House of Representatives recently considered similar action against Harry S. Truman in a closed session.

The secret record of this almost unprecedented convocation shows that a majority regarded his seizure of the steel plants as justification for an indictment on the ground of misdemeanor in office. Had it not been for the exigencies of national politics in a presidential year and the threatening foreign situation, it is almost certain that a formal vote would have thrown the opposition behind such a move.

SIGNIFICANT — Instead of tossing this highly provocative and personal issue into a campaign that has already promised to divide major parties, the G. O. P. agreed to let a man who represents an entirely safe district throw this parliamentary stone through the White House windows. He is Robert Hale of the First Maine District, and a descendant of a historic family.

His distinguished ancestry, as well as the fact that he is no "firebrand," underline the significance of the anti-Truman gesture, however. Hale is a graduate of the University of Maine, Oxford and Harvard Law School, with a Phi Beta Kappa key dangling from his watch chain.

In the past, whenever windy and excitable gentlemen on the mercable side of the aisle proposed impeachment, G. O. P. leaders looked the other way or laughed off the idea. While unwilling to assume party responsibility,

Success Secrets

By ELMER WHEELER

The biggest compliment you can pay a human being is to like him! It does something to us inside to know that someone likes us. It makes us feel good. It inflates our ego. It makes us feel important and it touches our heart. Instinctively we like a person who likes us.

Will Rogers once said, "I never met a man I did not like." "Of course I don't approve of all the things that people do," he said, "but there is some goodness and some cussedness in all of us."

He continued, "If you know a man well enough you can always find something good in him and you can always find something interesting about him. It is just a matter of what you are looking for."

Certainly Will Rogers must have "practiced what he preached" because few people in the history of this country was better loved. You'll soon find that you are attracted to more and more people, and they, in turn, will be flattered by the attention you pay them. Use this approach to win more friends. If you believe like lots of people, that good friends are our most valuable asset in life, then you'll be rich before you know it!

The Nation's Press

STEEEL (New York Daily News) A movement for a Senate investigation of President Truman's seizure of the steel industry got under way during the Easter weekend.

Senator Styles Bridges (R-N.H.) heads a group of Republican Senators who drew up a resolution for such a probe. Senator Bridges says Truman violated Article 5 of the Bill of Rights part of the Constitution, which provides among other things, that no person shall be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law.

It happens that on that same April 8, several hours before the seizure, the Senate Judiciary Committee put the finishing touches on a bill to extend Truman's war powers to June 1. Into the bill, the committee wrote a clause expressly forbidding the President to seize "any privately owned plants or facilities which are not public utilities."

That put Truman on notice that Congress, if it should pass the bill, would have set its face sternly against a steel seizure. Congress passed the bill the next day.

We believe it is important for the Senate to find out whether Truman hasn't furnished the House with at least two grounds for his impeachment—the actual steel seizure and his defiance of the known will of Congress.

LOOKING SIDeways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

Motoring through the deep South last September, I managed three days in New Orleans, which is not enough by 37 days, and missed completely one of the best stories in the South. I had notes on it, I knew about it and didn't get around to seeing it. It was—and is still—Laurence Oden's "Theater of Music."

Mr. Oden began with the simple goal of bringing these former professionals into meetings with amateurs who wanted to learn how to become professionals and have enough sincerity to still, listen and learn. His attempts were successful from the beginning as when enough amateurs had advanced themselves he opened 11 theaters in the country, a good one and making money. That is also all you can ask of any theatrical group: that it make money and pay its way.

Many cities in the United States have former actors, musicians and singers and directors among the citizens, and if I know anything about actors I know that they never quite lose the hunger for Mr. Oden's choreographer, for a simple teaching session, a good dancer in the New York theater and is now one of America's theatrically synthetic fabrications. I executive takes time off for 1 "theater" teaching sessions and stunts enough about dancing so that the public buys tickets to see the work in the "Theater of Music."

Mr. Oden's result could well be come a model for other community theaters in the country. It's New York where the access to form professionals is easier.

Sooner or later someone had come upon an extension of a craze for Fractured French and I began in this case, appears to an old friend named Abel Greer editor of the famed show business journal, Variety. It was Mr. Greer who made the most pungent a sheathing of the contributions. Fractured French and now I have cornered him in his invention: using the names of modern French painters, writers, poets and so on in the title of American popular songs. From Green's vast collection, extracted with almost no effect on my part:

"Mattise This Thing Call Love"; "Picasso Always Chasing Hail"; "Whistler's Name Good as 'Patric'"; "Malliol Kintual Home"; "Picasso Love You"; "Roualt, Roualt You Best." How about that famed old Italian railway section work song: "Toulouse-Lauriere" Or even "Duffy, Duffy Gander."

There was a fellow with a doo mat of slick black hair who use to come out on the stage, his hair like harvest moon in white tie and tails, and he'd tell jokes in broken English. He was pretty funny at the time, but the parade went down another street or something and soon he wasn't being seen around in white tie and tails telling jokes in broken English. They called him the Greek Ambassador of Goo Will.

He put in about 25 years at his business and I think he piled up nice account at Chase National, because when he took off the clothes he went to work at a costly enterprise: taking lessons in serious concert singing. Good ones cost to about $50 a lesson, and most singers can tell you, but after months of work and study he is ready and I, for one, wish George Givot good luck when he sings his first formal concert at Town Hall on May 15th. I learn that for years he longed to go into concert work and his idol was Ezio Pinza. Because of that admiration, Pinza has given him leave to use in his debut program some of the songs that have made Pinza famous.

She (sweetly)—And you say you were? The town I was born last week? He—Yes. She (cooing)—And you thought of me? He—I did. I said to myself, "Why, isn't this where what-a-her-name was born?"

Beta Sigma Phi Has Installation Ceremony

In a formal ceremony conducted by candlelight Monday night in the First Methodist church parlor, new officers of Beta Sigma Phi sorority were installed and pledges were directed in the "Ritual of Jewels."

The dinner-meeting commemorated the founder's day observance of the 21-year-old national organization. Mrs. Martin Stubbe was installed president of the group. Other officers recognized were Miss Joyce Wanner, recording secretary; Mrs. Louis Sills, vice-president; Mrs. W. D. Price, secretary at arms; Mrs. D. P. Price, Jr., council of clubs representative; Mrs. David Tubbs, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Jean Branson, treasurer.

Pledges who participated in the ritual included Misses E. D. Young, Groves, Heiskell, Ken Reeves, Price, B. M. McMullan, Dortha, Kurtz, Ralph McKinney, John Campbell, Price, Phelps, and Misses Gerry Carruth, Jane Branson, Johnnie Douglas, Betty Ann Wells, and Billie Hutchings. Mrs. Leymon Hall, outgoing president, officiated at the pledge ritual, assisted by Mrs. Bill Briggs, Mrs. Tooley Cone, and Miss Wanner.

Mrs. Branson, accompanied by Mrs. Betty Brock, presented special music following the dedication. Others participating in the afternoon program were Mrs. R. L. Edmondson, Jr., and Mrs. Norman Pulpis. Mrs. Stubbe presented

Women Should Make Most Of Their Looks

BY ALICIA HAIT
NEA Beauty Editor
There are, in almost any cross-section of women, at least one or two who are distinctly masculine-looking. This is nothing to be proud of, in this age of feminine beauty. It is rather the rebellion of these individuals against pretty-pretty beauty rules which they are suited neither in personality nor inclination.

Often this rebellion against curls and ruffles results in straight, chopped-off hair, unfitted, tweedy suits, and high accent on leather accessories that are more suited for football bleachers than an afternoon tea.

Sometimes these one-sided attitudes are adopted under the banner of strict honesty, under a motto of "like me as I am." Other times, an outstanding intellect insists its pursuits are far too important to allow time for petty concern about appearance.

What these women apparently don't stop to consider is that there's a happy medium. It's not necessary to glitter with rhinestones or flutter with flounces if your interests lie in other directions, but it is necessary to make the most of your own particular kind of good looks.

Forego curls if you like, but make sure your straight hair is glossy from regular brushing, and kept well shaped at frequent intervals by a competent hairdresser. Leave off elaborate beauty routines, if they don't appeal to you. Toss out the two-hour masks and the unpleasant sticky creams. But at least find an unobjectionable substitute in a creamy lotion, or something in the sort, else your complexion is likely to take on the well-tanned texture of the leather you like so well.

As for your clothes, there are few places you can't go, and with the well-tanned texture of the worned suit, provided you make it's well tailored—not just tailored. Your costumes will not lose the casual look for which you're striving simply because they fit.

Annual Banquet At Miami High School

MIAMI — (Special) — The annual high school junior-senior banquet was held, Thursday evening, in the basement of the Methodist church. Mothers of the juniors prepared the banquet and it was served by members of the home economics department.

In addition to the two classes, guests include the class sponsors, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Ford, junior; and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Craig and Mr. and Mrs. Don Myers, senior; class parents Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hodges and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Dale Low and Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Bean, junior; and Mrs. A. H. Gordon, and Tommy O'Loughlin, a former member of the senior class who is attending Price Junior College, Amarillo.

Class colors of blue and white were carried out in the flower arrangements, tall candles, and program - menu cards, and also in the individual cakes, which served as place cards, bearing the name of each guest in blue decor. The graduation theme was accentuated in the miniature figurine favors.

The following program was given, with Bob Ford, acting as toastmaster; invocation: Mr. Gordon; welcome, Carl Williamson; response, Dewayne Wells; toast, Joe Dan Talley; music, Adele Leeper; class prophecy, David Bean; class play, Charles Clark. Guest speaker for the occasion was Harry Wilbur, Jr. of Canadian.

After the banquet, the two classes joined other members of the high school for a dance in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. O'Loughlin.

Ruth Millett

The other day a clever wife told me she had finally hit upon a subtle way of giving her husband an inkling of the many and varied chores she did for the family each day.

It seems the husband was the kind of a man who thought all a housewife had to do each day was to make a few beds, flick a dust cloth around, get three meals on the table and do the dishes afterward.

His lack of insight into a housewife's working day made him pretty intolerant if anything he asked to have done wasn't done immediately.

Often when he came home in the evening he'd ask, wonderingly: "What have you been doing all day?" As if his wife's biggest problem was filling out a lot of leisure hours.

Well, that was the situation and here is how his wife finally convinced him that there is more to running a house than doing routine household tasks.

She started writing herself memos of all the extra jobs, errands, duties, etc. that she intended to do each day. She would lay the lists on her dresser, counting on her husband's natural curiosity to read it.

The lists were always long and always included such items as "Go to the bank for Jim," "Take Jim's mother to the doctor," "When Jim would casually ask 'Get food for Jim's poker club,'" his wife to do this or that or remind him of something else, she would ask him to add his request to her daily memo.

Local Pianists Rehearse For Concert Here May 5

One of the outstanding musical events of the year, "The Piano Symphony," will be presented here Monday at 8 p.m. in the Pampa Junior High school auditorium with Mrs. May Foreman Carr, founder of the symphony, directing.

Gene Finkbeiner, a graduate of the Eastman school of music, will be soloist, assisted by Mrs. Ernest Holmes Scott.

The symphony, featuring 44 pianists and 16 pianos, is the fifth annual concert and is being held in connection with the 26th observance of National Music Week.

The adult group, including Mrs. A. E. Cowan, Mrs. Calvin Jones, Mrs. A. A. Schuneman, Mrs. Burton Reynolds, Mrs. O. A. Payne, Mrs. Roy Johnson, Mrs. Betty Brock, Mrs. L. D. Fagan, Miss Angela Duncan, Miss Eloise Lane, Miss Juanita Haynes, and Mr. Tracy Cary, met Monday night for rehearsal in the Wilson Piano salon. The high school group and junior group will meet Wednesday in the Wilson studio for practice.

This year's program will feature popular favorites as well as classical selections. The first symphony was held here in 1931 when 16 pianists, using eight pianos, appeared. Since then, the symphony has grown and received national recognition in musical publications, including Clyde Whitlock's recent publication, "Music and Dance in Texas."

Music teachers in the area, as well as students, are to appear in the ensemble. Mrs. Payne and Mrs. Reynolds are to make radio appearances in connection with the concert, and they have also played before local women's organizations to publicize the event.

Among Mr. Finkbeiner's special numbers will be the Concerto in A Minor by Grieg, with Mrs. A. Minor by Grieg, with Mrs. Scott playing the orchestral parts on a second piano.

Pianos are being furnished this year by local patrons and the Pampa Piano Co. and Wilson salon.

British Debate Law To Give Wife Part Of Hubby's Income

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK — (AP) — Many American married men are taking a great interest in the fate of a proposed law being debated in Britain's parliament.

The law would give British wives a legal right to a fair share of their husband's income. You understand, old bean, things are done differently in America and Britain. Here the average wife can get everything in her husband's pocket by force of arms, language or tears.

But over there the Englishman holds to the old-fashioned idea the king of the cottage. What's his in his. And what is his wife's? Well, whatever he decides to give her.

Naturally, the Englishman wants to do the sporting thing by her—fair play and all that, you know. But what with pub prices and what they are, and say a man's had a bad fortnight at the dart board—"well, old girl, chin up, you'll just have to skump along with the shillings that are left."

The master of the house gets the Lord's share of the pay cheque and the wife has to eke out her tea and crumpets as best she can on her marital dole.

Often British husbands won't even tell the old girl how much they really earn, figuring it really isn't any of her business.

Dr. Edith Summerskill says this is "stupid, because there is no more certain way of alienating a woman's affection." She is author of the proposed new law that would enable British wives to go into court and force their husbands to divvy up their take-home pay.

British men might be amazed to learn that probably most American husbands heartily hope parliament passes the law. They would probably regard it as masculine tripartism on the part of their Yankee cousins.

But actually it is a step in self-protection, a bold new bid for domestic liberty on the part of the American male. Here is a summary of the views I heard expressed by a group of husbands here who discussed the proposal.

"The way I see it," said one mustached mouse, "is this: If Parliament gives British women a break, maybe we can get Congress to pass a law forcing our wives over here to let us have a fair share of our paychecks."

"What I don't see is how Englishmen manage to keep the size of their salaries secret," marveled another husband. "My wife makes me bring home my paycheck in my mouth. Sometimes I don't even know myself what I'm making."

"I know what you mean," remarked a third. "I have to deliver my check unopened, too. The last time I hit my boss up for a raise, he said, 'Why, I've given you two in the last six months.' First I'd heard about it. When I asked my wife, she told me, 'I didn't want it to go to your head, junior.'"

"You guys ought to learn to put your foot down," bragged a fourth husband. "I tell my wife every morning she either has to give me a dollar or I won't go to work. She forks out, too."

"The others shook their heads at this bravery and agreed nothing so foolhardy would work with their wives."

"Finally a white-haired old veteran of forty years of marital warfare said:

"Boys, let's quit kidding ourselves. No matter what Parliament does for wives in Britain, Congress wouldn't dare do a thing for husbands here. They'd be too afraid of their own wives."

"No, in America men have lost their battle for the freedom of the paycheck."

"Today our wives and the government are fighting a tug-of-war for it. All a husband can do is sit on the sidelines and holler. On wife! On government!"

"Whoever wins—well, it won't be me."

"I discovered I was using too much energy carrying the stick!"

Hollywood Suffers Most From Telephonitis Disease

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — No wonder Hollywood is also known as "Eculrhaven." You can find out why just by using the telephone.

I think telephone manners in Hollywood are worse than in any normal U. S. community. The telephone is not merely a means of communication here; it's also a form of harassment.

This isn't merely the fault of secretaries. Most of them are acting under orders from their thoughtless bosses. But the girls aren't harmless, either. They often talk on the phone with all the warmth and feeling of a clerk recording another body at the morgue.

Here is my analysis of the various offenders who add to the common Hollywood disease, telephonitis:

1. The relentless inquirer. You call up and ask for Moe Hinkle. Quick as lightning comes the reply, "Who's calling?" Before you can find out if Moe is on the premises, you have to identify yourself. It doesn't matter if Moe is the third assistant inkwell filler, you still have to play this game of "Who are you?" I have long revolted against this. When they ask "Who's calling?" I might reply "Douglas MacArthur, General of the Armies" or "John Greenleaf Whittier" or "Willie Sutton." The humor of this is never appreciated.
2. The diligent detective. This is the girl who protects important men, or men who think they are important. First, you have to identify yourself and possibly account for your birthplace, citizenship, loyalty, etc. Then comes the topper: "And what is your call concerning?" I sometimes blow my top over this effrontery and snap: "Oh, nothing. I just wanted to interest Mr. Fingnapple in some hot jewelry."

A rare exception among big-shots is MGM Boss Dore Schary. He will answer a phone call from anyone he knows, big or small, without question. Perhaps he remembers the days when he was trying to reach the ears of men in power.

3. The disappearing act. The voice on the other end exacts your name and mission and then says blithely, "Mr. Beagle is talking on another line; would you care to wait?" You say okay and start to wait. You drum on your desk, write a few personal letters, read a novel or two, file your nails and make out your income tax. Still there is no word from the other end of the wire.
4. The putter-offer. This deadheaded executive can't bear to talk to you at the time you call. So he has his secretary say, "Where can Mr. Jerkberg call you at 2 o'clock?" or "Mr. Jerkberg will call you at 3:45 on Arbor Day."

The agent for a long-haired singer sensation of the movies sent me the message he'd reply to my urgent call in an hour. That was six weeks ago, and luckily I found the information I needed elsewhere. He never called.

Maybe we should have a national week on the telephone. Any takers?

Siren Heralds 'Hot' Drink

DENVER — (AP) — A new eatery opened recently in Denver and only now are the neighbors becoming accustomed to the sound of sirens screaming in the night.

The cause of the disturbance is "The Flaming Thing" — the liquid piece de resistance. Owner A. E. Pilkington decided a fitting ceremony should accompany delivery of "The Thing." Since flames dance four and five inches above the concoction, plastic fire helmets were ordered for each customer.

Now, a siren has been added. It sounds off when one of the specials is sold. Since Pilkington claims sales run about 200 an evening, the siren screams most of the night.

"The Flaming Thing" is built on a vase of gin or bourbon with added liquors. A grapefruit slice is placed across the top, sprinkled with sugar and 151 proof rum.
