Alexander Kipnis Made Debut in German Prison Camp; Will Appear Here Monday

Famous singers have been launched on their careers in various startling ways, but Alexander Kipnis has the unique distinction of getting his start in opera in a German prison camp.

During the last war the famous bass baritone, who will be heard here Monday, Nov. 6, Junior High auditorium, was a young student in Berlin, whose musical goal was primarily conducting, not singing. At the outbreak of war, the Russian-born youth was seized with other enemy aliens. After a brief term in solitary confinement he was sent to a concentration camp on an old exercise ground, where horses of the Prussian officers were given their work-outs.

"The food in the camp was bad and the men slept on primitive bedding. Worst of all, they didn't know what would happen next and were completely shut off from all communication with families and friends on the outside. However, there was no deliberately brutal treatment.

Proof that their jailers were human came one day when Kipnis was singing to amuse himself—singing because he was Russian and said suddenly the German Colonel in charge of the camp appeared beside him. "Have you sung professionally?" he snapped.

"No, sir," said Kipnis.

"Would you like to?"

"Yes, sir," stammered the bewildered prisoner.

"My brother is the manager of the State Opera House in Wiesbaden," announced the Colonel. "Would you like to sing in Wiesbaden?"

Kipnis would.

"My brother will be here in the morning to give you an audition," the Colonel said, marching away.

The startled Kipnis thought it impossible—but the opera manager came. And it was the beginning of an operatic career that has made Alexander Kipnis one of the greatest bass baritones of all time.

After his Wiesbaden contract expired and the war ended, Kipnis became one of the leading singers in the European music capitals. He was star of the Wagner Festival in Bayreuth and the principal basso of the Vienna State Opera. Following his appearance in New York with the Weimar Festival company, he achieved sensational popularity in this country. After tremendously successful concert tours in the United States, Austria and Australia, he made his debut at the Metropolitan Opera and has since become one of the major stars of the Company.

This war also influenced the bass baritone's career. When Hitler's troops greeted the Anschluss, Alexander Kipnis was the most popular singer in Austria, and needed only to announce the date of a recital to get a sold-out house within forty-eight hours. He was by that time an American citizen, with an American wife, and could have continued his Vienna engagements unmolested. He chose without hesitation to leave, to radio his withdrawal from both Vienna and Salzburg.

Looking back on it all, Mr. Kipnis thinks it particularly odd that he not only started his career in a prison camp, but a German prison camp. "It's not something you could count on happening today," he says.

Weathered, Huff, Reeves Discuss Junior College

Members of the Pampa City council on P. T. A. met to discuss the proposed Junior college discussed Thursday in the Junior high building with W. B. Weathered, former school superintendent, in charge of the program.

Following Weathered's talk further information was given by C. A. Huff, president of the Pampa chamber of commerce and by Garret Reeves, local chamber of commerce secretary. After formal addresses, a discussion period was held when council members asked questions concerning the college.

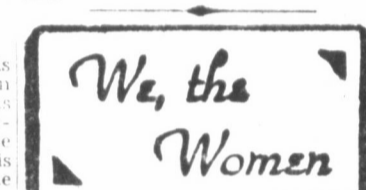

Reports from all schools were given concerning "Food, Fun, Frolic" nights which were sponsored last week by individual school P. T. A. groups.

'Dream Characters' To Be Portrayed at Girl Scout Party

Girl Scouts in Troop six will have a rush party tonight in the K. E. Thornton home from 8 until 11 o'clock.

Friends of troop members have been invited and all girls will come in costume and makeup to represent their "Dream Characters". A prize will be awarded to the one wearing the most outstanding costume.

Games, entertainment and refreshments in keeping with the party theme have been planned under the direction of Mrs. O. R. Owens, leader of the troop, with each scout doing her part as hostess.

By RUTH MILLETT

The two pretty college girls were talking over the weekend they had spent at home and one of them told how she had managed to spend an evening at a joint her father had told her to keep away from.

"Parents are so glib," she said as she finished her story—and both girls laughed indulgently.

Parents today must be glib. Otherwise, how do you account for the numbers of sweet-faced young kids strolling along downtown streets at night, their giggles and sideways glances at boys in uniform telling the world they are just waiting to be picked up? Certainly their parents don't know what they are up to. They must think they are at a movie, or listening to records at one of the girls' houses, or studying for a mathematical exam.

And the young girls sitting in poorly lighted taverns, growing more sentimental with each drink. Their parents must get so glib that they don't even sit up to see what time their kids get home and whether or not they have had anything to drink.

COSTLY CONFIDENCE
Of course, parents like to believe whatever their kids tell them. It is so comforting to think that sweet little Susie is studying algebra with Jane. It would be mighty uncomfortable if mother let herself wonder if Susie might not be somewhere else.

But in these times, parents can't afford the temporary peace of mind they receive from being what they call "tough" over their kids' callous habits. They ought to make it their business to know what their kids are up to.

Bedtime Chill Chasers

By EPSIE KINARD NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK—Cotton pickers who want their sleeping tops and chill-chasing robes to boast fashion interest as well as practicality can have both in some cozy-lacy styles, the trickiest of which is a grandpa night-shirt brought up to date.

This "topster," as it's called, is a fashion which was unwittingly launched by Bette Davis, who looked so fetching in a film in which she wore the upper half of a man's pajama shirt, the elongated shirt an example of which is

Where warmth is wanted in sleeping tops, there's length to be had in robe-styled nighties like grandma wore—yoked and lace-trimmed and accented with Peter Pan whimsies—and in pajama two-pieces with jackets that can serve as a punch as blouses. You see blouse-type styling in the blue-and-white-plaid cotton flannel pajamas shown middle, which make use of clever manipulation of fabric with a fitted jacket and a trick neckline bow.

Cotton flannel, which used to be feared because it shrank and climbed to your knees after a tubbing, is now being sanitized in a way to make it well-behaved in the wash basin.

To turn whatever cotton material there is into good use in a market hit by shortages, even sheers—like summer voile—are being padded, quilted and made into warm dressing gowns, an example of which is shown right. The trimming—sheer ruffles and lacey edging outlining lapels and cuffs—takes its cue from the dressy look of the voile before it was fortified for winter.

Apply Polish Seal Under Nail To Avoid Nicks

EVELYN KNIGHT: Foils foe.

A nick in a finger nail is a bedeviling foe of sheer stockings, a well-ordered hair-do and a sweet temper. I've seen a nicked nail wreck all three with one fell swoop of a hair-toe-socker.

Casualties like these could be avoided, of course, if women would carry an emergency board file in their handbags to level off an emergency nail split.

For a tip of manicuring to fortify nails against tears, try the trick of carrying your transparent polish sander under the nail as well as over it, which radio's Evelyn Knight singer on Ed Wynn's "Happy Island" show, has successfully used to prevent nicks.

Evelyn reminds you that every trace of ragged growth must be filed off of nails when you manicure, but length at corners should be spared for nail support.

Mrs. Gene Smith Entertains Class

Mrs. Gene Smith was hostess to members of the Reapers class of Central Baptist church Thursday afternoon when the devotional was brought by Mrs. D. F. Bettey and a regular business meeting was held. Games were then played and a gift was presented to Mrs. A. C. Baldwin.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. Claude Nichols, Gene Smith, Jess Broome, Jack Smith, C. L. Reeves, D. F. Bettey, J. H. Baxter, P. E. Enloe, A. C. Baldwin, Henry Williams, A. H. McPeak.

The next social meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. L. H. McPeak.

'F.P.A.' Purveys Assorted And Entertaining Information

"I know almost everything," Franklin P. Adams has admitted modestly, and in his new book, "Nods and Becks" (Whitely House: $2.00) he sets about to back up his statement. He succeeds amazingly well.

Yorkers, who for years read his column "The Conning Tower" on commuting trains and subways, and then shared by the nation's radio listeners as one of the full-time experts on "Information Please," "F. P. A." is among the foremost of today's truly literate.

"Nods and Becks" is a rich collection of his writings, much of it reproduced from "The Conning Tower." His knowledge is vast, but not pedantic. His humor is boundless, sometimes a little on the wry side, sometimes downright bitter, but not often. His verse is pointed, and sounds effortless, although he'd probably scream at such an "accusation."

F. P. A.'s loves and hates are universal. There seems to be nothing that he lacks an opinion on, be it peanut butter, for which his "hate" is utter, or political oratory, for which he expresses the same feelings.

"To the glory of the early train" is a typical opening line from his Samuel Pepysian diary. And then: "Every day my stuff I do And work as hard as you or your."

And every day when I don't shirk I get a cocktail after work."

That day's work is a real day's work, he'll have you know. F. P. A. engenders the suspicion that he has occasionally been accused of having a pretty soft time of it, and a testily defensive note rings out clearly every now and then. But he doesn't have to take up the cudgels. We don't begrudge him his salary, and would wish Mr. Adams the fortune he'd like to have, except that by his own admission, he'd stop writing if he had that much money. And that would never do.

A. and M. Students Keep Officials Really Guessing

AUSTIN, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Officials cocked an anxious eye on the University of Texas campus today, wondering what Joan and Joe College would do next.

Yesterday students cut classes to march on the state capitol in howling protest over the discharge of President Homer P. Rainey, issued an ultimatum to Gov. Coke Stevenson, and hauled around a crepe-shrouded coffin labeled "Academic Freedom."

The march on the capitol followed a student convocation where banners proclaimed: "We fight Hitlerism abroad, and we'll fight it at home!" "Youth fights the war—the regents fight youth."

During the demonstration, centered near the administration building, they shouted "We want Rainey!" About 150 sat in front of the University main building, gazing fixedly at the inscription across the facade.

"We shall know the truth and the truth shall make us free."

Showers last night drove some under the portico of the administration building, but others erected tents on the campus and one group announced it would sleep in tents.

The university campus club staged an impromptu skit, and improvised a song titled "Striking is the Order of the Day."

The Texas flag flew at half mast on the staff on the campus throughout yesterday.

The march on the capitol by class-cutting students was led by ex-Mrs. Malcolm Wallace of Dallas, president of the student body, who handed Gov. Stevenson a virtual ultimatum requesting that he take certain action by 7 p. m.

ELECTION

Boston a couple of hours earlier after brief appearances at Bridgeport and Hartford, Conn., and Springfield, Mass.

A new surge of name calling poured openly in the campaign even as Mr. Roosevelt was predicting "last-minute accusations."

From a member of his cabinet, Interior Secretary Ickes, came the charge that the republican campaign for Thomas E. Dewey "has been a sly, but deliberate effort to encourage anti-racial and anti-Semitic feelings."

And from Dewey came a denunciation of democratic tactics as including the "most corrupt ever made by any political party."

These were open charges, openly made, by Ickes at New York and Dewey at Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

But what President Roosevelt was talking about, in a 15-minute political broadcast from the White House last night, is "even more than the usual crop of whispirings and rumors" which he said has marred the campaign already.

"As we approach election day, more wicked charges may be made," he said, adding that "hysterical, last-minute accusations or sensational revelations are trumped up in an attempt to panic the people on election day."

Ickes told a Madison Square Garden audience that the particular target of Dewey and his associates "is even Sidney Hillman, head of the CIO political action committee."

Dewey's club peddling special influence with the war labor board.

Speculating on what it is that does not irritate Dewey is asked: "Has this special privilege to deal with war contracts? Or is it special concessions on income taxes? Or is Mr. Roosevelt's club peddling special influence with the war labor board?"

BOOS

Roosevelt. After the meeting Senator O'Daniel issued a scathing statement blasting the communists, labor racketeers, new deal fellow travelers and lawless element which constitute the principal backing of the new party.

He said he was not flattered or surprised by the demonstration because he had been reliably informed beforehand that a riot had been planned, "presumably on orders from Washington."

He termed it "another disgraceful gesticulation." The Houston incident climaxed a statewide tour that has given O'Daniel cheers and boos, and smaller audiences than previous campaigns.

The speaking tour started at Wichita Falls, where the Record-News estimated O'Daniel's audience at the largest size of previous campaign appearances.

At Amarillo, for his next important appearance, on October 29, the Amarillo News stated that "the senator had the smallest crowd ever to attend one of his shows in Amarillo."

A News staff writer said the senator spoke before a surprisingly small and indifferent group that responded only half-heartedly.

"It may have been the sad reality of the war, or the people toward a man no longer highly popular, but the reception seemed certainly cold," the News said.

At Lubbock, the following day, the Lubbock Journal estimated a crowd of 1,200 heard the senator. The newspaper report of the meeting said "the old-time O'Daniel political fire of his early campaigns was lacking."

At San Angelo, October 27, the Standard-Times estimated the O'Daniel crowd at 600 or 700. This was tenth time the populace he spoke to there in his first race for governor, the newspaper reported.

O'Daniel fans and Roosevelt fans in the crowd argued over whether hands when the senator asked how many wanted to oust the new deal. The senator estimated the hands at 75 to 80 per cent, the newspaper stated.

Ablene, the next important stop, gave O'Daniel "a large crowd gathered on the Federal lawn," according to the Reporter-News.

O'Daniel was cheered repeatedly, and the crowd apparently was predominantly sympathetic to his position with reference to the national administration, the Abilene newspaper reported.

A noon appearance at Victoria yesterday was followed by the riotous Houston meeting last night.

The O'Daniel tour schedule called for a talk at Palestine at 1 p. m. Friday and at Tyler at 7:30 p. m. Saturday the senator will be at Corsicana and Greenville Sunday at 10 a. m. and with the final O'Daniel rally at the big Fair Park auditorium in Dallas on the eve of election day.

Under the impetus of a shattering 10-hour barrage by the 24th division artillery, Japanese fled precipitately from Carigara where they had been expected to make a stand on the northern shores of Leyte.

Bar-footed, straw-hatted Filipino guerrillas marched into smoking Carigara with the steel-helmed infantrymen of the 24th division where they joined the dismounted First cavalry.

Combined patrols pushed westward three miles to Capocan without catching up with the enemy.

Capture of Carigara and Capocan sealed off Japanese remaining in Leyte valley and formed the north arm of a three-way trap being closed on Ormoc, last enemy concentration point. Capocan is 20 air miles or 25 miles by road north of Ormoc.

The 7th division pushed across Leyte to Baybay, on the west coast 26 miles south of Ormoc. Other American elements were pushing down the slopes of Mt. Catmon, 10 miles southeast of Ormoc. PT boats patrolled the sea to the west.

Navy's Tokyo radio expressed fear of imminent bombing raids on the capital, reported unconfirmed Japanese air attack on U. S. plane bases in the Marianas, and told of a tightening of Tokyo's control over puppet governments.

Chinese reentry into Lungling climaxed a blazing five-day assault and made possible the reopening of a land supply route to China. Lungling would be the junction of the Burma and Ledo roads, if the Ledo road is routed through Tengchung, 35 miles to the northwest.

Japanese retreated towards Mangshin, a lesser Burma road garrison to which beaten Nipponese have fled from other fallen strongpoints on the Salween front.

One Japanese column was two miles east of Kweilin, pivotal city of southeast China defenses, but changing reported the southern unit of an encircling force was pushed back six miles. A Chinese army spokesman predicted Kweilin could withstand a long siege.

Southeast of the city, Japanese advanced 12 miles in a drive that could close the last gap linking interior and coastal China. A junction of Japanese forces along the west river would, in theory at least, bisect China.

How To Relieve Bronchitis

Cremoluson relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Cremoluson with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

meeting of the board was held Wednesday that Regents D. F. Strickland of Mission and W. Scott Schreiner of Kerrville were planning to resign.

Dr. J. Alton Durbin, vice president of the university, revealed in a statement that only Dr. Rainey and certain members of the faculty and ex-student committees had persuaded him not to resign "as I wanted to do immediately after the board's announced decision to remove Dr. Rainey as president."

REAL DEMOCRATS...GOOD REPUBLICANS... LET'S FIGHT THE NEW DEAL TOGETHER!

Here's the way to do it! Cross out the New Deal electors on the Democratic ticket. Cross out the other parties. But leave the Texas Regulars!

Loyal Democrats—here's the way to stay Democrats—and vote the New Deal OUT! Good Southern Republicans, and all you loyal Texans who have no party flag—we invite you to rally under the banner of the Texas Regulars—rally to the ticket that will win!

It's time for a change! Time to forget you're a Republican or a Democrat. Time only to remember that you are a Texan. An American. That you love your country and want it to stay just like it is.

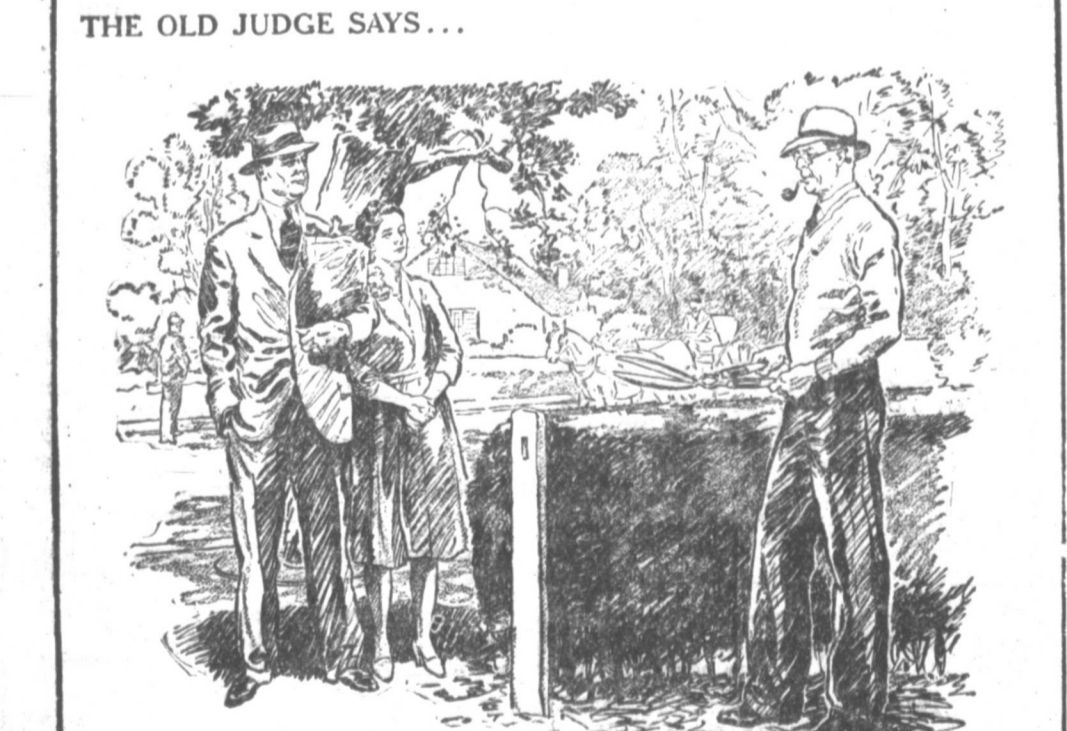

Can it be free Texans believe one man is indispensable to the future of our country? Can it be free Texans believe one man should stay in power for 16 years? Can Texans, Democrats, believe our great Party should be run by alien-born Sidney Hillman, by Communist ex-convict Browder, by the big city political bosses who would sell out the South for the Harlem negro vote?

But we must stick together! Remember, we vote by states—unless we WIN in Texas—every last vote we cast is LOST!

Join with us, you good Republicans! Join with us, you Independents—join a great crusade! We'll march to the polls together. We'll strike down the New Deal Communism that raises its terrible shadow over America. Vote with us—we'll lick the New Deal in Texas—and we'll keep America FREE!

TEXAS REGULARS Let's Beat Roosevelt!

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Mary and I were just saying, Judge, how lucky we are here in America that we have so many natural resources to help win the war." "That's right, Jim. When war broke out we had oil, we had steel, we had food, lumber, aluminum...practically everything we needed. There's one thing we didn't have...rubber. The enemy had that." "But that didn't bother us for long. Soon American brains and industry had synthetic rubber by the tons rolling out of plants. That filled a critical need...you can't win a war without rubber."

CITY IMPROVEMENT

Storm Sewer Is Proposed in Consulting Engineer's Report

Editor's Note: This is the ninth and last of a series of articles dealing with Consulting Engineer Joe E. Ward's study of the needs for repairs and renovations in Pampa's sewerage system. The News has published these nine articles in order that the people may understand just what conditions exist in their city as reported by the engineer, who lives at Wichita Falls.

In summarizing his recommendations to the city commissioners, the engineer urged:

- (1) That the concrete pipe sewers be replaced with vitrified tile pipe sewers.
(2) That where practicable the outfall main be changed from 15-inch pipe to 18-inch pipe and the south side main be changed from 12-inch pipe to 15-inch pipe.
(3) That when reconstructed, the outfall main be changed from 15-inch pipe to 18-inch pipe and the south side main be changed from 12-inch pipe to 15-inch pipe.
(4) That equipment for chlorine and iron treatment be installed on the north side main near the original disposal plant site and on the south side main at the lift station.
(5) That manholes be substituted for lampholes on the upper extremities of reconstructed laterals.
(6) That manhole spacing be adjusted to eliminate wide spacing on laterals and to eliminate closely spaced drop manholes for stepping down sewer grades where not otherwise needed.
(7) That cleanouts be substituted for lampholes on the upper extremities of reconstructed laterals.
(8) That manhole spacing be adjusted to eliminate wide spacing on laterals and to eliminate closely spaced drop manholes for stepping down sewer grades where not otherwise needed.
(9) That cleanouts be substituted for lampholes on the upper extremities of reconstructed laterals.

YOU GOTTA THINK QUICK

THE STORY: Leo Kabatek, lately broke, has signed a contract to handle the legal end of racketeer Virgil Boggio's vast enterprises. Kabatek is not entirely happy about the arrangement but the fees are large and, besides, Boggio holds an interesting paper with his signature.

THE first thing I did was rush to the bank, cash the check, and open an account. It was only when I had the crisp new check book safely in my pocket that I really felt that everything was the way I wanted it to be. Somehow I'd been afraid that Boggio might change his mind at the last minute and stop payment. Now it was too late.

One of the strangest things about the human mind is its remarkable adaptability to new circumstances. This minute was one of the highlights of my existence and I should have been half crazy with joy. And here I was, walking calmly down the street and making plans for the future.

After a while I realized I was famished, so I went into a drugstore. I sat down at the counter, ordered a ham sandwich and a cup of coffee, and then laughed at myself. I'd just been thinking about the adaptability of the human mind and yet I'd unconsciously followed the same impulse of leaner days. With a check book and two hundred bucks in cash in my pocket, I should have gone to the best joint in town to celebrate, and here I was in a drugstore swarming with twenty-five dollar a week salesclerks.

The boy shoved the sandwich at me. "Something to drink?" he inquired. "Coffee," I said. "No wonder we were on opposite sides of the counter. I always order my coffee together with my lunch, and invariably the soda jerks ask me if I'll have connections, $5.00; sludge digester and piping, $24,000; sludge drying beds, $6,750; trickling filters, $36,000; inlet channels, Parshall flume, etc., $2,000; chlorinating tanks and outlet Parshall flume, $360; grading and drainage, $1,500; non-climbable fence, $3,000; chlorinator, house, etc., $6,000; contingencies, $10,900; engineering, $7,500, making a grand total of $132,500. The estimated cost of sewer extensions: Vitrified tile pipe in place, 24,600 feet, $10,995; trenching and backfill, $8,614; manholes, $2,910; cleanouts, $400; contingencies, $2,021; engineering, $1,500—making a total of $26,500. Combining three items on the proposed project, which excludes the construction of the much-needed storm sewers—reconstruction of concrete sewers, $302,000; improvement of sewerage disposal plant, $132,500; and sewer extensions, $26,500, making the total $460,500. The cost of the storm sewer was estimated at $63,000. Details concerning the storm sewer will be taken up in my later article by The News' staff reporter, Everett Bannister.

continued eating. BUT I could see that Salemsen was dying. Finally she was unable to restrain herself any longer. "Are you remaining in the city?" she asked. "That was just like her. She was too genteel to come out with the direct question: 'Where are you moving to?' and had to use a circumlocution. I thought I'd make her sit up and take notice. 'You'll probably find me at the Columbus Towers,' I said, casually. If I'd suddenly started taking off my clothes and paraded around the table in the nude, Salemsen's jaw couldn't have dropped lower. 'Why don't you make it the Waldorf?' she asked. They now began taking me seriously. Maybe it was the tone of my voice, or perhaps my suppressed excitement was beginning to creep out all over. The suspense was becoming unbearable for all of them. 'An inheritance, maybe?' queried Ruskin. 'There was a long pause and then I let them have it. 'Ten years ago,' I began dramatically, 'I helped an old lady across the street. Her hands were shaking and she was poorly dressed but I treated her as if she were my own mother. Although she asked me my name I never gave it another thought. Last week she died. After they'd given her a pauper's burial they ripped open her mattress. And what do you think they found?' 'You could have heard a pin drop. 'What?' breathed Ruskin. 'Bedbugs,' I said. 'Was I getting hammy? But they all went into convulsions, with the exception of Salemsen who shuddered. 'I don't think that's funny,' she said. At any rate the general curiosity was dampened for the time being, and I was able to continue eating without going into any embarrassing explanations. If a fellow knows how to mingle truth with fiction and has people guessing the situation well in hand.

At dinner that evening, Mrs. Watkins sprung the news on my fellow boarders. "Mr. Kabatek is leaving us tomorrow," she said. "And I'm sure we'll all be sorry to see him go." I bet they'd be sorry. Salemsen would be prostrate with grief. They all stopped eating for a moment and looked at me. You'd have thought I was moving out of the White House instead of that lousy two by four excuse for a room. Gansie was the first to break the silence. "Well, Leo," he said. "I hope it'll be a move for the better." "Yes," I said. "In a way."

By the blank look on my face they couldn't tell whether I was moving of my own free will or whether Mrs. Watkins was tired of my being constantly in arrears that she'd politely shown me the door. You could see they were all dying to ask me questions but nervously cleared his throat. "A new job, maybe?" "Uhuh." This was lots of fun. I was being coy on purpose, and the way I had to be coaxed to give out information you'd have thought that each word was a pearl dropping from my lips. The least inquisitive of my boarders, McNeil, he'd just grunted and

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh Cracker-barrel versus Dog House

Most of the political conventions in our town are held around the cracker-barrel—in Sam Abernethy's store. We were settling how the country should be run the other night when Homer Watson starts to put in a word. "Wait a minute, Homer," Sam said sharply, "did you vote in the last election?" "Well," Homer fumbled, "I was awful busy just at the time."

Market Briefs

NEW YORK WALL STREET NEW YORK, Nov. 2- (AP)—The stock market again was forced to contend with considerable investment uncertainty today, but enough buyers appeared to lift selected rails and industrial fractions to a point of equilibrium. From the start of the recently averted profit-taking, Steels stiffened at the last. Motors and assorted blue-chip bids and advances were in the majority near the close. Dealings were slow at intervals although activity of a few low-priced issues and a pickup in the final half hour helped push volume for the full proceedings at around 100,000 shares.
