The Muleshoe Area Good Sams will meet Monday, October 10, at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Room of Tri-county Savings and Loan. All area persons interested in recreational camping are urged to attend, says R.A. Bradley, president.

Mr. and Mrs. Carry Clark and Mrs. E.J. Tapp, all of Gainesville, Ga. visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J.R. Ottwell last week.

Visiting in the home of Mrs. Bill Lambert Monday were her four sisters, who had birthdays recently. Mrs. Maydelle Olive of Denver, Colo. flew to Plainview where two of her sisters live. They are Mrs. Arlene Calcote and Mrs. Donna Mangus. The three drove to Sudan, picked up Mrs. Opal Lambert, then drove on to Muleshoe to Mrs. Bill Lambert's home.

They all went to a local restaurant for lunch. In the afternoon, they shopped in Muleshoe and enjoyed visiting.

PEACE Justice Report

Three speeding cases were heard before Justice of the Peace K.B. Martin during the past week, along with two persons charged with being publicly intoxicated. One case each were heard for no driver's license; no motor carrier authority; over allowed gross weight and defective stop lamps on trailer.

Louis Cardinal, THP Trooper, stationed in Muleshoe, was in Post this week for plot control training.

Dr. Hamblen To Appear Before Board

A large number of items are on the agenda for discussion by members of the Board of Trustees for the Muleshoe Independent School District when they meet in regular session Monday night.

Meeting before the board will be Dr. David Hamblen who will discuss the sale of candy and soft drinks in the schools. Also, Creston Faver, CPA will present the audit of school funds and Jesse Click will give the 1977 tax roll for approval. Board members will approve changes and corrections on the tax rolls.

Board members will review and discuss the 1977-78 estimated budget and review the application for Foundation Funds from the Texas Education Agency.

HOLD ON THERE, PODNER--Three Way Eagles prepare to swarm over a Southland Eagle Friday night during action at the Three Way School. No. 80 is Brian Roberts and No. 81 is Mark Rand, brother of hard hitting, fast moving Albert Rand. Three Way won the game 56-6 to add another feather to their cap this year. Tough defense allowed only one touchdown by the Southland Eagles.

Weather Creates Storage Problems

Lingering warm weather is creating additional problems for area cotton farmers who are stripper harvesting and field storing seed cotton, cautions Dr. James R. Supak, area agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The growing conditions are making it extremely difficult to kill the cotton plants before harvesting, resulting in high moisture content in the harvested cotton, the specialist said. He urged producers to try several acceptable combinations of harvest-aid chemicals to more thoroughly kill the plants and reduce the moisture content.

This high moisture content can lead to high temperatures in the stored cotton and can result in reduced seed germination and possibly reduced seed and lint grades, Supak warned.

Harvesting in the South Plains is fast catching up with gin capacity and producers may have to store a large volume of desiccated cotton in ricks and modules, he said.

For proper storage, seed cotton has to be dry (8 to 12 percent moisture), the specialist noted. To meet this requirement, all plant components—including cotton, seed, burs, stems, and other plant parts—going into storage must be dry.

"The reason we're having a problem killing cotton this year is that, up to this time, the weather has been unusually warm and the cotton has remained actively growing," Supak said.

"We have the makings of a good seed year," he said. Many farmers will store seed from this year for future crops. The last good seed year for cotton in the area was 1973, and a fair percentage of this year's crop was planted with 1973 seed, he noted.

But just with cotton that is modulated while green, seed cotton with high high moisture content that is left in a trailer in a gin yard for two or three days will heat, too, he cautioned. "Once that seed cotton reaches about 120 degrees Fahrenheit,

Modification Of Weather May Continue

Plains Weather Improvements Association members at Plainview announced they would apply for a year-round, four-year permit to conduct weather modification flights over Hale County and portions of Floyd, Lamb and Castro Counties.

They invited members of Better Weather Inc. of Littlefield to join PWIA so that joint hail suppression flights can be made over the entire proposed target area from Plainview.

According to a PWIA spokesman, the reason for the move to consolidate operations of the two weather modification firms is because Atmospherics Inc. of Fresno, Calif., contracted by Better Weather to make the flights in 1977, has already returned to California and will not be contracted by the Littlefield organization for 1978.

Vice President of the Plainview Group, Royce Carthel, said the application was to be presented to the newly-created Texas Water Resources Commission early this week.

A preliminary budget for the expanded PWIA program of $245,800 was presented to the group by Carthel. The budget includes the purchase of a fourth airplane and advanced radar equipment. Carthel said that the budget is larger than the PWIA 1977 budget, but smaller than the combined 1977 budgets for both organizations of $330,000.

Carthel, suggesting that the defeats of hail suppression during 1977 be put aside, told the group, "There is not much left to do with the 1977 permit. The door is closed. What we need to do now is be concerned with the 1977 permit. The target area will be smaller and will bypass the areas that voted heavily against us this summer."

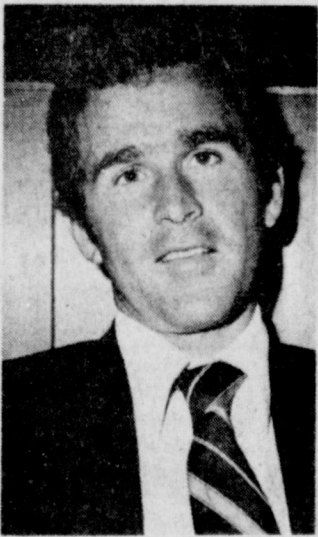

On October 20, PWIA will meet at the Farmers State Bank in Hart to take nominations for officers, set the voting representation from each voting precinct and set the assessment for coverage.

we start getting seed deterioration. The longer it is exposed to high temperatures (120 F) the more degradation we get," he said.

Supak recommended several steps farmers can try for better desiccation before harvesting. The desiccants most frequently used in this area are Paraquat and arsenic acid. But arsenic acid has been in short supply and results with Paraquat this season have been "somewhat erratic" due to the unusual conditions.

"We have tried to get around this problem by going to higher rates of Paraquat (one to two pints per acre) and by using an

GEORGE BUSH

Congressional Candidate Bush Visits

Stopping by The Journal office this week was George Bush, who has announced his candidacy for the Congressional seat presently held by George Mahon.

An independent oil and gas man from Midland, Bush is a republican candidate for the seat to be vacated by Mahon. He said, "I am primarily concerned with the size of government as government takes away incentives for the small businessman and the farmers. In order to finance its immense size, government taxes us with more and more paperwork to have to live with."

"I was raised in politics and know what it takes and how much hard work will be necessary to do a good job. I am prepared to work as hard as I can for our people.

He concluded, in short, I would like to see government work in concert with our people and not in opposition to the people of this nation."

Bush said he would be returning to Muleshoe from time to time during his campaign for U.S. Congressman.

Three Way Eagles Blast Southland

Three Way's Albert Rand had a night of it! In fact, he had such a night of it, that Three Way Eagles didn't finish a ball game -- again!

Friday night action at Three Way saw the game called with more than nine minutes left after the score widened out to 56-6, and by six-man rules, a game is called when the score is 45 points or more apart.

Still say that one of these days Three Way might get to finish a

Commissioners Slated For Very Busy Day

A rather lengthy agenda will face members of the Bailey County Commissioners Court when they meet in regular session Monday at the courthouse.

After approving minutes of previous meetings, they will hold a hearing on the county budget for 1978 and approve the annual county budget for agricultural extension work.

Commissioners will pass an order authorizing payment for an estimate for labor and material submitted by the architect and contractor for work on the construction of the Bailey county Exhibition Center and coliseum. They will consider passing an order accepting designation of a Farm to Market Road from Circle Back, south of FM Road 54 and executive an agreement to acquire and clear a right a way.

Along with payment of routine county bills, commissioners will also meet with representatives of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture.

ball game. Rand broke action loose shortly after getting the ball and when the tailback scored from the 17 yard line after Louis Key recovered a Southland Eagle fumble.

However, Key was adding insult to injury as he had just scored Three Way's first TD on a 21-yard scamper that left the Southland Eagles high and dry.

With 2:47 left in the first, Rand added another TD when he slammed through from the eight, standing up, and added additional points. This was followed by another Southland fumble, which recovered by Bill Hodnett. Rand danced around to the right of another TD, and with Donnie Young making the PAT good, the score was 28-0.

At 9:11 in the second, Key added his second TD for the evening on an eight-yard scramble, but then the Southland Eagles started digging in and a couple of pass interceptions briefly scuttled the Three Way Eagles, although Southland was unable to capitalize on the interceptions.

Junior Class Moms To Meet Next Tuesday

Kerry Moore said all junior class 'Moms' will meet at 3:30 p.m. on Tuesday, October 11, in Room 14 at Muleshoe High School.

A discussion of the Thanksgiving Supper is planned and Moore asked that all mothers of juniors attend the meeting and help with plans for the supper.

Arthritis Forum Set Here Tuesday

Jim Burgess, chairman for a public health forum, being sponsored by the Bailey County Branch of the Arthritis Foundation, announced that the Forum will be at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, October 11, at the Fellowship Hall of the First United Methodist Church in Muleshoe. Purpose of the Forum is to alert area residents of the progress being made in the care and maintenance of those persons afflicted by America's number one crippling, Arthritis, said Burgess.

Conducting the meeting will be Mrs. Sam Damron, branch president and the discussion will be led by Dr. David McConnell Mills and Dr. Kenneth Charles Scholz.

Dr. Mills, a rheumatologist, is currently associate professor of medicine at Texas Tech University School of Medicine and was formerly Chief of Rheumatology at the Denver V.A. Hospital. One further measure of his proficiency in his field is the twentyone articles he has authored or co-authored that deal with the various phase of rheumatic diseases, added Burgess.

An orthopedic surgeon, Dr. Scholz is on the staff of four Lubbock hospitals, an Associate Clinical Professor at the Texas Tech University School of Medicine and has been certified by the American board of Orthopedic Surgery. He has performed many operations that have mitigated the pain and restored the mobility of numerous victims of the varied forms of Arthritis, continued Burgess.

Following their formal presentation, which will include slides, the doctors will be available for a question and answer period.

Up To Two Inches Received In County

Rain caused smiles to broaden across the faces of farmers who have been trying to plant winter wheat, and found moisture sadly lacking, but also caused frowns on the faces of cotton producers.

The general rains, which moved into the area Thursday night in the form of a thunderstorm, deposited from 1.5 to more than two inches of moisture across the county.

Some minor flooding was reported in southwest Bailey County when the rain washed dirt onto paved Farm to Market roads and filled in low places. However, no major damage was reported from flooding.

Unseasonably warm weather has slowed cotton defoliation and now farmers who were partially defoliated will have to wait again until drying weather can allow them to get back in their fields.

Around Maple, Goodland and in the Baileyboro Communities, slightly more than two inches of rain was received in the Thursday night thunderstorm. In that area, cotton is beginning to be harvested and corn harvest is virtually over.

In the West Camp community, approximately an inch of rain was general report and at the Shafer New Director For Soil Conservation

Lewis W. Shafer of Needmore was elected to the Blackwater Valley Soil and Water Conservation District board of directors on October 6. He represents Zone Four of the district.

Purpose of the Blackwater Valley SWCD, with headquarters in Muleshoe, is to promote sound soil and water conservation programs on farm and ranch lands within the district and to serve as a voice for farmers and ranchers on conservation matters and other issues affecting private property rights of landowners.

The board of directors coordinates the conservation efforts of various local, state, and federal agencies and other organizations and has authority to enter into working agreements with these governmental agencies and private concerns to carry out its purposes.

As one of five individuals serving on the district board of directors, Shafer will be responsible for district policies and procedures for carrying out the district program within the framework of the Texas Soil Conservation district law.

In other areas of leadership, Shafer is active on the REA board, and is a former member of the Muleshoe Independent District School Board of Trustees.

In Texas, there are 198 soil and water conservation districts. Each is a legal subdivision of state governments organized by local agricultural landowners with the assistance of the Texas State Soil and Water Conservation Board. Unlike most other legal subdivisions of state government, SWCDs do not have the power of taxation or eminent domain. All conservation programs managed by the districts are of voluntary nature to the landowner or operator.

TSTA Asks Parents To Be At Meet

Dr. Mary Bubliss, medical director of the Central Plains Mental Health and Mental Retardation Center in Plainview, and Dale Edmisson, center psychotherapist serving Bailey County, will present the program for the fall meeting of the Muleshoe local unit of TSTA at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, October 11, in the high school cafeteria.

Mary B. Obenhaus, president of the local unit, stated "All interested parents, as well as educators, will be welcome to attend this informative meeting. Active audience participation will be the basis of the meeting, and parents will be asking questions of the Plainview duo about problems with young people."

"The program will consist of a question and answer session involving active audience participation," said Mrs. Obenhaus. Suggested topics for questions include "The Relationship of Psychiatrists and the MHMR the Emotionally Disturbed

"Student" and "Psychomotor Disturbance" as well as other pertinent questions from the group. "The question and answer session will be of general interest to both teachers and parents," added Mrs. Obenhaus, as she urged all parents to attend the TSTA meeting.

New Agricultural Newslines Designed to Aid Farmers

AUSTIN--A national newslines is now available to farmers and ranchers who are increasingly in need of a wide variety of reports on agriculture.

The Farmers' Newslines has been set up to provide the latest information on U.S. crops, livestock and farm economics. The tape is updated each day at 3 p.m. Central Daylight Time (CDT) by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The toll-free number to call is 800-424-7964.

"This newslines is indicative of the demand today for immediate information on agricultural topics," Texas Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown commented. "Wild fluctuations in the market have forced farmers and ranchers to become more conscious of the need to use every strategic tool available to decide which crop to grow and how many acres to invest in."

The Texas Department of Agriculture's news service, started several years ago, updates market information daily on major Texas commodities on a system of automatic telephone answering devices around the state. "Ours are not toll-free, however," Brown said.

For long-range planning, the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service issues a number of statistical reports regularly on production and farm economics. The Service has been handling the job of supplying agricultural statistics for over a century. In 1967 the Texas Department of Agriculture joined with the Statistical Reporting Service of the USDA to make the program a cooperative program.

Because producers and customers of Texas agriculture depend on these reports, accuracy and objectivity are the major guidelines in compiling the statistics. Wilbert H. Walther, statistician in charge of the Texas operation, stressed that this is also the basis for allotments and other programs of the USDA.

"Most of the raw data for our estimates comes from the long-standing program of mail surveys in which we send our questionnaires to a randomly selected sample of farmers and ranchers," Walther stated.

"We could not function in Texas without the cooperation of so many producers who voluntarily provide the input for estimates."

Walther stressed that all questionnaires returned in the surveys are confidential and used only in county, state, and national summaries. No one except the office staff working on the surveys has access to the information on the farmer's individual questionnaire.

All reports are available without charge. For a list of releases, write P.O. Box 70, Austin, TX 78767.

Hospital Bed Elimination Is Proposed

WASHINGTON(AP) The government has proposed standards aimed at eliminating one of every 10 general hospital beds in the nation while improving the care of patients.

The proposed regulation, the first national standard set for hospitals, is part of a national plan to bring soaring hospital costs and growth under control.

The plan, developed by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, would limit the number of general hospital beds in a community to four per 1,000 population and would require hospitals to maintain an average occupancy rate of 80 percent.

This would mean about 100,000 of the current 95,000 hospital beds would have to be phased out by the time the standards are fully implemented in 1984.

It also would set frequency standards for certain specialized medical procedures so that only hospitals that regularly perform such procedures could offer them.

The standards would require that: A metropolitan hospital would have to perform at least 2,000 deliveries a year in order to maintain an obstetrical unit. An institution that provides open heart surgery should perform at least 200 such procedures each year. Hospital units offering radiation therapy to cancer patients should be limited to one for every 150,000 people or should serve at least 450 new patients each year.

There should be at least 20 beds in a hospital pediatric unit and such units should maintain an average annual occupancy rate of 65 to 80 percent.

The final regulations will be issued in December or January, after the public has had a chance to comment on the proposals. Local health service agencies then would have one year to draw up plans for putting the standards into effect and four additional years to actually put them into effect.

Fire Prevention Week Emphasizes 'Safety'

Fire Prevention Week is "observed" not celebrated, in the United States each October. This year, the date is October 9-15, notes Dr. Gary S. Nelson, safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The October 9 date is the anniversary of "The Great Chicago Fire" of 1871 which marked the real start of community effort to prevent fires instead of concentrating only on putting them out, says the engineer.

Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge, lakes have filled and for the first time in several months, adequate surface water is noted.

Muleshoe officially recorded 1.7 inches and some minor street flooding, with slow rain continuing on through most of the night. The rain started around 6:30 p.m. and was still falling in the form of light showers after 11 p.m.

Duck Hunters should find easier hunting with area plays lakes filling, and the fall weather will hold the water with a minimum of evaporation for awhile.

Almost all corn has been harvested and grain sorghum harvest is still in the future. With almost all vegetables being out of the fields at this time, cotton is the next harvest to the looking at when fields dry out.

additive, a product called Accelerate which enhances the discant effect of the Parquat."

He said producers also have been encouraged to try combinations of Parquat and the organophosphate defoliant (Def-6 and Folex).

"One other combination that may have some promise in this area is a mixture of 1 1/2 gallons of sodium chlorate with 1 1/2 pints of Accelerate," he said.

All of these combinations have been tested in the Gulf Coast region by Dr. Charles Miller, plant pathologist at Texas A&M University, Supak said. "Most of these proved fairly effective, with the mixture of sodium chlorate and accelerate being the most effective."

The current cool weather may help make the desiccants more effective, Supak said.

"But don't expect to get a good control of new regrowth with anything except arsenic acid," the specialist warned. "Those brand new little leaves are pretty tough."

He urged farmers who have a little time left before harvesting to start experimenting with the different combinations of desiccants and defoliants and see what works best in their fields. There are so many variables—previous drought stress, present moisture conditions, varieties, and other—that it is difficult to make a general recommendation for every producer, the cotton specialist said.

Woodrow Wilson, in 1920, was the first President to issue a national proclamation in observance of what was then Fire Prevention Day. This tradition has been officially recognized by every successive President to this day.

The toll of the Chicago fire of 1871 was monumental in terms of the young frontier city and of the economy of those days; 250 lives lost, 17,430 buildings destroyed, and an estimated $186 million in property lost.

Today, fires continue to kill an average of 32 persons in the U. S. each day, adding up to more than 10,000 lives lost each year, points out Nelson. About 30 percent of the victims, or 3,500, are youngsters through age 15.

Fires cost the U.S. about $4.4 billion in property loss annually. This means the average annual price of fire waste $20.40 for every man, woman and child in the nation. Estimates by the National Commission on Fire Prevention and Control place the total cost of fires—including lost wages, sales and production, as well as buildings and contents destroyed—at $12 billion annually.

Fire tragedies will continue, says Nelson, until Americans learn how not to burn through adherence to recommended fire prevention practices and through the use of fire preventative building and equipment designs.

Bill Hodnett scored from five yards out with 2:06 left in the second, and the teams went into halftime with the score 42-0, three points away from stopping the game.

Defensive ball was played in the second half, with the Southland team managing to hold onto the ball and Jay Callaway scoring on a 65-yard mad dash with 9:31 on the scoreboard clock. Their point after attempt failed and Rand came back to score again to widen the score to 50-0. Rand made his final TD on an eight-yard TD slash through the hapless Southland line and the point after attempt was good.

At 9:24 of the fourth, the game was all over when Donnie Young added the frosting to the cake by scrambling through the line and going over to end the game and the scoring at 56-6.

The Scientists Tell Me...

Neglected Game Birds Face Uncertain Future

By Robert L. Haney
TAES Science Writer

Birds are the favorite target of hunters in Texas who annually harvest about 5 million mourning doves, 1.5 million ducks, and 150 thousand geese. Bird hunters are usually conservation minded and aware that game laws are designed to protect an adequate breeding population so hunting remains good.

Effective laws, though, must be based on sound population estimates and up-to-date information on any breeding, disease, diet, or other problems that affect numbers. Such research tends to concern itself with the most popular game because it draws the financial backing.

A consequence is that Texas has some great game birds that are little known by hunters and there is very little research being done on their numbers and problems.

Although most of these neglected species are concentrated in the coastal prairies and adjacent rice lands, two species are widespread within Texas. The common snipe, a shorebird, will occur anywhere in the state if sufficient water provides the necessary shallow wetlands for probing.

A seven-year study by scientists with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station showed that this species reacts quickly to changing water levels. Dr. Keith Arnold, who made the study, is a professor of ornithology and ecology at Texas A&M University.

Snipe will abandon an area overnight if water levels rise rapidly. Conversely, Arnold says snipe will move into an area within a few days after inundation when moist grounds provide adequate feeding areas. Common snipe wintering in east-central Texas tend to return year after year to the same local area.

The strong, erratic flight of this species makes it a challenge to the shooting ability of any hunter.

"The American woodcock, also a shorebird, is generally restricted to the eastern third of the State, depending upon the amount of moisture in a given winter," according to Arnold.

"This bird, a resident of moist thickets, has a loyal following of hunters who believe any other bird hunting is mundane. The woodcock stays close to the ground and flushes only when the hunter is almost on it; it is a startling experience to have a woodcock explode into the air from a short distance away."

The other neglected gamebirds include two large rails, the clapper and the king, and two gallinules, the purple and the common.

All are relatives of the American coot or mudhen, and all inhabit thickly vegetated marshes where they prefer to disappear into the sedges and grasses when disturbed. Only when hard pushed will they take flight.

The king rail inhabits the freshwater marshes and rice lands, while the look-alike clapper rail is restricted to saltwater areas. The gallinules generally prefer freshwater.

Swifts Outlast Longhorns 14-8

Nazareth recorded its first 2-B North Zone victory of the year by knocking off arch-rival Lazbuddie 14-8.

The Swifts, now 3-3, scored all their points in the second quarter when flanker Neil Wihelm ran 20 yards and Derwin Huseman ran one yard. Huseman kicked both PATs.

Lazbuddie, now 3-3, scored on a 3-yard run by Charleson Steinbock in the fourth period and Steinbock passed to Mike Windham for the extras.

Nazareth, now 1-1 in zone play, had 203 total yards—all on the ground—and Lazbuddie, now 1-2 in zone, had 59 rushing and 63 passing, hitting on 6 of 13 aeriels.

In addition, we could be sure that these great game birds wouldn't die out. Arnold cites the case of the Attwater's prairie chicken which is still on the endangered species list but is beginning to make a comeback thanks to the efforts of Experiment Station researcher, Dr. Nova Silvy and the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

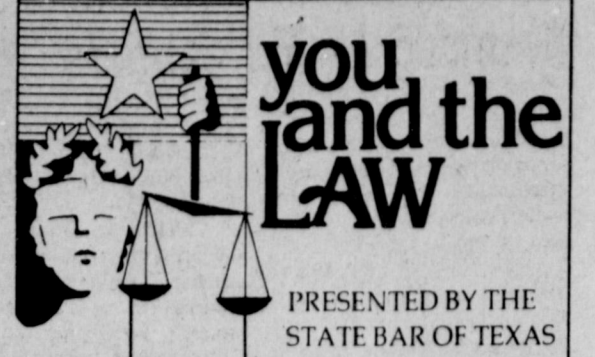

Silvy, through research, discovered that this prairie chicken was dying out because of a lack of suitable nesting area and food supply. Correction of these problems is helping this gamebird to begin a come-

Comprehensive population counts, habitat studies and other research is needed, according to Arnold. If such research were done and then combined with hunter harvest studies, we'd be in a position to update game laws and capitalize on a great hunting resource.

Q: After the buyer and I signed the contract of sale for my home, the buyer decided to back out of the deal. What can I do?

A: If the buyer put down earnest money for the sale, you may retain that earnest money. Another alternative generally allowed is for you to bring suit to compel the buyer to go through with the sale. Remember, the real estate contract should specify the remedies available to both parties if a breach of contract takes place.

Q: My sister and I are over 65. Our small pensions barely cover the costs of keeping up two households. What we want to know is this: Is it legal for brothers and sisters to marry in Texas? If we married, we could draw spouses pensions and make ends meet.

A: The law is very specific in this area. You may not marry your sister. The law says a marriage is void if one marries a brother or sister or a half brother or sister. It goes on to say that marriages are not allowed with a parent's brother or sister of the whole or half blood. Nor may one marry an ancestor or descendant by blood or adoption.

Q: My son has gotten a summer job at a barbecue restaurant. The owner says he'll pay my son $2 an hour in cash, but no tax will be taken out of his pay. He does this with all of his employees. Is this legal? Can my son get into any trouble?

A: Your son can get into trouble under this arrangement and so can the employer. Your son has a duty to see that the employer withholds payroll taxes. True, your son is in a tough position, not wanting to jeopardize his job. If he makes more than $750 this summer, he'll have to file an income tax return and report his taxes. Eventually, IRS will come to visit his employer. The law says that an employer must withhold payroll taxes unless the job is being done by an independent contractor. Obviously, your son is not an independent contractor.

Q: Is there any law against somebody parallel parking in front of my house without permission? People park there blocking off access to my mailbox, and the postman won't deliver the mail.

A: Unless there are local zoning restrictions or ordinances outlawing parking in that location, the parking in front of your house and mailbox is allowable under Texas law. If it is an abandoned vehicle, local authorities may be able to remove it. According to postal regulations, mail service should be continued if the blockage is only temporary, but if it is continual, mail service will be interrupted. If cars park there only occasionally, about the only thing you can do is put a note on the windshield.

Send your questions to "You and the Law," State Bar of Texas, P. O. Box 12487, Austin, 78711. Answers may appear in columns in hypothetical terms; personal answers not possible.

Fashion
Today's woman is free to choose her own style when it comes to clothes. If she likes frilly, dainty things and they enhance her personality the romantic look is for her.

If she is the country type there are beautiful tailored clothes in the shops for this type of woman.

The exotic woman also has a wide choice of clothes. Many of these being shown have Spanish or Chinese accents.

Be a good sport in the woods this year. Give your dumb friends a break, and a chance to survive for another season.

Consumer Food News

COLLEGE STATION -- Beef, poultry and dairy features are among highlights at Texas grocery markets this week, according to Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

At beef counters, specials appear on both heavy and light-weight beef-including chuck roasts and steaks, round steaks, boneless roasts, ground beef and liver.

At poultry sections, economy prices on fryer chickens should stimulate consumer interests; some markets feature turkey parts at low prices, and egg prices are reasonable, Mrs. Clyatt says.

At pork counters, supplies are increasing slightly--and features include Boston butt roasts, quarter loin cut into chops and smoked picnics.

At dairy counters, specials include yogurt, sour cream and various cheeses.

In fresh vegetable departments, head lettuce is plentiful.

Other items worth considering include cabbage, carrots, cucumbers, dry yellow onions, soft and hard-shell squash, broccoli and potatoes, the specialist reports.

At fresh fruit counters, it is the season of change--from summer to fall fruits, so in general, prices are slightly higher, Mrs. Clyatt says.

As supplies of summer fruits dwindle, prices increase, and these include peaches, nectarines, plums and cantaloupe.

Also, new-crop items, such as cranberries, have higher first-of-the-season prices--and, although some citrus is harvested it will not be plentiful for several weeks.

Fruits with moderate-to-economical prices include apples, pears, persimmons, avocados, grapes and bananas, the specialist says.

CONSUMER WATCHWORDS: To choose the best head of lettuce, avoid the "hard heads." Select a head that's "bouncy" but not too loose.

Convert empty bottles into attractive terrarium gardens.

Make your youngster's personal T-shirts by cutting out the letters in his or her name (using knit fabric) and machine-applique to the shirt.

Using a caulking gun can defend your home against cold. Seal cracks around window and door facings that let drafts enter your home.

For cool evenings at home, knit or crochet a long shawl to wear inside or outside. Keep it handy when the heat is turned on—it will help you keep warm as you conserve energy.

Select and order spring-flowering bulbs now for planting (in most areas) during late September or October. Plant in areas that receive four to six hours of direct sunlight.

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa, I know how you felt as I was in the same way. I was blind in the left eye and couldn't see a car 100 feet ahead of me.

In 1971 I had surgery and I was frightened to death. I was in the hospital eight days that time but had my glasses in six weeks and could drive my car again.

In 1972 I had my right eye operated on and was in the hospital only three days at that time. I've never had any ill effects and I can see the edge on my knife when I sharpen it.

Removing the stitches the first time worried me but I didn't remove them the second time and had no trouble. I know another couple who had the same operation and no problems. You do have to be careful at first of a sudden jar and you should get plenty of rest. Drinking is not good. Sure feels good to see again.

M.G.—Ark.

Answer:

Thanks very much for a nice letter. It will probably give comfort to many people who are contemplating having cataracts removed from their eyes.

I personally am still using my eyes a great deal and driving. As you express it—it sure feels good to see again.

Cindy Harris Is Installed HERO Leader

The HERO Chapter met Tuesday night, September 29, for officer installation, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Gramling, was held before a short business meeting.

A table was set in front of the fireplace and a bouquet of red roses, one for each officer was placed in the center. On either side of the bouquet were four white candles in red candleholders. The installing officer, Anna Hernandez, was standing in the center behind the table and the officers stood on each side. The President was installed by first lighting a candle, stating the duties of her office and receiving a red rose. Each officer was installed in the same manner in this order: President Cindy Harris, 1st Vice-President Francis Brown, 2nd Vice-President Jane Green, Secretary Melody Mauldin, Treasurer Robert Moreno, Historian Christene Vela, Reporter Jolinda Hawkins, and Student Council Representative Nina Pitcock. The installing officer then wished for Cindy Harris to have a good year and do a good job as President. The meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served.

Brad Baker, a member of the Muletrain Staff, joined us for this formal occasion to take pictures for the Muletrain. The HERO chapter has been working on their impact projects for the year. One activity was selling tickets for a pre-game supper to help the Lion's Club. Also all the members contacted most of the businesses in town to ask for their donation to the blood drive. The HERO's have gotten off to a good start.

Consumer Revolt?

WASHINGTON—Consumers nationwide finally may be sending a strong message to Washington about the extent of federal intrusion in their everyday lives, and it has the ring of revolt to it.

The message is loud and clear, and it is reflected in two issues Congress is reconsidering now: rejection of the Transportation Department's June 30 requirement that all new automobiles be equipped with inflatable air bags by 1984, and the Food and Drug Administration's proposed ban on the artificial sweetener, saccharin.

Both are disturbing examples of government overstepping its bounds into areas in which the public should be left the option to decide for itself, and both, quite understandably, have drawn a groundswell of opposition, not only from Texans, but from all other Americans who are concerned about the steady erosion of individual decision-making.

Air bags and other so-called passive restraint systems bring to mind the regulatory fiasco several years ago involving a requirement that Detroit place interlocking seat belts in all new cars. Washington's effort to enforce safety required that drivers buckle seat belts before cars would start. The public outcry was immediate and overwhelmingly opposed. Government decided arbitrarily that the best solution to traffic hazards rested with government, but public opinion was so vocal that Congress was forced to repeal the expensive and unwanted regulation.

The Secretary of Transportation's air bag ruling, which could become effective as soon as October 13 unless Congress votes to rescind it, is another example of a rule deemed necessary by Washington's faceless bureaucracy which is based on little supporting documentation.

So far, the available evidence—from laboratory simulations—concludes that only marginal drops in fatalities would result from air bag devices, yet consumers could expect automatic price increases in the $200-$600 range regardless of the effectiveness. Moreover, the Secretary seems to be ignoring data from his own test experts concluding that current seat belt systems save 50 per cent more lives than proposed air bag systems.

The saccharin ban, however, may be a more convincing example of the public's low boiling point with government regulation, and the storm of protest after its announcement was not lost on the Congress. The Senate's recent vote to delay the proposed effective date for 18 months for more conclusive evidence of the alleged harmful effects was a direct result of public opposition.

Congressional action to repeal or delay these unwarranted and costly infringements on the public, which I have sponsored, stems from a growing awareness that society has a right to make risk/benefit judgments for itself, free from a paternalistic and presumptuous government.

The message is clear: Washington does not have all the answers, and the public, in no uncertain terms these days, is making sure Washington understands that fact.

Thomas P. O'Neill, House Speaker, on B1 bomber: "We should go into SALT talks with strength."

Cyrus R. Vance, Secretary of State: "A constructive relationship with China is important, not only regionally, but also for global equilibrium."

DECA Has New Donated Merchandise

If you stepped into the DECA room this past week, you probably noticed the rearranging going on along with the clutter of cleaning. The reason for the rearranging was that Mr. Carson of Perry Bros. Inc., donated three display counters that he had replaced at Perry's. So the members got busy and moved the counters around, polished them up, and re-stocked their merchandise. The counters gave DECA much more room to display their supplies and make room for even more supplies.

The school store sells merchandise and the profit is used to send DECA members to Area and State Contest. The store also provided work experience for Pre-Employment laboratory students.

The DECA members would like to thank Mr. Clayton for donating these counters and to remind everyone to "Shop DECA Mercantile First."

Wild Ones Battle Bad Blues To Win

Monday, October 3, was the war date for the Powderpuff football game. Close to 100 students participated in that contest. Many of all were friends, but from the first quarter to the last buzzer they all competed in a sportsmanlike way.

The Bad Blues were the first to score but the Wild Ones were not far behind. When the half timer buzzer sounded the score was Bad Blue 14 and Wild Ones

8. The half-time festivities were headed by the Mickey Mouse Band led by Terry Durben. Following this activity was the coronation of the King for each team. For the Wild Ones, Danny Wilson, escorted by Beverly Biggerstaff, was named King. The attendants and their escorts were Dave Poyner and Gina Burden, Marcus Beversdorf and Lauri Burgess, Mark Harmon and Shelly Dunham, and David

White and Glenda Rasco. The Bad Blue King was Martin Nowlin, escorted by Dani Dunham. The attendants and escorts were Keith Hawkins and Michelle Agee, Curtis Carpenter and Shae Penna, Martin Lopez and Stephanie Brantley, and Jeep Shanks and Susan Crittenden.

The second half was more exhilarating than the first. The score saw-sawed back and forth until the last minute. The Wild Ones scored to tie the game at 22 all. Their effort for the extra points were successful and the final score was Bad Blue 22, Wild Ones 24.

The Muleshoe FTA Chapter expresses congratulations to the members and coaches of the Wild Ones. Also congratulations to Martin Nowlin and Danny Wilson. The chapter would also like to say thank you to the public for coming and helping support their organization.

FHA Rose Chapter To Plan Project

Friday night, September 30, the Rose FHA Chapter and the Muleshoe Young Homemakers served a spaghetti supper before the Abernathy game.

Many learning experiences are provided by such a project. Some meat sauce is frozen and for sale in the Homemaking department.

Wednesday morning, October 5, an officers meeting was held in the kitchen to make plans for October. A general FHA meeting will be held at 6:00 p.m. in the cafeteria October 10, all FHA members and prospective members are urged to come. Deadline for paying dues will be November 1.

Canyon Falls To Freshmen

The Muleshoe Freshman won their second game of the season by defeating Canyon 28 to 6. The Mules took a quick lead of 14 to 0, only to see Canyon come back with a touchdown to make the score 14 to 6 at half time.

In the second half, the Muleshoe Mules got two quick touchdowns to open a big lead and to win 28-6.

The Mule defensive played a good game. Other than giving up only one touchdown, they never allowed Canyon inside their 40 yard line.

Charles Walker scored four touchdowns and ran an extra point for a total of 26 points. Felix Norman ran for extra points to make up the 28 points. The offensive line did a real good job of blocking. These linemen are Benton Glaze, Curby Brantley, Larry Nowell, Robert Reynero, Carroll Precure, Greg Harrison, Wesley Rasco, Marvin Lewis, and Richard Orozco.

The Mules played Dimmitt Thursday night.

CHEERLEADERS STRUT AT GAME—How about fantastic cheerleaders? All school should have such cheerleaders as the ones who were on the sidelines cheering during the Powder Puff Football game last Monday night.

Council Asks Increase In Lunch Hour

Student Council met Tuesday, October 4th. The Student Council had appointed a committee to check on changing the lunch hour so that it would be 15 minutes longer. The 4th, 5th and 6th period classes are 5 minutes longer than the first three. It was thought that these extra five minutes could be taken off the periods and put into the lunch hour. President Brent Gunter reported that after talking to Mr. Ethridge, his couldn't be done. The school is required to have classes that average out to 55 minutes over a 17 1/2 day period. This extra five minutes on the last three periods goes to make up for time missed because of pep rallies, assemblies, and so forth.

Curtis Carpenter reported that he would have the Homecoming Football painted in about a week.

It was put into a committee to check on putting in a student phone in the office. All the students could donate to help pay for it, and this would prevent tying up the office phone so much.

Mrs. Pylant presented the idea of getting student information folders to hand out at registration. These folders would list information regarding dress policy, sports schedules, class credits, clubs and so forth.

The skating party held Tuesday night was lots of fun for everyone who attended despite a few bruises.

Coaches Comments

Finishing the non-district schedule undefeated is a great accomplishment for our team, school, and community. We are very proud of our players for the enthusiasm they have shown through the first half of the schedule. The most important part; however, is yet to come. Our goal, from the first, was to win district 3-AA championship, and this effort will begin with the Littlefield game. We are looking forward to playing the district schedule.

Again this week the Mules dominated the statistics. The Mules had 15 first downs to the Antelopes 9, 336 yards went to the Mules while 170 went to the Antelopes.

View From The Plain

by J.D. Peer
I & E Field Officer

MUNDAY -- A new agriculture area has been stocked with 400 ringnecked pheasants in the Munday-Goree communities of Knox county.

Texas has been considered good pheasant range until recent years as the highest populations have been in the Panhandle and on the coast.

"These young birds were brought in from the Tyler management and research station last week and released on excellent pheasant habitat," said Richard DeArment, extension wildlife biologist.

"The birds will be given full protection as the three-year program progresses," DeArment continued.

Additional yearly stockings of pheasant will be done in the same general area of this farming country located between Wichita Falls and Abilene.

All the necessary requirements for pheasants are found in the area including winter wheat, irrigation, grain and cover such as tree shelter belts and grasslands.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department projects such as this stocking program are done on a trial basis after thorough research of the region and agreements have been reached between participating landowners and the department.

Only after several successful years of stocking and natural reproduction of pheasants including an expansion onto surrounding farmlands, would the P&WD consider a limited hunting season.

Cooperation between the sportsmen and landowners of Knox county and the P&WD must be maintained to insure the successful stocking of this potentially new pheasant range in Texas.

LUBBOCK -- Dry spring conditions during the 1976 nesting period have influenced the 1977 prairie chicken population with a marked decrease in the number of birds on the booming grounds.

Although his decrease was noted by Texas Parks and Wildlife Department personnel monitoring the booming-ground counts, the prairie chicken population is high compared to earlier counts in the 1960's.

Sportsmen participating in the upcoming Oct. 15-16 hunt will not notice much difference in the chicken populations as birds fly into the grain fields.

Twelve counties will be open to the prairie chicken hunting including Cochran, Hockley, Terry and Yoakum on the South Plains and Collingsworth, Donley, Gray, Hemphill, Lipscomb, Ochiltree, Roberts, and Wheeler in the Panhandle.

The daily bag limit of two birds may be taken from one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset.

Only shotguns and long bows and arrows will be allowed during the hunt. No special permit will be required by hunters but, a 1977-78 Texas hunting license will be necessary for out-of-county hunters between the ages of 17-65 years old.

Successful sportsmen last year preferred pass shooting near grain fields but, a few hunters used dogs and worked the huge native grasslands trying to jump-shoot the birds.

No community will grow and develop when its people are envious of each other.

Wage 'Indexing' Spells Price Hikes

Congress will shortly vote on a proposal that, between the lines, carries a startling message to the American public. The proposal, in effect, warns the country to expect an inflation rate of nine per cent.

Both Houses of Congress have minimum wage bills before them, and in both Houses the bills include a provision for setting future minimum wage rates at a percentage of the average hourly earnings in manufacturing industries. This provision, called indexing, is the least understood and most dangerous feature of the entire legislative package.

Let's forget, for the moment, that this feature would force an unprecedented jump in the minimum wage rate.

Let's overlook the fact that service industries, those businesses that rely on people to get the work done, would be forced to match the rate of wage increases in manufacturing, where new technology, new machines and automation boost worker productivity. A number of major groups, including the National Restaurant Association, have predicted job cuts in their industries if wages are indexed.

Let's overlook the fact that every time a major industrial organization settles a union contract, every local gas station, supermarket and restaurant will be affected without having a voice in the negotiations.

Let's even overlook the fact that Congress, by establishing this automatic mechanism for raising the minimum wage rate, would be giving up its responsibility to consider wage hikes in the light of their economic impact.

Overlooking all of these facts, there is another disturbing aspect to this proposal: It would be not only a new mechanism for setting the country's minimum wage rate, but also a new national policy whose likely results have not been fully determined. Indexing now sets the level of social security benefits, and we have had ample evidence of the disastrous consequences of this approach. What we do not know is how much worse the consequences of indexing might be when used to set the base wage throughout the nation's economy.

"What an automatic escalation provision means," Stanford University economist Dr. Thomas Sowell told the Senate, "is that we stop looking at the evidence. And we would stop at a time when a growing body of research by independent economists around the country is documenting the negative effects of the minimum wage law."

In fact, the only thing we do know about indexing is that the conservative estimates place the 1980 minimum wage rate at $3.15. To go from $2.65 to $3.15 in two years works out to an increase of nine per cent. If that's the kind of increase Congress feels is needed to keep pace with inflation, the public should certainly be told this startling fact.

Bill Loyd, President
Muleshoe State Bank

When you open or add to a savings account, you help strengthen the economy of the nation. Your money creates wealth when the Bank puts your funds to work. Businesses and farmers borrow from banks to finance buildings, new equipment, production, and distribution of goods. The use of your money has permitted expansion of production and the creation of jobs. Governments borrow from banks in the form of selling municipal, state, and federal bonds to the banks. These bond purchases help to build schools, roads, and hospitals — which create more jobs. Individuals borrow for purchase of homes, automobiles, and other personal uses. And when individuals borrow money to purchase a home, the total economy feels the impact not only in the building of the home itself but also in the production of the furniture and appliances needed to make it livable. Savings accounts have helped this country's economy to its present position of strength. . . you can BANK on it!

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—The drive to conserve energy has attracted the interest not only of cost-conscious consumers but also of manufacturers and sellers of home insulation products.

While most are honest, there are a few who reportedly are trying to earn a fast buck through deceptive trade practices. Not only can this cost the consumer money and fail to produce energy savings, but fire safety officials report that inefficient or faulty insulating materials being used by some unscrupulous installers can result in serious fire hazards to users.

Our Consumer Protection Division attorneys point out that many conflicting claims are being made about various types of insulation. Our lawyers caution that no responsible seller of insulation can make a flat claim of savings applicable to all homes.

Some sellers are also exaggerating the efficiency of their product, its price, and warranty coverage.

Most experts agree that when insulating the home the least expensive and most efficient approach is to make certain attic insulation is sufficient to insure maximum retention of both heat and cold.

Until recently most homes were insulated with an "R" (for "resistance") factor of 15. Some electric utility companies now recommend the equivalent of six inches of "R-30" value insulation. In most homes, this would mean a substantial increase in insulation.

When deciding on insulation material, you should beware that the "R" factor is the most effective way to compare types of insulation and prices. If you pay more for one particular brand of attic insulation, you should get more "R" value for your money according to the amount of square feet you have in your attic.

Remember, too, to get at least three bids on insulation jobs, since insulation usually is a major consumer purchase that can run into hundreds of dollars. You should also compare warranties on both material and labor.

One controversial device often installed in combination with insulation is the power attic fan. Theoretically, it draws hot air out and cool air into the attic, but some homebuilders say power ventilators often consume more energy than they save. Check with persons who have them to learn if they are satisfied.

It pays to be cautious if someone offers you an unusually low cost insulation program that is supposed to "dramatically reduce your energy cost." You could end up spending a lot of money and still have high heating and cooling bills.

If you have a complaint about a possible fraudulent insulation sales pitch, contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division in Austin, Houston, Dallas, San Antonio, Lubbock, El Paso or McAllen. Outside these areas, call this toll-free number: 1-800-292-9236.

Beef Outlook Holds 'Hope'

The news is not too bad for cattlemen for the remainder of 1977, and the turning of the calendar should bring more improvement.

"Cattle prices could show a little strength during the last quarter of this year, will probably hold their own in the first quarter of 1978, and should demonstrate solid gains by the second quarter," believes Dr. Ed Uvecek, livestock marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The number of fed cattle moving to market during the last quarter of 1977 is estimated a 5.5 to 5.8 million head, notes Uvecek. This will represent the lowest fed cattle marketing level of the year, even with some large placements in the July period. Feeder cattle numbers are considerably lower this year, and this lower supply promises much improved prices over last fall.

According to Uvecek, Choice Fed Steers as well as Choice Feeder Steers at the Amarillo market are expected to average about $41 to $43 per hundred-weight in the last three months of this year. There won't be much change going into the first quarter—$44 to $47 for Choice Fed Steers and $46 to $49 for Choice Feeder Steers.

"Cattle prices will continue under pressure early this fall, even though cattle slaughter—both fed and non-fed—will likely be down sharply," points out Uvecek. "Since beef production will be down, consumption of beef will also drop and could reach its lowest level since mid-1975."

This lowered beef production level could lead to some price improvement for cattlemen but improvement for cattlemen, but large supplies of broilers and pork will tend to keep the price pressure on.

XIT STEAK HOUSE

On Wall Street By Bob Hill

The medical profession is in the soup again. Malpractice insurance rates have literally skyrocketed in recent years due to massive awards by juries in malpractice court cases. Now comes an attack from another angle—fee fixing.

Critics of the medical profession are saying that medicine is so expensive that it should not be left to the doctor to decide what he should charge for treatment. In June, Joseph Califano, Secretary of Health, Education & Welfare pulled no punches in a speech to the American Medical Association. His message was a blunt warning that the U.S. can no longer afford doctors' insensitivity to cost. Califano charged in his speech that doctors have gone to the suburbs in order to develop highly lucrative practices and neglected the inner city and rural areas. He also criticized the lack of preventive medicine in the medical profession which results in the need for acute care (more expensive and less efficient) and criticized the trend to specialization, avoiding lower-paying family or primary-care areas.

Califano may be on solid political ground with his attack on the medical profession. A recent poll shows a remarkable loss of confidence in physicians in just ten years. The Marcus Welby image seems to have given way to the Mercedes-driving, golf-playing, winter-tan wealthy image. Another survey showed that 69 percent of those surveyed believed that climbing doctors' fees were the significant reason for spiraling medical costs. And, there is the malpractice hassle. Could it be that when a jury awards a huge malpractice award, it just might be a backhanded slap at the life-style of the physician for living well but not always curing well?

Unfortunately, many people believe that the medical profession has used its position of trust to make exorbitant profits.

In these days, people turn to the federal government almost automatically when they feel mistreated by special-interest groups. They forget that the federal government is the biggest special-interest group of all. Doctors are one of the last rugged individualists. But now it has become mandatory that they answer to others and not just to their own consciences.

Home Economists Win National Awards

EIGHT TEXAS HOME ECONOMISTS WIN NATIONAL AWARDS

COLLEGE STATION-- Mrs. Madeline G. Kennedy, Kleberg-Kenedy County Extension agent, is a 1977 recipient of the national Florence Hall Award--and seven other Texas county Extension agents (home economists) have earned the Distinguished Service Award--from the National Association of Extension Home Economist.

The agents will receive the awards during the national association's annual Meeting Mon.-Fri. (Sept. 19-23) in Boston, Mass.

The Distinguished Service Award is the highest honor given by the national organization to Extensions home economists from each of the 50 states--while the Florence Hall Award is a special-recognition award given to only six Extension home economists in the nation this year.

Texas' Distinguished Service Award recipients are Mrs. Judy Carlisle of Tulla, Swisher County Extension agent; Mrs. Eva Yolanda Garcia of El Paso, El Paso County Extension agent; Mrs. Irene Keating of Dimmitt, Castro County Extension agent; and Mrs. Billie Ann McMorris of Seymour, Baylor County Extension agent.

Also, Mrs. Rubye J. Ragsdale of Jasper, Jasper County Extension agent; Mrs. Patricia R. Savidge of Dallas, Dallas County Extension agent; and Johnnie Lou Weatherly, retired Cherokee County Extension agent.

The Florence Hall Award recognizes Mrs. Kennedy's leadership in initiating and implementing an Adult Sitter Clinic program, which has served as a model for similar programs in other Texas counties--and has gained national attention in the past two years with inquiries from about 30 states, according to Mrs. Juanice Boyd of Houston, awards committee chairman for the Texas Association of Extension Home Economists, which nominated Texas home economists for the awards.

The Distinguished Service Award recognizes recipients for "outstanding abilities in leading organizing and educating-in 4-H, Youth and adult Extension programs in their respective counties," Mrs. Boyd added.

Rural Areas Are Hardest Hit By Lightning, Brown Warns

AUSTIN--Four out of five human deaths or injuries from lightning take place in rural areas, Texas Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown warns farmers.

This is because isolated rural buildings and equipment are often interconnected by a network of water pipes, electric wires and metal fencing which are excellent grounding agents and attract lightning, says Brown. Also, he states, a farmer perched high in the cab of a tractor or rancher straddling a metal fence make ideal targets for lightning bolts.

Brown notes that animals are also frequently victims of this awesome electrical force, and over 80 per cent of accidental livestock losses are a result of lightning.

Like humans, animals are not nearly as often hit directly by lightning as they are electrocuted by ground currents radiating from a tree or other object, Brown notes. And since animals tend to drift under trees or against fences to seek shelter from storms, their instinctive behavior easily makes them an even greater risk, he says.

Some good can be attributed to lightning, however. It is responsible for forming nitric-oxide gas, which is returned to the soil as an enriching nitrate through precipitation.

"While lightning presents an obvious danger, both in rural and urban environments, the wise person can protect himself and his belongings," Brown states.

Cottonseed To Feed Cattle

To Make Money

Cottonseed sold this year to feed cattle and not to offset ginning costs may make growers more money.

Dr. Delmer I. Davis, a livestock specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, thinks so.

He says a cow-calf man may pay cotton growers more for their seed than a ginner.

The gin price for cottonseed closely is related to the market price for lint, and the projected market price this year about equals production costs.

Davis says whole cottonseed require little processing to be fed, contain about 20 percent natural protein, and provide for natural protein, and provide percent natural protein, and natural protein, and provide from 20 to 25 percent more feed energy than most commercial grain cubes containing 20 percent protein. Up to five pounds of cottonseed can be fed each cow per day.

He says feed-energy is critically short for a lactating cow on nearly all native ranges during the winter, the time when producers must provide supplemental energy and protein.

Whole cottonseed are also usually a good source of phosphorus, a mineral deficient in all Texas ranges. Producers must provide it as a supplement if calf growth and cow reproduction are to be maximized.

Davis says a cattleman should consider feeding whole cottonseed when its price per pound does not exceed the price for two-fifths pound of cottonseed meal containing 41 percent protein, plus the price for three-fifths pound of sorghum grain containing 10 percent protein.

Because the feeder usually cannot buy cottonseed direct from the gin, Davis recommends that the cotton grower retain ownership of the seed even after the ginning so that he may sell them later. Such direct selling, says Davis, means more profit because it eliminates a middleman.

Despite the advantages to feeding cottonseed, Davis says the cowman ought to be aware that the seed are harder to handle than wheat or shelled corn, require more storage space, and do not move as easily through an auger. The oil in the seek can also turn rancid if they are stored too long, particularly in a hot summer.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

America in its early days depended on the "GOOD BOOK" for its guide in ethics, worship, and pursuit of freedom. These early gains are now in danger of falling and we need to turn all America once again to God and His word. America can be strong only when each individual looks to God for strength.

Film-Flam
"That fellow was an impudent fraud. How did he manage to wheedle money out of you?"

"Oh, John, he told me such a sad, pitiful tale about his poor wife who was a widow with six little children..."

And Others
In a fashionable girls' school in New England the history teacher was telling the story of the settlement of the country.

"Miss Cabot," she said, "can you tell me who came over in the 'Mayflower'?"

"Yes," said the girl. "I can, my ancestors and a few other people."

Cotton Council Asks Standard Regulators

The cotton industry has asked Congress to direct regulators toward voluntary flame-retardance standards for upholstered furniture.

National cotton Council testified before the Housing Subcommittee on Consumer Protection and Finance.

As a part of oversight hearings, the House panel listened to testimony on the proposal now before the Consumer Product Safety Commission to establish a mandatory flammability standard covering both upholstery and filling materials for furniture.

Council technical representative Robert Cleaver told the lawmakers that the cotton industry favors regulations where a need is shown and where expected benefits exceed projected costs.

"A 1974 Bureau of the Census national household fire survey including 33,856 households failed to find even one injury or death attributable to upholstered furniture fires," he said.

Cleaver also said in the hearing that a means of making cellulose upholstery fabrics resistant to cigarette ignition and smoldering has not been commercialized. The only known way of making cotton batting smolder-resistant requires boric acid, which is in short supply.

He told the subcommittee that the national rush to insulate home has virtually dried up current sources of boric acid. The new cellulose insulation materials are treated with the chemical to make them fire-resistant.

Forcing a smolder-resistant standard now, he said, would "jeopardize the small textile mills that specialize in celulosic upholstery fabrics."

Cleaver said furniture makers are willing to observe voluntary standards to improve furniture fire resistance, but cannot immediately comply with provisions as rigid as those that have been proposed. The cotton industry's stepped-up research program in this area currently totals about $500,000 per year. Cleaver told the panel that results from applied research might be forthcoming in one to three years and from basic research in two to five years.

"The cotton industry, therefore, supports a voluntary standard which would incorporate feasible interim steps and furniture industry and its suppliers could take to reduce upholstered furniture fires, but which would not implement a composite test for cigarette ignition until 1981.

"We feel this is an orderly approach which CPSC should be encouraged to take through the direction of this committee," he added.

Lone Stardrama successful

GALVESTON — "The Lone Star" cast played the final show of its first season to an audience of more than a thousand people September 4 in the Mary Moody Northern amphitheatre in Galveston Island State Park.

Roughly 30 thousand people have attended the drama since it premiered June 30, and judging from enthusiastic standing ovations, over 100 curtain calls and a bombardment of autograph requests, it was well received.

Backstage, the traditional good luck wish "break a leg" was taboo for this particular cast. Actor Richard Boone started off the season's mishaps when he broke his ankle on the way to the preview performance.

Since then cast members have suffered such injuries as a cracked rib, broken wrist, fractured ankle and sprained back.

As if runaway horses and windblown scenery weren't enough problems for the cast to deal with, many performers attempted to interrupt on-stage composure by playing tricks on one another.

Sam Houston shook many a toothpaste-filled hand and Santa Anna squelched cries of surprise as he opened his Mexican proclamation to find the Texan Declaration of Independence in its place instead.

Texas City resident Bill Ferguson was the most faithful viewer recorded by the company as he attended 18 performances. Mrs. Northern, benefactor of the show and namesake for the amphitheatre, attended nine full performances and a good portion of another.

"The Lone Star" plans to open its second season in mid-April. Auditions will be held in Galveston, Houston and Dallas in February.

Despite hurricane warnings and threats of rising water, attendance figures of the show's last four days surpassed the previous weekly increases. Hurricane Anita prompted cancellation of one show, the only performance missed the entire season.

"The Lone Star" attracted visitors from 40 different states as well as from Hol-

The heat pump

"THE ELECTRIC SAVINGS MACHINE"

BUYING, BUILDING, REMODELING?

It's time to consider the heat pump. Southwestern Public Service Company can suggest the system that will give you the most for your energy dollar, and come up with some accurate information on installation and operating costs.

The heat pump is the electric savings machine. And usually a machine of such sensitive operation calls for a lot of space and some pretty technical installation procedures. NOT SO WITH THE HEAT PUMP! "Split systems" — most adaptable to homes — consist of an outdoor and indoor section, easily tucked away in a closet, garage, basement or attic. The single package unit looks very similar to a central air-conditioning unit that's placed outdoors. Both systems can be installed in most every home or office that has central air ducts. If you're buying, building or remodeling, it's time you said...

"Yes, the heat pump!"
