Jap Convoy Was Headed to Shores

By ELDON OTTENHEIMER

More than 25,000 Japanese soldiers faced a stiff battle in the Philippines today because an attacking American amphibious force beat a reinforcing Japanese convoy into Niiponese-held Ormoc harbor on Leyte, west coast. The Japanese force of 13 ships, including seven destroyers and an estimated 4,000 troops, was completely destroyed.

A United States destroyer and destroyer-transport were sunk by American guns after they had been disabled by Japanese planes. Radio Tokyo admitted today a tidal wave and "small damage" resulted from an earthquake which jarred seismographs throughout the world yesterday.

In a coordinated attack with B-24 Liberators, Lightning fighters and warships, B-29 Fortresses hit Iwo Jima in the Bonin-Volcano islands yesterday, it was announced by the 20th air force in Washington. Shore installations were bombarded by the surface ships while the planes worked them over from above.

Tokyo also said American B-29's were on the prowl over their capital for the second successive day. They dropped no bombs, the Japanese said. It was possible the planes were sent over to spot earthquake damage.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur today confirmed Japanese claims that their paratroopers had landed in the Philippines, but said that some 200 Japanese have nearly all been killed after doing some damage. Troops of the 77th American division, veterans of the Guam invasion, spearheaded the Ormoc attack. Their surprise move which

Industry Needs, Difficulties To Be Studied Here

Pointing up the emphasis now being placed on the protection from the office and men at the war front, the U. S. manpower commission has begun a survey of the manpower situation in the immediate vicinity of Pampa.

The commission study, under the supervision of Ray E. Bozeman, utilization supervisor, Amarillo office, will seek to determine why there is not sufficient labor in the area to take care of the essential war industry needs.

Clinton C. Allen, also of the Amarillo office, will aid in the project.

Bozeman explained yesterday afternoon that the survey will seek to discover conditions that contribute to difficulties in recruiting manpower, especially for Cabot carbon black plants which are assuming more importance as the war progresses. The federal government has announced that the products manufactured here are placed high on the critical materials list.

Specific operation methods and policies, Bozeman said, will be studied along with community problems which include housing, transportation, recreation, child care, food shortage, and shopping facilities. The status of these problems, he observed, are often responsible for absenteeism and turnover of workers in vital war industries throughout the country.

Several weeks are expected to be devoted to the study, it was announced.

Reduced Rate On Communications Is Being Sought

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Kent Cooper, executive director of the Associated Press, said today reduced press communications rates, by stimulating a free flow of news, could "pave the way to a more permanent peace."

Cooper, an advocate of the free exchange of news throughout the world, said in an address prepared for the 49th annual meeting of the National Association of Manufacturers:

"The fact that such communications systems as there are between some countries have invoked either censorship or such heavy charges as to stifle news exchange efforts by agencies of the press.

"Censorship can suppress news exchange. Exorbitant communication rates can effect the same result since there are limitations to the finances of newspapers.

"I should like to see a rate of one or two cents a word between any two capitals in the world," he said. "But the can bring present levels, Cooper said, "is not a grant to our press by which it may gain additional prosperity."

"It is not our press that needs it," he said. "But it can bring the establishment of a self-supporting press in many countries. Principally it is a necessary bulwark of peace for all peoples.

"Right here in our country," Cooper pointed out, "we have an example of what news communications between communities or states can do if buttressed by the grant of a free press.

"Here the welding influence of quick communications of news by telegraph, telephone, newspaper and radio is gratifyingly obvious. x x x

Sanitary Code Will Be Studied at Meet

James B. Massa, retiring president of the Panhandle Waterworks and Sewerage association, announced today the opportunity to study that body to be held in Amarillo, Thursday, Dec. 14, at the city hall, for a round-table discussion of the proposed state sanitary code.

E. Huffines, Berger, sanitary engineer, was announced as the leader of this discussion. This is the regular monthly meeting of the association, and a dinner has been arranged for the members at 7:15 p. m.

Nubbins Reported In Good Condition

DENVER, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Forest (Nubbins) Hoffman is in "very good condition" and ate a substantial breakfast, attendants at Mercy hospital reported today.

The three-year-old boy who had a Christmas party almost three weeks ago because his parents were afraid he might not live until Dec. 25, apparently came through a delicate bladder operation yesterday with an excellent chance of recovery, his doctor said.

Understanding Is Reported On Foreign Issue

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—British Ambassador Halifax said today that the United States and British government had achieved "understanding" on the Greek and Italian political issues. (See Col 8.)

He spoke to reporters after a conference with Secretary Stettinius at the state department. He did not define "understanding" or say whether there now is agreement between Washington and London on future handling of political issues in Italy and Greece.

Meeting newsmen outside Stettinius' office, the ambassador said he believed the result of the current clash of views would be to strengthen the unity of the United States and Britain by making both sides be more careful hereafter to consult on every issue of common interest.

"I don't think we need be unduly excited about what has happened," Halifax said. "The note now should be one of substantial understanding in the certainty that it will be the purpose of the two governments to consult together on all future occasions and to share their friendly counsel at all times.

The situation which brought Halifax to the state department also sent Prime Minister Churchill to Commons today to defend the use of British troops in Greece and the British veto of Count Sforza as a premier or foreign minister in Italy.

In both cases the United States had laid down the policy of favoring freedom of choice by the people of their respective government. It had made clear its opposition to Britain's veto of Sforza but the declaration on Greece had not shown whether the United States actually objected under its policy to the use of British troops.

Halifax, who said he thought Churchill's speech in Commons was a choice between the Greek people to have a free hand in selecting their government through free elections or whether it is to be anarchy or a minority coup d'etat in Greece. I don't myself favor anarchy or a coup d'etat.

Citizens Vote On School Question

All the 3,358 persons qualified to vote in the election to create a Junior college district in the Pampa independent school district who can possibly go to the polls tomorrow are urged by the chamber of commerce and the school board to express themselves for or against the measure.

Travis Lively, chairman of the Junior college committee of the chamber of commerce, emphasized again, is not for a bond issue but merely for the creation of a Junior college district. He repeated the committee's appeal for a full vote.

Yesterday before the Lions club and again last night at the Horace Mann school, Lively presented committee statistics supporting the contention that the building of a Junior college here would be economically sound and save the parents of Pampa students substantial amounts on their education.

"It costs an average of $700 a year to send students to colleges downstate," Lively estimated. "I feel sure that parents will recognize this as a conservative estimate. Pampa sends approximately 30 per cent of its high school graduates to college, which is far above the national

Woman Is Found Dead, Apparent Victim of Gas

Mrs. Cleopatra Newman was fatally overcome last night by what is believed to have been carbon monoxide gas from a heater in her apartment in the Smith building, corner Russell and Foster.

The wife of Jerry Newman, civilian attendant at the non-commissioned officers' club located in that building for about three months, she was discovered by her husband about 11:45 after earlier in the evening eating dinner with her and their child, Henry Guy, who was also in a critical condition for some time after the discovery. The child, six months old, was treated at the Worley hospital.

Justice of the Peace D. R. Henry and a jury of six concluded she had died accidentally. Autopsy was performed by Dr. R. A. Webb.

Chief of Police Ray Dudley said investigation by his department indicated she had died from gas emanating from a gas stove which was burning high. She was found in her night clothing near the front door of the apartment.

The body is being prepared by the Duemmel-Carmichael company for burial. Rites will be arranged.

CHANCES OF WAR: CARELESS STEP SAVES SHAMROCK MAN'S LIFE

SHAMROCK, Dec. 8.—Posterior falls may be a howl on the screen to an audience of the local movie theater, but to Lieut. Harlan W. Hugg, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Hugg of this city, it was more than a body-shaking event.

It saved his life! Lieut. Hugg, a plans and operations officer for a United States engineer general service regiment in France, was head of a reconnaissance survey party which was planning the rehabilitation of railroad bridges across the Moselle river. Four of the five bridges under study offered no means of crossing, their center spans shattered either by artillery fire or bombardment. It was to the fifth bridge that Lieut. Hugg proceeded alone.

"As I approached this bridge," said the lieutenant, "I was aware of an unnatural silence across the river. The enemy had been reported to be still in that vicinity. Everything remained peaceful until I reached the center of a narrow steel girder in the middle of the bridge. It was then, at about

Social Security Is Before Senate For Extension

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The Senate poised for a decision today on bills freezing the social security payroll tax and extending the President's extraordinary war powers.

The bills, among this session's most important, have passed the House and come before the Senate without change. Approval of the war powers extended by both the Senate and the President is a different matter.

Many lawmakers expect Mr. Roosevelt to veto the freeze bill if the Senate follows the lead of the House, where it passed by a vote of 262 to 72. A two-thirds majority of both Houses is necessary to override a veto.

The 1945 social security law called for an automatic doubling Jan. 1, 1942, of the one per cent payroll tax on employers and employees. Three times Congress has blocked the rise on the ground the social security reserve fund is ample.

The fund now stands at nearly $6,000,000,000 with receipts coming in at the rate of $100,000,000 a month. Benefit payments during the last fiscal year were about $184,000,000.

In the past, Mr. Roosevelt has backed the social security board's contention that the fund should be built up now when payrolls are high, to prepare for the future when beneficiaries will number millions.

The measure extending the war powers act continues until Dec. 31, 1945, the President's control over rationing and the allocation of vital war materials.

Smoke Rationing Being Studied

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Senators investigating the cigarette shortage sought today to determine the feasibility of increasing production and of rationing available stocks.

These are two questions raised by a preliminary inquiry made by staff investigators for the Senate war investigating committee. The answers will be pursued at a public hearing Wednesday.

The preliminary investigation indicates that while troops overseas have suffered along with their folks back home, Chairman Mead (D-Ky) reported, adequate supplies have been earmarked for them.

Difficulties in shipping, unloading and delivery, which have kept smokes from reaching the front lines are being ironed out by the war department, Mead said.

The shortage apparently is due in large measure to doubling of the armed forces' requirements since last year.

As a result, shortages at home likely will continue, the chairman said, and added:

"The principal question with respect to civilian supplies concerns the fair distribution of available stocks throughout the country."

While he believes some increase in production is desirable, the committee wants to look into manpower and facility problems facing manufacturers.

Saarbrücken Feels Blow of Big Guns

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press War Editor
American artillery hammered Saarbrücken ceaselessly today as U. S. Third army forces pushed a steel arc against the Saarland capital, driving 1½ miles into the Siegfried line and biting into Forbach, French town 3½ miles southwest of the city.

In Hungary, a battle of rising intensity surged toward besieged Budapest. The heavily armored right wing of Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin's Third Ukrainian army drove up the Danube's west bank to within little more than 15 miles of the capital and the Germans threw in reserves from Vienna.

On the southern sector of the Western front U. S. Seventh army forces pushed north on a 35-mile front west of the Rhine, reaching Encheberg, seven miles below the Saar border and 4½ miles west of Bitch, Maginot line town.

Other Seventh army units surged south through the Rhine valley to within four miles of Colmar, last Alsatian city in German hands. The gap between the Seventh and the French First army, pressing north, was narrowed to 32 miles and the nazis were reported withdrawing across the Rhine.

Northwest of Saarbrücken Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's troops welded three bridgeheads across the Saar river at Saarlautern. Three miles above Saarlautern, Patton's crossing of the river reached the Pachener-Buchwald forest eight miles inside Germany. His deepest penetration of the Reich thus far.

Infantry broke into Furstenhausen, 4 1/2 miles west, and Grand Roselle, six miles southwest of Saarbrücken. Nine miles southeast of the Saar capital, the Germans clung to a third of the French border city of Saareguemines east of the river. British American infantry was beating up nazis captured Eitling, seven miles to the southeast, and the Germans position at Saareguemines became increasingly precarious.

The Germans on the allied northern flank appeared to be preparing to fall back on the Cologne plain almost to the Rhine for an all-out stand.

The Third Ukrainian army in Hungary, taking prisoners at the rate of 2,000 a day, widened a grip along the Danube from the frontiers of Yugoslavia and Rumania. Tolbukhin's drive up the Danube seemed to be coordinated with the assault of Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Ukrainian army from Zaporozh, now in action with the First Ukrainian army to seal off Budapest from the northeast and complete its investment.

British and Polish troops in Italy, driving through rain and fog, widened their bridgehead over the Lamone river southwest of Faenza, capturing three villages. The allied command disclosed that the First Canadian corps, now in action with the Eighth army, was the unit which broke through between the Lamone and Montone rivers and brought about the capture of Ravenna on the Adriatic coast.

sition to a vote of confidence, denied his government had broken any agreements with the United States on Italy.

A debate opened after Churchill sat down. Tom Driberg, independent, charged the Prime Minister with an unworthy piece of blackmail in throwing out this sort of a challenge.

"Predicting Churchill would not be dismissed by this largely servile House," Driberg declared. "He says that we know where we are going. I think he is going against world opinion."

The specific issue was an amendment by Laborite Seymour Coats calling upon the House to express regret that the recent speech by King George VI gave no assurance that British forces would not be used to disarm the friends of democracy in Greece and other parts of Europe or to suppress these popular movements which have voluntarily assisted in the defeat of the enemy.

"If what is called in this amendment the action of the friends of democracy," cried Churchill scornfully, "is to be interpreted as a carefully planned coup d'etat by murder gangs and by the iron rule of ruffians seeking to climb into the seats of power without a vote, then I have no objection to favor it—that is to masquerade as democracy. I think the House will be united in condemning it as a mockery."

Churchill bluntly said the government could not stand for a "gang of men from the mountains" overthrowing constitutional authority by violence in Greece.

Assessing British troops had to fight left-wingers there, he challenged: "If I am to blame for this action, I will gladly accept dismissal of the House, but if I am not dismissed, make no mistake about it, we shall persist in this policy of clearing Athens and the Athens regions of all those who are opposed to the constituted authority of Greece."

He repeated British objections to Stora by declaring: "We do not trust the man nor would we put the slightest confidence in any government of which he is a dominant member."

When Stora returned to Italy from United States exile, Churchill said, he pledged support to the government of Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio for the duration of the armed struggle but immediately began a series of intrigues against Badoglio.

The prime minister stood pat on British troops' intervention in Belgium, also. He said the troops under orders of Gen. Eisenhower patrolled the streets of Brussels and prevented a November putsch to destroy the Perlot government and "Gen. Eisenhower's decisions were absolutely right."

Churchill's stater about Stora and Italy brought shouts of "De Gaulle" from the back benches. "Churchill replied: 'I can certainly never feel about De Gaulle the sentiments which experience has engendered in me about Count Stora. De Gaulle is a man of honor and has never broken his word.'"

Declaring again his pledge to "stand upon the foundation of a free election based upon universal suffrage" in the liberated lands, he most searching inquiry into the policy which we have pursued in Belgium, Holland, Italy and Greece.

In a broadside defense of his policy, as he concluded an 80-minute address, Churchill declared: "I have no fear at all that the most searching inquiry into the policy which we have pursued in Belgium, Holland, Italy and Greece, will be made."

Forward-Looking Policies Are Adopted by Industry In Order To Avoid Slump in Post-War America

Private industry's post-war program includes construction of such modern aircraft as the PAA luxury Clipper, above, which will cruise "above the weather" at 300 miles an hour.

By S. BURTON HEATH
NEA Staff Writer

Notwithstanding its preoccupation with war production, private industry has given a great deal of thought to what it is going to do after the war.

On the whole, it can be said that most established industries will resume civilian production with substantial increase in output. The Greyhound corporation has placed orders with Consolidated-Vultee and General Motors for a new type of bus that will use air-cooled motors and incorporate features developed in aviation.

Pan-American World Airways is prepared to order 149-passenger strato liners capable of cruising at 300 miles an hour, flying from California to Honolulu non-stop in eight hours at the lowest rate in ocean air-transport history.

The railroads in many instances are considering new low competitive rates and in all instances are planning on up-to-date equipment that will make travel swifter and more pleasant.

The American Export Lines announce that the keel of the first post-war design cargo ship, the Exchequer, has been laid in Baltimore, and that as soon as possible others will be added. The principal feature of fast, modern freighters now being built appears to be a big increase in refrigeration space.

R. H. Macy Co., New York department store, has set aside one day each week for small manufacturers to meet with the store's buyers and discuss what the consumer can plan for their postwar reconversion accordingly.

The forward-looking policies which these news items illustrate show how alive American industry is to the postwar task it faces—how dynamic is industry's approach to the problem of keeping the national economy from slumping, once war's stimulus is removed, to the low level from which war rescued it.

Students Favor 'Teen Canteen'

Enthusiasm is running high among the high school students following tentative acceptance of the Broadway tea plant for a "teen canteen" announcement of plans for the redecoration of the building into a Western-style salon to be called "The Lariat," it was reported today.

Members of the Youth Council, who have been working on the project of creating a youth center in Pampa, all year, regard these moves, announced by Lieb Langston to a joint meeting of the Youth and Adult Councils Monday night, as a significant success for their efforts.

All of the clubs in the high school, notably the Latin, Spanish, Tri-Hi-Y, Hi-Y, and Quill and Scroll clubs, have been active in trying to establish the center.

Honorary members of the Youth Council include Jean Paxson, president, Charles Spencer vice-president, Bonnie Nell McBee, secretary, John Robert Laine, Joella Shelton, Edna Mathieu, Frances Mathieu, Bobby Parkinson, Marjorie Roth, Shirley Stone, Zita Kennedy, Erna Lee Kennedy, Mary Jo Galloway, Anna Barnett, Juanita Reeves, Taty Cary, Jim Hunter, Jack Dunham, Joyce Pratt, Jean Pratt, Jeanie Conyers, and Richard McGuire.

Several high school boys were reported to be offering to do the redecoration.

Unrestricted Trade in Cotton Is Urged

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—(AP)—Unrestricted trading in American cotton at world market prices levels was projected before a House committee yesterday as the only way to move domestic surpluses.

Recommending adjustment payments to farmers in the transition period when their income would fall off under the free trade plan, spokesmen for Southern Bankers and National Cotton Seed Products association declared there was no other lasting solution to the cotton problem.

A. L. M. Wiggin, past president of the American Bankers association, appearing as spokesman for banks in cotton-producing states, noted that the banks in the South are dependent almost entirely on agriculture, particularly cotton. They long have advocated diversified farming to supplement and stabilize farmer income, he said.

Referring to a trend toward international economic collaboration, he raised the question as to whether there would be an unrestricted flow of industrial products if such a policy was carried into effect regarding agriculture. Then he commented that under a free economy—the American cotton producer would have a "constant pull on his income" by producers in foreign countries with low-cost labor.

"We cannot believe that such a program will be tolerated in this country unless means are utilized to compensate the cotton farmer in some other way than to leave him to the mercy of a world price for cotton," he added.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ON SERVICEMEN'S PROBLEMS
BY ANN STEVICK
NEA Staff Correspondent

Q. What are chances of older soldiers getting home to have a family at war's end, on the order of the British "Baby Leave" plan?

A. So far army spokesmen say the British Baby Leave plan of furloughing older men home to be fathers hasn't influenced army thinking when it comes to adding up the points soldiers will get for their going-home score at the end of European war.

Older soldiers get no special points under the system announced after an opinion poll of soldiers in the field. Credits is given for months of service, months spent overseas, medals earned and for the first three dependent children under 18 years of age.

These points will add up to scores which will decide whether your soldier comes home after the theater commander declares what numbers and types of men can be spared. After that it's a question of finding ships to bring them home, so nobody can promise that a soldier will come home at once even if he rates a high score.

Q. Do I have to wait around for the beginning of a regular school term to start to school under the GI Bill of Rights?

A. That will depend on what school you choose. Temple University, at Philadelphia, has already begun special courses for ex-service people, starting five times a year. Other schools are making plans for short, snappy courses for veterans, so you won't have to waste months getting started.

When he returned to the apartment some time around 11:45 he found his wife lying at the door. He placed her on a studio couch; and, noting the child's condition also, rushed out to call a physician. He forgot his key, and locked the door behind him. When he returned he was quoted as saying he had to break a glass to gain entrance.

'One Moment of Greatness . . .

Planned by Sgt. Vic Donahue from a Combat Report by Sgt. Pete Zurlinden

(1) In the invasion of Salpan, a certain Marine platoon was given the job of cleaning out a Jap pocket which was impeding the advance up the western coast. Shy, quiet Norman Arsenault, an 18-year-old private from Lawrence, Mass., was a member of this platoon. (2) The Japs were imbedded in a deep crevice in the face of a seven-foot cliff. Lying in a prone position, they opened up on the platoon with a murderous machine-gun and rifle fire. (3) Arsenault and his companions were pinned down behind the limestone boulders that separated the cliff from the sea. Realizing their hopeless position, Arsenault quietly left the outfit and, gripping his carbine, started to move back to the water. The lad thus began the act that will forever keep him in the memory of his buddies.

(4) Twenty feet out in the tidewater, Arsenault stood erect and began pumping bullets into the crevice. Fifty enemy guns returned his fire and hundreds of enemy bullets went singing toward him, rattling in the surf about him. (5) While Arsenault carried out this daring one-man maneuver, his buddies scrambled from behind the boulder. One by one, they began to creep to safety atop the cliff, while the Japs concentrated their fire on Arsenault. (6) Out of ammunition, Arsenault sloshed through the water to the Marines still behind the boulders. He borrowed as many ammunition clips as he could and went back to take up where he left off. (7) With all the men safely rescued, Arsenault continued to fire. Ordered to come back, he emptied one more clip. As he made for the beach, Jap bullets killed him. Next day, after the pocket had been cleaned out, Marines found some 20 victims of this young hero's carbine sprawled in the crevice. The lad none of them had gotten to know proved himself a fighting Marine beyond any doubt.

Sec. Ickes Says Oil Linked With Peace

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Interior Secretary Ickes yesterday tied up the question of an international understanding on oil with "a good peace." The cabinet officer, who also is petroleum administrator for war, told a news conference that unless the Senate gives "serious consideration" to a proposed Anglo-American oil treaty, "you might just as well forget about a good peace of a durable peace."

'Linda' Makes The Rounds Every Day

LEYTE, Philippines.—(Delayed)—Linda Darnell has been making the rounds of the night spots out here, as well as keeping quite a few afternoon engagements. Linda is the name of a self-propelled 105 mm. howitzer which has knocked out two reinforced Japanese pillboxes in the strong sector west of Dagami, wiped out an enemy reconnaissance patrol of 12 men, furnished the fire power to break a Japanese counterattack at Dagami and shot down an enemy bomber.

The lightly-armed gun carrier has traversed bogs that barred tanks, and has kept pace with our rapidly-advancing infantry. Linda's crew includes a medic, S4, John Miller, Beaumont.

Faster He Flies Colder He Flies

PARIS, Dec. 1.—(Delayed)—American soldiers, not to be outdone by Adolf Hitler's propaganda to a "secret weapons," have designed some nifty gadgets of their own. One of the most ingenious of these novel devices was invented in the Mediterranean theater of operations by Capt. John Senesny of St. Louis, Mo. Long worried over the time lost in flight by delinquent and lazy carrier pigeons, he invented a curved metal tube. "You just strap one end of the tube to the side of the pigeon's beak and the other end beneath his tail feathers," explained Senesny. "As he flies along, the cold wind whipping through the tube gets his tail cold and he steps on the gas to warm up. But the faster he flies the colder his tail gets—and the colder his tail gets the faster he flies."

Gracie Reporting

Consolidated News Features Now that German morale is getting to the stage where they can't remember whether Bismarck was a hero or a herring, along comes Congresswoman Clare Boothe Luce to Europe and she says they still more. "I heard that two nazi companies surrendered when they got a glimpse of her hat, thinking it was a new secret weapon. It takes a lot of nerve for such a brilliant and beautiful woman to get that close to the front. Mrs. Luce well may be the Allies answer to the V-2. She uses 88-mm. projectiles, has a short firing fuse, and is liable to explode in any direction. Only trouble is the generals don't know which way to aim her—the same trouble the republicans had during the election. Goodness, if she should happen to run into Secretary Harold L. Ickes both armies are going to hear a verbal battle that will make the struggle for the Saar Valley look like a Maypole dance at Bryn Mawr."

Newsprint Ration To Be Held Firmly

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The ceilings on publishers' supplies of newsprint will be retained and "rigidly enforced," the war production board announced. Col. J. Hale Steinman, director of WPA's printing and publishing division, said earlier hopes of relaxing the inventory rules had been dashed by increasing demands for paper by the armed forces.

Detroit Hit By Strikes Again

DETROIT, Dec. 7.—(AP)—A fourth strike in six weeks stalled production of army truck trailers at the Fruehauf Trailer company Thursday with 1,400 persons idle. Welders and others walked out yesterday protesting the hiring of a new supervisor and the strike spread through the plant. Edward Purdy, president of local 9, United Automobile Workers (CIO), said the union had not been properly notified of the hiring or was said the hiring of operations which he said was apparently being done by the new supervisor.

USS Perkins Launched At Orange, Texas

ORANGE, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The destroyer USS Perkins, named for the late Commodore George Hamilton Perkins, U.S.N., was launched yesterday at the yard of the Consolidated Steel corporation. Mrs. Larz Anderson of Brookline, Mass., daughter of the commodore, was sponsor of the vessel. Commodore Perkins, who died in Boston in 1899, participated in many engagements, including the actions in Fort Jackson and St. Philip on April 24, 1863; in the capture of the "Governor Moore" and three ships of the Montgomery flotilla, and the surrender of New Orleans on April 25, 1862.

'Hap' Puts Word In For Women Fliers

SWEETWATER, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Gen. I. H. Arnold, chief of the army air force, said Thursday "it is on the record that women can fly as well as men" and that in event of another national emergency the nation can count on women to fly military aircraft. The chief of the nation's sky army paid this tribute before the 8 members of the final graduating class of women airforce service pilots, a service being deactivated. WASPs on duty at more than 70 AAP installations are being released from their duties gradually, receiving certificates of service in lieu of the honorable discharges awarded military personnel, and ratings as pilots of military aircraft, which may be used in qualifying for commercial licenses. Deactivation is scheduled for completion by Dec. 20. Thus those who graduated today at the only WASP school, here at Avenger field, had nowhere to go, in the way of military assignment. Among members of the final graduating class were: Nancy L. Mayes, Newberry, S. C.

Americans Among Victims of V-Bomb

LONDON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Crashing down recently in a busy urban street in southern England, a Nazi V-bomb killed and injured a number of persons, among them American soldiers, levelled a pub, wrecked several buildings and damaged a store. The explosion blew to bits jeeps and trucks parked near a hotel, blasted a taxicab and killed its occupants, and scattered debris over a wide area. Two women walking in the street were blown to pieces. Among the bodies recovered were those of Americans. The injured likewise included Americans.

Army, Ohio State Lead AP's All America; Two Texans Named

By ORLO R. ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—The 1944 College All-America presents an array of gridiron talent dominated by Ohio State's all-victorious civilian team and the United States Military Academy's high scoring eleven.

For the first time since 1934, when Alabama, Stanford and Minnesota landed two each, The Associated Press 20th All-America team released today has more than one school with two men on the mythical eleven. And not since Notre Dame's great 1930 team has a school matched Army's feat of taking over two of the backfield positions.

Ohio State placed its great running and passing star, Les Horvath, in the backfield, along with Army's fleet Glenn Davis and hard-hitting Felix Blanchard, and landed Bill Hackett, a 191-pounder, at guard.

Horvath, playing his fourth year with the Buckeyes after a year in the Army, is the only senior on the first eleven—composed otherwise of four juniors, three sophomores, two freshmen and a navy V-12 student. There's plenty of heft in the line and backfield with the forward wall tipping the scales last year an average of 264 pounds per man and the backs averaging 182 pounds plus.

The East won nine of the spots, five with Army men and four with Middles from Annapolis. The Midwest also gained nine places while six went to the South, with five to the Southwest and four to the Far West.

Rounding out the backfield with Blanchard, Davis and Horvath is Bob Fenimore, sensational 18-year-old triple-threat star from the Oklahoma Aggies—a civilian team that lost only to the pre-studded Norman naval air base.

Named to the ends are Phil Tinsley, 6-foot, 1-inch, 188-pound V-12 student from Georgia Tech, and Hubert Bechtel, who gave the University of Texas its third All-American flankman since 1941 and its second straight.

The tackle positions are held over by two hard-charging linemen, Navy's 215-pound Don Whitmire and Southern California's 235-pound John Ferraro. Hackett's running mate at guard is Hamilton J. Nichols, a tower of strength in Rice's line.

The center goes to Caleb Van (Tex) Warrington, who, although on a losing team at Auburn, was credited with making more than 50 percent of his team's tackles during the season.

Horvath probably was the back of the year. This comparative lightweight (167 pounds) held Ohio State's freshman backs together when the going got tough as the Buckeyes rolled up their first undefeated season since 1920. He scored 12 touchdowns with at least one in every game except the Indiana contest, carried the ball 156 times for a net gain of 885 yards and completed 13 of 29 passes for 332 yards.

Davis, a 175-pound speedster from Los Angeles, who led the nation's scorers, was in the headlines every week as the Cadets rolled up impressive scores.

Blanchard was given much of the credit for making possible gains by Davis and other fleet Army backs.

A battering ram with fine kicking ability, the 200-pound Hishopville, S. C., ace in the headlines every week as the Cadets rolled up impressive scores.

Warrington never had a bad game as he led out other good centers, including Felo Prewitt of Tulsa and Bob St. Onge of Army. Several Southeast conference coaches said he was the best center they had seen in years, while Coach Carl Voyles of Auburn, who also had Tex at William and Mary before he joined the Army credited him with being at least 40 percent of the team.

Harvesters Play PAAF Officers; Seeking Other Games, Tournaments

By EB SITTON
Playing admittedly over their heads, the Harvesters, those of the squad who were not acting in 'Jamie' in the Junior high auditorium, tied the officers' team from PAAF last night in a short session in the high school gym. Score was 29-30. No individual scoring was kept, as it was only practice for both squads, but Earl Davis was clearly the best for the Harvesters, taking them from all angles and distances.

Their competition was fast and expert, for PAAF has some men who clearly are college material. They were not at their top form last night, but the local schoolboys looked good in trying them, and agreed that they were playing over their heads.

Coach Coffey ran the reserves in quite freely, and they did about as well as the starters. It was an evening of great enthusiasm, these Harvesters like their sport.

Coaches are extremely busy at basketball these days, especially Coffey who coaches two squads and is also athletic director, which means that he has to take care of the voluminous correspondence necessary to arrange games.

He has now eight games definitely scheduled, and while he could not supply all of the dates last night, he was able to say that the Childers, Panhandle, and LePors games will be on the dates previously announced tentatively.

That means that LePors will play here next Tuesday night at 7:30; Childers will be played there on Jan. 5 and here Jan. 19; and Panhandle will come over Dec. 29 to try to avenge the defeat of last Tuesday night.

Classen High of Oklahoma City has asked Coffey for a game here, and if he can get a return there, he will have two more games on his list.

Blainview has promised two games, but the dates have been changed and Coffey did not have the new dates available for announcement.

Invited to both the Fort Worth and Dallas tournaments, Coffey is hopeful that he will get to make the former, but the Dallas meet clashes with part of his tentative schedule. He is also negotiating with Canadian, Tucuman, and Hobbs.

Wichita Falls, there, Dec. 15-16; and Wichita Falls here Jan. 12-13, completes his tentative card to date. Losing heavily in regulars from last year, Coffey has had to start almost from scratch. Leland Tate, all-conference forward, Gene Robbins, captain and high scorer, Clayton Noblitt, fine guard, Dick Man-

Miami Wins Tight Defensive Game

Special to THE NEWS
MIAMI, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Last night the Miami Warriors split two games here with the Higgins Coyotes to open the basketball season. In contests marked by unusually fast and rough defensive play. The scoring was low in both games, due in part to the murderous defense that included many personal fouls.

In the game between the "A" teams, which Miami won 18-6, Locke was high-point man with 10 points, while Thurman led for the losing Coyotes with five counters. Both teams showed the need for further practice.

The game was preceded by a 25-4 victory for the Higgins "B" group over the local reserves. Dextrixie led the scoring for the visitors with nine points and Talley and Black made all of the Miami scores.

Scoring in the "A" game:
MIAMI FG FT TP
McKenzie f 1 0 2

Sooner Coach Turns Out Many Champions

(By Sooner News Service)
NORMAN, Okla., Dec. 8.—The Sooner will be hosts to SMU tonight in an inter-sectional game test for the green V-12s and 17-year-olds.

It will also test the ability of Coach Bruce Drake, whose great record is risked upon this odd assortment of material.

This is Drake's seventh season of basketball coaching, all of it at Oklahoma. He has had no high school coaching experience. In four of the six years he has coached at Oklahoma, Drake's Sooner teams won Big Six conference co-championships, 1938-39, 1939-40, 1941-42 and 1943-44. In 1942-43 Oklahoma, the second place club, represented the Big Six in the NCAA Western Regional tournament at Kansas City, Mo. and lost in the first round.

Sgt. Max Baer In Crippled Condition

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Sgt. Max Baer, the former heavyweight boxing champion, says he expects to be given a medical discharge from the army very soon.

Baer revealed while here that he was going to New York for a spinal operation he hopes will correct ailments that have caused one arm to become shorter than the other, robbed him of full use of his legs and one elbow and caused partial paralysis in his neck and shoulders.

"The trouble, he said, was attributed to old injuries suffered in the prize ring."

Father of Blues Back in Memphis

By WILL GRIMSLEY
MEMPHIS, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The "father of blues" returned today to the Beale street he had taught to swing and found it jumping and living.

William Christopher Handy, his step slowed, his eyes dimmed but his ears still responsive to a "G" note, tramped down the thin, dark avenue he popularized in song—and blinked only mild recognition.

Juke boxes blared. Hep cats heaped. Jitterbugs jigged.

"It's not the same," said the silver-haired, 71-year-old composer with a wan, nostalgic smile. But, he added, "it will pass away."

"I've said that before, it is just a fad, here today, gone tomorrow."
—Composer of the "St. Louis Blues," the "Memphis Blues" and other tunes inspired by Negro rivermen of the old steamboat days, Handy came down from New York.

He acknowledged that there are times when he finds life not too disturbing.

"Not long ago I heard a Harry James recording of my 'Memphis Blues,'" he declared. "XXX I recognized only one strain."

"I was almost ready to write him a letter of protest when my royalties on the Harry James record came in—they were for $5,000. They seldom run over $300."

About Bond-Buying

Nobody has to buy a bond in America. No American will go to jail if he does not buy a bond. It is your business whether you want to buy or not—strictly your own business. And so is the war your own business. You might have a son or a brother in this war. He might be in Europe or in the Pacific or in lots of other places in the world. Surely whatever he does is your business. Strictly your business. The bonds you buy go for the munitions, the airplanes, the tanks, the guns, the jeeps, the suits and shoes, the food, the medicines, the blood—the things needed by your fighting men to do the job of fighting and to help them get back the sooner.

No, nobody has to buy a bond. But it is a way of looking after your business. It is the point about buying bonds—it is attending strictly to one's private business. George E. Sokolsky, well known columnist, points out the difference between making political differences do not mean we are disinterested.

"There are a lot of differences of opinion in this country," he writes. "We quarrel politically. We row about the future. We are dissatisfied with many of the conditions facing us. But all that is beside the point when it comes to buying bonds, because bonds have nothing to do with likes or dislikes, with partisanship or hatred. Bonds have nothing to do with any of that. Bonds are for winning the war."

He adds that buying bonds not only supports the war but serves opinion in our country. He writes: "We quarrel politically. We row about the future. We are dissatisfied with many of the conditions facing us. But all that is beside the point when it comes to buying bonds, because bonds have nothing to do with likes or dislikes, with partisanship or hatred. Bonds have nothing to do with any of that. Bonds are for winning the war."

These folks over there in Germany and Japan need to know that when the free-born people of America hold a presidential election and divide close to even—there is no quarrel between them. It is the question of preserving it. In the main the committee's work has been done. That work is represented by 200 filing cabinets packed with results of its investigations. Nobody will pretend that the work has been flawless, but its records do represent the single most comprehensive source of information about subversive groups and individuals. Large numbers of government agents, representing a great variety of agencies, have gone to those records in the past two years for information of vital importance.

YOUTH AND EXPERIENCE
Appointment of Edward B. Stettinius as secretary of state emphasizes the speed with which burning issues and hot issues of a political campaign can be forgotten. We recall Governor Dewey complaining of an administration grown "old, tired and quarrelsome," while his opponent heatedly emphasized his "inexperience."

Yet here we have a young man, veteran politician nor government official, whose appointment to the highest cabinet post has called forth general non-partisan approval. The democrats have not cried that he is without experience. The republicans have not claimed that youthful replacement as their own idea (though to say that Mr. Dewey included Mr. Hull among the "old, tired and quarrelsome" would be untrue to both men).

Certainly Mr. Stettinius does not bring long experience to his new job. But he does bring an excellent substitute—his record of success in previous years. He has made a significant contribution to our industrial conversion early in the war. As lend-lease administrator he performed the delicate task of rationing the pie into unequal portions and keeping everyone happy. As undersecretary of war he conducted the Dumbarton Oaks conversations in an able, statesmanlike manner.

Mr. Stettinius obviously has the confidence of the retiring secretary as well as the President. He may hope for Mr. Hull's invaluable counsel when this winter's term is ended. And his relations with Congress promise to be cordial.

He will need these assets, of course, along with the administrative ability and the political something of a youthful prodigy in the business world. And he will need his youth, for the new secretary of state faces a job that calls for strength. He will be a crucial part of the shaping of future events, even though Mr. Roosevelt will certainly continue as the chief architect of our foreign policy.

Stettinius will have the grave responsibility of carrying out the lofty program of a revered statesman who, though he may not have consistently pleased everyone, was never accused of pettiness, nervousness or lack of integrity.

Mr. Hull solved many problems and pointed the way toward solving others. But there are many vital unforeseen decisions to be made in exerting American influence for a just peace that will reconcile the Atlantic Charter with more immediate and less idealistic problems of international relations. On the basis of past performance, Mr. Stettinius looks to be capable of making those decisions.

Primitive Law Revived
According to dispatches from our army front in the Pacific, the once-vaunted soldiers have taken to breaking their false teeth and glass eyes deliberately in an effort to get out of front-line combat duty. Since they know how the world feels about Nazi arrogance, it is not surprising that these former supermen prefer to extract an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth by their own painless method, rather than leaving it to the rougher methods of their enemies.

New Definition
The Calves Dog Research Center of New York feels that the average dog is largely what its master makes it, and so has proposed that the owners, rather than their pets, henceforth be licensed.

All city editors will please revise the famous journalistic adage to read as follows: "When postman bites housewife, that's news."

NO EFFICIENCY WANTED IN GOVERNMENT PLANTS?

Recently the War Labor Board and the War Production Board made a joint report praising "incentive payment" plans in war industry, which the report said, had resulted in production increases up to 25 per cent and even 40 per cent in few cases while unit-labor-cost reductions saved the taxpayers large sums.

What the report did not say is almost equally interesting; that these plans are in effect in private industry only. In the considerable number of government-owned plants, shipyards, ordnance plants, arsenals, powder mills, airplane plants, etc., incentive plans, times studied and similar devices to improve efficiency are specifically forbidden by an act of Congress.

The act was adopted at the request of demand of leaders of unions in the industry. It is the C.I.O. headquarters in Chicago, playing of a joke-box as part of a war exhibit had to be halted because there was no member of the American Federation of Labor present. It was explained Chicago hotels have a contract with the A.F.M. requiring that when a photograph is played in public, an A.F.M. member must turn the records!

KEEP THE DIES RECORDS
(The New York Sun)
The Republican minority in the House of Representatives is wise not to take the initiative to continue the life of the Special Committee on Un-American Activities, better known as the Dies committee. J. Parnell Thomas, Republican Representative from New Jersey and a member of the committee, says that responsibility for continuing the life of the committee rests with the majority. Four of the eight members of the Dies committee will not be members of the next House, if the Republicans in the House were to press for continuation of the committee and vacancies in the committee were filled by Speaker Rayburn with men out of sympathy with its original purposes, then blame for failure of the committee might be brought home to the minority.

Of far more importance than continuation of the committee, as the Sun's Washington correspondent writes, is the question of preserving its records. In the main the committee's work has been done. That work is represented by 200 filing cabinets packed with results of its investigations. Nobody will pretend that the work has been flawless, but its records do represent the single most comprehensive source of information about subversive groups and individuals. Large numbers of government agents, representing a great variety of agencies, have gone to those records in the past two years for information of vital importance.

HAM AND EGGS PERSISTENT
(Denver Post)
One may wonder how much longer the "ham and eggs" in California will keep pestering the taxpayers with their schemes for taking away from one group of people to make donations to another group. In two previous elections, "ham and eggs" propositions had been turned down by the California electorate and Tuesday they had to vote down another which would have levied a 3 to 5 per cent gross income tax to pay a $60-a-month pension to everybody 60 years old or older.

Promoting fantastic pension plans has almost become a business in California. This must be a profitable racket for the promoters if they wouldn't keep at it in the face of repeated public rebuffs. Prospective pensioners can't make large individual contributions to such campaigns. But the dime and quarters which can be coaxed out of credulous poor people make a sizeable sum when they are totaled.

Contribution for Health
Fortune America has been lucky in the past few years. It has had good luck no accident. Health authorities have been vigilant and active. Many physicians have done more than their share of work or three times as much as they should have. Government food control, however much criticized, has kept within reach of all a food supply normal in quantity and nutritious in quality. In the early, readily coming stage.

The National Tuberculosis association is financed solely by its sale of Christmas Seals. And the war should not be used as an excuse for modest contributions are still needed in the conquest of a disease that has taken more American lives since Pearl Harbor than have been lost in battle.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

The National Whirligig

INSIDERS—Congress alone is responsible for the fact that lawyer lobbyists like Tommie Corcoran can exercise backstairs pressure on even the highest members of the administration.

The Biddle-Littell squabble has evoked Capitol Hill condemnation of two temperamental legalities, and also of "Tommy the Clerk." But the criticism loses its effectiveness because it comes from the very legislators who allow such a situation to exist.

For many years liberal reformers and renovators like the late Senator George W. Norris have urged enactment of a law prohibiting Corcoran-esque cirousses and performances. They have offered bills providing that no ex-government employe, not even a senator or representative, shall be permitted to practice before federal departments or to handle litigation involving Uncle Sam until three years after he leaves office.

The reasoning behind this proposal is that after such a lapse of time, Mr. Corcoran would have been a principal casualty before his political contacts and influence with key insiders. Although the recommendations were not aimed at him, Mr. Corcoran would have been a principal casualty before his political contacts and influence with key insiders. Although the recommendations were not aimed at him, Mr. Corcoran would have been a principal casualty before his political contacts and influence with key insiders.

LOBBYING—The District of Columbia overflows with erawrite big-wigs, among them an ex-attorney general and his one-time assistant, who are piling up fortunes from having once served Uncle Sam. This group constitutes a privileged class for reasons understood only by their clients.

These gentlemen wrote the original new deal statutes that force almost every businessman to pay thousands a year for legal services they handed down their interpretations of the measures they had written. Next they secured the appointments of the Bureau heads who actually administer these laws in bread-and-butter cases.

It is obvious why no outside counsel need apply when questions involving 1934-1944 enactments or Departmental decisions plague his clientele back home. Aside from the lobbying angle and the tempering with minor officials, this condition has created a "lawyer's trust" that is unbreakable and one which the department of justice has not mentioned or touched.

CORCORAN—The lawmakers on Capitol Hill, however, have evaded this issue for personal and selfish considerations. The majority feel that, when the ballot-box bell tolls for them, as it does for all politicians soon or late, they can always make a living here as lawyers or lobbyists.

Many of the bills now pending will probably be re-introduced, ranging from banning all immigration for the next five years to increasing the present quota restrictions to admit many of refugee millions.

Pressure from without to admit these millions is in direct proportion to resistance from within against lowering the bars. With the fear of postwar unemployment for perhaps five or ten millions new citizens of the United States, there is a natural reluctance to "admit more millions if they would only increase the burdens."

On the other hand, every humanitarian impulse calls for giving every possible relief to the homeless war refugees in Europe. To them even unemployment in the United States is preferable to starvation and death in the countries which have been the battlefields.

Furthermore, the United States is in something of a weak position if it attempts to urge other nations of the world to accept refugees without accepting a share of the burden itself.

WAR-TORN NATIONS NEED LABOR. IT IS ARGUED
Against the plea for admission of large numbers of immigrants to this country, however, there is the fact that the war has left a labor shortage in the countries of Europe and Asia will have a manpower shortage and a great need for labor to rebuild their economies, whereas the United States has a surplus of labor.

How all this will shake down after the war is over, no one can say. As a result, there is considerable belief that there should be no immediate change in the present quota restrictions, limiting annual immigration to 3 percent of the number of nationals of each foreign country already in the United States.

For a long-range immigration plan, there is growing interest in proposals for selective immigration, under which quotas would be made up of skill for which there would be a shortage of farm labor. Farmers would be admitted, and so on.

That would do away with the more drastic, unrestricted first-come-first-served type of immigration on which this country was built, but it is argued that selective immigration would be best for this country, as it would help to increase the number of millions of unemployed who are waiting for a new chance to start all over again in the new world.

Peter Edson's Column: DO YOU WANT IMMIGRANTS HERE?
By PETER EDSON
Pampa News Washington Correspondent

A number of proposals to limit postwar immigration into the United States will die unacted upon when the 78th Congress goes out of business within the next few days, leaving for the next session determination of what U. S. policy will be on admitting foreigners to this country when the war is over.

Many of the bills now pending will probably be re-introduced, ranging from banning all immigration for the next five years to increasing the present quota restrictions to admit many of refugee millions.

Pressure from without to admit these millions is in direct proportion to resistance from within against lowering the bars. With the fear of postwar unemployment for perhaps five or ten millions new citizens of the United States, there is a natural reluctance to "admit more millions if they would only increase the burdens."

On the other hand, every humanitarian impulse calls for giving every possible relief to the homeless war refugees in Europe. To them even unemployment in the United States is preferable to starvation and death in the countries which have been the battlefields.

Furthermore, the United States is in something of a weak position if it attempts to urge other nations of the world to accept refugees without accepting a share of the burden itself.

WAR-TORN NATIONS NEED LABOR. IT IS ARGUED
Against the plea for admission of large numbers of immigrants to this country, however, there is the fact that the war has left a labor shortage in the countries of Europe and Asia will have a manpower shortage and a great need for labor to rebuild their economies, whereas the United States has a surplus of labor.

How all this will shake down after the war is over, no one can say. As a result, there is considerable belief that there should be no immediate change in the present quota restrictions, limiting annual immigration to 3 percent of the number of nationals of each foreign country already in the United States.

For a long-range immigration plan, there is growing interest in proposals for selective immigration, under which quotas would be made up of skill for which there would be a shortage of farm labor. Farmers would be admitted, and so on.

That would do away with the more drastic, unrestricted first-come-first-served type of immigration on which this country was built, but it is argued that selective immigration would be best for this country, as it would help to increase the number of millions of unemployed who are waiting for a new chance to start all over again in the new world.

WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MCKENZIE

Associated Press War Analyst
Under Secretary of War Patterson's statement that in the fighting on the western front "we are suffering severe casualties and are facing the grim prospect of more to come" is an uncomfortable reminder that we still have before us what is likely to be the toughest engagement of the war—the battle of Cologne plain.

At best it's bound to be a ferocious and bloody business. For General Eisenhower's aim is the annihilation of Nazi Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's army—not the mere capture of territory. There's no soft way of saying that there are won't be heavy losses on both sides.

We are witnessing a great matching of wits between General Eisenhower and one of the best military brains of the Reich. It's being done as openly as a game of checkers in a country store. General Eisenhower's tactics have compelled Von Rundstedt to commit the bulk of his forces to the defense of the Cologne plain which shields the Ruhr—heart of Hitler's war industries. That plain not only is key to the main routes to Berlin, but its wide open spaces provide an amphitheater in which the Yankee commander can get at his opponent.

Sure the Nazi leader has been able to see the trend of affairs, but he hasn't been able to control the trend. He has had to follow along. The "position strategy" that Von Rundstedt is faced with not one but two major threats—before Cologne and in the Saar. The menace to the Saar has been obvious but the German has refused to change horses in mid-stream—in fact he couldn't make the shift at this late date without leaving quick disaster. So he has clung tenaciously to his advanced positions along the Roor river, the main shield of the Cologne plain.

General Eisenhower's program has been to blast 9,000 castles a day all told in the various sectors, and that's a terrific loss, especially for an army that's already badly crippled. So despite the comparative lull recently in the crucial northern end of the front it hasn't been time wasted for allied bombs and shells have continued to exact a toll from the Nazis.

RIDING ENGLISH GETS SOMEWHERE IN THE PACIFIC
U. S. Marines are discovering that many of the Solomon Islands speak good English and the pligin variety is sometimes resented when Americans try their hand at it.

One lad, after a ride in a Catalina, was asked "How you like this bird?" and responded with "Quite an interesting ride." "Thank you very much" after being given a ride in a truck during which he ignored questions in pligin English.

MAX FACTOR, JR.—Just in case he might get gabby in his old age and drag out the skeletons in his closet, Max Factor, Jr. has had his own file records on make-up prepared. The file dating back to 1915, offered intimate data on whose hair had been dyed, whose hair had been remodeled by surgery, whose skin had to be bound out at the temples to pull up cheek and chin sag, whose hair was dyed, etc.

CHARLES CORRELL—Andy received is rude shock the other day when his small dog, Dorothy, decided to bring him a New York hotel. Other day Bentley visited on the "Duff" Tavern, set and recalled the fact. "Yeah," said Archie, "I remember. I would be in my room drinking and you were sitting on my lap in your room talking and the walls were so thin my secretary took down what you were saying. No wonder the censors cut so much out of my script."

XAVIER CUGAT—A funny answer Cugat gave to a studio biographical questionnaire. "The question, 'What type of role do you usually play?' he answered, 'Cugat.' To another, 'What was your favorite screen role?' he replied, 'Xavier Cugat.'"

Sitton's Sports Sentiments

By EB SITTON

Another very worthy charity solicits the help of sports lovers.

It is the Young Men's Business Club of New Orleans Sugar-Bowl program. This club is trying to raise funds to buy Sugar Bowl tickets for wounded service men.

Jan. 1, 1943, this organization presented 12,000 tickets to service men. On Jan. 1 of this year it sent 20,000 men to the game. And now how many will they send the first day of 1945?

Sugar Bowl officials allow service men to attend this game for $1.20. Anyone wishing to send a wounded veteran to this classic can do so by sending that amount to the Young Men's Business Club Sugar Bowl committee, New Orleans, La.

Several tournaments have been announced in state high school basketball for this year, which brings up the question, why doesn't Pampa sometimes hold such a meet?

It is said that for the past several years the Harvesters have played basketball as if it were a minor sport, doing little about it, whereas it has the widest popular appeal of any game, not barring football.

The NEA reports that New York has had 10,000,000 spectators for its city tournaments in the past three years. That is a lot of fans. All the little rural communities, which for want of population can not field an 11-man basketball squad and have not yet got around to that fast and tricky brand that employs six players, nevertheless always have an enthusiastic cage team, and quite often the boys love it so much that the "tiniest places go far in the state meets."

It is too late for Pampa to arrange a tournament this year, but it is not too early to think of next year's prospects. Pampa people love the game; many of them have said so; some of the fans are anxious for the first home game so they can see the Harvesters in action. They know that the boys are in good physical condition and daily trying to perfect the team which can beat Amarillo in basketball this year. There is popular backing for basketball here; there would be plenty of enthusiasm for a Pampa tournament next year.

Chiang Turns Down Coalition Proposal

CHUNGKING, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek has rejected a proposal by the Chinese communists to establish a "democratic government" and has offered counter proposals, the communist delegate, Gen. Chou En-Lai, said as he returned to Yenan.

Chou saw Chiang Nov. 22, twelve days after his arrival in Chungking for negotiations.

Authoritative quarters said that the refusal of the government to enter into a formal coalition agreement did not mean that the communists or other political elements outside the Kwantung (Chinese national party) would be excluded from participation in the government.

Foreign Policy Criticism Rises

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

LONDON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Swelling criticism of British foreign policy in Western and Southern Europe threatened today to force an open challenge of Prime Minister Churchill's government as his supporters marshaled their forces for a full dress debate tomorrow on intervening in Italy and Greece.

There appeared to be no danger that his government would be overthrown, but urgent summonses to attend the debate were sent out against the possibility that socialist and labor members of Commons might seek a divisional vote.

Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden may broaden the debate into a detailed review of Britain's basic foreign policy principles, and perhaps explain the divergence in Allied foreign policy demonstrated by the American state department's "hands-off" policy in Italy contrasted with British's veto of General Stozza as Italian foreign minister.

Anyone wishing to send a wounded veteran to this classic can do so by sending that amount to the Young Men's Business Club Sugar Bowl committee, New Orleans, La.

Awarded Silver Star

T. Sgt. Virgil O. Ekrodt recently was awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action with Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth army in Italy.

As Ekrodt's company advanced across an area of barbed wire and tanglements, mines and booby traps, they were swept with artillery, mortar and machinegun fire that hit his platoon leader and half the platoon. The rest of the men were badly disorganized and the advance halted.

As enemy fire continued, Ekrodt moved among the wounded men, assisting each one and crossed a 100-yard stretch of barbed wire to pick up a wounded comrade and carry him to cover. The sergeant then reorganized the remaining men and established a defensive line to repulse an enemy counter-attack. He immediately led his men in a renewed attack on the objective.

Ekrodt is serving in the 363rd Infantry regiment of the 91st "Pawnee River" division. He has previously been awarded the Purple Heart and Combat Infantryman Badge while fighting on the Fifth army front.

A welder in civilian life, Ekrodt entered service in April, 1941. His mother, Mrs. Anna Ekrodt, lives at 815 E. Locust.
