'Let that be a lesson to you' is a sort of daily remark, albeit a useful one.

Uncle Sam has finally reached the conclusion that the so-called white collar workers can be just as hungry as a ditch digger or a mechanic; that writers, while popularly supposed to be accustomed to under-nourishment, must eat; that brain work is just as fatiguing—and often more harmful—than outdoor labor with the hands; that the type of collar worn is no criterion of the value of one's work.

TWO NEGROES ADMIT KILLING YOUNG WOMAN

BLACKS ARE REMOVED TO HOUSTON JAIL FOR SAFETY

COLUMBUS, Oct. 22 (AP)—Sheriff F. F. Hoegemeyer, and Texas Ranger E. M. Davenport said today two young negro farm hands had admitted the criminal attack and clubbing to death of Miss Geraldine Kollman, 19-year-old Columbus high school honor graduate, last Thursday.

The negroes, Bennie Mitchell, 19, and Ernest Collins, 18, charged with criminal attack and murder, were rushed to the Harris county jail at Houston by Sheriff Hoegemeyer and Ranger Davenport after reports of mob violence here.

Sheriff Hoegemeyer said the negroes admitted encountering Miss Kollman while she rode horseback on her father's property. They pulled her from the horse, struck her with an elm club, attacked her and then tossed her body in Cummings creek, the sheriff said the negroes admitted.

The negroes told Sheriff Hoegemeyer they had attempted to attack two negro girls the night before Miss Kollman was slain but had been "scared away."

Sheriff Hoegemeyer said both confessions named the other as a principal.

Justice of the Peace E. C. Thrower said the examining trial for the negroes would be held in an unnamed county because of the possibility of mob violence.

Miss Kollman disappeared from her home last Thursday and was at first believed to have accidentally drowned when her brother discovered her body floating atop waters of Cummings creek.

Her body was sent to Houston where Victor Landig, an undertaker, discovered bruises on her legs and arms and revealed no water had been found in her lungs. Sheriff Hoegemeyer, notified of these details, said:

Great Magician Is Coming Soon

Mel-Roy, one of the best known magicians in the west, will be brought to Pampa October 28 by the Kiwanis club, which will share in the proceeds for the benefit of the organization's work with underprivileged children.

Admission in the afternoon at the city hall will be 25 and 40 cents. In the evening prices will be 40 cents for all seats.

Press notices in many cities indicate that Mel-Roy is showing to capacity houses and thoroughly entertaining his audiences with tricks which defy detection. He is a showman as well as a magician.

Oriental mysteries are part of his repertoire. One of his favorite illusions is shooting an arrow thru the body of a young woman. At Denver, he escaped from a welded steel tank in a Champa street exhibition.

Revealing Known and Unknown Facts in Popeye's Early Life

CHAPTER ONE. Rumors now current that Popeye was born at the age of 40 and is steadily growing younger are totally unfounded. The horseshoe-fisted sailor was only two or three years old at birth, a normal infant in every way. He was always willing to take his pipe out in many mouths for the morning bottle of malted hardtack.

Impressed by early home training, as No. 185764, Popeye refrained from getting into serious fights until he was almost 4 and the keeper tried his patience once too often. He was a prize baby in many mouths and always took great pride in his Bertillon measurements.

Unfortunately, Popeye was born an orphan. Today he often says: "Blow me down, I never had no ma or pa. That's why I'm a orphanik." One of the hard-hitting mariners' chief charms is his ability to reason things out.

The accompanying unretouched picture shows the gifted infant, Popeye himself at the age of 2 weeks. Earlier pictures do not do him justice because in all of them particularly the one taken many years before and captioned "Spinach," the photographer's head-cam is plainly visible and also his brother, Joe, who has often been mistaken for Popeye.

Notice the article Popeye has clamped in his many teeth. At first glance it appears to be a bottle, but in reality it is a hickory pipe which has suffered a stoppage in the stem. Popeye has refused to be daunted by the molar which has shaken loose and clogged his "briar." He is endeavoring to blow it out through the bowl, with a result which is plainly evident.

The attractive piece of furniture at the right is a loving cup presented to Popeye by other inmates in token of his long-distance yelling prowess.

Pampa Nurse Is Chosen As TWA Liner Hostess

A happy, radiant young woman boarded a TWA plane this morning en route to Kansas City. She is Miss Doris Hammonds, a nurse in Pampa for the last two years, and was one of 30 girls selected out of 1,600 applicants to be hostesses on Transcontinental-Western Air lines.

Miss Hammonds received her nurse's training at the Tisdale hospital, Elk City, Okla., where her parents live. She has been on the nursing staff at Worley hospital. She will be in training for her future career in the skies for four weeks in Kansas City. Miss Hammonds is five feet, three inches, has brown eyes, light hair.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 22. (AP)—With Jockey Willie (Smockey) Saunders of Kentucky derby fame reported on his way to Louisville for questioning in the auto ride death of Mrs. Evelyn Silivinski, police concentrated today in a search for Toni Sani, an exercise boy.

House Wrangles Over Pension Taxes

COMMITTEE IS 'STACKED' SAY HOUSE SOLONS

LOBBYISTS OF SULPHUR INDUSTRY FLAYED IN ADDRESS

AUSTIN, Oct. 22 (AP)—The house today overruled its revenue and taxation committee and ordered an immediate report on bills to increase sulphur, oil and utilities gross receipts taxes to pay old age pensions. A motion to set an omnibus tax bill for special consideration failed 42 to 89.

AUSTIN, Oct. 22 (AP)—The house today wrangled over action of its revenue and taxation committee in reporting omnibus tax bills to the exclusion of "single shot" measures while the senate continued debating property and income restrictions in an old age pension bill.

A motion to suspend rules to instruct the committee to report single tax bills immediately failed by a few votes.

Rep. Charles Tenynson of Wichita Falls asserted the "revenue and taxation committee worked like a greased machine and thwarted action of individual members of their tax bills."

The committee reported two omnibus bills. One would levy a general retail sales tax of one and one-half per cent, exempting necessities, and increase occupation and natural resources taxes 12 1/2 per cent. The other would increase occupation and natural resource levies but did not carry a sales tax provision.

"If there ever was a committee that looked like it was stacked it was revenue and taxation last night," Rep. Jesse Roach of Commerce said.

Activities of the sulphur company lobbyists were sharply attacked by Rep. J. Franklin Spears of San Antonio, author of a sulphur tax increase.

"If the governor had one-tenth the power of these sulphur company lobbyists he would be a good governor," Spears said heatedly.

"They're here morning, noon and night and are menaces to Texas." Spears predicted the omnibus tax bill would fail because of concentrated opposition and the legislature would be forced to a general sales tax for pensions.

Failure to follow the program outlined by the revenue and taxation committee would result in the death of all tax legislation, Rep. J. C. Duvall of Fort Worth asserted because the calendar would be clogged and a minority would block all bills.

"If you follow the 'single shot' method you won't get any revenues at all," Duvall said. "The committee has worked hard to find a solution and I believe it has done so. This bill will raise the $50,000,000 for pensions and fund the deficit."

T. B. Secretary To Speak Here Tomorrow Eve

Miss Pansy Nichols, executive secretary of the Texas Tuberculosis association, will be in Pampa tomorrow evening for a conference with physicians at the school nurse, PTA officers, civic club officers, school authorities, and others concerning educational and preventive work in this community.

Miss Nichols will meet these groups at the city hall at 8 p. m. tomorrow.

She is in West Texas on a tour of cities, and was able to stop here by invitation.

A full representation of all groups interested in public health work, and especially detection and prevention of tuberculosis, is desired from the entire county. It is likely that a Gray County Tuberculosis association will be formed here soon.

JURORS TO DETERMINE SANITY OF PIERSON BEING CHOSEN

AUSTIN, Oct. 22 (AP)—Selection of a jury to determine whether Howard Pierson, 21-year-old slayer of his parents, is insane at present continued in district court here today.

Three men qualified out of the first eight questioned from a venire of 150. Thirteen previously had been accepted. When 32 have qualified, state and defense may challenge 10 each.

Most of those disqualified had formed opinions. Two blurted out they thought the defendant sane, and promptly were checked by District Judge C. A. Wheeler.

Judge Wheeler emphasized repeatedly to veniremen that the only issue in the present trial was whether Pierson now is insane. Should a jury find him insane, he could not be tried on murder charges unless he became sane.

Defense attorneys sought to ascertain whether the fact Pierson killed his father and mother, Associate Justice William Pierson of the state supreme court and Mrs. Pierson, last April 24 would prejudice them in deciding the question of sanity.

Pierson fatally shot his parents in a lane about 10 miles from Austin, wounded himself in the left arm and reported the party had been held up by robbers. Later he confessed he killed his parents.

ROARING HURRICANE LEAVES TWO DEAD IN CUBA, DEVASTATES ISLE

HAVANA, Oct. 22 (AP)—A roaring hurricane which engulfed the eastern tip of Cuba and western Haiti today left three persons reported dead and four injured in Santiago, Cuba.

Sweeping up from the island of Jamaica where it caused damage estimated at $2,500,000, the hurricane, accompanied by torrential rains, wrecked buildings and lifted roofs in Santiago, filling the streets with debris.

The city's electric light and power was cut off when the power plant's roof was ripped loose, while there was a scarcity of bread and milk.

A message to Havana from Anzilia, in Oriente province, said the steamship Cuba had been forced to put in there when the force of the storm prevented it from continuing to Baracoa, near the eastern tip of the island.

Among the known deaths at Anzilia, in Oriente province, said the steamship Cuba had been forced to put in there when the force of the storm prevented it from continuing to Baracoa, near the eastern tip of the island.

Reports were lacking from Port-Au-Prince, Haiti.

The damage or the number of injured in Santiago and Oriente province, where the hurricane apparently centered, could not be determined. The gale was described as being strong enough to knock a walking man down.

Two east Cuba towns, Calmanera and Bouquieron, had been evacuated.

The storm's course generally was believed to have been through the windward passage, between eastern Cuba and Haiti, only 50 miles across at its narrowest point. From there it was expected to swoop down on the eastern group of the Bahama islands.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Oct. 22 (AP)—Three persons were reported dead and four injured today as the hurricane which swept northward from Jamaica struck this city with full force.

The city's streets were littered with debris, making automobile traffic impossible, while the winds and torrential rains prevented search for further possible victims who, it was feared, might be buried in ruins.

ABANDONS HOPE OF RECOVERING LONG-LOST BOY

DETROIT, Oct. 22 (AP)—The hope that kept William Greatrex steadfast in his anguished 12-year search for his baby son, given by mistake to an underworld character who called at the hospital in 1923, faded and all but died in recorder's court today.

A phone Vlemminck, the man who received the Greatrex baby 12 years ago in the belief he was receiving the infant born to his unmarried daughter, sullenly reiterated his story that he gave the Greatrex baby to "a couple from Pennsylvania."

Judge Thomas M. Cotter had agreed to question Vlemminck once more before sentencing him for his latest crime, a sex offense against a four year old girl for which he was convicted last week.

At one point the judge shouted at the 60-year old prisoner: "You buried that baby, didn't you?" Vlemminck shook his head, telling again his story that he gave the infant, in the belief it was his

SAYS BRITAIN PLANS NO WAR AGAINST DUCE

LONDON, Oct. 22 (AP)—Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary, today told the house of commons Great Britain plans no military action against Italy. He urged that the short breathing spell before the application of economic sanctions against Mussolini's government be used in another attempt for peaceful settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict.

The foreign secretary, addressing commons on its reassembling, asked if an eleventh hour chance cannot be used to make unnecessary further progress along "the unattractive road of economic action against a fellow league member, an old friend and a former ally."

Sir Samuel stated that Great Britain had never turned her back on a peaceful solution, adding:

"There is still breathing space before the economic pressure can be applied. Can it not be used for another attempt at such a settlement?"

The legislative chamber was crowded and many diplomats sat in the gallery.

"Italy still is a member of the League of Nations," said Sir Samuel. "I welcome this fact. Cannot this eleventh hour be so used as to make it unnecessary to proceed farther along the unattractive road of economic action against a fellow member, an old friend, a former ally?"

The foreign secretary continued: "I do not know whether there is hope or not for what I am urging. I do, however, know that great issues are at stake much greater than the local merits of the African controversy."

The whole future of European civilization, he asserted, was tied up in the present conflict, saying the British were praying that "the principles of collective action now will be upheld and a way speedily found, to end this hateful controversy."

Re-emphasizing the need of finding an honorable settlement "within the framework of the league," Sir Samuel stated that he had never adopted an extreme partisan attitude, declaring:

"Indeed, I believe that outside of Italy, I was the first public man to remind the world of Italy's claim for expansion and economic security."

He said he had already pledged Great Britain to the investigation of colonial raw materials as a contribution to removing the causes of war and that he had not let a week pass without in some way expressing Great Britain's "readiness to take our share in bringing about an honorable settlement acceptable to all three parties—for there are three—not two—the league, Italy, and Ethiopia."

The cabinet minister said he re-

STUDY SERIES IS CLOSE AT METHODIST CIRCLE MEETINGS

GUESTS MEET WITH EACH OF THE DIVISIONS

LESSON IS PRESENTED IN TALKS OR GROUP DISCUSSIONS

Last chapters in the book, Toward Christian America, were studied in circles of First Methodist Missionary society yesterday afternoon. A series of lessons from this text has been given in each circle.

Mrs. F. M. Shotwell was leader for circle one, meeting at the church. Topics were Home Missions and Social Welfare, by Mrs. John Heesey; Educational Development, Mrs. Shotwell; Medical and Community Service, Mrs. Joe Shelton; Promise of Home Missions, Mrs. Luther Piersen; Fulfillment of the Promise, Mrs. W. Purviance.

A verse written by Dr. Burke Culpepper, who has just concluded a revival campaign here, was read by Mrs. Shelton in the course of a devotional talk.

Mrs. W. A. Grissom was a new member and Mrs. Johnson a visitor, present with nine members.

Circle two also welcomed a new member, Mrs. Ben Klingensmith. Twelve others were present at the home of Mrs. C. T. Hunkapiller.

Mrs. Bob McCoy was in charge of a business hour, and the lesson was discussed round-table fashion.

A shower of white gifts was presented to Mrs. J. G. Stromp. Refreshments were served by the hostess to close the meeting.

Two Are Hostesses
Mrs. Lee Harrah and Mrs. Sherman White were hostesses to circle three at the home of Mrs. Harrah.

After a devotional by Mrs. Harrah, the study was presented by Mrs. Paul Jensen. Mrs. H. O. Roberts, and Mrs. John Skelly. Delicious refreshments were served.

Plan All Day Study
Circle four did not complete the study course, but planned an all-day meeting for Nov. 4 to finish the book. It will be at the home of Mrs. Gaston Foote, with a luncheon at noon.

This circle met at the church. Mrs. S. A. Best was lesson leader, and Mrs. R. K. Elkins gave the devotional talk. Fifteen members were present and two visitors, Mrs. Tolbert and Mrs. H. M. Shively.

They will be at Central Presbyterian church, with afternoon classes from 2 to 4 o'clock on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday of each week, and evening classes from 7 to 9:30 o'clock on Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday.

Miss Margaret Chesmore, Girl Scout director at Amarillo, will be in charge. The course is general, covering the aims and activities of Girl Scouts, troop management, and program planning.

Girl Scout officials here hope that a number of Pampa women will attend some of these meetings, and urge that workers and prospective workers with the local troops plan to be in Amarillo for at least one of the hours.

Information valuable to workers with girls will be available in the course, and will be especially helpful to inexperienced troop leaders.

CRACK GUARDS MARCH OFF TO DESSYE PLAN

WHITE SOLDIERS COULD NOT LIVE LIKE ETHIOPIANS

By JAMES A. MILLS
(Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press.)
ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 22.—Eight thousand crack troops of Ethiopia's imperial guard marched off light-heartedly to the north-east today to make Dessye, the nerve center of Emperor Haile Selassie's line of defense against the Italians.

There, on the central plateau in the heart of the empire, Ethiopians believe the Italian northern and southern armies plan to join for a final drive against Addis Ababa.

The emperor still awaited full reports of an Italian bombing along the Setti river on the northern front and capture by the Italian southern army of the Ethiopian posts of Dagnerrei and Scialve on the Webay Shiheli river.

Government officials said they were not inclined to treat seriously an Italian contention that the southern victories dashed once and for all the hopes of Dedjazmach Nassibu of cutting off the fascist forces near General Rudolfo Graziani from their base in Italian Somaliland.

The Italian advance from the south nevertheless should lead directly up to the Webay Shiheli river valley to the strategic city of Harar, the Addis Ababa-Djibouti railway and the troop concentration point of Dessye.

Emperor Haile Selassie was believed to have felt that he could not afford to waste any more time in making his defenses secure and therefore decided to move his imperial guard to Dessye.

As the 8,000 men of Ethiopia's crack regiment took the Dessye road, mothers and children who bade farewell to the khaki-clad warriors from the summit of Mount Entoto trudged silently back to the capital, wondering whether the men ever would return to squat in their favorite bazaar again.

American doughboys probably never tolerated the extreme conditions which the Ethiopia soldiers bear smilingly.

Rearred in rugged mountain land where only the most fit survive, Ethiopian soldiers undergo an existence which—whether in war or in peace—is one long battle against death.

Fever, parasitical diseases, infectious maladies, famine and exposure assail them from all sides. Doctors, nurses, bandages, medicine and even beds are virtually unknown.

Like Ancient Spartans
The troops rival the Spartans of old in their privations and sacrifices. If wounded seriously, they die on the spot where they fall unless comrades rescue them from death or the jackals and hyenas which prowl by night.

In camp, Ethiopian warriors sleep as many as seven to ten in a single dog tent. At the front, they sleep on the earth, covered only by hides.

Lacking any entertainment, they stare at sundown and arise at daybreak. Their only light is furnished by torches dipped in oil or wax.

When they can afford it they have an occasional camp fire. They do not sit too close to it, as they want to fortify themselves against the rigors to which they are constantly exposed.

As the Ethiopian army has no commissary, one principal activity of the soldiers is foraging for food. They are assisted by their wives and servants, who follow the armies like hordes of locusts, stripping the countryside of all edibles.

The women help cook, care for the wounded, carry water, pitch tents and are often seen battling in the front lines.

Read Psalms Daily
The first psalms of the day is reading the Psalms of David. Literate Ethiopians invariably carry small leather bags in which are held David's canticles, printed on ancient parchments.

The soldiers know most passages by heart and retire to isolated corners of their camps to murmur the Psalms reverently to themselves.

The soldiers are fond of martial songs which they sing throughout the day.

Before entering battle, the warriors purge themselves not only spiritually by physically, because they believe they must be purified if they wish to enter heaven.

All camps have priests. Many fight beside the soldiers, especially now that the Ethiopians consider their conflict with the Italians a holy war after the capture of the sacred city of Aksum on the northern front.

Hunger Belt Worn
After the battle, there is always much merry-making and drinking. The principal drink of the soldiers is Talla, or barley beer. The officers prefer Tei, or honey-mead wine.

The principal equipment for the Ethiopian soldier is a long, sack-like belt extending from the thigh to the chest and usually 40 or 50 feet long. Made of gauze like material, it is useful in bandaging wounds but is more frequently used to suppress hunger by tightening it about the stomach. It also supports heavy cartridge belts.

Officers were checking up to determine whether "The Dago" fitted the description of the second man they wanted in the case.

The party that preceded the slaying was related to police by Mrs. Agatha Mackison, 28, who identified a photograph of Saunders as that of Mrs. Siliwinski's companion on the Saturday night party.

Mrs. Mackison was quoted by Detective Capt. William A. Oeltjen as saying she, Mrs. Siliwinski, and two men she knew only as "Jimmie Smith" and "Tommy" met at a saloon and visited several night clubs.

"Jimmie," she identified from a photograph of Saunders. "Tommy," she said, spoke Italian fluently. Both spent money freely and talked fluently about racing.

"Jimmie" and Mrs. Siliwinski quarreled, Mrs. Mackison's statement related; he knocked her down, and later resumed the quarrel in the car and ordered her out.

"She walked around in front of the car," Mrs. Mackison's statement to police related. "Tommy, the man I was with, stepped on the gas and ran over Evelyn. We kept going for several miles and turned. As we came back about 50 miles an hour we ran over her again. As I felt the wheels pass over her body I screamed.

"What's the matter with you?" Tommy asked. "We didn't hit anything; maybe a cat."

"After we drove a little while longer they stopped and got out and inspected the car. I think they wiped the wheels. Then we started again.

"Jimmie" said, "Step on it. I think the law's after us." They took me to my home.

"Just remember this," they told me. "You ain't seen nothing, you ain't heard nothing; you don't know anything, and you're lucky you're alive."

Mrs. Mackison said she hesitated about telling police, because she was afraid she might be killed.

A resolution committee composed of Judge W. R. Ewing, Travis Lively and Rev. Gaston Foote was appointed to prepare resolutions on the death of Mrs. Baer, who had been a member of the board for many years.

EMPEROR FLIES
ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 22. (AP)—Piloted by John C. Robinson, Chicago negro aviator, Emperor Haile Selassie today made his first plane flight in several years in order to say good-bye to his imperial guardsmen, en route to Dessye.

After circling over the thrilled soldiers several times the emperor waved his farewells from the sky.

Officers were checking up to determine whether "The Dago" fitted the description of the second man they wanted in the case.

ADDRESS BY EVANGELIST IS HEARD AS ALL BAPTIST MIU CIRCLES CONVENE AT CHURCH

Keaton Condition Is Still Serious

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22 (AP)—Buster Keaton, the solemn, knock-out clown of the screen, remained in confinement today as physicians sought to bring him through a nervous breakdown.

His condition still described as "serious," the frozen-faced comedian was placed in the National Military Home at Sawtelle.

A multiplicity of domestic and financial worries, coupled with an attack of influenza, contributed to a general physical let-down and at times, attendants said, he became irrational—so much so, that a straightjacket was used when the comedian was brought to the hospital.

Complete isolation for an indefinite time was prescribed by his physician, Dr. John Shuman.

As a former soldier during the World war, Keaton is entitled to treatment at the government hospital.

A recent divorce from his second wife, Mae Elizabeth Scribbens; all-moody demands from his first wife, the former Natalie Talmadge; voluntary bankruptcy proceedings in which he listed liabilities at $303,832 and assets at $12,000—these were a few of the adverse circumstances that befell Keaton during the past few months.

RANCHER FOUND DEAD
SAN ANGELO, Oct. 22 (AP)—Dan Moser, 60, employe of the Jimmie Mattox ranch at Maryneal, Nolan county, was found dead in his overturned automobile on the Sweetwater-San Angelo road near Blackwell early this morning. His chest was crushed and he was pinned inside the car. He had been dead about three hours when found.

WOMEN ARE ACTIVE IN WORK OF REVIVAL THIS WEEK
Meeting together to hear an inspirational address by the Rev. C. Y. Dossey, visiting evangelist, circles of First Baptist Missionary union later had separate sessions for business and reports.

About 50 women were present at the church to hear Rev. Dossey, who is conducting a revival there this week.

In the following circle meetings, plans were made for work in connection with the revival, as well as regular activities of the organization. After adjournment, many groups visited in the homes of absent or prospective members.

Members of the Missionary union are special sponsors of morning services in the revival. They have reported making 254 visits in the interest of the revival, including 86 to persons not members of a church.

How a Woman's Nervousness Was Helped by Cardui
"Shortly before the birth of my youngest child I was very nervous and run-down in every way," writes Mrs. Fennell Tisdale of South Bloomington, Ohio.

"I had lost my appetite and was so nervous I could not sleep. I heard of Cardui and decided to give it a trial. After I had taken one bottle I was so much better every day that I got six bottles and took them. My neighbors all say they never saw anyone make such a change in so short a time. I have built back my weight and today I am a strong and healthy mother."

"Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician. (Adv.)"

OVERCONFIDENCE DIMINISHES AS COACHES CITE LUBBOCK'S MIGHTY POWER

SPEED PLAYS OF HUB CITY FEARED HERE

WESTERNERS MAY BE STRONGEST 1935 FOE OF TEAM

Over-confidence faded from Harvester field in a single breath of air yesterday afternoon when the Harvesters of Coaches Odus Mitchell and J. C. Prejean began hard work in preparation for their invasion of Lubbock on Saturday afternoon when they take on the Lubbock Westerners at Matador field.

Some of the Harvesters saw an over-confident Amarillo Sandie football team swept off his feet last Saturday. They came back and told the rest of the squad about being cocky and not believing coaches' reports on an opposing team. Usually players take the attitude that coaches are feeding them "baloney" about opposing eleven.

"Lubbock," Coach Mitchell told the squad preceding yesterday's practice, "is one of the toughest, if not the toughest team you will have to face this year. The line is big and charges hard. The backfield is light but has plenty of power for its size. And as for speed, there isn't a man on this squad that can catch Ingley in a race. Now, get out and practice for a hard game."

Taking Coach Mitchell's word to heart, the Harvesters tore through a long practice session with a determination never exhibited this year. Behind the closed gates at Harvester field, the team worked on a defense to stop Lubbock's speed plays around end and cuts off tackle and a dangerous passing attack.

Polishing up an offense is also on the records for this week. It has been the Harvester scoring machine that has been causing worry. Inability of both sides of the line to open holes on the same night has been a real worry.

Working in the Lubbock backfield with Ingley, who weighs 160 pounds, is McClinton, 155. Upton, 150, and Venable, 161. Upton and Venable were starters against the Harvesters last year despite the fact

Captain

The Harvesters will be led by the capable J. R. Green when they take the field at Matador stadium on Saturday afternoon for a game with the Lubbock Westerners. Green is one of three Harvesters who got the call against Lubbock here last year. He knows Chapman-coached teams and is not overconfident that the Harvesters will win Saturday. Captain Green is predicting the toughest game of the year.

they appear on the Westerner program as inexperienced players.

White, 174-pound tackle, and Neighbors, 197-pound center who plays defensive tackle, both played against the Pampa team last year. Babe Ritchie, tackle, is the other Westerner giant, tipping the beam at 196 pounds. His brother, Bob Ritchie, is a 179-pound guard. Storrs, 160, holds down the other guard position. The Westerner ends are light, Hendryx weighing 140 pounds and McCurray weighing 160 pounds.

The weight advantage will be with the Harvesters, particularly in the backfield where Lubbock features speed and the Harvesters power. The lines will have little to give or take in the weight department.

Harvester field will be thrown open to the public tomorrow when fans will have an opportunity to see the team scrimmage. It will be the last open practice before the Lubbock game.

Longhorns And SMU Club Get Grid Holidays

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The seven Southwest conference football teams, preparing for their two conference and three non-conference combats Saturday, began the week with light workouts. At Southern Methodist, where the campus talk still was the Mustangs' 10 to 0 victory over Rice,

Coach Madison Bell let his regulars rest while he sent the reserves through scrimmages. The Mustangs battle Hardin-Simmons Saturday night at Wichita Falls. Bell told his regulars to not show up for practice until Wednesday.

Coach Jimmy Kitts gathered his Rice-Owls and told them to start working on their blocking. Kitts assured Houston fans that the Owls would be ready for the University of Texas Saturday at Austin. He sent his charges through a brief workout.

Jack Chevigny allowed his University of Texas regulars to take a day off from scrimmage in appreciation of their victory Saturday over Centenary. Chevigny told the Longhorns to prepare for stiff drills starting Tuesday.

The Texas Aggies went through a long but light drill in preparation for their homecoming game Saturday at College Station against Baylor.

After Monday's workout, Coach Morley Jennings checked his Baylor Bears and said he would be able to put the club's full strength against A. & M. "Ox" Parry, giant tackle, has recovered from an ankle injury.

Coach Meyer told his Texas Christian Frogs to rest and try to get their bruised muscles in condition for Saturday's game at Shreveport against Centenary college. Meyer plans to give the Frogs light drills throughout the week.

The University of Arkansas Razorbacks went through a light drill in preparation for Saturday's game at Fayetteville against the College of Ozarks.

'Gabby' Hartnett Most Valuable In National League

'Dizzy' Dean Places Second In Voting; Vaughan, Fourth

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22 (AP)—Charles (Gabby) Hartnett, veteran catcher of the pennant-winning Chicago Cubs, was voted the most valuable player in the National League for 1935 today by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

The announcement was made by James C. Isaminger, of the Philadelphia Inquirer, chairman of the award committee. Hartnett, who went to the Cubs in 1922 from Worcester, Mass., has played his entire major league career with the Bruins. He was voted 75 points against 66 for Dizzy Dean of the St. Louis Cardinals who ran second. Dean won the 1934 award.

Members of the committee each voted for 10 players, their first choice receiving 10 ballots, second, nine, down to one point for the tenth choice.

Hartnett was first choice of five members of the committee. Dean of two. The only other player who was a first choice was Wally Berger, outfielder of the Boston Braves, who tied for sixth honors with 20 points.

Arky Vaughan, Pittsburgh short stop, was third choice with 45 points. Billy Herman, another Cub, ran fourth with 38.

Gabby's heavy hitting and brilliant catching was an important factor in the down-the-stretch flag drive of the Cubs during which they rolled up 21 straight victories.

In all, the award committee voted on 27 players. The others and their point score follow:

- Joe Medwick, St. Louis, 37; Carl Hubbell, New York, 20; Wally Berger, Boston, 20; Bill Terry, New York, 20; Augie Galan, Chicago, 18; Pepper Martin, St. Louis, 16; Hank Leiber, New York, 11; Lon Warneke, Chicago, 9; Ernie Lombardi, Cincinnati, 8; Frank Frisch, St. Louis, 7; Cy Blanton, Pittsburgh, 5; J. ## TERRACING AND ITS VALUE

R. M. Gibson, farmer living near Alanreed, told radio listeners last week of his experience with terracing. His farm was rather run down as to soil, he said, he began to make inquiries to County Agent Ralph Thomas and many others concerning methods of rebuilding it.

For those who did not hear his radio address, it is reprinted here: "I became owner and moved to the farm where I am now located in February, 1925. The place was in a badly run-down condition with the top soil gone in many places and gullies running across the field that I could not cross with a team.

"I knew that something had to be done—or within a few years I would have to abandon the farm. At first I was at loss to know what to do—but in the spring of 1927 my neighbor, Carroll Burdine, and myself decided to try terracing. We borrowed a farm level and ran a few lines over on Mr. Burdine's farm when I took down with appendicitis and by the time I was on my feet again it was crop planting time.

"In the spring of 1928 I got A. A. Tampke, agricultural teacher at McLean—to assist me in running the lines, and I terraced one 80-acre field that year. I didn't want any of those short point rows in my field—so I farmed right across the terraces. In the spring of 1929, I had part of my land listed across the terraces when I attended a terracing demonstration put on by the Federal Land bank at Clarendon. This demonstration convinced me—and I came home and tore down the beds I had listed up, listed my land with the terraces, and have listed and planted my farm with the terrace ever since.

"In 1930, I terraced another 35-acre field on my farm. All of the terraces I had built so far were given 4 inches fall to the hundred feet.

"In the spring of 1934, our county agent was running some lines on the level—over on a neighboring farm—and I asked him to come over and help me run some lines on a 10-acre field which had a very steep slope. We ran the lines and built the terraces on the level and found them more satisfactory than the terraces with a fall. It is my intention to re-terrace my field, running the terraces on the level as soon as I can get to it. I now have all my fields terraced with the exception of 10 acres which I intend to terrace this winter.

"When I first started the terracing on my farm the neighbors told me I was spending too much time building—and repairing—my terraces, and as they continued to have higher yields on their newer land which was un-terraced, it did look like a kind of an uphill business. But the soil on my farm began to build up until now my crops are a lot better than on unterraced land that is generally considered much better land than mine. During the dry years, crops grow all along the row instead of just in the low places as on unterraced fields, making the crops much easier to harvest.

"I find that two weeks spent each year in repairing and rebuilding terraces save me from having to replant my crops due to washing rains and winds. Without the terraces this would have taken me about as much time as I spent on the terraces—besides a saving of around $40 per year in seed to replant, and giving the crops a better chance to mature by growing off earlier.

"On the places where the top soil had all washed and blown away, even after I had terraced and contoured the rows the feed would not head out. I planted these spots in cane and left it on the land which caught soil from neighboring farms until this is just as productive land as I have on the place. Another method I have of improving my soil is the planting of peas every third row between feed, and plowing them under. I found that the feed would make as much as every third row on the average—and I was rebuilding my soil at the same time.

"If any one had had any doubt about the value of terracing and contour rows for the prevention of wind erosion, all doubt would have been removed had they been on my farm this spring. All of the unterraced farms around me were blowing—and my place was not blowing at all with the exception of some of the soil blown on my place from neighboring farms was shifting about a little. While the unterraced farms were being blown away, my farm was being built up with their best soil."

'Gumps' Will Be Continued Though Creator Is Dead

CHICAGO, Oct. 21 (AP)—Sidney Smith, creator of the nationally syndicated cartoon strip, "The Gumps," is dead—the victim of an automobile accident.

The first comic artist to get a million dollar contract, Smith was killed Sunday en route to his 2,200-acre farm between Rockford, Ill., and Beloit, Wis. He was alone in a small sedan.

The driver of the second car was reported suffering from a broken hip, a fractured jaw and possible internal injuries.

They collided head-on, Smith's car careening across a ditch and into a telephone pole.

Arthur Crawford, syndicate representative, said the cartoon would be continued by a staff trained by the originator.

Smith is survived by his widow, the former Mrs. Kathryn Imogene Eulette; a son, Robert Sidney Smith, 27, of Phoenix, Ariz., and a daughter, Mrs. Gladys Lucknow, of Lauderdale, Fla., born of his first wife, the former Gertrude C. Craddock, of Pittsburgh, who died in 1925; and four sisters and two brothers.

Chain Store Tax Decision Stands

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—Wisconsin supreme court decision holding invalid the state graduated tax on gross incomes derived from chain stores was permitted to stand today by the supreme court.

It refused to pass on the controversy raised by a challenge of the tax by the Wadhams Oil company, operating 120 service or filling gasoline stations in Wisconsin.

The company contended the chain store tax did not apply to its filling stations and insisted if it was held to cover filling stations it was discriminatory and unfair and therefore unconstitutional.

The Dane county, Wis., circuit court sustained the tax, but was reversed by the state supreme court last June.

Robert K. Henry, Wisconsin state treasurer, urged the high court to set aside that decision, pointing out that in numerous cases, beginning with one from Indiana, it had sustained graduated taxes based on the number of stores in chains.

Lawrence Stalcup, student at Oklahoma City university, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Stalcup.

DE LUXE CLEANERS TO SHOW REMODELED, NEW EQUIPMENT

MACHINERY IS LATEST-MADE IN THIS STATE

FLEET OF SIX CARS SERVES THIS OIL TERRITORY

De Luxe Dry cleaners, located at the corner of Kingsmill avenue and Russell street, will hold informal open house tomorrow, when Pampa will be given an opportunity to inspect a modern and up-to-date cleaning and pressing establishment, just remodeled.

Clarence Kennedy, owner, and his corps of assistants will explain all phases of the cleaning establishment, which is being remodeled and re-painted along with the installation of several thousand dollars worth of the latest type of equipment.

The L. B. Billingsley Machine company of Dallas is supplying the new equipment, all of which was manufactured in Texas. Workmen have been busy day and night for three days installing the machinery.

Included in the latest type of cleaning equipment being installed are three pressure filter washers, three tumblers or drying machines, a wind-whip machine to eliminate shrinking of wet-wash articles, new type steam gun for finishing velvet, and new racks.

J. T. Morrow, assistant manager, specializes as sales supervisor, having four trucks covering the city and surrounding oil fields. The new trucks have been added to the fleet. Mr. Morrow joined the establishment as driver in 1930 and has worked his way up in the firm.

The new, modern equipment will speed production and at the same time do better work. It will be possible to clean and press a suit in six hours after the new machinery has been properly broken in, according to Mr. Kennedy.

"We are going to give the women of this section something new in the way of cleaning dresses, something that no doubt will shock them," declared Mr. Kennedy. "The new creation is wet washing dresses. Women have been aghast at the thought, but they now realize that sometime during the life of a dress, it has to be wet cleaned. They are also realizing that a dress is dipped in hot dye at the beginning. Our new method of wet cleaning, and use of the new wind whip shrinking eliminator, is sure to be popular."

"We will also institute a steam line production system that will increase efficiency and speed," announced the owner. "The clothing will be placed on a special checking counter by the drivers. From that point the clothing will be placed in the washer, then put in the driers, then taken to the pressman from where it will be placed on the delivery rack in a dust-proof container."

An added service will be the cleaning of kid gloves on a new form just released. Display space will be built in the windows. Roberts the Hat Man will move his shop to the front of the building, giving more room in the rear for equipment. The office will also be changed to give more room for that department.

The De Luxe staff consists of: Clarence Kennedy, owner and manager; J. T. Morrow, assistant manager; Gray White, production foreman; Walter Haynes, cleaning department; Bill Graham, wool presser; Mrs. Margie Taylor, silk finisher; Mrs. Inez Hart, alterations; Mrs. Mildred Johnson, bookkeeper; Morris Enloe, A. S. Richardson, Pete Arney, and O. R. Hart, drivers.

Oklahoma, Miss., has a "Progress Chart" in its city square. Each square on the chart represents a goal and when the goal is reached, the mayor paints the square red.

Mrs. E. Sides of Miami was a Pampa visitor Saturday.

Remodeling Plant

CLARENCE KENNEDY.

The owner of the De Luxe Cleaners, Clarence Kennedy, moved to Pampa from El Reno, Okla., in 1928, joining the De Luxe Cleaners, then owned by Arless Duncan and Cass Phillips. In 1929 he purchased the plant and since then has increased the size and efficiency of the place until it is one of the outstanding cleaning plants in the Panhandle. Not a single piece of equipment which was in the plant in 1929 is in use now. Every bit of equipment is the latest make. Mr. Kennedy has been active in civic affairs, being past president of the Pampa Junior chamber of commerce and an active member of the Pampa Lions club.

SEMI-FINALS TO BE PLAYED IN PGA TODAY

ZIMMERMAN UPSETS PAUL RUNYAN ON MONDAY

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 22 (AP)—Youth met youth and age met age today as semi-finals squared off in the national tournament of the Professional Golfers' association.

And tomorrow the twin shall meet! Matched after four bitterly-fought quarter-final matches, there seemed little choice between the four seekers after the national professional title.

The youngsters within reach of the coveted crown are blond Al Zimmerman, Portland, Ore., new to such high ground, and a Milwaukee curlyhead whose rise in golf has been of a skyrocket nature, Johnny Revolta, the sole surviving member of the Ryder cup team.

The men of experience, in the other bracket, were the rapidly graying but yet sterling Tommy Armour, and Al Watrous, who has flirted with major championships on many occasions but never quite hooked one.

Zimmerman could lay heavy claim to the honors, for he dethroned the little king of the PGA, Paul Runyan, in a brilliant exhibition yesterday. But it was his antagonist, Revolta, who disposed of the medalist, Walter Hagen.

Armour was carried three extra holes for his one-up victory over Ed Dudley. Both were erratic, but Armour came forth with a keener game in the afternoon session to maintain the one-up lead he held at lunch time.

In defeating Horton Smith, Watrous remained steady in the face of a sparkling series of birdies. Smith had hook trouble in the first round and his putter seemed out of whack, while Watrous required only one over par to gain a 3-up lead. Toward the end, Smith turned on the heat by holding a 35-foot putt, but Watrous delivered in the pinch and also came through with a birdie, from 10 feet.

Burial Flags for Veterans Can Be Made Available

Relatives of deceased honorably discharged war veterans may secure burial flags to drape the casket provided application is made prior to the actual burial of the veteran.

It is the purpose and policy of the postmaster general and the administrator of veterans' affairs to extend to relatives and friends of deceased veterans the least troublesome service possible in connection with issues of burial flags. It is the desire to construe the act of congress liberally in determining the right of an applicant to a burial flag. In view of the heavy penalty provided for fraudulent claims against the government, it is believed that impositions will be few.

Roberts, Hat Man, Knows His Work Very Well

With 20 years experience as a hat man to his credit, Claude Roberts operates the Roberts the Hat Man shop at the De Luxe cleaners.

Mr. Roberts gained his first experience in Gainesville. After serving an apprenticeship under a master cleaner and blocker, he started in business for himself.

Since coming to Pampa, he has installed a Factory Finish plant for cleaning, polishing, and blocking hats. It is the latest method and the one used in factories for final work on hats before they are shipped to merchants.

Each hat cleaned in the local plant receives individual attention through each process. Hats covered with oil, grease or other types of dirt are not placed in cleaning fluid with slightly soiled head gear. All are kept separate from first to last process.

The local shop has a capacity of 50 hats a day. Three experienced workers handle the cleaning, blocking, and trimming.

Mr. Roberts is supervisor of the shop and personally does the technical work. Mrs. Roberts handles finishing and trimming. Bob Carpenter completes the firm roster.

Since coming to Pampa, Mr. Roberts has taken a keen interest in local affairs. He is an active worker in the Junior chamber of commerce.

PIONEER DIES AT MOBEETIE ON SATURDAY

FUNERAL SERVICES ARE HELD AT HIS RANCH HOME SUNDAY

F. M. Totty, 78-year-old pioneer of the Panhandle, died Saturday afternoon at his ranch west of Mobeetie and was buried at Mobeetie Sunday afternoon. Funeral services were held under a large locust tree in the front yard of Mr. Totty's ranch home.

A resident of the Panhandle for the last 40 years, Mr. Totty was known and loved over this entire section. He came with his family from Montague county in 1896 and settled 8 miles west of Mobeetie. He has lived at that place, except for a short period, ever since. The family first settled in a dugout, and the present improvements on the ranch were built partly from lumber taken from Fort Elliott when it was sold.

Mr. Totty lived an active life to the very last. Only during the last year or so had he given up riding the pasture to look after his cattle. He was sitting in his favorite chair reading a newspaper when stricken by a heart attack about 6 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Death came almost instantly.

Survivors are a sister, Mrs. Lillie Welch, Miami; one son, Frank, of Mobeetie, and eight daughters, Mrs. J. M. Stutzman, Kress; Mrs. W. M. Daughtee, Pampa; Mrs. G. C. Springer, Miami; Mrs. J. T. Carroll, Miami; Mrs. Joe Thompson, Mrs. Charlie Seitz, Mrs. Ann Trimble, and Mrs. Ralph Higdon, all of Mobeetie.

IRATE TEXAN WOULD SHOOT CAR LOOTERS

OFFERS PLAN TO GOV. ALLRED IN SPICY LETTER

BY CHARLES E. SIMONS. AUSTIN, Oct. 22 (AP)—An irate citizen of the West Texas plains has a grievance that he set forth in definite language to Governor Allred recently.

His car had been rifled while visiting in the capitol and to him this represented the maximum insult to a native Texan. Contemplating the bad impression it might make on Centennial visitors next year he wrote the following letter to the governor:

"Dear Governor: Last Saturday it was necessary for me to be in Austin on business and in order to put on a good appearance in the city I bought myself a new starched shirt and one of those little caps—a tan hat. I put my old shirt and 'John B.' in a bundle and left the bundle in the back seat of my car while calling on some of the high muck-amucks in the capitol. Well, did you know some darned thief stole my good shirt and real hat out of my car? 'Now, my idea is to put a good copuncher out here on the grounds with a double-barreled shot gun and blow him out of some of the rats that hang around the capitol and loot cars that come in from other parts of the state.

"You understand the value of these things I lost was not so much but the principle of the thing looks pretty bad for the state with the Centennial coming off next year and there will be many out-of-state as well as out-of-city cars come to our beautiful capitol.

"I have lived in this community most of the past 30 years, have never locked my barn, garage, house or car and have never lost as much in all that time as I did on the capitol grounds in one hour. Looks pretty bad to me. Understand, I am not wanting a job watching the capitol grounds, but I have a good double barreled shot gun I would lend free of charge to the state for the next 18 months if it will be put to the above mentioned service."

A man residing in another state expressed keen solicitude for Texas' governor on the first day of each March.

Hugh Green, negro major domo in the executive office who has served since former Governor Colquitt, reports receipt of a letter each March 1 warning the governor that the world would end the middle of March. The letter always is received on the first day.

Chapter 30 EDWIN THE CENSOR

Surprisingly, it was Dorothy Sharr, who proved to be Emily's bulwark. Dorothy had married at twenty and had one child, a boy of seven, so that, as she put it, "the novelty had about worn off."

But she had in addition a catholic and irrepressible sense of humor, and a remarkably sane outlook on life. She looked like a French doll, with her short black hair, her brilliant dark eyes, and wide, heavily rouged mouth. Edwin disapproved of her on principle and Dorothy was quite aware of his disapproval and quite unimpressed by it.

"I wonder why it is that husbands and wives never like the same people?" she laughed to Emily. "After you're married you don't go with the people you each like; you go with the people you can both stand!"

She formed a habit of dropping in almost daily, and Emily came to enjoy her more than anyone in Elston. Dorothy, like Charlotte, usually understood what you meant.

"You'll have to help me keep my sense of proportion and my sense of humor," Emily said one day. To herself she thought, "What a frail reed I am; I don't seem to be able to do anything without support from some outside source."

Dorothy smiled affectionately. "I will, I will run you ragged."

Edwin came in just then, and greeted Dorothy with unbending politeness. She crushed out her cigarette and rose.

"Heavens, is it time for husbands to be coming home? Mine is probably on the verge of apoplexy on a downtown corner, wondering why I haven't come for him."

Edwin saw her to her car, then came back and kissed his wife.

"I wish you wouldn't see so much of her," he said.

"Why not?" "She's too fast."

"How do you know?" Emily demanded sternly. "Has she been fast with you?"

He was so horrified that she almost laughed aloud. "Of course not! But I happen to know that she smokes incessantly and drinks too much and loses a lot at cards."

Emily eyes were wistful. "How interesting that would be for a change!"

He stared at her in consternation. At times the strain upon his nerves for Motherhood was terrific.

"Have you lost your mind?" "Not yet, darling. Dorothy is one of the best safeguards against insanity that I know of."

"I don't care," he insisted. "I don't think she's a fit companion for you."

She had been good for a long time, and she couldn't resist releasing one dart.

"Are you afraid she will corrupt your child?"

Edwin flushed hotly. "I believe you'd be sarcastic at the Bar of Heaven!" he cried.

Suddenly she was ashamed of her outburst, because teasing Edwin was such an unpromising thing to do; like shooting a partridge on the ground.

Edwin was quite as bewildered and defenseless as the partridge. She held out her hands to him.

"My dear, I'm ashamed of myself! This must be corroding my disposition. Why don't you lock me up?"

Once more he was the forgiving, protecting male. "Of course I wouldn't. I was thinking of your own good; that's all."

August lay like a vast woolen blanket over Elston. Emily gave up her walks and her visits, and sat in the spray-cooled shade of her own garden, where Narcissus brought her glasses of iced milk or orange juice, and waited on her with dog-like devotion.

Narcissus, like the living-room, had vindicated her judgment. In fact, she confessed to Dorothy Narcissus's company was far more stimulating than most of Elston's.

The victrola was paid for now, and Rosebud's wardrobe had grown from one anomalous garment to several every-day dresses and one Sunday one, besides various undergarments with which Rosebud had hitherto been unfamiliar.

As the trusted retainer of one of Elston's first families Narcissus had gained caste, and even, among her associates, begun to give herself airs. Sensing a steady income Rosebud's father had renewed his attentions, and been severely snubbed.

"He done ast me to ma'y him," she announced proudly to Emily. "But I ain't got no notion o'doin' it. I'm tied o' pants."

JIMMIE KITTS LAUDS WILSON FOR FINE JOB

RICE COACH BELIEVES SMU WILL SUFFER DEFEAT

BY BILL PARKER. Associated Press Sports Writer. Jimmie Kitts, coach of the Rice Institute Owls, is a four-square fellow who shoots his punches straight from the shoulder.

Monday, we requested that he tell us exactly what he thought of Southern Methodist's 10 to 0 victory over the Owls.

Here's Jimmie's exact words: "Southern Methodist showed us that Coach Matty Bell has a great club, both defensively and offensively. There's no alibis but in justice to our Rice boys I wish John McCauley and Bill Wallace had been in first class condition. Perhaps we would have lost anyway, but our chance for victory would have been brighter."

We asked Jimmie to give his version of the game's greatest play.

"I think the best play of the game occurred when Robert Wilson, Mustang halfback, went over for the touchdown. We had him covered to perfection on the wide play but Wilson did a great job when he cut back through our club. It was the game's greatest play by one of the conference's finest backs."

Jimmy crossed his fingers when asked about the Rice and University of Texas game Saturday at Austin.

"The reaction of my players to last week's defeat will be a vital factor in our game against the Longhorns. Personally, I believe I know my boys well enough to say that they will come back snarling and ready to prove that they are still great football players. The defeat stung them but also made them realize that they were conference champions last year and are not so far this season—and will be unless they prove strong enough to take their remaining conference games."

Kitts did not say as much, but indicated that he believed the great Southern Methodist team would suffer a conference defeat.

"It will take a miracle for any team to wade through this year's conference schedule without being defeated," he said. "The boys are playing hard, rough football, and anything can happen. The Owls last one game last year and won the championship. Don't count us out yet—at least not until you see how we fare against the powerful Longhorns."

NOTRE DAME'S BATTLE WITH NAVY TO BE WEEK'S STANDOUT

NEW YORK, Oct. 22. (AP)—The Navy-Notre Dame game seems to be the standout in intercollegiate football conflict this week.

The South Bend Ramblers, again riding along the victory road once paved by Knute Rockne, are favored in most quarters to take the measure of the Midshipmen, but regardless of the result it shapes up as a stirring contest.

The Irish are undefeated, but the Navy has dropped one game, by a 7-6 margin to Yale last Saturday.

Columbia, having tasted humiliating defeat from the nettled powermen of Pennsylvania, tackles Michigan, a team that has shown indication of returning to the eminence she once enjoyed in the big ten.

Detroit, shaded by a strong Catholic university team in its last start, faces unbeaten Villanova in another intercollegiate game that should prove to be close.

In five games Villanova has scored 137 points against none for her opponents. Detroit, however, has more to offer in the way of power, speed and deception than the other rivals.

Hunk Anderson's wolfpack of North Carolina state, staled by Georgia 13-0 last week, hies to New York to take on Chick Meahan's Manhattan team, which turned on a last quarter surge that brought it even with the big Purple team of Holy Cross last week.

Purdue was expected to prove too good for Carnegie Tech, the latter having dropped three straight to Notre Dame, New York university and Temple. Purdue is undefeated and unscored on.

Wake Forest of North Carolina mixes with George Washington. Other intercollegiate games bring together Buffalo and Wayne, Cincinnati and Baltimore, Hobart and Kenyon, Richmond and Franklin and Marshall, and Westminster and Muskegon.

FELONS FOIL FULLBACK SAN QUENTIN, Cal. (AP)—Well, anyway, the opposition had more experience.

Bobby Grayson, Stanford's all-American fullback, and Keith Topping, who shines at end, took the affirmative side in debating with three San Quentin convicts the proposition: "Resolved that congress should be empowered to overrule a decision of the supreme court by a two-thirds vote."

The convicts argued mightily in favor of the power of the courts and won.

Blackburn IS UNDER CHARGE FOR SHOOTING

Joe Louis' Trainer Engages in Gun Battle

CHICAGO, Oct. 22. (AP)—A pistol battle may rob Joe Louis' sensational negro heavyweight, of one of his principal assets—the ring shrewdness, counsel and teaching of his trainer, Jack Blackburn.

Blackburn was at liberty under bonds of $5,000 today on a charge of assault with intent to kill growing out of a shooting affray in which he engaged with another negro Sunday night. His hearing was set for Nov. 19, pending the outcome of the critical condition of Enoch Blackburn, 69, one of two bystanders.

Blackburn and his opponent, who was wounded, and Ayelu himself was said to be shot, although the extent of his wounds was unknown.

Louis, who regards Blackburn as the man responsible for his present ranking as the leading heavyweight contender, was all upset over the situation.

Louis, in his own mind, believes that Blackburn, individually, made him what he is today.

Every prediction Blackburn made to Louis has been fulfilled. If Blackburn told Louis that he could whip an opponent in three rounds, the Detroit bomber, with supreme confidence, went out and did the very thing. Louis refused to make a move either in the ring or concerning pending matches until Blackburn gave his approval.

Fourteen months ago, Blackburn, himself a former great fighter, took charge of Louis' training and developed him from a $50.00 fighter to the greatest box office attraction.

George Lott Jr. Cyril Harrison

If you have searched for cigarette mildness, mark the words of George Lott, the tennis champion, and the 7-goal polo star, Cyril Harrison. "Camels," says Mr. Harrison, "are so mild they don't upset the nerves or affect the wind. And when I'm tired I get a lift with a Camel." And Lott adds: "I found a delightful new experience in Camels. I understand that more expensive tobaccos are used in Camels. Naturally the cigarette that is blended from more expensive tobaccos is going to be easy and gentle on the throat. And Camels never get my wind. I'd walk a mile for a Camel!" Camels are made from more expensive tobaccos than any other popular brand. Turn to Camels and enjoy to the full the pleasure that comes from costlier tobaccos.

COSTLIER TOBACCOES!

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOES—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.
