Argentina Back In 'Doghouse' Of Pan America

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Argentina's army-dominated government is back in the Pan-American doghouse—only four months after it got out.

United States patience with the Buenos Aires brass hats ran out yesterday. Today the 19 other American republics appeared about ready to join in hanging up the diplomatic "quarantine" sign along the Rio de la Plata, Argentina's northern boundary.

Specifically, the republics seem certain to go ahead drafting a Pan-American defense treaty that would exclude Argentina.

While treaty discussions are going on, however, the United States will take the lead in discussions of what else—if anything—the Americas are ready to do about their perennial problem child.

The first official step in the new crackdown probably will come tomorrow. The state department has asked the Pan-American union governments to meet then to "consider" postponing the inter-American conference scheduled to open October 20 in Brazil.

Actually, the host government already has called off the conference. This came after the United States told Brazil it would not sit down at a conference table with the present Argentine government to draft the hemisphere defense treaty.

The treaty had been the chief aim of the conference agenda. Meeting newsmen, Acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson said the Argentine regime had repudiated completely the hemisphere and United Nations obligations as assumed last spring.

Air Corps General Commends Pampa

Brig-Gen. Victor H. Strahm, commander of the central flying training command, Randolph field, Texas, in a letter to Mayor Paris Oden, has commended Pampa and its citizens for their cooperation during the time the Pampa army air field was active here.

The letter, dated Sept. 29, read as follows: "Now that Pampa army air field has successfully completed its mission in the training of the world's greatest air force, and its facilities are no longer needed for the reduced AAF training program, I desire to extend to you, and through you to the entire citizenry of Pampa and vicinity, my personal appreciation for the cooperation at all times extended us."

"The urgencies of war brought to your community many perplexing and difficult problems. Through your wholehearted cooperation, assistance, understanding and tolerance with the personnel at Pampa army air field, these problems were met and solved, thus making our task far easier."

"We are particularly indebted to your civic leaders and organizations, your city and county officials, your churches, your newspaper and radio station, your USO, the army hospital committee, and the American Red Cross, and those individuals who have at all times so willingly aided us in the performance of our arduous duties."

"In behalf of the enlisted, student, and officer personnel who have been stationed at Pampa army air field, and of the entire army air forces, I wish to say 'thank you' for a job well done."

'The Dragon' Is Ousted by Chiang Order

CHUNGKING, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. K. S. Aurnand, commander of U. S. services of supply units, today announced complete cessation of fighting at Kuming between the Chinese central government troops and forces of deposed Yunnan governor Lung Yun.

The situation is rapidly returning to normal after at least three Americans were reported wounded by the gunfire.

It was reported unofficially that two of the wounded Americans were hit when provincials surrounding the American army motor pool in from the place. The Americans had Kuming fired on GIs retreating from the place. The Americans had been ordered not to put up any resistance.

Earlier, Yank troops had been reported isolated in two Kuming hotels as central government and Yunnanese troops battled.

Word of Aurnand's announcement, which was confirmed by nighttime observations within Kuming itself, reached Chungking by military telephone.

George Alexander, former New York Times photographer, reported from the Kuming Red Cross town club that the morning had been quiet so far as he knew, and that Americans once more had the freedom of the city, although Aurnand had not lifted his 8 p. m. to 6 a. m. curfew.

Alexander, who has been working for the Chinese central government on loan from the cultural relations division of the U. S. state department, described the battle last night between central government and provincial troops around the two hostels in which Americans had been isolated.

They fought for two hours, he said, before the government troops wiped out, dispersed or captured the provincials.

Central government troops retrained from using heavy weapons because of the Americans' proximity, he reported.

Ludovic Larot, a Russian bridge player, was reported by Alexander to have been known to Yank troops and supplied by a liaison plane from Kuming's airfield on the opposite side of town.

Texas, who was among Americans isolated in Kuming, said martial law had been declared by Gen. Tu Li Ming, commanding the central government's fifth route army, which has headquarters there.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's oyster yesterday of the War Lord Lung, known as "the dragon," preceded the fighting.

Strikes Begin To Reach Pampa Area

Pampa and Gray county have begun to feel the influence of strikes throughout the nation as one oil industry walkout was effected and others rumored in this area today.

Also possibly to be affected is the communication system, as result of a national call for strike vote by telephone operators. This vote has been called for tomorrow.

In sympathy with the 30 percent wage increase and 40-hour week CIO union demands a walkout was effected last night at six o'clock at the Cities Service Oil Production plant by approximately 50 CIO Oil Workers International union members. The plant, located three miles west of Pampa, was closed by 8 o'clock this morning.

All other plants in this area were reported to be in full operation. Union members were awaiting settlement of the national controversy in Washington, said C. R. Williams, OWI representative of local 235, which includes the entire Panhandle area.

Union officials said they had not ordered any of the members to strike, and that the men at the Cities Service plant had acted on their own under the chairmanship of Herbert Willis. The one plant was the only department of any plant that has made any preparation to shut down, said the union officials.

Union members at the Phillips center of the tropical hurricane sweeping west northwestward across the Caribbean was expected to strike coastal British Honduras in the vicinity of Belize this afternoon with "dangerous and destructive winds."

The weather bureau here reported the hurricane was attended by winds of more than 90 miles an hour and was moving west northwestward at about 10 miles per hour.

The bureau issued this advisory at 4 a. m. (EST).

The hurricane is centered about 120 miles east southeast of Belize, B. H., at latitude 17 north and longitude 86.7 west, and is moving west northwestward about 10 miles per hour. It is attended by winds of over 90 miles per hour over a small area near the center and by gales over a moderately large area.

"Present indications are for a continued west northwestward movement which will bring the storm center to the British Honduras coast in the vicinity of Belize this afternoon, attended by dangerous and destructive winds."

"Every precaution should be continued against this severe storm in the Gulf of Honduras, British Honduras, and the southern portion of Quintana Roo, Mexico. All other islands in the Caribbean sea should continue to exercise caution."

New CPA Agency To Replace WPB

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—(AP)—President Truman today signed an executive order abolishing the war production board and replacing it with a civilian production administration, effective November 3.

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said that WPB Chairman J. A. Krug was resigning effective Nov. 3, when the civilian production administration takes over under J. D. Small as administrator.

Small is now chief of staff for the WPB.

The President's order sets up the civilian production administration in the office for emergency management.

The OEF is part of the executive office of the President.

The President's order said that the powers transferred to the new agency shall be used to (A) expand production of materials short in supply, (B) limit manufacture of products for which materials or facilities are insufficient, (C) control the accumulation of inventories to avert speculative hoarding and unbalanced distribution, (D) grant priority assistance to break bottlenecks, (E) facilitate relief and essential export programs and (F) allocate scarce materials and facilities for the production of low-priority items essential to the continued success of the stabilization program.

Laval Faces Trial Today For Treason

PARIS, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Pierre Laval was expelled from the courtroom today during the first hours of the trial for his life and the presiding judge, Paul Mongibeaux, announced that the hearing would continue without the presence of the former chief of the Vichy government.

Laval's lawyers had walked out and the judge, jury and prosecutor shouted in unison at Laval's assertion at the tumultuous opening of his trial for treason that "I am a patriot and I will prove it."

Though the white-tied Laval lost his first skirmishes, he fought back hard and bitterly and prepared to act as his own attorney after his lawyers quit the courtroom, contending they had not had sufficient time to prepare their case or even access to the records.

Scorching words flew back and forth and so great was the confusion that it required presiding Judge Paul Mongibeaux two hours to get the trial started formally with the reading of the lengthy indictment.

"You are, all of you, under government orders," Laval shouted to the high court of justice, which only yesterday condemned to death, Joseph Darnand, who headed the gestapo-like Vichy militia.

Laval himself started an uproar with an opening declaration: "I am a patriot and I will prove it."

Approval Expected On A-Bomb Controls

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—(AP)—President Truman's plans for iron-lad domestic control of atomic energy appeared bound today for early congressional approval.

Democratic Leader Barkley (KY) listed it as "every high priority" legislation in the senate.

But legislators made it plain at the same time that they want a hand in deciding how much to tell the rest of the world about the atomic bomb.

Mr. Truman separated the country's biggest enigma into home and abroad classifications into a message to congress yesterday.

He called first for creation of a presidentially appointed commission to:

1. Control all mineral sources of atomic energy, plants and stockpiles.

2. Conduct all necessary research, experiments and operations of further development for "military, industrial, scientific or medical purposes."

3. Issue licenses for private operations based "upon a policy of widespread distribution of peacetime products on equitable terms which will prevent monopoly."

4. Permit production, import and export of energy producing substances only under conditions it prescribes.

5. Set up rules of censorship for information about material and equipment under its jurisdiction.

All of this sounded pretty reasonable to most congressmen.

But many found room for argument in the President's brief outline of his thinking along international lines.

He told his news conference yesterday he will have detailed recommendations.

'Butcher of Warsaw' Is Big Cry Baby of Yokohama Prison

YOKOHAMA, Oct. 3—(AP)—The big cry baby among the 34 war criminal suspects locked up within the bleak walls of moated Yokohama prison awaiting trial for their parts in the war is the man with the bloodiest name of all—Col. Josef Alfred Meisinger, known in Poland as the butcher of Warsaw.

His troubled mind won't rest and he pleads for sleeping pills. He is the biggest complainer in the place, reported guards who watch his switching face through the narrow peephole in his cell door. Every time they enter, they say, Meisinger—almost in tears—tries to start a conversation.

He cries: "When do I get out of here? I haven't done anything. It wasn't my fault if my orders were disobeyed. I must have been some of my officers who did things I didn't know about."

The once-swaggering Nazi is only one of many men with big names during the war who now are held in this U. S. Eighth army prison. They include Japanese, German, Dutch, Filipino, Australian and Burmese.

They are kept in complete isolation. Not even high-ranking American officers can visit the prison. It took the written instructions of Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, Eighth army commander, to get this correspondent through the gates.

"We have not had any trouble with the prisoners," the prison's executive officer, Maj. Anton Lattal, Jr., of Perth Amboy, N. J., related.

"The Japanese don't say much and you can't figure from the way they act whether they're worried," he added.

The things that shook the prisoners, most, he said, was a recent picture magazine from America, distributed to prisoners by chance rather than design, which contained a set of grim photographs depicting the trials and hangings of German war criminals. Prisoners were not so hungry that night, Lattal said.

Good Breakfast Is Necessary To Good Health

AUSTIN, Oct. 4—Because the time that elapses between the evening meal and breakfast the next morning is considerably more than that between other meals, an adequate breakfast is necessary to good health. Even during sleep normal body processes continue to burn fuel. Breakfast is needed to replace that fuel loss as well as to furnish energy for the morning's activities, according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer.

"Eating no breakfast or a poor one results in irritability, fatigue and a mid-morning let-down. A mid-morning snack will satisfy hunger but furnishes little of the protective foods the body needs. It serves also to dull the appetite for the next meal," Dr. Cox warns.

"Too many individuals think of breakfast as coffee and doughnut grabbed while dressing for work or school. It has become a compromise between reaching work and school on time and a desire to catch that extra forty winks," Dr. Cox added.

An adequate breakfast furnishes one-fourth to one-third of the day's food requirements. Milk, fruit and whole-grain cereal, and bread makes a good simple breakfast easy to prepare and serve. In addition it is some type of breakfast meat and waffles or pancakes.

"Once we have taken time to plan and prepare a good breakfast, we also need time to relax and eat it properly," the doctor added. "Only five or ten minutes more time is required to eat a good breakfast that can give added vigor for the day's activities as well as add much to good general health and a cheerful disposition."

Living Costs in U. S. Have Risen Thirty Per Cent

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, Oct. 4. — (AP)—Take a look at your living costs, at how they've gone up. All the details are not here, but you'll get a good idea.

Living costs in this country have risen at least 30 per cent since August, 1939, which was just before World War II started.

That 30 per cent rise is a government figure. It's an absolute minimum figure, labor says the figure is far too low.

Labor says living costs almost double what the government says they are. If that were true, living costs would have gone up 60 per cent.

That's one of the chief reasons why labor now that it has lost its high wartime pay—is yelling for higher wages.

The government's latest figures are for August, 1945. So the increases given here will be the increases between August, 1939 and August, 1945.

Food—Up 50 per cent.
Clothing—Up 45 per cent.
House furnishings—Up 44 per cent.

Miscellaneous costs and services—Up 23 per cent. (This includes movies, tobacco, medical care, drugs, transportation.)

Fuel, electricity and ice—Up 14 per cent.

Rents—Up 3 per cent.

But this is far from telling the whole story: How individual items within those 6 categories above have risen far beyond the average for the group.

For example:
Fresh fish—Up 124 per cent.
Apples—Up 197 per cent.
String beans—Up 159 per cent.
Potatoes—Up 114 per cent.

Rents—Which had gone up only 3 per cent—made the best showing of all the main groups in the government's effort to hold down living costs.

RFC May Finance Plant Completion

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4. — (AP)—Rep. Pickett (D-Texas) announced here that the reconstruction finance corporation may put up a needed $1,000,000 to complete the $3,000,000 iron ore plant at Rusk, Texas. The McCross Engineering company, Rusk development sponsors, were called upon to draw up a "firm agreement" to operate the iron works when it is completed. "The officials of the agency told us if they found the contract terms satisfactory they would then release the funds to complete the project," Pickett said.

In the first five months of 1945 an average of 32 automobiles broke down daily en route across the San Francisco-Oakland Bay bridge.

No Fat For Garbage Cans!

Lt. Charles P. Crepeau of Bretton Woods, N. H., makes sure no fat goes out in the garbage at Camp Edwards, Mass. Though used fat is no longer required for many articles of war, it is urgently needed by industry to help make many peacetime essentials. The Army will continue to do a thorough job of fat salvage until fats and oils can be imported from South Pacific.

Austrian Asks To Join Yanks

YOKOHAMA—(AP)—A 19-year-old Austrian who fled Europe to escape Hitler's dictatorship and who has no love for the Japanese today asked to enlist in the American army of occupation.

He took IQ tests and a physical examination. He is awaiting a ruling whether there is any possible bar to his enlistment.

"I want to be an American because it is the greatest nation in the world," said the young refugee, Robert Stern.

He was born in Vienna, the son of a Jewish father and a Catholic mother. His parents went to Shanghai in 1938. Two years later, Robert and his sister, Ruth, joined the father in Yokohama. The mother had died in Shanghai.

Stern, an ambitious youth whose years of flight and peril have limited him to eight years of schooling, plans to take the army correspondence courses and to attend night school.

Stern wandered into the bivouac of a 778th AMTRAC battalion motor officer, Capt. Walter R. E. Coleman, 120 Red Cross St., Wilmington, N. C., and asked if he could work to earn his food.

"Our job is to try to make seized Japanese automobiles run so that the army can use them," Coleman related "and, brother, that's a job. We were frantic for mechanics and Stern said he had worked on refrigerators, so we put him to work.

"That kid plunged right in. He is a fair mechanic and you have to explain things to him only once. He's been with us since Sept. 7 and was getting only food and a place to sleep. He will make a good soldier."

Another highly important job was found for Stern by the battalion commander, Lt. Col. John R. DeWitt, Jr., Fort Royal, Va. DeWitt used him to keep Japanese laborers "on the job."

"Stern knows the Japs and he doesn't like them. He thinks they are too tricky and always is watching them. When they are loafing on the job, I turn Stern loose and he yells at them in their own gibberish. They know he knows they are loafing and they really start shoveling."

Shirtsleeve Diplomacy Takes Over at Capitol

By HAROLD WARD

WASHINGTON—The nation's new labor trouble shooter is a hunky, 42-year-old native of Pittsburgh where the steel and coal industries have seen bitter labor-management clashes.

Edgar L. Warren, who took over as director of the U. S. conciliation service under the recent labor department shuffle, demonstrated his organizational ability as chairman of the Kansas City and Chicago regional labor boards.

In Chicago he handled more cases than any other of the board's 12 regions. Working in his shirtsleeves, the greying Warren took over personal direction of several of the toughest labor disputes in the Chicago area—including the city-wide truck strike which resulted in army intervention.

While there he also had to combat a virtual management sit-down strike over board directives. Employers refused for a while to abide by WLB orders.

The reorganization work Warren performed in Kansas City will serve him well in his new job—revamping and bolstering the conciliation service, which now numbers 250 commissioners.

Secretary of Labor Schwelencbach, telling reports of Warren's appointment, said the conciliation service during the war had been forced into the role of a "mere certifying agency" for the war labor board. That is, the conciliation service certified that there was a dispute, and WLB settled it.

Schwelencbach laughingly admitted that Warren's Missouri family background "didn't seem to be a handicap" in his selection for the job. President Truman also is a Missourian.

Neither was it a drawback to Warren when he was appointed chairman of the Kansas City board. The national WLB then was trying to find a man at least familiar with

Extension Loan Library Serves State of Texas

AUSTIN, Oct. 4—A library that has the entire state of Texas for its borrowers is the Extension Loan Library of the University of Texas.

Books, plays, pamphlets and periodical clippings and club outlines—24,599 package libraries—went into 244 counties in Texas last year, and to 924 towns and rural communities, Miss LeNoir Dimmitt, librarian, reports.

"The heaviest borrowers of material were the public schools, particularly those in the rural areas," Miss Dimmitt said. "For the entire year, 11,391 schools used our material.

"Women's clubs were second heaviest users of the library, for 9,772 asked for information on various subjects. Libraries using material numbered 2,259.

"Other users were 61 army camps, 24 civic organizations, 27 county agents, 960 individuals, and 196 parent-teacher associations."

Material on current history topped the list of requests, with 3,384 asking for literature on that subject.

Literature was next in demand, with 3,667 libraries sent out. Information on political, economic, and social topics was third in popularity, with 3,639 requests and fourth was in the field of fine arts, with 3,298 requests.

Material may be obtained from the extension library by writing directly to it at the university. In the files of the library are 5,379 permanent package libraries; 3,496 books; 66,308 periodicals indexed in Readers' Guide; 15,461 speech arts

Full Development Of Water Supply In State Needed

AUSTIN, Oct. 4—Declaring that Texas should seek "nothing less than the full development of the water resources of the state," Wesley R. Nelson today urged members of the Texas Water Conservation association to prepare a "dynamic program of action."

Nelson, regional director of the bureau of reclamation, addressed the first session of the annual convention of the group which opened here today.

Irrigation development, which provide an annual increase in the cash value of Texas crops amounting to $60,000,000, was outlined by Nelson who said the state program of the bureau provides for the construction of 18 projects. These developments would provide new or supplemental water to almost 1,000,000 acres of land. In addition to irrigation, the Texas projects would develop over 100,000 kilowatts of hydroelectric power, increase benefits to the state's fish, game and recreational features as well as provide for flood control and municipal water supply.

"It is obvious that the benefits to flow from this vast program will accelerate the agricultural, economic and industrial development of all Texas," Nelson said. "In addition, jobs would be available at construction sites for thousands of returning veterans and demobilized war workers."

The proposed bureau of reclamation projects are located in the basins of the Nueces, Rio Grande, Colorado, Guadalupe and Canadian rivers. Other projects are under study to determine their feasibility in the basins of the Brazos, Red, Pecos, Trinity and Sabine-Neches rivers.

On being asked why labor was striking at such a critical time, Union representative Williams said that union statistics show that the average member could not earn a decent wage if they worked on the pre-war 40-hour basis which management was expected to return to; that it was necessary for men to work overtime to earn that decent wage; and that the net profits of management was far higher in proportion to wages than ever before.

Play Table Advised for Tiny Tots

It's difficult to keep children occupied during the winter months when stormy weather often keeps them indoors for days. One of the best diversions is a play table like the one above, which makes it fun to learn A-B-C's and how to count.

This one, designed by Peter Hunt, was made to suit the size of the youngster. Painted to match the furniture in the nursery, it is trimmed with a row of numerals from one to 10 on one side and the letters of the alphabet on the opposite side. Simple figures of familiar domestic animals and flowers make it easy for Junior or Sister to learn to call them by name.

USO Returns Colored Candle To Pampa Girl Scout Association

A year or two ago the local USO sent out a plea to the Girl Scouts for candles. Soon the girls began coming in loaded down with fat candles, thin candles, used candles, unused candles, red ones and green ones.

The USO took the candles and fashioned one large multi-colored cylinder of wax. It was lighted in an impressive ceremony and remained lighted until a few days ago, a light in the window, so to speak, beckoning returning war heroes, Mrs. K. E. Thornton, president, related.

During the years as it flickered its hopeful light, many soldiers have made a wish, putting a penny in the candle as they did so.

Now that the war has come to a triumphant end the Girl Scouts again have the candle. They are using those pennies that were so hopefully placed in the candle for materials to make interesting things that will divert and amuse hospitalized veterans.

These scrap books, decorated trays, mats, comic books and other interesting articles will be sent to McCloskey hospital as soon as each troop completes the project.

In war or in peace the Girl Scouts stand ready to do the little things that make the United States the superior nation it is.

Pampa Girl Scouts have planned a banquet to be held the night of October 25, at the Senior high school cafeteria when Gretchen Kidd, a member of the National Staff, will speak, explaining the Girl Scout program in all its phases. This should be especially interesting to parents and friends of Scouting who realize the importance of Scouting to girls of all ages. Mrs. Thornton, emphasized.

COPS AND ROBBER

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 4.—Police Capt. Lee Markwood and Sgt. Dan Mangan, off duty, stood in front of the police station and watched with interest a nervous and irritated driver trying to get out of a parking space.

Markwood remarked that the man was "probably mad because he had to pay a fine."

But that was before J. W. Wolff ran up to announce his car had been stolen.

Merten Home Demonstration Group Makes Tour of Homes at Club Meeting

Mrs. H. H. Threatt was hostess to members of the Merten Home Demonstration club recently for coffee and cookies, preceding the tour to homes of members, which was conducted later in the day.

A short business meeting followed, with Mrs. T. G. Groves presiding.

Coffee and paper sack lunches were served at the noon hour in the home of Mrs. V. Smith.

In many homes new cabinet closets and fresh paint were apparent. Canned fruits and vegetables and hand work were displayed in every home.

Of unusual interest were the antiques in the home of Mrs. Frank Bailey, and the collection of arrows in the home of Mrs. C. L. Cudney. Charcoal and chalk drawings were admired in the home of Mrs. Newman, who drew the pictures.

Making the tour were Mrs. J. M. Scott, Mrs. T. G. Groves, Mrs. Frank Bailey, Mrs. C. L. Cudney, Mrs. V. Smith, Mrs. S. E. Waters, Mrs. Allen Say, Miss Millicent Schaub, agent, and the hostess, Mrs. Threatt.

Mrs. S. E. Waters, 1300 Christine, will be hostess for the next meeting, Oct. 15. "Recreation for the Family" will be the topic for the afternoon with Mrs. J. M. Scott, Mrs. J. C. Stewart, and Mrs. V. Smith, participating.

Nightly Cleansing Means Good Skin

Did you know that the pores of the skin tend to open slightly while you sleep? Not to stagger you with our knowledge is this nugget of information given, but to impress upon you why skin should be cleaned, even before you take an afternoon nap. Any foreign matter left on your skin will seize this opportunity to move in.

Imagine, then, the risk a careless girl takes who allows herself to fall asleep at night before she whisks off her make-up!

No matter how late the hour, or how tired you are, haul out the jar of cleansing cream or, if you are a soap-and-water girl, the sudsy cloth. You don't want a nice complexion to be marred by enlarged pores, blackheads, embedded dirt or annoying blemishes, do you?

Mrs. B. A. Zeigler was leader of the program which opened with the roll call with each member accounting for "My Summer Days."

The American Creed was given in unison by the group.

Mrs. Benson gave the "President's Message," after which Mrs. H. T. Fields conducted a model club meeting.

Members present included Mesdames R. D. Boatwright, W. Y. Burden, J. E. Christener, L. E. Davis, Fields, Charles Green, T. C. Davis, Charles Griffin, R. C. Lewis, L. S. Griffin, R. C. Lewis, Ben A. Skidmore, and Zeigler. Mrs. William Kyle was a special guest.

New Dishcloths!

Housewives hang onto their dishcloths these days as though they were family treasures. They are, almost! In some localities the shops are entirely out of them. No need to worry, however, as you can always crochet a handsome one such as this 12 by 10-inch "pineapple" cloth. Easy to crochet, inexpensive, practical and a mighty pretty piece of handwork for your kitchen.

Grand, too, for church bazaars and shower gifts!

Petite Women Should Avoid Platform Shoes

Platform shoes are an adjunct of dress which too many pint-size women rely upon to stretch their height. What advantages are added inches if the means for stretching nature give the illusion of fore-shortened feet and figure?

Sometimes a high heel on a less bulky shoe will do much better by a pint-sizer who desperately wants to look taller.

Paradoxically enough, the platform shoe is a better footwear friend of the tall gal. It gives her the good, medium height of heel she needs, and makes a much better choice for her than the too-flat shoe, which is such an obvious device for cutting off inches.

ISN'T Good Living JUST A MATTER OF CHOICE?

Good foods carefully selected and properly prepared are the basis of good living. Among all the foods you serve, good coffee is probably the most important. It's the "backbone" of many menus, notably breakfast and supper; it's the one part of any meal that must be good if other foods are to be enjoyed. Hence don't take chances by trying to save a penny or two a pound. Buy the choicest, most skillfully blended coffee the market offers. Such a coffee is Admiration—superb in quality, rich in flavor, delightfully aromatic and inviting. More people in the Southwest drink it than any other brand. There's a reason.

'FINANCING AMERICAN PROSPERITY': FISCAL POLICY IS MOST WIDELY DISCUSSED CURE FOR UNEMPLOYMENT

(This is the last of six articles in which leading economists give their ideas on how to keep the United States prosperous. The articles were condensed by their authors for the Associated Press from a forthcoming volume, "Financing American Prosperity," which is being published by Twentieth Century Fund.)

By JOHN H. WILLIAMS, Nathaniel Ropes, Professor of Political Economy, Harvard University.

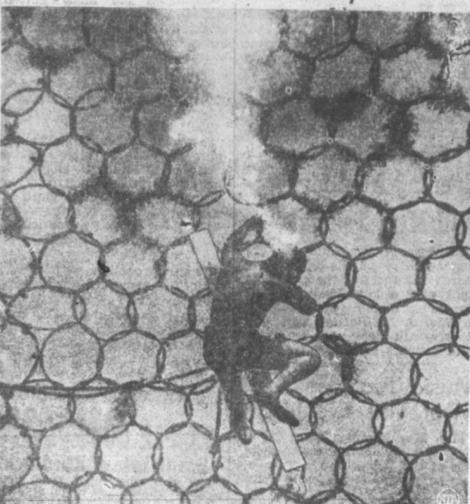

(Distributed by Associated Press) Since the great depression, the most widely discussed cure for unemployment has been fiscal policy. It has come to have much the same prominence as Central bank policy had in the twenties.

Theories about fiscal policy have gone through three fairly distinct phases. There was the early "pump priming" phase which called for an unbalanced budget to offset the business cycle—deficits in depression, surpluses in boom periods. Then we began to be concerned with long-run contractive tendencies toward oversaving and underinvestment, the problems of a "mature economy". This led to "compensatory" theories which pictured an indefinitely expanding public debt to compensate for a lack of private saving and investment. Then war gave the discussion a new turn. The size of our debt has made us realize its political and economic dangers and there is now less emphasis on long-run deficit spending.

As for bridging the transition from war to peace, I believe we will have to treat the transition period for two or three years as an extension of the war emergency. We must be prepared to use whatever combinations of private and public spending, including large deficits if necessary, the circumstances may require. If, after the transition period, the economy cannot sustain itself without large deficits, our efforts will have failed and we shall find ourselves headed toward some other kind of economic system.

Our long-time efforts should include: (1) Fiscal and monetary policies to stabilize and expand income and employment without unduly large public spending and, especially, large deficits; (2) business and

Net Result: Sea Safety

(Navy Photo from NEA) Very "hush-hush" until now has been the Navy's tremendous development of underwater photography to the point where pictures were taken at depths of 300 feet. Above, the underwater camera has snapped a diver, 20 feet down, examining an anti-torpedo net for flaws. Submarine photography did vital work in enabling officers to check mines, record underwater damage to ships, identify sunken ships and examine sea bottoms and channels.

governmental policies to make the private economy function more effectively and respond more promptly to expansionary forces; (3) the development of new wants, new products and new processes. Let us not forget what the automobile did for our economy. Houses, helicopters, food-freezing in homes, air-conditioning, television, etc., may be postwar answers to the question of how to increase consumption. Higher consumption, not less than increased investment, will raise production, income and employment. If the free enterprise system is to grow within itself, the rise in profits from increasing productivity, new

WITH AMERICAN ARMY IN JAPAN. (Delayed)—(P)—This may seem a strange place to bring it up, but did you ever hear of the brief military career of Mrs. Collins?

It was one of the most spectacular of any "commander" in the American army but it didn't last long. I got the story from Wick Fowler of the Dallas News, who thinks Mrs. Collins—he will give her that pseudonym for courtesy—might have become another Stonewall Jackson if left alone.

Mrs. Collins first appeared on the military scene when an American regiment, sweeping through France, liberated a town in which she lived. Among the first of the cheering hundreds to step forward and express gratitude was this winsome lady.

But she didn't stop with that. She up and joined the army! No one knows just how it happened. Certainly no officer ever admitted extending her an invitation and nobody who was around at the time recalls that Mrs. Collins ever received any letter from President Roosevelt beginning "Greetings". She first made herself useful by acting as interpreter in dealings with the French populace.

When the regiment took off in pursuit of the Germans, who tagged along but Mrs. Collins! And she set about at once making herself useful in many ways.

First she took over the regimental mess. Its quality improved at once. And tired officers no longer had to eat off bare boards. Mrs. Collins fixed that. She wangled dishes, table clothes—even napkins—from someone wherever the regiment halted.

With that reform completed Mrs. Collins moved on to new triumphs. She took over selection of command posts, scouting intrepidly forward with leading troops.

By now, Mrs. Collins was rising rapidly. She began attending staff conferences and her advice on military matters seemed as sound as it did on the proper temperature to serve wine. She read all the intelligence reports. Then Mrs. Collins reached her zenith. She began taking a hand in planning operations.

She began speeding about on special missions in the colonel's jeep. The jeep proved her undoing. "Who is that woman?" he shouted.

"Why don't you know her, general?" replied a private reverently.

Case of Touch and Go

(Navy Photo from NEA) Underwater photography, highly developed by the Navy for various war tasks, produced the unusual photo above, showing a Mine Disposal Service crewman at his perilous task of neutralizing a derelict mine. Having placed a small charge (box on end of mine) which will, upon explosion, cut electric wires leading to explosive inside the mine, he anchors the firing cable securely. Charge is fired from vessel after diver has surfaced.

"That's Mrs. Collins."

The general checked and found that nobody knew who Mrs. Collins was.

"Turn her over to the CIC," the general stormed.

RANGOON, Burma, Sept. 23.—(Delayed)—(P)—Cigar puffing Burma belles and dogfights make Shwe Pagoda, one of the Orient's great religious shrines, somewhat of an unorthodox temple to western eyes.

From the air the golden shrine of this centuries-old monument to Buddhism is the most outstanding feature of Rangoon's bomb-marked landscape. At closer range it is even more remarkable.

I went through the shrine with Sgt. Jack Malone, former truckman, of Grand Rapids, Michigan, who was among a group of fewer than 50 American troops stationed in Rangoon.

shrine you enter a long staired archway which bears the grime of centuries—half lit and active with a hundred strange smells each fighting for supremacy.

Burmese children squabble at the entrance of this temple gateway for the chance to guard your shoes, for it is against the house rules to go in shod. You can walk barefooted or in your socks, and after one glance at the unwashed cobblestone pavement, we elected to keep our socks on.

The covered archway has more than 100 yards long and housed scores of Burmese families who had turned the shrine into one of Rangoon's busiest shopping centers. You could buy almost anything there—from Japanese magazines to candies, from hairpins to rubies.

"You'll probably be able to buy a tractor here in another couple of months with a statue of Buddha on the radiator," said Malone, who has spent a year in Burma and finds it full of more dirt than mystery.

Newly Ratified Water Treaty To Erase Bitterness

AUSTIN, Oct. 4.—(P)—Lawrence M. Lawson, American commissioner of the international boundary commission between United States and Mexico, told delegates to the first annual meeting of the Texas Water Conservation association yesterday that the recently ratified Texas-Mexico water treaty marked the culmination of nearly a century of misunderstanding and bitterness.

"The signing of the treaty relating to the conservation, control, distribution and use of the available water supply of the Rio Grande below Fort Quitman, and of the Colorado and Tijuana rivers marked the culmination of nearly a century of diplomacy relating to these streams," said Lawson.

"The treaty does not give away any natural resources of either country. It simply recognizes mutual rights and obligations. In so doing, it not only sets at rest the fears and uncertainties which have been the source of misunderstanding and bitterness in the great river basins in both countries, but also allows development to proceed in an orderly manner and on a firm basis."

The work and contemplated program for Texas of the U. S. bureau of reclamation was outlined by Wesley R. Nelson, regional director, Amarillo.

Nelson pointed out that Texas, because of its size and location is within the "twilight zone" as to humidity and aridity; also it is not a public land state as are the other 16 western states. These facts exclude it from participation in the reclamation act of 1902 which facilitate the development of reclamation projects under federal authority.

Texas needs to clarify and rectify its laws in order to straighten out the appropriation of unappropriated waters of the states," said Nelson, citing as example the difficulty of getting the Balmorhea project near Pecos started as a water conservation utilization district because of involved legislation.

Veterans Given Consideration in Back Tax Paying

WASHINGTON.—All collectors of internal revenue were instructed today by Joseph D. Nunan, Jr., commissioner of internal revenue, to give veterans every consideration permitted by law in clearing up any back taxes which some of them owe.

The commissioner wrote to each field office as follows:

"If a discharged veteran is unable to pay income taxes within the period of deferment provided by Section 513 of the Soldiers and Sailors Civil Relief Act (six months after discharge), or is unable to pay promptly any other federal tax liability incurred prior to or during his term of service, collectors should deal with the matter of collection in a cooperative and sympathetic manner. Partial payments, geared to the financial resources of the service man or woman may be accepted in such cases."

Many if not most, of the men and women of the armed forces owe no past taxes. Usually, where a veteran has some unpaid taxes, they were incurred before entrance into the armed forces or they resulted from civilian income received in addition to service pay. Tax was incurred on service pay only when it exceeded $2,000 per year ($500 personal exemption plus special $1,500 exclusive of service pay).

Veterans and returning service personnel in general who have any federal tax problems are invited to consult the local offices of the collectors of internal revenue for information, help in preparing returns, and other assistance.

Patton 'Welcomes' Appointment To Head 15th Army

BAD TOLLENZ, Germany, Oct. 4.—(P)—Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., pleasant and almost cheerful though he has been relieved of his beloved Third army command, said today he "welcomed" his appointment to head the U. S. 15th army, little more than a headquarters and paper organization.

The tank expert said he would yield command of the Third army, which he led from Normandy to Czechoslovakia, to Lt. Gen. Lucian K. Truscott on Sunday at a goodbye ceremony.

Patton insisted that he had been doing a good job of administering Bavaria and carrying out General Eisenhower's orders for denazification. He carefully avoided any remark which might reflect on his military colleagues or superiors.

There was no air of dejection or rancor about the general, who scored some of the United States' greatest victories in the field.

His job as 15th army commander will be to write down the lessons learned in the war. He has long been interested in military history and in writing about tactics.

His chief of staff, Col. Paul D. Harkins of Boston, said for the record:

"I feel that conditions in Bavaria compare favorably with any other district in Germany in respect to denazification, care of the stateless and displaced persons and in the restoration of sufficient agricultural facilities to prevent starvation or mauling of American taxpayers, to feed the people who otherwise would starve."

Eisenhower relieved Patton as commander of the Third army and administrator in Bavaria effective Oct. 7.

Many of the men in Patton's command, proudly recalling their combat service under him, expressed regret at the "old man's" ouster.

State Trying To Buy New Building For Office Space

AUSTIN, Oct. 3.—(P)—State officials today awaited acceptance of an offer to purchase for $739,942 the Tribune tower in Austin for state office purposes.

The purchase proposal was made yesterday by the board of control, with approval of a special building council named by the legislature, to a representative of the J. M. West estate, owner of the building.

The state has available $1,932,281 with which it can purchase the Tribune building and construct an additional building or, as an alternative, construct two buildings, without purchase of an existing structure.

By whatever means acquired one building would be used for state departments and the other by appellate courts. The plan together with the appropriation was authorized at the general session of the legislature.

One of its objectives is to eliminate in so far as possible rental of private office buildings for state departments, a practice that now costs $68,000 annually in Austin alone.

Under the legislation the board of control recommends a course to be followed in acquiring more office space, subject to the approval of the council. Members of the council are Weaver Baker, chairman, and also chairman of the board of control; Lt.-Gov. John Lee Smith, Speaker of the House Claude Gilmer of Kerrville; Rep. M. A. Bundy of Wichita Falls, Attorney General Grover Sellers and Sen. R. C. Lanning of Jacksboro. Lanning is serving in place of Sen. Fred Mauritz of Ganado who is ill.

Texan Outlines New Domestic Silk Industry

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—(P)—A domestic silk producing industry to compete with Oriental production was outlined yesterday before the house agriculture committee.

The possibilities of its spreading throughout the country from its present location of Mineral Wells, Texas, was seen by the congressional group, which agreed to appoint a subcommittee to explore the subject further.

Appearing before the committee seeking the aid of the government in experimental research was Ernest Nims, manager of the Mineral Wells chamber of commerce. He said large scale production of silk works already is underway in that Texas city and that the silk is processed there into finished goods.

The key to successful operation despite low-cost labor in the Orient, he said, is a newly developed machine which eliminates about 12 hand operations.

Sixty of the leading businessmen of Mineral Wells pooled $10,000 three years ago to promote the growth of mulberry trees and production of silk worms in that area. The American Silk corporation then moved the new machine there.

The continent of Asia has great uninhabited areas, yet it contains about one-half of the earth's people.

Crude Oil Supply Promised Refineries

AUSTIN, Oct. 3.—(P)—A sufficient supply of crude oil to all operating refineries will be made available, the railroad commission has promised in a formal statement of policy.

"In case any refinery does not have sufficient crude oil to operate, they will be given prompt relief upon telegraphic request to the commission," said the statement, signed by all three members of the commission.

"The commission intends that there shall be sufficient oil to supply all refineries that are operating."

This policy was adopted following complaints from several refineries that they are not subject to strike conditions, and that the recent drastic cut in October production days will shut off their potential supplies of crude. The commission cut back allowable production because of refinery shutdowns.

Employers Are Advised of New Tax Requirements

WASHINGTON—Joseph D. Numan, Jr., commissioner of internal revenue, today called attention to employers to revised requirements for filing annual information returns on Form 1099 showing certain types of employee compensation which are not subject to income tax withholding.

Form 1099 is a standard form which has been used for many years by employers to report employees' wages, by corporations to report dividend distributions, by banks and others to report interest and other kinds of payments.

When the pay-as-you-go system was adopted, a withholding receipt (Form W-2) was substituted for Form 1099 in the case of wages from which tax is withheld. However, there usually is no tax withholding and hence no record for travel and other expenses incurred on behalf of his employer, or when the employer pays life insurance premiums for the employee in connection with a pension plan, and when the employer makes taxable payments to an employee under pension or profit sharing plans. Such compensation, regardless of its amount, must therefore be reported separately on Form 1099, provided the employee's total compensation (including the wages shown on Form W-2 as well as all other compensation) is $500 or more for the year.

If the total compensation is less than $50, the wages subject to withholding should be shown on Form W-2 but no Form 1099 report is required.

For instance, suppose during 1945 an employer paid an employee $400 of wages from which he withheld income tax, and also $200 for travel expenses from which he did not withhold income tax. He is required, in any case, to give withholding receipts both to the employee and to the local collector of internal revenue showing the $400 wages. Furthermore, since the employee's total compensation ($600) was more than $500, the employer must also file a Form 1099 return showing the $200 travel expense payment.

Fat Situation Becomes Critical

Four ration points instead of two per pound are now given for used kitchen fats, as announced in Washington this week.

This announcement implies the continuation of meat rationing which was expected by many people to be off by October 1 or 15.

The increase in value of salvage fats is due to the critical shortage of soaps, it was announced. Local conditions substantiate the necessity for the increased point value.

Only one-third (450 pounds) of the usual amount of salvage fats received by the Panhandle Packing company has been received during the past week.

The picture is one of an economic vicious circle, for Paul Crouch of the packing company reports that numerous people are now making their own soap.

And not only is less salvage fat collected, but many ask to buy the fats from the packing company in order to make soap.

Because of the shortage it is most essential that all housewives save every drop of used fat by skimming, scooping and scraping. In this way it will be possible to alleviate the shortage of soaps, soap flakes and powders more quickly.

Texas Today ...

By JACK RUTLEDGE AP Staff Writer

You've heard the whimsical but impractical suggestion that cows be fed chocolate so they can give milk chocolate. Well, in Lubbock they're feeding cows, sheep and hogs top grade Irish potatoes.

We hasten to add they're not attempting to develop meat with built-in fried potatoes, popular as such a dish would be.

The Plainsman in the Lubbock Journal explains with obvious awe that it's just another of those government things.

The government gave potato growers a $2.30 floor price. The crop turned out to be a record. Now the government, says the Plainsman, "has potatoes running out of its ears."

So someone in Washington wrote W. L. Stange, dean of agriculture and professor of animal husbandry at Texas Tech, asking if he wouldn't experiment and see if raw potatoes weren't excellent as a fattening agent for stock. Mr. Stange agreed.

Potatoes began to pour into Lubbock. Seven carloads, or 126 tons (or 252,000 pounds, if you insist) came in the first week. Later the shipments topped to 54 tons a week, finally 36 tons. In all, the Plainsman figures they've shipped in 680,000 pounds to date. At the floor price, this amounts to about $16,000 worth of grade-A potatoes.

Is the experiment working? Do the cows like spuds? Yes.

First, the potatoes were cracked up and mixed with ensilage, but now they're fed whole. Cattle, hogs and sheep gobble them up. They're getting fat on them, all right.

They should, comments the columnist. For example, one group of herefords gets two feedings per day—one bale of hay for all 33, but an average of 30 pounds of potatoes per animal per feeding. At $2.30—

Stock raisers have known for a long time that animals go for sweet potatoes. But the fact that cattle and sheep will eat Irish potatoes whole is something new. "They haven't tried horses and mules yet."

In conclusion, the Plainsman questions whether ranchers can afford to feed their stock better potatoes than they themselves eat at home, but admits reluctantly that "despite the drought, they (the cattle) are putting on good flesh and for that the potatoes must be given credit."

Don't throw rocks if you live in a glass house, says the adage, but Jimmy Long of Plainview says that's the simplest way to catch fish.

Lang was with the combat engineers in the war, is now home. First thing he wanted to do was go fishing. He did. But he promptly lost his lure.

While friends were looking for it, he tossed a rock at a fish, stunned it, and casually pulled it in. Friends were astounded.

"Shucks," said Long, "that's the easiest way to catch fish. The shock stuns 'em if you hit close enough."

"You know, we once lived in the blackland creek bottoms where there weren't many rocks. One time pa brought me home fourteen rocks from where they were erecting a building in town.

"I went after squirrels. I threw them on the porch when I got home, and pa counted them as they hit the floor. 'There ain't but eleven,' pa said. 'You little rascal, you threw three rocks at birds.'"

"It's dead easy to get fish with rocks. Squirrels are harder."

J. H. Tucker of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company of Harlingen, asks hunters to be a little more careful where they throw their shots around.

CIO Policies Are Analyzed By Economist

Analyzing point by point nine policies sponsored by the CIO, Dr. Willford I. King, New York university professor of economics, in a statement sent to members of Congress and released to the press from coast to coast, declares that CIO wage demands, its program of strikes and its legislative proposals can result only in ruinous inflation.

Only increased, productive efficiency, he says, could enable the industry to pay such increase and survive. But, according to reports he has received from automobile factories, "exactly the reverse is true; production per man hour is down at least 25 percent."

"It is time for the 'common man' to strike for freedom against the special privileged groups that may cast him into the depths of inflation, poverty and collectivism, while posing as his benefactors."

"First of all, the economist challenges as 'mere canard' the assertion of UAW-CIO spokesmen that the automobile industry can afford a 30 percent wage increase without raising automobile prices because it piled up exorbitant profits during the war. Dr. King quotes department of commerce statistics showing that the total profit of the industry in 1941 was less than the sum that would be required to pay a 30 percent wage rise.

"WAKE UP AMERICA!" Is Palestine Economically Suitable as a Jewish State?

As debated by

B. Netanyahu
Executive Director, New Zionist
Organization of America, Inc.

Murray G. Harris
Authority on International Affairs,
Diplomat, Author, Lecturer

MR. NETANYAHU OPENS: Palestine can absorb all the millions of Jews in need of a homeland, while these Jews are best fitted to convert that sparsely-populated undeveloped territory into a thriving industrial and agricultural country. If a land of similar geological and climatic characteristics, like Sicily, is taken as a basis for calculating Palestine's absorptive capacity, Western Palestine alone can accommodate approximately 5,000,000 and the whole Mandated area more than three times as many. Presently Western Palestine has a population of about 1,500,000 and the larger more fertile eastern part 300,000. Situated at the crossroads of three continents and being a meeting point in the world's network of communications by land, sea and air, it is most suited as a center for commerce. With its proximity to raw materials and with an industrially undeveloped hinterland of a population of 40,000,000 and an indirect one of 400,000,000, a westernized Palestine can become a great manufacturing center. The exploitation of its mineral wealth alone offers tremendous opportunity. That Palestine can be revived to its old fame as a center of agriculture has been indisputably proven by modern Jewish colonization. As a westernized industrial people compelled by forces of necessity as well as by their age-old devotion to their homeland, the Jews offer the best human material for the reconstruction of Palestine.

MR. HARRIS CHALLENGES: The Zionist dream of ousting the Arab from his millennial home, founding an economic empire to supply "undeveloped peoples" of the Near East is certainly not in keeping with the spirit of the Atlantic Charter. I note Mr. Netanyahu has quietly annexed Transjordan to Palestine. I doubt whether Saul and David ever claimed Gilead, the land of the Ammonites, as part of Judah. Even this gratuitous annexation would not help his case. Transjordan is 100% Arab; the land is desert except for a 30-mile strip between the Jordan and the Hejaz Railway, which provides the barest livelihood for the semi-settled Ajlun, nomad Beni-Sakr, and Howait (Lawrence's Arabs).

MR. NETANYAHU REPLIES: I did not have to "annex" Transjordan to Palestine. It belongs to it historically and geographically and is part of the Mandated area. Gilead was never the land of the Ammonites. Its fertility is a known fact. That it provides "the barest livelihood" for a few nomadic tribes is no evidence of its possibilities. Iraq, one of the most fertile of countries, also provides the "barest livelihood" for its Arab masses. An industrious Jewish population would turn this undeveloped, depopulated area into a highly productive land, as happened with other "desert" areas in Palestine. Zionists seek no "economic empire" but a home for their homeless people.

MR. HARRIS OPENS: Economically, Palestine is not a paying proposition. It cannot become a Jewish State while the Mandate is in force. This promises only a Jewish Home, while guaranteeing rights of non-Jews to the land. Palestine, the size of New Hampshire, is mostly desert and cannot hold 1/10th the homeless Jews. This one-crop land specializes in citrus fruit, but development in Egypt and Syria, formerly customers, has curtailed the market. It has no coal, iron, lumber, little meat, and for cereals and vegetables depends on Syria. Half the 500,000 Jews of Palestine live in Tel Aviv, the only all-Jewish city in the world. This hot-house growth is an economic consumer; the top-sided trade balance creates deficits carried by foreign charity. In industry and agriculture the Jews have done wonders. We cannot expect miracles. Unfortunately extremist pressure aims only at the creation of a Jewish State in Palestine, riding roughshod over human rights and economic realities, alienating old sympathies and deplored by reasonable Jewish elements. Since the war Britain has taken in more Jewish refugees than any other nation, including Russia, but instead of gratitude gets only vituperation from the extremists. The argument for the influx of millions more into Palestine is based on false political and economic premises. It is the people of Palestine who should decide, by majority vote, what is practical.

MR. NETANYAHU CHALLENGES: Mr. Harris' statements regarding Palestine's absorptive capacity are contrary to the conclusions of all authorities from Conder, the great geographer, to the American Mead report. All agreed Palestine's population can increase tenfold. The "wonders Jews have achieved in industry and agriculture" is 5% of the country can be accomplished in the remaining 95%. The excess of Palestine's imports over exports is typical of colonization processes, and the deficit is carried not by charity, but by industrial and commercial investments. The Zionists do not intend to oust the Arabs; they know there is room for the present population and additional millions.

MR. HARRIS REPLIES: Irrespective of Arab rights, this barren land cannot absorb the numbers proposed. In 1920, the American King-Crane Commission warned Britain that immigration had reached dangerous proportions and advocated a "greatly reduced Zionist program". There were then 10 Arabs to every Jew; the ratio is now 2 to 1, and the population has trebled. Palestine lacks water for extensive colonization and industrial development—20,000 gallons are needed to make a ton of steel. There is so little water that the irrigable area cannot begin to feed the present population. How can we expect Palestine to absorb further millions and become a competitive industrial nation in these circumstances?

Texas Citrus and Vegetable Growers Name New Officers

MONTREY, Mex. Oct. 4.—Leroy Crawford of San Benito, Tex., has been named president of the Texas Citrus and Vegetable Growers association.

Announcement of Crawford's election was made at the opening session of the association's third annual convention here yesterday. The election was by mail ballot.

Other officers elected were Bob Dublin, Laredo, vice president, and A. L. Price Pharr, secretary-treasurer.

Speaking at the opening session, Paul Neff of Houston, vice president of the Missouri Pacific Lines, forecasts a 50 per cent increase in the shipping of fruits and vegetables from Texas within the next five years.

Neff said he based his statement on an almost 50 per cent increase in carloads of fruits and vegetables from 1940 to 1944, when 86,000 car loads were shipped.

The perishable industry will find reconversion more difficult than manufacturers, said O. D. Miller of Phoenix, president of the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable association.

Miller said that "we have become accustomed to expecting prices at or near ceiling levels even for a volume which we would normally consider excessive." He added that over-production in some items may be beneficial in the long run because of new and wider consumption.

Lumber Supply For Homes Nears Pre-War Level

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Home and farm construction will be supplied between five and six billion board feet of lumber during the last quarter of this year. If threatened strikes do not halt production, George T. Gerlinger of Portland, Oregon, president of the National Lumber Manufacturers association, today told Hugh Potter, co-ordinator of construction, office of war mobilization and reconversion.

"Total lumber production today is about equivalent to that of 1940," said Gerlinger, who is in Washington, "and more than 80 percent is now flowing into normal peace-time channels."

Another great aid in meeting civilian lumber requirements, Gerlinger stated, would be the early release of large and small army and navy inventories now held throughout the country, which are not specifically needed for the armed forces in the Pacific. It is presumed that the army and navy are now checking inventories, he stated, and they can reasonably be expected to release many millions of feet.

Southern pine production, the Gerlinger survey shows, will reach 1 1/2 billion feet during the last quarter, the bulk of which will go into residential construction. Southern pine output could be increased another 1/2 billion feet through some reasonable price adjustments, according to the Southern Pine association.

The southern hardwood flooring industry will supply around 100 million feet of flooring. Western pine shipments, barring strikes, for the four months' period beginning October 1 will reach nearly 1 1/2 billion feet, of which 200 million will be for fruit and vegetable containers, 250 million feet for the military, and over 1 billion feet for home building and other civilian uses, including sash, doors and millwork.

Mill reports from the Pacific Northwest show that fir production should increase during the fall months with home and farm building obtaining a minimum of over 1 billion feet during the last quarter, with probably somewhat greater amount next spring.

Additional production in all regions is absorbed in supplying government, furniture, industrial, highway and railroad uses. More than 80 percent of current lumber production is now moving freely into civilian channels, and probably not more than 20 percent for military requirements.

Housekeeping Is Pretty Trying to American Woman

By HAL BOYLE
SAIGON, French Indochina.—An American woman found housekeeping during the native rebellion pretty trying, and the outbreak by Annamese natives came after the former Helen Spengler, of Memphis, Tenn., already had had enough trouble with two growing boys, prowling tigers and rebunctious Japanese.

"The Tigers are out of the way now and the Japanese are under control, but she still has difficulty keeping her sons, Etienne, 12 and Francois, 11, both born in America, from joining up with French patriots, organized to help put down Indochina's monthlong native revolt.

"It's hard for me after all this upset life to remember the time when living was normal," she says. She is tall and slim with hazel eyes, with the French mannerism of shrugging her shoulders, but her voice is still strictly Memphis.

am capital, in January, 1942. On the advice of friends she brought her boys to Dalat, about 70 miles north of here, to get away from allied bombings and to give them proper schooling.

Life was easy and pleasant there until last March, when the Japanese moved in. "They barricaded all the roads and searched us as we walked to the markets," she recalled with a smile. "There was great excitement for a moment when one of the Japanese guards who was searching my handbag, found my lipstick. He thought it was a cartridge."

"The Japanese let us stay in our homes but ordered us to leave the doors open at night. I lived in a villa by the edge of a forest in which there were tigers and leopards roaming about. So I didn't obey the orders. I risked being shot through the door rather than take the chance of having a tiger drop in one evening."

'Red Devils' Opened Way Into City, Metz

By NEA Service
Planting one terrific punch after another, the Fifth Infantry "Red Diamond" division, lunged 700 miles across France to spearhead capture of the fortress city of Metz, then help General Patton write off the Battle of the Bulge.

In its whirlwind drive across France, the "Red Devils," as the Germans called the Fifth doughboys, traveled so fast they had to halt five days for supplies to catch up.

When it reached the Moselle, the Fifth was given the mission of establishing a bridgehead on the east bank in preparation for the Third army's attack on Metz, which never had been captured by a frontal assault, although various armies had been trying for a couple of thousand years. The Fifth established the bridgehead after some of the most furious fighting of the war. Later, working with the 95th and 80th divisions, it took the city after 10 days furious battle. During the final operations of this assault, the Fifth took 4,133 prisoners, killed an estimated 1,048 and wounded 4,000 more of the enemy.

In December, when the Germans under Von Rundstedt broke through in the desperate Ardennes offensive, the Fifth was one of the units used by General Patton to attack the flank of the Bulge. A month later the Red Devils were fighting around Prieux, France, and then swung into Luxembourg. Wars' end found the Fifth in Czechoslovakia.

In February, 1924, Ben Eielson carried the first U. S. airmail in Alaska, a 164-pound load from Fairbanks to McGrath and back in one day.

A PAGE FROM HISTORY

To those who sat through the history classes of the past 20 years and understood what was being said by the instructor, the current demand of Russia for $600,000,000 in financial reparations from Italy is an old story.

It is a familiar pattern, but it seems that Russia has not learned her history lesson so well. But there is some consolation in the fact that both British and the United States have patently opposed this "extraction" by the Soviet.

Italy, a bankrupt nation, is in no position to pay such demand, and even if she was, such payment would be at variance with the explicit principles of the Yalta Conference. Those principles, as anyone who has studied history will know, were designed to avoid one of the gross errors following the first world war.

If this demand should come to pass, things could get into a fair mess. Italy still owes the United States $100,000,000 as the result of a stabilization loan in 1923. The U. S. is currently providing five-sixths of a tremendous relief outlay in Italy.

It seems that we should have the first say as to what Italy shall pay, and to whom.

Here, it seems to us, is one of the big causes of the collapse of the world's financial stability after the first war. It is the great lesson of history. The debt structure of that war collapsed because it was based on a system of financial reparations. England's position in relation to those debts is a case in point.

At the time of reparations payment collapse she had repaid more of her debt to the United States than had any other nation. There was owed to her by other nations a sum greater than that she owed to the United States. Germany couldn't and didn't pay what was demanded of her, the other nations did not pay, and eventually Britain quit paying.

We know the history well from there on. Many of the nations were driven to a sort of economic desperation. The principal one, of course, was Germany. That desperation led to the rise of a man who said he could bring the country through the straits. That man was Hitler, and he chose as the stimulus militarism, which led to extreme nationalism and war.

Throughout those years of Hitler's rise the people were fed through employment in munitions factories. They did not realize what was happening at the beginning, but finally they were let in on the secret through a subtle system of propaganda. The Yalta agreement calls for reparation in kind—reparation by labor, machinery, raw materials and commodities—designed to thwart economic desperation created by unmet financial demands, like that made by Russia.

It is good to know that the U. S. and Britain are opposing this action. We hope they make their point stick.

The Nation's Press

THE SPONGING EMPIRE

(Chicago Tribune)

The Press Association, a British news gathering agency, recently circulated to newspapers in the dominions a dispatch from a London correspondent asserting that Americans are doing their best to estrange themselves from the British.

"At various times," said this correspondent, "British patience has been strained by the raucousness of American comment, and the present American discussions of lend-lease, involving opposition to granting Britain aid, do not endear the United States to the British."

Americans, in short, are bounders. Colonialists, of course, are also bounders, but the Press Association, which, like newspapers throughout the empire, is an organ of the British foreign office, undertakes to lead them to more gentlemanly ways by pointing us out as horrible examples. Britain may still desire to accept our money, but it will be impossible for the British to regard us hereafter as gentlemen. The time will come when the dominions will be expected to dig down, also, to help Britain achieve its socialist Utopia, and their people are being placed on notice that it distinctly isn't cricket for the donor to ask the sponger what he intends to do with the dough.

Some of the things that Britain expects to do are outlined in another dispatch from London. The admiralty is going ahead with the construction of at least 107 warships, the London Express reports. They comprise a battleship, 16 carriers including a duplicate of our 45,000 ton super-carriers, 10 cruisers, and about 80 destroyers.

The Economist of London asserted as of three weeks ago, that four out of five British war workers were still making munitions. Yet Halifax and Keynes are preparing to assure our government that Britain is so impoverished that it cannot survive unless we send her $100 million a year.

The fact that fleet building and munitions manufacture do not directly consume foreign exchange, the lack of which is the principal reason advanced by the British why we should support them, is immaterial. The British, in their own words, must export or die. They can't export battleships or shells, but the labor and materials diverted to such production could give them exportable products.

The truth is that the ruling caste in Britain retains all its imperial ambitions but lacks the money or power to maintain them. Hence America is to be shamed into putting up the money to keep Britannia mistress of the seas. Next thing we know they'll be asking for Halsey's fleet.

News Behind the News

The National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER

JUSTICE—Only a small percentage of the 35,000 American soldiers lodged in the "brig" for ten years, twenty years or life for violation of military regulations during the world war II will be required to serve their full terms. Within a few months after the end of the war has been officially proclaimed by presidential or congressional decree, most of the offenders will be given clemency in an outfit. Otherwise, Adjutant General Myron S. Cramer, a mild and fatherly man, is now sifting his records of convictions to determine who should be kept in durance for the period originally fixed by court-martial boards.

So far he has laid down two general rules: Men convicted of crimes of violence that indicate an antisocial instinct or complex will pay the full penalty, as they would in civilian life.

LENIENCY—But youngsters sent up for strictly military offenses, absence without leave, sleeping on post, insubordination and talking back to officers—will get off easily. In time of war it is necessary to slap heavy sentences on the bad boys of the barracks in order to preserve discipline in an outfit. Otherwise, there just wouldn't be an army worthy of the name.

But the authorities also recognize that most of the offenders were lured into their teens and before they had been forced to know the necessity of discipline in a military life. Not until they got into battle did they realize that instinctive response to orders and regulations might save them and their buddies from defeat or death. It is in this class of "offender" which General Cramer, in the opinion of his parents, relatives, and friends, will spring from military imprisonment.

PUZZLE—Republican members of key committees on Capitol Hill are remarkably inapt or they are exercising the means to keep the Anglo-American relations on an even keel. On the basis of frank admissions by administration witnesses, they have had many opportunities to make political capital.

But so far they have missed or declined the chance. A top-level official in the foreign economic administration headed by Leo T. Crowley told one of the most fantastic lend-lease tales the legislators have ever heard.

He explained how, under lend-lease funds, the U. S. built a factory, equipped it with machinery, manufactured an important article and delivered it in American ships at English docks.

Then—and even the Crowley representative seemed to be stunned by the testimony—London sent Washington a bill for the patent rights to the gadget which our Allies needed so badly, and which we had furnished. The sum was not outrageously high—about $50,000—but the invoice itself reflected the British attitude on American financial assistance.

He will probably recommend that a group of distinguished Americans, consisting of lawyers, economists, jurists, diplomats and industrialists—make a study of the question. The difficulty in selecting the right man to sit on this life-or-death jury accounts for his delay in publicizing his plans.

DISTINCTION—William Benton maintains that he enjoys a unique distinction among important members of President Truman's official household. This publicity-minded assistant secretary of state thinks he is the only man in the administration who never laid eyes on Franklin D. Roosevelt. He doesn't attach any significance to that fact, but some of F. D. R.'s hangers-on do. Every day they become more wrought up at the speed with which the Missouri is getting rid of their late hero's aides.

THERE'S 3-TO-1 CHANCE FOR LABOR PEACE

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The labor-management government conference opening here Nov. 5, has a three-to-one chance of success, says Eric A. Johnston, president of the U. S. chamber of commerce. Johnston's appraisal is important, because he has put in a lot of time during the war years trying to bring labor and management closer harmony. On his last effort to write a charter for labor and management he took a beating.

Predictions have been freely made that the forth-coming conference, called by President Truman and Secretary of Labor Schwelb, will be a success. That is all anyone has any right to expect immediately.

LABOR-MANAGEMENT BALANCE—Sought by the government to prepare a final collection of pious resolutions and platitudes that can be handed to the conferees to nullify for a few days, shifting commas about here and there before adopting and going home. Instead, the big advance planning sub-committee, headed by Marine Major Paul Douglas, representing Labor Secretary Schwelb, has merely worked toward agreement on subjects that can be taken by the conferees and settled.

That recognition of the right of collective bargaining will be included goes without saying. But balancing that right is the hope that there will be recognition of the right of management to manage. There was a statement to this effect:

press will have to pass something like that Ball-Hatch bill is dangerous, and it gets the conference off to a bad start.

All the mistakes of past labor-management peace conferences—President Wilson's conference of 1919, President Roosevelt's conference of 1942, the U. S. chamber of commerce-C. I. O.-A. F. L. charter proposal in March—are being avoided. The agenda for the forthcoming conference is being prepared with considerable care and co-operation. What it aims at is a short and simple declaration of fundamental principles in labor-management relations. That is all anyone has any right to expect immediately.

Part of the pessimism comes from those who expect the conference to do more than there is any reason to believe it can do," says Johnston. "To expect that this or any conference will end the present wave of strikes is ridiculous on its face. To anticipate that the conference will come up with any program of recommended legislation that will automatically end all strikes is equally silly. The belief, held in some quarters on Capitol Hill, that if this conference does not produce a solution to all postwar labor troubles, con-

HOLLYWOOD—Ethel Barrymore was telling us that she has never seen herself on the screen.

"Why should I?" she asked. "I've never seen myself on the stage."

We had to interview Ethel in bed. She plays the bed-ridden dominant boss of an eccentric Boston family in her new picture, "Some Must Watch," and she never gets out of bed throughout the picture.

"It's the softest role I've ever had," she chuckled.

"Ethel," Director Robert Siodmak commented, "is my little bedbug."

Hollywood finally lured Ethel back to the screen last year after a long absence to play Cary Grant's mother in "None But the Lonely Heart." She liked not seeing herself in the picture so well that she's back for another.

Actually, she confessed, she discovered that Hollywood has grown up. She made her screen debut when the movies didn't talk.

"I hated pictures then," she said. "They gave me stories written on the back of envelopes. Pictures are more like plays now and getting better all the time. As long as I can do a stage play every year, I may come out to Hollywood every summer for a picture."

Although her role in the Grant picture and again in this one is heavy drama, Ethel would like to do a comedy. "But I like to play anything," she said, "as long as it's good."

NO APPLES FOR PICTURES

We asked her about the old Barrymore family tradition of sending each other red apples on opening nights and at the start of a new picture.

"That goes for plays only," she said. "Pictures don't count."

But she did admit that brother John once sent her a red apple just before she had her appendix out. There was a note attached: "On the occasion of your opening, darling."

We never would have thought it, but Ethel is a rabid sports fan. Particularly baseball. Actor Kent Smith who plays her doctor in the picture, tipped us off to this.

Several years ago he was rehearsing a play with her in Boston. There had been a lot of late-night writing and day before the opening the producer sent Kent up to Ethel's hotel room to rehearse the new lines.

"Ethel met me at the door and said, 'Sit down, young man.' Then she turned on her radio and we listened to a world series baseball game for two hours. We never did rehearse those lines. But the next day when the play opened Ethel gave a flawless performance and I blew up twice."

Director Robert Siodmak said Ethel had to go back to work.

"My little bedbug loves acting in this bed," he said, "but it's driving me free hand with no restraint upon it in the public interest, economic anarchy—otherwise known as depression—is inevitable."

The cure does not lie in a planned economy wherein the government tries to run the machine. But it does lie in a self-balanced economy when all the facts and all the danger signals have been given the widest publicity. The so-called "full employment" bill is in reality a measure to promote the fullest publicity about our self-operating economic system. It could lead to greater controls by the government if the facts prove that the citizens can't run the economic machine without collisions and it could lead to longer periods of prosperity if the various groups learned to heed unbiased facts collected and proclaimed by government.

Three American Cavalry Sergeants Court Martialed

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

President Truman's atomic energy message, advocating development of this power for the benefit of humanity but the outlawing of it by international agreement for war purposes, is a momentous move for which the world has been waiting anxiously.

It probably is no exaggeration to say that the President's action is of far greater importance than the actual explosion on Hiroshima of the first atomic bomb to be employed militarily. The death and destruction which it wrought are inconsequential as compared with the iron-clad control of this power, for, as Mr. Truman says "atomic force in ignorant of evil hands could inflict untold disaster upon the nation and the world."

You can't have that government officials and scientists in the major capitals of the globe have been burning much midnight oil over this problem.

It is not (we hope) that any country distrusts the intentions of Uncle Sam in the matter of the atomic bomb. Still, it would be absurd to think that foreign countries weren't viewing the existence of this weapon with the gravest concern, especially since it is certain that other nations are bound to develop it before long.

Yea, a columnist has had the feeling, for instance, that atomic energy has been responsible for some of me crazy working out new camera angles.

HUNGARIAN HILIBILLY

Director Siodmak is worth a story himself.

Despite his foreign-sounding name and Hungarian accent, he refers to himself as a Tennessee hillbilly. He was born near Memphis, but moved with his parents to Hungary when he was a year old and didn't return to the United until Hitler started kicking people around in Europe.

His film direction of many European films immediately got him a job in Hollywood.

Says he: "I'm the only Tennessee hillbilly in the United States with a foreign accent."

'Glue-Footedness' of Tigers May Enable Cubs To Win

Paiko, Cavaretta, Borowy Beat Bengals' Brains Out

By SID FEDER
DETROIT, Oct. 4.—(AP)—If the Detroit Tigers show up today, the Chicago Cubs take them on again in the second game of the 1945 World Series, but it will be a long piece before the folks forget the "Ice water" Handy Andy Paiko must use for blood and the watermelon-sized heart Hank Borowy has ticking for him.

Out of the shambles left of the American league series hopes after the clouting Cubs practically beat the Bengals brains out for that 9-0 decision in yesterday's opener, these two factors stand out—these and the Man 'O' War speed of the Cubs afield, compared to the general glue-footedness of the old man of Detroit.

Incidentally, this glue-footedness of the Detroiters in general and outfielders Roy Cullenbine and Hank Greenberg and infielders Skeeter Webb and Eddie Mayo in particular had the "experts" who didn't watch the American league much this year wondering today just how come the Tigers managed to win the junior circuit championship.

Some of the more exuberant National leaguers, in fact, were even talking of a four-straight series, because the Chicago champs went over the "big hump" by knocking off the Tigers' head man, 25-game winner Hal Newhouser, in the opener.

As a result, the hotel lobby book-makers, who can add one and one and get to two quicker than most folks, switched their "line" all the way from 10 to 13 with Detroit favored, to 5 to 8 with the Cubs the choice to take their first world championship in 37 years.

However, they tabbed the Tigers at 5 to 6 to win today's tussle behind Virgil Trucks, who's nicknamed "fire" because he can rear back and come in with that high hard one so hot you can just about light a cigar from it. If you like the Cubs and Hank Wynn, the 22-game right-hander, it's even money for the second snuff, which figures to draw another crowd to Mr. Briggs' baseball pasture as big or bigger than yesterday's 54,637, especially since the weather man promises the boys won't have to play in an icebox, like

Pampa Harvesters To Seek Fourth Consecutive Victory at Vernon

SPEEDY WEST TEXAN

Glen Stafford (above) will be well-remembered by Pampa Harvesters football fans. Glen was a reserve on the 1942 football team. Upon his graduation, Stafford enrolled at Oklahoma A. and M. where he was a member of the

By SCOTT RAFFERTY

Remembering that they are one of the 28 undefeated and untied teams in the state, the Pampa Harvesters have a double reason for wanting to defeat the Vernon Lions there tomorrow night. Coach Coffey said the high school band, under the direction of Ray Robbins, would make the trip to the game. "We are tickled to death that they are going, for they help us a lot," Coffey said. About 30 members will go.

The first reason is that Vernon beat the Harvesters 20-7 in 1943 after the Harvesters had their eyes set on winning the bi-district tilt and going on to the top. The second means that Pampa will be one of the 23 or less undefeated teams on the state Class AA roster of 116. Five games in the state will match undefeated eleven cutting the number to at least 23 and more could be knocked off.

Tomorrow night's contest will get underway at Lion park in Vernon at 8 o'clock. Most of the Harvesters will be in fine shape for tomorrow night's game with the exception of one starter and another first string back. Maurice Lockhart, who wasn't feeling too well yesterday, may be brought today. Bill Washington, letterman back from 1943, has a slight cold.

Neither team will have much of a weight advantage in the game tomorrow night. Vernon may possibly be 5 pounds heavier. The Lions have a line averaging 163 pounds while the Harvester forward wall will average about 170. However, the Lion backfield will average about 168 while the Harvester back will average no more than 152 pounds.

At left end for the Lions will be Hasloff, 165. Hasloff is tall, fast, and is reported to be a good passer. Holding down the left tackle post is Moore, weighing 161. Moore is fairly light for a tackle but is reported to be very good. At center is a boy that Harvesters and Harvester fans will remember very well. He is Orr, a regular on the 1943 team that beat Pampa. Orr weighs 163.

Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Lightweight Bobby Ruffin, who is willing to accept the credit of blame for the idea his private publicity department cooks up, confounded the Detroit fight mob the other day when he demanded eye tests and physical examinations for the referee and judges who were to work on tomorrow's fight against Chalky Wright. The fighters, Bobby says, have to submit to tests to show they're in condition, why not the officials. "How do I know they are in shape to see ten rounds and their eyesight is good?" he demanded. "Maybe Ruffin really has something this time..." Clark Griffin is planning to dispense with Latin-American baseball importations now that players returning from the services likely will be available. "The reason (1) Griff thinks it would be unfair to native-born players and unpopular with the fans. (2) The imported talent wasn't very good anyway.

Natives Who Remained Faithful To French Are Paying Big Price

By HAL BOYLE

SAIGON—(P)—Annamite natives who have remained faithful to their French masters during Indochina's rebellion are paying a terrible price for their loyalty.

A majority of the native workers fled from Saigon soon after the "war for independence" began early this month.

A number of servants, however, remained loyal to French households, and these are the most frightened people in Indo-China.

Some who tried to get to their quarters at night were killed. Homes of others were looted and burned.

Typical of these natives who decided to stay with the side that buttered their bread in the past is "Johnny," a kitchen roustabout in the Hotel Majestic, which quartered a group of American correspondents led by Lt. Col. Tex McCrary, former New York newspaperman.

Small and dark-skinned, with short-cropped, bristly black hair and gold teeth, Johnny is terribly gun-shy. Every time rifle or machinegun fire echoed in the hotel's bare, first-floor dining room, little Johnny would start up. He almost died of panic one night when Annamese cut the power lines and the lights went off in the city's central sector.

Johnny doesn't ordinarily like to work in the kitchen after sundown, but on that night he wouldn't leave it, and in his fright would not go to his dark bedroom. He insisted on dusting fresh tea for everyone who entered the dining room, and he hovered around the only burning candle like a moth. Every time a gun banged, he leaped up, his eyes startled.

"What's the matter?" asked a British sergeant. "You afraid of your friends across the river?"

Johnny was completely honest. He nodded his head vigorously. He was fearful that if the Annamese fighters ever broke into the main

Veterans Need Cooperation In Community

By ROWLAND EVANS, JR.

WASHINGTON.—In readjusting the veteran to civilian life the accent is being placed upon decentralization and defederalization, upon community effort as opposed to federal and state.

President Truman emphasized, in his recent report to congress, that the real responsibility to veterans lies in community cooperation.

Mr. Truman said "the real work must be done in each community, through the cooperation of the industrial, labor and civic organizations interested in the welfare of the community and the veterans."

In the past the clearing house for veterans affairs has been the veterans administration in Washington. Now the authority of VA is being distributed to 13 branch offices to speed up the intricate machinery which does business for veterans.

But of greater significance than this relocation of VA authority is the trend for each community to take the burden of veterans' readjustment on its own shoulders.

The plan began in Bernard Baruch's and John M. Hancock's report to James F. Byrnes, then director of the office of war mobilization, in February, 1944.

The report said: "The returning soldier should not be forced . . . to charity or community help. He has rights that rise above that. When he returns to his home community, there should be one place to which he can go in dignity and where he can be told of his rights and how he can get them."

The retraining and reemployment administration was the result of the Baruch-Hancock report. Although RRA is concerned with veterans of the war, it is with the latter that great strides have been made.

First official business of RRA was to organize veterans' information service centers. Today some of these veterans' centers have blossomed into more efficient instruments of information than the most optimistic would have dared predict.

Even before RRA was set up various communities had conceived the idea of easing readjustment. Bridgeport, Conn., has one of the finest and smoothest operating veterans' centers in the country. Eight hundred local organizations pooled their resources to set it up. It serves part of the city they would cut his throat quicker than they would a Frenchman's.

Three Texas Textile Mills Shun Orders

DALLAS, Oct. 3.—(P)—Three Texas textile mills have refused to comply with orders issued by the regional war labor board, John M. Scott, attorney for the companies told the board here. The mills are Hillsboro cotton mills, Itasca cotton manufacturing company and the Corsicana cotton mills.

Every effort will be made to hire returning veterans and to co-operate with rehabilitation programs for wounded veterans.—Leroy A. Beers, president, Institute of Carpet Manufacturers.

Three Texas Textile Mills Shun Orders

Termining the board's orders "never have had any legal effect, Scott said at a shot-cause hearing here yesterday that "there was strictly a public duty during the war to accept the board's orders and follow them." He said he does not think the public is "morally obligated to accept the board's directives now."

Scott's statement was denounced by Paul Schuler, international representative of the CIO union, who said, "there is no justification of that position in the light of present day civilization or in moral decency." In the case of the Corsicana mill, vacation pay is the principal issue.

The Hillsboro cotton mills and the Itasca cotton manufacturing company had been cited for alleged failure to comply with board orders concerning grievance procedure, arbitration, wages, maintenance of membership and other issues.
