Words are things

Twinkles
After all, ladies and gentlemen, let it be remembered that Pampans are going to expect the Harvesters to play a great and hard game Thanksgiving. The result may surprise you.

Remember Percy, the office mouse down here at THE NEWS? Well, Percy's back and occupying his old haunts. Much interested is Skippy, the family pup.

Uncle Sam is finally and actually backing out of the relief business. Pampa will shortly awake with a shock to realize the burden left by a federal policy which made it illegal for any sick, aged, or unemployed person to leave here.

Those qualified voters who neglected to ballot in Saturday's bond election have no right to criticize a football team.

The Texas Tax Journal calls it a "headache" session of the legislature. But doesn't name all the heads affected.

Musing of the moment: Injuries in the home are described in a Red Cross manual. Homes are dangerous, but maybe not in the rolling-pin route which you may imagine. Little tots are often burned, falls do most damage to older persons. . . . And remember that tuberculosis is the No. 1 cause of death between the ages of 15 and 30.

Brevitorials
WE LIVE IN a fast age, unless you are talking of federal projects. So far, Pampa is being offered only "chicken feed" propositions — tennis courts and street markers. Both of these are desirable, and we like our tennis as well as anyone, but the fairground park is the major project and we won't be satisfied without it. It is becoming very apparent that official Pampa must get on the line and keep it hot if this or any other project is to materialize. Federal funds are going fast. There's not enough money to go around. The towns which put in the most strings will be favored. This is a deplorable condition and, frankly, we will be glad when their current federal spending ends, but it is here and we've got to make the best of it.

A bit about names: We're still waiting for your suggestions on a name for fairground park. . . . We hear also the suggestion that Pampa streets ought to be re-named on a numerical plan such as many larger cities are adopting to simplify street markers and finding of streets. There are a number of aspects to the question. What do you think?

MUCH IS BEING written about President Roosevelt's advisers, some of whom are claimed to be extremely liberal. If not "pink" Mr. Roosevelt is our most important president in several decades—probably since Lincoln. Certainly he is far more significant than Woodrow Wilson, who was idealistic but regular in most respects. Mr. Roosevelt, born to wealth, is strangely the spokesman for new influences, born of modern complexity, which are beginning to change our institutions. . . . A little published presidential adviser is Dr. Walter Dill Scott, Hamilton, whose particular job is to worry about the rising cost of living. He is trying to organize consumers, to hunt out profiteering, to urge grade labeling. He has a staff of six economists who are assembling facts on key industries. He is learning much about the terrific competition in some lines. Factories making ladies' dresses, for instance, have an average life span of only 3 years. He is finding, in other industries, many obsolete machines which add to cost per unit. Dr. Hamilton is on leave from Yale university.

Well, it looks to the deposters as if the Sandies would really crush the Harvesters on Thanksgiving. We hope the peasantists have their inning and just totally Bob Morris being accused of stealing gasoline from cars parked at his home while his wife was giving a party last night. Bob denied the charge, declaring he had worked until time to go home. Thieves had drained the gasoline from E. A. Hampton's car and had the cap removed from the tank on Jimmie Wheeler's car when they were apparently frightened away by a constable's vehicle cruising down the street. The thieves took a 5-gallon can and one esp but took the other along with them. V. E. Patheros also reported that anti-freeze had been drained from his car the other night.

M'CORMICK TO TAKE POST OF TOM HICKMAN

Suspension of Texas Ranger To Take Place Immediately, Board Decides.

DALLAS, Nov. 13. (AP)—Capt. Tom R. Hickman, colorful Texas Ranger for many years, was under dismissal orders today from the world famous band of peace officers.

Albert Sidney Johnson, chairman of the Texas public safety commission, said last night the commission had held a conference by telephone and decided to make the senior Ranger officer's dismissal effective immediately. Earlier in the week the commission had given Capt. Hickman until Dec. 1 to resign.

"Capt. Hickman has said in the newspaper he refused to resign," was Johnson's reply when asked why the discharge was made effective immediately.

At Fort Worth, Hickman withheld comment except to say that he hadn't had any official notice of the action.

"I have not made any recent statements for publication and I am not going to at present," he said.

Hickman was captain of the headquarters company of the Rangers which made him in effect head of all the band of peace officers.

Captain J. W. McCormick was promoted to fill the place of Hickman, Johnson said. He added that McCormick would be assigned to Austin and his place filled from the ranks.

Johnson declined to say why Capt. Hickman was dismissed.

"It is not necessary to give reasons," he said. "Some times people do not have the same views as the people for whom they work. Some times they just do not fit in. His removal was for the good of the service."

"We held a meeting last week that was attended by Capt. Hickman and had a thorough understanding. We agreed to allow him until Dec. 1 to resign so he could have time to look around for something else to do."

Johnson said the commission had noted there was talk of legislative investigation.

"If such an investigation is made we'll be glad to appear and uphold our action."

BRITAIN WILL VOTE TOMORROW ON GOVERNMENT

Fist Fights, Brawls, Raids Featured Campaign

LONDON, Nov. 13. (AP)—The spirited British election campaign ended today with disorders and a prediction by observers of victory for the present government.

Tomorrow the voters will decide the popularity of the government's domestic and international policies. Political commentators predict Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's forces will receive a "workable" majority.

The return will establish the political division of the 615 seats in the House of Commons, the first revision since the general election four years ago when the national party gained a record-breaking parliamentary majority of 321 to 91.

As the campaign reached a climax, Winston Churchill, former first lord of the admiralty and mentioned for a cabinet place if he is elected to parliament, dodged stones thrown at his automobile in Liverpool.

Hocked during a speech at Birmingham, Sir Austen Chamberlain, former foreign secretary, invited the hecklers to "come on up if you've got any pluck."

Former Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, invited to Scotland, and Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade were howled down when they appeared on campaign platforms.

Fist fights, free-for-all brawls, and raids on campaign headquarters have featured the pre-election activities.

The names of 1,348 candidates have been entered. Government aspirants head the list with 584. The remainder is divided: Labor, 551; Liberal, 81; Independent, 45; and Independent labor, 17.

Thirty seven candidates, including Prime Minister Baldwin, were unopposed.

HEART ATTACK IS FATAL TO TIGER OWNER

FRANK J. NAVIN DIES AFTER FALLING FROM HORSE

DEROIT, Nov. 13. (AP)—Frank J. Navin, 64, owner of baseball's world champions, the Detroit Tigers, and vice president of the American league, died in a hospital today an hour after he fell from his horse at the Detroit Riding and Hunt club—struck with a heart attack.

Mrs. Navin, riding back of the widely-known sportsman on the bridge path, saw his gentle Irish jumper, galloping toward her, riderless.

She followed the horse to the stable. With L. W. Droeger, manager of the hunt club, and Mrs. Deeger, Mrs. Navin made a frantic search of the riding grounds for 15 minutes before discovering her husband in a clump of tall grass.

The baseball owner was unconscious, one arm thrown across his chest. He was removed to a hospital where he died in a few minutes. Dr. J. P. Leonard said there were no bruises on the body and said a heart attack caused his death. Attendants at the club said there was no evidence he had been thrown from the horse.

Navin is survived by his widow, and a nephew, Charles F. Navin, secretary of the club, who now is in a sanitarium at Battle Creek, Mich.

Navin's sudden death ended a 30-year career in big-time baseball which sporting luck happily crowned with a world's championship early in October—his only one in three years.

Architect To Be Consulted Soon On School Plans

Members of the board of education of the independent school district last night studied plans for the new high school auditorium and ward school additions but delayed approval until the architect could be consulted in person.

Four-room additions will be erected at the north and east ward schools, which are badly overcrowded.

The election of Saturday was canvassed and the unofficial vote, 90 for the $50,000 bond issue and 20 against, was found to be correct. The government will add $40,000 to this sum as an outright gift or grant.

Beginning of construction will be expedited as much as possible. The government, by reason of its grant, will dictate many of the conditions of employment.

Entertainment of Old Days Will Be Heard at Banquet

A hundred or more oldtimers of this community and nearby towns will exchange reminiscences tonight in the annual banquet at the Schneider hotel.

The event, for which tickets were sold at $1 each, will begin at 8 o'clock.

Entertainment typical of the old days will be included in the program. Only persons of 25 years residence in the Panhandle, some of it in the Pampa community, are eligible to attend.

School Supplies Needed; Carnival At Baker Planned

Baker school is announcing a carnival for the evening of November 22 to raise funds for buying school supplies. A canvass of the rooms showed from 3 to 20 children in each class without needed supplies.

Tickets to the carnival are on sale at 10 cents each. The children are selling them.

The 20th Century Forum club, headed by Mrs. A. M. Teed, has presented the following to the school: Dozen pencil tablets, 4 dozen egg-shell paper tablets, dozen boxes of crayons, dozen bottles of glue, 2½ dozen packages of construction paper, 2½ dozen packages of manila paper.

$350 DONATED TO RED CROSS ON FIRST DAY

Half Enough Dollars Given But Half-Way Mark Is Not Reached in Members

Pampa's annual Red Cross roll call was nearing the half-way mark today with respect to dollars but not as to members, and officials of the drive urged renewed energy in the canvassing.

The goal is 750 members. About $350 had been received early today. However, much of this total came through the larger pledges and did not represent uniform memberships at $1 each. Firm memberships are unusually numerous this year, and all of funds so contributed will remain here. Half of the individual memberships of $1 and 50 cents of all individual memberships of $1 or more will go to national emergency relief.

Only a few of the canvassing teams have made reports, but they have told of an excellent response.

The most valuable of the three phases of the Red Cross program for the promotion of public health is the one dealing with the prevention through instruction in home care of the sick, in the opinion of Alex Schneider, chairman of Pampa chapter. His analysis of the health education program of the organization was given in connection with the annual Roll call which begins on Armistice Day.

"When the citizens of Pampa are asked by Red Cross workers to renew their memberships for another year it is their right to ask and to be told what was done with last year's funds, what will be done with the dues paid in this year."

"A Red Cross nurse appears on the Roll Call poster being displayed in so many ways this year. She appears in the uniform that is familiar to nearly every school child throughout the world. This nurse who has a right to wear the uniform may give service in any one of three distinct and highly valuable services.

"She may be enrolled in the active reserve of nurses who could be called on by the Red Cross or the Government for duty in disaster, war, epidemic of disease, or any other widespread emergency.

"She may be one of our 766 public health nurses, a heroic, self-sacrificing band of able women who handle the nursing cases and assist the local health authorities and the school doctors, symbolizing a fine tradition of Red Cross service.

"Or she may be a Red Cross nurse who last year conducted one of the 4,274 classes in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick in local chapters all

AFRICAN TOWN IS BOMBED BY ENEMY PLANES

MANY ITALIANS KILLED AND TANKS TAKEN, SAYS REPORT

BY JAMES A. MILLS, Associated Press Foreign Staff.

ADDIS ABABA, Nov. 13. (AP)—An official statement today said an Italian plane had dropped six bombs on Daggah Bur, wounding a woman and a child. Daggah Bur is 100 miles southeast of Jijiga, near Sasa.

HARAR, Ethiopia, Nov. 13. (AP)—Unconfirmed reports from the interior said today that a fast moving, motorized Italian column was circling the Ethiopian left wing and nearing Sasa Baneh, 155 miles to the southeast of Harar.

Another similar column was reported moving up the valley of the Webbe Shebill toward the Bale area, about 125 miles to the southwest of Harar.

ADDIS ABABA, Nov. 13. (AP)—Desperate Ethiopian defenders inflicted wholesale losses on the Italian invaders, a government communique said today, the native warriors winning dual victories on the northern and southern fronts.

The official announcement reported many deaths were suffered by both sides in a bitter engagement at Anelo, in low-lying Ogaden province to the south, but that the Italians fled in rout from another encounter in the same region.

"On the northern front," the communique said, an Ethiopian force under Gen. Rudolfo Graziani assaulted greatly superior Italian unit, killing the leader and a large number of soldiers and scattering the unit in disorder.

The Ethiopian deaths in this region were set at eight, with the Italians suffering "many more."

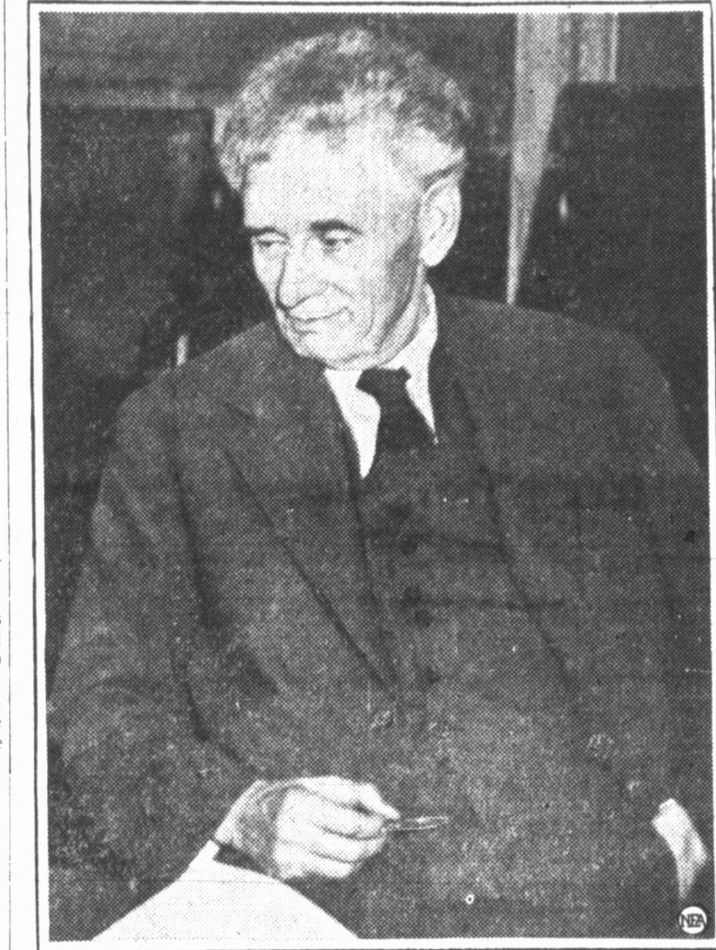

"The conduct of the Ethiopian troops was beyond all praise," said the communique.

The main combat in Ogaden province, through which a great fascist force under Gen. Rudolfo Graziani has been advancing from Italian Somaliland, was reported waged between Ethiopian infantry and Italian tank and machine gun units.

The Italians turned a deadly fire on the native foot soldiers, the communique said, but Emperor Haile Selassie's forces succeeded in capturing the tanks.

President Hopes Banks Will Pare Rate Of Interest

Otherwise, Recovery Will Be Slowed, He Declares

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13. (AP)—President Roosevelt expressed hope today that interest rates would be lowered so as to make large bank reserves more useful in the drive for recovery.

Talking with newspaper men, the president agreed that expanded bank portfolios would play a very essential part in recovery if properly used.

He added that if this money were not used in a reasonable way, the large deposits would slow up recovery.

He cited an instance of a man in the east who contracted to buy a farm. This man was able to pay 60 per cent cash and required a mortgage for the other 40 per cent.

This fellow shopped around, the president said, and the best rate he could get was 6 per cent on a mortgage. He added there were lots of cases like that, slowing recovery.

"The president said he did believe that the old 'pirate rates' which prevailed in south and west for years had been largely eliminated.

Asked if bank examiners were complaining to bankers against real estate loans, he replied that he thought this was the case only where banks had excessive loans of that kind.

HOUSE KILLS A BILL TO PROBE HICKMAN CASE

Solons Will Confer on Pension Tax Measure

AUSTIN, Nov. 13. (AP)—The house today killed, 74 to 62, a resolution to investigate dismissal of Ranger Captain Tom Hickman by the Public Safety Commission.

Argument over the incident consumed nearly two hours.

Rep. Roy Hefner of Houston charged a resolution to investigate the commission's action was inspired by enemies of the administration and by members opposed to the Public Safety department, while Rep. J. Manley Head of Slaybackville asserted Hickman's discharge was due to petty jealousies and was "indisensible."

The senate granted a house request for a conference adjustment of differences on a tax bill designed to raise funds for old age pensions.

The house rejected senate changes which scrapped its omnibus levy plan and substituted selective sales and income taxes with several increases in occupation taxes.

No effort was made in the senate to instruct its conferees on any provision. The house by a 92 to 40

INSURED MORTGAGE CLINIC WILL BE HELD HERE FRIDAY; TO EXPLAIN BUILDING PLAN

Representatives of Towns In 50-Mile Radius Urged To Attend Unique Meet

Pampa will be a gathering point for bankers, contractors, architects, property owners, lending associations, and citizens generally Friday evening when an insured mortgage clinic will be held in the city auditorium at 7 o'clock.

The session, only one of its kind to be held in this territory, was arranged here yesterday by R. E. Sikes, executive assistant director of the Federal Housing Act organization in Texas. Mr. Sikes and an official of the Fort Worth office will be here to hold the clinic.

Today Joe W. Bratcher of F.H.A. established headquarters at the B. C. D. office to lend his assistance in making out loan applications submitted by lending agencies. He will remain through Friday. He is a field representative.

Mr. Sikes told the Pampans that it was easy for a family to buy, build, or re-finance its home if the husband has a steady income. Noting that Title 2 of FHIA had been

MOB LYNCHES BLACK YOUTHS AT COLUMBUS

EPISCOPALIAN RECTOR JEERED BY ROWDY TEXAS CROWD

COLUMBUS, Nov. 13. (AP)—County Attorney O. P. Moore said today he believed the lynching of two youthful negroes by a mob of 700 persons, including several women, on a farm near here last night, was "an expression of the will of the people."

Moore's statement came soon after Justice of the Peace E. C. Thayer said he would conduct a court of inquiry into the lynchings sometime during the day.

The town was quiet after the mob had seized Ernest Collins, 15, and Benny Mitchell, 16, who assertedly had confessed the criminal attack and subsequent drowning of Miss Geraldine Kollman, high school honor graduate, from officers and left them dangling from a live oak tree near the girl's home.

"I do not call the citizens who executed the negroes a mob," said Moore. "I consider their action an expression of the will of the people."

County Judge H. P. Hahn, said, however:

"I am strongly opposed to mob violence and favor orderly process of the law. The fact that the negroes who so brutally murdered Miss Kollman could not be adequately punished by law because of their ages prevents me from condemning those citizens who meted justice to the ravishing murderers last night."

At Austin Governor James V. Allred said he did not know facts but thought lynching was deplorable at any time."

COLUMBUS, Nov. 13. (AP)—Seven hundred sullen mob members, including several women, jeered pleas of an Episcopalian rector to allow the law to take its course and hanged two youthful negroes to a live oak tree near here last night.

The negroes, Ernest Collins, 15, and Benny Mitchell, 16, who assertedly confessed the brutal attack and subsequent drowning of Miss Geraldine Kollman, 16-year old Columbus high school honor graduate, were seized from officers and hanged a mile from the family home of the slain girl.

A few seconds before the mob slipped hangman's knots across the throat of the negroes, the Rev. E. B. Marmon, an Episcopal rector, leaped to the top of an automobile and pleaded with the mob to "let the law take its course."

The mob remained silent until he had finished, then it broke out in a chorus of jeers and went about with the double court.

The negroes, who had been held in Houston for safekeeping, were brought back for trial in juvenile

Central Campus Will Not Have A Tennis Court

Because of the auditorium to be erected on the central campus, it will likely be impossible to find room there for a tennis court. The location of the double court, under the city's WPA project was being studied today.

The City last night completed arrangements to start a double court at Baker school and one at the water department park. Other courts will be started soon at the Woodrow Wilson school and west of the city park.

John B. Hessey will be WPA supervisor here. The City will designate supervisors to direct its part of the work.

The city commission last night decided to purchase a Mohawk oil-burner asphalt heater, of 220-gallon capacity, at a price of $210 FOB Pampa.

M. E. Preachers At Conference

PLAINVIEW, Nov. 13. (AP)—Pastors and laymen of the Northwest Texas conference, Methodist Church, South, gathered in Plainview today for their twenty-sixth annual meeting.

The conference proper opens tonight and will continue through Sunday. Bishop Hiram A. Boas of Fort Worth who arrived this morning, will preside.

Dr. G. L. Morelock of Nashville, Tenn., president of the board of lay activities for the church, addressed the board of stewards at the Plainview church last night.

Dr. O. P. Clark of Abilene presided this morning at a meeting of the board of Christian education. A cabinet meeting in charge of Bishop Boas was on this afternoon's program.

EDITORIAL

PARITY, BUYING POWER IMPORTANT

The influence and power of wealthy folk are too often exaggerated.

Most of us are of average means—salaried, spending most or all of what we make. We may not seem important in our economic scheme of things, but we are because of our numbers. All the nation's big fortunes, added, appear rather puny compared with the working men's wages. To confiscate all great wealth would not save the average taxpayer much.

This is why all soak-the-rich schemes will fall short of their mark. It is important that the rich do not escape their just share of the tax load. One way to do this is to stop issuing tax-exempt securities and continually borrowing to plug gaps which only private business can cure.

Moreover, any program which raises the cost of living substantially is going to neutralize whatever benefit it brings through increased wages. Parity, buying power, are important, not money wages.

Press reports continue to chronicle new or imminent rises in the cost of food, largest item in the average family budget. Most recent dining table essentials to show signs of a zoom upward are the old reliables—bread and potatoes. Some food products, notably pork of all kinds, have reached such rarified price levels that their consuming market is dropping away toward the vanishing point.

Under these circumstances, movements designed to lower the retail price of food in relation to the wholesale price, through elimination of wasteful, intermediary costs, are definitely in the public interest. If hard-earned dollars can be liberated from the food budget and used for the purchase of other necessities or luxuries, the standard of living will be advanced, every industry will feel the stimulation of boosted general purchasing power, and new employment will follow.

The importance of the cost of food is indicated by a survey made a few years ago under the auspices of the Brookings Institution, which showed that families in the $1,500 to $3,000 annual income bracket—largest of all income brackets—had total income of about $24,600,000,000 a year. More than eleven billion of this—45 per cent—was spent for food and clothing alone, with food much the more costly of the two items. Since the survey was made, food costs have increased much faster than have incomes, so it is probable that the percentage of the budget taken for food and clothing has now passed 50 per cent.

As incomes drop, the food-clothing percentage naturally rises. In the under $1,500 bracket, for example, which includes many millions of families, the cost of food and clothing was 67 per cent—and it is doubtless higher at present.

Of course, you cannot help the farmer without increasing food costs, but you do not help him if you increase the prices of what he must buy more than the figures for what he sells. Moreover, with a permanent unemployment problem upon us, a high price system is certainly going to be very costly and troublesome. And to raise the price of food, clothing, and other necessities beyond reach of many small-salaried persons is going to decrease consumption, making even smaller production essential to maintain prices. Parity is a word which applies not only to the farmers, but to the consumers. The farmers have a big stake in the buying power of the public. Broadening of the farm market is greatly needed.

THE NEW DEAL IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—No one here who knows the legal racket is taking the American Bar Association's inquisition into tactics of the American Liberty League lawyers' committee very seriously.

Leadership of the A. B. A. is commonly considered to share the general viewpoint of the Liberty League boys. If the New Dealers observe anything less than a whitewash of the league committee operations as an official "supreme court," and its offers to advise anyone who considers himself a victim of a New Deal law, they'll consider it a moral victory produced by A. B. A. worries about public opinion.

Nevertheless, clear-cut issues as to ethics are being raised. And it's a distinct development in American history when the young New Deal lawyers—led by the ex-Frankfurter pupils, many of whom have had enough experience in Wall Street to know what it's all about—attack the expensive pundits of the Wall Street bar with charges of chicanery, chumperty, ambulance chasing, and other brands of shysterism. Lawyers seldom give their game away like that.

The latest charge of government lawyers is that distinguished leaders of the bar—the type who wouldn't touch a case for less than $10,000—are advising public utility holding companies to refuse to comply with the law by registering with the Securities Exchange Commission by Dec. 1.

At a recent secret meeting, it is alleged, John W. Davis—attorney for J. P. Morgan—and the Edison Electric Institute—urged utility executives not to register, asserting that their refusal would give him a "psychological advantage" in fighting the act in the courts.

Such backstage tactics by lawyers, Washington knows, have been in vogue for years. But never before has any group of informed lawyers undertaken to expose them.

The president of the American Bar Association is William L. Ransom, attorney for the Consolidated Gas Co. of New York. The secretary is William P. MacCracken, the lobbyist who once served time in jail for contempt because he obstructed a Senate investigation.

A Canadian forest is believed to contain remnants of a lost race. Still, housewives must have some way of disposing of their husbands' torn parlay tickets.

A lecturer points out, "Culturally, America is still borrowing from Europe, and it is nice you have the money to do so." But it isn't Europe's fault we have.

Jimmy Walker says he wants to be just "John Average Citizen." The old Manhattan mayor evidently ain't what he used to be.

Mickey Cochrane, returning from Wyoming, said he was hunting bear. That seems a bit vindictive after what he did to its children.

Foreman of CCC Hanged, Burned

RIPLEY, W. Va., Nov. 13 (AP)—A placid evening's walk terminated in a flaming death from a tree limb last night for J. Fulton Gunnoe, 33-year-old war veteran and CCC camp foreman.

State troopers said he had been slain. A frightened farmer, James Elliott, saw flames lighting his window. In his night clothing Elliott ran out to a low ridge about 150 yards from the main Charleston-Parkersburg highway and found Gunnoe's blazing body hanging from a tree.

He hurried four miles to Ripley to tell state police a negro had been hanged. Troopers discovered later, however, a tag identifying Gunnoe as a white man and foreman of the Jackson Civilian Conservation Corps camp some miles from Ripley.

Roy Bradley, superintendent of the camp, confirmed the identity shortly afterward. Lieut. James H. Filinger of Charleston organized a detail of troopers to start covering the rain-soaked woods and hills near the farm for clues to the torch death.

Officers said their first investigation failed to disclose how Gunnoe's body reached the Elliott farm nor could they learn of any motive for the slaying.

20,000 Students Helped by NYA in 2 Months in Texas

AUSTIN, Nov. 13.—Twenty thousand Texas boys and girls have been placed in schools or given an opportunity to go to work, in two months by the National Youth Administration, Lyndon B. Johnson, state director, said Tuesday night in a radio address at Austin.

Of this number 5,700 have been given part-time jobs in all the eligible colleges and universities of Texas. Approximately 8,000 have been given jobs to help defray incidental expenses in high school. Freshmen college centers are being opened to care for 750 high school graduates who did not enter college this fall. Two thousand young men and women from 16 to 25 have been called for work on WPA projects, in addition to the adult workers requisitioned, and NYA projects, designed exclusively for youth, are to be started soon.

CAPTAIN KLEINSCHMIDT HAS FIGHT WITH POLAR BEAR—ESKIMO FINALLY KILLS IT

Picture above is Mrs. Kleinschmidt, who is with the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce expedition to invite Santa Claus to the annual Pampa Santa day celebration December 6, and a polar bear with which Captain Kleinschmidt had a fight. The vicious animal was finally killed by Patanuk, the Eskimo pictured above, who used a bow and arrow and spear. Patanuk will drive the reindeer team of the expedition when the planes are left behind, so you'll hear more of him later.

BY CAPT. F. E. KLEINSCHMIDT
Special Correspondent of THE NEWS and Head of Pampa Expedition to Home of Santa Claus
(By Wireless)

Polazerok Village, Eskimoland:
In yesterday's dispatch I related to you our great flight from Hudson Bay to Victoria Land, north of the Arctic Circle, and our reception by the Eskimos. Their fears of the monster birds without feathers are completely allayed and they now regard our machines as merely another marvelous vehicle of the white man. The more they see of such things as a rifle which kills an animal with a little pebble at a long distance, or a watch or a phonograph, the less they think of it. Everything is possible to the white man.

We have excavated two big holes in a snowbank on the side hill and pulled in our precious planes. We are the honored guests of our Eskimos, and they have turned over to us their Kos-ze-ga.

In the winter the Eskimos live in very small houses or igloos such as I described in my last dispatch for they have very little fuel with which to heat their igloos and keep warm. Two families often live together. They have a stone dish full of seal oil and reindeer moss is used as a wick. This lamp heats and lights their igloo. There is no room in these crowded little huts to do any work such as the men have to do, therefore a village club together and build Kos-ze-ga or clubhouses. Here the men gather to work on canoes or kyaks, sleds and other large articles. They are giving a big feast and dance in this clubhouse in our honor tonight. We are going to rig up our big wireless set here so we can wireless you pictures and keep in constant touch with you. We will take the short-wave set along with us on our sleds. The Kos-ze-ga is quite comfortable and we do not mind the smell of seal oil. Our sleeping quarters consist of bunks built along the wall. Today and tomorrow will be spent getting the sleds, dogs, reindeer, provisions and cameras ready for our trip to Santa land.

One Hour Later
My dispatch was interrupted and Sparks dropped his sending key. There was excitement outside. The cry of "Nanook, Nanook" (Polar Bear in Eskimo). "Red" Borland rushed for his rifle and I for the motion picture camera. Mrs. Kleinschmidt came running with the kodak. We got some wonderful pictures of this Polar Bear hunt, and tell the kiddies they are going to see the Polar Bear pictures in the Pampa Daily News and free movie even if we don't find Santa Claus. We are wiring you a still picture of the Polar Bear full of arrows, the Eskimos and Mrs. Kleinschmidt. The man at the left is Pa-tu-nuk, who fought the bear and killed an Eskimo bear hunt with bow, arrow and spear.

"As we did when you were here last?" grinned the hunter, "with our spears? I have not forgotten that hunt Ka-ta-chi-la."

"I hardly hope to get another picture as marvelous as that when you killed Nanook yourself all alone with only a spear for a weapon. I have not forgotten that hunt, nor have the people in my country who saw that film and the other one of the mother Polar Bear and the little cub."

I had two kyaks lashed side by side making a stable catamaran and set up the camera on a baby tripod.

The large omiak and two kyaks preceded us. We paddled through the devious lanes of open water among the icefloes and then got out on the great icefloes a mile long and approached the bear against the wind.

Nanook was standing feasting on a seal he had just killed.

The men in the big skin boat or Omiak were ordered to make a detour and approach the bear down wind so that when he smelled them he would come running in our direction into the cameras and to Pa-tu-nuk with the spear and another Eskimo with bow and arrows.

When within 200 yards I set up the motion picture camera behind an ice ridge, and the two Eskimo hunters crawled up another 50 yards. Presently we saw three Eskimos on the horizon coming toward us and the bear. As soon as they came in line with the wind and the bear, Nanook rose up on his hind feet, testing the air and swaying with his snake-like neck and head to and fro. Right on the line of the wind carrying the scent the bear signed to be off. The three Eskimos came running and shouting to keep the bear on the line. Nanook responded quite eagerly and with a bear's amazing gait made straight for us crouched behind the camera.

Pa-tu-nuk is crouched behind a low ice ridge. Kitesenna has an arrow on the string. Here he comes—sliding down the near face of a ridge on his great haunches. Now that he has placed an obstacle between himself and his pursuers, he takes it into his head to try a little stratagem. Instead of continuing straight away from the ridge, he runs parallel with it toward the left from our stand.

Kitesenna with bow and arrow runs to head him off and swing him toward Patu-nuk. Out in the open he steps as the bear is not more than 30 yards from him. An arrow flies—then another, and another.

With the sudden appearance of the man in front of him and the arrows biting into his body, the bear checks himself, gives a savage hiss and growl and then with mouth open launches himself toward his enemy.

Kitesenna has another arrow on the string but he realizes that no matter how true his aim for a vital part, it would not stop the white fury of the North now. So, he seeks safety in flight, past Pa-tu-nuk and the white men.

But a bear can outrun a horse, and in a twinkling Nanook is at his heels. Suddenly a white-clad figure which has lain motionless and indistinguishable on the ice, rises up, and Pa-tu-nuk balancing the ponderous spear in both hands is running full tilt at the bear. At ten feet he launches the weapon with such follow through force below the shoulder of the bear, the momentum carries him up to and

PROSPEROUS PERIOD FOR BANKS SEEN

Profit in 1935 Was 3.93 Per Cent on Capital, Is Statement of Comptroller

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 13 (AP)—Declaring that national banks had made a profit of 3.93 per cent on capital in the first six months of 1935, J. F. T. O'Connor, comptroller of the currency, predicted today that the present six months would prove to be the most prosperous period banks have enjoyed for more than four years.

The national bank chief spoke before the American Bankers association in convention.

"It has always been my custom simply to present the facts and never make a prophecy," he said. "These facts, however, and my general knowledge of the banking situation, impel me now to predict that the present six months' period will be the best the banks of the nation have enjoyed for more than four years."

O'Connor confined his remarks mainly to rehabilitation work in the national bank field. He disclosed in this connection, that there are still 1,423 national banks in receivership, of which 693 with deposits of $1,067,524,707 have been placed in receivership since March 16, 1933. O'Connor, III, Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, who spoke yesterday, deplored the "overbanked" condition of the country.

"A mad scramble to establish a bank opposite every gasoline station across this continent is not a situation which can be contemplated with any degree of satisfaction," he said.

He noted, however, that only 132 primary national banks had been chartered since October 31, 1932, remarking "this is the smallest number of national banks chartered in any three-year period during the last 30 years."

At a meeting of the association nominating committee E. G. Bennett of Ogden, Utah, was selected for the second vice president, a stepping stone of the presidency in 1937, but not before backers for Orval W. Adams of Salt Lake City, Utah, withdrew his name from consideration and announced plans for a fight before the general convention.

Robert V. Fleming of Washington, first vice president, will advance to the presidency unopposed under convention custom, succeeding Rudolf S. Hecht, of New Orleans. Tom K. Smith of St. Louis, second vice president, will step up to the post vacated by Fleming's advancement.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning!

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A more bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes these good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harshness, gas, flatulence, constipation, indigestion, loss of appetite, nervousness, headache, dizziness, and all the ailments that come from a sluggish liver. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

No worry...when your engine

Oiling used to stop when the engine did. You'd come out in the cold, to your standing car. And in the first few minutes, before your loafing oil in the crankcase could get up to do any oiling, you'd chop hours or days off your engine's life.

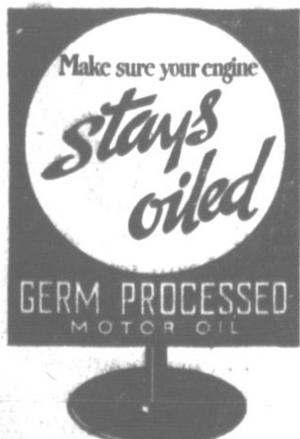

Yes, engineers tell you that all in all, more than 50% of motor wear must be blamed on delayed lubrication in warming up. This winter then, get the oil that not only starts up when you do, but surely beats you to it!

No waiting for Conoco Germ Processed Oil to be pumped up on the engine parts, because it's already IN. It bonds itself direct to every metal surface, and stays there—the Hidden Quart—always a long jump ahead of friction. This remarkable power of Germ Processed Oil to form its lasting union with metal, comes only from the patented Conoco Germ Process.

Seems unbelievable. But car owners—your own neighbors—have been avoiding overhauls and battery "grief," winter after winter, simply by using Germ Processed Oil. It meets even the severe oiling requirements of the new copper-lead, high-lead, and cadmium-alloy bearings; protects them far better than straight mineral oils, as fierce road tests prove.

Germ Processing also assures 2 to 4 times greater film strength, even in the lighter grades required for winter. Not only light-bodied but tougher, too, Conoco Germ Processed Oil rub-proofs, drag-proofs and zero-proofs your engine as soon as you drive in for your Conoco man's winter help:

Small Boys Will Conduct Francis Avenue Service

Beginning at 7:30 this evening, a unique service will be conducted at the Francis Avenue Church of Christ. The entire service will be in complete charge of small boys who are regular attendants at this church. The message of the evening will be delivered by Billie Waters, 10-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Waters.

E. C. McKenzie, minister of the local church has the following statement to make concerning this special service: "Many of our Wednesday evening services are given to the training and development of our boys and young men. This plan affords ample opportunity to take active part in the church program, and the training received will be of untold value in years to come. Inefficient leadership in the churches of today may rightly be attributed to the lack of training for such important work in earlier life. To have an efficient leadership in the churches of tomorrow, we should assist in developing the talent in our young men of today. This evening, the entire program will be rendered by small boys. Congregational song services will be directed by Orville Thorp, the devotional by Richard Kuehl. The benediction will be said by J. F. Rose, Jr. The principal address of the evening will be given by Billie Waters, a very brilliant, talented youngster. None of these boys is more than 12 years of age. "You will enjoy seeing and hearing these children, so come and spend the evening hour with us. A baptismal service will conclude the worship period."

WILL DECIDE WHETHER TO ABANDON OR TO EXTEND THEM

BY NATHAN ROBERTSON, Associated Press Staff Writer.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP)—The new deal soon will have the problem of deciding whether to extend the life of several of its experiments or abandon them.

They are due to expire in 1936 unless action is taken to prolong them. Among them are the president's authority to devalue the dollar further and to maintain a secret $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund and the gigantic Home Owners Loan Corporation.

There is no indication of what the administration plans. Several of the measures were born as emergency efforts to combat the depression, and President Roosevelt has recently said that the "peak" of the emergency is passed. However, it is recalled that the AAA also began its career in the depths of the depression and that the president recently emphasized that his aim is to continue it, passing "from the purely emergency phases necessitated by a grave national crisis to a long-time, more permanent plan for American agriculture."

He emphasized that, from the beginning, the administration and legislators who worked on the AAA act conceived of it as more than an emergency measure. Whether he holds similar ideas as to the future of new deal experiments one to expire soon is not known.

The reciprocal tariff law, permitting the chief executive to negotiate trade agreements with other nations, raising or lowering tariffs as much as 50 per cent, will run until June 12, 1937.

But his authority to devalue the dollar further and to maintain the stabilization fund will expire next January, unless the president proclaims that an emergency still exists, in which case it will last another year.

The HOLC, created to finance hard-pressed home owners, will expire as a lending agency next June unless its authority is extended. The Farm Credit Administration is permanent, but many of its functions are temporary.

President Roosevelt obtained his broad power to allocate the $4,000,000,000 work fund at the last session and it lasts until 1937, but most of the money will be spent this year.

So the coming congress must decide whether he will continue to have such authority over future relief spending. Likewise the Public Works administration expires in June, 1937, but its money is still available.

The housing law of 1934 designed to stimulate industry by government guarantees on loans for home building and modernization is partly permanent and partly temporary. The modernization division will expire April 1, 1936, unless congress extends it.

White Russian Is Sentenced to Die

KHABAROVSK, U. S. S. R., Nov. 13 (AP)—Former Major Sorokin of the White Russian army, alleged leader of an espionage network operating out of Manchoukuo, and his assistant were sentenced to death today after trial before a Far-Eastern army court.

They had been held since June 9 when they were apprehended in Soviet territory with bombs, pistols, poison and anti-Soviet literature in their possession.

Both allegedly confessed that they were under orders of a "certain foreign military mission at Harbin," in the Japanese-sponsored state of Manchoukuo, to obtain information concerning Soviet border troops and the railroad running to Vladivostok, eastern terminus of the Trans-Siberian railway.

Soviet authorities said Sorokin for years had been in charge of an espionage system, training spies to be sent into the Soviet Union. His assistant, also a Russian, was named Babbin.

Writing on Cards To Be Permitted

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP)—The post office department said today that greetings like "Merry Christmas," "Happy New Year," and "sincerely yours," may be penned on holiday cards without increased postage.

Cards sent in unsealed envelopes will travel through the mails at the third-class rate of 1 1/2 cents.

If a longer message is written on them, or the envelope sealed, they must bear the regular three-cent stamp.

Chapter 5
The girl, Larry explained, came into the story indirectly, but she might well prove the key to the whole puzzle. To make clear her connection with everything it was necessary to do a little more explaining.

"Everybody down there had the jitters," he said. "They were all too excited to know what they'd seen and what they hadn't seen. The stenographer was no help at all. Evidently she'd never taken her eyes off the pistol that had been pointed at her. The young teller wasn't much better."

"Oh, he gave us descriptions, of course. But you know what those descriptions amount to—medium height, clean-shaven, dark hair, weighs about 160 pounds, wore a blue suit and a Panama hat. Lord, you could arrest any one of 50,000 people on a description like that!"

"The only fellow we really got anything from was the old cashier."

"He'd been the worst scared of any of them, but he did remember one thing. The gunman who took him under his wing had been the one with the bag into which all the loot was dumped; and the old cashier had managed to notice the hand that held the bag—the left hand, it was."

He said that the index finger of this hand was missing. He was sure of that, even if he didn't know whether the man had gray eyes, brown eyes, or glass eyes. Apparently he'd kept his gaze riveted on that hand all through the holdup.

"Well, that was about all we had in the way of identification. A missing index finger on the left hand! Not much to go on, is it?"

Hagan chewed his cigar and shook his head.

"Well, it turned out to be quite a lot," said Glenn. "Or I should say that we hope it'll turn out to be quite a lot. You see, I got off a report to the head office in Washington at once, and I enclosed that bit about the missing finger, of course. It was the only definite description of any of these men that I had."

"Now here's where the Division of Investigation is really valuable. They've got more records down there in Washington than you can shake a stick at. They've got millions of fingerprints—literally millions—classified in every conceivable way. They've got every criminal record there's been able to lay hands on. They've got descriptions, fingerprints, photographs, and so on of just about every known crook in the United States, and all are classified so that you can look 'em up in almost any way you can think of."

"Look, now. All we knew was that here was a bank robber who was missing the index finger on his left hand. Now among other ways of classification, they have all the crooks on whom they have any real records classified according to deformities, injuries, scars, and so on."

"So somebody down there takes this meager little description of ours and starts riffling through his cards. After about an hour, he discovers that there are in the United States exactly four men with criminal records who lack that particular finger. He got their cards out and had a look."

"One of them is a safe-cracker who is now right in the middle of a 10-year stretch in the Massachusetts state prison. That let him out as far as this job was concerned, of course. The second was a Chicago racketeer who got put on the spot and killed with a load of slugs from a sawed-off shotgun just two months ago. The third was a fake oil stock promoter who did a stretch in Atlanta prison and got out two years ago. He's living in Florida now. It took one of our men from the Miami office just half a day to prove that he wasn't within 500 miles of this Neola bank for eight months."

"That left us with just one man. He's a bird named Lewis—Wingy Lewis, they call him, due apparently to the fact that he got 'winged' once by a bullet in some saloon fight or other and thereby lost this telltale index finger. Now this Wingy Lewis used to be a confidence man out west. A year or so ago he's believed to have joined the bank-robbing mob of the notorious Red Jackson."

Hagan nodded thoughtfully. There was no need for Larry to tell him who Red Jackson was—Red Jackson, a desperate criminal wanted for more crimes than could be named in one breath, who roamed all across the country in a way that left city and state police forces utterly helpless and who gloried in the title of "Public Enemy Number One." No, there was no need to tell Hagan or anyone else who Red Jackson was.

"So," resumed Larry, "you see where that gets us. It indicates, to begin with, that this job was the work of Red Jackson's gang. It after a while, that someone or other had told him that Evelyn has been seen right here in Dover recently.

"The next step was fairly obvious. All of these mobsters had their telltale ears bound to play the hot spots. They just can't stay away from joints like this Golden Feather. So the thing to do was to keep snooping about these night clubs, keeping the eyes open for Evelyn Brady. Once we spot her, provided that all our information is correct, we ought to begin getting the scent of Wingy; and if we do that, we'll be on Red Jackson's trail."

He put the sheaf of photographs back in his pocket.

"So there you have it all," he said.

Hagan nodded absently and stared off into a cloud of drifting cigar smoke. At last he shrugged despondently.

"You don't know how lucky you are," he said. "Being with the Department of Justice. Look at the way you guys can operate, and then compare it with the way we have to work here in Dover. Now—I guess I wrote you, didn't I, that I got promoted to sergeant in the detective bureau last month?"

Larry nodded.

"Well," said Hagan, "look at the difference. With you people, the chief problem is to find out who you want and where he is. With us, the tough part is to try to figure out some way of doing anything to the guy after we do find all that out. In the first place, we haven't got the facilities you people have. If he goes outside of Dover, we have to trust to luck that the coppers in the next town will co-operate with us and pick him up, and like as not they won't. If he stays in Dover, he's probably a friend of some politician or other—so what happens? We pick him up, book him and turn him over to the prosecutor; then he hires Dan Montague or some other high-powered mouthpiece and there's some now-you-see-it-now-you-don't business of behind the scenes, and first thing we know he's loose again, and we have to grin and take it."

"And the worst of it is, the people see these 'known criminals' walking the street and say, 'Aw, the cops are all crooked or they'd arrest those birds.' We're not crooked! We want to do our duty just the same as you want to do yours."

He looked earnestly at Larry, and there was something almost pathetic about the look on his honest, brick-red face. Larry nodded understandingly. "I know, Mike," he said. "You don't need to explain. Fortunately, the Department of Justice is immune to that sort of thing."

Hagan looked moodily at the tablecloth. Suddenly Larry remembered something.

"What'd you say was the name of the lawyer who springs so many of these birds?" he asked.

"Montague. Donald Montague. He's got more crooks out of jail than you can shake a stick at. And it's not all because he's a good trial lawyer. He's got a client usually one Evelyn Brady, featured in a minor way on one of these middle western burlesque circuits... strip dancer, or something."

"Anyhow, Evelyn went for Wingy just as hard as Wingy went for her. She quit the burlesque business cold and stuck to Wingy. I've even heard that she actually married him; I don't know whether that's true or not, but I'm pretty well satisfied that where Evelyn is, there—or thereabouts—Wingy is also."

"Now I'm coming to the point of all of this. The hunt for Wingy has more or less resolved itself into a hunt for Evelyn. So I've been making inquiries. Until recently, I could find no trace of the girl. Then, a week ago, I got transferred. They put me in charge of the regional office here in Dover. I no sooner got settled here than I thought me that one of the burlesque houses in this city is on the circuit which our friend Evelyn once adorned with all her girlish beauty."

Hagan gaped at him, rounded-eyed.

"What beautiful English!" he murmured. Larry grinned and tapped out his cigaret in the ash-tray at his elbow.

"So," he said, "I dropped around and got acquainted with the manager of the theater—without, of course, letting on that I'm with the Department of Justice. And he said,

"Well, that makes it all very simple," drawled Hagan with a grin. "All you've got to do now is round up Red Jackson."

Larry grinned ruefully. "Yeah—simple, isn't it?" he asked. "The gang has dropped out of sight. Nobody knows where they hang out. The fact of the matter undoubtedly is, of course, that they keep drifting about from one part of the country to another. They used to hang out in Chicago, but according to the best information we can get they haven't been there in months. That Neola holdup makes it look as if they're working their way east through the middle west, but we've nothing more to go on."

"But I have got this much of a lead. It seems that about six months ago our friend Wingy became smitten with the charms of one Evelyn Brady, featured in a minor way on one of these middle western burlesque circuits... strip dancer, or something."

"Anyhow, Evelyn went for Wingy just as hard as Wingy went for her. She quit the burlesque business cold and stuck to Wingy. I've even heard that she actually married him; I don't know whether that's true or not, but I'm pretty well satisfied that where Evelyn is, there—or thereabouts—Wingy is also."

SESSION WILL END THURSDAY AT MIDNIGHT

AUSTIN, Nov. 13 (AP)—Passage at this session of taxes for old age pensions appeared doubtful today as the legislature faced a deadlock on revenue raising.
With the session ending tomorrow at midnight, conference committees sought to adjust differences on other major problems.
Drys dominated a conference to iron out kinks in a package sale liquor control bill while conference on the officers salary bill completed a final revision.
Regulation of automobile drivers also awaited a conference adjustment of disagreements between the houses.
The house rejected senate amendments to an omnibus tax bill, sent the measure to conference and then instructed, 90 to 42, against any form of sales tax. The senate had proposed a one per cent levy on sales of selected commodities.
Members predicted freely that the committee would be unable, due to lack of time, to agree on a bill that would pass both houses.
Hope for an early start on pension payments of the omnibus bill failed in conference committee. It would raise an estimated $4,000,000 annually, the major portion of which would be devoted to pensions.
Cost of pensions under a bill awaiting the governor's signature, was calculated at about $10,000,000 annually. The bill proposed that payments start not later than next July 1 with earlier retroactive if funds were available.
Governor Alfred indicated he would not call another special session immediately if tax legislation failed.
The house tax bill proposed an increase of from 12 to 25 per cent on gross receipts of utilities, tapped a few new sources of revenue and increased taxes on natural resources. The senate shaved down the house levies and added the selective sales and an income tax.

PENSION TAXES ARENT LIKELY TO BE PASSED

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 13 (AP)—Fifty survivors of the wrecked freighter Silverthaz sailed from the tragic scene today after a 4-day battle against death in which two persons, one a woman, lost their lives and two others were reported missing.
The survivors, rescued from the wreckage and the rock on which the vessel crashed Sunday night in the San Bernardino Straits were being brought here aboard the destroyer, Peary.
Also aboard the navy ship was the body of Mrs. Neil Williams, a passenger, whose death was ascribed to exposure. The other known victim was an apprentice seaman, identified only as McPherson.
Searching craft moved through the treacherous waters of the straits today seeking the missing Captain H. A. Lennard, master of the British freighter, and an unidentified seaman.
Ships were unable to approach within 1,000 feet of the stricken freighter, broken in two with her stern sunk.
Unable to use lifeboats because of the riptides and huge waves, rescuers resorted to rafts to reach the survivors.
In desperation, some of the castaways were reported to have fashioned rafts from the wreckage to supplement those sent by the rescue crews.

JAPS CHARGE SECRET PACT OF 3 NATIONS

TOKYO, Nov. 13 (AP)—A majority of the afternoon vernacular newspapers gave great prominence today to dispatches from Hsinking, Manchoukuo, of reports reaching certain quarters that a secret tripartite military agreement between the United States, Soviet Russia, and China was imminent.
The reports alleged that Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet foreign commissar, and W. W. Yen, Chinese ambassador to Russia, had already concluded the pact, which the United States was expected to join shortly.
The agreement, the dispatches said, would obligate the signatories to maintain armed forces in the Orient to preserve peace there. It was tantamount to an alliance.
Authoritative quarters said the reports emanated from the headquarters of the Japanese army in Manchoukuo.
Non-Japanese authorities, familiar with Oriental propaganda, pointed out the story was given out just before the Japanese cabinet was scheduled to begin framing its 1936 budget, in which the army is demanding increased appropriations.
These sources also expressed the opinion the Japanese military was trying to build up the "Bolshevik danger" preparatory to new Japanese military moves in North China. Japanese press dispatches have frequently predicted such moves, arguing they would be justified owing to the penetration by Chinese communism and the Soviet influence in North China.

FORT COLLINS HUSKIES RATED AS BEST GRID TEAM IN ROCKY MOUNTAINS

DEFEATED ALL OPPONENTS BY LARGE SCORES

HARVESTERS PRACTICE IN SECRET WITH NEW ZEAL

The Fort Collins Lambkins, leading the Northern Colorado conference with nine wins and no losses, will be in Pampa Saturday afternoon in an attempt to keep their record intact and win another game from an out of state foe. Game time will be 2:30.

Five of the wins have been over conference foes, leaving the Lambkins only one more conference game. While holding their opponents to 13 points, the Fort Collins team has run up 267 points.

Only scored on once last year, the Lambkins were runners-up in the state championship race, losing by a 2 to 0 score to Salida. This last season's scoring returned this year and most of them were regulars. Coach Ted R. Blevins can field a team of seniors with three or four years experience.

The Lambkins opened the season with a 45 to 0 victory over Laramie, Wyo. Brighton, Colorado Class B champions last year, next fell by a score of 38 to 7. Cheyenne, Wyo., was the next victim, losing 12 to 0. Then came conference games with the following results: Fort Collins 34, Boulder 0; Fort Collins 19, Longmont 0; Fort Collins 39, Eaton 7; Fort Collins 39, Loveland 0; Fort Collins 31, Windsor 0; Fort Collins 13, Greeley 6.

Fort Collins doesn't boast a large team, but what it lacks in size it makes up in fight. The midge of the team likes his victims big according to a clipping from a Colorado paper which states: "Punk, 136-pound Fort Collins end, harassed the 190-pound Major until Major feared him like an elephant fears a mouse. Once as Longmont kicked 'Gib' delayed the big end, with three blocks until the giant lay on the ground and gave up trying to get down to get the safety."

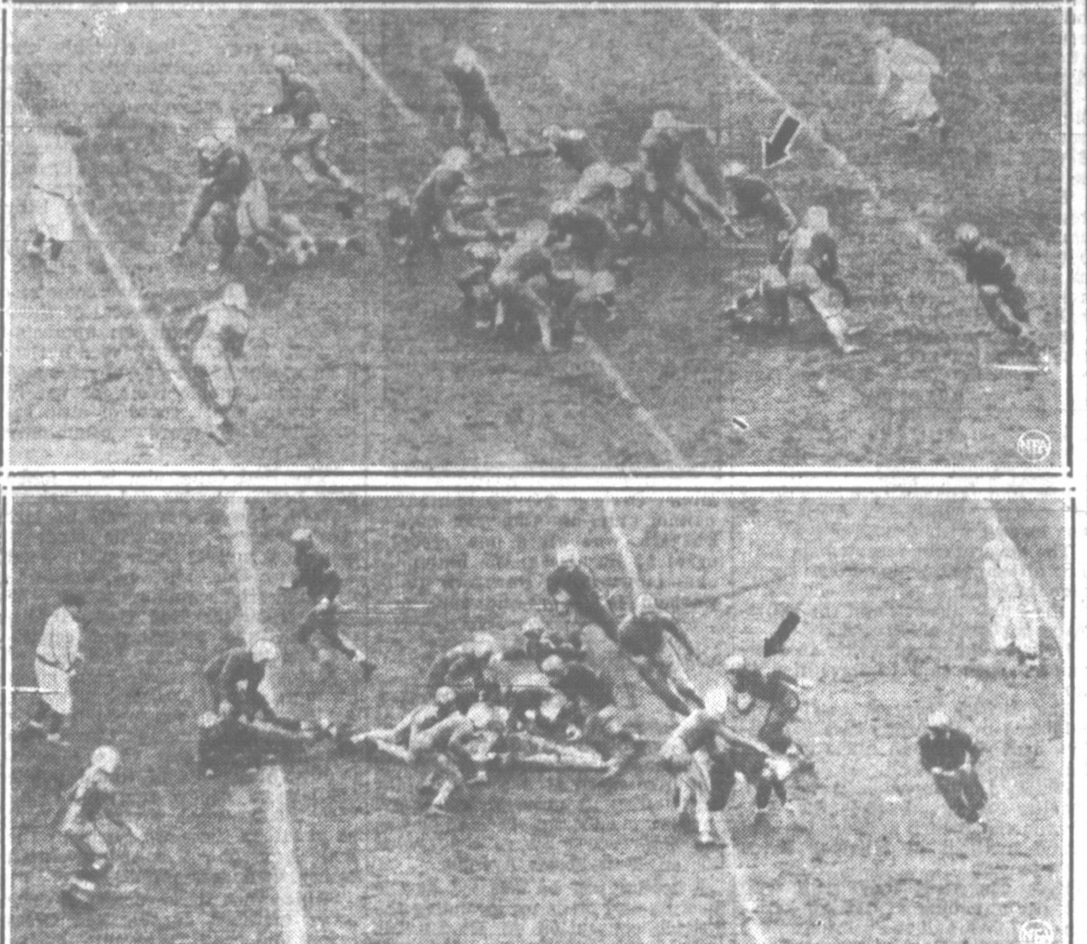

Elmer "Swede" Townsend is an all-state guard from last year. He plays guard on offense and switches to end on the defense. Townsend and John D. Wheeler, fullback, are co-captains this year.

Whelan, although anything but a giant, is called "powerhouse" throughout Colorado. His line plunges are like torpedoes and his ability to pick holes is uncanny. Allredge, Wagner and Sullivan does the signal barking. Allredge carries the duties of the blocking halfback. Wagner is the only member of the starting lineup who is not a senior this year.

Head Coach Dale hold down the tackle positions by the side of Townsend and Savage, guards, O'Neal, 174-pound piece of dynamite, is the center. Irwin holds down the other end position.

The Harvesters were put behind locked gates yesterday afternoon and no one knows what went on excepting the boys themselves and the coaches. The squad left the field, however, with a new determination written on their faces and fans predicted that a 60-minute club would face the Lambkins Saturday afternoon.

Double Play Reveals Precision

Taken at different times, these action pictures of the Yale-Dartmouth game at New Haven, Conn., provide a startling effective lesson in the precision with which two well-coached teams play football.

In both cases, Frank Nairne (designated by arrow), star of Dartmouth's 14 to 6 victory, carries the ball. Note that, in both pictures, every player on both teams is within inches of the same position, carrying out identical assignments. Success of play depends on split-second timing of completion of assignments by every player.

Championships In Most All Districts Practically Won

BELL DOESN'T SEE HOW TEAM CAN CAPTURE REST OF GAMES

DALLAS, Nov. 13 (AP)—The Southern Methodist Mustangs, returning to the home corral from the west coast where they galloped to the front as Rose Bowl aspirants, turned thoughts today to their second hard contest of the week.

Coach Matty Bell, more concerned with plays to be used against Arkansas Saturday than with his Ponies' 21 to 0 victory over the University of California at Los Angeles Armistice day, looked at the remaining schedule with pessimism.

SLOW WHISTLE CAUSES SOME GRID DEATHS

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (AP)—The consensus of the nation's football coaches is that most gridiron deaths result from inadequate supervision and medical care.

REASONS FOR INCREASE IN FATALITIES ARE DETAILED

Faulty equipment, the so-called "slow whistle" and other factors were cited by coaches in comment gathered by the Associated Press, but the almost unanimous belief was that the mounting toll was due to failure to safeguard high school and sandlot players.

Cochran, Hoppe Loom as Winners

CHICAGO, Nov. 13 (AP)—Welker Cochran of San Francisco, holder of the 182 ball line title, and Willie Hoppe of New York, 181 title holder, loomed today as possible winners of the world's three cushion billiard championship.

Cochran has won four straight victories and goes into action again tonight against Augie Kieckhefer of Chicago, a former champion.

Hoppe, who jumped into undisputed possession of second place by defeating Otto Reistel of Philadelphia, remains idle. Hoppe has won four of his five starts.

BELL DOESN'T SEE HOW TEAM CAN CAPTURE REST OF GAMES

"I don't see how we can win the rest of our games," he said, "Harry Shuford may be out of the lineup the remainder of the season with a bad knee he suffered in the game Monday. He's our key man in the backfield."

Shuford, however, said he hoped to be off crutches and back in practice in time to play against the Texas Christian Frogs Nov. 30.
