Sen. Aiken Promises Price Scandal Story

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Sen. Aiken said today he could produce the whole story behind his charge that the Democrats pushed farm prices down in 1948 as a successful political maneuver. The Vermont Republican told a reporter this as Secretary of Agriculture Brannan returned to testify (8 a. m. CST) for a second day on criticisms of his department aired in a probe conducted by the Senate Agriculture committee. Most criticism has concerned alleged profiteering by firms or individuals handling grain stored under government price support programs.

Living Costs On Elevator

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The government's living cost barometer is due for another slight rise today — carrying it back close to the peak level. Fear Soviets Plan Entrance In Korean War

TOKYO — (AP) — United Nations officers are eyeing suspiciously a buildup of Soviet strength in Asia because of the danger that Russia might leap into the Korean war. WASHINGTON — (AP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway branded the charges "false in their entirety."

Studying Bird's Flight Scientist, Sailplane Pilot Chase Mississippi Buzzards

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. — (AP) — A soft-spoken scientist and a young sailplane pilot were trying today to learn to fly like Mississippi buzzards. Dr. August Raspet, head of the Aerophysics Department at Mississippi State College, and Dick Johnson, graduate student and world's distance title holder in soaring, are teamed in a series of unusual experiments that call for everything from trained buzzards to a bicycle aircraft.

Runaway Gas Cars Explode

ODESSA — (AP) — A wild juggle-naut, seven runaway gasoline cars, crashed at high speed into a standing switch engine and exploded into a million-dollar fire here last night. Opposition Makes Kefauver Run Faster

The more opposition Sen. Estes Kefauver gets in his race for the Democratic presidential nomination, two sources said today, the faster he seems to run. Two Senate colleagues of the Tennesseean, Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota and James Murray of Florida, said any opposition from President Truman would enhance Kefauver's bid.

Pantie Pilferers Hit In Texas

By the Associated Press — Cordons of Austin police and members of the State Highway Patrol, augmented by Austin firemen and students objecting to the demonstration turned back the raiders at University of Texas dormitories and a sorority house. Dean of Student Life Arno (Shorty) Nowotny's plea to break it up in front of the Chi Omega house in Austin was greeted by catcalls and jeers.

Union-Management Peace Comes To Nation's Railroads

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Unusually peaceful negotiations between management and labor, the first in more than three years, came to the nation's railroads today and the government was ready to give up its 21-month operation of the roads. The rail unions, with a combined membership of 150,000, signed a "memorandum of agreement" with the carriers late last night in the White House.

First In More Than Three Years . . .

The agreement, worked out between the carriers and the engineers, firemen and the conductors after intensive mediation efforts by presidential assistant John R. Steelman, does three things: 1. Raises wages 27 cents an hour for men in the yards and 22 1/2 cents for over-the-road employees. 2. Ties wages to the cost of living. Pay now goes up or down one cent each three months for each point change in the government's cost-of-living index. 3. Lays the foundation for yardmen to switch from a 48-hour week to a 40-hour week and get a four cent pay hike when the shorter work week takes effect.

Thug Gets $6,000 Ring From Victim; Feeds Ailing Baby

NEW YORK (AP) — A knife-wielding robber bound a young mother with a $6,000 ring before he left her fed the baby.

The mother, 29-year-old Mrs. Anita Loken, said she was fixer lunch for her 18-month-old son, Lane, when a man rang the doorbell and said he was with the Office of Price Stabilization.

Having the Mrs. Loken's ring might be returned, the man left in 15 minutes, he was back and this time produced a knife. He found Mrs. Loken to a chair with the wire and took the ring.

The mother pleaded to be released because the baby was ill and it was time for his medicine.

"I'll give him his medicine," the man said, and did.

"He needs his milk, too," said Mrs. Loken.

The robber heaved the bottle, fed the baby, and fled.

He had passed the summit of a long military career and was ready to fade away like old soldiers of a barracks ballad.

Ridgway, in contrast, came before the legislators en route from the highest Allied command on one side of the world to the highest allied command on the other side.

He made no mention in his prepared text of MacArthur or of his own successor in the Orient, Gen. Mark Clark. He likewise said nothing about the controversy surrounding the capture and subsequent release of Gen. Francis T. Dodd by Communist prisoners of war at the camp Dodd commanded. But he gave high praise to Gen. James Van Fleet, commander of the Eighth Army in Korea.

Ridgway reserved the gravest language of his speech for his warning about Communist germ and gas warfare propaganda charges. He said:

"I wish to reiterate what I have repeatedly stated publicly, that these allegations are false in their entirety; that no element of the United Nations command has employed either germ or gas warfare in any form at any time."

In the whole black record of false propaganda, these charges should stand out as a monumental warning to the American people and the free world a warning as menacing and as urgent as a forest fire bearing down upon a wooden village.

The extent to which Communist leaders have gone in fabricating, disseminating and persistently pursuing these false charges should impress upon the brains of those who yet fail or refuse to see the purpose of communism, the deadly danger with which it confronts us and "the free world."

PPROA Wins Praise From Oil Official

The Panhandle Producers and Royalty Owners Assn. was highly praised by Russell B. Brown, general counsel in Washington for the Independent Petroleum Association of America, in an address given at a noon meeting of the PPRO in Amarillo yesterday.

Brown, who is on top of all the happenings in the Capital that affect the industry, reviewed the fight on the depletion allowance and advised diligence in guarding its safety.

He mentioned two bills up before Congress to limit the price control administrator, who, he said, has usurped powers to control the price of gas and oil that do not conform to the original bill. He asked Texas representatives be contacted and urged to work for passage of these bills.

The speaker of the evening banquet was Chetton H. Lyons, president of the IPAA, who also praised the PPRO. In his address, Lyons stressed two things, the value of trade organizations in bringing to the attention of Congress the things that free enterprise must have to function and the great peril the U. S. faces in the present trend to centralized government.

A board of directors meeting after the noon meeting elected new officers for 1952. They are O. Dale Smith, president; Stanley Marsh Jr., vice-president; T. V. Wallace, secretary and John O'Brien, treasurer.

New executive committee members are G. N. McDaniels, George Cree Jr. and E. J. Dunningan Jr. The members holding over are Billy Davis, Dale Smith, J. C. Alexander, R. C. Kay, Stanley Marsh Jr., and John O'Brien.

PATTY'S PUTTER — Patty Berg proudly holds her new hammerhead putter which she claims was the deciding factor in winning the $3000 Women's Open Golf Tournament at Richmond, Calif., with a 54-hole total of 210. 4. Avoided comment on yesterday's statement by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway that the outlook for a Korean armistice is not bright. The President said he had no comment — but Gen. Ridgway knows more about the situation than anyone else.

SCIENTIST

But just when the buzzard had learned to fly at his master's whistle and carry necessary instruments, he choked on a chicken bone and died.

Now Carter is training two squads of buzzards, one to fly in wind-tunnels and the other in free flight. Meanwhile, Johnson will continue tracking wild birds across the skies around state college.

Oilman Withdraws From Delegate List

DALLAS — (AP) — H. L. Hunt, oilman and prominent supporter of Gen. Douglas MacArthur for the Republican presidential nomination, has asked that his name be removed from the list of Taft-MacArthur delegates to the GOP state convention.

The request was made in a letter to County GOP Chairman George Atkinson.

Taft-MacArthur supporters bolted the Dallas County GOP Convention held a rump session and made up its own list of delegates to attend the state conclave next Tuesday at Mineral Wells. This

Q—I was told last night that you are allowed to meld out in Samba with two black threes and a wild card. Is this so?

A—No. You are not allowed to meld any wild cards with black threes in either Samba or Canasta. The only possible melds are three or more black threes.

Q—Is there such a thing as a canasta of black threes?

A—No. There is no such thing. Such a canasta is impossible because there are not enough natural black threes to make a canasta—and you are not allowed to meld any wild cards with black threes.

Be Cautious—Watch Discards

By OSWALD JACOBY
 Written for NEA Service

When is the best time to discard a black three? Some Canasta players say that the time to throw a black three is whenever you hold one, but my own opinion is that there is a right and a wrong time for such a discard.

It is true that a black three takes up valuable room in your hand. If you bet rid of it, you make room for a more useful card. Nevertheless, a black three is a powerful defensive weapon and shouldn't be wasted. Discarding one on an unimportant pile is like using an elephant gun to shoot a rabbit.

If you happen to be dealt three or four black threes, you can surely afford to discard one of them at your first turn. If you have two black threes, you might wait one round before discarding one black three, however, save it for a crucial point in the discarding.

Your first discards in any hand should be dangerous cards. If the next player takes the pile promptly, he has picked up so few cards that you are still in good shape. If your dangerous discards get by safely, you will then be in position to make safer discards as the discard pile grows larger and larger.

Eventually, when you run out of safe discards, you will part with your black three. You have kept that for a rainy day, and you use it only then. The whole theory of discarding is that you become progressively more and more cautious as the discard pile grows, and you keep your safest possible discards for the last possible moment.

Some players follow the opposite theory.

Boyle's Column Art Of Bawling Out Workers Becoming Lost Art In U. S.

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — (AP) — The art of bawling out the hired hands is becoming a lost art in the American business world.

In the old days when a boss saw something he didn't like, he'd let out a yelp and dress the culprit down on the spot in burning language more memorable than grammatical.

But today most bosses seem to have lost the gift of tongue-lashing. They have found it cheaper by and large to hire a psychiatrist to find out what is the matter with a derelict employe than it is to bawl the fellow out themselves and end up explaining it all to the U. S. Supreme Court.

So many employes know their rights now that an employe is hesitant about pointing out their wrongs.

Therefore, it came as something of a surprise to me to get the following letter:

"Dear Sir:

"I have a problem. My boss bawled me out last week, and I have a feeling he's going to bawl me out again this week. I would quit and get me another job except it's such a nice place to work. The management even puts gin in the of-

Abe's Love Story Denied

CHICAGO — (AP) — The familiar love story of Abe Lincoln and Ann Rutledge once was indignantly described as a myth by Mary Todd Lincoln.

In a letter written to a Supreme Court justice and made public this week, the Civil War president's widow asserted Lincoln "always assured me he had cared for no one but myself."

Willard L. King, a Chicago lawyer and historian, said he came across the letter in his research for a biography of David Davis of Bloomington, Ill., and Illinois circuit judge whom Lincoln appointed to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Davis was administrator of Lincoln's estate. King said he found the letter in papers of Davis' great-grandson, David Davis IV.

Some historians have said Ann Rutledge and Lincoln were engaged to be married when both lived in New Salem, Ill., but that she died of fever before they could be wed. These biographers say Lincoln never recovered from shock and grief.

But Mrs. Lincoln wrote: "My husband—always assured me he had cared for no one but myself. —I shall always remain firm in my conviction that Ann Rutledge is a myth."

"Nor did his joyous laugh lead me to suppose his heart was in any unfortunate woman's grave but in the proper place with his loved wife and children."

Too Much Pulchritude For Old Tug No. 10

WILMINGTON, Calif. — (AP) — Old Tug No. 10 was a real tough and harbor-worthy vessel. It had hauled in some pretty big ships in its day.

Last Monday, however, No. 10 was cast in a new role — towing a floating barge for a style show, with a score of cuties traipsing the deck as they modeled swim suits, and bra panty sets.

This was just too much for old No. 10. After getting back to its dock it capsized and sank yesterday.

"Too much pulchritude," said an old salt, pronouncing the third word very carefully.

Pedestrian Plays Hit-And-Run Role

SAN ANTONIO — (AP) — Even veteran police officers were surprised, but there it was on the complaint—a hit and run pedestrian.

Eugene Burton, 21, told police he was driving his car into a downtown service garage. His car momentarily blocked the sidewalk while a group of attendants were clearing the door.

A pedestrian attempting to walk past the garage suggested to Burton that the youth get his car-and-so car out of the way.

Burton tried to explain he couldn't right at the moment whereupon the pedestrian, a man, smacked his fist through the car's ventilator window, kicked a dent in the door, knocked the chrome from the front fender, cense plate—and fled.

ice water cooler. What can I do?
signed) A Terrified Young Man

Well, Dear Terrified, your problem was so unusual that I took it up with all the oldtimers I know who can still remember being bawled out by their boss (there are only a few of them left). Here is the situation. When the summons comes to go to see the boss, walk into his office with a look of utter happiness.

Get it? You make him think you have no idea of what is going to happen. He feels like a cat playing with a near-sighted mouse.

As he tees off on your misdemeanors, don't make the mistake of listening to him. You already know more about what is wrong with your work than he does. Concentrate on your actin'. Let the smile fade from your face. Replace it with a look of amazement, then horror, then a abject hopelessness.

Don't make the mistake of arguing with him about your rights. He wouldn't bawl you out in the first place if he hadn't already consulted a couple of attorneys and the National Labor Relations Board.

And don't interrupt him. Egg him on. If he gets tired of denouncing the faults you have, he knows about, tell him a few he hasn't discovered.

As he launches out into a fresh tirade, lift your hanging head and let him see the tears in your eyes. Let the tears fall on his desk. . . pop. . . pop. . . pop.

The main thing is to keep him attacking you as long as possible. Just remember that bosses are like wives — after they wear out their temper they feel ashamed of themselves.

When he finally runs down his vocal chords, reach up with one hand and brush away your tears. Reach out the other hand and grab his hand and say: "Thanks, chief, thanks. I know I'll be a better man for this."

Then, as you go out the door, turn and look at the family photo he has on his desk and say: "Gee, chief, you've got a fine-looking family. Why do you make me cry?"

This will bring out the father in him. After all, isn't the office just one big happy family, too? He will feel so guilty that next week he will probably quietly give you a raise.

In any case he won't bawl

List Of Shortages Shrinking But Rising Costs Offset Cuts

NEW YORK — (AP) — The list of shortages continues to shrink. But their role as villain in keeping the cost of living high is being taken over by rising operating costs.

The prospects of more costly canned fruits and vegetables is a case in point. Food, by and large, is plentiful. But under the Caperhart Amendment to the control law, grocery wholesalers can't boost prices because their costs of doing business has risen.

The cost of living, however, is easier in many departments — thanks to the deflation of many commodity prices at wholesale level, which is now working into the retail price lists.

As still more commodities come off the shortage shelf, the chances for lower product prices increase — except for that villain, the rising costs of operation at factory, farm, transportation, distribution and retailing levels.

Decontrol moves point up this price weakness. Cotton and most textile yarns and fabrics are being set free of price controls. They are already selling well below ceiling prices anyway. And clothing prices are down in the stores. So the consumer may see little change.

Reports from Chicago, where the small order houses are preparing their fall catalogs, say that prices will average about 10 percent lower than last fall's books. But that means they will be about the same, or slightly lower, than the spring price lists.

Food prices appear to have about leveled off and for a time now should fluctuate with the season and the crop prospects. Chickens and eggs, for example, are selling now far below peak prices. And onions are down

Plant Ills Report Planned

ROME — (AP) — The first co-ordinated world-wide effort to keep track of plant pest and plant disease outbreaks is being initiated.

Sir Herbert Brodley, acting director-general of the U. N. Food and Agricultural Organization, has asked 68 member nations to co-operate.

Each co-operating power was requested to send FAO regular reports by telegram or air mail of threatening plant pests and diseases. FAO will establish an international center to collect and distribute the information. Periodical bulletins will be issued.

Bus Hunts Up Passengers

CENTRALIA, Ill. — (AP) — Bus driver Ralph Shook is the answer to prayers of all late commuters.

Street repairs blocked Shook's run one morning, forcing him to turn onto a detour although he spotted two regular riders down the blocked street. He wheeled the bus around the block to reach them, but they were gone. "Maybe they went back home," signs. The man who did the present sign was released recently.

Drivers License Is Revoked

ST. PAUL, Minn. — (AP) — Drivers licenses of 1,428 Minnesotans were revoked during the first three months of this year. Drunken driving convictions caused 650 drivers to lose their permits.

Shook told passengers, "Anyone know where they live?" Someone did. Shook drove to the front of their houses and honked. Two surprised fares came out and boarded the off-beat bus.

Gallup Says Poll Business Is Recovering

WASHINGTON — (AP) — George Gallup says his poll business is booming once more after the tailspin into which poll taking was knocked by President Truman's 1948 election victory.

Gallup lost about a fourth of his 100 newspaper clients after the voters upset predictions four years ago that Republican candidate Thomas E. Dewey would defeat Truman.

Truman, who has frequently chided the pollsters for their 1948 mistake, indicated in a Saturday night speech he still doesn't think much of polls.

And, the chairman of the National Taft Committee, David S. Ingalls, labelled Gallup's findings in the current presidential race "the outlandish variety."

"Results in state primaries held to date give the lie to the Gallup poll," Ingalls said in a statement. "They show that despite the tilted score Gallup racks up for Eisenhower the clear-cut choice of Republican voters is Sen. Robert A. Taft."

Ingalls said that in nine GOP primaries, the Ohio senator has got at least half the five million votes cast, with the balance scattered among other contenders for the nomination.

Ingalls called Gallup's methods of sampling the opinions of between 1,500 and 3,000 people — compared to the actual vote of five million.

Truman, addressing the convention of Americans for Democratic Action Saturday night, recalled that the Literary Digest folded after its poll indicated that Republican candidate Alf Landon would defeat President Roosevelt in 1936. Recalling 1948, Truman added:

"I like to remember Elmer Roper in his September spasms in which he said no more polls were necessary. Dewey would be the next president, there really wasn't any use in holding an election in November. He has been apologizing about that ever since and trying to get his poll back."

In a copyright interview in the magazine U. S. News and World Report, Gallup quotes Prof. Samuel Stouffer of Harvard University as saying that polls constitute the most useful device ever developed in a democracy.

"Polls help to deflate the claims of pressure groups. Polls can discover what proportion of any group is for or against any major piece of legislation.

"If it weren't for polls, no one would have any conception of the size of the independent vote, no one would know with accuracy how younger voters feel, no one

Climate By Harry's Order

Cat Mothers Wild Hares

MARION, Ill. — (AP) — The Bill Singers tell a hair-raising tale in which an apparently nice mother cat may turn out to be the villain.

They found that the cat's new kittens were being nursed along with two adopted bunnies. Mrs. Singer said the big cat was as gentle with the wild hares as if they were her own. However, she has caught and eaten grown rabbits.

Mrs. Singer sighed: "Maybe she's waiting until they grow up for the big feast."

Many of the trails in Central Africa are believed to have been developed by Arab slave traders.

He conceded that the pollsters have influenced over-confident Republicans to stay away from the polls in 1948 but by the same token he said Democrats resigned to defeat also stayed away.

His big mistake in that election, Gallup said, was in stopping the poll two weeks before election and failing to catch the shift of opinion, particularly in the farm section.

Weather Is Big Question For Abilene

ABILENE, Kas. — (AP) — "I wonder what kind of weather we'll have June 4?"

That's the big question to the residents of this central Kansas town who are getting ready for the mammoth homecoming of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, potential Republican presidential candidate.

The weather bureau comes up with a sporting answer. "Five to one it'll be a fine day," commented a bureau spokesman at Kansas City. "But when it does rain in these parts that time of year, brother, it can rain."

The people around here are more curious about the kind of day it will be than they are about what the general will have to say at his homecoming speech.

For virtually every Abilene resident — man, woman and child — already has made up his or her mind on a choice for the next president of the United States.

"We not only like Ike here, we love him," said Charles Case, a retired merchant, in what just about sums up the attitude of the home folks toward a local boy who made good.

The people of Abilene want nothing to mar Ike's homecoming and they feel the weather is about the only thing that could upset their plans.

During a two-day celebration starting June 4, the five-star general will lay the cornerstone for a museum to house his war trophies. The $100,000 structure is going up on ground adjoining the old Eisenhower family home where Ike grew to manhood.

Eisenhower also will make a public address, review a mammoth parade of 20 or 40 floats depicting his career and hold a press conference. One of the floats will show Ike in the White House.

That's the official program. But, the general arrangements committee expects the governors of about a dozen states and scores of other political leaders and national convention delegates to confer with the general about the presidential campaign being carried on in his behalf.

No one seems to agree on the size of the crowd which will be on hand in this town of 7,000 population.

Henry Jameson, co-publisher of the Abilene Reflector-Chronicle, who is in charge of press arrangements estimated there would be 300 press, radio and television reporters present. Radio and television technicians may run this number to 400.

"We are prepared to handle up to 50,000 or more visitors,"

Jameson commented.

Whatever the size of the crowd, Abilene is certain to be swept with excitement exceeding anything in the brawling days when it was the northern terminus of the Chisholm trail. In those days thousands of cattle were herded here from Texas and Oklahoma to be shipped by rail to the East.

R. B. Laing, a milling company executive and co-chairman of the general committee on arrangements, said:

"He learned a lot about handling a crowd when Ike came home in 1945 after leading the Allied forces to victory in Europe during World War II.

On that occasion more than 30,000 persons flocked to Abilene to see the returning hero.

But the arrangements committee feels there will be many more people here this time.

Technicians have been in town for two weeks making preparations to televise the event.

They are setting up a special five-station microwave relay circuit so Abilene can be linked to the coast — to — coast network.

Scores of special trainings will help bring the crowd. Parking lots have been laid out within the city limits to accommodate 20,000 automobiles.

Ted Viola, chairman of the committee which will decorate the town, said the announcement that Ike is coming home was an automatic starter for a clean up, paint up campaign.

There are about 2,500 white inhabitants here, an increase of 2,000 since 1947.

Legionnaire Is Top
HANOI, Indo-China — (AP) — Those romantic, adventurous men of the Foreign Legion who sometimes figure in Hollywood movies look just like they do in films.

The legionnaires in their colorful uniforms are often honor guard for a visiting dignitary. They also spearhead assaults against Communist Vietminh forces. The several thousand legionnaires here have made an enviable reputation as fighting men.

In Indo-China, 46 percent of the legionnaires are German. Fourteen percent are Polish. The rest come from various other countries.

McGranery Might Call In Hoover

WASHINGTON — (AP) — If the new attorney general, James P. McGranery, picks up where he left off a couple of months ago he'll call in J. Edgar Hoover and tell the FBI boss: "Eddie, let's see those files." Last April 4, right after President Truman chose him for attorney general the 56-year old McGranery told newsmen Hoover would be given the job of finding any misconduct in the government.

Now Many Wear FALSE TEETH With Little Worry Eat, talk, laugh or sneeze without fear of insecure false teeth dropping, slipping or wobbling. FASTERITE holds plates firmer and more comfortably. This pleasant powder has no gummy, goeey, pasty taste or feeling. Doesn't cause nausea. It's alkaline (non-acid). Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTERITE at any drug store.

body since he wasn't then attorney general, in spite of presidential appointment, and couldn't be until the Senate approved. Now he's in. And, because McGranery is head of the Justice Department and the FBI is part of it, the new attorney general can resume where he left off in April by having a chat with Hoover.

Although he hasn't said so publicly, it's hardly an exaggerated guess that Hoover is less than delighted by the prospect of making a special inquiry into the high life and low life of government officialdom. His FBI already has plenty of chores anyway, while government corruption covers that extremely gummy field of ethics and morals where only a wink can separate indiscretion from conniving.

And, at least in one direction, Hoover would be handicapped before he started: He couldn't investigate the Treasury Department where most of the wrongdoing has been found. By special law of Congress only treasury investigators can investigate the treasury.

Sub Interests Oldster

LONG BEACH, Calif. — (AP) — An old "pig boat" man, who served on the first U. S. submarine, is angling for a ride as passenger when the first atom-powered sub is tested. He is Edward J. Krec, 64, who says he was a crewman aboard the USS Holland in 1907. In those days, says Krec, there was no escape hatch, periscope or compartmented hull — only a torpedo and a dynamite gun.

Krec says an old shipmate, Capt. H. G. Rickover, USN, is in charge of constructing the atom submarine. He looks upon information with the same fondness some people bestow on pins and old string: it never throws anything away.

Since it has been making loyalty investigations of government workers for some years now, a task requiring it to pry into the private lives of public people, the BI undoubtedly has accumulated interesting oddments. And, of course, maybe it hasn't. But, whatever it has learned is in the FBI files, which might make as good a starting point as any for McGranery, if he wants to take some reading matter home with him.

Camera News

By IRVING DESFOR AP Newsfeatures GREAT SATISFACTION results when you can adapt photography to an intricate need for a new use. I recall a couple with ideas about the type of house they wanted to build. Everywhere they went, they stopped to photograph, with a three-dimensional camera and color film, the particular features of houses that met their fancy. When they were ready for an architect, their set of stereo photographs showed ever so clearly the type of entrance, doors, windows, porch, etc., that they wanted. How much better this was than oral description!

The stereo boom and its adaptation to the commercial field have been phenomenal — but hardly amazing. It seems logical enough that manufacturers should utilize this latest advance in the photographic field. It is common sense and pure economy to equip a salesman with stereo slides and a hand viewer or a stereo projector. The products are shown in three dimensions and natural color under the most favorable of conditions, without hauling, mauling or stalling.

NOW WE NOTE the successful start of a stereo color projector that may well revolutionize medical training and medical education. A doctor at Stanford University and a research engineer from Portland, Ore., have completed the first phase of a projected complete atlas of human anatomy in three-dimensional Kodachrome transparencies. Each one is keyed to a matching diagram drawn to scale.

Dr. David L. Bassett, associate professor of anatomy in the Stanford Medical School provided the medical knowledge while the photographic end was handled by William B. Gruber, inventor of a stereoscopic device called the "View Master." Together they've worked almost three years to accomplish the painstaking task of photographing 238 related dissections of just the human central nervous system alone. This has just been published as section one. They estimate it will take them six to eight years and some 2000 dissections and photographs before their seven-section complete atlas is finished.

THIS WILL BE an invaluable tool for medical scientists, students and practicing physicians. Seen through the stereoscope, the anatomical closeups pictured in color have a revealing quality that few doctors have the opportunity to observe, even in the laboratories of the best medical schools.

The three-dimensional effect, by projection on a large screen, can be viewed by a large audience provided each spectator wears a special polarized glasses. However, it is expected to be more commonly used by individuals using a compact hand viewer. The "View Master," in wide circulation now as an inexpensive children's stereo toy will accept the anatomy stereo discs. Each disc shows seven stereo views by a simple flick of the finger.

NOT TOO LONG ago, Dr. Bassett took several test booklets and some hand viewers to the American Association of Anatomists meeting in Detroit. Doctors stood in long lines for hours to get a glimpse of the unusual views in three-dimensional color. Mr. Gruber's photographic accomplishments of shooting stereoscopic X-ray views was especially noted.

With this latest advance in medical scientific photography, it is interesting to note that the first stereoscopic anatomical views were made over fifty years ago at the University of Edinburgh. The results today reveal the progress that photography has made in stereo cameras, illumination and in color.

Undoubtedly, Dr. Bassett and Mr. Gruber's work will stimulate stereo presentation in other fields of training. Offhand, the study of architecture, sculpture, fashion design, geography, biology — whoa there, that's enough — would make suitable subjects for three dimensional color presentation.

Want a career in photography? Here are several.

River Deposits Sand ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — (AP) — A layer of sand 2 to 6 feet deep covers an estimated 500 acres of rich Missouri bottom land in the wake the recent Missouri River flood. The "sand dune" was formed when the raging river topped and cut levees on either side of Rock Creek.

Italian Film Industry Booms

ROME — (AP) — "Hollywood-on-the-Tiber" is turning out a record number of motion pictures this year. By April the Italian film industry had finished 30 full-length pictures. Another 18 were before the cameras. A record number of high-budget films intended for the export market are included.

The trend is away from importing Hollywood players this year. French, British and Italian actors are replacing the more expensive American actors.

Drug Ordinance Is Needed

SINGAPORE — (AP) — Penicillin and other antibiotic drugs are being offered for sale openly by grocers and street vendors in Malaya, the Malayan Pharmaceutical Journal discloses. Calling for an ordinance to control sale of therapeutic substances and antibiotic drugs, the official organ of the Malayan Pharmaceutical Association says there are loopholes for unscrupulous manufacturers to supply non-sterile ligatures and outdated and ineffective drugs.

Oil Site Marked

LONG BEACH, Calif. — (AP) — A plaque commemorating the discovery of oil in the rich Signal Hill district was unveiled recently by members of Petroleum Production Pioneers, Inc. The group, men with more than 30 years service in the oil industry, have started a campaign to mark locations of important petroleum discoveries in this state.

The first well on Signal Hill began flowing in 1921 and since then the district has become one of the richest oil communities in the world, members said.

Potato Shortage A Reminder Of Pig-Killing In Early 1930's

WASHINGTON—The year's potato shortage seems to be providing just about as heated a debate on the federal farm programs as did the government project of killing little pigs to raise pork prices in the early 1930's.

Officials say there's considerable criticism of ceilings on potato prices and a lack of price supports.

Raised Furor—The pig-killing program raised such a furor that every time meat has become scarce since then the Agriculture Department has been flooded with an avalanche of mail harkening back to those days. That plan, sponsored by Henry A. Wallace, then the agriculture secretary, was designed to boost hog prices by reducing pork supplies.

The current potato shortage developed largely because farmers cut production 20 percent last year. Most of this reduction came in the late potato crop—that portion which goes into storage for use during the winter, spring and early summer.

Reduced Output—Farmers reduced their output after Congress directed the Agriculture Department to withdraw price supports. Congress had to do this because they had let the government more than 600 million dollars over a 19-year period.

Fearing a possible price collapse, farmers turned to more promising crops. The big question when it became apparent that stocks might not be large enough to last through the year from Office of Price Stabilization stepped in with ceilings. But until corrected, inequities in ceilings as applied market to some last year because of opposition and away from others.

The shortage has been aggravated by black markets which have given some consumers more than their share.

Price Stabilizer Ellis Arnall urged yesterday that the public fight against black marketing by refusing to pay more than ceiling prices.

In a statement, Arnall praised the Super Market Institute, the Philadelphia Hotel Association and the Philadelphia Restaurant Association for urging their members not to pay above-ceiling prices.

Relief Due—Arnall predicted the shortage would be relieved in the next four to six weeks by the movement of new potatoes to market. This early crop is grown mostly in Florida, Alabama, Texas and California.

But the shortage is not likely to be fully overcome until the intermediate crop is harvested. This is grown in midland states—the Carolinas, Tennessee, Kentucky, Arkansas, Maryland and New Jersey.

Both the early and intermediate crops this year are later than usual—a fact that is prolonging the shortage. Weather conditions and desire of growers to let their potatoes grow to full size are factors delaying marketings.

Nevertheless agriculture officials expect ample supplies by mid-June—and possibly lower prices, promising crops. The big question when it became apparent that stocks might not be large enough to last through the year from Office of Price Stabilization stepped in with ceilings. But until corrected, inequities in ceilings as applied market to some last year because of opposition and away from others.

OUR TOWN

by Wanda Campbell

A newspaper reveals many subjects... war in Korea... news from Washington... the Giants' last game... but it doesn't always bring news of the little things that never rates headlines... the stories told by people in our town and plotted on main street, in club meetings, in our schools, churches and homes... the stories that picture pathos, joy and humanism... These stories will be told here, and if this column forces a chuckle, shares a thought or maybe brings a tear, then its purpose will be achieved, for these are things life's made of... living in a town means loving it and its people for all the good and all the bad... and it's the little anecdotes knitted together that tell the real story of our times and our town.

When Mrs. Teresa Humphreys' first grade students presented the beloved "Sleeping Beauty" Wednesday at the Sam Houston assembly, their teacher was not there to see the performance. The students have planned several plays this year... Once half the cast broke out with the measles, another time some of the leading characters moved away, and then late Tuesday a death in her family called Mrs. Humphreys out of town... But the youngsters went on with the play like Mrs. Humphreys insisted they do... and she would have been real proud of them.

Cecily Morgan was "Sleeping Beauty" and she was like a fairytale princess in a long pink dress and a crown of pink flowers... Frank Howard, Jr., played the prince and when he swept back his velvet cloak and bent to kiss and arouse the sleeping princess, every little girl heart fluttered while the boys in the front row snickered... Kayleen Layne is much too pretty to be typed as a witch, but carried her part convincingly hiding behind black cape and hood (and colored glasses)...

The king, William John Maul, had a nice strong voice and spoke his lines with all the kingly dignity he could muster... and his queen, blonde and beautiful Linda Arey, was equally fine... Mike Hill, the fairy with shining wings, the nurse, and all the king's court gave good performances... And if the queen yawned during the sad moment the witch was casting a spell on the princess... if the prince pointed to each character as it came his time to speak... and if the princess asleep on the floor opened one eye for a quick peek at the audience... well, nobody noticed... The story is old, but as presented Wednesday it was fresh, enlightening and very, very sweet... Yes, Mrs. Humphreys would have been real proud.

Eighteen Models of Other Makes of Cars Cost More!

Official price lists show that there are eighteen different models of American motor cars, produced by five separate automotive manufacturers, which actually cost more than the lowest-priced Cadillac—when similarly equipped.

If you find this difficult to believe—then you're in good company!

For the record also shows that, during the past few years, literally hundreds of thousands of motorists have taken title to these costlier models. And there can be little doubt that many of them did so simply because they failed to realize how relatively modest the cost of a Cadillac car can be.

They simply assumed that exclusive in quality means exclusive in price! And it is doubtful if a single misunderstanding ever cost so many motorists so much!

It cost them, first of all, the satisfaction of owning a Cadillac! For there is no substitute for the sense of pride and well-being that comes from owning a motor car that is universally recognized as the "Standard of the World."

It cost them, too, the pleasure of driving a Cadillac! And this, beyond any question, is the greatest penalty of all! For in missing out on Cadillac's marvelous handling ease, its superb power and quiet, and on the wonderful rest and relaxation to be found behind its wheel—they're missing out on motoring's finest rewards.

And, of course, it also cost them Cadillac's many long-range economies—its almost unbelievable gasoline mileage, its unsurpassed dependability, and its legendary long life.

We know that you wouldn't want to make such a costly mistake in the selection of your next car. But you'd better be careful—because there are eighteen different ways to make it!

So when the time comes—investigate! And if you pay the price of a Cadillac—be sure that you get one!

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK — (AP) It has long been known that Judge Kenneth M. Landis, the first commissioner of baseball, was an autocrat, and that he and some of the clubowners wrangled bitterly over certain aspects of the game, especially as to whether the farm system was beneficial or harmful.

It takes, however, a reading of government's new best seller "Study of Monopoly Power" to understand why the magnates wake up screaming when they dream that the old jurist with the white name is back at the head of the table.

The book, a report of Chairman Emanuel Celler's subcommittee which investigated baseball last year, gives, among many other hitherto secret exhibits, a word-by-word account of the joint league meeting of 1928, when Landis growled at the start that he wanted to know which clubs owned or had working agreements with minor league teams. He despised such alliances.

Seven clubs, it is surprising to read now, said they had no farm 000 between them. The next connections whatever. They bought on the open market. Of the remaining nine teams, only the St. Louis Cardinals had modern standards. Billy Evans said that Cleveland had dropped $1,000 the previous year helping support Terre Haute, and owner Phil Ball of the St. Louis Browns lamented that two of his proteges, Tulsa and Muskogee, had lost $44,000 between them. The next idea of how to play.

Six Withdraw, Purse Raised In Colonial Meet

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
FORT WORTH (AP) The field will be smaller but the money will be more plentiful today as the Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament moved into its first 18-hole round.

Cary Middlecoff, the Memphis, Tenn., dentist, seeking to repeat with championship, and Ben Hogan, National Open champion from Palm Springs, Calif., after his third title in six Colonial Tournaments, will be shooting for $1,000 more than they had anticipated.

Six players withdrew yesterday to cut the field to 42 but at the same time, the board of governors of Colonial Country Club, anticipating a booming attendance, raised the prize money from $15,000 to $20,000, adding five places and boosting the amount for the 20 already listed.

What Should Our Children Read?

Many parents in trying to provide sources of information for their children purchase encyclopedias such as the Britannica Junior Encyclopedia, which is published with the advice and consultation of the University of Chicago.

The other day, in looking thru the Ready Reference Index of the Britannica Junior Encyclopedia, we came across a definition which we do not believe many parents would like to see in a book for their children. This definition is for "marriage" and "divorce," which the Encyclopedia Britannica Junior says is: "The socially approved form of physical relation between the sexes and its dissolution." This seems to us as hardly a definition for marriage, which is consistent with the Christian idea as to what marriage is. Certainly, marriage is much more than mere "physical relation."

The University of Chicago instructors have many queer ideas. We noted another one of theirs in last week's Wall Street Journal, which is reproduced below, titled "Suffering Children":

"We are in something of a depressed mood this morning. It seems that the children around our house, like the generation that preceded them, have been reading the wrong books.

"The University of Chicago's Center for Children's Books, according to 'Time,' has not only undertaken the chore of perusing over the new children's books and recommending some that should be read. It has also been poring over the older children's books and taken to prescribing those that should not be read.

"There's a twelve-year-old around our house who is now in her third reading of 'Huckleberry Finn'; the first came at age six when an unthinking grandfather thought to while away some lonely hours with the meales. Huck, says the Center, is not entirely 'unacceptable' but warns that it's like giving 'Hamlet' to an eighth grader. This makes it even worse; for an abridged Hamlet— with Heaven knows what psychological complications— was used at age ten to bridge a spell of the mumps. The only comment was that it took long to get to the blood and thunder of the last act.

"This propensity for blood and thunder is not the only thing that depresses us. 'Black Beauty' is old and worn from two generations of reading despite the prescription verdict that it is 'poorly written... more a Victorian spinster than a horse.' And what terrible things have we done to our children by foisting upon them such 'dull and didactic' stuff as 'The Water Babies'?

"But this is nothing to what the proscribers say we've done to their social thinking. 'Hans Brinker,' he with the silver skates, has given them a 'ween shoo stero-type' of life in Holland; Kipling's 'Wee Willie Winkie,' the delight of our own ancient youth, may have contaminated their ideas of justice, while 'Five Little Peppers, and How They Grew' has contaminated them with grammar that is 'atrocious.'

"By not having such an Index to guide us, by urging our children to read what we liked and more or less letting them decide what they liked, we have— so say the scientific researchers— bored them to death, scared them to death and filled them full of trash. And all this to poor children who are already underprivileged in being forced to read wholesale because they are deprived of a TV set."

So these professors who do not believe children should be exposed to such books as "Black Beauty," "Huckleberry Finn," "Hans Brinker," "Wee Willie Winkie," and so forth, are the kind of instructors who endorse the definition for "marriage" which we quoted from the Britannica Junior. How can we expect our children to grow up with good morals when it is this type of teaching, that is so predominant?

Is There A Subversive Movement In Public Schools?

(This is the fifth installment of the talk given March 21 by Rep. Paul W. Shaffer of Michigan in the House of Representatives.)

III. SKELETON IN THE CLOSET The sensitivity of educational officialdom to criticism is particularly acute with respect to any charge or suggestion that collectivism or socialism is being fostered in the public schools. The official reaction to such an accusation is an air of injured and indignant innocence.

Since the phrase "socialism in the schools" is a man-in-the-street version of movement here under discussion, it becomes relevant to this documentation to record some of the official denials of this allegation.

I quote, first of all, from a monthly bulletin issued by Superintendent C. Trillingham of the Los Angeles County, Calif., public schools. This bulletin was published in the October 1950 Education Digest, page 39: "Anyone who knows about the general educational program of the schools today knows that the changes that are being made in the country toward socialism, that the fundamental skills are being ignored, and that there is no attempt to discipline youngsters, are untrue. That these are the results of a premeditated program of so-called progressive education is sheer nonsense."

In the report on the recent Pasadena, Calif., school controversy, entitled "The Pasadena Story," issued by the National Commission for the Defense of Democracy Through Education of which Commissioner of Education Virgil M. Rogers, of Battle Creek, Mich., was a member at the time— attention is called to certain general charges made by groups critical of the schools: "They apparently claim that this country has already moved into, or is rapidly moving toward, some form of socialism, collectivism, or statism. They contend that subversive elements have sifted into public education and that many teachers are seeking to change the American way of life. They charge that John Dewey's progressive education is an instrument designed to break down American standards and weaken the fabric of American society. They oppose Federal aid to education on the ground that it is a collectivist measure. They oppose certain educators who they assert are seeking to indoctrinate the youth of the country for a changed social and economic order."

Commenting on this summation of charges, the Commission's report says: "Many explanations could be given for these criticisms. Probably the most general one is the wage of reaction which has swept over this country as the result of the fear of communism. Similarly, the Defense Bulletin issued by Harold Benjamin, chairman of this NEA commission, and previously cited, refers to these allegations in a sarcastic vein. In his description of the so-called enemy and his tactics, Mr. Benjamin says: "He has whipped up pseudo-popular revolts in the Pan-American Union, in the League of Nations, and in school programs on the grounds that they are indoctrinating the children in communism, socialism, or at least menacing democracy, and they are helping to increase taxes. Dean Ernest O. Melby of the New York University School of Education, writing in the pamphlet, American Education Under Fire, 1951, explains that such accusations may arise from a misunderstanding: "Often, when schools deal with controversial issues, they are accused of communism or leftist leanings merely because various viewpoints are presented and arguments are carried on with regard to the various issues (p. 32)."

This same explanation is elaborated by Dean Melby in an article in the October 1951 NEA Journal— pages 441— 442— in which he says that most of the attacks being made on public education are dishonest and unjustified: "Schools must deal with controversial issues. In doing so they are sometimes accused of leftist leanings by persons who fail to realize that teaching about communism is not the same thing as teaching communism. What the schools are trying to do is to equip boys and girls to deal with the present ideological conflict successfully."

Dean J. B. Edmondson of the University of Michigan School of Education was even more emphatic in an article in the September 1951 NEA Journal— pages 381-382. Writing on the threats to public education, Dean Edmondson listed as one of these "threats": "The insidious efforts of some persons to create the false impression that teachers are committed to a progressive philosophy of education that is socialist and communistic in its influence on children and youth."

As a final example, I quote a newspaper report of an address in February, 1952, before the Battle Creek (Mich.) Exchange Club by Supt. Virgil M. Rogers: "Economic education has become a necessity today, where once the American way of life was looked upon as a subject every one knew about," Dr. Rogers said. "Not until this generation have the free-enterprise system and the democratic way of life been seriously challenged by socialism and communism and this creates a difficult situation for teachers," Dr. Rogers said. "He said the teachers 'teach about these other forms of government carefully, always pointing out the dangers to our way of life.'"

In order for boys and girls to know what it is that imperils our way of life it is necessary to teach about communism and socialism," said Dr. Rogers, emphasizing the word "about." "I am capable of understanding the English language as used by the educators in the foregoing statements, those statements are categorical denials of the existence of the movement and trend here being documented. In view of the record which this documentation clearly establishes, this denial is inexplicable. It means to me that educators who speak and write in this vein are less than frank with American people. They are hiding a skeleton in the closet. The effect of these denials can only be to create confusion, misunderstanding and the very attitude of suspicion which they profess to be so anxious to avoid. In the presentation that follows, that advocacy of socialism is one item of belief identified with the movement under discussion. Even more to the point is the fact that the movement calls for the remaking of our society by and through the schools, and that it claims to engage in that enterprise in the classroom under the guise of academic freedom."

MacArthur Has Politicians Of Both GOP Major Camps Upset

WASHINGTON— Gen. Douglas MacArthur's attitude toward his possible nomination for President of the United States has perplexed a number of politicians in both major camps. Several "ifs" enter into this convention prospect. Even the most powerful and appealing convention figures are not always able to transfer their supporters to another candidate. The kind of a "deal" envisaged here may or Eisenhofer men, who might fear that it would precipitate such a disastrous division that it would ruin the GOP in November.

KEY — General MacArthur's friends rely on three influential Republican leaders to reinforce his cause, if last minute, pre-convention developments indicate a Taft — Eisenhower deadlock. They are Herbert Hoover, Gov. John S. Fine of Pennsylvania and Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr. of Massachusetts. It could be an effective trio under certain circumstances. Governor Fine is the key man. He is known to look kindly on differences with Sen. James H. Duff, a leading Eisenhower promoter, and seems to lean toward the pro-Taft Grundy group.

DIVISION — MacArthur's present position is that he will not oppose Senator Taft, but that he is not unwilling to become the beneficiary of the Ohioan's support, if Taft and General Eisenhower fall into an unbreakable clinch. It is understood that the Senator prefers MacArthur to any other possibility, assuming that he cannot make the grade. In practical terms, this means that, if Taft needs 75 or 100 delegates to give him the necessary 604, and if MacArthur

Fair Enough.... McCarthy's Magazine Reply To Red Charges Recommended

By WESTBROOK PEGLER (Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

In the Cosmopolitan Magazine for May, Sen. Joe McCarthy answers the whole pack of lies about his anti-Communist crusade that have been circulated by the Communists in our government and our journalism, and by their allies, the anti-Communists. It is worth noting that the English press also has fallen for the same package of propaganda. This means that some of their reporters in this country are inflicted with the same dishonesty that taints most of the Washington pundits and corrupts most of the commentary on this subject.

In England, as in the United States, this crooked cabal has invested the term "McCarthyism" with a sneering implication that all the individuals whom McCarthy has exposed are persecuted liberals who have suffered much for noble ideals. The fact that McCarthy has made the same use of his congressional immunity that every lying blackguard of the Roosevelt — Truman conspiracy has relied upon in slandering loyal citizens has been construed to prove that his charges are false and would collapse if put to the test of a jury trial. Congressional immunity was written into the Constitution for the very purpose of excusing honest men from the expense, vexation and sacrifice of time from their public duties that would be imposed on them by scoundrel propaganda. It costs practically nothing to file a lawsuit.

The same rogue reporters who have emphasized McCarthy's reliance on congressional immunity have ignored the fact that a large roster of pro-Communists and worse in Senate and House have invoked the same protection to publish false charges against good citizens. Many of these rascals have inserted pro-Communist stuff in the Congressional Record and dumped bundles of franked envelopes in the New York headquarters of evil political societies so that the conspirators could put the burden of their postage on the taxpayers.

McCarthy's piece in Cosmopolitan leads off with the frank proposition that the only way to deal with traitors is to treat them rough. My only criticism of his opening statement is that he concedes that some of the "reds" or the enemy have been innocent doves. They are not, if Eleanor Roosevelt is as wise as her infatuated following say she is, she can't plead stupidity as a defense for her declared faith in the most notorious traitor in American history, Alger Hiss. The scabbling old menace must be either a fool or a conscious associate of Reds. She can't be both and her cult seems to be stuck with the proposition that since she is almost omniscient she is therefore culpable.

One standard smear which the anti-ants have used against every conscientious fighter on the American side would have the people believe that precision and emphasis are bad taste. When I set out to prove that the union racket, which now has its filthy fingers on the nation's throat, was infested with Communists and the lowest type of criminals, I spelled out names and specified facts. Immediately a howl went up that the traitors were gallant fighters for the rights of labor (the saintly Phil Murray, recently adopted by a group of Catholic propagandists, was loud in this outcry) and that the underworld criminals were few and relatively impotent. Since then Murray has claimed great credit for kicking out the very rats whom he formerly defended. The AFL has just ignored a roster of a hundred dominant crooks in its fold.

When I write as I do of the Roosevelt woman I base my remarks on proven information. The evidence has been hard to come by, such as the shocking interference in the attempt of Mrs. Earl Miller to sue her husband for a divorce. Miller, a sergeant of the New York State cops, with a limousine chassis, caught the detail at the Governor's Mansion in Albany. When the war came he got a commission as a lieutenant-commander and Eleanor Roosevelt got George E. Eye, her "literary" agent, to put the heat on Gene Tunney to give Miller a soft job in the Navy's physical training program. Tunney didn't want Miller but he explained that no Naval officer in his right mind could ignore La Boccia's whim. Robert Stripling, the Committee on Un-American Activities, who finally nailed her friend, Hiss, refused a command invitation to lunch at the White House when she wanted a Naval commission

Down around Chesapeake bay the United States Navy is trying out certain planes and weapons which need not be described, but part of its grim maneuvers take in the task of keeping innocent citizens away from the waters on which these events are taking place. Guard boats dot the waves and in the serious young sailors with crimson flags wave back fisherman, tourist and idlers. However, all is not just jawed grimness. Fun enters into the proceedings, too.

A Manhattan fishing party recently was waved away, but being true New Yorkers, kept heading for the proving grounds. This time they got an electric signal flash from the command ship, a semantic series of lights and off the message was specific: "Retire from these waters or be sunk."

The boys and girls picked up a lissome blonde in scarlet satin shawl and waved her back at the command ship, were upon a new series of fluted words came over the water. "What did he say this time?" one of the guests asked the skipper. "Wave shorts without a top," the skipper said. "Another Manhattanite, just back from a trip around the world, brings the weird and exotic story of the Oldest Man in the World, and what happened to him. It comes from British Malaya, which is a little far for me to go to check things, but I'll accept it for you will."

For some years the British colony in Malaya has been aware of the valuable resources in tin and rubber. It would come into a village or town ever now and then with his years resting lightly on him. Invariably he would be munching a small piece of fruit and even though he sometimes remained for several days he never ate anything but the fruit. He kept some of it in a woven straw bag tied to his waist.

Checking with the natives soon brought out the old man was about 173 years old, perhaps 180, that he had children as young as three years old and that he could walk 50 miles without fatigue. In time some of the British in Malaya came for her protegee, Joe Lash. Strippling soon found himself picking up bats as a yard-bird in the Army. When the war ended, his enemies tried to ship him to Japan to keep him off the Communists. They said he would be invaluable there. Strippling said it was strange that a man that valuable hadn't been able to make PFC in a year notwithstanding three years of ROTC at school. The plain fact is that he had been Shanghai'd to keep him from turning up Hiss and a whole lot of Felix Frankfurter's Harvard Red Foks planted all over the government.

Three New York lawyers tried to intimidate John Glavin, the lawyer for Mrs. Miller. Two were law partners of Franklin Roosevelt, Jr. The third was an old family friend of the Roosevelts. Not one of them presented any client, was in any party in the case. Then why did they butt in? Why did the old woman's secretary summon Glavin from Albany down to her apartment in Greenwich Village and threaten him with disbarment proceedings? Oh, but this is no way to speak of a great and glorious lady. Not the hell it isn't. These are facts, not unsubstantiated generalities. I didn't make the facts. She did. She made these and hundreds of other facts which completely refute her clap-trap nobility.

Joe McCarthy is so right he hurts. But he doesn't hurt loyal Americans. High-school and college students, especially, who are getting poisonous doses of lies from bitter mediocrities in the classroom, ought to get copies of Cosmopolitan or find them in the libraries and read the real record. Then they can call the turn on the poor, paltry time-servers who have been depicting their minds with sneers about "McCarthyism."

"They Preached Liberty" IV I continue to quote from sermons preached by American Revolution patriots as quoted in the book "They Preached Liberty" by Franklin P. Cole. I am quoting from the chapter "The Divine Source of Liberty."

Here is a quotation from Ebenezer Bridge, A. M., of Chelmsford, Mass. Election Sermon, 1767: "The form of civil government is not of divine appointment; this is left by God very much to the will and determination of men, and depends upon a people's temper, genius, situation, and advantages or disadvantages of various kinds. But yet that form of government which is adopted and established by the consent and agreement of the body of the people and which is found by experience to be conducive to the common good and interest of society, is that which seems to be agreeable to the divine will."

The following is from an Election Sermon preached by Richard Salter, A. M., of Mansfield, Conn. in 1768: "God never gives men up to be slaves till they lose their national virtue, and abandon themselves to slavery." Daniel Shute, A. M., of Hingham, Mass. said in an Election Sermon in 1768: "Life, liberty, and property are the gifts of the Great Creator."

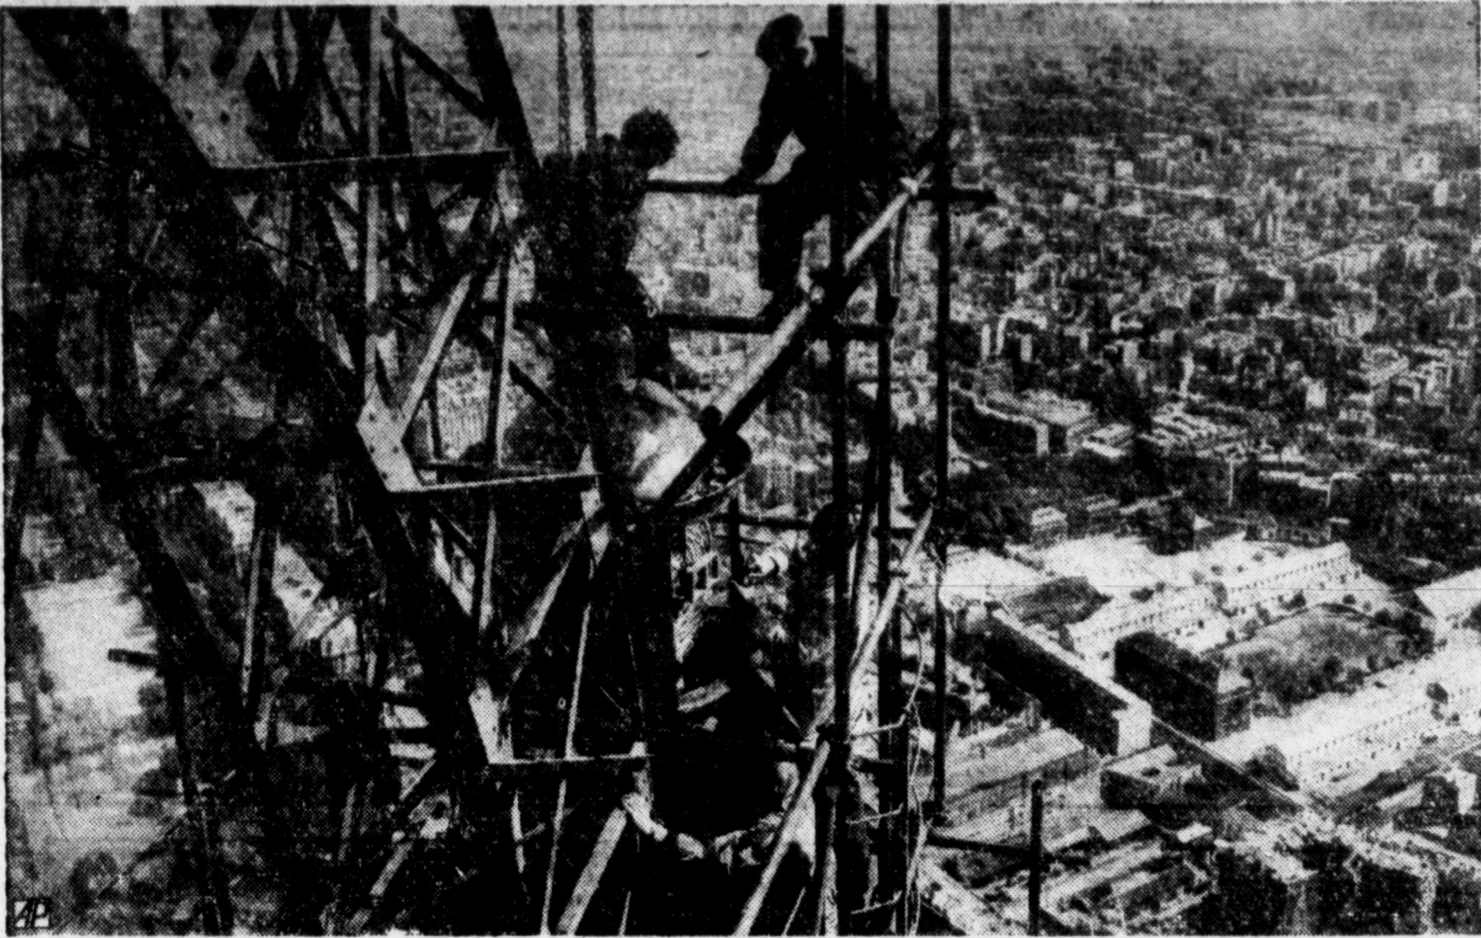

The following is from an Election Sermon by Samuel Cooke, A. M., of Cambridge, Mass. in 1770: "Rulers are appointed for this very end—to be ministers of God for good. The people have a right to expect this from them, and to require it, not as an act of grace, but as their reasonable due. It is the express or implicit condition upon which they were chosen and continued in public office, that they attend continually upon this very thing. Their time, their abilities, their authority—by their acceptance of the public trust—are consecrated to the community, and cannot in justice be withheld. In justice to the people, and in faithfulness to God, they must either sustain it with fidelity, or resign the office." A. M., of Newbury, Mass. in an Election Sermon in 1771 said: "Civil government is not indeed so from God as to be expressly appointed by Him in His Word. Much less is any particular form of it there delineated as a standing model for the nations of the world. Nor are there any particular persons pointed out as having, in a lineal descent, an indefeasible right to rule over others."

"But civil government may be said to be from God, as it is he who qualifies men for, and in his overruling providence, raises them to places of authority and rule. Especially and chiefly, as civil government is founded in the very nature and constitution of things. It is manifestly for the good of society. It is the dictate of nature. It is the voice of reason, which may be said to be the voice of God."

The Sermon by Charles Turner, A. M., of Duxbury, Mass. in 1773: "The Scriptures cannot be rightfully expounded without explaining them in a manner friendly to the causes of freedom and the rights of the oppressed." Samuel West, A. M., of Dartmouth, Mass. in an Election Sermon in 1776 said: "Unlimited submission and obedience is due to none but God alone. He has an absolute right to govern as he pleases, and an uncontrollable sovereignty over us, because he alone is unchangeably good. He never will nor can require of us, consistent with his nature and attributes, anything which is not for the good of the community. All just and good, and all just and good, and all just and good, that he has given to any particular set of men a power to require obedience to that which is unreasonable, cruel, and unjust, is robbing the deity of his justice and goodness."

In an Election Sermon in 1777, Samuel Webster, A. M., of Salsbury, Mass. said: "But, depend upon it, no government is good but that which is for the good of mankind." The following quotation is taken from an Election Sermon by Samuel Cooper, D. D., of Boston, Mass. in 1780: "We do not want, indeed, a special revelation from Heaven to teach us that men are born equal and free; that no man has a natural claim of dominion over his neighbors, nor any one nation any such claim upon another; and as government is the administration of the affairs of a number of men combined for their own security and happiness, such a society have a right freely to determine by whom and in what manner their civil rights shall be administered. These are the plain dictates of which the Common Parent of men has informed the human bosom." (to be continued)

Beauty Experts Find Only Two Film Stars Are Perfect

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Don't worry your pretty head if you don't have a perfect figure, girls. Here are two experts who say that movie stars don't either. Well, maybe there are two exceptions. Elizabeth Taylor and Marilyn Monroe are the exceptional ones.
This verdict comes from Al and Estelle Allardale, a husband-wife team and operators of an exclusive shop patronized by Hollywood fashion seekers. They know the modes and measurements of a good many female stars.
"Every star has some drawback, as far as figure is concerned," reported Allardale. "The only ones who break this rule are Miss Taylor and Miss Monroe. Try as you may, you can find no structural defects in either one."
"But I do not mean that they are completely perfect. No one can be that good. Miss Taylor lacks a maturity which is an important part of beauty. And Miss Monroe must dress very carefully, or she will look cheap."
"All of the other stars have some defect of defects, many of them glaring," Mrs. Allardale added. Together, they enumerated some of them. Their decisions: Greta Garbo has feet that are too long and her posture is poor. Katherine Hepburn does not have enough in the right places. Jane Russell has too much bosom. Rita Hayworth is sway-backed. Betty Grable may have beautiful legs, but she is too short-waisted. Shelly Winters has too much bosom and too much hips. Barbara Stanwyck is too thin all over. Bette Davis is too chunky.
"But all of these stars have assets that make up for whatever they lack physically," Allardale explained. "They have powerful personalities that make the exciting individuals."
"It is a matter of whether beauty is in the object or the eye," Allardale remarked. "When women compensate with other elements, Irene Dunne and Eve Arden make up with chicness what they lack in natural beauty. Dinal Shore does it with warmth and appeal."
Allardale added that beauty is merely a matter of fashion, anyway.
"What seemed gorgeous to our ancestors now appears grotesque to us," he commented. "Venus de Milo is supposed to be the epitome of graceful form. Perhaps she was, in her time. But if you saw the same figure be considered too fat."

Kefauver Favors 18-Year-Old Vote

SANTA ANA, Calif. — (AP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver said Tuesday night he favors extending voting privileges to 18-year-olds.
He told an audience of 500 at a Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner sponsored by the Orange County Democratic Central Committee.
"If our young men and women are old enough at that age to bear arms we should at least give them the privilege of voting for the officials who have the power to make war."
The Tennessee presidential aspirant said Democrats are watching with interest the struggle between Sen. Taft and Gen. Eisenhower for the Republican nomination.
"It would be helpful," Kefauver said, "if the Republicans spent all their money fighting each other before the real campaign begins."
The senator flew here today from Oklahoma City for a series of speaking engagements in California.

Two Kindred Souls Hank Suggests That Harriman And Stassen Take A Long Trip

By HENRY McEMORE
Be he Democrat or Republican, a voter must take a very serious view of W. Averell Harriman, who has thrown his hat into the ring for the Democratic presidential nomination.
I have not seen his hat, but I will bet you it is the best and most expensive hat yet thrown into the ring. Mr. Harriman does not wear a coonskin cap, nor does he go for a store-bought thing like Mr. Russell. Ever since he was born, undoubtedly beavers have worked overtime to give him a good hat. Papa could afford the beavers, meaning Mr. Harriman's papa.
He was born with a silver spoon in his mouth, but the chances are they took that out because it wasn't good enough. Nothing succeeds as magnificently as a multi-millionaire's son. And we all must admire the way they quickly they work to the top.
One month a member of a railroad gang, laying ties, the next vice-president of the railroad riding in a private car over the rails he helped lay. Zoom! Zoom! Can you imagine even the worlds of the most stupid man not zoom-zooming with that much money? No one can ever tell me that Mr. Harriman didn't have a dinner jacket before he had a pair of overalls, or that he didn't go to dancing school before he knew which end of a hammer was which.
For a man like Mr. Harriman suddenly to become democratic, as if humble, willing to shake hands with all and sundry just doesn't make sense. But, that's way

Odd Remarks Can Bring Up Problems

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
"Please settle an argument," requests a New York reader. "In the accompanying hand West won the first trick with the king of spades and continued with a low spade."
"South ruffed the ace of spades and realized that the ace of clubs was surely held by West. South therefore murmured that he would not give a nickel for his chances."
"South then proceeded to make his contract. He immediately cashed the ace and king of diamonds, and West unfortunately kept his queen of diamonds. Declarer next took the ace and king of hearts and ruffed dummy's last spade in his own hand."
"When South now led a third diamond, West was obliged to win. If West then led clubs, South would make his king. If West led anything else, South could ruff while dummy discarded a losing club. In either case South was sure to make his contract."
"East thought that South's remark had caused the defenders to relax. East said that a player who announced that he couldn't make his contract should not be allowed to recover."
"Is East correct in his attitude?"
"East is not at all correct. South didn't say that he was not going to make his contract, he merely stated that he would not give a nickel for his chances—in other words that he didn't expect to make four hearts."
The odds were more than 12 to 1 against him when you consider that he needed a 2-2 trump break, and a 3-3 diamond break with the queen of diamonds in the West hand. I do not wonder sensible person would believe such a statement lessens the strength of his words.
We must all admit that if Mr. Harriman were elected President—and I don't concede him any more chance than three undernourished lambs terrorizing all the tigers in India—all social functions would step up in class. The parties would be larger, the punch would contain more vinegar champagne, and Rolls Royce would fly around the White House like butterflies in June.
It is my opinion that Mr. Harriman and Mr. Stassen should take a round-the-world cruise together. They are two kindred souls without a kindred chance.

that South felt discouraged over his prospects.
Actually, East was the villain in this drama. The bidding and the dummy should have warned him that South had a singleton spade. Hence East should have played the ace of spades at the first trick in order to return a club.
This was East's only chance to lead and if he had used it properly he would have set the contract before any remark had been made.

Glass Workers Just Boosting Business
 CHICAGO — (AP) — Police seized two men at work yesterday replacing a plate glass window which officers said, they had helped to break.

Police Capt. George Barnes said the two men had helped to break other plate glass windows because they said, business was slack and they are working only four days a week.

Two other men were seized by police in connection with hurling bricks through $1,400 worth of windows on south side stores. Barnes said charges of malicious mischief were to be placed against Thomas O'Conner, 29, and Francis Quigley, 27, arrested at work replacing a window, and Russell Ercegovic, 26, Russell, 28, was held without charge. Barnes said O'Connell and Quigley admitted smashing several windows. Police said the company for which the four worked had no connection with the window breaking.
