Eileen Lowe Loses Kidnap Case Appeal

Eileen Lowe, who was convicted in May, 1976 of kidnapping on January 30, 1976, of a week old infant, John Paul Norris of Albuquerque, lost her appeal of a life sentence assessed in the case.

She was refused the appeal by the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals, who upheld the decision of U.S. District Court Judge Howard Bratton, who set the life term characterized as "too severe" by Mrs. Lowe's attorney when he filed the appeal.

In July 1976, Judge Bratton pronounced sentence after Mrs. Lowe had undergone 90 days of psychiatric examination. At her trial, Mrs. Lowe testified she had kidnapped the child because she believed it would help her reconcile her differences with her husband.

Prosecutors told the trial court Mrs. Lowe had told friends and relatives she was pregnant, left

The prosecutors contended the abducted child in order to get support payments from her fourth husband, Bobby Lowe.

The baby was found unharmed in Muleshoe three days after he had been abducted by a woman who entered the Norris home in Albuquerque on the pretext of delivering flowers.

The woman, armed with a pistol, tied up the child's mother and grandmother before fleeing with the baby, according to testimony by Mrs. Norris at the trial.

Kiwanis Gets Fresh Stock Of Popcorn

If your mouth waters for a heaping bowlful of good, hot popcorn, the Muleshoe Kiwanis has received a fresh supply of their special popcorn, and R.A. Bradley said the price is still only $1.25 per box.

The box includes four servings of popcorn, coconut oil for popping and a great taste. Any members of the Muleshoe Kiwanis Club will be more than happy to supply you.

The Friday morning Kiwanis program featured two great speakers, Ted Harrison and Donald Harrison, who told the Kiwanians about the Bailey County 4-H and FFA Livestock Show. Ted Harrison reported that under the leadership of County Agent Spencer Tanksley as to how the livestock are located, purchased and then distributed to the interested young people to feed out and groom the shows.

He reported on the many hours and miles spent to locate the show stock, all the way from South Dakota to South Texas and in between. He also said that about 30 minutes per day is spent per animal in feeding and grooming. He told of the many hours spent by County Agent Tanksley outside regular office hours in helping the youngsters. He estimated that Tanksley would spend about six hours per animal in helping and teaching the youngsters to care for their show animals while they are raising them.

Donald Harrison also praised County Agent Tanksley and said, "A big Thank You needs to go to Spencer Tanksley for his unselfish guidance and helping the youngsters in caring and preparing their livestock for

New Concrete Business Opened Here

Don Barnes and Bill Franklin have opened Muleshoe Concrete, presently located on the Friona Highway.

Barnes said they will offer all ready-mix concrete, mortar mix, wire and builder supplies from their new business.

Hours will be from 8 a.m. until any hour necessary and he said the company will go anywhere necessary Monday through Saturday.

The accident occurred on West American Blvd. around 9:45 p.m. Wednesday when Vogann apparently lost control of his pickup on ice around the 'dip' in the highway near the 1300 Block of Highway 84.

Vogann went into a broadside skid, and his pickup slammed into a truck which was parked off the highway near the 1300 Block of Highway 84.

Passesby notified Deputy Sheriff James Williams where he was having coffee with his church member in the Corral Restaurant and he went immediately to the scene. He called for an ambulance and more officers to control traffic around the accident.

He also asked for the Muleshoe Volunteer Fire Department Rescue Workers to bring the Jaws of Life, as the man was pinned in his vehicle from the left door and the steering column and steering wheel.

Quickly arriving, the Volunteer Fire Department members had the man freed from the vehicle in four minutes and 48 seconds. In the past, people have been trapped in vehicles up to an hour or more until they could be freed. However, with the addition recently of the Jaws of Life to the Fire Department rescue operation, that time has been cut to a scant minutes.

Police officers at the scene were praising the actions of the fire department who used the Jaws of Life for the first time in a "real" rescue operation.

Officers arriving to assist with the traffic and accident site included Police Chief Buddy Black, patrolmen Gary Burkhardt, Wayne Holmes, Assistant Chief J.R. Carpenter, and DPS

The Speaker Reports

by Bill Clayton

AUSTIN—Texas farmers made a first of the year visit to Austin to discuss their plight with state officials and they went home confident that they had the support of Texas office-holders in their fight for a fair chance to earn their livelihood from the land. Governor Briscoe and I at a Senate hearing released a joint announcement of our intent to stick up for the folks on the farm.

That message which will be sent to Washington says: "A crisis situation has developed in American agriculture and we call on the national administration and the Congress to provide without delay immediate attention to this very severe problem."

"Our agriculture producers in Texas and throughout the nation are caught in a vicious cost-price squeeze that requires immediate at-ention. Our people cannot wait any longer for action. "Existing federally-implemented agricultural legislation is not providing for the needs of all segments of the American agricultural industry.

"We believe the farmer has a right to an equitable profit for his labor and investment.

"We therefore lend our support in securing 100 percent of parity in the market place for American agricultural products.

"American farmers should be praised and allowed a fair profit on the food and fiber they produce instead of being penalized for being efficient.

"Nations look first to food and fiber for their people. They are necessities which can buy peace or without which can cause wars. Non-producing nations wither and die.

"A possible long-term solution could involve expansion of foreign markets, thereby increasing demand, providing realistic prices and retaining America's place as a world leader."

"I don't think any of us have that much time," he commented. "Bergland (Bob) said he is for 100 percent parity, but wants to take two or three years to work it out. We don't have two or three years left. Many of the farmers are being forced out of farming right now."

He also advocated keeping the Congressmen replaced with people who know and recognize the problems faced by agriculture and are willing to work with agriculture.

Following the meeting, a question and answer session was held, with the two young farmers answering several questions. They told the group that the Washington lobbying for assistance in higher commodity prices will continue.

"We don't want sympathy, we don't want subsidy, we just want higher prices for our products," they echoed.

Trooper Louis Cardinal. Vogann was taken by Singleton-Ellis ambulance to West Plains Medical Center where he received emergency treatment by Dr. Gary Albertson, before being transferred to the intensive care unit of Methodist Hospital.

Family members said Vogann had been employed by a Lubbock-based Linen Service for the past 10 days, and formerly lived in California. His injuries were reported to be massive head injuries, a broken left arm and a broken left leg.

Assistant Chief Carpenter called for the Texas Highway Department to salt down the dip, which has been the area of the dip, which has been the scene of accidents in the past following cold weather. A long stretch of the highway had been covered with an ice glaze after snow had melted, leaving water in the dip which spread and froze into an icy glaze as night approached.

Officers said that each winter, at least one major accident, and often more, happen at the same place when travelers, especially, are unaware of the icy dip and run from a completely dry pavement into the ice glaze, losing control of their vehicle.

They also pointed out that speed does not have to be great when a vehicle goes into a skid on ice, as the vehicle invariably gains momentum as it skids, and the direction of travel on an ice skid cannot be controlled.

The officers are checking into a possible solution to the problem created in the city by the dip.

Two other accidents Tuesday and Wednesday were attributed to the icy conditions, and both were on FM1760. On Tuesday afternoon, no injuries were recorded in an accident on FM1760 and the intersection leading to King Feed Lot between vehicles driven by Franklin B. Buckner and Issabel Ortiz.

Wednesday morning around 10:15 a.m. another accident checked two miles west on 19760 involving Aubrey Quarles and Boyd Rex Black. Both accidents were caused by ice and snow said DPS Troopers Louis Cardinal and Larry King.

It takes a good speller to dispute the dictionary.

Farms Income Action Due

AUSTIN--Administration officials have current discretionary authority and Congress has before it several realistic bills with which to solve the farm crisis, according to Tony T. Dechant national president of the Farmers Union.

"The situation, however, depends on how well we wage the fight for parity," Dechant told the Texas Farmers Union at its annual convention here. "The Farmers Union has a workable answer," Dechant continued, "but critical reform hinges on our ability to defend parity, as the Farmers Union will continue to do."

"Farmers Union practically invented the concept of parity. We've advocated it during the whole of our history, and we recommended it last March when action started on the 1977 farm bill," Dechant said, "and we're not backing away from it now."

"Frankly, I don't expect the people who are against parity to come up with a better yearstick. Many of them think the support levels in the 1977 farm act are already too high." He said that if farmers receive a return of 9 percent on their investments, the rate guaranteed most electric utilities, farm income in 1977 would have been $60 billion instead of $20 billion. "By almost any standard, it is clear that it is time for action. Several bills have been introduced in both houses of Congress which would raise price supports on farm commodities to a level which would assure farmers of receiving at least their cost of production if they get a crop. I want to stress that it is not a problem of trying to get the farmers' friends in Congress to agree on a specific proposal."

"The problem," according to Dechant, "is an administration firmly wedded to a cheap food policy and the mistaken belief that the only way our farm products can be competitive in world markets is by what amounts to a giveaway."

Dechant pointed out that the Secretary of Agriculture has the authority under existing law to lift price supports from current levels of around 50 percent of parity to 90 percent of parity.

Energy-Efficient Home Appliance

COLLEGE STATION -- To produce more energy-efficient appliances -- that's industry's top priority, according to Dr. Carolyn McKinney, family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Industry constantly is being challenged to produce appliances with performance, dependability and features to meet consumers' changing needs, Dr. McKinney says. The Energy Policy and Conservation Act of 1975 requires that by 1980, appliances efficiency be improved by 20 percent. The Commerce Department proposes that manufacturers sharply reduce energy consumption on some appliances.

For example, they ask a cut-back of energy consumption on freezers by 25 percent; on refrigerators by 3 percent; on room air conditioners by 22 percent; on gas water heaters by 25 percent; on black and white televisions by 48 percent and on color television by 42 percent.

Sprinkler Herbicide Application Studied

Bushland, Texas - Applying herbicides through a sprinkler irrigation system is a new technology that works for certain herbicides in corn. Dr. Allen Wiese, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station researcher, pointed that out at the Southern Weed Science Society in New Orleans on January 18. Eradicane, Sutan, and Lasso are labeled for this purpose. Mixtures of Sutan and Atrazine along with Lasso and Atrazine are also labeled. The Texas A&M University scientist also told Society members about 1977 research he conducted with Bill Turner a CIBA-Geigy researcher from Lubbock, Texas. Getting more herbicides labeled for application through center pivots was the object of the study.

The two scientists applied twelve preemergent treatments to corn through a center pivot irrigation system on the Charles Hough farm south of Friona, Texas. An untreated plot was included for comparison and each plot was about 10 acres. Herbicides and pounds per acre active ingredient applied with 0.8 inches of water were Dual plus AATrex, 2 plus 1.6 and 2.5 plus 2.5; a prepackage mixture of the two herbicides at the same two rates; AATrex, 3; Dual, 3; Lasso, 3; Lasso plus AATrex, 2.25 plus 1.2; Eradicane, 6; Sutan, 6; and Sutan plus AATrex, 6 plus 1.5. In addition, Eradicane and Dual were applied in 1.3 inches of sprinkler irrigation. The 0.8 inch of water wet the soil 2 to 3 inches and largely evaporated. The 1.3 inch water application wet the soil deeper and met residual moisture.

The quarter section field had been no-till planted to corn in 1976 and treated with AATrex. Stalks had been shredded and the field was tandem disked prior to planting corn on April 27, 1977. There were several tons of crop residue on the soil surface when herbicides were applied from May 3 to May 6. The fine textured soil was one-third sand, silt and clay with 1.5 percent organic matter. Volunteer corn and a few weeds were cultivated about May 15.

About two weeks after application, the scientist took soil samples at 0 to 2 and 2 to 4 inches deep and planted them to millet and wheat to measure how deep herbicides leached. AATrex, Eradicane and Dual applied with 0.8 inch of water along with Dual and Eradicane applied in 1.3 inches of water were sampled.

AATrex injured wheat at both depths, but the little effect on millet. Dual did not leach below 2 inches when applied in 0.8 inches of water, but leached below 2 inches when 1.3 inches of sprinkler irrigation was used. Eradicane did not kill millet or wheat when applied in 0.8 inch, but injured both when applied at 1.3 inches of water. "More of the Eradicane must have persisted when applied in the high rate of water", the scientist said.

The researchers checked weed control on June 30 when corn was 5 feet tall. Neither untreated nor treated areas had many weeds and by harvest the entire field was weed free. Herbicides did not injure corn and all plots produced about 10,000 pounds per acre of grain.

Wiese concluded his presentation by stating that the information gained from the experiment will help obtain labels for AATrex and Dual. He also pointed out that occasional poor weed control with Eradicane, when applied with sprinkler irrigation to fine textured soil, may be the result of insufficient water application.

WORKING FOR WILDLIFE
LUBBOCK--Landowners are placing their orders for trees and shrubs now and the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department suggests that these plant orders include species beneficial for wildlife as well as ornamental qualities.

Assistance in selecting the right shrub or tree for wildlife on your property is available through the wildlife extension biologist. Many species of plants suitable for wildlife are not available at local nurseries or the P&WD, but there are several including the mulberry, osage orange, and Russian olive that can be ordered by contacting your local biologist or Soil Conservation Service.

"If landowners will call or write my office, I can place orders for the four plants listed above for $10 per 100 through the Texas Forest Department," said Richard DeArment, extension biologist at Wheeler.

"These plants should be planted during their dormant period which extends into March and they should be watered regularly for two years," DeArment continued.

These four plants offer an excellent winter food supply for song birds and game birds. Additional plantings of vine varieties along with the shrubs will provide additional top cover for birds.

The native plum is an excellent species particularly on sandy ground. This plum will provide plenty of cover and fruit for winter and an escape for birds during snow and ice storms.

Leaving a strip of grain stocks next fall would be a help for wintering wildlife and discing a strip of grass allowing weeds to grow would give additional food for wildlife. Normally, strips of grain stocks and weed patches would best be left near green wheat which all wildlife likes to eat. If you plan to plant grain for wildlife food, utilize the late maturing seed to fully aid wintering wildlife during the crucial months of January, February and March.

A mixture of grains might furnish the best food plot including such favorites as corn, maize, millet and wheat. Every farm has tracts of land not used for any major purpose such as the edges of playa lakes, drainage ditches, fence rows, and tree rows. These areas could be turned into a wildlife oasis this spring.

Wildlife survival depends upon you and your preparation now for plantings of trees, shrubs, and food this spring. A complete analysis of your property for wildlife habitat improvement is available by contacting Richard DeArment, Extension Biologist, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, Box 122, Wheeler, TX 79096 or call 806/826-3233. TEXAS GETS MOST

F&W MONEY
LUBBOCK--Texas is eligible to receive more federal money for sport fish and wildlife restoration and hunter safety programs during the fiscal year 1978 than any other state.

Alaska, California, Pennsylvania and Michigan join Texas as the largest recipient states, dividing up the total $37 million fund distributed through the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Texas' share of the wildlife restoration fund is the largest, at $1,317,000. The fish restoration total is $490,000, which is matched only by Alaska.

Funds for fish restoration programs come from a 10 percent excise tax on fishing tackle and artificial lures. Wildlife restoration and hunter safety funds come from excise taxes on sporting arms and ammunition and certain archery equipment.

These funds will be matched by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department to help finance most wildlife and fishery projects across the state.

According to P&WD biologists on the High Plains, these funds will help complete the walleye egg project at Lake Meredith this spring, assist in the lake surveys including fish sampling and creel census, finance game surveys on various species such as antelope, aoudad and deer, and help stock pheasant in northwest Texas.

MORE DAYS--LESS SHEEP
CANYON--The 1977 aoudad season figures have been completed by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department in the Panhandle and even though the hunters had twice as many days to hunt, four fewer sheep were bagged than in 1976.

"We issued 432 aoudad permits to hunters in 1977 as compared to 327 permits in 1976 and hunters bagged less sheep over a longer season," said David Dvorak, wildlife project biologist in Canyon.

"All the animals were in good shape according to the successful hunters, but the weather was nice and extremely dry," Dvorak continued.

Reasons for the reduced kill have not been determined even though most hunters saw plenty of the elusive sheep. A total of 133 aoudad were bagged as hunters from several states and across Texas tried their luck in the Panhandle.

NON RESIDENT FISHING

The license requirements for anglers have changed several times since the early 1970's with nonresident fisherman required to buy a 1977-78 Texas fishing license regardless of age.

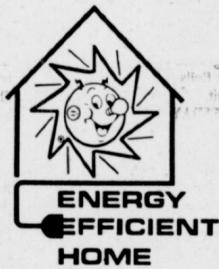

As a result of S.B. 222, 65th Texas Legislature, R.S., non-resident anglers are required to have a nonresident fishing license to fish in any public waters of the state. A temporary nonresident fishing license ($4.50) may be purchased to fish for five consecutive days in lieu of the regular nonresident fishing license ($10.00). Both Texas nonresident and resident fishing licenses expire Aug. 31.

Texas residents 65 years of age or older and 16 years of age or younger still are not required to have a fishing license. To be considered a Texas resident, you must live in the state for six consecutive months prior to purchasing a resident license.

Mules Win Three Morton Wins One

The Muleshoe Mules and Mullettes reeled up three wins to only one loss. The first win came when the JV girls rolled over the Morton team by a score of 40-17. The boys also did a good job by beating their opposition 62-57. Taking the scoring honors in this game was Jeep Shanks with 14.

The varsity girls, played their first game in district action, handily disposed of a competitive Morton team. Behind the talented shooting hand of Evelyn Grace, who had 29 points, and Elizabeth Isaac, who had 24 points, the Mullettes quickly humiliated the Morton team 83-40. The Mullettes struck first and never gave their opponents even a slight chance of taking the lead.

The varsity boys didn't fare so well in their district game. They only had the lead once in the four quarters and that came in the second. The Mules trailed by only five at half-time, but they missed some crucial shots in the third and fell behind by 16. The Mules surged one last time in the third and opening of the fourth but couldn't reach the poised Indian's. The final score read Morton, 80, Muleshoe 61. Dub Gilliam of Morton led all scorers with 23 while Marcus Beversdorf and Charles Briscoe split 24 for the Mules.

Freshman Mules Win By One

On January 23, the Freshman Mules played the Littlefield Wildcats here. The Mules won this game by a score of 45-44. High pointer in this game was Carroll Precure with 16 points. Other scorers were Charles Walker, 13 points; Felix Norman, 9 points; Wesley Rasco, 4 points; and Mickey Long, 3 points. Wesley Rasco led the team in rebounds with 10. Congratulations to the Freshman Mules and their coach, Randy Crook, for another fine win.

Bone Dogs

Despite an outcry from the public, when the idea was first publicized, the Department of Agriculture is ready to approve the request of meat producers to include in traditional American franks twenty per cent of TFGB.

What is TFGB? It was formerly known as mechanically deboned meat. It is the pulp product made from ground bones, until now banned for human consumption. The USDA now proposes to continue the ban for baby food but to allow meat producers to put up to 20 per cent of it in sausage, bologna, pressed ham, liverwurst, hash, stew, brockwurst, pizza and hot dogs.

A spokesman for the USDA admits the public is overwhelmingly opposed to the idea. But the official added the USDA bureaucracy would approve it anyway. It doesn't meet school lunch standards, it's admitted, and will not be used in schools, in addition to being banned from baby foods.

While it has been used in some products by a few producers in the past, a recent court order halted its use. Producers can considerably increase utilization of slaughtered animals by producing and selling this meat-like product (from bone and muscle tissue). It represents hundreds of millions of dollars in potential for the wholesale industry.

Yet, if the public doesn't want it put in meat products, the public will should prevail, and the federal bureaucracy shouldn't lightly overrule the majority.

HERO is helping with the American Heart Association drive. Posters have been distributed throughout the city publicizing the drive.

A meeting for the heart drive will be held Friday, February 10, at 7:00 p.m. at Muleshoe State Bank Community Room. A film will be shown, refreshments served, and donation packets will be handed out at this time by the representatives of the Heart Association.

'78 Seniors Select Their Announcements

The Senior class met Wednesday, January 25, to decide on their graduation announcements. Roger Pamperin of Josten's American Yearbook Company compiled three designs for the class to choose from. The class voted and decided on one of the three selections.

The 1978 announcements will be on ivory paper and will have a color etching all in black ink. On the front will be an insignia depicting the history of Muleshoe. This will be engraved in silver and black ink. Prices for the announcements are 25 cents each, and orders will be taken February 6.

ON POSTAL SERVICE
Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar says he opposes a $2 billion-a-year mail subsidy Congress is expected to consider early next year because it would place an unfair burden on individual taxpayers. He noted that 80 per cent of the mail is sent by businesses.

Saturday and Sunday afternoon, February 11 and 12, the HERO members will be going door-to-door passing out packets and collecting donations. Packets will be left in the doors if the resident is not home, and donations may be mailed in. Everyone is urged to support the Heart Drive.

"You have a 50-50 chance of having a stroke or a heart attack. Over half of the persons who die in America this year will die of heart attack, strokes or some other form of cardiovascular disease. This will claim more lives than all other causes of death combined."

The American Heart Association might help you to enjoy a longer, happier, and healthier life; and the HERO chapter would like to encourage you to contribute to this worthy cause. Please help us to make this drive a success.

REJECTS UFO PROBE
The U.S. space agency has rejected a White House request to reopen a government probe into unidentified flying objects, saying it would be "wasteful and probably unproductive."

The Mules lost an exciting game to Morton, 80 to 61. The score was no indication of the closeness of the game. I was extremely pleased with the character and poise demonstrated by our players in the second half. In the third quarter when we played bad for three or four minutes, our players had an opportunity at that point to "give up the ship." However, they battled back and with only three minutes left in the game, they were only six points behind. This is super when you do this against a team that is ranked first in the state!

We are extremely pleased with the leadership and play of our seniors. I would like to recognize the other members of our team who play important roles on our team. Charles Briscoe, a junior, is a starting center. Charles is the best jumber on the team and does a good job rebounding and scoring. Terry Shafer, a junior, is probably the best substitute center in the country. Terry doesn't play a lot, but is able to play well when necessary. Dickey Sudduth, a junior, has given us excellent depth. Dickey has improved the past couple of weeks, and should be a super player next year. Mike Northcutt, a sophomore, has played well for us. With the experience he is getting, we are expecting a great deal from him in the future.

We are also extremely pleased with the play of our seniors. Dean Northcutt has been a starting center for three years. Although only 6 feet tall, he has outplayed and outscored many taller opposing postman. Dean is probably the best defensive player on the team. Marcus Beversdorf, at six feet three inches, his the tallest player on the team. He has given us that extra strength and bulk on the boards that is vital to our team. Marcus is an excellent shooter and has come up with a lot of big plays.

Billy Vinson is the best shooter in the district 18 to 22 feet. Billy gives us that outside threat that enables other players to get that inside shot when the defense goes out to stop him. Billy is the leading scorer on the team.

Mark Washington has probably been the most consistent player on the team. He seldom has a "bad" game. Mark gives us that extra help on the boards, always gets that 6 to 10 points, and is a good ball-handler.

Danny Wilson is the leader in the assist department on the team. He has the ability to get the ball to the open man for the easy bucket. Danny does an excellent job of setting the offense and "quarterbacking" the team.

Mack Norman has been a part-time starter for our team. Mack has that uncanny ability to come off the bench and give the team that extra lift. He can come in and give us those quick points and make something happen on defense.

Doug Precure is what you term a "streak" player. He's one of those players who can come in the game, have a super shooting night, and really makes things frustrating for the opposing team. Doug is an excellent outside shooter.

When a team can take all of these individual talents and combine them with team play, a lot of character and a lot of hustle, we can have a good year. Next week we start the second half of district play.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Lyndell Williams

AUSTIN — Campaign spending by statewide candidates appears to be moving toward a new record.

The first half dozen reports filed with the secretary of state by statehouse candidates showed contributions of more than $1.5 million and spending of $1.3 million before the election year ever began.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe topped the list in 1977 fund-raising and spending. Seeking a third term, Briscoe said he had received contributions of more than $800,000 and had spent about the same amount.

His spending more than doubled that of Attorney General John L. Hill, who seeks the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Hill reported contributions of $536,032 during 1977 and pre-campaign outlays of $335,400.

Candidates in the U.S. Senate race were not included in the early filings. They report to federal authorities.

Attorney General Candidate Price Daniel Jr. far outdistanced Mark White Jr., the other Democratic contender, in contributions and expenditures.

Briscoe applied $208,409 of his 1977 take toward retiring his personal campaign deficit which once was above $1 million. He put a lot of his own money into his gubernatorial races of 1968, 1972 and 1974.

Sun Setting?

The sun may be setting on the state agencies which deal with the pesky pink bollworm, burial association rates, vehicle safety, pesticides and a Stonewall Jackson memorial.

But the Texas Navy is still afloat.

The new Sunset Commission, which is reviewing agencies to see if they should be continued or allowed to expire, examined staff reports last week on the six mentioned above.

Of the group, Texas Navy Inc., a kind of non-profit corporation promoting the Texas Navy and handing out honorary admiral's commissions, was the only one recommended for continuation.

The others, the commission staff found, have outlived their usefulness or, as is the case with the Stonewall Jackson Memorial Board, never really came into being.

Staff findings will be subject to a public hearing February 20-21. Under the Sunset Act of 1977, unneeded state agencies are to be terminated or consolidated following review and a chance to justify their activities.

Tests Approved

A new program to test 100,000 Texas students on reading, writing, arithmetic and citizenship has been approved by the State Board of Education.

Achievement tests will be given in April to pupils selected from elementary, junior high and high schools in every region.

About $708,000 is budgeted for the tests.

Results will be tabulated by regions and statewide. The program is expected to judge levels of achievement for comparison with national averages and for use in efforts to improve learning in the public school system.

Courts Speak

The State Supreme Court in a San Antonio case held banks do not have to accept unsolicited deposits for a checking account.

The 14th Court of Civil Appeals at Houston reversed a lower court temporary injunction halting Nazi party telephone recordings offering rewards to whites who kill non-whites who are attacking them.

In a split decision, throwing out a rape indictment in Orange County, the Court of Criminal Appeals held statutes of limitation continue to run though charges are filed in courts which cannot try them.

The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed a Dallas County probation revocation because the state was not required to identify an informant in a heroin sale case.

The State Supreme Court directed a new trial of a long-running dispute between a Waco water supply corporation and a contractor who allegedly put down a faulty pipe.

An order granting a charter for City Savings Association in League City was upheld by the Supreme Court.

and services from non-profit agencies for the blind at the fair market price set by the Texas Committee on Purchases of Blind-Made Products and Services, Attorney General John Hill has held.

Windfall Seen

New Social Security Act amendments may bring a $5.8 million windfall to the Texas treasury, according to the National Conference of State Legislatures.

The changes call for fiscal aid to state and local governments who handle aid to families with dependent children.

But no local governments administer welfare in Texas, so all aid from the amendments will be channeled to the State Department of Human Resources. The windfall will go toward meeting a deficit which has been projected.

Short Snorts

Nominations for purchase of Texas crude oil next month are 3,022,125 barrels a day, with additional demand for 571,515 barrels. The total is a decrease of 58,225 from January.

Bob Price of Pampa was installed as a state senator from the 31st district after being declared the winner by 232 votes (in a delayed special election recount) over Bob Simpson of Amarillo.

Lloyd W. Perkins of Sherman was named judge of the County Court at Law Number 2 of Grayson County.

April 5 has been set as the hearing date on a Gulf States Utilities request for a 13.52 per cent rate increase in an 18-county area. Texas Municipal League, Port Arthur, Beaumont, Port Neches, Groves and Dupont Corporation intervened with the Public Utility Commission in opposition to the increase.

C. R. "Charlie" Sanderson paid his filing fee for state treasurer at State Democratic headquarters.

John Thomas Bean of Fort Worth and Jack B. Dale of Houston have been named to new terms on the Texas Rehabilitation Commission.

Full Calendar For the Second Session

WASHINGTON—The calendar for the second session of the 95th Congress, which was full even before the gavel pounded the opening of proceedings on January 19, is significant not only in the number of issues left over from the last session, but in the uncertainty still surrounding many issues to be considered.

The first session concluded action on many items of vital importance to Texans and to the country, but left others unresolved. These will frame the agenda in this second session, and will bear watching by every concerned Texan because some will have consequences on our quality of life and on our world affairs for generations to come.

Some of the most important issues and the outlook include:

Energy Policy: Early consideration will be given to the energy legislation submitted to the Congress last April, but which deadlocked in the House-Senate conference committee and remains unresolved. The Administration's controversial energy package, with emphasis on conservation, continued regulation of the energy market by government, and unprecedented taxation, drew widespread criticism last session and will likely stir heated debate again.

Its most objectionable feature, in the view of many of us, is a near total reliance on conservation to restore the country to energy self-sufficiency. No serious energy plan can ignore the need to conserve precious fuels. But the Administration's plan is critically deficient as a blueprint to help this country find the energy it will need in future years. If we are to maintain a healthy economy, with good opportunities for jobs creation, national energy policy must balance conservation with the need to explore and to produce the energy needed in years to come. Until the Congress can resolve the differences over this controversy, the outcome will remain uncertain.

Panama Canal Treaties: Senate ratification of the Panama Canal treaties, which requires a two-thirds majority of Senators voting, likely will be considered early, but its prospects in my view are bleak. Aware of the disenchantment expressed by many of us over treaty language and implications, the Administration has mounted a vigorous campaign to seek approval by undecided Senators and the public. Apparent compromises and changes in language have been widely publicized. The debate will be lengthy and heated. I remain opposed to ratification.

Strategic Arms Limitation Talks: Potentially the most far-reaching issue the Senate could consider this Congress is SALT II. Its outcome is vitally important to our national security and for this reason, many of us in the Senate leadership will be devoting serious attention to the proceedings in Geneva. Future reports will assess the talks in more detail.

Labor Reform: Passed by the House in the first session, and due for early consideration by the Senate this session, the omnibus Labor Reform Act strikes at the very heart of Texas' vigorous business climate by arming labor unions with the potential to disrupt through unionization a healthy state economy. Debate on this issue also will be heated and lengthy.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhill Philosopher on his Johnson Grass farm on Sandy Creek strikes a blow for food this week.

Dear editor:

As you know, research scientists who don't seem to have anything else to do are spending millions of dollars finding out that nearly everything we eat is bad for us.

The list is too long for me to remember, but over recent years scientists have announced at one time or another that some of the things that're bad for us are sugar, salt, eggs, bacon, milk, white, bread, hot biscuits, thick steaks, mashed potatoes, chewing gum, tap water, city air, hair coloring, cough drops and toe nail polish. I could go on but that's far enough. Oh, I did leave out hot dogs and potato chips.

In view of all these findings, I'm proposing a new study needing only a few thousand dollars but requiring some pretty sharp scientists who are unafraid of the unknown and have the courage to throw back their ears and announce their findings regardless of where they lead.

The purpose of this study will be to discover and prove beyond argument that existence of taste buds in the human animal. Probably use teen-agers as guinea pigs.

It is a well known fact that taste buds exist in other species. For example, cows, all of whom are illiterate and graze uneducated by any studies on the nutritional superiority of one grass over another, will, if turned loose in a good pasture, pick the right plants to keep them fat and healthy, strictly by the dictates of their taste buds. Oh, occasionally one will sample some bitter weed or loco weed, but there are odd-balls in every species and there's mis-fits species and there's no point in putting the whole herd on a diet just because a few mis-fits have unreliable taste buds.

If we can just get his scientific study to prove that nature has given not only cows, donkeys, birds, elephants, giraffes and even kangaroos taste buds, but has endowed man also with a set located somewhere on the tongue and palate, I'm not sure where and don't care, then we all go back to eating happily whenever we get hungry. Personally I like potato chips but never cared for catsup on my eggs.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

TRAPPING SEASON WINDS DOWN

LUBBOCK - The Texas trapping season will continue through January 31 and Panhandle and South Plains trappers have had plenty of cold weather, but only an average year collecting pelts.

The prices for raccoon have topped out at $16 in the Panhandle. Coyote carcasses are bringing from $20 to $22 in most areas with more finished pelts being handled according to one dealer.

"We have bought over 1500 coyotes this winter and most of the trappers are reporting just as many coyotes as last year although the animals are harder to spot or find due to the trapping and hunting pressure," the fur buyer continued.

The biggest decline in number of pelts and prices is the bobcat which is bringing an average of $50-$55 in January. The export ban by the Endangered Species Scientific Authority (ESSA) on Texas bob cat pelts has caused less interest in bobcat hunting and trapping by comparing the $55 per-pelt-price this winter with a $100 price tag last winter. Licensed trappers are reminded that they must dispose of their season inventory of fur-bearing pelts by Feb. 5 since it is unlawful to possess green or undried pelts after that date.

Bula News
By Mrs. J. Blackman

winer nature covered the entire community with a beautiful snow Tuesday night. About two inches fell over the area. Delegates from Bula attending the American Agriculture Movement in Washington, D.C. last week returned home Saturday morning. They came home feeling as though something for the American farmer's assistance would soon be taken care of in Washington. They were able to meet with several of our state representatives and senators. At least they felt like they had made some impact concerning the plight of the west Texas farmer. "United we stand, divided we fall".

The winter flu bug has been making its rounds in the community, several have been confined to the hospital or in a bed at home with it.

Tamara Dawn, was the name given to the little girl that was born Saturday, January 21, at the Littlefield Hospital to Mrs. Sheila Dewbre. She arrived weighing eight pounds. She has a four year old brother Michael who is very proud of his little playmate. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. L.H. Medlin of Bula.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Walden drove out from Littlefield Sunday afternoon and spent the evening with his mother, Mrs. Pearl Walden.

Mrs. John Hubbard is still a patient in the Medical Arts Hospital. She had a bout with the flu and also other complications.

Oliver Simmons of Lubbock, came out to be with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F.I. Simmons last week and the flu bug got him and he has been confined to the house and bed for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bogard spent several days this week visiting their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Luke Bogard at Charley, Tex.

Mr. and Mrs. W.R. Adams accompanied by their son Bobbie, attended to business in Littlefield. They then drove on to Lubbock to visit with her sister-in-law. Mrs. Genita Harris and also her niece, Sue Jaynes. They have recently returned from several weeks stay at M.D. Anderson Hospital.

Methane Plants To Be Toured On February 15

Methane production from livestock manure will be the subject of the Great Plains Extension seminar and tour to be held on Feb. 15 at the Seward County Community College Auditorium here.

The morning session of the seminar will include an assessment of current methane technology and the economic potential of methane in commercial livestock feeding, points out Dr. John Sweeten, agricultural engineering specialist in livestock waste management with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

In the afternoon, a tour will be conducted of the large-scale manure-to-methane plant just completed by Thermonetics, Inc., between Liberal, Kan. and Guymon, Okla. At full capacity, this plant is expected to produce 2 million cubic feet of methane daily from 500 tons of cattle feedlot manure. Methane will be fed into an interstate natural gas pipeline with supplies Chicago.

"This Extension educational activity is designed for livestock feeders, farmers and agribusnessmen to acquaint them with the facts about methane generation," notes Sweeten.

"Methane generation appears to offer potential for making some livestock feeding operations energy self-sufficient and perhaps in some cases for producing marketable quantities of methane gas. But there are plenty of remaining drawbacks for the individual producer," warns the Texas A&M University System specialist.

The methane seminar and tour will answer questions about feasibility, necessary system components and operating scale, manure quality considerations, and potential recovery of other byproducts such as fertilizer, feedstuffs and carbon dioxide derived from the anaerobic digestion process needed to produce methane.

Among the speakers will be Dr. Andy Hashimoto, agricultural engineering research leader at the USDA Meat Animal Research Center at Clay Center, Neb., who will summarize research results from methane production systems using cattle manure. James R.

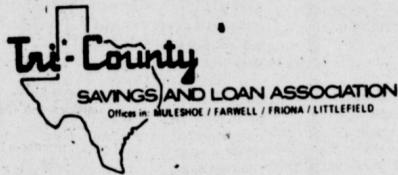

Fischer, Agricultural Research Service-USDA, Columbia, Mo., will give results of successful research with methane production systems using swine manure. Dr. William Huffman, professor of chemical engineering at Texas Tech University, will compare energy production potential of methane technology with alternate processes, including his research team's highly efficient system for converting manure into synthesis gas for anhydrous ammonia production. Two long-scale systems for methane production being built in the Southern Great Plains will be described by John Burford of Bio-Gas of Colorado, Inc. and G.W. Merkert, Jr. of Thermonetics, Inc. The tour and seminar are sponsored by the Livestock Environmental Sciences Committee.

Texas Taxes

By BOB BULLOCK
State Comptroller

AUSTIN — "How do I go about getting a Tax Exempt Number?"

Of the thousands of taxpayer questions fielded weekly by the State Comptroller's Office, that is one of the most frequently asked.

The State Sales and Use Tax Law does, of course, provide exemptions for religious, educational, charitable and other groups whose tax-exempt status is authorized by law.

Exemptions also are authorized on otherwise taxable items that are used in prescribed ways, such as tractors and implements used by a farmer or rancher exclusively for the production of food.

A number is not issued to groups or individuals who are qualified to make such tax-exempt purchases, however. Instead, the buyer simply signs an Exemption Certificate.

This Certificate certifies to the retailer that the person making the purchase is doing so in behalf of an organization that is indeed tax-exempt.

In the case of a farmer or rancher, the purchaser is certifying that he will be using the items purchased only for the tax-exempt purposes allowed.

(The retailer should have blank Exemption Certificates on hand, but to be on the safe side, you might pick up one at the State Comptroller's Field Office nearest you).

You are not required to sign a separate Exemption

Certificate for each tax-exempt purchase, but every retailer you do business with is required to have at least one such certificate for you on file.

For example, if you make a lot of tax-exempt purchases at Joe's Hardware Store, you need to sign an Exemption Certificate only once at that location. Joe then will keep the Certificate on file for record-keeping purposes.

If the retailer making the sale has any doubt about the tax-exempt status of your organization, he may ask for proof.

A letter from the Comptroller's Office certifying that the organization is tax-exempt will furnish the proof needed or the nearest Comptroller's Field Office may be contacted to confirm exempt status.

IF YOU HAVE ANY STATE TAX PROBLEMS OR QUESTIONS, CONTACT YOUR LOCAL COMPTROLLER'S FIELD OFFICE OR CALL TOLL FREE 1-800-252-5555.

General Telephone Asks More Reasonable Price

News media representatives from across Texas were urged today (Jan. 20) to join the telephone industry in seeking legislative action to assure continuation of reasonably priced telephone services throughout the United States.

The request was made by the members of the Texas Press Association at the Royal Coach Motor Hotel in Dallas by F.E. (Red) Hightower of San Angelo, vice president - government affairs for General Telephone Company of the Southwest.

The proposal, supported by some 1600 independent telephone companies, the Bell System and by resolutions from more than 100 local, state and national organizations, is called the Consumer Communications Reform Act (CCRA).

Basically, the CCRA seeks to have Congress reaffirm the Communications Act of 1934 in such a way as to assure the continuation of policies that have made it possible for the United States to have the best telephone service in the world, Hightower told the press representatives.

The legislative effort was provoked by recent actions of the Federal Communications Commission which introduced competition into the nation's telephone communications facilities by allowing non-telephone companies to provide point-to-point private line telephone service between selected cities and by permitting others to sell or lease telephones, switchboards, and other related equipment for interconnection with the nationwide network.

Hightower explained how competition in the early days of telephone service resulted in duplication of facilities, higher costs of services and general inconvenience to the public, ultimately giving rise to the "regulated monopoly" environment which makes telephone companies responsible for providing service to all who apply within their serving areas.

"The telephone industry is not afraid of competition if given the opportunity to compete," Hightower emphasized, but he added that under the new FCC regulations, the telephone industry is vulnerable to selective competition. "When Communications businesses are allowed to pick and choose where they will serve, obviously entrepreneurs will enter the field where it is most profitable, thus leaving the less profitable and more remote areas to be served by the regulated telephone companies."

The speaker told how present pricing systems, approved by national and local regulatory bodies, allow some services to subsidize others, thus making telephone service widely affordable throughout the nation. "For example," he said, "the Consumer Price Index has risen 250 percent since 1940 while local exchange residential costs have increased only 90 percent."

The speaker describes the proposal now before Congress, which he said "strikes a balance between the competing interests of the general and specialized users. It provides for competition in specialized areas without jeopardizing the rate structure which provides for low residential rates."

"The question the industry seeks to have answered is what will be the communications policy of this country in the future," Hightower said. "It is a public question with the best interest of the entire population at stake. The telephone industry believes the answer must be provided by Congress," according to the vice president.

He urged the press association members to examine both sides of the issue, check the facts, and assist in presenting the issues that merit support.

KRUEGER OF TEXAS

By U. S. Representative Bob Krueger
DOUBLE STANDARDS

WASHINGTON—The Treasury Department handed down a tough, but necessary, decision last week when it ruled that five Japanese companies have been illegally selling steel in the United States at prices less than it costs to produce.

The investigation into this practice, commonly referred to as "dumping," was triggered by U.S. steel-makers who maintain that the low price the Japanese charge Americans for their steel is having a dramatic effect on the U.S. steel industry.

But it is not only the people who own major steel companies who today are being victimized by price undercutting in steel importing; it is the thousands of employees thrown out of work because their companies cannot afford to compete with imports priced ridiculously low while the Japanese companies which participate in the dumping procedure are having their losses underwritten by the Japanese government.

Currently, an $8 billion trade deficit exists between the U.S. and Japan, and although I support the concept of an open and competitive international market, something must be done when we are purchasing $8 billion more in products than we are selling a nation, particularly when the purchase of an imported product such as steel cuts into our domestic production to the extent that it has cost more than 100,000 Americans jobs in the past two years.

Ironically, the Treasury Department decision was returned the same day that a national poll showed that four out of five Americans support government intervention to restrict imports, even if it means paying more money for the American version of a product.

A poll such as this is conclusive evidence that the American people are tired of the double standard that exists in the import-export area.

The same situation exists with our agricultural products.

American farmers are in dire financial straits now, largely because government has not found a way to effectively market our surplus food commodities in the international marketplace.

For the family farm to survive, for the professional farmer to earn a decent return on his money, we must find more nations willing to purchase our farm products. In a world where hunger is commonplace, that should not be difficult and I am currently, with my staff, engaged in a thorough review of potential international markets.

A bill I have introduced calling for stiffer import regulations in the beef industry is one way to eliminate the current inequities in foreign trade. As it now stands, foreign beef is selling well in the U.S. because import inspection standards are less stringent than standards imposed upon U.S. beef producers. My bill would make inspection standards more uniform so that domestic beef producers are not victims of discrimination at the hands of their own government.

The question of trade with Japan, however, remains foremost in the minds of both lawmakers and American businesspeople.

Because my concern is exceptionally strong, I will be following this week developments emanating from a meeting taking place between U.S. and Japanese trade negotiators, both of whom have pledged to sign an agreement that will diminish our trade deficit.

REST

A day of play has tired this little one, but now sleep will bring about the needed rest. This is the time for restoring energies, and breaks the day's pace. The Lord set aside a day for rest and worship. This day allows us to be in the Lord's house and renews our energies for the week to come.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

WINTER SAFETY RELOADING

Many hunters are finding sacks full of empty shells as the Texas hunting seasons wind down and for those sportsmen who decide to reload ammunition themselves, a few precautions should be reviewed.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department offers the following safety tips:

- Use car and common sense at all times, and do not become distracted.
- Allow plenty of time for the project, and never load in haste.
- Equipment and components as the manufacturer recommends.
- Store powder in a cool, dry place at all times.
- Never use a powder unless you are positive of its identity.
- Never smoke while handling powder.
- Keep powder out of reach of children.
- Don't mix powders.
