ENGINEER SAYS AREA SLOWING DOWN LATELY

E. J. DUNIGAN SEEKS PANHANDLE ALLOW-
ABLE HIKE

AUSTIN, Oct. 17. (AP)—Gordon Griffin, chief engineer for the railroad commission, reported at the regular monthly hearing today that new tests disclosed the potential producing capacity of the East Texas field had decreased approximately 25 per cent in the last year and a half.

Tests on 43 key wells indicated a potential producing capacity of 10,000,000 barrels per hour for those wells compared with 14,000,000 barrels per hour a year and a half ago. Griffin said the decrease was due to a new method of computing and taking the tests and to the fact that some wells on which the high potential had been based had shown declines in producing capacity.

The tests were ordered at the last monthly hearing after some operators objected to the present allowable rates based on out-of-date potential figures. They were conducted in the presence of witnesses.

Griffin recommended, however, that the total allowable production of the East Texas field be kept between 400,000 and 450,000 barrels daily to preserve what he said was a very high degree of efficiency in production and prevent waste.

To obtain the present production of approximately 425,000 barrels per day, Griffin estimated the factor of 2.8 per cent of the hourly production, on which the allowable of a well is computed should be increased to 3.2 per cent.

Griffin said tests also showed the bottom hole pressure in East Texas averaged 1,215.7 pounds per square inch, or an increase of 2.2 pounds over last month.

"The tests disclosed that the field is being produced in a very efficient manner," he said, "and there is no waste."

In answer to questions as to whether the allowable for the field should be raised to possibly 500,000 barrels in view of the tests, Griffin replied that his experience with higher allowables had shown injurious drops in pressure.

"As a result of the efficient manner in which the field has been produced," he said, "many engineers have increased their estimates as to the probable total recovery of oil as much as 30 per cent."

He agreed the tests on 43 wells did not give an entirely accurate picture of conditions, but said tests on all wells were impracticable because of lack of storage and pipeline facilities.

Ernest O. Thompson, commission chairman, indicated a hearing might be called to determine storage requirements. He said Bureau of Mines figures indicated the supply was "getting low."

Griffin testified 3,628,908 barrels of crude oil were in storage on Aug. 3 and only 3,571,000 barrels at the end of the month.

Commission records showed the total allowable production over an eight-month period was 251,978,000 barrels and the actual production was 249,105,915 barrels.

E. J. Dunigan of Pampa, representing Panhandle operators, urged an increase in the allowable for the area, testifying many operators had been compelled to abandon their leases.

The allowable per well for the Panhandle, he said, was 20.88 barrels a day, compared with an average of 14 barrels for the rest of the state.

The low allowable was causing waste, he testified, because it resulted in an inefficient gas-oil production ratio.

THE WAR AT A GLANCE

(By The Associated Press.)

Diplomatic maneuvers: The estranged relationship between France and Britain approached a definite showdown. Britain demanded of France a promise of unqualified aid for its fleet in case it were attacked in the Mediterranean while carrying out League of Nations penalties against Italy.

Premier Pierre Laval, asking for time, decided to lay before his cabinet the whole question of how far France will go to aid Britain. Italy determined to keep out of negotiations of any kind.

The League of Nations sanctions committee for the second day failed to agree on the British "day nothing from Italy" proposal. Military maneuvers: Tribunes reported to authorities at Zella, coast metropolis of British Somaliland, that the 17th British camel corps, on frontier guard duty, suffered casualties in the fascist advance into Ethiopia from Italian Somaliland. One unconfirmed report was that the casualties were due to gas from planes.

In the name of King Victor Emmanuel, Desias Cuppa (the son-in-law of Haile Selassie) was named to the Italian cause as the special governor of the Tigre province in the north of Ethiopia.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Voss left last night for Oklahoma City where they will see play in the Professional Golfers' association open tournament now in progress.

France Delays Answer To Britain's Show-Down Query

CHARGE OF PERJURY MADE AGAINST FORMER GOVERNOR

CHRIS BAER IS DEAD--BURIAL TO BE FRIDAY

FARMER WAS LONGTIME RESIDENT; ACTIVE IN CHURCH

Another of Pampa's long-time residents passed yesterday when Chris Baer, 63, died in a local hospital after an illness of less than a week.

Mr. Baer had been a resident of the Pampa community since 1913 when he, with his family, moved here from Clay Center, Kan., where he had resided since childhood. Mr. Baer was born in Germany, but at the age of 8 years moved to the United States with his parents to become a citizen.

An active church worker all his life, Mr. Baer was a member of the board of stewards of the First Methodist church at the time of his death. He was one of the leaders in the move to build the beautiful new church where funeral services will be preached.

The body will lie at rest at the farm home two miles northwest of Pampa until 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Funeral services will be conducted at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the First Methodist church with the Rev. Gaston Foote, pastor, officiating.

Mr. Baer and his wife, Mrs. Mary Baer, had four sons, Carl, Eugene, Albert, and Franklin, all of Pampa. Other survivors are three sisters, Mrs. Otto Kretzmeier, Manhattan, Kan.; Mrs. Henry Kretzmeier, Clay Center, Kan.; and Mrs. Henry Hege, Aberdeen, Idaho, and two brothers, Henry Baer, Gilson, Kan., and Rudolph Baer, Paso Robles, Calif. The brothers and sisters are en route to Pampa.

Surviving Mr. Baer are his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Steve Oates of Pampa and Mrs. Marvin Elder of Berger and four sons, Carl, Eugene, Albert, and Franklin, all of Pampa.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the First Methodist church with the Rev. Gaston Foote, pastor, officiating.

Flowers will be in charge of Mrs. Louie Behrends, Mrs. W. Purviance, Mrs. Joe Shelton, and Mrs. Lee Harrah.

BENEFIT SHOW PROJECT NETS MUCH CLOTHING

The Pampa Council of Parents and Teachers, The NEWS, and La Nora theater today were on record with sincere appreciation for the generous response to the clothing benefit shows at the theater yesterday.

About 950 persons attended the theater, on the clothing admission basis. Many took several garments and some took both clothing and shoes. Many of the shoes were newly shined.

M. Turner, president of the Council, said that most of the garments were usable and would be given out as soon as a "thrift room" site could be found. Any citizen having room for storing the garments is urged to telephone Mrs. Turner or Mrs. J. W. Carman.

Three truck loads of clothing and shoes resulted from the benefit events. Theater-goers enjoyed the Lee Tracy picture, "Two Fisted."

The project grew out of the great need of many children for clothing to wear to school. The public response was even greater than the book benefit given recently by La Nora theater and Carl Benefiel, manager. Mr. Benefiel is being thanked by many persons for his generosity.

HORSES GIVEN DOPE LAUREL, Md., Oct. 17. (AP)—Race track officials here discovered today two horses, favorites in the fifth race for this afternoon, had been given deadening dope.

Frank Lard arguing with his insurance agent this morning. Said Frank, "Didn't I insure everything out at my place with you?" To which the agent replied yes. "Well, then, I want damages because my hens were frightened by the last electrical storm and didn't lay for several days," declared Frank.

William Langer Also Will Be Re-Tried on Charge Which Ousted Him.

FARGO, N. D., Oct. 17. (AP)—Former Gov. William Langer, soon to be retried on charges that caused his removal from office, today faced a new indictment charging him and three associates with perjury.

The former chief executive, and Frank Vogel, Oscar E. Erickson and R. A. Kinzer were indicted yesterday in federal court in connection with an affidavit of prejudice filed recently against Judge Andrew Miller, who presided in the original Langer trial.

United States district Attorney P. W. Lanier said the perjury cases would be brought to trial upon conclusion of retrial of the first case at the term of federal court opening at Bismarck Tuesday.

The prejudice affidavit against Judge Miller resulted in appointment of another judge to hear the retrial. Inability of the latter to be in Bismarck for the opening of the term caused postponement of the Langer trial until Oct. 29.

Four perjury indictments were returned yesterday, one against each defendant. It is charged in the indictments that falsehoods were made concerning statements made by Judge Miller in addressing the jury panel before the trial got under way.

Jury Completed In Huey Trial for Embezzlement

STINNETT, Oct. 17. (AP)—A jury was completed in 64th district court here today to try Arthur Huey, Hutchinson county tax assessor-collector and Berger political leader, on a charge of embezzlement of $8,383 in county funds.

Ten jurors were accepted after one of the eleven selected yesterday had been excused on account of illness. Ten veniremen were disqualified for having fixed opinions.

The state planned to call County Clerk Russell Brown as the first witness to establish that Huey was assessor-collector last March 30 when the tax official reported that two "hijackers" robbed him of more than $10,000 in automobile license receipts near Panhandle.

The prosecution succeeded in having W. E. Swenson, an auditor, examine the witness rule, over defense objections, allowing him to hear the testimony of other witnesses. E. A. Simpson, aiding the prosecution, announced that an audit of Huey's official records for several years would be offered in evidence.

One of the three witnesses whose absence was the basis for a defense motion for continuance yesterday arrived today and the two others were reported enroute to Stinnett.

Fifteen persons were sworn in as state witnesses. Huey's counsel indicated that the defendant would testify. The motion for continuance, which was overruled by Judge E. J. Pickens, set out that Huey would testify in an effort to show that the purported robbery was actually committed.

Road Meeting to Be Held Friday

Inability of delegates from Carson and Hutchinson counties to arrive here at the appointed hour yesterday, caused postponement until tomorrow of the meeting to discuss future action on construction of Highway 41 between Pampa and points west.

The meeting will be attended by men from Gray, Carson, and Hutchinson counties who went to Oklahoma City last week to discuss the highway situation between that point and Denver. The business session will follow a luncheon at which visitors will be guests of the Pampa Board of City Development.

BUSINESS MEN'S RECEPTION TICKETS NOW BEING SOLD

Tickets to the business men's reception for all school teachers of the county are on sale through committees and at the Board of City Development. They are 65 cents each.

Business men are urged to buy as many tickets as possible when they are called upon. About 200 teachers and substitute teachers are expected to attend the reception here next Tuesday evening. Merchants will buy tickets for themselves and extra tickets for the teachers. On the back of tickets for teachers will appear the words: "You are the guest of Blank store." These tickets will be placed in a basket from which teachers will draw them before passing into the cafeteria at the red building on the central campus here, where the meal will be served.

LAVAL LIKELY TO YIELD TO STRONG PLEA

SELASSIE TELLS MEN TO USE TACTICS OF GUERRILLAS

BY RICHARD M. MASSOCK, Associated Press Foreign Staff. PARIS, Oct. 17. (AP)—Authoritative sources said today that Premier Laval has promised Great Britain an answer by Monday on the question of French aid to the British Mediterranean fleet in case of conflict with Italy.

The premier's reply, it was indicated by these sources, is likely to be favorable.

ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 17. (AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie today counseled his warriors to "employ guerrilla tactics."

Reviewing his troops, massed in the capital, Negus said: "You must never remain massed. Employ guerrilla tactics and be patient. Disperse whenever you see an enemy plane. Discard white clothes for khaki in order to avoid being an easy target for the Italians."

(By The Associated Press.) The estranged relationship between Great Britain and France, due to the attitude of France toward punishment of Italy by the League of Nations for the invasion of Ethiopia, was rapidly approaching a definite show-down today.

It was authoritatively stated in London the British had demanded of the French government its unqualified promise of French naval support in the Mediterranean in the event of an emergency arising from the imposition of sanctions, such as an Italian attack on the British fleet if a blockade should be instituted.

In Paris, it was said Premier Pierre Laval—who has been seeking, fruitlessly, to effect a conciliation of the East African war—had refused to promise French aid to the British fleet if the fleet should be attacked by Italy before the League Nations orders naval enforcement of sanctions against Italy.

There was another current and persistent report—upon which officials refused to comment—that Laval told Sir George Russell Clerk, the British ambassador, the presence of warships in the Mediterranean was considered unnecessary for the application of sanctions.

Therefore, this report continued, France must decline to assume any immediate responsibility under the League covenant in case of conflict in the Mediterranean between Italy and Britain.

For days, the British dissatisfaction with Laval's attitude has been steadily growing.

It was capped officially yesterday with the decision of the British cabinet not to diminish in any way its military and naval strength in the Mediterranean area, between See FRANCE, Page 8.

County Agent in Postoffice Now

The office of the county agent has been moved from the third floor of the court house to the basement of the post office.

Signing of applications for the new wheat adjustment contracts will start immediately; however, this will be done by communities, and each producer will be notified as to the time that his community will sign up. Each person is urged to come in on the day he is notified, so as to eliminate any congestion or unnecessary confusion in the county agent's office.

The agent's telephone has not been connected but will be Saturday.

BORGER VFW Is Granted Charter

Borger's Veterans of Foreign Wars post re-established by the Pampa V. F. W. organization was given its charter last night at an installation ceremony conducted by the Amarrillo degree team. The charter was presented by W. S. Burge of Amarrillo district commander, and Charlie Maisel of Pampa, deputy district chief of staff.

Pampa veterans attending the ceremony were C. J. Maisel, D. A. Bartlett, new commander of the Pampa post, H. D. Waddell, past commander, J. G. Sturgeon, John I. Bradley, O. K. Gaylor, H. P. Lusby, Frank Thomas, L. S. Hall and L. A. Baxter.

The downpour was rather general, but in varying amounts. Hall fell west of the city, especially at Panhandle. Today was overcast, with a heavy mist falling at times.

GREAT OFFER ARRANGED FOR SPECIAL TRAIN

THE NEWS GETS LOW PRICE OF $2.65 FOR TRIP

All aboard for the Pampa Daily NEWS-Harvester special to Lubbock October 26!

Never before in the history of special trains has such an offer been made Pampa football fans. A round trip ticket to Lubbock, where the Harvesters and Lubbock Westerners will play on the turf at Texas Tech field, for $2.65 is almost unbelievable, but that is the price THE NEWS secured from the Santa Fe railroad. In the past, prices usually exceeded $4. Gilmore N. Nunn, general manager, made the arrangement.

It will be necessary to sell 200 tickets to assure the train, but sponsors have little doubt that the number will reach 500 and perhaps nearer 1,000. Fans are urged to secure tickets early to avoid a last minute rush.

The tickets will go on sale tomorrow morning at the following downtown places: Pampa Daily NEWS, Board of City Development, Pampa Drug No. 10, Corner Drug, Harvesters Drug, City Drug, and Father's Drug No. 1.

School officials here have announced 800 adult reserve seat tickets and 200 student reserve seat tickets. Adult tickets will be $1 and student tickets 50 cents. They will be placed on sale at the office of Roy McMillen in the courthouse at a date to be specified later. The date will coincide with the sale date in Lubbock.

Hour of departure will be announced later. The train can be reached in slightly over three hours each way. The Santa Fe will take the train to the station in Lubbock or direct to Texas Tech field, where a spur track has been laid. The train can be taken to within a block of the front gate of the stadium. It will be, however, that Lubbock citizens will desire to escort the Pampa fans to the game in courtesy cars. That detail will be worked out within the next few days.

The special is expected to be one of the most popular of Pampa's many new football contests over this section. The train will make much better time than in the past and the expenses will be much less. The trip can be made by train cheaper than by car.

Harvester coaches are anything but optimistic over the contest. They are working their charges at top speed, knowing that the Westerners have become one of the strongest teams in the district.

Lubbock's major accomplishment of the season was holding the high-flying Abilene Eagles to a 7 to 7 tie two weeks ago. Last week the Westerners showed terrific power in swamping Snyder 75 to 0.

Tech officials believe that additional seats will have to be installed for the Pampa game. More than 10,000 fans saw the meeting of the teams two years ago.

He previously signed the first session's only major bill, levying a graduated tax on chain stores.

The senate finance committee also had eliminated taxes from the pension bills and voted to restrict payments to needy persons.

Rainfall amounting to .46 of an inch fell in the Pampa area last night.

PAMPA CREDIT MEN WILL GO TO CHILDRESS NEXT SUNDAY

The twenty-second quarterly meeting of the Panhandle-Plains Secretaries' association will be held at the Childress hotel in Childress Sunday at 10:30 a. m.

This meeting will be notable for the presence of merchant members of credit associations, as well as secretaries of the bodies. W. J. Daugherty, manager of the Pampa Credit association, is urging Pampa business men to attend. The theme of Sunday's gathering will be interchange of ideas regarding better business methods.

Mr. Daugherty is president of the association. R. Earl O'Keefe, Pampa insurance and loan man, will speak on "What Constitutes a Dependable Report." Gilmore N. Nunn, general manager of THE NEWS, will talk on "Educating the Merchant to Bureau Service." Other speakers will be J. H. O'Neal Jr. of Borger, Mrs. Walker of Amarillo, Floyd J. Habin of Dallas, and Charles T. Lux of Austin.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Voss left last night for Oklahoma City where they will see play in the Professional Golfers' association open tournament now in progress.

WORDS

Words are things BYRON

Twinkles

We don't know the status of college morals this year, but the college comic magazines will soon be out.

The West Foster grouch thinks the League of Nations is awfully slow in this sanctions business—towns started them against each other years ago.

Prince Albert has decided to advertise in the newspapers in a big campaign. Just as many of us had about forgotten that the prince wasn't some obscure brother of the Prince of Wales. Now, let's see, is Bull Durham another ham wrestler?

It is rather generally admitted now that the Ethiopian invasion is a frame-up. And we'll wager that Uncle Sam isn't on the inside of it, although he can be for the usual consideration—paying the bill.

Musing of the moment: We are of the impression that it takes three men to place-kick a point after touchdown—two to hold the holder, and kicker. Don't put all the blame or praise on the man who uses, or misses, his toe. Gray county promises to do something about the dandelions on the courthouse lawn. We'll make a daily inspection, even if our supply of poses is cut off abruptly next summer.

Brevitorials

WELL, WELL, and well; we're losing business. Come two letters from direct solicitation concerns which say they have noticed the campaign against peddlers in THE NEWS. And, they add, because of this campaign they will decline to spend any money for advertising in this newspaper. THE NEWS is happy to lose business when it protects the home merchants and tends to keep local people from losing money through buying from all sorts of out-of-town solicitors.

Thanks, folks, for the excellent response to the "Frumpy Busy NEWS-La Nora theater clothing benefit" show yesterday. Such a response is typical of Pampa residents. But here's the rub: The P. T. A. women have no "thrift room" from which to dispense the clothing. Who has the solution? A room will be needed for several months for storage and as a place where school children may go to be outfitted.

TO ALLUDE TO the dandelion problem again, it would seem a good idea to use county prisoners in digging out the plants. Actually, this is impossible because of a law requiring counties to have county farms if they are going to work prisoners. It seems to us that Gray county needs such a farm, located on the sub-irrigated lands of the central part of the county. One reason is that the county is paying out more than $300 a month for pauper care and is getting no remuneration (labor) in return. What do you think?

In THE NEWS today is an editorial which quotes Roy B. Henderson of the Texas Interscholastic League on the subject and in favor of the new 18-year rule in athletics. Mr. Henderson thinks the older boys are getting all the breaks and that the younger fellows who play out the average academic course should be given preference. Mr. Henderson uses some very fine idealism and points out that the average non-competing high school boy finishes school "normally"; that is, ahead of the football players.

WE APPRECIATE his idealism, but did it ever occur to Mr. Henderson that these "normal" boys might not finish school so quickly if they went through the football, basketball, track grind which the interscholastic league fosters? We find more fault with the present system for overloading sports than in having the age limit too high.

AND ON THE question of age, we think Mr. Henderson has given far too little attention to football as a proper sport for the average boy of the age the new rule will force into football. We grant that there are young boys now engaged in football, but on the average they are exceptionally large and strong for their ages. We quote Harry Sylvester, writing in the magazine this week:

"In general, it may be stated that if the boy is normal and healthy, if he trains only three times a week and does no middle nor long-distance running until he is 17 or 18, he will probably not sustain any injury. The size and age of your boy is important. A boy who is big for his age may be flabby or skinny; and such a boy should not be allowed to play football until he has

BAYLOR MENTOR PLEASSED WITH BEARS AFTER SCRIMMAGE--WILL OPPOSE GOLDBUGS ON FRIDAY

MOST INTENSIVE WORK DONE BY RICE AND S. M. U.

BY BILL PARKER, Associated Press Sports Writer.

This week's Southwest conference football schedule of two conference and three non-conference games will start Friday night at Oklahoma City where the Baylor Bears will meet the Oklahoma City university Goldbugs in a non-conference combat.

Coach Morley Jennings fired the Bears through a scrimmage Wednesday against the freshmen and appeared pleased with results. He planned a short signal drill Friday before leaving for Oklahoma City. The game will be played at night.

Coach Homer Norton sent his Texas Aggies through defensive scrimmages in preparing them for Saturday's conference game at Fort Worth against Texas Christian. Preceding scrimmage, Aggie line-men worked on blocking both for and against punts. Selmer Kirby, star tackle, probably will be out of the lineup because of a leg injury.

The other half of the Fort Worth battle—the Texas Christian Frogs—got their first glimpse Wednesday of the formations expected to be used by the Aggies when the regulars scrimmaged the freshmen. The drill against the A. & M. offense came after the Frogs had rehearsed their own plays. Drew Ellis and Tiny Godwin, injured tackles, were in uniform Wednesday.

For other big conference game Saturday at Dallas, the Southern Methodist Mustangs and Rice Institute Owls labored long and hard.

Coach Madison Bell drove the Mustangs through a hard defensive practice against Rice Owl plays. The Mustangs also spent much time punting, place-kicking and passing. Robert Wilson and Harry Shuford, backs, were impressive in Wednesday's practice.

Coach Jimmy Kitts worked the Rice Owls on all phases of the game and put in an order for another stiff workout Thursday. Kitts has his first string lineup ready for action, including John McCauley and Bill Wallace, elusive backs.

After driving them through a strenuous practice, Coach Jack Chevigny said the University of Texas Longhorns would be ready for Saturday's game at Austin against Centenary college. Chevigny announced that only Moreland Chapman, injured guard, would be unable to play.

Coach Fred Thomson sent the University of Arkansas Razorbacks through a new set of plays to be used against Louisiana State. After play rehearsals, which featured an aerial bombardment, Thomson put the Porkers through a long scrimmage.

GORILLAS AND JUNIOR HIGH WILL BATTLE HERE FRIDAY

Local Rivals Arouse Much Enthusiasm — Juniors to Be Slightly Heavier.

Although no foreign team will pound the turf at Harvester field tomorrow afternoon, Pampa football fans will have an opportunity to see two of their own teams in action at 4 o'clock, with the Gorillas meeting the Junior high team.

The two elevens have been battling each other, by word of mouth, since the season got under way. Now they will have an opportunity to see what they can do on the football field. Experience will be on the side of the Gorillas, but, believe it or not, the Junior high team will have a weight advantage. It will first be much, but it will be the first time in school history that a Junior high team has outweighed the future Harvesters.

Both teams have failed to break Read The NEWS Want Ads.

into the win column so far this season, having been up against competition out of their respective classes.

Coaches for both elevens have been working their charges at top speed this week, getting them ready for the big meeting. The fans of Pampa are invited to Harvester field to see the game. No charge will be made.

Starting lineups were not available after yesterday's practice. It was rumored that the mentors had dark horses in the background. Dick Dennard and Bill Anderson coach the Gorillas with Tom Herod and W. S. Bennett in charge of Junior high.

BIG AIR BASE IN EGYPT HAS MANY PLANES

British Defenses Powerful and Families of Men Moved Into Cairo.

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, Oct. 17 (P)—Military authorities agreed today that the vast establishment for fighting airplanes, 16 miles east of here, would be the real British defense base in the event of a Mediterranean conflict.

This air base, behind the historic Bay of Abukir where Admiral Nelson sealed the fate of Napoleon's adventure in Egypt, is the greatest in the Near East and one of the most alert in the world.

Authorities estimate that more than 1,200 royal air force planes are here, but all private observers can see is a barbed wire fence along a road which bisects a great field—that, and numerous hangars.

Proof that the site is becoming a congested air base is the fact that officers' quarters are so crowded that their families no longer are admitted. Instead they are sent to Cairo.

New construction discloses also how the royal air force headquarters have been protected by sand-bags.

In the last few weeks there has been a continuous arrival of squadrons of seaplanes flying from Great Britain by way of Greece and now anchored in Abukir Bay.

Transport workers say many land-planes are at Abukir, still unassembled. Persons in close touch with the camp say large numbers of planes are being assembled from cases.

Ten Students to Get Aid—More Will Be Added

Ten Gray county high school students are to get $6 per month each through NYA aid allocations, Lyndon B. Johnson, State Director, announced today, and 11 others will be added shortly.

"On September 12, socially desirable part-time jobs paying $6 per month were offered $547 high school students, who are members of families on relief rolls or members of rural resettlement families at a total monthly expenditure of $51,282," Johnson said.

Students between the ages of 16 and 25, who for lack of financial assistance are unable to attend school, made application directly to the principals of their school, Johnson said. The principal then submitted to the county superintendent a project application in affidavit form asking for his quota of jobs, together with students' applications properly executed.

MUCH CAUTION IS NEEDED FOR ITALIAN PUSH

COMMUNICATIONS AND FOOD LINES ARE INTACT

(Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press.)

FIELD HEADQUARTERS, Italian occupied territory in northern Ethiopia, Oct. 16—Italian military authorities prescribed today a cautious advance on their next objective of Makale.

Officers said the impending push out of Aduwa on the strategic caravan route center 60 miles to the south, deep in Ethiopian territory, would be carried out gradually.

"They took precautions to permit constant maintenance of communications and steady supply of food and other necessities for the troops in their march farther from their base in the colony of Eritrea."

High military authorities expressed a belief, however, that the territory from Aduwa to Makale would prove easier to cover than the rugged, mountainous route to Aduwa in the original advance at the outset of the campaign.

Italian engineers overcame great difficulties in constructing the road from Eritrea to Aduwa, which had to be completed for consolidation to that position before the columns could move on in their occupation.

"My men came as close to working miracles as anyone could," said one of the officers who supervised the road work.

"Saturday, we worked throughout the night, and a few minutes before General de Bono (commander-in-chief of the fascist forces in East Africa) drove through, we completed the last stretch of the road."

In this northern section of Ethiopia already occupied by Italy, there were only caravan and cart trails which Italian engineers were called on to convert hastily into roads.

Hundreds of American-made trucks were carrying food and munitions to the front line troops, running up mountains, down precipitous, over gulleys and through ravines, sometimes bumping over rocks a foot high.

Thousands of American mules passed over these same roads, but in this territory, the Italians considered that the American mule could not compare with the Eritrean mule.

DEFENSES GET ATTENTION OF ITALIANS NOW

ATTITUDE OF ENGLAND IS TAKEN MORE SERIOUSLY

ROME, Oct. 17 (P)—Italy directed attention to its home defenses today as informed sources expressed concern over relations with Great Britain.

Air force and non-commissioned officers of the class of 1906 (men born in that year) were called out. Officials of the ministries of corporations, agriculture, finance, communications and merchant marine conferred on detailed measures for facing the food supplies situation, in case League of Nations sanctions are applied, and for defense against nations putting sanctions into practice.

Pessimism replaced the earlier optimism as the dominant mood in the capital's political quarters.

Informed sources said frankly that they were worried lest the tension mounting between Britain and Italy should crystallize with unforeseen rapidity.

Great Britain was portrayed in these circles as seeking to blockade Italy and hampering the peace efforts of Premier Laval of France.

Officially, however, little importance was attached to French moves for settlement of the crisis.

Authorities emphasized that Italy was taking no part in any peace negotiations. They said Britain appeared unlikely to change its attitude in favor of punishment for the campaign of occupation in Ethiopia.

The single line railway from Djibouti to Addis Ababa is 780 miles long.

DAN HOWLEY WANTS TO BUY ALBANY NINE

New Tennis Combinations In Making—Sarazen Is Favored in Tournery.

By EDDIE BRIETZ
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (AP)—Dan Howley, former major and minor league manager, would like to buy the Albany Senators of the International league. A deal is reported cooking. The U. S. L. T. A. is grooming Wilmer Hines of South Carolina and Henry Culley of California for Davis cup doubles duty next year. The former doubles team of Don Budge and Gene Mako has definitely split.

Boston boxing is in a terrible slump. Kay Stammers, the British Wightman cup eye-fall, plays lacrosse in the spring and fall to get in shape for the tennis wars. Tommy de Hart, Furman's triple threat quarterback, is an ordained Baptist minister at Philippi, W. Va., and preaches regularly during the summer.

Gene Sarazen is the one to watch in the P. G. A. tournament starting at Oklahoma City today. He is without a title and wants one badly. He proved he is in a comeback mood with his sensational victory over Jack Bussan in the Ryder cup matches after being four down to the British phenom.

Bill Keefe, New Orleans Times-Picayune sports ed., pulled a fast one on his friends the other day and joined the benefactors. Note to Mrs. K: Bill is the best cook in the sports writing profession. His spaghetti is particularly easy to take.

Albert Fall Is Ill at El Paso

EL PASO, Oct. 17. (AP)—Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, remained under the care of physicians at a hospital here today. The physicians had described his condition as good. Fall was brought to the army hospital Tuesday night from his ranch at Three Rivers, N. M.

Discussions with attorneys over legal angles in a recent suit brought against Fall in an attempt to eject him from the ranch were blamed by Mrs. Fall for her husband's illness.

PENN IS FAVORED TO WIN OVER COLUMBIA IN 'OLD GUARD' TILT THIS WEEK IN EASTERN CIRCUIT

HARVARD FEARS ARMY MAY ADMINISTER DEFEAT

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (AP)—The east lacks a big football conference such as the major western and southern groups, but a couple of times each season it's interesting to see how the "old guard" is faring within its limits and against "outside" opposition.

The "old guard" is the term generally applied to the seven universities in the eastern baseball and basketball leagues—Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Dartmouth, Cornell, Columbia and Pennsylvania.

Princeton and Yale, each with a victory over Penn, are the ranking teams of the group, as no others have engaged in internal competition during the "tune up" season.

They are rated among the best teams in the east, and the Quakers haven't been disgraced by losing to them.

With Cornell and Harvard down in the doldrums, the group has recorded eight victories and four defeats against outside opposition. This week's program should give an even better line on its strength.

Penn is favored to beat Columbia in the only old-guard game of the week. Yale stacks up against Navy, a powerful team to all appearances and one which might be included in the "conference."

Harvard, trimmed by Holy Cross in its only major game so far, clashes with Army and appears due to take it on the chin again. Princeton faces its neighbor, Rutgers, in a renewal of football's oldest rivalry. Dartmouth, winner of three minor games, faves a downtrodden Brown eleven while Cornell, thrice beaten, has a week off before meeting Princeton, Columbia, Dartmouth and Penn in succession.

Aside from these games, most of the interest this week lies in the big intersectional clashes. The Pittsburgh-Notre Dame, Fordham-Vanderbilt, Detroit-Catholic university and Boston College-Michigan State games are among the best prospects.

The real conferences are due for a busy time deciding their races. Ohio State's great team faces Northwestern, Michigan meets Wisconsin, and Purdue plays Chicago in the Big Ten. The Blue-White State games may help decide the Southeastern and Texas A. & M.-Texas Christian games in the Southwest involve unbeaten title contenders.

The Alabama-Tennessee, Auburn-Kentucky, Florida-Mississippi, Georgia Tech-Duke, Georgia-North Carolina State, and Maryland-V. M. I. games may help decide the Southeastern and Southern conference struggles.

The Nebraska-Kansas State and Oklahoma-Iowa State contests should straighten out the Big Six considerably.

The Rocky Mountain conference offers Greeley State-Montana State, Utah State-Denver, Colorado College-Brigham Young, and Colorado Mines-Cororado university. On the Pacific Coast the conference games are less decisive, sending Southern California against Oregon State, Washington against Washington State, and Idaho against Oregon.

L'FORS' GAME WITH BRONCOS FRIDAY NIGHT LOOMING AS BEST CLASH IN THIS AREA

Clarendon Has Experienced Team But Weight Goes To Gray County Lads.

L'Fors will be the football mecca of this section tomorrow night when the Pirates of Coach Bill Bronchos tangle with the Clarendon Bronchos under the leadership of Coach J. L. Kirby in a conference game. Location of the tilt will be Shaw park on the banks of the Red river, with the time of kickoff set for 8 o'clock.

The Pirates will have a wide advantage in the weight section with experience in the Clarendon Bronchos. While L'Fors will have three freshmen in the starting lineup, Clarendon can field 11 lettermen from last year and still have three lettermen reserves. The Pirates will have a weight advantage of 13 pounds per man.

Coach Kirby of the Broncos, graduate of Texas university, has developed a fleet running attack with tricky forward and laterals to overcome the weight handicap.

Coach Bronchos of Nebraska follows the teaching of Dapa X. Bible and has a well balanced attack, both into the line and through the air.

Each of the teams have a win and a loss in the conference. Both teams fell before the attack of the Shamrock Irishmen and both defeated the Wellington Skyrocks. The dope points to a L'Fors advantage, the Pirates losing to Shamrock by one touchdown less than the Broncos and the Pirates defeating Wellington by one touchdown more than

Mrs. Moody and Fred Perry Best Stars in Tennis

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (AP)—Mrs. Helen Willis Moody, the "comeback" queen of the Wimbledon courts, and Fred Perry of England are rated as the world's best tennis players of 1935 in the authoritative rankings of A. Wallis Myers, British court expert.

Mrs. Moody, who probably won't receive any ranking in the United States because she failed to play in the women's national championships, was placed above her California rival, Helen Jacobs, on the strength of her victory in the Wimbledon finals.

Myers, whose "world's first ten" is generally accepted as the "official" selection admitted having considered giving equal rank to the two Helens.

Perry, Jack Crawford of Australia and Baron Gottfried Von Cramm of Germany retained the first three places in the men's first ten.

Wilmer Allison, American champion, was placed fourth followed by H. W. (Bunny) Austin, England; Donald Budge, Oakland, Calif.; X. Shields, New York; Vivian McGrath, Australia; Christian Boususs, France; and Sidney B. Wood, New York. Budge and McGrath were newcomers to the world rankings.

Following the two American Helens in the women's list were Kay Stammers, England; Frau Hilda K. Sperling, Germany; Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, Brookline, Mass.; Dorothy Round, England; Mrs. Ethel Burkhardt Arnold, Los Angeles; Mme. Ben Mathieu, France; Joan Hartigan, Australia, and Peggy Scriven, England.

Three Convicted In Aztec Trial

AZTEC, N. M., Oct. 17. (AP)—Three Spanish-Americans convicted of second degree murder for the slaying of Sheriff M. R. Carmichael of Gallup, last April 4, were held here for sentence today while their attorneys began preparing appeals.

The seven other defendants in the mass murder trial, acquitted by the jury of plaintiffs, remained in custody to await trial on lesser charges for the forcible release of three men who had been held by the sheriff in eviction cases.

Judge James B. McGhee temporarily delayed sentencing the three convicted, who were Juan Ochoa, Manuel Avila and Leandro Velarde. Defense counsel, assembled by their opponents, L'Fors also has a tie with Memphis. Probable starting lineups:

SCHOOL HEALTH WORK IS DISCUSSED AT B. M. BAKER

All room mothers and faculty members, and a large number of mothers of first grade pupils at B. M. Baker school attended a tea given them by Baker Parent-Teacher association at the school building yesterday afternoon.

Miss Llewellyn Shelby, school health supervisor, was the guest speaker. She discussed general problems of child health, and spoke especially of the value of the summer health roundup which aims at a physical examination for every first grade child before the school term starts.

Mrs. Claude Lard outlined the duties of room mothers. Members of that group voted to serve refreshments at all meetings of the Parent-Teacher association this year.

Hostesses yesterday were Misses Earl Roof, J. N. Miller, H. T. Cox, Lard, and Cecil Lunsford. Mrs. Roy Holt, president of the association, poured tea.

Room mothers for the school are: Mrs. E. Riggs for Miss Allen's room, Mrs. L. H. Anderson for Miss Puller's room, Mrs. Herring for Miss Perkins' room, Mrs. C. L. Human Agency in Gospel Is Topic Of Revival Talk

Despite threatening weather, another crowd attended the revival service at Francis Avenue Church of Christ last evening. Evangelist Roy E. Cogdill spoke on the subject, "God's Plan for Redemption." He is conducting services twice daily, at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m., to which the public is invited. In the sermon last evening he said in part:

"Our Heavenly Father employs the foolishness of preaching, to save them that will believe the gospel message. This simple method of rescuing mankind was considered foolish by some in the long ago and is today. We should ever bear in mind that even the foolishness of God is greater than our own wisdom."

"The one great task of the church is to teach and preach the word of the Lord for His chosen people, this method by which to save the world. The gospel of Christ is God's power to save all who will hear, believe, and obey it. Mankind is not saved as the result of some kind of a mystical, miraculous outpouring of the Holy Spirit of God."

"It is the plan of Jehovah to save this world through the power of the gospel of Christ. In order for man to enjoy the blessings provided in the gospel, he must first be the recipient of the message, it must be preached to him. Before one can come to God, he must be taught how to come. In this simple transaction, God uses human agency."

"Twelve apostles were selected and commissioned by our Lord to carry His gospel. Since this message was to be carried to every creature under Heaven, we should understand and appreciate the fact that the gospel is able to meet and satisfy the spiritual need of all men. It was a message that could be understood by everyone, hence was to be preached to all men and was designed to save all men who would believe and obey it."

"In all the recorded cases of conversion in the New Testament God used human agency to accomplish His purpose. Men were messengers unto men. It was the purpose of God that the sinner and the teacher be brought together. In such instances, those who were qualified always taught the unsaved. The sinner was taught how to become a Christian."

"We can easily see the necessity for this kind of a procedure. We cannot be saved without faith, and we are told that faith is made possible, by the word of God. Where the word of the gospel has not gone, there is no faith. In the gospel, we find revealed the will of the Lord. Where this gospel has not gone, the will of our Lord is unknown. Neither angels nor the Holy Spirit have ever preached this gospel. We have this gospel in earthen, not heavenly, vessels. This wonderful gospel message has informing, reforming, and transforming power and it is the only message known to man that has all these beautiful and essential elements."

"We can readily see the importance of teaching to the world this powerful message. It is important because of its power and it is powerful because it comes from God. Preaching that does not teach is worthless. In preaching the gospel of Christ we simply teach the facts concerning the death, burial, resurrection, and ascension of our Lord and Master. We teach the facts, commands, and promises that He once taught."

"There is something about the gospel that can be obeyed and must be or else we shall suffer eternal banishment from His presence. There are three great facts in the gospel to be believed, three commands to be obeyed and three promises to be received and enjoyed. If we refuse to accept the gospel of our Lord, we cannot hope to become what we ought to be and what the Christ expects us to be."

Parents Are Invited With Sons and Daughters

FRIDAY NIGHT HAS BEEN DESIGNATED AS YOUTH NIGHT IN THE CULPEPPER REVIVAL AT FIRST METHODIST CHURCH AND PLANS ARE BEING MADE TO HAVE IN THE SERVICE A LARGE NUMBER OF BOYS, GIRLS, AND YOUNG PEOPLE OF ALL AGES AS WELL AS PARENTS AND OTHERS. THE SERVICE IS FOR EVERYBODY.

Dr. Culpepper will speak from the subject, "The Golden Choice." Last night a large crowd heard Dr. Culpepper speak from the text, "Son, Give Me Thy Heart." There were four more additions to the church for the day, bringing the total to 68 for the meeting.

Announcement was made that Dr. Culpepper would preach Saturday morning at 10 o'clock and also Saturday night. He will speak again tonight at 7:30.

In the message last night, the evangelist said: "God never touches the human will. He leaves that to man. It is up to us to make our choices in life. God won't force any man against his will."

"Your choice determines your destiny. The devil pays off at once but the final payday with God will come after awhile. We are forever clipping coupons on the investments of God. The devil is a usurper; he is a liar; he will not do what he promises."

During the message Dr. Culpepper named three reasons why people should give their hearts to God. First, because God has a right to us by creation; second, the law of reciprocity demands it, and third, it is a safe investment. "The investments of this life will finally lose but the investments of God live forever," the speaker declared in closing his message.

Dr. Culpepper said last night that one of the best messages of the series would be given tonight and a great crowd is expected to be present.

ANCIENT DOCUMENT TELLS OF EARLY PRACTICE OF WIFE-BEATING

BY FREDERICK GIPSON, University of Texas Journalism Student

AUSTIN, Oct. 17.—Wife-beating is news. But there's nothing new about it. And about the only difference now is that few modern men will pay to have their wives beaten.

The first recorded case of wife-beating in America is in the form of an Aztec codex or sheepskin, dated 1540. This document, now in the possession of the Garcia library at the University of Texas, came from the ancient village of Tepcatepec, near Mexico City. By means of Aztec numerals, pictures, and some Spanish writing, it relates how a certain Spanish lord paid a negro the sum of three sheep to give his wife a sound beating.

Dr. Carlos Castenda, librarian of the Garcia collection, says he can not determine definitely whether the lord was too tender hearted to beat his wife or whether the wife was just too large. The Indian scribe, however, who kept this lord's records, presents a very realistic sketch of the chastisement.

Primitive as this document may appear to us now, it is remarkably complete in detail. Aztec numerals are employed to designate the number of sheep, chickens, or pounds of maize the lord exacted from his Indian subjects. Four chicken heads, or four dots and a chicken head, meant four chickens; and so on through nineteen. Twenty was indicated by a flag. The next step in this curious, but rather efficient system was the square of twenty, indicated by a feather. A purse, made somewhat like our numeral eight, represented twenty cubed.

In the Garcia collection are many such graphic accounts of the Mayans, Aztecs, and Incas who once inhabited the region of Central America and the northern portion of South America. There are 43 in all, three of which are in the original and have never been published.

Various types of these codices are represented. Some are reproductions of clay and stone codices. These date back to the pre-Columbian era, before the time of the Spanish conquest. They contain no phonetic writing at all, consisting entirely of hieroglyphics.

Others, contemporary to the conquest, show a marked influence of Spanish culture. Picture-writing is still used, but occasionally supplemented with a word of Spanish or Latin. These are more easily deciphered than the first. Agave, an Indian product of the fibrous maguey plant, is used for parchment.

The third type is known as the post-Columbian. It is usually of sheepskin, with fewer pictures, but written almost entirely in Spanish.

GROUPS ATTEND FIRST BAPTIST REVIVAL HOURS

Attendance of classes and departments of First Baptist church in groups at the revival has marked services this week. Several women's classes were present yesterday morning, and the intermediate training union last evening.

Following the sermon last evening, Sunday school teachers and officers met to make plans for Sunday activity.

The Rev. C. Y. Dosey, evangelist, announced as his subject for this evening, The End of the World, and tomorrow evening, Where Are the Dead? At the prayer service preceding the regular meeting this evening, Ralph Higgins will discuss the Baptist Training Union; Floyd Payne will speak of Christian Education, and Mrs. R. E. Gattin of Evangelism.

The sermon subject last evening was, Warning by the Devil's Fire, with the story of Peter's denial of Christ as the basis.

"Peter was in the Devil's crowd, and that got him into trouble," the speaker said. "Irregularity is the first step from loyalty, then follows inactivity, and finally indifference, the sin that broke the heart of Jesus."

"Such sins of neglect as Sabbath desecration and questionable amusements result in the loss of influence and effect as a Christian. The church member who is dependable and regular is the one who is doing his share in advancing the cause for which he stands."

Eight additions to church membership resulted from services of the day.

The monastery of Debra-Damo, a celebrated Ethiopian monastery, is located west of Adigrat.

This class invites women who are not members of a Bible class to join them at regular Sunday morning meetings.

MEXICANS IN FLIGHT FROM REBEL BANDS

UNVERIFIED RUMORS OF GUN SMUGGLING HEARD

NOGALES, Sonora, Mexico, Oct. 17 (AP)—Residents of one Sonora town were reported fleeing across the border into Arizona today as fear of impending rebel attacks continued unabated.

Mounted guards patrolled the city of Agua Prieta where Commandante Luis Margallan said he had every reason to expect an attack shortly by a roving band of heavily armed rebels.

Reports that seven Mexican customs border patrolmen had been slain in a clash with rebels a few miles east of Agua Prieta on the Naco road could not be confirmed.

Border officials at Naco reported that numerous terrified residents fled into Arizona when they heard rumors that city, scene of bloody fighting in the 1929 revolution, would be attacked.

Authoritative sources here declared ammunition had been smuggled into Sonora from Tucson, Ariz., through the port of Sasabe. United States border patrol officials said they could not confirm this report.

At least nine persons, most of them municipal officials, have been killed by raiders in the past 10 days. Unconfirmed reports boosted the number above this figure.

With the rebel forces, headed by General Ibarra, reportedly concentrated in the Altar district of northwestern Sonora, officials here, at Agua Prieta and Naco took extra precautions against a surprise attack.

The Douglas (Ariz.) Dispatch said it had learned General Ibarra, claiming adequate financial support and popular backing, considers the situation in his hands and under control.

The raiders, reportedly disgruntled agriculturists, seek removal of Gov. Ramon Ramos, modification of government's agrarian and church policies, and changes in the political character of the labor party.

Adherents of Ibarra said the fact Gov. Ramos had gone to Mexico City meant his recall from the governorship was near. Political leaders here expressed belief that if this developed the disorder may end without further bloodshed.

Other sources indicated Ramos was seeking aid from the federal government which reportedly was planning to strike swiftly in wiping out the rebels.

Five American hunters, whose firearms were seized earlier this week by the raiders, had not returned to the border, but further reports said they were safe and continuing their hunting trip.

Bands of raiders were reported to have ridden into Altar and Caborca late yesterday searching for the mayors, both of whom reportedly fled. A short time later, Pitiquito was entered. The mayor was missing there, too.

Lubbock Made Farm Debt Post

DALLAS, Oct. 17.—Divisional headquarters for farm debt adjustment activities will be established at Oklahoma City, Dallas, Lubbock and San Antonio, according to announcement made today by R. J. Murray, assistant director of Rural Resettlement for Texas and Oklahoma. In addition, district headquarters will be set up for Texas at Amarillo, Bryan and Waco.

The fifteen hundred committees who have been at work in these two states for the past eighteen months have brought about a farm debt reduction of more than six million dollars, Murray said, most of the scale-down having been thru cancellation of delinquent interest or reduction in the rate.

More than 38,000 farm families are receiving loans in these two states, under the Resettlement program, but debt adjustment work is not confined to them.

Debt adjustment specialists in charge at division points were announced as follows: Oklahoma City, W. L. Crittenden; Lubbock, Quion Gregg; San Antonio, W. R. Manning; Dallas, A. F. Houston.

District Supervisors were named as follows: Oklahoma City, E. D. Klingel and W. H. Thomson; Lubbock, Hugh F. Weaver; Amarillo, J. E. Fischer; Bryan, A. S. McSwain; Dallas, O. E. Lillard; Waco, E. A. Tweedy.

"Now that the price of farm products is advancing, we may find that some mortgage holders will press for foreclosure where they were willing to leave the owner in charge while returns were not so good," Murray said.

When debt adjustment activities were about to be dropped by FERA, on August 5, the National Grange and American Farm Bureau united to write President Roosevelt a letter in which they said, "Activities of these committees have saved fully 125,000 farm homes to their present owners." The program was transferred from FERA to the Resettlement Administration thirty days ago.

Murray stated that group meetings would be held throughout the region to explain the Farm Debt Adjustment program and the Revised Frazier-Lemke Amendment to the Bankruptcy Act.

Strikers Make Cataract of Milk

A Niagara of milk poured off this Chicago & Northwestern railroad bridge near Genoa City, Wis., when farmers, striking for higher prices, took charge of the train and dumped the contents of several dairy cars consigned to the Chicago market. New reports of violence were received from several sections as efforts continued to arrange a truce in the strike affecting northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin.

NEW ATTACK ON OIL FRONT UNDER WAY

CURBING EAST TEXAS FLOW IS STILL ISSUE

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 17 (AP)—New movements to control the oil industry were under way this week as the time worn problem of curbing the East Texas area flared again on various fronts.

The active beginning of operations under the oil states compact, inaugurated last week at a meeting in Oklahoma City, served chiefly to accentuate the troubles of authorities in East Texas.

Cap. E. N. Stanley, openly at odds on some questions with Attorney General William McCraw of Texas, won a significant point when the Texas railroad commission shelved a plan to appoint field officers who would be answerable only to the attorney general.

At the same time it became known that 25 East Texas oil office employees had been dismissed, chiefly from clerical posts.

This was interpreted generally as a move by Stanley to hold a firm reign on the turbulent area, which he supervises under a new appointment after a year in private business.

The upheaval in the federal tender board drew much industry attention, particularly the appointment by Secretary Ickes, the petroleum administrator, of 74-year-old James A. Frear, former Wisconsin congressman, as chairman to succeed youthful Norman L. Meyers.

Meyers has returned to Washington to become executive director of the petroleum administrative board.

The companion resignation of Malcolm McCord, Houston attorney described often as one of the best informed men in East Texas matters, emphasized the dissatisfaction with conditions which resulted in his later abandoned attempt more than a year ago to return to private life.

There have been published recently open declarations that the board had found little work to do, as the second Connally "hot" oil law had proved adequate to restrain movement interstate of illegally produced oil.

The railroads of the area were described as unwilling to move "hot" oil, although considerable assertedly was available for this purpose.

Federal Judge Randolph Bryant upheld the law in a test case decided last week at Tyler, Texas.

The interstate compact group had various committees at work which will report at the next quarterly meeting in December.

CONSERVATIVE CRAFTSMEN OF LABOR FEDERATION IN DEFEAT OF INDUSTRIAL ORGANIZING

LEWIS' APPEAL THAT OLD ORDER STALE IS LOST

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 17. (AP)—Despite defeat of their proposed change of union organization policy in the American Federation of Labor, industrial unionists began planning today to carry on their fight.

Conservative craftsmen at the federation convention last night successfully fought off an insistent movement by the industrial group for definite approval of a single big union in each mass production industry.

The vote was 18,025 to 10,924. The convention reaffirmed the federation's policy, adopted last year, endorsing industrial unionism in the big industries but with protection for the rights of craft unionists.

John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers, spearhead of the industrial union cause, urged the change.

"If you fail, my group and I will be compelled to carry on as best we may," he said.

After his fight was lost, Lewis commented: "This issue seems to be clarified."

In his hour-long appeal which held the delegates tensely silent, Lewis said his group would accept defeat "sadly, knowing that our terrible adversary (industrial opponents of organized labor), having tasted blood, may open up and attempt to destroy the union I represent."

Lewis' argument that changing economic conditions had outmoded present methods of organization was responded to by A. O. Wharton of the machinists and other craftsmen with recitation of craft union survival over long periods.

Wharton asked the industrial unionists to point to such success in their efforts.

BOON-DOGGING LIMIT ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—There is a limit even to boon-doggling, City Manager Harold W. Baker ruled.

He put his foot on a proposal to provide work relief by furnishing a corps of professional mourners to aid bereaved families, act as pallbearers if necessary and complete funeral home arrangements.

President Sails Without Aircraft

COLON, Panama, Oct. 17 (AP)—The United States cruiser, Houston and Portland, bearing President Roosevelt and his party, sailed at 8 a. m. today, unaccompanied by airplanes or surface craft. The two big warships moved toward the destination without announcing their destination. Neither the commandant of the 15th naval district nor the Panama canal marine superintendent was advised of the movement. It was generally assumed that the destination was off the San Blas islands since President Roosevelt was known to desire a sample of the excellent fishing to be found there. Previously, it had been expected that the president would request a naval review at Coco Solo, but it now is believed this idea has been abandoned. INDEPENDENT UNIONS FURNISH LONGSHOREMEN LABOR IN PORTS

HOUSTON, Oct. 17 (AP)—Steamship operators at Beaumont today had followed examples of other Texas ports in obtaining labor other than striking members of the International Longshoremen's association for dock work. The Maritime association there entered into a contract, effective immediately, last night with the Independent Longshoremen's association, Inc., local No. 68,011. The contract was made to expire in March, 1937. Preparations were pushed to re-open operations at the Beaumont port, which had been practically closed since the I. L. A. strike was called last Friday. The deadline passed without a response to the Maritime association on an offer to the I. L. A. for a contract carrying the demanded wage scales. Houston and Lake Charles, La., operators had signed contracts with independent unions for dock work, and Corpus Christi had resorted to the use of non-union workmen. Interest still was focused on Galveston, where steamship men said they hoped to resume operations and with non-union labor at least by tomorrow. Spokesmen for the I. L. A. had appealed to the Houston city council to halt the use of police in escorting non-union workers to the waterfront. Councilmen replied, however, that it was their duty to provide protection. N. G. Fite, chairman of the I. L. A. strike committee here, criticized the navigation commission's employment of Frank Hamer, former Texas ranger captain, to head a special police force on the waterfront. The I. L. A. obtained permission from the council to hold a mass meeting here tonight and a downtown parade tomorrow afternoon.

Claims of Roping Records Rapped

SAN ANGELO, Oct. 17 (AP)—Claims of new records for calf roping emanating from Madison Square Garden, New York, and from Seminole, Okla., today drew the criticism of West Texas rodeo experts, including Louis Jones of Christoval, world's champion calf roper in 1914, 1925, 1926. News dispatches last night credited Roy Mathews of Fort Worth with a new mark of 21 seconds on one calf at Madison Square Garden. Jones averaged 19 seconds on three calves at Monte Vista, Colo., in 1925; he roped and tied one in 14 seconds in Pawhuska, Okla., and has made as low as 11 seconds unofficially. He won the world championship at Madison Square with best average time on 15 calves in 1924. Lee Robinson of Fort Worth, who was killed in an automobile crash near El Paso in which Jones was permanently crippled, set an official mark of 12.5 seconds in Florida in 1914, Jones said. Seminole, Okla., dispatches had credited Jess Goodspeed of Okemah, Okla., with a new world's record last Saturday of 17.2-5 seconds.

GARNER TELLS CANADIANS OF GENUINE LOVE

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 17 (AP)—John N. Garner, vice president of the United States, en route to the Philippine inauguration with a party of congressional leaders, left behind today assurances of genuine "love and affection" between his country and Canada. The vice president, who sailed last night aboard the liner President Grant, told British Columbians "this particular section of the world is safe" so long as the peoples of the two countries understand each other. In making the remarks when the party of senators, congressmen and other officials was entertained here last night, Garner commented his statements were "my own." He talked 8 and one-half minutes, which his colleagues considered a lengthy speech for him. Gondar was Ethiopia's capital from the middle ages to the middle of the nineteenth century.

EDITORIAL

THAT 18-YEAR GRID RULE

The opinion prevails among football fans that the 18-year eligibility rule in athletics will be nullified. The impression is growing among school authorities that the rule probably will stand. There is considerable down-state favor for it.

The Texas Interscholastic League, while self-governing in a way, is a division of the University of Texas department of extension. Roy B. Henderson, athletic director, is in no way discouraged by the blasts against the rule from the larger schools and some of the smaller ones.

Recently he wrote as follows: "Is football for the school or is the school for football? Are we more interested in winning a championship than in preserving this fine game for bona fide high school boys? What type of pupil should have the honor and prestige that comes from representing the school, the normal pupil who follows the educational program or the pupil who, because of irregular attendance, lack of application, or mental deficiency, has been unable to keep step with his fellows?"

"We believe in, and we are ready at all times to work for the ideal that inter-school contests, athletic and literary, are worthwhile; that they can be controlled and made to serve the school, its educational program, and its normal pupils. If this is wrong, the 18-year rule is wrong. If it is right, the 18-year rule is right. If it is impossible to make use of this spirit of rivalry, generated and stimulated by a high-powered sport like football, in the spirit of the main purpose of our schools, and if a school following good, sound educational policies cannot be provided with fair and equal competition, the sooner it is known and the attempt abandoned, the better. We think the 18-year rule is the answer."

The NEWS has pointed out a number of fallacies in this argument in the past, and it is still unconvinced by Mr. Henderson's line of reasoning. It wishes to say, additionally, that the sport should not be guided by the interests of the few boys in every school who engage in competitive football. It matters not whether they are old and young in the sense that every coach has use for only about 20 boys in competitive sports. The others benefit from the gridiron training they receive, though they do not play competitively. And as for the good of the students generally, how would playing of 20 younger boys help the school any more than the playing of 20 lads somewhat more able to stand the grind of modern competitive high school football for which Texas is famous? Maybe we are lacking in idealism, but it appears to us that the pupils generally are still interested in putting out the best team possible, and that they are more interested in quality and safety of play than in lowering the age limit.

But we recognize the general apathy toward the subject, if T. H. Shelby, dean of the department of extension, is right in assuming that receipt of only four district protests out of 72 districts of Classes A, B, and C in Texas indicates approval of the rule change.

United States Will Delay Its Sanctions Stand

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (AP)—The United States government will delay taking a stand toward League of Nations sanctions against Italy until major European powers have decided upon a definite course of action.

This word was passed in official quarters today after Secretary Koper had said that the national munitions board of which he is a member was not yet prepared to make any recommendations to the president as to whether the American Arms embargo should be extended to include raw materials.

At a press conference yesterday, Koper was asked if a League of Nations ban of such materials might not be ineffective if the United States did not participate and he agreed that would "be inferable, at least."

Secretary Hull is not making any commitments whatsoever as to this government's future course. It was said in some official quarters that Hull would wait until Great Britain, France and other league members had agreed upon definite policies before the United States commits itself in any way.

Houston Lighted By Gasoline Fire

HOUSTON, Oct. 17. (AP)—A spectacular fire which lighted the entire ship channel area resulted from the explosion early today of three gasoline tank cars at the Eastern State Petroleum company refinery here.

The fire started when gasoline came in contact with the tiny flame in a switchman's lantern. The explosion was heard for more than two miles. The switchman, G. W. Hall, 42, was severely burned about the face and arms. He saved himself from more serious injury by running, with his clothes in flames, to a nearby pond and jumping in the water.

E. Shaughnessy, 31, an employee of the refinery, suffered a slight injury to his right leg when he made a 12-foot jump from a loading platform to escape the flames.

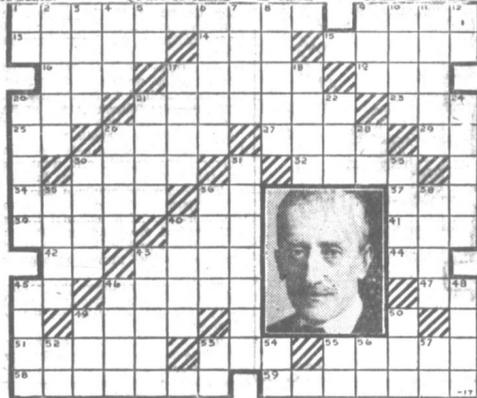

The painful bite of large centipedes may on occasion endanger life.

THE NEW DEAL IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Scads of New Dealers have been out around the country lately and many of them are now back on their jobs.

A symposium of off-the-record reports from these fellows shows they're distinctly more optimistic about the 1936 election than they were one month or two months ago.

They agree Roosevelt will have a "fight" and most of them insist it will be the "dirtiest fight" ever seen in an election campaign. They are just as bitter about the millions they expect big business to raise to defeat the president as Republicans have been about the billions of work-relief money which the G. O. P. terms a "campaign fund."

Most New Dealers used to regard the work-relief money as a sort of campaign fund, too. But now they're worried over the extent to which the WPA program may also become a liability.

The stronger belief here in the inevitability of Roosevelt's re-election has been partly due to the good popular reception F. D. had on his cross-country trip. But it's much more due to the fact that the traveling observers find, as they found a year ago, that neither Republican candidates nor issues are stirring up popular enthusiasm. Which perhaps is a lucky thing for Democrats, because these observers also found almost universally:

1. General resentment about the looseness of relief expenditures. Harry Hopkins can reply that responsibility for this rests with local administration, but nobody pays any attention. Graft, inefficiency and odorous politics are charged up to Roosevelt.

2. The cities are still convinced that AAA's "slaughter of little pigs" is to blame for the high price of meat. And most people in the cities judge AAA on the basis of that.

3. People are bewildered as to where we're going from here and young people, especially, wonder what they're going to do for a living.

And, in vast numbers, administration men admit, citizens are worrying as to "where all the money is coming from."

In one state after another, Democratic politicians have reverted to type and are engaged in vicious factional battles. This is going to weaken the national ticket to a degree and will certainly result in some Republican victories in state elections where control is now held by Democrats. (Ohio and Iowa, for instance, seem fairly certain to elect Republican governors.)

Despite all that, returning political correspondents as well as interested administrationists are impressed by the failure of voters to demonstrate any love and affection for the Republican party, to indicate any desire to return to the "good old days," or to become particularly steamed up over anything Republicans are now offering.

In Michigan, eggs are now sold by the pound. Which makes it easier for the absent-minded husband who habitually orders a quart of sugar, etc.

National Recreation Congress suggests Americans do some serious playing. Still, Dora thinks you can have only so many players in a world series.

It's easy to recognize that Herbert Hoover's in the insurance business by his eagerness to discuss his policies.

Blood in House Cited By State In Murder Case

WICHITA FALLS, Oct. 17 (AP)—Three witnesses told of finding splashes of blood and strands of hair scattered about the Foster home in Burk Burnett on the morning Mrs. Ralph Foster's body was found there as the trial of her husband on a charge of murder got under way here today.

Officers told of finding the body lying in an outdoor storm cellar with a bullet wound through the head and a pistol under the body. They testified that the woman's body was terribly bruised. Both eyes were swollen, the lips swollen and split and there were at least five bruised spots on the stomach. Both arms and one leg also bore marks.

Strands of hair were found on the floor of two rooms, in a fireplace and in a wet mop. The officers said the floors appeared to have been freshly mopped. They told of seeing splashes of blood on the front porch, in the kitchen, on the bed and on the back walk.

Testimony was introduced to show Foster, a rural mail carrier at Burk Burnett, had come to a district Legion meeting in Wichita Falls the night of June 22 and returned to Burk Burnett the following morning about 2 a. m. Henry S. Neeley of Throckmorton who took Foster back to Burk Burnett said the defendant appeared to be either "drunk or doped."

The defense has already indicated it will contend Mrs. Foster took her own life. The state rested its case shortly before noon.

WCTU Endorses Neutrality Act

MEXIA, Oct. 17 (AP)—The Texas Women's Christian Temperance Union was on record today as favoring the national neutrality act. The union passed a resolution at the close of its annual session yesterday praising the act and asking deportation of aliens "who spread communism." The group also praised senators and representatives in Austin for voting dry in the first called session of the legislature just closed.

Another resolution asked legislation prohibiting liquor and tobacco advertising by radio. It was described as detrimental to children. Selection of the 1936 convention city was referred to a mixed executive board meeting. Dallas, Sherman, Beaumont and Austin extended invitations.

Referendum on Corn-Hog Question To Be Held Soon

Community leaders and vocational agricultural teachers from all over the county will meet with Parker D. Hanna, district agent, at the county agent's office which is now in the basement of the post office, Friday, Oct. 18, at 9 o'clock, to discuss the coming corn-hog referendum. Every eligible corn-hog producer in Gray county, as well as each of the 115 contract signers, is expected to vote in the national corn-hog referendum Saturday, Oct. 26, according to Willard McAdams, president of the County Corn-Hog Control association.

All farmers have a stake in the question: Do they favor a corn-hog adjustment program to follow the 1935 program which expires on Nov. 30, 1935? Therefore it is important to get the judgment of every eligible producer on the matter, he pointed out.

All operators and owners, or their official representatives, of farms which produced corn or hogs in 1935 may vote whether they signed corn-hog contracts in the past years or not. Community committees will determine the eligibility of voters. Each eligible person is entitled only one vote regardless of the number of farms he may own or operate, no matter where located.

The corn and hog industry, on the one hand, has a choice of continuing a production adjustment program designed to hold corn acreage down to a safe, desirable level and preventing an excessive increase in hog numbers. The alternative is to release control both on corn acreage and hog production at the risk that during the next three years the increase in hog production from the 1935-36 level will be greater than for any previous period in the country's history with consequent disastrous hog prices.

In the years before the AAA, every corn-hog producer would have had to deal with this prospect in his own individual way, with no means of guessing what the industry as a whole intended to do, and with no means of bringing about concerted national action to meet the problem. Now with their production control associations and their voluntary contract system, farmers as a whole are in a position to know what other farmers are going to do and to cooperate to keep supplies and livestock numbers in balance and thereby prevent the periodic uncontrolled ups and downs in pork production and prices, one of the major hazards to the industry for many years, as well as to the consumers.

AIRCRAFT RALLY NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP)—A late rally in the aircraft, following early improvement of scattered utility food, alcohol and specialty issues, gave today's stock market a better closing tone.

A number of the recent favorites, behind during the greater part of the session, also recovered moderately. Dealings were relatively quiet throughout. Transfers approximated 1,500,000 shares.

Baylor Student Killed by Fall

DALLAS, Oct. 17 (AP)—Miss Frances McHam, 18, of Paris, Texas, a second-year student in the Baylor university school of nursing, died last night of injuries received in a fall from a third floor window of the nurses home.

Bryce Twitty, superintendent of Baylor hospital, said death was caused by internal injuries.

Witnesses said Miss McHam walked to the window as if for air, placed her hand on the screen for support and fell when the unfastened screen gave way.

Already, one report from Deridawa said, 10,000 Italians have been sent into Eritrea because of General Graziani's fear of this scourge.

Emperor Selassie's last word to the newest reinforcements to leave Addis Ababa for the front was this: "You must never remain massed. Employ Guerilla tactics and be patient. Disperse whenever you see an enemy plane."

Seated on his throne, the emperor reviewed 50,000 native warriors, some of whom whipped themselves into frenzy as they rode past the throne. After the review, the emperor personally bade farewell to 4,000 of his guard, leaving for the front.

As these reinforcements left Addis Ababa, word came from Rome the Italians had named the deserter, Degiac Halle Selassie Gugsa, as Ras (chief) of Tigre province, of which Aduwa is the metropolis.

Gugsa is the son-in-law of Emperor Halle Selassie and went over to the Italians with all his forces. The Rome communique said: "General Emilio de Bono (commander-in-chief of colonial troops) telegraphed from Adigrat that he has had in review there the troops of the national army and those of Degiac Gugsa."

"He then announced the naming of Gugsa, in the name of his majesty the king of Italy, as Ras of Tigre."

The Italian program for the immediate moment, apparently, was one of cautious advance with stress on maintenance of communication lines of the rear.

Much of the equipment used by the Italians in the northern advance was of American make, especially the trucks and machinery equipment.

With this information came the disclosure from Detroit that the Ford Motor company had halted all exports to the African war area.

W. J. Cameron, company official, said the policy had been in effect since the outbreak of hostilities between Italy and Ethiopia.

There was no statement from Henry Ford, long an advocate of peace and sponsor of the peace ship to Europe in 1915.

Treble Clef Has Splendid Record For Three Years

Treble Clef club was organized in 1932 with a membership of 22, with a purpose of promoting music and appreciation in the community. Officers elected were: President, Mrs. Philip Wolfe, vice-pres. Mrs. A. W. Mann, secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Sam Irwin, directors, Mr. Thomas and Mrs. W. A. Bratton.

The club was organized as a choral club and devoted the first year to rehearsals of many familiar and popular chorus selections. "The Holy City" by Gounod was presented the first Christmas with Mr. Thomas directing.

The following year, under the direction of Mrs. Philip Wolfe, president, was a year full of good work and achievement. A dream came true during this year's work, that of combining a music study hour with our regular year's program. The year books were published and revealed both music programs and study programs each month.

The year was opened with an entertainment given as a social event for all clubs in Pampa. The first study program was given in October 1933.

The club sent a representative to the district meeting at Amarillo. An annual guest day was held in December. The Treble Clef club presented the Christmas cantata "In Bethlehem" by Kountz.

Jr. Treble Clef Is One Hostess For Convention

Junior Treble Clef club was organized in 1933, early in October, and was federated in the same year. Mrs. Philip Wolfe was director and sponsor, and to her the club owes much of its success. Dorothy Dodd was elected president, with Marie Tinsley vice president, by a charter membership of 10. During the year the membership was increased to 20.

Many concerts and public programs were given during this first year, and the club aided the senior Treble Clef club in various concerts and social activity. Thanksgiving was celebrated with a turkey dinner given by Miss Mary Parker, a charter member.

In September, 1934, Miss Helen Marie Jones was elected president, and Miss Marie Tinsley was re-elected vice-president. Due to illness Miss Jones' resignation was accepted by the club, and Miss Tinsley took her place to lead the club through a very successful year.

Six special programs were given

Third Year Begun By Philharmonic Chorus of Pampa

Late in July, 1933, an advance agent for a unit of the Freiburg Passion players came to this city, and desiring help on music numbers for the play, asked Mrs. May F. Carr to assemble and direct a chorus of Pampa singers.

Mrs. Carr asked all who loved to sing to meet immediately and start rehearsing. Thirty men and women responded, and from this group the Pampa Philharmonic Chorus was formed.

After the play, this group and others who enjoyed singing the better music met at First Baptist church to elect officers, draw up by-laws, and select a music committee.

For the initial performance of the chorus sang "The Holy City," Gaul, at Christmas. This program was at First Methodist church. Next was presented Maunder's "Olivet to Calvary" as a pre-Easter vesper service in First Baptist church.

After these two oratorios the chorus worked on "Stabat Mater," by Rossini, planning to sing with the Amarillo Civic chorus under direction of Emil F. Myers. This oratorio was given as the first program of music week, 1934, in Polk Street Methodist church, Amarillo.

The following Sunday, the Amarillo chorus came to Pampa and assisted in the same production in First Methodist church here, with Mr. Myers as guest conductor, Mrs.

TAHOCA CLUB IS SPONSOR OF JUNIOR GROUP

MUSIC APPRECIATION IS GOAL OF THE STUDY

TAHOCA, Oct. 17. — The Beethoven Harmony club was organized September 30, 1932 and became a member of the state federation in December of the same year.

The club meets once each month and carries out a definite work to encourage music appreciation among the members as well as outsiders.

The club is sponsoring the juvenile club, "The Do Better Music Club," which in itself is a very live organization. The membership of this club totals 20 to 25 and at the first meeting red and gold were chosen to be regular club colors and the motto, "Learn to do by doing."

The club makes a scrap book each year containing the interesting things of the year's program.

A course of study on the early American composers, using James Francis Cooke's "Young Folks Picture History of Music," was chosen as the basic study for the new year, using the Etude as a supplement study. Mrs. R. W. Fenton and Mrs. D. W. Gargnat were chosen as sponsors of the club.

The club will be represented at the eleventh annual district meeting held in Pampa.

Newly Organized Club at Dimmitt Starts Program

DIMMITT, Oct. 17.—A Music Study club was organized in the music room of the high school October 2, and will be known as the Dimmitt Music Study club. The object of this club will be to cultivate in its members and in the community the knowledge and appreciation of music and musical literature.

The officers are Mrs. H. P. Clemons, president, Mrs. Noel Gollehon, secretary, and Mrs. Harvey Youts, treasurer. The club will meet on the first and third Tuesday evenings of each month for the regular study program and each Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock Miss Mattie Mae Swisher will direct the members in choral singing.

The roll call of the club is always responded to by current musical events.

Charter members of the club are Mesdames H. P. Clemons, O. Stephens, Raymond Wilson, Harvey Youts, Ethel Womack, T. A. Singer, Noel Gollehon, Elmer Youts, Elvis Burch, Ted Woods, Frank Schooler, Goodwin Miller, O. B. Trimble, E. B. Wright, Elizabeth Stephenson, Carlos Reynolds, D. Neumayer, A. L. Stringer and Misses Elca Garrison and Myrtle Woodfin.

Carr as organist, and Mrs. Lila Austin Myers as pianist. This was on Mothers day, and all mothers were honored in this music tribute to the Holy Mother.

To round out the year's work the chorus turned to light opera and presented Gilbert and Sullivan's "Trial by Jury." Through courtesy of county officials, use of the district court room was granted for this production. It was offered to overflowing crowds on two evenings.

Assembling again in the fall of 1934, the chorus started another season. The music committee selected the great "Messiah," by Handel.

Since this is a yearly program with the Amarillo Civic Chorus, Mr. Myers asked that the Pampa chorus rehearse intensively and be ready to sing this "oratorio of oratorios" with them. On Dec. 16 the combined choruses from Pampa, Amarillo, and Hereford sang in the municipal building in Amarillo at 3 p. m., and in First Baptist church here that evening. Mr. Myers again directed.

The year closed with a miscellaneous music week program, with the Pampa Piano Ensemble assisting.

With Mrs. J. M. Dodson as president this season, and C. O. Huber serving as director since Mrs. Carr left Pampa for a new home in Tennessee, the chorus has selected "Elijah" as its oratorio for winter presentation.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGES

BY MRS. I. D. COLE, Amarillo, President Texas Federation of Music Clubs

To the members of the Seventh District Texas Federation of Music Clubs: Your state president is deeply grateful for this opportunity to greet you through the medium of this message. To record the past year's achievements of the Seventh District makes me humbly proud, believing as I do, that music club members are fundamentally ministerial in value to humanity.

I could not confine interest and accomplishment to one member alone, for all members alike have contributed a vital share to the realization of our goals. Club work as a whole is indebted to individual lives for the progress it has made. I desire to express appreciation of your loyalty, zeal and competence.

Be civic minded, and help to place music back in our schools, and our state university. We are constantly being overtaken concerning the deplorable situation in our state university because of no offering in the field of music. Under present conditions, young men and women are compelled to go outside of Texas for the training to receive a major degree in music. The trend throughout the nation is toward strong department of music to be established and maintained in our leading state supported universities. Texas should be definitely recognized in this splendid movement.

The state superintendent of education, states that at the end of the training of the boy and girl in the public schools of Texas, we expect every child to be able to sing at least 90 songs from memory. By 1936, Centennial year we will have taught all our Texas songs to 1,600,000 school children. Our federation of music clubs is cooperating in helping with this splendid program of public school music.

We are proud of our Texas young artist musicians, and you will be interested to know that our federation has loaned during the past year, about $1000.00 to young artist musicians, to further their studies in music. This loan is made possible through our student loan fund.

Three beautiful sites have been given to the Texas Federation of Music Clubs, in three of our state parks, for creative art centers. Funds are being donated by the individual clubs for the improvements.

Libraries throughout the state have well organized music sections. The greatest national music week ever held in Texas, was the immediate past one. There is a marked increase in subscriptions to the National Music Clubs magazine. To serve efficiently we must be informed, therefore let me urge you to subscribe for and read this splendid magazine.

May we favor the American composers and use our American music, making America the musical nation of the world. Our international music relations has done much for all American music concerts abroad. It is the reciprocal movement, in staging foreign music programs, under this plan the club has the satisfaction of knowing that it is definitely contributing to the recognition of American music abroad, as well as the cause of harmony. Club members encourage music in the home, and I urge you to sponsor the beautiful spirit of reciprocity with the neighboring clubs, by inviting them to take part on your programs.

At least one day yearly should be set aside as "federation day," a guest speaker obtained and a district or state contest winner presented if possible. When none of these suggestions can be carried out, a program given over to the great work of the federation is invaluable.

Be loyal to your efficient district president. My earnest wish is, that every club is represented at the district convention.

District chairman, it is YOU, who can give the clubs a vision of the goals they should achieve as your reports and plans will be the standard set up for them to attain. Clubs, do not fail to follow the club rating plan for a 100 per cent report.

Your club is a vital part of the district, state and national federations. Texas is leading the United States by a majority of 154 clubs. Isn't this a record, of which we are justly proud?

Through this club relationship our goals are set high even to touch the silvered clouds that send out rays of sunshine and happiness to others, as you are doing your part to help make Texas the greatest musical state. Yesterday is only a dream, and tomorrow is only a vision, but may every tomorrow be a vision of hope and every yesterday a dream of happiness. May this federation relationship enrich our desires to strive each day to work

By MISS MATTIE MAE SWISHER, President Seventh District Federated Music Clubs

To Pampa friends and members of the Texas Federation of Music Clubs. Greetings:

May I express to you my hearty appreciation for your cooperation in bringing the Seventh District convention to Pampa, a city of culture and hospitality. I am also grateful for your excellent work which enabled us to bring the honors from the state convention to our district this year.

Acquaintance with great music instills a love of that which brings courage and lofty ideals and tends toward clean, noble living.

Our splendid accomplishments in Texas this year should encourage us to continue spreading the Gospel of Good Music to every county and every town in the state.

May the Master Musician tune our hearts for the good music we are to render together during the convention, and lead us into loftier heights and greater achievements in Seventh District.

for the advancement of the master of all arts—music.

Let us assist in celebrating our 100th birthday, the Centennial exposition. The history of no nation rings with truer greatness than that of Texas. The romance of no country has been told under as many flags, and the history of music will be one of the outstanding features of the Centennial.

As a crowning glory to Texas during the Centennial in October, 1936, at Dallas the Texas Federation of Music Clubs, assisted by the Dallas Federation of Music Clubs, will have the honor of entertaining the national board of directors and committee chairmen, in the fall board meeting. In conjunction with the national board meeting, our national president, Mrs. John Alexander Jardine, anticipates having a national regional conference, to which all our members will be invited.

My gratitude to the excellent president and splendid members of the Seventh district, who are working valiantly in a close bond of federation responsibility, and now may I say that it is the desire of my heart to render unselfish service in the office which you have chosen me to fill. We want you to feel this is your federation, and we welcome your suggestions and inquiries, and shall at all times be watchful and mindful of your welfare. There is a deep consciousness of your loyalty, your encouragement and your never failing concurrence in all endeavors, which enables us to go forth with success. Coming together is an inspiration. Keeping together is progress. Working together is SUCCESS.

CIVIC CHORUS SINGS ANNUAL MASTERPIECE

Neighbors Assist in Yearly Amarillo Program

AMARILLO, Oct. 17.—Amarillo Civic chorus was organized under the direction of Emil F. Myers in 1914 at which time the "Rose Maiden" by Cowan was given. Since that time many progressive things have been done. The "Messiah" has been given annually at Christmas time for 11 years. It is now given each year with the cooperation of many civic club and choruses from all the towns in the Panhandle and one huge chorus of several hundred voices give in one concert this great masterpiece.

The Civic chorus has given the "Creation" four different times and Mendelssohn's "Elijah" three times.

Aside from the work in the direction of many music organizations in Amarillo Mr. Myers is the director of the Amarillo college of music and head of the voice department. Mrs. Lila Austin Myers assists Mr. Myers in the college of music which has been organized for over 22 years in Amarillo. Music courses in voice, piano, violin and public school music are accredited by the state dept. of education. The faculty consists of 15 members and during the life of the college over 125 noted artists have been brought to the Panhandle at an average expense of $1,000.00 each. The college is housed in a two story brick building especially constructed to be the finest private music school in the middle west.

The Amarillo Civic chorus will appear in the massed chorus that will sing the "Bridal Chorus," directed by Mr. Myers, in which every music club represented at the convention will take part. The chorus will also sing on the fine arts program.

MORNING STAR

Chapter 26 CHANGING EDWIN

Edwin was intensely interested in the house, in watching it take on character and charm in her hands. It wasn't at all the sort of house he had expected to have, and although he felt the differences he was unable to define them.

There was one minor crisis when she chose twin beds for their room. She didn't discuss it with Edwin beforehand, partly because Edwin hadn't yet learned to discuss intimate subjects without embarrassment, and partly because she knew without asking what his attitude would be.

She bought the beds, had them refinished and set up. Then, with a feeling of impending combat, she showed them to him.

Edwin stopped short on the threshold of their bedroom and his mouth became a thin, straight line. She had never known before that his mouth could look so like his father's and the discovery alarmed her.

She talked rapidly to cover the silence.

"The fortunate thing about it was that I found one of them and didn't dare buy it until I could be sure of finding its mate, and two days later Mr. Deems called to say he'd located its twin."

"What an involved sentence," she thought, and realized that Edwin had not heard a word of it.

At last he said coldly: "You might have told me beforehand that you felt that way."

Her heart sank. "My dear, it isn't that I feel 'any way.' Twin beds mean comfort; half the people we know have them. In the end you'll admit I'm right."

He dropped the subject, but she realized that he was dreading the pursed mouth and raised eyebrows with which his mother would express her opinion of his bedroom.

But he was trying, however, awkwardly, to contribute his share toward making the house a home. Like Emily, he was particularly interested in the garden, and suggested having Jarrett up from Birmingham to plan and plant it.

Emily disagreed. "Let me tell you my ideas first, and then if you don't like them we'll call in Jarrett."

They were in the garden then, or rather, the place where the garden would one day be, and Emily outlined her plans with gestures and quick sentences.

"Don't look at this wilderness," she begged. "Close your eyes and see the flowers. Will it do?"

He smiled at her. "Of course it will. I'd rather it would be your garden than Jarrett's anyhow."

Meals, too, required managing. The rules governing meals at Edwin's house were as laws of the Medes and Persians; you ate enormously at noon and were confronted with the remnants, more or less thinly disguised at supper.

She planned light lunches and well-balanced dinners, but while Edwin enjoyed the dinners he still felt cheated at lunch, not realizing that the sum total was the same.

"You really out not to eat a heavy meal and go right back to the office," she told him. "It's bad for you."

He looked doubtful. "I'll get used to it after a while, I guess."

She struggled hard to maintain conversation at the table, but there too his training was against her. Conversation in the Barnes household was a lost art; there was no give and take, save as Mr. Barnes gave and Edwin and Mrs. Barnes took.

Emily wondered with a stab of dread whether Edwin would expect as time went on to occupy the place in their household that Mr. Barnes occupied in his. She knew that she would never allow it, but she dreaded the struggle that might be involved in preventing it.

Very skillfully she drew him out to talk about business. Edwin's firm was an old, conservative house, but the clouds of national insolvency had gathered and already prophecies of extreme optimism were being issued by the hundreds.

The need for optimism, Jeffrey had confided to her, was in itself sufficiently alarming.

She discussed it, impersonally at first, with Edwin. "Suppose this turns out to be more than a temporary thing—what will become of all of us?"

He was casual. "We've managed to get through other times like it; we'll weather these. Our business has always been conservative anyhow; it can take more punishment than most of the others."

She could easily imagine that. Barnes, senior, would always trim his sails to the wind; the fact that he had continued to prosper in a day of chain stores proved that incontrovertibly.

"But you will promise to tell me," he persisted, "the minute you think we ought to cut down? I'll never forgive you if you don't."

He looked uncertain, and she pressed the point. "A partner in your business would know that; don't you owe it to—a partner in your life?"

His face softened, and the spectre of his father receded into the shadows. "You're—wonderful. Yes, I promise."

Edwin said rebelliously, a few days later: "Do we have to go to the Herron's tonight?"

Emily kept her temper. "Unless there's some really good reason why we can't, I knew you didn't have an engagement, so I told Ruth we'd come."

She had deliberately accepted the invitation without consulting him. Two evenings a week were devoted to their respective families; left to himself, Edwin would have spent the other five at home with her.

"I wish you had asked me first," he insisted.

"And if I had, what could I have told her except that you didn't want to come?" She was taking ruthless advantage of the fact that Edwin's rigid code didn't permit even the mildest of social lies.

There was no answer to that and he knew it. He smiled ruefully. "I play such a terrible game of bridge."

That's because you've played so little. You'll never improve your game without practice."

He wore a martyred look. "Do I have to improve it?"

"I hoped you'd want to. There's so little entertainment here that we can't ignore bridge."

That, she realized, was a mistake. He was hypersensitive about Elston, fiercely loyal to it; any aspirations were personal affronts.

"I'm sorry you're so bored with it here."

She protested quickly. "I'm not bored. But I like to go out occasionally and see people in order not to be."

He gave in. "Must I change clothes?"

As usual, he was immaculate. Edwin's neatness, she had learned from the conversation of the neighbors, was one of his best traits. ("And dirty towels all over the bathroom floor—my dear, I nearly go mad!")

Her eyes twinkled. "No, you always look as if you'd stepped from

CHORUS ENROLS 70 FOR FIRST YEAR OF WORK

Group at Hereford Gives Inter-City Concerts

HEREFORD, Oct. 17.—The Hereford Civic chorus, re-organized early in October, 1934, with Miss Mattie May Swisher as director, Rev. W. M. Griffin, president; Mrs. A. C. Hales, secretary; Mrs. A. O. Thompson, treasurer; and Edgar Pickett, accompanist.

The chorus rendered the "Messiah" in Hereford and participated in a joint rendition with Amarillo and Pampa choruses during the Christmas season. The state choir festival selections were rehearsed and rendered at two union church services in Hereford during the winter and by a small group of the singers in the choir festival at the state convention in San Angelo last April.

The chorus was especially honored by having their picture appear in the National Federation of Music Clubs magazine last spring and having the privilege of singing with the Amarillo Philharmonic orchestra under the direction of Christian Thaulow during the Panhandle music festival.

Stainers "Crucifixion" was rendered by the Civic chorus on Palm Sunday, assisted by Harry F. Taylor, tenor soloist from Eastern New Mexico Junior college. The year's work was brought to a close at the high school baccalaureate services when the choir sang two special selections.

Hereford Civic chorus had 70 members on roll last year. Plans are under way for another year of good work.

Childress Club, Long Active, Is Newly Federated

CHILDRESS, Oct. 17.—The Childress Music club is not a new organization, but has never been federated until this year. The club was organized years ago.

The beginning of the club year a musical tea was given to officially open a new year of work. Two honor guests were present at this meeting, Mrs. I. D. Cole and Mrs. Grace Godard, and each made inspiring talks to the club members.

Club dues were sent into headquarters and the club was federated at the opening of the new year and will attend the convention in Pampa.

a bandbox. Read your paper, darling, while I dress."

Ted Harrison was big and hearty and his voice boomed when he talked. Ruth was slim and rather quiet, but there was a quality of permanence about her that was reminiscent of Charlotte and Emily loved her for it.

The table was set up when they arrived and Ted, having boomed a welcome, wanted to get at once to business, as he expressed it. He loved bridge, and played it erratically but very successfully.

"We'll cut for partners and pivot after double rubbers," he announced.

It wasn't very bad, Edwin had good hands, and having made one game contract began to gain confidence. He even told, rather badly, a joke he had heard that morning at the office, and Ted laughed inordinately and said, "Pretty good!"

Emily knew that the Herrons would have enjoyed a highball, but they were too wise to suggest it.

She knew, too, that with anyone else they would have been playing for at least a twentieth, but no one had mentioned that, either. The Herrons were friends worth having.

At home afterwards she tried to draw him out. "Are you still sorry I accepted?"

He smiled at her, almost mischievously. "Are you trying to make me commit myself?"

"Yes," she said honestly.

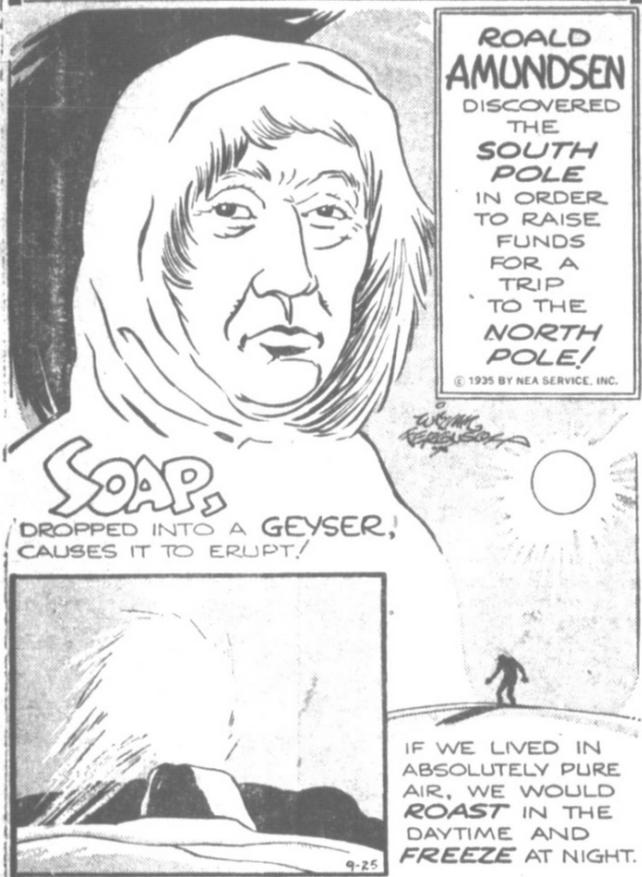

"Then I rather enjoyed it."

She kissed him gratefully and began to undress.

Emily learns, tomorrow, that even a new cook can precipitate a crisis.

STUDENT MUSIC ENCOURAGED BY LUBBOCK CLUB IN JUNIOR CLUBS--CONTESTS--RECITALS

LUBBOCK, Oct. 17.—The Lubbock Music club was organized in 1923 with Mrs. J. A. Rix as the first president.

In 1929 the club organized the junior and juvenile clubs, however, these soon disbanded and the MacDowell club was organized to take the place of these clubs. Junior and senior high school and Technological college students are eligible for membership.

The Lubbock club sponsored music appreciation in the public schools and also gave numerous pins in music memory contests. A silver loving cup was offered to the winner in a band contest, covering several counties.

Two benefit recitals were sponsored by the club in which were presented local talent, Miss Hortense Ragland in voice and Miss Margaret Hallsell in violin.

The Lubbock club also sponsored the Atwater-Kent radio audition in Lubbock for several years. Lubbock entertained the federated music clubs of the seventh district in October, 1931 to which this club gave assistance.

During the first few years of the club's activities the members worked very hard serving banquets to civic clubs to help defray the expense of bringing in outside talent that the standard of music might be raised in the community.

Music week is observed each year and furnishes special music in all the church of the city on Sunday and at the civic club during the week.

well be added that the book is not at all times accurate. Having gotten these matters off of the way, it is well to say that it is usually good fun.

His memory is probably no more accurate than yours or mine. But it has a faculty of picking out color—the bits about Durgin and Parke's corn cakes (the might as well have said steaks, for the steaks are better than the cakes), the anecdotes about famous and infamous persons, the blessed history of Parker House rolls, these are amusing and at the same time things rather characteristic of Boston and the Bostonese.

But one must admit a contradiction in the book. It is this: that Mr. Beebe seems to be one person when viewing the events of decades or centuries back, and another person entirely when viewing the recent past and the present.

But more recent protesters leave Mr. Beebe more or less cold. This department's limited experience with Boston leads it to think this does some injustice to the city.

Roll Limits of Junior Harmony Club Realized

AMARILLO, Oct. 17.—The Junior Harmony club was organized in Nov., 1931. The membership is limited to 30 and the roll is always complete. The course of study has been miscellaneous with guest speakers at different meetings through the year.

A Junior member appears on each senior club meeting. This club was represented on two state convention programs. The junior and the senior club entertain for each other during the year and various parties and teas are given at Christmas, Easter and on other holiday occasions.

All this work of the Junior Harmony club is under the sponsorship of Mrs. Lester Blakemore of Amarillo.

FAT GIRLS GET THE GO-BY—SLIM GIRLS WIN MEN

Loss Fat The Easy Way—Without Starvation Diets, Harsh, Exhausting Salts or Weakening, Irritating, Habit-Forming Laxatives

There's a reason why so many people find dieting slow and often times futile in reducing. The reason, doctors say, is often because a little gland is not working right. All the blood in your body goes through this tiny gland sixteen times every day. If it doesn't pour into the blood stream about one and one-half drops of vital fluid every 24 hours, many people take on ugly fat.

Now, physicians combat this condition by feeding this gland the substance it lacks—and millions of pounds of excess fat has been wiped out this way. Marmola Prescription Tablets are based on the same scientific method used by doctors. So don't waste your time or money striving to reduce with methods that are hard, futile or depend on harmful, health-racking salts and laxatives for their action.

Scanning New Books

The political campaign is beginning early, and so are the political books. It's no good counting the book indirectly intended as campaign feeders, for they are too many. But some very directly tell their story.

One is James P. Warburg's "Hell Bent for Election" (Doubleday, Doran), which is just about as strong an attack as can be leveled safely at a president of the United States. Mr. Marburg compares campaign promises with performance, and finds that Mr. Roosevelt has come nearer fulfilling Socialist Norman Thomas' promises than those of the democratic party.

John Dickinson's "Hold Fast the Middle Way" (Little, Brown) is less vigorous, but perhaps more thoughtful. He is Assistant United States Attorney General, a professor of law at the University of Pennsylvania, and formerly was Assistant Secretary of Commerce. Although of the administration, he can see both sides, and does.

And his conclusion is that neither radical nor conservative should have charge of our economic and governmental fate. He sees no benefit from the various "share the wealth" plans, quite the opposite.

Forrest Davis' "Huey Long: A Candid Biography" (Dodge) was "scooped" by the death of the Senator. But although his frank story of Huey now will have little bearing on politics, it still is worth reading for its factual content. Long was unique, and no more readable biography of the Louisiana dictator has been done.

Thumbing Reviews "My Country and My People," by Lin Yutang (Reynal & Hitchcock): a curious, amusing and ingratiating dissertation on China and the Chinese, by one of them.

"Yankee Arms Maker," by Jack Rohan (Harpers): the life of Samuel Colt, inventor of the revolver, the submarine mine, clever munitions salesman, smart manufacturer.

"Romantic and Historic Virginia," by Stephen A. Hyatt Verrill (Dodd, Mead): the opposite of Julian R. Meade's caustic "I Live in Virginia"; good text, good illustrations, good humor.

"Whether There Be Knowledge," by Robert Henderson (Lippincott); a nice novel about university life, in which the atmosphere is precisely right; not too rough, not too goody-goody.

For The Collector "Art Treasures and Intrigue," by James Henry Duveen (Doubleday, Doran): anecdotes about art and art collectors by an expert; the two sections on Morgan the elder are especially good.

"Shining Windows," by Kathleen Norris (Doubleday, Doran): Mrs. Norris writes again the highly successful Norris novel; you'll find it in your rental library.

"My Rendezvous With Life," by Mary Pickford (Kinsey): Miss Pickford (in person; not a movie) gives another dose of her philosophy to such as want it.

"If Memory Serves," by Sacha Guitry (Doubleday, Doran): the French actor-manager tells all; very gay, very dashing, very clever, very French.

"Boston and the Boston Legend," by Lucius Beebe; "Los Angeles," by Harry Carr (both Appleton-Century).

The credulous reader should first be assured that Lucius Beebe's "Boston and the Boston Legend" is not a history of Boston. It might as

MACDOWELL CLUB OF AMARILLO HAS MANY ACCOMPLISHMENTS RECORDED IN CAUSE OF MUSIC

GREAT ARTISTS HAVE BEEN PRESENTED TO PUBLIC

AMARILLO, Oct. 17.—Organization of the MacDowell Music club began late in 1921, and was completed early in 1922. It was named in honor of Edward MacDowell, one of America's foremost composers and musicians. "Excellence is never granted to man but as a result of labor," became the motto, purple and white the colors and the purple aster the club flower.

Early in the first year the Club was federated with the district, state and national and in 1923 it became a member of the Potter county federation of women's clubs. In the latter connection the club assisted in furnishing of the women's club rooms, in the city auditorium.

A substantial contribution was made to the students loan fund maintained by the county federation.

In the MacDowell club five departments; piano, voice, stringed instruments, wind instruments and drama. One of the earliest projects was the presentation of Edward Abner Thompson, the blind reader, in "Disraeli."

When the Presbyterian children's home was opened in Amarillo, the MacDowell club made contributions, visited the home and presented musical programs to the children.

The club to gave a public concert and a free-will offering was taken for the benefit of the orphan children. A presentation of curtains and shades for the superintendent's apartment of the home was made. The second years the proceeds were used to purchase song books for the children's chapel.

Each year, money derived from the offering has been given to the children so that they have some money of their own to spend at Christmas.

During the last few years three members of the club, acting as choral director, accompanist, and dramatic director, have visited the home and given the children weekly instructions, presenting them from time to time in public programs. In 1935, Mrs. Claude McAdams organized a rhythm band and obtained the instruments.

Adoption of a 4H girl is another club project, and such assistance is given her as recommended by the county demonstrator. Each year a special program is given during music week.

The opening luncheon each year is given in honor of the past presidents: Mesdames T. E. Johnson, G. C. McDaniel, Oscar Wise, M. D. Ramsey, J. S. Ulm, J. M. Webb, C. H. Tyler, C. F. Smith and J. W. Saunders.

In the summer of 1932, Mrs. P. L. Bottoms conceived the idea of the MacDowell Music club presenting programs on the radio. The time was obtained and every Sunday afternoon programs have been given under the sponsorship of the club.

During the year of 1934-35, the Choral club, under the direction of Mrs. Saunders, appeared at several social functions, at the Tri-State fair, and at the fine arts program of the seventh district federation at Plainview.

The MacDowell club is a subscriber to the Music club magazine.

were present and agreed to help. On August 12, 1935, one of the most outstanding social affairs ever given by the club was held at the Crystal ballroom of the Herring hotel in honor of three famous Amarillo artists, Miss Esther Johnson, Radie Britain Moeller, and May Peterson Thompson. One hundred and seventy five guests attended the reception and tea. The featured soloist was Miss Frances Clickman, of the Chicago Civic opera company.

In July an ensemble of violin, cello, cornet, marimba and piano was organized by Mrs. Bottoms with Mrs. Floyd Marsh as director. The ensemble as played many times, and has proven to be very popular.

The MacDowell boys club has been organized and federated, with Mrs. McAdams as counsellor, Mrs. S. S. Ledbetter, Mrs. West, and Mrs. McDaniel as assistants. Ten boys comprise the membership with a standing list of as many more. This is the first boys music club in Amarillo.

In August the club contributed to the Phoebe K. Warner fund. On October 25th, Mrs. Edward MacDowell will give a lecture recital at the high school auditorium.

Huge plans for the year have been formulated and the club looks forward to great things.

The MacDowell club will be featured on the fine arts program to be given at the convention that will be held in Pampa.

HEREFORD MUSIC STUDY CLUB DATES FROM LADIES QUARTET WHICH WAS FORMED IN 1912

DISTRICT PRESIDENT IS MEMBER OF THE GROUP

HEREFORD, Oct. 17.—In 1912 a ladies quartet was organized by Mrs. G. A. F. Parker. The next year with the addition of 12 others, this became a Ladies Chorus with Emil F. Myers of Amarillo as director.

In 1914 it was reorganized as the Hereford Music Study club with Mrs. Parker as president and federated in 1918 during Mrs. H. L. Broadwell's presidency.

The object of the club has been "to raise the standards of music in Hereford, to assist young artists and to encourage the study of good music by the youth in our midst."

It was through the efforts of two members, Mrs. Parker and Mrs. Geo. Barber, that music was made a part of our school system. The club carried on this work by giving victrolas and records to the schools as well as furnishing prizes for music memory contests.

The Hereford club has celebrated national music week each year since 1927 and has sponsored lyceum courses.

Study courses that the club has had are various courses, among them the Turner Busby courses.

Music Masters Old and New, the four year course recommended by the national federation. Other miscellaneous subjects, including Music of Today, were presented throughout the year. Texas and American music has been especially stressed on various programs.

The Hereford club is sponsor for a junior club and at present is sponsoring the Girls Glee club.

During last year the club did a nice piece of work when it adopted two rural schools and gave them three educational programs. Other accomplishments during the year have been the support of the club to the requirements of the federation especially the donations to the endowment fund, buying membership in the past president's association for Miss Swisher, president of seventh district, as well as making a gift of $50 to the county library.

Representatives have been sent to all seventh district meetings and delegates have been sent to state conventions.

The Hereford club is honored in that Miss Mattie Mae Swisher, one of their members is the president of the seventh district and will preside at the convention meeting in Pampa.

Mrs. C. J. Mountz is president of the Hereford Music Study club.

about the loss, but if you could have seen my internal delight at the sorrows he put on for the 'unexpected misfortune' you maybe would have scolded me for non-sympathy and indifference to the troubles of others. The boat was called 'Daniel O'Connell' and the gentleman was named Joseph Riggs—and that same Riggs, if now alive, hates me with all his heart, and for nothing else.

"Doctor Clarks left this morning for your place, in hopes to find in Houston a cheaper 'substitute' for the conscript cause than can be found in this region. He has less appetite for a personal engagement in the war than any man that I know of. Yet, he denounces most earnestly all others of similar stay-away-activeness. If he lived in Galveston he would not hesitate a moment about setting fire to his own and neighbor's house too. Then he would burn up Houston, then Hempstead, and finally this place, if need be. Well, I doubt it. The fact is I don't yet believe Galveston or Houston either will be burned up. Certainly the citizens have too much sense. If they have not I shall be very unwilling to admit any of them, however destitute, into our house—lest their duty might urge them to a similar course with our same.

"I have no doubt the ill-advised order of General Hobert, to hold Galveston if possible, will compel many a family to leave the island in utter destitution. For all such, my sympathies are working and it would afford us pleasure to aid them in what ever way we can. But when it comes to the enthusiastic, fanatical and sentimental sort who would rather destroy all they have, and quarter upon their neighbors forever, than let the Federals have even temporary possession of their houses, I would say let them shift for themselves in some dense forest, or some bald prairie. The man that voluntarily destroys his own support has no claim on me, that I will acknowledge, for any part of mine. If military necessity, or Military oppression should unexpectedly create a demand on my hospitality, I am as ready as any other man to do as I would be done by. But when anyone impoverishes himself and family merely to spite President Lincoln, it's another thing.

"That cotton article of the Bee I would regard as simply ridiculous, though evidently designed to operate against the interests of the federal government both at home and abroad. But I would consider him a shallow-pated fool, who would be influenced or even interested in such a trashy production. As nothing new from Galveston is reported I presume things have not changed much, so far as the Federals are concerned, since this time last year. But judging from the editorial appearing in behalf of the citizens of that place, as well as from the Dictum of the government to the respective county courts of the state in their regard a deal of unnecessary suffering and cruel destitution has been forced upon them of late. Can it be possible that the condition of things they seem anxious to inaugurate will actually occur within a few days? Will they burn their own city, retreat to Houston, burn that, then go upon their friends in the country, eat first and afterwards burn them out too? If such be their determination, God deliver us from our own countrymen. The Federals never could do half so bad.

"We are still gaining glorious victories, somewhere—I didn't notice the place—with a loss of from three to about 30 on our side, from which we would infer that if luck and provisions and powder, etc., hold out for 40 years we may overtake their victory against us at Shiloh, if you please. That is, if our interests on same be calculated. What enthusiasts we are to be so pleased with such small favors, that we cannot perceive the terrible misfortunes that precede, accompany and succeed the same. We boast that we can make our food and clothing in great abundance. This is all very well in time of peace but now we need some other things, just as bad which we cannot produce I mean guns and ammunition—these are essential to the war and if not supplied to us according to our wants, we must go under." The supplies from abroad are too limited and too far apart to do any immediate good or to be relied upon in the future. Tomorrow we may have something by the Central down train, provided any honest passengers come through. When Brown came through, he says his fellow passengers lied like pickpockets."

JUNIOR CLUBS DIVIDED WITH ADDED GROWTH

Piano Contest Was Early Project in Amarillo

AMARILLO, Oct. 17.—Junior Philharmonic club of Amarillo was organized October 29, 1921 with a membership of 146 enthusiastic boys and girls. The group federated during the same year.

Directors of the club were Minnie Hutchings Graham, chairman, Rade Britain Moiler, Millicent Lahn, Eleanor Rider, Mrs. Everet W. Glenn, Mrs. Lila Austin Myers and Mrs. George Williams.

Growth Is Fast for Philharmonic No. Two

AMARILLO, Oct. 17. — Junior Philharmonic club No. 2 was organized at the home of Mrs. W. B. Stevenson, counselor, Sept. 22, 1934 with 12 girls present. By the time of the Christmas dance and party there were 40 active members with a waiting list. Miss Margaret Guleke was elected president, Dorothy Coan, vice president, Kathryn Roach, secretary. Year books were presented, arranged from a course given at W. T. S. T. C. at Canyon, Texas on "The Old Masters."

Meetings were held twice a month at the various girls' homes, with the girls acting as hostesses. Senior guest artists were present at each meeting, and to each senior meeting was sent a junior to take part in the program.

An outstanding event for the junior club was an entertainment given for the club by May Peterson Thompson at her bungalow home in the roof garden on the Amarillo hotel.

Two noted artists were entertained by the girls, Marcus Gordon, pianist from Berkley, Calif., and Rollin Pease, deaf of music at Arizona State University at Tucson.

Other featured entertainments were Christmas party, Easter parties, and two formal dances at the Amarillo country club.

The club also sponsored Edward Blitz, youngest artist ever to appear with the Amarillo symphony. Assistance was given in the way of selling tickets for Hall Axtell's program of original compositions.

This club has made several appearances on radio programs and sent delegates to both district and state conventions.

The most entertaining event sponsored by the club was the Mexican musicale given at the Amarillo country club when the program was given in Spanish and translations were made when necessary.

Refreshments were imported from Old Mexico and all the decorations and favors were in typical Mexican theme. The entire program was composed of Mexican numbers arranged in duet, trio, solo and sextette form.

The year's work was closed with the installation of officers at a very attractive luncheon at the Rose Bowl tea room, installing Kathryn Roach as president, Elizabeth Means as treasurer and Margaret Esther Hill, secretary. The outgoing president was presented with a junior club pin and following the luncheon Mrs. Stevenson, club counselor, entertained the girls with a bridge party. All these meetings were attended by an average of 35 girls and all the girls gave their part of the programs which brought to a close a very successful year of work for the Junior Philharmonic club No. 2.

Establishments of the club during the years of beginning were, sponsoring a piano contest held to select a representative of the club to appear on the program of the district federation of women's clubs at Plainview. This was said to be the first contest of its kind in the Panhandle. The present counselor of this group, Miss Margaret Harris was the winner of this first contest.

The club has continued to be active during the years. In 1933 it was divided into two groups thus now there are two Philharmonic groups, numbers one and two.

These clubs take part in the district and state federation conventions and in many other public programs.

During the past year the club entertained the senior club with a program, gave a silver tea and sponsored several radio programs. Mrs. W. L. Burns and Mrs. L. L. Travis assist Miss Harris in the direction of the club activities.

AUSTIN, Oct. 17.—Much has been written of Civil War activities from the point of view of the loyal Southerner, and "inside" information as to conditions during the early stages of the conflict has been published from the angle of the private and the officer. But in the Peebles papers, now in the archives of the University of Texas library, we find a frankly stated analysis of early maneuvers from the pen of a Northern sympathizer living in the South. Dr. R. R. Peebles, a Texas physician, did not hesitate to express his opinions concerning the cause of the war, nor to discuss the military tactics of the opposing forces. From Pleasant Hill, Texas, on May 26, 1862, he wrote the following letter to his friend, D. J. Baldwin, who resided at Houston. This letter, among other correspondence from Dr. Peebles was found in Baldwin's possession when he was arrested for his activities in behalf of the North, and was undoubtedly one of the reasons for the later arrest and imprisonment of Dr. Peebles on a similar charge.

"Dear Sir," he wrote, "In the very pleasant anticipation of a letter from you this day at about 3 o'clock, I begin this—I have tried to keep up with the run of federal matters as published to us from time to time, and as I have kept the same, on the 1st Pro'mo are to be completed about 30 Iron Clad improved Gun boats—I think about half of the Western waters, that is Louisville and St. Louis, balance in the Northeastern States, somewhere.

"Any of them is to be vastly superior to the 'Mareassas', which went down at a single broadside, the 'Virginia', and even the 'Monitor.' Calculating from this, I cannot doubt that the great bulk of the Federal work will be completed by the 15th of June, at least. So soon as the Gunboats aforesaid reach their appointed places, and all the measures to support them have been completed, then you may expect General McLellan, General Fremont and General Hallick to make their respective and simultaneous moves. Burnside, Foote and Farragut, with their naval armaments, will act in concert with them. And unless a most extraordinary reverse and consequent change of program occurs I shall look for McLellan to be victorious, as it were, today, and Burnside, tomorrow, the former's disengaged troops to take possession of the latter's conquests as fast as made. Fremont and Hallock will immediately 'follow suit,' while Foote and Farragut will be equally ready to 'take in the tricks' and 'keep the same.' This, I think, will be about the way of it—though circumstances may arise to precipitate events, out of, or in advance of the order I have set forth.

But, be it as it may, the 15th of June, in my opinion, will prove to the most incredulous Confederate that he hasn't one solitary reasonable hope left him. Some about Hempstead have just heard of the 'confiscation act,' and are in dread of its consequences. I was asked by an excellent citizen of the place if it didn't alarm me. I answered it did, about twelve or fifteen months ago, but that from long contemplation of same, I had become less nervous about it than he now seemed to be. He replied that the act in question was but recently passed; I admitted the fact, but added that myself and all other good Unionists had anticipated the same as a necessary consequence of the course adopted by the Southern States, to endure the election of a Northern president for the purpose of an excuse for a most impotent, though sanguine attempt, to dissolve the American Union. He seemed to be astonished and remarked that he never had concurred in the reasoning of others, that the measures of the federal government even in regard to slavery had become intolerable oppressive to the southern portion thereof. I swiftly rejoined that he should have advocated and openly maintained that opinion to the last—then, maybe, others would have had courage to the same end. And this 'confiscation act' that alarmed him so much could have had no terrors for any of his sort. Unfortunately, he is a justice of the peace, and has in some way compromised himself by taking the oath as a Magistrate to support the constitution and laws of the Confederacy. I advised him to keep quiet and it might be that some way of redemption would be opened unto him, and further observed that I felt sorry for a great majority of my friends about Hempstead; though very few of them had ever evinced much sympathy for me, when it was supposed I was obliged to go under.

"In conclusion I may say that I thought I brought that man to his reflections—but I doubt if he will profit by them. I once told a gentleman who didn't care much for me, that I had been at his Kubboat, loaded with a very valuable engine, and searching for a Roiling hull worth at least $50,000 and that I thought the same was in a sinking condition. He was very much obliged to me, but said 'You must be mistaken.' I left him, and in three hours afterwards, he found out, though too late, that I was right. If he had regarded my warning, there was plenty of time to have saved both boat and cargo. I was only 23 years of age then, and I made no outward exultation

STUDY OF WORLD'S FAMOUS MUSIC IS PURSUED BY THE PLAINVIEW CLUB MEMBERS

Club Was Hostess To Convention Last Year

PLAINVIEW, Oct. 17.—The Music Study club was organized February 17, 1929, at the home of Mrs. Arilla Peterson, who is one of the most active members at the present time. The Music Study club is indebted to Mrs. Peterson for sponsoring the organization.

At the first meeting seventeen women cooperated in organization. Officers were elected and the constitution and by-laws were written.

During the first club year the programs were made out and programs were given, mostly of a musical nature. A study of music and a more definite program was followed the second year, including plain song, art song and simple folk songs of the different countries, and also the sponsorship of an artists course.

The third year began the study of music of the Chinese, Japanese, Hindu and Hebrews on down to the early classical period. Following the study of music of foreign lands the study of the classical period was begun and many interesting and helpful facts were developed.

Intimate acquaintance was made with Scarlatti, Gluck, Bach, Haydn, Handel, Mozart, and others. Another feature program given during this time was one presented by Mrs. Alice Hackett on educational musical development, designed to interest young musicians.

The third year's work of the club was followed up thoroughly by the study of romantic music. The characters of Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Liszt, Wagner, Schuman, and Schubert were outlined and many other composers who lived during the early modern times including, Brahms, Dvorak, Tschikowsky, Bizet and Flotow.

In 1929 the club made a study of music of our own country and formulated programs of all composers of the early times when music began to assert itself in compositions.

A study of John Fasker Howard's complete text, "Our Beginnings in American Music" was on year's work for the club and in connection with this study a guest artist, Mrs. Nita Akin of Wichita Falls, was featured in a brilliant and beautiful organ recital.

The study of opera and symphony was the theme for which the club meetings for last year were arranged and the club presented Chas. M. Courbian, organist of Chicago for the pleasure of music lovers in Plainview.

The new club year will cover the life and compositions of Franz Schubert.

Membership of the Music Study club is composed of active members, associate members and patronesses.

Programs have always been given during national music week. Plainview was the hostess for the seventh district convention of federated music clubs last year.

Past presidents of the Music Study club are Mrs. Arilla Peterson, Mrs. Carl Goodman, Mrs. Horace Belew, Mrs. Myrtle Smith, Mrs. Ray Knowhizen, and Mrs. A. H. Mabry, who is the president of the club this year.

COLLEGE GIRLS FORM LUBBOCK JUNIOR BRANCH

MACDOWELL CLUB IS SPONSORED BY WOMEN

LUBBOCK, Oct. 17.—The MacDowell club was organized in September 1931, at Lubbock, under the auspices of the Lubbock Music club, with Mrs. Von Tunglen as sponsor. However, Mrs. Von Tunglen soon left Lubbock and Mrs. Richard L. Douglas was made sponsor of the club in her place.

The club continued through the years 1932-34 under the able direction of Mrs. Douglas. After disbanding for the summer months, the club met again October 7, 1934 at the home of Mrs. J. T. Shaver, the newly appointed sponsor.

The club was organized for a dual purpose: to give students of music a chance to become more adept in performing before an audience, and to form a club wherein the young people interested in music might have the chance of beneficial association.

The organization met on the first Monday of each month at the engineering auditorium of the Texas Technological college. During the past year the meeting night was changed to Tuesday night and all meetings were attended by an average of 20 members.

Club members enjoy two annual affairs of note each year, a guest day at the Hilton hotel and an outdoor picnic in May. Most of the members are students who attend the college, so meetings are discontinued during the summer.

Programs consisted of 10 numbers for each meeting, the numbers being divided as evenly as possible between piano, voice, violin and other instruments. They were grouped according to the nationalities of the great composers and to the great periods of musical history. Copies of some of the programs were printed and kept for future use.

The club operates under a constitution and by-laws, with a president, vice-president, recording secretary, corresponding secretary, treasurer, reporter and many committees.

Among the other aims of the club is that of creating good fellowship among the members and music appreciation among the citizens of Lubbock.

Mrs. J. T. Shaver is the acting counsellor of the MacDowell club and it is under her able leadership that the club is looking to a bigger and better year than ever before.

Harry Lyman; pianist, Mrs. Walter F. G. Stein; and publicity chairman, Mrs. Ralph Dunbar.

Special committees named were: Music, Mrs. Bob McCoy, Mrs. Ray Huling, Mrs. Philip Wolfe, Mrs. Walter F. G. Stein, and Mrs. Bob Chafin; year book, Mrs. Philip Wolfe, Mrs. J. W. Garman Jr., Mrs. Walter F. G. Stein and Mrs. Bob Chafin; membership, Mrs. Sam Irwin, Mrs. E. W. Voss and Mrs. W. L. Brummett; delegate to the Council of Clubs, Mrs. Dave Dodge.

The membership is composed of active, associate, and honorary members.

Special entertainments outlined for the coming year include, Christmas cantata, Christmas party for members, husband and guest night, observance of national music week, annual luncheon and the entertainment of the 11th annual district convention.

One program already given this year was a benefit program sponsored by the P-TA for the school shoe fund.

The Treble Clef club cooperating with the Jr. Treble Clef club and the Philharmonic Chorus is entertaining the district convention at which time a very extensive program will be carried out.

The club has 30 active members and looks forward to big things the coming year.

The club entered in the Tri-State fair contest competing with several other clubs in the district for prizes given the chorus groups, and won first place with an award of 10 dollars. A 30-minute broadcast program was presented over KGNC also at the Tri-State Fair grounds.
