ITALIANS NOW IN DALLAS TO CLINCH DEAL

OIL WOULD BE SHIPPED TO GERMANY, SAYS NEWSPAPER

DALLAS, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Dallas Times-Herald printed today under an 8-column headline a story that Premier Mussolini wants 50,000,000 barrels of East Texas crude oil to supply the Italian war machine.

Agents of the Italian government have been in Dallas seeking connections with East Texas wells which would give them this amount of oil, the newspaper said it learned. A prominent oil man, whose name was withheld, was quoted as saying these agents had conferred with him the last few days and that they were offering $1.15 per barrel for crude oil delivered on the Gulf Coast.

The oil would be shipped to Germany and forwarded from that country to Italy, the newspaper said. To be eligible to participate in the deal, the seller must have 225,000 barrels of oil ready for immediate delivery, with the remainder to be delivered within two years.

The newspaper said it learned that Italy was getting all the low gravity oil it needs from Rumania. The oil man was further quoted as saying he has not entered into contract to sell this oil, as requested, principally because he did not want to "sell himself up" for the two-year period, as he would be required to do.

He said he did not know whether any other oil concerns in this section had entered into the prospective deal.

However, he did say, according to the Times-Herald, that this insistence on obtaining East Texas oil because of its high gravity would do much to offset the efforts of those interested in other fields to keep down the East Texas allowable.

Famed Novelist Of Texas Dies

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP)—Miss Dorothy Scarborough, 58, author and associate professor of English at Columbia university, died today.

Born in Mount Carmel, Texas, she was graduated from Baylor university, Waco, and subsequently studied at the University of Chicago, Oxford, and Columbia. From 1904 to 1914 she was an instructor in English at Baylor.

Her work included many short stories and of these novels: "The Wind," "Impatient Griselda," "Unfair Sex," and "Can't Get a Red Bird."

The funeral will be Saturday morning.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Douglas Scarborough McDaniel, Richmond, Va., and a brother, George Scarborough, a playwright, Los Angeles.

Burglary Reward Is Offered Here

The city commission, in special session last night, authorized Chief of Police Art Hurst to offer a reward of $100 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any person burglarizing a residence within the city limits.

Several burglaries have been burglarized recently. The heaviest loser was Dr. H. H. Hicks whose house was ransacked while he and Mrs. Hicks were out of the city over the week-end.

Chief Hurst urges persons leaving the city, even for a night or weekend, to notify the police. In that way the police will be able to drive past the residence from time to time and try the doors and windows. Many persons notified the police when they went on their vacation during the summer months and not a single house was burglarized.

Missourian Killed On Perryton Farm

PERRYTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Frank Morris, 24-year-old farm hand of Harrisonville, Mo., was killed when caught between a wheat drill and tractor on the farm of his cousin, John Flockin, late yesterday.

Morris, in some manner, was caught between the drill and the tractor as he stopped to adjust the hitch. The accident occurred about 2 p. m. but relatives did not find his body until four hours later. It was standing erect and the tractor was still running.

I Saw . . .

Thirty-seven high school boys and girls, pupils of Miss Claudia Everly's English three and journalism class in White Deer, here this morning. They visited in the NEWS about two hours, inspecting the "67" teletype machines and the various machines in the composing department. Among the students were Fay and Ray Bunker, 17-year-old twin brothers, both too good-looking to be the newspapermen they want to be. The only way one can tell them apart is that Ray (or is it Fay) has a scar under his right eye.

ITALIAN ARMY CAPTURES MAKALE

UCLA DEAN IS NOW CONFIDENT THAT TED KEY IS INELIGIBLE BUT RESUMES HIS SLEUTHING

VAUGHN CHARGES LETTER TO HIM WAS INTERCEPTED

AMARILLO, Nov. 7 (AP)—Dean Earl J. Miller of the University of California at Los Angeles said today that upon his return to Los Angeles that he would recommend that the UCLA football team known as Ted Key be withheld from further football competition "unless additional evidence is uncovered." Dean Miller planned to return to Panhandle, from where the Bruin football team obtained his credentials, to check further into the school records of the R. F. (Ted) Key who attended school there.

AMARILLO, Nov. 7 (AP)—Convinced that the ramming fullback known as Ted Key at the University of California at Los Angeles is ineligible for football, Dean Earl J. Miller of U. C. L. A. continued an investigation of the player's identity here today.

With the gridiron ace missing from the college campus, Miller resumed his sleuthing after weighing a mass of contradictory evidence as to whether the fullback is R. F. (Ted) Key, as he is enrolled, or Clois Francis (Shorty) Key, a brother of Ted and former grid luminary at the Texas School of Mines, as it has been charged.

In view of the evidence he have found so far, Miller said, "I am convinced that our Ted Key is not eligible, but I want to find out everything I can about this case before I return to Los Angeles."

Miller's contention that the fullback is Ted Key, Miller had statements from the player himself, from his father, James Daniel Key, from a brother, Earl (Ox) Key, former S. M. U. football star.

'EX-PRESIDENT' OF U. S. DIES IN EAST TEXAS

Was Sub Hand-Shaker for President Harrison

PALESTINE, Nov. 7 (AP)—Colonel George A. Wright, 90-year-old Confederate veteran who once served 40 minutes as "president" of the United States, died last night.

Col. Wright served twice as Palestine's mayor and was perhaps the most colorful of all East Texas pioneers and a lovable figure in that section of the state.

Years ago Col. Wright was invited to make a train trip from Palestine to Houston with the late President Benjamin Harrison. Crowds gathered at every village and the president wearily waved from the rear platform.

Finally, he jestingly "appointed" Col. Wright as president in his place and asked him to stand on

PIANIST WILL TELL STORIES TO CHILDREN HERE NEXT SATURDAY

Stories, pictures and costumes of children who live in the Balkan states of southern Europe will be brought to children of this community Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the First Methodist church by Miss Esther Johnson, our greatest woman pianist, who will give a concert here next Thursday evening, November 14, at the city auditorium.

Last Saturday morning at Amarillo she conducted the story hour at the Potter County Public library where more than 100 children heard her tell tales of old Serbia, Greece, Yugoslavia. Standing room was at a premium and more than 100 children were turned away. The children listened breathlessly and wide-eyed as Miss Johnson charmed the children with her stories.

The pianist was persuaded by her concert sponsors here, the Boy Scouts of Troop 80, to tell the stories to Pampa children. Every child in the community is invited to the story hour. Admission will be free. Seating accommodations will be provided for several hundred children. The five-year olds will

Bill To Control Liquor Is Passed By House, Senate

Two Bills Are Now At Conference Stage

AUSTIN, Nov. 7 (AP)—An initial effort to reject committee amendments modifying the house omnibus tax bill failed in the senate today.

The first test of strength was revealed by a 14 to 13 vote adopting an exemption of gas, electric and water utilities operating in towns of 2,500 or less. The house bill would have increased the gross receipts levy one-fourth of one per cent on that group.

Senator Clint Small of Amarillo, defending the exemption, announced a selective sales tax would be offered.

"Every vote for an old age pension was a vote for a decent sales tax," he said, adding that "all this idea of swatting the rich should be gotten out of your minds."

Especially, he said, is it important that representatives of Scouting in all the council towns be present before 4 p. m. next Sunday, when the annual meeting will be held at the Herring. Nominating and budget committees will make their reports.

Regional and highest national officers of Scouting with distinguish this meeting through their presence. The public is invited to hear them at the Crystal ballroom of the hotel. Tickets to the luncheon are 60 cents and are on sale at local Scout headquarters in the city hall.

Many of those present will remain for the 6:15 p. m. banquet at which the national officers, including Dr. James E. West, chief Scout executive of New York City will be present. Banquet tickets are $1 each.

Council officers will have a breakfast Monday morning, November 11, and several conferences before adjourning. Ten councils of this region will be represented at the convention.

Executive C. A. Clark said this morning that if the larger towns of this council are as well represented as the smaller ones, the Adobe Walls area will have not less than 200 men present.

MORE ABOUT KEY

PARIS, Nov. 7 (AP)—Coach Ulmon Clements of Paris Junior college said today he attended Terrill school in Dallas with Francis Clois (Shorty) Key in 1929, and that since then he had received letters from his former teammate at the University of California at Los Angeles signed "Shorty Key."

LARGE NUMBER OF ETHIOPIANS DIE IN BATTLE

BLACKS FALL BACK TO ENTICE WHITES INTO MOUNTAINS

BY R. H. HIPPELHEUSER,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

The Italian offensive against Makale, the caravan center of Northern Ethiopia, halted today within sight of the objective.

Waiting for supply trains to reach the front lines, the fascist forces occupied a series of ridges guarding the valley approach to Makale.

The full army of 100,000 men was under orders to advance with tomorrow's dawn. Extra precautions were taken. Airplane scouts reported a massing of Ethiopians in the mountains behind Makale.

By R. H. HIPPELHEUSER,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Gaining an early dominating position, the entire Italian army of the north, 100,000 strong, drove against Makale today.

Routing small bands of Ethiopians, who fled after brief hand-to-hand skirmishes, the fascist invaders mounted their artillery in the forenoon on a ridge guarding the valley leading into Makale, caravan center leading into the interior.

The first clash on the renewed offensive against Makale came near Hauzen, native Askaris, fighting under the Italian flag, encountered a band of Emperor Haile Selassie's warriors. The Ethiopians were routed after a sabre charge by the Askaris. Two Askaris were killed and a large number of Ethiopians were reported killed.

The center column of black-shirted soldiers, under the command of General Ruzigero Santini, pushed down the valley directly on Makale.

To the left was a division of Danakil desert warriors. Their objective was to strike a village eight miles due east of Makale.

On the right were the Askari troops under General Alessandro Pirzio-Biroli.

Natives along the route of the army told the Associated Press correspondent Makale was a deserted city.

Only citizens loyal to Ras Haile Selassie Gueza, the son-in-law of the emperor who deserted to the Italian cause, remained in Makale, the natives said. The rest of the populace fled back to Amba Alaji, 40 miles south of Makale. The natives told of a civil war between the Makale villagers.

Ras Gueza, who has been named by the invading forces as governor of the occupied area from Makale to Adowa, marched with Santini's black-shirts and hoped to be first to enter his old capital.

The natives told the correspondent the Ethiopian warriors were massing in "so great numbers they cannot be counted" around Amba Alaji for an eventual stand against further Italian advance.

Ras Seyoum has been in the mountains behind Makale with 100,000 men and more. According to the native informants, Ras Kassa and Ras Mulgueta, minister of war, were mobilizing more men for the northern defense.

There was no apparent effort to make a stand at Makale, although reports in Addis Ababa said Ethiopians were lined up north of the caravan center.

There was no official confirmation of these reports. Instead, a government official said "the northern

'BILLY' SUNDAY DIES SUDDENLY AS HE WISHED

Saved Million Souls; Last Act Eulogized Will Rogers

CHICAGO, Nov. 7 (AP)—"Billy" Sunday has exhorted his last convert to "hit the saddest trail."

The famed baseball-evangelist, the Rev. William Ashley "Billy" Sunday, died last night at the home of relatives here. He was 72 years old.

His picturesque baseball terminology and acrobatic gestures in preaching the gospel led his friends to term him "the man who saved a million souls."

While many ministers questioned his methods, few ever doubted his sincerity.

"Billy" Sunday's evangelistic career began in 1896 at Garner, Iowa. In 1903 he was ordained a Presbyterian minister in Chicago.

His last act on Tuesday was to mail to Oklahoma a memorial he had written in memory of the late Will Rogers.

Reared in an orphanage, his first job was with an undertaker in Marshalltown, Iowa, where he started his baseball career.

Mrs. Helen "Ma" Sunday was with him when he died. His last words were typically homely: "Ma, I've got a dizzy spell."

Then his head turned on the pillow.

"I'd glad he went that way—quickly," Mrs. Sunday said. "Billy always prayed, 'O Lord, when I have to go, please make it quick.'"

There were gloves on his hands when he died, but not the fielder's mitt he loved so well in his younger

DRACULA TO BE STAGED TONIGHT IN FANTASTIC, GHOSTLY SETTING

A ghostly scene that Edgar Allan Poe would have applauded and appreciated will provide the atmosphere for the staging of Dracula tonight by Pampa high school. The famous No. 1 spook show of stage and screen will begin at 9:30 o'clock in the city auditorium.

With the aid of gauze, dim, ghostly lighting effects, black columns and cobwebs, Ben Guill, director, has created a hair-raising setting for the presentation of the "horror" melodrama. The sets which formed the most difficult obstacle to presentation of the play, will be worthy of the story. They are entirely adequate, it was revealed at a dress rehearsal last night.

Mr. Guill's Dracula is surprising in his capability of portraying the difficult role, and if he were not enough reason for seeing the play, there is the bug-robbing maniac, Mickey Ledrick whose terror-stricken, macabre laughter should make one

WORDS O. E. H.

Words are things

Twinkles

Mrs. Gushaway says that while Pampa does not lack for gossip, there is less real data for gossip here than in any cities of like size in the country.

Speaking of moments of silence on Armistice day, we predict that there won't be many at the West-erner-Sandies football game.

We have an inquiry as to whether there is land here on which crop insurance against storms and drought can be obtained. We refer the letter to County Agent Ralph Thomas. The government is the only agency of the kind to our knowledge.

Passage of a drivers' license law is likely. But if the law is enforced no better than many other laws, it will be of no more value than the compulsory headlight test law. But we're in favor of making the law stick.

The West Foster grouch remarks that there ought to be a law requiring sidewalk section to be level. Stumping a toe at night or running your eyes into a low-hanging limb are not activities to encourage abolition of profanity.

Musing of the moment: Another believe-it-or-don't-is that much of Ethiopia is so high that night temperatures call for top-coats.

If the Ethiopians are not negroes they will pass for such until the war includes other parts of Africa. . . . Wanted: Half a dozen medium sized Pikes Peak soughs — the blue-slate color, for making the best pies we know.

Brevitorials

MANY THINGS crowd into this column for attention today. Tickets to the Oddsmen banquet at the Schneider hotel November 13 are on sale at the hotel at $1 each. Anyone who has been in the Panhandle 25 years and spent part of that time in this community is eligible to attend. . . . And don't forget the Red Cross annual roll call next Tuesday and on Tuesday following. With no community chest to supplement meager WPA wages and to aid the disabled, Pampa more than ever will need the Red Cross funds which for several years has been used to save lives and prevent suffering in emergency cases. Join; give a dollar.

And who has a name for Pampa's new fairground park? Strictly speaking, the project is a park and subject to ordinances and laws affecting parks. To the public it will appear to be a fairgrounds plant, with landscaping ultimately to make it a beauty spot. Submit your name suggestions to WORDS or Mayor W. A. Bratton.

SATURDAY BRINGS another selection. This one is of special appeal to the unemployed and to the schools. Uncle Sam wishes to give the Pampa independent school district $40,000 to relieve unemployment this winter. This would be an outright grant or gift. But he thinks local residents ought to do their share too. He requires that the school district spend $50,000 or about 55 per cent of the total. He will lend us the $50,000 and take our 4 per cent bonds as security. It is necessary to vote the bonds. The rate for taxation cannot be increased. The district has a considerable surplus in the interest and sinking fund and could buy up most of the bonds to be voted; however, it will save a good sum to buy its outstanding 5 per cent bonds instead. The construction would be very much needed 4-room additions to the Sam Houston and Woodrow Wilson schools and a high school auditorium. Only these residents, otherwise qualified, who have property assessed for school taxes may vote Saturday, hours 8 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Are you following the Jaycees' expedition to the North Pole to find Santa Claus? Are you reading it to the smaller children? This is going to be a fascinating story, well illustrated, about a real expedition. And if you're a hard-boiled adult who doesn't believe in Santa Claus we especially urge you to read it. You'll learn something and accidentally you might catch the Christmas spirit.

THOSE SANTA DAY (December 6) plans sound mighty good to WORDS. The parade is a dolly, dollie, bunnet, and hats will, for example, appeal far more than gaudy floats. And you can imagine how Skippy, our family pup, is going to enjoy his place in the parade. We haven't decided on his costume, but we're quite sure that he's wish a few ribbons and maybe a medal to indicate his prominence in the community. Just to be sure he will be an attraction, Skippy desires a position.

HARVESTERS STRIVE TO CLICK AS THEY SCRIMMAGE FOR BORGER BATTLE

SPARLIN WILL BE OUT WITH INJURED KNEE

COACHES PESSIMISTIC AFTER PRACTICE WEDNESDAY

Harvester football coaches were anything but cheerful after their charges had been put through a stiff scrimmage yesterday afternoon, scheduled to be the last before the game with the Borger Bulldogs here Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. It was rumored this morning that another scrimmage was set for this afternoon in the hope of getting the team clicking with early season form.

Word that Dencil Sparlin would be out of the game this week was announced at the scrimmage. Leon Noblitt and Jack Walstad were used at the center position and one or the other will start the game against Borger. If Noblitt gets the call to start at center, his brother, Ivan Noblitt, will start at guard where he has been doing some nice work. Sparlin's bad knee is in a cast. He may be able to play against Fort Collins next week, however.

The team was sluggish in its work against the second string yesterday. Some of the reserves gave stellar performances and the rail birds who braved the cold wind to watch the scrimmage, predicted that before the Amarillo game there will be changes in the Harvester lineup.

The Harvesters will be favored and will outweigh their opponents again on Saturday. The big fellows have entered every game this season with a weight advantage besides being the top dogs. Borger, in turn, has been the underdog in hope and weight and the team has come thru with some surprising performances.

Little Bulldog fullback will probably be able to pay Saturday, despite injuries received in the Quannah game last Friday. He reported for practice yesterday and looked about as fast as ever. It was still doubtful, however, whether Trotter, ace end and punter, would get in the game. He also was injured in Quannah.

Other members of the light but fiery Bulldog team stepped through a stiff scrimmage, showing pleasing fight and determination.

The Bulldogs will face the Harvesters with a midday backfield, packed with speed and a fine spirit. In Ramirez, Coach Mouldin has one of the fastest men in the district. Shanks is another midfoot who does most of the blocking for his teammates. Chambers, quarterback, passes effectively and does much of the line plunging, assisting Fullback Little in that department.

Trotter and Jones are a pair of ends who weigh 153 pounds each. Trotter drops back to do most of the punting. Both are good pass receivers. Barger and Shanks hold down the tackle positions. Although not a savy, the two make up for their lack of size in their ability to out-charge the opposition. Barringer and Neill are the guards. Both are effective in pulling from the line to run interference. Davis holds down the center position.

"We may not beat the Harvesters but we will give them a tussle," Coach Mouldin declared. "The team is in fine fettle. There is a spirit among the players that just can't be dampened."

Junior High And Gorillas To Play Games On Friday

Youngsters Looking Best Since Grid Season Opened

Looking better than at any previous time this season and with a new spirit, the Junior high team and the Gorillas will go in different directions tomorrow afternoon for games. The Junior team will be in Alameda for a tussle at 3 o'clock with the Gorillas in Stinnett for a battle at 3:30 o'clock.

Fans who have not attended work outs of two teams have missed something. The youngsters go through practice sessions with a fire and determination that would make the Harvesters ashamed of themselves, should they take an afternoon off to watch the future wearers of the green and gold.

Coaches Red Dennard and Bill Anderson of the Gorillas started the season with little material. Few of the boys had any previous football experience. The mentors have fixed the boys with a determination to learn the game and be good Harvesters next year when the new 18-year-old rule will stop the squad of all but seven or eight boys.

The Junior high team, under Tor Herold and W. S. Bennett, is the wonder eleven this year. The boys are well developed, many of them being bigger than Gorilla starters. The youngsters held the Gorillas to a scoreless tie recently and last week swamped the Wheel'r Ponies.

The Gorillas have fallen twice before Alameda and the Junior high eleven has determined to wipe out the losses and also have one on their seniors.

Panhandle And White Deer To Play Tomorrow

Football fans of this section will have a busy week-end. Two Class B games of importance will be seen by the steady customers tomorrow when the White Deer Bucks meet the Panthers in a crucial game. A win for White Deer would complicate the conference situation. The Bucks have lost only one game this year, while Panhandle is undefeated.

boys are expected to give the Tigers stiff competition.

Wide open football is in prospect. Both teams have tricky offenses, featuring plunges, end runs, laterals and forwards. Neither team will have much advantage in experience.

The first game of the series will be played in Panhandle at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon when the White Deer Bucks meet the Panthers in a crucial game. A win for White Deer would complicate the conference situation. The Bucks have lost only one game this year, while Panhandle is undefeated.

Other games in this section tomorrow will be:

- Groom at Whittenburg.
- Miami at Canadian.
- Prinos at Claude.
- Memphis at Glendon (night).

One game will be played on Armistice Day with Wellington at Shamrock.

Sports Roundup

BY EDDIE BRETTZ, Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP)—Here is how Michigan State outsmarted Pop Warner, football's original old fox, to stop Temple's winning streak last week:

Because the Owls did not wear numerals on the front of their jerseys, the Michigan Staters had trouble spotting the Temple backs in the tussle. Warner's original old fox, to stop Temple's winning streak last week:

Primo Carnera is hitting the hot spots occasionally. Jimmy Johnston is thinking of matching him with Buddy Baer. Stan Kostka likes pro football better because there are fewer dressing room lectures to listen to. This will be Ken Strong's last season as a regular player. He's getting too brittle.

Eastern fans wish Princeton could get out of that agreement with Yale and be open to a Rose Bowl bid.

Rival coaches are pouring the heat on Howard Jones, whose Southern California team isn't clicking.

Orders for the boys opposing U. S. C. are to go out and plug up every point they can. Which is one way of getting even for those one-sided 44-0 victories the Trojans used to roll up when they were riding high, wide and handsome.

KEY MUSTANGS ARE OUT WITH BAD INJURIES

RECORD AIR ATTACK IS PLANNED AGAINST RICE OWLS

By The Associated Press.

The Southern Methodist Mustangs were to entrain today for the west coast to defend their undefeated standing in an Armistice day struggle with the University of California at Los Angeles.

The Texas Christian Frogs, only other undefeated Southwest team were en route to New Orleans for their game tomorrow night with Loyola, while four other teams drilled for conference battles.

Coach Matty Bell of the Mustangs was worried over injuries of two of his key men. J. C. Cronman (Wetzel, star guard and one of the team's three captains, definitely is out of the coming contest with a twisted knee sustained in the Texas game last week. Bell said. Johnny Sprague, backfield performer, had an injured leg, and it was feared he would not be able to play in the intersectional battle. Charlie (Tuffy) Baker, 190-pound senior, was assigned Wetsel's post, and Jim Russell and Bob Turner, seniors, were groomed to fill Sprague's shoes.

Coach Dutch Meyer of Texas Christian took along 28 of his Frogs. He planned to give them a workout under the lights at New Orleans tonight.

Speed and aggressiveness shown by the Texas Longhorns as they prepared for their invasion of the Baylor Bears' lair Saturday in a conference tussle pleased the coaches. The Longhorns, reported in good condition and high spirits, were ready to throw their full strength into the game.

Looking for plenty of passes from the Longhorns, Coach Morley Jennings of the Bruins stressed a pass defensive and gave considerable time to his own aerial attack.

Coach Fred Thomsen of the Arkansas Razorbacks indicated his Porkers "might surpass the record of throwing footballs" in their game at Houston with the Rice Owls as he doctored much time to an aerial offensive, coupled with shifty running plays. Spruced practice was reported from the Owls' camp.

The Texas Aggies, with no game for this week, continued hard practice for their coming tussle with the Rice Owls. Building of sharper defensive plays and a ground-gaining offensive was stressed.

KEWANEE, Ill., Nov. 7 (AP)—Eight man football teams will be tried out in the little eight high school conference next season. Both guards and a halfback will be eliminated from the team. Proponents of the plain think an eight man team will reduce the risk of injury and make the game more dependent upon skill than strength.

RED CROSS AID TO VETERANS OF WORLD WAR IS IMPORTANT

COMMUNITIES ARE HELPED BY SERVICE TO WAR VETERANS

Among those classed by federal relief authorities as employable are many war veterans who are disabled and therefore unable to successfully compete in today's vigorous competition for jobs. These men would become public charges, it is pointed out by Alex Schneider, chairman of the Pampa Red Cross chapter, if it were not for the agreement between Red Cross and public relief authorities, which gives certain of these cases over to local chapters for supplemental service and relief.

"This arrangement does not necessarily mean that the Red Cross chapter gives prolonged support to these families in order to adjust them," he said. "The investigation service to determine eligibility to certain benefits may be all that is required in some cases."

"The Red Cross has staff workers and trained volunteers who are thoroughly familiar with the claims situation and may be allowed because of disabilities incurred thru war service, the benefits to which they are entitled under existing legislation. They understand the governmental procedure essential to establish evidence for their disabilities, and they have liaison contacts with officials in the proper governmental agencies to supplement the chapter's effort."

"Emergency help may be given, and is given over and over again, while the case is under adjudication. But it is social planning and claims service which is the outstanding Red Cross contribution, to find out whether or not the veteran is entitled to the security of a small check coming in every month from the government he served in the war."

"Red Cross War Service is a gift to the community as well as to the veterans. Few persons realize the amount of money returned to a community through compensation checks secured for veterans by Red Cross workers who had the goodwill and perseverance and skill to help war veterans in their time of need."

"In addition to this claims and compensation service the Red Cross is well known for its program for veterans hospital facilities near them. The Junior Red Cross sends gifts and greetings at all seasons of the year. The Gray Lady service, embracing hostess and recreation work in hospitals, has been given the highest possible endorsement by commanding officers and physicians at service hospitals, because of the therapeutic value of the service the workers have been trained to give to supplement medical care."

"Likewise in the service hospitals of the Army and Navy Red Cross workers have been trained to give to supplement medical care."

William Cullen Bryant was town clerk of Great Barrington, Mass., for 1818 to 1825.

U. S. Welcomes Mackenzie King

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—The government extended the hand of welcome today toward William Lyon Mackenzie King, Canada's new liberal premier who journeyed here to talk trade with President Roosevelt.

William Phillips, acting secretary of state in the absence of Secretary Hull, and a group of aides donned top hats to greet the premier on his arrival shortly after noon.

Basils of the conversation with President Roosevelt is the proposed Canadian-American reciprocal trade treaty which has been in process of negotiation for almost a year.

UCLA Team to Throw Passes

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 7 (AP)—Coach Bill Spaulding planned another session of pass throwing for the University of California at Los Angeles Bruins, apparently with the idea of beating the invading Southern Methodist Mustangs at their own game here Monday.

Some defensive work also was on the schedule but the U. C. L. A. mentor is worried more about his team's attack.

Yesterday he had five backs throwing the ball. Besides Chuck Chedire his star left half, Fred Plunk, Bill Murphy and Walt Schell, all members of the starting team, were pitching passes, as was Earle (Tex) Harris, who was switched to fullback Monday.

Harris, an end, will be used at either fullback or end.

Fabric for covering airplanes is now being made fireproof by chemical impregnation.

'Happy' Chandler Piles Up Huge Majority Over G.O.P.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 7. (AP)—Election of Lieut. Gov. A. B. "Happy" Chandler, young new deal democrat, as the next governor of Kentucky by a record breaking majority was indicated today on the face of slowly accumulating returns from Tuesday's state wide balloting. Maintaining a definite trend established early in the count, Chandler held a lead approaching 50,000 over his republican opponent, Judge King Swope, with tabulations slightly more than one-third complete. Returns from 1,412 of the state's 4,219 precincts gave Chandler 205,297; Swope 137,552. Chandler was leading his state ticket to victory. Every democratic candidate for a state office held a lead over his republican opponent, and a democratic majority in the state legislature was clearly indicated. Kentucky also voted for repeal of its 16-year-old prohibition amendment, and for amendment to permit state old age pensions. Despite a stiff fight carried on by prohibitionists, and despite a definitely "dry" trend in rural communities, a steadily mounting ma-iority was being piled up for repeal. Returns from 1,237 precincts gave 123,267 for repeal; 99,273 against. The state voted almost eight to one in favor of the old age pension amendment, today's returns indicated. Tabulation of 1,178 precincts showed 179,907 votes for, and 21,027 against.

Chandler held substantial majorities in seven of the state's nine congressional districts. Swope was leading in the seventh and ninth districts, tradition republican strongholds in eastern Kentucky. Chandler was elected over the vigorous protest of the present democratic governor, Ruby Laffoon, champion of the state three per cent sales tax which Chandler lambasted in some 600 campaign speeches in every corner of the state.

The Laffoon-controlled state legislature had stripped Chandler of most of his powers, and Chandler a 37-year-old happy-go-lucky lawyer, appeared to be headed for political limbo only a few months ago. He skyrocketed suddenly into public attention last fall, when, in the absence of Governor Laffoon from the state, he dramatically called the legislature into special session to enact a compulsory primary law.

Laffoon forces succeeded in writing a double primary law into the statutes, and thereby wrote their own downfall. Thomas S. Rhea, Laffoon's candidate for the democratic nomination for governor, led Chandler in the first primary, but went down to defeat in a bitter-end run-off.

Chandler is a tireless, glad hand campaigner. At one rally in eastern Kentucky, he estimated he shook hands with 5,000 people. He was handled during the campaign in the manner of a champion athlete by his companion and personal "manager," Joe Burman, golf professional of Danville, Ky. Burman told "Happy" what to eat and when to sleep, and gave him a nightly rub-down.

When Chandler moves into the executive mansion in Frankfort next month, he will bring an attractive wife and four young children along. They live in Versailles, in the Kentucky bluegrass country near Lexington.

THE PEOPLES COLUMN

ENDORSES BUDDY POPPY BY WILLIAM GREEN, President American Federation of Labor.

As a nation on Armistice day we offer proud and reverent homage to the memory of the great and glorious dead; they who people the silent halls of history, they who have been summoned before the jury of the centuries, they who died that Liberty might live.

And now Armistice day has found a yet more poignant meaning. While "In Flanders Fields" the poppies blow, between the crosses, row on row" above those who "are the dead," they who once "lived, felt, dawn, saw sunset glow, loved and were loved," yet they, their comrades, who live doomed to the prison of a chair, a bed, where once they fearlessly soared the air; they who walk life's highway with halting, crutch-supported steps where once they ran in eager joy of youth and strength—what of them? "Is it well with the child?"

They of crippled hands and broken bodies have made of the poppy of Flanders fields something more than glowing masses of color heaped each 11th of November upon the tomb of the Unknown Soldier at the Arc de Triomphe in Paris Westminster Abbey in London, the National cemetery at Arlington. They have made it a symbol of the courage to live. Never again for them will drums beat and the bugles call to speed them shoulder to shoulder with their comrades. The hands that held aloft Liberty's flaming torch, the hands that wielded the sword that Peace might conquer and Justice reign, can now but fashion silken poppy leaves.

Greater courage hath no man than that.

Have you given due meed of honor to that courage?

Will you wear a buddy poppy on Armistice day?

Capt. Kleinschmidt's Planes Now Winging Way To Santa's Toyland

EXPEDITION IS GOING WELL IN TRIP TO NORTH

By CAPT. F. E. KLEINSCHMIDT
Special Correspondent of The NEWS and Head of Expedition To Home of Santa Claus (By Wireless)

ENROUTE TO THE NORTH POLE, Nov. 7—We are making splendid progress and Mrs. Kleinschmidt and I are delighted with the trip so far. After taking yesterday we flew almost directly north and have kept steadily at it.

As Mrs. Kleinschmidt is an experienced pilot, she has taken her turns at the controls and thus we have gotten our rest. The cabin of our plane which we have decided to call the "Santa Claus Special" is so roomy and comfortable that we have been getting along in great shape.

As I am sending this message we are flying about 6,000 feet above Canada and "Red" Borland in his "Spirit of Pampa" is following closely. The air is already very cold and we are fortunate in having our Eskimo parkas made of reindeer skins with us.

Last night we ran into a heavy snow storm. Old Layluk, the north wind, screamed and howled all about us. The snow whirled and slapped against the windows of our cabin and the whole plane shuddered, rose and fell in the terrific wind. We were lost in a dark whirling and swirling world, and how things look where Santa lives. And the captain wasn't just positive before he left that he would be able to get picture of Santa himself. He declared that he would do his best, however.

While the expedition is under way don't forget that you should get your letters written to Santa Claus soon. Send them to The NEWS office and they will be wirelessly to Captain Kleinschmidt for delivery to Santa.

IN THE PICTURES
Shown above is the route of the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce expedition to the North Pole, where Santa Claus will be hunted in an effort to invite him to Santa day here December 6. Captain Kleinschmidt, head of the expedition, is flying with two planes and is wirelessly daily reports to Pampa Daily NEWS. One of these, and the story of the take-off, appear on this page. Read these wireless stories every day and watch for picture also wireless.

read The NEWS will be the pictures. The captain has promised to take a lot of photograph in the Far North and these, too, will be sent back by wireless to show the boys and girls of this community just how things look where Santa lives. And the captain wasn't just positive before he left that he would be able to get picture of Santa himself. He declared that he would do his best, however.

The big airplanes which had been carefully groomed for the long flight were rolled out onto the field and loaded with gasoline and oil. Then the motor was started and warmed up. The same was done with "Red" Borland's own Melanica monoplane which awaited him at Mineola.

"This is an ideal day for the start" the captain said as he went over the controls, gave the wireless equipment a final inspection and pronounced everything in order. We will make the very best time possible to the northern tip of Hudson bay. From there we will fly as far into the Arctic wastes as we can with safety.

If we find it impossible to reach Santa's home in the airplane we will proceed by dog teams and reindeer which will be provided by my Eskimo friends. Everything has been provided for so that there can be no great delay in getting to our destination.

"Red" Borland expressed disappointment at the fact that his start from Pampa was made so suddenly that it was impossible to get word to all the boys and girls of this community so that they could see his plane take off.

The wireless equipment which the expedition is carrying will be used to send back daily stories to The Pampa Daily NEWS. In those stories the famous explorer will tell about what he and Mrs. Kleinschmidt see on their unusual journey, how they are received and what they think of Santa Claus and his home. They will be interesting stories, for Captain Kleinschmidt is an interesting man.

Will accompany them with Eskimo (far clothing from last Arctic Expedition. Our Boeing transport is loaded and ready. Both planes leave daylight tomorrow morning. Regards to all the kiddies. "F. E. Kleinschmidt."

This is the message received last night from the commander of the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce expedition.

The NEWS' special correspondent at Mineola sent up the details of the departure of the two planes.

"Well, we're on our way!" With that as his parting message to the boys and girls of this community, Captain F. E. Kleinschmidt, famous Arctic explorer who is head-

Baptists Align Against Liquor, War, Gambling

HOUSTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Texas Baptists were aligned at their general convention today against war, gambling and liquor.

Unanimous approval was given a vigorously worded report that denounced war, denounced gambling in every form and pledged a finish fight against legalized liquor in Texas.

The report was presented by Dr. Wallace Bassett of Dallas, chairman of the civil righteousness committee, who made an appeal for unanimity of Baptists against the asserted evils.

A new organization of Baptists to oppose legalized liquor was announced by Dr. Bassett and Dr. Jeff Davis of Dallas. They asked the Baptists to include the organization in their budget and called for contributions with which to carry on a campaign for restoration of state-wide prohibition.

The Baptists pledged themselves to wage a "war against war," declaring that the World War brought on by false propaganda. The resolution said that "those who profit from wars should be made to fight them" and condemned war as a "futile means of settling disputes."

Horse and dog racing, marble machines, "or any other forms that the gambling evil may take," were denounced.

FAT GIRLS GET THE GO-BY—SLIM GIRLS WIN MEN

See Fat The Easy Way—Without Starvation Diets, or Back-Breaking, Bending and Rolling Exercises. There's a reason why so many people find dieting slow and often times futile in reducing. The reason, doctors say, is often because a little gland is not working right.

All the blood in your body goes through this tiny gland sixteen times every day. If it doesn't pour into the blood stream about one and one-half drops of vital fluid every 24 hours, many people take on ugly fat. This fluid helps Nature to "burn up" excess food and fatty tissue in much the same way as a good "draft" acts in a furnace.

Now, physicians combat this condition by feeding the gland the substance it lacks—and millions of pounds of excess fat has been wiped out this way.

Marmola Prescription Tablets are based on the same scientific method used by doctors. So why not lose fat the easy way—without starvation diets or back-breaking, bending and rolling exercises? Start the Marmola treatment today that millions have used successfully to get rid of excess fat. The formula is in every box so you know just what you are taking. Don't wait—get Marmola today from druggists.

BITTER 1936 BALLOT FIGHT IS FORESEEN

BOTH REPUBLICANS AND DEMOCRATS CLAIM VICTORIES

By NATHAN ROBERTSON
Associated Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—The deadly earnestness with which each major party is seeking to show the nation that Tuesday's elections were a blow to the other gives a hint of the perhaps unexampled fury with which the great struggle of 1936 will be fought.

Thus early in the game, the high commands are seeking to infuse the pep of optimism into party organizations and to corral those voters who like to be on the winning side.

The parties' statement-makers are crying their conflicting interpretations from the housetops. Republicans, arguing that the results were a "rebuke" to the New Deal, lay stress on victories in New York and New Jersey assembly elections, in the Philadelphia mayoral contest and other fights.

Democrats, disputing these claims, also point in turn to Kentucky, with its triumph for the democratic gubernatorial candidate, A. B. Chandler.

As against republican national Chairman Henry P. Fletcher's joyous cry of yesterday that the "boondoggies are on their way out," Democratic Chairman James A. Farley did some figure last night and came out with the declaration that things look good for the president to carry Pennsylvania next year, a thing he fell to do in 1932.

"In 1932," Farley said, "Roosevelt lost Philadelphia by more than 70,000 votes. This year the democratic candidate was defeated by only 47,200 votes."

He added that if this picture is representative of the whole state, Mr. Roosevelt "will carry Pennsylvania by several hundred thousand, instead of losing it by 100,000 as he did in 1932."

Earlier Melvin C. Eaton, chairman of the New York state republican committee, had accused Farley of trying to "alibi" the republican assembly majority by saying that the popular victory for democrats in the state as a whole was 500,000. Eaton said comparative figures showed a decrease of 400,000 votes in the democratic majority as compared with 1934, and insisted the result was "defeat for the new deal."

These post-mortem statements are part of a campaign battle in which few lulls are expected between now and November, 1936. Already political leaders are looking forward to other balloting which will provide the next broad tests of the voters' sentiment, and perhaps indicate the G. O. P. presidential choice. These are the presidential primaries, which are scheduled to be held in 15 states beginning with New Hampshire next March 10.

In many of these primaries, voters select delegates to national conventions, either pledged to certain presidential candidates; or unpledged. In some others vote is cast for presidential candidates direct, delegates being selected later.

In recent years, the nominations have usually gone the way the primaries indicated, but in 1920 Wood, Johnson and Lowden won most of the republican primaries, and Harding was nominated. In 1924 McAdoo and Smith were the chief entrants in the primaries, but Davis got the nomination.

Wichita Falls Asks $2,220,000 For Power Plant

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. (AP)—Representative William D. McFarlane of Graham, Tex., asked Secretary Ickes today to allocate $2,220,000 in public works funds for a municipal power plant at Wichita Falls, Tex.

The Texan suggested that this project be placed high on the list of secondary projects which will be authorized when any works ordered from the first list fail to meet PWA requirements.

"This municipal plant will save the people of that city $50,000 a year in rates and besides a lot of people down there need the construction work badly," McFarlane told Ickes.

The representative also asked approval of a municipal gas system and water extension project which would cost at least $2,000,000.

MORNING STAR — BY MARIAN SIMS —

Chapter 44
BREAKFAST
David woke just as dawn was sifting into his room. He made a valiant effort to go back to sleep, knowing that the household would not stir for at least an hour, but the effort was unsuccessful.

He felt much as he had felt as a child on Christmas mornings, when the delicate pink light of sunrise was merging rapidly into the pale gold of early morning.

Having worked off his superfluous energy, the big horse slowed suddenly to a walk, and David's mood shifted with equal rapidity from exhilaration to reverie.

His mind went back to the events of the evening before: to Judith and Aubrey and the feeling of peace and familiarity that had enveloped him from the moment of his arrival at Morton Hall.

He came finally and almost reluctantly to the memory of Emily descending the broad stairway and walking straight into his life again. A very different Emily from the child he had known before: a poised, mature woman, lovelier even than he had remembered her.

Not the sort of woman, certainly, that he could ask to share a lifetime, perhaps, of poverty and struggle. He had accustomed himself during the past weeks to the idea of life alone at Carrollton—for several years at least—and Emily's reappearance had deprived the idea of its charm.

Judith had meant well, bless her, but Judith should have known that it was impossible.

As for Carrollton itself: for some reason that he couldn't quite define he was waiting—postponing his visits of rediscovery. It was in terrible repair, Judith had warned him, and Carrollton in disrepair didn't bear thinking about.

He wanted a few days to fortify himself: after that he would go and see for himself.

He turned his mount towards home, and the horse, mindful of his dejected breakfast, began once more to run. At the stable David flung himself from the saddle and handed the reins to a grinning black boy.

"Give him a good rub-down, son, and no bawling for an hour!" The boy bobbed like an automaton. "Yassuh, Mist' David."

The household had awakened during his absence, and was alive with sounds of activity: the purr of a vacuum cleaner, the tinkle of silver and glass as Dorinda set the table, the faint, distant crooning of Louella as she prepared breakfast.

He went upstairs and changed clothes, whistling softly as he went. On the way down again he stopped, as he had stopped so many times before, to bang loudly on Judith's door.

"This is a devil of a way to treat a prodigal! I've been up for two hours," Judith's voice, heavy with sleep, filtered through the door. "Of all the disgusting energy—I'll be down in a few minutes to have breakfast with you."

"I'll have to be a very few minutes," he warned her, "or there won't be any breakfast to have."

He turned away, glanced at Emily's door and realized suddenly that he was incapable, now, of resuming the easy familiarity of the past. He passed softly by and went downstairs.

But Emily was already down, reading a book before the library fire. He stopped short at the door. "Another early bird, I've been priding myself that I was the only person on the lot who had any energy."

She laid aside the book and smiled at him, and David's heart began to misbehave.

"It's in the climate, I can't resist getting up for fear I'll miss something, Judith's given me up as hopeless."

David, watching her, saw that a deep flush had mounted swiftly from her throat to her hair. He looked quickly away, trying valiantly to think of some casual remark that would shatter the intimacy of the moment.

"It was Emily herself who found it. 'Didn't I hear you stealing in from an early morning ride?'"

He nodded. "I was as bad as a kid on Christmas morning. I lay and looked at the ceiling for a few minutes and then gave up the struggle. They don't have mornings like this anywhere else in the world."

She laughed. "Don't I know! I broke all precedents by having breakfast with Aubrey and then riding with him the first day I was here. Judith thought I'd gone crazy."

He said slowly, "Would you—ride with me some day before breakfast?"

The flush returned. He remembered, unwillingly, the first letter he had written her: "To think of finding a girl who can blush! God knows I don't deserve it." She said quietly: "I'd love it."

Gus appeared at the doorway. "Breakfast is served."

David stood up, relieved. "Let's go ahead, Jude's coming eventually, but I'm too weak to wait."

Actually he wanted the experience of breakfast alone with her: it would be something to take to Carrollton.

Aubrey would be late, Gus was explaining as they sat down; something about a calf that wasn't well. He had thought they might be "hungry."

"We are," David assured him. "You did exactly right. Aubrey had finished the fruit. She was about to say, 'What a charming picture!' but checked herself abruptly. This was the sort of thing you couldn't push—instead she complained to David."

"I hardly stopped to wash my face for fear you'd eat the napkins. You're worse than a plague of locusts."

He grinned as he rose to seat her. "Sweet Kate! I feel as if I'd never been away."

"That's why I'm rude," Judith explained. "I want you to feel at home. May I have some of those grapes, or are you using them all?"

"I think," Judith announced, "that this would be a swell time to have a dance. I haven't had a real party for Emily since she's been here, and certainly we ought to have an official welcome for David."

Emily protested laughing. "My whole visit has been a party. Let David have the undivided honors."

David shook his head. "Not with you here."

Emily couldn't trust herself to speak. She was remembering all too vividly the dance at Carrollton so long ago; remembering David in the garden with his hands on her shoulders: "Mind being a farmer's wife, Emily," she had told him then that she would be a ditch-digger's wife if he were the ditch-digger, and four months later he was in China. She stole a glance at him and knew, from the sight of

ALLRED'S SONS WATCH PARADE FROM MANSION

REPRESENTATIVES PLAY DOMINOES WITH NEWSMEN

AUSTIN, Nov. 7. (AP)—Governor Allred's little boys, Jimmie Jr., 5, and David, 18 months, had an experience the other day any children would have relished.

A circus parade came close by their house. From the front porch of the mansion they watched the long procession of wild animals, clowns and big white horses.

Hundreds of other small boys and girls, white and colored, perched on the stone wall of the mansion's high terrace, also saw the parade.

Governor Allred didn't mind the utilization of the grounds as spectators' seats. He's a circus fan himself and rarely misses a show.

One bill introduced in past sessions of the legislature has failed to appear at the current one. It would close the north gate of the capitol grounds.

One of Austin's main thoroughfares runs through the grounds, north and south, and automobiles whiz over it at a great rate. A watchman at the west entrance of the statehouse regulates traffic during busy hours but even then one has to be spry or risk life and limb.

Tired of dodging, some legislators at the regular session proposed to shut the north gate. Municipal authorities objected and nothing was done.

Flowers at the capital greenhouse find a ready demand. For one thing they are very beautiful and for another, the cost is nothing to persons who obtain them.

They are distributed among state offices with the governor's suite preferred, and stenographers and other employes get the rest, if any. R. L. Nichols is the florist.

Flowers from the state cemetery, a mile east of the capitol, also deck the offices at some seasons. E. R. Barnes, the gardener, brings them to the board of control nearly every Saturday.

The great legislative pastime of domino playing continues apace.

his set face that David was remembering it too.

Judith looked sharply at David and realized that he was afraid, David, who had never known the meaning of the word! The discovery decided her.

"We won't have it until Saturday night. I'm going to start calling people tonight."

As far back as the oldest members recollect representatives have gathered about the press table during recess periods and played dominoes.

R. H. Good of Cooper, author of a bill to tax domino halls, does not play. His bill, taxing halls $10 and each table $5, was introduced at the last special session and incorporated in an omnibus tax measure at this one.

HAUPTMANN SHERIFF BEATEN
PLEMINGTON, N. J., Nov. 7. (AP)—The two men who had custody of Bruno Richard Hauptmann before he was sent to the death house were defeated at the polls. Sheriff John N. ## A WELL-REASONED OPINION

Six Houston newspapermen held in contempt of court and with fines against them were freed in a well-written opinion of the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals yesterday.

A district judge had forbidden them to print testimony in a criminal trial on the theory that if the public read such testimony it would make selection of a jury difficult. The newsmen believed the judge's ruling to be contrary to freedom of the press as defined in the State and U. S. constitutions and were willing to put themselves in jeopardy by defying the ruling.

In printing the testimony in defiance of the ban, the editors and reporters did so in no sense of bravado and with no feeling of resentment toward the judge. It was a matter of principle and one which, in view of constant assaults on press freedom from various agencies, was well worth testing.

The appeals court held that the district judge did not have the authority to suspend the constitutional guarantee and forbid publication of testimony given in a public trial. Any public record to which the citizens are entitled would have afforded a similar circumstance.

The decision exploded the popular belief that to have read a newspaper and formed an opinion on a case disqualifies a prospective juror. In this modern day when nearly everyone reads one or more newspapers, such a qualification would be ridiculous.

It is to be hoped that public officials of all kinds may read of the high court's decision and remember that freedom of the press is one of America's cherished institutions.

CAPITOL CHATTER

BY CHARLES E. SIMONS

AUSTIN, Nov. 7. (AP)—Some observers are of the opinion the second special session of the legislature will pass a form of sales tax to aid in paying old age pensions.

A majority of the house has opposed a sales tax, asserting it was unfair to levy on retail sales as long as there were other sources of revenue that could stand heavier levies. Governor Allred opposed a general sales tax and made it a plank in the democratic platform.

Since the adoption of the constitutional amendment authorizing a system of old age pensions, however, a change in sentiment has been noted, some say, both in the house and the chief executive.

Several house members who argued against a sales tax of any kind at the regular session now assert they will support it for pension purposes. In a special message to the legislature Governor Allred stated he still was opposed to a "general" sales tax but was silent as to his attitude on a selective sales tax.

Inferentially, it was argued, the governor would sign a selective sales tax bill if it exempted the necessities of life and was imposed to hit hardest at luxuries.

Incidentally, the tax question for pensions has caused much concern both to legislators and to representatives of oil, sulphur and other industries, the latter fearing they would be called upon to carry most of the burden. It is reported these representatives have gotten behind the omnibus tax bill which carries increased rates on all occupation and gross receipts taxes but which also levies a one and one-half per cent levy on retail sales with necessities excluded.

MUNICIPAL MANAGING MOUNTAIN LAKES, N. J.—Lake Arrowhead village ordered two swans and a duck to Mountain Lake in exchange for a strip of land separating two lakes in the village. The borough council indicated it would approve the deal. Lake Arrowhead wants the land so that it can exclude fishermen who park their cars there and drop their lines into the water. Mountain lakes need swans to keep down vegetation in its own lakes.

THE NEW DEAL IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—There are two journalistic theories about Mr. Hoover.

One is that he seeks renomination by the Republicans. The other is that he has neither thought nor expectation of renomination, but seeks only an influential voice in party policy and selection of the candidate.

The answer is this: Hoover in recent months has summoned to him certain old friends, usually exofficials here, who still exert some political influence in their home states. He has asked them point-blank whether he could obtain their state delegations for the next G. O. P. convention.

Frequently, one hears, the consultees have expressed polite doubts. Whereupon Mr. Hoover has been known to pull out a list of possible nominees and then, carefully outlining the disqualification of each, cross the names off one by one until there was left only that of good old Herbert himself.

Confidants say Hoover suggests himself as another Grover Cleveland, who was voted out of office in 1888 and re-elected four years later. (A possible sidelight on that idea is the fact that Cleveland had a popular majority of 100,000 votes in 1888—despite his electoral college defeat, whereas Hoover was defeated by a majority of more than 7,000,000.)

When political correspondents go into a huddle these dull days, they often arise agreeing that Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan looks, at this admittedly early date, like the most probable nominee for the Republicans.

This comes through a process of elimination, after the premise that outstanding possibilities now are Vandenberg, Col. Frank Knox of Chicago and Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas.

Wrong as they may or may not be, most people here are unable to take the Knox candidacy very seriously. Faced with an obvious paucity of "available" material, politicians seek primarily a vote-getter of demonstrated ability. Colonel Knox has never had a chance to demonstrate his popular appeal at the polls.

Landon, according to shrewd men who have been out to look him over, lives up to much of the current ballyhoo for him. While his stature scarcely overtops the Washington monument, it appears to be at least equal to that of Coolidge or Harding.

He is described as a man who would accept much of the liberal program Roosevelt has advanced to date—such as AAA, the power policy, banking reform, TVA and the labor dispute act—but would fight for a "New Deal at bargain rates."

But it is this liberalism of Landon's which already causes eastern leaders to look askance of him and it's said to be very doubtful whether Landon would make the concession to them which they would demand for support.

Also, the boast that Kansas state and local taxes under the personally and publicly parsimonious Landon have been cut from $127,000,000 to $97,000,000 can be riddled by citation of New Deal millions—relief, benefit checks, public works and so on—which have poured into Kansas and made such a reduction possible. Other governors have similar records.

Judging from the farm vote on extension of the corn-hog program, the AAA's have it.

"New, Speedy Auto Will Nudge 100." An improvement over the previous model which could hit only a handful of pedestrians.

GOVERNOR HAS ASSISTANT GO OVER ALL BILLS FOR JOKERS

AUSTIN, Nov. 7 (AP)—Senator Jim Neal of Mirando City, Webb county, served one of the shortest terms on record as president pro tempore ad interim— from midnight to noon the next day.

His term began with expiration of the first special session this fall and ended when the second convened.

Numerous anecdotes were recalled by senators who seconded the nomination. Senator Tom Deberry of Bogata remembered that Neal once asked him for advice. It was immediately after Neal had been elected and taken his seat.

"Tom," Neal said, looking down at the senator from Red River county, "can you trust any of these fellows?"

"Yeah," Deberry told him, "—sometimes."

Governor Allred signed the chain store tax bill in the dilapidated public reception room on the second floor. It was the second time in his administration he had used the room. On a previous occasion he received a large delegation of chain store tax advocates there.

The furniture, once beautiful and of the finest materials and construction, is sadly in need of repair. Upholstery is worn through in places, one chair is broken and draperies are frayed and dirty.

The room soon will see better days, however. The last special session appropriated a sum for re-furnishing. The board of control will purchase the furnishings on recommendation of the governor.

Gaynor Kendall, former assistant city newspaper editor like thousands of others. He lives in Vermont, which is certainly not a radical center. He has a nice family, a nice income, good friends, although he is a little "advanced" for some of them.

And then Buzz Windrip wins the 1936 election, becomes president-dictator, scourges the country with his "minute men," imprisons, burns, administers castor oil, flogs, benefits the land for the benefit of his friends, crucifies Doremus, ruins his family, ruins life for most of the land.

Mr. Lewis tells his story in scorching prose. He ends it on a somewhat hopeful note, but tentatively. The reader has begun the book, believing, possibly, that "It Can't Happen Here." He ends it praying that it won't.

New Capital Palace Is Home for U. S. Archives

For the first time in the 159 years since the Declaration of Independence was signed, Uncle Sam has a safe place to keep all his "family papers"—the beautiful new National Archives Building in Washington, shown above, ready for occupancy. In this classic lightproof (it has no windows), dustproof and fireproof palace, scattered records, treaties, and other official documents of great historical value are being gathered for preservation. Among the hallowed "papers" are: the Declaration of Independence; the Constitution; Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation; the Versailles Treaty of 1919; and the Resolution of Congress declaring war against Germany in 1917.

DIE-HARD DRYS ARE EXPECTED TO CHANGE POSITION THIS SESSION

AUSTIN, Nov. 7 (AP)—Liquor regulation, although stoutly contested through lengthy debate in both houses, failed to reach predicted controversial heights until the closing hours of the first special session. Wet leaders then resorted to parliamentary maneuvering to gain a bill to their liking.

The non-success of this move was due chiefly to the strong opposition in the senate where it was defeated 20 to 6. In some quarters it is believed the wets lost strength by the sheer audacity of the scheme.

Wets played the ace up their sleeve in the closing hours after the senate had failed to pass a house regulatory bill and a conference committee on a bill to define an open saloon disagreed on inclusion of a general control measure. In conference, entirely overlooked by drys, was a bill amending the beer law to prohibit unfair trade practices and wet members predominated on both house and senate committees.

It required only a few minutes after the committee disagreed on the saloon bill for the committee on the beer proposal to bring in a report. In fact, the committee came back within 20 minutes with an 85-page substitute that met the views of the wets but which was highly objectionable to the drys. It contained the provisions they had fought strenuously against.

The stratagem, however, went for naught. House drys talked the proposition to death after sharp attacks on the wets who engineered the maneuver, and the senate rejected it.

It is predicted that the next test vote on the liquor question may see some changes.

One observer saw the possibility of some drys, hitherto strongly opposed to sale by the drink, assume a more passive attitude. Their action, he said, would be based on the belief that if the wets were permitted a free hand they would draft a bill that would prove so unpopular it would insure adoption at the next general election of the mandatory state monopoly system.

Another speculated that some might not renew so vigorously the drive for sale in broken packages, seeing it would be better psychology to defer it until after the monopoly question was definitely settled.

A Washington Daybook

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON.—Reports persistent around the capital that the coming months will see renewed efforts in congress and high administration circles to bring the personnel of the many emergency agencies of the "new deal" under civil service.

There's even talk among insiders that when "Big Jim" Farley steps out as postmaster general to take personal direction of the campaign to reelect President Roosevelt, he will be succeeded by a man of no particular political background and experience. There have been hints that a career man in the postal service may get the appointment.

There is legislation pending in congress now which would give the White House authority to place these emergency agencies under the merit system as soon as practicable. It is estimated that there are approximately 60 of them now functioning, exclusively of the old-line independent offices which long ago became integral parts of the federal establishment.

Many Delays

The task of bringing that many agencies under the civil service is tremendous and beset by all kinds of difficulties. The last report of the commission showed that 770,128 persons were required to man these alphabetical groups and others which make up the executive branch of the government.

All sort of delays are encountered. A short while back, for example, it was thought NRA and AAA could come under the merit system as quickly as legally possible. At the present, however, despite the fact that NRA has made vast retrenchments in personnel it still is far from being in permanent form. And AAA, although President Roosevelt has said it is to be made a permanent part of the government, until the supreme court decides on its constitutionality, everything is hanging fire.

Opposition in TVA

Then, too, there are organizations such as the Tennessee valley authority which steadfastly have resisted civil service control. TVA could be brought under the merit system with a minimum of delay were it not for the opposition of Arthur E. Morgan, director.

Doctor Morgan was given a free hand by congress in selecting the personnel of TVA. Backed by Senator Norris of Nebraska, a clause was inserted in the act creating TVA providing that politics should have no part in the organization. Doctor Morgan and his associates have been exceedingly strict in this respect.

Morgan admits openly that he prefers his method of selecting TVA employees to that of choosing blindly from a civil service list which might automatically eliminate the very man he wishes to select for an important post.

Stalin is described by Henri Barbusse, author of "Under Fire," as "The most important of all our contemporaries—the most conspicuous man in the world and yet one of the least known."

Barbusse was a personal friend of Stalin and other Russian leaders; he spent much time in Russia, was completely free in his movements there, and was given access to records and documents that are ordinarily inaccessible to any but the heads of the Soviet government.

He opens his book, STALIN: A NEW WORLD SEEN THROUGH ONE MAN, with a picture of Stalin and his family today, in their modest apartment in the Kremlin; then goes back to Stalin's birth (in 1879) in Georgia, south of the Caucasus; his brief schooling; his adventures as a secret revolutionary agitator among the workers; his imprisonments and escapes. After Stalin meets Lenin, his story becomes the story of the Russian Revolution and the development of the U. S. S. R. Barbusse tells it with great spirit, and in the course of it he brings out facts about Stalin's activities which are not generally known.

STALIN will be published in November.

"John Buchan," says Charles Pound writing from London to the New York Times, "has locked his top drawer and, as Lord Tweedsmuir, has gone away to succeed Lord Bessborough as governor-general of Canada. First-class passengers in the London-Oxford trains will no longer find him buried in a corner of the carriage writing a novel on his knee as the train roars along. For the next five years he will be 3,000 miles away, surrounded by a royal household of his own in Rideau Hall, at the entrance to Rockcliffe Park in Ottawa. As the king's viceroy, he will govern on the advice of the king's Canadian ministers, exercising the royal prerogatives and being received with royal honors." Buchan's latest novel is "The House of the Four Winds," published earlier this season by Houghton Mifflin Company.

FUR-BEARING ANIMALS NEAR EXTINCTION, SAYS OFFICIAL

AUSTIN, Nov. 7 (AP)—State game conservationists have warned that fur-bearing animals in Texas are "going heading toward extinction unless they are given a better rating of appreciation."

Wm. J. Tucker, executive secretary of the game, fish and oyster commission, said three-year records showed a decline by nearly 500,000 pelts in the annual catch. Last year's crop was 912,276 pelts, a decrease of 35 per cent in Texas compared with the biological survey's estimate of 70 per cent for the United States.

Badger and ring-tail cat were the only fur-bearers in which the catch increased, while musk rat remained about constant. There was a slight decrease in the number of fox and raccoon hides while "the big drop is shown in the catch of opossums and skunks, which constitute about 80 per cent of the crop."

FUR-BEARING ANIMALS NEAR EXTINCTION, SAYS OFFICIAL

Closed seasons in numerous East Texas counties where fox hunting is popular sport was credited with preventing a larger decrease in the catch of that variety.

The pelts taken in the current trapping season were valued at $600,000.

FDR to Return To White House

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 7. (AP)—Refreshed by a week's stay at home, President Roosevelt turned back to the White House today with an evening's stop planned in New York City.

He expressed gratification over the large vote in Kentucky for the state enabling act for the new federal social security program about to go into operation.

The Kentucky democratic victory brought the same silence from Mr. Roosevelt that marked his quiet observation of other state and municipal elections this week. He has kept this rule for years.

In fact, the president disclosed to newspapermen that the troubled foreign situation is giving him more concern just now than domestic affairs, with which he appears content to go ahead of the announced "breathing spell."

He will dine tonight with officers of the grand lodge of Masons in New York. Later he will attend the induction into Masonry of his sons, James and Franklin, Jr.

Still keeping his blue pencil sharpened, Mr. Roosevelt is reserving any comment on budget plans until the recommendations for expenditures are submitted to congress in January.

truth about a German-Jewish childhood in the New York of the 'nineties. The childhood was not spent in the ghetto, but in Yorkville. It is not a record of loose wandering, wicked influences, searing contact with life.

Quite the contrary. Mrs. Woodward's mother was a Puritan. Her father was a cigarmaker whose best wage was in the neighborhood of $10 weekly. The mother's life was bounded by the austere, painfully clean flat in which the family lived. At first the father was a socialist, then a single-taxer; finally he found relief from home repressions in playing the races enthusiastically and not too unluckily.

Mrs. Woodward has given the facts of her childhood, and has psychoanalyzed herself, her brother and sister and her parents—not forbiddingly or in bad spirit or in technical language. Just by truth-telling. The result is one of the best books on childhood in years.

Margaret Deland's "If This Be I (As I Suppose It Be)" is an attempt to recreate the girl Mrs. Deland was in the sixties. She lived in good circumstances in Pittsburgh. She was a fascinating little imp, possessing most of the material things Mrs. Woodward lacked. Mrs. Deland sees herself rather clearly, and writes around her childhood a deft and probably faithful picture of the time. The book is less consciously a social document than "Three Flights Up" but there are implications in it for those who want them.

WHAT THE MILDNESS OF CAMELS MEANS TO FAMOUS AVIATORS

Lieutenant Commander Frank Hawks, U.S.N.R., famous holder of 214 speed records and the Harmon Trophy, says: "I've been flying for 19 years and smoking Camels almost as long. Making speed records tests the pilot as well as his plane. Camels never make me jumpy or bother my physical 'condition' in any way. As the athletes say, Camels are so mild they don't get the wind. And I've found they never upset my nerves. Camel must use choicer tobaccos."

"Camels don't get your Wind" Athletes say

"Speaking of cigarettes, I make it a rule to smoke Camels," says Mrs. T. W. Kenyon, sportswoman pilot. "They are the mildest cigarette I know. Morning, noon, and night, I can smoke Camels steadily. They never upset my nerves. And each Camel renews the zest and enjoyment of the last one!"

"They Never Get on Your Nerves"

"I smoke Camels all I want," says Col. Roscoe Turner (below), "cross-continent speed ace. "Because of their mildness, Camels never tire my taste. A speed flyer uses up energy just as his motor uses 'gas.' After smoking a Camel, I get a 'refill' in energy."

Signing of the applications is under way at the local office in the basement of the postoffice building.

The Laketon Community association will meet next Tuesday evening.

"I appreciate the mellow flavor of Camels," says Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, the transpacific flyer, in a recent interview. "Camels refresh me so when I'm fatigued," he continues, "and they are so mild that I can smoke any number without throwing my nerves off key."
