Members of the crew of the German cruiser Leipzig didn't salute when the barge of British Admiral Bailie-Grohman passed in Kiel harbor. So next day, Admiral Bailie-Grohman, sent to escort the captured warship to England, ordered the German captain to assemble the crew on deck, sailed his barge past, and was paid the proper honors, as pictured above. It was a disciplinary measure, designed to bring home to the sinking crew a realization of their defeat.

Around the World

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(AP)—The senate heard today that both the navy and the office of defense transportation are irked with the army and complaining that the return of soldiers from Europe has been speeded up will not advance notice. Swamping of transportation facilities was alleged.

ABILENE, Kans., July 21.—(P)—Proud Kansans from near and far today launched the Eisenhower Memorial Foundation movement designed eventually to erect here one of the principal shrines of World War II, honoring General of the Army Dwight D. "Ike" Eisenhower, and American armed forces.

RENO, Nev., July 21.—(P)—Reno's males today turned to the wearing of "fig leaves."
That's the name of the newest in undergarments now offered for sale in local halerdasheries. They are substitutes for men's shorts, of which in Reno there are none.

GUAM, Sunday, July 22.—(P)—Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, like his powerful fleet of Japan, maintained silence today—omitting his customary daily communique this morning for the first time since March 23.

POTSDAM, July 21.—(P)—Friends of President Truman here do not interpret his declaration that American troops are "not fighting for conquest" as meaning that he favors abandoning fortified bases in the Pacific.

Unconditional Surrender Only Hope of Nips

Progress Is Made in First Week of Meet

POTSDAM, July 21.—(P)—The Big Three victory conference reached the end of its first week tonight and American officials expressed satisfaction with progress already made in problems ranging from the interrelated rehabilitation of Europe to the destruction of Japanese resistance.

Surrender Terms?

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(P)—CBS news commentator "Tris Coffin" today said he had learned from "very responsible officials in Washington" that the Big Three would issue a statement from Potsdam within the next few days outlining surrender terms for Japan.

In a radio broadcast, Coffin said the alleged terms would be "far more liberal than the Japanese now enjoy under their present government."

"The Potsdam announcement on Japan will promise the Japanese freedom of religion, and the right to choose whatever form of government they want," Coffin said.

"This leaves the issue of the Emperor, who is now army head as well as a Japanese deity, and the present Japanese state religion, Shintoism wide open," he added.

He held their fifth, three-hour meeting today and an announcement from the American commission said: "The work of the conference is going ahead and much serious business has been done."

How long the meetings would continue and what agreements had been reached were questions left unanswered, but the brief American statement—the first interim report given by any of the three delegations—reflected President Truman's earnest wish to keep the world informed as much as possible of progress in this suburb of conquered Berlin.

The American delegation reported

Unions in Mexican Studios Feuding

MEXICO CITY, July 21.—(P)—Identification of all persons at Mexico City's motion picture studios and police guard for those found to be employed there were ordered today by the federal labor department, in connection with an inter-union feud harassing the movie industry.

The war department sent representatives to one studio to check on reports that arms were stored there. They reported they found 17 rifles and one pistol, Jorge Negrete, tenor star and a leader of one of two rival unions, claimed the pistol, explaining he was a retired army officer.

The federal conciliation board authorized postponement until July 30 of a strike against the studios by a union headed by Salvador Carrillo and opposed to that led by Negrete and the comedian, Cantinflas.
The Carrillo union is demanding pay increases for laboratory workers. The rival group claims the laboratory workers belong to it, and that the strike, already postponed eight times, is a maneuver to create unrest.

DISAGREEABLE EXPERIENCES: TIME SPENT IN GERMAN PRISON UNCOMFORTABLE

"I don't mind talking about my experiences in German prison camps because I feel the American people should know the truth, which can only be told by those who have had actual contact with these places," 1-Sgt. Jack D. Rowen told Kiwanis at a Friday luncheon.
The tall, soft-spoken Texan, who was accompanied here by his father, a construction company executive of Borger, returned just 45 days ago from Europe where he spent 23 months in various German prison camps.

$5,300,000,000 For Russia Is Proposed

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(P)—A possible $5,300,000,000 financial aid program for Russia was counted up in congress today as one of President Truman's most potent talking points for Soviet cooperation of international problems under discussion at the Big Three meeting.

The President is reported to have let it become known before he left here for the Potsdam meeting with Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin he intends to see that the United States gets something in return for financial help it extends.

With $1,000,000,000 in lend lease already earmarked for the Russians, congress added another potential $4,300,000,000 to the pot this week by passage of the Bretton Woods monetary legislation and by agreeing to increase the export-import bank's lending authority by $2,800,000,000.

U. S. Financial Tycoons Were Hitler Backers, 1930

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(P)—The story of American financial deals which built up Germany between wars and hints that some American tycoons backed Hitler in 1930 were released by the state department today.

The department, following its usual custom of publishing state papers after 15 years, put out 2,000 copies of documents of American foreign relations in 1930.

The chapter on Germany gives considerable attention to Hitler, then clutched for power. It also shows that American policy worked closely with Wall Street financiers anxious to float loans of the troubled, unstable reich.

The American charge d'affaires in Berlin wrote Secretary of State Stimson that he had heard "certain American financial interests" closely advised Adolf Hitler and his Nazis as a means of combating trends toward socialism in Germany.

George A. Gordon, the charge d'affaires, also said that "Hitler received very substantial financial support from certain American financial interests." He judged, however, that their influence on him "has been definitely restraining one."

There was a sharp difference of opinion between Undersecretary of State Joseph P. Cotton and the American ambassador in Paris, S. Parker Gilbert as to the advisability of a huge loan to the Germans.

Gilbert was against it unless it was specified that the Germans had to use the funds to pay their debts. Cotton, who talked it over with J. P. Morgan and representatives of Lee Higginson Co., felt that France and Britain were trying to push the U. S. out of the market and saw no reason to block the deal.

The record shows a close parallel to stumbling blocks which have been widely predicted for the Allies in their second attempt to destroy German war potential and plans.

Germany was expounding a deal. See HITLER BACKERS Page 8

CHIEYENNE, Wyo., July 21.—(P)—Albert, an 18-inch alligator slipped out of a Pullman car the other night and slithered in, out and around lower berths while eight trismen cooed.

Albert, who had been purchased in Florida by a train passenger, finally was captured and put in a large bucket of water.

At his own suggestion that it would make breathing easier, he was to be placed in an oxygen tent. For lunch he was able to take no nourishment except a little broth.

Although the disease-ravaged survivor of the hardships of Cahuatan prison camp in the Philippines had lost most of the gains made since his arrival home nearly three weeks ago, his family reported that he "still has fight left in him." They said they detected a slight improvement in his condition early today, but that he made no further progress during the day.

Showing a spark of the spirit that has characterized his desperate fight for life, the soldier remained cheerful in spite of his loss of ground.

Leaders Told Destruction Is Alternative

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(P)—This government officially told the Japanese today that unconditional surrender offers the "only" way by which you can make possible salvation of Japan.

Broadcasting as "an official spokesman of the United States government," and addressing his words directly to "Japanese leaders," Capt. E. C. Zacharias, U. S. N., said:

"The leaders of Japan have been entrusted with the salvation and not the destruction of Japan."
The Japanese leaders face two alternatives. One is the virtual destruction of Japan followed by a dictated peace. The other is unconditional surrender with its at-

Another Bond In Cooperation Forged by Senate

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(P)—The senate shouted approval for United States membership in the United Nations food organization today, thus forging another bond of international cooperation before it takes up the United Nations charter next week.

During an hour and a half of debate, Senators Revercomb (R-Va.), Willis (R-Ind.), Bushfield (R-S. D.) and others expressed some apprehension as to how far this country was committing itself.

But when the resolution for membership was put to a vote there was no request for a roll call and no "nays" were audible after a chorus of "aye's."

The resolution commits this country to contribute $625,000 to the first year's operations of the organization which grew from the international food conference held at Hot Springs, Va., in 1943.

It authorizes a contribution of up to $1,250,000 annually thereafter.

Twenty-three other nations, including the United Kingdom and China, already have accepted membership.

The organization's purpose is described as studying ways to improve world nutrition.

Senator Austin (R-Vt.) assumed the job of steering the resolution to passage. Senate democrats sat back and left the whole discussion to the republicans.

Austin said the resolution accepts no obligation except to contribute to the fund.

Nearly All Hay Crops Cut, Quality Is Good
The weekly crop report from the Texas A. & M. extension service reports that nearly all hay crops are being cut and the quality of the hay is good.

Small grain plowing is nearly complete and some volunteer plowing has begun. Reports reveal excellent harvest weather.

The cotton and grain sorghum that lived through said damage is reportedly in fine condition.

The surface moisture is dry, but the subsoil moisture is ample, according to the report.

Missing Boy Is Sought in Pampa

A letter has been received from Lt. Col. Quentin M. Spradling who is now stationed at Fort Benning, Ga., concerning the present location of his 15-year-old son. The colonel states that his son left home about the middle of March.

The boy's name is J. Merriman Spradling, he is 15, about 5 feet, 8 inches tall and weighs approximately 140 pounds. He is believed to be working in Pampa at the present.

Colonel Spradling has just returned from overseas and would like very much to see his son before being reassigned. In the event that the son should see this story it is requested that he contact his father at Fort Benning.

Any other persons knowing of anything about young Spradling are asked to contact the city editor of the News.

Gulf Coast Areas In Path of Storm

(By The Associated Press)
A tropical storm in the Gulf of Mexico, carrying winds estimated at 35 to 45 miles per hour near the center, should strike the Texas coast Saturday night in the area between Fort Aransas and Palacios, the U. S. weather bureau at New Orleans said in a 2:30 p. m. (CWT) advisory.

Storm warnings were displayed from Corpus Christi to Galveston. The advisory located the storm near latitude 28, longitude 95.3, or about 100 miles south of Houston, Texas, moving westward at south-westward 6 to 8 miles per hour.

The division was made up initially and largely of men from Texas, Oregon, Washington, California, New Mexico, Arizona and Louisiana. It first entered combat under the British command in Holland as part of General Montgomery's command.

Allen refused comment on the accomplishment of the division, "Let the record speak for itself," he continued proudly. The division saw six months and 15 days of continuous combat in Europe.

New Fleet Raid Made On Nippon

(By The Associated Press)
As Tokyo boasted a new, secret anti-invasion weapon, Adm. Nimitz announced light units of the U. S. Third fleet bombarded Mojin Cape 55 miles south of Tokyo on the night of July 18-19 without encountering enemy opposition of any sort.

"This force patrolled the eastern entrance of Sacami gulf but found no enemy shipping," Nimitz said in a communique.

"After the bombardment, which was directed at radio, radar and other military installations, our ships retired without incident."

Except in China and new ground action was reported from the vast Pacific-Asiatic war theater. The Chinese were fighting furiously on the approaches to one of the biggest prizes in the southern part of that country—Kweilin and its three big air fields.

In Washington the navy department announced the sinking of 11 additional Japanese ships by American submarines.

The Army and Navy Journal, unofficial service publication, said President Truman took with him to the Big Three conference a draft of the state, war and navy departments terms on Japanese surrender. These terms, it said, provide for disarmament of Japan, loss of territory outside her home islands, complete economic control by the United Nations and surrender of war criminals.

War Criminals May Be Tried In Nuernberg

LONDON, July 21.—(P)—The four major allied powers apparently have agreed, at least tentatively, to hold a collective trial of major Nazi war criminals in Nuernberg, pagan place of aggression in Hitler's years of power.

Internationally recognized legal authorities have flown to the ancient and picturesque cathedral city in Bavaria, 124 miles from Berlin, to examine the courtroom and other facilities which will be essential for a trial unparalleled in history.

The American delegation was led by Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief United States prosecutor. British and French officials accompanied the inspection party. Russia's war crimes representatives remained in London on the ground that circumstances had arisen making the trip impossible.

The group will return to London to resume plans for the trial itself, before which such Nazi leaders as Hermann Goering, Rudolf Hess and Joachim Ribbentrop will be haled. The plans, American sources say, are nearing completion.

The exact location of the court has not been divulged. Nuernberg, however, is the site of Europe's biggest stadium. With indications that the number of defendants to be tried simultaneously will range from 35 to 300, the possibility that it may be held in the stadium itself cannot be eliminated.

Carriers Have New Regulations

The office of defense transportation today modified its regulations to permit the inauguration of new local motor carrier operations. These will not affect existing trucks when such additional services are needed for conservation of truck transportation facilities. The new action becomes effective July 16. John J. Van Pelt, district manager at Lubbock, Texas, announced the new action becomes effective July 16.

The change in regulations will also permit existing local motor carriers, whose operations were frozen on October 25, 1943, to extend their operations under certain circumstances, according to an announcement in Washington by Guy A. Richardson, director of the ODT's highway transport department.

It was emphasized however, that the new policy does not alter other ODT regulations, including those which regulate the frequency of deliveries.

However, the district manager pointed out that the modification of regulations will benefit many persons who have long needed a truck for local service but who could not previously qualify.

Under former ODT regulations, new or extended operations were not approved unless the applicant could show that the service was "necessary to the war effort or to the maintenance of essential civilian economy."

John H. Hinkle Is Killed in Action

Pvt. John H. Hinkle, who was reported missing in action, March 15, in Germany has been declared killed in action on the same date according to a telegram from the war department which was received by his wife, Mrs. Lillie Mae Hinkle, 863 Locust, this week.

Hinkle entered the armed services Sept. 4, 1944, and was trained at Camp Wolters, Texas. He left the states in January. Before entering the service he was an employee of the Pampa Furniture company.

Besides the wife, he is survived by a four-year-old daughter, Ginger; his mother, Mrs. Ellis Thornburg, 401 Starkweather; a brother, Bradford; and his father, J. B. Hinkle, who also lives here.

Foreigners in U. S. Vanishing

NEW YORK, N. Y.—The number of foreign-born persons in the United States is dwindling and is fast approaching the vanishing point, according to the statisticians of the Metropolitan life insurance company. Under current immigration restrictions the proportion of the foreign-born in the white population of the country will have dropped in the two generations from 1920 to 1930 from 14.5 percent to only about one percent.

Pointing out that the foreign-born are rapidly aging as a group, the statisticians state that during the two decades, from 1930 to 1940, this contingent decreased by one-sixth, to a total of less than 11,500,000, while the native white population increased by almost one-third, to 107,000,000.

Although the actual number of foreign-born is declining, they have of course contributed their share to the number of native born. They and the native-born together were responsible for 2,500,000 births in 1920, about 2,200,000 in 1930 and a similar number in 1940. Deaths among the native-born in 1940 were less than half the births.

Meagre Official Big Three Word Is Provoking

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press News Analyst Attention remained closely focused on the Churchill-Stalin-Truman conversations in Potsdam at the week-end despite provokingly meagre official word from the Big Three conference as to the nature or progress of its deliberations.

Such intimations as did reach the press, however, only served to heighten expectation on this side of the Atlantic that decisions affecting the duration of the war with Japan would be reached.

The titanic combined Anglo-American sea-air attack on Japan that continued unabated throughout the week heightened that expectation. City after city, both coastal and interior, in Japan was withered by bomb blasts or incendiaries, and by naval guns. There was no effective reaction by the foe of any sort except for a hornet's nest of antiaircraft fire stirred up by carrier planes which located and attacked hide-out Japanese warcraft at the month of Tokyo bay.

The essential fact of the week, outside of what undisclosed understandings may have begun to take shape in Big Three discussions, was that for a week or more American and British warcraft of all categories including the most modern and powerful battleships afloat, roamed up and down the Japanese Pacific coast unchallenged by sea or air. Only the vast combined carrier fleet remained for out at sea to launch their air flotillas and receive them again to be fueled and armed for further attacks.

There is no parallel in history for such both inshore naval operations against a maritime power. Prior to the naval battles of the Philippine sea Japan certainly still rated as third naval power in the world, surpassed only by Britain and the United States. After Pearl Harbor she undoubtedly stood second in sea power afloat.

The long or even short range effect of that fact on the Japanese public will to continue the useless fight is yet to be assessed. Its effect on Russo-Japanese relations already strained by Moscow renunciation of the otherwise self-perpetuating Russo-Japanese peace pact is also yet to be learned.

It should not be overlooked that before the Big Three finally began their talks in Germany press advisers from American correspondents accompanying President Truman reflected their expectation of developments relating to the war with Japan. They stressed particularly, whether on information or belief, that both Mr. Truman and Mr. Churchill were primarily concerned with ways and means of cutting the casualty cost of ultimate victory over Japan and were likely to seek Russian participation as the most effective way of insuring that result.

Okinawan Service Held in Spite of Tropical Typhoon

By RICHARD CUSHING OKINAWA—(AP)—A shrieking wind—the edge of a tropical typhoon—whipped through the open sides of the tent as the chaplain's voice lifted in prayer: "O Lord, that we may be strong in the tasks ahead."

Driven rain and sand stung faces and bared heads of the 60 U. S. army air corps men standing reverently in rough pews, fashioned from pickup lumber.

A chugging bulldozer clanked by on the coral road outside as the chaplain finished and announced "hymn 54." The wind shrieked in rising fury. A Seabee dynamite blast shook the ground.

Above it all the air men sang, accompanied by the chords of an old piano—Okinawan. Then the Prayer I Make on Bended Knee. The hymn ended, they knelt and prayed for strength, for their loved ones and for their country. They prayed for peace.

This was inaugurated the new chapel of a bombardment group on Okinawa. Protestant chaplain, Capt. Marion O. Smith of Galesburg, Ill., was filling in for Maj. Howard J. Johnson of Fort Worth, Texas, ill with yellow jaundice caught while preaching at the front lines on Luzon in the Philippines.

At the piano was Pvt. Tom Snook of Fort Wayne, Ind. Before the war he studied classical piano in Chicago.

About 50 feet long and 20 wide, the chapel stands among three grey stone Okinawa tombs. It was built in six days, largely under the direction of Pfc. Don Lence of Carbondale, Ill., a radio operator who doubles as Major Johnson's assistant. The floor is dirt. A small altar holds a golden cross and two candles, placed upon red felt covering two stacks of "C" rations. Over the altar billows a white silk parachute.

Protestant services are held Sunday mornings. Catholic services are held Sunday evenings. Jewish services are read on Friday nights.

Men at the front seek solace in religion, says Chaplain Smith. They often ask shyly how he, a man of God, can condone war, even participate in it.

To this Chaplain Smith answers, in effect:

"You are fighting to place your life as a dike against the flood of worldwide destruction. Christ died willing to stop sin. The New Testament says others may give their lives as the ransom for man. We come over here to help free the world from recurring war and devastation and suffering. We can fight, with our soul at peace."

WE ARE NOT TOO SURE ABOUT THE GERMANS

An Associated Press dispatch Friday from Dallas told the story of all the 263 German prisoners of war held in the Reserve, La., branch camp of Camp Livingston, La., signing a declaration denouncing the Nazi government of Germany.

Col. Thomas B. Martin, Camp Livingston commanding officer, says the story, considers the action of special significance because "only a few weeks ago this camp showed much evidence of Nazi influence."

The declaration signed by the prisoners, who were reported to have contributed recently a total of $1,769.86 to the American Red Cross after viewing atrocity picture pamphlets of conditions in German concentration camps, said:

"The consequences of this war has taught us that we become the victims of an ideology, the endeavor of which was to imbue the national socialist thought in our German people. We had to learn that through this ideology we lost the very values of a state and nation."

There is more to the German prisoner declaration, as, for instance, the part where it says this "hopeless struggle" was "borne by the common people."

Perhaps there is both a lesson and a warning for us in this incident, which we do not think otherwise is very important.

In the first place, we should keep in mind, for the future good of our own country, that the common people always bear the brunt of the war. That is the way wars are run—on the shoulders of the so-called common people. And if the German Nazi leaders ran away to escape punishment, as the Germans in their declaration charge, there is no reason to think that American leaders of that sort in the future might not run away—to escape the punishment for some anarchistic government and war-mindedness and bigotry they might try to thrust on the "common people." From the very mouths of Germans, therefore, we have the declaration that the common people bear the brunt, and that is the more persuasive argument for democratic government, a form in which the people themselves direct their own destinies.

As for the warning inherent in this so-called declaration, we should not be too sure that this is the doctrine of these German prisoners. We cannot be too sure that that is what they are thinking in their own private little minds. This is the sort of thing—this declaration—that sounds good to the American ear. It would lead us into the paths of complacency again. It would make a nice groundwork for a new movement in Germany, one just as sordid and inhuman as that one which we have just destroyed. It may be significant, as Col. Martin said, but we are prone to think, in a way different from what the colonel might think. These contrite words of beaten Germans will not sound so good to the boys who faced them on the field of battle and have seen how they are acting in their native land, now that they have lost "another war."

In short, we don't think much of this German declaration. We will just wait and see how they put their words into action—in the coming crucial years.

World Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Admiral Takahashi, Japanese naval commander-in-chief, says his country's sea and air forces will go into action soon and that the "day of victory" is rapidly approaching.

It perhaps has no special significance that our air bombardment of Mikado's harti-kari club doesn't say whose day of victory is approaching—whether it belongs to Nippon or to the Allies—but we needn't labor that point. We already know that Japan is walking the last mile. The only thing in the way is when we shall administer the coupe de grace, and in this connection we get an interesting prediction from Chinese Premier T. V. Soong, who has just returned to Chungking after a conference with Generalissimo Stalin in Moscow.

"T. V. says the war will end this year or early in 1946. Sure, I know what you're thinking—that he bases his forecast on some promise Stalin made him about Russia coming in against Japan. Well, what Stalin said to Soong is a carefully guarded secret, so we shall have to be satisfied with the fact that the Chinese premier is smart and not inclined to make rash statements. My own contact with Mr. Soong in Chungking left me with the impression that his views are worth consideration. One only adds the caution that any prophesy about the length of the war should be accepted with reserve.

The Japanese sea and air fleets presumably will come into action, provided our air bombardment doesn't compel surrender. But they will be fighting defensively to try to delay our amphibious invasion of the homeland.

Great things depend on what Stalin said to Soong, and more especially what the generalissimo said to President Truman and Prime Minister Churchill in Potsdam right now. Observers on the scene believe that both America and England are pressing for the quickest possible action to end the Japanese war. If that is so, it presumably means that they are using their best arguments to bring mighty Russia into the conflict for a speedy clean-up.

Eligibility for 1946 Car Remains Unchanged

N certificates will be issued for new 1946 cars until distribution makes it possible to establish quotas, according to OPA Rationing Executive William G. Williams.

New 1946 cars were removed from rationing July 18. The eligibility list, need and serviceability tests for the new 1946 models remain unchanged. The procedure for handling applications and issuing certificates through the Lubbock district office remains the same.

All outstanding certificates for new 1943 cars were invalidated July 18.

All Civilian Meat Supplies To Drop

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(AP)—Civilian meat supplies will drop to the pre-war average this year for the first time since 1941.

Figures supplied by the agriculture department show that the civilian supply for 1945 will be about 16,245,000,000 pounds. Consumption averaged 16,303,000,000 for the 1935-39 period.

Despite large military and lend-lease requirements, civilian consumption in previous war years was above the 1935-39 average. It reached a peak of about 19,400,000,000 pounds in 1944—when meat rationing was suspended for several months.

Civilian supplies have been kept at or above pre-war levels by a sharp expansion in production which took care of war needs.

The apparent shortage in civilian supplies reflects a record purchasing power.

Peter Edson's Column: HERE'S WHO'S WHO IN WATER LOBBY

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON.—Formation of a new joint "Water Lobby" to oppose creation of more "valley authority" like TVA is credited to Fred D. Beneke of Memphis, Tenn. Beneke is a two-threat man. He is secretary-treasurer of both the National Rivers and Harbors Congress and the Mississippi Valley Flood Control association.

Beneke called the first meeting of representatives of organizations interested in saving the country from the authorities last spring. As a result of his efforts, in April some 20 associations which classify themselves as "land and water users" organizations issued a four-page joint letter to congress. It presented a strong case for letting well enough alone and preserving states' rights. Its highlight was an eight-point indictment against establishing any more government corporations which would be economic authority that crossed state lines and were not answerable to congress for the expenditure of their revenues.

This letter was published just before the senate commerce subcommittee opened hearings on Montana Sen. James E. Murray's bill to create a new Missouri Valley Authority. The committee reported against MVA. The letter wasn't the only cause, but it helped. Ioy Miller, acting president of the Intra-coastal Canal association of Louisiana and Texas, chairman of the water lobby's co-ordinating committee, was a star witness.

Four other congressmen and three ex-congressmen are on its board of directors. National Rivers and Harbors congress makes a great point that its annual budget is only $12,000 a year. But when a pressure group has 10 active congressmen among its top officers, maybe money isn't necessary.

Take the National Reclamation association which was originally organized in 1898 and was responsible for passage of the act which created the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation in the department of interior. The association was reorganized 13 years ago under the leadership of Gov. George H. Dern, former secretary of war. Today it represents over 400 western state water districts.

"SACRED COW" ASSOCIATION It is pretty much of a sacred cow around the department of interior which has an unwritten rule against referring to the association as lobby. But a close look at the list reveals not only its power, but some strange bedfellows:

Take the National Rivers and Harbors congress, founded in 1901. It works for bigger and better congressional appropriations for river and harbor development, and gets them. Its president is U. S. Sen. John L. McClellan of Arkansas. Its four national vice presidents are Sen. John H. Overton of Louisiana and Congressman William H. Whitington of Mississippi, Hugh Peterson of Georgia and Charles R. Glason of Massachusetts. Chairman of the board is Congressman Dewey Short of Missouri.

Four other congressmen and three ex-congressmen are on its board of directors. National Rivers and Harbors congress makes a great point that its annual budget is only $12,000 a year. But when a DISCHARGED—Army morale lecturers at discharge centers throughout the United States are sending former soldiers back to beverage life with their tongues in their cheeks. They are taking pains to insure that the boys will not be psychoanalyzed, plied or glorified to boredom or death by the well-meaning home folks.

In many instances the last-day advice to yesterday's heroes assumes a humorous form. The soon-to-be veterans are told that, if their families and friends want to weep over their wounds and hear of all their hardships, they should fall in to the melancholic mood and shed as many tears as they can summon by whatever means. They should give a free rein to their imagination so as not to disappoint the audience.

On the other hand, if home-town worshippers prefer yarns of heroism and near death escapes the veteran should emulate Othello, who warned masculine and feminine hearts with his military romances.

In short, the youngsters about to resume their old ways are instructed to be all things to all men—and women—but to keep their heads under all circumstances. In general, they are warned that they should act up for the stay-at-homes, who have enjoyed only a remote and vicarious taste of the world's greatest drama. Should the good people wish to stuff the war with their beverages and should show his appreciation by consuming the viands and the drinks to the limit of his capacity.

Above all, the discharges are reminded, they must prepare to be fed and lionized for about a week, and then they must become reconciled to the fact that they will be "just another guy named 'Joe' without the 'G. I.' prefix." In short, Professor Shimson's Emily Posts are giving the demobilized thousands a postgraduate course in how to recover the vast body of civilians from a war to a peacetime psychology.

Common Ground

By R. C. HOLES

Real Leadership Henry Ford II shows by his speeches and his courage to make them that he is a real leader. He recently made a speech in the Ford Plant at St. Paul, Minnesota, under the heading of "Same Wait for the Future... Good Futures Are Built." Here are some of the things he said:

"Today is what it is because the steps leading to it were neglected and tomorrow will be equally disappointing unless we switch our steps." * * * A future that is merely the product of passing time may not be worth having; the future for which mankind is hoping can only come of intention and intelligence focused on what we need, and what we know it is right for everyone to have.

"The more I hear of the current talk about the future, the more the wisdom of the pioneers impresses me, for we stand in need of it now. Take, for example, the common belief that when V-E Day comes, all will be over and we can go out and celebrate. But, gentlemen, what will be over when the war in Europe is over? True, the violent attack on human life will largely be past, but all the burdens and all the problems will still be here, and there will also remain a tough war still to be fought. It will be no time to celebrate. Thanking will be for a great deliverance may be welcome, but certainly no celebration as over a great triumph. For, there are our dead, our maimed; the thought of these should restrain us. No promise of ease or comfort is ahead for any of us. From whatever angle we view it, the road to the future is a rocky one, and it is essential to wise planning that we recognize this.

"Somehow we must manage to make this clear to ourselves. We must make it clear that compared with the war job we have been doing, the peace job ahead is much the harder one. To bring it into bold relief, put it this way: It is far easier to fight a war than to build an economy; easier for the industrial and administrative points of view, the demobilized thousands may seem preposterous, but consideration will reveal its truth.

"In war, many human rights are suspended; many operations essential to a prosperous economy are abolished or curtailed; many regulations are clamped on every department of life. You—if you are in charge of a war—order men, money and materials as you please. Everything necessary to you is under conscription. That is the only way a war can be maintained. It comes as near being absolute government as anything can be. Also, war is the destruction of wealth, and to destroy wealth is always simpler than to create and produce it: it is much easier to tear down than to build up."

THE CAUSE OF WAR "And if you examine the record of the last 30 years, you will see that more governments have failed in trying to build an economy than in conducting military operations. Their economic failure often was the cause of their military defeat. At first sound, it seems as if a sound economy can be built only in a framework of utopian freedom; regimented or slave economies never have proved sound enough to stand on their own feet. A sound economy can be built only when all the people are productively engaged in it. A sound economy consists in the co-production of wealth for the sharing of it within the nation and among the nations. A sound economy takes cognizance of all the human rights and allows freedom for all the human talents. Building an economy requires a much higher type of intelligence than does war. A sound economy does not grow out of a system of threat—it grows out of a people—out of their energies and intelligence applied to their resources. That is something no government can command or direct—though it can discourage and interfere with. The chief contribution of government to building an economy is to clear the road of privilege and deception, and permit free exercise to the genius of the people. Not great pressure of authority, but fair rules of the road. Apparently, under the new ideology that has befuddled the world, governments have grown up familiar with this simple and stimulative service."

"(Industry) knows that, for industry as for government, the war work has been simple when compared with co-ordinated efforts required to build our American economy."

Does the above not prove that young Henry Ford II is a real leader?

BACK TO HOLLYWOOD —So back to Hollywood came Don DeFore with a nice M-G-M contract and a bride, Marion Holmes, a young lady who had been singing in the Bismarck hotel in Chicago.

But Don's life at Metro was much the same as it had been at Warner Bros. and Fox.

Finally, M-G-M fired him. "That settled it," Don told us. "I made up my mind I was through with Hollywood for good. I started packing again and my agent called up and said 'Hal Wallis wanted to test me for a role in 'The Affairs of Susan.' I said okay, but I'm still going to New York. I made the test and the next day I left town. I was all set to do 'The Hasty Heart' on Broadway when my agent called up and said, 'Don, you've got the part.'"

He applied to their resources. That is something no government can command or direct—though it can discourage and interfere with. The chief contribution of government to building an economy is to clear the road of privilege and deception, and permit free exercise to the genius of the people. Not great pressure of authority, but fair rules of the road. Apparently, under the new ideology that has befuddled the world, governments have grown up familiar with this simple and stimulative service."

In Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD.—A young fellow named Don DeFore clicked so well with movie fans as one of Joan Fontaine's lovers in "The Affairs of Susan" that his movie boss, Hal Wallis, immediately elevated him to stardom.

It took just one picture to accomplish what Don has been trying to accomplish for the last 11 years, proving again that moviemakers don't know a good thing when they see it.

"Overnight sensation? Hell, no," said Don, whose profile reminds you of Errol Flynn. "I've been trying to get somewhere in this town since 1934. I've played everything except a potted palm."

Movie fans who "discovered" Don DeFore, a Cedar Rapids, Ia., boy in "The Affairs of Susan," have been seeing him in scores of pictures. He would play a minor role or two, get discouraged and then go to New York for a play.

Warner Bros. fired him once because the casting office said people couldn't understand him when he talked because he had a double chin. After that, rebuff, he hid himself back to New York and was a mild hit in "The Male Animal."

On the strength of the play, Warner Bros. re-fired him. But again nothing important happened to him at Warner and he moved over to 20th Century-Fox. Fox changed his name to Don De Forrest, gave him a crew haircut and cast him as a big, dumb policeman opposite Lynn Bari in "We Go Fast."

"The picture," Don remembers grimly, "was so bad they gave it a sneak-release. Three of my friends who happened to see it didn't even recognize me."

So back to Broadway he went. There were no jobs on Broadway this time so Don and some pals got together and staged their own play, "Where Do We Go From Here?"

The run was short. But from there he went to "Sailor Beware" which ran for nine months. This time an M-G-M scout saw Don and said:

"You're sensational. Where have you been all my life?"

"In Hollywood," sneered Don, "disappearing in pictures."

So back to Hollywood came Don with a nice M-G-M contract and a bride, Marion Holmes, a young lady who had been singing in the Bismarck hotel in Chicago.

But Don's life at Metro was much the same as it had been at Warner Bros. and Fox.

Finally, M-G-M fired him. "That settled it," Don told us. "I made up my mind I was through with Hollywood for good. I started packing again and my agent called up and said 'Hal Wallis wanted to test me for a role in 'The Affairs of Susan.' I said okay, but I'm still going to New York. I made the test and the next day I left town. I was all set to do 'The Hasty Heart' on Broadway when my agent called up and said, 'Don, you've got the part.'"

He applied to their resources. That is something no government can command or direct—though it can discourage and interfere with. The chief contribution of government to building an economy is to clear the road of privilege and deception, and permit free exercise to the genius of the people. Not great pressure of authority, but fair rules of the road. Apparently, under the new ideology that has befuddled the world, governments have grown up familiar with this simple and stimulative service."

"(Industry) knows that, for industry as for government, the war work has been simple when compared with co-ordinated efforts required to build our American economy."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ON SERVICEMEN'S PROBLEMS.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
WASHINGTON, July 21.—Here are some general questions from GIs and their relatives:

Q. My husband is an enlisted man overseas. My two children and I are living in a very old house in a crowded section of town. I know we are paying too much rent and the roof leaks. A recent rain ruined some of my furniture. I refused to pay the rent until the landlord fixed the roof and replaced the damaged furniture. He threatens to throw me out. What can I do about it? Can he legally evict me?

A. Take your case to the local rent control board. The landlord can't evict you without a court order. The court can hold up any eviction for three months, and if the case is exactly as you stated the judge will probably make a just settlement of the affair to your satisfaction.

Q. After a long illness my wife died recently. We had no children. How do I go about changing the beneficiary in case I am killed. I can't select someone else to receive the six months gratuity in case I am killed in action?

A. You can designate a dependent relative as beneficiary for your gratuity pay and write to the Veterans Administration to change the beneficiary of your National Service Life Insurance.

Q. My father died last year. That left me with absolutely no relatives. I wanted to change my government insurance to make a buddy of mine in my outfit the beneficiary in case I am killed. I wrote and asked them to do this but they said it couldn't be done. Is this true?

A. Yes, a beneficiary has to be in a certain general class which includes all relatives or blood relations. A friend of yours cannot be designated as beneficiary.

You're in. I didn't believe it until Wallis got on the phone. The role was the break he had been waiting 11 years for. The fan mail started pouring in and now he'll be started in Wallis' new movie, "You Came Along."

GIs, did you read what that nice Admiral McCain said about American women? Why, according to him, we're practically winning the war because of the way we toughen up the American man at home.

The admiral says the Japanese men get an inflated ego because their wives aren't allowed to criticize them. Then when they go out and pick up a stranger like Uncle Sam and he smacks them down, they don't understand it.

You see Japanese wives, being practically slaves, can't develop their men's imagination. A Japanese man, coming home at 4 a. m. after losing fifty yen at cards, doesn't have to dream up a story. It's his wife who is scared, not he, volving one used light or medium.

So girls, the next time you henpeck your husband, I hope he realizes that it isn't because you have a nagging disposition, you're merely being patriotic.

SWEET FINISH CHICAGO.—(AP)—A long line of customers stretched up to the door of a drug store in the North West-ern railroad terminal. Home-bound commuters hurried into file at the end of the lengthening queue. Visions of cigarettes danced in their heads. When they reached the counter inside they ascertained they had chanced upon a sale of chocolate bars.

The first book devoted wholly to spectacles was published in Spain in 1620.

The Europeans who first visited Australia, Polynesia, New Zealand and America found the natives had domesticated dogs.

The six basic steps of modern dancing are: walking steps, the chase, waltz, balance, pivot, and running steps.

Browns Rise To Fourth With 4 to 1 Triumph Over Boston

CHICAGO, July 21.—(AP)—Veteran Paul Derringer, hospitalized with influenza earlier this week, went back to the mound today and turned in one of his best performances of the season as he pitched the Chicago Cubs to a 5-3 victory over Philadelphia.

Big "Oom Paul" stopped the last-place Phils with two hits for seven innings, and, until Vance Dinges doubled in the sixth, only two balls had been hit out of the infield. In the eighth he eased up and three hits, combined with an error, gave Philadelphia all its runs. In all, Derringer gave up but six hits as he won his tenth victory of the year before a crowd held to 6,500 by a morning rainstorm and threatening weather. The victory temporarily boosted the Cubs' National league lead to four games. Second place St. Louis plays a night game.

Phil Cavarretta, who up to today had gone hitless in 19 straight trips to the plate, paced the Cubs' tenth hit attack on Dick Mauney, who went the route, losing his fourth game of the year. DETROIT, PHILADELPHIA BATTLE 24 INNINGS, TIE

PHILADELPHIA, July 21.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics and the Detroit Tigers tied a 39-year-old American League endurance record as they battled almost five hours through 24 innings without any decision reached. Umpire Bill Sommers called the game at the end of the 24th inning with the score tied 1-1. The Athletics and the Boston Red Sox in 1906 played 24 innings to set a record which has never been equalled or broken until today. Les Mueller hurled 20 innings for the Tigers, being relieved by Paul (Dirzy) Trout in the 24th. Russ Christopher, the A's leading hurler, pitched 14 innings, giving way to Jittery Joe Berry, ace reliever.

Tam o' Shanter Golf Meet Will Attract Top Players

CHICAGO, July 21.—(AP)—Everybody wants to get into the $600,000 act at Tam O'Shanter course next week and that includes those ailing warriors of the fairways—Byron (Bucks) Nelson and Slammin' Sammy Snead—not to mention long inactive Lt. Ben Hogan of the army air force. The lush All-American tournament, golfdom's richest meet, is expected magically to heal Nelson, who skipped the current St. Paul open to rest a wrenched back, and Snead, nursing a fractured hand since mid-June. Defending Champion Nelson, with $31,600 from bond winnings and nine straight tourney triumphs already chanked up this year, and some 139 envious colleagues will shoot for the $13,600 (war bond value) winner's slice of the All-American open.

The 72-hole, medal play opening lasting from Thursday through Sunday is the main act in a three-day circus which Promoter George S. May has developed into golf's greatest spectacle. The show also includes an All-American amateur meet and an All-American women's open running concurrently with the main event.

Preliminary firing opens Sunday with 18-hole qualifying competition for amateurs, followed by test flights for women Tuesday and non-exempt pros Wednesday.

The return of Lieutenant Hogan from the inactive ranks and Snead's rest of a fractured hand should give Nelson a little snappier competition than he faced in roaring off with the Montreal open, the Philadelphia open, the Chicago Victory National, and the P. G. A. championship since the start of the summer tour.

Devalue Scores Upset Triumph

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
CHICAGO, July 21.—(AP)—Devalue, a 7-year-old thoroughbred owned by a Chicago housewife, scored a terrific upset in Arlington's $58,100 Stars and Stripes handicap at Washington park today by defeating the 3 to 5 favorite, Thumbs Up, by a nose.

The winner is owned by Mrs. James Nemecek, whose husband is a tailor's manufacturer. She was present to witness the triumph. Devalue had won only $5,850 in one victory out of six starts this season, compared to the hump of $110,245 earned by Thumbs Up, winner of the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap three weeks ago. Devalue never before had won an important stake.

Devalue, trailing last in the field of ten on the back stretch, made his winning move running down the middle of the track right at the end of the race.

Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP)—Elmer Caffrey, a returned war veteran who is playing for the Albany Senators in Eastern league, broke into the lineup the other night just in time to get into that 19-18 game Scranton won from Albany—Caffrey went to the plate three times against three different pitchers in one inning, when the Senators scored 14 runs and drew a walk and two hits—by that time he probably wished he was back in the front lines.

MOORE AND MOORE
For three years competition in the Panama Canal Zone Mickey Harris, former Red Sox slogger, never succeeded in fanning ex-Cardinal Terry Moore—recently Mickey pitched for Boston, champions of the Canal Zone league, in a 16-inning tussle against an all star squad that included Moore—and he whiffed Terry three times while chalking up some 20 strikeouts to win 1-0.

SHORTS AND SHELLS
Carl Freese, youthful Portland, Ore., golfer who was one of the sensations of the Chicago victory tournament, never had been on a train until she went east for that event. Chances are she won't try it again soon—Wally Rottger, U. of Illinois baseball coach, argues that the majors might as well let players go through college before signing them because they don't reach their peak, anyway, until after they pass college age. Wally doubts if any major league pitcher can be a regular before he's 25—in normal times, of course.

SERVICE DEPT.
Navy Lt. Mel Jones, the Dodgers' former secretary who still is keeping tabs on "them Bums" in the Pacific, went into Okinawa six days before the big invasion. When his plane took off for Hawaii 42 days later, it was in the middle of an air raid—Mel, who served through the Larry MacPhail regime, still thinks Okinawa was rather rugged.

What he didn't know was that Mrs. Grace Hyde, 30, had seen the car start down the hill without a driver, jumped into the front seat and stopped it. Human beings could not stand up on such small bones as exist in the foot without the foot's elaborate system of arches.

Progress Made

that the three leaders of the United States, Britain and Russia spent approximately 15 hours this week in direct discussions at the round-table.

They met formally each day, starting Tuesday, while their foreign secretaries—James P. Byrnes, Anthony Eden and Vyacheslav Molotov, began the daily spade work on Monday. Besides their full-dress meetings, the Big Three entertained among themselves with a series of luncheons and dinners where the international business of peace and war continually obtruded.

Churchill, Eden and Deputy Prime Minister Clement Attlee and the highest military commanders of Britain slightly delayed the previous schedules today in order to witness a parade in the Tergarten of the British Seventh armored ("desert rats") division.

"Today he was cheered by shabby, awed Berliners on the Kurstueckenstrasse when he stopped to open a new British service club for the Seventh armored men, who named it the "Winston club" in his honor.

German cheers at the club were an unscheduled event for Churchill. A crowd of more than 200, mostly women and children, gathered outside British military lines around the club, formerly known as the "Kabaret der Koeniger," and when he drove up there were cries of greeting. He merely stared at them.

But on leaving in a car with Montgomery, the British Prime Minister acknowledged the German cheers by raising his fingers in the V-for-victory sign.

The Big Three kept perfectly in character during the week. Stalin—even to German dwellers near Soviet headquarters in Potsdam, remained unseen and silent. President Truman kept pace with Churchill with two public trips, the second being climaxed yesterday by his declaration to U. S. Second armored division troops that "we are not fighting for conquest and there is not one piece of territory or one thing of a monetary nature that we want out of this war."

Among the President's friends here these remarks were not interpreted as meaning he favored abandoning fortified bases in the Pacific or otherwise weakening America's future defenses. Berlin observers believed his remarks served to underline the intention of the U. S. government to keep the general welfare of all peoples an objective in its international negotiations.

Louise hurries to answer the door. As she swings it open, she reveals Mrs. Pringle and Raymond on the doorstep. Raymond is in his Boy Scout uniform and is protesting.

RAYMOND: (philosophically) I'm very sorry I brought the whole thing up. This'll be a lesson to me.

MRS. PRINGLE: (outraged) Well! I'll tell them what you told me. Mrs. Pringle realizes she's not getting to first base with Raymond.

MRS. PRINGLE: Very well—I'll tell them what you told me. (She starts her revelation) According to Raymond, who distinctly overheard it from the Campbell's kitchen—

CLOSE SHOT—FAVORING MRS. PRINGLE

The others are all watching her tensely.

MRS. PRINGLE:—Marjorie Campbell was telling her bridge club last night that you—(an accusing finger at Mrs. Archer)—had said to her that Mildred was nothing better than a little tramp.

RAYMOND: (O. S.) But, Mother, listen—

At this moment, Mrs. Pringle appears in the doorway, holding her son firmly by the elbow. Her entrance causes considerable consternation. The men rise awkwardly to their feet.

MRS. PRINGLE: I'm sorry to come barging in like this, Janet, but there are some things I cannot ignore.

She has let go of Raymond and he promptly tries to sneak out through the screen door. She grabs him just in time.

MRS. PRINGLE: You stay here, Raymond.

MRS. FRANKLIN: (soothingly) Now, Dorothy, don't get so excited.

MRS. PRINGLE: I'm not excited. I'm just so furious I could chew nails! (a deep grimace) Raymond has just told me something that—(she shoves Raymond in front of her) You tell them, Raymond.

CLOSE SHOT—ON GROUP

Mrs. Archer rises hastily from the couch.

MRS. ARCHER: How ridiculous! I never said anything of the sort! It's a word I never use.

MRS. PRINGLE: Raymond—was that the word you heard?

RAYMOND: (reluctantly) Well, it sounded like it. (a happy thought) But it could have been "scamp."

MRS. FRANKLIN: Dorothy, I'm surprised at you—listening to garbled gossip! I'm quite sure that Janet would never—

MRS. PRINGLE: Kindly keep out of this, Mary.

DIFFERENT ANGLE—FAVORING RAYMOND AND MRS. PRINGLE

In the b. g. we see Corliss and Dexter, fascinated by these proceedings, coming onto the porch.

RAYMOND: I think it's all very dumb.

MRS. PRINGLE: You keep quiet! You think everything's dumb.

RAYMOND: It's my experience that most things are.

MRS. ARCHER: (soothingly) Look—we're never going to get anywhere by hashing things over. Why don't we bury the hatchet and forget it?

CORLISS: I think that's a wonderful idea, don't you, Dexter?

DEXTER: (judiciously) Well, I'd never go so far as to say Mildred's exactly a tramp, but I do think she's a bad influence.

MRS. PRINGLE: (outraged) Well!

RAYMOND: (discouraged) Here we go again!

CORLISS: (to Dexter, furiously) Why don't you keep your big trap shut?

DEXTER: Holy cow! You asked me, didn't you? I only—

MRS. PRINGLE: (lively) You've said quite enough. I can see where the entire neighborhood has been influenced against Mildred—and that's perfectly all right with me.

MRS. ARCHER: (soothingly) Now, wait a minute, Dorothy. She tries to put her hand on Mrs. Pringle's but with a dramatic gesture, Mrs. Pringle spurs the conciliatory overture.

MRS. PRINGLE: It's no use, Janet. I shall forbid both Mildred and Raymond to set foot in your house and Corliss will no longer be welcome at my house nor will Lenny. (a peremptory gesture) Come, Raymond.

Mrs. Pringle marches into the hall, out of sight. There's a stunned silence. Raymond looks apologetically at the others.

RAYMOND: (confidentially) She gets these moods once in a while. Likes to dramatize things.

MRS. PRINGLE'S VOICE: (impatiently) Raymond!

RAYMOND: (resigned) Okay, Mother, coming.

While Hitler, three years from power, ranted about tearing up treaties, the German ambassador in Washington complained about Germany's military inferiority imposed by the treaty of Versailles.

At that time, he didn't get to the point of demanding revision of the Versailles arms clauses, however. He took the stick by the other end and pressed for disarmament by everyone else, stating that Germany's policy was "equality through disarmament."

It added the weapon, which Japanese scientists urged be linked with the Japanese suicide attack spirit, would be employed "in rapid succession" in event of an invasion of the homeland.

Lt. Gen. Reikichi Tada, chief of the Japanese technology board, told of the new weapon and simultaneously acknowledged that Japan, unable to meet Allied power beyond Nippon-proper, must fight the final battle at home.

Bob Hope Returns To LaNora Today

In "The Princess and the Pirate"

Climaxed by a hilarious new ending, Samuel Goldwyn's latest production "The Princess and the Pirate" opens at the LaNora today for a three-day run.

This Bob Hope starrer is one of the funniest pictures ever to be made, so don't spoil it by telling your friends what the climax is.

The office of war information, in releasing the text of Captain Zacharias' speech, described him as "an official spokesman" for the government apparently giving his remarks the full weight of the administration.

The Atlantic Charter pledges adherents not to seek territorial aggrandizement, to sponsor no territorial changes unless approved by affected peoples, to permit peoples to choose their own form of government, to permit access by victor and vanquished alike to trade and raw materials, to economic collaboration among all nations, to a peace of safety and freedom from fear, to freedom of the seas, and to work for abandonment of the use of force by nations.

Describing the "unconditional surrender" peace formula as "a humanitarian gesture of great constructive value," the Japanese speaking captain called surrender "a time-honored formula by which hostilities are terminated."

If Japan "should initiate the cessation of hostilities without further delay," he said, "it may be assumed that it will be the United States which will enforce the formula and ensure the peace."

Captain Zacharias did not indicate what other powers might have a voice should the Japanese fail to surrender "without further delay," or what the "possible complications" might be.

He said there are still "some influential people" in this country "who would not like to see the destruction of Japan," and added: "But our patience, too, has its limits. It is rapidly running out. Your continued refusal to heed the sound and sober advice of counselors will convince even the greatest humanitarian among us that the destruction of everything which supports the Japanese war potential is the only way to terminate the war."

Each small table was decorated with daisies which were placed in small sprinkling cans.

Articles made by patients at the station hospital who are participating in the convalescent training program were exhibited. The display was arranged by Mrs. Frank T. Griffith, chairman of the Pampa army air field Red Cross committee.

Music for the luncheon was provided by Pvt. Richard Baker, pianist, and A/C Rocco Ciccarone, vocalist.

Red Cross

Continued from Page 7 plan. It helps to speed recovery of patients. Its curtailment through lack of personnel means that we have failed to provide our sick and wounded fighting men with a full opportunity for quick and complete convalescence.

The American Red Cross wants qualified applicants now for the following hospital service positions: 1. Trained social workers for supervisory, administrative and staff positions; quota: 750; minimum qualifications: a full graduate curriculum in an accredited college of social work and two years' full time successful paid experience as a staff member in a social agency. 2. Recreation workers for supervisory and staff positions; quota: 600; minimum qualifications: graduation from college plus one year paid employment in any field or two years of college plus three years as a recreation leader in an organization two years of which must have been successful paid experience. 3. Staff aides for positions in area of social case work under professional guidance; quota: 1650; minimum qualifications: graduation from college or two years of college plus two years experience in working with people. Opportunity for service, pleasant working conditions and professional improvement make these jobs among the best in the field. Here is a chance for trained women to personally assist the fighting men. Personally salaries come under an approved higher-wage scale and are supplemented by free living quarters or an allowance when quarters are not available. First issue of uniforms is without cost. Each new employee attends a training course for a minimum of two weeks in Washington, D. C., while receiving a full salary, plus maintenance. Hospital workers come under the same regulations as nurses and carry unofficial officer status. A large hospital staff will long be needed regardless of the war's termination.

All persons interested in further information about these job openings are requested to report at once to the local Red Cross chapter office. Anyone knowing persons who might be interested in this kind of employment is asked to furnish the chapter with names and addresses.

The number of young people enrolled in swimming classes, conducted at the Municipal Pool by Bernie Brown, has increased to 35. On July 30 a Junior Water Safety course will begin for which boys and girls between the ages of 12 and 15 years who are good swimmers will be eligible.

Why swim? Only fifty percent of the people in the United States can swim at all; yet this is the season when young and old flock to beaches and pools regardless of their knowledge of water technique. Of the fifty percent who swim, only ten percent swim well. Is it any wonder that approximately 7,000 persons drown every year?

Most drownings occur during May, June, July and August, for it is during these months that 80 million Americans "go swimming." Percentage of the 80 million who attempt to swim, but don't forget that a much greater number suffer near-drowning experiences with shock and illness, not to mention the inhibitions that such experiences place on future enjoyment of the water.

Mrs. J. E. Massa, co-chairman of home service, is in Amarillo, this week taking a basic training course for home service workers. Six chapters in this area were selected from which one representative each was invited to receive the training which will qualify that individual to teach others upon her return to the local chapters.

The latest meeting of the Eastern sub-district, North Plains Camp and hospital council, was in the form of a picnic at Lake Marvin, near Canadian, according to Mrs. W. R. Campbell, delegates from the local camp and hospital committee. Mrs. R. O. Owens and Mrs. B. Wolding, Red Cross field director at PAAF were also in attendance, and all report a most pleasant time.

Volunteer of the week: Mrs. McMeans of Canadian recently gave to the local camp and hospital committee some sheet music which she had composed and for which she had also written the lyrics. The selections are entitled "Daddy's Over There" and "Mother's Prayers." What is even more remarkable about the composer is that she is blind.

Have you a piano that is not being used? One is needed for the chapel at PAAF, and if someone could just lend a piano for the duration, it will be much appreciated. Call Mrs. W. R. Campbell at 2370.

The disaster preparedness committee met last week to hear suggestions from Miss Virginia Tucker, field representative for this section, and Miss Elizabeth Kankle, Red Cross nursing consultant from the area office, both of whom have just returned from working with chapters where disasters have occurred.

Ed Weiss, local disaster preparedness chairman, reports that emphasis is placed on the necessity for being always prepared to meet disaster, even though one has never befallen a community.

Tornadoes and floods in six mid-west states during the month of April claimed the lives of 149 persons, injured 981 others, and destroyed almost 1,000 homes. More than 15,000 persons were directly affected by these disasters.

Shamrock Bride Is Given Tea, Shower In Home Mrs. Fields

SHAMROCK, July 21.—Mrs. Vernon Helm, recent bride, was complimented with a formal tea and miscellaneous shower Thursday evening.

The affair was given in the home of Mrs. H. T. Fields. Other hostesses were Mesdames Ed R. Wallace, A. R. Hugg, T. H. Sonnenburg, Earl Hamill, L. S. Griffin, George L. Stanley, and Miss Re Lummus.

Attractive decorations were arranged of roses, dahlias and phlox, plus 7,000 drawings seen a small percentage of the 80 million who attempt to swim, but don't forget that a much greater number suffer near-drowning experiences with shock and illness, not to mention the inhibitions that such experiences place on future enjoyment of the water.

Similar flowers were used on the buffet. Mrs. Hamill presided at the table and was assisted in serving by Mrs. Griffin and Miss Re Lummus.

Mrs. Wallace directed the guests from the dining room to the living room.

Miss Lois DuBose played piano selections during the receiving hours.

Mrs. W. R. Campbell was hostess of members of Circle Four. Mrs. Walter Daugherty chose as the subject of her devotional, "What Are You Becoming?" Mrs. Henry Jordan directed the lesson on "Christian Conflict." She stressed staying beyond the assaults of the power of evil stating, "We must put on the whole armor of God. The equipments of a Christian warrior are: Having your loins girded about with truth, wearing the breast plate of righteousness, the helmet of salvation, the sword of the spirit, which is the word of God, and praying always."

Mrs. R. J. Epps closed the meeting with prayer. A game of Bible Lotto was enjoyed after the meeting.

Pink Panties for Men Bring Howls From Easterners

DETROIT, July 21.—(AP)—Whether the scanty panty situation has made sides of Detroit men was still in question here today.

But while the men emphatically denied buying ladies' panties for their own use, local store clerks reported sales of tea-rose "unmentionables" to women who admitted the garments were for their husbands.

Senator Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.) first reported in Washington Friday that a shortage of men's shorts was driving males to desperate measures.

He said he had received a letter from a Detroit wholesaler stating that the textile shortage had reduced men to "buying ladies' panties for their own use."

Veheement denials immediately arose from city officials. Councilman Henry S. Sweeney even offered to prove to doubters that "his panties aren't pink."

But one saleswoman said she sold four pairs of women's cotton "briefs" and a size 44 tearose step-in this week to women who said they were buying for their husbands.

A promise of relief came from one menswear firm which said it would have 1000 dozen pairs of men's shorts on sale Monday.

Insurance surveys reveal that persons 40 to 44 years of age, who are over 5 feet 10-inches tall, and who are 20 percent below the average weight for their height, show an increased mortality of 30 percent.

Company Commended for Part in War Effort

General Arnold raises Work of Continental

Continental Oil Company has received commendatory telegrams from General of the Army H. H. Arnold and Major General K. E. Meyer, deputy petroleum administrator, upon the scene, manufacture of more than two million barrels of 100 octane gasoline during the past year and ten million barrels of all petroleum products for military purposes since the outbreak of the war.

The army air forces heartily commend Continental Oil Company and its workers on the production of your high octane gasoline. The production of your 100 octane gasoline in addition to the nearly three-quarters of a million barrels of lubricating oils, substantially all of which was high quality aircraft engine oil.

The petroleum administration for war extends heartiest congratulations to Continental's organization upon their fine record of war production," stated Davies' message. "Two million barrels of aviation gasoline and ten million barrels of petroleum products since Pearl Harbor—represents a mighty contribution to the nation's war program, and is a further demonstration of the magnificent accomplishment of the oil industry in support of our fighting forces. With no margin to spare anywhere in meeting the demands upon us today, it is a great satisfaction to know that we can count on you for a continuance of such splendid performance."

Both messages were addressed to Dr. Walter Miller, vice president of Continental Oil Company in charge of manufacturing, who said the ten million barrels since Pearl Harbor included more than 300,000 barrels of toluene for TNT and as a blend for 100 octane gasoline—in addition to better than two million barrels of 100 octane components—and nearly three-quarters of a million barrels of lubricating oils, substantially all of which was high quality aircraft engine oil.

Continental Oil Company manufactured the first 100 octane aviation gasoline to be completely processed in one plant in Oklahoma.

During 1940, the maximum year of production, the gold output of the Yukon totaled 1,077,553 fine ounces.

Annoying experiences with bare shelves in groceries and meat markets, and "outrageous prices" for much that is available, are turning the minds of many city workers toward "a place in the country," Ekhardt, Ind., Truth.

News of Interest To Oil Men

Eight Notices of Intention To Drill Are Filed With Railroad Commission

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—The senate approved today a resolution that in effect, notified the treasury and the courts that congress thinks oil producers should be permitted to deduct drilling expenses in figuring their income tax.

The measure, previously adopted by the house, goes to President Truman for his consideration.

Action came on a 51 to 16 roll call vote which the senate agreed to hold today after it got tangled up last night in parliamentary procedure.

The measure places a congressional interpretation on the courts' laws that is at variance with the appeals ruled recently that producers cannot deduct drilling expenses. Senate lawyers argued that congress was invading the province of the judiciary but a determined group led by Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the finance committee put the bill across.

Non-Inflammable Safety Gasoline

NEW YORK, July 21 (AP)—Practical development of a powerful aviation fuel so safe that a "lighted match can be dropped into it without causing a fire" was announced today jointly by the Standard Oil Company (N. J.) and the Pan American World Airways.

E. W. Murphree, vice president of the central technical organization of Standard Oil said research chemists had made the fuel as safe as kerosene but with combustion power equal to the best fast-vaporizing gasolines. "It must be heated to more than 100 degrees Fahrenheit to produce enough vapors to ignite, the announcement said. "Thus eliminating the dangers of a flash fire from fast-vaporizing gasoline that might be set off by a spark."

Emma Crandal, Scholar, Chemist, Honored at Dinner

CHICAGO, July 21—Miss Emma E. Crandal, a scholar and chemist, who is known by her works wherever petroleum is refined or studied throughout the world, was honored by her associates of Universal Oil Products company, including President D. W. Harris, at a restaurant dinner in the Spinning Wheel, Hinsdale, Illinois, Friday night, July 13.

Miss Crandal is retiring after 20 years at head of the Universal library, over which she has presided since it was established in 1925.

Dr. Gustav Ekloff was chairman of the dinner meeting. Speakers included Joseph G. Altner, former vice-president of Universal, Professor V. N. Prattiff, and R. B. Day, manager of the Riverside laboratories.

Miss Crandal is best known as the compiler and editor of a weekly bulletin of abstracts, which enjoys world-wide distribution and esteem among scientists and technologists in the petroleum and allied fields. Her scholarly attainments include a knowledge of the Latin, French, German and Spanish languages. Moreover, a few years ago, recognizing the growing importance of research and development in the Soviet Union, she tackled and mastered the Russian language.

Her linguistic abilities are employed in reading, translating and digesting for the bulletin, interesting and important material from leading scientific and technical publications of the world. Miss Crandal's service to the petroleum and chemical industries has extended beyond her work at Universal. For many years she has been a regular contributor to Chemical Abstracts, a semi-monthly publication of the American Chemical Society. She is also a member of the Special Libraries association.

In addition to her editorial work and supervision of the library, Miss Crandal has conducted the literature searches, upon which much of the activities of the Universal research organization are based.

Graduated from Tri-State Normal College, Angola, Indiana, with an A. B. classical degree, in 1923, Miss Crandal received an A. B. degree in chemistry from Cornell University in 1921. Her hobbies are fishing (as a passenger) and love of animals; dogs and cats are her particular favorites. She resides at 317 S. Madison Avenue, LaGrange, Illinois.

I.O.C.C. Meeting On Natural Gas

Most important action taken at the 3-day quarterly meet of the I. O. C. C. at Oklahoma City last week was the unanimous adoption of a resolution emphasizing that the regulation of production and gathering of natural gas is "an exclusive function of the sovereign states."

The resolution recommended that the respective oil and gas producing states adopt alert and progressive policies "looking toward the enactment and enforcement of legislation to bring about a proper development of natural gas resources and a rigid enforcement of sound conservation practices," as the best insurance against intervention on the part of the federal government in the matters of production and gathering.

By this pronouncement, the producing states made it clear that they do not intend to relinquish their authority or avoid responsibility in the development and conservation of their natural resources.

Since this commission is now composed of governors or their official representatives from seventeen states, producing about 90 per cent of the nation's natural gas and with more than half of its population, the significance of this declaration is apparent.

The commission of state representatives organized in 1935, by the execution of an agreement to conserve oil and gas, with six original states participating, now includes the states of Oklahoma, Kansas, Texas, New Mexico, Colorado, Illinois, Michigan, Arkansas, Louisiana, New York, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Ohio, Montana, West Virginia, Alabama and Florida.

Featured subjects during the discussions were the nation's natural gas supply and reserve and the effect of recent supreme court decisions upon the production and conservation of natural gas.

Lions Club Will Hold Free Fair at Phillips in Sept.

The Phillips Free Fair, sponsored by the Phillips Lions club will be held September 1, 2 and 3. This was announced by Erwin Glasgow, general chairman of the organization.

Several features of the fair include a rodeo, midway concessions and rides of all kinds, and also an old time square dance sponsored by the Phillips '66 Square Dance club, this attraction is to be held on the tennis courts east of the swimming pool on the Saturday night following the rodeo.

"This project is to be a community affair in which the community clubs and organizations are urged to participate. Glasgow further stated that other items of public interest will soon be made public about the exhibits, rodeo and fair."

U. S. forces in Europe receive the equivalent of 18 ounces of milk a day.

Cresote, carbolic acid, naphtha, naphthalene, photographic developers, tear gas and a host of chemicals can be made directly from coal tar.

It was not until almost a century after Cortes had introduced the cacao bean into Spain that an Italian learned the secret of making chocolate.

Lake Texoma May Serve 6 Million Pleasure Seekers

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
(By The Associated Press)

Six million resort-hungry vacationists have postwar designs on Lake Texoma, 140,000 acres of good fishing shared by Texas and Oklahoma.

The National Park Service says proper development of the lake area would give 6,000,000 persons in a 200-mile radius a first-rate spot to spend their holidays. At present these millions have no comparable place to go. Besides getting a look at honest-to-gosh open water, peacetime pleasure seekers could run the gamut from dancing to digging for Indian bones. They would find summer cottages to stay in if they wanted comfort or camp grounds with all facilities if they didn't; they would find horses to ride, golf courses, bathhouses, museums and an eye-smacking three-mile dam that blocks the Red river and makes all this possible.

Estimating the cost at $6,203,000, the government agency suggests creation of two major recreational areas, one in Texas and the other in Oklahoma, and six minor areas, divided between the two states.

The areas are spotted along Texoma's 1,250-mile shoreline and plans call for development of 17,712 of the region's 185,000 acres. Major center on the Texas side would be 7,650 acres at Preston Bend. For Oklahoma, the Washita point section, an area embracing 5,800 acres, is spotlighted.

The Preston Bend section is situated on the south shore of the lake between the dam on the east and Mineral Creek on the west. Its rugged, wooded shoreline stretches for 55 miles and includes a peninsula, a boat harbor, lodge, cabins and a fishing village are recommended. The latter would contain lodging quarters, a large concession building and other facilities.

Lonny C. Fuller, supervisor of the Denison Dam and Recreation Planning project, prepared the report for Congress.

"Summer home sites," he says, "may be found all along the lake's shoreline."

Already the sites are being laid out by army engineers for leasing later in the summer and they may be available for leasing as early as August 15, Brig. Gen. E. H. Marks, southwestern division army engineer, announced at Dallas. He said home site leases may be based on terms up to 25 years.

Fuller, a native of Bonham, Texas, said administration of the proposed project is in the lap of the future but pointed out that U. S. army engineers have been empowered by Congress to develop, maintain and operate recreational facilities on reservoir projects over the country.

The federal administration agency, Fuller said, would furnish fire and police protection, enforce health, safety and other regulations, maintain trails, roads and utilities and provide picnic grounds, camp grounds, playgrounds and museums.

Archeological discoveries have been made in the region and the museums could exhibit specimens found. Several prehistoric Indian villages have been uncovered.

Concessionaires would operate restaurants, lodges, cabins, bathhouses, boats, golf courses, riding stables and stores. The government will lease sites to concessionaires.

Situated in Grayson county, Texas, the $55,000,000 Denison Dam is about midway between Dallas and Oklahoma City. It is served by four major highways, one interstate highway, and trunk line railroads and interurbans. A super-highway is proposed which will cross the reservoir at a point north of Gordonville, Texas, near Willis, Okla. Federal funds have been allotted to the states of Texas and Oklahoma for construction of the bridge.

Fish and game commissions of both Texas and Oklahoma stocked the lake with millions of bass last year and already fishing is good and there is NO closed season. One week-end last month an estimated 2,000 fishermen were fishing along just one section of the lake.

Fred Conn, Denison publisher intimates that bass carry their own ladders and climb into your boat. Asa V. Shannon, principal civilian assistant to the district U. S. engineer is almost as enthusiastic.

The average American male starts the morning with coffee, prefers cold showers, marries at 27, has his first child at 32, spends a total of nine years of his life at his place of business, consumes 150 pounds of meat a year, uses 216,000 words per day and after a hard day at the office discusses matters of interest with his wife in this order: 1. Himself and business, 2. Mutual family affairs, 3. News and current events.

Camp Bears Name Of First Officer To Lose His Life

TEHRAN, Iran, (by mail)—High in the mountains of Iran a U. S. army railroad camp, a link in the once-vital supply line to Russia, bears the name of one of the first high-ranking American officers to lose his life in World War II.

Colonel Gilles was killed Feb. 28, 1942, in an airplane crash almost within sight of Doroud. At the time he was in charge of a U. S. military mission field office at Basra, Iraq.

(A native of Canada, Colonel Gilles was headquartered at Amarillo, Texas, before entering the army. He had held other positions with the Santa Fe in Colorado and Kansas. His family lives at Amarillo.)

For more than six months he was listed as "missing." It was not until August that searchers, after skirmishes between Iranian troops and bandits, were led to the wreckage of the American-built Russian-operated DC-3 plane.

Until now, no details of the search had been made public.

A searching party was organized after a native brought word of the wrecked ship in June. It included Maj. (then Capt.) Carl J. Dougovito of Cedar River, Mich., O. H. Bell, a Douglas aircraft Corp. employee, and four Russian civilians.

Hostile tribesmen, many well-armed, inhabited the area and 500 Iranian troops were dispatched to aid the party, which set out July 27. There was intermittent fighting with numerous casualties as the searchers proceeded to a lake near Ushurianan Kuh, a 14,200-foot peak.

To avoid delay, a truce was effected and three tribal chiefs agreed on Aug. 3 to serve as guides. Next day remnants of the plane were found in a gorge, strewn over a wide area.

Captain Dougovito, who later received the Soldier's Medal for this part in the search, and Bell remained there several days collecting scraps of personal papers, the few valuables left by outlaws who looted the wreckage and parts of the plane. The dead were buried nearby.

Borneo is the world's third largest island, with an area of 390,000 square miles.
