The Chicken Man of Cameron

Fuchs of Monroe Ideal Cameron owns Poultry and sells what he calls recreational birds. We're talking pets here: chickens, guineas, ducks and geese.

He gives baby chicks to schools. His goal is to have a chicken in every classroom in the country. "There's a certain age where you have time to really look at these birds and study them," says Monroe. He sometimes gives eggs away SO watch the students can eggs hatch. "It's verv educational," he says.

He gives giant colorful charts of the different types of poultry to schools and visitors to his plant. His farm, on highway 36 west of Cameron, is a series of poultry houses and yards where thousands of birds live in comfort. The farm has been there since 1937. "I'm second generation and my chickens are third generation in the business," says Monroe. "I started coming to the farm when I was three years old and started keeping the books when I was in the 8th grade." Monroe, pronounces his last name 'Fox", says he is a pure chicken man. "We always said around our place that it's the chickens that make the money and the cattle spend the moncy."

Eggs come into the plant from the farm by the truckload and go into huge incubators. When I was there, he had nearly a million eggs about to produce baby birds. Thirtyfive people work for getting Monroe, the beautifully colored birds of bright red, flaming gold and iridescent green to poultry lovers all over the country. "We look for uniqueness," says Monroe. "If people are going to have something in their yard, it should be pretty. They don't really care about having a white refrigeration and heat and chicken. Every body else when to put the eggs in a has a white chicken. chicks are comfortable; come from Florida, which

who they don't make any noise. were laid by birds bred in

Ι saw hundreds of thousands of baby birds of different types at the plant and they hardly made a sound.

He ships out about 20,000 baby chicks a day. "We send a lot out by parcel post. In fact, when I have an important paper I want to send, I put it in a box because chicken chickens move very fast through the mail. When they come tot he post office and they're not peeping, the postal people think they're dead and they want to get them out before they go to smelling."

It isn't easy work. Monroe deals with 50 standard breeds of miniature chickens alone. You have to know about hot or cold environment. He says when baby Some of the guinea eggs

France. He says he's the only recreational poultry man left in the state. All the others have gone away. "In fact, you can go all the way to the East Coast and not find anybody else this in business." Monroe loves his work and feels lucky to have a company successful enough that he can provide two annual scholarships to A&M.

"You could just sit there all day and watch the chickens play. People have them just for the enjoyment of having them. You can teach them to do might near anything. You can teach a cat to use a commode. But you can teach a chicken to use the commode, then flush it. A chicken is very smart.

Whichever material you choose, just remember that one board should never be used for every task in the kitchen. In order to avoid cross-contamination of bacteria, designate one board to raw meat and fish (plastic is a god choice for this). Use a separate board for slicing and chopping fruits and vegetables. You may also want to use another board for garlic and onions.

The safest place for any child safety seat is in the back seat of the vehicle. A child safety seat can save your child's life, but it's important to use it correctly! Never place a rear-facing child seat in the front seat of a vehicle with a passenger-side air bag. Your child could be in danger in a crash!

Enrollment tips for this year's Ranch-to-Rail Program

It's that time of the year again. The 1999 Texas A&M Ranch-to-Rail program will be taking cattle deliveries in October. But right now, producers need to begin the process of selecting and preparing their entries.

Ranch-to-Rail gives producers the opportunity to check feedlot performance and carcass traits of steer calves produced from their herds. Cattle are fed at the Hondo Creek Feedyard at Edroy, near Corpus Christi, or Friona Industries' yard near Amarillo, or both.

"Participation involves a three step process," said John McNeill, beef cattle program leader with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in College Station.

First, producers need to enroll their cattle. To sign up, contact your local county extension agent or McNeill at 409/845-3579. Enrollment forms must be submitted this month.

Next, producers should identify a minimum of five steer calves to enter.

"Only steers will be accepted and there's no age restriction. We recommend weights between 500 and 800 pounds," said McNeill. Individual identification will be maintained on each calf for the length of the program.

The last step may be the most important according to the beef expert, "calves will need to be prepared for the feeding program" although a preconditioning regimen isn't required, however, it is highly recommended, McNeill said. "Ideally, the calves should be weaned a minimum 45 days before shipping."

"We like to see the animals vaccinated against viral and bacterial pathogens that can lead to illness once the calves leave the ranch," he added. While not required, these preparations will reduce the risk of health problems enroute to the feedyard.

The steers selected also need access to a complete mineral supplement, good quality grass hay or pasture, and a high protein supplement. Guidelines for preparing calves, such as the Texas A&M VAC-45 and Tex-VAC, can be obtained from your local extension county agent, area livestock/beef specialist, or from McNeill.

"Now's the time to ready your animals," he said. If a 45-day regimen is chosen, then the steers should be weaned between mid-August and September 1. Even if calves are not weaned for that long, the schedule for administering some vaccinations may require producers to begin in last August.

Whether now or later, today's beef producers must be knowledgeable about the product they market. Ranch-to-Rail offers the chance to learn more about their cattle and their industry to boot.

For assistance and information, call on your local county extension agent, or area livestock/ beef cattle specialist Ted McCollum at (806)359-5401 in Amarillo.

School Bus Safety for Motorist

With school starting next Monday in Borden County, it is important to remember that the school buses will be out picking up children and dropping them off from their homes and at school. As motorist, we should definitely take some precautions in order to provide a safe ride for our county's children. Here are a few tips to remember:

- On county roads or rural highways, watch for school bus loading and unloading signs as well as for children traveling to and from school (waiting for the bus at the end of a driveway, etc.)
 - Drive slowly, especially if you know children live in the area.
 - Watch for children playing or gathering near school bus stops.

• Be alert, children sometimes dart into the street or road without looking for traffic.

• Learn the flashing light system that alerts motorists that the bus will be
