Bitter Fighting Explodes Between Taft-Ike Forces

Sen. McCarthy Says Benton Aiding Reds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy today denounced Sen. William Benton as "the chameleon from Connecticut" and accused him of aiding the Communist cause "for political advantage to the Democratic party."

McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican, told a Senate rules subcommittee he would present evidence "to show that Benton has been wholeheartedly following the Communist directive to discredit and destroy, smear and label, anyone who dares to hurt the Communist cause."

McCarthy went before the subcommittee to press for action on his resolution for a full-scale investigation of Benton, who has demanded that McCarthy be ousted from Congress. The same subcommittee has been looking into Benton's accusations of fraud and deceit against McCarthy.

Sen. Montone (D-Okla.) objected to McCarthy's use of the word "chameleon."

McCarthy shot back that Montone earlier listened to more than 30,000 words of name calling from Benton and raised no objection.

McCarthy told reporters he planned to present more than 60 exhibits during the course of his testimony, to amplify his charges.

Candidate For Senate ... Truman-On-Ballot Possibility Growing

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The possibility that President Truman may be on the Democratic ballot in November appeared to be increasing today.

In this case, however, the evidence indicated that Truman would be listed as a candidate for the United States Senate — not for re-election as President.

Influential Missouri office holders believe it is entirely possible that Truman's name may be substituted for that of J. E. Taylor, Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois attorney general of Missouri, on his for the presidential nomination.

Stevenson is regarded as one of the most reluctant of the potential candidates for the Democratic nomination. He has said he would not accept any nomination other than that for re-election as governor of Illinois.

Commie Policemen, Officer Give Themselves Up To West

BERLIN (AP) — A senior staff officer of the East German Communist People's police and nine other Red policemen deserted to the West within the past 24 hours, West Berlin officials announced today.

The officer, Inspector Ernst Bollow—the rank is equivalent to major—was in charge of the department concerned with Soviet borderers in Berlin.

Senator Is Likely To Take Louisiana

CHICAGO (AP) — A bitter fight between Taft and Eisenhower forces for 13 Louisiana delegates exploded today before the Republican National Committee.

With Sen. Robert A. Taft's supporters solidly in control, the Eisenhower faction just about abandoned in advance any hope of getting a committee vote in favor of seating its delegates in next week's nominating convention.

But they opened a slashing attack, anyway, on Taft faction tactics in Texas, Georgia and other states in addition to Louisiana.

And they declared they would try again in the convention itself to get the challenged Taft delegates thrown out and the general's supporters seated in their place. They contend there'll be a marked swing in sentiment toward their candidate once rank-and-file delegations start streaming into Chicago.

The anger generated in two previous days of hearings in the convention headquarters hotel burst out at today's session even before the Louisiana dispute came up.

Werner W. Schroeder, national committeeman from Illinois, stood up and took scorching exception to a charge by Eisenhower's campaign manager, Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., that the committee's award of Georgia's 17 delegates to Taft yesterday was a steal.

Schroeder was one of the 62 committee members who voted to seat the Taft faction. The Eisenhower group mustered 39 votes — and he told the committee his vote yesterday was cast for the same group he supported in three previous contests beginning in 1944.

Then the Louisiana fight started. Eisenhower backers challenged 13 of the 15 pro-Taft delegates from Louisiana, charged they were picked by "phony" tactics, declared the delegates were taken from them just as the Ike people say they were robbed by the Tafts in Texas.

Taft forces countered with a nine-inch pile of blue-bound documents intended to show their delegates were honestly elected according to the rules.

Taft unquestionably held the whip hand in the current maneuverings before the national committee but the Eisenhower supporters insisted it would be a different story in a few days.

Name Airport ... Some Pampan Due Memorial

Some Gray County resident will have a living memorial that will outlast all of us today.

He — or she — may now live in McLean, in Lefors or somewhere in Pampan.

Chances are, too, that he — or she — is what is generally known as a "comparatively unknown," a person whose name seldom, if ever, gets into print or is heard over the radio.

But, that person will be the clever one who in the opinion of the judges suggests the best name for Gray County's new airport northwest of town. He or she will also receive $25 from the Pampa Daily News in the News' sponsored "Name Your Airport Contest" that is now in full swing.

Anybody but employees of The News, Radio Station KPBN, elected county officials, members of the aviation committee, the three judges, and the immediate families of the above may submit names for the airport.

Committee Ponders Airport Questions

Opening an airport is one thing, but operating it is another, Frank Culberson, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Aviation Committee told his group yesterday afternoon in the city commission room.

Culberson said there were "a lot of questions to be answered. We have, or soon will have, our airport, but I'm afraid we won't know what to do with it."

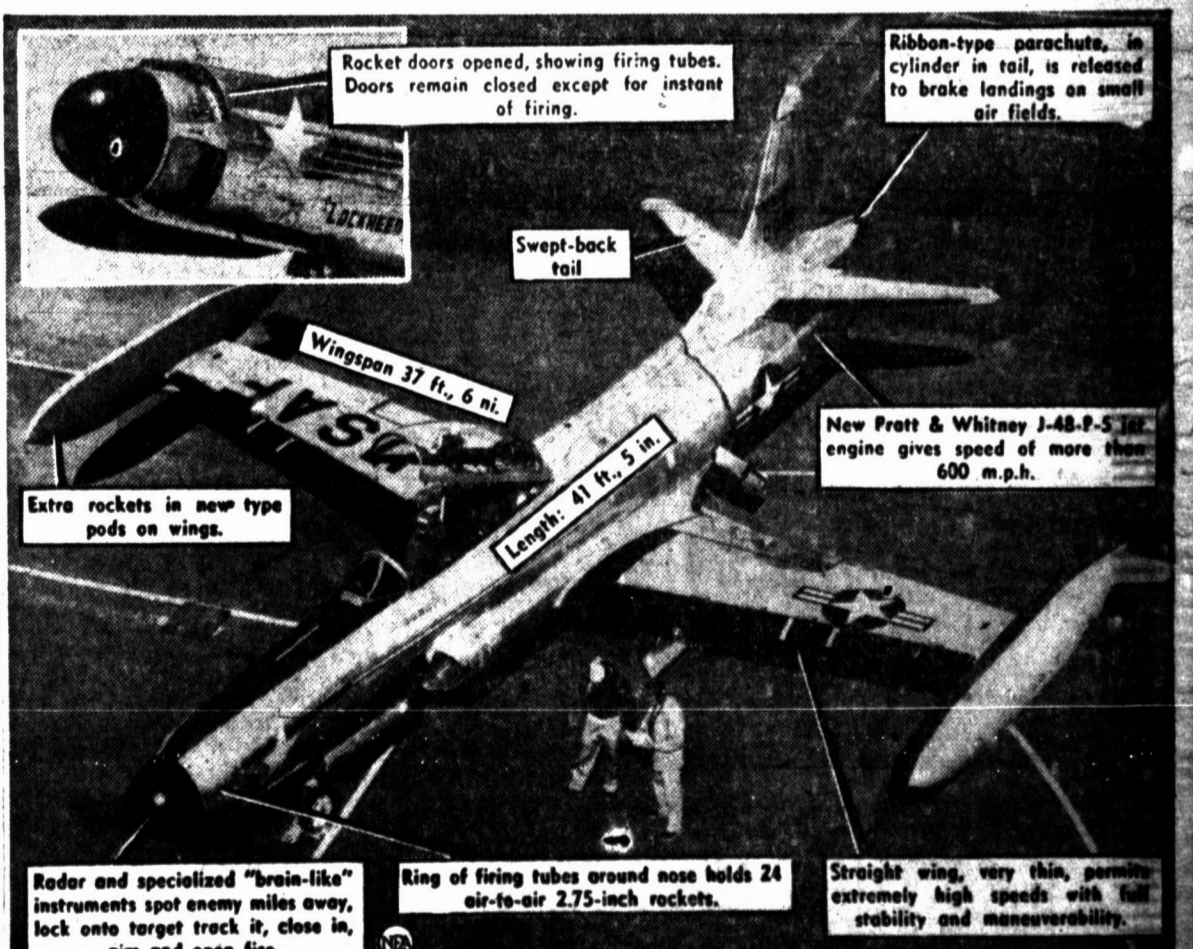

Enlarging, he added, a method of operating the field will have to be worked out — either by leasing it to someone with enough financial backing to get it started, paying an operator a salary, or some other way.

"How will the hangars be arranged? Should there be minimum requirements in building? Will they be privately owned with owners paying a ground rental? Will the hangars be county owned with the users paying a hangar rental?" Culberson asked.

He reminded the committee that nothing they do could be of any value since the county commissioners have to make all decisions. But, he said, the commissioners have asked the committee to appoint an advisory group to work with them such as the Highland General Hospital Board.

A temporary advisory group will be named sometime this week or next week to make a study of the airport's operational needs and make recommendations to the county commissioners.

Ed Myatt asked the committee if anything had been done about installing an auxiliary lighting system since the county commis-

"AUTOMATIC FIGHTER" HAS NO GUNS—Pictorial diagram above shows outstanding features of the radically new Lockheed F-94C Starfire, now in production at Burbank, Calif., and being delivered to the Air Force. The Starfire carries no guns, relying on rockets. It is so nearly automatic that the pilot and radar operator have little else to do but take the plane off the ground, maneuver to the general target area guided by ground radar, switch on the "electronic crew," monitor operation of the piloting and rocket-control apparatus during the attack and then land. The all-weather interceptor is designed for air defense of the United States, with the specific mission of knocking out invading enemy bombers.

New U. S. Jet Mounts No Guns

PALMDALE, Calif. (AP) — The first United States combat plane with all-rocket armament has just zoomed through a special test flight at a speed so fast that the airstream burned the paint off her nose.

The new jet, a thin-wing, two-place aircraft developed by Lockheed from its F-80 Shooting Star, is called the Starfire. She's an all-weather interceptor designed to shoot down invading bombers.

Tony Levier, chief engineering test pilot for Lockheed, put her through her paces yesterday at the Palmdale Airport. Her takeoff and climb demonstrated her ability to streak upward to 45,000 feet and above, with a turnup of less than 30 seconds. Her speed is secret.

OUR TOWN

by Wanda Campbell

About the most popular young woman in Pampa every Saturday morning between 10 and 11 o'clock is Miss Betty Boswell who directs the story hour in the public library. Between 25 and 30 wide-eyed youngsters meet there each week to hear Betty begin, "Once upon a time..." then continue with the tales that have thrilled children for centuries. Last week she told the old German folk tale, "Hansel and Gretel." But there are new stories, too, and helpful books like the one she read recently, "Manners Can Be Fun." After the stories, the children sing while then go to the library shelves and select their favorite books. They know all about library cards and fines. These six to 12-year-olds have definite reading tastes, too. "Where's horse books?" they ask, or, "Don't you have any mysteries?" They know their way around in the library better than many adults, and are discovering the "thrill of reading a good story." We heard someone say recently that reading is one of the few entertainments that are always available. Good books of our own choice are in our homes to read or push aside momentarily, and it's a story teller like Betty who encourages reading. Among the young people at the library last week were Johnny and Patsy Holloway, children of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Holloway; Tim Eller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Eller; Robin and Julia Vail, children of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Vail; Tommy and Sue Ann Thompson, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Chester Thompson; and Don and John Curry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Curry.

The Mature Parent

By MUEL LAWRENCE

Dave was born as an unexpected dividend to my father and Ethel and her husband after 10 years of childless but happy marriage. He and his parents know each other extremely well, and we are all apt to when we meet him to be sure to ask him what we really think and feel about him.

One day when he was about seven and just getting over a severe cold, I took him some cream and a game and he just finished his supper and as his mother removed his tray, she saw that most of the orange juice was still half full.

She gave it back to him. "Hurry up and drink it," she said. "You need all the ascorbic acid you can get to get well."

She was tense with strain of her work nursing. When Dave said, "I don't want any more orange juice now," her voice was unapologetic.

"Look here," she said, "I've been climbing stairs all day trying to keep you happy, and I'm tired. I've worked as hard as I can today and now I want cooperation. Drink up that juice and no more talk."

As I said, Dave is a child who has not been taught fear of thinking or of expressing his thoughts. He took the glass from his mother and placed it on the table beside the bed.

"Why did you work so hard today, sill?" he asked her. "I'm not sick any more. So sit down and take it easy for a change. You can't think the juice before I go to sleep. I'll drink all the juice you want if you'd just take it easy for a second."

Dave's mother looked at me and her lips began to tremble. When I got up and left them, Dave told me that he was patting her shoulder, saying, "That's right, mom. You're just tired. Just take it easy. I'm feeling swell now."

He'll make a nice husband for someone someday.

It's a blessed thing for us when convalescent children can articulate about their objections to our over-anxiety about their health. Though they are not always so kind as Dave in rebuking our strain and tension, their impatience is nearly always their way of saying, "Take it easy now."

The irritation with which they receive our anxious pleas and demands to drink this and eat that is seldom resistance to medicine or food. It is resistance to the fear they sense in us.

This they find depressing. Nearly always children know whether our tussing over them is motivated by fear of relapse, or more contagion, or whether it is motivated by joy at their recovery. Just tuck back in your own experience of nursing your convalescent offspring. If your tussing has been relieved, happy, unflinching, have they objected to it? Of course they haven't.

But let over-anxiety replace the gentleness we should be feeling and the child who said, "Oh, that tastes wonderful, mother," will say, "Take it away. I told you I didn't want any more of that stuff, didn't I?"

I am not suggesting that we should let our children as to feel no anxiety when Harry or Jane is still ill. What I'm talking about is the way we sometimes fail to show joy in the recovery of our youngsters' health, and continue to exhibit yesterday's panic and strain.

Convalescent children who strike out at our oversolicitude are our best friends. They are telling us to rest from fear. They are saying, "What's the matter with you, mother? Aren't you happy I'm better?"

Pick Travel Clothes That Are Washable

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Whether your summer travel plans include plane, boat, bicycle or car, you'll find a washable wardrobe will make your days delightfully care-free.

The list of soap- and -water fabrics is endless, but be a wise traveler and choose for the ease, wrinkle, and mildew-resistant finishes. And with a little forethought, it will be simple to minimize your laundry time.

For one thing, try to suids out soiled clothes in tiny batches. Left your gloves or blouses absorb water while you're showering. When you step out of the tub, rinse your laundry, paste gloves or hankies to the sides of the tub or the wall and hang your blouse over a hanger. Tuck a small sheet of plastic or a towel over a metal hanger before using it for damp clothes.

Soiled petticoat or fluffy dress hems can be soap - spotted before you rehang them. A towel, soap and water are all the materials needed. If a bowl is handy, make up a thick or "dry" lather to work with - going over the inside and outside of the hems.

Terry cloth, denim, and heavy sweater require an absolute minimum of ironing and are durable for beach, extensive hiking, and exploratory trips.

Turnabout clothes designed to keep you glamorous at night as well as in the daytime are also helpful. These vacation wearables can serve as nighties, pajamas and lingerie - and then turnabout to function as sport and casual afternoon clothes.

Tips For Tasks

Bathing suits that are elasticized should be washed by gently squeezing through lukewarm soapsuds. For very soiled spots, work soap into the fabric with a soft washcloth. Rinse well and dry in shade away from heat.

We live too much in platoons; we march by sections; we do not live in our individuality enough; we are slaves to fashion in mind and heart, if not to our passions and appetites.

RUTH MILLETT

The other woman was saying apologetically: "I sometimes feel guilty at how much time I spend playing bridge. But the women I play with are all widows, like me, living alone. And we do enjoy our afternoons together."

She shouldn't feel guilty. The other woman who can find amusing pastimes, who can fill her life with things she enjoys doing, has a right to be proud of herself.

She isn't sitting around feeling guilty at how much time she is wasting her life.

As long as she is finding enjoyment, she is doing something worthwhile.

If her years of hard work are behind her and there is no longer any one dependent on her - she has earned the right to spend her time in any way that makes her happy.

And there is another thing to her credit. If, on her own, she can make friends she enjoys being around, she is doing something for herself.

It's the older woman who refuses to live entirely through her children, who makes her children feel somehow responsible for her lonely life, who is a burden.

The older woman with enough get-up-and-go to work out a scheme of living that is commendable deserves respect, not condemnation.

Any way she spends her time is all right, so long as she gets pleasure from her activities.

Enjoying time is NOT wasting time. Wasting is sitting around being lonely and miserable.

Anything an older woman can do to get some enjoyment into her days is all to the good and she owes no one an apology for how she spends her time.

Merten Club Hears Background, Recipe For Hush Puppies

The background of hush puppies and a master recipe for them were the topics of the program of the Merten Home Demonstration Club meeting in the home of Mrs. W. H. Hilliard Tuesday.

Mrs. Clyde Edmondson was hostess and Mrs. W. H. Hilliard directed the program.

Mrs. Smith said hush puppies got their name from the old Southern Negro mamies. Dogs in the yard would be howling and the mamies would sling some of the corn-meal mixture outside and say, "Hush, puppies."

For mixing the hush puppies, Mrs. Smith gave one-sixteenth of a master recipe as one cup corn meal, one-half teaspoon salt, one-third teaspoon baking powder, two tablespoons fat, two-thirds cup buttermilk, one-third teaspoon soda, one-half egg (beaten and divided) and three tablespoons chopped onions. The mixture is dropped from a spoon into deep, hot fat and fried until light brown.

Mrs. A. M. Nash won the prize as winner of a novelty game, "Poison Penny," following program.

Mrs. J. C. Stewart, president, announced a training school on making plastic purses July 31 in the Emmett Osborne home of the Bell Community. Also during the business session, the group voted to entertain the Worthwhile Club in August, with the date to be decided later.

Mrs. Edmondson served ice cream, cookies, and lemonade to Mrs. Smith, Stewart, Nash, T. G. Groves W. E. McCracken, J. C. Stewart, P. J. Boyd, D. A. Rife, Archie Maness, and W. T. Cass Jr. all club members, and two visitors, Mrs. Hilliard and Mrs. Ed Wohlgenuth.

Next meeting of the club will be Tuesday, July 15, at 1:45 p.m. with Mrs. V. Smith on the Humble Merten Lesson.

NEW YORK (AP) - The clothing industries have been doing some soul searching - all the way from the store back to the mill. As a result, there is a rash of pronouncements by many of them ought to raise somebody's hackles.

Like this one: Men's wear has advanced in style and ideas much faster than the women's lines in the last few years.

Most retail stores are selling in spite of themselves and not because of any merchandising abilities - the salesman is the weakest link.

And this: Cotton is winning a slight advantage in the battle for the fiber salesman's mind.

The man who thinks that men's wear has gone far ahead of the women's field and "dollar for dollar gives a much better value" is M. J. Lovell, director of the National Association of Shirt, Pajama and Sportswear Manufacturers.

"The men's wear industry hasn't been slipping," he says. "It's been changing."

Naturally, Lovell thinks the new emphasis on sportswear is all to the good. He admits the sales have fallen off in suits, hats and neckwear, but says it is more than made up by gains in other lines. This cheerful view may not be echoed by the makers of suits, hats and ties.

Dim views of the abilities of retail clothing salesmen are expressed by several speakers at a conference sponsored by the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers.

Some speakers called the retailer the weakest link in the apparel field. This may not set well with some old and faithful store clerks.

The retailer doesn't know how to sell this merchandise, according to Charles M. Edwards, dean of the school of retailing of New York University. Weakest display, he says, are advertising, and personal selling.

Shop stressing items that were good in the past, says Victor Lebow, Baltimore clothing manufacturer. Think up new ways of attracting the consumer - like emphasizing fashion rather than price, to influence the women who often make up their men's minds on the subject of male attire.

In the manufacturing field there is considerable optimism over prospects for fall. Many f.g.g. lines are down from $3 to $7 from last year, and good business is anticipated.

Brush, Soap, Water Used To Keep Summer Jewelry Glistening

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

All that glitters may not be gold in your summer jewelry collection, so you better give some thought to how you will keep your "gems" glistening and gleaming.

Fortunately, soap and water will go a long way in jewelry grooming. Start out with warm soapsuds and avoid extreme water temperatures that may crack real or synthetic stones. Have a soft-bristled brush handy. Spread a thick towel on the wash basin edge to keep the jewelry from slipping off to the floor or cracking against the porcelain surface.

Check the settings to find out whether the jewelry can be plunged right in the suds. Stones held by prongs, for example, present no washing problem. For pieces that are cemented in place, however, you'll want to use the soft brush dipped in warm soapsuds. Rinse by brushing with clear water. Absorb moisture immediately with a bit of tissue.

Use the soapy brush on bib necklaces and on all porcelain jewelry. Even minute specks of dust show on pure white porcelain, so keep this type of costume jewelry sparkling clean at all times.

Real or simulated pearls, especially the pastel-toned ones, should be washed through the soapsuds. Hold the necklace by the clasp. For soiled knots between pearls, lay the necklace on a towel and scrub the knots gently with the soaped-up brush. Dip the necklace in warm rinsing water and pat in towel. Then pin it to a towel to dry. The pins should go through the clasp halves and serve to hold the necklace taut.

Diamonds are sturdy enough to take hotter suds and rinses and can then be dipped in alcohol and left to dry. Pick a safe spot, of course.

Don't leave your jewelry grooming until your favorite piece has become dulled with dust and perspiration. Complement your crisp nylon and cottons with a "sparkle" of cleanliness.

Navy Experiments With New Lungs

WASHINGTON (AP) - Some day it may be possible to replace a diseased lung with a spare, two researchers for the Navy say.

since Easter from their post-Korean lows earlier in the year. But the price hikes may not affect men's clothing lines until next spring. The Wool Bureau, Inc. says the world outlook for the sheep fiber is bullish - a phrase that mixes up the animal kingdom a little.

Women's woolen and worsted apparel fabric prices of a number of mills have gone up this week by five to 11 per cent. The new prices will be tested later this month when the fall fabric buying season gets going.

Cotton mills are happier, too. W. Ray Bell, president of the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York, says recent gains in sales volume clearly indicate an upward and long overdue swing in the market cycle, after 15 depressed months.

He thinks cotton is getting an edge in the battle with synthetic fibers. And he predicts firmer prices for cotton goods this fall.

Packaged gingerbread makes a quick dessert and it's delicious served with a mound of whipped cream cheese and a lemon sauce. Or it may be paired with applesauce or chocolate sauce.

Spending Can Be Cut

The quadrennial "war" on the homefront which we call the presidential campaign is centering more and more on federal spending. Both leading Republican candidates contend that expenses can be slashed. Democrats hope to agree with President Truman that it can't be done. The Democrats say we must be "realistic." All right, let's be.

First off, no one will reasonably argue that we can build up the country's defenses without spending more money than before the rearmament program began. War and the preparation for war are expensive. But they needn't be scandalously wasteful as has been shown in numerous instances. The Armed Forces have been known to buy certain supplies enough to last for more than 100 years. It is also reported that $2½ million is being spent to educate officers in civilian law schools when more than 3400 officers with law degrees are now on active duty not connected with legal work. The insistence on greater efficiency in spending—the military dollar would surely result in saving more than a few cents.

On civilian expenditures the fact that the government has more than three typewriters for every person employed for typewriter work and that supervisory personnel in at least one department was almost equal to the number of employees—these indicate that economies would not be hard to achieve if a genuine effort were made.

Some people contend, with considerable logic, that the federal government will never cease its wasteful ways until a ceiling is put on its taxing power. This cannot be done during a national emergency, but when the present crisis is past the demand will surely be for restrictions of some sort. Our spending spree is bound to have a "morning after"—unless we face it the "night before."

Bellicose Diplomacy

The debate on American diplomacy in this century will probably go on for as long as men can read and write and freely argue the causes and effects of history. It is an important issue in this presidential year because the enemies of Sen. Robert Taft lay emphasis upon his refusal in the days before World War II to support the foreign policy of Franklin Roosevelt—a policy deliberately designed to embrace us in war against Germany and Japan.

It is their apparent thesis that survival of the United States is dependent on our warring with foreign powers that aim to upset an international status quo pegged at some arbitrary past date—roughly about the year 1910.

Of course there hasn't been such international balance of power since the days before World War I and probably won't be again since Great Britain is now a second class power, France and Italy are impotent, Germany and Japan are conquered nations and the only dynamic countries are the U. S. A. and Soviet Russia.

This nation and the Kremlin are now locked in a cold war to determine the shape of future world affairs—and the outcome is beyond the power of man to guess.

We have fought two wars "to end wars" within the life span of middle-aged men and women and we are liable to fight another hot one before these folks have passed the half century mark.

Our diplomacy since the days of Woodrow Wilson has followed, to put it mildly, a bellicose course. It is difficult to see how the present situation in many parts of the world, notably the Far East and eastern Europe, could conceivably have been worse if America had been less militant.

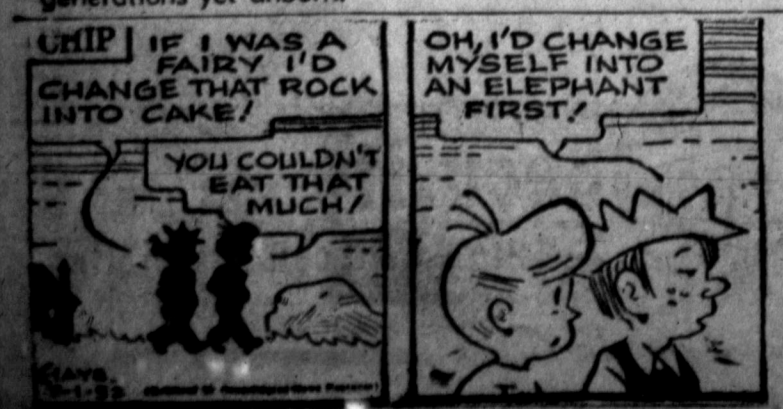

Civil Service Doctors

Those who still believe that socialized medicine or government-dominated medicine offers a wise solution to our health problems, should carefully read a long article in the June 16 issue of The Freeman magazine by Melchior Palyi called "How Sick Is State Medicine?" Dr. Palyi is a distinguished Hungarian-born economist who has taught at a number of leading American universities. The Freeman sent him to England to make his detailed study of socialized medicine in its home grounds.

Dr. Palyi cites fact after fact to show how socialized medicine, which is mass-produced medicine, has drastically reduced the standards of care. Doctors are enormously overworked—it is a physical impossibility to give the proper time and attention to serious cases. On top of that, much of their time must be devoted to filling out forms and dealing with the mass of red tape the political bosses have imposed on them. Less and less attention is given to the all-important matter of preventative medicine. Hospital standards are also in decline.

Worst of all, it seems, is what socialized medicine is doing to the individuals whose duty it is to care for the nation's health. Dr. Palyi quotes a British doctor as saying "There will be an entirely different type of man going in for medicine—our future doctors will be small-minded little men with civil-service mentalities, and their main concern will be keeping on the right side of their administrative superiors, the correct filling of forms, watching the clock, and passing the buck."

It is a sorry story that Dr. Palyi tells—and it is a very significant one for Americans. In principle and in direction the federal compulsory health insurance scheme that is proposed for us is little different than Britain's national health program. Inevitably, the fruits would be the same. The standards of medical care would go down and down—and at a cruel cost to our generation and to generations yet unborn.

"Human Rights and the United Nations"

Here is more from Russell J. Clinchy's pamphlet on "Human Rights and the United Nations," as published by the Foundation for Economic Education. Mr. Clinchy continues under the heading of "Freedom of Religion":

FREEDOM OF RELIGION

"The articles of the United Nations Covenant relating to the freedom of religion and of the press are most pertinent for our discussion. Article 13 of the Covenant states:

"(1) Everyone shall have the right to freedom of thought, conscience and religion... (2) Freedom to manifest one's religion or belief shall be subject only to such limitations as are pursuant to law and are reasonable and necessary to protect public safety, order, health, or morals or the fundamental rights and freedoms of others."

"Study carefully the list of limitations. A person may manifest (it does not say practice) his religion, only if such manifestation is considered by the government not to be against the order, health, morals, or public safety of the community."

"If a dictator wished to circumscribe or prohibit the practice of religion, what other shackles would he need than these? The charge made against Jesus of Nazareth before Pilate was that 'He stirreth up the people.' Under the Covenant on Human Rights, could not Pilate have said that, in order to protect the public safety, he would have to deny Jesus the right to manifest his religion? Certainly he would have had a legal justification for doing so under this Covenant."

"Or what about public morals and order? Could not any dictator, totalitarian government, or church say that the teaching of any unpopular, minority religion was an offense against the morals and order of the community? In fact, that has been the custom of rulers throughout history when they wished to suppress the development of a new or unpopular religion. Which morals will be endangered? Obviously, the morals endorsed by the party in power. That is just the charge that was made against the early Christians in Rome by successive emperors. It was the charge made against the Jews by Hitler. It is literally true to say that the qualifying words used in this document, which purports to be a covenant on human rights, could be used to destroy religion in every corner of the world."

THE AMERICAN RELIGIOUS CONCEPT
"In contrast to the early—and one of the best—expressions of the American concept of religious liberty is found in the Statute of Religious Freedom, of Virginia as written by Thomas Jefferson in 1786:

"Be it enacted by the General Assembly, That no man shall be compelled to frequent or support any religious worship, place, or ministry whatsoever, nor shall be enforced, restrained, molested, or burdened in his body or goods, nor shall otherwise suffer on account of his religious opinions or belief; but that all men shall be free to profess, and by argument to maintain, their opinion in matters of religion, and that the same shall not be liable to investigation or effect their civil capacities."

"... the rights hereby asserted are of the natural rights of mankind, and that if any act shall be hereafter passed which tends to narrow or invade the enjoyment of any one of these rights, such act shall be an infringement of natural right."

"This statute came into being because of an effort by certain persons in Virginia to restrict the rights of religion only to the practice of the Christian religion in general. To this, because they believed it to be a restriction upon the freedom of religious expression, both Madison and Jefferson were opposed."

"In 1785, James Madison had stated in his famous Memorial and Remonstrance—against Religious Assessments:

"The Religion then of every man must be left to the conviction and conscience of every man; and it is the right of every man to exercise it as these may dictate. This right is in its nature an unalienable right. We maintain therefore that in matters of Religion, no man's right is abridged by the institution of Civil Society, and that Religion is wholly exempt from its cognizance."

"It is clear that both Madison and Jefferson based their arguments for religious freedom upon the concept of natural law—that which is discernible to reason as originating in the nature of the world."

"Their thesis has four parts: "1. No man shall be compelled to comply with any form of religion. "2. No man shall be molested or harmed to suffer because of his religion. "3. The profession of religious conviction shall not diminish civil rights. "4. Any act which attempts to restrict or narrow the operation of these rights shall be considered as an infringement upon the natural rights of man."

"These concepts are the tenets of the American belief and practice regarding the freedom of religion. But the restrictions outlined in the article relating to religion in the United Nations Covenant would supply the legal sanction for full and complete destruction of the freedom of religion now possessed and enjoyed by Americans."

"The Covenant on Human Rights of the United Nations would give to government the power to limit the freedom of religion, under pretext of the protection of the public safety, order, health, and morals. This is a clear and present danger to the life and liberty of every American citizen. For the First Amendment to our Constitution states: 'Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof.'"

National Whirligig... Harry Outsmarts Republicans On Steel Strike And Controls

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—President Truman may have "mouse-trapped" the overconfident Republican in the closing days of the 82d session of the Congress in the same way that he outsmarted them on the farm storage issue in 1948.

The two questions which Truman has played practical poker politics on the eve of the national conventions are capable of setting off emotional explosions in a presidential election year.

They concern the steel strike and labor-management relations in general, and the equally vexing subjects of price controls, inflation and the cost of living.

He has manipulated these problems in such a manner that he may be able to convince millions of workers and consumers—again—that the Republican and Southern Democrats on Capitol Hill sold them down the river. As he frequently recalls with pride amounting to arrogance, "I liked that combination once, and I can do it again!"

RESPONSIBLE—This conservative coalition on the House side voted for an immediate end of "economic" controls. Although the final bill extends them for 10 months, it is far weaker than the original White House program.

The legislators advanced strong arguments for a free market. Inevitably, almost all goods are high and not moving fast. Prices in many lines are far below ceilings. Under Truman prodding, the Federal Reserve has removed most curbs on credit in an attempt to encourage buying and an active market.

It may be that this loosening of controls will not touch of the "economic" controls. Many economists maintain that people are not buying for the simple reason that, after taxes, they just haven't got the money.

But if the cost of living climbs upward between now and election—it is at an all-time peak already—Truman's hand-picked Democratic nominee will have an excellent, pocketbook argument against a Bob or Ike ticket. The opposition will be wide open for hiking the cost of everything from milk costs to doughnuts.

RESTRICTIONS—The "mouse trapping" factor figures in this politico-economic struggle because Truman himself inspired the general movement for easier money and credit. His "whistle stop" demands for controls to safeguard consumers and workers conceal his responsibility for lighting an inflationary green light.

While the Federal Reserve was considering the delicate and complex question of easing restrictions on consumer credit, Truman suddenly terminated the unitary system and counties had agreed not to issue new bonds except for emergency projects.

Once the White House lifted this lid, federal bankers found it impossible to resist demands for an across-the-board elimination of all restrictions. When Truman broke ranks, everybody insisted on the right to follow him.

Removal of restrictions on household appliances—refrigerators, washing machines, furniture, radios, television sets—presented no great difficulty, for the Reserve felt that limited restrictions should be retained on automobiles in view of the large amount of credit figuring in their purchase.

REPEAL—The "big three"—General Motors, Ford and Chrysler—would have been satisfied with requirements for a solid down payment and 18 months for liquidation. But the independent firms insisted on outright repeal, arguing that credit curbs alone were responsible for smaller sales of their makes. Early to prove they were wrong, the Reserve wiped out Regulation W completely.

Truman's economic advisers rejoiced at this move. An active apostle of the emasculated Truman control legislation, Sen. Blair Moody of Michigan, threw his weight into the scales for cheap car credit. He will need campaign funds and votes to win re-election next November in the motor car state.

As frequently noted here, Truman's general management of federal finances has been wholly inflationary. Recent bond issues have been sold and priced in such a way that they can feed billions into business, financial and speculative channels at any time. He has snubbed conservative advisers.

JUSTIFICATION—In eliminating price controls, House members cited Truman's policies as precedent and justification. But there is a vast difference between his technique and Capitol Hill's handling of the question.

Truman's contribution has been so indirect and technical—few economists understand the operation of price factors, and fewer bankers are monetary experts—that it will be almost impossible for the opposition to explain or capitalize on it. But the coalition's vote for wiping out price safeguards in the House, and the final weakening of the White House program can be exploited by the most simple-minded politicians and ghost-writers.

PINCH—The steel strike has started to pinch so many segments of the economy, causing unemployment and hardships, that Truman must act soon. His only exhausted remedy is use of the Taft-Hartley Act.

The President's juggling of this question has been Machiavellian, politically. He has jockeyed Congress into the position of forcing him to use his enemies' statute. Meanwhile, he has almost insured his failure by statements inviting the strikers not to obey an injunction. He hopes thereby to discredit the act and its author, making himself out a hero and Senator Taft a villain.

It may not be statesmanship, but it may be smart, inside politics. It will enable Truman to repeat his 1948 warning that any "farming or workingman or consumer, the 1952 addendum who votes against the Fair Deal will be guilty of rank ingratitude."

LOOKING SIDWAYS

Except for the good girls and boys working at the trade of acting for the ticket buyers, the place not to look for citizens of Broadway after 5 p.m. any summer Friday is on Broadway. For almost five whole days a week the people of Broadway toil at their jobs, deal with the public, foist their gimmicks and practice their artless pranks. But with the arrival of 5 p.m., they rush for the city, hopefully as free-lancers on somebody's private country place but, if need be, as cash customers on a thousand farms and rented cottages.

There is no stranger sight to be had on land or sea than a dyed-in-the-wool Broadwayite loosing his idea of roughing it is to get up about 1 p.m. on Saturday, don Irish linen slacks, highly-polished black loafer shoes, a two-tone T-shirt and a knotted silk neckerchief. He is now Joe, the Farmer's Friend. He will walk a quarter of a mile or even a mile to the nearest store and buy the morning papers from New York, although he may have left it only a dozen hours or so earlier. He will then walk back to the porch, get his feet up on the rail, fold back the first 12 or so pages until he comes to the Amusement Section and will remain there the afternoon will be passed in telling a totally disinterested farmhand, "It says here that Patricia Marand will replace Mari Bayne in 'Whish You Were Here.' That heard it last Tuesday." That means about 4 o'clock, a busy farmhand as would the scuffle for power between King, Talal and Prince Nair in Jordan.

Having arrived at mid-afternoon, our boy will now pass two hours in getting increasingly restless and anxious about the afternoon will be stand it another minute, he will walk back to the store and put in a long-distance call to Manhattan, 67 miles away, for information concerning the outlook for the state of the whole theater of Broadway that Saturday night. He will get his party, sympathize with the man for being cooped up in New York, describe the "sensational relaxation out here"—making "out here" sound as though he were at least in Tombstone, Arizona, and then start checking: "Will 'Joey' go clean tonight? Uh-huh. 'Goats and Banana' Fine. The 'Ziegfeld' not so fortunate. 'Moon' Fine. Well, that will wrap it up for tonight. I may give you a call tomorrow. So long."

Did our boy produce any one of these shows, is he employed by any one of the managements, has he a piece of any one, does he even sell tickets in a ticket broker's office? Of course not. But he goes progressively more crazy with restlessness until noon Sunday when the Sunday papers get to him and he devours the drama sections, which were printed on Thursday, 24 hours before he even left New York. About sun-down Sunday night he starts driving back to New York, clogged in traffic, the radio blaring, but happy. He heads back for Broadway. Some time around 1 o'clock he will get back to Manhattan, tired, twitchy, unsettled. For all he knows, somebody may have destroyed Broadway, with a bomb in his absence, he'd better drive down and get a look. Maybe Loe's State lost it's canopy or something.

He gets there, parks his car right on Broadway, this being Sunday night, and walks over and joins the group on the sidewalk. He feels somewhat amazed that they haven't changed at all in 48 hours. They look the same.

"Had a sensational week end, he says. "Nothing to do but relax. Just lay there in the sun and restored myself. You ought to try it. You wouldn't care if you never got back to Broadway. Who wants it? Give it back to whoever had it. It's that farm life for me. I'm leveling."

Then he sighs. In nine hours he will have to be back at the shirt

Fair Enough.... Ike Took Ill-Advised Crack At American Press In Moscow

By WESTBROOK PEGLER (Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

On Aug. 14, 1945, during General Eisenhower's visit to Moscow as the honored guest of the Soviet government, which held a great parade of athletes for him, the general gave an interview to the reporters of the Times Press Service. This was a routine, minor piece of news.

At the conference for representatives of the Soviet press, Dwight D. Eisenhower said today: "I see nothing in the future that would prevent Russia and the United States from being the closest possible friends. If we are really going to be friends, we really must understand each other a bit. One thing we must keep in mind. In our country, under the principles governing our affairs, there is no censorship of the press. Occasionally, some portion of that press gives me the devil. Occasionally, they are going to give you the devil. All I suggest to you that we all keep our sense of values and not be upset by the lies or propaganda of a few crackpots."

These remarks were made while some American officers and bureaucrats still suffered in the sweet agony of their crush on Russia. The whole Roosevelt administration was guilty and Roosevelt's individual guilt was the worst of all for obvious reasons. It is a strange, indeed a ghastly fact, in view of the events since, that many American soldiers of the highest patriotism were taken in.

But Gen. Omar Bradley makes the confession in his memoirs which makes him seem to be a man of adamant stupidity. He did not distrust Russia. He admitted this in his book, written after the shooting was all over, when he might have covered up.

Now we find the worst of the dupes daring to invite votes for himself as a candidate for the Democratic nomination. I refer to Averell Harriman, the chief of lend-lease and, for a time, our ambassador in Moscow. Harriman and his military administrator of lend-lease in Russia, Gen. John R. Deane, were guests with Ike at the grand review in Moscow.

It must be said for Deane that in his own book called "Strange Alliance," he makes a persuasive record of vigorous resentment of the Soviet arrogance and selfishness toward its benefactors. Apparently, Deane had kept Washington well informed of the ingratitude, suspicion and enmity of the Soviet government long before the collapse of Germany and others complained of the Soviet's secrecy in intelligence matters and it is plain beyond any question that no really alert officer could reasonably think the Kremlin was playing fair with us. But he got no rest: Roosevelt and Hopkins threw the blame on their own country.

Elliott Roosevelt wrote that even after Ike had been made commander of the whole show, he, Elliott, returning to London from a state visit to Moscow, found Ike almost destitute of knowledge of the Russian army and eager for the brief trifle of undigested information that could be wheedled out of the President's son.

Within the week of the great Eisenhower Gala, in Moscow, the New York Times reported, under the head, "Ike Halls Russ army," that Eisenhower said he had had the pleasantest relations with the counter in the hotel shop. But it's a Broadway shop. You know: white on white shirts and white T-shirts with blue bands on the sleeve edges.

Russians from the beginning. That estimate is not consistent with others but that was his story. He also said he was surprised to see how benign and fatherly Stalin looked.

About a month after Eisenhower's interview with the Russian press, the Detroit times published a letter from William Randolph Hearst to his old friend, John Francis Neylan, of San Francisco, who had called his attention to certain developments among our military bosses in Europe.

Mr. Hearst's letter said: "Recently, General Eisenhower visited Russia. He was decorated and honored in every possible way. He, of course, deserved it all. He had done more than any other man to save Russia from disaster. Russia owed him everything. He owed Russia nothing. The decorations were mere baubles, compared with the vital services he had rendered Russia."

"But when he left Russia, laden with honors, he seemed to feel it necessary to show his gratitude in assailing the American free press for its criticism of Russian diplomacy and duplicity. He called the journals which were critical of Russia 'crackpots.' He did not attack the Russian American newspapers. He attacked the American press for its criticism of Russian diplomacy and duplicity."

WARREN'S ARMUP

By WARREN HASSE—News Sports Editor

QUESTION: Jesse Priest won 17 straight games for Albuquerque last year. What major league pitcher holds the record for the most consecutive games won in a season?

GOOD AND BAD

The fire that destroyed Gold Sox Field in Amarillo Tuesday morning was sort of a Doctor Jekyll-Mr. Hyde deal. It was both good and bad for the West Texas-New Mexico League as a whole and was nothing but a Frankenstein to the Amarillo ball club and more especially to a Pete Knapp, rotund president of the Gold Sox.

While probably all of the players in the league as well as the baseball fans of Amarillo will herald the fire as a victory for all that's right and just, it comes at a bad time. Knapp had just spent thousands of dollars in an attempt to provide a winning ball club for the fans of Amarillo. And two months ago he probably had no idea he was going to be back in the baseball business at all.

It looked like his rebuilding chore was going to get the job done, too. The G-Sox looked like a new outfit; in fact, they were, with the exception of three players who went to spring training. Gene Walt, Merv Connors and Johnny Fine, Les Mulcahy joined the club shortly after season started to become the fourth oldest member of the team that started the campaign heralded by Amarillo sports fans as "The Fire Sox." The night of the fire had started the first returning to the "fa" grounds night to get their evening's entertainment. In the first two games with the Oilers the Hose pulled down about 2,500 paid admissions. And the night of the fire they had figured on from 3,500 to 4,000 for a special "cigar night" attraction.

That was the bad part of the deal. The good part was that Amarillo, one of the largest cities in Class C baseball, undoubtedly had the worst park. Amarilloans likely won't deny it. The problem lay in the fact it was county-owned and privately operated. Neither party cared to sink funds into improvements. The infield was worn, the outfield fence was sagging, and the ball-out of the signs so batters couldn't see it, a dangerous practice. In fact, one Pampa player told us Tuesday that he had one pitched called on him that he knows he didn't even see as it came out of a white, smoky haze. It had aimed at his head and he never seen it, it might have been serious.

Amarillo's status right now for the rest of the season is questionable. Unpredictable Pete Knapp's players' rest was set, dependent upon a lot of factors. The first being whether or not he can obtain enough portable bleachers to seat crowds capable of making money. Otherwise what will he do? Become a road team? Close for the year?

We've read about it happening in other leagues, in fact, in the Texas League not too many years past. But this is the closest to home. It is a rough situation for Knapp, who was trying to give Amarilloans a winning team.

The Oilers came out to Oiler Park Tuesday noon prepared to

Clovis Wins; Dukes Spoil Sullivan's Debut at Lamesa

Baseball calculated to please all kinds of fans—that's the fare offered by West Texas-New Mexico leaguers.

Take last night, for example. There was a battle of home runs, a fair-to-middling mound duel and a plain average, in-between performance.

Ahlene and Amarillo traded three-run homers in the ninth inning as the Ahlene Blue Sox salvaged a 10-8 verdict over the visiting Gold Sox.

Joe Hinchman twirled a five-hitter as Albuquerque got a 7-1 decision to spoil the debut of Jackie Sullivan as manager of the Lamesa Lobos.

Clovis, adding to its league lead, won 9-2 at Lubbock. Pampa and Borger battled to a 5-5 tie before rain halted their game after five frames and forced a re-match.

First Baseman Billy Cox pulled three out of the fire for the Blue Sox at Ahlene by slugging a three-two pitch out of the park with two out and two mates on base in the ninth. It matched a three-run homer by centerfielder Curt Schmidt for Amarillo in the top half of the frame.

At Lamesa, Hinchman held the Lobos hitless after the third frame. Lee Gatewood, on the mound for the losers, didn't give up a hit until the fourth, but Albuquerque went on to collect a total of 10.

Red Dial of the Clovis Pioneers yielded a dozen safeties at Lubbock, but scattered them effectively. Home runs by Frank Be-

Mathias Smashes Own World Record

By BOB MYERS

TULARE, Calif. (AP)—The Bob Mathias story, a small town wonder inscribed in the records of the world, took on another amazing and magnificent chapter today.

The next pages will be added this month in the Olympic Games at Finland, when handsome, 21-year-old Bob, the world's greatest track and field athlete, collides again with the best of other lands.

But first comes the chapter written last night by Mathias. He accomplished these feats:

He broke the world record of 7,444 points he set in 1950 with a smashing 7,825 points.

He won the United States championship for the fourth time, something no one else ever did.

He won his berth on the U.S. Olympic decathlon team, a nod this little town of 12,000 this morning in company with his teammates, New York-Helsinki bound.

Mathias, national winner in 1948-49-50-52, whipped the field in the 1948 Olympics at the age of 17 and should do it again.

Six-foot-two, 200 pounds, Mathias is about 10 pounds heavier than in '48. But he improved all his previous best decathlon marks except in the pole vault and 1,500-meter run. He was just as fast.

Here are his marks set in the wearing, wearying two-night program: 100 meters - 0:10.8; broad jump - 23-5 1/2; shotput - 49-10 7/8; high jump - 6-2 3/4; 400 meter run - 0:50.8; 110-meter high hurdles - 0:14.8; discus - 137-10 7/8; pole vault - 12-3 3/4; javelin - 163 - 10 3/8; 1,500 meter run - 4:55.3.

Hoskins Hurls Another Victory

By CHARLEY ESKER

Associated Press Sports Writer

Oklahoma City's Indians and Houston's Buffaloes, in second place a week and a half ago, were the "fall" guys to the Texas League reputation for good pitching in last night's action.

Dale Manville twirled Shreveport to a five-hit 5-0 shutout over the Buffs.

Dave Hoskins, half of Dallas' pitching combination that is one-two in Texas League winners, got the Eagles by Oklahoma City 9-1 on five hits and no runs.

Now Houston, Shreveport and Oklahoma City form the trio that's a crowd in the Texas League cellar.

As for the stingiest hit-letting, Dick Fiedler, month-long member of Beaumont's staff, trimmed San Antonio 10-1, giving up but four blows.

Fort Worth got only six hits but made them good for a 4-3 triumph over Tulsa in the other game. Fort Worth tallied three times in the eighth to go ahead 4-1. Then, in the ninth, winner Ralph Butler put three Tulsa's on base before Pete Mondorf and Dick McCoy got out the side one run shy of tying the count.

Special Contest At Lefors Park

The Texas Company team will play host to the strong Amarillo Air Force Base softball squad at Lefors City Park tomorrow night, July 4, at 8.

The exhibition game will be part of the July 4 celebration. The Texaco team is a member of the Lefors Municipal Softball League sponsored by the Lefors Lions' Club.

CHICAGO (AP)—Two Texans top golf money-winner lists this year.

Jack Burke of Houston leads with $12,755 and Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago second with $10,896.87.

Mangrum is formerly of Dallas. Houston's Tommy Bolt is seventh on the money list with $7,480.

Ben Hogan, Fort Worth is 13th with $5,825 and Shelly Mayfield of San Antonio is 23rd with $2,720.

Mangrum's stroke average of 70.91 is the leading contender for theardon Trophy. Burke is second with 70.94. Burke tops the Ryder Cup team possibilities with 363 3-12 points, and Mangrum is second with 286 1-6. Hogan is seventh with 121 1-4.

The Antarctic continent has the highest average elevation of any of the world's continents.

Lakers Manager Breaks Own Rule

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP)—What's the old saying — practice what you preach?

Ask Lake Charles Lakers Manager Joe Kracher. Last night he got socked five bucks under a penalty rule he had established to try to pull his team out of the Gulf Coast League cellar.

Any player who doesn't hustle gets fined $5, according to his new team ruling.

In the eighth inning of the Lakers-Texas City game which Lake Charles won last night, Kracher slapped a slow-roller back to Texas City Pitcher Mel Griffin.

The pitcher scooped the ball easily and Kracher — halfway down the baseline — stopped running.

Griffin whirled, took his time, threw the ball away from the first baseman who had to scamper for the catch and run back for the putout that wouldn't have been made if Catcher-Manager Kracher followed his own edict.

Griffin and Sonny Tims in the fifth gave the visitors a lead which wasn't threatened.

The same teams play again tonight.

Flam Eliminated At Wimbledon

By CHARLEY WHITING

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—The United States today was left holding nothing but the bag as far as the three big international tennis championships are concerned.

Australia ace Frank Sedgman is the United States champion—at least until September. His doubles partner, Ken McGregor, an in-and-outer, holds the Australian title. And it's going to be either Sedgman or Jaroslav Drobny the champion of Wimbledon.

They'll fight it out on the famed center court tomorrow. Drobny, a Czech refugee who now is a citizen of Egypt, put an end to any American hopes yesterday when he eliminated the last of the Yank contingent, low-headed Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., in a semi-final match, 6-2, 6-4, 0-6, 8-10, 6-4.

Sudol's Homer Gives Oilers 5-5 Tie in Rain-Halted Tilt

A last-ditch two-run home run by Ed Sudol with two out in the last of the fifth and rain closing in, saved the Oilers from a defeat at the hands of their former teammate, George Payte, last night at Oiler Park.

Sudol's blast, his fourteenth of the year to the him with Manager Jake Phillips in that department, tied up the ballgame that never did get beyond the bottom of the fifth. The rains came hard moments later and after the required 30-minute delay Umpire Jim Tongate called off the contest. It will go into the record books as a tie, the batting records for the night will count, but the game will be replayed later, in entirety, as part of a doubleheader.

Tonight the two clubs meet again with husky righthanded Morris Shipman scheduled to pitch for Pampa against Ed Flanagan, one of the league's top hurlers.

The two tangled Sunday night in an extra-inning affair that finally went to the Gasers, 2-1. Game time is 8:30.

The Oilers went into the bottom of the fifth with the wind blowing, lightning crackling, the threat of no more baseball very evident, and Pampa trailing 5-2.

Here are his marks set in the wearing, wearying two-night program: 100 meters - 0:10.8; broad jump - 23-5 1/2; shotput - 49-10 7/8; high jump - 6-2 3/4; 400 meter run - 0:50.8; 110-meter high hurdles - 0:14.8; discus - 137-10 7/8; pole vault - 12-3 3/4; javelin - 163 - 10 3/8; 1,500 meter run - 4:55.3.

Some critics complained when the International AAU revised Mathias' 1950 record of 8,042 points to 7,444. So what happens? He breaks the tougher 7,444 in nine events and winds up with 7,825.

Mathias, national winner in 1948-49-50-52, whipped the field in the 1948 Olympics at the age of 17 and should do it again.

Six-foot-two, 200 pounds, Mathias is about 10 pounds heavier than in '48. But he improved all his previous best decathlon marks except in the pole vault and 1,500-meter run. He was just as fast.

Here are his marks set in the wearing, wearying two-night program: 100 meters - 0:10.8; broad jump - 23-5 1/2; shotput - 49-10 7/8; high jump - 6-2 3/4; 400 meter run - 0:50.8; 110-meter high hurdles - 0:14.8; discus - 137-10 7/8; pole vault - 12-3 3/4; javelin - 163 - 10 3/8; 1,500 meter run - 4:55.3.

Hoskins Hurls Another Victory

By CHARLEY ESKER

Associated Press Sports Writer

Oklahoma City's Indians and Houston's Buffaloes, in second place a week and a half ago, were the "fall" guys to the Texas League reputation for good pitching in last night's action.

Dale Manville twirled Shreveport to a five-hit 5-0 shutout over the Buffs.

Dave Hoskins, half of Dallas' pitching combination that is one-two in Texas League winners, got the Eagles by Oklahoma City 9-1 on five hits and no runs.

Now Houston, Shreveport and Oklahoma City form the trio that's a crowd in the Texas League cellar.

As for the stingiest hit-letting, Dick Fiedler, month-long member of Beaumont's staff, trimmed San Antonio 10-1, giving up but four blows.

Fort Worth got only six hits but made them good for a 4-3 triumph over Tulsa in the other game. Fort Worth tallied three times in the eighth to go ahead 4-1. Then, in the ninth, winner Ralph Butler put three Tulsa's on base before Pete Mondorf and Dick McCoy got out the side one run shy of tying the count.

Special Contest At Lefors Park

The Texas Company team will play host to the strong Amarillo Air Force Base softball squad at Lefors City Park tomorrow night, July 4, at 8.

The exhibition game will be part of the July 4 celebration. The Texaco team is a member of the Lefors Municipal Softball League sponsored by the Lefors Lions' Club.

Hacker Hurls 2-Hit Shutout As Cubs Sweep Doubleheader

By JOE REICHLER

AP Sports Writer

Fatherly Steve O'Neill has discarded Eddie Sawyer's austerity program and replaced it with a more popular plan that appears to be putting new life into Philadelphia's awakening Whiz Kids.

Under his kindly guidance, the Phillies have been playing a brand of baseball utterly devoid of the early-season futility that stamped them as the biggest disappointment of the year.

Since the 61-year-old O'Neill took over as Philadelphia manager last Saturday, the Phils have won four out of six from Brooklyn and New York, the top two clubs in the National League. Under Sawyer, the Phils won 28 and lost 35.

Wise old Steve refuses to take the credit but in his first meeting with his new team he told the players all of Sawyer's austerity program, except the curfew, was out. There was to be a midnight and 2:00 a.m. deadline for day and night games but the players could have cars, cards, wives, golf clubs and swim suits with them.

Brilliant pitching by Robin Roberts and Russ Meyer plus timely hitting by outfielders Bill Nicholson and Mel Clark gave the Phils a sweep of their doubleheader with Brooklyn, 4-3 and 2-1, and three wins in the four-game series.

The double defeat cut the Dodger's first-place margin to three games over the Giants, who lost a grand opportunity to pick up more ground by dropping a 2-1 decision to the Boston Braves.

Cleveland's Indians picked up a full game on the front running New York Yankees, taking their second straight overtime tilt from the Browns, 3-2, while the Boston Red Sox were beating the champions, 5-4. Chicago's White Sox ripped Detroit, 5-2, and Philadelphia's Athletics dropped Washington into fifth place with a 4-1 triumph over the Senators.

Cub Capture Fair

Chicago's Cubs solidified their hold on third place in the National League, pasting a pair of defeats upon Pittsburgh, 8-3 and 3-0.

Harry Brecheen pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to a 3-0 victory over the Cincinnati Reds for their 12th victory in the last 16 games. Enos Slaughter continued his batting rampage, driving in all runs in the eighth with a bases-loaded double off loser Herman Wehmeier.

A home run by pinch hitter Bill Nicholson following a walk to Connie Ryan in the eighth gave the Phils the nightcap win after Roberts had registered his 11th triumph with a six-hitter in the opener.

A home run beat the giants. The blow was delivered by rookie Jack Dittmer following a two-out single by Bob Logan in the eighth. Hank Sauer blasted his 21st homer as Warren Hacker pitched a two-hit shutout for the Cubs. Darkness limited this second contest of the twin bill to seven innings.

Perfect relief pitching by 41-year-old Alton Benton helped the Red Sox grab the rubber of the three-game set with the Yankees in New York. The heavyweight hurler stemmed a threat in the seventh and retired seven Yankees in a row to safeguard Sid Hudson's 5-4 lead.

A pinch swing by Barney McCosky drove in Dale Mitchell with the run that gave the Indians a 10-inning triumph over the Browns.

GOP Nomination May Reveal 171 Yet Uncounted Votes

By JOHN GUNTHER
Written for NEA Service

The people elect the President of the United States—

But the politicians nominate.

Eisenhower has shown that he has immense popular appeal in states as different as Pennsylvania and Minnesota, Oregon and Massachusetts (where, in fact, in addition to running away with the Republican primary, he got more write-in votes than any Democrat except Kefauver).

The United States is, however, a very peculiar country politically, and whether Eisenhower will be nominated at Chicago in July depends on a convention more unpredictable than most — and American conventions can get as tangled up as Scotch tape in an electric fan.

Taft probably will approach the convention with roughly 400 delegates, Eisenhower with 420. These totals do not include 75 disputed delegates, the 70 Pennsylvania delegates and 26 of Michigan's 46. At this stage Warren will have 76, Stassen 26, Governor McKeldin of Maryland 24, General MacArthur three and General Wedemeyer one.

Since the total number of delegates is 1208, 804 are necessary to nominate. The disputed and uncommitted votes listed above come to 371, and these constitute the first battleground. The second is the block of 130 delegates committed to other candidates. The nomination may finally turn on how these 171 delegates go, and this will in turn depend on (a) how he handles himself, and (b) bargaining among the voters. It is indeed an odd irony that delegates in certain states, whimsically Democratic states like Louisiana, where a Republican is almost as rare as a chocolate sundae in the Sahara, could play a key part in determining the GOP nominee.

Eisenhower's chief hope rests in building enough in the first test of strength so that he can be ahead of—or at least roughly even with—Taft by the time this second battle begins. For his men contend that his secondary strength among delegates committed to Warren, Stassen and McKeldin is greater than Taft's. He is fairly sure to get about 60 of Warren's 76, 22 from Stassen and perhaps 18 of McKeldin's 24.

But if Taft has earlier realized his objectives in Michigan and Pennsylvania and has swept the boards in the disputed southern bloc, the race will be his and the secondary strength claimed for Eisenhower among the 130 committed to others will never have a chance to be tested. It will simply fall to Taft.

Governor Pine controls 30 to 35 of Pennsylvania's 70, and is reputedly for MacArthur first, Taft second. But Pine, being a satrap from Luzerne County (Wilkes-Barre), may decide to bargain with his strength. Whether or not Eisenhower will make him any kind of offer remains to be seen. He might like to have a vice presidential bid, or some other good, fat job.

Michigan is opaque. Of its 46 delegates, 10 are said now to be definitely for Eisenhower, 10 for Taft. The rest are undecided. Michigan is more or less controlled by Arthur Summerfield, an old-time professional who is pro-Taft.

But like the Republican victors in other states, he has senatorial election on his hands and knows that Eisenhower, if nominated, will carry much more trenchant weight—with independent voters and hence is a better asset than Taft to the local ticket.

Moreover, Michigan has a huge labor vote, which would be more apt to lean to Eisenhower than to Taft. Many of the big Detroit industrialists—another point—are pro-Eisenhower. First, they want a winner. Second, they will take a chance on weaning him to their way of thinking.

Deadlock in Chicago is unlikely because both Taft and Eisenhower are high enough to be close to floating delegates left to give serious strength to another candidate. Nor is there any single obvious magnet, like Willie in 1940, to whom the floating delegates might go.

The Republican convention of 1952 is likely to be decided in an all-conditioned arena, not a smoke-filled room.

Judges Fired For Anti-Red Rulings

HONG KONG (AP)—Shanghai newspaper reaching here has reported the firing of two judges whose ruling jumped the Communist track.

One judge had refused a divorce to a woman whose husband in the United States when the Reds came into power, went to Nationalist Formosa instead of returning to Communist China. The judge held "their love had not come to an end." He was fired for "failing to comprehend the revolutionary point of view."

The second judge convicted a shop assistant for stealing money. Later the shop owner confessed the theft and the judge was dismissed because he had "ignored the poor while helping the rich."

Stephen Foster, the composer who won fame for his songs about the South, was a Northerner. He was born in Lawrenceville, Pa.

Derby Rules Call For A Hinged Seat

There are several items which may be confusing to youngsters building their Soap Box Derby racer. This will deal with four. Seat back must be hinged or removable in the 1952 Soap Box Derby racing car. This rule is designed so that inspectors who examine every far may look inside, examine the brake, added weight, and construction details at the rear of the body.

Metal springs can not be used in your 1952 Soap Box Derby racer. This rule, continued from 1951, makes car building easier and cheaper. The rules, however, do not prohibit the use of foam rubber, plain rubber, tennis balls or anything else you may conceive as good safe, shock preventive idea.

The nose must be the foremost part of your Soap Box Derby racer, the car nose decides the victor, and there can be no tricks about it. You are not permitted to rig up a device which moves the nose forward after the start of the race. The rule says, too, that the nose must be farther forward than any part of the front wheels.

If you want to wear goggles while driving your racer in the Soap Box Derby, they must be unbreakable. No other type is permitted by the 1952 official rules. Boys who wear glasses may put unbreakable goggles over them.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Bidding Is Easy For Experienced Player

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
As most experienced players know, it is sometimes advisable to bid one club on a three-card holding in the suit. You are then prepared to make a convenient rebid no matter what response you get from your partner.

This distortion of the bidding should not be carried to extremes. Sooner or later you have to be prepared to bid normally. Failure to return to normalcy led to a disaster in today's hand. South didn't want to open with one diamond because he wasn't prepared for a possible response of two clubs. There was nothing really wrong with the opening bid of one club.

North hated to pass an opening bid of one club, so made a doubtful response of one diamond. This bid at least had the virtue of indicating a playable trump suit — if South had only listened.

North couldn't keep going indefinitely, so when South failed to make a jump rebid North dropped out at one spade. East's re-opening double should have warned South. If South had calmly bid two diamonds, he would have played it there undoubled, for the trifling loss of one or two hundred points.

When South failed to scramble to safety, he delivered himself over to the enemy. West opened a heart, and East properly won a finesse with the ten. East returned the ten of spades. South covered with the king, and West won with the ace.

West tried another heart, and East won with the queen, returning the nine of spades. South won with the queen of spades and hopefully finessed the queen of clubs. East took the king of clubs and shifted to the deuce of diamonds.

By now South was in a panic. He finessed the queen of diamonds, losing to West's king. West now extracted trumps with his jack and eight. A heart to the ace then permitted East to push back the jack of diamonds.

South had to take the ace of diamonds and had no way to return to his hand for the jack of clubs. He had to go over to dummy for the ace of clubs and the ten of diamonds, but then had to give West another heart trick. Down 800 at the bid of only one.
