Tankers Rock In Explosion

MARTINEZ, Calif. (AP) — Raging flames, touched off by a spark and punctuated by thunderous explosions, today engulfed two ocean-going oil tankers at the Union Oil Refinery as sailors and dock workers plunged for their lives into San Pablo Bay.

ONLY PRACTICE — All set to take off on his trial run yesterday was Edward J. Jensen, 12, of 301 N. Ward, in his racer sponsored by Acme Lumber Co. Today is the real thing when the 10th Pampa Soap Box Derby gets underway at 2 p.m.

Capt. Eugene Fulton, skipper of the 8,168-ton tanker Victor H. Kelly, died of a heart attack as his ship was wracked by internal explosions along the flames went up at nearby oil tanks. Two men were missing and 30 or more injured.

Damage was estimated at five million dollars.

Hours later the Kelly, led over at a 30-degree angle, continued to burn as jets of water into her gutted hull.

The other flaming tanker, the 10,448-ton Lompoc, was hauled out into the bay by a Navy tug. Crewmen and fireboats put out flames on her decks in an hour's battle.

Fire equipment from a dozen towns, fireboats from San Francisco, Oakland and the Mare Island Navy Yard, nine Coast Guard vessels and dozens of private craft rushed to the scene when the fire broke out five minutes before noon.

Witnesses said a spark on the 1,800-foot pier touched off leaking oil as the Kelly was discharging a cargo of crude oil. The flames spread rapidly through the oilsked tankers of the pier.

Within minutes 200 feet of the dock and both ships were blazing.

Capt. Fulton dropped dead at his post. He had first fought to back his ship clear, then had ordered his 40 crewmen and officers over the side when the situation proved hopeless.

Two huge explosions wracked the ship. One was in the forward tanks, the other astern. A red ball of fire, described by witnesses as at least 50 feet in diameter, shot high into the sky. Two more blasts followed.

Crewmen, unable to launch lifeboats, jumped into the bay. Most wore life preservers and were picked up by swarming rescue craft.

Chief Mate R. F. Bonner of the Kelly said, "I never saw anything spread so fast in my life. We tried to cut our lines to the pier but it was too hot."

The missing men were both Kelly crewmen, identified as Radio Operator W. L. Liggins of Sana, Calif., and a wiper named Yarter. His first name was not available.

Pampa Area Youngsters Set For Today's Soap Box Derby

Seventy-three youngsters from the Pampa area make their run for glory this afternoon. The 10th running of the Pampa Soap Box Derby will be held at 2 p.m. today at Derby Downs, four miles north of town on the old Miami highway.

Co-sponsored by The Pampa Daily News, the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce and Culbertson Chevrolet, Inc., the Pampa Soap Box Derby this year has attracted 47 entries from Pampa, 22 from Borger, two from Kingsmill and one each from Canadian and McLean.

Efforts to keep Central Airlines flying in and out of Pampa went into the first stage as letters asking local businessmen to boost patronage of the line whenever possible were mailed by the Chamber of Commerce Friday.

Included in the letters were mimeographed copies of the letter Keith Kahle, president of the line, sent to city officials and the chamber saying his line was "seriously considering" suspending service in Pampa.

At the same time E. O. (Red) Wedgworth, manager of the chamber, sent a two-page letter to Kahle inviting him to a conference in Pampa with members of the aviation committee, civic leaders and city officials at "his convenience."

Wedgworth also brought the cutback office hours of Central Airlines to Kahle's attention, asking him to attempt full day operation of the office or make some arrangements with the airport manager to handle Central's many telephone queries.

The letter also mentioned the office space being provided for airline service in the new modern hangar being erected on the northwest field by Cabot Co. and the remodeling of the old Army Auxiliary landing field.

Names Summerfield As Drive Leader

CHICAGO (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower started his "total victory" campaign rolling in conference with House and Senate Republicans and members of the GOP National Committee.

"There are a lot of people we have to hold together," the general told the committee, "if we are going to whip the Democrats."

As Chicago emptied of Republican convention delegates who handed Eisenhower the nomination yesterday, the general's lieutenants began taking over party machinery for the campaign ahead.

Arthur Summerfield of Michigan, who rounded up valuable Michigan votes for Eisenhower's convention showdown with Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, was unanimously elected chairman of the GOP National Committee. Echoing Eisenhower's own words as he took over from Taft supporter Guy Gabrielson, Summerfield called for a great crusade.

"This is a fighting crusade to preserve America," he said, "and we have the people's candidate. The people are with us."

Summerfield declared, too, that "we are today a united and inspired party."

Eisenhower managers were of the same opinion to the Taft tribe. Summerfield said he has invited Taft's convention floor manager, Thomas E. Coleman of Wisconsin, to join the Eisenhower organization for the forthcoming fight against the Democrats.

Taft himself said he didn't know to what extent he might campaign for Eisenhower, but there hadn't been any discussions about it. But he said he didn't expect to head into any hostile stop drive for the GOP cause.

Directors Named For Gray County Polio Chapter

New directors for the Gray County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis were named at a meeting of the board Friday in the chamber of commerce office.

They are Howard Home, McLean, Mrs. Raymond Laycock, Mrs. Dick Hughes, Frank Leeper, E. O. Wedgworth, all of Pampa, and Maurice Ephraim Leffer.

Elected to serve a three-year term were directors, were named to replace C. E. Kennedy, Fred Cary, Bruce Parker, Lester Dysart, McLean, I. J. Haval and Wedgworth, who was re-named. One-year terms of this group ended in July. Election of new directors is scheduled at the next regular meeting, the second Friday in August, when the new directors will be seated.

A report on a recent meeting of the National Foundation in Dallas was made Friday by Rev. Henry Henshaw, who spent as Gray County delegate. Rev. Henshaw expressed a note of hope in research on a vaccine now being perfected for polio.

He mentioned an address by an eminent doctor in the foundation in which he predicted that within five years a vaccine would be perfected for polio that would prevent paralytic effects of the disease if it did not prevent the disease itself.

The board also authorized the payment of bills amounting to nearly $1,000 to care or treatment of polio cases within the county.

Mrs. J. Goodger Dies In Plainview

Mrs. Johnny Goodger, 33, the former Miss Kathryn Snell of Pampa, died Saturday at 4 a.m. in a Plainview hospital after a illness that had lasted about a year. Funeral arrangements are pending.

Mrs. Goodger was preceded in death by her husband who was burned to death in a warehouse explosion in Kress May 7.

Mrs. Goodger leaves two children, a daughter, Mary Ann, 2, and a son, David, 12. Other survivors include her mother, Mrs. W. A. Snell, Kress, a brother, Henry Snell, Pampa, and an aunt, Mable Davis, also of Pampa.

THE VICTOR — Victor in the hardest fought battle in GOP Convention history, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower joyously throws up both hands in happy greetings at the Blackstone Hotel in Chicago, after returning from a friendship visit to a "great American," Sen. Robert A. Taft, whom he defeated for Republican presidential nomination with a first roll call vote of 614 to 500. (NEA Telephoto)

Lively Refuses Debate On Abolishing Ward System

By HENRY S. GORDON
There will be no radio debate between Travis Lively and City Commissioner W. B. (A) Neel, Ward 3, over the forthcoming special city charter amendment election.

Lively, local hardware dealer, spoke to a citizens meeting on June 26 encouraging support of the charter amendments aimed at wiping out the ward system of electing city commissioners and immediately drew the ire of south side businessmen and residents, especially Neel.

Issued Challenge
Neel, last week, issued a challenge to the hardware man to repeat his talk "as nearly verbatim as possible" over the radio, offering to pay for the radio time and pay Lively $25 to boot.

The Ward 3 commissioner also asked Lively if he would mind if he (Neel) asked him questions concerning the speech after it was finished over the radio.

The challenge was refused by Lively and virtually ignored in his prepared statement other than his refusal to "enter into a public wrangle of the 'you did, I didn't' type."

"This was the first action to come out of the smouldering municipal battle over the proposed change in the city's basic laws following Neel's challenge. Lively's statement followed."

Surprised
"I was greatly surprised upon my return from a brief vacation trip to find that such a tumult had been raised about a simple little talk I had made in support of the city charter amendments being submitted to the citizens of Pampa in the forthcoming election."

"It was a greater surprise to find the anyone, particularly (See WARD SYSTEM, Page 3)

Rites Monday For W. H. Wallin, 71

Funeral rites for Wade Hampton Wallin, 71, will be read Monday at 2 p.m. in the Duemel-Carr michael Funeral Chapel with Rev. H. H. Tyler, pastor of the First Christian Church, officiating.

Burial is to be in Fairview Cemetery.

Mr. Wallin, a retired farmer who made his home at 833 E. Locust, had been resident in Pampa for 40 years. He was born Aug. 2, 1880 in Millsap.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Clara Wallin, three sons, Earl and Harley of Pampa, and Virgil of Skellytown; three daughters, Mrs. Odessa Brewer, Pampa; Mrs. Claudine Hickman, Mobeetie; and Mrs. Dorothy Snider, Winters; three brothers, Gordon, Fort Worth, Grover, Texola, Okla., and Dick, Oklahoma City; 16 grand children, one great-grandchild.

One son, Benjamin, died in November, 1951.

Mr. Wallin died in a local hospital Saturday morning. He has been in ill health for a number of years.

Congressional Probe Asked In Houston's Triple Slaying

HOUSTON (AP) — City and county officials Saturday demanded a congressional investigation of a triple murder and suicide at Memorial Hospital involving an Ellington Air Force Base officer.

County Commissioners W. Kyle Chapman and Hugh A. May and City Councilman Phil Hamburger wired U. S. Rep. Albert Thomas (D-Tex.) requesting he start the investigation immediately.

The day night, Capt. Renard F. Haywood, the officer, entered the hospital Nurses Home and shot two guards and a student nurse. Haywood then killed himself.

The nurse was Miss Carroll Cooper, 24. The guards were Jesse C. Fair, 69, and Robert P. Peterson, 64.

It was believed Haywood did it in advance sufficient to alert Ellington authorities to the gravity of the situation. I want to know whether Ellington is properly policed itself."

Charge Of Negligent Homicide Is Filed In C. B. Bell Death

A charge of negligent homicide was filed late Saturday by Highway Patrol against Clayton Custer Graybill, 53, of 324 E. Whittenburg, Phillips, for his part in an accident Friday afternoon that resulted in the death of Charlie Benjamin Bell, 73, of Pampa, and the injuring of two others.

The accident occurred about 2:45 p.m. Friday on the Celanese Road, 1-1/2 miles south of U. S. 80. Mr. Bell and his wife, Mrs. Mable Benjamin Bell, were driving west on the county road which runs parallel to U.S. 80 when their '48 sedan was involved in a collision with a '51 coach driven by Graybill who was going south on the Celanese Road. The crash sent both cars careening over to the side of the intersection. The Bell car flipped on its top, hit a telephone pole, then settled in an upside-down position. Graybill's car made a 180-degree turn and came to a halt. Both vehicles ended up pointing north.

The injured were rushed by ambulance to Highland General Hospital where X-rays were taken. Mr. Bell died at 8:30 p.m. Mrs. Bell, 70, was injured.

Funeral services for Mr. Bell will be held at 4 p.m. Monday in the First Christian Church, with the Rev. H. H. Tyler officiating.

Bell Death

Friday, Mrs. Bell suffered multiple bruises and shock. Graybill's injuries included one fractured rib, many cuts and bruises. Both the Bell and Graybill were reported in "fair" condition by hospital, although Mrs. Bell permitted no visitors.

This was the first fatal accident this year in the surrounding county area involving more than one car, according to Highway Patrol.

A resident of Pampa for the past 50 years, Mr. Bell lived six miles southwest of town. He was born in Mississippi May 19, 1878. He had been a farmer most of his life.

The Duenkel - Carmichael Funeral Home is handling the funeral arrangements. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery, Deacon in the First Christian Church will serve as pallbearers.

Surviving are his wife, Mamie; three daughters, Mrs. Edith Kealey, Clarksville, Tenn.; Mrs. Judge Kirk, Oklahoma City; and Mrs. Doris Yon, Pampa; two sons, Jack, Long Beach, Calif.; and Fred, Oklahoma City; and two to the Conrad Hilton for an apartment, Will, Hydrone, Okla.; and Jim of North Carolina.

Eisenhower

hower will have from the old days of his party still in "action" Active campaigning on a big scale probably will be held off until September.

In the interval, some of the stars of the roughest, bitterest Republican convention years may fade. Right now, the wounds left by the scrap are still deep in spite of all the outward professions of new-found unity.

Even so, several of Taft's convention supporters banded up at Eisenhower meeting yesterday morning with members of Congress. Such men as Sen. John W. Bricker of Ohio, Sen. Eugene Millikin of Colorado and Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan were there. And Rep. George Bender, who led the demonstration when Taft's name was put in nomination at the convention, threw an arm around Eisenhower's shoulder and insisted on singing "Onward, Christian Soldiers." Bender was sporting an "I Like Everybody" button.

Eisenhower pledged to conduct a drive for a total GOP victory, not just the presidency but by the Senate and House as well.

Sen. Richard M. Nixon of California, still a little surprised at becoming the vice-presidential nominee, was on hand for the morning conference.

Then Nixon, his wife and Mrs. Eisenhower accompanied the general when Eisenhower crossed the state line from the Blackstone Hotel in Oklahoma City and two to the Conrad Hilton for an apartment, Will, Hydrone, Okla.; and Jim of North Carolina.

Mexican Officials Scoff At Texans' Testimony On Aleman

AMARILLO (AP) - Texans back from the Lions International Convention in Mexico City say they saw an attempt on President Miguel Aleman's life. Aides of Aleman laugh at their story.

Most detailed account of the alleged assassination attempt was given here by Mr. and Mrs. Warren Lowry, Amarillo. They said a young man in a light suit, carrying something that looked like a hand grenade but which might have been a pistol, rushed at Aleman as the Mexican President left Mexico City's Municipal Auditorium June 25.

Seconds later, Mexican secret service men were beating the would-be assassin's head against a steel beam and battering his head with their pistol butts, said Lowry.

The Lowry's account appeared in yesterday's Amarillo News. The Fort Worth Star-Telegram on June 28 published an account from its staff member, Tony Slaughter, saying W. L. Doss and Walter Whipkey of Colorado City also saw the attempted assassination.

But in Mexico City Saturday Aleman's aides were pictured as laughing at the reports and saying the Texans may have been misled by expulsion of a drunk from the auditorium where Aleman addressed the Lions Convention.

A spokesman at Mexico's Interior Ministry, which handles security, said "We still don't know anything about it." Told the story had been published in the U.S., he said, "Then they know more about it up there than we do."

The Lowrys said news of the attempt "apparently was suppressed by Mexican authorities."

The Amarillo couple had stationed themselves at the auditorium door to get a close look at Aleman as he left. As the presidential party passed, said Lowry, the young light-suited man rushed toward Aleman.

"He wasn't with the presidential party because he wore a light-colored suit, whereas the secret service men all wore dark suits," Lowry related. As the young man rushed toward the President, he was grabbed by two secret service men. In a matter of seconds the two secret service men had shoved the man out of the aisle, he added.

"While all this was going on all eyes were on Aleman who was waving to the crowd about 30 feet ahead," Lowry said. Meanwhile the youth was dragged by the throat and arms to an exposed steel beam.

two-thirds of the royalty was purchased by J. S. Abercrombie and one-third to his daughter, Mrs. Josephine E. Segura, both of Houston.

Wade Thomasson of Pampa participated in handling the deal along with Clayton Smith of Houston and Paul Matlock of Corpus Christi.

Wheeler County also was feeling the effect of oil fever with royalty sales and leasing moving briskly.

Although not so large as in the Miami area, interest was high. Speculators principally from Texas and Oklahoma were making bids for leases and royalty in the vicinity of Mobeetie. Ivy Dunbar reported royalty selling for as much as $137.50 near the Bull group and a contest for the lard well five miles southeast of old Mobeetie. He reported selling royalty under a half-section for $16,000 in cash and $32,000 in oil production.

It is impossible to estimate total royalty sales in Wheeler since a majority of the transactions are on a private basis.

man holding the responsible post of city commissioner, should have such difficulty in understanding what was said.

"I do not propose entering into any public wrangle of a 'you did, I didn't' nature. I am sure that would have no point. What I said stands, redoubled in spades. And, to the group to whom it was addressed I leave the judgment of its correctness. At that time ample opportunity was given for comment and questions but Mr. Neel had nothing to say."

"There are, however, some insinuations and misquotations which I brand as either a rank misrepresentation or a malicious misrepresentation. I am quoted as saying that no one who lived on the south side of town or who was not a successful business man or a member of civic organizations was capable of serving Pampa as a commissioner. This is wholly and completely untrue. I know men all over Pampa who are honest and capable and who serve in an acceptable manner. I can make a list of many men living in Wards 2 and 4 whom I would be proud to support for such offices."

Not His Money . . .

"The measure of a man is not his money or where he lives, but his proven character, his unselfish devotion and loyalty to his community and to his country, and his willingness to cooperate with all worthwhile movements for the common good and the progress of his home town."

To first place, 30 per cent to second, and 20 to third.

Further rules and regulations may be obtained at rodeo headquarters in the chamber of commerce office of the city hall.

"The issue before the people of Pampa is whether each and every citizen shall have the privilege of voting for or against ALL members of the city commission or continue, as at present, to have a voice in the selection of only two of the five. I shall continue to support and work for the amendments, because I believe it is democratic and fair and will give our town the best government, and tend to lessen the spirit of sectionalism characteristic of the ward system."

"It is to be regretted that personalities have been injected into this matter. Where a stand on an issue is weak, that is the method of the demagogue."

"I am sorry that Mr. Neel, while a city official, is allowing himself to be the front man in an unfair 'blow in the back' smear attack on a fellow citizen. That, I think, is 'dirty pool.' It emphasizes the need for the changes provided in the charter amendments."

"When voting time comes, let us carry this issue in a big way. That would be a big step in direction of better and more responsible city government, and would promote harmony and congeniality in our city administration, to the end that all Pampa would continue to grow and prosper."

"I shall ignore any further personal attacks."

Promise Battle

Last week other leaders of the group battling the change promised a "stiff battle when the time is ripe," but declined to make any statements on the fight. Mitchell Hill, local grocer, who will take a leading part in the tussle told a newsmen:

"It's a little too early in the game yet, but we're going to follow through with several things. We will have mass meetings to discuss the issue, pro and con, and where everybody will have a chance to speak out."

"The city commission to date has passed a resolution declaring its intentions of passing an ordinance calling the election. However, no specific date has been set, and will not be set until the ordinance is passed late this month or early in August."

MEN AND WOMEN TAKE OFF UGLY FAT

Many people have reported amazing results with this home recipe. It's easy to trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drugstore and ask for 4 ounces of liquid Barconrate. Pour into a pint bottle and shake well. Then take just two tablespoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic, from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back.

Lost 32 Pounds

"I am writing to tell you how much good Barconrate has done for me," writes Mrs. H. J. Fontenot, Box 632, Anahuac, Texas. "I weighed 160 lbs. when I started and am now down to 128 and am still taking Barconrate. I feel better than I have in six years and I cannot begin to tell you how proud I am to lose weight." And Mrs. J. W. Harp, 908 S. Cedar, Cleburne, Texas, writes to say: "I think Barconrate is wonderful. I lost 28 pounds taking it—from 140 to 112. I now have my normal weight and feel like a new person."

Tooth Pulled From Youngster's Ear

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Little Leonard Niedens pulled one of his baby teeth and hid it in his ear. His older brother told his mother about it. She located the tooth but couldn't extract it. A specialist at a hospital finally pulled the tooth from the 6-year-old boy's ear. Then Leonard explained everything: "I put it in my ear to save it. I liked that tooth."

100-Year-Old Has No Special Secret In Long Life-Happiness

By LORENE O. LOCKE

You want to live to be a hundred? Then be a happy person. Don't let your troubles get you down. That is the recipe A. M. Renner gives for longevity. Mr. Renner was one hundred years old Friday.

"There's no secret on happiness," he says. "It's just as plain as a fence on a prairie. When I get up each morning, I say, 'This is a new day; I can be happy or unhappy today. I choose to be happy. That's all there is to it.'"

"Of course, I've had a lot of good luck all my life. I wouldn't be here if I hadn't." He's been pulled out of the water for drowned twice, nearly shot by a dog, strangled by a horse, knocked in the head by an oaken keg 50 feet down in the ground, and still live to mark 100 years on his birthday card.

Adam Miller Renner, who lives 10 miles south of Miami, in Gray County, was born July 11, 1852, at Kenney Branch, Green County, Tennessee. He was the youngest of 12 children, ten of whom lived to adulthood. "Now, I'm the oldest and the youngest," he chuckles.

One would never dream, from talking to the little man that he has been completely blind for most of the last 16 years. He says that he has never been sick a day in his life. His mind is unusually alert, his memory clear, his bearing good, and he still has 22 of his natural teeth.

His first narrow escape came when he was only two years old. His father ran a carding factory near their Tennessee home. He made looms, reels and all necessary equipment for carding, spinning and weaving flax and wool into cloth. His sisters took him down to the mill race which furnished power for the factory, and nearly drowned before he was rescued.

"They jerked me out of the stream just before it dropped off into a whirlpool," he said. "That same year all of the Renner possessions were destroyed by fire, so the father loaded up his family and made their first long, covered-wagon trek to Texas, settling first in Red River County.

At the close of the War Between the States, the father, along with four other families decided to move to Missouri. "We broke up housekeeping, loaded everything onto wagons, with ox teams, and started out," he recalled. "We had to winter there in Bowie County.

While there, his mother died, and he was all but drowned the second time. A group of boys went swimming in Clear Creek and pulled him into the water to duck him. "As I couldn't swim, I was limp as a rag when they finally pulled me out. So, I drifted from then on to stay away from water," he explained.

He has had little schooling. "I could hardly read when I quit school. I learned to read, mostly out of the Bible," he added. When he was 17, he lost the sight in his left eye, from getting a post-ock twig stuck in his eye. "We didn't realize it was serious. I didn't have any treatment, so I lost half my sight, then," he said.

"That was after I had come back to Texas with my sister and her husband, and we were now Laketon. These plains looked like real country to me. I was living in Cooke County. It was as high as my head on the place I nearly got shot by a dog. We were possum hunting. I was standing under the tree where our game was hidden. Like a kid with, I stood my gun down with the stock resting on the ground and the muzzle just under my chin. Just as I leaned aside to shake the limo where the possum was treed, one of the dogs muzzled my gun and tripped the hammer. The shot went up right where my chin had been a moment before and nearly got the wrong possum."

On Jan. 28, seventy-six years ago, young Adam was married to Margaret Virginia Montgomery. Renner farmed most of his life until he lost his sight, but he always had another business on the side. For 20 years of his youth, it was well-digging. "If a man wants a dangerous occupation," the old fellow said, "I can recommend digging and walling wells, the old way where you do it by hand. I had all kinds of narrow escapes those twenty-odd years. You get in a narrow hole a hundred feet in the ground and anything can happen."

The Renners lived in Montague County forty years. Then in 1896 he came to the Panhandle to visit a friend, F. M. Totty, who had come to the plains a year or two before, and had settled not far from Mobeetie. Mr. Totty was the father of Mrs. Una Cantrell of Miami, and Mrs. Marvin Daugherty of Pampa.

The upshot of it was that he bought 480 acres near what is

Doctor Is Optimistic Over Polio Experiment In Texas

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A University of Pittsburgh scientist headed a research team which inoculated more than 20,000 children against polio in Houston, Tex., says he is "pleased and optimistic" with the initial result.

Although the more important results will not be known until late this year, Dr. William McDowell Hammon, praised the people of Houston and Harris County, for their cooperation in making the experiment possible.

The Pitt scientist and his team of doctors inoculated children, ranging in age from one to six years, with a new blood-substance known as gamma globulin. This substance contains antibodies they hope will prove effective against polio.

Houston and Harris County were chosen for the experiment because of the high polio rate prevalent this year. Houston had 50 cases of polio per 100,000 population and Harris County 60 per 100,000, an epidemic is rated at 20 cases per 100,000. By Tuesday, a total of 35,000 children will have been treated.

A spokesman, in answer to questions, said the move results from (1) an over-all effect of the budget reduction and (2) the effort for better use of manpower in combat and operating positions. During the fiscal year just closed about 3,300 persons were assigned to recruiting in the field and at headquarters.

died, and he began to lose the sight in his other eye. He divided his land among his four children, and has since made his home with one of them. Most of the time he lives with his daughter, Mrs. Mary Williams.

Two sons, Browder and Johnnie live within a quarter of a mile away. "I don't do much but sit around," he said. "Just get wore out setting around. I never expected to live to see a hundred. I never saw a person a 100 years old. All my old friends have been gone for years. Johnnie, my baby, is 70.

The Church of Christ, of which Mr. Renner has been a member for 83 years, honored him Friday with an open house, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Ware, of Laketon. Members of the Miami church sponsored it.

Machine-Loving Farmer Keeps On Buying Gadgets

NEW YORK (AP) — The machine-loving farmer goes right on buying gadgets.

Farm machinery output and sales should hold up as long as a production let-down earlier this year, due in part to metal shortages, the industry thinks. The industry thinks sales should hold up as long as:

1. The farmer has an income high enough to allow him to buy back-savers.

2. Metal shortages dwindle as they were before the crippling steel strike.

3. The American people go on demanding more — and better — food. And three-quarter billion dollars worth of tractors, hay balers, cotton pickers, and the like were sold last year. This great urge to mechanize since the war has sprung from more than just the farmer's aching back.

Labor Cost Up — The farmer has had money for one thing. A farmer can't buy machinery unless prices of his products are high and he is in the chips.

Growing weather has been good in most sections. It's small comfort to an individual farmer if the price of corn is high, but his own corn crop was a failure. However, with good weather, high prices—or government-supported prices—the farmer can, and does, buy machines.

Pravda Calls For A War On Witches

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda has demanded a crackdown on witches, quacks and soothsayers.

The Communist party newspaper described how an old woman, named Felix Stefanovich, had enriched herself by casting spells, warding off spells, "healing" all diseases, telling fortunes with cards or coffee grounds, whispering incantations and sprinkling with holy water.

The woman, who lived in the small village of Nikolsky, 10 miles northeast of Moscow, finally was brought to court for illegal practice of medicine and deceiving innocent people, and "received her just deserts," Pravda declared.

But other such sorcerers are conducting their "harmful activity" in other districts of the Moscow region, the newspaper said. It called on local officials to act more vigorously in such cases.

Draft-Age Students Must Notify Board Of School Plans

College men of draft age wishing to continue school this fall are reminded again by local selective service officials that they must notify the draft board of their plans.

This involves a letter written to the draft board requesting deferment and having the college he attends send the draft board a copy of his grades on form 109.

If a student is in the proper portion of his class according to selective service regulations and/or passes the qualification test with a grade of 70 or more, he is eligible for a deferment for the remaining amount of time that is required to earn a degree.

The qualification tests are given at various times during the year at the colleges and the dates of the test are announced to students.

Grades must be kept satisfactory for men to be eligible for deferment, said draft board officials.

Most Adults Believed To Have Had Polio Infection

AUSTIN — It is believed that the majority of adults have at one time been infected by the virus of poliomyelitis, usually without manifestations, says Dr.

George W. Cox, State Health Officer. In view of the above it is expected that most of the recognized cases will be among children.

Only a small proportion of infected persons are clinically recognizable. When symptoms are manifested, they usually comprise an acute illness with fever, headache, and almost always a characteristic stiffness of the neck and spine. Some degree of paralysis may or may not occur during the first few days of illness.

During the poliomyelitis season the following measures are recommended:

1. Insist upon safe waste disposal so that human excreta is not exposed to disease transmitting vectors.
2. Insist on elimination of fly breeding sources and do not depend upon community wide airplane spraying or fogging machines as a substitute for basic sanitation.
3. Food supplies, including milk, must be protected against contamination.
4. Always demand safe water for drinking or swimming pools.
5. Insist that garbage be kept in covered containers and disposed of by incineration or sanitary fill.
6. Eliminate all insanitary conditions on your own premises.
7. Practice good personal hygiene, with particular attention to personal cleanliness.
8. Avoid excessive physical strain during poliomyelitis season.
9. Isolation in bed of all children with fever pending diagnosis by physician.

Lawyer Says Reds Beat Him

HONG KONG (AP) — Robert T. Bryan, an American attorney, claims the Chinese Communists beat him with a rubber hose and used spinal drug injections to wring statements from him during 16 months imprisonment.

Bryan, 59, a China resident for 45 years, was deported from China June 26. He refused to talk to newspapermen, but he has been until the time he boarded the liner President Cleveland bound for San Francisco.

He said the Reds tortured him to confess but "most of the time I never could figure out what they wanted me to confess."

It was on April 16, he related, the Reds gave him a spinal injection. Under the influence of the drug, he said, he remembers sleepily writing what somebody dictated. Again on June 7 he was given another spinal injection when he refused to sign a criticism of the United States, address is Wilmington, N. C.

The Indian Ocean is almost half as big as the Pacific.

Carl George Sharpe, 41, of 617 N. Wells, was assessed a fine of $14 on a charge of permitting a minor to operate a motor vehicle without a driver's license. A complaint against H. C. Powers for the same charge was filed yesterday; he must appear by July 15.

Knowledge Of Safety Rules Aids In Survival Of Tornado

On the seventh anniversary of the Allied invasion of the continent in World War II—June 6, 1951—a whirling wind cut a swath of destruction through more than one-third of the residential area of neighboring White Deer. A tornado had struck with flashing fury and in a matter of minutes had leveled large portions of the town. Contrary to popular opinion, the twister had moved out of the northeast. Now, a year later, the people of White Deer have a warning signal set up to advise them of approaching tornado clouds.

And that brings up the main point—knowing the safety rules in order to keep the toll of lives down to the barest minimum.

Frightening death tolls have resulted from past tornadoes. From Aug. 28 to Oct. 2, 1893, the total of tornado deaths in the U.S. reached 3000. Eight hundred were killed Feb. 9, 1884, as a direct result of a twister which raged from Illinois, south to the Gulf of Mexico. A series of tornadoes whipped through Alabama March 21, 1932, causing a death toll of 268. And, nearer to home, 167 people were killed in a twister that hit the Higgins, Tex.-Woodward, Okla., area, April 9, 1947.

How many of these people could have been saved by an adequate warning system is unanswerable but it is certain that many of them could have been.

The U. S. Department of Commerce has issued a bulletin listing what to do in case a tornado warning is received or a tornado is observed. Here are some of the pertinent safety rules:

- NO UNIVERSAL PROTECTION against tornadoes can be guaranteed except caves and underground excavations. These should have an air outlet and be kept free from water, gas or debris.
- IF IN OPEN COUNTRY: move at right angles to the tornado's path. If there is no time to

Confession Is Made In McLean Break-Ins

McLEAN, (Special) — Fast police work by Deputy Sheriff Jimmy Shelton, McLean, on a tip from Ted Simmons, young service station operator, led to the capture Friday of Franklin Dewey Sopek, admitted burglar.

Sopek now is being held in Gray County jail, pending the filing of burglary charges in connection with four known break-ins in McLean Thursday night.

Sopek was Chief Deputy Sheriff Shirley Nichols of Pampa. When arrested, Sopek had in his possession these stolen articles: an automobile, tape recorder, portable typewriter, softball equipment, a five gallon can packed with soft drinks and the ice and $14.60 of $19.60 taken from a service station.

First report of the burglaries came about 8 p.m. Thursday from Guy Sanders who found a tape recorder missing from the Church of Christ. Service was in progress and none of the doors was locked.

About 6 a.m. Friday, Jimmy Dawson, owner of a service station on Hwy. 66, reported to Shelton that his station had been entered during the night. While an investigation was being made, a young stranger came to the service station operated by Tim Simmons and reported his car stalled in deep sand near the park.

Simmons offered to help him start the car. Noting that the man was nervous and having heard of the two burglaries, Simmons became suspicious. Spotting Shelton on the street, Simmons topped his car and told the stranger to wait while he spoke to Shelton. Simmons left his car, crossed the street and told Shelton to follow him.

Upon arriving at the stalled car, Shelton looked it over and sized as a funnel-shaped cloud, spinning rapidly, and extending toward the earth from the base of a thundercloud.

The twisters usually come on hot, sticky days with southerly winds and a threatening ominous sky—though such a day does not necessarily mean a tornado is coming.

Rain, frequently hail, is likely to precede the tornado, with a heavy downpour after it has passed.

They generally strike between 3 and 7 p.m., although they have occurred at all hours.

In the majority of cases — White Deer was an exception — twisters move from southwest to northeast to an average clip of 25-40 miles an hour, though some have hit a pace of 139 miles an hour.

They are usually 10-40 miles long and 300-400 yards wide. Some of them, however, have reached a length of 300 miles and a width of more than a mile.

There are two main causes of destruction. One is violent winds which uproot trees, destroy buildings and create a serious hazard from objects blown through the air. Other is differences in air pressure which can lift automobiles and can cause buildings to collapse.

Adequate precautionary measures, though, can do much to lessen the risk to human life.

New Advancement In Diagnosing And Treating Burns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three Detroit scientists have reported today a new method of diagnosing and treating severe burns.

Dr. John J. Prendergast and two associates of the Chrysler Corp. medical department reported in the Archives of Surgery that the test of burn severity centers around the blood protein called gamma globulin.

They said there is a great increase of gamma globulin (G.G.) in the blood of seriously burned patients, a very slight increase in patients with minor burns. G.G. content can be determined by a new electrical test.

In the case of serious burns, they also found a decrease in the concentration of albumin — another blood protein which suggested that improved treatment call for transfusions of blood containing purified human serum albumin.

Gamma globulin first made major news as a measles preventative. More recently, there were reports that it could help prevent infantile paralysis, and a major test of its possible effectiveness in polio cases is under way in Texas.

The Detroit researchers said their observations on G.G. as a possible index of burn severity were made during a special electrically aided analysis of the protein content of blood taken from victims of burns.

MGM Heads Agree On Salary Slash

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The big bosses at MGM studio have agreed to salary cuts of from 15 to 50 per cent in an economy drive.

The announcement listed various ways in which Hollywood's largest film factory will try to cut costs and referred to the television problem.

"The field of television production is one which will be examined and re-examined as time goes on, because the economic factors involved are ever-changing, but at the present time we have no plans, nor are we contemplating any plans, for television filming," said a studio statement.

The decision of about 100 top executives to take salary cuts was announced at a mass meeting of 4000 MGM employes, addressed by Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's Inc., the studio's parent company, and Dore Schary, production head.

Popcorn Given Sophisticated Taste By Purdue Scientists

By HENRY McLEMORE
Science continues to stride on in ten league boots. How well do I remember when, with the creation of the rotary egg beater, I believed that man's inventiveness had reached the jumping off place. But science would not be halted. After that, in dizzy succession, came an almost unbelievable flood of triumphs of mind over matter. Noiseless dog whistles. Unbreakable darning eggs. Scalloped shelf paper with thumbtacks to match. Lipstick that won't come off. Pastry mixes that enable a child just fresh from the play pen to outcook her grandmother the best day she ever saw. Then came A-bomb, and then the H-bomb, and I was ready to believe, just as I had when the rotary egg beater burst upon a startled world, that scientists had driven their minds to the limit and were through. How mistaken I was! Today I learned that out at Purdue University scientists are working night and day conducting tests in the hope of giving popcorn a "more sophisticated taste." In my mind's eye I can picture the scene in the vast, completely equipped popcorn laboratory (the only one in the world, by the way), and my mind's ear can hear snatches of the conversation of the white coated, goateed, long-haired, devoted, Ph.D. scientists. Herr Doktor Gustavus Brown (Sorbonne, Heidelberg, Vassar, Berne, North Arkansas State Teachers, Edinburgh), in charge of the experiment, is standing at the hearth of an old-fashioned coal-burning fireplace. In his hands he holds a long-handled popcorn popper which he is vigorously shaking over the low coals. Beside him, his face lighted by the glow of the fire and scientific zeal, is Professor Mascara Leland J. Mascara (MIT, VPI, VPI, SOS, RSV, TNT, DDT, SNAPU), the Herr Doktor's chief assistant in charge of salt and melted butter. Herr Doktor: Quick, Mascara! Pour it on and let's taste it while it's hot. As they crunch the popcorn the Doktor's goatee stand straight out and Professor Mascara looks as Balboa must have looked when he first glimpsed the Pacific. Mascara: You've got it, Doktor! You've got it! By gad, you have! The Doktor takes another mouthful, sighs happily and agrees. Herr Doktor: Yes I think you are right. This batch has a much more sophisticated taste than any of the others we have turned out. It's a triumph, Mascara! It doesn't taste like popcorn at all. We'll be the talk of Hollywood. They discuss just what the new "sophisticated popcorn" did taste like. Herr Doktor says that to him it tastes like clover with a dash of pencil. Professor Mascara holds out for a flavor that reminds him of old examination papers marinated in buttermilk. Mascara: Whatever it is Doktor, there's never been any popcorn that tasted the way this does. It's my guess that your name will be emblazoned on every theater marquee in this country before the year is out. Doktor: And this is just the beginning, Mascara. Think of what we can do to disguise the dull taste of a sirloin steak, corn on the cob, apple pie, strawberry shortcake, and pork and beans. As they walk out of the laboratory, they are tarred and feathered, placed on a rail, and ridden out of town by outraged American citizens.

GUARD GETS NEW VEHICLES — Fifteen new-type Army vehicles were brought from Fort Worth Friday by members of the Pampa National Guard Unit for use in training. Four new 2 1/2-ton trucks, featuring a new hydromatic drive and the ability to drive in water as deep as five and a half feet; five amphibious-type jeeps; four one-ton trailers and two quarter-ton trailers were the vehicles granted to the unit. Members of the battery going to Fort Worth for the vehicles and driving them back in a convoy with the three other batteries of the 47th Field Artillery Observation Battalion, of which Pampa is the headquarters and headquarters battery, were Sgt. 1/c Clarence Upton, Sgt. Liburn Howell, Cpl. Wesley Langham, Pvt. James Shelton, Pvt. Bob Patterson, and Pvt. Jim Keel. (News Photo)

Assistant Taking Over If Boss Ill Rare In Hollywood

By JAMES BACON
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hollywood is such a crazy place. Where else would it be news when the boss' assistant takes over when the boss gets sick? Paramount recently promoted an assistant director to director in such an instance. And the news is looked upon as revolutionary in the trade. However logical it looks to the outsider, here such a jump can be compared only with the spot promotion of an army top sergeant to commanding general. It was not always so. The practice was common enough in the silent movies and the results more than justified it—contin-

Get A New Tire With A Fishing Pole

WASHINGTON (AP) — Need a new tire? Take your fishing pole down to the Potomac and catch one. A flash flood undermined a service station storage shed and carried 400 brand new automobile tires valued at $6,000 into the muddy river. So far only 25 have been reported recovered. Comments, "the more they let an assistant help." Ganzer disclosed that McCarey let him direct whole scenes of "My Son, John." Ganzer said the most amazing thing to him about the promotion is the big increase among agents who now speak to him. "I've been seeing some of these same guys around here for years," he said, "with nary a nod from them." "Now they come up and smack me on the back like old pals. I guess I now look like a meat ticket to the 10 per centers." As he talked, he must have noted a lonely figure over in the corner of the Paramount commissary. A few years ago, this man was one of the top directors — writes in the business. He never dined—alone until he committed that greatest of Hollywood mental sins — a couple of his pictures lost money.

COUNTY JUDGE

Friends, Neighbors, Voters of Gray County this is a second in a series of adds to acquaint you with my candidacy for Gray County Judge. Last add was about my family and education, this one will deal with my varied experience. I taught school a number of years in Miami, and in Pampa. I believe that this experience handling children would be of great benefit in handling the work as juvenile judge of this County which same is one of the duties of County Judge. I am somewhat acquainted with the problems of the oil industry having spent a couple of years working in refineries as well as owning a little royalty. I am also well acquainted with construction problems having put up a number of buildings and working as a carpenter, plumber, electrician, and painter. I am also well acquainted with operation of machinery with my twenty-two years of farming experience here in Gray County. I served a number of years as a director on the Board of the Farmers Cooperative Association of Miami, and as President of the Board. I helped organize and headed the Gray-Roberts County Rural Taxpayers League. I am President of the Gray County Chapter of the Wheat Producers Association of Texas and have served two years on the National Committee on Research for the National Wheat Growers Association. REMEMBER VOTE FOR THE MAN WHO HAS THE EDUCATION, EXPERIENCE, ABILITY, AND WHO DESIRES TO GIVE YOU AN HONEST AND EQUITABLE ADMINISTRATION OF COUNTY AFFAIRS. JOHN H. HARNLY FOR COUNTY JUDGE.

How's Business? GREAT— with prices like ours

THIS is—to coin a phrase—a "shopper's market." Folks are taking a keen look at what they get for what they pay—and they're taking a double look at price tags. That's the kind of market where Buick really shines. Do you know why? Buick prices are down within easy reach of the folks who buy what's known as "the low-priced three." Fact is—a big chunk of Buick sales comes from the folks who trade in one of this low-priced trio. For very few extra dollars, they're getting a lot more automobile. They're getting more power—and the thrill that goes with it.

They're getting "big-car" comfort. They're getting a ride that cost a million dollars and more to develop. They like the room, the fabrics, the extra appointments they find in the smart-stepping beauty pictured here. And they like Dynaflow Drive.* They like the way it handles. They like the way it's engineered. They like the belt they get out of touching off the power of its Fireball 8 Engine—and they like the miles they get from a gallon of fuel. So Buick sales are booming. Not just the SPECIAL—but also the SUPER and ROADMASTER. Folks find that each one is the buy in its field. When we tell you that business is great, we can back up that statement with figures. More people are buying Buicks than any other car at their price or above. Why don't you come in and see for yourself what's behind this popularity? If you can afford a new car, you can be the proud owner of a Buick. Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. *Standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

WARREN'S WARMUP

By WARREN HASSE—News Sports Editor

QUESTION: Carl Erskine of the Brooklyn Dodgers recently missed a "perfect game" by walking one man. Who pitched the last "perfect" game in the major leagues?

ANSWER: "LOAFERS NEED NOT APPLY"

This line is one that is quite frequently seen on help wanted ads in metropolitan newspapers. And it is also similar to a statement made by Oiler Manager Jake Phillips last spring when he was named manager of the Oilers. He said at that time that he was going to give the fans a young, hustling ball club that would prove entertaining to watch.

And he has done that.

Beyond a doubt they are the best since the season when a most interesting team since the catcher, unhappy over the ball-1946 champions. You don't know strike arbiter's work called for what to expect from them at a pitch that would be right in any one given time. The way line with the umpire's head as they dropped to 6-foot level in the Longhorn League. Texas has the natural ability to become a great ballplayer. He is fast, quick, a good hitter, and good fielder. But he doesn't hustle enough. Texas would get down in the doldrums over his failure to hit or over an error, or would just take the first with lackadaisical play that disheartened the entire team. Phillips stood it as long as he could, but realized how capricious the youngster could be if he once decided to hustle at all times.

Then the Skipper decided to make a change and perhaps teach the limited serviceman a lesson that would someday prove of value to him in his chosen career. His optioning to Midland in the order of standing firm in the corner in hope that he can somewhere discover how fine a player he can be if he hustles all the time.

An example of what he can do was shown in his last game with the Oilers. He knew he was being shipped out and a last desperate bid to make a name through with a perfect night of three-for-three against the Gold Sox to raise his batting average to .318. He hit back with the Oilers when he learns to hustle for nine innings, instead of just one. And the hard slapping could provide a lesson for the rest of the Oilers.

Shackled

John Crowley, popular sports editor of the Daily Oklahoman, in a column last week suggested that "there ought to be a standard scale of fines and suspensions in the Texas League in order that everyone won't be in the dark when some manager blows a fuse during a short circuit with an umpire."

Well, President Ray Winkler of the West Texas New Mexico League, announced almost exactly that sort of a penal system in this past week in letters to all managers in the league, letters which were to be read to the entire team. And the regulations all providing for fines from $5 up to indefinite suspensions, took the fire out of the ball players when read to them.

Actions such as throwing a bat back at the batter after popping out or fanning in a clutch—actions of pure disgust with themselves were named as being actions requiring fines. Pitchers were informed that they couldn't come off the mound to argue a ball or strike call, and several other rules were laid down that would tend to make the umpire always right, the ballplayer always wrong with a fine to prove the point.

When a ballplayer loses his right to contest a call or a play, or even evidence disgust with his own playing, much of the great American game has been lost.

One rule laid down called for a $50 fine (major league pay scale in Class C ball) and a minimum 10-day suspension, if a catcher fails to catch a ball thrown by the pitcher and the ball hits the umpire. This happens.

Host To Olympic Games Feels Sure Of New Victories

WON'T HURT A BIT—For-tune Gordin, United States Olympic Games, felt sure of new victories in track and field competition.

HELSINKI (AP)—Finland may be a proper host in an idyllic setting for the 1952 Olympic Games but it also is keen on garnering its share of medals in track and field competition.

The golden days when Paavo Nurmi and Willie Ritola led the durable Finns to world glory in athletics are past. However, at this pre-game waste Finland feels confident it will take at least one gold medal in the marathon, the steeplechase, hop-step-and-jump and distance races.

Last year he threw the spear 75.92 meters (249 feet 1 inch) which compares well with the world record of 78.7 meters (258 feet 2.8 inches) set in 1928 by another Finn with a similar name—Yrjo Nikkanen.

Surprisingly, many Finns put their hopes in the javelin on the strong shoulders of Toivo Hyttinen, 27-year-old farmer, whose best mark is 71.55 meters (234 feet 7.1 inches). They feel that while Nikkanen has the best technique, Hyttinen is the better competitor.

Three marathon runners, headed by Veikko Karvonen, 26, a postman, may be swept along in the tradition to upset the world distance runners.

Karvonen has a best time of two hours 28:07.4, well under the Olympic mark of 2:29:19.2. But clocking in these races have little meaning in forecasts. Immediate factors such as weather and blistered feet carry more weight than past performances. Running with Karvonen will be Erkki Puolakka, 27, a foreman, and Mikko Hietanen, 21, a munitions worker.

Giants Nip Reds Just In Time

CINCINNATI (AP)—The New York Giants, who had lost six of their last eight games, Saturday picked on their favorite National League opponent—the Cincinnati Reds—for a 7 to 3 victory although they were weakening at the finish.

Harold (Pie) Traynor holds the record for playing the most games at third base, 1,861. He played for the Pirates for 17 consecutive years.

Fists Fly As Yankees Edge Past St. Louis Browns, 5-4

NEW YORK (AP)—Righthander Allie Reynolds knocked in the winning run with a single in the 11th inning Saturday to give the New York Yankees a 5-4 victory over the St. Louis Browns.

With the bases loaded and two out, the part-Indian hurler drove the ball over centerfielder Jim Rivera's head and Yogi Berra raced home with the winning run. It was Reynolds' 11th victory of the season and his 15th straight complete game.

The three-hour, nine-minute struggle was enlivened by a fight between Clint Courtney, Browns catcher, and second baseman Billy Martin of the Yankees which resulted in Courtney's ejection from the game.

With two out in the eighth inning, Courtney tried to steal second and was out by a wide margin as Martin apparently made a hard tag on Courtney's leg.

The two exchanged punches and Umpire Bill Summers was knocked flat as both teams rushed in to the melee.

Manager Marty Marion clubbed a three-run homer in the second inning and Bob Young followed with a solo home run in the next frame, to give the Browns a 4-0 lead.

However, two-run homers by Berra, in the third, and Gene Woodling, in the fourth, knocked out Browns starter Stubby Overmire and tied the score 4-4.

Washington collected only three hits, all singles, off Chuck Stobbs and Harry Dorish, but two of them were delivered in the payoff fifth inning as Julio Moreno scattered seven hits to win his fifth defeat.

Brooklyn Dodgers Blast Out 22 Hits To Whip Cubs

CHICAGO (AP)—Brooklyn's vaunted power asserted itself Saturday as the league-leading Dodgers smashed out 22 hits to plaster the Chicago Cubs, 12-2.

The carnage was inflicted despite the absence of two of the Brook's best sluggers, catcher Roy Campanella and center fielder Duke Snider. Campanella was benched for light-hitting and Snider rode the pines because manager Chuck Dressen wanted to cram as many righthanded batters as possible into the lineup against Cub starter Lefty Paul Miner.

Freeway Reese, Jackie Robinson and Gil Hodges led the vicious assault against four Chicago pitchers. Reese pounded out five straight hits before he retired in the eighth inning. Robinson drove home four runs on a homer and two singles and Hodgeshipped in with his 18th homer and two singles.

Dente's Error Gives Nats Win

WASHINGTON (AP)—A disastrous error by shortstop Sam Dente led to two Washington runs and enabled the Senators to edge the Chicago White Sox, 2-1, Saturday.

Eddie Robinson aced the eighth inning, and Jackie Jensen hit a homer in the second inning.

Washington collected only three hits, all singles, off Chuck Stobbs and Harry Dorish, but two of them were delivered in the payoff fifth inning as Julio Moreno scattered seven hits to win his fifth defeat.

Managers Ready In TL Star Tile

DALLAS (AP)—Managers of the teams that will meet in the Texas League All-Star game at Oklahoma City July 21 have already been determined.

L. D. Meyer of Dallas will pilot the North and Harry Craft of Beaumont the South.

They won the honor by their clubs finishing highest in the two divisions by the July 4 deadline.

Meyer's club is 4 1-2 games ahead of Fort Worth, the next North club in the standings, and Dallas has three games to play through July 4. Beaumont is 3 1-2 games ahead of San Antonio, the next South club, with three games to play.

Adrian "Pop" Anson, star for the Chicago Cubs before the turn of the century, was a student of the game of baseball there in 1887.

Raider Football Tickets On Sale

LUBBOCK — Last year's season football tickets will begin getting their 1952 tickets Tuesday.

Jimmie Wilson, business manager for athletics, said that those enclosing mailing expenses would be mailed their tickets. Otherwise, tickets may be picked up at the Athletic Office in Jones Stadium.

Deadlines for renewing reservations held last year is August 1. After that date, seats held last year will go on sale to new applicants.

Although new season ticket buyers cannot be taken care of before the August 1 deadline, Wilson urged prospective purchasers to make their reservations as soon as possible.

Tickets to Tech's six home games cost $18, with an additional 25 cents being charged for mailing expenses. Checks or money orders should be made payable to Texas Tech, and addressed to the Athletic Department, Wison said.

Tech's home games are at West Texas home game, Sept. 20; Texas at night.

Old Glory Waves Over Olympic Teams

HELSINKI (AP)—Old Glory was unfurled at the top of the 13th flag pole at the entrance to the new, new Olympic village of Kaapelitehty Saturday.

The American flag raising was followed immediately by similar ceremonies for Chile, Cuba and Greece. Before the end of this week all the competing countries outside of Eastern Europe will wave over the village.

Unearned Run In Ninth Robs Him Of Wild Shutout

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—An unearned Pampa run in the ninth inning last night robbed bridegroom Jesse Priest of a shutout in the West Texas New Mexico League as he scattered eight hits to lead Albuquerque to 16-1 win.

For Priest who was married at was the 11th win of the year—8 home plate before the game, it gained four defeats. Max Molberg, first of three Oiler hurlers, took the loss when he was the victim of a seven-run uprising in the third.

Statistics Show Why Clovis Holds Large Lead In WT-NM

The front-running Clovis Pioneers, well on their way to the 1952 West Texas-New Mexico League championship, can point to the batting, fielding and pitching records and show why they are where they are.

As a team the Pioneers are second in team batting and first in fielding. With that type of one-two punch they are hard to beat.

But add to that three of the four top pitchers in the league and the task of putting them up to defeat them becomes almost an impossibility. Mel Kramer, a veteran having one of his best seasons, has a 7-0 record to top the circuit's hurlers.

In addition to these leaders, the Pioneers also have some departmental leaders in hitting. Francis Rice is leading in total bases and tied for the lead in three base hits as well as being fourth in total hits, and second in runs scored.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Cleveland Indians with Bob Lemon pitching six-hit ball to earn his eighth win, walloped the Philadelphia Athletics 5-1 Saturday but there was one bright spot for the A's even in defeat: Ferris Fain extended his hitting streak to 24 consecutive games.

Fain's safety, a ninth-inning double that led to the A's only run and ruined Lemon's shutout, thus equals the top consecutive game hitting streak achieved this season by the St. Louis Cardinals' Stan the Man Musial.

Senior Golfers Start Battle

Several senior Pampa golfers are planning on participating in the 18th annual Tri-State Senior Golf Tournament to be held at the Amarillo Country Club this week.

Among those who plan to play are Mark Heath, a director of the tournament, Short Heiskell, Grover Austin, Sr., and Bob Coker. The largest organization of its kind in the world the tournament is open to linksters who have reached the age of 50. Last year's meet drew 199 players.

Every golfer who has become of age may join the association by paying the $1 dues. The tournament fee is $10, and it isn't necessary to be a member of a club to play.

The schedule:

July 13, Sunday—Qualifying rounds for Amarillo players who won't be trying for the championship flight.

July 14, Monday—Practice rounds, putting tournament, 6 p.m.

July 15, Tuesday—Official qualifying day, Tri-State team matches (five low qualifying scores from New Mexico, Oklahoma, Texas). Age flight contests (50-55, 56-60, 61-65, 66-70, 71 and over). Coffee for wives 11 a.m. Banquet, 7 p.m. Special pool, 8 p.m. Entertainment 8:30 p.m.

July 16, Wednesday—First round match play in all flights. Good Fellowship Dinner, 7 p.m. Colonel Bogey Awards.

July 17, Thursday—Second round in all flights. Coffee for wives, 11 a.m.

July 18, Friday—Quarterfinals, championship flight. Semifinals, all other flights.

July 19, Saturday—Semifinals, championship flight. Finals all other flights.

July 20, Sunday—Finals, championship flight.

The low 32 qualifiers win places in the title bracket. The other flights will have only 16. All players will be placed in some flight. Only one match will be played per day in any flight.

Chick Trout, Lubbock, is the defending champion, having defeated Dr. C. D. Moore, Oklahoma City, one-up in the finals.

The medalist and champion each receive trophies. Merchandise awards will be the same in all flights: $20 to the winner, $12 to the runner-up, $10 to the consolation winner and $8 to the consolation runner-up.

O. T. "Nek" Nicholson founded the world famous association in 1935. He was president for the first eight years, and is now the permanent chairman of the board of directors.

Wade Holman, Amarillo, is the president. Byron Clancy, Carter, Okla., is the vice-president. Budgie Hayden, Amarillo, is the executive secretary. He isn't of age yet for membership.

Funk, Morelli Turn In Wins In Season's Roughest Night

As the card promised before the first bell rang, Pampa wrestling fans—thousand strong—were treated to the wildest and roughest wrestling match they have ever seen inside—and outside of a local rig Friday night at Oiler Park.

They saw almost every kind of mayhem, and finally the defending champion, having defeated Dr. C. D. Moore, Oklahoma City, one-up in the finals.

The medalist and champion each receive trophies. Merchandise awards will be the same in all flights: $20 to the winner, $12 to the runner-up, $10 to the consolation winner and $8 to the consolation runner-up.

Greens Gossip

By HOGAN O'SNEAL

Say, boys, stay away from lanky Johnny Clark. John hadn't been hitting too well with his new super-length clubs, but the other day he took a short lesson from Johnny Austin. Then they went out and played the wheel and Clark threw three straight birdies at the pro, a 2-3, which isn't too bad. Austin then asked Clark for some lessons, but the big guy told him no. "I got you where I want you now," he said. Just a friendly warning, fellows.

Next Friday afternoon, starting at 4:30, there will be another Scotch foursome at the Country Club. BH this time the men will invite the ladies to play as their partner. Should be lots of fun.

We had a good rain in town Friday, but Johnny was still long faced. He didn't get any more than a light sprinkle on the course. And he has been poisoning and fertilizing the greens, so he could have used it. Johnny has been working hard this summer to keep things alive, and has done an excellent job. He has had more help, and put in more man-hours than ever before.

Guess most of the golfers stayed home and listened to the Republican convention this past week. The weather was nice and cool, one of the best golfing weeks of the year, and yet things were the slowest.

Parish for a hole in one: play with Mickey Prigmore. We had had three aces scored this year, and Mickey has seen all of them. Latest was Haskell Maguire's last Saturday on No. 7. Johnny has started straightening up the traps and getting things in readiness for the Top of Texas tournament. And speaking of that meet, here is something we noted in the Borger paper in a column by Glen Elkins, sports editor.

"Johnny Austin of Pampa is planning for the biggest tournament in the history of that city, August 1. And we like the way Johnny said it would be run. He expects 200 golfers and there will be a 32 man championship flight. Players in the lower brackets will only play 15 holes a day and will have more time and energy to enjoy other scheduled activities at the country club.

"We have seen and heard too many of these lower flight boys complain about the early starting time and the 36 hole grind they have a point. Players who shoot 90's and 100's have just as much fun and get just as much satisfaction from winning as those in the championship flight. They are often the older fellows who contribute substantially to the upkeep of the club but they are penalized by early starting times and the fact that they just don't have the steam for those last holes."

Got a couple of proams this week. Both fall on Wednesday. They are at Quannah and Leveland. Think Johnny plans on playing at Leveland where Billy Maxwell is expected to be back to defend the championship. He won last year. That tournament runs through the 20th.

One final note. Johnny is holding a caddy school every Saturday morning at 10:30. He has invited all kids old enough and big enough to carry golf bags to come out and get in on the meeting and learn to earn themselves some money. In addition, Johnny is letting the kiddos play around on the course to teach themselves more about the game through actual experience.

Ratliff Takes Early Look At SWC 1952 Football Prospects

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

It's the middle of baseball season and the weather isn't conducive to the so-called bodily contact sports but it's sooner than you think—football blossoms in all its glory in just two months.

The gridiron game actually moves in some three and a half weeks hence when the Texas Coaching School is held in Fort Worth. That'll be all you'll hear about then.

Southeast Conference squads open the grind Sept. 1 and will play their first games Sept. 23. Texas will have its biggest football season ever—more high school, more colleges playing the game. Better than 850 high school teams will make the campaign. There will be 23 senior colleges and more than 20 junior colleges fielding gridiron outfits.

Intersectional Card

The Southwest Conference is in a position to assume the leadership in the nation's college football. The intersectional schedule is the gaudiest yet.

And the conference appears to have the teams to do it. There will be 152 lettermen returning to the seven member schools—an average of almost two players per college.

The intersectional schedule includes Michigan State, Kentucky, U.C.L.A., Wisconsin, Washington State, Mississippi, Kansas, Wake Forest, Louisiana State, North Carolina, Notre Dame, Oklahoma, Georgia Tech, Duke, Oklahoma A&M, Tulsa and Missouri. There are no eastern teams but the east hasn't been doing much in the nation's football for several years outside of Princeton, which won't show its wares against the top teams of other areas.

Baylor, Aggies Weak

So far as material goes, Texas Christian, Southern Methodist and Arkansas appear to have the stuff to rate one-two-three. But Rice, largely a sophomore squad in 1951, has most of its new back and Rice had a fine football team last fall.

The only teams due to be weaker are Baylor and Texas A&M. Baylor seems to have lost more than anybody.

Southern Methodist, to hear the coaches tell it, will be a very green outfit but with a strong potential. To hear SMU ex-lettermen and alumni tell it, the Methodists will have their greatest material in history. There are 26 lettermen on the hilltop, which would discount the versions of a green but growing outfit. And no team has the promising newcomers as boasted by SMU—Frank Eidom, Duane Rutt, Doyle Nix, Tommy Hairston and Ed Bernet.

TCU Favorite

Texas Christian perhaps should be rated the favorite for the title if any team is. There are 28 lettermen at the defending champion school, including that great trio of tailbacks: Gil Baruch, Mal Fowler and Ray McKown. And they expect a trackster who runs with a football like he does on the cinders to bring visions of that jack rabbit of the thirties—the might Cy Leland. He is Ronnie Clinkscale.

Arkansas has 25 lettermen featuring Lamar Melian, the quarterback who could well be the conference's greatest player next season. Rice has 21 lettermen with Kesse Johnson, Dan Drake and Center Don Rhoden each bidding for outstanding honors.

Texas is making a gallant effort to play itself down a notch and to announce its decision to play for the Red Raiders. Carroll Duncan is the other.

Panhandle Men's Meet Next Week

The third meeting of the Panhandle Men's Golf Association, long delayed by various club tournaments, will be held at the Pampa Country Club next Sunday afternoon, July 20.

At the present time the defending Pampa Country Club team is in first place with one more match to be played after this next week's Pampa has a total of 465 points, Phillips 426, Ross Rogers 316, and Huber 218.

The last meeting was at Ross Rogers on April 20.

Play is on medal basis with three points for each match, one for each nine and one for the eighteen holes.

All Pampa golfers are invited to participate in the event.

Municipal League May Lose 2 Clubs

The possibility of two teams withdrawing from the League Municipal softball League's second half play loomed today as the former eight-team circuit moved into the second half.

Southern Production has already withdrawn from the circuit and the Phillips team is apparently going to be forced to withdraw cutting the circuit to six clubs and forcing a complete revision of the playing schedule.

Last week three league games and an exhibition game were played. Skelly defeated Phillips, 8-6; Pampa Foundry defeated Texas Company, 5-4; and Southern Production defeated Foxworth - Galbraith, 9-3.

In the exhibition game Friday night, Texas Company defeated Bill Van Lines of Amtrillo, 8-3.

Weather Slows Industrial Play

Rain washed out a pair of games in the Pampa Industrial Softball League this past week but three games were played. On Tuesday night the Elks played a double header with Brown and Root and swept both ends from the construction crew. The first game was a 6-5 thriller and the second a free-scoring 23-15 affair.

On Thursday night Northern Natural Compressor defeated Northern Natural Pipeline, 4-3, in another fine game.

This week Tom Rose plays the Elks on Monday, Northern Natural Pipeline meets Brown and Root on Thursday.

All games are played at Lions Club Park starting at 8 p.m.

How To Spot Woodchucks

By WARREN EAGE
Shooting Editor

Some scientific gent has written that in New England alone the woodchuck population approaches 200,000,000. I don't know quite how he figures that out, but if we eliminate all the densely wooded and settled sections of those small states, the pasture population is terrific. There are certainly a lot of chucks—and if we added in the members of the Marmota group that whistle in the states west of the Mississippi, there are an awful lot.

Yet some people can't find either woodchucks or rock-chucks, the latter the racier yellowbellied varmints of the Rocky Mountains, even where they are common. Apparently they don't know what to look for.

In early spring, before the grass has grown chuch-high, seeing Marmota monax is a cinch. He has little of no cover for his daytime foraging expeditions. Furthermore, soon after snow-melt the chucks are gallivanting around in mating activities with complete disregard of danger.

Even before the first cutting of hay, however, you can mark down likely woodchuck fields for your first expedition with a varmint rifle—which shouldn't be until the youngsters are weaned in June.

A rock outcropping in pasture land or a few acres of alfalfa are sure to show diggings; a bump surrounded by darker vegetation means a chuck hole. So does a little pile of shale or dirt, even if you can't spot the burrow entrance.

Don't waste time in swampy sections, or in sandy areas where the chuck's tunnel would collapse on him. He generally prefers shaley or rocky soil to soft loam, in order to discourage excavation-minded farm dogs. Hedgerows, stone walls, the knees of stumps and the corners of boulders will often be marked by burrow entrances. And if you can post the hole, eventually you'll spot the chuck.

His residence—usually a private one for mature chucks—must be near feed area. If you find evidence of diggings near an acreage of clover, alfalfa or truck gardens, whistle sharply once or twice. Even the deep brumette or black chucks occasionally found in the east are as curious as their blonde western cousins, and they'll come up for a look-see.

The cliff apartments favored by mountain chucks are likewise usually near feed patches, just under

By TED KESTING
The dove is the only game bird that breeds in every state of the United States. Yet our leading conservationists are alarmed for fear that it might become extinct. The dove population is dwindling away in a rather alarming manner. Disease and bad weather have claimed many but foremost is the scant food supply.

So it is good news that the U. S. Soil Conservation Service has announced a new dove food that might well be their salvation. It is the very common pokeberry.

Doves do not eat insects; they do not eat green foods; they will not eat bicolor lespedeza, the new quail food. Pokeberry is the only field perennial eaten by doves. And it grows from Florida to Texas, from Minnesota to New England. According to SCS biologist Verne E. Davison, once established it can be maintained year after year indefinitely.

A number of other wildlife species eat the pokeberry fruits in summer and fall. Raccoons, opossums, foxes, mockingbirds and many other fruit-eating birds use the juicy berries; but only the pulp and juice are digested. The shiny black seeds pass through in the droppings. Doves, and incidentally bobwhites eat the seeds after the fruits have dried and will eat the seeds in droppings.

Pokeberry can be established the break of a ledge or canyon edge, sometimes in slide rock, where a bear would have a tough job digging out a meal of marmot. Since the rock-chuck's furry hide is close in color to his home rock-ple, you need good optics to spot him, just as you do to pick an eastern chuck out of a stone wall.

Even with a multi-power scope on your varmint rifle, good binoculars rated at 6x30, 7x35, 8x30, or 9x35 are a must for efficient chuck spotting. The human eye is just not good enough, without optical assistance.

by transplanting crowns but it is more practical to grow it from seed. There is no commercial supply of seed available as yet; but anyone who wants to grow pokeberry can do so by collecting the ripe berries and following directions put out by the Soil Conservation Service. "You can't get people to plant pokeberry. They're been destroying the stuff all their lives." But farmers and sportsmen are learning. They fought it when they knew it only as a weed. They will plant it when they know it as a savior of doves. Pokeberry has value to many kinds of American wildlife—but particularly to the mourning dove. This is another milestone in our search for a plant of high value to each species of American game. Nature alone cannot produce enough food for the game we want. We must feed two doves where there is scarcely feed enough for one now.

Will There Be a Derby Day For Me Dad!

Sure son, there'll be a derby for you. As long as people get a thrill out of seeing a youngster get ahead, there'll be a Soap Box Derby.

You see, there's a spirit of competition that's part of the very soul of this great country. That's why we have baseball games and football games, spelling bees and derbies. Every single person feels that he has a chance in the race, whether he's playing in some sport . . . running for President . . . or starting a new business of his own.

Now, of course, that's the way it ought to be. The spirit of friendly competition is one of the things that has made our country great. But in some parts of the world, there are people who feel that individual competition is a bad thing. They'd rather have you doing exercises on a big field with thousands of other little boys . . . just one part in a great big machine.

Why, even in our own country there are people who'd like to do away with Soap Box Derbies, World Series, elections, and everything else that mean ing back the people with unusual talents . . . by making everyone conform to a pattern. They don't like the idea of competition because they're not big enough to win a race — or lose. Yes, son, there'll be Soap Box Derbies for you to race in just as long as the people of America keep the spirit of competition alive. And as long as one boy can win honor and glory by the work of his hands and the use of his imagination, the fu

GOP Veep Candidate Nixon . . .

Young California Senator Has Had Meteoric Career

By DOUGLAS LARSEN — NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Richard M. Nixon came to Washington in January, 1947, admittedly one of the greenest of the big new batch of youthful veterans who had been elected to the 80th Congress. Now, barely 5½ years later, he's holding down second place on the GOP presidential ticket.

Nixon had a good idea right at the start. He believed that the most successful way to go after Communists, in and out of government in the United States, was in a coldly methodical, strictly legal manner. He decried the demagogic, Red-baiting tactics used by so many Communist-hunters as un-American and not too effective. And if necessary, he thought, "tighten" the laws to help protect the country against the Red threat.

He parlayed this idea into one of the most meteoric political careers this country has seen in recent generations. It led directly to his nomination for the vice-presidency.

It he is elected, at 39 he will become the second youngest man ever to hold that job. John C. Breckinridge, elected in 1856, was 35 years old when he took office.

Milestones in the amazing Nixon career include: Responsibility for the contempt of Congress citation of the notorious Red leader, Gerhard Eisler, and the group indictment of Eugene Dennis and others. Leadership in the expose of the activities of Alger Hiss which eventually sent Hiss to jail. Authorship of several laws which have given government officials new weapons for combating the activities of Red agents.

The climax of his career came in 1950 when he soundly trotted the popular Helen Gahagan Douglas for one of California's Senate seats. He had been appointed to that seat earlier by Gov. Earl Warren to fill out an unexpired term.

In addition to his fight against the Communies, Nixon won national attention for urging that John L. Lewis be charged with violation of a Supreme Court order in connection with the 1947 coal strike. His voting record in Congress stamps him as a typical liberal Republican. He voted to limit presidential tenure to two terms. He has regularly voted for income tax reductions.

ly hair, a lantern jaw and a lean, sometimes awkward frame. He speaks quietly and effectively and has developed into a persuasive public speaker since coming to Washington. He has exposed himself to Washington's active social life much less than the average Senator.

With his wife and two young daughters, he lives very modestly. Before embarking on his highly successful political career, Nixon practiced law, worked for the government for a while and spent several years as an officer in the Navy during the war.

His birthplace is Yorba Linda, Calif. He attended public schools in his state, won his B.A. at Whittier College, and went to Duke for his law degree.

Although Nixon's big vote-getting appeal has been based on his fight against Communists, his popularity among Congressmen and political leaders is based on something more than that. Not the back-slapping type, he is sincere and hard-working.

As typified by aggressive but clean tactics against the Communists, he is fair-minded and thorough in everything that he tackles, even most of the persons who have been hostile witnesses before the committees on which Nixon has served have admitted that.

On the whole, Nixon's tremendous popularity in the West, his great knowledge of the Communist problem and his sincere, crowd-winning personality makes him a valuable, strong running-mate on the GOP ticket.

Vows To Help Small Business

CHICAGO (AP) — The 1952 Republican platform presented to the convention Thursday promises small business new, lower tax laws and an end to government "hostility to initiative and enterprise."

The statement of principles was drafted by the Resolutions Committee for Convention action. In its sections on small business and taxation, it says: "Merciless taxation, the senseless use of controls and ceaseless effort to enter business on its own account have led the present government to unrestrained waste and extravagance in spending, irresponsibility in decision and corruption in administration."

It adds: "The Republican party will end this hostility to initiative and enterprise."

The statement says a GOP administration would "relentlessly" enforce antimonopoly and unfair competition laws, but would help businessmen comply with them. It opposed federal rent control except in critical defense housing areas. It pledged a fight against inflation by "encouraging full production . . . and not through a program of restrictions." And it pledged an end to "tax abuses and injurious price and wage controls."

Calling for a sound economy, the proposed platform advocates cutting government spending by "elimination of waste and extravagance." It said this would lead to a balanced budget and general tax reduction.

It calls for a study of tax sources to avoid overlapping of federal and local levies, a revision of tax laws and revenue administration "free from politics, favoritism and corruption."

Swimmer Will Try To Harness Shark

OCEAN PARK, Calif. (AP)—Shark boat is a comin'—and what a boat!

Paul Chotteau, veteran long-distance swimmer, proposes to harness a blue shark to a contraption embodying a pair of pontoons and let the shark furnish the propulsion.

Chotteau swam 42 miles from Catalina Island to Malibu in 1936, and in 1940 had to quit 11 miles short of a 115-mile swim from Bimini, British West Indies, to Palm Beach. Now he's 54 and hankers to swim the Catalina Channel that Florence Chadwick almost but not quite conquered last week.

Just how he'd harness the shark Chotteau doesn't say. He says he tired his idea, small scale, with a goldfish furnishing the power, and that it worked fine.

Celanese Expects Partial Operation By End Of The Year

The new Celanese plant, five miles southwest of Pampa, is expected to be in partial operation in the latter part of this year, according to John Frick, plant manager.

However, Frick emphasized, nothing is definite although construction of the plant has been coming along slowly but surely. The current steel strike has not affected construction much since, as Frick says, "most of the material had already been obtained from the steel mills."

Construction of the new plant got underway in late April, 1951. It will not be completely finished when partial operation begins. Approximately 150-175 workers are expected to be employed in the plant.

Government Cuts On Housecleaning Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government buildings from now on, face the possibility of having their windows washed and floors waxed only once a year instead of three times as in the past. The General Services Administration, the government's house-keeping agency, has sent out word a sharp cutback in cleaning services, is necessary because of the congressional reduction in its 1953 funds. The GSA said it also tentatively plans to reduce the three-times-a-week cleaning of offices to one. Trash, however, will still be removed daily.

SUMMER IS NOT THE BEST time to give parties, but there's an almost effortless trick to repaying obligations, and most women are bound to find it attractive. The new twist to an old idea is to invite friends to drop in after dinner for iced coffee and dessert - and let this take the place, at least through the summer, of more formal entertainment. No meal, no favors, no special preparations, nothing but a tasty dessert and tall, frosty beverage. The advantages to this kind of hospitality extend beyond the fact that dirty dishes will be kept to a minimum. First, it automatically places the time of the gathering in the coolest part of the day; on the terrace, (if you're lucky enough to have a terrace such as the Dr. Hicks, Johnny Hines or Jack Fosters). In the case of apartment-bound "cliff dwellers," you can sit near the windows that offer the best breeze. Second, it's a relaxing, quiet time, when the frantic routine of daily chores can be forgotten!

MAKING OF SUMMER ENTERTAINING... a gay way to entertain your evening guests is with a cold cuts supper tray. With rye bread and a tossed or potato salad, it is a meal all in one. On one side of the platter, arrange alternating slices of summer sausage and liver sausage. Next to these, place cornucopias of pimento loaf or bologna filled with chive-cottage cheese. Complete the array with rye bread and ham rolls made by rolling "baked" ham slices around sticks of processed American or Swiss-type cheese. Center the tray with a shallow bowl of salad made from mixed greens, tomato wedges, sliced cucumbers and sliced hard eggs. Just before serving, toss with French dressing. Use your imagination in arranging the platter - the ideas are unlimited, and remember the prettier the food array, the better it will taste. Keep the foods simple and attractive.

SHOULD NEVER HAVE MENTIONED FOOD - made me so hungry I can't seem to think about anything else... so bye from

"Summer Visitors"

(News Photos by Odis Qualls)

Summer is a wonderful time - if for no other reason for the visits it brings from friends and relatives. Grandmothers search for high chairs for visiting grandchildren, daughters plan special entertainments for their mothers, and college students introduce college classmates to their home town.

Among the visitors in Pampa are Mrs. William Jourdan, the former Ann Chisholm, and her three daughters, Mary, Patricia and Jean Ann. Mr. and Mrs. Jourdan reside in El Paso where he is an engineer with the El Paso Natural Gas Co. The visitors are guests in the Russell Chisholm home.

Mrs. Edward Kingsberry, who was Miss Maribelle Hazard before her marriage, is visiting here with her mother, Mrs. J. P. Heath. Mrs. Kingsberry and her daughter, Pamela Ann, are en route to Lincoln, Neb., where they will join L. Kingsberry who is an NROTC instructor at the University of Nebraska. They formerly resided in Jacksonville, Fla.

Dr. and Mrs. George Snell have had as guest Mrs. Snell's mother, Mrs. B. S. King, who is especially enjoying the visit with her two grandsons, George A., 4, and Donald, 2. Mrs. King is to return this week end to her home in Vernon.

Mrs. Frank Eckdall and daughter visited last week with Mrs. Eckdall's mother and sister, Mrs. Luther Pierson and Mrs. Lee Moore, Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Eckdall make their home in Emporia, Kan., where he is an attorney.

Miss Pat Eidson of Ironton Mo., left this week end following a visit with Miss Ann Sidwell and Mr. and Mrs. E.C. Sidwell. Miss Eidson and Miss Sidwell were roommates at Lindenwood College the past year.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Gilbert have as guest their young grand daughter, Sue Ann Spector, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myer Spector of Amarillo. Mrs. Spector is the former Francis Jean Gilbert.

Mrs. Derrell Dollohan and son Daven, have returned to their home in Albuquerque after a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Nash have had as guests of the past week their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Moore of Monahan, and their granddaughter, Eleanor Moore. Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Huckaby of Dallas spent the week end here en route to Colorado.

Mrs. Huckaby and Mrs. Nash are sisters.

MISS BELLE STEWARD

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Steward announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Belle, to Mr. Lacy Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Lee of Cimarron, Kan. ### The Mature Parent

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
"Why," an English teacher asked her high school class, "do the writers of fairy tales always make the youngest prince braver than his brothers and the youngest princess lovelier than her sisters?"

Her class agreed that the best answer to her question was the one of the boy who said, "Because somebody wanted to give the youngest prince a braver than having to wear their brothers' and sisters' hand-me-downs."

Mishandled, the hand-me-down can be a trouble-maker. I know a nice old lady of 75 right this minute who takes the greatest pleasure in jamming needles into a red needle cushion. If you ask her where she got it, she will tell you she made it from a hated merino dress, outgrown by two older sisters, and handed down to her in a state of perfect and infuriating repair.

It's not so hard to understand this violent prejudice against hand-me-downs if we give some thought to it. We can't help stamping our identity on the clothes we wear, even on the equipment we use. The people who live with us and our belongings get to associate them with us. It's quite a little mental trick to try and identify yourself with a skirt or a blouse that you associate with somebody else. Though children will tell us that they object to the hand-me-down because it isn't fresh and new, they really dislike it for having to wear clothing identified with an older brother or sister.

When we consider that brothers and sisters are very competitive people indeed, we begin to get light on the psychological resistance to the hand-me-down and see why it appears as an imposition or even a threat to the younger child.

Understanding the cause of this resistance, we can begin to find ways to solve the hand-me-down dilemma.

A dye job that turns Bill's expensive but outgrown red sweater to brown may make it more acceptable to his young brother. Green buttons and belt replacing the red ones on Mary's blue suit may help her little sister disconnect the dress from Mary's vivid personality and attach it to her own.

Some mothers get around the problem by taking the hand-me-down right out of the family and organizing a clothes-and-equipment exchange with other parents. Mary's little sister will have a much easier time establishing her own identity in a sweater outgrown by somebody else's big sister, instead of by overwhelming, vivid Mary.

So long as the clothing belongs to some older child beyond the family competitive orbit, the hand-me-down is usually regarded as welcome.

I can almost hear reader grumbling to himself as he reads this: "Did you ever hear such nonsense? In the good old days, there was none of this fancy modern catering to children. They had to wear their brothers' and sisters' hand-me-downs—or else!"

I know they did. Before any one writes to me to make this point, let me say that, while I am sure the "good old days" had many pleasant things to offer, I think our modern habit of catering to the differences that make children and other human beings unique and distinct and individual is one of the best things about our century.

Although I think that the 19th Century was a fine one, I cannot help feeling that it was remarkable for its number of boys who ran away to sea and for fainting young ladies who constantly went into "declines." While I do not mean to imply that wearing a hand-me-down will drive Bill's brother away to sea, I do suggest that the identity of an American child is a singularly precious thing, as the strength of his country is based on respect for differences between people.

Misses Berenice Homer, Ann Sidwell Honor Miss Joan Stroup With Shower

Miss Berenice Homer and Miss Ann Sidwell honored Miss Joan Stroup, bride-elect of Leon Engle, with a kitchen gadget shower, recently in the E. C. Sidwell home. Mrs. Sidwell and Mrs. C. Homer assisted with the entertainment.

The honoree was presented a sponge made of kitchen gadgets and her mother, Mrs. Jesse Stroup, presented a corsage of white asters.

The refreshment table was covered with a white cloth and entered with two faces representing "Joan and Lon." To carry the theme of the kitchen shower, the faces were made of pie pans, with a mop for hair, brushes and cork for facial features and napkin rings holders for ears.

Sandwiches, cookies and tea were served by Mrs. Homer and Mrs. Sidwell. Napkins carried out the green and white color scheme, selected by the bride.

After gifts were opened, bridge provided entertainment.

Attending the party were Mmes. Sue Derrington, Bill Chapman, Jack Curtis, Jack Sutton, Sue Sidwell and Homer.

Misses Eulaine Ellis, Martha Hopkins, Patsy Eidson, Betty Joyce Scott, Homer and Sidwell. The Stroup: English wedding will be solemnized at 4 p.m. Sunday, July 20.

"Teach your wife to be a widow," says an article in a national magazine, which points out to their wives the importance of giving in matters of finance husbands able to get along alone.

But in other ways a wife has to teach herself how to be a widow.

While she is still young she should be learning in all kinds of ways how to stand on her own feet.

Yet many women act as though Jim or Bill would always be around to look after them.

There's Jane, who is afraid to stay in the house alone at night, and has never done anything to overcome her fear.

There's Sue, who lets her husband do all her thinking for her, and never bothers to reason out anything for herself.

There's Mable, who hasn't yet learned how to enjoy being alone, who is perfectly miserable if her husband is away for an evening.

And there's Doris, who can't make a simple decision without asking her husband.

There's Mable, who is so wrapped up in her family she hasn't bothered to make friends of her own.

MRS. DAVID FRANKLIN ENGLE (Qualls Pampa Photo)

Miss Porterfield And Mr. Engle Wed In First Baptist Church Ceremony

Miss Annie Marie Porterfield and Mr. David Franklin Engle were married in a ceremony at 6 p.m. June 23 in the First Baptist Church with Rev. E. Douglas Carver officiating.

The bride wore a pink tulle gown with a high neckline and a shoulder-length veil. The bridegroom wore a navy blue suit with a white shirt and a white tie.

The bride's bouquet was made of white and pink flowers. The bridesmaids wore white dresses with pink accents.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Porterfield selected a pink and white color scheme. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy blue dress with a white collar.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Engle attended Pampa schools prior to their marriage. He is now employed by the Celanese Corporation.

Miss Valta Welch, Mr. James Trusty Wed In Informal Home Ceremony Here

Miss Valta Welch, daughter of Mr. James Trusty, became the bride of Mr. James Trusty, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Trusty, in a ceremony read and officiated by Rev. E. Douglas Carver at the double-ring ceremony in the home of the bride's mother at 5 p.m. Vows were exchanged before an improvised altar of flowers backed by a mirror and arrangements of daisies.

The bride's mother wore a tulle dress with green accessories, and the bridegroom's mother was attired in a beige linen two-piece dress.

Following the wedding, a reception was held for members of the families and a few friends. The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth. Miss Peggy Fletcher served punch from a crystal service, and Miss Welch, the bride's sister, served the two-tiered wedding cake.

High School, Mr. Trusty attended the Lefors school and will return to West Texas State College in the fall. He is employed by Texas Pipeline Co. this summer.

Discuss Bloodmobile For Roberts County

MIAMI (Special) — Plans for bringing a Red Cross Bloodmobile unit into Roberts County about Oct. 1, were outlined for a group of Red Cross officials and local American Legion representatives in a meeting here Wednesday afternoon by Ike Burnett, Red Cross field representative. Blood will be used by the armed forces in Korea.

About 300 donors of Roberts County must sign pledges to give a pint of their blood, if the drive is considered locally successful. Those attending the meeting were enthusiastic in support of the drive in the usual all-out manner in which they have always supported other kinds of drives.

Tips For Tasks

Here's a simple way to move heavy furniture by yourself. Just fold a piece of cloth (an old blanket is best) and place it under the piece of furniture and slide wherever you wish. Saves your highly polished floors.

Alternate buttered and seasoned layers of cooked macaroni, drained chopped spinach, and grated cheese in a buttered baking dish. Bake in moderate oven until cheese on top is browned and bubbly. A wonderful no-meat treat.

To remove nail polish stains from white cotton or linen, use commercial polish remover, or in warm suds. Remove any remaining color with a mild bleach. To remove chewing gum from white cottons or linens, chill the area with ice until the gum rolls into a ball. Then scrape off the gum and sponge with carbonyl tetrachloride. Wash in warm suds.

Stephens-Smith Wedding Announced

Mrs. O. E. Stephens, 214 N. Gray, announces the marriage of her daughter, Ethel, to Mr. Joe E. Smith, son of Mrs. Lillian E. Smith of Athens, Pa. Wedding vows were exchanged June 10 in Clovis, N.M.

1 cup thin cream or milk
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
3 cups corn flakes

Arrange pieces of chicken which have been removed from bone, carrots, onion, potato balls and mushrooms in six individual casseroles.

Melt shortening, add flour and cream slowly, stirring constantly. Cook over low heat, stirring frequently until thickened. Pour over chicken and vegetables. Sprinkle melted butter over corn flakes and stir until each flake is buttered. Cover tops of casseroles with corn flakes. Bake in preheated very hot oven (300 F.) 10 to 15 minutes.

A torn section of linoleum will last longer if scotch tape is applied to cover the tear and a coat or two of fresh, white shellac is used over the tape.

The Mature Parent

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
 "Why," an English teacher asked her high school class, "do the writers of fairy tales always make the youngest prince braver than his brothers and the youngest princess lovelier than her sisters?"

Her class agreed that the best answer to her question was the answer of the boy who said, "Because somebody wanted to give the youngest prince braver than having to wear their brothers' and sisters' hand-me-downs."

Mishandled, the hand-me-down can be a trouble-maker. I know a nice old lady of 75 right this minute who takes the greatest pleasure in jamming needles into a red needle cushion. If you ask her where she got it, she will tell you she made it from a hated meringe dress, outgrown by a two older sisters, and handed down to her in a state of perfect and infuriating repair.

It's not so hard to understand this violent prejudice against hand-me-downs if we give some stamping to it. We can't help stamping our identity on the clothes we wear, even on the equipment we use. The people who live with us and our belongings get to associate them with us.

It's quite a little mental trick to try and identify yourself with a skirt or a blouse that you associate with somebody else. Though children will tell us that they object to the hand-me-down because it isn't fresh and new, their real distaste is for having to wear clothing identified with an older brother or sister.

When we consider that brothers and sisters are very competitive people indeed, we begin to get light on the psychological resistance to the hand-me-down and see why it appears as an imposition or even a threat to the younger child.

Understanding the cause of this resistance, we can begin to find ways to solve the hand-me-down dilemma.

A dye job that turns Bill's expensive but outgrown red sweater to brown may make it more acceptable to his young brother. Green buttons and belt replacing the red ones on Mary's blue wool may help her little sister disconnect the dress from her sister's vivid personality and attach it to her own.

Some mothers get around the problem by taking the hand-me-down right out of the family, and organizing a clothes-and-equipment exchange with other parents. Mary's little sister will have a much easier time establishing her own identity in a sweater outgrown by somebody else's big sister, instead of by overwhelming, vivid Mary.

So long as the clothing belongs to someone's competitive orbit, the hand-me-down is usually regarded as welcome.

I can almost hear reader grumbling to himself as he reads this: "Did you ever hear such nonsense? In the good old days, there was none of this fancy modern catering to children. They had to wear their brothers' and sisters' hand-me-downs—or else!"

I know they did. Before anyone writes to me to make this point, let me say that, while I am sure of the "good old days" had many pleasant things to offer, I think our modern habit of catering to the differences that make children and other human beings unique and distinct and individual is one of the best things about our century. Although I think that the 19th

MRS. NEWTON DOUGLAS MYERS

Miss Avis Marie Cross Becomes Bride Of Mr. Newton Douglas Myers July 4

In a home ceremony read July 4, Miss Avis Marie Cross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Cross, became the bride of Mr. Newton Douglas Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Myers. Rev. Truett Stovall officiated at the single-ring ceremony read in the home of the bride's parents.

For her wedding, Mrs. Myers selected a white organza dress. Her only jewelry was a matched necklace and earring set, a gift from the bridegroom.

For something old and borrowed, she wore a 68-year-old diamond lapel watch belonging to Mrs. J. L. Brown. She also carried out the traditional something old, something blue, and a lucky penny in her shoe.

A reception in the home followed the exchange of vows. The immediate families of the bride and bridegroom were present for the occasion.

After a short wedding trip to Amarillo and Palo Duro Canyon, the couple will be at home at 308 N. Somerville.

Mr. Myers is employed by Brown and Root, Inc.

Misses Berenice Homer, Ann Sidwell Honor Miss Joan Stroup With Shower

Miss Berenice Homer and Miss Ann Sidwell honored Miss Joan Stroup, bride-elect of Leon English, with a kitchen gadget shower recently in the E. C. Sidwell home. Mrs. Sidwell and Mrs. C. Homer assisted with the entertainment.

The honoree was presented a message made of kitchen gadgets, and her mother, Mrs. Jessye Stroup, presented a corsage of white asters. The refreshment table was covered with a white cloth and entered with two faces representing "Joan and Lon." To carry the theme of the kitchen shower, the faces were made of pie pans, with a mop for hair, brushes and combs for facial features and napkin rings holders for ears.

Sandwiches, cookies and tea were served by Mrs. Homer and Mrs. Sidwell. Napkins carried out the green and white color scheme, selected by the bride. After gifts were opened, bridge provided entertainment. Attending the party were Meses Sue Derington, Bill Chapman, Jack Curtis, Jack Sutton, Sue Sidwell and Homer.

Misses Eulaine Ellis, Martha Hopkins, Patsy Eidsen, Betty Joyce Scott, Homer and Sidwell. The Stroup-English wedding will be solemnized at 4 p.m. Sunday, July 20.

Eddie Roush established a Cincinnati consecutive game hitting record in 1929 by hitting in 27 straight games. He tied his own mark in 1924.

Spinster Asks Pyramid Burial

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP)—A spinster who was intrigued by archeology will be buried like Egypt's ancient pharaohs—a pyramid.

The last wish of Florence Broff, of Hastings-on-Hudson, N.Y., who died in 1948 at past 90, came nearer reality this week when a contest over her will by relatives was settled.

She had asked that $40,000 be spent to build a 425-square-foot pyramid in a Cincinnati cemetery. Her body and those of her mother, father and brother would be buried beneath it.

Traveling with her archeologist father, she had been impressed by the pyramids.

Under the settlement, there will be a pyramid marker but it will be more modest. Only $10,000 was authorized to build it and return the bodies of her relatives from abroad.

Machines Aid Traffic Court

NEW YORK (AP)—John M. Martagh, New York City's chief magistrate, insists nothing personal against motorists who think they can fix or ignore traffic tickets.

He just wants to make their lives as miserable as possible, and he thinks other cities ought to spread this type of misery. He has been conducting a continuing crusade on the matter in New York.

Judge Martagh fined one trucking firm a record-breaking $4,700 for ignoring 467 parking summonses. He fined one individual $2,200 and sentenced him to 30 days in jail for forgetting about 84 traffic tickets.

"I'm out to get the average motorist who doesn't think of himself as a criminal but has little respect for the law," explains the 41-year-old jurist.

The guy who tries to fix or forget a traffic ticket, Judge Martagh believes, is a person who "has to think of himself above the common herd. He is too proud to submit to authority."

What with straitlaced judges and a complicated mechanical brain for processing tickets, Judge Martagh believes the fix is virtually impossible in this city.

The mechanical brain consists of 39 complicated machines rented by the city for $80,000.

Since the machines were installed in 1948, the number of traffic violators who ignored summonses has dropped to 5 per cent.

Here's how it works:

A cop on the beat gives out a traffic ticket, or writes one if he has two stops, one in his precinct house. By regulation, the precinct is required to forward the stub and the officer's affidavit to the Traffic Summons Control Bureau by the next morning.

There the machines go to work. They record, reproduce, and collate with other past offenses, the name and address of the violator, date of offense, license number, summons number, precinct involved, make of car and badge number of the ticket-taking patrolman. The machines also automatically assign the case to a Traffic Court docket and later record in detail each disposition.

The machines handle about 5500 tickets a day and, among other things, put the finger on missing summonses (all tickets carried by policemen are consecutively numbered) altered license numbers on tickets and judges with a tendency toward passing too many suspended sentences.

OPS To Trim Area Staff

The Office of Price Stabilization announced Friday that 6,150 of the 12,000 employees of the agency must be released by Sept. 1 because of a cut by Congress in stabilization operating funds.

How sharp a reduction in the force of the Lubbock district office would be ordered and to what extent its operations would be curtailed was not known at this time, according to H. E. Gholson, district director. The Lubbock district administers the program in a 69-county West Texas area.

Director Ellis Arnall of OPS said about 700 employees must be released in the national office and about 2,450 in the field. The national office staff now has 2,500 employees, with about 9,500 in the field.

To help effect the scaling down of employment, thirteen regional offices which are situated in the same cities with district offices will be combined, reducing the total number of 103 field offices in the nation to 90. This reorganization will include the combining of the Dallas regional and Dallas district offices, according to information from the Washington office Friday. The Lubbock district is a part of the Dallas region.

Reduction of employment in the national office will be effected through combining of divisions.

Major Frank A. Duby, Pandhandle, has been assigned to duty with instructional staff of Indiana University Air Force ROTC.

A 1925 graduate of Pandhandle High School, Major Duby attended the University of Virginia and Oklahoma A&M. A pilot in World War II, he saw service in Europe. Before his assignment to Hoosier University, he was stationed at the Langley Air Force Base in Virginia.

Pfc. Billy D. Russell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Russell, Pampa, has recently been graduated from the Seventh Army's Non-Commissioned Officers Academy, Munich, Germany.

Russell, a fire control director with the 537th Ordnance Medium Maintenance Company, entered the Army in July, 1951. Prior to his Army service, he attended Abilene Christian College, Abilene, Tex. and was engaged in farming near Pampa.

The six-week course from which Russell was graduated emphasized the use of weapons, Army administration, tactics, supply, physical fitness and organization. Students were carefully selected by their organization commanders before attending the school.

GOING OVERSEAS—Cpl. Ramon G. Hernandez, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Hernandez, 310 W. Atchison, left Pampa Tuesday night for New York where he will report for overseas duty. Cpl. Hernandez is in the Air Force. He was graduated from Pampa High School in 1948 and attended West Texas State College, Canyon.

Four Texas A & M students from Pampa are ending their third week of training at March Air Force Base, Riverside, Calif., as members of the Air Force Reserve Officers' Training Corps.

They are S-Sgt. Clifford L. Schaffer, Airman Daniel J. Glaxner, T-Sgt. Malcolm C. Douglas and S-Sgt. Robert Dean Stone.

The four cadets are part of 300 from southwest universities and colleges who are training under the Strategic Air Command plan of applying their book knowledge to the actual operation of an air base. The SAC program is a concentrated orientation course in which the students get the feel of the operating air force. They study tactical problems as well as participate in preflight inspection and in-flight operations.

At the conclusion of the prescribed four-week encampment the men will leave with a comprehensive knowledge of the "why and wherefore" of the U. S. Air Force.

Japs Insist No One Rode White Horse

TOKYO (AP)—It was all a misunderstanding, a Japanese official insists, no American ever succeeded in riding Emperor Hirohito's white horse "Snow White."

Adm. Halsey and Gen. Curtis LeMay jokingly threatened to before the Japanese surrendered. Neither did.

But a Lt. Dick Ryan repeatedly rode Snow White on Armistice Day, 1945, in a rodeo staged in Tokyo.

Now the Nippon Times, quoting Shigeru Ozu, former chief of the horse administration bureau of the Japanese Department of Agriculture and Forestry, says it was a mistake.

Ozu relates that Ryan, looking for stock for his rodeo, saw a white horse named "First Frost" and asked if it wasn't the emperor's horse.

The interpreter said it was, but meant it once belonged to the emperor's stables. First Frost was shipped to the United States by Ryan in 1946 but died in Oklahoma the same year. Ozu said: "The Emperor's real horse Snow White died in 1947 at the age of 27 years at the Sanrizuka Imperial Ranch."

"Thus no American ever succeeded in riding the emperor's horse."

The gift they never gift-wrap

The simple little box you see above contains a very special gift. It holds a doctor's prescription... an important aid to better health.

Each time your physician prescribes a medicine for you, you benefit from the practical application of that physician's knowledge, and the training and skill of your pharmacist. Often, too, you benefit from some recent and hard-won discovery by men of research.

Because of the continuing advances in the field of medicine, there are happy endings today to many illnesses that would have been real tragedies only a few years ago. But although these gifts of modern science are now available, too many of us neglect to take advantage of them in time.

New drugs, new skills in diagnosis, better methods of treatment—all are most effective during the early stages of illness.

If you are not feeling as well as you should, visit your physician and take advantage of his professional advice. Don't wait until it is too late to reap the full benefits of the gifts that medical science has brought within your reach. # Candidate Eisenhower

Editor's note: This is the second of two parts describing the life of Dwight Eisenhower, GOP nominee for the coming presidential race.

CHICAGO (NEA) — Ike's father worked in Abilene as a mechanic at a creamery, and the family was poor. Ike once had to wear his mother's high button shoes to school. Speaking of his parents, Ike has said recently, "And they were frugal, possibly of necessity, because I have found out in later years we were very poor, but the glory of America is that we didn't know it then."

Another of those contradictions in Ike's life, this one with a heavy touch of irony, came up when the future general was whipped by his war-hating mother for playing soldier. Aiden Hatch tells about it in his book, "General Ike."

One of Dwight D. Eisenhower's first and best boyhood friends, R. G. Tonkin, of San Antonio, Tex., gives these reasons for Ike's success: "His passion for work; his grin, and Mamie (his wife)."

Others are inclined to include high up on any such list the training Ike got at home — long hours of hard work and an atmosphere of gentleness and religion which have given him a deep sense of spiritual values which today affect much that he says and does.

Ike was born David Dwight Eisenhower on Oct. 14, 1890, at Denison, Tex. Two years later the family moved to Abilene and later still his mother switched his first two names around because she disliked nicknames and thought Dwight a first name would be less susceptible to shortening than David.

He is of German stock on both sides of his family. Both his father and mother were deeply religious. His father was a leader of the River Brethren sect of the Mennonites, and his mother, an ardent and life-long pacifist, eventually joined Jehovah's Witnesses.

BACKGROUND: Ike still reflects much that his mother said.

There were seven Eisenhower children, all boys, and four of them, besides the general, are still alive. They are Milton, president of Pennsylvania State College; Arthur B., a Kansas City banker; Edgar N., an attorney in Tacoma, Wash.; and Earl D., a Charelton (Pa.) mining engineer.

Ike's father worked in Abilene as a mechanic at a creamery, and the family was poor. Ike once had to wear his mother's high button shoes to school.

Speaking of his parents, Ike has said recently, "And they were frugal, possibly of necessity, because I have found out in later years we were very poor, but the glory of America is that we didn't know it then."

Another of those contradictions in Ike's life, this one with a heavy touch of irony, came up when the future general was whipped by his war-hating mother for playing soldier. Aiden Hatch tells about it in his book, "General Ike."

"You see," she told Ike, not yet in his teens, "I remember that other war, though was only five when it ended. We were Virginians, but Father held that the North was right, and that slavery was all wrong. So all our neighbors suspected us. Once, toward the end, when the federate soldiers stormed through our house looking for my older brother."

"When the Yankees finally came, they weren't any better. That's the way war makes men; like cruel animals. They forget our Lord and His teaching of love. Christ forbid that you boys should ever grow like that."

She didn't know then and her little son didn't know that a little more than 10 years from then he would be barking on a military career at West Point and that she would cry about it. But she knew 10 years later that West Point was perhaps the only way her son could get an education, so she dried her tears and said to him, "Splendid. I knew you could do it."

And the strangely unwarlike Eisenhower still reflects much that his mother believed with statements like: "Total war would be the suicide of our generation. We must avert World War III, and re-fight World War II. Belligerence is the hallmark of insecurity."

Ike, like his brothers, worked extremely hard as a boy in the often futile train to make ends meet. He helped his mother with the washing, cleaning, woodcutting and cooking. He still likes to cook and is pretty good at it.

HIS GRIN AND MAMIE—Those, plus passion for work, are given as reasons for Ike's success by close boyhood friend.

But there was still some time to play and Ike was good at sports. Later, at West Point, he was a star halfback until he injured his knee severely. Today he's a good golfer and shoots in the low 80's.

Ike, who had always been good in English and history, wanted to get an education somewhere — he didn't care too much just where — so he took the Kansas examinations for both Annapolis and West Point.

He got the appointment to Annapolis, but learned to his dismay that by the time he entered the Naval Academy he would be over its age limit. Then, fortunately for him, the top man in the West Point exam failed to pass his physical exam, and Ike got the appointment.

He graduated from the Point in 1915, ranking 61st in scholarship in a class of 164. In conduct, he wasn't so good, ranking 95th. He got several demerits for oversleeping and swearing. Classmate Omar Bradley stood sixth in conduct.

During his first couple of years at the Point, Ike gave no indication that he would follow a military career after graduation. What decided him is not definitely known.

A year after he got out of the Point, Ike married Mamie Geneva Doud, daughter of a prominent western meat packer. They had two sons, Dwight Doud, who died when a baby of scarlet fever, and John Sheldon Doud, a West Pointer and now an Army major, married, and with three babies whom granddaddy Ike adores.

Ike didn't get overseas in World War I because he and many other young officers like him were needed here to train the troops who were going.

Shortly after World War I, Eisenhower was ordered to a tour of duty in the Canal Zone and there, on a second-story screen porch which he called his war room, he got a lesson on things to come which he never forgot and which must have accounted largely for his future enthusiasm for the military.

His commanding officer, Gen. Fox Conner, started young Ike with the pronouncement that World War I had solved nothing. Conner was vehement as he urged Ike to prepare himself for what was to come.

"I mean you in particular," he suddenly shouted. "I've worked with you for two years now. I know that fine brain of yours, its skill and foresight, and the drive of your energy. Men will always follow you because they like you and put their trust in to lead to the heart of a smashed and defeated Germany.

In February, 1942, he was made assistant chief of staff in charge of war plans, and the next month he made major general. In May of that year Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, sent Ike on an inspection trip to England.

When he got back to the Pentagon, Gen. Marshall had him in for a long conference and discussed African plan in detail. Equally Marshall asked, "In your opinion, are the plans as nearly complete as we can make them?"

"Yes, sir," Ike replied. "I consider them excellent."

"That's lucky," said Marshall with a twinkle in his eye. "Because you're going to carry them out."

The North African campaign resulted in a tremendous victory with a total of 252,415 German and Italian prisoners taken in the first days south of Tunis.

With the Sicily invasion out of the way, and the Italian campaign well started, Ike met President Franklin D. Roosevelt in Africa as the latter was returning from the Teheran conference.

"You'd better pack your duds," Roosevelt casually told him. "You're going to London." And that was the first Ike knew he and not General Marshall was to command the big show, the Normandy invasion.

As Supreme Allied Commander in Europe, Ike gave the signal for D-Day on June 6, 1944. His role in the titanic battles and ultimate victory that followed are well known.

However, there occurred at the end of the war a little-known incident which again illustrates sharply the qualities of mind of this citizen-soldier.

Ike, victorious commander of all the western forces a little against Germany, sat in a schoolhouse at Reims, France, in his moment of supreme triumph as a soldier. He was accepting the surrender of Germany.

Colonel General Alfred Jodl, German chief of staff, signed the papers, and with the other German officers was led out of the room.

For minutes that seemed endless Eisenhower sat and stared straight ahead. His face seemed carved in granite. Finally, he snapped out of it, turned on his boyish grin, and the spell was broken.

What was he thinking about? Of armies, of guns, of personal or Allied triumph? None of these.

He was saying to himself, "This Jodl looks like an intelligent man. Yet how could an intelligent man have sold himself out to that crackpot Hitler and helped to murder 15 million people?" Ike told that to a reporter several years later.

After the war, Ike came home to serve as U.S. chief of staff until 1948, when he became president of Columbia University. But at President Truman's request he returned to military service in December, 1950, to head the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Europe.

He returned to this country last June 1 to campaign for the Republican presidential nomination. Many people honestly question whether a general should ever become President. To which Ike's admirers reply, "But is this guy really a general, in any but the strictest meaning of the word?"

Daniel's Platform Needs Mending

Price Daniel, Texas' hard-hitting attorney general who is a candidate for the U. S. Senate seat being vacated by Tom Connally, told an audience in Pampa the other day that, if elected, he would work to turn the country back to God and the government back to the people.

We all know that Daniel can't get the monumental job of effecting an about-face in Washington done alone. Not by a long shot. The complexion of both house of Congress will have to be changed before we can hope to return to the principles that made this country great.

In the last 20 years the people of the United States have drifted far to the left of Christian moral laws and have almost reached a point where they accept a regimented life without challenge. The road back will be a long and difficult one.

Daniel promised to aid in the attempt to uproot Marxist theories now in force in Washington if we send him to the Senate. We believe he would try and recommend him to the voters of Texas. Our endorsement of his election in the Democratic primary is based on his record as attorney general and as speaker of the Texas House of Representatives.

However, we could not suppress a cringe when Daniel said he favored continuance of price supports and pension programs. Certainly, it should be apparent to the attorney general and everybody else that these federal handouts open wider the door to socialization of the nation.

We liked Daniel's idea for an amendment to the Constitution which would prohibit Congress from spending more money than is collected by the government. His amendment would, however, contain two exceptions for deficit spending: total war and when authorized by a four-fifths vote of Congress in time of peace.

Daniel's suggestions on Korea made sense too. He would: (1) obtain an honorable peace; (2) fight an all-out war in a determined effort to win; (3) or get out of Korea altogether.

The attorney general leveled a stinging indictment against the Armed Services, charging them with being the biggest wasters of tax money in the government. He contended the preparedness program could be cut five or six billion merely by the elimination of waste.

Federal bureaus with a personnel of more than 200,000 also were bitterly attacked by Daniel. He doesn't like them and thinks they have no place in our form of government. We'll buy that idea too.

Many changes must be made in Washington if the government is to be given back to the people and we believe Price Daniel would work toward that end. We believe he would try and, for that reason, we support his election in the July 26 primary. However, if the Republicans offer a candidate who appears better qualified and more determined to wipe out the books the whole Roosevelt-Truman socialistic scheme of things, he will get our nod.

Individual Demands
As an individual you have many demands. Demands for food, clothing, shelter, transportation, education and so forth. What do you believe is the best way to satisfy these demands? Is it better to try to satisfy your demands for food by depending upon private enterprise or can these demands be satisfied by turning to government? Is it better to try to satisfy your demands for clothing by depending upon private enterprise or can these demands be satisfied best by turning to the government?

It seems to us that the history of the United States shows that private enterprise has provided more and a better choice of food in this country than could possibly be provided by depending upon government. The same applies to clothing and shelter, as well as transportation.

Then, if private enterprise can satisfy these demands better than government, why cannot it also satisfy our demands for education better than government? On looking at our public schools today we see that there is much discussion about overcrowding in schools and the need for additional facilities because the supply is less than the demand. Is there the same problem in regards to our food, our clothing and our transportation, which are supplied by private enterprise, or does not the supply come quite close to the demand in these fields?

Is it true that in some cities where there has been an influx of population the supply of housing has not immediately met the demand, but private enterprise, when left alone, has met the demand as rapidly as possible.

Since tax-supported education has not come anywhere near to meeting the demand for education, shouldn't we consider the fact that private enterprise has come closer to fulfilling our other demands than government enterprise could and that this evidence that private enterprise also could come closer to fulfilling our demands for schooling than government enterprise can were it free from the government competition which keeps it from supplying our demand?

Mate Selection
Why do engaged couples like each other? People who say "I wonder what he ever saw in her" can get scientific answers to their questions now. They can send for the Government's pamphlet on "The Unconscious Factors Governing Courtship and Mate Selection."

If cost is a standard, the book's answers should be pretty reliable. One of the federal bureaus gave $12,096 to a college professor to write the pamphlet, according to a congressional committee investigating waste in government.

That's about 25 years of income tax for you, if you're anywhere near the middle-income brackets.

"How Not To Run For President"

A very timely little book due to the election this year is one written by James L. Wick on the subject of "How NOT to Run for President." Its other heading is "A Handbook for Republicans."

The book goes on to show how Willie was very popular when he was nominated and how what he advocated and his compromising lost him the election in 1940.

Mr. Wick also takes up how Dewey lost his two campaigns. He compromised and didn't stand for anything. He didn't put up a fighting campaign.

Mr. Wick says that Willie's policy could be summed up as follows: "Having nominated me, you Republicans are trapped. You have nowhere else to go. Now sit back and watch me win New Deal votes."

The result was that a lot of people who believed in liberty stayed away from the polls and didn't vote.

Mr. Wick contends that the Presidential candidate should be like a sales manager. He should be trying to entice the members of the party so that they will go out and help sell the rest of the voters the ideologies that would be to the advantage of everyone and that they should be advocating a long time view rather than short term interest.

To substantiate this view that frankness and sincerity and advocating a definite limit on government would be successful, he cites the case of Everett Dirksen's 1950 campaign in Illinois. He points out that this campaign proved that a candidate can win an election without playing Santa Claus. I quote from his comments on this subject: "Dirksen arrived in an Illinois county which had not gone Republican for many years. County Republicans leaders said: 'We have a good chance to carry this county for you and the county ticket. But Scott Lucas (the incumbent Democratic majority leader in the United States Senate) has promised the county a $250,000 war memorial paid for by Uncle Sam. You've got to duplicate that promise.'"

"During the question period following Dirksen's speech, someone popped the question: 'Will you promise to get us a $250,000 war memorial paid for by the United States Treasury?'"

"Dirksen replied: 'I won't make any such promise. Quite the contrary! I will fight any such proposal. The Government of the United States cannot remain solvent if every county in the United States expects Uncle Sam to pay its bills.'"

"After the meeting, one Republican leader said to Dirksen: 'Why did we ever bring you into this county? You have killed our own chances here. Worse for us, you have ruined the county ticket. You have betrayed us.'"

"But when the votes were counted, Dirksen had carried the county votes and most of the county office went Republican.

Dirksen appeared before a Chicago assembly of public-housing supporters. Every state-wide candidate got up and favored public housing financed by the United States Government. Dirksen simply said: 'I am opposed to federally subsidized public housing.'"

"At a Negro rally each candidate was asked how he stood on a compulsory federal FEPC law. The Negro vote in Chicago represents about 300,000 votes, often the decisive factor in a statewide campaign. I favor a compulsory FEPC. I announced every candidate except Dirksen, who said 'Only a continuous campaign of education will bring equality between the races. I favor a voluntary FEPC. Lorraine a compulsory FEPC.'"

"After the address, a Negro leader said: 'Mr. Dirksen, of course we don't like your answer. But we also know that most of the other candidates are liars. Publicly they favor our FEPC; secretly they oppose it. Yours was at least an honest answer.'"

"Dirksen got 30 per cent of the Negro vote in Chicago, the highest vote polled by a state-wide Republican candidate since the New Deal.

"True, the vote was less than Dirksen than anti-Lucas. Under orders from Truman, Lucas as majority leader had blocked Senate debate on FEPC legislation in order to help Claude Pepper win re-nomination. The Florida Senator was accused of being secretly pro-FEPC. Delay in debate in the Senate might have allowed orders, but 30,000 Negroes preferred to vote for an honest opponent of a compulsory FEPC rather than for a phony friend.

"Dirksen carried the state by 250,000."

The Republicans have tried four different campaigns by pussy-footing and letting the New Dealers write their platform. If the Republicans had been elected on a no-too policy, they would have been as helpless as the Democrats. It is time that the Republicans, too, some stand for the principles set forth in the Declaration of Independence.

If anyone wants to read an interesting little book, I suggest that they get James L. Wick's "How NOT to Run for President." It costs $1.00 and can be secured from Vantage Press, Inc., New York.

Bid For A Smile

Mrs. Smith—My son won a prize for shyness in school.
Mrs. Brown—Yes? What was the prize?
Mrs. Smith—We don't know. He was too shy to go up and get it.

A certain noble lord being in his early years much addicted to dissipation, his mother advised him to take example by a gentleman, whose food was herbs and his drink water.

"What madam," said he, "would you have me to imitate a man who eats like a beast, and drinks like a fish?"

One day Mark Twain arrived in a Canadian hotel, and, glancing over the register, took note of the signature of the last arrival. "Harro— and vale," Twain signed, "I'm a rascal and a villain."

Down South Socialism in England Takes Country To Portals Of Ruin

By THURMAN SENSING—Southern States Industrial Council, Nashville, Tennessee

In a recent speech in London, Prime Minister Winston Churchill said that Britain is in peril of losing all her possessions and property because she is dangerously near economic bankruptcy. Britain, he said, is standing on a "treacherous trap door" which may fall beneath it at any time.

Churchill went on to say, "And it does seem indeed hard that the traditions and triumphs of a thousand years should be changed by the ebb and flow of markets and commercial transactions in the vast awaying world which has sprung up and is growing ever larger around us; and that to month to watch from month to month the narrow margins on which our solvency and influence depend."

One would not be lacking in patriotism to find even country in any way, nor even necessarily need to be Anglo-Saxon ancestry, to hold the firm belief that the fall of Britain would be a tragic loss to civilization. It is true that for a thousand years, Britain has been a great force in the development of law and order in the world, in the attainment of the rights of man. Britain has made mistakes during those years, even as individuals make mistakes, but her good far outweighs her evil.

Britain's greatest mistake, no doubt, was her handling of the American Colonies. More than anything else, however, that was an administrative mistake on the part of the rulers of Britain — just as our own administration might make mistakes; it was not a mistake on the part of her people. We must still remember that our traditions and laws and customs in large part had their origin in Britain. So even if our nation did leave the old home-

Fair Enough... Wall Street Bankers Linked To Candidacy Of Eisenhower

By WESTBROOK PEGLER (Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

CHICAGO — The reporter who taught me my fundamentals of journalism was a member of the whole town on his first assignment in Chicago nearly 50 years ago by coming in with a picture of a woman in some local story when burglary, bribery and the ruse of the gas-meter inspector had failed. He rang the doorbell and asked her for it. His name is Arthur Pegler. "Always go to headquarters first for information," he used to tell me.

This lesson fetched me a kick in the pants as I pondered the mystery of the activities of Winthrop Aldrich and the Chase National Bank in this Republican Convention. So I walked around the corner from the Drake Hotel, where I have been hutching up in elegance and ease, got into the elevator at 300 Lake Shore Drive and told the pilot to fly me up to 6-A. He was just cranking her up when a car slipped into the drive and Winthrop Aldrich got out, wearing a Finance Committee badge, followed by his young son, then Mrs. Aldrich and two young women, all wearing Eisenhower buttons as big as manhole covers.

I had beaten Winthrop out of 6-A at gold a year ago, which I take not as a boast, for it takes a monumental dub to outwalk me, but to lay the foundation for his first remark when we had sat down in his drawing-room and I had sidled into the subject in my shy way by saying, "Hey, what is the idea of keeping a four-room suite in the Hilton Hotel" which is the grand headquarters of this massive American profanation of political freedom.

"What did you say your name was?" Mr. Aldrich said. I thought he put it in the "Who, me?" manner of a suspect in the detective bureau because his Adam's apple jumped so hard he had to cover his mouth, but, after all, I often forget faces so I am not sensitive. Little China-Boy Luze has a face that I can always mistake for a hundred others and I am convinced that that is why he has seldom failed to lie or distort the truth about me, not that I give a damn because, in dealing with Ful Piu I couldn't wish for any weapon more effective than the truth whereas it doesn't very well serve a malicious purpose against me, or us.

"What did you say your name was?" Mr. Aldrich said. "Pegler," I said. "Don't tell me you forget that licking I gave you to go!"
Oh, sure, now he remembered. Well, what about that suite then, 1605-47 and 12 in the Hilton

(2) we must decide whether we shall allow Britain to be entangled by the "ebb and flow" which Mr. Churchill mentioned or whether we shall do everything in our power to prevent it.

As for me, I think our nation could take no greater stand for the cause of civilization and the threat of socialism and communism in the world than by making the firm commitment and publicizing it to the world that we shall not allow Britain under its present form of government to fail for lack of economic aid on our part — under whatever terms this may best be worked out.

reserved in the names of Winthrop Aldrich and Timothy Kelly? Oh, that was for the Finance Committee of the Republican Party of the State of New York and Timothy Kelly was a fellow from the bank who had volunteered to help around.

All right, that was his story and would be accepted, although I am commenting to you that four rooms are a lot of rooms at a lot of expense to accommodate the Finance Committee of the State of New York in Chicago. After all, the New York Finance Committee's territory is New York and even there a couple of filing cabinets, a desk, two chairs and a phone should be enough to accommodate the works and the treasure of that committee up to now.

Somebody gave a modest flitting in this suite a few nights ago and a devotee of Bob Taft who didn't just happen by but went there on purpose to hear all he could, reported that one character said it had cost $700,000 already to promote Eisenhower's campaign. There were no professed Taft men in the gathering.

Mr. Aldrich then said he was absolutely neutral, publicly, as between Ike and Taft, as between him in his status of chairman of the New York Committee and member of the National Finance Committee. And he was going to go on raising money to support the Republican nominee, whoever he might be. I asked him how much China-Boy had given. He said he didn't think he should answer that.

"Why not?" I asked. "After all, you have got to report it under oath."
Well, just the same, he didn't think he had a right to tell and he wouldn't. And he was pretty sore at the Chicago Tribune for printing charges that the Chase Bank and Wall Street were trying to put Ike over. At that I told him that Yehudi Chuching, a Wall Street fellow and Harold Talbot, of Chrysler, Autolite and other interests, had told me long ago that they were for Ike even though they regarded Taft as a better man, because they thought Taft couldn't win. Now Talbot was putting money into Ike's campaign. I asked Mr. Aldrich whether Cushing was, too, and he said he didn't know. I will have to ask Cushing, but on the basis of his expressed opinion I have an opinion and you can have yours.

But that is all right. They have a right to back Ike, I am just thinking of the proposition that Wall Street really has backed Ike against Bob, of the obvious probable reasons why, and of the stupid and rather nasty ingratitude of a class of men who squeal for free enterprise but throw down the one man in 20 years who offers to rescue them and, meantime, has done more for them than any other man in public life.

Mr. Aldrich kept insisting that he couldn't be quoted and I came back over and over that I was not going to take the responsibility of saying that Aldrich believed or had done or intended to do this or that unless Aldrich stood behind the statements. On a few unimportant details I have quoted him as you see with his permission, but officially, has been working for Ike and favors him for the same reason that Talbot, Cushing and a lot of other de luxe dead end kids have put the ahead of the man who ought to be their candidate. And I tell you that this is a fact.

At this writing there is despair in the hearts of many men who

U. S. Determined to Refute Red Charges of Germ Warfare

By JOHN FISHER

Washington, finally alert to the propaganda menace of Stalin's germ warfare big lie, is determined to do everything possible to refute the monstrous charges. Despite Soviet delegate Malik's use of the veto at the United Nations Security Council, which blocked an international Red Cross probe, and other interference, the United States will continue to air the accusations and spread our replies. The past week's rebuttal is but the start of our case.

Washington had become so accustomed to Communist hit-and-run allegations that at first it paid scant attention to Red reports form Asia last year that we had employed bacteriological weapons. The government assumed that the canards were merely flash-in-the-pan local falsehoods, like the earlier radio broadcasts that American soldiers were butchering Korean babies.

Most of the initial charges carried Peiping or North Korean datelines. But since February some of the most vicious news articles and radio articles and radio reports have emanated from Iron Curtain capitals, including Moscow.

Isolated peoples, cut off from hearing our side of the case, tend to believe the horrible yarns as do the gullible in free countries when such falsehoods are repeated in new, clever forms.

Administration Accused Of Trying To Ruin Farmers

CHICAGO (AP) — The Resolutions Committee of the Republican National Convention has accused the Truman administration of trying to destroy the farmers' freedom by making them dependent on government subsidies.

A GOP platform submitted to the convention promised to free the farmer from this "threat" and to set up instead a federal farm program designed to give producers parity prices—the goal endorsed by both parties—at the market place.

Parity is a standard for measuring agricultural prices, declared by law to be those who buy farmers and to those who buy their products.

The GOP farm plank promised to use commodity loans, farm storage, farm credit, voluntary self-supporting crop insurance, and federal price supports to seek full parity prices.

Price supports, it said, would be set at whatever levels were found necessary to maintain a balanced production and to stabilize farm income.

It did not commit the party to a 80 per cent parity support level promised by the Truman administration and recently set up for major crops through 1954 by action of Congress.

The platform denounced a controversial farm plan advanced three years ago by Secretary of Agriculture Brannan as a "fraud" on both the farmer and the consumer. This plan proposed the use of subsidies to supplement farm income when prices drop. It would allow food prices to go lower, its sponsor said, than is possible under the present program.

The GOP document said the Brannan plan-subsidies would have to be paid through heavy taxes. Coupled with such subsidies, it said, would be controls that would "socialize agriculture."

"We denounce the administration's use of tax money and a multitude of federal agencies to put agriculture under partisan political dictation and to make the farmer dependent upon government," the plank said.

The plank draft favored a bipartisan federal farm commission to review farm policies and to make recommendations.

It also gave support to a "constructive" soil conservation program under which payments would be made to farmers for making permanent improvements.

Missionary Couple Will Be Ordained

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Brummett, missionaries en route to the Philippine Islands, have arrived in Pampa where they will be ordained by the First Christian Church.

The Brummetts are to be supported by the local church in coordination with the United Christian Missionary Society, Indianapolis, Ind.

They will leave for the Philippines in August.

Brummett, the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Brummett, south of Pampa, is a graduate of Pampa High School. Two sisters, Miss Louise Brummett and Mrs. George D. Crossman, also reside in Pampa.

Ordination services have been scheduled July 27 at the evening service of the church.

Five New Ventures Staked In The Area

Wildcaters set a torrid pace in the Panhandle last week, staking five new locations, completing one as an oiler and plugging one.

Of the new locations, one is a new Roberts County test staked by J. M. Huber five miles north of Miami. Two were staked in Hartley and one completed in that county; one was staked in Briscoe and one in Donley.

Panhandle totals showed 10 new locations and 14 completions of which three were oilers, six gasers and five were plugged wells. These figures include the wildcats. Total increased oil potential was 368 barrels, while the gasers produced 8,429 MCF.

The Felony Of Intangible Benefits A Mystery Play

By Thaddeus Ashby

SCENE: A SUBWAY TRAIN CHARGING NOISILY FROM SOUTH CHICAGO TO RANDOLPH STREET. REGAN, A STEELWORKER, IS HEADING FOR WORTH'S TRIBUNE OVER HIS SHOULDER.

REGAN: Why can't the steel company pay for their expansion program without going to the government?

WORTH: Because they can't expand privately. Only the government's got the dough.

REGAN: They could expand privately if it weren't for taxes.

WORTH: Maybe. But look at all the good things we'd go without if it weren't for taxes. The company pays for schools and libraries with their taxes.

REGAN: Yeah, I read that in their public relations' mag. But they had to cut out on production to pay those taxes.

WORTH: That's right. But the money comes back into production, sooner or later.

REGAN: Oh yeah? Libraries are run at a loss.

WORTH: But the money loss, maybe, but look at the intangible benefits.

REGAN: What's that?

WORTH: What's that? Intangible benefits? Say a man's too broke to get a good education. He gets it in public libraries. After he's got it, he gives it back to the nation. He contributes to culture. As a speaker, or thinker, or creative artist, (INSPIRED) Libraries merely give tools.

The creative man uses the tools, adds his ability to them, and gives the product to the nation.

REGAN: (SEEING THAT THE TRAIN IS STOPPING) O.K., Joe. You've convinced me.

WORTH: Wonderful. If that were dead set against anything that takes money out of production.

REGAN: I am. But you convinced me the money will come back. You're a convincing talker, Joe. If what you say holds water, it doesn't hurt anybody to take money out of production. If that money pays for something good, such as libraries.

WORTH: That's right. REGAN (WORTH AND REGAN AT RANDOLPH STREET STATION, PASS THROUGH THE UNDERPASS AND MOUNT THE STAIRS WHICH EMPTY IN FRONT OF THE CHICAGO PUBLIC LIBRARY. REGAN STOPS, STANDS AND STARES AT A MOUNTAIN OF BOOKS.)

REGAN: (TO HIMSELF) I remember something important I've got to do. Have you got $200 you can give me?

WORTH: Certainly. Will $200 be enough? (TAKES OUT MONEY AND OFFERS IT TO REGAN.)

REGAN: I hope so, Joe. Come with me, will you?

(THEY CROSS THE STREET TOGETHER AND ENTER A SMALL BOOKSTORE.)

REGAN: (TO PROPRIETOR) May I look around?

PROPR: Sure. Browse all day. You don't have to buy anything. I don't expect you to. Why should you? With a library across the street?

REGAN: I intend to buy something. I want Bambo, The Baby Bear; The Passionate Pelvis; 19th Century Poets; and a copy of Aristotle's Nicomachean Ethics.

PROPR: That's some cross section!

REGAN: That's the point.

WORTH: (WORRIED) Listen, Regan, what are you doing?

REGAN: I thought you needed the money for something important. Listen, I have to pay my dentist. Maybe you'd better give me back that $200.

REGAN: You'll get it all back. (TO PROPRIETOR) How much?

PROPR: Give me another four ninety-five, will you, Joe?

WORTH: I don't get it. You're sure I'll get it back...?

PROPR: (OFFERS MONEY SLOWLY.)

REGAN: Just as sure as you're right. (TAKES BOOKS)

WORTH: (AS THEY GO OUT) What do you mean 'sure as I'm right'?

REGAN: You'll see.

WORTH: I need that $24.95, Regan.

REGAN: I know you do. (THEY CROSS STREET AND ENTER PUBLIC LIBRARY.)

REGAN: (TO INFORMATION GIRL) Listen, Miss, where's the department for donating books?

GIRL: Up the big marble stairs, across the Roman gargoyle, past the Medieval Cloisters, through the Moorish arch, by the fountain of lions, third door on your left.

WORTH: What in hell do you mean? (TO REGAN) You're kidding, aren't you?

REGAN: I'm testing your argument. (STARTS UP STAIRS)

WORTH: (HURRIES AFTER HIM) Listen, you know I have to pay my dentist!

to succeed with nothing to help them save private libraries. All we know for sure is, Joe Worth's dentist doesn't get paid. And for every $25 invested in the gamble of intangible benefits which admittedly may not pay off—there is somebody, merchant, professor, man, artist, actor, writer, preacher, surgeon, who will never be paid. He won't get the business. The government gave his business to the Public Library.

WORTH: (SCANDALIZED) You stole my $24.95 to prove that libraries should be abolished!

REGAN: Not at all. I believe simply that they should be paid for by those who use them. Or by those who want to subsidize them. Libraries could solicit donations. Or they could charge admission. Or rent out their books.

WORTH: Libraries could never pay for those big places that way.

REGAN: Why not? Enormous movie palaces outnumber the Romes and Athens of every town. Let them pay for themselves the same way Radio City Music Hall or Grauman's Chinese pay for theirs.

WORTH: But the Europeans would say we're putting culture on the same level as movie musicals and Coca-Cola.

REGAN: Well, if we have people who want to pay for culture on a cash basis that ought to prove we're superior. We want it badly enough to pay for it out of our pockets and the Europeans don't.

WORTH: But the people who use libraries are too poor to pay.

REGAN: They are no 'poorer' than the people who use them every day.

WORTH: But more people are willing to pay for movies.

REGAN: Then libraries exceed the demand.

WORTH: Libraries are part of our civic pride.

REGAN: Why should we be proud of them if they aren't used? Empty museums!

WORTH: But they are used. Millions of people use them every day.

REGAN: Then let those who use them pay for them.

WORTH: You argue in a circle! The people who use them are too poor to pay!

REGAN: I don't admit that. But suppose it's true for an argument. When books were first invented, every body had a foot to buy them, except the very rich. Capitalism brought the price down. But people who weren't interested in reading wouldn't bother to put their money into the development of printing. Those who don't wish to use libraries should not be forced to invest their money in them for the intangible benefit of somebody else. People should be free to print their money wherever they wish. Their money, if freed, will inevitably go into some kind of production. And production will eventually make books so cheap that private rental libraries so numerous anybody who really wants them can afford them in plenty. If capitalism worked for the printing of books, it will work equally well for their distribution. The poor couldn't afford to buy the first books printed in the Renaissance. But if they had been given free use of books at the expense of the traders, the whole art of printing would have died aborning.

WORTH: That may be true for the Renaissance, but it's not true now. Now we're rich. Civilization has matured. Now we can afford a few luxuries. Business makes plenty of goods. Ideas have changed since the Renaissance.

REGAN: One of our greatest fallacies is to believe that the idea of production can change. Production has changed things for us. But the principles of production never change. It's a fallacy to believe that civilization has matured. That implies old age. Old age implies the end. I believe as far as production goes we are very far from maturity. We are infants. We have done a little. But we can't even imagine the things that lie yet to be done. The same principles which brought production this far, can take us to undreamed-of heights. If we observe the same principles that produced cheap books, we can build a society in which everybody can afford books. Without giving up charity! Then if the Europeans say: "We give our people free books," we can say: "Our people are too rich and too proud to depend on gifts. When they want a thing, they earn enough to go out and get it for themselves."

COLUMN CLOSERS

Some primitive peoples kill all twins as soon as they are born because they represent bad luck while others honor them as representing good luck.

GASLIGHT

As early as 1824, on the occasion of Lafayette's visit to the United States, a house in Fredonia, N. Y., was illuminated by natural gas in his honor.

Card of Thanks

You are gone but not forgotten. The one we love so well. The one who has been our heart. No tongue can ever tell. Come winter time, come summer time. The earth will miss you and I will miss you.

Come sweet and cleansing rain. Come springtime and the Autumn. Both you and moon shall shine. Come seed time and the flowering. And the harvesting of grain.

The earth will miss you and I will miss you.

And we shall miss you, little white. And I'll miss you, little white. And I'll miss you, little white. And I'll miss you, little white.

And I'll miss you, little white. And I'll miss you, little white. And I'll miss you, little white. And I'll miss you, little white.

And I'll miss you, little white. And I'll miss you, little white. And I'll miss you, little white. And I'll miss you, little white.
