Oil Giants Face Government Probe

Two-Pronged Offensive Is Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government today prepared a brass-knuckle investigation designed to break up an alleged international oil monopoly by seven giants of the vital industry.

Both criminal and civil proceedings against five American and two foreign oil companies are being worked up by the Justice Department under anti-trust laws forbidding monopolistic practices, price fixings and restraint of trade.

Atty. Gen. James P. McGranery told a news conference yesterday that a federal grand jury, sitting here, will shortly start probing into activities of what he called "the international oil cartel."

At the same time, McGranery said his department will institute a civil anti-trust suit against the seven companies in the District of Columbia courts.

The criminal proceedings are designed to punish past offenses. The civil proceedings are designed to prevent any repetition of the same offenses in the future.

McGranery named these firms as involved in the probe: Standard Oil of New Jersey, Standard Oil of California, Texas Oil Company, Socony-Vacuum, Gulf Oil — all U. S. owned — and two foreign firms dominated by the British, Royal Dutch Shell and Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

A spokesman for Standard Oil of California said at San Francisco last night "our record is clear" and that the international operations of its affiliated companies had been "carried on to the best interests of the United States."

Not A Party
There was no immediate comment from any of the other oil companies, either in this country or in London.

Speaker Defends Nationalization Of Iranian Oil

A young Iranian visitor to this country, Richard Abadi, told the Pampa Lions Club Thursday that the Iranian government had no choice but to nationalize the oil industry when it discovered how much the British were making out of its enterprises in Iran.

Abadi insisted, however, that his government did not "take over" the oil business; rather, it "bought" it. Abadi added hurriedly, that did not mean Iran was going Communist; for, if it were, "the time for Iran to do it would have been 1947 when we kicked the Russians out of the country."

Reasons for the nationalization of the oil industry, Abadi said, were that the people were poor, they were tired of the British and they did not want any other country in there. In a ringing statement, he repeated that "there is no hope for Communism in the Iranian economy."

There seems no doubt in Abadi's mind that Iran did the right thing in forcing the British out of the country. "Eight million dollars is made each day from Iran's five oil wells," he said in a statement that aroused mixed reaction, "and the British would leave only $1 million of that total in Iran."

Commenting on the recent resignation of Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, Abadi said the reason probably was his age. Iranian law states the premier must not be more than 75. Mossadegh is 76.

Christian Church To Honor Pastor

First Christian Church members will honor their pastor and family, Rev. and Mrs. H.H. Tyler, at a farewell party at 7:30 p. m. today in fellowship hall of the church.

The membership committee chairmaned by Mrs. Laura E. Cornwell, is in charge of the social. Families are to bring cakes to accompany ice cream furnished by the committee.

Rev. Tyler leaves soon for active duty as a chaplain in the U. S. Navy. He was recalled into the service recently.

Son Admits Murder Of Foster Mother

PARIS, Texas (AP) — Ward Wenger, 20-year-old collector of ladies' underwear, was in FBI custody today after admitting the brutal hammer slaying of his foster mother.

Police Chief Curtis Lemon of Clarksville, Texas, said the youth blurted, "I'm guilty!" when questioned regarding the slaying of Mrs. Marie Wenger, 47, last Thursday in Astoria, Ore.

That was the day neighbors said they saw him leave in Mrs. Wenger's car.

The next day the woman's body, badly battered, was found wrapped in rugs in her home. Her empty purse was nearby. The foster son was later charged with her murder.

The 6-foot 165-pound youth was arrested in Clarksville after wrecking an auto east of Clarksville Monday.

Lemon said the youth had "a lot of ladies' underwear in the car," and had taped some of it on his body. "He also had a lot of pictures of women he had cut from magazines," the police chief said.

After first admitting the killing, Wenger, "clammy" (See SON, Page 3)

State Jaycee Official Here

Ray Roberts, state president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, exhorted the Pampa Jaycees today to send as many members as possible to the bi-regional convention at Plainview, July 19-20, and to promote Jaycee projects throughout the coming year.

Introduced by Walter Shaller, district Jaycee vice president, as a man adept at promoting "Jayceism," Roberts discussed plans for the Plainview meeting and talked of ways in which the local clubs could be of public service in their communities.

Among items planned for the Plainview get-together are more discussion of resolutions and a new system of voting at the state convention which, he said, "would be a better deal for the smaller clubs."

Roberts said, "the small clubs comprise 80 per cent of total Jaycee membership." The plan would allow five votes for clubs of 1-25 men on up to 12 votes for outfits of more than 400.

According to Roberts, plans being laid for the state convention at Corpus Christi, April 15-17 1953 include a fish- fry and a barbecue at the King Ranch.

When the state legislature meets, Roberts promised, "the Jaycees are going to hit the narcotics problem hard and try to get a stiff law passed."

Gaunt Collie Stands Mystery Watch Over Abandoned Mine

SPRING CITY, Mo. (AP) — A gaunt Scotch collie dog stood watch at an abandoned mine today — the 19th day of its strange vigil.

And as the dog watched, volunteer workers renewed their efforts to solve the mystery — if any — of the flooded lead mine.

No one knows why the animal has remained at the brink of the mine shaft near this tiny southwestern Missouri town.

Residents of the area speculate that perhaps the dog's owner met with foul play or accidentally tumbled into the shaft. But no one has been reported missing.

Shivers told Russell last night he didn't think Texas Democrats would be happy about repeal of the law.

Then Shivers said he was not going to fall out with Russell, as Virginia Democratic leaders had, over the Taft-Hartley question.

Denies Discussion For 'Chosen Few'

By HENRY S. GORDON
A strong denial that the June 26 citizens meeting held in the district court room to discuss abolishing the ward system in Pampa was for the "chosen few" was made today by Frank Culberson, acting chairman of the group seeking the change.

"It was not called by the 'chosen few' but it was done by telephone," Culberson said.

Slayer Due Sanity Check

NEW YORK (AP) — Mumbling to himself, Bayard Peakes, a fanatic on the subject of eternal life, was led away in handcuffs today to Bellevue Hospital for a sanity checkup.

He has confessed shooting to death pretty, 18-year-old Eileen Fahey, because the physics society she worked for wouldn't pay any attention to his weird electronic scheme to prolong human life. He didn't even know the girl.

"He expressed no remorse," his court-appointed lawyer said.

Although he has an admitted history of insanity, Peakes objected to detectives that he is not insane. The district attorney's office, however, asked that Bellevue determine his condition.

"They'll probably hang me by the feet," Peakes said of the hospital, the hub of the city's system for diagnosing and treating mental cases.

At Least Four Die In Heavy Rain, Storms

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
At least four persons were dead and some property damage resulted when lusty squalls in the Gulf of Mexico and torrential rains hit Texas Thursday.

Rain continued in East Texas Friday and along the wind-lashed Gulf Coast.

John G. Wagenfehr, San Antonio, was drowned when the fishing boat on which he was a passenger capsized in a sudden squall off Port Aransas.

Three other persons on the boat were rescued. The other deaths resulted from auto mishaps, on rain-slick highways.

Another boat, apparently caught in the raging off-shore squalls was missing off Galveston. The Galveston Coast Guard received a faint distress signal from it Wednesday night.

West Texas had some freakish weather Thursday. Wink had its visibility reduced to two miles by blowing dust at 6:30 p. m.

But by 7:30 p. m. a thunderstorm and light rain hit the locality. The weather bureau said the Wink weather was strictly local.

The latest highway death was that of Steven Earl Hill, 31, of Blooming Grove, a Navarro County town.

High tides swept up the Sabine-Neches Canal in the heart of Port Arthur and caused two marine collisions. No one was injured and the damage was not estimated immediately.

The tides were the highest in nine years, caused by the squally conditions in the Gulf.

Harold Rinehart Local Legion Chief

Harold Rinehart is to be installed as commanding officer of the Pampa American Legion at the chapter's next meeting, to be announced later.

Rinehart was named commander at a meeting this week to elect new officers and name delegates to the state convention in Dallas August 7.

Other officers to be installed include Fred H. Sloan, vice-commander, Jack Graham, adjutant, A. A. Schuneman, chaplain, B. M. Williams, finance officer and Dan Williams, Billy B. Davis and Harold Wright, trustees.

Delegates for the convention are Rinehart, Lee Roy Franks, Davis and Sloan. Others may go, according to Graham, service officer.

Rinehart succeeds Raymond L. Salmon as commander of the group.

May Win Support From Illinois Bloc

CHICAGO (AP) — Vice President Alben W. Barkley pulled a stride forward today in his race for the Democratic presidential nomination with reports he will get some first-ballot support from Illinois.

While all candidates jockeyed for position in advance of the opening of the 31st Democratic Nominating Convention Monday, there were signs that Jacob Arvey, Illinois national committeeman, is ready to take a political flier on the 74-year-old vice president.

Arvey and Mayor David L. Lawrence of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania national committeeman, conferred with Barkley strategists.

There were immediate reports that Arvey had told the Barkley leaders he would use his influence to get as many as possible of Illinois' 60 convention votes lined up for Barkley on the first ballot.

Lawrence was said to have noted that the 70-vote Pennsylvania delegation is split up, but to have indicated that Barkley might count on some votes there.

These developments came during a temporary lull in the seething pre-convention battle over civil rights that might explode into a floor fight.

No less seething were some Southern delegations over the action of Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia in denouncing the Taft-Hartley Act.

Russell added to the controversy by saying in a televised news conference last night that he sees no reason why he couldn't support President Truman for re-election — in the unlikely event Truman runs.

Barkley arrives on the scene today, along with Sen. Robert S. Keef of Oklahoma, who claims he has more second choice support for the presidential nomination than any of his rivals.

Their arrivals will complete the roster of major candidates. Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee and Averell Harriman of New York, the Mutual Security administration, already have staked out their victory claims here, along with Russell.

The Pampa Daily News on Sunday, in cooperation with the League of Women Voters, will publish "The Voters' Guide," a thumbnail sketch of almost every candidate appearing on the July 26 primary ballot.

The information has been received from the candidates themselves through questionnaires sent out by the league.

The state organization queried the state-wide candidates while local units sent out the questionnaires to precinct, county, and district candidates. Nothing has been deleted or changed from the answers, including misspelled words.

Candidates who have failed to answer the queries have also been listed with the words "no answer" following their names.

He mentioned the purchase of playground equipment for Hobbs Street Park and furniture for the chapel at Highland General hospital, the Kiwanis-sponsored church softball league, the exchange student program of the club, and the work of the committees in bringing "excellent speakers" to Pampa for the club's weekly meetings.

White House Considering Steel Seizure

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House was reported today to be seriously considering a plan to seize part of the strike-bound steel industry under the Selective Service Act.

This word came from a high administrative source who said Justice Department attorneys were instructed yesterday afternoon to prepare papers leading to possible partial seizure of the industry.

The critical situation which has resulted from the 47-day steel strike was disclosed yesterday at a White House meeting, presided over by Acting Defense Mobilizer John R. Steiman.

The Selective Service Act gives the President power to seize only plants which fail to produce under direct contract with procurement agencies.

President Truman seized the entire steel industry last April 8, but on June 2 the Supreme Court ruled that he lacked authority to do so and ordered the mills returned to private ownership.

The April 8 seizure was based on no specific law but rather on what the Justice Department said were the President's inherent Constitutional powers.

This is to be the annual inspection tour of the CAA officials.

Stevenson has insisted he is running only for re-election as governor, that the Barkley support might take the form of a holding action—with an appeal to Stevenson possible if the convention ties itself in a knot after seven or eight ballots.

"Russell's political pass the Truman camp surprised and angered Dixie leaders who originally had nudged him into the race as the anti-Truman candidate of the South.

Some Southern reaction to Russell's proposal to "supplant" Taft-Hartley with another labor law came close to political violence.

Former Gov. William M. Tucker who was ready to laud Russell's candidacy before the Virginia Democratic Convention at Roanoke, cut out of a prepared speech all reference to Russell's name.

And Sen. Harry S. Byrd commented that he just didn't understand Russell's about-face on a law the Georgian voted to enact over President Truman's veto. Byrd said he still wants to support Russell however.

Truck Overtakes On Highway 60

A milk truck driven by Richmond Lee Davis, 21, of Wheeler, overturned about 3:45 p.m. Thursday on Highway 60, two miles west of Pampa.

Davis, coming east, was behind a gravel truck which in turn was following a pickup truck, according to Highway Patrol.

The gravel truck had pulled over to the left to pass the pickup, Highway Patrol said, when the pickup began to turn left, forcing the gravel truck to slow down. Davis, attempting to pass the pickup along with the gravel truck, had to pull over into the ditch. But, in the process, his truck overturned and ended up facing west.

No charges have been filed, Highway Patrol reported, and there has been no estimate made of the damage.

Ike Eases Into First Vacation

FRAZER, Colo. (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower eased into his first vacation today since coming home from his European defense duties almost two months ago.

Eisenhower and a Denver business friend, Aksel Nielsen, plan to get in plenty of fishing and, as the general puts it, "do nothing—in a big way."

Nielsen's secluded ranch, complete with all modern conveniences, is their hideaway for the next week.

The general made the 72-mile drive yesterday shortly after he and his wife, Mamie, bade farewell to their soldier son, Maj. John Eisenhower, as he stopped briefly in Denver en route to Seattle and Korea.

It was an emotional send-off for the 29-year-old major. Mrs. Eisenhower, who remained in Denver her mother, Mrs. John Doud, choked back tears as she said good-bye.

After arriving at the camp Eisenhower and Nielsen fished for an hour and a half along the St. Louis Creek near here. Each landed one trout—about seven inches long.

Alabama Man Is 1st Baptist Visitor

J. F. Stroble, director of Christian education and associated pastor of the Dauphin Way Baptist Church, Mobile, Ala., will be the guest of Rev. E. Douglas Carver and the First Baptist Church for both services at the church Sunday. Stroble, 39, was featured in Ballinger, and received his education in the Baptist schools in Texas. He has been in Alabama for about three years.

He has served posts in the East Grand Ave. Church in Dallas, and the First Baptist Church, Shawnee, Okla. He is a veteran of WW II.

Mrs. Stroble is a native of Florida and attended Southwestern Seminary, Fort Worth. They are the parents of three girls, ages five and nine years and 16 months.

He will return to Austin Sunday night, where he is visiting his father.

committee hearing where his "regular" delegation and the pro-delegation "Loyalist" delegation will try to get their feet in the convention door.

Delegates Bombarded

"Loyalists" were bombarding delegates and committee members with literature backing up their claim that they are the true Democrats of Texas because the state convention that sent them pledged its presidential electors to vote for the national convention's presidential nominee.

Shivers came nearer than ever before saying he would go along with the party all the way.

If the national convention requires all of its delegates to raise their right hands in a vow of party fealty, Shivers said he would follow the majority rule.

"I'll abide by the same rules and regulations that apply to everybody else," Shivers said. Then he added:

"Only three or four states that I know of require such pledges."

Nancy Kefauver Pitches in To Help Husband Win Race

CHICAGO (AP)—Nancy Kefauver, who tossed her husband's cookin' cap into the presidential race, is in there pitching in the last roundup in a white felt visor.

The senator from Tennessee and his vivacious red-haired wife are on the scene setting up headquarters for the final battle for the Democratic nomination.

The eyebrows of practical politicians lifted when Nancy Kefauver a few months ago conceded that well, yes, her husband would like to live in the White House but their children were not so sure.

Since then, the senator and his wife as a team have traveled from the Atlantic to the Pacific, participated in some 14 to 15 primaries, and covered, so the senator estimates, about 115,000 miles.

Scottish-born Nancy Kefauver said that in Britain candidates stand for election but in this country they run—and I know what they mean.

State delegations are meeting over the week end prior to the formal opening of the convention Monday. There is something of a plan for the Kefauvers to appear at each. "But," said an aide to Nancy, "I don't know how you can appear at 48."

Go Tropical To Keep Cool In Heat Wave

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE AP Science Reporter
NEW YORK (AP)—In a heat wave, one tip for keeping cool is to go tropical.

That means plenty of fruit and vegetables, light and loose clothing, a sun helmet if you go out at noon with mad dogs and Englishmen, an afternoon siesta if you can convince your boss.

Another tip—don't get mad—stay mentally cool. The hints on health and coolness in summertime are recited by Dr. Morris Fishbein of Chicago, well-known physician and author. There are 14 points in this summertime recipe:

1. Don't overwork.
2. Don't overeat.
3. "Don't overheat."
4. Avoid fats and an excess of sugars and starches.
5. Get plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables. Vegetables and fruits supply minerals and essential salts. We need more of them in summer because we lose salts in perspiration.
6. Avoid food that is not properly refrigerated. Don't eat anything that carries the slightest suspicion of being spoiled.
7. Avoid an excess of alcoholic drinks.
8. Drink plenty of cool water but take iced drinks in moderation.
9. Don't drink water if you are not sure about the source of supply.
10. Wear light, loose clothes.
11. Take a noontime nap, or rest during the day as much as possible.
12. Wear a helmet or hat of porous material if you work in the sun.
13. Avoid over-exposure to the direct rays of the sun. For a suntan without burn and trouble, the best method is gradual exposure, working up to a half-hour or an hour a day of sun bathing.
14. Don't worry—and don't let people get your goat. A Surred up, says Dr. Fishbein, the cardinal rule is moderation in all things.

NEW YORK (AP)—For relief of poison ivy and quicker cure, this summer you can get ointments containing the metal zirconium. The metal seems to inactivate the oil from poison ivy that causes the troubles. One ointment is put out by the Titanium Alloy Manufacturing division, National Lead Company, Niagara Falls, N. Y., and another, which also contains the anti-histamine pyribenzamine, by Ciba Pharmaceutical Products Inc., Summit, N. J.

CHICAGO (AP)—How come those dark circles under the eyes? A consultant gives an answer in the queries and minor notes section of the American Medical Association Journal. They're due, he says, to underlying veins showing through a thin skin. They are accentuated by fatigue, apparently because of pallor of the face.

Commission To Set State Hunting Dates

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas Game and Fish Commission meets today to set 1952 hunting seasons on deer, turkey and quail and some other species in the 28-county Panhandle area over which it has regulatory authority.

The commission also will fix hunting seasons in the nine-county area west of the Pecos for deer, turkey and quail. A limited season on antelope in the Big Bend country will be considered.

Waterfowl and mourning dove seasons will be recommended to the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, taking into consideration the results of a statewide poll in which 11,000 Texans took part.

Most North Texas hunters asked for a mourning dove season beginning Sept. 1, same as last year, and a waterfowl season beginning in early November.

South Zone sportsmen preferred a dove season beginning about mid-October instead of Nov. 15 as was set for last year, and favored a mid-November opener for ducks and geese.

Season on deer, turkey and quail are set by law for the state at large. They are: deer and turkey, beginning Nov. 16, and quail, beginning Dec. 1.

Claims U. S. Broke Huge Tin Cartel

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, in standing firm against an international tin cartel, saved 500 million dollars and proved America is not fair game for an economic buccaner, says a Senate report.

A Senate preparedness subcommittee headed by Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) said a combine of British, Dutch, Belgian and Bolivian tin interests tried "to gouge the United States for exportant profits."

After the Korean War started, it said, tin prices skyrocketed from 77 1/2 cents a pound (New York) to almost $2 but U. S. government agencies joined in refusing to pay the price. The deadlock was broken last January when this country agreed with the British on a $1.18 price.

Insurance Group Has Charter Meet

Life insurance writers' part in preserving six "most important" thoughts of Albert Einstein, was the subject of an address by Louie Throgmorton, Dallas, for the charter meeting of the Pampa Life Underwriters Association yesterday at noon in the Schneider Hotel.

Throgmorton, vice-president and public relations man for the Republic National Life Insurance Company in Dallas, elaborated on the thoughts which included "God, country, wife or family, mathematics or science, brotherly love and peace."

He particularly stressed life insurance men's service to the family in providing economical aid that "cannot be provided by any other means and is a culmination of family love."

Government Expected To Ease Housing Requirements By Fall

By CHARLES MALONY
WASHINGTON (AP)—If you have a dream house in mind but not much cash in the bank, you may be able to swing the deal in September, or possibly August. Government requirements for stiff down payments may be eased by then.

Government officials expressed this belief privately today, following announcement by two agencies administering housing credit controls that curbs fixing minimum cash payments on houses will be eased "not later than Oct. 1."

The Federal Reserve Board and the Housing and Home Finance Agency have announced if the number of houses started under construction in June, July and August holds below the rate of 1,200,000 a year, the required down payment will be cut to 5 per cent "not later than Oct. 1" under terms of an act of Congress.

But officials told a reporter later that agencies, acting on their own, probably will drop the controls in September—and possibly late August—if they see the drastic easing is inevitable anyway.

In either event, the benefits will go chiefly to buyers of houses in the upper-cost brackets—particularly those in the $25,000-up class.

At present, the controls already permit houses costing under $7,000 to be bought by veterans for nothing down and by the general public for only a 5 per cent down payment—if they can swing a deal on that little cash.

It's only on the more expensive houses that buyers get pinched hard by the controls. Down payment requirements graduate up with cost. They amount to 40 per cent for the public and 35 per cent for vets for the $25,000 or more house.

Even if the government eases controls and approves 5 per cent down payments, most banks may balk at lending more than 60 or 65 per cent of the cost of a house, especially one costing over $20,000.

OUR TOWN
Wanda Campbell

Wednesday was just like any other lazy summer morning. Housewives prepared the family breakfast, got husbands off to work, dressed children for play, then settled down for a second cup of coffee. But at that point the morning routine changed for a group of First Christian Church women. They were surprised with a "come-as-you-are" breakfast planned by Mrs. Leland Finney and Mrs. Bert Stevens. They called at homes for the women. Mrs. James Hollar and Mrs. Keith Davis lined up about the entertainment but all others ready "went as they were". This was one of the many farewell parties honoring Mrs. H. H. Tyler, popular wife of the First Christian Church minister. She was still in a brunch coat and house slippers at this early hour but good-natured one she is, Mrs. Tyler went with her hostesses. Mrs. Walter Higgenbotham was there with her hair in curlers. Mrs. F. E. Shultz was also at the brunch, and Mrs. Charles Mundy and Mrs. O. A. Parsley wore play suits to the coffee. Some were in between-house slippers and shoes and had to go barefoot. Others had cream on their faces in a friendly, definitely informal entertainment similar to the one started this week by the First Baptist Bible Learners class in the home of Mrs. Elsie Batson. The First Christian Church will honor Rev. and Mrs. Tyler at a party tonight. He reports Sunday for active duty as a Navy chaplain. Others who attended Mrs. Finney's breakfast were Mrs. R. A. Mack, Burl Graham, J. L. Laramore, Lillian Zamora, Glen Macey, E. R. Jackson, Glen Nichols, John Zuerker, J. G. Crinklaw, M. B. Warden, and Fred Tinsley. A number of the children were also present.

Unusual New Caps Look Like Hair, Add Real Glamor

By ALICIA HAET
NFA Beauty Editor

One of the latest glamor aids to beauty on the beach is a brand new idea in swim caps. Actually a rubber wig, resembling natural hair, the cap functions as a practical protection when you are swimming.

It comes in two styles—short bob or poodle cut, and both are available in blonde, black or brown. This is your opportunity to change your hair coloring and styling with just a flip of your wrist.

Because of a special suction band, the wig clings to your head and refuses to let any water in. Furthermore, you needn't be bothered with unattractive chin straps. Once you have the wig neatly in place, you can feel confident that it will stay put.

In fact, the wig is wearable out of water, too. It will keep your pin curls safely intact as well as your hair free from sand, wind, and the drying rays of the sun. No more sitting around after a swim just hoping your hair doesn't look lifeless. You can wear the glamor wig as long as you like.

If you're looking for something really different in beach-wear accessories, you can be certain you will create a sensation in one of these new water wigs.

Tips For Tasks

Fiber and sisal rugs which bear the brunt of springtime and summertime wear can be redecorated in attractive colors and designs with a new type of paint application. A size coat of ordinary laundry starch mixed with water and brought to a boil can be used on most rugs. Then after the rug is dry special floor enamel for fiber rugs is applied. It is available in decorator colors.

RUTH MILLETT

After 10 of his boys got into trouble with police for "borrowing" automobiles and breaking into homes a high school principal had this to say:

"I feel our students shouldn't have cars. For two reasons they are getting into high school principal have them want them and that leads to trouble.

"Then too for those that have them it is easier to get into trouble. They can travel faster, they can get away easier. Isn't the getaway car a most planned crime?"

"I have no authority to prohibit cars. Some parents would cooperate; others would not."

The principal is right. But he could have added a few more arguments against high school students being given cars by their parents.

And the indulgent parents who give their high school children convertibles are doing them a really grave injustice. The child will have a flashy convertible handed to him on a silver platter. He doesn't have to do anything to earn it or merit it. His convertible gets him by.

That is as bad for him as it is hard on the boy who envies him that flashy car. But as the principal said "here's nothing he can do about the situation."

It's the parents who are responsible. If they refuse to get together and decide as a group what is best for their teenage youngsters the problem can't be licked.

Week-End Guests Must Keep The Rules To Be Asked Again

NEW YORK (AP)—The first thing a couple does after buying a place in the country is to tart having week-end guests.

- 2.—It provides them with someone to talk to—and criticize—besides each other.

School Officials To Be Polled On Surplus Food Plan

AUSTIN (AP)—School officials throughout the State will be polled on whether they want to continue the federal government's surplus food distribution program in Texas.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has terminated contracts with the 17 county and independent school boards which have been distributing the commodities to surrounding counties.

Unless the state sets up desirable avenues acceptable to USDA, surplus food valued at $1,015,000, which has been earmarked for Texas schools in the next school year, will be lost.

Down A Dim Road

The same group that nominated Wendell Willkie in 1940 and Tom Dewey in 1944 and 1948 has promoted Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to the Republican nomination at Chicago.

They have a more popular candidate than they ever had before and indications are the opposition will not be up to the standard of the old Maestro of vote wooing, FDR, or his accidental successor, Hot-Headed Harry.

We now officially have a New Deal - Fair Deal Republican party. This is the brand of Republicanism - manufactured by Governor Earl Warren, Governor Dewey, Senators Duff and Lodge and Paul Hoffman an erstwhile Democratic administration official - that advocates meddling in the affairs of all the world, that sees government as the Big Brother of business, the farmer and labor and offers its own brand of "social progress" - to where we cannot tell.

The Republican party has discarded Senator Taft who has spearheaded the party's activity in all the in-between years from the late Thirties through to this year. Perhaps Taft wanted to reach the White House too much. He is the classic victim of frustration. He was thwarted by World War II which froze Roosevelt in office; by a me-too tendency of the GOP which caused the nomination of Willkie and Dewey and by a Republican search for a popular candidate which brought the demand for General Eisenhower.

The Republican hunger for a victory at the nation's polls brought about a reaction to Taft that would be abhorrent among individuals but is hardly worth comment in the harsh realities of politics - the cold dissolution of claims of kinship and loyalty for the sake of expediency.

There will be more of these dissolutions, we suspect, before the presidential campaign is over.

General Eisenhower owes much to Governor Dewey of New York for his nomination. Dewey's political machine proved much stronger than Taft's in the stretch run for delegate ballots and we think the charming amateurs who soaked the opening campaign of the general would have been lost in the shuffle if the Dewey press had not rallied to their aid.

But certainly Eisenhower will have to disavow Dewey and his cohorts in the harder run for the White House. There can be no single Republican leader who is so bitterly opposed by other leaders as the New York governor. He is an arbitrary, unprincipled fighter in the political arena and his tactics which drove Senator Dirksen of Ohio almost to a hysteria of denunciation in the convention struggle have left deep and gaping wounds in the Taft element of the party.

Dewey was Ike's chief political agent at the convention. This be-mustached egotist will be no asset in the campaign. Like all unprincipled men, he has no friends, only accomplices and such are wont to seek haven where the gray's richest.

And there are others who were important in the convention campaigning who will be deadly weights in the wrangle for the people's votes.

The Republicans have failed in five successive elections to name a President of the United States. They have failed with an incumbent president, an ex-governor of a corn-belt state, a "bare-foot boy" from Wall Street and a political lawyer. Now they will try with a military hero.

The odds are in their favor. The Democrats are in a stage of disintegration. The motley crew that converted the minority party of 20 years ago into a conquering political horde are falling apart. Drunk on the heady wine of political power, they have corrupted the national trust, degenerated the energy of their own foolhardy philosophy and lost the confidence of the voters. They have no "great" leader, no strong character to rally them; and it is almost unbelievable they could again achieve the Miracle of 1948.

But the Democratic politicians have a lot to lose and though any candidate they can name will suffer by comparison with Ike from Abilene, the general win or lose, will have some scars to remember them by.

With Eisenhower the GOP standard bearer, there isn't a good guess in a carload as to whom the Democrats will nominate come their convention in Chicago. We give no credence to the stories the Democrats will endorse Eisenhower. That's one of the fantastic tales current always in a presidential year. But we suspect a lot of them would like to do so.

Certainly Eisenhower's backers on the top level indicate that he is more a "liberal" Democrat's man than he is the candidate of a conservative Republican.

In this presidential year the conservatives of this nation are lost sheep. When the year began there was some hope for a choice between destructive radicalism and intelligent conservatism in the November elections.

A Harry Truman - Bob Taft campaign for the presidency would have been a natural. There might have been an honest outpouring of sentiment on what road the people want to travel. That hope is dead. Truman has quit the arena; Taft's been denied entry. We will continue groping down a dim highway to a mysterious goal.

Political Hypnosis

It develops from a report of a recent symposium in Los Angeles that psychologists have long known that hypnosis can persuade a patient to recall events which ordinarily cannot be remembered - even unto his childhood.

One victim, guinea pig; test case or what-have-you, was a soldier who had a speech difficulty which at times resulted in complete mutism. Under hypnosis it was discovered the affliction dated back to the North African campaign. After a bomb explosion in which he suffered no visible injury he began complaining of fatigue. His complaints were ignored and he was accused of "gold-bricking." The speech problem developed.

We presume the soldier was cured. But the interesting part, to us, of this technique is the uses to which it might be put.

For example, every election year political candidates for reelection might be required to submit to hypnosis so they could recall some of the promises they made in their previous campaign.

Better Jobs

The End Results Of Irredeemable Paper Money

Very few people realize why we have irredeemable paper money and why it has caused a catastrophe.

One of the best articles I have read on why we adopted irredeemable paper money and the best explanation of how to return to sound money appeared in May 6 issue of the monthly magazine, The Congressional Record. I suggest that people who want to better understand what is taking place, and what will take place if we do not adopt a policy that will permit our money to be redeemable in gold, write to Washington, D. C. and get a copy of the May 6th issue of the Congressional Record and read this article.

This article was introduced by the Honorable John T. Wood of Idaho. It was written by J. E. Holloway, D. C. Attorney at Law, of the International Monetary Fund. It was originally published by the Anglo American Corporation of South Africa.

Mr. Holloway, in introducing his article says: "There is hardly a case on record where paper money, other than representative paper money, has not depreciated in course of time. In other words, inconvertible paper money is the worst and most dishonest money."

In explaining the conditions that brought about the demand for paper money he points out that the practice during war of the government confiscating the lives of some individuals and at the same time not confiscating the wealth of individuals worked such an injustice that a revision of the value of gold seemed advantageous. He points out that the demand for paper money was introduced even in the country that had, up to then, taken keen pride in being the land of the free.

He points out how unjust it is to confiscate some men and leave other men at home who are not obliged to make a sacrifice, and that these men even bought government bonds that the soldiers would have to help pay for.

He quotes Lenin as saying: "If you want to wipe out capitalism, debauch the currency." Then he says: "Lenin was right. But his debauch goes much further. If you want to wipe out individual liberty, debauch the currency." That is the inevitable end of the first alternative.

Mr. Holloway goes on to say: "The world has made up its mind that it will not have a great depression again. But if the present inflation goes unchecked, it will not have a great depression; it will have a great revolution."

Mr. Holloway's point is to create a free market for gold. He points out that under the present conditions with restrictions in various countries on gold, that there is no true value of gold. He advised the first step to be allowing individuals to purchase gold and thus establish the true value of gold. After this has been established, have paper money become redeemable in gold at its free market value.

Then, he points out, as has been explained time and time again before, when money is redeemable in gold then the citizens have control of the government by determining the amount of money the government can get. When money is not redeemable in gold, the government becomes too extravagant, the citizens can prevent it from either borrowing the money or taxing enough to get it. When this condition comes about, the socialistic schemes are checked and people retain control of the government rather than having the government control the people.

As was stated in the beginning, I believe this is one of the most intelligent and thought-provoking articles I have read on this subject.

Some problems are extraordinarily difficult to answer. Q—My husband and I have been married less than a year and our ages are 50 and 39 respectively. We are both in reasonably good health and would like to have a child.

Do you think we would be wrong in bringing a child into the world at this late time, or would you advise us to try adopting a child, or is there an age limit on this, too? Mrs. Y.

A—Many couples of the ages given do have healthy children. The first step, from the medical standpoint, is for both husband and wife to be carefully examined to make sure that there is no physical reason why they should not have children.

In considering either a natural child or an adoption, the home and prospects of the child should also be weighed. In other words, such things as the fact that the mother would be over 50 and the father over 60 when the child was 19 years old should be faced in advance.

All of these things should be frankly discussed by the couple themselves and with their doctor.

Q—I have been troubled with what has been diagnosed as pneumonitis. At first I had fever spells for several days, but for the past few years I have had fever only occasionally, but still feel weak and have a dull, aching pain in the upper part of my back. What could this be? Mrs. O. W.

A—Pneumonitis is a general term for inflammation of the lung tissue. It can be caused by a variety of factors, including infection, autoimmune disease, and drug reactions. The symptoms you describe, particularly the chronic fever and back pain, suggest a chronic form of the condition. A thorough medical evaluation, including chest X-rays and possibly lung function tests, would be necessary to determine the exact cause and appropriate treatment.

A—Almost certainly not. Q—People say that sun-bathing is helpful for infections, but if the sun shines through a window glass, it loses its value. Is this true? M. E.

A—Ordinary window glass filters out most of the ultra-violet rays and some of the other rays of sunshine. For this reason, sitting in the sun shining through a window does not have the same effect as exposure to direct sunshine. However, sunlight is not a cure-all.

A—Almost certainly not. Q—A—This is a rather unusual story. It suggests a chronic virus pneumonia or pneumonitis, and while often long-lasting, this is exceptionally long. It would seem that some active steps should be taken, such as a long period of rest in-bed or possibly a change in climate, and the doctor should advise just what these steps should be.

BRITAIN'S LOST FREEDOM (Christian Economics)

Once freedom is lost, it is very difficult to recover it. Listen to the following words of Mr. Butler, Chancellor of the Exchequer of the present Conservative government of Great Britain:

"If the home consumer is to have no more of our resources than last year, we must see to it that his purchasing power as a whole is no more than sufficient for his purpose."

When the Conservative Party, traditional foe of socialism, can use such language it will be seen how little freedom is left.

If the British people were really free, most of them would find a way to make something which could be exchanged for the food and other imports they need. It is the lack of freedom, trade restrictions and block purchasing which prevent them from exchanging their labor, services and goods for the needed goods and services of others.

'Peace Rages Everywhere' In Ranks Of Democratic Party

By RAY TUCKER

CHICAGO — Democrats assembling here for next week's national convention have discovered immediately that their party suffers from a severe attack of "the miseries."

Bid For A Smile

Cool Cora—I'd love to get one of those strapless gowns for the dance. When they fit you right, you look as if you were poured into them.

Charlie—Do you believe in love at first sight? Yes, but sometimes it pays to take a second look.

As the 1952 election approached, someone told President Lincoln that several candidates had been named for reelection would be Grant's capture of Richmond, followed by Grant's nomination and acceptance.

It was a beautiful funeral sermon. The minister dwelt long on the sterling character of the deceased brother—what an honest man he was, what a good provider, what a loving husband and kind father. Finally, the widow, with a worried frown, whispered to one of her children, "Sneak up there and take a peep in the coffin and see if that's your father."

First Convict—Was you addressing me? Second Convict—You didn't need to be addressed—you already are where you are going.

A man with a shiny bald head attended a country square dance. After several dances and drinks the man retired to an adjoining room, where his women had left their babies for the evening.

He found a vacant spot on a bed and lay down with the sleeping babies, immediately falling asleep. He next soon awoke by fumbling his hand brushing over his head. He felt a cloth being wrapped about his bald dome and a pin was fastened.

A hand patting him on the head and a woman's loving voice said, "Rest its little heart; was its little-bald and doting doll."

River, Harry Truman is the most disliked Democrat, personally and politically, south of the Potomac River - the historic stream along which the Blue and the Gray fought another battle so many unhappy years ago.

UNPOPULAR - A revival of the 1948 rebellion, when four states and 39 electoral agents voted against Truman, could be disastrous in their opinion, especially in view of General Eisenhower's demonstrated appeal to young and independent voters in a changing, industrialized South. There is deep concern that Ike might carry from six to ten southern states, if Truman prevails at Chicago next week.

Nor does it augur party harmony that Harriman, with the possible exception of the vacillating Stevenson of Illinois, appears to be wearing the White House colors. For if Tom Dewey is the most unpopular figure among Republicans west of the Hudson

Fair Enough....

Campaign Underway To 'Get' Senator McCarran Of Nevada

By WESTBROOK PEGLER (Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

CHICAGO — There is in operation just now an interesting combination of events whose effects, successful or not, would be to "get" Sen. Pat McCarran, of Nevada. Sen. McCarran is a Catholic and the father of Sister Margaret Patricia, a nun who recently distinguished herself with a learned treatise of Fabian, or creeping Socialism in Great Britain.

But Senator McCarran antagonized members of his own political party, the Democratic party, particularly in New York, Washington and Los Angeles, as co-author of the new Immigration Act which was passed by Congress over President Truman's veto. The act also prevailed over a furious propaganda in much of the eastern press misrepresenting it as a design to discriminate against Catholics as well as other minorities desiring to enter this country. No Catholic organization of any importance endorsed the charge that the bill was anti-Catholic.

McCarran also conducted the great expose of Communist infiltration behind a China disaster which has now been condensed in a strong official Senate report entitled "Institute of Pacific Relations." This expose confirmed the dramatic campaign of Sen. Joe McCarthy, of Wisconsin, also a Catholic and a leading fighter against Communism in the State Department, who has been damned with equal savagery.

McCarran holds that immigration and citizenship are not legal or natural rights of aliens but special privileges to be granted only with caution by the United States always with our own interests uppermost, rather than those of the applicant or to hold against any such person the fact that he or she, ever belonged or currently belongs to the Communist Party or any branch of the Communist International.

Those like McCarran and McCarthy who expose the Communist conspiracy contend that all reputable persons who ever joined the machinations of the party are members of a conspiracy to destroy our nation by violent revolution or by the fatal subtleties used in Romania, Poland and the little Balkan countries.

Last May 17, on station WMCA, in New York, one Hank Greenspun, formerly of Brooklyn, but now in Las Vegas, Nev., was "interviewed" by one Bernard Yaroslav regarding Senator McCarran, in an East Side restaurant.

Appeared by the Brothers Rubin, immigrants from Russian territory and American citizens of sound legal status. Greenspun insinuated that McCarran was a man of immoral character and an accomplice of the criminal underworld. This onslaught was made in spite of the fact that whatever his political faults, McCarran is noted for his religious piety and personal rectitude and gives the appearance of a man in modest financial condition.

In the "interview," it was strongly intimated that McCarran had conspired with other in Las Vegas to induce advertisers to boycott a small daily paper operated by Greenspun.

This paper was brought into being by the printers' union to expunge the old established territory Journal. The union was trying to retard progress by penalizing the Review - Journal for installing a new invention to set type. The union turned the paper over to Greenspun. La Let certain advertisers decided to concentrate their advertising in the Review - Journal. Accordingly, they ceased to advertise in Greenspun's paper. The Sun, D. W. Pearson, who employed two Communist "leg men" but lately has found it advisable to pretend to be anti-Communist, wrote an article, and some papers published it, completely misrepresenting the facts in the Greenspun suit against McCarran and others.

The anti-McCarran - anti-McCarthy front.

WMCA's regular staff propagandist has openly endorsed ADA, or Americans for Democratic Action, a modified version of the Marxist program, in these words: "You had spent millions to elect McCarran in 1950. No evidence was offered, but sworn documentary proof has been published that a flimsy political front operated by Arthur J. Golsmith from the Waldorf Tower in New York gathered money from rich individuals of the Atlantic seaboard and spent it in Nevada. In a futile effort to heal McCarran in 1950.

The following is an example of the smear material broadcast by Greenspun, of Brooklyn, from the restaurant in New York against the Senator of the western state of Nevada: "I have tried to more or less set a pattern out there, showing his relationship to organized crime. In other words, I don't believe a man who's sitting in the U. S. Senate should be interested in procuring licenses for the wrong kind of people."

Greenspun was, for a time after landing in Nevada from Brooklyn - press - agent for the Flamingo, the luxurious gambling house and hotel built in part by questionable priority material by the notorious Buggy Siegal, under wartime restrictions, and operated by Buggy until he was murdered by a rifle bullet in the home of Virginia Hill in Beverly Hills. Siegal was an underworld nabob.

The New York audience in the restaurant burst into laughter when Greenspun said McCarran had suffered a heart attack last Nov. 1. The transcript reads: "He was put in an oxygen tent and he was there for three weeks. We thought he would die, which is a very terrible thing, and . . ."

Laughter. Greenspun: "Well, no, as a good newspaperman, we did have an obituary all set up with a wonderful picture, a big picture on the front page, but . . . and held the presses back all night, but we had to go to press without it."

Laughter. Greenspun: "So there are disappointments to the newspaper business."

Don't Light That!

BISHOP PHILLIPS BROOKS likened a human life to The Candle of the Lord. If you are God's candle, set in the midst of darkness to brighten up some corner of the earth; to serve God in quiet... then your living is of some consequence. I want my candle to burn brightly; to be of help to others, to God and to myself, as long as possible.

F OOLISH PEOPLE shorten as well as lessen their light, when they burn their candle at both ends. 'Don't Light That,' for the candle burning at both ends defeats itself... each light shadows the other. My body, my mind and my soul need rest. If I work all day and play all night, I burn my candle at both ends. If I work every day and take no rest on Sunday, I burn my candle at both ends. If I toil through the day and worry through the night, I burn my candle at both ends.

My LIFE needs rest. I must work but I must also pray. My light shines more brightly when only one end burns. The cause of my home, my community and my church are advanced further when I "Don't Light That" other end.

Stocks Of New Autos Dwindle

By DAVID J. WILKIE

DETROIT (AP) - Stocks of new automobiles continued to dwindle as the car industry begins to feel the full impact of the steel shortage.

More than a few dealers are predicting there will be few, if any, new cars in dealer showrooms by Aug. 1; in manufacturing sources it is being said July production will be the low est month's output in four years. Yet, there still is a chance for the production of more than two million cars in the year's final half - if steel again starts to flow in full volume from mill to auto factory.

The trade paper Automotive News in its current issue reports that new cars in dealers' hands and enroute from the factory in July 1 numbered only 276,725 compared with 302,036 a month earlier, and 448,306 on July 1, 1951.

Traders Turned Down
New car inventories now would be even lower, dealers reported but for the fact June sales were made in accordance with some of the strictest trading policies in recent months. This means there have been no price discounts and no high trade-in allowances. Dealers handling popular low-priced lines, Automotive News said, reported they were "turning down deals that did not involve a full profit on the new car and a reasonable profit on the trade-in."

The paper quoted several dealers as saying they are refraining from building up big order books because "they just make for a full profit on the new car and a reasonable profit on the trade-in."

Customer Is Calm
"Despite prospects of a new car shortage today's new car customer is still highly price conscious. In most cases, if he can't get the deal he thinks he should have, he decides to wait. My guess is that he will wait until next

"If higher steel prices send new car prices up again, the only back-log in this industry may build up a backlog of price resistance. As it is I don't think we could have continued to sell cars through 1952 at the rate they have been produced for the past few months."

Another dealer was quoted as saying: "The person who seems made in accordance with some of the strictest trading policies in recent months. This means there

Didactic Dope Fiends

By Thaddeus Ashby

The other day I heard a father say: "My son is learning to be a leader." The same day I heard the son say: "My old man is independent as hell." The father used the word leader in an accepted way, as a compliment. The son used the word independent in an accepted way, too, as an insult.

Now how did the nation get itself into such a philosophical mess that the label, LEADERSHIP, is battery, and the appellation, INDEPENDENT, is an insult?

Our young people have begun using the language of shepherds and sheep, automatically. Security, Leadership, Interdependence. They are the mottoes of our time.

How did we get this way? How did we come to give up our independence, which once we prized as a virtue? For there is no denying that when the word leadership is a complement, the majority who use it are going to be led.

How did they lose their capacity to think for themselves, my young contemporaries, who sound off on YOUTH SPEAKS demanding at ways more and more provisions for security?

They got this way in school. I can say it because I was one of them. I am a youth aged 28. I learned the same things they did; I thought the same way they did. One day in my eleventh grade, in a class called GOVERNMENT, the teacher posed a question. How could the government expand its defense program, and yet prevent the sin of war profiteering?

Easy, I answered. Instead of giving the money to the capitalists to distribute as they please, the government should outlaw all profits and let some bureau pay labor directly.

Did that teacher holler communist at me? Did he patiently explain to me that what I advocated bordered on violent lunacy and must have been conceived in criminal ignorance?

No. To indict my ignorance would have indicted him. He nodded his head solemnly and said: "You mean out of the middle man? Might be a good idea." I was the most articulate member of my class, what you might call a leader. The others nodded, dumbly agreeing that the best way to save money was to eliminate management.

This is typical of the ideas expressed by students of government. I went to college with these youths, served with them in the army, went back to college with them on the G. I. Bill. Nowhere did we have a teacher who explained the essential role played by management in industry, nor did I meet one teacher who praised capitalism as the best alternative to the other isms.

The best of them thought capitalism was outmoded and should be modified by gradual socialism. The majority denounced capitalism and praised every other form to the skies. I even had teachers who praised Hitler in his early days of great public works projects. I had one who praised Mussolini because he made the Italian trains run on time. I never had a teacher who praised anything about laissez-faire.

Before I am accused of lumping all teachers, good and bad together, I wish merely to point out that good or bad they are all under orders to inject into the minds of our young the same confusing claptrap. The good teachers which remain are either in unorganized rebellion or utter rout.

Outside the class of professional humanitarians, few people defend the performance of our public school system. Because everybody but the deliberately blind can see the results of that system: the beneficiaries of the school tax who cannot add, spell, read, write, hear, see, or think.

Since the social workers who defend the schools cannot do so in terms of results, they must justify the whole inept, blundering procedure in terms of good intentions. When anybody with guts enough points out that good intentions and humanitarian ideals lead invariably to just such shabby performances, the teachers rally and holler that the trouble lies in their low salaries. They propose to remedy the situation in the same way every other crackpot proposed to remedy any situation: they propose to stick their fingers into the federal till. They praised Income Tax theory in Ec. 1, now they will degrade economic theory further by turning Income Tax theory over to the Federal Government and raise all taxes to pay for it. I submit that the teachers who taught me could not have done a better job even if their salaries were tripled. On their own claims they were doing the best they could. They swallowed the latest methods, bought the most progressive textbooks, repeated the most recent jargon, imitated the biggest educators in the racket. What this means is that they follow a neurotic clique which believes in and practices ideological corruption of the young — this being so, what good will it do to give them more money to play with? Like dope fiends, they would buy more of the same thing.

How did the teachers become corrupted? When did they stop believing in the Three R's and start preaching the religion of Adjustment, Gang-Pressure, and Super-Statism? "Adjustment" does not mean adjustment to Self, in their jargon, but to the group. The idea of adjustment is to weed out individualists, and liquidate non-conformists. Gang-pressure means that the child is no longer disciplined by the teacher, but by the disapproval of his little classmates who will cut him dead if he won't be good. Super-Statism is the logical religion of any tax-supported institution; teachers are not averse to manna from heaven, but there's a string in the manna, a provision sine qua non; the state shall prescribe what shall be taught.

Thus in World War I, teaching German was abolished; the precedent was set for outlawing communism; once communism is driven underground, the precedent exists for outlawing any political party thought to be dangerous, any dissenter, any unconvicted individualist. Under the war-time pretext of the necessity of absolute national unity, the conservatives' turn for receiving the axe follows inexorably.

What made the teachers keep heading into this river above the falls? The easy answer is that most of them were already corrupt when they chose their profession; it's not necessary to cite psychiatric case histories to prove that young teachers often acquire paranoid power complexes while in college. Any psychiatrist will substantiate this: the desire to enter the noble pedagogic profession often occurs at the same moment as the instinctive self-realization of incompetence in other fields; the compulsion of those who can't do anything, to teach others how to do everything.

The teachers who know they can't write worth a damn, who could never get themselves booked on a lecture tour, frustrated actors who need an audience for their frustrated personalities, incapable of surviving unless surrounded by avid little ears, are driven to seek conscripted audiences in the public schools, where defenseless children are constrained to listen by compulsory attendance.

The teachers will holler like stuck pigs if they ever read this, but I grew up among them. I have seen them look at one another, sadly shake their heads and say: "The people who should go into this profession, don't."

If parents try to protect their loved ones from the zealous old maids of both sexes, they are threatened with jail; not to force your child into their clutches is a crime.

The teachers, like all humanitarians, dress up their purposes with good intentions — but the dead give-away to the naked motive is found in the frequent utterance: "It is indescribably rewarding to have a part in the shaping of their little personalities, perhaps even their ultimate destinies — why, my profession may easily be the most important in the world!"

So important, in fact, that the only child who has any hope of retaining his capacity for independent thinking is the child who can circumvent by playing permanent hooky, this strenuous effort to shape his little soul.

But this easy answer that the guilt lies with the teachers is only a statement of a manifestation of the problem. The problem is: Where do the teachers get their authority to meddle with other people's souls?

Since most parents are now up in arms over the absurdities inflicted upon their children, it is obvious that the authority does not derive from the parents.

For almost twenty years we have had government by Brain Trust, by experts who do not consult the wishes of even the proposed beneficiaries. The same Brain Trust which masterminded Roosevelt, championed the new education. Schools sell theory; it is inevitable that they should propagate the theory considered best by the big brains.

Harvard University is God of Brains. Both to government and school. THE LEADERS AT HARVARD WERE ALL GENERIC COMMUNISTS.

William James and John Dewey began with the corruption of fundamentalism. Oliver Wendell Holmes and Felix Frankfurter finished with the corruption of law. Some better known professors were Harold Shapley, Harold Laski, Owen Lattimore and John K. Fairbank. Honor student Alger Hiss was an inevitable result.

But despite my disgust for these men, I must say that the fault does not lie with the men who originate and spread ideas. Harvard is a private school and has the right to hire and publish whom it pleases. The fault lies in the agency with the power to force these ideas down our throats. That agency is the government.

THE GUILT IS Ours FOR PERMITTING IT.

The means to stop this inter-jacency of bacteria is not to raise taxes nor to raise anybody's salary. The means is to strip the federal government of its power over our economic lives, cut taxes drastically, restore the Federal Government, and specifically, get the government out of the schools.

The point of this is so that private schools can function — not as Me Toovers, who draw their ideas and teachers from public schools — but to function as part of our system of competition.

What private schools now must do is either follow public schools docilely down the road to socialism, or, as Harvard does, lead the way.

If all schools were run privately, like any other capitalist endeavor, there would be competition in the field of ideas, as well as in the field of goods.

The way things are the state monopoly of our children is raising a generation of imbeciles who read the same textbooks, who memorize the same prevarications of history, repeat by rote economic insanity, parake idiotic notions of the equal distribution of ignorance, and who, if they think at all, think exactly alike.

If schools were run like grocery stores, competition would insure a high level of merchandise — there would be cheap chains like A&P which anybody who wanted to could afford, and there would be expensive specialists like the Park Avenue Delicatessens.

The parent would be free to send his child to the school that fitted his conscience and his purse. All children would not be taught the same hogwash; there would be as many different brands of education as there are groceries; above all there would be the Three R's, and while learning the Three R's, the kids might incidentally pick up a little common sense.

A school in business must use some common sense in order to survive; but there is no common sense at all in the public schools; it was dropped from the progressive curriculum along with report cards.

What about the idea that we owe one another's children an education? Well, we don't, that's all.

The idea that I owe everybody else's child an education is a good argument for their using contraceptives on one hand, or for communism on the other — let them take their choice.

The idea that I must compel my own child with the threat of punishment for him, or jail for me, to attend a state dominated school where there is no competition in ideas or methods, is a good argument for abortions. It's better to abort the entire foetus early in its growth than to gradually abort its brain, dooming the poor kid to the creeping suicide of Social Pressures, Social Thinking, Socialism — the virus shot into his brain by our public school swindle.

Democrats Could Adopt Plank That Is Far-Reaching, Sincere

By ARTHUR EDSON
CHICAGO (AP) — What this country needs is a political plank that is far-reaching, sincere and sense-making.

I refer, of course, to a platform that looks after the interests of newspaper men assigned to cover political conventions.

It could be done simply. The plank could read: "In the interest of those wonderful newspaper men who cover our convention, we will keep our speeches short, we will begin our meetings on time, we will end them promptly, we will hold no midnight powwows and we will keep everything quiet at night so that these splendid fellows can sleep."

In the long run, it would help a lot of other people, too, including politicians.

With this in mind, I dropped by recently to see how the Democrats' Resolutions Committee was making out.

Well, the committee members were fretting over civil rights, the farmer, the laborer, the producer, the consumer, public housing, health, social security.

They listened to a man from the alcoholic beverage interests who said taxes on whisky are so high they're driving citizens to bootlegging.

They also listened to a newspaperman — farmer, F. W. Greer of Brawley, Calif.

The only understatement of either political convention.

"Without water," he said, "California could hardly exist."

Then Greer turned to another topic.

"I voted for Grover Cleveland in 1892," he said, "and I might tell you a little secret. I was only 18 when I voted."

more plank I'd like to submit — if I haven't lost it."

I held my breath. This was it, a plank for the preservation and protection of newspaper men.

It wasn't, though. Greer wanted the committee to try to do something about keeping farmers down on the farm.

It's too bad. It was a wonderful opportunity for a plank that would be far-reaching, sincere and sense-making.

Will Use Combine To Convert Natives

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP) — Industrialist R. G. LeTourneau hopes to move African natives to Christianity by replacing Liberian jungles with fields of grain.

LeTourneau bought a 200-foot war surplus landing strip from a Pittsburgh junk dealer, reconditioned it at the B. G. LeTourneau, Inc., plant here, had it checked at a New Orleans drydock and is now loading it here.

It will leave Saturday with a cargo and a staff of 20 "technical missionaries" for Africa. Rev. Billy Graham, the evangelist, will speak at dedication ceremonies Saturday morning.

LeTourneau thinks he can hurry Christian missionary work by transplanting American machines and the know-how for better living.

"If we can show them a field of grain and a combine, they'll listen to us about God," he said.
